HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Supreme Court has upheld a ruling against the International Association of Machinists, awarding damages of more than $1.4 million to United Technologies Corp. from a 1969 strike.

The high court Monday sustained a lower court's recomputation. That set damages at $979,200 of the company's claimed $4.15 million loss at Pratt & Whitney's East Hartford and Manchester plants and $444,811 of the company's claimed $2.3 million loss at Hamilton Standard's Windsor Locks and Broad Brook plants.

Union lawyers had challenged the Hartford Superior Court's $4.15 million and $2.3 million estimates of losses sustained by the company during the five-month strike. The company was then known as United Aircraft Corp.

The state Supreme Court in 1971 upheld the company's right to seek damages but ordered the lower court to recompute the claimed damage figures.

None of the Supreme Court's corrections materially affect the lower court's "detailed and comprehensive" 109-page ruling. Justice Alva P. Lodielle wrote in the unanimous decision.

Loiselle said the major source for determining manufacturing costs and wasted overhead were exhibits in which figures were taken from the company's ledgers and payroll records.

The court found there was a high incidence of spoiled work and accepted the spoiled work items in the exhibits.

The Superior Court's recalculations "were supported by the evidence and in accordance with law and were determined in conformity with the Standard's shop losses: labor efficiency value, overtime premiums, spoiled work, corrective work, and make-or-buy conversions.

In addition, Pratt & Whitney's training costs were considered.

News summary

Compiled from United Press International

State

GROTON — Following a fruitless session in which neither side budged on the issue of work practices, talks resumed today in the 10-week strike against General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division. The walkout began July 1 and the talks Tuesday were the first since Aug. 19.

HARTFORD — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today offered an overtime package that would give medical personnel at state institutions as much as $4,600 in overtime pay. State Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper said the offer was presented to the physicians in the morning but he did not immediately receive a response to the administration proposal. Physicians have demanded pay hikes ranging up to $10,000 a year.

Regional

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Unannounced Democratic presidential candidate Sargent Shriver says Secretary of State Henry Kissinger deserves credit for the latest Mideast disengagement pact; but he is troubled with portions of the pact which guarantee oil shipments to Israel and stationing of Americans at the early warning posts in the Sinai Desert.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — A district court inquest opened today into the fatal shooting of a Puerto Rican youth by a policeman last week which touched off a series of skirmishes and firebombings in the city's Hispanic North End.

MONTPELIER, Vt. — Vermont will accept the bid of a Boston-area contractor of $27,050 for the 187-year-old state prison at Windsor. Edward Fish plans to convert the now closed prison into an apartment complex.

National

TRENTON, N.J. — A 110-million-gallon reservoir ran dry because of a filter plant breakdown, forcing 250,000 area residents to conserve water by giving up baths and laundry. School children, government workers and 10,000 industrial workers got the day off under emergency decrees as a fleet of pump trucks were stationed in the area to pump water for minimal necessities.

DETROIT — Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, self-described foster son of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa, appeared today before a federal grand jury trying to determine how and why Hoffa disappeared. O'Brien is considered by federal investigators to be a key figure in the case. Hoffa has been missing since July 30.

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Federal Judge Alvin Rubin in New Orleans has ordered dockworkers to finish loading a freighter with 20,000 tons of American grain bound for Russia. The workers stopped loading the ship at Reserve, La., Sunday as part of a boycott by the union because they fear exports will drive up food prices.

WASHINGTON — President Ford told the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund Tuesday that the United States feels "a strong economy is the best contribution this nation can make to another nation" and pledged the United States would not isolate itself from the rest of the world's economic problems.

TEL AVIV, Israel — Israeli jets bombed a Palestinian refugee camp near the city Tyre today, and Israeli artillery units pounded southern Lebanese farmlands.

LISBON, Portugal — The head of Portugal's army has defied President Francisco de Costa Gomes and called for the ouster of Communist-backed Gen. Vasco Gonçalves as armed forces commander.

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel today urged the U. S. Congress to approve the sending of American watchdogs to the Sinai Desert to guard the interim peace settlement. He promised it would not result in Vietnam-like involvement.

Entering new world

Entering a new world are Kathy Nericeco, left, of East Hartford, and Susan Marcue of Bolton, as they walk through the doors of Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical School to begin a new course of study. This morning, they broke tradition at the school which has never before enrolled girls. There are two other girls also embarking on a technical career at Cheney Tech this year. ## New school term begins with only minor hitches

With a hint of fall chill in the air, about 9,950 Manchester boys and girls got up a little earlier this morning, scrubbed extra clean, dressed a little more carefully, maybe even ate a better breakfast than usual, and left their homes.

Today was the first day of school. In some instances, both mother and father escorted their young ones to their first day at kindergarten.

Some very young men were seen sporting the new style leisure suits. And some very young ladies were wearing sharply creased pantsuits.

Things went "pretty smoothly," said Wilson Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools.

The only major mishap was when two children were put on the wrong bus by their baby sitters. The bus driver, however, took them to the right school.

Deakin said the extra early publication of bus routes in The Herald helped to smooth out many transportation snags that usually arise. The bus information appeared Aug. 20 in The Herald instead of the day before school begins as was done in the past.

Revised MMH budget approved

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The quality of services at Manchester Memorial Hospital will in no way be affected by the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care's (CHHC) approval of less than the full budget requested, says Edward M. Kenney, hospital administrator.

Manchester Memorial Hospital was granted a budget of $14,246,000 by the state commission for the 1975-76 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, after a budget hearing Tuesday.

The hospital budget was the seventh largest granted in the state by the commission. Budget increases to Connecticut's 35 general hospitals average 9.8 per cent.

Manchester's hospital's increase was 12.9 per cent of the hospital's budget for last year.

Kenney said that the budget represents a $166,000 reduction from the amount the hospital originally requested, which was $14,412,000.

He said that the new budget may delay the implementation of some new services or hiring specialized personnel during the next fiscal year. Some of the services Kenney mentioned were a management engineer, staff additions in the stress testing laboratory, extra X-ray technicians, and extra help in the pharmacy.

Kenney said that the budget cuts are "bottom line reductions."

He said the budget increase will be reflected in room rates and special services rates, but he could not say how much at this time.

He said that the hospital agreed last week with a CHHC hearing panel in reaching the $14,246,000 as a settlement figure.

Congress sharply divided on U.S. monitoring role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears sharply divided over whether American technicians should be sent into the Sinai Desert to monitor the new Israeli-Egyptian peace agreement.

Returning to work after a month-long vacation, Congress must decide whether to approve a request by President Ford to allow the use of about 150 U.S. civilian technicians to guarantee that no violations occur under the interim peace pact.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said Tuesday that based on a White House check with more than 30 congressional leaders in both parties, Ford believes Congress will approve sending the technicians.

The President was meeting with Republican congressional leaders this morning on strategy for seeking that approval. This evening he goes to the airport to welcome Secretary of State Henry Kissinger back from his Middle East shuttle diplomacy.

On Thursday Ford and Kissinger will brief congressional leaders on the agreement and other issues.

Ford hopes Congress will give its approval within two weeks.

Congress also returned to the continuing controversy over oil prices. Congressional sources said a major effort will be made next week to override President Ford's veto of a six-month extension of price controls.

Congressional reaction Tuesday to Ford's Middle East request came down hard on both sides of the issue.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said it would "set a bad precedent," and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said he had "serious reservations" about sending Americans into the Sinai.

Will they eat up beer cans too?

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — State officials have bought two billygoats and a donkey in hopes of cutting the groundskeeping load and energy use at Fort Adams State Park.

The goats will be allowed to graze on the fort's higher grassy areas, hopefully eliminating the need for power mowers.

The donkey will be used for hauling and other chores in places where tractors can't go. It will also be pressed into service to pull carts for children, officials said.

The fort already has two mules for the children's program.

Arab response varies to interim peace pact

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger briefed skeptical Syrian leaders today on the details of the new Egyptian-Israeli peace pact and then flew home to Washington to report to President Ford, ending 15 hectic but successful days of shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East.

Kissinger's blue and white Air Force jet left Damascus at 4:28 p.m. for a refueling stop in London en route to Washington, later than he had planned.

In a brief departure statement Kissinger said that he reviewed with President Hafez Assad "developments in the Middle East as I understand them and did so in a very frank and cordial manner."

