Terrorist Demands To Be Met

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Japan announced it would meet the demands of the Japanese Red Army terrorist group which shot its way into the U.S. Embassy here today, seized 40 to 50 hostages including five Americans and threatened to kill them.

The dreaded terrorist group demanded the release of seven Red Army men jailed for their parts in massacres, hijackings and other violent acts in Asia, Europe and the Middle East. They also asked for a Japan Air Line DC8 to fly them to refuge in a country of their choice—probably the Middle East.

Hironori Kawashima, deputy chief cabinet secretary, told a news conference in Tokyo that "priority must be given to the protection of lives... and (the government) is ready to accept the demand."

The Red Army already had killed a Malaysian policeman and wounded another in seizing the embassy.

Japanese government officials said Japan Air Lines has been asked to ready a DC8 jetliner at Tokyo International Airport to depart for Kuala Lumpur.

The officials at the special headquarters set up at the prime minister's office said the Japanese ambassador to Malaysia was in contact with terrorists to confirm their demands.

The officials said the Malaysian government has been informed of Japan's intention to follow Kuala Lumpur's judgment with regard to the terrorists' demand.

The Japanese government accused the extremists of carrying out the attack to undermine the talks beginning in Washington Tuesday between President Ford and Japanese Premier Takeo Miki.

The terrorists threatened to begin shooting their hostages unless the Japanese government accepted their demands. Japanese officials were in telephone contact with the terrorists and the deadline passed without the feared mass execution.

The terrorists did fire two shots into the street below to emphasize their determination, hitting near a fire truck and scattering a dozen reporters and photographers standing nearby.

The terrorists were holding U.S. consular official Robert Stebbins and four other unidentified Americans, the Swedish Charge d'Affaires Fredrik Bergentrable, Bergentrable's secretary, four Australians, a Japanese and a number of Malaysians.

Fremmen were moving spotlights and other fire-fighting equipment into the ground floor of the embassy building when the shots were fired, and it was believed that activity provoked the shooting. Police ringed the building and crowds of curious were held back several hundred yards.

In Tokyo Deputy Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda said the government would take U.S. intentions into full account in dealing with the terrorist attack.

Fukuda told a news conference that Prime Minister Miki, now in Washington for talks with Ford, was seriously concerned over the incident. Ford was flying back to Washington tonight for the meeting.

Under overcast skies, he jogged through the sloping, sculptured gardens of the presidential palace overlooking the Danube, then swam eight quick laps in a pool on the palace grounds in water that was 62 degrees. "Cool... a little brisk," he told reporters.

His busy last day included—besides his early morning physical feat—a breakfast meeting with Premier Dzemal Bijedic and a ceremony in which he planted a four-foot Colorado white fir as a "tree of peace" in a Belgrade park.

Two Ways to Cool Off

Weekend visitors to Coventry Lake display two ways to cool off: Water skiing, and watching water skiing.

Cool Water Was Relief

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

To Manchester residents trying to beat the oppressive and record-breaking weekend heat, water—cool, sparkling water—was the most popular standby for relief.

Most everyone sought it in one way or another—for drinking, for showering, for watering, for bathing, for washing and for swimming.

Those who didn't mind the crowded roads and beaches headed for the lakes and the shore. Those who have backyard swimming pools or who have friends and neighbors with backyard pools, spent their time there. And there were those—about 3,700 Saturday and about 3,400 Sunday—who enjoyed the town's swimming pools.

Globe Hollow, the town's largest and most popular pool, reported about 2,000 persons there on Saturday and about 2,300 Sunday, with about 35 turned away each day because they weren't town residents.

Verplank Pool reported about 815 on Saturday and, unexplainably, about 350 on Sunday. Swanson Pool reported 690 Saturday and 600 Sunday and Saunters, the town's smallest pool, about 200 each day.

The town lost the use of Waddell Pool during the weekend. Vandals had torn off the coping and had thrown it into the pool. The damage has been repaired and the pool is expected to be open Tuesday.

The state Department of Environmental Protection reported all state parks and state-operated beaches filled to capacity, with people being turned away.

Manchester building permits issued the last three years for swimming pools verify their growing popularity, with 45 issued during 1972-73, 106 during 1973-74 and 229 during 1974-75 (the fiscal year ends June 30).

The Manchester office of the Hartford Electric Light Co. reported no unusual problems (other than a steady drain of power by air-conditioners) for the weekend.

No Picnic In His Shop

HARTFORD (UPI)—Dick Longo of the Sandwich Hat thought it was a good idea to keep his outdoor picnic tables chained to a tree to prevent thievery.

