

GARDENING

By FRANK ATWOOD

Sunflowers are a specialty crop for Jimmy Moreau, but he does not raise sunflowers for the bluejeans. He grows them for himself, his three brothers and his parents, all of whom enjoy the nutty-flavored seeds after Mrs. Moreau has roasted them lightly in the oven.

The seeds, when ripe and dry, can be easily opened with the fingers and the Moreaus nibble them like so many peanuts.

"Oh, we leave a few for the birds," Mrs. Moreau said, "but they watch the ripening sunflowers and try to get a generous share ahead of the never-satisfied bluejeans."

Jimmy started planting seeds when he was four and a Cub Scout. Mrs. Moreau was the den mother and she asked each of the cubs to plant something.

Sunflowers are a good choice for a beginner. The seeds sprout quickly and the plants grow to gratifying size. If you like to eat seeds, that has to be counted as a bonus.

The seed packet called these sunflowers "Mammoth," which is probably a trade name for the Helianthus giganteus, which grows over the northeastern half of the United States and into Canada. It is known for its tall, strong stalks, yellow flower petals and large heads of seed.

It does have an enemy in the wind and rain of a hard shower which can break the stalks.

Jimmy's brothers had different choices for their gardening projects. Michael, 10, with Jim's help, grew corn and squash. The older boys, Billy, 13, and Bobby, 15, helped their father with tomatoes, lettuce, beans and pumpkins.

Jim grew marigolds this year from seed he saved from his own flowers grown last year.

A class that called for exhibiting a basket of six different kinds of vegetables was outstanding, Mr. Gray said, and there were many exhibits of tomatoes, cucumbers, summer squash and snap beans, all in season in late August.

Tolland County, Mr. Gray said, has only one 4-H Club that makes gardening its principal project, this one in Coventry. A new club specializing in gardens has been organized in Hartford County but has elected to operate under the guidance of the Tolland County Extension Service and show its produce at the Tolland County 4-H Fair held at the Extension Service grounds in Vernon.

This is perfectly legitimate, it was assured by 4-H Club agents of both counties. The South Windsor people said they would prefer to come to Vernon for the fair, and other club activities, than to go across the river into Hartford.

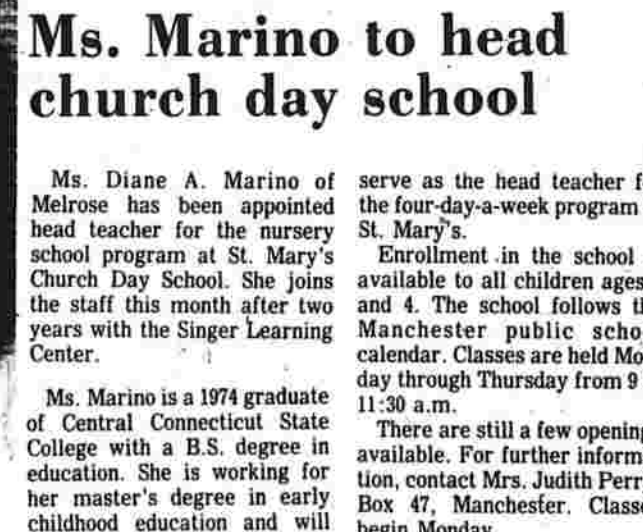

Flower show
Manchester people will cross the river to exhibit at the Connecticut Horticultural Society flower show in the Pond Hall, Elm St. Park, Saturday, and Sunday, Sept. 13 and 14.

Anyone may exhibit without fee and anyone may see the show without admission charge. Viewing hours Saturday are 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Exhibits must be entered Saturday before 10:30 a.m.

Attention at the fair was excellent, setting new records on the first two days, Friday and Saturday. A little rain Sunday morning held down the attendance although the afternoon was without showers.

The Hartford County 4-H Club Fair was held again on ground owned by the state as part of Bradley International Airport although the loss of this area for contemplated changes at the airport has been a threat for several years. The 4-H Club people would very much like to find an alternate site.

Champion exhibitor
The championship of the flower show at the Hartford County 4-H Club Fair last weekend was a Marigold, a tub boy, Billy Merritt, 11, whose father, Edward H. Merritt, is country 4-H Club agent. Billy

Town adult school plans courses for MHS credit

Manchester's Adult Evening School will offer courses for high school credit, open to adults, high school students and non-high school graduates.

Each course, except physical education, will meet three hours per week for 12 weeks.

As the material covered in each course will be equivalent to that covered in the same type of course offered at Manchester High School during a semester, the high school credit granted will be the same — 0.5 high school credits per course, except physical education which is 1/2 credits.

Adults and students may take one or two of these courses per semester, but no more than two.

Students and adults who miss three classes receive an automatic withdrawal and are dropped from the class. Three times tardy equals one absence.

There is no fee for Manchester residents. A fee of $20 is required from non-residents.

Adults may register Tuesday at the school cafeteria from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Students must register with their guidance counselors.

Classes will begin Sept. 15. Classes will be cancelled if there is insufficient registration.

Courses to be offered are: Values clarification, Monday & Wednesday, 6:30-8 p.m., Room 211; practical English, Monday & Wednesday, 8:30-9 p.m., Room 109; film appreciation, class, Tuesday & Thursday, 8:30-9:30 p.m., Room 211; physical education, Thursday, 6:30-7:45 p.m., gym.

The physical education class is designed to contribute to the general conditioning of the body and the developing and improving of recreational skills of the individual.

Court rejects ZBA Uote
A Common Pleas Court judge has overturned a March decision by Manchester's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) which allowed farmer Alex Yakaitis to house farmworkers in a trailer on his property.

Judge Thomas Corrigan ruled in Hartford County Common Pleas Court Thursday that Yakaitis didn't prove a legal hardship in the case. The court challenge was brought by some of Yakaitis' neighbors: David Frazier of 396 Burnham St. and William Hewitt of 369 Burnham St.

