Matching Up Guests and Hosts

Irish Young People Arrive For Summer in Manchester

After months of planning and hours of last-minute anticipation, 28 young people from Northern Ireland arrived in Manchester late Saturday night for a unique two-month visit to New England. Sponsored by St. Mary's Episcopal Church and St. James Roman Catholic Church, 14 Protestant and 14 Catholic youngsters will be guests in Manchester homes for the remainder of the summer in an effort to add a new dimension of understanding among the young people, their hosts and their religious sects.

The group arrived at Kennedy International Airport late Saturday and were bused to Manchester arriving here about 10:30.

Host families and other well-wishers waited more than an hour for the bus to arrive at the St. James School where refreshments were served while the children met their hosts families for the first time.

Many, using only photographs to go by, quickly spotted and took in tow their charges. Conspicuous was the ease with which the children in the host families broke the ice with their guests and air was soon filled with Gaelic-accented English and American conversation.

The Rev. Stephen Jacobson, rector of St. Mary's, called attention to the time difference and quickly called out names of the Irish guests and host families so that they could be on their way to a good night's rest.

While the wait for the bus seem almost unending, the arrival was almost anticlimactic since within a half-hour most of the guests were headed for the homes in Manchester where they will spend the next two months.

They will be busy months. Today they were off to Boston for a meeting with Sen. Edward Kennedy and a tour of Boston museums and historic sites. Tomorrow they are scheduled to visit Mystic Seaport and the U.S. Submarine Base at Groton. As one host mother lamented, "We may not get to know them until Thursday."

Also on hand to welcome the contingent was Msgr. Edward J. Reardon, pastor of St. James and members of the local fundraising committee which arranged the project headed by Dr. Edward P. Flanagan.

Accompanying the Irish youngsters during their trip were: The Rev. and Mrs. A.T. Waterstone of St. Catherine's Church in Tullamore; the Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, a Catholic youth worker in Armagh and Belfast and Brother Kevin, S.S.F. of Belfast.

The 19-14 recommendation to include need as a criteria will be voted on by the full conference Wednesday, and sources said the larger number of small cities that lack the money problems of their bigger counterparts would put up a floor fight.

Additional opposition was expected from those such as New Orleans Mayor Moon Landrieu, who said his city would profit by the need criteria, but opposed it because it would further jeopardize already shaky chances for congressional approval.

Nation's Mayors Seek More Federal Dollars

BOSTON (UPI) — The nation's mayors, split by political and economic disputes, today sought agreement on how to get and distribute the federal dollars they agree are urgently needed.

Mayors from the large industrial cities, many of which have been forced to lay off public employees to stay fiscally afloat, Sunday forced preliminary approval of a request for more federal dollars at the expense of their wealthier and, in many cases, smaller counterparts.

The Republican minority at the U.S. Conference of Mayors said it was unhappy with priorities set by the conference's overwhelmingly Democratic majority,

Mayor Conference Harassment Alleged

BOSTON (UPI) — The U.S. Conference of Mayors was harassed by former President Richard M. Nixon's administration, conference Chairman Joseph Alioto charged today.

"Watergate and related actions of the Nixon administration reached even into political investigations and political harassment of your national organization, the U.S. Conference of Mayors," Alioto said today in prepared remarks.

"While public records do not reveal the extent of this secret, undercover operation, other records suggest that the Conference of Mayors was a serious target on the Nixon enemy list," Alioto said.

He said the Nixon White House had directed a financial audit of the conference's books, specifically investigating its expenditures for implementing the recommendations made at its yearly gathering.

"In another case," he said, "agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, acting under orders from the Criminal Division of the Justice Department, investigated the Conference of Mayors."

"While we do not know who specifically ordered the investigation, it is important to remember that orders regularly were being developed inside the White House at that time to develop lists of enemies, and as we all know, a 'we' and 'them' paranoia then raged within the Nixon administration," he added.

He said the investigations of the mayors conference was conducted under a 1940's statute under which a group such as the mayors had never been prosecuted.

