Looking ahead

School starts Wednesday and this is the Labor Day weekend. Neither event would really cause one to think about winter but Kevin Flanagan, 15, and his brother, 12, top with saw, are already starting to "think snow." To paraphrase an adage, the boys are making a ski jump while the sun shines at the Tom Flanagan home at 46 N. Elm St. Not shown but part of the work crew on Kevin's creation are Bruce Schmidt and Casey Flanagan. (Herald photo by Dunn)

News summary

Compiled from United Press International

International

LISBON, Portugal — Portugal's military government has named a new prime minister but it is far from certain the country has emerged from the weeks-long crisis. Friday Communist-backed Prime Minister Vasco Gonçalves was replaced by Navy Chief Admiral Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo.

LIMA, Peru — The Peruvian Army has ousted President Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado in a non-violent coup and installed Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez, the moderate prime minister and army commander, as head of South America's third largest nation.

National

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. — Hurricane Caroline, growing steadily in its push across the Gulf of Mexico, threatens the South Texas coast. Caroline changed from a tropical storm Friday when winds grew to 80 miles per hour.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — Three persons are killed and 11 injured as an experimental raft capsized in white water near the famous whirlpool in the Niagara River.

Regional

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Gov. Philip W. Noel means business with his 10-month old crackdown on overtime and sick-leave abuse by state workers. He has vowed to argue his plan all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary in response to question concerning an arbitration order to rehire 64 workers fired for taking two days of unauthorized leave.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Amateur astronomer Minoru Honda has spotted a new star, Nova Cygni 1975, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory has reported.

State

HARTFORD — State Comptroller Edward J. Caldwell says Connecticut wound up the 1975 fiscal year with a $70.98 million deficit. It collected $1.59 billion in taxes and other revenues but spent $1.49 billion during the 12-month period ending June 30, he said.

HARTFORD — State education officials say the state has no funds to establish special language programs for Vietnamese and Cambodian children in local schools.

Energy compact ready to sign

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A compact committing the New England states to development of local energy sources needs only the signatures of the six governors. All conflicts between states have been solved, according to Gov. Philip W. Noel.

The regional energy policy, Noel's pet project, will contain a commitment to development of local sources of energy in environmentally acceptable ways. He cited nuclear power, oil refinery siting, tapping the Outer Continental Shelf, development of solar and hydroelectric tidal power.

The draft deals more with attitudes than final solutions and contains no timetables, Noel said. "The six governors are reviewing it. Where we've had problems we now have agreement."

The final agreement is due at the next meeting of the New England Regional Commission (NERCOM). A Noel policy aide said the next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 9, but several pressing matters may force an earlier session.

Noel was one of 16 governors who met in closed session Thursday with the President to discuss the impact of national gas shortages this winter and discuss the overall energy situation.

At the White House, Noel got into a heated exchange with Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors on the subject of deregulation.

Ford pledges effort to create 11 million new jobs by 1980

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today told a Labor Day weekend union gathering he will "do everything in my power to generate new jobs" and set a national goal of 11 million new work slots by 1980.

In remarks to an AFL-CIO benefit in Augusta, Maine, Ford said "the level of unemployment in the United States (8.4 per cent) is too high by any standard."

"Today I reaffirm my pledge to do everything in my power to generate new jobs."

"But to achieve the job stability we want, I will continue to oppose stop gap programs that we cannot afford — programs conceived in panic and partisanship, that will lead to nothing but new rounds of inflation and worse unemployment."

Urging a nationwide effort to create 11 million new jobs — "real jobs and not make-work jobs" — by 1980, Ford said: "That is a big order. It cannot be filled by government alone or by industry alone or by unions or politicians acting on their own.

"All of us — labor, management and government — must work together if we are to achieve long-term economic health."

The President planned an all-day excursion to New England that included an 80-minute motorcade from Augusta to Portland for a fundraising luncheon.

The schedule also included a flight to Newport, R.I., for a local television interview and a $150-a-plate fundraising dinner at the seaside mansion of millionaire GOP backer John J. Stocum.

In his prepared Augusta text, Ford said he agrees "with (AFL-CIO) President George Meany that jobs are what Labor Day is all about."

"I join with all working people on this occasion when America honors its workers — organized and unorganized — in a determined resolve to put America back to work."

American peace watchdogs key to Mideast peace pact

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — A plan to use American peace watchdogs is an important part of a proposed Egyptian-Israeli interim settlement and President Anwar Sadat's government hopes to initial the agreement early next week, Sadat's press secretary Tahsin Bashir said Saturday.

It was the first time an Egyptian official publicly endorsed the use of U.S. volunteers in the plan and marked the high point of Egyptian optimism so far that the settlement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would be implemented.

Asked if the U.S. volunteer watchdog plan was regarded as critical in Egypt's decision to accept the pact, Bashir told a news conference, "The idea of U.S. technicians to help with the working of the early warning observers are an important part."

"We expect initialing sometime hopefully early next week."

Asked if this marked unprecedented optimism for him, Bashir smiled and said, "It's an advance in my degree of optimism."

A senior official aboard Kissinger's plane said he had no reason to doubt the U.S. Congress will approve American volunteers acting in the Sinai.

The settlement would die at birth without the Congressional okay, he said.

The senior U.S. official said Israel would not implement the pact—which calls for her ceding Sinai desert territory to Egypt—without the insurance of the Americans watching for cease-fire violations in the buffer zone between the two armies.

The official spoke as Kissinger flew from Jerusalem to Alexandria for what could be final talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat before the two sides initial the agreement. The initialing could come Sunday or Monday, the negotiators said.

Manchester Water Co. sale approved by PUC

The Public Utilities Commission Friday approved the purchase of the Manchester Water Co. by the town for $2.25 million. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said the transaction will take place Tuesday at the main offices of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co.

A spokesman for the PUC said the approval was voted because the sale will result in a 44 per cent cut in water bills for the average residential customer of the company and because it will be beneficial to the town's future water supply sources.

The purchase includes the company's real estate, plant, lines, reservoirs and wells, holdings the company has said are worth $4.5 million.

About 9,000 customers are now served by the town's water department and about 3,700 more will be added when the purchase is complete.

Town revenue from the sale of water is now estimated at $610,000 for the current fiscal year and about $225,000 would be added by the purchase.

Town voters approved buying the company in a referendum last November by a vote of 8,125 to 6,891. In Voting Districts 1 and 7, however, the majority voted against purchase. Those districts lie in the area serviced by the private company.

One of the major arguments in favor of the acquisition originally was the company's holdings of open land, about 300 acres in all. In commenting on the vote afterwards, however, some observers said some of the no votes were cast over the open space issue in the wake of the town's purchase of Cast Mt. A number of residents felt the Cast Mt. purchase was poorly handled.

'Take five, stay alive'

By United Press International

An Illinois group is trying to scare motorists into keeping the predicted high traffic death toll down this year. They've posted signs along Interstate 70 wishing "Merry Christmas to those who won't be here."

The large reflector signs invite the holiday motorists to "take five, stay alive — free coffee next exit."

A Santa Claus merrily waves drivers into an elaborate rest stop in Illinois near Greenville, Ill. Jaycees.

The National Safety Council predicted Americans would travel a record 12.6 billion miles during the Labor Day weekend between 5 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday.

The council also estimated 460 to 560 persons would die in traffic accidents during the three-day holiday, and another 18,000 to 23,000 may suffer disabling injuries.

Many others communities organized campaigns to help remind drivers to be safely conscious.

Police around the nation also pledged to do their best to keep speeders off the roads.

Indiana state police warned they would concentrate on enforcing the 55-mile-per-hour highway speed limit and would use radar units, marked and unmarked patrol cars and helicopters to make motorists behave.

Michigan state police set up special enforcement teams to supplement regular patrols on major interstate routes.

Anxiety over the energy crisis kept many motorists off the highways during the 1974 Labor Day weekend, but not so this year, a National Safety Council spokesman said.

Gasoline was not expected to be a problem. Although it is selling at record high prices in many areas, there should be ample supplies in most of the country, authorities said.