The ZBA voted March 17 to allow Yakaitis to use a house trailer as a dwelling for seasonal farmworkers. Parking and occupancy of house trailers is prohibited by Manchester zoning regulations.

Yakaitis first obtained a variance in 1974, and a legal challenge at that time failed because it wasn't heard by the court before the farming season ended. The season is nearly finished this year too, but Atty. Herbert Phelon, who represented the neighbors, said it could affect future applications by Yakaitis.

Representing the town in the court case were Town Counsel William Brooni and Atty. Joel Janenda.

The weather

Cloudy with showers and scattered thunderstorms likely today. High around 50. Clearing tonight, low in the 30s. Sunny Sunday with high near 70.

State
HARTFORD—Fifty-eight city policemen but only one fireman participated today in a threatened one-day "sickout" to protest slow contract negotiations with the city of officials said. The job action, in which the policemen phoned in "sick" began this morning at about 8 a.m. It was not known whether the single fireman who phoned in sick was participating in the organized action.

Regional
CONCORD, N.H. — President Ford will tour southern New Hampshire communities from Keene to Portsmouth Thursday, he campaigns for Republican Senate candidate Louis C. Wyman. The visit will follow the same route similar one by former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Negotiations were expected to last through the weekend in marathon efforts to end teacher strikes in 12 Rhode Island communities. More than 70,000 students are affected by the walkouts.

National
WASHINGTON — The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence has scheduled a mystery open session Sept. 16 to question unidentified witnesses on a "very important subject which has not yet come to light."

SALT LAKE CITY — The radical "Weather Underground" has claimed responsibility for a bomb that ripped through a suite of offices at the Kennecott Building. Police said a second bomb threat was a hoax. There were no injuries in the pre-dawn blast Friday.

International
LONDON — At least two persons died and more than 60 were injured when a bomb exploded Friday in London's Hilton Hotel. Police believe the Irish Republican Army or one of its splinter groups was responsible for the crime.

KHARTOUM, Sudan — The government of Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry has vowed to crack down on political dissent in the wake of a brief, unsuccessful coup attempt engineered by a handful of rebel army officers.

LISBON, Portugal — Pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves capitulated to demands by moderate military officers Friday and stepped down as armed forces chief. His action was a severe blow to the Communist party. He had stepped down Aug. 29 as prime minister.

Kentucky guardsmen sent to Louisville areas

LOUISVILLE, KY. (UPI) — Kentucky Gov. Julian M. Carroll today called in some 800 National Guard troops to help restore order in riot-torn sections of Louisville and Jefferson County after violent anti-busing demonstrations.

In his announcement at 6:30 a.m. EDT, the governor said the mobilization of the guardsmen would make a total of 1,200 state troopers and Kentucky guardsmen assigned to the area.

He said he made the decision to call up the guard at the request of Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane and Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenback, the chief executive officer of the county.

Violence reached its peak shortly before midnight when more than 10,000 persons at three suburban high schools threw rocks and bottles at police, set fire to two school buses at Sanders High School and had to be dispersed with tear gas.

The mayor shortly before Carroll's announcement declared that the city would permit no demonstrations or parades until further notice.

"This is absolute and final," Sloane said. "I want to be completely assured of the tranquility of this community."

Jefferson County police estimated that more than 100 persons were arrested in disorders Friday night and early today as emotions escalated in protest over the court-ordered busing of 28,000 students in a newly merged Jefferson County-Louisville school system.

Official spokesmen said the injury toll climbed to more than 50 persons, including 50 policemen. One of the injured victims was a three-year-old girl, struck by a brick and another was a county patrolman, whose eye was severely damaged by a lead fishing sinker fired from a slingshot.

Thankful President escaped unharmed Political leaders resigned to threats of assassination

By United Press International

New England political figures are thankful the assassination attempt against President Gerald Ford was unsuccessful, but said they are resigned to the inevitability of similar incidents in the future.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose two brothers were assassinated, said he was "enormously relieved" the attack on Ford failed. "In any community there is a capability of the isolated act of violence," he added.

Kennedy, participating in a cancer research dedication in Seattle, Wash., also said, "The President or other public officials should not become possessed by a paranoid delusion that an assassination attempt is 'in the back of your mind all the time.'"

The senator also said the nation should recognize the American people "are kind and welcoming."

He said such threats do not deter him from carrying out his objectives, but "anyone who is not conscious or aware of it just isn't being realistic. But to be controlled by it makes you inefficient."

Vermont Gov. Thomas Salmon said tough new security measures — including greater restriction of presidential freedom of movement — will probably be one result of the attempt.

"This is absolutely necessary, but regrettable, in a society which would like to think that it has relatively free and open access to its elected officials," he said.

Salmon said he and most Americans "breathed a sigh of relief that this possible assassination attempt is not more successful in its apparent intentions."

Witnesses saw Ford pale and recoil, ducking down as Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf lunged at the five-foot redhead, seized her gun and spun her to the ground.

The weapon never fired — and police say there were at least two reasons for that. One was the speed and agility of Buendorf, who may have jammed his hand between the hammer and the firing pin.

The other was that Miss Fromme — perhaps from carelessness, perhaps from ignorance — had failed to cock the gun properly. Police found four bullets in the pipe and wearing a white sport shirt open at the neck, he chatted and laughed with Secret Service agents on Air Force One.

The President told his wife Betty and son Jack that his two-day trip to Seattle, Portland and Sacramento had been "great" except for the pistol incident, which he said should be regarded as "one individual's efforts to undercut the warmth we felt in California."

Ford made it clear he will not knuckle under to fear.

"In no way will this prevent me or prevent me from contacting the American people as I travel from one state to another," he told reporters three hours after the incident in Sacramento.

There, as the President shook hands with a crowd near the state capitol building Friday morning, Miss Fromme raised a heavy Colt .45 automatic pistol at two-foot range.

Oil price control vote expected next week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republicans are trying to head off a new veto fight between President Ford and congressional Democrats who — have rejected a chance to compromise on energy and turned to confrontation.