The Weather

Partly cloudy and humid today with chance of afternoon showers and thundershowers. Highs in the high 70s and low 80s. Considerably cloudy and foggy tonight with increasing chance of rain. Variable cloudiness tomorrow with a chance of thundershowers, highs in the upper 70s and low 80s.

Congress Faces Long Agenda Of Unresolved Public Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returns from a 10-day July 4th recess still facing a long list of unresolved issues ranging from the CIA investigation to taxes and truck weights.

But the Senate is still stalled in debate over whether Republican Louis Wyman or Democrat John Durkin should be seated as the junior senator from New Hampshire.

The Senate convenes today for more debate on the matter, with yet another attempt to halt a Republican filibuster set for Tuesday.

The House returns to work Tuesday to consider transferring control of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve in California from the Navy to the Department of the Interior, paving the way for public access to the oil.

Between votes on the New Hampshire issue, the Select Senate Committee investigating U.S. intelligence agencies meets again in closed session Tuesday, still concentrating on alleged assassination plots hatched by the CIA.

Among the witnesses is retired Maj. Gen. Edward Lansdale, who has denied as "distortions" a report that former Attorney General Robert Kennedy ordered him in 1962 to have the CIA work out plans for "getting rid" of Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

Others scheduled to testify included former Secretary of State Dean Rusk; retired Gen. Maxwell Taylor, and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant for security affairs for Presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

While the Senate investigation continues, the House Rules Committee will consider a resolution aimed at dissolving a similar CIA committee which has been beset by differences among Democrats on the committee. The proposal would lead to creation of a new committee.

Treasury Secretary William Simon goes to the House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday to give his proposals for tax reform.

Reaching the floor this week are Department of Transportation proposals which will set off debate on whether maximum truck weights allowed on interstate highways should be reduced and whether British-French supersonic passenger aircraft should be allowed to land in the United States.

The flurry of congressional activity will be short-lived. A month-long recess is scheduled to start Aug. 1. House Assistant Democratic Leader John McFall told members before their return this week they will face "a full working schedule for the entire month of July."

Congress Asked to Revamp Federal Highway Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford asked Congress today to adopt a national highway program that would distribute 25 per cent of the federal gasoline taxes — or about $1 billion a year — to the states.

A White House statement said Ford's plan — which was expected to meet with great resistance in Congress — would give 1 cent of the federal governments 4 cent a gallon gasoline tax to any state that raises its own gas tax by at least 1 cent.

The proposed federal highway act of 1975 aims at finishing the 42,500 mile interstate highway system, which is now 85 per cent completed, and allowing state and local governments more freedom in the ways they use federal highway aid.

The plan also would put greater emphasis on intercity routes of national importance, according to the White House statement.

Currently, all of the gasoline tax revenue goes into the Highway Trust Fund.

Slower Recovery Called Good News

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The fact that recovery from the present inflation will be slow was hailed as good news in a report published today in Industry Week magazine.

The report said a fast, sharp recovery probably would lead to renewed inflation and shortages, in the opinion of many economists.

On the other hand, it said, a slow recovery would produce a more stable future.

The climate is right, given right decisions in Washington, to keep inflation down to a rate of five or six per cent in the years to come, the report said.

The economy probably stabilized in the second quarter just ended. Some economists predict the figure, to be released in about one week, may show a slight upturn.

The third and fourth quarters, in turn, are likely to show larger gains in real Gross National Product and in the overall business picture.

Industrial production is expected to begin increasing in the third quarter as well as output of both durable and non-durable goods, the magazine said.

However, new housing starts are expected to increase but not enough to lead the economy out of recession as in the past because of prohibitive housing costs. Purchase of small consumer items is more likely to provide initial recovery strength.

Capital spending by business will lag but an increase was forecast for the second half, the report said.

Under the President's proposal, only 1 cent of the tax on each gallon would go into a Highway Trust Fund. Two cents would go into the general treasury and 1 cent to any state that hikes its own gasoline tax by 1 or more cents a gallon.

