Teacher Supports Deputy Chief Plea

By DOUG BEVINS
Manchester's Board of Directors might favor appointment of a deputy police chief in town if they observed organizational problems within the police force, a Manchester High School teacher said Tuesday night. Elgin Zatursky of 20 Finley St., who teaches law and order at the high school, told directors they should visit the police station and reconsider their decision to reject Police Chief Robert Lannan's request for a deputy chief. Zatursky pointed out that most other town department heads have assistants. There are three deputy chiefs in the town fire department; there are two assistant superintendents in the school

Board Will Fund One Shanti School Student

The Manchester Board of Education will fund tuition for one student in Grades 10 to 12 next year at the Shanti School, a regional alternate high school for the Greater Hartford area. An information session for interested students and parents about the school is scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 110 at Manchester High School. Shanti School officials will explain the program and answer questions. Applications are available in Room 110. Final acceptance of the Manchester student is determined by a lottery which will be June 20 at MHS. Previous academic level of performance is not a criterion for admission. Shanti School is sometimes referred to as a school without walls. It focuses on relevant, community-centered education and provides an opportunity for flexibility and individualization of programs. Students devise their own curriculum according to their interests and goals. Students who are selected to attend must have parental permission and provide their own transportation. The school is located in the railroad station in Hartford, although many of the student studies and activities take place in various areas of the community.

Half the Lies He Tells Aren't True

Tom Moore may be only 28 to everyone else he's been telling, but for his wife Susan and sons Peter, 9, and Jeremy, 5, he's really 32. The whole neighborhood around 38 Strong St. found that out Wednesday, and so did Tom when he returned home and was greeted by that sign. Moore is a volunteer fireman with the 8th District. Susan said she had help from neighbors making and hoisting the sign. (Herald photo by Dunn)

New Hampshire Election Dispute Debate To Begin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is finally getting down to debate on New Hampshire's disputed election, but the most crucial vote is days away. Under a time table agreed to on Wednesday, the Senate decided the controversy over New Hampshire's junior seat in the chamber would be considered every afternoon starting today. But not until next Tuesday at 5 p.m. will the most important decision come up: Sen. Lowell P. Weicker's motion to declare the seat vacant and split the entire dispute back to New Hampshire. The last time his idea was considered, in January, the weight of the Democratic majority crushed it, 53 to 39. But Weicker now maintains some Democrats may be swayed to send the dispute back when they see how "confusing" the issue has become. In trying to determine who actually won the Nov. 5 election, the Rules Committee deadlocked on 35 issues. Most of the tie votes were on key legal questions involving ballot tallies and alleged voter irregularities. Republicans backing Louis C. Wyman's two-vote claim to the New Hampshire seat say that citizens of the state should have the right to determine who is going to represent them. "Voting by senators would almost have to be emotional, and therefore partisan," said Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz. But Democrats supporting John A. Durkin's challenge of Wyman's claim to the seat maintain that the Senate is bound by the Constitution to judge the election dispute. Wyman first won the election by 355 votes, but he was stripped of his victory when the President told the judges to disregard the election. Participants at today's meeting included House Speaker Carl Albert, Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and Chairman Al Ullman of the Ways and Means Committee. Republicans included Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and House GOP leader John J. Chafee. Ullman, who is chief author of the legislation, said after the vote that what is left of the bill might still comprise "the centerpiece for an energy concept." Ford had been planning to devote his

Passengers Safely Flee Burning 747 Jetliner

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — A $25 million Air France 747 was destroyed by fire at the Santa Cruz International Airport here today, minutes after the 392 passengers and crew slid down exit chutes to safety. Officials said four of the 374 passengers aboard were slightly injured in the rush to leave the jumbo jet after all four of its engines caught fire as it was making a 2:30 a.m. departure. The passengers and 18 crew members fled through emergency and main exits which opened automatically when the blaze broke out, airport authorities said. The plane, Air France Flight 193 from Bangkok to Tehran, Tel Aviv and Paris via Bombay, was taxiing for takeoff when, midway through its ground run, the pilot suddenly braked and announced over the intercom: "The engines are afire." Airport officials said as soon as the plane screamed to a stop, the passengers and crew scrambled through the exits and were clear of the aircraft in five minutes. Firefighters rushed to the burning plane but airport officials said the flames were beyond control and the big jet was destroyed in a matter of minutes. Airport authorities said the 142 passengers who joined the flight at Bombay were sent home while the remainder were lodged in Bombay hotels. Officials said the fire damaged the main runway, rendering it unusable for at least four days while clean-up repair operations are under way. Incoming flights were cancelled.

Election Law Violation May End Mrs. Gandhi's Political Career

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was convicted today of automatically stripping Mrs. Gandhi of her seat in parliament and bar her from holding public office for the next six years. The Allahabad High Court found the 58-year-old prime minister guilty of two election law violations during the 1971 campaign in her home state — Uttar Pradesh. Justice J.J.I. Sinha ruled that Mrs. Gandhi illegally used her personal secretary to campaign for her and government officials to arrange election meetings. But the judge cleared her of charges she bribed voters with gifts, provided free transportation to polling stations and spent more than the legal $5,000 in campaign expenditures. Mrs. Gandhi's lawyers promptly asked for a stay of the order pending an appeal to the Indian Supreme Court in New Delhi. The judge granted a 30-day stay, letting her remain in power. The conviction, if upheld, would automatically strip Mrs. Gandhi of her seat in parliament and bar her from holding public office for the next six years. The stunning decision in Allahabad, Mrs. Gandhi's birthplace 400 miles southeast of New Delhi, climaxed the first trial of a prime minister in India's 27 years of independence. Mrs. Gandhi, daughter of the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, appeared in person before the court last March in a dramatic attempt to save her political life. Her election in Rae Bareilly, her home district in Uttar Pradesh, was challenged in court four years ago by Socialist leader Raj Narain, the main rival in the 1971 balloting. The prime minister gathered with her top aides in New Delhi after the ruling to discuss procedures for filing the appeal. Mrs. Gandhi, who was first elected prime minister in 1966, won a second five-year term in the 1971 election. She was scheduled to face reelection again next year. Mrs. Gandhi was hailed as the "Goddess of Victory" after the two-week war. But successive droughts and political corruption have tarnished her image. Mrs. Gandhi improved India's relations with the Soviet Union but crushed Communists at home with an iron fist when they got in her way. Her government put down Communist food riots in Kerala in 1968, stamped out Maoist protests in West Bengal in 1971 and broke a 1974 railway strike by Socialists.