But when the Manchester resident opened his Asylum Ave. shop this morning, he discovered the chains had been cut and a picnic table placed against the shop door.

A thief stood on the table and stole an air conditioner positioned over the shop entrance.

The theft occurred during the weekend heat wave. "It is not going to be any picnic," he said.

Ford Says Mideast Stalemate Delays Peace

BELGRADE (UPI)—President Ford said today continued stalemate in the Middle East would be catastrophic to hopes for world peace, and called for "moderation and flexibility" between Jew and Arab to break the deadlock.

Ford wound up his 10-day, five-nation exercise in friendship and summery with lengthy talks described as "cordial, open and constructive" with Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito. He then prepared to fly home for discussions with Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki.

Although his wife Betty and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger were visibly tired by the rigors of the journey, Ford himself shrugged off any weariness and rose early.

Then came his talks with Tito, who has been critical of Israel. The Yugoslav president started reporters and apparently the White House by saying his views and Ford's on the Middle East "are quite identical."

Press Secretary Ron Nessen hastened to assure reporters "there is no change" in the U.S. position on the Middle East.

President Tito, as a leader of the non-aligned world, does have an apparent positive attitude toward our views," Nessen said.

And Kissinger reiterated that Ford has not changed U.S. policy. "Our views are well known," he said. "We have not changed. He was perhaps understanding our policy better."

He referred to his talks with Tito, Ford said. "I indicated that the United States would continue its very vital interest in progress in the Middle East."

"I stated very emphatically that stalemate in the Middle East was unacceptable to all parties was essential."

"I also indicated that flexibility was necessary if we were to achieve the kind of results that would avoid a potential serious development, a catastrophe from the point of view of the world as a whole."

Under overcast skies, he jogged through the sloping, sculptured gardens of the presidential palace overlooking the Danube, then swam eight quick laps in a pool on the palace grounds in water that was 62 degrees. "Cool... a little brisk," he told reporters.

His busy last day included—besides his early morning physical feat—a breakfast meeting with Premier Dzemal Bijedic and a ceremony in which he planted a four-foot Colorado white fir as a "tree of peace" in a Belgrade park.

Moderation and greater flexibility are absolutely essential at the present time," Tito said. "Both sides have, of course, expressed concern about the Middle East. I think our views are quite identical, especially after I heard what President Ford said about the action the United States intends to take in the future."

He did not elaborate, and reporters were not permitted to question the two leaders.

Following their meetings, Ford issued a communique saying he and Tito had agreed to increase efforts to find equitable solutions to the urgent economic problems facing mankind.

It described the talks as "cordial, open and constructive," and said the two leaders agreed that "the interdependence of all peoples and countries, developed and developing, is an essential factor in the search for a just and efficient economic development."

The communique said the presidents emphasized the particular importance they attach to "peaceful settlement of disputes and adherence to the principles of independence, mutual respect and full equality of sovereign states, regardless of differences or similarities in their social, political and economic systems."

Ford said he and Tito discussed economic and military relations, and he promised both matters would get "my very personal attention because of their significance."

Yugoslavia has expressed interest in a resumption of U.S. arms cut off in the early 1960s when Yugoslavia patched up old quarrels with Moscow.

Students Know Their Herbs

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Did you know that some of the first cookbooks were written by doctors who incorporated various home remedies into them? Well, the second graders at Northeast School in Vernon know this and a lot more.

As part of the school's Biocentennial program, second graders planted an herb garden to the rear of the school and it is flourishing this summer through the efforts of teachers and students who keep it weeded.

The garden is laid out scientifically and attractively. In the center is a compass formed by painted bricks. There are also brick paths through and around the garden, all laid by the children.

Nestled at one end is a bed of horehound and one of lemon balm and at the other end is sweet basil and thyme. Surrounding them are beds of worm wood, chives, plum basil, mint, and borage.

All are herbs used by the colonists in the 1776 era. At that time, however, they were used mostly for medicinal purposes. Mrs. Carolyn Kilpatrick, librarian at the school, who has been assisting with the project, said the herbs were used in cooking food and most of the colonial food was very bland.

When the children harvest the crops in the fall, some of the herbs will be used to make cookies and other food items to be sold in the old-fashioned country store which the first graders will supervise.

Some of the herbs will be dried. Plans are to have each second grader put some of the plum basil into small jars containing vinegar and they will be able to take this home to use in salad dressing.

Another plan for use of the herbs is to put them in some of the foods to be served at a colonial meal being planned for Thanksgiving time.