To help state and local highway planning Ford wants the number of highway spending programs — now totally about 30 — cut to four general categories. Aides said this would give state and local officials more choice in spending federal aid for highways.

Strike Cripples Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — A crippling nationwide strike gripped Argentina today, shutting down public transportation, shuttering businesses and halting newspaper publication and radio broadcasts.

Thousands of Argentine workers began walking off their jobs around the country at midnight Sunday in a dramatic showdown with President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron, the first such strike against a Peronist government.

Workers vented their rage in demonstrations, shouting obscene insults at Economy Minister Celestino Rodrigo, who announced the new austerity program that touched off the labor unrest, and Social Welfare Minister Jose Lopez Rega, the influential presidential adviser held responsible for Rodrigo's appointment.

Israel Retaliates For Bombing

By United Press International Israeli planes, gunboats and artillery devastated Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today in retaliation for a guerrilla bombing that took 14 lives in Jerusalem last Friday. The attack was followed by the heaviest artillery duels along the border in months.

Reports from Beirut said initial casualty reports in today's attacks put the toll at 13 persons killed and 37 wounded, 20 of them seriously. Beirut said the dead included a woman and two children.

A Palestinian guerrilla spokesman said the guerrillas inflicted "very heavy casualties" on the Israelis but Israel said all of its forces returned safely.

An Israeli spokesman said Israeli commandos landed just south of the coastal town of Rashidiyah, blew up at least three houses suspected of harboring guerrillas and fired on a jeep with at least three men in it, destroying it and killing all inside.

Holiday Toll Passes 475

By United Press International The Fourth of July holiday death toll climbed toward the lower end of the National Safety Council's pre-holiday projection late Sunday as motorists hurried home from holiday weekend sojourns.

A count by United Press International showed 476 persons had died in traffic accidents.

Texas reported 42 traffic fatalities, California 34, Florida 23, Illinois 22, New York, 19 and Alabama 19, Georgia, 18, and Kentucky 16.

Other Waterbury Workers To Discuss Joining Strike

WATERBURY (UPI) — Other municipal employees today were to discuss the possibility of striking in sympathy with 150 sanitationmen.

Local 353, Waterbury City Employees, scheduled a meeting tonight to discuss the matter. If approved, about 600 Public Works Department employees would join the strike.

Mayor Victor A. Mambruno was scheduled to meet with union officials before the session.

Refuse has accumulated for five days since city garbage-collectors, drivers and mechanics struck Thursday.

Ransom Demanded For Col. Morgan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The left-wing kidnapers of an American army colonel have vowed to kill their hostage in 72 hours unless the U.S. and Lebanese governments bow to ransom demands.

The kidnapers, members of the Organization of Socialist Revolutionary Action, delivered the ultimatum Sunday night in a communique accompanied by pictures of Col. Ernest Morgan in captivity and tape recordings of his voice.

The leftists demanded the distribution of free food to victims of recent religious warfare in Beirut, an immediate end to the search for Morgan and the broadcast of the first two requests by the Voice of America.

The 43-year-old, Petersburg, Va., officer was seized on the outskirts of Beirut June 29 soon after he arrived in the city on a stopover during a trip from Pakistan to Turkey.

OPINION

Another Way To Help

We have federal tax credits to encourage investments in plant and equipment to increase productivity and hopefully create more employment.

Before the summer is out, Connecticut will have on the books a law which, within certain safeguards, will permit its cities and towns to attract, retain or enhance economic growth through bonds under a community development act.

The American Marketing Association, through a study conducted by a task force headed by UConn Prof. Donald J. Hempel, is urging a federal tax credit to stimulate research and development leading to more productivity.

All these things are well and good but maybe, just maybe, we are getting the cart before the horse in assuming that such devices and tactics are the ultimate solution to what ails our economy.

We favor any legitimate means to stimulate our economy and enable it to compete in world markets.

But however helpful tax credits or municipal bond support might be to individual enterprises, the fact remains much of the loss in productivity, the decline of economic growth and in some instances, the flight of American enterprises abroad, is not because government, federal, state or local, has not done enough for private enterprise but because it has done too much.

