Flood Watch Implemented

Watertown Area Reports 5-Inch Rain

WATERTOWN (UPI) — A number of Watertown residents left their homes early today after a flash flood brought on by more than five inches of rainfall since Sunday swelled Steele Brook to overflowing.

Town Manager Paul Smith said as many as 30 people, most living on Westbury Park Road, safely fled their homes to escape the rising waters. Property damage was heavy, Smith said.

The Red Cross set up shelter in the junior high school, Smith said, although the waters began to recede after daybreak and as of 9 a.m. the rain had stopped.

State police said heavy rains that came on a line of storm cells extending from Massachusetts deep into Connecticut around daybreak flooded roads at rush hour and forced closure of a section of Interstate 91 in Enfield where rainwater pooled three feet deep.

Traffic was slowed by heavy rain in other areas, police said, but no accidents were reported.

The National Weather Service said the weather system responsible for the weekend deluge would continue to bring rain well into the week. The heaviest rainfall was in the hilly northwestern part of the state, the weathermen said.

Since 7 a.m. Sunday, rain gauges showed totals of 4.35 inches at Thomaston Dam, 3.1 inches at Saugatuck, 2.68 inches at Stevenson, 2.42 inches at Falls Village and 2.06 inches in Barkhamsted. To the east, Middletown showed .89 inches for the 24-hour period and Mansfield Hollow Dam at Willimantic showed only .21 inches, the weather service said.

The weather service issued a flash flood watch for Massachusetts and Connecticut west of the Connecticut River for today and tonight.

Storms Sunday brought strong winds that knocked down power lines in parts of the state, leaving thousands without electricity for an hour or two.

Winds were estimated at 60 m.p.h. in Greenwich and measured at 37 m.p.h. at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, the weather service said.

About 1,200 Hartford Electric Light Co. customers lost power in parts of East Granby, Granby, Simsbury and Canton. About 1,500 Connecticut Light & Power Co. customers lost power in Norwalk, Westport, Wilton and Redding. Another 1-200 CL&P customers in Bristol lost power.

Soyuz-Apollo Crews Ready

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Countdowns continents apart moved smoothly today toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff 7 1/2 hours later of America's Apollo in a mission a Soviet official said would strengthen peace and deepen detente.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton were ready. And Russian managers said in a Moscow that cosmonauts Alexei A. Leonov and Valery N. Kubasov likewise were set at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8-670 miles from here, for the rendezvous in orbit.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project,) said Andrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief Vsevolod Sofinsky said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the process of detente. This is an example of solving many difficulties and mutual problems in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual understanding."

The Russians open the doubleheader with an 8:20 a.m. EDT blastoff from their desert base east of the Aral Sea. The America pilots, and millions of other persons around the world, will watch the launch on television.

The U.S. launch is set for 3:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

(For a schematic of the joint mission plans, please turn to page 15.)

"We will see you in a couple of days," Stafford said in a telephone call to Leonov while both crews relaxed Sunday.

The threat of thunderstorms remained the one big worry for project officials although meteorologist Jess Gulick said the trend is for more favorable conditions. There has been lightning and rain in the Cape area for the past eight days and forecasters said more was likely sometime Tuesday.

Lightning or even electrified clouds overhead could delay the shot a day. Scientists were prepared to drop metallic fibers into cumulus clouds in an attempt to short circuit potential thunderheads. Four aircraft will be constantly measuring the electric potential of clouds 24,000 to 41,000 feet overhead.

The weather forecast at Baikonur was good. Meteorologists expected a high of 91 degrees Fahrenheit and northerly winds of 15 to 22 miles per hour.

The shot marks the end of the Apollo era for the United States. Local officials estimate it may draw as many as 1 million spectators to the Cape area. There won't be another American manned space shot until 1979 when the space shuttle rocket plane begins flying.

The astronauts' wives were here. Among other visitors will be Russia's ambassador to the United States, Anatoly Dobrynin. America's Moscow ambassador, Walter Stoessel, will watch the Soyuz launch from Baikonur, becoming the first Westerner to see a Soviet manned launching.

If all goes well, the Apollo will catch up with the Soyuz Thursday and the ships will dock 136 miles above Germany. Two hours later, Stafford and Leonov will shake hands for the first time in space in the first of four crew transfers between the two ships while they are linked for 44 hours.

"People of good will will see this experiment as a forerunner of joint work by the peoples of our countries and a pooling of their efforts in battle with the elements and in investigating the universe," the official Soviet newspaper Pravda said Sunday.

Stafford said in a greeting to the Soviet people during his telephone talk with Leonov that "we are certain the mission will strengthen the friendship between our two countries."

Connecticut Firms Have Major Roles In Apollo Flight

HARTFORD (UPI) — When the American crew of the first Soviet-American space flight blast off Tuesday, their lives will be insured and their electricity and water will be provided by Connecticut firms.

The Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford has underwritten $50,000 policies on the lives of each of the three American astronauts, from the time they enter the command module until their recovery, the company said.

And three fuel cell power plants, built by the Power Systems Division of United Technologies Corp., of East Hartford will provide electricity and drinking water for the Apollo module.

The Apollo is scheduled to join the Soviet Union's Soyuz craft in the first meeting of astronauts from two nations in space.

Thomas P. Stafford, Vance K. Brand and Donald K. Slayton will be provided with coverage which includes disease "not endemic to the earth," said a Travelers spokesman.

Travelers insured the men who first landed on the moon and has insured other Apollo program flights and all three Skylab flights, the company said.

The fuel cell units have flown in 16 space flights, including all the Apollo missions and have accumulated more than 10,000 hours of operation in space, the Power Systems Division said.

The cells combine hydrogen and oxygen in electrochemical reaction which produces power and water.

The power will be used to meet the electrical requirements of the American spacecraft. The water will be used for drinking by the astronauts and for reconstituting their foods as well as for some electronic cooling tasks.

Town Given $431,750 Grant To Help Buy Water Company

By SOL COHEN

Manchester will pay $431,750 less for the privately owned Manchester Water Co. than originally thought, thanks to a federal grant in that amount for designating 184 acres of it recreation land.

U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter, D-First District, announced today the Department of Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has approved the grant and that it covers about half the appraised value of the 184 acres.

Manchester voters last November approved a $2.25 million bond issue for purchasing the North End water company—including land, waterworks, reservoirs, wells and all pipes, pumps etc.

The $431,750 from the Interior Department represents one-half the appraised value of the 184 acres. The grant is under the condition it remain open space and it be used only for recreation. An application to the state Department of Environmental Protection seeks a state grant representing one-fourth the appraised value. There is no indication to date what the state's answer will be.

Purchase of the Manchester Water Co. awaits only Public Utilities Commission review and approval of the agreement drawn by town and water company officials.

Assistant Town Manager Charles McCarthy predicted today the transfer should be made by Sept. 1.

McCarthy said of the federal grant, "We are delighted the Bureau of Recreation has approved our application and we're hopeful the state will pick up its 25 per cent share.

"This money will reduce significantly the bond issue authorized by the voters last November. In addition, it will set aside open space and recreation land for future generations to enjoy."

Economic Aid Reported Part of Mideast Pact

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel and the United States have agreed Washington would provide up to $1.8 billion in economic aid to Israel if a new interim peace accord is concluded with Egypt, an Israeli newspaper said today.

The newspaper Ha'aretz said this understanding was reached by Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger when they met in Bonn Saturday.

Rabin and his top negotiators met in Jerusalem Sunday to draw up Israel's latest proposals for a new accord with Egypt in the Sinai Desert.

During its regular meeting Sunday, the cabinet authorized the government to go ahead with its negotiations on the basis of the Rabin-Kissinger meeting.

Ha'aretz said it had learned that the main subject of discussion between Rabin and Kissinger was the level of guarantees and commitments Washington would give Israel in any new Sinai agreement.

"In the economic sphere it seems that there was understanding reached that the United States would give Israel economic aid of $1.7 to $1.8 billion and that additionally the United States would carry the expense of supplying oil to Israel for a three-year period," the newspaper said.

Inventory Drop Reported in May

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Businessmen sold a record $3 billion worth of inventories in May, the fourth consecutive month of large-scale selling of warehouse stocks, the Commerce Department reported today.

The huge inventory decline was coupled with a modest 0.4 per cent improvement in combined business sales, with most of the strength at the retail level.

The latest statistics were another indication that the nation's economic health is gradually improving.

Economists have said that businesses must liquidate their now unwanted inventories in order to stimulate new orders and the overall upturn in economic growth that would follow.

Vietnamese Brothers Reunited Here

By ALICE EVANS

Two Vietnamese brothers and their families were reunited in Manchester

Saturday night through the efforts of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

At Dao, who with his wife and three children arrived in Manchester June 30 under the sponsorship of Emanuel Lutheran Church was reunited with his brother, Cam Dao, and his sister-in-law, Mai, Saturday night.

This is the second reunion for the Dao brothers since they left Vietnam. On May 12, the brothers were reunited when At's wife saw her brother-in-law in a chow line at Ft. Chaffee, Ark. It was there that both families, seeking sponsors, applied to the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service.

At and his family, sponsored by Emanuel Church, came to Manchester. Cam and Mai went to Detroit, Mich.

Emanuel Lutheran Church, through its missions and ministry committee and church council, arranged to have the sponsorship of Cam and Mai transferred so that both families could live in the same community, the Rev. Ronald Fournier, administrative pastor of Emanuel Church, said.

Cam and Mai will stay with his brother's family until the apartment the church has obtained for the couple is ready, the pastor said.

Cam has had one year of college and has studied chemistry. He has taught French and speaks the language fluently plus some English. His wife is a college graduate and speaks fluent English, the Rev. Mr. Fournier said.

