1976 Presidential Campaign Already a $9 Million Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nominating conventions are still more than a year away, but already the 1976 presidential campaign is a $9 million business.

That is the amount that declared and undeclared presidential contenders say they have raised so far.

Reports filed with the Federal Election Commission indicate the funds are rolling in despite the new law that limits individual contributions before the convention to $1,000, and puts a $10 million ceiling on the amount any one contender can spend.

Reports filed with the FEC, or released by the candidates themselves, covered all the announced presidential candidates except former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, whose report had not yet been received.

President Ford, the only announced Republican, said he had raised $10,000 and spent nearly two-thirds of it during the first 10 days of his campaign. Ford has announced he plans to spend the $10 million limit on the campaign.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama singlehandedly accounted for nearly half the total, reporting he has raised $4.3 million during a three year period. A Wallace spokesman said the total did not include hundreds of checks that were not tallied in time for the June 30 deadline.

Two Democratic senators, Henry Jackson of Washington and Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, were the only others reporting receipts of more than $1 million.

Jackson reported earlier this week he had received $2.3 million.

Bentsen, whose report was one of the last to be filed because of a mail delay from Texas, said he had raised $1.5 million in the past two years. Bentsen has raised nearly a half million dollars so far this year and reported that his campaign has a current cash balance of $386,598.29.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., reported he had received $297,527. Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina listed receipts during a two year period of $151,357.90.

Former Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okl., reported raising $72,805.38, just slightly better than former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., who has raised $72, 155.34. McCarthy is running an independent presidential campaign.

Thursday was the deadline for filing financial reports with the FEC, which is handling the campaign statements for the first time under the new federal election law. So far all the candidates have complied with the deadline, but some of the reports were delayed in the mail.

Soyuz Launching Gear Now on Pad

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Russia's Soyuz spaceship and rocket assembly was moved to the launch pad in central Asia today in a key step toward Tuesday's Soviet-American space doubleheader.

The pace of work also picked up at America's ocean-side spaceport where engineers readied an Apollo spaceship for flight.

The announcement that the Soyuz and its rocket had been moved to the Baikonur launch island was made by Soviet space officials at a briefing at the Kalmningrad control center outside of Moscow.

Cosmonauts Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov have completed their training for the international rendezvous in space and relaxed in air conditioned quarters at the Baikonur Cosmodrome in the hot Asian desert.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton were wrapping up their training at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. They planned to fly to the Cape this evening in white jet trainers.

Weather continued to be a potential problem, but spaceflight meteorologist Jess Gulick said it appears the southwesterly flow of wind that has spawned thunderstorms for the past six days may be about to change.

On Mideast Peace Pact Kissinger Soothing Israeli Misgivings

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin today to soothe Israeli fears over a new interim peace pact with Egypt that could serve as the cornerstone for a complete Middle East agreement.

Kissinger flew to suburban Gynnich Castle by helicopter for the 9:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EDT) meeting with Rabin after a working breakfast with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

A senior American official traveling aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary would answer questions about what support Israel could expect from the United States if it signs a new pact with Cairo.

Kissinger, who left Washington Wednesday, has also conferred in Paris with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Kissinger and Gromyko made headway Friday toward a treaty limiting to 2,400 the number of nuclear strategic offensive missiles and bombers each country could possess. That figure would include no more than 1,300 missiles with multiple warheads.

The senior American official said the nuclear arms limitation pact possibly could be signed in Washington next fall during an expected summit meeting between Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Ford.

After meeting Rabin, Kissinger planned to fly to London for an airport meeting with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan and then return to Washington.

At the heart of the trouble over a new Israeli-Egyptian interim pact is the Egyptian Sinai desert taken by Israel in the 1967 war.

Israel has offered to surrender the Sinai's oil fields but not enough of its strategic military passes to suit the Egyptians.

Israeli officials have said they feel Egypt is offering too little in return — probably only a guarantee of non-belligerency for the duration of the interim pact.

Portugal's Military Dismisses Socialists

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal's military rulers today dismissed the Socialist party from the coalition cabinet and placed the army on alert.

The ruling Armed Forces Movement's 30-man Revolutionary Council took the action after an all-night meeting to discuss the Socialist's withdrawal from the government Thursday and the Popular Democratic Party threat to follow suit.

The council, which wields legislative and executive powers, said Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves should name men without party ties to fill the two cabinet posts made vacant by the Socialist's ouster.

In a pre-dawn communique, the council accused the Socialists of "negative attitudes that 'opens wider the maneuvering field for the development of counter-revolutionary action.'"

A military spokesman said the army alert was called as a precautionary move to prevent any outbreak of violence.

"It is natural that the crisis motivated by the withdrawal of the Socialist party could be utilized by reactionary forces," he said.

The Socialists withdrew from the government in protest of what they called the military's attempts to create a communist-type dictatorship, but did not formally hand in their resignations.

The Popular Democrats Friday gave President Francisco Da Costa Gomes a list of demands for turning Portugal into a Western-style democracy.

Gomes accepted the list and said the Armed Forces Movement's 240-man

Moderate Economic Policy To Be Campaign Theme

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford, signaling his campaign theme, says he will pursue moderate economic policies and keep vetoing Democratic spending programs so as not to give the American people a "hollow victory" over the recession.

In his first major speech since announcing his 1976 candidacy four days ago, Ford told an applauding group of corporate executives Friday night "all signs point to this fact: we are on the road to economic recovery."

Ford was to meet privately with Illinois GOP leaders, hold a regionally televised news conference and give the commencement address at Chicago State University today in rounding out an overnight visit here as part of a three-day Midwestern swing.

Then he will return to Traverse City, Mich. — where his visit began before 250,000 cheering persons Friday afternoon — to play nine holes of golf, attend a concert at Interlochen Arts Academy and spend the night on Mackinac Island in the Michigan straits.

The White House said the trip was non-political. But it gave him exposure to thousands of persons and a chance to assert again what his aides say privately is responsible for his rise in the polls.

"I will continue to veto unnecessary spending by the Congress," said Ford, who has vetoed 33 bills passed by the Democratic-controlled Congress. "I will not spend the American people into more headaches and heartaches for a hollow victory — a short-term period of economic resurgence that might last a year or two."

He said the inflationary crunch of "Uncle Sam's spending spree" of the past 15 years were now hurting the very people the programs were designed to help — the poor, elderly and disadvantaged.

Highland Park Spring Unsafe

The spring at Highland Park has been posted by the Health Department because the water there may be unsafe to drink.

Manchester Health Inspector John Salcius said yesterday the impacted clay barrier built around the well to keep surface water from penetrating has been broken down by heavy rain.

The work will have to be done again, he said, and he does not know how long it will be before the spring can be restored to use.

The Weather

Cloudy with chance of showers and occasional thundershowers through Sunday. Considerable fog south coastal areas particularly at night and in the early morning. Daytime highs 75 to 80 near the coast and in the 80s inland. Overnight lows in the middle to upper 60s.

Democrats Set Date For Candidate Selection

By SOL R. COHEN
Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings has learned from State Central Headquarters his town committee has less time than he thought to endorse candidates for the November town election.

Instead of a middle of August deadline, as expected, the deadline is only three weeks away.

Consequently, Cummings is scheduling a meeting for July 31 for the endorsements. The Republicans are meeting July 30 for the same purpose. Both sessions will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The early endorsement date, although coming as a surprise to most Democrats, actually stems from a bill passed by the 1974 General Assembly. It consolidated endorsement and primary dates for town and city elections to conform with those for state and Congressional District elections.