The high priority the President has assigned to an exhaustive review of federal regulatory agencies and other aspects of governmental intervention into the business sector is a clear sign that one of the biggest things government can do for business is to 'let it go' and end some of the restraints which protect no one, especially the consumer.

We realize there cannot be a wholesale withdrawal of regulatory controls. We do hope that Congress and regulatory agencies will be receptive to an overall review with the end in mind that regulations which are detrimental to productivity and economic health, obsolete, punitive and/or ineffective can be eliminated.

Perhaps the stripping away of such useless and needless regulations could do much to ease the demand for tax credits for plant expansion, research, etc., and relieve the local communities of the need to use their bonding credit to protect their economic base.

Government assistance to private enterprise will be much more effective if it also makes an honest effort to eliminate arbitrary and needless regulation.

We must learn the difference between legitimate regulation to protect the general public against government and non-government excesses and over regulation which punishes the general public through higher prices, higher taxes, and general economic instability.

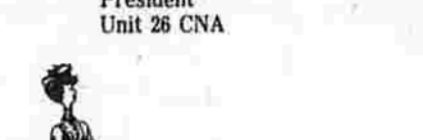

Nurses Issue Statement

To the editor: Manchester Memorial Hospital nurses statement to the community: The nurses of Connecticut Nurses Assn. Unit 26 ask your support. We will negotiate today with the hospital. Our proposals are reasonable and fair. We are a united group striving for our professional standing. We are a part of this community. We deliver quality nursing care to our neighbors, friends, relatives, and all members of the community who use Manchester Memorial Hospital. We also request the support of all registered nurses because we are striving for higher professional standards.

Supportive letters to the hospital administration would be appreciated. Your increase of hospital costs have apparently been inflated more by the hospital administrator's cost of fighting us rather than our increase in salaries. Please support us, we want to avert a strike here.

Irene Smith, President, Unit 26 CNA

ALMANAC

Both the House International Relations and Senate Foreign Relations Committees are planning hearings on long-range U.S. policy. I think that the time has come when we must stop and look closely at our foreign policy.

South Korea: An example of a nation over which members of Congress have divergent views is South Korea, where the United States has more than 40,000 troops and a defense commitment of more than 20 years' standing.

Reversals: While there is bipartisan agreement that to reduce those troops now would be a clear invitation to the North Koreans to move in, there are widespread fears that South Korea presents the highest potential for an unwanted military involvement.

Some members question whether the United States should remain a land power in Korea. "I don't think that a long-term policy should tie us to the mainland of Asia," says Sen. Mansfield.

On the other hand, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), who was spokesman for conservatives during the "great debate," believes that events in Indochina proved the United States must continue to maintain forward bases in the Asian and Pacific areas to prevent further Communist advances.

Future areas of debate within Congress will include U.S. relations with Taiwan and the People's Republic of China, troop levels throughout the world, particularly in the Pacific and Western Europe, and U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union and the countries of the Middle East.

Major changes, if any, will evolve slowly. "We cannot create a comprehensive foreign policy in a day, or six months, or even a year," observes Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.). "We can, however, begin a thoroughly discussed movement toward meaningful and mutual commitments..."

Ford Sounds Serious

WASHINGTON — If President Ford's words mean anything, Americans as a country are about to abandon the lunatic thesis that it is somehow unimportant to disagree with the nations of the so-called Third World in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Ford certainly sounded serious in remarks made at the ceremony in the White House rose garden at which Daniel Patrick Moynihan was sworn in as ambassador to the United Nations. At least, his language seemed plain. The U.S., he said, would continue to "work with purpose and patience" with Third World countries, but would "firmly resist efforts by any group...to exploit the mechanism of the United Nations for narrow political interests or parliamentary manipulations."

That approach is based on America's right to defend itself and its friends. Moynihan has told reporters and written in the magazine Commentary that human rights issues have been "politicized" by Communists and Third World countries.