Compromise may end oil impasse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and congressional leaders hope to end eight months of stalemate on energy policy through a last-minute compromise on oil price controls.

The compromise plan proposed Friday at a White House meeting would extend domestic oil price controls for up to 60 days and then remove them over a period not to exceed 39 months — a middle ground between the six-month extension of controls sought by Congress and the immediate decontrol threatened by Ford.

It would soften the inflationary impact of decontrol, which energy experts say could boost gasoline prices at least 3 cents a gallon and have inflationary effect on the entire economy.

At present, about 60 per cent of the oil produced in the United States — essentially, oil from wells drilled before 1973 — is controlled at $5.25 per barrel, less than half the free market price. The control law will expire midnight Sunday because Ford will not approve Congress' six-month extension bill.

But federal energy officials said the brief extension agreed to Friday would be retroactive and should prevent oil companies from making quick price hikes next week.

Ford endorsed the compromise at a meeting Friday with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who developed the plan, and House Speaker Carl Albert. The White House indicated Ford would sign Mansfield's 60-day price control extension bill if Congress adopts it.

In return, Mansfield predicted Congress could act on new energy legislation — including the gradual dismantling of price controls Ford wants — within a month.

Town receives $57,611 check for school renovation projects

School building projects began several years ago included in a $57,611.18 reimbursement from the state are new tennis courts at the Robertson School,

Washington School, West Side Rec, and Manchester High School, extended parking area at Robertson, and installation of a data processing center at Bennet

Junior High School.

Manchester State Rep. Theodore Cummings calls them projects with a dual purpose as they serve both students and the public. "They are a real boost to the town," he said.

"The building project was really made possible by the combined efforts of Bill Dion, Paul Phillips and Dr. James Kennedy, school superintendent," said Cummings.

He also commended the efforts of State Sen. David Barry and Manchester State Rep. Francis D. Mahoney for helping to get approval for the building grant.

Cummings said he was glad he was able to do something constructive for everybody.

Reimbursement program explained

At the new courts at Robertson School, Manchester State Rep. Theodore Cummings, left, explains to officials that the check he is holding is reimbursement to the town from the state for several school renovation projects including the new tennis courts. The check is for $57,611.18. With Cummings are, from left, William Dion, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds for the Board of Education; Mrs. Ruth S. Staum, assistant treasurer of the Town of Manchester, and Paul Phillips, chairman of the town building committee. (Herald photo by Pinto)

America's first black poet

 American Antiquarian Society

The young black girl who was brought to Boston, Mass. in 1761 at the age of seven or eight, became a slave in the family of John Wheatley. When she arrived she couldn't speak, read, or write English. But she showed such aptitude for learning and made such rapid progress that it was soon obvious that Phillis Wheatley was a child prodigy.

John Wheatley, her master, was a tailor and tradesman who had several slaves. He wanted one of them to be his wife Susannah's attendant and Phillis was selected to be trained for this task.

Respected her
 The Wheatleys had a fine home and Mrs. Wheatley has been described as a woman of special attention and instruction. Her quickness of mind and eagerness to learn not only found favor in the Wheatley family, but also won for Phillis a reputation as a person of unusual ability. Many Bostonians came to know about her and she was accepted as a guest in the homes of the Wheatleys' friends.

Contemporaries noted that Phillis Wheatley displayed remarkable interest in history, geography, astronomy, and Latin. She evidently acquired an enthusiastic acquaintance with the most important classic authors of Greece, Rome, and the Middle Ages. Her knowledge of these authors was not only extensive but also accurate. She was able to quote from them with ease and precision.

Her ability as a poet was not a matter of chance. She was born in West Africa, a land of oral tradition. Her people had a rich heritage of oral poetry, and she was brought to America with this heritage. She was able to translate this oral tradition into written English poetry.

Light tasks
 It was fortunate for Phillis that she received kind treatment from the Wheatleys. When Mary married the Rev. John Lathrop in 1771, it was a major event for the Wheatley family and for the young black girl, as well. Already inclined to religious crowdedness in order to qualify Mayor McCoy said he has indicated to Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Vernon's interest in applying for such funds.

The town Planning Department will conduct a public hearing on the same matter Tuesday at 7:30 in the Memorial Building, Park Pl., Rockville.

Town Planner John Langerer will outline four alternative programs which have been drawn up. Public input will be solicited at both hearings and then the Town Council must decide which one to apply for if it is decided to make formal application.

The federal government is making $100,000 available to Hartford area towns (not including Hartford). Twenty-seven towns and cities are eligible for the funds.

Grant applications, however, must address the problems of poverty or housing over-

Phillis Wheatley

This portrait of Phillis Wheatley by an unnamed artist first appeared in her "Poems on Various Subjects, Religious and Moral" (London, 1773). It was also the frontispiece of the reprint of this book in Boston the same year from which this was taken. The picture captures the pensive mood of the young girl as she sits at a writing table with pen in hand. Phillis Wheatley's signature in facsimile is taken from an original in the American Antiquarian Society, which also has two of her poems in manuscript form. (Courtesy, American Antiquarian Society.)

study, piety, and religious devotion. Phillis did not remain constantly in the Wheatley household thereafter.

The publication of a book of poems in England in 1774 (later reprinted in America) and its reception were heartwarming, but Phillis Wheatley's health was not good and she became depressed. Her courteous reception by Gen. George Washington at Cambridge in 1776, after he had dedicated a complimentary poem to the commander was a happy event for Phillis, however.

Her marriage in 1778 to John Brown, an unstable black who held numerous jobs and tried to practice law and medicine, did not bring her much happiness. Because of her poor health, the Wheatleys sent Phillis on an ocean voyage to England in the care of Mary's twin brother, Nathaniel, in May 1778. Phillis had addressed a published poem (1778) on the great evangelist George Whitefield to the Countess of Huntington, the latter introduced the young poet to a number of prominent persons. Her abilities and charm won her praise and such gifts as a folio edition of "Paradise Lost" from the Lord Mayor of London and Scoble's translation of "Don Quixote" from the Earl of Dartmouth.

Arrangements had been made to present her to George III, but when news that Mrs. Wheatley was seriously ill arrived, Phillis hurried back to Boston. She was much saddened by the death of Mrs.

Some have said Phillis Wheatley was not a great poet but her achievements were certainly noteworthy. It can be said that she was the first American black writer of any significance, and her poetry was the earliest of any black author in this country.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

(EA. Note: This column has been written by Gloria Benson while Wally Fortin is on vacation.)

Hi everyone! It's been real quiet around here without you this week, but we are working hard cleaning the old place up. You can't always keep up with things during the year because of our heavy schedule, and then try to clean everything all up in one week.

Next Monday we are closed because of Labor Day. The activities will start on Sept. 8, and the meal program on the following week.

Announcements
 Here are a few announcements for you to jot down.

The senior Bowling League will have an organizational meeting on Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the Parkade Lanes. One person should represent each team, and there to suggest any changes you would like made. The bowling is opened to all seniors interested, so just show up at this organizational meeting. Bowling will start Sept. 8 at the Parkade Lanes. The oil painting classes and the crew embroidery classes will resume on the week of Sept. 15. More will be said on these classes later on Key House.

The ceramic classes will start the same week, and so will write up the winning scores. We have many others who will be helping with our ceramics and crafts, whom we will mention later on. We will also start signing up committees for our fair. Last year we had over forty people to work on the fair, and we never asked a one. So let us know if you want to help.

Fair coming
 We have many others who will be helping with our ceramics and crafts, whom we will mention later on. We will also start signing up committees for our fair. Last year we had over forty people to work on the fair, and we never asked a one. So let us know if you want to help.

For the bridge games, Ivo Siddell will continue doing the excellent job he has done in the past, assisted by Marge Reed.

Red Sox victory over A's just regular game

BOSTON (UPI)—This is not a playoff game. This is not a playoff game. This is not a playoff game. The Red Sox and A's were so busy downgrading the importance of their three-game weekend series, they barely noticed Boston glided to a 6-1 win in Friday night's opening game.

