

Orbiting Soyuz Awaits Apollo In Historic Space Rendezvous

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

Two Russian cosmonauts rocketed safely into orbit from a Central Asian desert today 7 1/2 hours ahead of three American astronauts for history's first meeting in space of men from two nations.

Cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov took off precisely on schedule at 8:20 a.m. EDT on a 20-engine rocket that rose on a pillar of flame at the Baikonur Cosmodrome near the town of Tyuratam east of the Aral Sea.

American astronauts Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald "Deke" Slayton waited their turn at Cape Canaveral, Fla.,

8,670 miles away. Their countdown aimed toward a 3:50 p.m. blastoff.

The Soviet Soyuz spaceship reached orbit 10 minutes after blast off, and Soyuz control in Moscow reported that all was going well.

The control center gave a running account of the Soyuz launch. The voices of the two pilots could be heard at times talking to Moscow.

"Moscow, this is Soyuz," one of the cosmonauts reported 17 minutes after blastoff. "We are entering the earth's shadow."

"We are finishing communications," Moscow control said three minutes later as the ship moved out of range of its first tracking station. "Have a happy flight."

President Ford watched the launching on television in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. Ford said the launch "marks the beginning of a very epic adventure into space" and was "blazing a brand new trail."

"I am impressed," Ford said. "I am very impressed. I wish the cosmonauts very well."

The shot ushered in a new era of international cooperation in space. Officials of both nations expected the Apollo-Soyuz project to strengthen detente.

At America's Florida launch base, space agency officials said the three Apollo astronauts were sleeping when Soyuz took off. Their ground crew was pumping liquid oxygen propellant into Apollo's Saturn IB rocket at the time.

The Soyuz launch was telecast around the world, using a complicated hookup involving commercial communications satellites and ground lines. It was the first time the West had seen a Soyuz launch live on television.

Soyuz went into an orbit ranging from 142 to 112 miles above Earth. It then opened communications antennas and big

Israeli Concessions Protested

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — About 20,000 Israelis demonstrated today against government offers to give up strategic areas in the Sinai Desert to reach an interim peace agreement with Egypt.

A few demonstrators evaded army units and riot-equipped policeman to reach the beachfront U.S. embassy building. One man tossed a rock through an embassy window.

Authorities arrested 21 persons before clearing the street by 1 a.m.

The crowd jammed City Hall square in Tel Aviv Monday night, carrying signs and banners denouncing Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for reported pressure on Israel to arrange a settlement.

"With friends like these, who needs enemies?" one sign read.

Speaking at the rally, sponsored by the right-wing Likud party, opposition leader Menachem Begin urged the government to abandon offers to withdraw from the Gidi and Mitla passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields in the Sinai.

"We must make no withdrawals until there is a final peace settlement," he said.

Earlier Monday, Israeli government sources said negotiators had virtually settled the issue of who will control the Sinai passes.

If the agreement fails, it won't fail because of disagreement on that point, one Israeli source said.

There was no immediate official word, however, on the final form of the accord.

Begin said he had learned that Ambassador Simcha Dinitz left for the United States with a new Israeli map detailing even greater concessions than those offered as little as three weeks ago.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin met with Dinitz, Foreign Minister Yigal Alon and Defense Minister Shimon Peres for two hours in Jerusalem Monday to draw up the latest Israeli position.

Government officials said Israel wants more details on Egypt's demands as well as the latest American attitudes.

The sources said there was a strong possibility Egypt would agree to let Israel keep on holding the eastern side of the passes.

Senate Votes to Extend Oil Price Control Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today approved a six-month extension of emergency legislation that has kept the price of nearly two-thirds of American produced oil from soaring to world levels.

The Senate's swift action came one day after President Ford announced he would ask Congress to let the controlled price oil rise from $5.25 to $13.50 a barrel over the next 30 months.

Congressional liberals plan to fight Ford's decontrol plan. Under existing law, it goes into effect automatically unless either the Senate or House rejects it within five working days after it is submitted.

Energy Administration Frank Zarb said the plan would be sent to Congress Wednesday.

The current control law expires at the end of August. Unless Congress approves an extension and it is accepted by Ford or his veto of it is overridden, the price of "old oil" could jump from the present $5.25 a barrel to around $12 a barrel being charged by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"Old oil" — the price of which is now controlled — represents oil from wells producing before 1973 and accounts for about 60 per cent of domestic output. The price of oil that came into production after 1973, or "new oil," is not controlled.

The Senate-passed legislation, which was sent to the House for action, also extends authority for the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) to order power plants — which have the capability — to switch from oil or gas to coal.

The military's powerful 30-man Revolutionary Council met for nine hours Monday to discuss the seemingly implacable issues at home and abroad, but reached no firm decision.

A council spokesman said most of the session was taken up with the fighting between rival liberation movements in Angola, Portugal's last colony in Africa, and that more troops may be sent there to impose a cease-fire.

He said the crisis at home provoked by the withdrawal of the Socialists from the coalition cabinet and the threat of the Popular Democrats to follow was not among the topics dealt with by the council.

Heavy Rains Appear To Be Diminishing

By United Press International

The sun was expected to peek through clouds today as Connecticut residents tried to dry off from two days of nearly continuous and heavy rains that caused minor floods and many stalled vehicles.

The National Weather Service posted a flash flood warning in Litchfield and parts of New Haven County, but it was reduced to a watch at 10 p.m. A watch means less immediate danger of flooding than a warning.

Thirty families in Watertown were evacuated from their homes Monday morning, some by boat, when Steele Brook overflowed its banks. A number of business firms were forced to close down.

A section of Interstate 91 near Springfield, Mass., was closed for two hours early Monday because of two feet of water on the highway.

Connecticut Motor Club spokesmen said they answered about 500 calls from motorists whose cars had been stalled by the rains. A trailer truck jacked on a slippery section of the Connecticut Turnpike in New Haven but no injuries were reported.

The water level at the Connecticut River was reported to be 30 feet below its record height, said a spokesman for the Greater Hartford Flood Control Commission.

The Weather

Considerable cloudiness today and tonight with chance of scattered showers and thunderstorms, highs in the 80s, lows in the mid 60s. Wednesday mostly sunny and hot with highs in the 90s. Chance of rain 50 per cent today, 20 per cent tonight and 10 per cent Wednesday.

Heavy rains washed out a portion of Rt. 5 in Longmeadow, Mass., Monday. For a time, I-91 between Enfield, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., was closed by a flash flood. Police estimate the job of repairing the Rt. 5 damage may take a week. (UPI photo)

Postal Worker Walkouts Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Contract talks between the postal service and its unions may extend beyond next Monday's strike deadline, but there may be some walkouts in big cities, according to a union source.

W. J. Usery Jr., White House special assistant for labor management relations, brought the two sides together for long weekend sessions and more took place Monday.

Usery, also trying to prevent a nationwide railway strike at 12:01 a.m. EDT Monday, said "we run the risk of demonstrations" by disgruntled postal workers after Sunday night.