Cummings today repeated a statement he made Wednesday: "From all indications, all our incumbents appear to be candidates for re-election and, to my best knowledge, we're not seeking any new candidates."

He had a word of advice for those Democrats on the Board of Directors who told reporters they're not certain they'll run.

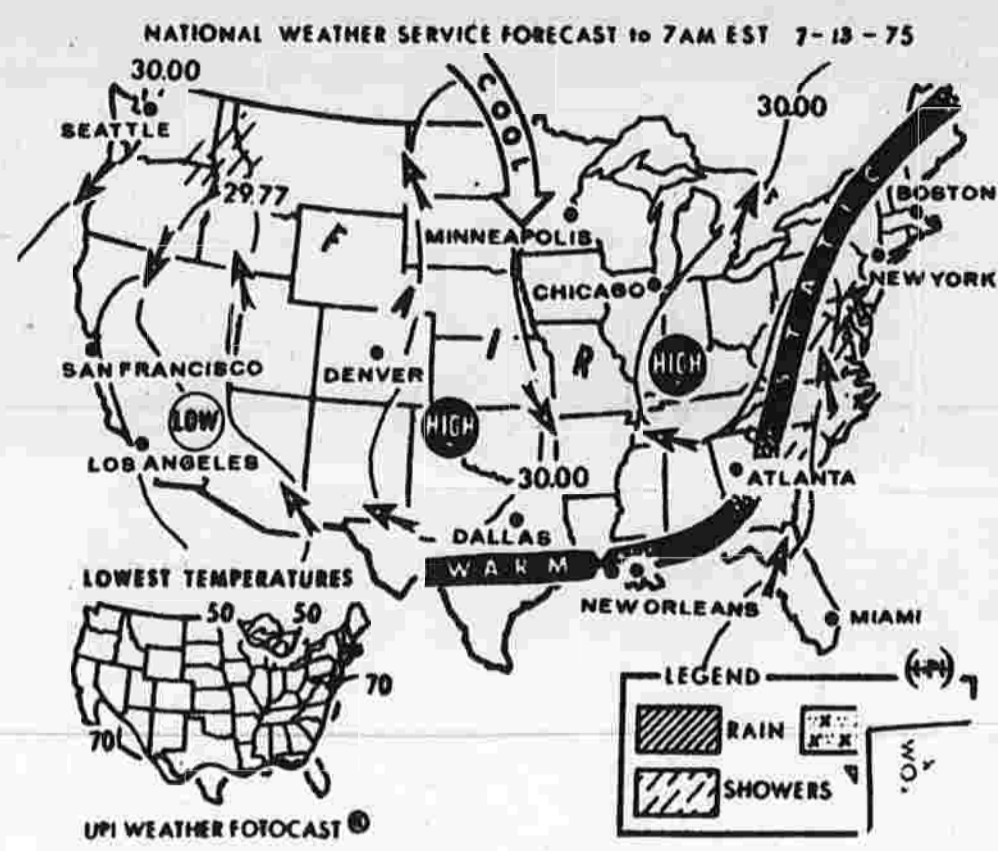

"With the stepped-up date for endorsements, there's no time now for

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a teenage boy, much to the dismay of his mother, had long hair and tried to justify it by saying that Jesus had long hair. His mother then said, "So you want to be like Jesus? O.K. Jesus didn't have a car—he had to walk everywhere. So just hand over the car keys!"

DEAR ABBY: Before I throw in the towel and let the razor, let's hear from a Bible college student in Los Angeles:
DEAR ABBY: First of all, if Jesus had long hair, what has that got to do with it? In His day all men had long hair. It was the custom. We could take that same logic to George Washington and powdered wigs. He wasn't the only man in his day to wear powdered wigs, so why do we use him as an example?

DEAR ABBY: I am 26-years-old, married for seven years, and have worked every day since I was 17. My husband has wandered from job to job and has had periods of unemployment up to nine months. On one occasion I have even had to work two jobs. Fortunately, I am smart enough not to have any children. My husband is presently unemployed (always, conveniently, in warm weather) and spends most of his time riding around on his $4,000 motorcycle.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Commission Secrecy

Few, if any, laws since the Ten Commandments have been implemented without the need to get clarification, interpretations, etc.

The whole legal profession is based more on conflicts arising out of applying the law rather than in writing law.

While scandal may not raise appreciably the moral standards of a society, scandal does produce more law to be clarified and interpreted.

In fact, Congress recognizes its relative inability to legislate laws which are so simple, plain and positive that such clarifications aren't needed.

What it does to overcome this deficiency is delegate the fine print work to commissions which really rule us through regulations which clarify, interpret and define in detail the more broad laws of Congress.

Congress, whatever other faults it may have, does most of its legislating in the open. True, a few hearings in sensitive national security or personnel areas may be closed, but the gist of such meetings soon becomes known and fundamental disputes are openly debated.

Not so with commissions. These appointive bodies are prone toward secrecy to the point that they sometimes make a mockery out of the intent of the laws they are to implement.

Take the Federal Election Commission which came into being because of the Watergate scandal and the shenanigans that were done in secret when it came to using loopholes in the old campaign finance laws.

These abuses were the reason the commission was created. What the commission does in establishing rules concerning campaign financing will affect almost all of us, either as potential donors or candidates. The formulation of these regulations and the debates concerning interpretation of the basic law should be open to the public.

But the commission voted 4-2 the other day to ban the news media and the public from meetings where it decides critical questions affecting the new campaign law.

The commission is supposed to watch for campaign finance abuses.

That its majority feels this can be done best in closed sessions indicates the lessons of Watergate apparently haven't been learned by everyone in Washington.

The sad thing is that since the watchdogs won't permit themselves to be watched, Congress will probably feel impelled to write more general law and create another commission to watch watchdogs.

Commission Chairman Thomas B. Curtis, who voted against the closed sessions, said, "This commission doesn't want to act in the sunshine."

That being the case, the wise thing to do is to keep one eye on your umbrella.

Natural Gas Controls Debated

WASHINGTON — For the first time in 20 years, Congress is preparing to look seriously at proposals to revise the federal price control system for natural gas, the fuel Americans use most to heat their homes and run their industry.

Since 1954 the Federal Power Commission (FPC) has set the wellhead price of natural gas sold outside the states in which it was produced. This has kept the wellhead price of natural gas relatively low — currently 51 cents per thousand cubic feet — while oil and coal prices have risen steeply in the past few years.

The price controls have resulted in less and less new gas being sold outside the states where it is produced. Gas sold interstate — where FPC controls don't apply — can bring prices as high as $2 per thousand cubic feet, four times the interstate price.

To stimulate increased gas production, the Senate Commerce Committee in mid-June reported a bill that would allow the price of newly discovered gas to rise, while retaining the existing price control system for gas already discovered.

Although the committee split 10-8 in approving the bill, none of the dissenters argued for keeping the existing system. The question at issue was: Should federal price controls on natural gas be only partly removed or completely dropped?

Pro: Selective Controls
"The price of natural gas is important to provide sufficient incentives to facilitate the discovery and production of that gas which remains," said the Commerce Committee report.

Under the committee's bill the price of gas discovered onshore by independent producers, and not associated with an oil well, could rise along the equivalent price of new domestic oil. This would allow the price of such gas to rise immediately to as high as 75 cents per thousand cubic feet. And special higher price ceilings could be set for gas that was especially difficult or costly to produce.

The 10 committee members who voted for the bill decided to retain some price ceilings because "prices higher than a level to cover costs and a profit high enough to attract capital will not bring forth more gas. They will simply force consumers to pay billions of dollars more for the same quantities of gas."

