HOUSTON (UPI) — Three American astronauts easily fixed a minor problem in their Apollo today and bore down on Russia's two Soyuz cosmonauts more than 1,000 miles ahead for a union Thursday 136 miles over Germany.

The flagships of the two space powers circled the world every hour and a half in the second day of history's first international manned spaceflight.

Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov opened the day's activities by gunning their 15,000 pound Soyuz into a near perfect "assembly" orbit 138 to 140 miles high to wait for the Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald "Deke" Slayton to join them.

"Your friends just finished a circ (circularization) burn and they are in orbit waiting for you," Robert Crippen at Houston control told the three Americans.

The astronauts' first chore of the day was to remove a stainless steel docking probe hung up because a wire connector shifted out of position and blocked a removal tool. Crippen radioed up instructions on how to fix it, and the astronauts reported a few minutes later that the probe had been successfully removed.

"Ah, the probe is out," Stafford said at 10:37 a.m. EDT.

The probe was used to clasp docking latches when the Apollo hooked up to its docking module Tuesday. It had to be removed so the pilots could move into the module and later the Soyuz.

The problem was considered minor from the beginning and flight directors said there was no concern about it affecting this week's rendezvous and linkup plans. Russian officials in Moscow, however, expressed some concern and were assured by U. S. technical representatives there that the problem could be overcome.

"In return, we bugged them about their TV camera problems," said astronaut Robert Overmyer in Moscow.

One of the four video cameras in the Soyuz failed during launch Tuesday and detailed step by step repair procedures were radioed up by Moscow to Leonov and Kubasov at the same time Houston was sending repair procedures to the Apollo.

Soviet controller Viktor Blagov said the camera problem was traced to a defect in a cable. "It will not affect the flight," he said in Moscow. "The only sufferers are the viewers."

Stafford, Brand and Slayton awoke more than five hours later than the cosmonauts this morning. A few minutes later, Slayton spilled some strawberries in his eating for breakfast.

"We have a strawberry colored spacecraft," he radioed Houston.

"Spill much?" asked Crippen.

"It doesn't take much up here," Slayton replied.

"If you think your TV is looking through rose colored glasses, it's only because it's covered with strawberries," Stafford said later.

At one point, Crippen asked Slayton how he felt.

"I can't believe it," replied the man who has waited 18 years for a chance to fly in space. "Never felt better. There may be something better, but it's been so long since I've seen it I couldn't tell you."

Egypt Refuses to Renew Peace Force Mandate

By United Press International
Israel warned today that Egypt's decision not to renew the mandate of the United Nations Emergency Force separating Israeli and Egyptian troops in the Sinai Desert could endanger progress already made toward peace.

U.N. Secretary General Waldheim said the Egyptian decision had created a "serious and dangerous" situation in the Middle East and that he was mobilizing diplomatic strength to deal with it.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said today the U.N. force, called UNEF, is stationed on Egyptian territory and cannot remain there except with Egypt's approval.

But Egyptian government sources said Egypt has no plan to ask for its removal despite Cairo's decision against consenting to a renewal of the force's mandate scheduled to expire on Thursday next week. That meant the U.N. force could stay even without a mandate.

Fahmi, who announced the decision at a news conference Tuesday night, made a new statement to the government's Middle East news agency today commenting on Israel's reaction to the Egyptian refusal.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, in a speech to the Knesset (parliament) in Jerusalem, said Egypt must recognize a continued U.N. peace-keeping role in the Sinai so as not to endanger progress already made toward peace.

"Israel is carrying out its obligations according to the separation of forces agreement with Egypt on the basis of mutuality," Rabin said. "If Egypt is interested in not harming this agreement it too must honor the existence and authority of the U.N. forces which are an integral part of the separation of forces agreement."

The separation of forces agreement between the two countries was signed in January of last year, three months after the 1973 Middle East war.

Revised Development Bond Bill Objections Voiced at Hearing

By ROBERT LAMBERT
HARTFORD (UPI) — Difficulties with a redrafted city and town development bill may force a delay in taking it up at a special legislative session next Monday, UPI has learned.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso has signed a proclamation calling for the special session, but Rep. Donald Esposito, D-Danbury, chairman of the State and Urban Development Committee, said Tuesday more time is needed to perfect the bill.

Mrs. Grasso vetoed the measure last month after critics charged it was so loosely drafted that unscrupulous politicians could raid municipal treasuries for personal profit.

Esposito said when his committee meets Thursday he expects further changes will be made in the revamped bill, which already has gone through five drafts since the governor's veto. He said he would like two or three weeks to make sure any defects are eliminated from the bill.

Aaron Ment, Mrs. Grasso's legal counsel, said the lawmakers could take more time in bringing the bill to the floor of the legislature in special session if they wish and are not bound to act on it within a specific time limit.

The Democratic legislative leadership scheduled an afternoon meeting to discuss action on the proposed bill, originally set for the special session.

House Majority Leader William A. O'Neill, D-East Hampton, said if the committee is not ready when the lawmakers convene to consider 19 bills vetoed by Mrs. Grasso this year, they could have more time.

"I think everyone is concerned with having a passable bill that solves the problem," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said one possibility would be to have the lawmakers meet Monday and then recess the special session until Wednesday. If still more time was needed, he said, it could be made available.

At the committee hearing Tuesday, House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, said he supports the use of municipal bonds to help redevelop blighted communities but wants some provisions tightened up.

Mayor Frank J. McCoy of Vernon, president of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities, said Connecticut is no longer as desirable a site for industry as it was in the past.