Among other things, Moynihan mentioned the adolescent accusations in the U.S. National Honor Society and the U.S. National Boy Scout Council that the U.S. was repressing political liberty in Puerto Rico, and deplored a Human Rights Commission action censuring Israel for alleged mistreatment of Arab war victims.

Happily, Moynihan himself is evidence that the President is serious. I expect this Irish intellectual from Harvard got the UN job because his credentials testify to his capacity and willingness to talk tough to the Third World. It was, after all, Moynihan who started the UN phonies earlier this year by declaring it was "time for the United States to go into the United Nations and every other international forum and start raising hell" with its critics.

Presidents do not use such language, but Ford's remarks undoubtedly were intended as an endorsement of the Moynihan reaction.

That approach is based on America's right to defend itself and its friends. Moynihan has told reporters and written in the magazine Commentary that human rights issues have been "politicized" by Communists and Third World countries.

Among other things, Moynihan mentioned the adolescent accusations in the U.S. National Honor Society and the U.S. National Boy Scout Council that the U.S. was repressing political liberty in Puerto Rico, and deplored a Human Rights Commission action censuring Israel for alleged mistreatment of Arab war victims.

This trashy nonsense, of course, is the straight Communist line as pronounced by both Moscow and Peking and echoed by their various captive regimes in other peculiar countries. The Russians and Red Chinese have a certain expertise in the subject of freedom, restriction thereof; they refined the cunning art so professionally as to make the Borgias look like sloppy amateurs.

Now, however, Moynihan apparently will be authorized to speak up against the Communist-Third World UN majority, at least in self-defense. Moynihan has said he is not an opponent of the "developing" nations; he merely advocates forceful argument as a means of pursuing an "enormous range of interests with the Third World." Even on tennis courts, arguing is no longer considered unpardonable.

Meanwhile, the U.S. does have a big stick to brandish. It provides the UN with 25 per cent of its budget, and the Senate last year voted down a 24 per cent increase in the U.S. contribution of $16-million a year to various UN agencies. Money should help Moynihan do his talking.

The Growth of a President

WASHINGTON — At the time of his appointment to the presidency, there were those who believed Jerry Ford was Richard Nixon's last dirty trick on America. When he traveled to Japan in November, according to the new chief showed up at a state dinner wearing — gad — an ascot, winged collar and toupous trousers as he sat on the train going home.

Things change, including people and attitudes. Nelson Rockefeller was saying the other day that one of the best unreported stories in Washington is "how this president has grown in office." Quite right. No longer is Ford the Emmett Kelly of the White House tent; far from it, he has taken charge of his amazing fate to an extent even his critics agree is good for the nation.

Ford is not yet totally comfortable behind the seal of the big eagle. He was overboard to Japan in an ascot and bow tie. Henry Kissinger: "How many times do I have to tell you he is not the president I am the president?" Yet there is no longer really any doubt of that. Ford has organized himself and his staff — there are more than 500 people on the immediate Ford staff — to project an organizational air of confidence, supremacy and sophistication.

The sophistication may be the least strong of these virtues, if perhaps somewhat of a surprise. "We don't want to appear too smooth," says a White House staffer, "that's not the President's style. It can speak for itself, and for him, I have the impression we are trying to convey the idea we are capable, but not human. We admit we make mistakes — not too many, however."

The mistakes of the Ford administration — at least those of an obvious nature — have, in fact, fallen off considerably since the early days of bumbling and fumbling. Improper staff structure and shoddy communications early on made it not only possible but likely that Ford could invite a Texas businessman to the White House for an economics discussion never scheduled and wish Rep. Leon Sullivan of Missouri a happy retirement, even though she was not retiring. With his ship more secure, Ford's gains have diminished. He no longer vetoes legislation indiscriminately, for one thing — congressional Republican leaders have driven home to the President the political value of choosing vetoes that have the best chance of being sustained.