Those voting for the bill are Democrats, were Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (Wash.), John O. Pastore (R.I.), Vance Hartke (Ind.), Philip A. Hart (Mich.), Howard W. Cannon (Nev.), Frank E. Moss (Utah), Ernest F. Hollings (S.C.), Daniel K. Inouye (Hawaii), Adlai E. Stevenson III (Ill.) and Wendell H. Ford (Ky.).

They said the increased prices allowed by the bill "would bring forth essentially the same volumes of gas as would total decoupling of new natural gas," and at less cost to the consumer.

Their bill, they calculate, would cost the average family $1,814 over the next six years in annual increments rising from $190 in 1975 to $411 in 1980. The Ford bill "would bring forth essentially the same volumes of gas as would total decoupling of new natural gas," and at less cost to the consumer.

James B. Pearson (Kan.), Robert P. Griffin (Mich.), Ted Stevens (Alaska), J. Glenn Beall Jr. (Md.), Lowell P. Weicker Jr. (Conn.) and James L. Buckley (N.Y.) — who with two Democrats opposed the committee bill.

Deregulation, an end to all price controls for natural gas, is the necessary remedy, they argue, backed by the Ford administration and the FPC. "Deregulation will lessen the traumatic burden of continued gas shortages," stated an FPC report in early March.

The selective approach of the bill would be of little help in encouraging production, argued the critics. "The bill embraces appealing arguments for deregulation...onshore, where potential reserves may be approaching exhaustion. But it mandates perpetual wellhead price regulation offshore, where large reserves may be adequate to meet future demand."

"Producers would face more limiting price controls" under this bill, they continued, "than under existing law and regulatory practice. The primary effect of the bill's pricing provisions, coupled with its extension of federal regulation, would be to extend the interstate shortages to intrastate commerce."

John V. Tunney (D-Calif.), who with Russell B. Long (D-La.) also voted against the Commerce Committee bill, argued that it overestimated the consumer costs of deregulation. "On average the wellhead price represents only 17 per cent of the total consumer cost," Tunney said, "thus, even a doubling or tripling of this price will have a relatively small impact on the consumer."

He estimated the average yearly cost at $12.67. Furthermore, he said, much gas already contracted for sale would be sold for years at the lower price, delaying the impact of price increases resulting from the lifting of controls.

ANDREW TULLY How Intelligence Used To Operate

WASHINGTON — Ashenden, a writer, had been abroad at the outbreak of World War I. When he managed to get back to England, he was introduced at a party to a middle-aged colonel whose name he didn't catch.

As Ashenden was about to leave, the colonel came up to him and asked: "I say, I wonder if you'd mind coming to see me. I'd rather like to have a chat with you."

Ashenden agreed and the appointment was set for 11 o'clock the next morning. "I'll just write down my address," the colonel said. "Have you a card on you?"

Ashenden did, and on the card the colonel scribbled in pencil the name of a street and the number of a house.

When Ashenden walked over to keep his appointment, he found himself "in a street of rather vulgar red-brick houses in a part of London that had once been fashionable, but had fallen in chic. On the house at which Ashenden had been asked to call, there was a board up to announce that it was for sale, the shutters were closed and there was no sign that anyone lived in it."

"He rang the bell and the door was opened by a noncommissioned officer. He was not asked his business but led immediately into a long room at the back, once evidently a dining room. It gave Ashenden the impression of a room in which the brokers had taken possession."

The colonel, who was known in the Intelligence Department, as Ashenden later discovered, by the letter R, rose when he came in and shook hands with him. He was a man somewhat above the middle height, lean, with a yellow, deeply lined face, thin gray hair and a toothbrush moustache. "His close-set eyes" gave him a cunning, shifty look. Here was a man you could neither like nor trust at first sight. "He asked Ashenden a good many questions and then, without further ado, suggested that he had particular qualifications for the Secret Service. Ashenden was acquainted with several European languages and his profession was excellent cover; on the pretext that he was writing a book he could without attracting attention visit any neutral country."

"It did not take them long to settle things and when Ashenden rose to go he had already made careful note of his instructions. He was to start for Geneva the next day. The last words that R said to him were: "Perfectly." "Then I'll wish you good afternoon."

Fans of the late Somerset Maugham will find the encounter familiar. It is an excerpt from the British literary giant's novel, "Ashenden," devoted to the adventures of a superior amateur in service to his country as a spy. Ashenden liked his work, but he was "no more than a tiny rivet in a vast and complicated machine; he never had the advantage of seeing a completed action...what his own doings led to he had seldom a chance of discovering."

Maugham would have been the last man to point a moral. But Ashenden's meeting with R is relevant in today's America as a reminder of how intelligence used to operate everywhere — and still does, except in the United States.

TOM TIEDE Of Cabbages And Unelected Kings

WASHINGTON — Former senator Eugene McCarthy suggests the White House rose garden be plowed and cabbage be planted. Presidents tend to swell in importance surrounded by

Much of this sentiment can be explained as the working of the magic of Ford's office. The White House, as Gene McCarthy says again, is "a little nation." Nobody since Caesar has been so elaborately elevated as have U.S. presidents. McCarthy says the office employs 600 staff members, 100 domestic secretaries and other workers, and a transportation fleet of 32 automobiles, 16 jet planes and 18 helicopters. The Army provides an estimated 65 chauffeurs for the President's disposal, the Navy has 90 people on duty in the White House mess — and 14 high-ranking military men do such chores for Mr. Ford as looking up speech facts and delivering mimeograph notes.

Wrapped in this pomp, no doubt, Krazy Kat could be king.

Yet Ford has had more than inebriated circumstance in his corner. The press too, today, has contributed to the embellishment of his person and his status. Stung by the criticism that it turned all knives on Richard Nixon when the latter stumbled, the media has handed Ford with deference and limidity at best, investigative neglect at worst.

Interviewers have not laid a glove on the President, most press conferences have been thoroughly obedient. When Ford said recently he would not release to the public any information on alleged CIA assassinations it was not asked if this was his policy. And to date only one few have wondered aloud how an appointed caretaker can veto with impunity the legislative efforts of 335 duly elected officials.

Press coverage of the President has been massive enough, but often superficial. It has followed the tired routine of creating celebrities of Ford and his family, as it does with all White House occupants. As if this were a normal White House occupant, and as if anyone anywhere cares what Gerald Ford eats for breakfast. And it has clung to Ford's every word, every burp, every stumble, as if the fate of the cosmos depended on each dull update. Seldom, though, do commentators recall for readers that the man is a constitutional aberration, that the weight of his office is not supported by votes, and that his service should thus be continuously viewed with judicious suspicion.

This is not to suggest rubbing it in to President Ford. But forgetting the whims of his office serves neither him nor the public well. If we can get used to having an unelected President, or if he can get used to being one, the easier it will be to have one again.

Parkade Cleaners Make Old Clothes Look Like New
Pictured above, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Libitzky, owners of the Parkade Cleaners located in the Manchester Parkade, display some of their work that has earned them the reputation of a high quality cleaners. "We guarantee all our work," states Libitzky, "and we specialize in all areas of dry cleaning." The Parkade Cleaners are now doing a lot of work in cleaning furs, suedes and evening gowns for the upcoming cold weather. This is just another area of specialization that has helped tag them "the professional dry cleaners." "With the high cost of buying new clothes these days, it is less expensive to let us dry clean your old clothes like new," concluded Libitzky.

Situation Normal, All Fuzzed Up

To the alarm of many people, including a number of members of Congress, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has hinted that the United States might be the first to use nuclear weapons in a confrontation with the Soviet Union.

