'Sweating' Out Graduation

Fathers Given Tribute At Tolland Graduation

The 153 members of the Tolland High School Class of 1975 shared their graduation day with their fathers Sunday, a tribute referred to not only by Valedictorian Carla Doran but by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie as well.

The graduates prompted by the nation's Bicentennial observances, donned gowns of red for the girls and navy blue for the boys. White tassels hung from mortarboards and white National Honor Society cords, mixed with the single white rose carried by each of the graduating girls.

The class is the largest yet to graduate from Tolland High School, and the gym was crowded with proud fathers and relatives. Flash bulbs went off all over the gym like twinkling stars and the graduates marched in to the traditional Pomp and Circumstance.

The class described as "unique, much alive, spunky and of great spirit," by Principal Roy Nierendorf, left behind a class gift of a flag in front of the school and a fund to support the showing of the stars and stripes for years to come.

The class was unique in another aspect. All ten top students possessing the highest four year academic averages were girls.

Salutatorian Shawn Lampron urged her classmates to participate in citizenship throughout their lives. "Let us not just pay taxes each year, vote for the most attractive face and donate to the Boy Scout at the door as so many do." Instead she urged graduates to go to the city to tutor a child, to do something for those less fortunate "if only to be able to say someone smiled that day because of us..." What we do will determine if others look at our country with emulation or with envy, she concluded.

Valedictorian Carla Doran, admitting she is no "public speaker" read verses from her favorite poet Walter Whitman, particularly of the need to search and to

Interim Israeli-Egyptian Pact Given 50-50 Chance by Officials

By United Press International
Two authoritative Israeli newspapers today quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50-50 chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement as a result of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's conferences there.

Rabin flew home to Israel today from talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. His visit was marred by an Arab terrorist attack on a border village that Israeli Foreign Ministry officials said was aimed at disrupting his peace efforts.

The Arab terrorist raid Sunday killed three Israelis and wounded six in the frontier settlement of Yuval near the Lebanese frontier. The four Palestinian attackers were killed by Israeli soldiers.

Israeli planes struck Lebanese villages in reprisal and both Israeli and Lebanese artillery duelled across the border today.

The Israelis said Arab gunners hit Metulla, Israel's northernmost town and the nearby settlement of Kfar Giladi. No casualties were reported.

Israeli military sources reported a concentration of guerrillas all along the frontier with the biggest concentration at Aita ech-Chaab, a village just across the frontier and previous target of Israeli ground assaults directed against guerrilla bases.

Kissinger said Sunday after further talks with Rabin in New York that the positions of Israel and Egypt on an interim Middle East agreement have now been fully clarified beyond any possible misunderstanding.

Kissinger would not go into details but said that during the next few weeks "we will be working in diplomatic channels with all of the parties to see whether it is possible to translate these ideas into concrete progress."

He said he did not expect to resume his shuttle diplomacy efforts, which collapsed last March, in the "next immediate weeks."

In Tel Aviv the newspapers Ha'aretz and Yedioth Ahronoth quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50 per cent chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement.

They said Israel expected Egypt to reply within two weeks to proposals on a new pact made by Rabin in Washington.

Rabin, in a television interview on CBS' "Face the Nation," Sunday repeated that if Israel was willing to make concessions, Egypt would have to do likewise to provide the basis for a new interim agreement.

"Unless both sides are forthcoming" an interim agreement with Egypt will not be possible, Rabin said. "One has to be hopeful that it (an agreement) can be reached, but we'll see in the coming weeks."

Kissinger agreed that concessions were necessary.

Bomb Damages New York Bank

NEW YORK (UPI) — A powerful bomb exploded shortly before dawn today in the doorway of a Puerto Rican bank in Rockefeller Center, injuring one man slightly and shattering windows.

Police said the explosion, apparently caused by a pipe bomb, went off at about 4:40 a.m. in the doorway of the Banco de Ponce at 49th Street and Rockefeller Plaza.

Shortly after 6 a.m., a woman identifying herself as a member of the Weather Underground telephoned the Associated Press to take credit for the bombing. She told the AP the attack was in support of cement workers in Ponce, Puerto Rico.

The woman said a communique was placed between two buildings at West 10th Street and Greenwich Avenue, approximately three blocks from the scene of an explosion in 1970 at a townhouse on West 11th Street allegedly used by radicals to manufacture bombs.

Police said two notes were found at the location and were taken to a police laboratory for analysis. Contents of the messages were not disclosed.

The explosion this morning was the second at the Banco de Ponce in eight months. The bank was one of five midtown buildings hit by bombs on Oct. 26, 1974.

The FALN Puerto Rican nationalistic group subsequently took credit for the bombings and has since claimed responsibility for several more including the Jan. 24, 1975 explosion at Frances Tavern in which four persons were killed and 56 injured.

On Saturday, the FALN took credit for two bombings in Chicago's Loop section that injured four persons.