Ford's veto of a bill extending oil allocation and price controls for six more months could come this weekend. The Democrats, predicting they have the strength to overturn that veto, tentatively have scheduled an override vote for next week.

Republicans appear less confident of their chances to sustain a veto. A spokesman for Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott said Friday, "We are close to the numbers we need, but there are still some question marks."

Elimination of price controls is expected to let gasoline prices rise at least 3 cents a gallon. It also would eliminate federal allocation rules that have helped independent oilmen compete against major oil companies.

The possibility of a veto battle was set up earlier this week when Democrats, charging decontrol would wreck the economy, chose to fight Ford rather than compromise on extending controls briefly and then removing them slowly.

Several Republican senators tried to revive that compromise Friday through legislative action, introducing a bill extending the controls 45 days to give Congress and Ford time to work out some kind of agreement.

"They said a 45-day extension 'will allow time to work out a reasonable plan for gradual decontrol in Congress and avoid an unnecessary unproductive confrontation over the President's veto of a six-month extension of controls.'"

The legislation was introduced by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.; Pete Domenici, R-N.M.; and Paul Fannin, R-Ariz.

Domenici and Fannin said Democratic leaders had appeared close to reaching a compromise with Ford on the length of extended controls. But, they said, the Senate Democratic Conference turned that down in favor of trying to override Ford's expected veto.

Witnesses saw Ford pale and recoil, ducking down as Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf lunged at the five-foot redhead, seized her gun and spun her to the ground.

The weapon never fired — and police say there were at least two reasons for that. One was the speed and agility of Buendorf, who may have jammed his hand between the hammer and the firing pin.

The other was that Miss Fromme — perhaps from carelessness, perhaps from ignorance — had failed to cock the gun properly. Police found four bullets in the pipe and wearing a white sport shirt open at the neck, he chatted and laughed with Secret Service agents on Air Force One.

Suburban youth project called a success

By MAL BARLOW Herald Reporter

"We had a fine summer," said Susan Fleischmann, a co-director of the Suburban Youth Work Experience Program in Manchester.

"I'm amazed. Just about all the 100 kids came to work and worked well. Few missed more than a couple days. There were no serious problems."

"If the kids are working, they've got money in their pockets and respect," Miss Fleischmann and Michaela Robison ran the youth work program together in Manchester. It began with 100 workers between the ages of 14 and 22 ended last week with 85 still working. This is a high percentage for this type of program, they said.

The kids worked in crews of about 10. Each had a crew leader.

The sites included schools, the East Cemetery, churches, the Crossroads office, town offices, the highway department, the Lutz Junior Museum, and the police station.

Each worker put in 25 hours a week at $2.11 per hour for a total of $52.75. They paid no tax but did pay into Social Security.

Signs of the program's success shows in several ways.

The Board of Education has asked for several of the youths to continue working into the fall.

Jay Giles, public works director, thanked the program for an extra job. A crew went up to the Oak Grove Nature center to dig a ditch. It was a job beyond the crew's regular assignment and it was hard.

A crew of workers set up a recreation program at the Beechwood Apartments on Rachel Rd. It is similar to the one run by Manchester Community College and managed by the program's workers at Squire Village apartments off Spencer St.

MISAC, the board of directors representing the eight cities which provided the funds for the program.

Manchester's program is one of 28 run out of a central office at the East Hartford Youth Services Center. Manchester and East Hartford received the largest number of jobs in the federally funded program.

Other area towns and their job spots included: Vernon, 55; Bolton, 6; South Windsor, 20; Glastonbury, 28; Tolland, 10; Ellington, 10; and Andover, 6.

A spokesman in the central office said results this summer were "extremely good."

There were hardly any workers fired despite 700 being hired at the start of the program July 1. About 9 per cent left the program, usually for their own reasons.

Manchester and area towns took part in a similar, federally funded program in the summer of 1974. There were about 50 workers here then and many observers including town officials in charge of the job sites called it a success.

"I wish it could continue into the fall," said Miss Fleischmann.

POLICE REPORT

ARRESTS
MANCHESTER
Jack A. Montague, 23, of 368 Oakland St., third-degree criminal mischief Thursday night at his home. He allegedly stopped by a sinkhole in a tub in his second-floor apartment then turned on the hot and cold taps full blast, police said. The overflow water spilled into the apartments below. Court is Sept. 22.

Frederick A. Goltz, 28, of 97 Summer St., first-degree reckless endangerment, unlawful discharge of firearms and hitting shotgun and rifle in a motor vehicle, on a court warrant Thursday. He was turned over to East Hartford Police.

Gerald E. Kaminsky, 23, of 47 Willard St., intoxication and breach of peace, today at 4:08 a.m. at a home on W. Middle Tpke. Kaminsky allegedly attempted to enter the home. He was released on $50 cash bond for court Sept. 22.

Marilyn H. Lancelot, 45, of Flanders Rd., Coventry, fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting), Thursday at 3:45 p.m. at Cador off Tolland Tpke. Court, Sept. 22.

BREAKS & THEFTS

MANCHESTER
The manager of the Friendly Ice Cream restaurant in Burr Corners off Tolland Tpke. Thursday told police a total of $84.15 in cash was missing from the restaurant's safe. His staff discovered the loss this morning. A theft of $96 in cash occurred Aug. 10, police said.

School principal Dr. Richard Lindgren said he anticipates hot lunches will be served within the next two weeks.

ACCIDENTS

Haidis A. Butler, 80, of 38A Summit St. was injured by her own car Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at Winding and Chestnut Sts. She was standing outside the car when it began to roll. She attempted to stop it and it tipped over down it. She was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Bruce P. Hindley, 18, of 197 Pine Knob Dr., South Windsor was charged with reckless driving in connection with a one-car accident today at 12:30 a.m. on Oakland St. north of N. Main St. The car driven by Hindley struck a no parking sign. Hindley was taken by ambulance to MMH where he was treated for lacerations and released. The car was towed. Court is Sept. 25.

President to campaign despite pistol incident

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford, who started up the muzzle of a loaded .45 for one horrifying moment Friday, says he'll go right on campaigning among the people despite that brush with death.