"First use could conceivably—let me underscore conceivably—involves what we define as strategic forces and possibly, possibly—let me underscore possibly—involves selected strikes at the Soviet Union," he said.

There are just enough "conceivables" and "possibilities" in what at first, terrifying bluish appears to be a radical departure from long-established U.S. policy to absorb the first blow, whether nuclear or conventional, in any showdown with the Soviet Union who have the strategists in the Kremlin scratching their heads.

And that, despite the protests the secretary's statement has aroused, is the whole idea.

The logic is that if a potential enemy believes that the United States will never, never strike first, he will be tempted to push aggression to dangerous limits. But if he is not sure how the United States will respond, he will be much more careful and cautious.

This works both ways, of course. If there is uncertainty about how the Soviets would react to what they may perceive as a threat to their security, this will tend to keep the more bomb-happy denizens of the Pentagon in somewhat closer touch with sanity.

Nothing has been changed in the balance of terror that exists between the United States and the U.S.S.R. The line has just been drawn a little more fuzzily, and paradoxically because of this fuzziness is less likely than before to be approached, or crossed.

By United Press International Today is Saturday, July 12, the 193rd day of 1975 with 172 to follow.
The moon is approaching its first quarter.
The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.
The evening stars are Venus and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.
American writer Henry Thoreau was born July 12, 1817. This is the 36th birthday of American actor-comic Bill Cosby and the 76th for entertainer Milton Berle.
On this day in history:
In 1882, the U.S. Medal of Honor was authorized by Congress.
In 1933, a new industrial code was established to fix a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in the United States.
In 1961, 73 persons died in the crash of a Czechoslovakian plane in Africa.

In 1972, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota was nominated as the Democratic candidate for president. He was badly beaten in November by Richard Nixon.
A thought for the day: It was writer Henry Thoreau who said, "That man is the richest whose pleasures are the cheapest."

CON: Total Decoupling

"The United States is confronted with a critical and increasing shortage of natural gas which is being exacerbated by regulation of the wellhead price," said the opponents of the Commerce Committee bill. Improvement Noted Each Year

Talk about improvement. Elsie Crockett, a late comer to the game of golf, won the Class C Championship two years ago at the Manchester Country Club. Last year she annexed the Class B crown. This week, Mrs. Crockett continued her winning ways by taking the First Flight title in the Club Championship Tournament on the 19th hole against Rose LaPorte. Previously Mrs. Crockett edged Alie Ansaldi on the 19th hole in the semifinals. Look out Pat Natalie! ...Speaking of Pat Natalie, the former Pat Torza, the physical education teacher has resigned her job in Massachusetts and accepted a similar spot at Gilbert High in the West. Her boss will be Moe Morhardt, former Manchester High and Chicago Cub baseball player, who is the school's director of athletics as well as varsity baseball coach. ...Mrs. Natalie was recently married to a Hartford fireman, Richard Natalie. The couple is residing in Hartford. Joan King, who lost in the Club Championship final to Pat Natalie, this week at the Manchester Country Club is residing in South Windsor. Don Blackburn of the New England Whalers is house-hunting in Manchester. His pretty wife is anxious to join the teaching faculty at Manchester Community College and has been interviewed for a position. Blackburn is one of the real veterans in the World Hockey Association after many seasons in the National Hockey League. ...Bob Neumeier of the Whalers' front office staff reports season ticket sales have gone over the 4,000 mark and enough 20-game ticket plans have been sold to assure at least 5,000 pre-game ticket sales for every home game. When Jay Pack and Phil Burgess leave the annual Jimmy Fund softball benefit game at Fitzgerald Field, the main attraction will bring together the New England Whalers and an all-star media team.

Record Season for Aces

"The way things are going, this will be a record for holes-in-one in one season at the Country Club," Alex Hackney reports. To date a dozen have been recorded. Credit Hackney's match referee, with speedup play in the Women's Club championship final. It required just five-and-one-half holes to play 31 holes. ...Bob Tedford has been named part-time recreation director for the Town of Ellington, effective Sept. 1. A baseball, basketball and soccer letter-winner at Ellington High, Tedford will graduate from Eastern Connecticut State College in December. His dad, Bob, was a fine basketball player 25 years ago with the Guards in the Eastern League. ...Ron Ryan, ex-coach of the New England Whalers and current chief scout, reports every member of the squad is now represented by an agent. "Tom Earl was the exception last year," Ryan said and will work for every player contract they negotiate, Ryan said. Bob Wolf, the well-known Boston attorney and player agent, represented several Whalers a year ago. ...Penway Park in Boston is known as an action park and anyone who has watched the Red Sox play this season at Fenway has to agree. The Red Sox have specialized in being involved in cliff-hangers to date. ...New York Jets open their pre-season training camp Tuesday at Hofstra and the New York Giants launch seasons today at Pace University in Westchester County. Workouts will begin at 10:30 a.m. for the Giants and 9:30 and 3 for the Jets. Each will be of two-hour duration. ...Work on the new Yankee Stadium is progressing on schedule and the Yankees hope to start moving into stadium offices shortly after the new year. The New England Patriots report to the UMass campus Friday.

End of the Line

With the appearance of Pele scheduled Aug. 1 at Dillon Stadium in Hartford, the Hartford Bicentennial report an advanced sale of tickets has gone over the 7,000 mark. Additional seats will be installed for the game against the New York Cosmos and B officials are hoping for a turnout of over 15,000. ...Riviera Hotel is offering a 500-lap classic tonight. Each stock car will be allowed to carry a maximum 22 gallons of fuel. Racing starts at 7:30. ...Fred Lynn, a sure-fire candidate for Rookie-of-the-Year honors in the American League, claims playing baseball is "the most fun I've ever had." Lynn is equipped to being in the minor leagues. ...Have a nice weekend.

Yankee Conference Out For UMass Hoop Team

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) - The Yankee Conference will be a six-team league in basketball beginning in 1976. Massachusetts is dropping out and heading for the big time. ...The University of Massachusetts more visibility and recognition in areas where many of its athletes are playing. ...Curry Hicks came on campus and has dominated over the past decade. Since Jack Leaman took over the squad in 1967, the Minutemen have won or shared the conference crown seven times. Last season, Massachusetts was 18-7 in regular season play and participated in the National Invitation tournament. ...McInerney said the switch was made with the backing of the university administration. Lawyers Win 8-1 In L.L. Tourney

Breaking a close, exciting and tense game open with five runs in the last inning, the Lawyers set Miles Auto to the sidelines last night in the Town Little League Tournament at Leber Field by an 8-1 score. The International League regular season champions will now face Dillon Ford's American League winners next week, due to be announced. It's a double elimination event. Shawn Spears ruled a fine three-hitter and his mates backed him up with solid six-hit offense. The winners tallied single markers in the first, fourth and fifth frames before the final explosion.

Wide-Open Finish Seen in Scotland

CARNOSTUIE, Scotland (UPI) - Bobby Cole wanted more of the same sea breezes, Jack Nicklaus prayed for gale force winds and Johnny Miller forgot about the weather and wooed the bookies. Friday's third round of the 104th British Open set the stage for perhaps the most wide-open finish this oldest of golf classics has seen. Ben Hogan's 72-hole Carnoustie record, 282 set in 1963 and tied by Billy Casper in 1968 was as good as dead. Arnold Palmer's open record, 276 in 1962, also equalled by Tom Weiskopf two years ago, was the next mark in range. Overnight rains softened the normally monstrous 7,065-yard, par 72 Carnoustie course throughout the week and then windless days have opened it wide to the advantage of sub-par rounds and broken records. "I hope it stays the same," said Cole, the 27-year-old South African who sank a 10-foot birdie putt at 18 for a second straight six-under-par 66 and the lead. "I'm used to this weather now." "When conditions are bad, your playing experience counts," said Nicklaus, five strokes behind Cole's 204. "I'd like to see the conditions a bit still days for a British Open." No question. There could be a playoff. The bookies took his advice to heart. "If I was a betting man, I'd bet on myself," he said. "I've got momentum. I've never seen a field hunched up like this one. The Open record will be broken. No question. There could be a playoff." The bookies took his advice to heart.