"It's just too early for either one of us to be thinking about the playoffs," said A's Manager Alvin Dark. Asked if winning the season series against Oakland would give Boston an advantage in the playoffs, winning pitcher Rick Wise answered, "Heaven no. This game didn't have any of the drama of post-season play. This was just a regular season game. We just take one at a time."

Reggie Jackson, who broke an 0-16 slump with a sixth-inning single, added, "The games Boston has won this season, they've won (easily); the games we've won, we've had to struggle. But playoffs are a different cup of tea. We'll play with more intensity."

If intensity was missing, velocity was present in the form of Wise's fastball and Cecil Cooper's line drives. The Boston right-hander scattered eight hits, struck out four and walked just one batter in pushing his record to 17-4.

"I was a helluva lot better than my last few outings (two straight losses), said Wise, who equalled his personal career high with a 100 mph fastball. Cooper, who has raised his average to .340, still had a complaint after his 4-5 night. "I hate leading off, he said. "You've got to take pitches as a leadoff hitter and I like to swing at first pitches."

Cooper also dislikes being a designated hitter, but has batted .362 in that capacity. "If we get into the World Series, though, who is going to lead off?" asked Cooper, noting the designated hitter won't be allowed to play against the National League winner.

The comment is noteworthy, if only to serve as proof that someone on the Red Sox and A's is thinking beyond today's game which matches Bill Lee, 17-7, and Glenn Abbott, 5-3.

Cooper led the third inning with his 12th homer to right field and the Sox added another run in the frame for a 4-0 lead. The A's spoiled Wise's shutout in the fourth on a single by Sal Bando and Billy Williams' double. But Boston added two more runs in the fifth on a double by Fred Lynn, a walk to Rice and singles by Evans and Rick Burleson. Cooper, who has raised his average to .340, still had a complaint after his 4-5 night. "I hate leading off, he said. "You've got to take pitches as a leadoff hitter and I like to swing at first pitches."

It took nearly an entire season but Manchester's Tom Kelley finally broke into the winning column with Richmond in the International League. The former Cleveland and Atlanta righthander lost six straight games before coming in to relieve Charlestown. Richmond stands sixth in the eight-team loop and is assured a second division berth. Porter Blinn, of South Windsor, the New England and Eastern Canada head scout for the Cincinnati Reds, has been assigned to check on the Boston Red Sox during the final month of the season. If the Red Sox get into the World Series against Cincinnati, Blinn's observations will come in handy, that is also if the heavily favored Redlegs survive the National League playoffs. Carl Silver reports he has received several applications from new teams anxious to join the Rec Department Men's Volleyball team.

White Sox relief ace likes Oriole chances

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rich Gossage has been Jim Kaat's savior all season but Friday night he was preaching salvation for the Baltimore Orioles.

"They did it last year and I see no reason they won't do it again," said Gossage after the ace reliever picked up his league-high 22nd save to preserve Jim Kaat's 19th victory and give the Chicago White Sox a 4-2 victory over the Orioles.

"They are a completely different club than they were at the beginning of the season. They have a super attitude that you can see at the plate. They look really aggressive up there especially (Paul) Blair and (Ken) Singleton."

Blair homered in the sixth off Kaat and Singleton doubled in the seventh to bring on Gossage.

In the past the Orioles have unleashed most of their aggression from the other direction, with most of the praise going to the pitching staff headed by Jim Palmer. If the Orioles are going to win it this time it will probably be the bat and the glove that save them, not the strong arm. Gossage.

Matlack explodes with pair of hits

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jon Matlack, a pretty good pitcher who isn't supposed to be a great hitter, must have felt like Mickey Mantle Friday night.

With only three hits to his credit all season and not a single RBI, Matlack exploded for a pair of singles and drove in two runs to help his own cause as the New York Mets beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1.

"That was a real shocker," Matlack said of his newly found hitting skill. "I'm usually one of the better takers."

As a pitcher, Matlack notched his 16th victory—a career high—and his third straight win against the Dodgers.

The Mets did it all in the first inning, blasting starter Don Sutton for all six runs, highlighted by Dave Collins' third homer of the season. Tanana increased his major-league leading strikeout total to 206.

Brewers 13, Rangers 1 Jim Colborn allowed only five hits in going the distance. Bill Sharp drove in three runs with a triple and single as Milwaukee defeated Texas. The Brewers scored four unearned runs in the seventh and exploded for six earned ones in the eighth to win only their second game in the last 12.

Repeaters gain win

Mike Cooney has again won the Junior Division golf championship at the Manchester Country Club with a one-stroke margin over Brad Stella. Jack Bowers, Country Club locker attendant, reports more than 400 golfers were on the course two weeks ago today, one of the season's biggest — if not the top — turnout. "Luis Tiant was very emotional Tuesday night when he pitched before his men's for the first time," Dick McCalliffe said before he stepped into the batting cage. Tiant was hit hard and lost to the Angels. The Red Sox pitcher hadn't seen his mother and father in 10 years until earlier this week. Red Sox players made themselves available to autograph seekers before Wednesday's game and Carlton Fisk in particular spent 15 minutes penning his signature to an assortment of articles produced by the young fans. Arrangements were made to photograph all local softball league winners and only one, Glen Construction, failed to show on the selected night to answer any questions. Playoff winning teams will be used if these squads can get together in full uniform.

Johnson, Sala head selections

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Five members of Moriaty Bros. American League championship team in the Hartford Twilight League have been awarded berths on the 1975 all-star squad. The list is headed by Gene Johnson, the designated hitter, who paced the loop in batting with a 4.2 average, and Pete Sala, the silver-haired veteran southpaw pitcher who won all six decisions and compiled an impressive 0.82 earned run average.

Both Johnson and Sala are one-time minor league performers and both have played vital parts in the MB's domination of the league in the past 18 years. Steve Chotiner was named the first baseman, Mike McDonald the catcher and Rich Rioridan and outfielder. Paul Placido gained a second team berth and Ken Hawley, who played with the DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI)—Eleven clubs and two fillies were primed today to trot for a purse of $22,162, richest in Hambletonian history. Time winners were riding with the Stanley Dancer entry of favored Bonafish and his stablemate, Sirefire Hanover.

Bonafish, favored at 2-1, has the best time of any entry—1:58.1 in the Empire State Trot at Syracuse, N.Y.

Duckpinners off mark

Duckpin league bowling got off the mark Wednesday night at the Red Restaurant League starting at the Holiday Lanes. Should Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee all win 20 or more pitching decisions this season it will mark the first time in 71 years the Red Sox boasted three 20-game winners. Cy Young, Bill Dineson and Jesse Tannehill turned the trick for the 1904 Boston American League club. When Pat Leahy won a 47-yr field goal attempt for the Jets against the Giants last Sunday at Yale it was the longest by a Jet player since Jim Turner booted a 50-yard three-pointer in 1969. Scheduling the tennis tournament on Labor Day weekend has been the main complaint from a number of local players not entering. Even gang-bro tennis players like to enjoy a weekend with their families. Jimmy Anderson has been named coach of the Springfield Indians in the American Hockey League. Anderson was an outstanding performer for years with the Indians and last year coached the ill-fated Washington team in the National Hockey League before getting a pink slip. Hartford police softball team will face the Whalers Thursday night at 7:30 at Fitzgerald Field with proceeds earmarked for the Greater Hartford Chapter of the Blind.

Congratulations due champs

The straw choppy is tipped in the directing of Gene Johnson and his Moriaty baseball team for winning their regular season and playoff laurels in the Hartford Twilight League. This year's club was without question the best balanced and the best hitting in the 16-years in Twi' war. Art Johnson reports the 'Y' Bowling League starts Wednesday night. Once again the New England Professional Golf Tournament will be staged on the same date as the Manchester Open which will cut down on the number of pros from Massachusetts who have competed in the past. Have a nice holiday weekend.