Kissinger spent three hours and 10 minutes in the Syrian capital after his arrival from Jordan. He met Assad at the presidential palace for 75 minutes.

A U.S. official in Damascus said Kissinger apparently failed to win Assad's unconditional approval of the Egyptian-Israeli accord.

The official said "the atmosphere during the talks was restrained."

During the Damascus stopover, Kissinger's wife Nancy remained at the airport chatting to reporters accompanying the secretary on his travels who also did not drive into the capital.

Telephones from the airport area to the city were also cut.

Earlier, the secretary held talks with Jordan's King Hussein in Amman after he received an enthusiastic reception in Saudi Arabia.

A U.S. spokesman said Hussein told Kissinger he was "pleased" with the interim agreement — an endorsement that publicly, at least, fell short of the enthusiastic welcome given by Saudi Arabia Tuesday.

The spokesman said Hussein also "expressed his concern" over U.S. congressional opposition to the pending sale of Hawk missiles to Jordan.

Kissinger replied by telling Hussein that he was hopeful opposition to the deal could be overcome when Congress returns.

The U.S. spokesman said the possibility of an Israeli-Syrian agreement was mentioned "only in passing" in Kissinger's talks with Hussein.

Another senior official aboard Kissinger's aircraft told reporters that every Middle Eastern leader he had met asked about the Hawks and indicated their concern that congressional opposition to the deal coming on top of the U.S. arms cut-off to Turkey was undermining America's reputation as a reliable ally.

Before leaving Amman, Kissinger admitted to reporters that "a few problems" existed between America and Jordan.

Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifaat, sitting by Kissinger's side, nodded approvingly.

"I explained the significance of the recently concluded agreement which is a further progress towards peace in the Middle East and the U.S. views on the matter," Kissinger said.

Sanitary sewer assessment issue debated at hearing

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

The pros and cons of sanitary sewers — their need and their cost — consumed the greater part of the 3 1/2-hour meeting Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors.

The board held public hearings on two sanitary sewer projects: One proposed for about half of Linwood Dr., the other already installed on Erie St., Garden Grove Rd. (a private road) and a part of Keeney St.

As has been the case at all recent public hearings on sanitary sewers, the arguments were heated and the hearing room was over-crowded. Every seat was taken, standing room was at a premium and about 15 of the participants and onlookers had to fend for themselves in the corridors.

Mayor John Thompson explained that no provision had been made for an alternate meeting location. He said the overflow crowd had not been anticipated.

Police Chief Robert Laman and Police Lt. Richard Sartor, who were present to discuss another matter, did not comment on the overcrowded situation.

The public hearing on the sewer project already constructed (Erie St., Garden Grove Rd. and a part of Keeney St.) concerned proposed assessments against the 32 benefiting property owners.

The six or seven who spoke (some several times) all raised the issue of deferred assessments (until such time as the property owner ties into the system).

The proposal for Linwood Dr. sanitary sewers is for only about half the street length and is on a petition from six of the seven property owners to be benefited. One of the six who signed has changed his mind and has joined nine property owners on the other half of Linwood St. in opposing the sewers.

Opposition to the sewers was expressed Tuesday night by property owners on that portion of Linwood Dr. not included in the proposed project.

Their opposition, it developed, was from concern the project would be expanded to include their area.

The proposal marks the third time Linwood Dr. sanitary sewers have been considered by the directors. They were rejected the other two times — once for the entire street and once for a portion of the street.

Ronald Krantz, chief sanitarian and speaking for the town health department, cited a health hazard on one of the properties involved and said the only solution to its poor soil condition is to construct a sanitary sewer.

Krantz conceded, under questioning, he hadn't inspected the whole area and, as far as he knew, only the one problem exists, with the possibility of one other.

Asked why Garden Grove Caterers hadn't tied into the sanitary sewers constructed in Garden Grove Rd. (It was noted for the record the sewers were installed to correct a pollution problem caused, principally, by the caterers), Krantz said a cease-and-desist order was issued by the health department with a Sept. 16 deadline and that Garden Grove Caterers has given assurance it will tie in soon.

A board decision on Linwood Dr. sewers is expected Sept. 9.

Opinion
Time to get crackin'

While it is not quite the end of summer and not quite the beginning of fall, it is a time when one realizes that a lot of good intentions of a few months ago, remain just that — good intentions.

It is perhaps only human nature to put off a lot of things hoping that either those who thought these tasks should be done, will have forgotten or if the task is a must, someone else has grabbed the ball by the horns and did it without waiting for your help.

Now if everybody procrastinated, nothing would happen and presumably no crisis would be created.

Scene from here
Engineering enigmas

Can it be that the person who designed the "Rube Goldberg type" ramp at the rear of the Municipal Building (for $9,000 yet) is the same person who designed the traffic pattern at Manchester Green or, better yet, the same person who designed the new maze in front of Green School?

We aren't saying they have exclusive rights to "what do you call that" honors. There probably are others. All we're saying is, they're likely candidates for top honors.

To those of you wondering whether congressmen are really "hurting," as they indicated when they voted themselves a cost-of-living raise of 4 to 6 per cent, (to be determined by President Ford when he signs the bill, as he has indicated he will do), here are some figures that can't help but awe you.

The present salary (before the raise) is $42,500 annually. In addition, each of the 435 congressmen receives $227,220 to hire staff assistants (the government provides office space), $5,500 for stationery, two free newspapers to constituents in his district, and "franking" privileges for virtually unlimited first-class mail.

Also, $5,500 for office equipment, $3,400 for the maintenance of an office in his district, 500 hours of long-distance calls from Washington plus unlimited long-distance calls to his district office and, not the least of the benefits by any means, 26 round-trip trips back home.

Candidates and dreams of glory

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. — I have a simple shaky generalization about the field of presidential candidates — that most of them are trying to recapture some past glory, either in someone else's life or their own. I have been doing some candidate-watching. In recent weeks a number of candidates have come seeking support in the Hamptons on Long Island, and I have listened to three of them.

Terry Sanford is a Southern liberal who has been a governor (North Carolina) and is now a university president (Duke). The last Democratic President to fill both roles was Woodrow Wilson, who was also a Southerner. Sanford lacks both Wilson's arrogance and his intense intellectual vigor, nor does he strike us now — as Wilson did in his own time — as the man for our moment.

Lloyd Bentsen dreams not of Wilson but of Lyndon Johnson. He, too, is a Texan, a centrist Democrat, a legislator, a candidate, a political man. His emphasis is on hard bread-and-butter issues. But where L.B.J. always seemed larger than life, Bentsen doesn't.

Eugene McCarthy dreams of recapturing his own 1968 role, and the sadness one feels is that it has vanished, never to return. He is an Independent now, and while he has wit and has read widely and interests many of the young on his campus travels, he no longer stirs them. In some ways — in being an antipolitical and wanting the Presidency reduced to human scale — he was ahead of his time. But instead of the hour striking for his ideas finally, time seems wholly to have bypassed him and left him with his fantasy world.

Lloyd Bentsen dreams not of Wilson but of Lyndon Johnson. He, too, is a Texan, a centrist Democrat, a legislator, a candidate, a political man. His emphasis is on hard bread-and-butter issues. But where L.B.J. always seemed larger than life, Bentsen doesn't.

Just so it won't be a total loss, they get mileage, and to from the State Capitol. Connecticut's 36 state senators and 151 state representatives get $6,500 in the odd-numbered year of their two-year term and $4,500 in the even-numbered year, for a total of $11,000. In addition, they get $2,000 for expenses the two years plus mileage and from the State Capitol.

'This city is ours...'

WASHINGTON — Some gallant and virile words have been said in San Francisco, that gem of a city. They were spoken by one John Jacobs of an urban renewal association, and they should be chiseled in stone.

"In talking to community people, I sense a real mood that this city is ours, by God, and we're going to prove it." Jacobs was talking about a settlement negotiated by Mayor Joseph Alioto to end a strike by the city's police and firemen. He spoke of a "sense of outrage and betrayal, running so deep that it will bring to the fore a reform movement that will be a direct confrontation between the citizens who live here and the public safety unions."

I don't know John Jacobs, but whatever his personal faults, he is — by God — a man. There are, of course, others like him in New York and other cities harassed by power-greedy labor union leaders, but he stands as a symbol of what all of us should hope is a national awakening that will release people everywhere from the burden of working for their unionized public servants instead of vice versa.