Girls' Senior Softball League

Runs were scored in all but one inning last night at Martin Field as Traver Trade World Antiques defeated Nassau Arms, 18-3. Switching effective bats were Colleen MacGilvray with three hits for the winners and Nella Houghton who had four for the Arms. Lisa Tye and Ann Edridge were in the three-hit class for the losers. The Arms are undefeated in five starts.

Collegians Stage Rally To Upset Bristol Nine

Winding up on the right side of the ledger for the third time this season in Hartford Twilight League play last night was Manchester Community College. The Cougars tripped over Bristol, 8-5. At Thomas with one of his best offensive games, the Bell Towers lead the National Division with a 7-0 record. It took nine innings before the locals could wrap up the verdict after getting three in the end of regulation. ...Facing the offense were Paul Placido and Mike Walsh with two hits each. The former also drove in three runs. Ray Sullivan's single in the seventh drove in the tying runs. Placido's bases loaded double in the ninth made the comeback a one-run victory possible. Jim Gagne earned the win in relief of Russ Bidlake who worked the first six innings.

Blue Named Manager Alvin Dark

OAKLAND (UPI) - Manager Alvin Dark Friday picked Dave Brubeck from his own Oakland A's as the American League's starting pitcher for Tuesday's All-Star game in Milwaukee. Earlier, Dark had indicated he would await until Sunday before making his selection between Blue and Baltimore's Jim Palmer. "There's a lot of talent on the pitching staff," said Dark. "But I think Dave is the star. Palmer told me he has a sore elbow, but even before I heard that, I made up my mind to start Vida." The three-run innings led Crispino's to a 7-3 win over Scruse Point last night at Moriarty Field. Ann Fratton, Mary Gracey and Marlene Donnelly each had two hits for the winners with Leslie Bartlett collecting three for the Pirates. Setting the pace was Charlie Whitehouse with a homer, two doubles and a single; Larry Greene homered and added three singles and Stan Alexander and Wes Barrett each stroked three hits for the first extra frame. Jeff Maxwell and Leo Williamson each had two hits. Dick Groat had two hits in defeat. The well-played game was Ron Laliberte who drove in the tie-breaking run in the first extra frame. Sox Batters Bail Out Staff Again With Help from Wind

BOSTON (UPI) - Gusty winds have turned around the Boston Red Sox' luck at home. Boston breezed past Texas, 11-8, Friday night for its fifth straight. The victory, coupled with a loss by Milwaukee and a doubleheader split by New York, gave the Red Sox a 1-2-game lead over the Yankees and Brewers in the American League East. The wind streak has advanced Boston's home record from 19-21 at the start of the home stay to 24-21. The Red Sox, trailing 5-1 after the top of the fourth inning, began playing the southwest-erly winds. Cecil Cooper was credited with a double when he gusts handcuffed Ranger left fielder Mike Hargrove on a fly to short left. He scored on Rick Burleson's double down the third base line. The wind also pushed Fred Lynn's fifth inning line against the wall for a double that set up two more runs. And Bernie Carbo put Boston ahead in the sixth with a high fly to left center that the 15 mile an hour wind despoiled barely on top of the 37-foot high wall. The three-run homer put Boston ahead, 7-6 and the Sox added four more in the eighth to offset Tom Harrsh's two-run homer in the ninth. "The wind really makes a difference," said Burleson, 1-2. "In this park I like to pitch right handed batters low and away but the wind allows the good hitters to put that pitch against the wall. "But I'm glad to win no matter how I get it." Each team will use its ace in this afternoon's third game of the series. Luis Tiant, 11-8, was scheduled against Ferguson Jenkins, 10-9. Boston lefty Bill Lee will miss the series because of the flu which scratched him from a scheduled start Friday night. "We can't complain about 40 runs," said Burleson. "We've been hitting," smiled Johnson. The Boston bats were silent early in the game as the Rangers displayed the longball offense. Jeff Burroughs' runner his 18th homer in a career aboard in the first and Mike Cabbage lotted his fourth home run with one man on in the fourth. Dick Drago came in relief of Burroughs at the start of the fifth. He earned his first major league win with one-run performance over 2 2/3 innings and left leading 7-6 in the seventh. Segui worked the final 2-1/3 innings, giving up the two-run homer to Harrsh in the ninth. "The wind really makes a difference," said Burleson, 1-2. "In this park I like to pitch right handed batters low and away but the wind allows the good hitters to put that pitch against the wall. "But I'm glad to win no matter how I get it." OBITUARIES Food Costs Won't Drop

Mrs. William Hall Sr.
Mrs. Anna Walter Reid Hall, 58, of Kimberly Hall Convalescent Home, Windsor, formerly of Manchester and East Hartford, died Friday in the convalescent home. She was the wife of William J. Hall Sr.

Mrs. Hall was born in Manchester and lived in East Hartford for 22 years before entering the convalescent home. She had been employed as a waitress at the White Tower Restaurant, Hartford, before retiring a year ago.

Other survivors are a son, William J. Hall Jr., of Manchester; two daughters, Mrs. Sandra Bastarache of Coventry and Mrs. Susan Weldon of East Windsor; five brothers, Thomas Reid, Horace Reid, Howard Reid, Clinton Reid and Edward Reid, all of Manchester; a sister, Mrs. Jessie Hoboth of Vernon; and seven grandchildren.

The funeral is Monday at 11 a.m. at Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, Hartford.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't look for cheap food prices anytime soon.

"The era of low food prices and declining food prices is at an end," FTC economist Russell Parker told reporters Friday. "Food is going to be more dear than in the past."

The FTC issued a special report on food chain profits, which noted there has been a 45 per cent rise in consumer food prices since 1972.

Parker and FTC economic chief Frederic Scherer said supermarkets increased their profit margins from about 0.8 per cent to 1.4 per cent on total sales between 1972 and 1974. But the FTC said this rate was not exorbitant.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Friday the Soviet Union probably will buy between 5 and 10 million tons of grain — mostly corn — from the United States in the coming year.

But he said this should have "minimal" impact in raising U.S. food prices, because U.S. corn and wheat crops are expected to hit record levels.

Soviet purchase of 19 million tons of American grain in 1972 contributed to later increases in U.S. food prices.

Bargain Hunters Have a Field Day

Manchester's sidewalk sales entered their third and last day today with the rain threatening to cut into the crowds somewhat. Yesterday and on Thursday hundreds of shoppers went downtown and to the Parkade to take advantage of bargains. In these pictures women check sizes of coats on a sidewalk rack on Main St. David Mahler, enjoys a balloon at the Parkade while a shopper selects ties. (Herald photos by Pinto and Dunn)

Fire Drives Workers To Skyscraper Roof

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hundreds of office workers were trapped on the roof and upper stories of a Manhattan skyscraper Friday by an electrical fire that spread dense smoke and wilting heat through the building.

While most of the 3,000 persons working in the 33-story, steel-and-glass Squibb Building on West 57th Street were able to make their way to the street using stairways and four working elevators, hundreds of others working above the 18th floor, where the fire broke out, were forced by the heat to head for the roof.