The President flew back to Washington Friday evening from Sacramento, Calif., where his accused attacker — Lynette Alice "Squeaky" Fromme, a follower of the Rev. Jim Jones' Peoples Temple — convicted mass-murderer Charles Manson — was found on charges of attempted murder with ball set at $1 million.

Ford was so relaxed after the incident that he napped on the flight. Puffing his pipe and wearing a white sport shirt open at the neck, he chatted and laughed with Secret Service agents on Air Force One.

The President told his wife Betty and son Jack that his two-day trip to Seattle, Portland and Sacramento had been "great" except for the pistol incident, which he said should be regarded as "one individual's efforts to undercut the warmth we felt in California."

Ford made it clear he will not knuckle under to fear.

State mental hospitals may halt admissions

HARTFORD (UPI) — All admissions to state mental hospitals may be cut off next week as a result of the salary battle between doctors and state officials.

Forty psychiatrists in residency programs at the four state hospitals say they'll stop processing new patients beginning Tuesday morning, if the Grasso administration fails to resolve the dispute. The residents also want improved state benefits.

The major dispute is with 73 senior doctors who are presently refusing to work at state hospitals and the state's 55-hour week.

Meanwhile, five doctors have resigned protest of a wage increase offered by the state which they considered too meager.

A spokesman at the hospital, Dr. Eric J. Scates, said the five physicians handed in their resignations after state Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper announced the offer of $4,600 a year in guaranteed overtime.

Dr. Scates, who Thursday declined to identify the five, said the dispute between the doctors at state hospitals and the state is driving physicians out of state services.

He said the doctors complained the wage offer "amounted to paying the physicians $5.25 an hour" for overtime work.

The Press and the American Revolution The Boston Tea Party

By Dr. Francis G. Waleit
Worcester State College
Copyright 1975
American Antiquarian Society
Capt. Francis Rotch, hurrying back from Gov. Thomas Hutchinson's country home in Milton, Mass., made his way in the old South Meeting House in Boston. There in the candlelight he told the Patriot leaders that the governor had refused to grant clearance for the Dartmouth with its cargo of East India tea.

Amidst great excitement, Samuel Adams shouted, "This meeting can do no more to save the country!" With warwhoops and such cries as "Boston harbor a teapot tonight!" and "Hurray for Griffin's Wharf!" the crowd dispersed.

Hundreds of the milling mob headed down Milk St. toward the waterfront. At Griffin's Wharf, where three tea ships were moored, they watched as 100 or more men, roughly disguised as Indians, boarded the vessels. Their faces dabbed with lamplack and red ochre, Sam Adams' "Mohawks" broke open 340 chests of tea worth about 10,000 pounds and dumped the tea overboard.

The Boston Tea Party of Dec. 16, 1773 — as well known as any incident in American history — was to trigger events that led directly to open Revolution.

Surplus tea
It had all begun when Parliament passed the Tea Act (May 10, 1773) to help the distressed East India Co. dispose of its huge surplus of tea on hand in England. The company, which had powerful influence in government, was to get a full rebate on tea shipped to the American Colonies. It also got the right for the first time to sell tea directly to the colonies through its own consignees. With such advantages, even though a three penny per pound duty remained from Townshend Act days, the company would be able to undersell all competitors — even those who smuggled Dutch tea into the colonies.

The prospect of cheap tea might at first glance seem harmless, but for two reasons the Tea Act aroused a storm of protest in America.

For one thing, if Parliament could grant a virtual monopoly to the East India Co., why not also to any company it might favor? Another factor was the tea tax. Wasn't this new act a scheme to get the colonists to pay a tax imposed by Parliament?

Roared in anger
As soon as Patriots saw the full implications of the Tea Act they roared in anger. New York and Philadelphia newspapers were the first to carry the colonial protests. Speaking of the economic dangers, "A Mechanic's Pennsylvania Packet" (Oct. 28, 1773) predicted that the Tea Act would not ruin merchants, but also "Our Artificers will be unemployed, and every Tradesman will grow under dire Oppression." One Rhode Islander in the Newport Gazette called on Patriots to send "a CAPTEE" any tea shipments that might reach Narragansett — an allusion to the British vessel sunk by Patriots in June 1772.

A writer in the Massachusetts Spy (Nov. 4, 1773) summed up American objections to the new act as "Taxation without consent and monopoly of trade establishing itself together."

Sons of Liberty everywhere made plans to prevent the landing of any duties tea and to force East India Company consignees to resign their commissions.

Resign commissions
In early October 1773, American learned that four shipments of tea were headed for Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Charleston. Before the tea arrived, consignees in all but Boston had resigned their commissions. By the time that the tea ships reached New York and Philadelphia, news of the Boston Tea Party had spread, and Patriots persuaded the captains to turn back without entering custom houses. Only at Charleston, S.C., was the tea landed, and there it remained in storage for three years before being sold for the benefit of the state.

Things were different at Boston. First of all, the tea consignees were closely related to Gov. Hutchinson; in fact, two of them were his sons. Rather than yield to popular pressure and resign their commissions, the consignees took refuge in Castle William in Boston harbor. They felt safe from the Boston mob there, but they could hardly carry on much business.

Secondly, Gov. Hutchinson — detested by the Patriots — was determined to uphold royal authority. When three tea ships came into Boston harbor and their cargoes were entered at the customhouse, the popular pressure and resist to their commissions, the consignees took refuge in Castle William in Boston harbor. They felt safe from the Boston mob there, but they could hardly carry on much business.

Impasse
Hutchinson would not give in and repeatedly refused to allow the ships to put to sea without landing the tea. An impasse resulted as the Patriots equally determined that the tea would not be brought ashore and the duty paid.

On Dec. 16, 1773, the day before the cargo of the Dartmouth was to be seized by customs authorities, the "Mohawks" staged the Boston Tea Party.