"Demonstrations are everything from people walking around with signs just demonstrating to people not showing up for work for one reason or another," he said.

The outcome of the postal negotiations certainly will influence the size of the deficit of operations by the U.S. Postal Service. Even if there is no raise, however, postal officials acknowledge rate increases are needed to get the system out of the red.

Money and fringe benefits were at issue. But one union source said "the unions have made it clear the no-layoff clause must be continued in the next contract. That's not even negotiable. I think they've got the message now."

The unions represent about 605,000 workers in all, including the American Postal Workers Union, the National Association of Letter Carriers and the National Post Office, Mail Handlers, Watchmen and Group Leaders' division of the Laborers International Union, all AFL-CIO, and the independent National Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Estimated 100 Million Russians Watch Liftoff

MOSCOW (UPI) — An estimated 100 million Soviet citizens, watching the first live television broadcast of a manned Soviet spaceship, saw two cosmonauts rocket safely into orbit today for an historic rendezvous in space with three Americans.

"Very slight swinging...pressure normal... everything is perfect," radioed Lt. Col. Alexei E. Leonov, the commander, as the Soyuz ship dwindled on TV screens to a bobbing white pinpoint of light.

Small crowds stood outside Moscow radio and television stores, exclaiming "They're off" as the ship lifted off from the Baikonur launch site.

"One hundred seconds, normal," came the voice from Soyuz. "One hundred twenty seconds...140 seconds...160 seconds and that sky is very, very blue... everything is going okay."

Moments later came the announcement Soyuz was safely in orbit and Leonov and engineer Valeri Kubasov started checking out systems.

It was a normal working day here and television officials said they expected an even bigger audience for the Apollo liftoff

Cummings Backs Buckland Firehouse

By SOL R. COHEN

Acknowledging, "I'm probably putting my political future on the line," State Rep. Ted Cummings today came out in support of the new firehouse the Town of Manchester plans for N. Main St. and Tolland Pike, in the Buckland area.

The firehouse is being opposed by Eighth Utilities District directors and volunteer fire fighters and by a group of Buckland area property owners.

The latter pay taxes to the Town Fire District but receive fire service from the Eighth District, under a $250-per-call contract between the town and district. A petition being circulated in the Buckland area asks the Eighth District Board of Directors to extend district boundaries to include their area.

Cummings represents the 12th Assembly District, half of which is inside Eighth District boundaries. He is also Democratic town chairman.

"I live in one community and that one community is the Town of Manchester," said Cummings. "I view its problems as town problems and not just neighborhood problems."

"As a citizen of Manchester, this matter of fire protection concerns me a lot. I'm committed to the idea that the town has obligations to improve its fire protection,

Cummings Backs Buckland Firehouse

As it has obligations to improve police protection, educational opportunities, garbage pickup, lighting, sidewalks and the like."

Cummings said, "It stands to reason a firehouse is needed in the Buckland area. And it stands to reason someone has to pay for it with taxes — either town taxes or district taxes. And don't let anyone fool anyone — if the district furnishes service there it's taxes by everyone in the district, and not only people in Buckland."

The Eighth District board indicated last month it will accept and act upon a petition for extending district lines, provided no legal barriers exist, or if they do, can be removed.

The petitioners are proceeding on the basis that Special Act 200, adopted by the 1963 General Assembly, permits the district to extend its boundaries — provided a simple majority of those in the expanded area request it and provided a majority of all district voters approve it.

Assistant Town Counsel Victor Moses has ruled the district can't expand its boundaries into areas now under town jurisdiction without town Board of Directors approval.

Cummings said today he's been told some Buckland area residents may seek an injunction to postpone or interfere with the July 24 bid openings scheduled by the town for the proposed Buckland firehouse construction.

"If the matter goes to court, as I'm being told it might, I'm confident the town will win," said Cummings. "Right is on the town's side. It has already invested money in the proposal and must protect it. I can't believe all of the district's taxpayers are supporting the expansion of district boundaries. Those that don't understand all the issues and all the possible implications, including added taxes."

Cummings said district officials knew in April or May of 1974 the town planned a new firehouse in the Buckland area.

He said they met with town officials, the need for a firehouse there was discussed and district officials indicated then they didn't intend to expand district boundaries. That's when they were told of town plans for the firehouse, Cummings said.

Cummings said, "I don't believe in pitting fire department against fire department, neighborhood against neighborhood. This is strictly a town obligation and should be treated that way."

Cummings concluded, "It seems to me from this whole experience, a kind of detente between the two fire departments should emerge. More cooperation and less competition is what's needed."

Thompson Lauds Fiscal Control

Mayor John Thompson Monday commended Town Manager Robert Weiss and his department heads "for achieving a balance of over $219,530 in unspent Manchester appropriations." At the same time, however, he warned, "Unless we are able to more accurately estimate revenues we will continue to have a less than adequate fiscal administration." "When we (Democrats) took office four years ago," said Thompson, "we started a previous board had borrowed money unnecessarily, simply because of inadequate information. At the urging of former Democratic Director Jon Norris, our board has been receiving monthly revenue and expenditure reports. This has been helpful in staying on top of town operations." "As a result of this constant feeding of information," said Thompson, "the manager has instituted belt-tightening measures as early as August 1974. Today, Manchester isn't faced with either fiscal chaos or deficit spending that afflicts many other communities." He continued, "We are faced,

Migrant Worker Funds Double That of 1974

HARTFORD (UPI) — Federal funds for the area's migrant farm workers have more than doubled in the last year, but the migrant work force was cut by 90 per cent because of labor troubles. The New England Farm Workers Council received $462,000 — almost twice what it got last year — to help the about 1,000 migrants who usually work in the Hartford area and to seasonal workers in Cape Cod. "There is no question that we may have some money left at the end of the year," said council president Bruce Candalaria. And the Puerto Rican government rejected the growers' contract offer. Puerto Rican officials negotiate for their seasonal workers. The Farmworkers Council said it will use the funds for programs they were not originally intended for, such as adult education for migrants in the Hartford area and to seasonal workers in Cape Cod.

Tax Receipts Reach 99.3%

Manchester wound up the 1974-75 fiscal year (June 30) with 99.3 per cent of General Fund estimated tax receipts collected and with 99 per cent of revenue estimates from all sources collected, a report by Collector of Revenue James A. Turck indicated. At the end of the 1973-74 fiscal year the collections were 98.2 and 98.3 per cent, respectively. The tax levy for 1974-75 still had $154,924 outstanding as of June 30 but tax receipts for previous years and interest and lien fees were far above estimates, with prior year tax receipts at $257,468 against $150,000 estimated; and fees at $82,897 against $60,000 estimated. Thus, of $14,022,530 estimated from those combined sources, only $24,553 is shown uncollected.