"Connecticut has high costs of land, labor and energy and high property taxes," McCoy said.

Under the revised bill, a community would have to certify it has economic blight, serious housing problems, persistent high unemployment, and obsolete commercial and industrial facilities in order to qualify.

Communities could bond up to 10 percent of the total assessed value of property in the town or city.

Stevens said new language is needed to make it clear that municipalities could not exempt businesses from state taxes and to make it clear that zoning and planning ordinances would have to be followed.

The Republican leader also criticized a provision which would allow a municipality to operate a development program under a simple enabling resolution by its local legislative body.

Individual bonding projects would not require voter referenda under the bill, but Stevens said the provision should be changed so that local charter provisions would prevail.

The Rev. Taylor Elected District Superintendent

The Rev. William A. Taylor, pastor of Manchester's Church of the Nazarene, has been elected superintendent of the New England Nazarene District.

Though the Rev. Mr. Taylor has already assumed the duties of his new post, he will remain in Manchester until some time in August, when he will move to Quincy, Mass., where the district parsonage and offices are located.

The local Church of the Nazarene is presently in the process of calling a replacement for the Rev. Mr. Taylor. As district superintendent, the Rev. Mr. Taylor will oversee the 65 churches in the district, which includes all the New England states with the exception of the Quadrennial International Convention next spring in Dallas, Tex.

The superintendent-elect said he had mixed feelings about leaving his Manchester parish, but added that he believes he had been preparing for the office "in that I've been on this district for 27 years." He also said that he had served various sized parishes, which have given him a wide range of experiences.

He said he could relate to clergy who have small home mission churches because of his experiences at Bethel Beach Church of the Nazarene in Quincy, which he founded and served as pastor for 15 years. He said his second parish in Melrose, Mass., was a medium sized church.

"Now that I have a multiple staff at Manchester, I feel I can relate to pastors of larger churches," he added.

He has been a member of district school board, chairman of the ministers' insurance commission, a member of the district board of orders and relations and advisory board and is a trustee of Eastern Nazarene College, his alma mater.

Judi, the oldest daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Taylor, was graduated from Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy, Mass., this spring. Their other daughter, Mary-Beth, is presently a junior at the college.

R. F. Robinson Named Publisher of Herald

Raymond F. Robinson, 53, today was named publisher of The Manchester Evening Herald, it was announced by Duane B. Hagadone, president of Manchester Publishing Co.

Robinson succeeds Burl Lyons, publisher since the purchase of The Herald by Hagadone Newspapers of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Nov. 8, 1971. Lyons will return to the western part of the United States.

Robinson comes to Manchester from DeKalb, Ill., where he was publisher of the Daily Chronicle for the past four years. He has spent his entire working life in the newspaper business.

Born in DeKalb, Ill., the new publisher graduated from DeKalb High School and was a graphic arts major at Northern Illinois University at DeKalb. His father was mechanical superintendent at the DeKalb Daily Chronicle for more than 40 years, and the younger Robinson's first experience was in the mechanical department.

He started with DeKalb in 1946 after three years as a radio operator with the United States Air Force during World War II.

Robinson left the mechanical department to open the first Sycamore, Ill., bureau for the DeKalb newspaper and was responsible for news, advertising and circulation. He joined the display advertising staff in 1950 and was named advertising manager in 1955.

The new Herald publisher has been active in community affairs in DeKalb. He is immediate past chairman of the board of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, is a past president of Kishwaukee Country Club, and an active member of Rotary, the Masonic Order, and the Shriners. He is a member of the advisory board of the DeKalb Salvation Army and is vice president of the Boosters Club of the Northern Illinois University "Huskies."

His hobbies are golf and music. Robinson is married and he and his wife, Clare, have two married sons. Mrs. Robinson has been a kindergarten teacher in DeKalb for 20 years.

Robinson met The Herald staff this morning, and he and his wife will take up permanent residence in Manchester as soon as he has found a home. He assumed active direction of the paper today.

"My wife and I are extremely pleased and excited by the new opportunity and challenge which my new position offers," Robinson said. "The Herald is staffed by an outstanding group of people, and there will be no changes."

"We are very impressed by the beauty of Manchester area and the friendliness of the people, and we are looking forward to making many new friends."

"The Manchester area offers great opportunity for growth, and we expect to see the Herald grow with the area and to fill its rightful position in community leadership."

Robinson will be a stockholder in The Herald.

Leonard Sentenced For 24 Fire Deaths

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Peter Leonard, 22, of Greenwich, Conn., was sentenced to 15 years to life in prison today for the deaths of 24 people in a Fort Chester, N.Y., discotheque fire last year.

Leonard was charged with 24 counts of murder and pleaded guilty more than a month ago. He was sentenced on each count, although the sentences will run concurrently.

He was also sentenced to lesser terms on charges of arson, burglary and petty larceny.

Leonard was accused of setting a fire in a bowling alley next to the crowded Gulliver's Discotheque last July, in order to cover up a burglary.

During his trial in White Plains Supreme Court, Leonard entered a guilty plea, then collapsed a short time later and had to be carried from the court room on a stretcher. The judge indicated possible leniency when he said he did not believe Leonard acted viciously with the intention of taking lives.

New Jersey Hardest Hit By Rain-Caused Floods

By United Press International
Homes and business were awash, crops lay in ruin at the height of the harvest season and the death toll mounted. It was midsummer weather on the rampage.

Floodwaters and torrential rains Tuesday drove hundreds of persons from their homes in the flooded Northeast in the latest of a three-day onslaught that has left at least nine persons dead.