Leonard Pleads Guilty To 24 Felony Murders

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Peter Leonard pleaded guilty today to 24 counts of felony murder in the fire at Gulliver's Discotheque in Port Chester last year in which 24 young persons died.

A defense lawyer entered the plea for Leonard, 23, of Byram, Conn. The defendant then collapsed as he was led from the court room following his guilty plea and was carried by court attendants and sheriff's deputies out of the building on a stretcher.

Leonard was charged with setting a fire to hide a burglary of a bowling alley which was part of the commercial complex housing the popular discotheque on the New York-Connecticut border.

Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr. said in court after the plea was entered. "While 24 terrible tragedies occurred as a result of... your stupid action, this court is convinced... that you are not a vicious, willful killer. You certainly did not anticipate the results of your actions."

The judge said, "Your moral guilt is not as great as a murderer who killed and intended to kill."

Beisheim said he intended to sentence Leonard to a minimum of 15 years-to-life in prison for the deaths of the 24 victims. He also said that pending the mandatory probation report, he also intended to sentence Leonard to 15 years in jail on arson charges, 10 years on burglary charges and six months on two charges of petty larceny — all to run concurrently.

Beisheim said that before the plea he had discussions with defense lawyer Stephen Pittari but not with the district attorney's office.

Many CIA Activities Remain a Mystery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former Attorney General Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots, but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the President knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted, but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Time Magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there was no assurance Castro would not give the cigars to other people.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate investigating committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Dinh Diem.

A Colby appearance before the House committee investigating the CIA last week was canceled when an internal dispute resulted in the resignation of its chairman, Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Show Award Winners Name

More than 100 artists and craftsmen participated Sunday in the second annual Manchester Outdoor Arts & Craft Show sponsored by the Manchester Art Association Sunday in Center Park.

The Manchester Herald's "Best of Show" award went to Elizabeth Winchester for a linographic print entitled "Prophet of the Peaceable Kingdom." Accepting the award for her was Ira Yellin of Kalarson Studios, New York City.

Numerous awards were given for art work in all media and crafts. Show judge were Robert Manning, chairman of the Manchester Community College Fine Arts Department, and Ken Morgan, a Coventry art teacher.

To be eligible for judging in Sunday's show, the work entered had to be original, recent, and not previously exhibited in a Manchester art show.

Awards presented Sunday were: Winsor and Newton Co. award to Layne, oil, "Private Beach"; Permanent Pigments award to Paul Calvo, oil, "Night Falls"; M. Grumbacher Artists' Material Co. merchandise award, Toni Easterson, silk screen print "Trollerisk Fenster" (Swedish for "Magical Window"); Hartford Framing Co. award, Helen Garbolsky, oil, "Floral"; Sherwin-Williams Co. award, Kenneth Larson, oil, "The Yellow Delicious."

Also, Manchester Wallpaper & Paint Co. award, Mary Jane Quinn, mixed media, "Me and Michael"; Adams Apple award, Richard Daley, silk screen, "Julie"; E.A. Johnson Paint Co. award, Grace Tedford, watercolor, "In The Pink"; Craftint Manufacturing Co. award, Louise Withey, acrylic, "Four Seasons"; Delta Brush Mfg. Co. award, Rita Betko, watercolor, "Watch Hill."

Also, Robert Simmons, Inc. award, Isabel Compasso, watercolor, "Spring Foliage"; an Scott Rhoads, acrylic, "Farm Truck"; Manchester Wallpaper & Paint Co. award, Muriel Miller, oil, "Japanese Lanterns"; Manchester Art Association Stuart Cheney award, Peg Winther, watercolor, "Sumi."

'Professions' Not Exempt from Antitrust Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 8 to 0 today that the practice of law as a profession is not exempt from the restrictions of federal antitrust law. This is the first time the Court has addressed itself to whether federal laws against price fixing apply to the "learned professions."

The opinion was written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. did not participate.

The case was started by Lewis H. and Ruth S. Goldfarb, who encountered minimum fees for title searches, issued by the Fairfax County Bar Association, when they bought a $64,000 house in Reston, Va., in 1971.

Under ethical standards of the Virginia

State Bar, title examinations can be handled only by lawyers.

The Goldfarbs contacted 20 attorneys, all of whom told them there was a set fee for various services related to home buying. They paid $637.50 for title insurance, a deed of trust and other papers.

The case now returns to U.S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. in Alexandria, Va., who will determine damages not only for the Goldfarbs but for 2,400 others who bought homes in Reston — a new town near Washington, D.C. — during the four years prior to the filing of the suit.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had ruled that the Sherman Antitrust Act reaches only "trade or commerce" and not activities of the "learned professions."

But Burger said "whatever else it may be, the examination of a land title is a service; the exchange of such a service for money is 'commerce' in the most common usage of that word."

"It is no disparagement of the practice of law as a profession to acknowledge that it has the business aspect," the opinion said.