"This city is ours," said John Jacobs, and wonders why no one has yet said quite that way before. "This city is ours." Its simplicity is superb. Every citizen in the truest sense belongs to those who constitute Jacobs' word, "ours." Every city is public property, which means it may not be ruled by any one person or any one syndicate. It may be governed and operated only with the consent of the governed.

That's what the Constitution and various laws say. Yet in San Francisco and New York and other cities, public employee unions have imposed government by men instead of law. No one in New York has yet been punished for its recent illegal garbage men's strike. Indeed no one has been punished for the illegal nationwide postal workers' strike several years ago.

Thus, it passes understanding that certain members of Congress beholden to labor unions for campaign contributions should be seriously considering legislation which would make the entire country subject to rule by labor unions.

So the issue is not that right. What the legislation actually would do is grant the bosses of public sector unions the "right" to compel public employees to "accept representation" from unions they do not support. If that "right" is granted to the labor union syndicates, what happened in San Francisco and New York then can happen everywhere in the country.

Any citizen, even a union member, who doesn't believe that total unionization of the nation's public employees would be merely a form of "protection" for those workers is out of his cotton-picking mind. San Francisco and New York have discovered that absolute power in the hands of the labor Mafia corrupts absolutely.

"Take your own case," said John Jacobs. "This city is ours, by God," said John Jacobs. "We're going to close this state down," said Gerald McEntee, boss of Pennsylvania's state and municipal employees.

What a precious gift it is to be merciful. Jesus told this parable. He told of a king who wanted to settle his accounts with his servants.
"As he began the settlement, a man who owed him ten thousand talents was brought to him. Since he was not able to pay, the master ordered that he and his children and all that he had be sold to repay the debt."
The servant quickly went to his knees, begging for mercy which the master was quick to give him. But on the way out this servant met another man who owed him just a few talents. When the man could not

Unemployed drama teacher sells hot dogs

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Being on unemployment is such an undignified and demeaning experience," Betty Ann Ewing said as she placed a steaming hot frankfurter into a roll and buried it beneath a generous helping of sauerkraut.

"I don't think I would want to get money that way. But I guess there are some people who have to do it," she said. "That'll be 50 cents for the hotdog."

Ms. Ewing, a graduate of the University of Texas in San Antonio, has a bachelor's degree in dramatic arts. She journeyed to the northeast, first as a social worker in New York City and then a teacher at a federally funded theater group for elementary school children in Providence.

She was teaching creative drama to a group called Invention. Then after two years in Providence, she was laid off from her job classification "dried up."

She found herself unemployed for the first time since leaving college. And just as she taught school children to improvise, she started to think of ways to "improvise a way to make a living."

"I didn't want a 9 to 5 job, I wanted something flexible so that I could have enough spare time to look for another job. All of a sudden I thought of selling hot dogs. Going into business for myself," she said.

At the rate things are going in Rhode Island, she will need lots of spare time. The state's 18.2 per cent unemployment rate is the highest in the nation. About 74,700 persons are out of work in the nation's smallest state which has an estimated workforce of 400,000.

The jobless rate has been rising continuously since September of 1974 when the rate was 6.6 per cent. The state never has fully recovered from the economic blow delivered by the massive exodus of Navy operations two years ago, and hardly a week goes by without news of some mill, factory, or store laying people off or going out of business.

Although budget problems are not as severe as in many other states, Gov. Philip W. Noel is threatening to lay off state employees unless they "go shoulder to shoulder" with him in keeping expenses down. By law, the state cannot operate on a deficit spending, and the current $482.1 million spending package appears insufficient.

Under Noel's guidance, the state has started an extensive economic development program, stressing the state's many acres of abandoned Navy lands as prime industrial sites. But a recent Project Recovery task force reported recently that the state faces more problems than immediate solutions.

Noel says it will take a lot of "imagination" to stabilize the state's economy.

Ms. Ewing agrees that "imagination" can be the key to finding work. "I found that I was either too qualified for most jobs or not qualified for others," she said.

"I remembered all those hot dog vendors on every corner in New York. I saw that there weren't any in Providence. So I thought, well, why not sell hot dogs. I went to New York and bought this push cart, got the appropriate licenses from the city departments, and presto, I was in business," she said.

She sells hot dogs and soft drinks each weekday afternoon outside the state Registry of Motor Vehicles building across from the State House.

Ms. Ewing sells "a couple of hundred" per day, which allows her to meet her expenses, but it's still less than a friend gets through unemployment. The blue-eyed blonde said she will be out every day even through the winter months.

"This is not a bad job, really, especially when the day is nice and sunny like today. But don't ask me what I'll do when the snow starts," she said.

Tass reports pact signing negatively

MOSCOW (UPI) — Under a headline "Agreement Reached, Problems Remain," the Tass news agency Tuesday reported the new interim troop disengagement pact in the Sinai peninsula.

Tass did not directly comment on the agreement, but carried hostile comments from foreign newspapers indicating that the Soviet view is negative.

The communist party newspaper Pravda this weekend opposed the decision to send American civilians to help police the agreement.

Tass quoted the Washington Post as saying the cost to America of the new agreement will be a vast military aid program for Israel.

The paper notes that military experts are afraid it will disrupt the balance of armaments in the Middle East to such a degree that the Arab countries will panic," Tass said.

"The immediate result might be that the Arabs will again request weapons from other countries, so that the end result will be war."