At and his family left Vietnam April 20. Cam was detained by the Army and finally left April 29, the day Saigon fell to the Communists. Cam was still in uniform when he and his wife jumped on a refugee boat, which took them out to a 7th Fleet ship in the Red China Sea, the Rev. Mr. Fournier said.

Now, they call Manchester home.

Town Reports No Rainstorm Damage

Manchester fared very well during the weekend rains, reports this morning indicate.

Spokesmen for the highway department, police and fire departments, water and sewer department, Southern New England Telephone Co. and Hartford Electric Light Co. reported there weren't any storm-related problems and a minimum of problems of any kind.

Frank Jodaitis, water and sewer administrator, reported 1.90 inches of rainfall to 8 a.m. today — 0.35 inches from Friday morning to Saturday morning, 0.65 inches from Saturday morning to Sunday morning, and 0.90 inches from Sunday morning to this morning. He said Manchester has had 2.96 inches of rain since July 1.

The only incident to report, said Jodaitis, was a raised manhole cover on Hartford Rd. He said it wasn't storm-related and attributed it to traffic.

Highway Superintendent John Burchill reported two "unsubstantiated" calls of flooding conditions Sunday — one on Pitkin St., the other on Henry St. He said, "There were no indications of flooding when the calls were answered by our stand-by men."

Burchill said 16 highway department personnel were out today checking for debris in brooks and culverts.

Congress May Have To Halt Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — W. J. Usery Jr., a White House labor trouble shooter, said today if the railroads and a major rail union are unable to reach a contract agreement by Wednesday the administration may ask Congress for emergency legislation to head off a nationwide strike.

Usery met with reporters before entering talks between the representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks and the National Railway Labor Conference.

The union is entitled to strike under the National Railway Labor Act, but has agreed to a 30-day extension that expires midnight July 21. Usery said he saw no likelihood of a further extension by the union.

Kelley Admits Agents Committed Break-Ins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today confirmed for the first time that FBI agents involved in national security investigations had taken part in break-ins, including a "few" at foreign embassies.

Kelley confirmed a report of retiring former assistant FBI Director William A. Sullivan, who recently told reporters the FBI had conducted break-ins.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries for national security," Kelley said in a news conference when asked about Sullivan's statements.

Kelley said the practice was halted by the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in 1966 "except for a small amount regarding foreign counter-intelligence which we felt had a grave impact on the security of this nation."

Kelley said the practice of break-ins has since been completely stopped.

Although he might have disapproved of some specific break-ins if he had been director at the time, Kelley said, he defended them as being "legal" and in the interest of the nation.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Indira's Gain Is India's Loss

Because the "world's largest democracy" has consistently behaved as if it also deserved the title of the world's most righteous nation, others may feel a certain grim satisfaction in the fact that when it came to the ultimate test that separates a true democracy from a sham—the choice between the rule of law and the rule of men (or in this case, of a woman)—India has shown itself capable of descending into a state of political repression that ranks with any extant today.

But that aside, the dictatorial powers assumed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in the name of defending India but actually to perpetuate herself in office can only be viewed with sorrow and dismay.

If India joins the lengthening list of emergent nations that have taken the road to totalitarianism, what hope is there for freedom anywhere in the so-called Third World for which India was in many ways the model?

The answer depends upon how deeply rooted democracy really is on the subcontinent and how grievously Mrs. Gandhi may have injured it. The answer presumably will become known at the end of summer when the reconvening Indian Supreme Court decides whether or not to uphold a regional court decision that found Mrs. Gandhi guilty of illegal election practices and ordered her stripped of her seat in Parliament and, in consequence, of the prime ministership. In the meantime, she continues to rule by virtue of a stay of the court's order, by a proclamation of a national emergency and by a display of brute force which has seen the jailing of reportedly thousands of her political opponents. Should the high court rule against Mrs. Gandhi, and should she abide by its decision, the crisis would be resolved, but with lasting harm to India it would be difficult to predict.

The worst scenario has Mrs. Gandhi defying an adverse ruling, plunging her country deeper into dictatorship and not inconceivably fomenting a civil war.

Many unhappy things could happen before then, however, in the intervening two months.

Since gaining its independence from Britain after World War II, India has been virtually a one-party democracy. Opposition to the overwhelmingly predominant Congress Party has always been weak and fragmented. But the failure of the party to make significant headway against India's abiding problems of population and poverty and economic stagnation and growing popular discontent with widespread corruption in recent years, capped now by the outright suppression of political freedom and Mrs. Gandhi's foolish creation of political martyrs, could result in a dangerous national mood that will not wait upon the word of a handful of judges.

Whether she remains prime minister, legally or illegally, or whether she relinquishes her rule, voluntarily or involuntarily, if nothing else Indira Gandhi has by her actions in a few crucial days forfeited the mantle she once wore both as the respected leader of the world's largest democracy and as a spokesman for law and morality in the community of nations.

Thanks Jaycees

Dear members of the Manchester Jaycees:

On behalf of the staff and Board of Directors of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Inc., I would like to thank the Manchester Jaycees and their wives for all their time and effort in making our recent Mass Immunization Clinic such a success.

A total of 240 immunizations were given to Manchester residents, thanks to the fine advertising effort shown.

Once again you have every reason to be proud of the outstanding job you did in helping plan and secure skilled and efficient volunteers.

Many thanks again,
Karen P. Reid,
supervisor
Manchester Public
Health Nursing Assn.

Violence in Most Schools 'A Way of Life'

WASHINGTON — "Too often, youngsters arriving at our public schools are not finding the quiet atmosphere of instruction, enrichment and encouragement, but instead an environment dominated by fear, chaos, destruction and violence."
The speaker was Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., introducing the "Juvenile Delinquency in the Schools Act of 1975."
Bayh was not overrating the situation. National polls by the Gallup and Cuddeh public opinion organizations show that the physical safety of their children is the greatest worry parents have about education. In most schools, according to educators, violence has become what Bayh called "part of the way of life."
Now turn to the preliminary report of the Senate Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on juvenile delinquency: "Our preliminary study of the situation has produced compelling evidence that this level of violence and vandalism is reaching crisis proportions which seriously threaten the ability of our educational system to carry out its primary function. Although the level of violence directed against teachers . . . is indeed alarming, the principal victims of the rising tide of crime in our schools are not the teachers, but the students."
All of which gives vital urgency to a campaign under way by the National Commission for Citizens in Education, a new nonprofit organization dedicated to increasing citizen involvement in the affairs of the nation's public schools. Put briefly,
The NCEE wants parents and other members of the community to get together and organize security programs for their schools. In effect, the conclusion is that security no longer can be left to the teachers and school administrators.
"This is sad, but true. Teachers and administrators are not only outgunned but—naturally—intimidated. It is no good to point out that violence and vandalism is the work of only 10 per cent of our school's population. A minority using the tactics of terrorism can pretty much do as it pleases.
Anyway, the NCEE has published a handbook for parents and other interested citizens: "Violence in Our Schools—What to Know About It, What to Do About It." The handbook is a splendid job. It does not attempt to go into causes and long-term solutions to school violence. Instead, it concentrates on what can be done about it now by community effort, including adult participation in maintaining security in the schools on a volunteer basis.
As the handbook notes, "What we do know for certain is that school violence uses up tax dollars. The most recent estimates indicate an annual loss of nearly $600-million connected with vandalism and crime in schools. This represents $13 per child enrolled in public school which is not available for educational efforts."
This, it might be added, also should be of dismay to single adults and children couples who tend to see the problem as a burden borne only by parents. People who have no children pay their tax share of maintaining public schools.
Unfortunately, the Supreme Court last January and February handed down two crazy decisions that worsen the problem. It ruled (1) that students have a right to a public education which cannot be taken away from them through suspensions, even temporarily, without due process; and (2) that school board members can be held liable for damages if they knew or reasonably should have known that the action they took violated the constitutional rights of the student affected.
Bah. Those decisions illustrated the tendency of courts everywhere in the land to make the 14th amendment a catchall for every nifty piece of so-called "civil rights" litigation. All the Amendment does, after all, is state that the government may not "deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law." A suspended student is deprived of none of these rights; he is simply suffering punishment for breaking the rules of an institution that cannot survive without rules.
Well, so much for that. Obviously, the problem cannot be solved by the application of common sense. The Supreme Court says it can't. So the community must do what it can, handicapped. The first step, it seems to me, is to get your hands on the NCEE's handbook. This can be done by sending $1 to NCEE, Lake Village Green, Columbia, Md., 21044. In this age of licensing by judicial fiat, one must do what one can.

Foreign News Commentary Window on Europe

By United Press International
Stronger Dollar
BRUSSELS (UPI) — After months in the doldrums, the U.S. dollar is making a comeback on European money markets. The main reason — the U.S. recession shows every sign of ending, while Europe's probably will last another six months or so. European currencies, previously high, are coming down to U.S. levels as European governments try to revive their economies, and this has slowed the flow of speculative money to Europe.
The probable increase in oil prices in October will hurt Europe worse than America. The outlook — a stronger dollar at least until the end of the year.
The Dollar and Oil
VIENNA (UPI) — The dollar has only a slim chance of retaining its traditional link with oil, and the emphasis is on the word "slim."
A ministers meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Gabon last month decided to stop quoting oil prices in dollars because the slump in its value has cut their revenues. The ministers agreed that, beginning Oct. 1, they will substitute for the dollar the more stable special drawing right called SDRs, an artificial currency made up of 16 major currencies, including the dollar.
Sources here at the headquarters of the oil cartel say if the dollar continues to increase in value the ministers might change their stand. But they don't expect them to.
Juan Carlos Speaks Up
MADRID (UPI) — Prince Juan Carlos, the 37-year-old designated successor to

France and Germany
PARIS (UPI) — A West German demand that French tactical nuclear missiles be moved from France into a forward firing position in Germany threatens to start a dispute between the two governments.
Fearing that President Valery Giscard d'Estaing might ultimately give in to German pressure, both French Communists and hardline Gaullists are demanding formal public assurances that the Pluton missiles will remain on French soil.
They say moving them to Germany would be tantamount to placing the missiles under ultimate NATO command. Bonn wants the Plutons to be transferred as far east as possible because their short range — 50 miles — would make the Hiroshima-strength 20-kiloton warheads come down on West German territory in event of an atomic confrontation.
Diplomatic sources say France, while anxious not to hurt her close cooperation with West Germany, fears that the Soviet Union would react angrily to any indication Giscard was warming up further. France's cooperation with the American-led NATO from which the late President Charles de Gaulle removed French forces in 1967.