It cited an earlier Supreme Court opinion saying that the act on its face shows "a carefully studied attempt" to bring within its terms "every person engaged in business whose activities might restrain or monopolize commercial intercourse among the states."

Watergate Break All But Forgotten

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the eve of the third anniversary of the Watergate break-in, about the only place in Washington you can hear anyone talk about it regularly is on the set of a movie being shot on location.

At the federal courthouse, just off Pennsylvania Avenue, the third and final Watergate grand jury still hears witnesses. But there is little likelihood of dramatic new indictments before the grand jury term expires July 3.

Five men were arrested inside the Democratic National Committee quarters at the Watergate complex early Saturday, June 17, 1972. The subsequent chain of events resulted in the first resignation of a President in the nation's history.

But there are important links in that chain still hidden from public view. Among the unanswered questions:

- Who was responsible for the 18½-minute gap in the tape of the key conversation former President Nixon had with his chief of staff, H.R. "Bob" Haldean, on June 20, 1972 — three days after the break-in?

- What were the circumstances surrounding the secret fund allegedly controlled by Nixon's good friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo?

- Was there a relationship between Nixon and billionaire Howard Hughes, who gave Rebozo $100,000 for the President's re-election?

- Who was responsible for the faulty transcripts of the White House tapes given to the House Judiciary Committee during its impeachment inquiry?

There are even more fundamental questions, which likely will never be answered.

As Sen. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., asked so often during the 1973 Senate hearings: What did the President know and when did he know it? The tapes which led to Nixon's resignation Aug. 8 pushed the date of his knowledge to five days after the break-in. Did Nixon know of the bugging in advance?

- What was the purpose of the burglary? Watergate led to the worst political crisis in American history. Given that risk, which the plotters must have assessed in advance, what was so valuable at Democratic headquarters?

A spokesman for Special Prosecutor Henry Ruth says indictments could be forthcoming from other grand juries even after the final Watergate grand jury expires. But he said there is a big difference between the possibility and likelihood of indictments.

The great bulk of the prosecutions are over, and the toll comes to more than 50, including three of Nixon's Cabinet members and 20 of his White House and re-election aides.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

A Dubious Practice

Where there is a will there is a way is an adage familiar to most of us. It might be added this is particularly true in government today.

It seems that no matter what might be done to hopefully keep things under control, if someone wants to evade the intent of a statutory restriction, they usually find a way.

A current example, uncovered by state auditors, is that of two state colleges buying computers on the installment plan.

Other state agencies are reported in the process of getting computers also under similar plans.

As we understand it, the legislature has outlawed the use of operating funds for installment purchases as it makes it difficult to keep track of the total cost of the commitment to the state. This makes sense.

But all of us are computer happy as evidenced by the popularity of the small hand models which threaten to be in every pencil box very soon.

And our state agencies are no different. Apparently the status symbol is having your own computer capability. If state law or the lack of a specific appropriation stands in your way, you work out a deal with the computer company, much the same way we buy a new car and a capital equipment investment becomes a monthly payment along with the lights, rent, and grocery bill.

Now we, as private citizens, can do this if we can convince the seller we are a good credit risk and if our banker friends give us the right advice and money there is no problem.

State agencies do not operate under such restraints. First, the state's credit at this writing is still virtually unlimited and second, it is a million to one shot the administration or the legislature will let a state college or agency default on a contract.

But as bad as it is for a state agency to use installment buying and the difficulty to monitor it, the real cause for concern is that state agencies do not feel any remorse over circumventing legislative intent whenever it suits them to do so.

The auditors have blown the whistle on these particular capers to circumvent an effort by the legislature to impose fiscal discipline on state agencies.

Justification of the need for the equipment is not justification for circumventing the accepted appropriation process. This is a part of the democratic process and the legislative responsibility to maintain control of the state's purse strings.

We hope the instances uncovered to date represent the whole extent of the practice and steps will be taken to rescind these illegal contracts immediately.

To let the agencies in question keep the equipment and fulfill the contracts is to invite others to use this play to get around the law. Ingenuity is to be rewarded but not when it defies the intent of the legislature.

A Naughty Tactic

WASHINGTON — Over the past couple of decades, a common practice of construction unions has been to picket general contractors — whether or not the union and employer had a collective bargaining contract — until the contractor agreed to do business only through subcontractors who had bargaining agreements with the union.

This is called imposing a secondary boycott, a naughty tactic. But until the other day the garment and construction industries were not covered by a 1959 law which banned so-called "hot cargo" agreements by which a union could persuade one employer not to do business with another.

The statutory exemption permits a union and an employer to make "an agreement... relating to the contracting or subcontracting of work to be done at the site."

In that the provision permits acts in violation of the antitrust laws, it is a bad piece of legislation because it restrains competition and thereby raises the cost of construction. So, at long last, the Supreme Court has ruled that such union activity is subject to examination by the judiciary.