Ford's handling of congressional affairs, actually, accounts in large part for his evolution in office. A child of the House himself, as a friend in that body says, "he knows Congress makes a convenient scapegoat." Unable to force his own personality in less than a year in office, legislative will on the members — he is not that strong a president yet — Ford seems to it that they, not he, be blamed for do-nothingness.

Congress cooperates in this often enough, by doing nothing, but Ford presses the point by force of his middle-American personality. In less than a year in office, legislative will on the members — he is not that strong a president yet — Ford seems to it that they, not he, be blamed for do-nothingness.

Benoit Expresses Concern Over Ellington Dump Issue

VERNON — Application for a permit which could cause Vernon refuse trucks to be refused permission to dump at the Ellington Refuse Gardens has prompted Thomas Benoit, Vernon councilman, to write a letter of concern to Mayor Frank McCoy.

Anthony Botticello of the Ellington dumping site, is seeking a permit to dump refuse in the area "no matter from what source." The application also asks that all refuse be transported in equipment owned by Botticello or a corporation in which he owns the majority of the stock.

In his letter to the mayor, Benoit referred to the incident a few years ago concerning the Town of Vernon purchasing the Ellington refuse area. At that time the Town Council instructed the mayor to buy the dump for $175,000, Benoit said, "and for reasons never properly explained, the administration failed to negotiate that contract on time and we have found ourselves ever since in continuing legal has to maintain the dump for Vernon's use."

Benoit reminded the mayor that he has been very outspoken about the dump matter in the past and "this new issue indicates a much more serious turn of events."

Benoit said he is really concerned about the industrial and business end should Botticello's request go through. "We would be at the mercy of one individual," he said.

He urged the mayor to make this problem his No. 1 concern and suggested two steps he feels should be taken.

Ellington's hearing on the request is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 in the Town Hall, and Benoit said he will be present.

Benoit asked the mayor to designate representation by the Vernon administration and also legal council. Benoit said he plans to attend as an interested individual to observe the Planning and Zoning hearing.

His second suggestion is to have the dump question be the main topic of the special meeting of the council scheduled for Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Administration Building.

He said, "All councilmen should be made fully aware of just where the town stands on this issue."

He added, "I know from personal contacts I have received over the past two days that everyone, whether homeowner or businessman, realizes that the dump is a nightmare. We must turn out all present now and face the issue for what it is. If we do not we are condemning ourselves without a place to dump our garbage."

Senators Promise Hearings On Gasoline Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While holiday vacationers were paying 3 cents a gallon more for gasoline, two senators promised hearings within two weeks to find out why producers hiked prices just in time to catch the summer travel rush.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said Sunday "the public has a right to know and the Congress has a responsibility to find out how this massive Fourth of July squeeze play on the consumer took place."

Jackson is chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee. Stevenson heads oil and gas production subcommittee. They said joint hearings would be held "within two weeks" on reasons behind the sudden jump at the pump.

Ralph Nader charged that "the public is being misled by industry and Ford administration."

Firm Asks $5,100 For Unused Goods

SOUTH WINDSOR — King Construction Inc. of Bloomfield has charged South Windsor $5,100 for materials purchased but never used for a bicycle path and observation deck.

The path and deck were to accompany an ecology station on a new highway construction project.

However, following heavy residential opposition to both the construction and bike path, the town decided against construction of either.

Meanwhile King Construction purchased some of the equipment and materials needed for the items, according to Emil Luck, town engineer.

He said the contractor had ordered items such as special pipes, gate wells and railroad ties which were not returnable.

He asked the contractor to submit a claim.

Included in the $5,100 is $3,400 for equipment and $1,700 in labor.

Officials will now ask the contractor to submit a claim. The town is also considering a bill before determining what shall be done in the matter.

Council Meets: The Town Council will meet tonight at 8 o'clock and take formal action on matters.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old reader who wants to thank you for the best present I have ever received. Because of an item in your column, I sent for The Living Will. Now I have peace of mind, knowing that if I should become terminally ill, those who love me will not have to watch me die by inches. I went through 22 months of that. My mother died of cancer.