Ford, Rabin Talks Center On New Peace Initiative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today began a final round of talks with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin on a new initiative for peace in the Middle East. Rabin was expected to urge Ford to begin deliveries to Israel of F15 aircraft, Lance missiles and other weapons it has been asking for in recent months. All told, it is seeking in military equipment and economic aid a record $2.5 billion. At a White House dinner Wednesday night, Ford assured Rabin of the "United States' strong and continuing support of the State of Israel." In a toast to his guest, Ford said that when they had last met in Washington nine months ago, "We agreed that it was in our mutual interest that efforts to maintain the momentum of negotiation should succeed and that it would be a tragedy if they failed." Ford added, "We recognize that stagnation would be most unfortunate in our search for peace. We meet today to ensure that this does not occur... With perseverance, we shall succeed." He conferred with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who had just returned from a four-term member from Arkansas who said people just aren't ready for a higher gasoline tax. Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., made the motion to delete. He said "I cannot vote for a proposal that takes the money out of the hides of the rural people of this country." He said they have no mass transit to fall back on when driving a car gets too expensive. Some used even less parliamentary language than "Huff and marshmallows." They said they believed the public would accept the tougher measures supported by Ford and Ullman, which they said were designed to forestall American sliding into a long term energy crisis. The House decided on a 209-to-187 vote to erase the tax from the energy bill, ignoring pleas from its leadership for the measure and listening instead to a four-term member from Arkansas who said people just aren't ready for a higher gasoline tax. The President told the leaders of the House Speaker Carl Albert, Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and Chairman Al Ullman of the Ways and Means Committee. Republicans included Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and House GOP leader John J. Chafee. Ullman, who is chief author of the legislation, said after the vote that what is left of the bill might still comprise "the centerpiece for an energy concept." Ford had been planning to devote his

Firms Seek Permission To Drill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty oil companies have asked permission to drill for offshore oil and gas in a banana-shaped swath of the Atlantic Ocean running from upper New Jersey to Maryland, an Interior Department spokesman said today. The 3.1 million acres identified as desirable sites by the oil companies represent about half the 6.5 million acres offered by Interior March 26 as candidate areas for the first offshore drilling leases ever allowed in the Atlantic. If the oil company requests are approved next year, the spokesman said, the closest wells would be about 23 miles offshore and would not be visible from the densely populated East Coast beaches. The oil company nominations for leasing sites in the Atlantic were submitted between March 26 and June 2. During the same period, the spokesman said, the federal and agencies of the state and public governments were strangely silent about opposing drilling in any of the 6.5 million acres offered by Interior. "We had only one legitimate (anti-drilling) response from March 26 until June 2," the spokesman said. As a result, he said, Interior may now specifically ask federal wildlife and marine agencies and the Defense Department to identify any areas within the 3.1 million acres where drilling would have an adverse impact.

Meskill Fete Ruled Technical Violation Of Campaign Statutes

HARTFORD (UPI) — An affair honoring former Gov. Thomas J. Meskill last year violated state election laws, but the violation was technical and will not be prosecuted, the state's Elections Commission says.

The commission ruled that four men at the May, 1974, affair who made cash contributions totaling $500 violated a state law requiring all donations of more than $50 to be made in a traceable form, such as checks.

But it decided to take no action against them, saying that at the time the event was held it had not been ruled a political affair subject to the state's tough election finance laws.

The contributors involved were: former Rep. Francis Collins, R-Brookfield, $100; Frank Cudamo of Hartford; $50; Vincent Cangiano of Wethersfield, $10; and Rep. Michael Morano, R-Greenwich. The affair was one of a series of annual testimonials conducted on behalf of Meskill, a Republican, by the New Britain Republican Town Committee since 1971.

The commission also ruled a donation of $1,000 made at the 1974 affair by New Britain contractor Angelo Tomasso did not put him over the $5,000 per person limit on contributions.

Donations totaling $6,300 were received from a joint bank account held by Tomasso and his wife, but he argued that since the donations were from both he and his wife, the limit should have been $10,000.

The commission ordered the New Britain GOP Town Committee to file a report on the 1974 affair, listing all contributors. Contributions to the affair totaled $12,700 and the town committee kept the $667 surplus after it had paid for expenses, the commission said.

CHFA Granted Right to Lend At a Profit

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso has signed a law allowing the Connecticut Housing Finance Authority to use the profits for low-cost mortgages for poor families.

The measure lets the state agency make mortgages at the maximum interest rates possible, and use those profits to offer mortgages to low and middle income families at interest rates lower than the commercial market.

The Housing Finance Authority finances the mortgages by selling its own state-backed bond issues. Under previous laws the bond revenues had to be put into bank accounts or bonds while the agency processed mortgage applications.

Mrs. Grasso also signed a bill making technical changes in the state's Commerce Act, which regulates some business transactions within Connecticut.

Guard Leaves Friday
HARTFORD (UPI) — Nearly 1,200 men of the Connecticut Army National Guard will leave early Friday for Fort A.P. Hill, Va., for their annual two-week training program, it was announced Wednesday.

The 3rd Brigade, part of the Yankee Division, will spend two weeks of annual training on field maneuvers. Included are two infantry battalions and support groups including maintenance personnel, military police, administrative backup and signal personnel.

The units are due to arrive at Fort Hill Saturday afternoon. Highlighting the training program will be an air mobile operation and battalion exercise.

Nimbus F Launched
LOMPOC, Calif. (UPI) — Nimbus F, the most sophisticated weather satellite ever developed, was launched into a polar orbit today that will take it over every place on earth at least twice a day.

The $80 million satellite was being 855 miles above the earth at its farthest point and 682 at its nearest, a NASA spokesman said, and everything was "looking very good."

The Nimbus F rode aloft atop a two-stage Delta rocket boosted by nine strap-on motors for extra thrust. It was fired from NASA's western launch complex at Vandenberg Air Force Base at 1:12 a.m. PDT (4:12 a.m. EDT).

To Appear in Court
NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A Baptist minister and psychic charged in an explosion and fire at a Shelton rubber products factory, was scheduled to make a voluntary appearance today in U.S. District Court.

The Rev. David N. Bubar, 46, of Memphis, Tenn., made the agreement for the voluntary appearance during an extradition hearing late last month before U.S. Magistrate Aaron Brown Jr., in Memphis.

Bubar, who allegedly forecast the fire which wrecked the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant March 1, is among 10 charged in the blaze. Bubar was said to have predicted the disaster in a conversation with a secretary at the plant.

Among nine others charged with conspiracy and maliciously damaging or destroying or attempting to destroy the plant is Charles D. Moeller, president of the firm which owned the Shelton plant. Bubar was Moeller's spiritual advisor.

Treasurer Says Bond Sale Shows Public Confidence

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Treasurer Henry E. Parker says successful sale of $100 million worth of state bonds points to public confidence in Gov. Ella T. Grasso's austere, fiscal policies.

The bonds were sold at 5.63 per cent interest, compared to the 5.74 per cent Connecticut is paying for another $100 million bond issue it sold last February, Parker said Wednesday.

"This low interest rate affirms Connecticut's high credit standing and Governor Grasso's austere fiscal policy," he said.

Parker said the low interest rate for the latest bond issue was even more significant in the face of sharp increases in bond rates since February. The Bonus Buyer Index at the time was 6.40 per cent and it now stands at 7.05 per cent, he said.