New Jersey was hardest hit — at least six dead, more than $20 million in crop losses alone and additional millions of damage to homes and businesses. "It's a sad day for New Jersey agriculture and even sadder for the consumer," New Jersey Agriculture Secretary Phillip Alampi said after an actual tour of seven counties in the flood-swept Garden State.

Tomato and wheat fields lay in ruin at the height of the harvest season. Their loss was bound to raise grocery prices throughout the Eastern states which rely on Jersey produce.

Gov. Brendan Byrne declared a flood disaster in New Jersey to bring federal relief to farmers and homeowners.

New downpours Tuesday hit communities already awash from more than 10 inches of rain. Some areas had received more than nine inches of rain in a 24-hour period.

The flooding and rain stretched from Delaware to New England. Delaware had two weather-attributed deaths and Pennsylvania one.

Some parts of Rahway, N.J., were under five feet of water. Rescue crews using boats evacuated 40 families in Trenton, N.J., where storm-related damage was estimated at more than $300,000. At least 35 families were evacuated and more than 20 roads flooded along the Raritan and Millstone rivers in Somerset County, N.J.

The New Jersey legislative session in Trenton was canceled because of highway flooding.

Floodwaters washed over many major roadways in the New York City area during the morning rush hours Tuesday.

The rain stopped in New Jersey — at least temporarily — by mid-afternoon, and the National Weather Service said "the heavy precipitation along the northeast Atlantic Coast is beginning to diminish."

Nuclear Threat Revisited

It is ironic that the Rosenberg case is being resurrected as a public issue at precisely the time that the nuclear threat is causing more world anxiety than it has in a decade or so.

The issue in the trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg was, of course, whether they had delivered the "secret" of the atomic bomb to the Soviet Union.

The problem today is that there is no "secret" to nuclear capability. It is there for the development, or purchase, by those nations which have the necessary industrial, intellectual and/or financial resources.

Considering all those doomsday warnings of unrestricted proliferation back in the '50s, it is amazing how long the nuclear monopoly of a small group of more or less cooperative governments has been maintained.

Signs have been multiplying, however, that the dam may be about to break. And the pressure is not, as once feared, coming from power politics. It's economic.

As practically of nuclear power has increased in recent years, helped along lately by the political manipulation of world oil supplies, the export of nuclear technology has become an increasingly profitable business for those nations who got into the game early.

The trouble is that nuclear power technology can't really be separated from nuclear weapons capability, as demonstrated last year when India, with Canada's unwitting aid, became the sixth nation to explode a nuclear device.

If others choose to follow the Indian lead, the mushroom cloud could appear next in any of a number of countries busily importing nuclear know-how. A Brazilian-West German deal involving reactors and fuel processing facilities has drawn press attention and open U.S. disapproval. France is working on deals with Argentina, Pakistan and South Korea. The Soviets are selling Libya a reactor. Canada, once burned on its reactor delivery to India, is nonetheless

Connally Has Future With Ford

WASHINGTON — President Ford, according to sources in his administration, wants very much to appoint former Gov. John B. Connally of Texas to a high government post, possibly that of secretary of state when Henry Kissinger departs.

Ford is described as holding Connally's proven capabilities in high esteem. The President is said to feel that "it's a shame" Connally's expertise is "being wasted," and reportedly is determined to find a spot for the former Treasury secretary on his team. One educated guesser predicted that Connally would be moving back to Washington "before Christmas."

Connally, who was acquitted last April of taking a bribe from a milk producers association, has remained close to Ford. They chat frequently on the telephone and have met at least twice since Connally's acquittal. Ford is said to agree with what one source described as "Connally's understanding of the economics of foreign policy."

There is no doubt Connally would be an asset to the Ford administration, whether as secretary of state or in some other Cabinet post. He is a career government official and has done well in two national offices — as secretary of the Navy under John Kennedy and in the Treasury job under Richard Nixon. He has imagination and vigor and has never been afraid to do something the first time.

Whether Ford would appoint Connally to a post as sensitive as secretary of state, however, is a difficult question. Although Connally was vindicated in a jury trial, he would be subject to criticism and attack by prejudiced opponents in and out of government. He was found innocent, but to many his indictment for bribery and perjury will remain a blemish on his career.

And, of course, Connally would have to be confirmed by a Democratic Senate all of whose members do sit among the angels. His nomination undoubtedly would set off a hot fight, and Gerald Ford — a many politician — could be forgiven for not looking for trouble with a presidential campaign in the offing.

OPEN FORUM

People Of Bolton Don't Have A Say

Dear Sir: The people of Bolton no longer have any say in their town meetings. At the recent town meeting people were not allowed to ask questions regarding the purchase and future plans (all relevant to the question) for the Holt property was not answered. Funds were appropriated from the capital and non-recurring fund for land acquisition which is not legal.

The Town of Bolton has voted to purchase property that the title search has not even been completed. The Rosedale Beach right of way could be involved. Nature Conservancy has a bond for deed for purchasing the Holt property for $90,000 and is selling it to the town for $120,000. The so-called gift to the town from them will be approximately $25,000 after their legal fees have been deducted. The town is paying for their gift and they are placing restrictions on the property.

Federal grants are supposedly higher because of the sale price. Accepting these grants will allow a very broad use of the land. There is a possibility that the state grant of $30,000 cannot be obtained. The state has exceeded its bonded indebtedness now and has placed a moratorium on spending for many projects and grants.

If a charter had been in existence these very important questions would have automatically been placed on machine via referendum but that is just another right that the selectmen won't allow the people of Bolton.