Sober minds (Patriot and Loyalist) realized that this was the most daring challenge as yet to British law and authority in America. It was only a step or two away from revolt and revolution.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

Hello, everyone! Well, it's sure good to be back again all the smiling faces. I had a great vacation, and for while it felt good to get away, but there is no place like home.

When I popped into the building last Tuesday, I sure was pleasantly surprised to see the building in such a clean condition. New and much needed drapes now hang from all the windows. Many areas are all slicked up with new paint, and all the floors looking super.

So a hearty thank you to all the staff members who really put it all together that last week, and I can't forget to thank the boys from Youth Services Program. Ray Gilha, George Jay and Scott Atken who did a terrific job helping to put in the building, both inside and out, in such a good shape.

I guess the action around here started off a little slow this past week, and because of the holiday and all, there just wasn't enough new things to talk about to put into an article. Wednesday, but next week it will be in there once again.

Bowling
Last Tuesday the bowlers met at the Parklane Lanes where Bernie is trying to organize the group. In order for things to run smoothly and to give everyone a fair chance, he came up with a set of rules. Now everyone in a well organized league must have a set of rules to abide by, otherwise everyone is making up their own as they go, and that ends up in all types of confusion.

So check over the rules, and I believe that starting next week we will be having a banquet, as well as prizes for the winners.

We'll tell you more about that later. Meanwhile, the golfers were out on Tuesday this past week at Red Rock Golf Course and these are the scores: Al Felix, Merrill Dickinson and Joseph Quinn, 66; John Gibson, 47; Ernest Segerberg and Hervey Laeger, 48.

On Wednesday we had 40 players for our morning nine-hole games with the following winners: George Last, 62; Al Gates, 60; Nadine Malcom, 60; Marjorie McLain, 59; Lyla Steele, 57; Al Cheliman, 57; Audrey Durey, 57; Helena Gavello, 56; Betty Jesania, 56 and Carl Benson, 55.

I want to thank our new helpers who started their first day of a two month job in giving us a hand with the games: Bob Schubert, Betty Jesania, and Anne-get-your-gun Thompson.

Bob Hope show
Hey, I just received that if we act real fast, we can get some tickets for the Bob Hope show that's headed for the Civic Center on Oct. 9. So if you're interested in going to see this lovable man, and his outstanding show, then you can plan on signing up for tickets coming Monday morning.

The price of the show which includes bustare will be $10.50 per person. We have a most delicious buffet, consisting of salads, roasts, beef, homemade rolls and butter, and lemon meringue pie for dessert.

After eating heartily for an hour, we then followed Maureen for a short walk through the park, the rose garden, the manmade ponds, the covered bridge, and other sites were just lovely. When we got back to the pavillion the manager showed us some beautiful slides of the park when the Laurel and Rhododendrons were in bloom. Then they treated us to cake and coffee

Gloria's Corner
The trip to Stanley Park was one of the best day trips we have ever planned. When we arrived, we were made met by a very charming lady, Maureen Watson, who ushered us into the park to the pavillion. About 11:30 we were served the most delicious buffet, consisting of salads, roasts, beef, homemade rolls and butter, and lemon meringue pie for dessert.

Postal rate hike delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service has announced it will postpone controversial new postage rate increases until after Christmas. The new rates will boost the cost of a first class stamp from 10 cents to 13 cents.

The announcement was made by Postmaster General Benjamin F. Baller following sharp protests from the public and the greeting card industry. He said the increases would likely take effect the week after Christmas.

The Postal Service Board of Governors Thursday took official action to set the stage for another round of postage rate increases for virtually all classes of mail. Technically, they could have gone into effect in mid-December.

Baller's statement gave no explanation of the delay, but a spokesman said his purpose obviously was to spare postal users the extra cost during the Christmas season.

Baller said in his announcement that new rates "most likely" will take effect during the week following Christmas. But he said the date cannot be set precisely at this time.

One protest to the pre-Christmas increases came from Congress Thursday.

Scouts to register Tuesday

HEBRON
Anne Dallaire

Boy Scout Troop 28 will hold its first meeting and registration on Tuesday, in the Gilead Hill Elementary School at 6:30 p.m. Joseph E. Kearns, scoutmaster, reports.

Kearns is asking that boys register early because as this is the nation's Bicentennial year, Troop 28 will be more active than anytime in its history.

Boys are asked to report to the gym in full dress uniform (sneakers, no street shoes). A sober mind and clean record are required, will fill out the necessary registration forms and pays dues in the school library.

New applicants may wear their Webelos Cub uniform or school clothing with sneakers. The Troop 28 adult scout committee had endeavored to maintain the most reasonable dues

The high cost of leisure

For most of us, the time for vacations is past and with the possible exception of a long weekend we must settle down to a five-day week and an eight-hour day to pay for the vacation past and optimistically perhaps save a little up for the next year.

A common complaint of course is that vacations are too short and almost inevitably underfinanced.

As a matter of fact most of us really can't afford all the leisure time we have.

But this is not true of congressmen. They have recently concluded a late summer sojourn that lasted the whole month of August. That they too recognize the high cost of lolling about is evidenced by the rapid and relatively quiet way they gave themselves a pay raise before fleeing the nation's capital city.

They said they need a cost of living increase and at first blush it would appear that there is some logic in the fact that congressmen probably are just as subject to rising prices as the rest of us.

But we have come to an awful conclusion. Maybe the reason it is costing congressmen more to live is that they aren't staying home and on the job enough.

We won't mention the amount of time they have been away from the job before the August recess. This would be too embarrassing. But after a month off it seems that they would plan on sticking to the grindstone for a while.

The facts seem to be otherwise. It is reported that most congressmen generally work Tuesday through Thursday in order to have long weekends for meeting with constituents, homework; and in an increasing number of cases, seeking Freedom to make no future choice?

Too many American children are victims of "occupational foreclosure."

So say two researchers with Pennsylvania State University's Institute for the Study of Human Development.

As reported in Human Behavior magazine, Sarah I. Vandacek and Elizabeth P. Kirchner pulled 282 black and white children in urban day-care centers. The kids, whose ages ranged from three to six, were asked what they wanted to be when they grew up.