Revenues from the latest bond issue will be used to finance highway, school and sewage construction projects, Moody's Investment Service. But Standard and Poor last week knocked down its rating of state bonds from AAA to AA, citing Mrs. Grasso's plans to use bonds to finance a $75 million deficit expected in the state budget by June 30.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Jury selection began today in the case of Peter Leonard, accused of setting a fire that killed 24 young people in Gulliver's discotheque in Port Chester one year ago.

Stephen Pittari, Leonard's lawyer, challenged the decision Wednesday of White Plains Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr. to rule later on the admissibility of certain evidence presented in pretrial hearings.

Beisheim had said he would rule on the evidence "before the first witness is called," but Pittari insisted that all rulings on pretrial matters must come before the jury is selected.

Phone Rate Hike Decision Anticipated

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Public Utilities Commission said it would rule late today or early Friday on a $7.8 million rate hike requested by the Southern New England Telephone Co.

If the phone company's full request is approved, pay phone calls would go from 10 cents to 20 cents, residential rates would rise by $1.30 to $2.00 a month and installation charges on new phones would go from $22 to $29.

SNET filed the application for the $7.8 million in rate hikes last January 13, and the commission began hearings on it on March 21.

The hikes would drive up residential and commercial rates by about 28 per cent a month. That would mean increases of $1.30 to $2.00 a month for private homes and $2.50 to $5.30 for businesses, the commission spokesman said.

Charges for extension phones would increase by about 13 per cent, she said.

Bureaucratic Bunk

An Omaha federal judge with some common sense has stuck a pin into the Department of Agriculture's plan to change beef grading so that the terms "prime or choice" might be applied to beef now catalogued as not of quality sufficient for that designation under the present system.

CBT Veep Describes Non-Banking Service

Porter said the non-bank lending subsidiaries deal primarily in secured, or asset-based financing where there is tangible security behind the credit. Secured lending enables a customer to borrow more than a bank would allow without collateral, he said.

Caldor Inc., the Norwalk-based department store chain, has agreed to buy an interest in the Great Eastern Shopping Center at Yonkers, N.Y., to open a 35th Caldor store.

Caldor President Carl Bennett said the sale becomes final in July, when Caldor will close the Great Eastern store and remodel it to meet Caldor specs.

Caldor now operates 34 stores in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

Storm Drains Favored To Cure Coventry Lake Pollution

Coventry's Lake Area Rehabilitation Study Committee (LRS) has unanimously recommended the town resolve its most serious lake pollution problems through storm drains to carry rain and ground water to Coventry Lake. This would lower the water table in the affected areas, a major cause of septic failures. The storm under-drain system would require removal of about 80 houses in the two associations, LRS members were told, because their existing lots are less than the 10,000 square foot area required to support a septic field. The drain system would require less housing removal from the area than an exclusive demolition program. On-site sewage alternatives such as incinerator, recirculating, composting and recirculating water toilets could further reduce the number of houses to be removed. The on-site alternatives still require a septic tank and drain field to filter the so-called "gray" wash water, but would reduce the size of the fields required by almost half. The LRS members were told that restrictions on household waste water is from toilet usage and only two percent of the gray water. Overall minimum lot size could be reduced to 10,000 square feet for the storm under-drain only system.

Estimated cost to the town for removal of 40 homes at $20,000 per home was given as $800,000 with the first year cost of $88,000 to the town or about two mills. Individual property owners' costs for installing a non-discharging toilet system and an engineered leaching field was about $3,000. Cost estimates of the storm-drain system is $299,000 for Lakeview Terrace and $421,000 for Waterfront Manor.

Means of other alternatives such as an extensive housing removal program, combined limited housing removal and construction of a storm under-drain system, or on-site sewage systems through discharge toilet systems along with a limited housing removal program.

Sees Sewer Disadvantage Although the cost to Coventry taxpayers may be more over an extended period than confining efforts to sewers, LRS members felt the sewer approach wouldn't solve the lake area drainage problems, considering the most serious confronting the town.

Sewers could create an even higher population density for the area, they said. Development within the area has been restricted due to restrictions placed by sanitation Environmental Protection representatives in mid-July. The town meeting was originally scheduled for later this month, but was delayed in order for the Town Council to review the LRS health report and prepare its anti-pollution proposal.

The state has in effect a long-standing pollution abatement order against the town concerning Lakeview Terrace. This goes back to the early seventies when town officials brought two defeated referendums to a major sewer systems for a portion of the lake area before town voters.

The alternatives aimed at the LRS meeting were to continue pursuing a regional sewer system, to go the route of a modified regional system, or community (neighborhood) sewer system, or avoid sewers and attack the problem by more state and federal funding, it would not solve the severe water drainage problems in the two lake associations.

Now the committee must convince the Town Council and the council in turn sell the proposal to both the state DEP and town voters as the proper approach to solving Coventry's pollution problems.

Ford Urged to Sign New Housing Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It would be "a real calamity" for the economy if President Ford vetoes the congressionally approved Emergency Housing Act, housing industry officials and organized labor said today. Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported a 25 percent surge in sales of new single-family homes in April, the biggest monthly rise in 12 years. April was the first month in which home buyers could use a $2,000 tax credit for buying an existing home. In a joint news conference, J.S. Norman Jr., president of the National Association of Home Builders, and Robert A. Georgine, president of the AFL-CIO's building and construction trades department, said the bill approved Wednesday night by the Senate will give a needed boost to housing construction. Congressional backers of the measure said it would spur construction of 400,000 homes, prevent 100,000 foreclosures and return to the government more money than it costs. The measure was approved by the House 253-155, not the two-thirds majority to override a veto. Norman and Georgine argued that lowering mortgage in-

Two to Go Two more victories will bring East Catholic and the Town of Manchester a state baseball title. The Eagles, second-ranked in the Class B Division, face third-ranked Wilby High of Waterbury in today's semifinals at Hall High in West Hartford at 3 o'clock. A victory will move them into Saturday's final. East, under seven-year Coach Jim Penders, has been impressive in its first two tournament starts. The Eagles have averaged 10 runs while yielding just two per outing. That is a better differential than the season in which they were 15-3 and Hartford County Conference champs. One player on the Eagle squad no opponent wants to fool around with is senior Co-Captain Dan Socha. The Eagle shortstop has been on a hitting tear since the season began and hasn't stopped yet. His circuit cut against Stonington got East rolling and back into high gear after a stammering start. Socha's 5-7 stature, is deceptive to many, but the opposition more times than not feels his presence. When he swings, he gets everything moving in unison and sends it a mile. He is one player who could probably awake from a deep sleep, yawn once, and drill what's becoming one of his patented blows. Senior right-hander Terry Hickey has seemingly saved the best for last. He had an ERA approaching four during the season but in post-season play has allowed one earned run in 15 innings worked. Also above average in the tournament has been the defensive effort. Tom Miles has vacuumed up most shots around his third base spot while second baseman Mike Furlong, the only sophomore in the starting lineup, has continued his excellent fielding. East reached the semifinals in 1970 before being stopped by Gilbert High of Winsted on a no-hitter. This year's version must be rated one of the worst in the art of running the bases. Give them a bat in their hand, they are most dangerous.