Thanks

To the editor: My thanks to the editor of The Herald for a few lines here in which I may express my warmest appreciation to the hundreds of former students, both at Manchester Community College and at Trinity College, who have written in recent weeks to voice their concern and support.

Without secretarial assistance, I cannot possibly respond to each writer individually as I would like to be able to do but be assured that each letter has brought its own particular comfort, not excluding the professional comfort of my noting that almost all the words were spelled correctly.

Perhaps Yeats' closing lines from "The Municipal Gallery Revisited" are appropriate: "Think where man's glory most begins and ends, And say my glory was I had such friends." James W. Gardner Jr. English teacher and student 22 Forest St. Manchester

If and when Manchester receives any of that state or federal money for "make work" projects we are certain that directors will be supplied with an endless list of programs by the citizenry. The first thing we will have to do is name a committee to establish priorities.

That's why we want to submit one project early. Improve the entrance and exit to Charter Oak Park. Just grading the road now and then so cars and people could avoid the ruts would be a major improvement. Then, if a big event is taking place such as the recent benefit softball game, we might consider hiring one or two unemployed youths to direct parking so that some vehicles don't take up as many as two and sometimes three spaces.

We keep reading about those high unemployment figures with a lot of misgivings. For some time our circulation director, Tim McCulloch, has been attempting to employ persons on a part-time basis during evening hours to no avail. We can only assume that unemployment and welfare benefits make it more beneficial for some persons not to work. At any rate, if you are an adult and looking for part-time work, give McCulloch a call.

Out Coventry correspondent, Monica Shea, makes good use of old newspapers. She uses them for garden mulch. As a result, she says she hasn't as yet had to weed her garden. That's very interesting, considering all the rain we have been experiencing.

A couple of gems from the Rotary magazine: Have you noticed the older you grow the more difficult it becomes to pat yourself on the back? If you want a path with no obstacles, it probably doesn't lead anywhere.

Some people in our reading audience must be feeling a bit guilty about watching the benefit softball game for New Hope Manor without making a contribution. If anyone wants to clear his or her conscience, you can still mail your contribution to New Hope. The game donation was $2 for adults but a contribution of any size would be appreciated.

The Senate Commerce Committee has approved a bill which would require that estimates of annual operating costs be displayed in advertisements for household appliances and automobiles.

The bill authorizes the Federal Trade Commission to issue rules which would require any advertisement which displays the purchase price or energy characteristics to include a statement of the estimated annual operating cost of the product.

Whether or not the measure gets on the Congressional floor before August when Congress begins its recess is debatable.

Worth repeating from Sales Management: We lived through the 'Troubled Thirties, the Fighting Forties, the Fabulous Fifties, the Soaring Sixties. Now we are in the Sexy Seventies and heaven forbid but it has been suggested that around the corner is the Aching Eighties.

One of the most interesting aspects of this business is operating in the day mail.

We certainly treasure the citations and letters of commendation received from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion for support of their various programs.

We even get a chuckle out of an occasional joison pen letter. One thing that disturbs us are letters unsigned. Therefore we tend to stay away from the dimly lighted back streets. We enjoy life.

Irish Says Cummings Only Hears One Side of the Firehouse Issue

By SOL R. COHEN
Wally Irish Jr., a prime opponent to a Town of Manchester firehouse in the Buckland area, today expressed disappointment State Rep. Ted Cummings is backing the construction.

"A man with his concern for the people of Manchester and the leader of the Democratic town committee should have an understanding of the arguments and beliefs of all parties involved before making a decision," insisted Irish.

Irish is a North End resident and a member of the Manchester, Eighth District Fire Department. He was the Republican candidate last November for state representative from the 12th Assembly District, losing to Cummings.

Said Irish, "It is the right of Buckland property owners by state statute, to petition and request the services of the Eighth Utilities District, if they so desire, and Rep. Cummings apparently has no knowledge or concept of these rights."

Without mentioning the proposed multi-million dollar Buckland Commons by name, Irish acknowledged the controversy and petition by Buckland residents for Eighth District fire protection "basically involves the growth of the Buckland area."

"It's a sad commentary," said Irish, "that the town administration is pitting the two fire departments against each other over a local issue."

Returning to the remarks Tuesday by Cummings, he said, "It amazes me that 13 months after I appeared before the town Board of Directors and called for a study of all town fire services, Rep. Cummings now suggests more cooperation, instead of competition, between fire departments."

"If Rep. Cummings bases his decision in the legislature after hearing only one side of an issue, similar to his obvious decision in this situation, then I can readily understand his recent public statement concerning his political future," Irish said.

Irish said he doesn't rule out the possibility he might run for state representative again in 1976.

Ellington Bars Dump Expansion, Wants More Data from Botticello

Anthony Botticello of Ellington, owner of the Ellington Bar, has announced that he is negotiating with the town to take its refuse an even longer term.

Botticello had filed a request with the commission to extend his permit one more year, and this was granted. He also asked to include the use of the area to expand an unused portion of the site and to be allowed to haul in refuse from other unnamed towns.

The town of Vernon has a contract with Botticello that is to run until 1982 and he is negotiating with Ellington to take its refuse an even longer term.

Botticello had filed a request with the commission to extend his permit one more year, and this was granted. He also asked to include the use of the area to expand an unused portion of the site and to be allowed to haul in refuse from other unnamed towns.

Janet Bati, Ellington's first selectwoman, said she was told by a Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) official that the refuse gardens could accommodate a population of about 40,000 for only about four more years. Vernon's population is about 30,000.

Mrs. Bati noted, however, that the figures she had were not the result of a formal engineering study by the DEP.