Kissinger Warns Developing Nations

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has warned developing nations they are undermining the United Nations and jeopardizing their future. In a speech Monday night, Kissinger said Third World or developing nations have used "lopped, loaded voting, biased results and arbitrary tactics" in the UN General Assembly. "The utility of the General Assembly both as a safety valve and as an instrument of international cooperation is being undermined," he said. "Tragically, the principal victims will be the countries who seek to exert what substantially could be theirs if they proceeded cooperatively."

Suspended Policeman Indicted

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Matthew Quintilano, 39, a suspended Stratford policeman, has been indicted in the shooting death of his wife. He will be arraigned July 29 on a murder charge. Quintilano was returned after the indictment Monday to the Bridgeport Correctional Center in lieu of $50,000 bond. A Fairfield County grand jury accused Quintilano of the May 23 shooting of his estranged wife, Maryann, 37, as she was walking outside Bridgeport Hospital, where she worked as a clerk. The grand jury of 11 men and seven women handed up the indictment to Superior Court Judge Irving Levine after listening to seven witnesses and 45 minutes of deliberation. Mrs. Quintilano, who had been living with a sister in Oxford, was shot several times by her husband, state police said. Quintilano was arrested several hours after the incident by an off-duty Fairfield police officer in Fairfield.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Caution Light

A yellow caution light has been flashed by Gov. Ella Grasso. In reporting her administration is reviewing a $15 million bond authorization to provide municipal jobs, she pointed out her concern is not that the jobs aren't needed but what issuance of the bonds might do to the state's credit rating.

Gov. Grasso is being extremely wise in taking a new look at the impact of the bill and other bonding authorizations on the state's over-all credit status. The amount involved may not seem much as bond issues go these days but many more are in jeopardy if we ignore the threat of undermining our state's credit and following the path New York City has taken to fiscal disaster.

Perilous Politics

Amid the rumors and suspicions and allegations that the Central Intelligence Agency, with the knowledge of American presidents, plotted or perpetrated the assassination of certain heads of state, a number of commentators have questioned whether this kind of secret, "gunpoint diplomacy" is necessary and always evil. Calling it not murder but tyrannicide, columnist John P. Roche asks, "Would it have been unconstitutional, immoral and generally dreadful if some American intelligence agent had put a 30-caliber slug into Hitler's skull in, say, 1937?"

ment. They were the work of fanatic individuals. Nevertheless, it would be perilous if we came to believe that even in the case of a Hitler we can set up a standard of morality for governments separate from that demanded of individuals in society. Yes, it can be argued that it would have been a good thing if someone had killed Hitler in 1937. Perhaps Stalin, too. But what about Mussolini? And Franco? Once embarked on such a course, where would we stop?

RAY CROMLEY

How to Regulate the Regulators

WASHINGTON—President Ford has an unsolvable problem on his hands. At a meeting of small businessmen recently the representative of one government regulatory agency stood up to take his audience to task. The backlash almost shook him off the stage. Hitherto mild businessmen told his decisions and those of his agency were stupid and dangerous. One small manufacturer shouted out that the regulator and his fellows regularly labeled products dangerous with no more evidence than that dreamed up in their own fertile imaginations. What tests have you run? he was asked. When you set standards, what evidence do you have that they are necessary or even beneficial?

Parties Are Shifting

In Gerald Ford's surprising announcement that he will run for the Presidency in 1976, the dog beneath the skin is the fact that the major political parties are shifting, and that Mr. Ford is counting on the shift to elect him. We call these shifts party realignments, as if they were autos whose wheels have to be brought back in line. Actually, parties are parts of the social organism. They have largely lost touch with the directing centers of ideas and interests—in the brain and heart of the society—which usually tell them what they are there for, and what to do. They have to get back in touch again.

A Reunion With Books

CAPE MAY, N.J. — A two-day weekend in this amiable watering place seems to last only minutes, but there is always time to visit the public library for a chat with Mrs. Edwell and a reunion with the books of my boyhood. No other community of my ken stocks the complete works of Joseph A. Oppenheim and Sax Rohmer that lent sophisticated and splendid terror to a small town sprout. Oppenheim's heroes and villains were all men of the world. The first time I took a girl to dinner in Worcester, Mass., I was playing an Oppenheim character when I remarked to my date that I guessed I'd have a dry Martini and then to my chagrin, she said, "I wanted to be superbly scared, I turned to Sax Rohmer, who created Dr. Fu Manchu."

Area youngsters and adults will have a chance to learn some basic baby-sitting techniques at a one-day workshop Thursday at the University of Connecticut Women's Center in Storrs.

The two-hour session will begin at 1 p.m. at the Center on Whitney Rd.

Mothers will teach the skills and hope and expect their own baby sitters will have, including how to respond in an emergency situation, fundamental infant care techniques, such as how to change a diaper, etc.

The workshop is free but advance registration is necessary. Any mom or youngster interested can register by calling the Center at 486-4738.

Roll Out The Barrel

They rolled out more than one barrel over the weekend when the Bolton Fire Department held its "Beerfest" under a big tent in Herrick Park.

Residents and friends skipped through the rain-drops to view several beautiful antique cars all spic and span and gleaming.

Boy, it must have been fun hiding down the avenue in one of those big touring cars with the soft leather seats and big lantern-like headlights. (Now don't say "she must remember" - honestly I don't!)

As the evening wore on, a three-piece band played crowd polkas and the crowd stomped away to the tune of "Roll Out The Barrel" and sang "Eidelweiss" and "Happy Wanderer" as the fiddler fiddled between sips from his stein.

The committee sold commemorative (full) mugs which people kept refilling from large pitchers of beer while others munched on hotdogs and sauerkraut. The aroma was wonderful.

The rain stopped finally and additional tables and chairs were set up just outside the open-sided tent. The crowd didn't let a congested dance floor stop them from joining in and many swung their partners round and round on the slippery grass.

It was fun sitting, dancing, and just watching happy people enjoy themselves to the "oompa oompa" of a lively band.

Maybe the committee will

Hats Off To The Legion

The Diworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion in Manchester were well represented at the 57th Department of Connecticut Convention over the weekend at the Hartford-Sheraton.

The post won three top awards, John Mayne, junior vice commander, was named "outstanding commander of the year." Harold Pohl, former senior vice commander and now commander, was recognized for the post's membership growth; and Henry R. Wiedrich took top prize for the most outstanding and diversified public relations program.

Another Legionnaire, Fred C. Parlatto, post historian, received a plaque from the Historical Association of the Department of Connecticut American Legion for the best scrapbook containing the post's history.

A lot of hard work and the efforts of all its membership made these awards possible. Congratulations Legionnaires.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know you'll never print this because you career women have the idea that we housewives are second-class citizens, but I've kept this poem for a long time and want to share it with you. (I never did find out who wrote it.)

JUST A HOUSEWIFE

Hello, Mrs. Jones, I've just called to say I'm sorry I cried when you phoned today. No, I didn't get angry when you called me at 4:00. Just as eight cub scouts burst through the door; it's just that I had such a really full day. I'd baked eight pies for the PTA.