Future Stars? Maybe none will turn out to be superstars, but the ninth grade crop of athletes at Bennett and Illing Junior Highs is the best aggregate group to be harvested in a long time. That is the concerted opinion of Manchester High basketball and assistant soccer coach Doug Pearson. Pearson is more than anxious to get started with such hoopers as David Wyman, Craig Kearney, Rick Marshall, Steve McKenzie and Del Knowles. There are others. Manchester High track coach Dick Williams is also expected to draw from a promising flock of tracksters. Bennett went undefeated this past season winning all eight starts while Illing won seven of eight, the only set-back being cross-town rival Bennett. Bennett Coach Dave Doonan has several top prospects headed for the high school. Ulysses Orduz has set the school record in the 440, Chris Lutz is a top miler, Jay Whitson and Mike Stankewicz in the 880, Kearney in the high jump and sprints, McKenzie in the 400 long jump, Knowles in the shot put and discus and John Mainville in the javelin. "All these kids are good for their age group," Doonan stated. Two other Bennett throwers, Pacy Pet (shot put and discus) and Hugh Gunn (sprints) are reportedly heading to private school. Illing Coach George Sutor also has a strong list of probables, headed up by Wes Fedorchak in the 800 and mile run. Sutor cites Frank Luy in the 100, 220 and 440, Bill Talbot in the high jump and sprints, Carl Golinik in the discus and shot, Carl Kjellson in the high jump and Tim Wroble in the javelin. "All these kids are good for their age group," Doonan stated.

The listing here is far from complete of all at Illing and Bennett but only goes to serve notice that top athletes are entering the high school. All that is needed is for them to turn the potential into results. Some will succeed while others fail. Stardom is there for the taking.

N.L. Attendance Up SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National League reported Wednesday that attendance during the first two months of the season was up 103,506 over the same period in 1974. The 12 N.L. clubs drew 4.39 million compared to 4.29 last season. The Los Angeles Dodgers showed the biggest increase, having attracted 981,849 in 26 dates. They went over the million mark June 9. This brought them to a total of 1,004,559.

Rudy May Had Mastery of Pitches In Leading Yanks Against Twins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rudy May had such a marvelous mastery of his pitches Wednesday night that Minnesota batters were content to just stand at the plate and watch. May, who has now won 15 of 21 decisions since coming to the Yankees from California last season, struck out 10 Twins, six of whom were caught looking in a 3-1 Yankees victory. May, who had walked as many as nine batters in a game this season, consistently threw strikes, working ahead of most of the hitters while walking only one. Rod Carew, the league's leading hitter at game time with a .418 average, was unable to solve May, going hitless in four at bats, dropping his average to .408. Roy White paced the New York hitting attack with a double, single, run scored and two runs batted in before pulling a hamstring muscle in his right leg. Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-3 in a game that was dominated by the Yankees.

AMERICAN LEAGUE 5-3, Kansas City beat Cleveland 7-1, California downed Detroit 14-7, but trailed 5-3 when the second game was suspended after eight innings by a 1 a.m. curfew rule. Baltimore scored a 9-8 10-inning victory over Texas and Boston beat Chicago 9-7 in 14 innings in other AL games. A's 5, Brewers 3 Reggie Jackson and Bert Campaneris hit homers for Oakland, which rolled to its fourth straight victory. Dick Bosman went six innings for his third win with relief help from Jim Todd and Rolfe Fingers while Jim Stoen lost his eighth game for Milwaukee.

Angels 14, Tigers 7 Lee Stanton hit grand slam homer and knocked in a fifth run with a single as California hammered out 15 hits and paced Frank Tanana to his fourth victory. The game was postponed in the third inning when Willie Horton charged Tanana on the mound after being decked by a pitch for the second time. Both benches emptied and Horton was ejected from the game. Mickey Lolich was the loser for Detroit, which will resume the suspended nightcap before the start of today's regularly scheduled game. Orioles 9, Rangers 8 Ken Singleton doubled in the winning run in the 10th inning for Baltimore. Dave Duncan led the Orioles' lead attack with a pair of two-run homers and Lee May also homered while Toby Harrah and Roy Smalley connected for Texas.

Yastrzemski's Homer Lifts RSox Past WSox

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox could overcome a disastrous inning in which they committed three errors to give the Boston Red Sox three unearned runs, but in retaliation, Carl Yastrzemski overcame star reliever Rich Gossage and that was the end of the game. Yastrzemski hit his sixth homer and his 800th career extra base hit with Bernie Carbo on base and two out in the 14th inning to give the Red Sox a 9-7 win. "It was a fast ball," Yastrzemski said, "and I knew I hit it good. I was worried the wind would pull it foul but after it leveled out, I knew it was going out." Gossage said he got the pitch "too far over the plate and Yastrzemski just got his arms out and hit it. I felt super but he's a great hitter."

White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner declared the game hinged on the Sox "one bad inning" when Jorge Orta, pitcher Stan Bahsen and Buckey Dent all committed errors to help the Red Sox to a four-run inning and a 4-1 lead. The White Sox picked away, with home runs by both Carlos May and Brian Downing plus a triple by Dent which scored two runs. They finally tied the game in the ninth when May doubled and scored on Ken Henderson's single. The Sox had the bases full in the ninth and the 10th and couldn't get a run across. Boston had the same problem in the seventh and the ninth. But in the overtime, the longest game of the season for both teams, it was zero all the way until the veteran Yastrzemski took charge.

Lou Groza Speaks Out Rozelle Rule Gets Support

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Former Cleveland Browns tackle-kicker Lou "The Toe" Groza testified Wednesday that abolishment of the Rozelle rule would result in a few teams with all superior players. "If there were no such rule," Groza said, "the wealthy owners could buy the good players as they need them. The result would be a few good teams and a lot of mediocre ones." Groza testified at the antitrust suit trial which stems from an attempt by 15 present and former National Football League players to abolish the Rozelle rule or option compensation use. The rule provides that a player's original club receive compensation when he fulfills his contract with them and signs with another team.

National Track Shrine Set to Induct 13 More

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Thirteen more members of the U.S. National Track and Field Hall of Fame are to be inducted in ceremonies here this weekend.

Bob Richards, two-time Olympic gold medalist and among the second group to be inducted in hall, is to speak at induction ceremonies.

A Hall of Fame Classic track meet, featuring collegiate, independent and high school standouts, is scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Boston Marathon winner Whit Rodgers and 1972 Olympic marathon champion Frank Shorter go against each other in the two-mile run, one of 26 events on the star-studded card.