Ryan asked that the minutes of the commission meeting reflect that the commission would look favorably on Botticello's request if he could present evidence which would show the refuse area could provide for carrying out Vernon and Ellington contracts plus presenting projected figures for a reasonable period of time.

Botticello and his attorney Richard Woodhouse, at the hearing last week, noted that the time is not too far off when the DEP will not allow landfill operations such as the Refuse Gardens.

Decker Deciding on Race For Post on Town Council

SOUTH WINDSOR

Judy Kuehnel

644-1364

South Windsor Board of Education chairman Cite Decker said today she expects to make a decision within a few days on whether to run for the Town Council.

Mrs. Decker said she is "still undecided at this point, although the council is a real possibility."

However, I feel a responsibility to the school board," said Mrs. Decker. I would like to see what other candidates come forward for the board."

The Democratic caucus is scheduled for July 31 and party officials have confirmed that some key spots still remain open.

Mrs. Pat Sprengelmeyer of Ann Dr. and Mrs. Mary Ann Morrisette of Arada Dr. have both indicated interest in a school board seat.

Some Town Council Democrats have also expressed some uncertainty about seeking re-election in November.

Mayor Robert Smith, as well as Deputy Mayor Sandra Bender and Councilman Leo Manelli have all suggested they may not run.

Playground "Water Day," a day set aside to let kids get as wet as they please, has been scheduled for Friday at South Windsor's Orchard Hill School.

Games include water balloons and "slip and slide," and parents are reminded to send children in appropriate clothing.

Also scheduled at the playgrounds this week are softball pillow-pole, street hockey, water games, ping-pong, quiet games and movies.

Thursday buses will take local children to see "Pinochio" at the Oakdale

Musical Theatre in Wallingford.

Fire Reports

The South Windsor Fire Department responded to 17 fire alarms during the month of June.

There were six motor vehicle fires and six structure fires. In addition, there were two trash container fires, one grass fire, one gasoline washdown, one first aid call and one mutual aid response.

The preliminary property fire loss estimate for June is $3,000. In May, there were 11 alarms and no property fire loss. The number of alarms during June corresponds exactly with the four-year average for the month.

Post Refuses to License Dogs, Says Damages Unpaid

ANDOVER
Donna Holland 646-0375
Robert Post, owner-operator of Burnap Brook Farm in Andover, has refused to license his dogs this year because a claim for damages to his cows by dogs has not been paid.

Post claims he lost a calf and then a heifer who was calving because of dogs. He submitted a claim for the heifer who was calving in the amount of $800. The incidents happened late in 1973.

Post reported it to David Yeaman, first selectman, and Ronald Mathewson, Connecticut canine control officer, and Louis Golei, chief canine control officer.

The latter two were called to investigate. Post admitted the heifer had no marks on her, but did have witnesses who saw her being run by dogs. He claims she was run to death.

He said neither state man took pictures or statements. Post said an autopsy by Dr. Allan Levanthal, veterinarian, showed the heifer was within two weeks of calving, looked good inside and out and had some foam in her lungs, possibly from overexertion.

The incident was witnessed by Post's two sons and a neighbor, Miss Ellen Davidson. Post said he wrote many letters to the state attempting to get payment but his letters went unanswered.

Post finally called Dorothy Miller, who at the time was state representative for the 55th District which Andover is a part.

BOLTON
Donna Holland 646-0375
The Board of Finance has asked the Board of Selectmen to resubmit its request for an appropriation for either a constabulary police force and a state trooper, or an additional resident trooper to its next meeting, which will be July 21.

The original request by the selectmen for necessary funds was denied. The finance board requested the selectmen include a detailed breakdown of the implementation of both, the advantages and disadvantages of both, and the selectmen's recommendation of which approach it desires for the town.

He said whichever town approves having a resident trooper or second resident trooper and gets approval for an appropriation will get the trooper.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for two years and have relocated to a completely different area where I have no close friends and no one to talk to about this.

Mrs. David A. Hess

DEAR "ST": Remain holding. Don't marry him feeling as you do. And don't suggest living together, either. Continue to see him as long as you enjoy his company, but if he gives you an "either-or," take the "or."

DEAR NEW YORKER: Why do you assume that her sexual preference will necessarily "rain" her life? If you love her, accept her as she is and let her know it.

DEAR ABBY: I am highly allergic to dogs. The odor of dogs makes me sick. I can even smell it on people's clothing. My problem is that my son has married a dog lover, and they have a dog.

DEAR HURT: Asking a dog lover to get rid of her dog is asking a lot. But I agree, people are more important than dogs. Or they should be.

CONFIDENTIAL TO K: So if your husband wants to read "dirty" books, don't censor him by telling him you "found" them—knowing that he hid them from you. How can what he reads hurt you?

Dawn Marie Mulvey and David Allen Hess, both of Andover, were married July 5 at Andover Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mulvey of Corvallis, Ore. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler H. Hess of Lake Rd., Andover.

The Rev. David Reese of Andover performed the double-ring ceremony.

Three area women were installed as officers in the Hartford Chapter of the American Association of Medical Assistants at its recent installation banquet.

They are Mrs. Julia Vincent of South Windsor, president-elect; Mrs. Clayre Hall of Manchester, secretary; and Mrs. Gretchen Edber of Manchester, treasurer.

Effective this year, the Hartford Chapter of AAMA will present a $100 scholarship to a qualified student planning on a career as a medical assistant.