Dateline 1775
LONDON, July 14 — King George received London Lord Mayor John Wilkes, several aldermen and members of the common council who were urging reconciliation with the colonies and an end to military hostility. The monarch reminded them the colonies were resisting his authority and he owed it "to the rest of the law-abiding people to oppose the petition."

Bolton residents lined the Green at Bolton Center to view Saturday's antique automobile and fire apparatus parade, sponsored by the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department. This 1936 Ford received "oohs" and "aahs" as it passed the crown, as did all the entries. The car is owned by Ray Hagedorn of 230 W. Middle Tpke., Manchester. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Few See Parade, But Beerfest A Sellout

The inclement weather, deterring an unknown number of people from attending the parade, didn't deter many from the Beerfest.
Although the day was cloudy there was only one minor incident to cloud the parade.
An antique Ford overheated and had to be pushed into the park grounds by an antique Tolland General Store pickup.
The vehicles were on display at Herrick Memorial Park after the parade. The parade was led by a military color guard from Manchester VFW.
There were about sixteen antique autos and three antique fire apparatus. The oldest car in the parade was a 1910 Chalmers Detroit, 30 horsepower.
There was also a 1917 Locomobile Gumbo Roadster owned by A. L. Riker of Manchester.
The majority of cars in the parade were Fords but there was a 1937 Rolls Royce that many raved about as it passed by.
One of the antique fire trucks came complete with a dalmatian. The fire truck that many enjoyed was a 1916 Seagrave Newington ladder truck with a steering apparatus at the back as well as the front.

Town Receives Bicentennial Funds

EAST HARTFORD
Sheila Tuller
East Hartford was honored by the Connecticut American Revolution Bicentennial Commission at a ceremony in Mayor Richard Blackstone's office this morning.
At the ceremony, Mrs. Terry Blackstone, chairman of the town's Bicentennial Commission, officially accepted the award for East Hartford.
The award, a check for $3,500, in matching funds from the state commission, was presented by George Cyr, executive director of the state Bicentennial Commission.
This money will be used to finance East Hartford's numerous Bicentennial activities planned for the coming fiscal year.
The $3,500 amount is the maximum amount which can be granted to any individual town.
Earlier in the year East Hartford was named a Bicentennial Community, an award given to towns that have formalized meaningful plans for the local celebration. East Hartford has the distinction of being the first officially designated town to receive this honor.
Mayor Blackstone said that East Hartford was proud and honored to accept the funding from the state commission.
He also commended the members of East Hartford's Bicentennial Commission for their work in planning and directing the town's Bicentennial activities.

Town Commended For HUD Program

EAST HARTFORD
Sheila Tuller
A second honor was awarded the town this morning when Mayor Richard Blackstone received an official letter of commendation from President Gerald R. Ford.
Mary Ellen Morgan, program manager of community development programs; and Harry Reese, community planning and development representative from the Hartford area office of HUD, presented the commendation to the mayor.
This letter from the President marks the receipt of $40,000 entitlement funds by the town. The town was awarded the money due to the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.
East Hartford has received full approval for expenditure of part of the funds designated for consulting studies and is preparing to apply for releases on the funds for projects requiring environmental review.

Mrs. Raymond E. Bonneau

Phyllis Anne Jolie of Columbia and Raymond F. Bonneau of Andover were married June 28 at St. Columba Church in Columbia.

Theresa Ann Cutroni of Andover and Pfc. Michael James McCormick of the U. S. Marine Corps, Portsmouth, Va. were married July 5 at St. Maurice Church in Bolton.

Mrs. Michael J. McCormick

The Rev. Robert Cronin officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Patricia Totell of Andover was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Cutroni of White Plains, N.Y., the bride's cousin; and Mrs. Roberta Corrigan of East Hartford.

A reception was held at the Kofc Hall in Glastonbury. Mrs. McCormick is a senior at Rham High School.

Mrs. June Wegiel of Indian Orchard, Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Jolie of 28 Yeomans Rd., Columbia. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Normand Bonneau of 2 Center Rd., Andover.

The Rev. Edward Davis of St. Columba Church celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. Mary Lyn Buona and Kristen Buona played the guitar and sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a nylon organza gown designed with high neckline, Bishop sleeves, bib bodice accented with Alencon lace and a chapel-length train. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion edged with lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses.

They wore gowns in rainbow colors trimmed with white embroidery at waistline and ruffled at hemlines. They wore floral headpieces and carried rainbow colored bouquets of multi-colored flowers matching their gowns.

Russell St. Pierre of Hartford was best man. Ushers were Thomas Bonneau of Andover, the bridegroom's brother; Francis Jolie of Columbia, brother of the bride; Jay Wederstrom of Andover; John Monahan of Monroe, La., the bride's brother-in-law; and Richard Wegiel of Indian Orchard, Mass.

A reception was held at the Ukrainian Hall in Willimantic, after which the couple left on a trip to Cape Cod, Mass. and along the coast to Bar Harbor, Maine. They will reside in Manchester.

Mrs. Bonneau is employed at Friendly Ice Cream in Willimantic. Mr. Bonneau is employed as a machinist at Dean Machine in Manchester.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, another girl and I are interested in finding husbands, and we don't want to waste a lot of time and money looking. I am 30 and she is 31.

Can you tell us where to look for eligible men—preferably with money? Or do you believe in that old saying, "Everything comes to him who waits"?

DEAR LOOKING: Get out of Minnesota. There are only 81 eligible men for every 100 single women in your age bracket there.

DEAR ABBY: We are a middle-age couple. We are neighbors to a young couple I'll call Tom and Ann who go out of town frequently. They gave my husband a key to their house so that he can feed their dog, water their plants and keep an eye on their house in their absence.

DEAR OVER: No apologies necessary. I think you're right.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a small dinner party at the home of a friend. For dessert she served a lemon custard cake topped with whipped cream and coconut icing.

DEAR DUMFOUNDED: I think it's a good deal for you to refuse to give it to the members of her church.

Other survivors are a son, John Emerson, and three grandchildren. A private funeral service will be Tuesday at the Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St., with the Rev. David Rimas, co-pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, officiating. Burial will be in East Cemetery. There are no calling hours. Friends wishing to do so may make memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, 237 E. Center St.

Michael J. Scanlon Sr. — Michael Joseph Scanlon Sr., 69, of 120 Lenox St. was dead on arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital Saturday. He was the husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Gillian Scanlon. He was born in County Kerry, Ireland, and lived in Hartford 20 years before moving to Manchester 21 years ago. He retired in 1971 as a foreman for the Metropolitan District Commission in Hartford where he had been employed for 45 years. He was also a charter member of the American Federation of Laborers, and was active in the U.A. Theatre East in the Parkville and Gannex Tech. Other survivors are three sons, Michael J. Scanlon Jr., Albert J. Scanlon and Patrick J. Scanlon, all of Manchester; two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Olivera and Mrs. Mary J. Scanlon, both of Manchester; two brothers, Thomas Scanlon of Hartford and Maurice Scanlon of Ireland; a sister, Mrs. Mary Clancy of Brooklyn, N.Y., and a grandson. The funeral is Tuesday at 8:15 a.m. from the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with a Mass at 9 a.m. St. James Church. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Loth Funeral Rites Pending — MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Arrangements were being made for the funeral of Ralf P. Loth, 46, who worked with Wernher Von Braun to develop rockets for the Germans during World War II and later for the United States at Cheney Tech. Loth was pronounced dead Saturday at Middletown Memorial Hospital. He was struck by a car while in a boat in a Chester marina, hospital spokesman said. Migrants moved to South America in the 1950s, and came to the U.S. where he teamed with Von Braun to work on the U.S. missile program at Cape Canaveral. He was born in Berlin, Germany, and received a mechanical engineering degree from the University of Cologne in Germany. The survey says that while the high rate of pay offered by employment in the trades is an encouragement for minorities

Comic Strip Creator Dies — WESTPORT (UPI) — A private funeral will be conducted for Crockett Johnson, 68, creator of the comic strip "Bugsby." Johnson, who also wrote and illustrated children's books, died Friday at Norwalk Hospital. He started the comic strip in the now-defunct "PM" newspaper in New York in 1943 and discontinued it in 1952 to devote his time to serious painting. He was a native of New York.

Registrars Schedule Enrollment Session — Manchester's registrars of voters have scheduled an enrollment session for Friday, from 1 to 4 p.m., in their Municipal Building offices. Not to be confused with a voter-making session, an enrollment session only involves persons who already are voters. It is to permit them to switch from one party to another, from a party to unaffiliated, or from unaffiliated to a party. To those who switch from unaffiliated to a party or from a party to unaffiliated, the changeover is immediate as of Friday's enrollment session. However, for those who switch from one party to another, there is a six-month waiting period for the official changeover.