NEW YORK (UPI)—four scoreless innings of Sparky Lyle, accused by fans of pouring gasoline on fires rather than putting them out with this kind, finally came up with the season's first Yankees victory in a relief performance expected on him Friday night when the season ends and training begins. ## Loyal Red Sox fan

Supporters of the Boston Red Sox have come out of the hills in droves this season but one loyal fan over the years has been Harold Binks. Above he checks fresh flowers on display in a Red Sox batting helmet turned upside down which he placed outside the entrance to the Rockville Nursing Home. Binks waters the flowers daily. With camera in hand, he was off to see Boston play this week against California.

Manchester Open Due Amateur field full first day

One week from today the 30th Manchester Open Golf Tournament will be staged at the Manchester Country Club and already the first day's play for amateurs only has been filled.

Ralph DeNicolo, tournament chairman, reports nearly 100 professionals have also signed to play on Monday, Sept. 8.

Jimmy Rusher will be back to defend his title. The young pro won carded a two under par 70 to top a field of 104 pros and 190 amateurs a year ago.

First prize for the pros will be $1,000 with the senior pro gaining $100. Amateurs will compete for both gross and net prizes.

Seven seeds bow out in Open tennis play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Seven of the seeded men and women went out of the U.S. Open tennis championships Friday, but the biggest crowd in the history of Forest Hills watched them go without quite knowing who the winners were.

For the first time in American tennis history, the game not the players, is drawing untold crowds to the early rounds of this $399,000 tournament, richest the sport has to offer.

The 16,299 at the afternoon program saw four of the men's seeds vanish in the first 90 minutes of play, with Australian Tony Roche, the seventh seed, the biggest "old" name to go. He was quickly followed by Vitas Gerulaitis, the fading Texan veteran Cliff Richey, and the once promising Aussie, John Alexander.

Later on, Tom Okker, the sixth seed, got his walking press conference from the favored women—Frankie Durr and Julie Heldman.

The winners weren't exactly household names. Some knew of Jaime Fillol, the Chilean who put out Roche, and Balazs Taroczy? Andrew Pattison?

As daylight faded, there were still several thousand sardined around an outside court to watch Jan Kodes, the 1973 Wimbledon king, fight off three match points to escape from Hans Kary of Austria, Hans Kary?

More of the same was expected for the Labor Day weekend, with sellout throngs anticipated for today and Sunday, and possibly for Monday, by which time the fans will be getting to know whom they are watching.

Friday's big winners were the reliable names, though. Jimmy Connors had fun while taking his second step in defense of his title, and Brlion Roger Taylor had fun, even in losing 6-2, 6-0.

Arthur Ashe, proclaiming himself "testy and angry" didn't look that way in halting the gracious Vijay Amritraj, 6-3, 6-1.

Bjorn Borg, the 19-year-old Swede, had more difficulty in eluding teenage girls than in defeating Mike Estep, and Ilie Nastase had no difficulty in behaving himself while brushing off an inoffensive Allan Stone of Australia.

In women's play, Evonne Goolagong Cawley took care of Mona Schallau at night, 6-3, 6-1.

The final match of the loop, program saw Guillermo Vilas, the second seed, put out Alvarez Betancur of Colombia, 6-3, 6-1.

The final match of the loop, program saw Guillermo Vilas, the second seed, put out Alvarez Betancur of Colombia, 6-3, 6-1.

ERCC junior golf champs

Wendy Kemp of Manchester and Steve Tantiello of Tolland, were named champion junior golfers at a junior awards dinner at Ellington Ridge Country Club. Tantiello was also runner-up in the senior championships.

North sets mark, eight under par

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI)—Andy North was far ahead of the field as he came to the 17th green during the first round of the $175,000 B.C. Open Golf Tournament Friday, but it wasn't enough.

"I got little excited on number 17," North said. "I knew that a 20 would be the best ever on the 17 and I wanted that just a little more."

North narrowly missed the 15-foot birdie putt, but sank a 50-footer on the 18th green to finish with a 36-27-60 over the 6,815-yard, par 71, Es-Joe Golf Club.

The 29-year-old Florida's eight-under par round broke the competitive course record by two strokes. His back nine score equaled the professional Golfers' association tour record set by since-retired Mike Souchak in the 1955 Texas Open.

North's record was played under threatening skies, and lightning suspended play shortly after he finished at 2 p.m. After a 45 minute wait, play was resumed but the rain returned shortly after and the remainder of the field played in a steady downpour.

Butch Baird, a 15-year tour veteran, and George Burns III, who is only making his second appearance in a tour event, both carded five-under 66 before the rain started. Wisconsin's Don Iverson, playing almost his entire round in the rain, was the lowest lead scorer with a 66.

Defending champion Richie Kirt, four rookie Howard Tietz Jr., and Australian Bob Shaw were at 67.

A total of 61 players in the field of 147 equalled or broke par, despite the fact that more than half the field was affected by the rain.

"I've had a bad cold for a while, and I'm going to see the doctor," said Kirt, a 30-year-old touring pro who has never won a tournament. "But I can't afford to pull out."

North had seven birdies and an eagle, but he could not get on the 41-yr-old sixth hole—the turning point of the day.

After a bad drive, North had to play an adjacent area last weekend.

BOXSCORES Steelers next hurdle for undefeated Giants

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's been all fun and games for the New York Giants so far in pre-season but that could all change today.

The Giants, one of only three National Football League teams still unscathed in exhibition play and the only National Conference Club without a loss, face the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers at Princeton, N.J., in a game that should give Coach Bill Arnsparger a true indication of how far his club has progressed.

The Giants finished 2-12 last season, led by Baltimore star the worst record in the League. The Steelers were at the other end of the spectrum, sweeping through the playoffs and then dismantling Minnesota in the Super Bowl.

New York beat New England and San Diego rubber convincingly before sweeping past the New York Jets 21-20 last Sunday.

day when a winning field goal attempt was botched by a bad snap from center.

Today will be the true test. Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll indicates he wants to get his running game together and that means Franco Harris, the Super Bowl's most valuable player, will get a solid workout.

"We haven't run much because Terry Bradshaw has been so successful passing," Noll said. "But we want to get that good balance between running and passing and we want Franco to get a good workout. Our running attack needs polishing."

Harris injured his shoulder against the College All Stars and returned to action last week, carrying the ball just six times for 15 yards. Bradshaw, who was struggling early in pre-season play, hit 14-0-0 passes for 254 yards and three touchdowns in a 31-10 rout of Baltimore last week.

In other NFL games tonight, New England meets Green Bay of Milwaukee, Baltimore is at New Orleans, San Francisco at Oakland, Los Angeles at Kansas City, the Jets at Atlanta, Denver at Chicago, San Diego at St. Louis and Dallas at Houston. Miami at Minnesota and Buffalo at Cleveland Monday night.

In the only game played Friday night, Bill Kilmer and Randy Johnson threw two touchdowns passes each as the Washington Redskins rolled to a 34-3 victory over the Detroit Lions before only 17,364 fans in Washington. Kilmer completed 50-64 passes for 92 yards and generated three TDs. Johnson was 5-for-7 for 86 yards.

Larry Jones also starred for the Redskins, scoring on a 55-yard reception, adding an 82-yard kickoff return that narrowly missed becoming another TD and returning a punt 21 yards. He had four catches for 91 yards.

Veteran Jack Veghte near trip to Augusta

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Jack Veghte is one round off from going back to the Masters, and with first class accommodations this time. Veghte, who was at Augusta since he got out of college. Now, at 46—the only player older than 28 to survive the round of 32 in the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship—he's close to winning a ticket back.

Veghte met Fred Ridley, the man he beat by two strokes earlier this year to win his third Florida Amateur championship, in the quarterfinals today. The winner of that match, and the other three semifinalists as well, got automatic invitations to play in the 1976 Masters.

"That's my goal," said Veghte, who owns an insurance agency in Clearwater, Fla., and describes himself as a "real businessman amateur" who plays only two or three times a week.

Of the other seven players who reached the quarters with

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a 43-year-old handsome man with a peach of a disposition. He's a TV repair man and does very well. We have two children, and I must admit he is a good father.

My complaint: He can't go to a movie because he hates to sit still for that long. He won't go to church for the same reason. He doesn't like to go out for dinner because he doesn't like to talk to people.