S.S. IN BOSTON

DEAR S.S.: The Living Will is simply a document that reads as follows:

To my family, my physician, my lawyer, my clergyman, to any medical facility in whose care I happen to be, to any individual who may become responsible for my health, welfare or affairs:

Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity and old age—it is the one certainty of life. If the time comes when I, can no longer take part in decisions for my own future, let this statement stand as an expression of my wishes while I am still of sound mind.

This request is made after careful consideration. I hope you who care for me will feel morally bound to follow its mandate. I recognize that this appears to place a heavy responsibility upon you, but it is with the intention of relieving you of such responsibility and of placing it upon myself in accordance with my strong convictions that this statement is made.

Copies of this request have been given to

Thus far, over half a million Living Wills have been distributed. (Yes, I have signed one.)

Contrary to what many believe, "Euthanasia" does NOT mean "mercy killing." It means "the good death." I am absolutely opposed to killing for any reason. However, should it be determined that there is positively no hope for my recovery, I believe that it is my right to be allowed to die with dignity.

It is not "against" anyone's religion. Pope Pius XII said in 1957: "The removal of pain and consciousness by means of drugs is practiced by religion and morality for both doctor and patient, even if the use of drugs shortens life."

A California reader offered to donate $1,000 to my favorite charity for acquainting him with The Living Will.

And one Texan wrote: "I want to fill out a Living Will because when Gabriel blows his horn, no S.O.B. is going to keep me from going."

The Living Will can be obtained by writing to The Euthanasia Educational Council, 250 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019. It is a non-profit organization, so with your request, please enclose a few dollars (tax deductible) to cover the cost of the documents and mailing.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

State Police Conduct Spot Car Inspections

A motor vehicle inspection team will stop cars in Manchester Tuesday and Wednesday this week in the state's random inspection program, Stanley J. Pac, motor vehicle commissioner, announced.
Their exact locations will not be known until the team works out its plans each morning with Manchester Police.
The inspection team working here this week will return again July 22 and 24.
The three teams in the state's random spot inspection program are now in their second year of a three-year program funded by a federal grant. They are trying to determine the program's effectiveness compared to a mandatory, periodic inspection program.

In May, the teams checked 10,157 vehicles, Pac said. Of those, about 55 per cent, or 5,550, passed. But 4,607 drivers were given defective equipment warnings.
The defects continued to be mainly with lights, brakes and mufflers. The teams found more defective tires in May, some 1,275, than in earlier months, Pac said.
Local police worked with the teams. They made a total of 393 arrests in May. There were 61 for operating without a license, 39 for unsafe tires, 31 for operating while under suspension, 39 for operating an unregistered motor vehicle, 16 for operating a motorcycle without head protection, and 53 for failure to remove studded tires by April 30.

Two Newspapers Hit by Strike

WINSTED (UPI) — Employees of the Winsted Evening Citizen and a sister newspaper in Massachusetts went on strike today, seeking recognition of their union as bargaining agent.
Publisher John Nash said the Citizen would publish an edition today but the Westfield, Mass., Evening Citizen was closed down by the strike.
"It won't be much of a newspaper but it will be out," Nash said.
Nash said about half the employees of the Winsted paper refused to enter the offices this morning and began picketing about 8 a.m. About 15 employees were in front of the building, Nash said. Most of the about 55 employees of the Westfield paper walked out, Nash said.

The Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO, said the newspaper officials had opposed the union's drive to be recognized as the bargaining agent for the employees.
"They've not gone to the National Labor Relations Board," Nash said. "If they go through the proper procedure we'd obviously listen to them."

Federal Law May Help Ease Fiscal Strain

HARTFORD (UPI) — Recently enacted federal legislation may ease the fiscal strains on Connecticut's unemployment compensation fund, Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, said today.
The measure would facilitate a delay in the repayment of more than $168 million which the state borrowed from the federal government in recent years to meet demands on the state fund.
Lieberman, State Senate majority leader, said he learned of the new law from Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., who won the backing of the state's five other congressmen to work toward a delay.