CCAG Rates Legislators Vote Record — The Connecticut Citizens Action Group (CCAG) has rated the state's legislators for their votes on CCAG-backed bills — those relating to consumers, environment, elections and transportation. Based on a "Voting Index" of 0 to 100, state senators were rated on 11 issues and state representatives on 9. The higher the score, the more favorable the legislators were to the CCAG positions. Scores for legislators representing Manchester were: State Sen. David Barry, D-14th District, 50; George Hannon, D-3rd District, 36; State Rep. Ted Cummings, 12th Assembly District, 75; State Rep. Francis Mahoney, D-13th Assembly District, 62; State Rep. Muriel Yacavone, D-9th Assembly District, 88; and State Rep. Abraham Glassman, D-14th Assembly District, 71.

Woman Recommended As Buckley Principal — A woman has been approved for the position of principal of Buckley School. Mrs. Marcia Kenefrick of Coventry has been interviewed by the Manchester Board of Education and recommended to the administration for the position. Mrs. Kenefrick has been principal of Vincent Ramzi School in Coventry for two years.

A Learning Experience

Watching a cast being removed is not an everyday occurrence. Children at Singer Learning Center had the first hand experience of watching one of their playmates, Helaine Spector, while a cast was being removed from her leg by her mother, Mrs. Barbara Spector. Helaine sat with her leg in a pail of water for about half an hour while everyone waited for the plaster cast to soak and soften. Helaine has worn a cast as part of a special treatment prior to further treatment on her leg. (Herald photo by Caldwell)

Police Report

Patrolman John Hanley was on patrol in the Parkville area when he saw the two men sitting in an older car to the rear of the theatre. In a routine check of the men and the car, Hanley discovered the registration plates had been altered. Further checking determined there was a complete car stereo system in the car's back seat. As the two men went to place the system in their trunk, a Manchester man approached Hanley to say his car had been broken into. His entire stereo tape system had been stolen. The two men were arrested. They were held in lieu of $500 surety bond each for appearance today in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford. Janik was driving a truck-type ambulance of the Ambulance Service of Manchester west on the Turnpike with its lights flashing. It carried the body of Michael Scanlon, 69, of 120 Lenox St. and an attendant, Scott Vind, 19, of 90 Clinton St., police said. Police said they had called the ambulance to the Scanlon home. After checking Mrs. Carrier's condition, Janik drove on to Manchester Memorial Hospital. There, Dr. Robert Secney, medical examiner, declared Scanlon dead and said he had been dead for several hours. A second ambulance took Mrs. Carrier to MMH where she was admitted and treated for a facial laceration and rib injury. She was expected to be released today, a hospital spokesman said. Police noted there is an obstruction at the southeast corner of the intersection of Parkville and a traffic control sign. Mrs. Carrier could not see the ambulance until she passed the sign, police said. Her car was towed from the scene. Court for Janik is July 29.

Butterfield Denies Prouty Allegations He Was CIA Contact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alexander Butterfield, who was accused of being a CIA "contact officer" while a top-level White House aide, said today he considers the allegation "tantamount to a charge of perjury." Butterfield said he had never been a "contact officer" and in fact never had any connection with the Central Intelligence Agency at all. "It was his contact man, I was a hell of a poor one, because I had no contact whatsoever with the CIA," Butterfield said in a weekend television interview. Retired Air Force Col. L. Fletcher Prouty, a former Pentagon intelligence officer, said last week that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt told him in 1971 that Butterfield was a White House contact for the Central Intelligence Agency. In a statement read in a telephone conversation today, Butterfield said "Prouty's insinuation is a libelous and defamatory," Butterfield said. Prouty's allegations drew immediate denials from the White House and the CIA. Congressional investigators probing the CIA's activities said they do not have any information that would link the matter. In a televised interview Sunday night (CBS, "60 Minutes"), Butterfield also denied any contact with the CIA.

Physical Exams Set for Athletes

The Manchester Board of Education has scheduled physical exams for athletes in all sports for both junior and senior high school grades. Clinics are scheduled for both days at the following schools from 12:30 to 4 p.m.: Benet Junior High School, Tuesday and Wednesday; Illinois Junior High School, July 22 and 23; Manchester High School, Aug. 5 and 6; Benet, Aug. 12 and 13; Tilley, Aug. 19 and 20.

Col. Morgan Vacationing After Kidnapping Ordeal

Morgan told newsmen in Beirut Sunday, "I wish to express my sincere gratitude to all the people in the world for their prayers." Morgan, who was freed Saturday night after 13 days in captivity, underwent a medical checkup at the American University Hospital in Beirut before flying to Turkey to rejoin his family. The 45-year-old, Petersburg, Va., officer said the Palestinian kidnappers decided to free him because of worldwide appeals, especially from American blacks. "Many groups made appeals and this had a profound effect on the people who were controlling me," he said. "Public opinion did a lot to help. I think." Morgan said he was well-treated by his captors and served "surprisingly good" food. He said he was held in five different hideouts during his captivity.

Two Rob Dairy Mart

Two black males in their mid to late 20s robbed the Dairy Mart store at 301 Center St. of $281.54 in cash and two packs of cigarettes Saturday at 9 p.m., police said. From witnesses, police reconstructed the robbery as follows: The two men drove up to the store on the Lilac St. side of it. In the store, the one described as weighing about 150 pounds, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and having short hair asked the young female clerk behind the cash register for a paper bag. She gave it to him. The other man asked her to fill it with the money in the register. He kept his hand in his pocket as though he had a gun. The other man, described as about 240 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches tall, with short hair thinning on top and a beard and mustache, stood by the door. When a second clerk finished packing the money in the smaller man said, "Don't move baby or I will shoot you." A third girl, one of the clerk's sisters, sat by a portable radio and did not hear much of the talk. Before the men left, they asked for two packs of cigarettes. They then said anyone who left the store would be shot. They drove west on Center St. in a dark green car.

Ambulance Driver Arrested in Crash

An ambulance carrying a dead heart attack victim collided with a car at E. Middle Tpke. and Summit St. Saturday at 12:28 p.m., police said.

Francis J. Janik, 18, of Longmeadow, Mass., driver of the ambulance, was charged with misuse of emergency vehicle rights (failure to sound siren when going through red light). Janik was driving a truck-type ambulance of the Ambulance Service of Manchester west on the Turnpike with its lights flashing. It carried the body of Michael Scanlon, 69, of 120 Lenox St. and an attendant, Scott Vind, 19, of 90 Clinton St., police said. Police said they had called the ambulance to the Scanlon home. Blomberg Disabled

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Ron Blomberg was placed on the 15-day disabled list by the New York Yankees Sunday with a strained right shoulder muscle. Blomberg suffered a recurrence of an old injury while at bat in the third inning of Saturday night's game. In a statement read in a telephone conversation today, Butterfield said "Prouty's insinuation is a libelous and defamatory," Butterfield said. Prouty's allegations drew immediate denials from the White House and the CIA. Congressional investigators probing the CIA's activities said they do not have any information that would link the matter. Top Rookies Fred Lynn, Jim Rice and Veteran Carl Yastrzemski Pacing RSox Surge to Top

NEW YORK (UPI) — Something old and something new, part of the legendary formula for successful marriage, has been the secret to the success of the Boston Red Sox so far this season. The Red Sox have had two of the best rookies in the American League in Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, but an "old-timer" by the name of Carl Yastrzemski has been more than pulling his weight in Boston's surge to the top of the AL East. Yastrzemski, a 15-year veteran with three AL batting titles and more than 1,100 runs batted in to his credit, started off slowly this year but has been on a tear the last couple of months and has been a major contributor to the Red Sox' recent winning streak. Boston made it seven victories in a row Sunday by defeating the Texas Rangers, 7-5, and both Lynn and Yastrzemski played key roles in the outcome. The triumph boosted the Red Sox' lead to 4 1/2 games over the place New York Yankees and Milwaukee Brewers in the AL East. Lynn, the major candidate for Rookie of the Year honors in the AL, drove in four runs with a pair of doubles and Yastrzemski enjoyed a perfect 5-for-5 day at the plate as the Red Sox pounded out 15 hits. Rico Petrocelli, a veteran of 11 big league campaigns, also chipped in with three hits for Boston. Lynn's four runs batted in raised his league-leading figure to 71 while Yastrzemski, who has batted .389 over the last 20 games, boosted his batting average to .313. The Red Sox currently lead the league with a .274 team batting average. "This is going to last a long time," Yastrzemski said of his hitting spree. "For one thing, I'm hitting in front of Freddy Lynn and Jimmy Rice. Pitchers aren't pitching around me anymore and I'm getting better pitches to hit. "Before, pitchers felt they could give me lousy pitches and take a chance of walking me, but with Lynn and Rice driving in runs like crazy, no pitcher is going to purposely put a runner on base with either of them coming up. The pitchers are around the plate and I'm seeing them better." In other AL games, Oakland nipped Baltimore, 4-3; Cleveland edged California, 8-7; Chicago blanked Milwaukee, 5-0, and Detroit topped Kansas City, 8-4. Minnesota at New York was rained out. A's 4, Orioles 3. Ken Holtzman, with relief help from Rollie Fingers, won his 11th game as the A's defeated the Orioles. The A's scored three runs in the second inning to take a 4-1 lead, then Fingers relieved after a two-run homer by Baltimore's Brooks Robinson in the seventh and allowed only one-hit in 2 1-3 innings to record his 12th save. Indians 8, Angels 7. Pinch-hitter Boog Powell's two-run single and Buddy Bell's two-run double highlighted a five-run seventh inning that carried the Indians to victory over the Angels. The triumph was the Indians' 13th in a row at Anaheim Stadium, tying the AL record for most consecutive victories in an opponent's park. Mike Mosley had a three-run homer for the Angels, his first in the majors. White Sox 5, Brewers 0. Wilbur Wood tossed a seventh-inning lead to lead the White Sox to victory over the Brewers. Wood walked two and struck out five in recording his three-triumph against 13 batters. Niles Nimmo singled home two runs and also scored twice in support of Wood. Tigers 8, Royals 4. Gary Sutherland's two-run single capped a four-run fourth inning which paced the Tigers to victory over the Royals. Joe Coleman worked six innings and won his third game in a row to raise his record to 6-2. The victory was the Tigers' 11th in their last 12 games.