He won't take me dancing because he thinks dancing is foolish. He doesn't like to go out for dinner because he doesn't like to talk to people.

The only place he likes to go with me is to bed, and he's very good in that department. I'm 38 and tired of staying home all the time. Any suggestions?

DEAR ABBY: Count your blessings. A man with a "peach of a disposition" who is a good father can't be all bad. Build a social life by inviting a few friends in. You don't have to go "out" to have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband makes me feel like such a dummy every time I ask him a question that I've quit asking him. However, right at this moment I am sitting here puzzled and in tears, so I decided to write to you.

My basement is flooded, and I can't do my washing. My husband went on a fishing trip, and he never told me what he was doing in the basement. I found out when I covered the sump pump.

I made down there and unplugged it, or will I get electrocuted?

DEAR ABBY: First, you are no dummy for asking. When electricity is involved with water, DO NOT TOUCH ANYTHING! Phone your power company and ask them to come out and turn off the power to your house.

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, a niece of mine was expecting a baby. Knowing that she and her husband didn't have much, I offered them a crib and highchair I had in my attic. They seemed very happy to get these items.

Now it has come to my attention that this niece SOLD the crib and highchair to a secondhand furniture dealer! I don't think she should have sold me if I wanted those pieces back since she had no more use for them. Also, since she got them for nothing, don't you think any money she received from selling them rightfully belongs to me?

DEAR ABBY: If you LENT your niece the items, she should have returned them to you. But if you gave them to her, they were hers to sell or use, at her discretion.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about my car. I bought a 1969 Corvette and it's a real beauty. I've had it for a while and I love it. I'm thinking about selling it, but I'm not sure. What do you think?

Self-inflicted burns fatal to young woman

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two Connecticut persons set themselves afire Friday in separate incidents. A 20-year-old woman died as a result of the first incident and a Southington man was in serious condition at a New Britain hospital.

Police said the victim, Stephanie Alexander of Hartford, committed suicide about 7 a.m. Friday by dousing her body with gasoline and setting herself on fire at the Hartford home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Robinson.

Roger Ballard, 38, of Southington, also used gasoline to set himself on fire about 1:30 p.m. in his backyard, police said. He was reported in "very serious condition" at New Britain General Hospital.

Authorities said Ms. Alexander appeared to be upset when she went to the Robinson home early Friday, but they said they had no reason for Ballard's apparent suicide attempt.

Police said Ballard's niece watched him set himself ablaze, and her mother snuffed out the flames with a shirt and called an ambulance.

LWV to sponsor candidate quiz on cable TV

The League of Women Voters, in cooperation with the town, will sponsor a series of televised interviews with candidates for the Board of Directors and town treasurer. The series, to be shown on Manchester's local government access channel before election day, is funded by a federal grant made to a consortium of colleges in Connecticut.

Members of the press will submit questions to the candidates, and an LWV member will submit questions sent by Manchester citizens.

Mrs. Eileen Stern, League

president, urges that questions be sent no later than Sept. 10 to League of Women Voters of Manchester, 34 South Farms Dr., Manchester 06040. Final questions for the program will be selected from those areas in which there is greatest citizen interest.

Times and dates of programs will be published as soon as they are confirmed.

Police told of rape

A 17-year-old East Hartford woman and her boy friend reported to East Hartford and later to Manchester police that she had been raped in Manchester early today.

She said she left her boy friend after a fight in East Hartford after midnight today. She was intoxicated. She began hitchhiking on Main St. in East Hartford and was picked up by a car with four young men in it. They brought her to Manchester and the Highland Park area in the east end of town. One of the young men then allegedly raped her, she said.

Due to her refusal to be seen by a doctor and have her parents informed, police of both departments stopped their investigation this morning. A Manchester officer said police may resume investigation if they receive more facts.

Honor court omits session

Honor Court which normally meets every Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the courtroom above the police station on E. Middle Tpke. will not meet Labor Day, said Dave, its chairman.

Honor Court here will mark its second anniversary Monday, Sept. 8. About 400 men and women have entered the court. The topics discussed at the Monday sessions center on alcohol and are given by Alcoholics Anonymous members.

Many Honor Court people join A.A.

"We've made some inroads," Dave said.

Officials sued for $300,000

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Manchester man who claims he was illegally held in a state mental institution for 82 days has filed a $300,000 suit against his lawyer, a prosecutor and a court clerk.

Edward J. Kehoe, 31, charged with assault, said in the suit his public defender had him sent for observation to Norwich State Mental Hospital which declared him competent to stand trial in less than a month. The suit names as defendants Kehoe's public defender, A. Arthur Giddon, former State's Attorney John D. LaBelle and Hartford Superior Court Clerk Thomas A. Abraham.

Kehoe was sent to Norwich for observation after he allegedly assaulted a policeman in Manchester in March of 1974. A month later the hospital certified his competency, but he had to wait two months for a trial, the suit said.

He received a one-year suspended sentence and two years' probation on the assault case.

Legality of appointments to authority challenged

EAST HARTFORD

Sheila Tuller

Two appointments to the Housing Authority were made Thursday night by the Town Council but their legality is being challenged.

Corporation Council F. Timothy McNamara has been asked to deliver his opinion for Tuesday's council meeting.

A request to table action on resignations from the authority was rejected by the council. It was offered by Councilwoman Esther B. Clarke, who asked time to study the charges.

Two members of the authority, Raymond Gaulin and Pasquale Fiorita, were asked to resign when charges were made they had authority employes do work on their homes.

They resigned verbally earlier in the week, and Fiorita denied any guilt. When the motion Thursday night to table was rejected, Councilman Anthony Donatelli asked to see written resignations.

Council Chairman George Dagon explained the Housing Authority members had resigned orally to Mayor

Richard Blackstone in the presence of Corporation Counsel F. Timothy McNamara, Mrs. Clarke, and himself. There were no written resignations.

Councilman Stephen Barron motioned to accept Housing Authority Chairman Gaulin's resignation and to name William Y. Humphreys to fill the position.

Mrs. Clarke requested a ten-minute recess to meet and talk with the intended appointees. After the recess, the council unanimously voted to accept Humphreys.

Barron then moved to accept the oral resignation of Austin R. McKee and submitted the name of Mrs. Constance O'Brien to replace McKee. The council approved.

Humphreys, of 6 Sunset Ridge Dr., retired United Technologies Corp. chief of securities, will serve until July 1, 1977. Mrs. O'Brien, a long-time resident and local businesswoman, resides at 99 Knollwood Rd. Her term will expire July 1, 1980.

Mrs. Clarke said if there were to be further appointments she would offer the name of a Republican party member.

The only Republican on the Housing Authority, LeRoy Spiller, refused to resign, claiming he has done nothing wrong.

Commissioner Leo Bond and Fiorita, who on Monday said they would resign, later in letters to the mayor refused to resign their posts, for the same reason.

Stephen Brennan, attorney for the Housing Authority requested the opportunity to speak to the council after the appointments were made.

He remarked the council had approved fine candidates for the authority, but if he, as counsel for the authority, had to rule on the legality of the appointments, would not be able to accept them.

Brennan quoted a state statute which said Housing Authority members are public officials and resignations of these officials must be in writing and handed to the town clerk. Resignations must be accepted before appointments can be made.

Mrs. Clarke then requested the council get a legal opinion from the Corporation Counsel.

The Manchester Civic Orchestra will begin rehearsals for its 16th consecutive concert year Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Keeney Street School.

The first concert will be Nov. 2 at the Manchester High School. The orchestra has scheduled three concerts for the 1975-76 season instead of the usual two. Besides the concert in November with full orchestra and instrumental soloists, there will be a concerto concert with a smaller group in February, and a concert with the combined orchestra and Civic Chorus in May. All concerts will be at Manchester High School.

Anyone interested in playing with the orchestra may contact Mrs. Barbara Dickie, orchestra personnel manager, at 649-6543. Rehearsals will be every Monday night at 7:30 at Keeney Street School.

Dr. Jack Heller of the University of Connecticut is the director.