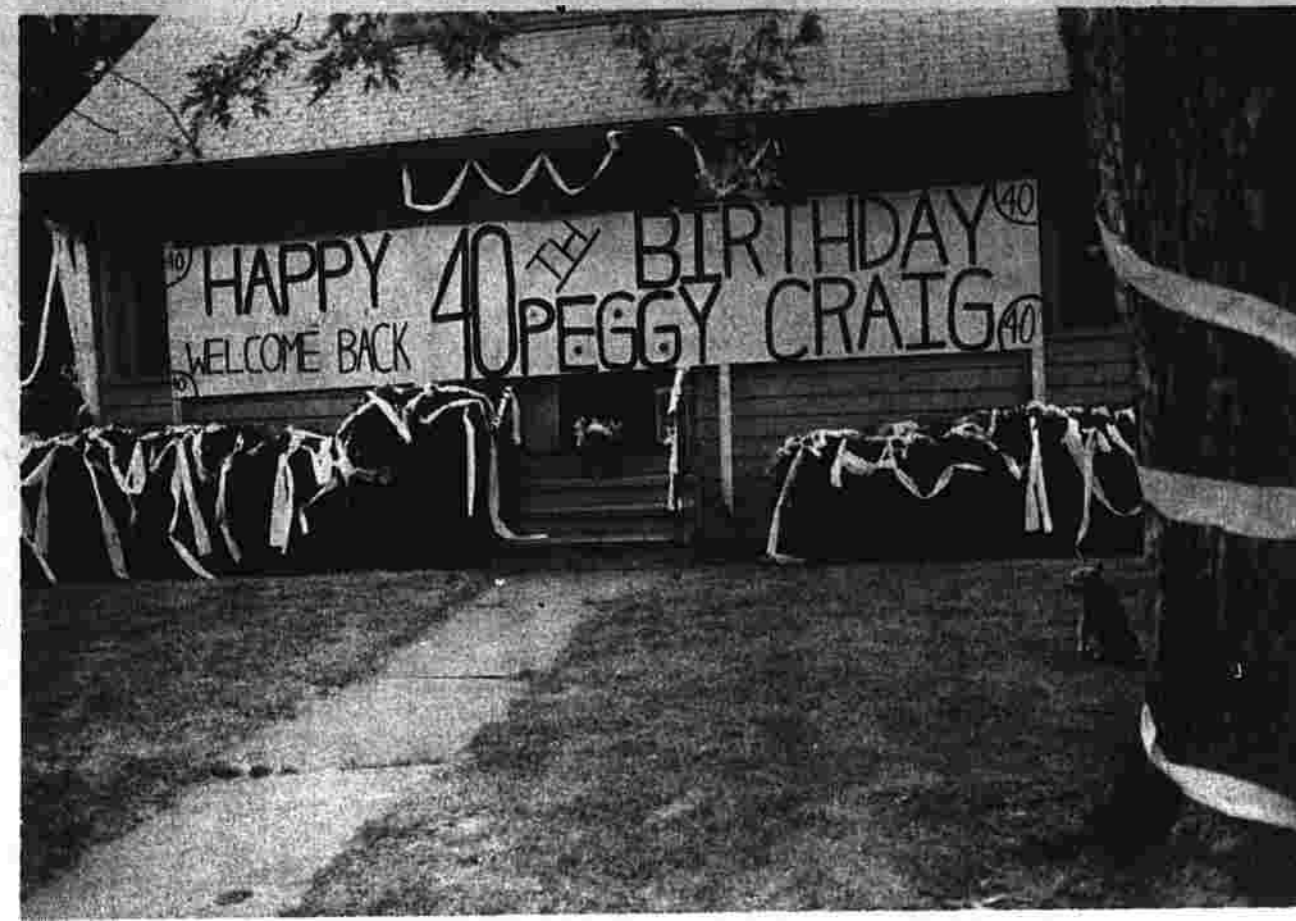

"According to the New York Times," Tass added, "Arab circles criticizing the agreement are afraid it will retard progress in settling remaining outstanding and still sharper problems, such as the Israeli occupation of Syria's Golan Heights, the western bank of the Jordan river and, particularly, the right of the Palestinians to create a state of their own."

Happy belated birthday

Out of sight didn't mean out of mind as Mrs. Ronald (Peggy) Craig of 31 Delmont St. found out when she returned home from vacation Tuesday, Mrs. Craig's birthday was Aug. 31 but her friends and neighbors had not forgotten and gaily decorated her home for the occasion. Waiting to bark her own "Happy Birthday" at night is Penny, the family's dog. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Gov. Grasso seeking better way to honor school and promise

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso says she wants to honor both legal and moral commitments the state has to school construction projects, and meanwhile come up with a better way to promise money. The problem for the state Board of Education and Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper, the governor said Tuesday, is to determine what constitutes legal commitments and what the state's moral commitments are.

The Bond Commission said Aug. 22 it had run out of money and no more could be bonded until February, at the earliest, when the legislature begins its 1976 session.

Tepper said 254 school projects were in various stages of construction, but the state was legally committed only to those in which a construction contract has been signed.

Hartford first to issue bonds under new act

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford has become one of the first municipalities in the state to approve the issue of local bonds under Connecticut's new City and Town Development Act. The act — also known as the "Hartford bill" because it was introduced and pushed through the legislature by Hartford officials — allows cities to issue "development" bonds to rehabilitate housing and attract businesses.

The Hartford City Council Tuesday authorized the city to use the special powers provided by the act. The issuance of the development bonds under the act would not require public referendum. Hartford and Stamford are the only two Connecticut cities whose charters require referendum before local bonds can be issued.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso vetoed the first version of the bill approved by the legislature, saying the powers it involved were open to misuse by local officials. An amended version was approved later by the legislature and signed by Mrs. Grasso.

Some local school districts don't see it that way. "I hope the financial problems are not so great as to penalize communities," Mrs. Grasso said. "I hope that guidelines can be established."

The state gaming commission has said one of every 10 tickets is a winner of prizes ranging from $2 to $10,000. Some 15 million tickets have been printed for the first game and will be on sale for 10 to 12 weeks. A second game is planned in the spring. Each special lottery game is expected to bring the state revenues totaling about $4 million, which already have been earmarked for equalizing local school spending among Connecticut's 144 poorest towns.

Amendments supported on impounding cars

By SOL R. COHEN

Herald Reporter

Proposed amendments to Manchester's parking ordinance — to provide for towing and impounding vehicles declared parked illegally — are being backed by Police Chief Robert Laman and Police Lt. Richard Sartor. The latter is acting head of the Patrol Division.

The two appeared Tuesday night at a Board of Directors meeting and explained their justification for the proposed amendments. Basically, they said, their hands are tied when vehicles are parked haphazardly on town property, they specifically mentioned Case Mt. and Wickham Park) and when they block private driveways.

Specific regulations permitting towing impounding would permit police to remove the problem vehicles, they said. The proposed amendments were drawn by Assistant Town Counsel Victor Moses and still are subject to study and review by the directors. The board took no action Tuesday night. If it looks favorably upon the proposed amendments at its meeting Sept. 9, it may schedule a public hearing for a subsequent meeting. Under existing regulations, a vehicle may be towed if it is parked on a public highway during a snowstorm and is obstructing the normal operation of a snowplow. The proposed amendments would spell out rules for creating vehicle pounds (privately owned but licensed by the police), authority to impound, notice to the owner of the impounded vehicle, record-keeping, release of the vehicles upon payment of charges, waiver of damages against the town by owners of the vehicle pounds and by owners of the vehicles and, possibly the most important, the areas subject to towing and impounding of vehicles found there.

Trapp family now in water business

STOWE, Vt. (UPI) — If you liked the show, hopefully you'll love the water. The musical "The Sound of Music" made the flight of the Trapp family from Nazi-occupied Austria in 1938 a familiar story around the world. The family came close to becoming a household word in American homes. And it's on that recognition that Johannes von Trapp, who runs the Trapp Family Lodge, wants to capitalize.

From a bubbling spring on the family's 800-acre estate, water will be drawn, bottled and marketed as "Trapp Family Natural Spring Water from the Green Mountain State."

Von Trapp, president of the new venture, says there's a growing market in the big cities for pleasant tasting water from Vermont. Boston, he adds, probably will be the first target for the sale of the spring water. "Many areas have perfectly clear water," he says, "but it just doesn't taste good. I wouldn't want it in my scotch."

Von Trapp was one of 10 children who arrived in New York from Europe with Baron George von Trapp and Baroness Maria Augusta von Trapp. The family fortune had been wiped out and they had only $4 to their name. For fifteen years, the Trapp Family Singers made their living by giving concerts around the United States. In the 1940s, they bought property in Stowe, where they said the landscape reminded them of their native Austria. Their new Stowe home became the site of a music camp which drew hundreds of singing enthusiasts. In 1959, "The Sound of Music" opened on the stage, starring Mary Martin as Maria. Later, Julie Andrews starred in same role in the movie version of the musical. The Trapp Family Lodge was started in 1962 and has been run by Johannes von Trapp for the past two years. The 800-acre estate includes the lodge, a restaurant, a gift shop, a riding stable, a swimming pool, a golf course, and, in the winter, cross country ski trails. The new bottling company is owned by nine members of the family and Fred Scales of Stowe, its executive vice president. Each will own 10 per cent of the company. Water will be piped about a mile downhill from the mountain spring to a bottling plant. At first, the plant will operate on a small scale with no more than two or three employees. "We're keeping it small to reduce the risk," von Trapp says. "If it goes, fine; if not, we haven't lost much." But he believes the market for the spring water may be for bottled water have risen in the past five years from $40 million annually to $165 million. Von Trapp is making no special claims for his product, other than its taste. He says it has a little more dissolved oxygen in it than most spring water, but has no medicinal qualities or other special attributes. Plans call for selling it in 2.5 gallon plastic jugs at about $1.50 each, he says.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

BY JAN WARREN

Daddy got D in deportment

The other day my mother-in-law was cleaning out some closets and found my husband's old grammar school report cards. She stuck them in an envelope and sent them to us with a note that said, "I thought the kids would get a laugh out of these."

"Laugh" was hardly the word to use. What the kids got out of those report cards was enough facts, figures, and ammunition to use against their father for the next 100 years.

You see, although most of the report cards were extremely good, the kind that make parents swell with pride, in the fourth grade something went very wrong. Their father got D in deportment. Not just a single D, but a solid row of Ds, one every semester for the entire year.

It was our teen-age son Tom who made the discovery.

"Will you look at these deportment marks," he said stomping into the kitchen waving the report cards in the air. "Old good-good wasn't so good after all."

"I don't believe it!" I cried, wiping my hands on my apron so I could pick up the report cards. "Your father never told me about this."

"Listen to what his teacher, Miss McGrail, says about him," said Tom. "This is really great — David does not pay attention to his lessons and he is a DISRUPTIVE influence in the classroom!"

"Oh, wow!" said Sara who was peeking over his shoulder.

A disruptive influence! I wish we'd seen these years ago. Just wait till Dad comes home for dinner tonight.