Police helicopters hovered over the building but fire officials ruled out the possibility

Civic Center Picketed

HARTFORD (UPI) — About 200 off-duty Hartford policemen picketed the Civic Center Friday night to dramatize their claim the city is not negotiating a new contract in good faith.

The peaceful demonstration, conducted while a rock concert was being performed, stems from the 450-member union's refusal to accept a contract proposal offered last week.

Senate Makes Move On Election Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has moved off dead center on New Hampshire's lengthy election dispute and agreed to take up the first of 35 issues involved.

A final decision on whether Republican Louis C. Wyman or Democrat John A. Durkin won the Nov. 5 election may still be far off. Lawmakers have adopted a cautious step-by-step approach for dealing with the election controversy.

The first step is an agreement to vote Tuesday on Wyman's request for a recount of certain voting precincts. It came Friday after Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., warned, "...the time that can be given to this issue is fast running out." He cited the urgency of the nation's economic problems.

Minority Republicans had prevented the Senate from considering the 35 issues — most of them contested ballots — by insisting the only way to solve the dispute was through a runoff election. Democrats balked, trying an unprecedented six times to halt a 17-day GOP filibuster.

An impasse was declared Thursday. But during limited debate Friday, Cannon and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., a member of the Rules Committee, worked out the agreement by which the Senate will vote on Wyman's first request.

Dance festival

A program of dance and drama headline this week's billing at the American Dance Festival at Connecticut College, New London.

Tonight at 8, Twyla Tharp, Dances & Dancers, performs. Sunday at 8 p.m., The Ridiculous Theatrical Company presents "Stage Blood."

Monday at 8 p.m., Iolani Luahine presents a program of authentic Hawaiian hula dancing with chanting accompaniment provided by Helen Hoakalei Kamau.

Tuesday at 8 p.m., Trisha Brown and Company will give a dance demonstration.

Wednesday at 8 p.m., Kirk Nurock and Natural Sound will appear in concert.

Thursday at 8 p.m., Chuck Davis Dance Company will perform.

Friday at 7 p.m., Trisha Brown and Company will perform.

Saturday at 2:30 p.m., the Ridiculous Theatrical Company presents Professor Bedlam in "Faust," a revival of an ancient traditional puppet drama, performed singlehandedly by the comic wizard, Charles Ludlam (Dana).

A 8 p.m., Trisha Brown and Company will again perform.

Iolani Luahine, the legendary exponent of the ancient and artistic hula, strikes a native pose while Helen Hoakalei Kamau, her official changer, sits by her drum and a friend watches. Iolani Luahine will appear at the American Dance Festival at Connecticut College, New London, Monday at 8 p.m. Dance in Hawaii, before the coming of the Europeans, was an extension of poetry that honored the gods and chiefs in the form of stylized visual accompaniment. The basic element of Hawaiian hula was poetry, while melodic succession of pitches was quite secondary. Dance was choreographed to illustrate selected words of the text.

Golden Agers rates

through Saturday. The company will perform a program consisting of "Proximities," "Personae," and "Hoopla." Jacob's Pillow is in Lee, Mass. For reservations, call 413-243-0745.

Bicentennial event

A major theater event of the Bicentennial, Arthur Kopit's new play "Louisiana Territory, or: Lewis and Clark—Lost and Found," is in rehearsal in the hockey rink and adjoining field on the grounds of Wesleyan University in Middletown.

The performance is slated for showing in the nation's Bicentennial celebration in Washington, D.C.

Many rehearsals for this play with music, dance and magic conceived by Kopit will be open to the public at dates to be announced prior to the detailed announcements of the first previews, Aug. 22 through Sept. 8 in Bushnell Park,

Hartford, and the Washington, D.C. opening in mid-April of the Bicentennial year.

The play is a theater/music event that creates, through the dramatic adventures of Lewis and Clark, a new perspective on where we have been and where we might be going as we approach our third century.

The musical score is composed by Richard Peaslee who created the score for Peter Brook's production of "Mara/Sade."

Ensembles perform

An unexpected filip to the programs of Yale Concerts in Norfolk has been added for Friday and Saturday with changes of repertoire on both evenings.

Friday, Igor Stravinsky's Octet will be performed in place of the scheduled world premiere of Thomas McKinley's Chamber Music, which has not been completed. Other works to be performed are by Saint-Saens, Prokofiev, and Villa-Lobos.

Saturday, the Tokyo String Quartet will play an entirely new program including a Ravel Quartet instead of a Bartok Quartet.

For reservations, call 542-5537.

David Christmas returns to Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam to perform in "Very Good Eddie," playing through Aug. 17. He also appeared in Goodspeed's recent season opener, "Louisiana Purchase."

East Hartford youth stage musical

By SHEILA TULLER

"George M." is coming to East Hartford July 30, 31, and Aug. 1.

In observance of the Bicentennial, East Hartford's Fine Arts Commission youth festival will present the musical as their 1975 summer production. The show, a segment of George M. Cohan's life featuring many of the songwriter's patriotic songs, will be staged at East Hartford High School.

Director Donald Hallquist

and Stage Director Richard Sterner are now rehearsing their cast and chorus of 50 high school and college students. Hallquist is music supervisor of East Hartford schools and Sterner is a member of East Hartford High School's music department.

The orchestra of East Hartford students, under the direction of Jim Kirchmeyer, is also practicing for the annual festival.

The lead role, "George M.," will be played by George Dagon. Dagon, a Yale student and member of the famous Whiffenpoofs, was outstanding as "The Music Man" in last year's festival show.

Supporting "George" will be Anne-Marie Tasse and Al Windshell as Cohan's parents, and Deanna Charette as his sister, Josie.

Joann Averill and Terry Langston will portray Cohan's wives and Broadway great Faith Templeton will be played by Cathy Connolly.

Joe Connolly, a favorite of summer festival fans, will play the part of Sam Harris. Joan Coates, who has worked in area stock productions, has been cast as Ma Templeton. Rolande Duprey, another festival veteran, will be Rose, the maid.

When "George M." comes to town, he'll be here on a Wednesday, Thursday and Friday which is a change from the usual festival schedule. As other area towns have been successful offering their productions on week nights, East Hartford's players will follow suit due to small Saturday night audiences in recent years.

All seats in the air conditioned auditorium will be general admission and tickets will be available at the door for a $1 donation.

Show to open

Photographs by James Klar and paintings and drawings by Susan Mainzer are featured in an exhibition opening Sunday at Foot Prints, 466 Main St., Manchester.

The gallery opening is scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m. Wine will be served.

Bill Vasilopoulos strums a custom-made guitar.

Jake Payne works on the frame of a guitar.

Two Vernon luthiers make beautiful music

Story and Photos
By BARBARA RICHMOND

Jacob Payne and Bill Vasilopoulos of Vernon make beautiful music together. Both young men make custom stringed instruments, working out of the Community Craftsmen's Co-Op on Park Pl., Rockville.

Jake is a graduate of Manchester Community College and Bill will be a senior next year at the University of Connecticut.

The repairing of stringed instruments led to a thriving business of making them. Jake once had a shop in California but came back to Connecticut and Bill joined him last September.

The technical name for such tradesmen is luthiers and they have gone into much research, visiting other luthiers, to learn all of the fine points of instrument making.

One of the most popular instruments they make, other than the guitar, is the dulcimer. This graceful instrument is the hourglass-type made in Appalachia.

The young men said they feel their popularity is gaining because people are looking for instruments they don't have to plug in and the pop-folk musicians are starting to use them more and more.