By a five to four vote, the Court held that the practice "would give construction unions an almost unlimited opportunity actions, either by the government or aggrieved employees, unless they conspired with management against the interests of their members. But in fact, a union's activity has never been specifically sheltered from civil law suits, under either labor or antitrust legislation.

We have here a Supreme Court decision which in effect protects Congress from its overreaching self. That is to say, the majority took a long look at the 1959 law and decided that Congress really didn't mean to bestow on any labor union the right to dictate which subcontractors a general contractor should hire. Well, one of the Supreme Court's jobs is to interpret the intent of Congress. It is a touchy chore, but one Big Labor never contests when rulings favorable to unions are handed down.

Congress of course can pass another law overruling the Court's finding. But I doubt the likelihood of such an eventuality. The list of abuses committed by Big Labor's hierarchy since New Deal days is almost as long as that compiled by Big Business during the era of union-busting. And the tactic of imposing secondary boycotts has earned itself a bad name even among some of labor's most vigorous allies.

OPEN FORUM

Opposed State Worker Pay Hike

To the editor:
During the 1972 Republican-controlled legislative session, I criticized Republicans for their operation and at that time said that the only thing that was especially bad, was the stupidity of some of Jack Heller's statements in The Manchester Herald June 3 truly amazed me.

I could not contact Mr. Heller personally because he didn't put his address and phone number in the paper. Since I have never heard of him before, I had no idea where to reach him. This letter will be signed with name, address and phone number so he will know where to reach me. I also invite him to accompany me to his superior's office if he would be interested.

Mr. Heller should realize that his "bee" is with the Vernon Center Middle School and not me regarding the double school or not me regarding the double school or not me regarding the double school.

The Appropriations Committee at this time promised the state employees that if the economy took an upturn and a surplus arose that in the next session we would give them their increments retroactive to January 1975.

I believe that the state employees accepted this, but not their labor leaders who talked of strikes, certainly uncalled for at a time of high unemployment and people on fixed incomes who in the end are paying the wages.

On two other occasions, the Democratic legislators were called to a caucus, once by the Senate and House leadership to be asked to back the governor's request for funds, and once a 9:30 p.m. caucus called by the governor and partly leadership in which they sought support for the governor.

I said the governor had no new plan to offer and I therefore voted "no." Before voting "no" in the House roll call, I was asked by a union member to take a walk if I couldn't vote for the bill.

Each legislator is free to vote his conscience and certainly those who were in favor of the bill from the start can't be criticized, but I certainly was disappointed with those legislators who "caved in" to political pressures.

In this case, the people came first, and believe me, it isn't easy to say "no" to the governor, especially being a Democrat.

Amazed

To the editor:
I do not wish to drag out this affair but the wild accusations, assumptions, and the stupidity of some of Jack Heller's statements in The Manchester Herald June 3 truly amazed me.

I could not contact Mr. Heller personally because he didn't put his address and phone number in the paper. Since I have never heard of him before, I had no idea where to reach him. This letter will be signed with name, address and phone number so he will know where to reach me. I also invite him to accompany me to his superior's office if he would be interested.

Mr. Heller should realize that his "bee" is with the Vernon Center Middle School and not me regarding the double school or not me regarding the double school.

The Appropriations Committee at this time promised the state employees that if the economy took an upturn and a surplus arose that in the next session we would give them their increments retroactive to January 1975.

I believe that the state employees accepted this, but not their labor leaders who talked of strikes, certainly uncalled for at a time of high unemployment and people on fixed incomes who in the end are paying the wages.

On two other occasions, the Democratic legislators were called to a caucus, once by the Senate and House leadership to be asked to back the governor's request for funds, and once a 9:30 p.m. caucus called by the governor and partly leadership in which they sought support for the governor.

I said the governor had no new plan to offer and I therefore voted "no." Before voting "no" in the House roll call, I was

To the editor:
The American Legion Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post 102 and Auxiliary wish to express their thanks to all who helped and supported the recent Memorial Poppy Drive. The success of this poppy distribution was most gratifying and was due to the loyal support of the people of Manchester.

We also wish to thank The Manchester Evening Herald and CATV for the excellent publicity, the Manchester Seafood for the containers which they donated and the Sons of Legion, Legion and Auxiliary members for the time they spent distributing the poppies.

The contributions received are used exclusively for the rehabilitation and welfare of veterans and their families.

Iran's Promised Oil Price Increase

While there are unmistakable signs of an economic recovery in the United States and the rate of inflation has abated from its high point of more than 12 per cent, our most difficult task ahead will be to hold down inflationary pressures which could send prices soaring again and result in another and steeper economic decline.

An inflationary threat of great danger has been announced by the National Iranian Oil Company in a message purporting to show reasons why oil prices should rise as much as 35 per cent after the OPEC oil price freeze terminates at the end of September of this year.

And it is undoubtedly reasonable to assume that Iran is not acting alone in this suggested great price hike. Undoubtedly it is being made in concert with the other oil producing exporting countries.