And washing and ironing and scrubbing the floor. Were chores I had finished not too long before. The reason I cried and gave that big yelp. Was not 'cause you phoned just to ask for my help. The comment that just about drove me berserk. Was, "I'm sure you'll have time because you don't work."

Sign me, A HAPPY HOMEMAKER

DEAR HAPPY: I think the poem is great. And for the record, before I became "Dear Abby" (at age 37), I, too, was a cub scout den mother, and I also baked my share of pies for the PTA.

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one who likes to have people come to my home for dinner and just sit there, picking at the food, and telling me they are on a diet and can't eat this and can't eat that!

After I have gone to the trouble of making a nice dinner, I get very annoyed when a dinner guest hardly eats enough to feed a bird.

If I were on a diet, I would tell the hostess not to count on me for dinner, but I'd come afterward.

It hardly pays to invite people over to eat anymore. Almost everybody is on a diet. Think I'll just pass out carrot and celery sticks, and let 'em chomp like horses.

ELLA

DEAR ELLA: A thoughtful hostess includes some low-cal food for the calorie counters. And the ideal hostess pretends never to notice what her guests eat - or don't eat.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C.J. IN HOUSTON: The girl who steals your fine steaks your troubles. Let her have him. He's too wicky-wicky to make a good husband.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 9870, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Blood Pressure Clinic Set

EAST HARTFORD

Sheila Tuller 289-4283

A blood pressure screening clinic for all East Hartford residents is scheduled Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at East Hartford High School.

Mayor Richard Blackstone announced that the East Hartford Health Department, Nursing Division and the town's Public Health Nurses will conduct the clinic at the health service suite at the high school. He said several school nurses have volunteered to assist with the project.

As high blood pressure (hypertension) is a leading cause of death and disability in Connecticut and the United States, all East Hartford residents are urged to take advantage of this service.

Last year one quarter of a million Americans died because of high blood pressure. This number is five times the number of people killed in car accidents. Many private, professional and voluntary state and local organizations are joining together to make an effort to increase public awareness of the perils of high blood pressure.

Thousands of people in Connecticut have high blood pressure and many don't realize it as there are usually no

Freshman Vacancies Top 7,400

WELLESLEY, Mass. (UPI) - There are more than 7,400 vacancies for qualified freshman students in New England's public and private colleges, the New England Board of Higher Education reported Monday.

Approximately 90 per cent of 156 institutions, which had reported vacancies in the NEBEH's spring survey responded to the summer survey with 127 institutions reporting vacancies, a board spokesman said.

Last year at this time, he said the 152 institutions polled reported 13,000 openings.

The board spokesman said the survey is conducted primarily as a service to parents and students and should not be used to predict trends.

Although institutions reported approximately 5,000 fewer vacancies this year, the spokesman said "it should be noted that the figures are affected by the fact that each year some institutions report they have an undetermined number of vacancies."

He said "it would appear that more institutions this year than last have reported an unspecified number of students."

The colleges said students who have previously been refused admission should not reapply, he added.

Here is the board's summary of each state as of July 7:

- Fifteen Maine colleges report 615 vacancies at four two-year and 11 four-year institutions.

- Twenty-six Connecticut colleges and universities report 2,215 vacancies at 14 two-year and 12 four-year institutions.

- Fifty Massachusetts institutions report 2,509 vacancies at 24 two-year and 26 four-year colleges and universities.

- Sixteen New Hampshire colleges report 525 vacancies at nine two-year and seven four-year institutions.

- Six Rhode Island institutions report 839 vacancies at one two-year and five four-year institutions.

- Fourteen Vermont colleges report 761 vacancies at four two-year and 10 four-year schools.

Sen. Lowell Weicker meets Alice Belfiore of Manchester while she was involved with the Connecticut Summer Intern Program at Washington.

During their stay, interns sit on floor debates in the House and Senate, visit general government agencies, tour the Pentagon, the White House and Smithsonian Institute, and meet with other congressional delegates.

Region's States, Utilities To Appeal Oil Import Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Nine states and 10 Northeast utilities are appealing a court ruling enabling the defendants to support President Ford's imposition of a $2-a-barrel fee on imported oil.

They filed the appeal of the February U.S. District Court ruling Monday, maintaining Ford abused his power in imposing the fee. A decision on the appeal could take up to six weeks.

Arguing before a specially convened three-judge court, Massachusetts Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti said the administration "set aside opportunities for public input in the case."

Johnson Derailed

WILMINGTON, Ohio (UPI) - The "Essex Express" has been derailed in 1975. Essex Johnson, the running back who picked up the nickname of the "Essex Express" because he churned out yards in a hurry for the Cincinnati Bengals, was waived Monday because of a bad right knee.

"Essex has a sound knee for all normal life purposes, but not for playing football," said Bengals head coach Paul Brown. "If he continues to play, he puts himself in jeopardy."

Brown said doctors told him there would be a strong risk of permanent injury if Johnson plays on the knee that has been operated on twice in the past 18 months.

"I can't play him under these circumstances and I must go along with the decision of our doctors," said Brown. Johnson, 28, was the Bengals' top rusher in 1972 and 1973. But the 5-10, 200-pound backback out of Grambling College saw limited action last season because of his injured knee.

Brown said Johnson's options now are to either retire or play if he is claimed by another National Football League team. "If he is claimed and decides he wants to play, we will furnish the club with all his medical records and then they can make their decision," said Brown.

Will Not Compete

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) - Mile world-record holder Filbert Bayi of Tanzania and international stars Mike Bolt and John Akli-Bua will not compete for Pan Africa in the USA-Pan Africa-West Germany track meet this weekend, meet coordinator Leroy Walker said Monday.

Walker said African officials told him that Bayi, who ran the world record mile of 3:51.0 in May, had contracted malaria and would be unable to run.

Walker said Bolt and Akli-Bua were thought to be in Europe. All three were on a roster of Pan-African contestants given to meet officials, but the trio were not with the members of the team that arrived Sunday night.

Athletes from both Pan Africa and the United States worked out in the rain Monday at Duke University, site of the meet that opens Friday afternoon.

Nuggets Ink Thompson, Adds Credibility to ABA

DENVER (UPI) - David Thompson has become a Denver Nugget and, in the process, the Virginia Squires have become a competitive member of the American Basketball Association.

Thompson officially signed his contract with the Nuggets Monday. To get him, Denver had to compensate Virginia, which picked the 6-5 North Carolina State All-American in the ABA draft.

The Nuggets received Thompson and veteran forward George Irvine from Virginia in return for starting center Mike Green, starting guard Mack Calvin and reserve forward Jan Van Breda Kolff.

"The biggest aspect of the whole transaction was that our league has always tried to maintain a balance and that has been done again," Nugget President-General Manager Carl Scherer said. "We have signed the top player in college basketball and also made Virginia competitive."

The move does leave Denver with a hole in the backcourt. Calvin led the team in scoring last year while also earning team most valuable player honors as the Nuggets rolled up pro basketball's best record of 65-19.