Miss Brenda Hess of Andover, the bridegroom's sister; and Miss Kelly Lynn Mulvey of Corvallis, the bride's sister; were flower girls. They wore dotted Swiss gowns trimmed with Venise lace with matching daisy headpieces. One gown was in yellow and the other was mint green. Both carried old-fashioned colonial nosegays.

Terry Hoisington of Andover was best man. Ushers were Miss Cindy Ann Mulvey of Corvallis, the bride's sister; and Mrs. Linda Chambers of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in pastel blue silk with matching jacket and picture hat. They carried garden baskets of blue carnations, lavender daisy pompons and baby's breath.

Miss Lori Rainey of Windsor Locks was maid of honor. She wore pastel pink silk organza halter gown with matching jacket and picture hat. She carried a garden basket of pink carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Effective this year, the Hartford Chapter of AAMA will present a $100 scholarship to a qualified student planning on a career as a medical assistant.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

I'm Having Car Trouble

I used to complain all the time about the amount of driving I had to do. Back and forth, back and forth—from baseball practice, to piano lessons, to the dentist's office. I felt like an overworked chauffeur.

Well, this summer we have two teen-age drivers in the household and let me tell you, in retrospect, those were the good old days.

At least then the car was mine. Exclusively mine. When I wasn't using it, it sat in the garage waiting for me. It was a symbol of my independence, my escape hatch.

When the kids got their licenses I suggested that we have a sign-up sheet for the car. I thought it sounded like a good and fair method. What I didn't consider was the fact that there are two of them and only one of me and they always get to the sign-up sheet first.

Take this week for example. Tom signed up for the car on Friday and Saturday. Sara signed up for Tuesday and Wednesday. On Monday the car had an appointment for a check-up at the garage. That left me Thursday and would you believe, on Thursday I had to stay home till 4 p.m. to wait for the plumber.

My poor car is in use so much of the time that the hood is always warm to the touch. In addition to the fact that the kids are constantly using the car—they complain about it. They say that it rattles, and guzzles gas, and that it's the oldest, ugliest car in the neighborhood.

I hope we aren't leaving you stranded. But you know what you always say to us, ma. Why don't you ride your bike? The exercise would be good for you.

HIGHEST AWARD CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has been selected to receive the American Bar Association's highest award, the ABA Medal.

The Houston attorney will receive the award during the ABA annual meeting in Montreal, Aug. 13.

"Your names are on the sign-up sheet," said Sara. "As the kids started out the door, Tom turned and looked at me."

Old Food Stamps Still Redeemable

Food Stamp recipients were advised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) that they may continue to redeem their remaining old stamps, $2 and $5 food stamp coupons at authorized food stores and meal services until Aug. 31, 1975.

The USDA introduced a new food stamp series, $1, $5 and $10 meal services until Aug. 31, 1975, with a deadline of June 30 for spending the old series stamps.

The deadline was extended to allow recipients who were issued old coupons in March, April and May adequate time to use them. However, if the old stamps have not been used by the August 31 deadline, the authorized food stores and meal services may redeem old coupons at commercial banks through Sept. 30, 1975.

NL Domination of All-Star Game Continues, Madlock's Single Keys Fourth Straight Win

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Even the sight of Henry Kissinger wearing a Milwaukee Brewers' cap failed to deter the National League Tuesday night from its usual domination of the All-Star Game.

On Bill Madlock's two-run single in the ninth inning, the NL whipped the American League 6-3 or its fourth straight victory.

The NL, now leading the series 27-18, started the game with the power that Secretary of State Kissinger was obviously thrilled by Yastrzemski's three-run sixth inning homer.

Madlock then hit a single off the third starter, scoring Smith and Oliver. Bowa stuck at third. Reliever Rich Gossage hit Larry Bowa to lead the bases.

The NL made it 3-0 in the third off Steve Busby when Lou Brock singled, went to second on a balk by the Kansas City Royals' right-hander and stole third. Johnny Bench singled sharply inside the third base line to score the Cardinal outfielder.

By then it looked like it might be a runaway as seven of the original NL starters had gotten base hits. But, after Jerry Reuss and Don Sutton had blanked the AL over the first five innings, and struck out four, got the victory and shared the game's most valuable player honors with Madlock. Matlack, however, gave all the credit to Madlock for the triumph.

"Give the trophy to Madlock," he said. "Without him we don't win it."

With half the major league season still to go, it appears there will be maybe two, at best, three division races. That is not very good from the standpoint of generating fan interest but that's the way the ball bounces.

Unless the Cincinnati Reds suffer a complete collapse in the second half, coupled with a few disabling injuries, Manager Sparky Anderson's crew will make a complete shambles of the National League West. The Big Red Machine has an imposing 12 1/2 game lead, 13 in the all-important loss column, at the All-Star break. For the Los Angeles Dodgers to get back into contention, the West Coast club will have to play phenomenal ball the rest of the year while the Reds play below minimum standards - for them anyway.

Cheryl Koenig, a concession stand worker, said the fans Tuesday night were having a better time than usual.

"They aren't eating as much, either," she said. "They're all watching the game."

"The game itself - well, it's really no big deal," said Joseph Gonzalez, a Milwaukee fan in his 20s. "It's coming down here with all your friends, it's the holiday atmosphere."

Milwaukee Fans Enjoy Seeing Baseball Stars

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) - Twenty years ago the fans attending the All-Star game at Milwaukee County Stadium cheered for the National League.

Tuesday night, with the city now occupied by an American League franchise, they roared for the American All-Stars. But, as one young fan put it:

"It doesn't make any difference. We're baseball fans. We came to see the stars."