Guitars, of course, will probably remain the most popular instrument. Jake and Bill also have calls for mandolins and mountain banjos.

What goes into making a stringed instrument? Many different kinds of wood are used but not all in each instrument.

They use Alaskan spruce, Honduran mahogany, maple, satinwood, rosewood, basswood, and French veneers which are colored woods.

Unlike most luthiers, Jake and Bill finish the instruments with penetrating oil. They said most other luthiers use lacquer because the oil finish requires several coats and takes much more time.

They feel the time and effort is worth it because lacquer keeps the wood from vibrating to its potential.

They purchase all of the wood from New Hampshire because it has to be kiln-dried. They said the wood is of good quality but it is expensive.

They make their own molds too and the wood for the body of the instrument has to be boiled for several minutes to make it pliable enough to bend into form.

After shaping the body the next step is to attach the neck to the headblock, put the bracing on the back and then to attach the back onto the body.

Meanwhile, the rosette, or the inlay which goes around the sound hole or soundboard, is made. The next step is to get the fingerboard ready, put it on and fret it. Frets are the small ridges across the fingerboard. Next the position markers are inlaid.

The average price for a custom-built dulcimer is $125 and the average price for a custom-made guitar is about $250. They are sold with a lifetime guarantee for all repairs.

Jake's particular part of the instrument-making operation is working on the soundbox and Bill's specialty is the necks, but both know all phases of the job.

Jake said he has done experiments with soundboards of guitars and has developed a modification on the Martin guitar which is handmade in Nazareth, Pa. He said the modified handbracing strengthens the soundboard without loss of tone.

Not only do Bill and Jake make instruments but both are very versatile as far as playing them is concerned. Jake plays the dulcimer, the stand-up base, and the guitar and Bill plays the banjo and the guitar.

Their interests also extend to buying older stringed instruments and rebuilding them either for resale or to keep themselves.

In 'Carousel'

Soprano Monica Robinson and baritone Howard Sprout star as Julie Jordan and Billy Bigelow in the Hartt Opera Company's production of "Carousel" at Millard Auditorium, University of Hartford, July 17, 18, 19, and Aug. 1, 2, and 7. For reservations, call the Hartt Opera-Theater Guild weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 243-4441, or weekends and after 5 p.m. at 242-6194.

Atheneum exhibit celebrates trees

On hot summer days city streets are often made bearable only by the presence of trees, and at any time of the year the graceful patterns of trees soften the geometrical pattern of a city landscape.

An exhibition celebrating and entitled "Trees," organized by the Hartford Architecture Conservancy, is on view through the summer.

"Trees" consists of photographs of exceptionally beautiful trees in the Hartford area, taken between 1896 and 1899 by Frederick S. Brown.

Born in 1822, Brown was a Hartford native who has active in both state and local politics and who has passionately interested in trees. Largely due to his efforts, Bushnell Park still has many unusual and exotic varieties of trees brought from all over the world during the 19th century.

Among the trees photographed by Brown were a wild cherry in Cedar Hill Cemetery, a peanut hickory on the grounds of the Institute of Living and a white maple on the north front of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Colt Park.

Although it has been assumed that most of the trees photographed are no longer in existence, those mentioned above may still stand. Visitors to the exhibit may enjoy tracking them down, with the aid of labels containing information originally written by Brown and discovered on the backs of the photographs.

Frederick S. Brown was also a leader in Democratic politics for most of his lifetime. He was Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee in 1876 and served as city and town tax collector from 1878 to 1884, the year of his death.

The Hartford Architecture Conservancy organized "Trees" to emphasize the importance of all the elements that humanize urban living. The setting of architecture, in the Conservancy's view, calls for as much care and attention as the design of buildings.

The Four Tune Tellers, an award-winning barbershop quartet, will be featured July 19 when the Branford Electric Railway Association presents Barbershop Quartet Day.

The barbershoppers will mix music with the clang of the trolley in four shows, at 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, and 5:30 p.m., at the association's Branford Trolley Museum.

The volunteer-operated, non-profit museum, which has a fleet of 85 trolley cars, is just off Exit 51 of the Connecticut Turnpike.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Richard Thomas (John-Boy Walton) recently married Alma Gonzalez. Please tell us how old the newlyweds are and is the new Mrs. Thomas an actress? — M.W., Indiana, Pa.

He's 23 and she's 26 and, no, she's not an actress. She's a teacher and recently has been teaching English to Mexican-Americans in the Los Angeles school system.

DEAR DICK: When and where did John Denver's 1910 Gibson guitar get its crack? — C.M.W., Bay Minette, Ala.

John wishes he knew the answer to that one so he could crack back at whoever was responsible. He lost it two years ago. It was in perfect condition when he lost it. It was returned in March 1974 — cracked. That's all he knows.

DEAR DICK: There was an old movie called "Back Street," with John Boles. What actress played the leading role? It was about 1926. — E.B. WETZEL SR., Marrero, La.

You're off by six years — that was 1932. Boles' leading lady was the lovely Irene Dunne.

DEAR DICK: What is Soupy Sales' real name? And could you tell me why the Roller Derby is not on the air now? — MRS. R.F. PIERCE, Louisville, Ohio.

That's an interesting combination of questions, conjuring up a picture of Soupy in the Roller Derby, flinging pies as he skates by. Sales' real name is Milton Hines and, as for the Derby, you'll have to ask your local station. That's their decision.

DEAR DICK: When was the first 3-D movie made? A friend says "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," starring Charles Laughton, was 3-D. I say "House of Wax," starring Vincent Price, was first. Please settle this argument. — MRS. CAROL BRANDT, Jefferson, La.

Technically, you're both wrong, although you're closer. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" was not in 3-D at all. Actually, Hollywood experimented with 3-D as long ago as 1935 but it was in 1953 that they really tried to make it work. "Bwana Devil" was the first out but it was pretty bad. There were about a dozen made that year and "House of Wax" was probably the best of them.

DEAR DICK: Does Buck Owens of Hee-Haw wear a hair piece? My wife says no and I say yes. Who is correct? — WALLY C. HART, Williamsport, Pa.

Another triumph for the wives of America. A friend, who has seen him being made-up for the show, says that's all his own hair up there.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me who Carole Lombard was married to when she died in the plane crash. I say Clark Gable. Am I right or wrong? — MRS. H.H., Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

Right. Clark Gable was, indeed, Carole's husband at this tragic time.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me why Don McDougall, Kurt Winter and Bill Wallace quit The Guess Who? I heard it's 'cuz Burton Cummings was difficult to work with, due to his superior musical talents. Is that true? — LYNN GORDON, Kalispell, Mont.

Only McDougall and Winter quit the group. Bill Wallace is still guessing who. The official reason the two left was because of "road pressures." Unofficially, there was a falling out but nobody outside the group knows the real reason.

DEAR DICK: I say that Skitch Henderson and Florence Henderson are married. My daughter says no. Who is right? — MRS. JEWEL WILLIAMS, Anaheim, Calif.

Daughter knows best. They're married — but not to each other.

DEAR DICK: Some friends and I would like to find out what kind of car Columbo drives on that show, and what year it is. — P.B., Menominee, Mich.

That little beauty is a '57 Peugeot, Model 403.

DEAR DICK: I am a great fan of The Hagers on Hee-Haw. Do they make records? Do they have any tapes out? I have checked in our local stores for records and tapes but haven't been able to come up with any. — ESTHER E. STAVER, Jersey Shore, Pa.

Jim and John, the Hager twins, have their first album just being released on the Elektra label. Your local stores should have it by now, or very soon.