"Right now we are right where we want to be," Scherer said. "Now we have to regroup and take a look at our situation."

The Nuggets were interested in several established ABA guards, including Memphis' Chuck Williams, George Karl and Bobby Warren of San Antonio and Al Smith of Utah.

But Scherer and coach Larry Brown were not concerned about the Nugget frontcourt. They were solid with rookies Thompson and 7-foot Marvin Webster, who like Thompson was drafted by the NBA's Atlanta Hawks, and second year forward Bobby Jones as well as veterans Dave Robisch and Byron Beck, who started occasionally last year for Denver.

"Thompson, the first No. 1 NBA pick to sign with the eight-year-old ABA, said he was impressed with the entire Denver situation. He said he turned down offers from several NBA clubs, including the New York Knicks, to sign with the Nuggets.

"One of the many reasons was the city," Thompson said. "I wanted to be associated with a winning team in a good city and Denver offered that, more so than any other team."

With Thompson Deal Squires Acquire Respectability

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) - The Virginia Squires, who finished last season with the worst record in the history of professional basketball, have moved toward respectability by acquiring two All-ABA players and a promising young player from the Denver Nuggets.

In a joint announcement Monday by Squires General Manager Jack Ankersen and his Denver counterpart, Carl Scherer, they said Virginia has obtained Mack Calvin, a five-time all-league guard, center Mike Green, an All-ABA player in his second season last year, and second-year forward Jan Van Breda Kolff.

The Squires gave Denver the rights to David Thompson, the 1975 college player of the year, and veteran forward George Irvine.

Van Cunningham, the Squires general partner, said, "This transaction represents a continuation of our efforts to rebuild the Squires into a contender that fits into the league's future."

"Adding a proven player like Calvin is going to make a big impact. We can use Green either as a center or as a strong forward if David Vaughn does the job at center. Van Breda Kolff does a lot of things well and just needs to play more. We drafted him No. 1 a year ago; that's what we think of him."

Squires Coach Al Bianchi said the new players "have got to make us a much better team."

Lynn Named Vikes GM

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) - The man who has done most of the managerial work for the Minnesota Vikings since Jim Finks resigned a year ago has been named general manager of the club.

Mike Lynn, 49, was named general manager under a new management plan. Lynn joined the Vikings last August as assistant to president Max Winter soon after Finks left to become the general manager of the Chicago Bears organization.

"I turned the work load over to Mike soon after he arrived here," Winter said Monday. "Mike has been doing the work of a general manager since then. He has proven himself in all facets of working in the position of general manager. We feel today he is as able as any general manager in the NFL."

Before coming to Minnesota, Lynn spent seven years as president of Mid-South Sports, Inc., which worked to get a National Football League franchise for Memphis, Tenn.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - Carol Mann wonders whether the adverse weather and extra play it forced in a Ladies Professional Golfers Association tournament here over the weekend might affect some pros going into this week's World Championship in Atlantic City.

"I just hope all the up and downing we had this week doesn't take our strength away," said Miss Mann after completing the last four holes of a round that began Sunday and winning the $65,000 Columbus LPGA Open with a seven-under-par 209 Monday. "Right now I'd just like to go off and hide somewhere."

Miss Mann, who picked up $2,000 for the victory, finished on Monday on the rain-soaked 6,200-yard Riviera Country Club course with a par, bogey, birdie and par for a one-over-73. The round had been halted by rain and darkness Sunday.

Jan Ferraris parred the only hole she played Monday, the 18th, and finished with a 69 and 210 total for second-place money of $6,750.

Carol Joe Skala, who shot 70 Sunday, was third at 211 and won $2,275.

Tied for fourth with 212 were Laura Baugh, who parred the hole she played Monday for a 71, Sandra Hynie, who had three plays in the three holes she played for a 72, and Jo Ann Carner, who finished Sunday with a 70.

There are some cream substitutes on the market in some locations, packaged like ordinary cream as a liquid, that are made mostly from unsaturated fat. They will enable you to avoid saturated fat, but too much of any kind of fat can increase your caloric intake and cause a higher fat and cholesterol level in the blood.

A practical solution to your problem is to use one of the milk substitutes for babies who can't use milk. These are commonly made from soybeans and are high in protein and calcium. They are suitable for people with high cholesterol. Skin is so tasteless on cereals. I would like to be able to use something else.

DEAR READER - Most of the powdered varieties on the market are loaded with saturated fat - the substance most doctors are trying to help you avoid when they tell you not to use cream. From this point of view, the powdered varieties are worse than cream by far.

These substances are made with coconut oil, the one vegetable oil that is mostly saturated fat.

Unfortunately the label on these products often reads simply vegetable oil. The unsuspecting buyer thinks that is all right. This is not so. The labeling, long overdue, that permits a manufacturer to indicate how much of what kind of fat is in a product, the wise consumer should boycott all products stating only "vegetable oil" unless the manufacturer will tell you what the vegetable oil is, you should assume it is coconut oil for your own protection.

Montreal GM Sam Pollock (left) Says Farewell to Henri Richard

Richard Name Ends Link with Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) - The Montreal Canadiens will be without a Richard on the roster for the first time in more than 30 years when they open the 1975-76 season.

Henri Richard, 39, the second and last member of Montreal's Richard dynasty, announced his retirement Monday after 20 seasons in the National Hockey League.

"Every good thing must come to an end," said the greying diminutive captain of the Canadiens told a news conference. "It's time to step down and make way for younger players."

The other member of the dynasty was Maurice "Rocket" Richard, Henry's legendary older brother, who some call the greatest hockey player of all time. The Rocket retired 15 years ago after 18 seasons with Montreal.

Henri, at 5'7 and 160 pounds, was nicknamed the "pocket Rocket" when he joined his big brother on the team in 1955 at the age of 19.

In 20 years playing center, Henri scored 358 goals and was credited with 688 assists in 1,256 games. His total of 1,046 points put him tenth in the all-time NHL point total.

He was named to the first All-Star team once and to the second team three times. In 1973-74 he won the Bill Masterton trophy for perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication.

But Richard spent most of last season off the ice after he broke his ankle in November. He said his slow recovery from that injury was a major factor in his retirement, which had been expected for some time.

Richard said the Canadiens, whom he helped win 11 Stanley Cup championships, had treated him well. But he said he had decided to devote time to his business interests rather than take an office part with the club. He worked out an agreement with the club to end his contract one year before he was due to expire, he said, but he would not divulge the details of the deal.

Odegard Accepts Lease Panel Post

Former Republican State Sen. David Odegard of Manchester today confirmed reports he has been offered and has accepted appointment to a powerful new state agency.

His appointment, by the GOP minority leader, Lewis J. Gendron, was announced by the Rome and House GOP minority leader Gerald Stevens, who would be a four-year term to the State Property Review Board.

The agency will have the power to approve or reject all state leases, acquisitions and sales proposed by the state public works commissioner.