The new law makes states requesting delays in their payments of borrowed funds demonstrate efforts to make their unemployment compensation funds more fiscally sound.
Lieberman said state legislation passed this year is evidence of such an effort. It guarantees "that the unemployment compensation fund will remain able to meet the state's obligations to the growing number of those who are out of work," he said.
The bill revises financing of the fund by increasing the taxable wage base from $4,200 to $6,000 and increasing the fund solvency tax from 9 per cent to 1 per cent, Lieberman said.

Health Studio Regulations Demanded

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Citizen Research Group today called on the state Consumer Protection Department to take a tougher stand against unscrupulous health studio operators.
CCRG attorney Brian Sullivan told a hearing on proposed regulations that many such operations are fraudulent and that proposed state regulations fail to protect consumers.
"Fast buck operators have preyed on consumers through unprincipled business practices and downright fraud costing the public thousands of dollars a year," Sullivan said.
Sullivan said regulations should be written to limit contracts to one year. He said many operators deliberately capitalize on "what for most people is brief enthusiasm over health or physical culture programs," then refuse to void the contracts after enthusiasm wanes.

Sullivan said many consumers who sign such contracts find that promised facilities are unavailable or planned locations fail to open. Regulations should permit cancellation of contracts in such cases, he said.

Lightning Strikes Homes

MANCHESTER
Sunday, 5:47 p.m. — a lightning bolt struck the Bush Hill Rd. home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Leblanc. There was slight structural damage to the first-floor living room but no fire. The impact of the bolt which traveled through a tree outside knocked a basketball backboard and hoop off it, Leblanc said.
Sunday, 6:50 p.m. — the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Obzut of 16 Phelps Rd. was hit by lightning. Firefighters found a hole about four to five inches in diameter blown through a side wall of an upstairs bedroom and a smaller hole through a closet ceiling. The charge blew out the TV, an electric organ, and a stereo set. The couple was sitting in their living room at the time and thought at first it was a "tremendous explosion like a bomb going off," Obzut said. Obzut was also affected by the bolt and was treated by his physician. (Eighth District)
Sunday, 12:07 p.m. — a four-year-old girl climbed on her tricycle and pulled Box 291 at Durant and Crescent Sts. She told police and fire fighters she was curious about it. (Town)

SOUTH WINDSOR
Sunday, 6:56 p.m. — lightning struck the Howard E. Jorgensen home at 999 Ellington Rd. causing a working fire. The fire was under control by 7:14 p.m. The scene was cleared by 9 p.m. One room was destroyed. There were no injuries.
Three more calls came in soon after all reporting lightning strikes to structures. No damage was discovered.
Sunday, 11:20 p.m. — clothes dryer on fire at 1199 Sullivan Ave.

TOLLAND COUNTY
Saturday, 9:09 p.m. — car fire on Baxter Rd. (Tolland Fire Department)
Saturday, 9:13 p.m. — tobacco netting on fire off Pinney St. (Ellington Fire Department)
AMBULANCE CALLS
VERNON
Saturday, 1:33 p.m. — medical assistance given a motorist at the Vernon Mobil station on West St. (Vernon Ambulance)
Sunday, 11:09 a.m. — auto accident on I-86. (Vernon Ambulance and Vernon Fire Department)

Storm Cuts Power In Southwest Area

HELCO said the power outage started at 6:05 p.m. and lasted for three hours and ten minutes.
The outage affected HELCO customers in an area bounded by Redwood Rd. on the north, Bell St. on the east, Alexander Dr. (East Hartford) on the west, and the Manchester-Glastonbury boundary on the south.

U.S. CIVIL SERVICE TESTS!

Men-women age 18 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service exams for job openings during the next 12 months.
Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide greater security than private employment and opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.
But to get one of these jobs, you frequently must pass a test. The competition is keen.
Lincoln Service has helped many people prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.
For FREE information on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, fill out coupon and mail at once — TODAY.
You will also get full details on how you can prepare yourself for these tests. Don't delay — ACT NOW!