In connection with the study on early American cooking and gardening, Mrs. Kilpatrick and teachers Anne Mackey, Marguerite Clayton, Marilyn Kudra and Brenda Somers spent vacation time this summer working on a curriculum to guide use in their classrooms.

The subject will be incorporated into all curriculum areas. In reading class the children will do research on gardens and cooking. They will read recipes and learn how to follow directions.

Spelling classes will include learning the spelling of the various herbs and cooking terms and comparison of colonial and present spelling.

In writing classes the children will copy recipes, write thank-you notes, and help prepare the cookbook.

In the area of health, they will study about colonial medicines, how to make soap and how to make breadsup for the ill, and plan a colonial menu.

Incorporated into the science classes will be the study of plants and whales, food-cooking temperatures, making butter and maple sugar, drying herbs and fruits and cooking and preserving foods.

Social studies classes will learn about the early Indians and their food, gardens, and recipes and in art classes they will learn about making dyes from plants, make illustrations for the cookbook and learn how to make several other colonial items including applehead dolls.

Mrs. Kilpatrick has gathered all of the information on the audio-visual material to be used during the year. This will include the showing of the film, "Colonial Children," in connection with a colonial week during which children will dress and participate in activities they have been learning about.

They will also see several film strips and slides about the Indians, the history of the country, wild plants, and "The Thanksgiving Story."

Mrs. Kilpatrick has also compiled a list of the books in the school's library which relate to the subjects being studied.

The teachers who prepared the curriculum guide have left no stone unturned and they are all set to go when the school bells ring in September to signify a new school year has started. A very important year celebrating the 200th birthday of this country.

Portuguese Junta Threatened

LISBON, Portugal (UPI)—Portugal's three-man military junta struggled to stay in power today despite an internal rift, widespread civilian opposition, and insubordination in the military ranks.

A controversial army commander warned "it would be easy" to stage a coup, and troops sent to quell an anti-Communist mob instead arrested 48 Communists.

The junta met both Saturday and Sunday.

to discuss "the restructuring of the executive," but did not elaborate on what that phrase meant.

Political sources said leftist Prime Minister Vasco Gouveias was under heavy pressure to resign and had been unable to heal a rift with another member of the junta, military security chief Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, on forming a new cabinet.

Ford said he and Tito discussed economic and military relations, and he promised both matters would get "my very personal attention because of their significance."

the third junta member and a moderate, appeared to be more secure in his position.

Several army units in recent days have rejected appeals to give the pro-Communist prime minister their support and have instead backed former foreign minister Maj. Melo Antunes, a moderate, political sources said.

Carvalho was facing trouble with a key commando unit on the outskirts of Lisbon.

On Friday he fired the popular commander of the regiment, Col. Jaime Neves, but later he bowed to demands from the enlisted men to decide the issue among themselves at a unit assembly today.

"It would be easy for me and my officers and sergeants to launch a counter-coup," Neves said in a newspaper interview. "We would be victorious, but the action would necessitate violence, which would provoke a disaster for the people."

City-Town Bill Might Make It

HARTFORD (UPI)—Passage of legislation to spur private development in declining Connecticut cities is predicted by two former opponents of the bill who say they now plan to vote for it.

The city and town development bill has undergone close to 100 changes, about 90 of them made last week, since Gov. Ella T. Grasso vetoed it, Rep. Alan J. Mazza, R-Willimantic, said Sunday. He called the present version a bipartisan product.

Rep. Donald F. Esposto, D-Danbury, cochairman of the State and Urban Development Committee, who annoyed many party leadership by harping on potential abuses of the bill, now backs the measure.

Copies of the bill were to be made available to the news media, the public and legislators today.

Report on JFK Satisfies Ted

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., says he is still satisfied with the Warren Commission report on the assassination of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, although he could foresee the possibility of new evidence requiring the case be reopened.
"We are perhaps living in a time of conspiracy," Kennedy said in an interview broadcast Sunday night on Brazilian television. "We have seen in recent times in the United States the Watergate case, which really now believe in the concept of conspiracy. I'm completely satisfied in the Warren Commission report, as Robert Kennedy was. That is the way it is."

Jobs Vetoed

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., says a Library of Congress study shows 638,000 jobs would have been created by bills President Ford vetoed this year. "While claiming to be doing something positive about our economic adversity, the President is instead adding to our high unemployment by his unfortunate vetoes," Mondale said in a statement Saturday.

OPINION

The Voters Will Decide

The return of the New Hampshire election to the people of New Hampshire represents, at this point, the only possible solution to the problem of deciding who will represent that state in the Senate.