However, it is neither Shorter nor Rodgers but Rick Wohluter of the Chicago Track Club, who has run the two-mile in 8:31, who is favored to win the race.

The track meet is dedicated to Avery Brundage, the longtime head of the International Olympic Committee who died May 11.

Jim Thorpe, the only athlete ever to win both the pentathlon and decathlon in the Olympic Games (1912-Stockholm), is among the enshrinees.

His daughter Grace, of Washington, D.C., also is to attend, along with at least two of his sons—Buddy of Atlanta, and Richard of Shawnee, Okla.

Besides Thorpe and Richards, eight other athletes, two coaches and one competitor are joining the 26 charter members, including Jesse Owens, who was inducted last year. They include: Bobby Morrow of San Benito, Tex., the 1956 Olympic 100 and 200 meter gold medalist.

—Horse Ashenfelter III, 52, of Collegeville, Pa., the only American ever to win the steeplechase in the Olympics (Helsinki—1921).

Gullett Appears on His Way To Berth on All-Star Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — A couple of years ago, Don Gullett, the stylish Cincinnati Reds' southpaw, wasn't picked for the All-Star team because his manager, Sparky Anderson, passed him over.

Naturally, Anderson had gut feelings about such a decision, but as Gullett later told the white-haired Cincinnati skipper: "When I deserve to make it, I'll make it on my own."

After his latest effort, a seven-hit, 3-1 triumph that snapped a seven-game St. Louis Cardinals' winning streak Wednesday night, Gullett seems likely to just that this year.

New York's Gullett has been the mainstay of the Cincinnati staff and as Anderson says: "He's never asked for anything."

Gullett, who struck out eight, aided his own cause by touching up a two-run third inning with a double. Pete Rose then singled home the Reds' first run and scored after a single by Ken Griffey and Dave Concepcion's hit.

Tony Perez singled home the third Cincinnati run in the eighth but Gullett lost his bid for shutout in the ninth by serving up a solo homer to Ted Simmons on a ground ball.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Houston stayed in Pittsburgh, 5-1, New York edged Los Angeles, 2-1, San Diego put away Montreal 3-1, and San Francisco drubbed Philadelphia 8-2. Chicago at Atlanta was again rained out.

Mets 2, Dodgers 1. Mike Phillips singled home Rusty Staub from second with two out in the top of the ninth as the Mets moved to within a half game of the Pirates.

Basees loaded sacrifice flies by Mike Ivie and Tito Fuentes allowed San Diego to score a pair of six inning runs without the benefit of a hit and Rich Fellers went eight innings to gain the victory in his first start.

Folkers, who had a shutout into the ninth, needed relief help from Danny Frisella.

Enos Cabell tripled home one run and scored another and veteran Houston right-hander Larry Dierker pitched six innings in the doubleheader.

California tripled home the first Astro run in the second inning and then scored himself what proved to be the game-winning run on Doug Rader's infield grounder.

Giants 6, Phillies 3. Gary Thomas scored a three-run homer in the fourth inning after doubling and scoring in the first.

Nolan in Comeback After Sixth Victory

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gary Nolan, one of baseball's biggest comeback stories this season, goes after his third straight victory tonight against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Out for the past two seasons with a bad shoulder that once appeared to have ended a blossoming career, the Cincinnati Reds pitcher has come back stronger than anyone dared guess.

He sports a 2.54 earned run average. Nolan says his shoulder is fine and he is throwing almost as hard as he did in 1973 when he was a 19-year-old phenom.

Nolan, now 27, is tired of rehabbing his shoulder twice in three years ago, but, for instance, when he recalls a particular game against the Yankees back in 1969, his eyes brighten.

"And yes," he smiles, "I remember that like it was yesterday. It's all back to me when I came back after a season and a half in the hospital."

Later in that ballgame the rookie fastball right-hander had just struck out Willie Mays for his third out of the inning when he was eying Mike McCoy as his fifth strikeout victim.

McCoy was clobbered and ready when Nolan brazenly challenged the slugger with a good fast ball. McCoy belted it a mile, taking the stretch out of Nolan.

"He dotted the L in the Pepsi sign," Nolan said of McCoy's long hit. "I had a bad feeling about it. Both to the Braves' regular shortstop last season after being acquired by the Philadelphia Phillies. He came down with a virus shortly before the start of the season and lost his job to Larry Blankenship."

Goodson had been with the Giants the past three seasons, playing first and third base but never holding a regular job at those positions. He batted .302 in 1973 but was hitting only .207 this season.

Robinson was the Braves' regular shortstop last season after being acquired by the Philadelphia Phillies. He came down with a virus shortly before the start of the season and lost his job to Larry Blankenship.

Vast Improvements In Cheney Baseball

By Len Auster

Although it didn't necessarily turn up in the boxscore, vast improvement was achieved by the Cheney Tech baseball team this campaign under first-year Coach Jim Krone.

The victories in a single season in five years. The Techmen lost four one-run decisions and were only out of three games, in sharp contrast to previous years.

"The brightest thing is that they weren't quit," Krone noted. "I know next year might be a little stricter than now. But fundamentally we improved a lot this season."

Just one statistic reveals the improvement by the Beavers. In 1974, the locals committed 90 errors in 13 games while this year around the total was 59 mistakes in 16 contests. Tightening of any defense goes a long way towards victory.

Senior shortstop Tom LeCourt, in his only season of play, paced the club in batting with a lofty .345 average (19 for 55) and tops in the RBI column with eight. Junior Pete Ostashen, who gained the third round victories, was next in line at .308. Jeff Mount improved his average over 100 points in a year ago and wound up swinging at a .292

TOM LeCOURT

As a team, however, the Techmen didn't fair too well. Cheney collected 77 hits in 423 at-bats for a team average of .181.

"We're going to have to improve out hitting next year. The defense should be good again, although we do have a hole at shortstop to fill. At the plate, we're going to have to be more aggressive and not take so many three strikes. We have to cut down in that department," Krone offered.

Cheney loses just three to graduation. LeCourt, first baseman Tom Foran and pitcher Russ Dyjak. Everyone else will be back and joyous Coach Gerry Blanchard mentioned Jamie Rayner, who played late in the year with the varsity. Matt Amersworth, Jimmy Kelly, Bob Walters, Mike Donnelly and Mike Brennan as good candidates for the future.

Bagner, eight years younger than that Ali, is in inch taller at 6-foot-4, has the same 80-inch reach, is three pounds heavier at 224 and has a chest four inches bigger than Ali's.

resourcefulness, the reader is treated to an encyclopedia of information about the workings of Victorian society, its postures and its pride in its own grandness. The insights and details of the London underworld truly open up a world unexplored by most readers, although some of the dialect and jargon is difficult to follow.
But not that difficult, as the interplay between fact and fiction effectively builds the mood and makes the exquisite gyrations of Pierce and his cohorts believable.
We learn, for instance and just in passing, that the construction of the famed Crystal Palace of which Victorians were so proud, was suggested by a gardener that gentlemen considered their wives empty-headed ninnyes and fled to less upright ladies even for intellectual stimulation, that an enterprising inventor earned a fortune on a coffin bell that could be rung from inside if a person were about to be mistakenly interred alive — a fate that haunted the Victorian imagination.
All sorts of engrossing stuff somehow meshes into a stylish Victorian adventure with a slam-bang ending.