Almost 70 per cent projected themselves into adult roles, including specific occupations. But the little girls put themselves into a parental role much more often than the boys did.

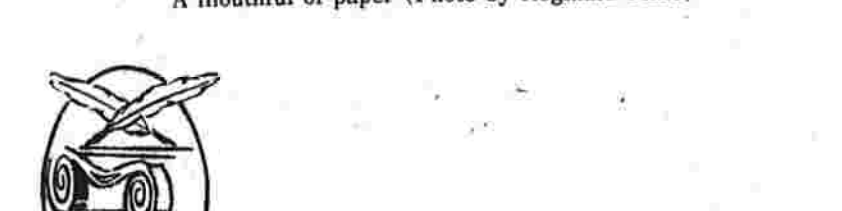

And when naming specific occupations, the girls viewed themselves in such traditional female fields as nursing and teaching, while the boys chose to be doctors, professional athletes, race car drivers, airplane pilots, policemen and firemen.

Like the females, black children also had more limited vocational aspirations, a finding, say the investigators, that is consistent with previous observations that lower-class black youths don't think they have a lot to say about their vocational future.

Of course, no child's future should be "foreclosed" because of his race, sex or background, and certainly not in the preschool years. The danger would be if social reformers were to go beyond the Postmarks' partial return to the U.S. Postal Service is going to give Americans back their geographical identities.

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar has announced that as soon as the required cancelling equipment is available and in place, local postmarks will be applied on outgoing first-class mail at processing centers throughout the country.

It was thanks to the Postal Service, of course, and in the name of efficiency, that the local postmark was sent into oblivion in the first place.

WASHINGTON - Your Honor, I direct your attention to a statement by H. Guyford Stever, director of the tax-funded National Science Foundation:

"It is difficult for the average scientist - who has spent years trying to understand his discipline and who has devoted a great deal of study to his problem - to make the significance of research readily apparent to the layman who has not studied science."

Stever was testifying at House hearings earlier this year on legislation requiring NSF to submit its research grant proposals to Congress for review and possible disapproval.

This is good. Among other things, the NSF has spent tax dollars on research projects into the social behavior of prairie dogs and the dependency between men and women in love.

But what bugs me is Stever's statement that, sorry, the average researcher has a tough time explaining what he's doing and why.

How come? Presumably even scientific researchers have been exposed to courses in rudimentary English. Back home after a hard day's study of tadpole's emotional problems, they presumably are required by the exigencies of the married state to utter a few simple English words in the direction of wives and children.

Therefore does not seem unreasonable to suggest that they find a way to explain their projects to Congress and to the taxpayers who support them.

Stever and other members of the scientific community point out that capsule descriptions of research projects would perfectly valid objectives may sound ridiculous to the general public.

Well, that's the scientists' problem. If those descriptions sound ridiculous, it's because they're ridiculous. And they're ridiculous because scientists won't take the trouble to translate their professional

Ortoses still alive in sweeping Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ross Grimsley should be arrested for impersonating a star.

Exactly one week after Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver relegated "The Copher Ball Kid" to the bullpen after he had given up three homers in 1-13 innings to Chicago, Grimsley returned in his old role as a starter — but with one big difference.

When Weaver and pitching coach George Bamberger peered from the dugout to watch their "new starter" warm up, they were surprised to find out just how new he was. For a moment they might have thought their dreams had come true.

There stood a tall left-hander, pitching very quickly, without a windup. The resemblance to Jim Kaat, the man who had beaten the Orioles and Grimsley a week ago, was striking.

"He definitely threw batters off with the Kaat style," said Weaver, "but more important, he had great stuff. The new style was not my idea or the pitching coach's."

Other Orioles seconded Weaver's belief that it was more a return to the old Grimsley than the discovery of a new Grimsley that made the difference as the Orioles swept the New York Yankees. They won 2-1 behind the lefty in the second game after shading New York 5-4 in the opener behind the equally surprising pitching of rookie Paul Mitchell.

"Ross was much more aggressive tonight," claimed Bobby Grich. "During his hot streak in the middle of the summer that's how he was pitching."

Rookie third baseman Doug DeCinces singled home Don Baylor in the eighth inning of the second game to break a 1-1 tie and give Grimsley his 10th victory against 13 losses. Grimsley did continue to give up the homer, however. Yankees' Bobby Bonds' cracked his 26th in the sixth inning, running Grimsley's total to 28 in 31 starts, but this time it was one of only five hits he allowed in going the distance.

In the opener, Al Bumby's two-run single capped a three-run second inning that saddled Doc Medich with his 16th loss against 12 victories. Mitchell, the last of three pitchers, pitched 4-2-3 innings of one-hit relief to notch his second win without a loss.

In other AL action, Texas defeated Oakland 4-2, Kansas City beat California 5-2, Chicago edged Minnesota 3-2, Milwaukee downed Boston 4-2, and Detroit pummeled Cleveland 11-2.

Angels 4, A's 2 — Gaylord Perry fired a two-hitter to win his 15th game and Texas scored the tie-breaking run in the ninth on two straight wild pitches by Vida Blue, 19-11, to beat Oakland. The loss, coupled with Kansas City's win over California, narrowed the AL lead over the Royals in the AL West to five games. Royals 5, Angels 2 — George Brett went 5-for-5 and drove in four runs to lead Kansas City over California, Steve Busby gave up nine hits but struck out seven in going the distance for his 16th win against 11 defeats. Ed Figueroa took the loss and evened his record at 12-12. White Sox 3, Twins 2 — Bucky Dent poked a three-run triple to spark a two-run win for the Sox over Minnesota. The win ended a four-game losing streak for Wilbur Wood and raised his record to 14-18. Titans 11, Indians 2 — Willie Horton hit a pair of two-run homers — the first capping a seven-run fifth inning — and Detroit went to end a three-game losing streak. Dumping Cleveland. Bill Freehan added a homer to give Verne Ruhle, who had not won in three weeks, his 11th victory against 10 losses.