The partisan crowd of 51,480, a record baseball attendance at the stadium seemed to agree. They did, however, have a clear favorite in home run king Jerry Aaron of the Milwaukee Brewers, whose pinch-hit appearance in the third inning tied him with Stan Musial and Willie Mays for the most All-Star appearances at 24.

Aaron received a two-minute standing ovation as he trotted onto the field when he was introduced as a reserve in pregame ceremonies. He said he was "tingling all over" at the applause, which was repeated when he stepped to the plate in the third.

Aaron was the only remaining player from the 1956 game here, which saw the National League win 6-3 on a 12th inning homer by Stan Musial, Musial, incidentally, was on hand as an honorary National League team captain.

This year's game was only nine innings, but once again the hometown team lost as the National League broke away from a 3-3 tie to post a 6-3 win.

The American League highlight came when Boston's Carl Yastrzemski hit a six-inning homer to tie the game.

The whistles blew, balloons were released over the centerfield bleachers, and Bernie Brewer, dressed in Bavarian garb, slid down the slide from his chalet behind the bleachers and plunged into a giant beer stein.

"I'll tell you what the All Star game means," said Bob, a middle-aged Milwaukeean.

"It's been 20 years and now all these people are here - all these different types cheering and having fun," he said.

MB's Remain Undefeated

Remaining undefeated, Moriarty Brothers downed Manchester Community College, 5-1, last night at Moriarty Field in Greater Hartford Twilight Baseball League action.

The Comets lead the American Division with a perfect 10-0 mark while the Collegians are last in the National Division with a 3-9 ledger.

Former Manchester High and present Assumption College star Dave Bidwell went the distance for the MB's to log the win. Bidwell scattered six hits, striking out five and walking three. Moriarty's did all its scoring in the third inning in favor of Al Noske. Ron Krough struck a two-run double off Noske and Mike McDonald finished the scoring with a sacrifice fly.

MCC averted the shutout in the seventh as Jim Blanchard doubled and Paul Placido's single.

There are seven divisions for runners. Youngsters under 13 years of age will be in the Youth Division and run a one-mile course. The Teenage Division (13-17), College Division (18-25), Open Division (26-35) and Masters Division (35 and over) will each cover a 3.5-mile course. Entrants in the Joggers Division and Women's Division will tour a 1.5-mile course.

Registration is until the 6 o'clock starting time. The races will start from the upper parking lot at the college.

Two Rob Dairy Store

Two men robbed the Cumberland Farms store at 210 W. Center St. of about $100 Tuesday at 6 p.m. despite efforts of an off-duty Manchester patrolman to stop them.

Police indicated events occurred this way: Patrolman Donald Burns drove to the store with his family to get some milk.

As he approached the store door, he saw that two men were holding it up, using a baseball bat as a weapon. He tried to prevent their escape by holding the door shut.

The two men, both larger than Burns, threatened to burst out the window. Fearing for his family, Burns let them out the door.

They fled in a black car and headed south on Lyness St. The pair had entered the store minutes earlier, threatened a young male clerk with the bat and told him to give them the money from the register. The clerk put the money in a bag and handed it over to them. Police describe the men as in their late 20s, of medium build, about six feet, and were wearing casual clothes.

Police said there does not appear to be any connection with the robbery of $300 from the Dairy Mart at Center and Lilac Sts. Saturday night.

Det. Capt. Joseph Sartor this morning said his bureau expects there will be a break in the case soon.

Three Shots Kill Pro Boxer Nelson

HARTFORD (UPI) — Donald L. Nelson, a professional boxer from Hartford recently crowned New England lightweight champion, was shot to death Tuesday night. Police said Nelson, 24, apparently became involved in a street argument with two other men and was shot twice in the chest and once in the head.

Nelson won the regional championship June 6 in Bridgeport. He turned professional in April, 1974, and won 11 straight bouts. As an amateur, Nelson won 94 of 100 fights and came close to making the U.S. Olympic team.

Nelson, whose professional career was sponsored by attorney F. Mac Buckley, overcame heroin addiction and a prison term on the road to success. Knocking Ansaldo's out of the Farm League playoffs last night at Verplanck was Moriarty Bros. by a 2-2 count. Winning hurler Rob Maudsley allowed just three hits, all by Barbara Mott, while striking out 12 and walking four. Steve Harley homered, doubled and singled for the winners while Phil Malinoski added a homer and two singles and Maudsley aided his own cause with three singles. Moriarty's will face Army & Navy Thursday night at the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association Tuesday night. Economist Refutes Rozelle Regulation

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — An expert on economics said Tuesday he doesn't think the Rozelle rule is needed to maintain balance in the National Football League. The NFL could function in a free market situation modified by provisions such as revenue sharing between teams or payroll budget limits, according to Dr. Roger Noll, professor of economics at the California Institute of Technology. Noll was a rebuttal witness in U.S. District Court here for 15 current and former NFL players who brought suit asking that the "Rozelle rule" be eliminated on the grounds that it holds players' salaries down and keeps them from moving to other teams. The NFL contends the rule maintains balance in the league by preventing players from jumping to wealthy or otherwise attractive teams when their option with a weaker team runs out. The rule enables the NFL commissioner to set compensation that must be paid to a team losing a player to another team. Noll said the NFL is one of the most competitively well-balanced organizations in professional sports. Noll also told NFL attorney John French that he believes the American Football League would never have been a par with the NFL if it had not merged with the NFL in 1966. But he said this was not because of a difference in player quality, but because of the size of cities where AFL teams were located. "AFL teams were located on the average in smaller cities — and the smaller the city, the lower quality the team," he said. "AFL and NFL teams reached parity in very few years in terms of equivalent size cities."