The kids started in on their father the minute he walked in the door.

"Your report cards come today and we want an explanation," said Tom.

"One thing we will not tolerate in this family is bad deportment," said Sara.

"And a D is REALLY bad," said Kate, shaking her head for emphasis.

"Well, what do you have to say for yourself?" asked John.

My husband stood still for a moment, trying to comprehend what was going on. Then he looked at us, a defensive grin on his face.

"I remember," he said. "And it wasn't my fault. It was that crabby old Miss McGrail. She hated me!"

It was our teen-age son Tom who made the discovery.

"Will you look at these deportment marks," he said stomping into the kitchen waving the report cards in the air. "Old good-good wasn't so good after all."

Board offers free lunches

The Hebron Board of Education announces that school children whose families are unable to afford the price of school lunches and milk may be eligible to receive free lunches and/or milk if the family income falls within certain limits.

If, for example, there are four persons in a family and the income is $4,500 per year or less, the child would qualify for free noontime meals. As the number of persons in the family increases, the amount of allowance income also goes up.

In addition, families which do not meet the income limitations, but who have unusually high expenses for medical bills, shelter, casualty losses, or special education of a child with a mental or physical impairment, may be eligible for the free hot lunch program for their children.

Application forms are being sent to parents of all children who will be attending the Hebron Elementary School and the Gilead Hill Elementary School.

The information provided on all applications is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Under the provisions of the policy, the building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may request, either orally or in writing to Dr. David Cattanch, superintendent of schools, a hearing to appeal.

Church Mission CROP Walkathon planned Oct. 28

HEBRON
Anne Dallaire
228-3267

The Mission Committee of the First Congregational Church of Hebron will sponsor a Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) Walkathon for the hungry of the world Saturday, Oct. 11.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church and the Gilead Congregational Church are cooperating in this endeavor.

Plans are being made for the 15-mile walk with each walker covering whatever distance he can. Seventh graders and older are invited to sign up for the walk. Walkers and sponsors from other towns are also welcome.

Each walker will receive a certain sum per mile for the distance he or she walks.

CROP seeks to provide means for people to help themselves. The walk is to provide food, seeds, tools, wells, roads and schools for the hungry.

Mrs. Sirena A. Scranon Jr. of Marlborough and Mrs. William Zimmer of Hebron are co-chairmen.

In charge of organizing the route is Mrs. William Ruth of Hebron. Mrs. Ned Ellis of Gilead will be assisting her. Mrs. Everett Porter of Hebron and the Rev. Marshall Hughes of Gilead are in charge of public relations.

Mrs. Selden Wells, Kinsey Rd., Amston, is in charge of recruitment.

Mrs. Wells may be contacted to furnish volunteers with necessary papers.

Route
The walk will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the First Congregational Church, rain or shine, and will proceed west to Burrows Hill Rd., south on Burrows Hill Rd. to Hope Valley Rd., to Rt. 98 — then north on Rt. 8 to St. Peter's Episcopal Church where there will be a lunch stop.

The afternoon route will head north on Rt. 86 to Rt. 86; east on Rt. 86 to Rt. 318; Rt. 318 to Burrows Hill Rd.; west on Burrows Hill Rd. to East St.; south on East St. to Rt. 86 and continue south on Rt. 86 to the First Congregational Church.

Check point will be every mile. There are frequent scheduled rest stops.

Board offers free lunches

The Hebron Board of Education announces that school children whose families are unable to afford the price of school lunches and milk may be eligible to receive free lunches and/or milk if the family income falls within certain limits.

If, for example, there are four persons in a family and the income is $4,500 per year or less, the child would qualify for free noontime meals. As the number of persons in the family increases, the amount of allowance income also goes up.

In addition, families which do not meet the income limitations, but who have unusually high expenses for medical bills, shelter, casualty losses, or special education of a child with a mental or physical impairment, may be eligible for the free hot lunch program for their children.

Application forms are being sent to parents of all children who will be attending the Hebron Elementary School and the Gilead Hill Elementary School.

The information provided on all applications is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Under the provisions of the policy, the building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may request, either orally or in writing to Dr. David Cattanch, superintendent of schools, a hearing to appeal.

Bloodmobile
The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Andover Congregational Church on Friday, from 1:30 to 8:30 p.m. Appointments may be made by contacting Mrs. Marion Foote of Rt. 94, Hebron's blood recruitment chairman. Walk-ins are welcome.

File election cards

United Farm Worker president Cesar Chavez holds up one of the 12,000 union election cards filed by the UFW Tuesday in Fresno, Calif., asking for union representation on grape farms in the San Joaquin Valley. The cards were the first filed under California's new Agricultural Labor Relations Act. The first field elections could be conducted as early as Sept. 5 as the UFW and Teamsters Union battle for the right to represent the field workers in wage negotiations. (UPI photo)

Quadruplets given names

SEATTLE (UPI) - The Kellitt Quadruplets, known as A.B.C. and D since their birth Aug. 28, have finally been given names. They are now Lucas Anthony, Owen B., Abby C., and Tyler D.

Mrs. Richard Kellitt, of Ketchikan, Idaho, said she picked Lucas Anthony last and that it was the toughest to choose.

The quads, two boys and two girls, were still in intensive care but responding well to treatment, hospital attendants said.

They will probably have to remain in the hospital at least another month.

Two complain about sewers

Only two persons appeared Tuesday morning at a two-hour Board of Directors' comment session with both comments relating to sanitary sewers. Manchester Director Vivian Ferguson was in charge of the session.

A woman who resides on Linwood Dr. presented a petition in opposition to proposed sanitary sewers in Linwood Dr. It was signed by owners of 10 properties on the street.

A Kenney St. property owner claimed that sanitary sewers already installed in his area were intended to relieve pollution into an adjoining brook by a catering firm in the area. He complained that the firm hasn't tied into the sewers and, consequently, the pollution continues.

Voter session set Saturday

Manchester election officials will conduct a four-hour, voter-making session Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the town clerk's office in the Municipal Building.

Eligible applicants must be at least 18 years of age, residents of Manchester and U.S. citizens.

New voters may sign up also on any weekday, during regular office hours, in the town clerk or registrar of voters office.

Losing job hazard to one's health

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - Losing your job may be hazardous to your health, according to research done at Brown University. When the average American loses his job, the resulting tensions and fears build up for days. Finally he is rushed to the hospital with chest pains. He may have suffered a heart attack. However, a leading physician says it is possible the man's condition is all in his mind - that he has succumbed to psychosomatic illness. Dr. Sidney Cobb, professor of community health and psychiatry at Brown, says increasing numbers of men are being brought to hospitals thinking they have just had a heart attack. In reality the pains are being caused by a buildup of emotions, fears and desires. Cobb was recently elected president of the American Psychosomatic Society, Inc. He says the illness also causes above average incidences of hypertension, peptic ulcers and diabetes mellitus among men who have lost their jobs, as well as members of their families. "The present recession has triggered additional psychosomatic illnesses, much of it due to job termination," he said. In 1963 he made a study of 100 urban and rural factory workers who were anticipating losing their jobs. One Detroit auto paint company announced it would close in two years. That announcement, Dr. Cobb said, created a "period of anticipation" in which the workers frequently worried about their jobs and where to find new ones. His clinical study of 100 men was aimed at those averaging 49 years old who had worked an average of 20 years for the same company. He compared the group to 74 other men whose factory jobs were secure and found that the suicide rate was 30 times the national rate among the men who were losing their jobs. He also recorded three ulcer cases, eight cases of arthritis, five of hypertension requiring hospitalization, six of clinically severe depression, one case of gout, and three of rapid hair loss. Cobb also found there was a high rate of peptic ulcers among the wives of the jobless men. "The point is that this also took its toll on the family," he said.

Robert A. Dixon of Bolton has been named secretary and vice president of public and regulatory affairs in a major realignment of management at Connecticut Natural Gas Corp., Hartford. Dixon was formerly secretary and vice president of customer relations. His new position increases his involvement in CNG's newly created Public and Regulatory Affairs Department.

Changes announced by CNG Chairman-President Robert Willis included election of an additional vice president and formation of the new department. Willis said the realignment, effective Sept. 1, was made to meet increasing, changing, and more complex demands of the economic, regulatory and supply environment in which the company operates.