Durkin is to be commended for election to free the Democratic leadership of the Senate from the awkward task of trying to "decide" the winner in an election so close and so clouded it was obvious no one would ever be able to determine the intent of the voters of New Hampshire.

Now they will have the opportunity to declare that intent themselves. It is almost inconceivable that the voters are so evenly divided the forthcoming election will not prove conclusive.

And it is certain very few of them will cast ballots that cannot be clearly interpreted. It is equally certain that tallying will be done with utmost care. The rival parties will see to that. The shame is the waste of time and money that has been occasioned by the continuing futile effort to resolve the unresolvable. The question should have been turned back to the voters when it first became apparent that the Senate would be unable to discover who had won.

Now, added to the cost of the runoff election is the cost of untold Senate hours which could better have been spent addressing the problems which have been left for after the current Senate recess.

Even if the Democrats in the Senate had been able to muster enough votes to break the Republican filibusters, the conviction that the will of the people had been thwarted would have lingered.

The Senate is charged with being the judge of elections and qualifications of its members. This case, however, developed into one in which there was no practical or ethical way for the Senate to judge.

OPEN FORUM

Two Writers Favor Buckland Fire Station Higher taxes for all of us. Is this fair? At the time the Town Fire Department began serving the northeast area in July 1974, the Directors voted 9 to 1 to go with the building of a new fire station.

To the editor: I was quite pleased to read your recent editorial (dated 7/30/75) regarding the controversy in the Buckland area over the planned fire station. I feel that it was a fair and objective look at the situation and a viewpoint that reflected the overall interests of the people in our town.

I feel that we, as taxpayers in Manchester, must ask ourselves two primary questions when considering the issue. In order to make up our minds whether this station is warranted. The first is: "Is there a need for a fire station in this area?" and secondly, "Is this the time to build the station?"

I believe that regardless of which fire department has jurisdiction over the area involved, a station is needed. The Town of Manchester was last rated by the Fire Underwriters Bureau over ten years ago, and at that time it was recommended, among other things, that a station be placed in the Buckland area, in order to maintain and/or improve the fire insurance rating of the town. It is the opinion of the Bureau, and incidentally is located in Boston and does all of the evaluating for the New England area that with a fire station in Buckland it is my understanding that commercial establishments might save substantially on fire insurance premiums. If a station were to be constructed, with the many commercial firms located in this area, these savings could well mean thousands of dollars. This, too, is an important aspect of this station in town fire stations."

Looking at the issue from yet another angle, it must be kept in mind that insurance companies use gradations which are assigned according to risk involved. With a fire station in Buckland it is my understanding that commercial establishments might save substantially on fire insurance premiums. If a station were to be constructed, with the many commercial firms located in this area, these savings could well mean thousands of dollars. This, too, is an important aspect of this station in town fire stations."

The second consideration, that of timing of this construction, must also be contemplated. The business situation is not booming, to say the least, and many people are out of work. The construction industry is being hit by a recession, and companies are cutting their profit margin right to the wire in order to get these jobs to keep their men working. I therefore feel that there may never again be a more opportune or economical time to construct this station.

Does anyone think for one minute that if the economy turns around in six months that prices and costs will go down for this project? Somehow there always seems to be a plentiful supply of Monday morning quarterbacks in our society, but what we need and what the town needs are individuals with enough foresight to see that we are presently in the midst of a unique situation that can be taken advantage of for the benefit of all. I would urge everyone to look beyond their individual biases and to consider this situation seriously, before deciding what is right for the town.

This opportunity may not present itself again. Graham MacDonald 27 Cambridge St.

From the beginning of the opposition of some of the Buckland area residents several questions have come to my mind. Do you, the residents of Buckland, realize that even today you are paying the salaries for firemen in town fire stations? Do you realize you have already paid for equipment (a pumper truck) and the men to man a new fire station? True, the costs were not borne by you alone, but by all Town Fire District residents. A large sum of money has already been spent toward the new fire station; our money not the District's.

Hot Ice Cools Frozen Foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Hot ice makes a good cooler for perishable food during the summer. Use an air-tight, well-insulated container just large enough to hold frozen meat and 15 to 25 pounds of dry ice. A half-full container will not keep as long as a full one. For example, a 25-pound piece of dry ice will keep temperatures below freezing for two to three days in a 19-cubic-foot freezer with a half-load compared with three to four days in a fully-loaded one.

Sidewalks Installed Along School Routes

VERNON
With construction completed this summer, on several new sidewalks, many children who previously rode buses to school will now be able to walk.