Pops at Hartford

The last of a series of summer pops concerts will be presented Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on the Shell Stage at Constitution Plaza in Hartford.

Arthur Winograd will conduct the Hartford Symphony "Pops" Orchestra in a program of popular and classical favorites.

Gloria Schaffer, Secretary of the State, will be guest narrator for the performance of "Peter and the Wolf" by Prokofiev.

Violinist Elmar Oliveira will play the Saint-Saens "Rondo Capriccioso" with the orchestra. The orchestra will play music by Strauss, Tchaikovsky, and Duke Ellington.

There will also be choral selections by the Travelers Choral Club. The event is free. Rain date is Friday.

Tanglewood

Although the festival concert series has ended at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., the final listing in the popular artists series is scheduled for tonight and starts Helen Reddy. The program begins 7:30 p.m.

Atheneum show features art from children's books

For many people, one of their most treasured possessions is a favorite book from their childhood. It is often the illustrations that are best remembered, for they evoke the flavor of the characters and story in a way that captures the youthful imagination.

Parents and their children together are invited to enjoy this experience anew in an exhibition — "Contemporary American Illustrators of Children's Books" — which will open at the Wadsworth Atheneum on Tuesday.

The exhibition consists of 155 original illustrations by 31 artists, among them Maurice Sendak, Garth Williams, Adrienne Adams, Marcia Brown and Roger DuVoisin. The books in which the illustrations appeared were published between 1949 and 1974.

Complementing the exhibition will be a selection of favorite children's books belonging to Hartford area residents, covering a period from about 1920 to 1950.

It was not until the mid-19th Century that children began to be considered a prime market for publishers, and the books and periodicals that started to appear in quantity at that time were also designed to appeal to the parents who purchased them.

Illustrations for adult fiction began to disappear around 1900 and the better artists then turned to children's books as their major outlet.

The importance of illustrations in children's books is suggested by the long-standing popularity of such illustrations as those by Tenny for the original edition of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." Although several other artists have done illustrations for "Alice," none have ever supplanted Tenny.

Firmly fixed in the imagination of anyone who has delighted in A.A. Milne's series of books about Winnie-the-Pooh and Christopher Robin are the images of all the beloved characters drawn by nest H. Shepard.

To enhance children's enjoyment of the exhibition, the Atheneum has planned a day of special children's events and a series of story readings. Fun Day will take place next Saturday, Sept. 6, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will include story readings, games, short films, and surprise events.

"Good Stories" will be a series of readings from the books in the exhibition starting Sept. 7 at 2 p.m. in Avery Court and continuing every Saturday and Sunday through Oct. 12.

Krementz focuses on the essentials

NEW YORK (NEA) — There he is, the essential Truman Capote. Perched on an expensive chair, elegant and saucy in his black Nehru suit and wide-brimmed hat. A faint smile on his lips, a suggestion of impudence in his eyes.

Only inches away, grinning and disheveled like the white terrier beside him on the couch, E.B. White relaxes in his den. Books piled on the window sill behind him, a leaping country scene beyond that.

Jill Kremetz took both photographs, recently exhibited in her one-woman show, "Famous Writers and Other Personalities," at New York's Nikon House.

At 34, single, liberated and admittedly "paranoid" about her private life — "I'll tell you anything you want to know about my dog, though" — she's easily the most successful young photojournalist around.

She earns $200 a day on assignment.

Her work appears in newspapers and magazines all over the world, and in the Library of Congress and the Museum of Modern Art.

She's responsible for practically every author's portrait on every major book ("I saw that nobody else was doing it for the publishing industry"), and she's produced two books herself: one, a photographic diary of a young black girl growing up in the South, the other a hard-hitting visual study of Vietnam. ("I think the coverage of the Vietnam war by photographers totally changed people's minds and forced the government to pull out.")

When she puts down her Nikon or Leica, she samples the fruit of all this labor, and the pate, at dinner parties with George Plimpton and Gore Vidal.

Not bad for a Morristown, New Jersey, girl who began working at 19 as a secretary at Harper's Bazaar for $9.50 a week "before taxes."

"I couldn't wait to move to Manhattan and support myself. It was a matter of great pride to me. To help pay the rent, I used to walk a neighbor's boy to school every day for 50 cents and a free breakfast. At night I worked for an advertising man and during the holidays, I sold better robes at Bloomingdale's."

She switched to Glamour magazine, saved $1,000 and took a trip around the world with a friend.

"I traded my sewing machine for a Kodak Brownie camera for the trip, and when I came back I had all these pictures. I was thrilled. I joined Show magazine as a reporter and one day, while I was at my desk looking at the pictures, a photographer passed by and said, 'You ought to be a photographer.' So, being highly suggestible, I did it."

Two years later, only 23, she was a staff photographer at the old New York Herald Tribune. The only woman ever to achieve that status.

"My idea of heaven was to get a call at 4 a.m. to cover a fire. Even now, if I hear a siren or spot a story breaking, I rush to follow it."

JILL KREMENTZ

Photography as an art

She's competitive and ambitious and a bloody hard worker who generates many of her own assignments and prepares thoroughly for them. "I try to keep on top of who's in town and what books are coming out, and I keep cross-referenced, geographical files. Say I'm going to California to shoot Henry Miller. I send out letters beforehand to say when I'm going, where I'll be staying, etc."

"When I get to my hotel, I start making calls and setting up a schedule. If there are four writers in Mill Valley, for example, I try to arrange to shoot them all on the same days so I don't have to travel back and forth between cities."

"Once I have the pictures, I make sure editors at newspapers and publishing houses know I have them in stock." Her stock list now numbers roughly 600 and reads like a college course on Noted Writers of the Mid-Twentieth Century.

"I've always been a reader, and before I go on a session, I do a lot of research on the subject. I might not have taken that picture of Eudora Welty in her bedroom if I hadn't had a sense of her as a Southerner and a writer." The cabinet in her bedroom is described in her novel, "The Optimist's Daughter."

"I know when I have what I want in a photographic session but I can't say why. Setting is very important to me and, given the choice, I'd much rather photograph someone in his home surroundings. I never go in with a preconceived idea of the picture and I get absolutely infuriated when anyone calls and tells me what to take beforehand."

Much better to leave it to Ms. Kremetz' own good eye and judgment and those impponderables which tell her when she's gotten something special. Something that merits the credit: "Photo: Jill Kremetz."

Stamps and coins

By Russ MacKendrick

Just in time for back-to-school days we have this shot of the medallion recently issued by the National Education Association. Another item to be added to the myriad of "Official Limited Edition Bicentennial" treasures.

It is a little bit special, though, because of its generous size — 2½ inches across — a real solid article to jounce in the hand.

It is offered in antique finish bronze at $12.50 and in .999 fine silver at $75. Each piece will be hallmarked, serially numbered, and come with a matching display stand.

NEA's symbol for the united teaching profession is shown on the front: "...the first letter of the Greek word for education, an arrow for the future, and a spherical triangle to represent the mutually supportive work of the local, state, and national programs of the NEA..." So states the PR literature.

This symbol is held in a very competent hand which also appears on the reverse to undergird their theme and the date — 1976.

As fed-up-to-here as we all are with the avalanche of medallion manufacturers, this one does have a certain appeal.

Frank Eliscu was the sculptor, and Medallie Art of Danbury, (what again!) the producer.

'Image of America'

Continuing on education — Many school teachers have ordered the first of the Postal Service "Image of America" series. This one is a kit called the "Colonial Post Rider." They use special issue stamps to introduce topics of American history.

Keeping current

Are you keeping up with all the current stamps? On Aug. 15 there was supposed to be the World Peace Through Law (10 cents, with an olive branch, gavel, law book, and globe). On Aug. 26 the International Women's Year (same value, with a white dove, equality sign, symbol for the female, and another globe to indicate worldwidness).

And still coming: On Sept. 3 there will be a quarter: "200 Years of Postal Service." It will be so-tenant showing the evolution of mail-transport methods. (Stage-coach and trailer truck, trains, vintage biplane and jet-liner, and finally, Mailgrams via satellite.)