Vail playing well in Mets' uniform

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Vail is living proof that major league scouts often make big mistakes.

Vail, a 28-year-old outfielder, was considered only average material when he was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals last year. He was in their farm system but since getting a chance to play in the big leagues with the New York Mets, he's proving that his talents were probably underestimated by the Cardinals scouts.

The Cardinal scouting report on Vail reads: "Strictly a guess hitter ... doesn't wait ... questionable fielder."

"I think I found out on the last road trip after I'd gotten a couple of hits that I could play in the majors. I was wondering if I could hit in this league and showed myself. After the first couple of games, I settled down. I saw I could hit in this league."

Vail's homer, his second, came with two out and Del Unser on base in the third inning off rookie Harry Rasmussen and gave the Mets a 2-0 lead. Davey Johnson, who had a 2-2 tie, struck out three in the fourth inning. never lost my confidence that I could play, but I didn't know if I could play in the major leagues. I'd led the California State League in hitting but they didn't bring me to camp.

and Richie Hebner's two-run single gave Pittsburgh a victory in the nightcap after Montreal won the opener when rookie reliever Kent Tekulve walked home the winning run with one out in the 10th. The second game victory enabled the Pirates to maintain their five-game lead over Philadelphia in the NL East.

Phillies 3-6, Cubs 4-3 — Andre Thornton's three-run homer in the fourth inning gave Chicago a victory in the opener, but Philadelphia came back to win the nightcap on a four-run eighth inning capped by Mike Schmidt's two-run homer. Schmidt's blast was his 32nd, tops in the majors.

Reds 4, Giants 3 — Cesar Geronimo's two-out single in the ninth inning scored Ed Armbrister and gave Cincinnati a victory over San Francisco. Paley, appearing in his 2,000th major league game, hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati.

Dodgers 5, Braves 2 — Bart Hooton scattered eight hits to win his ninth game in a row while pitching Los Angeles over Atlanta. Hooton, boosting his record to 15-9, struck out eight in becoming the first pitcher in the NL to win nine games in a row this season. Lee Lacy and Steve Yeager each hit two-run homers for the Dodgers.

Astros 2, Padres 1 — Cesar Cedeno scored the winning run on an infield grounder in the eighth inning as Houston edged San Diego. Cedeno led off the eighth with a bunt single, moved to second on a sacrifice and look third on the out. He was hit by a pitch in the ninth. Mike Ivey's error. Enos Cabell then grounded to short and Hector Torres hurried throw home hit Cedeno in the back.

DEAR ABBY By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am living with my boyfriend, sharing expenses 50-50, and so far it's worked out well with one exception...

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you knew that your husband's ex-wife was still in love with him and wanted him back very much?

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a very nice girl for two years, and I want to marry her, but here's the problem: When we first met, she was a bit of a mess...

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. What do you think I should do about my ex-wife who is still in love with me and wants me back very much?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. What do you think I should do about my ex-wife who is still in love with me and wants me back very much?

OBITUARIES

Matthew A. Batson Jr. Matthew A. Batson Jr., 82, of Smithtown, L.I., N.Y., formerly of Manchester, died Aug. 29 at St. John's Smithtown Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Margaret Batson.

Mr. Batson was born Nov. 4, 1912, in Springfield, Mass., the son of the late Capt. Matthew A. Batson, a career Army officer and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, and Inez Burnham Batson.

He lived most of his young years in Manchester where he graduated from Manchester High School. He graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y.

Mr. Batson worked as a designer for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division of United Technologies Corp. in East Hartford and as chief project engineer for Kaman Corp. in Bloomfield until moving to Long Island in 1939 where he was employed by Republic Aircraft Corporation.

For 25 years, Mr. Batson served as power plant group engineer at Republic.

At the time of his death, he was assistant project engineering manager-F105 assigned as engineering representative to the Sacramento Air Material Area, McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento, Calif.

Other survivors are three sons, Matthew A. Batson III, Thomas Batson and David Batson, all of Smithtown; three daughters, Mrs. Susan McNeil of Deer Park, L.I., Mrs. Joanne Foulton of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Catherine Richert of Downsville, N.Y.; a sister, Mrs. Suzanne Shorts of Manchester, and three grandchildren.

Burial was Monday in St. Patrick Cemetery, Hauppauge, L.I.

Friends wishing to do so may make memorial contributions to St. John's Cardiac Care Unit, St. John's Smithtown Hospital, Smithtown, L.I., N.Y.

William C. Monaghan William C. Monaghan, 86, of 369 Taylor St., Talcottville, died Friday in a local convalescent home.

He was born in Belfast, Ireland, and lived in Talcottville most of his life. He retired from United Technologies Corporation in East Hartford in 1967.

Mr. Monaghan was a member of the Rockville Lodge of Masons and a member of the Talcottville Congregational Church.

He was active in the former Talcottville Fire and Drum Corps.

Survivors are a son, Charles R. Monaghan of Talcottville; two daughters, Mrs. W. Alfred Rivenburg of Arlington, Mass., and Mrs. Zigmund Godz of Sandwich, Mass.; three sisters, Mrs. George M. Cleveland, Mrs. Frederick Petig and Miss J. Monaghan, all of Manchester; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. in Talcottville Congregational Church. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Talcottville.

There are no calling hours. Friends wishing to do so may make memorial contributions to the Memorial Fund of the Talcottville Congregational Church.

The Newkirk and Whitney Funeral Home, 318 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, is in charge of arrangements.

Thomas J. Freeburn Thomas J. Freeburn, 94, of 47 Edgerton St., died early this morning at an area convalescent home.

He was born in Ireland Feb. 10, 1881, and lived in Manchester for 19 years after having moved from Holyoke, Mass.

Before his retirement, he was employed by the L.D. VanValkenburg Co. in Chicopee, Mass.

Mr. Freeburn was a member of Washington Lodge No. 117 and Center Congregational Church.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Andrew Subie of Manchester; a son, Allen Freeburn of Springfield, Mass.; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Sanderson with whom he made his home, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A private funeral service will be held at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. Burial will be in Forestdale Cemetery, Holyoke, Mass.