Their case for an increase in the price of petroleum from the OPEC nations is based upon continuing inflation in the Western industrialized world.

They say since inflation has increased the cost of the materials and goods which we import the purchasing power of the money which we are paid — they single out the falling dollar — has decreased, we are losing money and hence must increase the price of our oil.

Overlooked in this, of course, is the fact that the rate of inflation in the industrialized world has been accelerated and maintained by the spiraling cost of oil which has quadrupled in price in the last two years.

As the price of oil, or energy increases, it is inevitable that the price of goods rises. Thus the oil producers are paying higher prices as a penalty for their having raised the price of the basic commodity which they sell.

The price of finished goods is bound to rise if one of the ingredients in its production is high cost petroleum, whether it is in increased utility rates, or in actual use of the oil in chemical industries.

It strikes us that this is very analogous to that now hallowed labor bargaining device, the cost-of-living increase.

Here again, in our opinion is one of the principal contributing factors to continuing inflation. If labor costs rise constantly in adjustment to increased prices, the increase itself adds to the price of goods and hence sends prices higher. We think it very self-defeating.

There are some facts cited in the Iranian statement of intent which we should study thoughtfully, however.

It points out that a number of projects for the production of alternative energy sources in the United States have been either abandoned or their implementation delayed. This it attributes to the "low price of imported oil."

And our alternative energy program has been lagging very badly. Coal production is nowhere its potential and for environmental and other reasons our construction of atomic energy plants is going at the pace of a very slow snail.

Too, the Iranian statement points to the fact that some utilities in the East which had shifted from oil to coal in 1974 have now switched back to oil.

The hard fact must be realized in this country that our only protection from unreasonable and economically disastrous oil prices is the development of other energy sources. OPEC prices will come down only when they have an oil gulf on their hands.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Sand castles are fun to build. All of us who have ever been to the beach know the experience of having the waves wash in and reduce to nothing the towers and moats of our carefully constructed castle in the sand.

In every aspect of our life each day it is very tempting to think that all we are doing is perhaps very much like building sand castles — destined to be washed away by some wave of circumstance. This is why our personal link-up with God through the work of His church and the serving of others is so important. It is the work of the Lord we are called to do. And when we do that, we begin to know what Paul meant:

"Be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your labor is not in vain." (1 Corinthians 15:58)

contribute to unfetter the mind so it may be free to be educated. "We learn from everyday life... what I was reserving belongs to you as much as to anybody."

"My life has been richer for having known each one of you," Administrative Assistant Eleanor Gowers told the graduates in a brief personal talk. She recalled the flutters she experienced during graduation and advised the students to "hold fast to what is good... I'll miss each one of you."

Principal Nierendorf spoke of the difficult decisions to be made by the graduates who must face conflicting difficulties of inflation and recession, shifting job markets, and new moralities.

There was a letter read from President Gerald Ford to the graduating class, and the awards and scholarships were announced.

Superintendent Dr. MacKenzie then spoke of the "appropriateness" of holding the graduation ceremonies on Father's Day. He spoke of the daily problems and work which often clouds the minds of fathers "deserting their realization that John and Susan are growing up soon and leaving the shelter of home. He likened the graduation ceremonies to "the last gathering of the clan."

Board of Education Chairman Robert Dean admonished each graduate to meet his personal challenge as individuals.

Big Crowd Hears Band

HARTFORD (UPI) — It was one of those afternoons where you couldn't see the grass, because so many people were packed together at Bushnell Park to hear "Blood, Sweat and Tears."

But you could smell it, borrow it, buy it, roll it and smoke it — it was marijuana.

Mr. Cooper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper of Wilmette, Ill.

The bride-elect attended the University of Connecticut and is now a junior at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa.

Her fiancé received his B. A. degree in political science from Colgate University and is now employed by the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. He was previously employed by the Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Within sight of the park at the State Capitol earlier this year, cautious legislators voted down a bill sponsored by Sen. Lawrence J. DeNardis, D-Hamden, to decriminalize marijuana.

So although it is still illegal in Connecticut, police managed to look elsewhere. No drug arrests were reported, but a number of illegally parked cars were towed away. Radio station WHCN sponsored the event.

The crowd, estimated at 15,000 people, mostly in their teens and 20s, had to wait through several hours of less well known bands for the popular band and Leslie West.

The 153 student graduating class of Tolland High School shared their graduation day with their fathers' Sunday, a fitting tribute observed by both Valedictorian Carla Doran and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie. The graduates, clad in red and navy blue gowns, each girl carrying a single white rose, received their diplomas in the hot gym before the proud eyes of parents, friends and relatives. Tiger Shortstop Knox Upset

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Jim "Catfish" Hunter is at his best, it doesn't matter if the Dolly Sisters or the Kingston Trio is playing in the outfield. With his three regular outfielders all sidelined with injuries, manager Bill Virdon of the New York Yankees charged two catchers and a rookie who had never played a big league game in his outfield Sunday against the Chicago White Sox. Hunter turned the ball over to Hunter and hoped for the best. Hunter, who always seems to pitch his best under adverse or pressure-packed conditions, was simply masterful as he allowed only four hits in pitching the Yankees to a 3-0 victory. The 29-year-old right-hander struck out six and walked only two in notching his 12th complete game in 16 starts.