Dixon, who has been with CNG since 1946, lives at 17 Rolling Hills Trail, Bolton.

Land promoters use many gimmicks

By State Department Of Consumer Protection. The list of gimmicks used to promote out-of-state vacation schemes and land sales promotions is almost endless - free trips, free meals, free prizes, contests, etc. Such "free" offers are usually not what they appear to be. Some of the practices and gimmicks often used to trap consumers are listed here. The "Free" Trip: You are contacted by mail or telephone and are told that you have won or can easily obtain "complimentary" accommodations for a Florida, Arizona, or California vacation or retirement resort. The Catch - This so-called free vacation usually requires a $15 to $20 reservation fee and do not include such things as transportation and meals. Moreover, acceptance of the "free" trip usually obligates you to long, high-pressure sales sessions designed to result in a purchase by you of the land being sold. The "Free" Gift (silverware, dishes, a "surprise worth $15"): You receive this offer in the mail and are told that all you have to do to receive the gift is to visit the land sale site. The Catch - When you get to the site you will not be given the gift right off. You may have to spend an entire day waiting, seeing the land, subjecting yourself to high-pressure sales tactics. At the end of the day you may be given your "gift." Sometimes at the end of the trip the land sales people are reluctant to give the gift to those who don't purchase land. Consumers are urged to be extremely cautious before sending money to any company promoting free out-of-state vacations. Most of the offers are a come-on gimmick and your chances of enjoying a "free vacation" are extremely remote. Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: Of Consumer Concern, Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or dial toll free 1-800-942-3646.

OBITUARIES

Otto Neubauer dies; musician, band leader

Otto Neubauer of Jupiter, Fla., musician and band leader, died in Jupiter, Fla., on Tuesday. He was the husband of Esther Anderson Neubauer.

The funeral and burial were Tuesday in Jupiter.

Mr. Neubauer was born in Austria and came to Manchester where he lived for about 40 years until moving to Jupiter 10 years ago.

He was a staff pianist at Radio Station WDC in Hartford for many years. He played with the Anderson Bros. Orchestra at Bradley Field for 10 years before his retirement.

He had his own orchestra for many years at the former Hotel Bond in Hartford. He also

Municipal Building gets temporary power lines

Because of the extensive damage to transformers Aug. 25 at about 6 a.m. when an unexplained short circuit destroyed feeder lines in the basement of the Manchester Municipal Building, temporary feeder lines were installed in the boiler room and corridors.

Francis Conti, the town's acting chief building inspector, is recommending installation of a new 400-amp three-phase system as soon as possible, to eliminate the hazards of the temporary power lines.

Assistant Town Manager Charles McCarthy has told the Board of Directors of the Manchester Building Maintenance Account that the job would cost from $3,500 to $5,000 and might exhaust funds in the Building Maintenance Account, requiring a future additional appropriation to it.

McCarthy said he may request a bid waiver for the work, because of its emergency nature.

Edward Dumore held in assault on officer

Edward G. Dumore, 20, of 126 Charter Oak St., is being held at the State Correctional Center at Hartford on charges stemming from a Tuesday afternoon assault on a police officer.

Dumore, held on $1,000 bond, is charged with breach of peace, disorderly conduct, and assaulting a policeman.

Manchester Police said Dumore was taken into custody after Patrolman James Bowen observed a young man walking down the middle of E. Center St. shortly before 9 p.m. The man was yelling obscenities to motorists and causing a traffic jam near the Center.

Wallingford woman dies from stings

WALLINGFORD (UPI) — A 55-year-old woman apparently died as the result of deep stings caused when she was stung by three bees, doctors said Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary A. Sauris was stung as she sat on her porch Sunday and was rushed to Meriden-Wallingford Hospital after collapsing in deep shock, according to her physician, Dr. Harvey Fritz.

Vernon gets comments on use of housing funds

VERNON — Should the absentee landlords get the money or should it go for repair of owner-occupied, small buildings in Rockville?

Most of the dozen or more people attending a public hearing Tuesday night in the Memorial Building in Rockville to make suggestions on how to spend a possible $10,000 of federal funds favored either landlord or home-owner.

Town Planner John Loranger led off the hearing by explaining the funds.

The Housing and Urban Development agency (HUD) made him aware this summer of $191,000 to be given to one or more of 27 towns outside Hartford through the Community Development Act.

Red Sox different team with Fisk catching

BOSTON (UPI) — Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson smiled back at the grinning photo of Carlton Fisk that lay on his desk, then spoke.

"In my opinion, Fisk is the best catcher in the American League and when we don't have him in the lineup we lose something."

The Red Sox, who lost five of eight games while Fisk was sidelined with a split ring finger on his right hand, gained a 7-4 victory Tuesday night over the New York Yankees in the injury-prone catcher's first game back.

Fisk drove in three runs with a pair of singles to help

Boston snap a three-game losing streak.

The win, coupled with the Orioles' doubleheader split with Cleveland, widened Boston's American League East lead to six games.

The Red Sox open a two-game series tonight in Baltimore.

Fisk, smiling broadly, said his finger — injured Aug. 23 in a game against Chicago — still bothered him. "I didn't feel too bad, but my elbow was a little stiff and my finger bothered me. I couldn't get a good grip on the bat, come to think of it I might keep this grip a while."

The altered grip paid off in bases-loaded single to bring home two of Boston's four runs in the third inning.

Fisk also lined a single to center in the fifth following a Fred Lynn double to give the Red Sox a 6-1 lead.

The two-for-four performance lifted the 27-year-old catcher's average to .313 and gave him 37 RBIs in 57 games since his return from a year of injuries.

Designated hitter Cecil Cooper also drove two runs, Denny Doyle singled in a run and the final score was on a throwing error by Yankee first baseman Chico Carrasquillo that allowed Rick Burleson to score in the sixth.

The Yankees had taken a 1-0 lead on Chambliss' ninth three-run blast in the eighth for New York's first run.

Heggie Cleveland, who pitched 7 2-3 innings, became the fourth Boston pitcher with at least 10 victories.

The portly right-hander, now 10-9, struck out five and walked none.

Rick Wise, 17-8, opens the Red Sox seven-game road trip tonight against the American League's top pitcher, Jim Palmer, 20-8.

Luis Tiant, 15-13, faces Mike Torrez, 16-7, Thursday night.

Ortola 1-3, Indians 2-2

Highest bat mark in history

When Gene Johnson of Toronto's fashioned a .472 batting average during the 1975 Hartford Twilight Baseball League season it was the highest ever according to Jack Reppas, loop historian.

The local man who doubles as sports information director at the University of Hartford points out that Johnson's championship individual average was two points higher than Howard Krough's .470 mark set in 1953 with the Bloomfield entry.

The batting title, incidentally, was the fourth for Johnson in 16 years in the loop. His previous winning efforts were also better, with .400 seasons with standards of .463, .434 and .412.

McAuliffe not the answer

Like it or not, Dick McAuliffe is not the answer to the Red Sox' problems in third base and when Rico Petrocelli returns he isn't the answer either. McAuliffe is giving his best but you can't sit out practically an entire season and expect to jump in and play major league baseball.

The Connecticut man's reflexes have been dulled by lack of competition and it became more apparent than ever in Monday night's loss to New York. Actually, all four New York runs in the 4-2 win were tainted. The first two runs followed McAuliffe's miff of an easy infield fly ball and outfielders Fred Lynn and Jim Rice each misplayed balls into bases which allowed runs to score.

White dominating tennis

Certainly Mike White is the most dominate player in Town Tennis Tournament play after starting his third straight men's singles title last Monday in as many attempts.

The all-time winner since tourney play was revived after World War II with Martin Duke. The practicing local physician held the title five straight years.

When White notched his No. 3, he matched the victory total achieved by Jim LeSueur in the local tourney play. White is on the staff at the Manchester Racquet Club which is headed for another record-breaking season of activity.

Schoolboy football coming up

Schoolboy football season starts one week from Saturday afternoon when Manchester High and East Catholic meet for the first time at Memorial Field at 1:30. WINF radio will carry 15 local schoolboy grid clashes starting with the MHS-East opener. George Ehrlich will handle the play-by-play.