The six-member bi-partisan board will have three Democrats and three Republicans. Its members will receive $100 a day for every day they meet, up to a maximum of $12,500 a year. Manchester Republican Nathan Agostinelli said today the appointment "appears to be just a formality."

Odegard is being offered two terms in the State Senate, losing last November to Democrat David Barry.

The board was created by the 1975 General Assembly in the aftermath of an investigation into state leasing practices.

In addition to veto powers over state leases, acquisitions and property transfers, the board will have the power to approve or reject architects, professional engineers and land surveyors named by the public works commissioner.

We will have the authority to assess the "soundness of the business method" in proposed leasing and acquisition of buildings for state use.

Spokesmen from the Memorial Day Committee and the Manchester Historical Society have substantiated the Orford Parish Chapter, DAR's recent opinion the fountain should be left where it is. They said it might break if moved.

Mrs. Daisy Bill, regent, said it is being used as a planter and beautifies the area. There are plans to erect a flagpole nearby, she said.

It was placed there after it was rescued from the town dump.

Vernon Gets $15,310 for Walk Work

The Town of Vernon has received a total of $15,310.26 from the state for reimbursement of sidewalk installations necessary for the safety of children walking to school.

Mayor Frank McCoy said the total sum available under the act passed by the General Assembly during the 1973-74 session, was $100,000 and the funds received by Vernon amounted to 15 per cent of the total amount allowed for the state.

Mayor McCoy said he feels that Vernon's success in receiving such a large percentage of the funds was due to the fact that the town had a continuing sidewalk construction program under a town ordinance which was enacted in 1969.

This ordinance has basically the same provisions as the state statute concerning construction of walks for the safety of school children. It also provides for construction of walks installed to save money on bus transportation.

"Operating under this ordinance the town was able to move ahead and concentrate its sidewalk program during the 1974-75 fiscal year so that a total program of $30,620.50 was eligible for the 50 per cent reimbursement," the mayor explained.

Mayor McCoy, who is also head of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors, said he

GOP Head Asks Probe Over City Generator

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — The Republican town chairman has called for an investigation into why a city-owned generator was parked last month in the yard of a contractor firm owned by the brother of a city official.

And attorney James D. Mirabile said Monday he also wants to know why the generator was painted yellow, the color of the firm's equipment, rather than blue like other city equipment.

Dominic J. Serignese, owner of the Ram Construction Co. in South Windsor, and his brother, Michael, equipment maintenance supervisor for the East Hartford Housing Authority, told the Hartford Courant that the generator was in Ram's yard because it was being painted.

"Housing director Stanley Ozimek said he didn't know the authority owned a generator or had use for it, the newspaper said.

"The Courant said Ozimek said he was not aware of Serignese's plans.

Serignese said the generator was taken to the Ram yard so that it could be painted, free of charge, with his brother's equipment, the Courant said. At the end of the conversation Ozimek told Serignese, "Don't you think we'd better turn in this equipment?" the newspaper said.

GAO Scores Reservist Idleness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military reservists spend about half their time — and about $1.2 billion a year — in lectures about haircuts and two weeks of attend 48 four-hour drill sessions and spend two weeks on active duty each year. In fiscal 1974, 84,000 reservists were being trained to back up regular troops in case of war.

A GAO questionnaire produced 170 responses, including these:

— Said an Army national guardman: "A great deal of time is spent on irrelevant, un-pickling details that waste time. For instance, half a morning may be spent lecturing on haircuts and uniforms."

— Said an Army reservist: "Not much emphasis is placed on training of assigned skills. Lower echelon enlisted men must be kept at seemingly unimportant tasks."

— Said a Navy reservist: "Reservists in the higher pay grades spend most of their weekend sleeping, playing or just wasting time, while those in the lower pay grades spend time chipping paint, which has no military value."

The GAO recommended many reservists be relieved from all that training, especially if they had easy-to-learn jobs such as driving a truck or comparable civilian jobs such as being doctors and lawyers. The money saved could be used for training in difficult jobs such as field artillery fire control, it said.

It recommended more affiliation with active duty units, reduced paperwork for commanders and giving the most needed reserve units priority in equipment.

"Certainly there is no justification for idleness during training time and the entire problem is receiving a great deal of attention at all levels of command," John Ahearn, deputy assistant secretary of defense for reserve affairs, wrote in reply.

He said changes had been attempted since the GAO survey, including "an active program to reduce the administrative requirement better training coordination to train the active and reserve forces, which has resulted in improved unit readiness; and insuring that each member receives the very important hands-on training utilizing available equipment whenever possible."

Ruppert Given 11 Life Sentences

HAMILTON, Ohio (UPI) — "There are 11 dead... Do not make this a worse crime by adding a 12th person."

That was defense attorney Hugh Ruppert's mercy plea to the judges who could have given James Ruppert the death sentence Monday for the slaying of his 65-year-old widowed mother, his only brother, his sister-in-law and his eight nieces and nephews, aged 3 to 18.

Some 65 witnesses testified at Ruppert's 11-day trial. Ruppert himself did not take the stand and rarely said a word in court.

After sentencing and just before he was handcuffed and taken away, the judges asked Ruppert if he had any statement to make. He had none.

They asked if he had understood what had gone on in court.

He nodded — yes.

Major Ragazzi Heads Crime Task Force

HARTFORD (UPI) — Maj. Orlando P. Ragazzi, a 25-year veteran of the Connecticut State Police, has been named head of the Statewide Organized Crime Investigation Task Force.

Ragazzi will replace Capt. Richard Day as commander of the two-year-old unit.

State police spokesman Monday said the change had nothing to do with the resignation of the task force's advisory committee chairman, who was critical of its activities when he left two weeks ago.

H.R. Sterrett has said the task force had a poor arrest record and was concentrating too heavily on low-level gamblers.

Ragazzi has spent most of his state police career on the detective, criminal intelligence and narcotics divisions, heading all three operations at various times.

Hebron School Nurses Report Year's Program

Ann Dallaire
228-3267

The final health report submitted to the Board of Education by the community health nurses indicates that 109,230 hours were devoted to the school health program by the two nurses.

Included in this total were 4,920 visits to the health rooms for first aid to accidents and illness and for health counseling; 1,476 audio and visual screenings and retests with 105 children referred for further evaluation; 254 children participating in the dental prophylactic program with 89 referred for further evaluation and treatment.

Also, 54 physical examinations were completed by the school physician; 272 parents and staff members were contacted for health counseling; 30 classroom sessions were conducted by the nurses and Pupil Planning and Placement Team meetings were attended.

During the month of June 577 visits were made to the health rooms, according to Nancy Behrens and Roselyn Robbins, community health nurses for the two elementary schools.

Due to illness or injury, 16 children were excluded from school. The breakdown of first aid given was playground, 121; classrooms, 51; miscellaneous 191, and non-school 104.

A polo immunization clinic was held at Hebron Elementary School. One hundred twenty-seven children received oral polio vaccine.

Letters have been sent to each child's physician to notify him of the date of the immunization.