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland A's announced today they have traded pitcher Steve Hamilton to the Chicago White Sox for hurler Stan Bahnsen. A's owner Charles O. Finley said the A's traded third baseman Chester Lemon to the Sox's Denver Farm Club. Finley said Pittcock will report to Tucson.

Red Sox Flying High on Fred Lynn's Hot Bat. KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Fred Lynn is close to becoming the major-league baseball scout's Johnny bench. The rookie outfielder for the Boston Red Sox is tearing the American League apart and looks like a sure-fire star for the next decade. Lynn led the Red Sox with two in the eighth and one more in the ninth. Rico Petrocelli and Dwight Gooden both scored on a two-out dribbler in front of the plate, which Tim Lincecum beat out in the eighth.

Neither catcher Fran Healy nor pitcher Steve Mingori covered home and Evans scored all the way from second on the play.

A Nostalgic 'Gypsy' Plays at UConn

By SOL R. COHEN

"Gypsy" has been a crowd-pleaser since it opened on Broadway in 1959 with Ethel Merman in the lead role of Momma Rose. It was a hit movie with Rosalind Russell in the starring role, and recently a smash Broadway revival with Angela Lansbury as Rose. "Gypsy" is being shown each evening through Saturday (June 21) in the air-conditioned and intimate Harris '62 S. Jorgensen Theater on the UConn campus.

Written by Arthur Laurents with music by Julie Styne and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, "Gypsy" is based on the early years of Gypsy Rose Lee, a legend in her time and known internationally until her death several years ago as "The Queen of Burlesque."

Actually, the musical's main character (and that she is) isn't Gypsy Rose Lee but is Momma Rose, a powerful, stereotyped, theatrical mother who tries to live her fantasies of a successful stage career through her two daughters.

Her pride and joy and the one on whom she lavishes all her knowledge and all her love is "Baby" Jane, who breaks Momma Rose's heart and dreams when she elopes with a chorus boy, when both are still in their mid-teens. Although the musical doesn't follow or mention Jane's career, she went on to become successful Hollywood actress June Havoc.

When "Baby" Jane leaves and breaks up the act, Momma Rose tries to train Louise, the not-talented and serious sister, to fit the "Baby" Jane mold. Incidentally, Louise never revealed to her sister or the world (except the audience) that she was in love with the chorus boy who eloped with Jane.

To get on with the story, Momma Rose's attempts to make a "Baby" Jane out of Louise don't work. Instead, through a curious chain of events, during the time she was booked into a third-rate burlesque house to give the bill a little "class," Louise changes her name to Gypsy Rose Lee and begins her climb to stardom.

These kids have. They steal the show when they're on stage.

Next to Rose's finale number, "Gypsy's" show-stopper has to be the number, "You Got to Get a Gimmick." It's sung and danced (complete with bumps and grinds) by strip-teasers Mazzeppa (Natalie Dame), Tessie Tura (Julia DeLozier), and Electra (Deborah Brannan).

Miss Sessions, as the hard-boiled yet soft-hearted Tessie Tura, is an accomplished actress in serious drama and comedy, and she proves it in her role. It's truly professional.

"Gypsy" is musically directed, staged and directed by D.J. Maloney. Settings are by Robert C. Alpers, costumes by Gail Holbrook and choreography by Marilyn Hagit. Lighting is by John Hine. The technical director is Jack Nardi.

If you remember vaudeville or if you heard it once existed, and let's not forget "Everything's Coming Up Roses," among many, many more musical numbers in the show.

We highly recommend "Gypsy" for an evening's entertainment, for that's what it is — entertainment, without a doubt. Reservations may be made by calling 426-2912 or by writing to Nutmeg Game Office, U-127, Storrs, Conn. 06268.

There's one criticism of her performance: it's that her speaking voice is too shrill at times, but then so was Ethel Merman's. She sings well and dances adequately. When she's on stage, you know it at all times.

The finale number, "Rose's Turn," is her's and her's alone and the audience is with her all the way. She brings down the house and gets a standing ovation on each performance.

Christina Wheeler plays Louise, who later becomes Gypsy Rose Lee, and Mary Campbell plays Jane. Both are excellent actresses, singers and dancers. They make a good team, particularly when they harmonize with "If Mama Was Married."

Daniel Linn portrays Herbie, the former candy-salesman who becomes father-confessor to the family and manager of the act and who waits patiently but unsuccessfully to marry Rose and become her fourth husband. He's cast perfectly in the part and gains the audience's sympathy.