Jim Galanek, a reader, asks if it is permissible for a batter to walk without the pitcher delivering the ball. The answer is yes. If a pitcher goes to his mouth while standing on the mound the umpire has the authority to call an automatic ball. Galanek asks if this isn't a sixth way for a player to reach first base without hitting the ball. This infraction would have to fall under a base on balls which would be one of the five ways. The other four, in case you missed the answer recently, were by getting hit by a pitch, catcher's interference, error and by use of a pinch runner.

Petrocelli to return

BOSTON (UPI) — Third baseman Rico Petrocelli, plagued by an inner ear problem, has received medical clearance to return to the Boston Red Sox lineup.

Petrocelli, out since Aug. 15, had suffered from deteriorating eyesight, dizziness and hearing impairment as a result of a beaming late last season. He was examined Tuesday by specialist Dr. Alfred Weiss, who said Petrocelli was showing improvement.

"I feel much better now," said Petrocelli, who was batting .241 in 91 games. "I'll probably play tomorrow night in Baltimore."

Petrocelli, 32, said he would undergo further tests during the off-season to determine his future in baseball.

Pride factor for Bucs in NL East flag bid

WILLIE STARGLI has one word which best describes why he believes the Pittsburgh Pirates will not lose the National League East pennant this year — PRIDE.

The association still needs a "direct source" permit that would verify the track will not seriously affect the region's air quality, and its expected DEP Commissioner Joseph Gill will issue the permit.

Giusti over the last three innings.

In other NL games, Cincinnati walked San Diego 10-4, San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 7-3 and Atlanta topped Houston 4-1.

Cubs 5, Cardinals 3

A pair of errors by second the necessary insurance runs. Andy Thornton chipped in with his third homer in two games for the Cubs.

Expos 4, Phillies 3

Jim Dwyer's two-run double in the fourth inning and a rousing homer by Barry Foote in the ninth enabled Montreal to hand Philadelphia its fourth straight loss. The loss was the Phil's ninth in their last 12 games and dropped them five games off the pace in the NL East.

Reds 10, Padres 4

Tony Perez became Cincinnati's all-time runs batted in leader when he singled home Cesar Geronimo during a seven-run fifth inning that carried the Reds over San Diego. Perez, who has driven in 95 runs this season, has 1,010 for his 11-year career which betters the previous mark of 1,009 set by Frank Robinson.

baseball Larry Lintz plus an error and a balk by St. Louis pitcher Lynn McGlothen enabled Chicago to score twice in the seventh inning and snap a 1-1 tie. Manny Trillo singled home two more runs in the eighth for

Twins 5, Rangers 3

Minnesota rookie Jim Hughes spaced three hits over 8 2-3 innings to win his 13th game and was backed by homers from Dan Ford, Rod Carew and John Briggs. Carew's and Briggs' back-to-back homers, which followed a leadoff walk by Jerry Terrill, wiped out a 3-1 Texas lead in the fourth.

White Sox 4, Royals 1

George Brett's two-out run scoring single—his fourth hit—started a three-run 12th inning rally for Kansas City keeping Jim Kaat from his 20th victory. Kaat (19-11) went all the way for Chicago but ran into trouble in the 12th when Amos Otis doubled, Brett singled, John Moberly walked, Harmon Killebrew reached on an error and Al Cowens singled home two more runs.

Earl Weaver still confident Orioles will win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Put yourself in Earl Weaver's place for a minute. Your ball club started off poorly, horribly in fact, touching rock bottom at one point and dropping nine games back. Now it has a chance to come from behind and win the same way it did the final month of the season last year.

Question: what do you do if you're Earl Weaver?

Do you sit back quietly, try to keep from becoming hoarse again and let your Baltimore Orioles play their own game? Or do you maybe light a little more fire under them with some kind of pep talk reminding them how Boston blew a seven-game lead last year this time? "I don't think I need any pep talk at this point," says Earl Weaver. "I also don't think it'll be a matter of Boston folding. We got 27 more games to play and we've gotta play .667 baseball. We have to win two outta every three, and if we do that, I think we've got a good chance."

The Orioles have been playing catch-up baseball since May when their hitting deteriorated into a joke and they went through their worst stretch of the season, losing 11 out of 12. That dropped them into the cellar, but if everything goes their way now, they still can overtake Boston the way they did last September when the Red Sox lost 20 of their last 28 games.

The Red Sox have lost six of their last 11 but don't seem to be in any serious trouble.

On the face of it, the situation between the Red Sox and Orioles now seems similar to what it was a year ago. Weaver doesn't see it that way, though.

"Last year we kind of knew around late August they couldn't keep playing the type baseball they were," he says. "This year they're more solid up and down. I'll say that if our ball club could lose 11 out of 12, then it could happen to any club in the league. I'm not saying the Red Sox are gonna lose 11 out of 12. I'm only saying if our ball club could do it, then so could any other one."

This is what is known as a hypothetical thing, the kind which somehow becomes much more prevalent the final weeks of any season. In that same vein it may or may not be significant that Darrell Johnson doesn't worry much

"I never talk about negative things," he claims. "A lot of people ask me about what happened to us the last month of last year. They ask me whose fault it was? I tell them it was nobody's fault. That's the truth. Last year we had the kind of team where we had to do it by hook or by crook, and the end result was that we got beat because we didn't hit in the last 35 ball games. We were an entirely different team, though. We didn't have (Fred) Lynn and (Jim) Rice, (Carlton) Fisk, (Denny) Doyle or (Rick) Wise. These fellows make an awful lot of difference."

Earl Weaver agrees.

The political climate: Good sleeping weather

ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A colleague who usually ignores the small change of political news showed some interest recently when he heard that James Whitmore had made a movie of his "Give 'Em Hell, Harry" stage show.

It was suggested that party chairman Robert Strauss stood out as the most colorful figure in American politics replied with a firm negative: "Oh, don't forget Betty Ford." Harry Truman? Betty Ford? Doesn't anyone know that by this time next year the candidates for the 1976 presidential election will be chosen and poised to begin serious campaigning? What about Scoop and Me, Jimmy and Terry, of a minor league baseball manager. And the Republicans are not in much better shape. Ronald Reagan flirts with the idea of challenging President Ford for the Republican nomination, but from every indication he would get better audiences from reruns of Death Valley Days.

Washington Window

Perhaps the tidal wave of indifference will run its course in time. It may be that even the people who will be avid candidate watchers next spring and summer simply don't want to hear about it right now. But what have they got to look forward to when things "warm up"? Rep. Morris Udall has let it be known that his audiences don't seem to appreciate his efforts at humor and he is going to ease on funny stories. Of Sen. Henry Jackson it was said: "He gave a tirade chat, and the fire went out." Sen. Lloyd Bentsen rusefully remarks about his problem of still being mistaken for the Agriculture Secretary of the Eisenhower administration, Ezra Taft Benson. People — not just Democrats — are still making jokes about President Ford and chewing gum.

In 1973, Sen. George McGovern was the only wheel in town. He aroused some passionate support, but to one ever suggested that was a product of charisma. He ended up getting whipped by an opponent who didn't bother to campaign because of the clear evidence that the more he went to the people, the less they liked him.

You'll be paying the bill, so let Congress know your choice!

Congress is about to make an important decision that could affect the cost and gas mileage of your car for years to come.

Since you will be paying the bill, we thought you should be aware of two major alternatives being considered by Congress right now. They concern the control of emissions from cars. Should the standards governing automotive emissions be made even stricter than they are today? Or are they strict enough now? Take your choice.

Choice 1

The President and his Administration have evaluated the pros and cons of current law governing emissions and recommend that the standards for today's cars be extended for five years.

Results

- There will be continued improvement of air quality as new cars replace old cars. (Compared to pre-controlled cars, today's standards result in reductions of over 80% for hydrocarbons and for carbon monoxide and about 40% for oxides of nitrogen according to industry data.)
- Working with current standards, automakers can meet their individual commitments to the President and improve industry-wide gas mileage between 1974 and 1980 by an average of at least 40%.

Choice 2

Present Federal Law calls for even stricter emissions standards for 1977-1978 model cars than those required today. Some members of Congress favor these stricter standards.

Results

- Stricter standards would add only marginal improvement to air quality. (California is an exception. It has a special air quality problem and has its own special standards.)
- To our knowledge no auto manufacturer yet knows how to meet the 1978 standards on a mass production basis. Current "best effort" experimental systems however indicate the following fuel economy and cost penalties:
  - your gas mileage could be reduced by 5% to as much as 30% according to publicly stated company estimates.
  - the cost of your car could increase by an estimated $150 to $400 according to company estimates in statements to Congress.