School physicals were completed at both schools by Dr. Christopher O'Connor, school physician. Twenty-seven children received physical examinations at each school. Parents of those children found to be in need of further evaluation or treatment were notified.

The pre-school screening program was completed at both schools. The Pupil Planning and Placement Team screened 108 children. Thirty-nine children have been referred for vision and/or hearing with seven children referred for further evaluation.

The figures reported to the faculty on the symposium on medication for children with hyperactivity and learning disorders will be conducted at the post's August meeting.

Conferences were held with Rham High School personnel to facilitate continuity of health programs for these students entering Rham next September.

Plans for the summer include follow-up of the pre-school vision and audio referrals and preparations for the beginning of school next September. Mrs. Behrens will be visiting the preschool summer program as a resource person.

AL Clambake
The 19th annual clambake sponsored by Jones-Keefe-Belton Post, American Legion, will be Aug. 17, beginning at 1 p.m. at the Lions Park at R. 65.

Tickets for lobster are $10 and steak $9. The menu also includes cherrystones, clam chowder, steamed sweet corn, potatoes and fish.

Children's tickets are $3 and include clam chowder, potatoes, sweet corn, fish, hot dogs, hamburger and soda. Tickets are available from post members.

The nominating committee of the post presented its recommendations for officers for the 1975-76 year.

The proposed officers are: Russell Anderson, commander; John Kulyvock Sr., vice commander; Richard Grant, adjutant; Howard Grant, finance officer; George Brault, chaplain; John Rebillard, historian; and Earl Porter, judge advocate.

The Keefe service officers are: Sam Smith, sergeant-at-arms. The office of junior vice commander has not been filled.

Elections will be conducted at the post's August meeting.

Permits Issued
The Hebron Building Department issued a total of 35 permits during the month of June, with $1,255 received in fees, according to Building Inspector Richard Keeffe.

There were 16 building permits issued with an estimated construction cost of $203,299. These included 6 one-family dwellings, five decks, two pools, one tool shed, one alteration and the installation of two 1,000-gallon oil storage tanks.

Other permits issued during June include septic permits, four driveway permits, one plumbing permit, three electrical permits, two well permits, one building permit renewal, three certificates of occupancy and an additional fee was received.

Fuel Saving Made By Andover School

Donna Holland
646-0375

Ronald Kaufman recently reported to the Andover Board of Education, of which he is a member, that fuel conservation measures undertaken at the Andover Elementary School resulted in significant savings during the 1974-75 school year.

He prepared a report comparing fuel consumption for the past three school years.

The figures showed a decline in fuel consumption from 42,650 gallons during the 1972-73 school year, to 34,000 gallons during the 1973-74 school year.

The daily consumption during that three-year period went from 113 to 5.97 to 4.66 gallons.

Kaufman attributed the savings to three factors: Careful monitoring of heating requirements by the principal and custodians, staging of the school's two boilers and improved system efficiency and minimized building heat losses.

Kaufman said he expects additional gains will be realized in the coming year.

137 Housing Faults Found, Some Corrections Effected

VERNON

During the months of May and June Housing Code Inspector John C. Darcy of Vernon inspected a total of 106 structures and 160 dwelling units and found 137 violations.

The violations for May included 67 electrical; 17 plumbing; 21 structural; and 4 sanitary. For June it included 7 electrical; 5 plumbing; 12 structural; and 4 sanitary.

The May report had a carry-over of 270 violations from the previous month but during the month the following violations were corrected: 8 electrical; 8 plumbing; 12 structural; and 1 sanitary with 350 outstanding violations carried over to the month of June.

Of the 56 structures inspected during May, nine were single-family dwellings that had been inspected more than five years ago; 21 were first inspections of single-family dwellings; and the other 26 were re-inspections.

One caveat was placed and one was released; 14 housing code notices were sent; 67 miscellaneous letters were mailed, and three complaints were returned over to court.

Bolton Waives Bids For Civil Preparedness Generator

Donna Holland
646-0375

The Board of Selectmen at its last meeting waiving bidding on the purchase of a generator for the request came from Cliff Massey, civil preparedness director.

Massey said he checked the prices of comparable models and the one he was requesting was the best buy.

Townpeople approved $3,500 for this purchase. It will cost $3,356 plus $100 for freight.

It is a basic unit with an electric starter and a provision for an end motor.

It should arrive in Bolton by the end of the month.

Townpeople approved gasoline electric plant, 20,000 watts. It will start and operate a 12-horsepower motor load, has a Wisconsin engine, one-year warranty and is air cooled, light weight and compact.

Request Approved
Danny Rattazzi, chief of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department, requested a key to the town garage for the BVFD in case of an emergency.

Recently the doors and locks were changed to comply with the Occupational Safety Health Act (OSHA) regulations.

Rattazzi said the department has keys to all the buildings in town.

He also requested permission for the BVFD to use town equipment.

Signs will be installed designating use of the water holes for the fire department.

The next check the town expects to receive will be in October. It will have the first quarterly payment for entitlement period six.

Sally Study
David Dreselly, first selectman, asked the new Board of Selectmen to give some thought to the appointment of a salary study committee which he anticipates will be appointed at the board's next meeting.

The Board of Finance requested the committee be appointed soon so salary schedules can be finalized before the 1976-1977 budget requests.

Rubbish Disposal
Raymond Main was advised to contact the Town of Andover to see if state highway department personnel would be allowed to dispose of rubbish collected from picnic areas and maintenance service centers in Bolton.

Main is the district maintenance manager of the state department.

He originally requested the department to see if there would be a conflict as Hoffman is in the service.

The appointment of Michael Collins was postponed to enable the selectmen to see if there would be a conflict as Hoffman is in the service.

The appointment of Michael Collins was postponed to enable a records check to be done.

Takes Vows
Brother Isaac Connolly took three-year vows as a monk of the Benedictine community of St. John's Abbey in Collegeville, Minn. recently.

At the end of the three years, the young monk and the community will decide whether or not he should make a lifetime commitment as a Benedictine Brother Connolly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Connolly, 35 School Rd., Ellington.

More detailed information about the program may be obtained at the registration.

Town Clerk
Catherine Leiner, town clerk, is attending the fourth annual school for Connecticut Town Clerks at the University of Connecticut this week.

The program is being conducted by the Institution of Public Services, the University of Connecticut and the Connecticut Town Clerks Association.

The town clerk's office is remaining open daily from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. under the management of Eleanor Press, assistant town clerk.

Dog Licenses Overdue
Mrs. Leiner urges those dog owners of Bolton who did not license their dogs in June to do so this month.

Fees for licenses during July are $3.75 for males or spayed females and $7.50 for females.

In accordance with state law, the summer months. In the past income has traditionally failed to keep up with expenses.

As of June 30 the church was about $50 behind projected expenses with its income.

Non-pledging members are encouraged to remit also, as they may have a fair share of the responsibility as well as the privileges.

St. Georges Church
The board of the Episcopal Church Women of St. Georges Episcopal Church will meet tonight at 8.