Area theater-goers should know Linn. He's president of the Tri-Town Players.

The 14 children in the 30-member cast are all from the Storrs area. In fact, the cast is from Eastern and Central Connecticut. What talent!

MACC NEWS

MANCHESTER AREA CONFERENCE OF CHURCHES

Last October, through the combined efforts of MACC workers and many talented community and area artists participating through local groups, the first annual Evening of the Performing Arts took place at Bailey Auditorium.

It was an evening of excellent entertainment and helped to raise money for the worthwhile projects in which MACC is involved.

We are planning to have the second annual Evening of the Performing Arts Saturday evening, Oct. 18.

Again participating will be the Manchester Civic Chorus, which under the guidance of Ralph MacCarone, will perform a special cantata with a Bicentennial theme, "A Cry for Freedom," by Billings Rehearsals are already underway for the cantata.

The Silk City Chorus will also be participating, hoping to become a supporting patron or a contributing patron, with a donation of $25 and $10 respectively, at this time may do so by making a check out to MACC Evening of the Performing Arts and mailing it to MACC, P.O. Box 773, Manchester.

Emergency Pantry Needs for the pantry at this time are: meat products, kidney beans, cereals, flour and shortening. Contributions may be left at Center Church.

Plans for the evening will also include a short play presented by the Little Theatre of Manchester and a dance number under the direction of Shirley Stager.

Much of our support last fall came from the 100 people who through their belief in the work of MACC and their interest in the evening's program became our patrons. A drive for patrons will be held at the end of the summer, but anyone wishing to become a supporting patron or a contributing patron, with a donation of $25 and $10 respectively, at this time may do so by making a check out to MACC Evening of the Performing Arts and mailing it to MACC, P.O. Box 773, Manchester.

The classical strains of the Manchester Civic Orchestra Strings, a group created last year for the Evening of the Performing Arts, will add to the evening.

Excerpts from "The Pirates of Penance" will be performed by the Singing Savoyards of the Manchester Gilbert and Sullivan Workshop under the direction of John Noller.

The combined bell choir of Center Congregational, Emanuel Lutheran and South Methodist Churches under the direction of Vin Zito, Robert Morrissey, one of their members, will again act as master of ceremonies and stage director of Mel Lounkin were such a hit last year playing "America" as the finale with the Civic Chorus that they will be joining in several numbers.

Emergency Pantry Needs for the pantry at this time are: meat products, kidney beans, cereals, flour and shortening. Contributions may be left at Center Church.

The first refugees from South Vietnam pose in their lodgings at the Quality Inn where they are staying until they can find an apartment in Manchester. The Nguyen family was evacuated from Saigon on April 29. Seated are...

Mrs. Thi Kim Anh Nguyen and the father of the family, Van Nghia, a former sergeant in the air force. Standing are their children, from left, Minh Duc, 16, Minh Nhet, 14, Thi Kim Anh, 11, and Minh Hoang, 13.

Vietnam Refugees Seek Home

By FLOYD LARSON
WANTED to rent, Air Force veteran and family desperately needs three-bedrooms, clean, inexpensive apartment. Anyone having such please contact Debby Hall at Lydall, Inc., telephone 646-1233.

Behind this classified advertisement is the current and most urgent need of Manchester's first refugee family from South Vietnam.

The family is that of Nguyen Van Nghia, 35, an 11-year veteran of the South Vietnamese Air Force. They arrived here Saturday from Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The Nguyen family is being sponsored through the International Refugee Rescue Committee by Lydall, Inc., where the father is to start work Tuesday morning.

Other members of the family are: Pham Thi Nhi, the mother, three sons, Minh Duc, Minh Nhet, and Minh Hoang, and a daughter, Thi Kim Anh.

Their trek to Manchester began April 29 when they were flown out of Saigon. Before their arrival at Bradley International Airport Saturday evening, they spent three weeks being processed at the refugee center in Florida.

Nguyen was born in Hanoi and fled to the south about 25 years ago as a child. He had been a member of the South Vietnamese Air Force for 11 years and was an aircraft mechanic when the country finally collapsed to the Communist Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in April.

His wife was a seamstress in Saigon and the children attended school. The family is Buddhist.

Nguyen was profuse in his appreciation to America and all the Americans who have helped his family since late April. He does not speak very much English, but through an interpreter, he expressed his desire to learn English and to do a good job for Lydall so that he could stay with the company and bring up his children in a free country.

His exact duties at Lydall have not been determined and will depend upon his previous work experience can be adapted to in the firm's papermaking facility here.

Mark Kravitz, owner of the Quality Inn in Talcottville, is hosting the family until an apartment can be found for them.

Saturday night after their arrival they were joined at dinner by Caole Butenas, secretary to Millard H. Pryor Jr., Lydall's president; and Anthony Giglio, president of Local 347 of the United Paperworkers International Union, AFL-CIO. On hand to greet the family at the airport was Daniel Sudarsky, chairman of Lydall's executive committee.