News analysis Stakes are high in 'Sadat's gamble'

By MICHAEL ROSS
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Egyptians call the new Middle East settlement "Sadat's Gamble" and the stakes are as high as can be — war versus peace.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat must convince the other Arab countries that by signing the agreement with Israel he is saving, not betraying, their future. To do this, he must take a number of calculated risks.

The Libyans, Iraqis and Palestinians are among those most firmly opposed to a new military disengagement accord in the Sinai Desert. "Egypt betrays the Arabs," read the banner headline in a Kuwaiti newspaper recently. "Egypt to Sign the Humiliation Accord," echoed a Beirut newspaper.

Sadat is gambling on his ability to contain the criticism and stem Egypt's growing isolation from the Arab radical majority following Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's road toward peace with Israel. It is still too early to tell if he will succeed. Sadat is also gambling on Kissinger's ability to negotiate an interim Golan Heights settlement between Syria and Israel to follow up the Sinai pact.

This would disprove critics who charge Egypt is selling out its Arab neighbors to arrange a separate peace with Israel. For while it is clear that the terms of the Sinai pact will offer immediate benefits for Egypt, it is far less clear how they will help other Arabs. Egypt will get a return of the Sinai to the Nile and Old mountain passes and the valuable Abu Rudeis oil field lost to Israel during the 1967 Middle East war. Sadat needs both if he hopes to revive Egypt's long-stagnant economy, which he says has been so sapped by wars and fears of more fighting.

Registration for religious education classes at St. Maurice Church will take place Friday at the church's parish center.

All students in Grades 1 through 12 must register for classes Friday. There will be three registration sessions, from 9:30 until 10:30 a.m., 3:15 until 4:15 p.m. and until 8 p.m. Classes will begin Oct. 7 and will be held each Tuesday and Wednesday for students in Grades 1-6.

Classes will begin Oct. 8 and be held each Wednesday from 7:15 until 8:15 p.m. for students in Grades 7-12.

Teacher training sessions for all religious education instructors will be held Sept. 8, 15 and 22.

Teachers may attend the morning or evening session. The morning session will begin at 9:30 and the evening session at 7:30.

Helen Velch is the religious coordinator.

Seniors plan Maine trip

BOLTON
Donna Holland
A three-day boat trip to the Mt. Desert Island, Bar Harbor, Maine area, is being planned for the end of September for senior citizens.

The planned trip will be taken Sept. 26, 27 and 28. The trip will cost $75 per person and includes transportation, sightseeing, admissions, two overnight accommodations, gratuities for handling luggage, a lobster and clam bake, boat cruise around Bar Harbor, and the services of an escort for the entire trip.

Any senior citizen may participate in the trip. You don't have to be a member of the Bolton Senior Citizen's Club. Reservations for the trip must be made by Sept. 15. They require a $10 deposit and will be made on a first come, first served basis.

The balance, $65, will be payable by Sept. 25. Reservations or further information may be obtained by calling either Mrs. Ernest Andrews, 643-8833, or Mrs. Ernest Aspinwall, 649-1371.

WEST MIDDLE TURNPIKE PRICES EFFECTIVE IN MANCHESTER MANCHESTER PARKADE

3 SEP 3

Manhattan furniture stores optimistic recession is over

NEW YORK (UPI) — Increasingly convinced the recession is fading, New York's furniture stores are optimistic that the industry is on a buying spree. That, in turn, is good news for Manhattan furniture stores and for far-flung furniture manufacturers and woodworkers in the southern coastal states.

The economic dog days had forced layoffs of woodcutters, cabinetmakers and assemblers of the pieces that grace homes across the country. But a furniture retailer who makes frequent buying expeditions to North Carolina, heart of the furniture-making states, says workers there soon will be taking their jobs back. "I know for a fact the recession has thrown a lot of those guys out of work," said Ray Lotia, manager of Furniture Mart in Manhattan. "But I think things will pick up as soon as the vacation season is over and people come back and look at their homes and say, 'We've got to do something with this place.'"

For other shoppers, increased sales are already a reality. "I think the major reason for that is that our clientele, the middle and upper class, is the first to regain confidence after the worst (of the recession) is over," said Arthur Lewis, manager of the Manhattan branch of Ethan Allen Furniture, where nearly all price tags are in three or four figures. "They're spending money for quality, and they're willing to spend more for something they know will last. It's a kind of caution, but much different from last year when they just weren't buying anything," he said. Recent figures support the hypothesis. Lewis said his firm's sales jumped 40 per cent during August over the same month in 1974. "As a result, we're ready to increase the size of our orders from our manufacturing plants in the South and elsewhere." The new consumer confidence extends to imported furniture. At Bon Marche, a modern furniture outlet in New York and Washington that imports most of its stock from Scandinavia, salesmen are seeing old customers in the showroom for the first time in months. "We have a certain following of consumers," said Walter Wolfe, Bon Marche's buyer. "I think more of those people are beginning again to look around their apartments and decide to do something with them. Also, more people are starting to furnish their first apartments with new pieces."

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. My doctor just told me that I need an operation, and I'll probably be in the hospital for a month. Medicaid will help pay my hospital bills. Will this affect my Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment?

A. Your payment may be reduced. Whenever an SSI beneficiary is in a hospital or health facility for an entire calendar month and Medicaid pays over half the cost of his care, his SSI payment is reduced.

Q. I've just sold my house and will be moving into an apartment on the first of next month. Should I notify Social Security now, or wait until I'm living in my new address?

A. You should notify Social Security now. Prompt notice helps assure delivery of your check to your new address without delay or interruption. You can report your move on the change-of-address form which is printed on the back of the envelope your check is delivered in. Be sure to give both your old and new address — including your zip codes — and the Social Security claim number which appears on your Social Security check.

Q. I just received a letter telling me I'm not eligible for Supplemental Security Income. I disagree. Do I have a legal right to appeal this?

A. Yes. Under the law, you have the right to question any decision made on your claim. There are four steps in the appeals process. The first step is a reconsideration, which is a complete review of your case. You must request a reconsideration within 30 days from the date you receive the notice telling you of the original decision on your case.

Q. My wife and I just learned that our 15-year-old son has kidney disease and needs dialysis treatments. I've heard that people with kidney disease can get Medicare? If this is true, would my son be eligible?

A. He might be. If you or your wife worked long enough under Social Security or the railroad system, or if either of you is entitled to monthly Social Security or railroad benefits, your son could be eligible for Medicare. However, under the kidney disease provision of the law, only the person with kidney disease is eligible, the rest of the family is not.

Q. My wife and I both will be 65 next year and I'd like to retire then. But my wife says I will lose money because our benefits will be reduced, and she wants to wait until we are 68. Would we really be getting much less in benefits if we retire early?

A. The exact amount that your benefits will be reduced depends on the number of months you get checks before you reach 65. Even if you retire early, you'll be about the same value in total benefits over the years. You'll just receive smaller checks over a larger period of time.

Weapon thefts too high

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says that if the Army can lose or have stolen enough weapons to equip 10 combat battalions with small arms and ammunition, there is a chance sophisticated weapons also can be stolen. Aspin disclosed a report by the Army's physical security review board after a survey of security from 1971-1974. During that period about 4,800 weapons and 1.1 million rounds of ammunition were lost or stolen from bases in the United States and abroad.

Aspin said in a statement accompanying his release of the study that "the Army must take steps necessary to protect our munitions from terrorist organizations. The evidence is clear: there is a real chance that large amounts of very sophisticated weapons could be stolen."

Dear Abby. By Abigail Van Buren. DEAR ABBY: I am 62 and the wife is 61. I like old-time dancing, polkas, schottisches and square dancing. My wife never did care much for dancing so she quit going with me about 15 years ago. She is not handicapped in any way and could dance if she wanted to. My problem: I would like to go to a public dance once a week. It's great fun and good exercise. My wife is very much opposed to my going to a dance without her - yet she refuses to go. Is that fair? To me, going to a dance once a week is no more wrong than playing cards or bowling. Old-time dancing is not the romantic kind where partners hang on each other in close embrace. I maintain that it's healthier to dance than sit around playing cards.