Police Talks Reach Impasse

VERNON
Negotiations between the town of Vernon and Local 483 of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers are at an impasse with the town asking for withdrawal of a complaint filed with the state and the police union refusing to withdraw it.
In the formal complaint, the local police union, headed by Officer Gary Pfeifer, charged the town with being lax in its pension negotiations. A request that the town be ordered to resume regular collective bargaining on retirement benefits was made by Damon Shingletor, staff representative for the union's bargaining agent.
The local police are under a three-year contract which started at the beginning of this fiscal year but the union claims the pension plan hasn't been resolved and a study of the present plan and the union's proposed revisions be made. Officer Pfeifer said a report was to have been filed by Jan. 1 of this year. He said the present retirement plan is in effect until an agreement is reached.
The union is asking that the provision concerning mandatory retirement at age 60 be changed to "after 25 years of service."

Chamber Hears No More On Hartford Recruiting Try

VERNON
Since John Pozzato, president of the board of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, wrote a sharp letter to the Hartford Chamber of Commerce regarding recruitment efforts in Vernon, the Hartford Chamber has decided to discontinue its recruitment efforts in Vernon.
Pozzato told the Rockville board, at its meeting Wednesday noon, that he sent a letter to Arthur Lumsden, president of the Hartford Chamber, declining his offer to have Hartford's membership committee work with the Rockville area in soliciting membership to the Hartford Chamber.
Previous to the exchange of letters several businessmen in the Rockville area said they had already been approached concerning membership with that group.

Retiring Banker Honored

Officers, directors, coparators and staff of the Savings Bank of Manchester honored retiring President Everett J. Livesey Wednesday night in a dinner-dance at The Colony Talcottville. More than 200 persons attended the event. Livesey, who has been SBM president since 1964, is leaving his position Aug. 1 and moving to St. Simons Island, Ga. John D. LaBelle, chairman of the bank's board of directors, presided over the presentation. "This man's insistence on quality and the respect he in-

Sen. Barry Asks Bond Bill Veto

State Sen. David Barry, D-Fourth District, has asked Gov. Ella Grasso to veto the controversial City and Town Development Act approved by the General Assembly earlier this month. In a letter to the governor, Barry said there is a wide difference of opinion on the legality of the bill, but he believes the dangers far exceed the benefits. The act, which was sponsored by Hartford Democratic officials and businessmen, would give cities and towns the authority to buy, develop and sell, or lease property for development projects. Communities could issue revenue bonds to finance the projects, fix taxes to attract industry, and issue contracts for construction or rehabilitation work and lease property without competitive bids. Barry said one section of the act is too broad and doesn't contain appropriate safeguards concerning extra-territorial jurisdiction, abrogation of zoning ordinances, and issuance of bonds without referendum. Barry called attention to Section 20 of the act, which states that the act shall not conflict with or be restricted by any other laws. He said a legal test of the act might show that communities can't use that section to ignore zoning and other laws, but the act would still be a piece of poorly written legislation. Barry said the bill was approved in the legislature by consent agreement with no objection from either party. Barry wasn't present for the Senate vote.

League Urges Veto of Bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut League of Women Voters Wednesday called on Gov. Ella T. Grasso to veto a bill criticized for providing municipalities with broad bonding powers to finance development projects. "Its goals are acceptable and highly desirable, but the process is frightening," according to a message sent to the governor from the league's annual convention in Hartford. The bill was cited for lack of citizen input, lack of appeals process, no limit to bonding, and no competitive bidding. In a message signed by outgoing president Mary Erlanger, the league said the bill "completely overrides any general statute, special act or municipal charter or ordinance." "This opens opportunity for projects developed in accordance with the act to ignore local zoning, state inland-wetland regulations, air regulations and all other environmental laws," the league said. "Citizens will be powerless to exercise vigilance and scrutiny if, as provided in this bill, development powers are delegated to nonprofit corporations whose books can be closed to the public," the women's group said.

AL Auxiliary Seeks To Build Hebron Memorial

Anne Dallaire Correspondent 228-5267
The American Legion Auxiliary has voted to obtain a permanent Memorial Monument for the Veterans' Park to replace the wooden honor roll. The action was taken after the bad condition of the honor roll was noticed during the Memorial Day Exercises. The auxiliary plans to seek cooperation and financial assistance from the town, civic organizations and individuals, as well as raising funds through special activities. The cost estimate for the project is $2,000. Civil Preparedness Director Warren McGuinness was the guest speaker at the recent auxiliary meeting and he discussed the town's Emergency Operation Plan and the roll of volunteers in the over-all program. McGuinness said there has been a lack of interest in organized volunteer work and he hopes to develop the program through a series of meetings with representatives of local organizations in the fall. McGuinness introduced his assistant, Robert Croton. He says they both have radio equipment in their vehicles to provide communications for Civil Preparedness situations and for police protection. This equipment, valued at about $500, was purchased by the two men and made available for use at no cost to the town. Both men also are constables. McGuinness said he has obtained a four-wheel drive jeep and the Rescue Three van, both of which are in use by the fire department, through the civil preparedness program. Geraldine Grant and Eleanor Anderson were elected delegates to the 55th Annual Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Connecticut July 10, 11 and 12 at the Hartford Hilton. Anderson is named as Lucille Holbrook and Evelyn Croton.

Tolland Qualifies For Reading Plan

Vivian Kenneson Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, has notified the Board of Education that Tolland was accepted to participate in the Connecticut Right to Read Program. The program will be directed by Gloria Matthews, reading specialist at Parker School. Mrs. Matthews will be given 25 days of training in the program. Grasso Signs Meditation Bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today signed a bill allowing "silent meditation" in schools, viewed by many as a questionable sidestepping of a constitutional ban on school prayer. A measure beginning the breakup of the traditional link between local property taxes and school financing in Connecticut also was signed by Mrs. Grasso. The silent meditation law, which goes into effect Oct. 1, allows local school boards to establish short meditation periods at the start of each class day. Student and teacher participation is optional. The measure was regarded by both supporters and opponents as a way of getting around the Supreme Court ruling that banned prayer in public schools, based on the principle of separation of church and state matters. The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union already has said it will go to court to challenge the bill, which it labeled "a subterfuge for prayer." The bill had a stormy voyage through the legislature's Education Committee, which ended last week with its foes saying that the extremely loose language needed to get it through the Supreme Court made it meaningless. "Prayer" has meaning but it's unconstitutional," said Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, a liberal who opposed it. "Meditation" may be constitutional but it's really meaningless." Supporters of the bill, led by Sen. Joseph Fusillo, D-Hartford, said it would allow the growth of "morality" in schools, which they said had plummeted since the Supreme Court decision. The school financing law, which goes into effect next year, redistributes the existing state education grants according to local tax efforts, but the outcry from wealthy towns who would have state funds forced to back off. Connecticut now gives local school boards $50 a year for each student in the state system. The state ranks near the bottom in terms of financial assistance to local school districts in the United States. The "instant lottery" game would be played only twice a year for periods of two to three weeks. More often, the game would cut into the revenues of the regular state lottery, already tagged for other uses.