All officers and committee chairmen are expected to attend.

Confirmation Classes
Confirmation classes at St. Georges will begin Sept. 7. The classes are for children 12 years of age and older.

Registration must be returned to the church by today.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER

• Kenneth R. Righenzi, 19, of 311 Garden Dr. was arrested Monday at 11 a.m. in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford on a court warrant charging him with second-degree robbery.

Det. Robert Hennequin said he spotted Righenzi sitting in the courtroom. He then made the arrest on the warrant.

Righenzi is alleged to be one of a group which assaulted a 20-year-old man and robbed him of $3.50 July 1 at Spruce and Wells Sts., police said.

He is being held in lieu of $500 surety bond for court Friday.

• Christine E. Jenkins, 22, of Hartford was arrested Monday on a court warrant charging her with third-degree forgery (two counts), third-degree larceny (two counts), and criminal impersonation (two counts).

She allegedly cashed stolen checks at the Finast store on Spencer St. in May and June. She was released on a $250 surety bond for court Aug. 4.

• Kenneth R. Freeto, 25, of 445 Channing Dr. was arrested Monday at 5:40 p.m. at Spruce Village off Spencer St. and charged with breach of peace.

Freeto allegedly beat a neighbor, breaking his nose Monday. He was released on a $100 non-surety bond for court July 29.

David P. Deyorio, 23, of no certain address was arrested Monday at 10:45 p.m. on a court warrant charging him with issuing a bad check. He was being held on $200 surety bond for court today.

• Thomas Riggio, 32, of 114 Chestnut St. was arrested Monday at 8:30 p.m. and charged with allowing a dog to roam.

His terrier-type dog allegedly attacked a cat in the Garden Dr. area Monday. A neighbor to the owner of the cat attempted to save the cat and the dog bit him, police said.

The four then kicked and punched the two until they got away, they told police.

One youth required treatment at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Police are investigating the story.

Someone stole about 100 gallons of gas during the past two weeks from trucks parked at the rear of the Annulli Construction Co. at 147 Hale Rd.

The thefts of gas occurred in the past but never at such a rate, the owner told police. They asked police to help stop the thefts.

A Parker St. home which has been broken into recently was broken into again Monday between 7 a.m. and 4:50 p.m.

Missing is a color TV, two vacuum cleaners, an electric broom, jewelry boxes with contents, a watch, a bedspread, and men's suits.

Two white youths of Manchester were walking along the dirt road to the south side of

Indonesian Returns For Visit

By BETTY RYDER

An Indonesian official has spent several weeks in the United States continuing his efforts to learn more about labor relations, the planning and research of manpower, and effective methods of transmigration.

Aksan Andono, whose position in his homeland is similar to that of our Under Secretary of Labor, was a recent guest of the Thomas Ferguson family of 78 Forest St. when he met during a visit some 13 years ago.

As a participant in this country's Asian International Training Program, Andono had the opportunity to discuss Indonesia's problems with representatives of the U.S. Department of Labor and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, as well as other officials on matters of medicine and social adjustment.

"Indonesia is comprised of some 3,000 islands and has close to 120 million people," Andono said. "It is in some of the less populated islands that my government is hoping to translocate some of its people armed with the skills and knowledge to build new and rewarding lives in a less congested area."

The knowledge he will bring back to his country regarding skills, medical needs, and the establishment of new communities will be evaluated by his government and, if feasible, may be put into operation, in part or in whole.

Included in his visit to the United States was a tour of the Indian Reservation in Duluth, Minn. where he got first-hand information as to the problems facing transients, medical programs that must be set up, resources available, and skills required to establish a new community.

"My goal is to find suitable programs which have proved successful in similar situations in this country, and bring that knowledge of them back to Indonesia," he said.

He has attended various international seminars here with representatives of other nations including Egypt, Spain and Jamaica.

"I hope I can benefit from the exchange of ideas and experiences and that it will broaden my knowledge of the problems facing other emerging nations and aid in their solution."

Andono's visit also took him to the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine at Racine where he met with state officials to discuss medical needs and hospital facilities and what part the state plays in administering such medical programs.

The Indonesian visitor resides in Jakarta, the capital of Indonesia, with his wife and three children, Ivan, Asri and Vivid. Speaking of his homelife in Jakarta, Andono said, "While my position in my homeland is similar to that of Under Secretary of State here (United States), it is not quite so lucrative. I receive $150 per month and officials are provided with a home and a car."

He says Indonesia was still a part of the 18th Century as far as progress was concerned until just after World War II. He was only 14 when the Japanese took over Indonesia in 1942 and during an attack was seriously injured in a pickup truck accident which nearly cost him an eye.

In just 20 years, Andono says, Indonesia has jumped from the 18th century into today, and although he admits his country still has a long way to go, he is pleased with the programs for growth planned by his government.

"Jobs for young people pose a problem in Indonesia as they do in most other countries today. We are concerned," he said.

"We do have a volunteer program in which we recruit young people to work in the villages—similar to your (United States) Peace Corps. They work for two years and acquire skills to use for their own livelihood and to pass on to others not enrolled in the program."

While progress is the keynote in his homeland, many of the age-old customs are still continued.

"We wear our wedding ring on the right hand, as we do the engagement ring," Andono said.

"The Indonesian people are very family-oriented and feel that it is their obligation to care for their parents. The custom of selecting a husband for the daughter of the family still is true in many families, but the trend is changing a little," he explained.

Women are just beginning to be recognized as individuals, Andono says. "Many women's organizations have been formed and the volunteers work in hospitals or provide food and snacks for the needy."

"Special programs have been set up for the wives of government officials and they, together with their husbands, are given an opportunity to meet and voice their opinions on certain aspects of government policy or offer constructive criticism on various phases with which they don't agree," he said.

A warm, soft-spoken man with sparkling brown eyes, Andono is anxious to convey all his new found knowledge to his superiors and is hopeful they will be receptive to some of the methods utilized in the United States.

"I can only present my findings," he said with a smile, "offer my suggestions, and hope that some of them may be put into operation."

Parting from his Manchester friends was not easy, but Andono is looking forward to returning home—or better still having the Ferguson family visit he and his family in Jakarta one day.

In the meanwhile, the exchange of letters will continue as it has for the past 13 years until good friends are reunited.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

John Adams had a talented and determined marriage partner who urged him forward with daring ideas about the American Revolution. While he was attending the Continental Congress, Abigail Adams wrote her husband: "In this new code of laws...I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors. If particular care and attention is not paid to the ladies, we are determined to foment a rebellion, and will not hold ourselves bound by any laws in which we have no voice or representation." The World Almanac notes.

FAVORITE DISH
NEW YORK (UPI) — When it comes to America's favorite dishes, the hamburger claims top popularity, according to one of the nation's largest food and refreshment service firms.

This year some 15 billion hamburgers will be consumed in the U.S., estimate researchers for Servation Corporation. That will bring the national average close to 64.6 hamburgers per person.