Calls to Sit Yaz Ended by Big Bat

BOSTON (UPI) — Nobody's lobbying to sit Carl Yastrzemski down these days, unless the Texas Ranger pitching staff starts a campaign on its own. Yastrzemski, who has had a love-hate relationship with Boston Red Sox fans since his MVP 1967 season, started slowly this season with an average in the low .200s during the first month-and-a-half. Boston-area sports talk. He's still among the American League leaders in walks, but life's a lot easier and he's a lot more confident. Key for AL Pitching Staff

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The All-Star game Tuesday shapes up as a contest between the National League's sluggers and the American League pitchers, and AL Manager Al Dark was counting on hard throwing southpaw Vida Blue to get the job done. Dark last week named Blue, 12-12 this year, to open for the Americans on the mound. National League Manager Walter Alton was expected to counter today by naming Pittsburgh Pirates ace Jerry Reuss, 10-6, to start. The American League, and Blue, were trying to end the recent dominance of the National League, which has won 11 of the last 12 mid-season classics and is favored to win again. Overall, the NL has a 28-18 edge in the series, winning last year, 7-2. The long-range weather forecast was for warmer temperatures than the 80s and 70s of recent days in the Milwaukee area and there was a slight possibility of showers or thundershowers for Tuesday as the warmer weather moves in. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who was due here for a speech tonight, was scheduled to throw out the first pitch as he takes a break in his hurried negotiations in the Midwest. The game is the first All-Star contest since 1955 in Milwaukee County Stadium, and this time allegiances have been switched. Twenty years ago, with the Braves, the city was a National League stronghold, and the National League won 9-5 in 12 innings. Today, with the Brewers, the city is in the American League and most of the more than 50,000 persons expected will be rooting for the underdogs. Only two Brewers are on the AL team, neither of them starters. The National League is dominated by the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds, the American League by the New York Yankees and defending world champion Oakland A's.

Batting Fourth Now Lynn's Cup of Tea

BOSTON (UPI) — When the Boston Red Sox asked Fred Lynn to bat in the cleanup spot during his first full major league season, Lynn wasn't the happiest person in the world. "I always hated batting cleanup," Lynn said. He was always jinxed by hitting fourth until he made the majors and now he's making up for lost time. The four runs he knocked in Sunday, pacing the Red Sox to a 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers, raised his league-leading total to 71. The win was Boston's seventh straight, its best winning streak since 1973 when the Red Sox had an eight-game string. "I always hated batting cleanup," Lynn said. Bowie Kuhn to Remain Baseball Commissioner

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn can relax. He was a little worried there for a minute or so, and maybe he had good reason to be, but come this Wednesday, after the All-Star Game is finished, there will be the earth-rattling announcement he has been re-elected baseball commissioner. Charlie Finley will not be among those cheering the news. Maybe Bowie Kuhn won't be either when it's all over. He'll win the war, but not before losing one mighty important battle. A battle over money. The commissioner, you see, has noticed prices going up lately. Like so many others, he feels he should be paid more. Now that's where he figures to have some trouble. Put another way, the owners aren't about to give him any raise. Some of them feel he's overpaid now. Kuhn's present contract as commissioner, calling for $150,000 a year plus a liberal expense account, expires next February, and if it was up to Charlie Finley, that contract would not be renewed. The Oakland owner isn't alone in that feeling. Kuhn knows he doesn't exactly have the unqualified endorsement of the Orioles, Yankees, Padres and Mets either, but luckily for him, it takes four votes in either league to unseat him and in the end, the A's and Orioles may be the only clubs which won't swing over and vote for him in any case. Baseball owners change their minds a lot. Charlie Finley is one of the few who doesn't. He certainly is the most imaginative owner, quite possibly the smartest one. In his own unique way, he has done as much, if not more, for baseball than any other owner. If Pele in said to help soccer by the publicity he gets, and that is absolutely true, then what would you say about Charlie Finley's contribution to baseball? Anyway, Kuhn comes up for re-election with two big factors in his favor, one of them being that lucrative $36 million contract of the 24 major league clubs signed with Pele in the men's singles final Saturday night as the East defeated the West 2-21 in the first World Team Tennis All-Star match. "Everytime we go into a meeting and talk about the possibility of a new commissioner, somebody says 'well, gentlemen, do we have any candidates?' and there's never any answer," reveals another American League owner. What all this comes down to is that Bowie Kuhn will stay on as commissioner the same way many of our other electees remain in office once they get in it, by default. Maybe you noticed the other day when Gerald Ford announced he was going to be a candidate for re-election, Bowie Kuhn did the same thing, only he did it some time ago, and not so loudly. He was a little more subtle about it. Nonetheless, he campaigned for the job, and Wednesday he'll be officially told he's going to stay on. That's when Bowie Kuhn is going to throw his shoulders back and tell the owners he thinks he should have more money. In turn, they're going to tell him, there is no more, he's going to have to make do, sacrifice a bit and work for the same $150,000 a year he has been the past seven years. If the commissioner persists, the owners will put it to him quite plainly. Take it or leave it. Bowie Kuhn will then make his decision. For the good of baseball, of course.

Reds, Pirates Running Away in NL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National League reached the All-Star break of its season with the most lopsided situation since the 1950s when the Brooklyn Dodgers' "Boys of Summer" staged their famous blitzes.

The Cincinnati Reds, extending their winning streak to 10 games, defeated the New York Mets, 5-3, Sunday and opened up a 1 1/2-game lead over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Western Division.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, meanwhile, bowed to the San Diego Padres, 7-5, but retained their 6 1/2 game lead in the Eastern Division when the Houston Astros beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-5.

Teams have rallied from farther back, of course, but all signs at this halfway point of the season point to a pair of runaway division races.

The Reds, sporting Tom Seaver a 3-0 lead, rallied with four runs in the seventh and one in the eighth. Pete Rose's two-run single clinaxed the four-run seventh inning which tagged Seaver, who had won eight in a row, with his fifth loss against 13 wins.

Gene Lockwood drove in two runs with a homer and Hector Torres knocked in two with a double in the Padres' victory over the Pirates. Brent Strom pitched 7 1/3 innings, allowing 11 hits and four runs to receive credit for his fifth victory. Dock Ellis was the Pirates' loser.

Cliff Johnson drove in three runs and Dave Roberts pitched 2 1/3 innings of shutout relief for the Astros, who dealt the Phillies the last loss of a disastrous road trip. Willie Howard also had three hits in the Astros' 15-hit attack, saddling Tom Underwood with his seventh loss. Mike Schmidt hit his 16th homer for the Phillies.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Dodgers, 2-1; the San Francisco Giants beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-1, and the Atlanta Braves outlasted the Montreal Expos, 5-4, in 14 innings in the other National League games.

Cardinals 2, Dodgers 1
Reggie Smith drove in the winning run with a single off

Mike Marshall in the last of the ninth inning to give the Cardinals their victory. Smith's single came after Bake McBride tripled and helped reliever Al Hrabosky gain his fifth win. Marshall was tagged with his sixth defeat against four wins despite Dave Lopes' sixth homer.

Giants 4, Cubs 1
John Montefusco and Charlie Williams combined on a six-hitter for the Giants, who backed them with a 12-hit attack, including three by Bruce Miller. The win raised Montefusco's record to 7-4 while Geoff Zuh was dealt his seventh loss against two wins for the Cubs.

Braves 5, Expos 4
Darrell Evans scored the winning run with two out in the 14th inning when second baseman Pete Mackanin was attempting to handle a relay from the outfield on Mike Luny's single to give the Braves their victory. Ray Sadecki pitched the last inning and picked up the victory.

Smiling Tom Watson Victor Of British Open in Playoff

CARNOSTIE, Scotland (UPI)—The beaming tournament official gestured to 15,000 spectators gathered around Carnoustie's 18th green and then handed one of golf's most coveted winners' cups to "that very good American player Tom Kite."

Tom Watson smiled back and took his trophy.

It was he, not Kite — another young American professional — who won the 104th British Open championship Sunday in a rain-drenched 18-hole playoff with Australian Jack Newton.

His one-stroke victory in the game's oldest championship was the first major title for the young player who had led the last two U.S. Opens and this year's Masters in the early rounds, only to collapse at the finish.

As unruffled by the official's bluster as he had been at Carnoustie's 7,065-yard par 72 seaside links, Watson proceeded to announce he was giving the silver cup and accompanying gold medal to his wife as a belated second wedding anniversary gift.

"I forgot to get her anything on the actual day Tuesday," he said, "but she said this would do quite well."

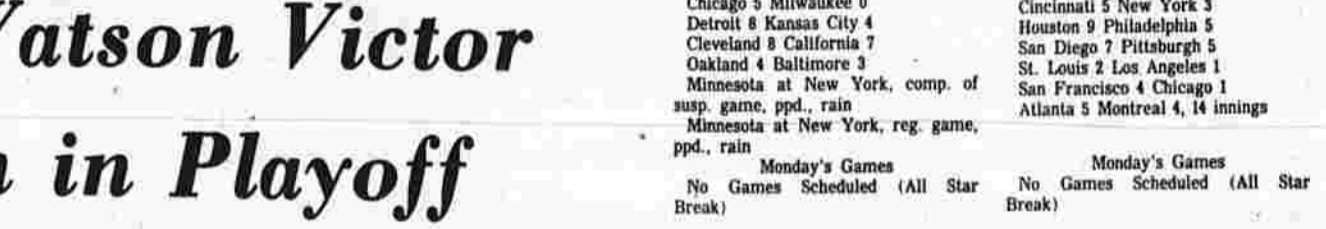

Watson fired a methodical one-under-par 71 for the victory and the $16,500 first prize.