Lisa Rauschenbach, formerly of South Vietnam, and her husband, John, of Broad Brook, assisted in translation for the initial meeting.

Giglio said his union will launch a drive to furnish the apartment for the Nguyens once a suitable one is found.

Today, the father was to make his first visit to the Lydall plant to meet with his fellow workers.

In the meantime, Debby Hall at Lydall, telephone 646-1233 is waiting for that call which will offer the apartment desired by Manchester's first family of refugees from South Vietnam.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER
• Michael J. McCarty, 27, of 17 Garden Dr. was arrested Saturday at 6:30 p.m. on a court warrant charging him with first-degree sexual contact.

The charge involves the alleged molesting of a minor female recently, police said. McCarty was released on a $500 cash bond for court June 30.

• Robert J. MacGranor, also known as "Tarzan," 28, of no certain address, was arrested Saturday at 3:54 a.m. at the Bess Eaton donut shop on Center St. and charged with disorderly conduct.

MacGranor was arguing loudly in front of the shop. When police asked him to calm down, he argued loudly with them.

He was being held this morning on $500 surety bond for court today.

• Harry Leister, 55 of no certain address was arrested Friday evening at the emergency room of Manchester Memorial Hospital and charged with breach of peace.

Leister was found sleeping on the floor of Center Billiards on Main St. with a cut on his face. He was taken to MMH for treatment. There he grabbed a female doctor and threatened to throw her out a window, police said.

He was released on a $150 non-surety bond for court June 30.

• Thomas C. Mancus, 28, of East Hartford was arrested Saturday at 5:30 p.m. on a rearrest warrant charging him with fourth-degree larceny. He was released on a $250 cash bond for court June 30.

• Kevin B. Sullivan, 26, of East Hartford was arrested Saturday at 3:20 p.m. at Mott's Shop Kite Supermarket at 387 E. Middle Tpk. and charged with disorderly conduct.

Rivers was termed the captain of about two dozen people picketing the store Saturday, police said. They were carrying signs reading "Boycott Grapes."

Police told Rivers the group could not march directly in front of the store entrance.

East Hartford was arrested Saturday at 3:40 p.m. at the K-Mart store on Spencer St. and charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). He was released on a $150 non-surety bond for court June 30.

• Ernest H. Sobuta Jr., 21, of 831 N. Main St. was charged with allowing a dog to roam in connection with a Saturday car dog collision at 1:40 p.m. on N. Main St. east of Tolland Tpk.

The car driven by Daniel J. Epstein, 27, of 55 Tudor Lane struck the dog on N. Main St. and slid sideways across the street hitting a curb and bushes.

The car was damaged on the front end and its underside. The dog's condition was not noted in the police reports nor was it available this morning.

The car of Carl Ecabert of 453 Center St. was broken into where it was parked Sunday morning at 43 Birch St.

Ecabert and a friend came out of the home at about 5:50 a.m. and noticed his stereo and citizens band radio gone. They are valued at $300.

They began driving around the neighborhood looking for anyone suspicious. They and police they spotted a black youth wearing a black jacket and carrying something.

The youth saw them and threw what he was carrying into a dumpster behind the Pentland Florist shop at 24 Birch St. He then ran south fast along Purnell Pl.

Ecabert found his belongings in the dumpster.

The Yale Typewriter repair shop of 39 Purnell Pl. was broken into Saturday night. Among items missing may be police shoulder patches.

The firm's owner, Francis X. Terhune of 42 S. Adams St., sees the patches on uniforms for the Diamond Police Equipment Co. 1065 Main St.

The brakes on the bike ridden by John Abele, 14, of 86 Wells St. Sunday at 2:20 p.m. failed as the teen rode south on the Main St. sidewalk in front of the Manchester State Bank.

He struck the window on the northwest corner of the Cumberland Dairy store at 1063 Main St. It shattered. A soda bottle inside also broke. The teen appeared uninjured.

An 11-year-old boy ran away from the State Receiving Home for Children in Warehouse Point Thursday and turned up at a Manchester home Saturday.

The family knew the boy. They kept him over the weekend and notified the police.

Police notified the boy. A social worker is to see the home and the family today, police said.

HAVE A BEDWETTER?
LET HIM HAVE A DRY BED
The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended surely and swiftly. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting — What It's All About and How to End It," a report by three eminent medical doctors. No obligation.

Boys Have Much in Common Including Tragic Illnesses

By MAL BARLOW
Two Manchester boys share a great deal in common, including the same tragedy. Scott Chapman, 7, of 23 Oak St. is a student at Nathan Hale School in Unit B.

His mother, Mrs. Sharon Chapman, took him to doctors who found he had a tumor in the back of his head. Scott entered St. Francis Hospital in Hartford in late April. On April 28 he had his first operation as doctors attempted to remove a large, but benign tumor.