The first day of issue will be at Philadelphia. There was a very good full-color preview of these on the front page of a recent "Linn's Stamp News."

Added to library

The library of the Manchester Philatelic Society has recently picked up a copy of the latest Durland Plate Number Catalog. This book gives a price for every number or combination of numbers, and also for sheet positions if there is any difference there.

There are no real surprises until we get back to the 1969 six-cent Apollo 8 Moon Orbit, where the number 30945 is worth $6 as against only $2.40 for the other seven numbers.

The six-cent U.S. Flag regular issue of 1968-71 had 119 possible numbers. Most of them bring 50 cents, but every now and then there will be a two-dollar one, a three, four, five, $7.50, and a top of $9.

The real shocker though, is the 8 cent Liberty in the 1954 regular issues. There were two numbers on each plate block. Most are $3, but there are several over $100, and the combo 24915-24920 is offered at $3,500 to $4,000, depending on the position (suggest checking your album in case).

Resume meetings

Members of the Central Connecticut Coin Club will reconvene from their summer doings for the first meeting of the season on Tuesday, Sept. 2. It will be at the usual place, the K of C Home, 138 Main St. at 7:30 p.m. Besides the regular features there will be a Red Book Quiz by Dan Rittlinger. Bring all your numismatic smarts.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Whatever happened to a movie star of the '40s and '50s named Dennis Morgan? He had a beautiful Irish tenor voice and starred in musicals like "The Desert Song" and "Shine on Harvest Moon." What is he doing these days? — M. C., Eureka, Calif.

Dennis Morgan doesn't have to work any more. He invested wisely and I'm told he is currently busy being rich. His last film was "Rogue's Gallery," in '68. He does an occasional commercial for fun, that's all.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me some facts about Claude Akins? I mean things like where he was born, his height and weight and his age. Also, can you tell me about the rig he drives on "Movin' On"? — DONNA WILSON, West Texas City, Tex.

Akins, a veteran character actor who has finally struck it successful on the NBC series, is rumored to be 49, comes from Nelson, Ga., and is 6 feet 2 and weighs around 200. The rig on the show is a Kenworth Conventional (the conventional part means it has the engine in the front). The show just got a pair of brand new rigs for next season, more powerful than last year's.

DEAR DICK: Is Vivien Leigh still alive? How come I've never seen her on TV or heard of her lately? And if you could tell her I admire her in "Gone With The Wind" and it's my favorite movie and could it possibly be put on TV? — TAMMY TAIT, Firohope, Ala.

Vivien Leigh died in 1967, which accounts for the fact that you haven't seen her much lately. But you will be seeing "Gone With The Wind" on TV soon, although the date has not yet been set. The deal has been made, however.

DEAR DICK: Some time ago, there was a movie called "Soylent Green." Was this taken from a book? If so, who was the author? — MRS. F.W.B., Marshall, Mich.

Yes, "Soylent Green" was adapted from Harry Harrison's novel, "Make Room, Make Room."

DEAR DICK: Can you do anything about creating interest for a rerun of that superb British series of a few years ago, "The Forsyte Saga"? It would be a welcome change from much of the drive on nighttime TV. — CHANDLER MYERS, Ogdensburg, N.Y.

PBS officials tell me they originally acquired the rights from the BBC for two showings of "The Forsyte Saga" and they did show it twice. They say they are considering renegotiating for another run but the BBC is asking a lot of money. "We are getting a lot of requests, however," the PBS man says, "so we may do it anyway." Have faith.

DEAR DICK: Would you explain the difference between the following: Miss America and Miss U.S.A., and Miss Universe and Miss World. — MRS. L. MAJOR, Mennads, N.Y.

Those are four separate and distinct beauty pageants. Miss America was the granddaddy of them all, then other promoters got into the act and started the other contests. They were looking for a fast buck—or, in these cases, a fast buck.

DEAR DICK: We are reading a lot about Carole Lombard these days, and we would like to see some of her movies. Norma Shearer and Clark Gable are others we'd like to see. Who do we write to for these requests? — DONNA FIELD, Goshen, Ind.

Most of Lombard and Shearer's movies are too old for TV—they both made their last appearances in 1942. Some of Gable's films still pop up on late night shows. I suggest you contact the program departments of your local TV stations with your request.

DEAR DICK: Who does the fantastic bluegrass fiddling on Marty Robbins' LP album, "Good 'n Country"? — REBECCA KING, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The people at Columbia tell me the fiddler's name is Buddy Spicher.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. Is Jack Cassidy the son of Hopalong Cassidy? — J. MIVILLE, Anaheim, Cal.

No. Hopalong Cassidy was a character (played by William Boyd), not a real person.

Brendan Gill forecasts a renaissance of writing

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The printed word does not have one foot in the grave as some social critics have gloomily declaimed — in fact, the printed word has rarely been spryer, according to Brendan Gill.

"There is a true word renaissance going on in the 1970s," said Gill. "We see a lot of fine young writers today with a respect for the language, even an awe of it. And these people are often writing beautiful stuff."

Brendan Gill is as authoritative a source on our language as any contemporary who has poised a quill. He currently is the theater critic and short-story writer for The New Yorker, and recently the author of "Here At The New Yorker" (Random House), which each passing week was hopping higher on the best-seller list.

The book chronicles the 50-year history of this literary magazine — a national institution — and Gill's 35 happy, quirky years with it. The New Yorker has set a standard for elegant and precise prose, of which the supple Gill has made a prominent contribution.

"The comeback of theater and books has proved mysterious to many people," said Gill. "Plays — which are probably more of a word medium even than novels — are alive on Broadway, and doing better than ever in regional theater and community theater and university theater. It is a thrilling and completely unexpected turn of events."

"People predicted the theater would die, because television was seen as the perfect crusher."

"TV, though, has proved, I think, to be emotionally unsatisfying to many, not enough intellectual nourishment. So young people sought another avenue, the theater."

He added that more books are being sold than ever — and that is per capita, and not simply due to increased population — and that newspapers and magazines are being written better. He noted that critics such as Marshall McLuhan, who predicted the demise of the written word, are being proved wrong.

"I think McLuhan particularly is a silly fellow," said Gill. "He had some amusing intuitions and invented a new jargon, but he was not on target."

Is it not true, though, that the market for short stories and the general acceptance of novels is less than it once was?

"True," said Gill, "but I think that might have to do more with the economy. Art does indeed follow economics. And publishers and editors, in rocky financial times, are afraid to take a chance on fiction. The facts alone can salvage a nonfiction piece. But fiction historically has had its ups and its downs."

Gill believes that writing today is at so high a level because of the care that young writers show for the language. "When I was starting out," he said, "my peers and I were rather sloppy. We thought we could get away with more than the young people today. I think they are working harder at it."

"Of course, labor doesn't always equal great prose. Someone once said that Shakespeare wrote so swiftly he never blotted an 'I.' Ben Jonson said, 'Would he had blotted a thousand.' But I think that was just professional envy."

BRENDAN GILL

Respected TV critic becomes a novelist

John Crosby, who used to be the most respected of U.S. TV critics when he wrote for the old New York Herald-Tribune, is now a novelist. He's written four and his latest is a genuine you-can't-put-it-down thriller called "An Affair of Strangers."

Crosby has been living overseas since '62, but he may be coming back to the U.S. soon.

"For an American," he says, "living in Europe has become something of a burden. There is a lot of anti-American feeling in Europe, even in England where I live now."

"So Katy (his English-born wife) and I are thinking of moving back. Not just because of that but also because of the terrible tax situation in England. We're not sure where we'll go — Northern California, perhaps, or maybe New Mexico. Somewhere rural, where we can keep a goat and some chickens and Katy can grow things."

He is also finally calling an end to his newspaper career. He writes a column now for an English newspaper, but that ends this summer.

"I've been a newspaperman since 1932 in Milwaukee," he says. "That's 43 years and I find I'm beginning to repeat myself. We all do it."