Using a revamped swing, Watson explained, "It cuts across my distance but it's better than anything I've ever had."

He also said, "I finally felt good on the greens but I can't explain why."

Watson won the championship on the monster, 448-yard 18th hole.

White Watson coolly putted from 40 feet to two inches for a tap-in par. Newton bared his approach and then took three to get down for a bogey and a 72.

Roger Maltbie Cops First Golf Crown

MOLINE, Ill. (UPI)—Rookie Roger Maltbie says he can shoot as well as anyone when he gets hot. Sunday, in the final round of the Quad Cities Open, he was hot.

Maltbie, who has been on the regular tour less than a year, blistered the 6,400-yard Oakwood Country Club course with a seven-under-par, record-tying 64 to edge leader Dave Eichelberger by one stroke in the $75,000 tournament. Eichelberger finished the day with a one-over-par 72.

"Any time I can get it going, I can shoot as well as anyone," Maltbie said after his sensational round.

The 24-year-old from Medesto, Calif., who began the day seven strokes behind Eichelberger, started his charge on the first hole of the day, carding an eagle. Then, with the aid of Eichelberger's collapse, he tied Eichelberger, Howard Tiddy and Terry Dill for the lead at the turn by sinking three birdies to go six under for the tournament.

He added two more birdies on the back nine for a total of nine-under-par 275 and his first tournament win, worth $15,000.

Asked if he was nervous, he said, "Yes, but not until the 17th green when I saw I had a two-shot lead."

Mark Hayes pulled himself up with a 69 for the day and a 277 total to move into third place, just ahead of Gary McCord, who had a six under 278.

"I don't believe I could have won today without Dave Stockton and Homero Medina," Maltbie said.

"They were always getting me on the back and putting my thinking on the right track. That five-foot putt on the 18th green was the hardest of my life."

Blanca finished tied with two others for fifth place at five-under 279. One of the two was another rookie, Twitty, who held the lead over Thursday's first round. The other fifth-place finisher was Dill.

Mann Holds Edge In Stormy Event

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The 11th stop of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour here could have been called the "Thunderstorm Open."

The $65,000 event, richest on the summer tour, was delayed four times by storms before the final round Sunday finally was halted by darkness with nine players still in the hole.

The final round was to be completed today.

Carol Mann, the leader from the opening day, managed to battle the storms, which kept drenching the 6,200-yard, par-72 Riviera Country Club course, and a bevy of challengers to a one-shot lead.

Mann, who led by three going into Sunday's round, has missed 14 holes. She was one over par for the day and seven under for the tournament.

Jan Ferraris, who had finished 17 holes, was two under for the day and six under for the tournament. She was tied with Miss Mann after a birdie on 15, but then bogeyed the 17th.

Carole Jo Skala finished with a final round 70 and a five-under-par 211. Other top finishers were Penny Pate (70) at 212 and Sandra Palmer (72) and Jocelyne Bourassa (71) at 213.

Among those still on the course, Jane Blalock and Sandra Hurley were four under and Judy Rankin three under through 15, while Laura Bough was four under through 17 and Pam Higgins and Marie Breer three under through 14.

LPGA rules say a round must be restarted from the beginning if more than six groups are still on the course when play is halted.

When play was suspended for the fourth time by rain, there were still 10 groups left on the course and because of the cloudy skies, darkness was closing in.

"Play was resumed at 8:15 and the siren to call it quits for the day was sounded at 8:55 with the players finishing the hole they were playing at the time."

Many of the players, some of whom had spent nearly 12 hours at the course, were not happy with the long day.

"I've never been involved in a thing like this and it's terrible," said Miss Mann, who, like many of the other girls, changed outfits between the many delays. "We try to accommodate everybody. Anytime you play till 9 o'clock, you're tired."

Braves' Garr Blasts Papers in Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI)—Atlanta Braves outfielder Ralph Garr says he knows why basketball stars David Thompson and Marvin Webster and baseball's Dick Allen refused to play Atlanta — the city's "negative" press.

Garr and teammate Dusty Baker said Allen told them the treatment Atlanta players receive from the media was the reason he refused to report to the Braves. And Garr said he was sure that was why Thompson and Webster did not sign with the National Basketball Association Atlanta Hawks.

"All you have to do is read the negative press that's been put in the papers here every day to see how David and Marvin would feel about playing in Atlanta," Garr said.

"Can you imagine the kind of stuff Richie would be getting from the newspapers in

Former Cheerleader Wants To Join Gridiron Squad

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Johnnie Mae Richards, a former high school cheerleader, flag football quarterback and beauty pageant contestant, says she hopes she is allowed on the field when the University of Florida football team begins practice next month.

Head coach Doug Dickey said Saturday he will not allow Miss Richards to try out with the team when drills begin Aug. 20, but the 5-foot-8, 140-pound wide receiver candidate is hoping he'll give her the chance.

"I just want to go out there and try out," the 20-year-old senior said Sunday. "If I don't make it, I don't make it. If he just says 'get off the field,' he'll hurt my feelings."

Miss Richards, who has been in training for almost a week, said she talked with Dickey Tuesday to let her intentions to try out be known.

"He was as friendly as he could be," she said. "He told me personally he wouldn't want women playing football. I told him I realized that, but said I felt I could play, and that I was serious and not looking for publicity."

"The next day they said they were going to check into the legality of it (her trying out)," she said. Dickey said Saturday that after looking into the recent U.S. Health, Education and Welfare rules on sex discrimination in intercollegiate athletics, he had decided not to let Miss Richards try out.

Under the guidelines, Dickey said, a separate women's team could be formed for football if enough students show an interest.

However, Miss Richards said she had received no word on trying out from Dickey. She said she would talk to him later this week.

Miss Richards, a high school cheerleader at Ocala

Forest High School, said she always wanted to play football because "I love the roughness and competition. I played flag football the last couple of years," she said. "It was the No. 1 player on the team — playing quarterback."

She said she planned to try out at the last spring football practice, but entered the Miss University of Florida beauty pageant instead.

Miss Richards said she has been working out in the weight room with the help of some players and has had someone throw passes to her.

"I'm really coming along," she said of her passing ability. She said making like to try place-kicking.

Another person who would like to see Miss Richards abandon the idea of trying out for men's football is Dr. Ruth Alexander, director of women's athletics.

NFL Steelers Begin Work to Defend Title

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI)—"It's not easy to win a championship and it's not easy to defend it," Pittsburgh Steeler coach Chuck Noll said Sunday at the opening of the training season.

Noll greeted 57 players, including 19 veterans and 38 rookies and free agents for the beginning of preparations for the August 1 meeting with the College All-Stars in Chicago.

"We're looking for people who can do the job," Noll said. "If our veterans and rookies perform well, then we can have the National Football League championship again."

"We must all get more efficient each year to remain competitive. We cannot coast, which means going downhill. We must improve and keep getting better. Our basic philosophy in training is to play fundamental football. Obviously, our veterans have earned the right to play and the rookies must aim for the same goal."

Noll originally had planned to have only three veterans report Sunday, quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw, Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam. But he expanded the veteran contingent to 15, including guard Sam Davis, running back Frenchy Fuqua, tight end John Macklin and linebacker Henry Davis, all of whom were injured last year.

Wide receivers Lynn Swann and Jon Stallworth, and 1974 rookie director of player personnel, Steve Wynn, reported voluntarily. The rest of the veterans will report Wednesday.

Wide receiver Jim Thatcher, a 15th round selection from Langston, Okla., was found physically unfit to play and was out from the squad.

The team held a light workout Sunday afternoon and completed in the 40-day dash. Two-day drills begin today.

Ex-Dolphins Starting New Careers in WFL

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Former Miami Dolphins Larry Conka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield led the World Football League Memphis Southern against the Southern California Sun Monday night in an exhibition game.

For the Sun, who is led by former University of Southern California running sensation Anthony Davis, it will be its second start. Southern California beat San Antonio's Vikings, 36-31, June 5.

"I'm hoping one of our young defensive players can knock Larry Conka flat the first time he carries the ball," said Sun coach Tom Fears. "That would fire us up as well as anything A.D. could do."

A crowd between 25,000 and 30,000 is forecast.

Takes Marathon

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Ahmed Youssif of Egypt won the 22nd edition of the Capri-Naples swimming marathon Sunday by a margin of more than 18 minutes over Argentinian Claudio Pili.

Youssef swam the 18 miles in 7 hours, 14 minutes and 42 seconds, followed by Pili in 7:32:33 and another Argentinian, Luis Diaz, in 7:39:56. Diaz had the highest placing among amateurs.

Penalty Kick Tops Bics

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Rochester forward Tommy Ord scored the game's only goal on a penalty kick as the Lancs defeated the Hartford Bicentennials, 1-0, in a North American Soccer League Sunday game.

Three Tony Nobila fouls in the Lancs' penalty area gave Ord 64 minutes into the game after Hartford defenseman Denzalind Harba fouled Rochester forward Eddie Jijon in the penalty area.

Ord put a bullet-like shot into the goal to the left of Hartford goalkeeper Arnold Mausser for his 13th goal in the NASL scoring race.

The game at Holleder Memorial Stadium was attended by 7,639 persons.

Star Opens Camp

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers opened their training camp Sunday and Bart Starr, the team's new coach and general manager, said it's time to start answering questions about the team's future.

Starr welcomed 29 rookies and 28 veterans and 1975 training camp has opened, but he was looking ahead to next Saturday, when the roster will have swollen to 50 men, and the season that comes after that.

"We've been looking forward to this for some time. We have a lot of questions to be answered and the only way to seek those answers is to get started," Starr said.