But pupils from the Meadowlark-Evergreen areas, who attend Center Rd. and Vernon Center Kindergarten, will continue to be bused because of the gap in the sidewalk in front of the Middle School.

For those at the Middle School, sidewalks have been completed on Rt. 30 from the school to Meadowlark Rd.

and Center Road Schools and the Vernon Center Kindergarten have been completed on Rt. 30 from West Rd. to Hillside Ave. and on Bolton Rd. from Cemetery Rd. to Rt. 30.

FBI Assumes Probe for Hoffa

DETROIT (UPI) — The FBI today moved in to take control of the investigation into the disappearance of former Teamsters President James Hoffa. Extortion demands received during the weekend turned it into a federal case.

"We certainly appreciate everything the local police have done," she said. "But now you need the federal government." Rumors abounded as to the reasons for Hoffa's disappearance. At the center of most of them was Hoffa's bid to regain union power — an attempt that has been marked with scattered violence in Hoffa's old springboard to international power, Local 299.

Gambling Arrest May Signal Tighter Regulation

OLD SAYBROOK (UPI) — State police say current ever-growing influence of organized crime and blatant violations of legalized gambling designed to help charity led to the first arrest in Connecticut's "Las Vegas night" business.

There was one arrest. Patrick Sullivan, 43, head of Connecticut Fun and Games Inc., was taken into custody at the scene and charged with keeping a gambling house and violating Las Vegas Night statutes, Macgraz said.

Union Head Says State Backs Loser

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Union official Salvatore Ferruccio today charged the state gaming commission with backing "an apparent financial loser" in continuing to license Old Rock Road Corp. in its quest to have a track built in Wolcott.

Perruccio, president of the Connecticut Employees Union, Independent, said a study he had prepared by accountants showed the corporation was financially on shaky ground.

MCC Closes Fall Classes Registration

Manchester Community College closed off registration for the fall semester last week, nearly one month earlier than ever before, an MCC spokesman said.

MCC is full. In fact, MCC has met and exceeded by about 30 its budgeted quota for full-time equivalent (FTE) students for the fall.

The three open and one late registration sessions set for August are canceled.

Registration for community service courses is still open. It will be all Wednesdays in August from 2 to 7 p.m.

Community service courses are tuition supported and do not receive supplementary funding from the state. The Community Service Division offers both credit and non-credit courses. Tuition is $20 per semester hour for credit courses.

Tuition for non-credit courses varies according to the nature and length of the course.

Last spring, MCC had to turn away about 300 prospective students, enrolling them as "special students" rather than as full-time students.

This cannot be done this fall, the MCC spokesman said.

The spokesman blamed the close off on the state's economic crunch this year. The state's community college system was given an FTE enrollment quota of 17,000 and told that funds would not be there for any students enrolled over the quota.

MCC's share of the quota was 3,025 FTE, the same as the fall of 1974.

MACC NEWS

Many people are still asking "What is the Emergency Pantry?" The dictionary defines emergency as "immediate need for immediate action" and pantry as "a storage area for food."

Last spring MACC recognized a definite need in our community, a program where people could get one to three days food while waiting for a welfare check to arrive, a job to develop or other aid to be made available.

In March a townwide church drive for canned goods was held. MCC students, with the aid of a truck donated by Carter Chevrolet, collected, sorted and boxed thousands of cans donated by concerned people. Center Congregational Church made a room available and provided paint while MCC students again did the labor.

The "Pantry" is open Monday 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Wednesday 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and Friday, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and staffed by the following people: Irene Goss and Kittle Cataldo coordinators; Kathy McNamara, Lorretta Grabow, Marion Mercer, Alice Shea, Florence Parker, Alice Pinter, Anita Nylan, Phyllis Tucker, Marion Jesseman, Nona McClam, Ruth Cavin and Helen Brooks.

Since its inception in late March, 51 Manchester families or individuals have received emergency food after having been referred by state and local welfare, Crossroads, and members of the clergy or Manchester Public Health Nurses.

Many food items have to be continually replenished such as instant coffee, crackers, dry cereal, powdered milk, peanut butter, jam and tea. At the same time many are contributing regularly to the box left in the entrance to Center Congregational Church. Last week the post office workers contributed four cartons of food, and money to buy needed items has been received from Emmanuel Lutheran Church Women, Assumption Confirmation Class, Church Women United, Lydia Circle, South United Methodist Church, and Center Congregational Church.

More volunteers are needed. If you would care to share with others who have less than you, please leave your contributions at Center Church, they will be most welcomed and you will be twice blessed.