Mini Do: Tin Lanterns

In colonial times, tinsmiths made beautiful round lanterns with designs punched in them. Here's how you can make one today.

1. Fill tin cans with water and freeze. The frozen ice will prevent bending.
 2. Make designs by punching holes with nails and a hammer.
 3. Glue a screw-on bottle cap in the bottom of the can to hold the candle.
 4. Add wire or string if the lantern is to be hung.

Traveling With Fido

Some amusement parks won't allow pets, but they do offer places to leave them. The one above is at Disney World in Florida. It has 224 airconditioned "rooms."

1. Some dogs get very carsick when traveling. You might want to call your vet and get a tranquilizer to give him before you start.
2. If you must leave your dog in the car, be sure to park in the shade and only for a short time. Leave the window cracked so he can get some air.
3. Exercise your dog everytime you stop. If possible, take him out and run him.
4. When making your vacation plans, be sure to check and see if pets are welcomed where you are going.

Mini Facts About Pets

Irish Wolfhounds are the largest dogs in the world. They got their name because they killed many wolves in their native country of Ireland. An Irish Wolfhound went with Columbus on his fourth voyage.

Cardinals and mocking birds were very popular pets in colonial Virginia. Many were shipped to England as pets.

A shop in New York City puts on birthday parties for dogs. If they gave your dog a party, how many candles would there be on the birthday cake?

Super Sport: David Pearson

David Pearson is one of the top drivers in professional stock car racing. He has won 84 major races and has earned more than one million dollars. David drives a Mercury. Sometimes he hits 200 miles per hour on the track. Pearson's nickname is the "Gray Fox." David is 40 years old. He lives in Spartanburg, S.C., with his wife and three boys. His sons names are Larry, Rick and Eddie.

Mini Jokes

Why did the modest girl go in the closet? She wanted to change her mind.

What are you doing today? Nothing! How do you know when you're finished?

Hilda, have you given the goldfish fresh water today?

No, mom. They haven't finished the water I gave them yesterday.

Guess Who!

1. Guess who held the world's heavy-weight boxing championship the longest?
2. Guess who hit a golf ball on the moon.
3. Guess who invented the first revolving door and swivel chair.
4. Guess who was the tallest U.S. president.
5. Guess who is on a $5,000 bill.

Answer block: 1. Joe Louis held the championship for over 11 years, 2. Alan Shepard hit it on February 24, 1971, 3. Thomas Jefferson, 4. Abraham Lincoln, 5. James Madison.

What! They're Moving the Liberty Bell!

The Liberty Bell Pavilion where the bell will be moved. Plans are under way to move the famous Liberty Bell from the ground floor of Independence Hall to a new place. By the spring of 1976, it should be in a specially-built building in a park across from the Hall. The bell will be moved because so many people will be coming to see it as they celebrate the Bicentennial. Now, they will be able to get a closer look.

The Liberty Bell cost $300. It cracked the first time it was rung back in 1752. It was melted down and remade. It rang for many years but cracked again in 1835. Although it is no longer rung, it is a famous symbol of American freedom.

Quick'n Easy Pizza

On public television...

The Captioned ABC Evening News, a special edition of the news with Harry Reasoner with captions for hearing impaired viewers, is now airing weeknights at 11 on Connecticut Public Television (Channel 24, Hartford).

The program, made possible by cooperation of ABC-affiliated Channels 8 and 40, has been a regular feature of Channel 57 in Springfield for some time.

The captioned broadcasts use the picture and sound from the regular newscast, but printed captions are added.

Shepherd returns
"Jean Shepherd's America," a weekly look into the visions of Jean Shepherd, has returned to public television for the summer. It airs Tuesdays at 7 p.m. on Channels 24 and 57.

The program is produced by WGBH-TV (Channel 2) of Boston, a member of the Public Broadcasting Service.

Best of the Pops
A Cole Porter concert, Chet Atkins, flamenco dancing, and ragtime are among the special editions of upcoming segments of public TV's "Evening at Pops," which has returned to the screen with repeats of memorable shows.

The show airs Sundays at 7:30 p.m. on Channels 24 and 57.

British comedy
Channel 24 is offering a 13-part British comedy, "N—Honestly," Wednesdays at 8 p.m. John Alderton and Pauline Collins, who have appeared in "Upstairs, Downstairs," portray a couple reliving their first 10 years of marriage.

Much of the world's—and television's—attention will be focused this week on the historic American-Soviet space mission July 15 to 24. All three commercial networks, as well as public television, plan coverage of the mission. This sketch shows the U.S. Apollo spacecraft (foreground) docked in Earth orbit with the smaller Soviet Soyuz spaceship.

State offers plenty in late July

Late in July, Connecticut offers plenty of things to do under the sun for both visitors and residents who want to make the most of the midsummer out-of-doors. Overtones of tradition and history surround many of the state's recreation opportunities.

In a Bicentennial mood, there is the granddaddy of the Ancient Fife and Drum Corps Musters in Deep River July 19. This annual gathering attracts units and fans from all over the country for a spirited revival of an old colonial custom.

Elegant in uniforms of the Revolutionary War, and in some cases subsequent wars, the fife and drum "ancients" parade through town to Devitt's Field, where they get down to the serious business of showing one another what they can do.

For those who prefer other forms of creativity, arts and crafts fairs blossom out all over Connecticut in midsummer. The Guilford Handicrafts Exposition, July 17 to 19, and the Litchfield Outdoor Arts and Crafts show, July 17, celebrate the renewal of interest in traditional handmade articles.

Offering more of the same the following week, New Milford has Village Fair Days July 25 and 26, and Danbury will hold its first Arts and Crafts Fair July 25 to 27 on the grounds of the Danbury State Fair.

Collecting antiques is another bow to history and tradition. Collectors find in Connecticut numerous opportunities to browse and buy. Madison's town green is the site of an antiques show and sale July 19.

Two antiques festivals will be held July 26 in most appropriate settings. One will be in Coventry at the Nathan Hale Homestead, which was built in 1776 and is believed to incorporate some of the timbers from the earlier family home in which Nathan Hale was born.

The other festival will be in Guilford at the Thomas Griswold House, which dates back to 1735. Both houses have been restored with great authenticity; both are open to visitors.

Art shows in Connecticut combine traditional forms and media with distinctly twentieth century innovations.

In Hartford, the 37th annual exhibition of the Connecticut Watercolor Society will be shown at the Wadsworth Atheneum along with the 65th annual exhibition of the Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts, which includes oils, sculpture, and mixed media.

The Essex Art Association open show will be held from July 5 to 27, and the Lyme Art Association exhibit will run through the same period.

Library opens firemen show

An exhibit of historical firefighting equipment, pictures, and memorabilia opens today at the Connecticut State Library, 231 Capitol Ave., Hartford. It will remain on view through Oct. 15.

The exhibit, cosponsored by the library and the Connecticut Firemen's Historical Society, covers communications, social functions, and equipment used by state firemen of the 18th, 19th, and 20th Centuries.

Because the early volunteer fire companies were centers of community social activities, items are displayed that were used in parades, musters, and competitions. The equipment shown includes axes, helmets, lanterns, a fire fan, extinguishers, and a hand pumper.

Among the pictures in the exhibit are original Currier and Ives prints on loan from the Travelers Insurance Co. and the Hartford Insurance Group.

The Connecticut State Library Museum, across from the State Capitol, is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

Now on display

A special exhibition of nearly 20 Black and Hispanic art works by five Hartford area professionals is on display at the office of State Treasurer Henry E. Parker, 20 Trinity St., Hartford.