"The Packers have a big roster and that's why so many veterans are here early to show their stuff and prove they are willing to work. Among them are quarterback Jerry Tagge, newly-acquired center Bill Curry who is a great punter, punter Ron Widby, receiver Jim Staggers, Steve Odom, Barry Smith, Ken Payne and other players."

Physical examinations began Sunday night and will be finished Monday and two-day drills begin Tuesday. Many veterans have to report next Saturday night and the camp goes into full swing on Monday after that.

Fred Samara Wins Decathlon

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—"This is a big breakthrough," Fred Samara said. "I'm on my way now."

Samara, not Bruce Jenner or Fred Dixon, survived the pressure Sunday to capture the National AAU Decathlon Championship, scoring a lifetime best 8,061 points.

Dixon, the first-day leader, and Jenner, the defending season champion, who is ranked No. 1 in the world, did not even qualify for the eight-man U.S. team which will compete at Eugene, Ore., Aug. 8-10 against Russia and Poland.

"I wouldn't say I had such a great meet," said Samara, "but it's the first time I've never blown an event."

On the other hand, Dixon lost the discus and Jenner the pole vault.

The University of Oregon's Craig Brigham, runner-up in the 1975 NCAA meet, finished second to Samara with 7,971 points, also a career best.

Dixon, 25, formerly of Los Angeles State, led after the first day with 4,222 points and widened his lead from 149 to 160 points with a 14.4 clocking in the 100-meter dash, the first event of the second day.

However, he fouled on all three of his discus throws.

Jenner missed badly on all three attempts at his opening pole vault height of 14 feet, 1 1/4 inches.

"I couldn't find my step," the 25-year-old San Jose, Calif., insurance agent explained. "I haven't made a mistake like this in two years and I won't again."

A 5-11, 174-pound former University of Pennsylvania athlete who represents the New York Athletic Club, Samara, 25, turned in his first 8,000-point performance.

MACC NEWS

By Nancy Carr
Executive Director

Writing a column in a home-town newspaper has turned out to be fascinating even if a minor part of my work as a resource and staff person for the churches which form the conference. Fascinating because of the notes and comments that return to me via U.S. mail.

Occasionally, I get a real diary from someone who I can only conjecture hates children, Santa Claus, all good work and most particularly "do-gooders" though not necessarily in that order. Though these are rare, I tend to keep them both as a lesson in humility and as a reminder that we do need to step back and take a critical look at ourselves to make sure we are about God's business and not our own.

Most of the letters are a real "shot in the arm" however and leave a glow that carries through a lot of long days and nights. One of these came on a hot day last week.

It was addressed: "Dear Nancy Carr, I can't resist sending this brief note to you this morning to commend you and the people of MACC for the wonderful work you are doing to meet the pressing needs of the community. The article in last night's Herald quite warmed my heart."

Well, dear lady, you have quite a surprise. In the middle of this warm and humid summer, I want to share you and your note and the fact that

Grocery System Offered Elderly

A grocery delivery system is now available for Manchester's elderly who are physically unable to do their own shopping. This service has been coordinated with the dial-a-ride shopping assistance program for elderly shoppers provided by the Town of Manchester in conjunction with the Community Renewal Team of Greater Hartford.

Those needing this grocery delivery system may call 646-5015 Mondays and Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon. Wednesday afternoon, a volunteer will pick up a detailed shopping list from each shut-in person. The groceries will be delivered Thursday afternoon.

More information may be obtained from the Human Services Department of Manchester, 649-5281 ext. 214.

New Haven Clerk to Testify In Vote Fraud Investigation

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — New Haven Town Clerk J. Peter Lynch, a Democrat, will receive immunity from any criminal charges that might result from his testimony.

Lynch invoked the 5th Amendment on two of his three appearances before the one-man grand jury, former Connecticut Supreme Court Justice Patrick B. O'Sullivan, 87, who has been seeking evidence for the past 18 months.

Thinking of sharing, Anne and I (Anne Flynn is the executive secretary of MACC) put out a monthly newsletter about MACC which goes to all delegates and churches. We would be happy to make this available to those who are interested. If you would like to receive a monthly copy of this newsletter please let us know: $1 would help cover the cost of printing and mailing. The newsletter is posted on the bulletin boards of most MACC churches and includes a calendar of the month's meetings and activities, if you would prefer to read it there.

Honorable Mention: To Dave Mills, the Eagle Scout from Emanuel Lutheran Church who delivered 5,000 brochures about the Manchester Council on World Hunger to local churches and stores, made possible through the generosity of the Rev. Dr. Clifford Simpson.

Stable Custom
The Christmas custom of erecting a manger scene in churches and homes is said to go back to the year 1223, when St. Francis of Assisi first decorated a stable at Christmas with the main scenes of the Nativity.

Proposed Fringe Cuts Protested by Workers

NEWTOWN (UPI) — Key staffers at Fairfield Hills State Hospital have threatened to quit if their housing and food privileges are reduced, according to Supt. Dr. Robert B. Miller.

Miller said the employees would hold back their resignations until after a review Thursday by the State Personnel Policy Board of cuts.

Another change, she said, would increase the cost of housing available to certain state employees so that rents would reflect current prices on the real estate market.

Mrs. Grasso said the meal changes would save taxpayers about $2.2 million and the rent changes would save about $439,000.

The food and housing rates were established by the Griffenhagen Plan, a Depression-era program created to encourage people to work for the state.

Weekend Mishaps Take Five Lives

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Five persons died in mishaps in Connecticut during the weekend, including an Ansonia man killed in a head-on crash and Waterbury a man who drowned.

Maria Vacca, 81, died at Yale-New Haven Hospital late Sunday, three hours after the head-on crash in East Haven. Her husband, Anthony, 84, was reported in fair condition at the hospital.

The driver of the other vehicle, Charles Hickey, 16, of East Haven, was charged with reckless driving and failure to drive on the proper lane. He was treated and released at Yale-New Haven.

Oscar Nieves, 20, of Waterbury drowned Sunday afternoon when he went swimming during heavy rains at Hammansasset Beach state park in Madison, police said. He was pronounced dead at Yale-New Haven.

Gregorio Rodriguez, 28, and Linda Cruzado, 25, both of the Bronx, were killed early Sunday when their car struck a bridge abutment in Greenwich and flipped over. Rodriguez was thrown out of the car and was run over by another vehicle, state police said.

Authorities said the car was carrying 10 persons. It included five children, when it overturned on the Connecticut Turnpike about 1 a.m.

Mrs. Cruzado's daughter, Brenda Gonzales, 3, was reported Sunday night in critical condition at Greenwich Hospital. The driver of the car, Carmelo Gonzales, 32, also of the Bronx, was charged with misconduct with a motor vehicle and driving without a license.

Paula Borowski, 13, of Eastfield was hit by a car Saturday night as she crossed Rte. 5 near the intersection of Alden Avenue, police said. No arrests have been made in the case.

Camp Kennedy Plans Carnival

Manchester's Camp Kennedy today began the middle third of its 1975 season with the traditional Carnival Day scheduled for Thursday.

Involved in the fun-day will be all campers, volunteers and staff, with the highlight of the event a contest involving a water-soaked sponge — with Camp Director Harry F. Smith the target.

Also featured will be clowns, an apple-dunking contest, fortune-telling, and a contest involving water pistols fired at tin canes.

Smith announced the names of three more volunteer counselors, bringing to 44 the number, accepted to date. The three are Dan Delano and Kevin O'Dwyer of Manchester and Sue Goldberg of East Hartford.

Smith has awarded T-shirts to volunteer counselors Jonathan Gray, Jacqueline Hedlund, Joel Malnowski and Tim Tzemplinski.

Recent contributions to the Camp Kennedy Patch Fund are $50 from Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coughlin, Cornwell Dr., Coventry; $10 from Mr. and Mrs. William Calderwood, 87 Vernon St.; $25 from Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Allen, 42 Lenox St.; and $5 from Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gibson, 144 Scott Dr.

Odell Named to Head Department on Aging

HARTFORD (UPI) — Charles E. Odell, deputy associate manpower director for the U.S. Employment Service, has been named as commissioner of Connecticut's new Department on Aging.

Odell, 59, who is described as having a long-time interest in the problems of the elderly, was appointed to the $27,800-a-year job by Gov. Ella T. Grasso. He will assume office next month, she said during the weekend.

Mother M. Bernadette de Lourdes de Trumbull has served without pay in the post of department head under Gov. Thomas J. Meskili, who appointed her, and as acting commissioner in the Grasso administration.

Mrs. Grasso asked the 1975 legislature to upgrade it to a cabinet-level job "to assure that the 300,000 elderly persons in our state have the confidence that the state is concerned about their problems and working on solutions."

Active in a number of programs to benefit the elderly, Odell organized more than 20 senior citizen centers for the United Auto Workers, including two in Waterbury and West Hartford.

Odell has been "on loan" by the federal government to the state government, in Pennsylvania, where he is a consultant on manpower and employment delivery systems. Mother Bernadette is expected to continue in an advisory capacity with the department.

Mrs. Grasso asked the 1975 legislature to upgrade it to a cabinet-level job "to assure that the 300,000 elderly persons in our state have the confidence that the state is concerned about their problems and working on solutions."

Senators to Continue Wyman-Durkin Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, which has had the disputed New Hampshire senatorial election in its hands since January, will continue the bitter debate no matter how long it takes — even a year — says majority leader Mike Mansfield.

"We're going to stay with it. We're not going to give up. We're not going to give up. We're not going to give up," Mansfield said in a weekend interview.

New Hampshire has been without a second senator since January when Democrat John A. Durkin, who lost by two votes to Republican Louis C. Wyman, in a second recount, contested the election and asked the Senate to resolve it. The Senate so far has been unable to do so.

The rules committee decided on 35 key issues and asked the full Senate for a vote on the first of the 35 questions.