Comparing years of service in the Manchester school system are, from left, Nathan Joy, principal of Bentley School; Elmore Putnam, math teacher at Illing Junior High School; Mrs. Bernice Maher, social studies teacher at Bennett Junior High School, and Vincent Ramizi, principal of Buckley School. They were among the retirees this year being honored Wednesday night at a retirees banquet sponsored by the Manchester Education Association.

MEA Cites Retiring Educators

Eight teachers and two principals retiring this month from the Manchester school system were honored at the annual banquet Friday night at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical Institute. Born in Hartford, he now lives in South Windsor with his wife and four children. He is president of the State Vending Inc. and president of Rockwell Film-Audio Visual. He is a member of the South Windsor Rotary Club, South Windsor Democratic Town Committee, and a member and director of the Connecticut Automatic Merchandising Council.

Glassman To Address Grads at Cheney Tech

State Rep. Abraham Glassman, D-District 14, will be the speaker at commencement exercises Friday night at the Cheney Technical Institute. He served three terms on the South Windsor Town Council and was the town's mayor from 1971 to 1973. Graduation will be at 7 on the school grounds unless it rains. Ceremonies will then be indoors.

Belgian Prime Minister Wins Vote of Confidence On F16 Fighter Decision

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Prime Minister Leo Tindemans won a vote of confidence today from a divided Parliament over his government's decision to buy the U.S. F16 fighter plane for its NATO forces. The decision enabled a four-nation consortium of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries — Belgium, Denmark, The Netherlands and Norway — to sign an agreement with the United States for the purchase of 306 F16s with options on another 42. The decision raised a wave of acrimony in Belgium. On Wednesday, an anonymous telephone caller threatened to bomb Zaventem international airport if Belgium proceeded with purchase of the F16s. Police and airport officials said "appropriate safeguard measures had been taken. The Wilton-Frame, the coalition partner that had threatened to desert the government, announced that its 13 members would support Tindemans despite their opposition to the plane deal. This ensured a confidence vote for the government.

Moffett Opposes Gas Tax As Burden on Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Helty increases in the gasoline tax won't discourage consumption but would mean an added burden on the public, Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., said today. Moffett, who voted with other anti-tax representatives Wednesday night to defeat proposed gasoline tax increases, said he supports establishing price ceilings on domestic oil production. "There is no evidence that we will cut consumption or increase production with this tax," Moffett said. "It will only mean an additional burden on our people, another blow to the consumer." The House killed one proposal to increase the gasoline tax by 3 cents a gallon and another to boost it as high as 20 cents a gallon.

Traffic Violations on Rise

Arrests for traffic violations have been rising steadily since March 17 when the Manchester Police Bureau of the town police department went on the road. The monthly reports from the department this year show their impact. In January, there were 130 arrests for "moving" violations, such as speeding, disregarding a traffic light, and driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs. February saw a rise to 133. There were only 151 arrests for "moving" violations in March. Officers Gary Wood and John Marvin run the bureau. In April, they began giving out many warnings for violations at the high-accident areas they patrolled in the bureau's specially marked cruisers. Warnings rose from 26 in March to 342 in April. Arrests rose from 151 to 194. In May, the men spent some time away from town taking special courses in traffic safety and control. Despite this, total arrests jumped to 285.

Car Rental Firms Accused of Monopoly in Airport Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused the country's three biggest car rental firms of conspiring to monopolize the airport car rental business, causing consumers to pay substantially higher prices as a result. An antitrust complaint issued by the agency said the three firms had fixed prices, entered into a conspiracy to keep potential competitors out of airports, harassed smaller competitors and made deals with the big three auto companies for advertising payoffs which helped shore up their monopolies. The three companies had combined operating revenues of $1.16 billion during 1973, the FTC said. During that same year they controlled 96 per cent of the nation's at-the-airport rent-a-car business. Hertz is owned by RCA Corp., and is the nation's largest car rental firm. Avis is a wholly owned subsidiary of Household Finance Corp. "We are shocked at the broad charges," said National Car Rental President J. W. James in reply to the FTC complaint. He denied any wrongdoing and said National will "vigorously oppose" the charges. The three companies were market structure. The three companies were ordered to appear at a hearing on the charges on July 30. The complaint did not specify what the FTC was seeking to correct in the situation, except to say that it would order whatever was appropriate to remedy the alleged abuses.

Bringing Broadway to Waddell School Stage

Presenting a rousing song from the musical show "Oliver," students at Waddell School participate in a spring music program for parents and friends.

Role of Maturity in Problem Solving Studied

VERNON

A research study, involving kindergartners, and second and fourth-graders at the Lake Street and Maple Street Schools in Vernon revealed that the students found it difficult to put together, spontaneously, two to four items of information in order to solve a problem.

able to process more and more items of information in solving a problem. He added, however, that the results were not as conclusive as the research team would like them to be.

In order to be as precise as possible on this issue, we need to test more children at each of the grade levels as well as children at higher grade levels.

Another category would be a direct solution as just described where the child performs only the necessary actions to get the gum.

Next, the child was taught that placing the large marble into a hole in a box causes a piece of sparkles gum to fall into a tray, and that when a small marble is put into the hole nothing happens.

The follow-up program was an attempt to determine if mental processing capacity increases with development. The first study proved that the ability to put together the two separately taught items to solve a problem was effectively absent in pre-school children but is present in about one-third of the kindergartners, one-half of the first graders and about seven-eighths of the third graders.

The latest study showed the problem of putting together two to four separate items was a bit more difficult with only one of 23 kindergartners being successful, nine of 12 second graders, and nine of 20 fourth graders.

The researchers noted that the findings with the second-graders were not consistent with the other findings, explaining that the second-graders on the three-item test did better than to indicate that the ability of the second-graders on the two-item test and better than the fourth-graders on the three-item test.

The pattern of results suggests to us that the results for second-grade children with three-item test may be biased due to a sampling error," the report stated.

On the putting together of four items of information only second and fourth-graders were used with one of 12 second-graders and two of 13 fourth-graders solving these directly.

Dr. Dickson said the results of the study suggest that as children mature they become reduced in complexity to involve the putting together of more items of information in order to solve a problem.

It was determined that the behavior of a child falls into one of three categories. One would be a direct solution as just described where the child performs only the necessary actions to get the gum.