Hartford Merchant Stabbed to Death

HARTFORD (UPI) — A 72-year-old man, member of a group of merchants who had asked for more police protection, was found dead with his throat cut Tuesday. The body of Louis Mostow of Hartford was discovered about noon in his paint and wallpaper store. Police Sgt. George Boyce said Mostow's hands were tied behind his back with a length of clothesline, his throat was slashed and he was stabbed several times in the back. Mostow's wallet was missing with a small amount of cash, he said, but an undetermined amount of cash and a number of checks Mostow was preparing to deposit in a bank were found intact on a counter. Boyce said police recovered a blood-stained straw hat, believed worn by one of the assailants. Police said Mostow, who ran the paint store for about 50 years, was an uncle of another businessman, Robert Lewtan, 47, of West Hartford, found slain about four months ago outside a suburban tennis club. A 15-year-old boy has been charged with that murder.

Mathews Says Forced Busing Could Be Counterproductive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — F. David Mathews, President Ford's nominee as the new secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday forced busing to achieve racial equality may be counterproductive to good education.

Mathews said he would "seriously consider" some of the negative data on the impact of busing cited by Talmadge. He also said that, as a "practical man," he questions the success of forced busing programs.

Mathews, who would succeed Casper Weinberger in the HEW, received a cordial reception from the committee and appeared to have no opposition. He pledged to develop a "working partnership" with Congress and to try to improve HEW's relationships with states to achieve better administration of welfare programs.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Do-Nothing" Killer

Coming home drunk one wintry night, Ed and Janet barely made it to their front door. Ed managed to get in the house, but Janet collapsed outside in the snow.

When Ed awoke the next morning, he was in no hurry to check up on his wife's condition. Ed knew that the time he finally got around to doing so, she was already dead of exposure.

Was Ed guilty of criminal homicide? Brought to trial on a charge of manslaughter, Ed protested that he had done nothing to harm his wife.

"It was the cold that killed her," he said, "not me."

Nonetheless, Ed was found guilty. The court said homicide may be committed not only by an affirmative act but also by doing nothing when there is a legal duty to do something.

A similar crime may occur when a parent fails to take care of a small child. In one such case, holding that a mother could be convicted of murder for not feeding her baby, the court said:

"Murder can be committed by voluntary and malicious neglect."

In each of these cases, the key to guilt was the legal duty to act. If there is no duty, there is no guilt in the eyes of the law. For example:

A man spent the evening with a woman whom he had just met. As he was leaving, she announced that she was taking poison—and gulped down a pill. Fearful of getting involved, the man walked out. And the woman did indeed succumb to the poison.

In due course the man was brought to trial for manslaughter. But the court decided that he could not be convicted. Finding that he owed the woman no legal duty, the court said his behavior "would draw upon himself the just reproach of good men"—but nothing more.

Buck-A-Gallon Gasoline Believed Unlikely

United Press International The price of gasoline will go up in New England this summer, but chances it will jump to $1 a gallon are minimal, according to a UPI survey.

Major oil companies have a role in the continuing drama of spiraling gas prices. Exactly what that role is, though, hasn't been determined.

Swearing said the ALA is urging Congress to take a long, hard look at what the oil companies are doing and not doing. "We don't have any evidence of a conspiracy," he said, "but it's a little on the suspicious side that the 13 major oil companies all increased their prices by between one and three cents a gallon just before the July 4 weekend, one of the biggest driving weekends of the year."

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

The buffalo nickel exists because a certain kid grew up in the Dakotas. If Jimmy Fraser had been raised in Jersey City we would have had something else for a five-cent piece in the years 1913-1938.

As a lad in the Midwest where he could hear tales of the legendary buffalo from Indian friends, he formed a lifelong interest in that phase of our country's growth.

Years later, in 1911, now a famous sculptor, James Earle Fraser was commissioned to design a replacement for the Liberty V nickel. After dutifully following someone else's suggestions for a rather conventional piece, which failed to strike a spark, he finally presented the Indian head and buffalo as a design "purely American."

Three models were used for the Indian: Irontail (Custer's downfall), Two Moons, and a Cherokee chief named John Tree — these instead of "Caucasians with an Indian head-dress," to quote Fraser himself. The buffalo was "Black Diamond," the famous beast in the New York zoo. Two reverses are shown here. The difference can be seen just below the critter's feet. The left-hand one, the first version, has the buffalo standing on a mound with the words "Five Cents" in a vulnerable position. The later one, on the right, still 1913, shows him on a plank with the words in a hollow and protected from wear.

The mint mark, if any (three mints were putting these out), would be beneath those words. A tiny "P" for Fraser is below the date on the front of the coin.

The first place to look at in grading is the buffalo horn. A full horn means very fine or better, two-thirds horn is fine, etc. The key ones in the set are some 1913 mintmarks, the 14D (like the Lincoln cent), 15S, 1918 over 7, 21S and 26S. Then there is a three-legged variety that resulted after a clashed die was cleaned up and reused.

Don Taxay in his book on counterfeits warns of eight other things to look for in this coin besides the missing leg — so one does not just scrape off a leg and get a rarity for his collection. The die for the nickel was altered a little in 1916 to shape up the "Liberty" and add a bit more machismo to the Indian's nose. You can just make out the difference on close scrutiny.

This was one of our best coin designs, clean and sharp, and above all — distinctively American. It could have come from nowhere else.

The Manchester Philatelic Society will have another summer meeting at Mott's Community Hall 7 to 10 p.m. on July 22. Circuit books will be on the tables for browsing.