Asked whether the fight could last all year, Mansfield replied: "Yes, it could."

In contending that the Senate has no choice but to continue the debate, Mansfield said that the Senate should not be discouraged by the lack of progress. Mansfield said he was discouraged by the first week.

The heavily Democratic majority has tried six times to end debate, the most times a cloture has been attempted on a single issue, and failed each time.

The first vote on substance involves a request by Wyman for a recount of certain precincts.

Stagehands Picketing Bushnell

HARTFORD (UPI) — Some 20 stagehands at Bushnell Memorial set up pickets at a rock concert in a drive for pay increases and more working hours.

The Marshall Tucker Band concert Sunday was not affected by the pickets, but the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees said they will not go back to work until a new contract is signed.

Leverett Wright, managing director at the Bushnell, said Sunday the strike could "halt everything up tight," forcing cancellation of touring Broadway shows, ballet companies and symphony orchestras.

Wright said the union contract last year cost the Bushnell 30 per cent more in stagehand costs, amounting to $35,500 as of April. Some employees won increases of as much as 56 per cent, giving some persons over $100 a week on occasion," he said.

Houley Recaps Legislature; Says It Was Tough Session

"The 1975 session of the legislature just ended was, without question, the toughest in modern times for all involved," State Sen. Robert Houley of Vernon said in a brief recap of the activities.

Houley, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said, "In a year where positively no money was available, it was especially long, difficult and hard. My job was to say 'no' and I believe this was accomplished as never before."

Noting that the budget was cut beyond Gov. Ella Grasso's recommended level and that every area of spending was very tight, Houley said he believes, however, that everyone was treated uniformly and fairly.

He explained he had to vote against the Behaven Bill concerning education, health services, state employees and other such things "because it was my job to keep spending down."

He said, "Before we even started there was a $200 million deficit."

"While we can truthfully term this a Messill Boonoggle, I choose not to because the public is not interested in history," Houley said.

Explaining the large deficit, Houley said $138 million was the result of three years of paper surpluses and two years of the state's share of Federal Revenue was "plugged in" to the fiscal year 1974-75 budget.

and this was nonrecurring revenue. He said in addition to this, tax revenues that were expected fell to an unprecedented low in yield creating an $80 million deficit.

Houley said his committee worked as much as 110 hours some weeks and "I personally feel a sense of accomplishment in keeping spending down."

He and his co-chairman, John Groppo, were cited by Gov. Grasso in a statement he made before the joint convention of the General Assembly on closing night.

In recapping senate activities, Houley said there were several accomplishments on the positive side. In the area of consumer protection were such things as shelf life, pricing, advertising of prescription drugs and the repeal of the Fair Trade Laws.

He said the Freedom of Information Act which was passed during this session "opens up government at all levels to a new and needed first."

The merging of the Transportation Fund and the General Fund will provide a more efficient system of state expenditures that can be controlled and audited at all times, Houley said.

He added, "The Guaranteed Tax Base Law was enacted, and I'm pleased to have been part of this historic reform. The fact that there are property rich and property poor towns was established and is acknowledged," he said.

Speaking of the much publicized problem with state employee salaries, Houley said he personally regrets, and did not support, taping the State Employee Pension Fund for $5.8 million for the two-thirds increment granted these employees.

"It establishes a terribly bad precedent," Houley said.

He said, however, "State employees gained 'political freedom' activities, a right that I have long championed."

Speaking of the word "unmandate," Houley said he coined it as a result of hearing complaints from all special interest groups about "mandate" programs.

He said, "For years, the state has layered program upon program and for years the state has forced local municipalities and all their appendages to do something, yet has paid for only a small part of such mandate."

"This, this year, we unmandated certain services and requirement and withdrew state support and made such functions."

"In conclusion, the 1975 session can be reviewed with a 'good' notice or a 'bad' notice. Considering the extreme difficulty fiscal times, I for one view it over-all as productive, and in fact I am amazed that it functioned at all," Houley said.

Group Rehearsing 'Guys and Dolls'

The Vernon Friends of Music has started its rehearsals for its summer musical production of Frank Loesser's "Guys and Dolls."

Edwin DeGroat of the school system's music department will again direct the production. The leads will be played by students Cindy Hunt, Peter Mozer, Dorene Falceita and Brook Tupper.

Vernon Grange will meet July 18 at 8 p.m. in Grange Hall, Rt. 30, Vernon with the past lecturers to be in charge of the program.

The Junior Grange will meet July 19 at 2 p.m. in Grange Hall with "Summer Fun" to be the theme of the program.

Conference Mrs. Shirley Howe of the Rockville United Methodist Church is attending the Conference School of Missions for the Southern New England Area, today through Friday at Amherst College in Woodstock.

Several members of the Rockville United Methodist Church women will be attending guest-day on July 17.

Softball League The Vernon Girls' Softball League will participate in the Enfield All-Star Tournament in Enfield on July 19.

Vernon will be represented by a senior all-star team consisting of 15 girls and a junior all-star team made up of 18 girls.

Coaches for the seniors are Jon Steele, David Hany and Jay Miller; and for the juniors, Hany, Frank Manning, Don Wentzel and Gordon Small.

Lynwood Watson is president of the league; Frank Manning, vice president; Sandy Ord, secretary; Althea Santo Christo, treasurer; and Richard Dezer and Manning, equipment purchasing and maintenance.

The league will sponsor a benefit game in Vernon on July 19.

Mrs. Grasso said, "We must make sure that our state is prepared if this or any other kind of disaster strikes Connecticut."

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

After drafting the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin and John Adams were appointed by Congress to recommend a national seal. Their design was not accepted, but their idea for a national motto was. Congress approved a motto which was apparently borrowed from The Gentlemen's Magazine: "E Pluribus Unum." This seemed to be a good description of what Congress hoped for — a unified country made up of many states. The World Almanac notes.

AREA POLICE REPORT

VERNON

Russell Labbe, 18, of 5 Ertel Dr., Vernon was arrested Sunday on a rearrest warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 19 charging him with failure to appear in court.

Labbe was originally charged, several months ago, with disorderly conduct, breach of peace, and second-degree reckless endangerment. He was held at the police station in lieu of posting a $350 bond. He was to be presented in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, today.

Christopher J. Henry, 19, of 78 Crestridge Dr., Vernon was charged Sunday with failure to grant the right of way at a private drive in connection with the investigation of a two-car accident on Rt. 83.

Police said Henry came out of the parking lot at Dunkin' Donuts and collided with a car driven by Charles Amos of Hartford. Both cars were extensively damaged and the drivers were taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment.

Henry is to appear in court in Rockville, Aug. 6.

Clifford Champlin, 23, of 53

Pinnacle Rd., Ellington was charged Saturday with third-degree assault in connection with the investigation of a complaint of a disturbance at 111 High St., Rockville.

Police said Champlin allegedly struck John Brennan of 11 High St. Champlin was released on his promise to appear in court in Rockville, Aug. 6.

David Johnson, 23, of 34 Strawberry Rd., Ellington was charged Saturday with passing in a no passing zone. He is to appear in court in Rockville, Aug. 6.

SOUTH WINDSOR

Richard E. Sirois, 18, of East Hartford was charged Sunday with third-degree larceny and falsifying an incident.

Police said Sirois is employed as a security guard and was working at Worcester Express on Strong Rd., South Windsor.

Police said Sirois complained that he had been hit on the head by someone. Police took him to the hospital and when checking the building found it had been ransacked and some $270 was reported missing from a safe. He is to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, July 28.

HEBRON

Lloyd L. Folsom Jr., 16, of 8 Crouch Rd., Hebron was charged Sunday with speeding too fast for conditions in connection with the investigation of a one-car accident on Rt. 85 in Hebron.

Police said Folsom went off the right side of the highway and continued along for about 165 feet knocking down 15 guide posts and then rolled down an embankment where the car ended up on the roof. Police said Folsom suffered some scrapes and abrasions but refused treatment. He is to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, Aug. 6.

South Windsor Police are also investigating a complaint made by Arthur Champagne of 262 Scott Dr. that a 10-speed bicycle was taken from his garage.

Researchers Claim Rats Do Better Outside Dumps

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rats can live better in urban housing projects than in city dumps, according to two men who have been trapping the rodents for months.

"It's a rat restaurant," Gerald J. Conlogue, a Yale researcher, said of a large garbage container at Stowe Village, a low-income housing project.

His comments and those of William Spector, a University of Connecticut graduate student, were published Sunday by the Hartford Courant.

At the Hartford dump site, garbage is burned and efforts are made to control rats, but at Stowe Village "there is garbage lying next to every dumpster," Conlogue said.

"The trouble with rats is that they live so well around people," he said. "In fact, if there weren't any people around here, there wouldn't be any rats. Most rats are dependent on people to survive."

Conlogue is examining the rats for traces of a parasite called Capillaria hepatica which is known to have been transmitted to 11 humans in the United States, with fatal results in eight cases.

About 85 per cent of the male rats he has found in Hartford were infested with the parasite.

Conlogue and Spector have been trapping rats at six residential locations in Hartford, plus the dump. "We took 49 rats out of a Zion Street backyard in one weekend, and we didn't even make a dent in the rat population," Spector said.

The following weekend, eight or 10 rats were scrambling around on the same garbage cans, two blocks from a grocery store, he said.

Conlogue and Spector said programs of poisoning or gassing rats are ineffective, but laws should be passed against uncovered garbage cans unless covered or providing food for rats in any way.

"Education is the key," Spector said. "Rats literally can't survive without the help of people. The city should issue thick, plastic garbage can lids free to people. Maybe even free garbage cans."

Conlogue predicted a "rat explosion" at the dump if the city carries out plans to convert it to a sanitary landfill, as ordered by the state Department of Environmental Protection.