Another category would be a direct solution as just described where the child performs only the necessary actions to get the gum.

Cumulative figures for the first four months, however, showed a 3 per cent increase over 1974, with 12,500 traffic deaths, compared to 12,530. The figure was 22 per cent below the same period in 1973 — before the energy crisis began to restrict driving.

Traffic Deaths Down
CHICAGO (UPI) — A spokesman for the National Safety Council says the group was "pleasantly surprised" that traffic fatalities declined an unexpected 1 per cent in April.

Ron Kuykendall, council spokesman, said Wednesday 3,000 traffic fatalities were recorded in April, 40 fewer than in 1974, when gasoline shortages and gas station closings curbed motorists' mileage.

"We're pleasantly surprised," Kuykendall said. "As yet, we don't know why" the reduction occurred.

School Board To Sell Doors, Desks, Chairs

Manchester's Board of Education has decided to sell a large accumulation of old doors, student desks and students chairs it has been accumulating over several years. Bids for 72 doors, 200 desks, and 200 chairs will be opened by the town director of general services June 24 at 11 a.m. at the Municipal Building.

The doors are of assorted sizes, some paneled and some hollow-core and one metal-covered, and are offered as is.

The assorted chairs and desks are from classrooms in Grades 2 through 6 and are described in poor to fair condition. Asst. School Supt. Wilson Deakin said the doors are up for sale because they've been replaced by new doors to meet federal Occupational Safety and Health Act requirements.

He said the desks and chairs have been accumulating in school storage areas for several years and aren't worth fixing. The school system needs the storage space, he said.

Family, Friends Fill Cathedral For Graduation

It was a night of nights for each one of 256 graduating East Catholic High School seniors Thursday as they and their families filled the St. Joseph's Cathedral in Hartford. It was an occasion for grandparents to come from distant homes. After the boys and girls dressed in their blue and white gowns, respectively, took their places in the front pews, they listened to Terrance George Farrell, senior class president, give the greeting.

PUC Says Hike In Phone Rate Aids Consumer

HARTFORD (UPI) — In what may be a final gesture of largesse, the state Public Utilities Commission gave the consumer a break in its decision to allow Southern New England Telephone Co. a partial rate increase.

The PUC, soon to be replaced with a new control authority, said Thursday it favored consumers by allowing higher increases in commercial and luxury phone rates which will subsidize the costs to residential users, expected to rise by 45 cents a month.

The commission approved a $48.8 million rate hike for the Southern New England Telephone Co., $25 million less than the firm had requested.

Departing from its normal report of only the dollar amounts involved in the rate hikes, the PUC said it had consumers in mind when it approved higher rates for services generally used by businesses.

"The Commission believes that the rates for these (noncommercial) subscribers should be maintained as low as possible even if this means being subsidized by the other services," it said.

The PUC rejected SNETCO's request to hike pay phone charges from 10 cents to 20 cents, and it approved changing the long distance call schedule from the three-minute minimum to a one-minute minimum.

About $40 million of the $48.8 million rate increase — expected to go into effect in three weeks — will be tacked on to "vertical and competitive service" such as CENTREX systems, payphones, WATS lines and private phone switchboards.

Less than $6 million will be tacked on to residential users and $3 million to regular business phones, the PUC said.

The PUC has been under heavy attack for its alleged lack of concern for consumers. A law awaiting Gov. Ella T. Grasso's signature replaces it with a similar agency expected to be more responsive to consumers.

Election Second Gandhi Setback

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's political fortunes and prestige suffered another major blow today when her ruling Congress party was crushed at the polls in election of a legislature in violence-torn Gujarat State. Her leadership of India was seriously jeopardized Thursday when a high court convicted her of corrupt election practices in the 1971 national elections and ordered to resign from parliament and from the premiership. The court stayed the order for 20 days to permit her to appeal to the Supreme Court.

She called on her supporters today to stand behind her during her gravest political crisis and said she would continue to overcome her difficulties as she has in the past. Political opponents called on her to resign immediately, but she was keeping the nation guessing whether she would remain in office.

Helms Ducks Reporters at Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Helms, ambassador to Iran and former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, used the back stairs today to avoid reporters and get to a closed Senate hearing on his role with the controversial spy agency.

The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Activities called Helms back one more time to testify about those seven years between 1966 and 1973 when he headed the agency that has come under increasing congressional attack.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman, says he has "hard evidence" which he says shows the CIA was involved in assassination plots on foreign leaders.

Congressional and other committees and commissions have repeatedly called Helms back from Iran to explain some of the things that went on during his tenure. Since Helms' last trip to Washington recently to testify before the Rockefeller Commission investigating CIA domestic activities, that body has issued a 296-page report which — although avoiding public mention of assassination plots — catalogued CIA domestic violations of its charter and American civil rights.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union will be looking for evidence of religious significance in the periods of "silent meditation" mandated under a new state law signed by the governor.

Gov. Ella Grasso Thursday signed the law requiring public schools to hold daily meditation periods, despite objections that it skirts a court ban on school prayer.

The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union said it would go to court to challenge the law, which takes effect Oct. 1, as soon as it spots an attempt to inject religious significance into meditation.

The law doesn't specifically mention prayer, but even its supporters said they hoped it would signal a return of school prayers, ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court several years ago.

majority she deemed crucial to her national image. Adding to the humiliation of the landmark court ruling was the fact that voting in the western coastal state of Gujarat came several days before the court ruling and she had seen it as a test of her national popularity before the national elections, less than a year away.

Mrs. Gandhi campaigned furiously over the past four weeks throughout Gujarat. But her party won only 74 seats and a United Front Coalition of 87 of the seats. Congress alone among the nine contesting parties fielded a full slate for the elections — 182 candidates for 182 seats. Her party's defeat was particularly significant since it was the Congress leadership in the state, charged with rampant corruption, that was the target of two months of sustained rioting in Gujarat by student-led mobs which ultimately brought down the government by forcing its resignation early last year.

Eighty-six persons were killed in the rioting and when the government capitulated, the state with a population of 27 million persons was placed under president's rule pending this week's new elections.

The current results constituted unfavorably for Mrs. Gandhi's popularity during the last Gujarat elections three years ago, when Congress bagged 140 seats in the then 168-member assembly for a clear majority.

In the aftermath of Thursday's high court ruling against her, Mrs. Gandhi left it to the nation to interpret from her remarks whether she would step down as prime minister. The statements she did make seemed to tilt in favor of her retaining the nation's leadership.

"I am never upset or afraid of anything," she told a huge gathering outside her house today. "I do not want to comment on the judgment... We have faced many difficulties together and we shall continue to overcome them unitedly."

Helms also will have to explain his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Feb. 7, 1973, when he was being confirmed as ambassador to Iran. Asked then if the CIA had engaged in domestic activities against dissident groups, Helms said:

"I don't recall whether we were asked, but I was not involved because it seemed to me that was a clear violation of what our charter was."