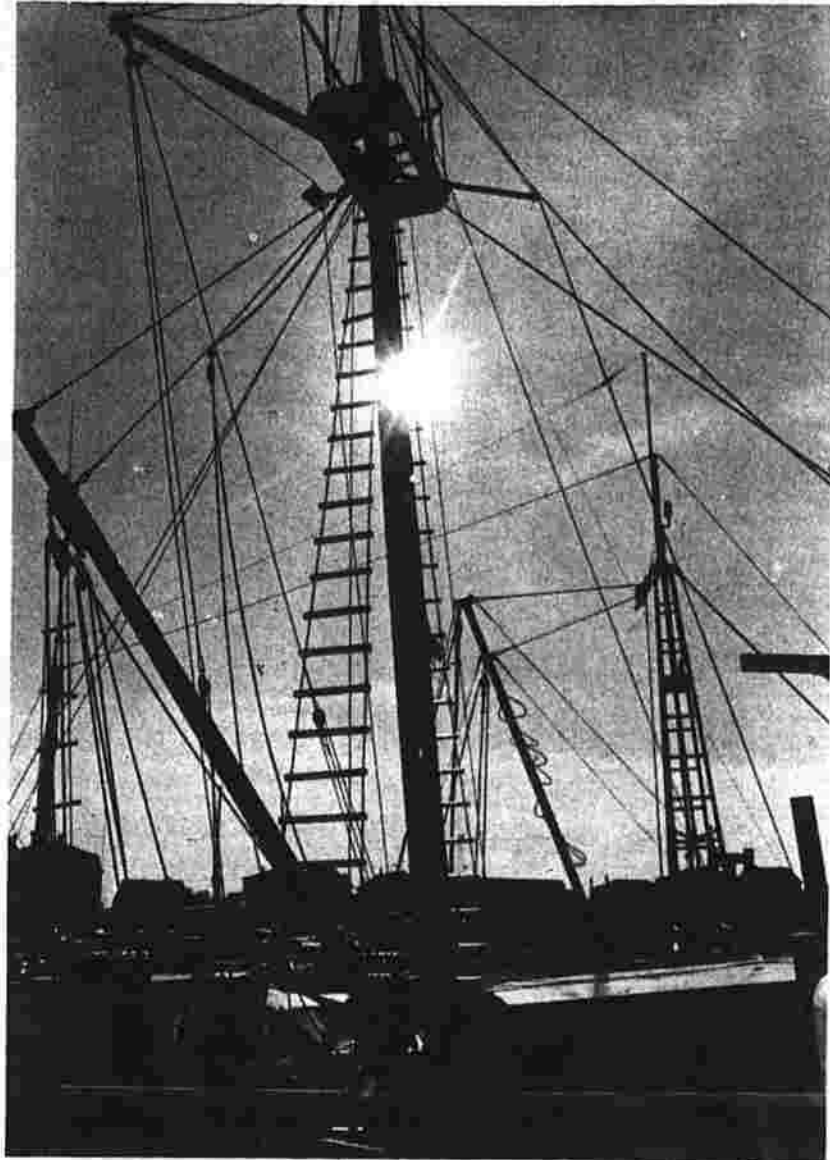

Crosby wrote about TV for years, but he says he doesn't miss not writing about it at all. He does see a lot of TV, mostly out of habit. In England today, he says, the most popular show is Telly Savalas' Kojak series.

What's new this week

The coming week on television will be a mixture of the old and the new. Many network series will end their seasons this week, and begin new seasons or be replaced next week.

Here's a rundown of new shows or pre-season previews scheduled this week:

Tuesday

Tuesday night schedules include two made-for-TV movies which have become new series, "Starsky and Hutch," which is the second episode of CBS' "Beacon Hill," and changes on Channel 5.

The two movies are NBC's "The Invisible Man," which debuts as a series Sept. 8, and ABC's "Mobile Two," which has been renamed "Mobile One" and will become a series

Sept. 12. Channel 5's changes include addition of reruns of "The Partridge Family" and "Adam-12," which have meant cancellation of "I Love Lucy" and "Hogan's Heroes." Channels 8 and 20 begin broadcasting a Billy Graham Crusade at 7 p.m.

Wednesday

Another made-for-TV movie which will become a series, "Starsky and Hutch," airs on ABC Wednesday night. The Billy Graham Crusade continues and the networks have planned several specials to ease out the old season.

Featured in the specials are Rich Little (NBC), Sandburg's Lincoln (NBC), and a look at President Franklin D.

Roosevelt (CBS).

Thursday
Thursday night, look for previews of CBS' Saturday morning children's shows; NBC's "Montefusco," an Italian-American sitcom; NBC's "Fay," about a divorcee, and NBC's "Medical Story," an anthology series. Also Thursday night: An ABC special about Evel Knievel and a late-night Wide World Special on ABC's new season.

Friday
Friday night has two more previews of Saturday morning kid shows, from ABC and NBC. Both ABC and CBS have programmed news specials, on land use and hunting, respectively.

"He was a star. You loved him for the way he wore his battered fedora or you hated him for what appeared to be an arrogant tilt of the chin." So says Henry Fonda of President Franklin Roosevelt in the CBS-TV special, "F.D.R.: The Man Who Changed America," Wednesday at 10 p.m. on Channel 3.

State readies exhibits for the Big E

Eleven of the enterprises that help make Connecticut's economic wheels go round will display their products and methods in the Connecticut Building at the Eastern States Exposition, beginning Sept. 10 at West Springfield, Mass.

Exhibits in the Connecticut Building will indicate the range of industry and agriculture in the state.

Boating enthusiasts will be able to examine a sailboat and a power craft manufactured by Columbian Fiberglass in Wallingford.

Lego Systems, whose new plant in Enfield produces toy plastic building bricks for children, will display its colorful products, and allow small visitors to experiment with samples.

Four-season homes built from timber logged in Connecticut will be represented in the exhibit of New England Log Homes, headquartered in Hamden.

Northeast Utilities will mount an informational display covering nuclear power, projections of future needs, and how they can be met.

For fans of green growing things, Pilch Gardens of Enfield will provide a spot to browse and admire, and learn about plants for indoors and out.

The Connecticut Poultry Association's contribution to the Connecticut Building will be "Omelets A to Z," using members of the audience to show the unlimited possibilities of omelet making.

Radio Station WTIC of Hartford will broadcast much of its daily schedule from a temporary studio in the building.

Some 250 varieties of seeds produced by Hart Seed of Wethersfield will provide background for a display featuring the Wethersfield red onion with its roots, so to speak, in colonial Connecticut.

Golfing equipment, tires, and footwear will make up the exhibit of Uniroyal, the manufacturer of plastic and rubber products in Naugatuck and Middlebury.

Lamps and weather instruments of unusual styling, many with hand crafted features, will attract visitors to the exhibit of Indecor Inc., of Milford.

Finally, the fruit and vegetable growers of Connecticut will produce a mouth-watering sampling of the edibles grown in the state.

Other displays in the Connecticut Building will include those by eight agencies of state government. The state Department of Commerce is responsible for management of the building.

The Big E, with participation by all six New England states, runs Sept. 10 to 21. Wednesday, Sept. 17 will be Connecticut Day. Daily hours are from 10 to 9, Sundays from noon to 9.

UConn plans free movies

A free festival of 25 outstanding short films will be presented Sept. 4 and 5 by the University of Connecticut Wilbur Cross Library.

The "Free Fun Flicks," part of the library's annual open house, will be screened from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Sept. 4.

The short subjects, many of them prizewinners from several countries, run from 4 to 26 minutes and cover a wide range of subjects. The films use a variety of techniques, including black-and-white and color photography, animations, and puppetry.

9-day fair opens at Northampton

The Three-County Fair at Northampton, Mass., opened Friday for a nine-day run through next Saturday.

The fair features eight days of parimutuel horse racing, mock Bicentennial battles tomorrow, pony drawing on Tuesday, oxen drawing on Wednesday, horse drawing on Thursday and Friday, polka dancing Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and more than 11,000 exhibits.

Also scheduled are a Youth Day on Tuesday, a country-western concert Friday, and an auto thrill show Tuesday.