There are no calling hours. Friends wishing to do so may make memorial contributions to the Center Congregational Church.

Anniversary Mass

An eighth anniversary Mass for the late Philip Shaw will be said Monday at 8 a.m. at St. Augustine's Church in Hartford.

Wapping Fair ends Sunday

South Windsor's Wapping Fair, an annual event since 1890, opened last night at the Rye St. Park and will continue through Sunday.

In the past the fair has been held at Wapping School grounds. The large Rye St. Park, however, has enabled the Fair Association to include a horse show as well as greater space for display.

The annual fair parade, complete with bands, floats, and decorated bicycles, led local officials and townspeople today to the fair grounds to witness the Guinness record breakers, a feature of this year's fair.

The world's longest cigar —

200 inches to commemorate the nation's bicentennial — is made completely with South Windsor tobacco. Until now the record listed in the Guinness Record Book is held by a British company for a 64-inch cigar.

The cigar was made in Pennsylvania by Nuway Tobacco Co. and brought to South Windsor Wednesday. Sunday will feature entertainment by a blue grass band as well as a five-mile foot race scheduled for 1 p.m. A bicycle race and the Scantic Valley Horse Show are slated for 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The fair is sponsored jointly by the South Windsor Jaycee and the Wapping Grange.

Father of woman claims kidnaping was 'rescue'

WINDSOR (UPI) — The father of a Vermont woman said Friday her attempted kidnaping in Windsor was carried out by three concerned friends of the family trying to "rescue" her from a zealous religious sect.

Tamara Schupp, 19, of Jerico, Vt., was grabbed Thursday night outside a shopping mall by three men who threw her into a van, tied her and then tried to force her to swallow powerful tranquilizers, police said.

Her father, attorney Eric Schupp, 60, said Tamara's mind was "completely suppressed" by the Unification Church since she joined it in January. The church is led by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon of Korea.

Schupp and his wife, Elizabeth, said they were friends of the three men charged with the kidnaping.

Miss Schupp was passing out religious literature to shoppers and sought donations when the incident occurred.

Police identified the three men, charged with kidnaping and second degree assault, as Collin Huesy, 21, of Jerico; James Walton, 23, of Port Henry, N.Y.; and Rageb Shadallah, 28, of Boston. Huesy was being held in lieu of a $5,000 bond and the two others in lieu of $10,000 bond each.

A lawyer hired for the three by Mr. Schupp, Michael Koskoff of Westport, Conn., said the men acted out of concern for the girl and her parents.

"They were doing nothing more than attempting to free this woman from what they believed to be an involuntary slavery," he said.

Windsor police, summoned by persons who witnessed the alleged kidnaping, arrested the men as the van approached the Massachusetts - Connecticut state line on Interstate 91.

Police said they did not know where the girl was Friday. She was released after the three men were charged, authorities said.

Water firm granted rate hike

COVENTRY Monica Shea 742-9495

The Public Utilities Commission has granted the General Water Service Company, Inc., which services 110 customers in the Northfield subdivision, a rate increase of $27 per year for each customer.

The company had originally requested an increase of $55 per customer.

A hearing on the request was at the Board Room of the Coventry Town Hall July 2. At that time several of the customers complained about the service and the lack of flushing valves and blowoffs to clean the mains and remove sand and sediment in the water supply.

Complaints were also raised on the failure of the company to post its phone number on its bills and to either pay directly to the customer the interest accrued on their deposits or to credit it to their accounts annually.

The company was granted an increase from $90 per year per customer to $117 per year per customer.

It was also ordered to file with the PUC, within 90 days, a list of all customers who have submitted deposits and indicate on the list those depositors who have accrued interest which is to be paid on a straight 5 per cent per year.

The company was also ordered to submit evidence within six months that a blowoff valve has been installed.

Within six months the company must also submit evidence that its billhead has been revised to show a phone number where customers may leave complaints.

The company is also ordered to install a flowmeter at the wellhouse to measure total water production.

In addition the commission indicated to the company that it would be a prudent course of action for it to begin planning to fully meter the system or to revise its rules to prohibit the use of water for nondomestic purposes until meters can be installed.

MACC NEWS

MANCHESTER AREA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

The Manchester Honor Court celebrates its second anniversary Monday in the Court of Common Pleas room at Manchester Police Headquarters at 7:30 p.m. Court personnel and officials of the various towns involved in the area have been invited to attend.

Honor Court is an opportunity for persons who have an alcohol problem to be introduced to Alcoholics Anonymous. They may be referred through the court, the Family Relations Office, family or friends.

The Family Relations Office always has a representative in court seeking people who have an alcohol problem. The person who appears in court is approached by the representative and presented with the alternative of attending Honor Court on six successive weeks.

Within this period it is hoped that the person will come to realize his or her situation and find motivation to continue with the AA program.

The staff of the Family Relations Office include: Joseph S. Rafala, supervisor of the Family Relations Division, First District; Thomas H.

Elliot, family relations officer for Manchester; Joseph W. Gust, assistant family relations officer covering courts in Manchester, Rockville and Stafford Springs; and William N. Caraminas, assistant family relations officer covering the East Hartford court.

Mr. Elliot feels that many of those attending Honor Court have taken advantage of the AA program and are being helped and helping themselves through the program. He stated that they haven't seen many repeat offenders in the court, and therefore feel the exposure to AA has been helpful. Mr. Elliot encouraged anyone who feels they might have a drinking problem to attend the meetings or to contact the family relations office for further information.

The following church groups have been serving refreshments and attending the Honor Court sessions for the past two years:

Emanuel Lutheran, St. James, Second Congregational, St. Maurice-Bolton, Temple Beth Shalom, Salvation Army, North United Methodist, Community Baptist, Center

Congregational, South United Methodist, Church of the Nazarene, Concordia Lutheran, Church of the Assumption, St. Mary's Episcopal, St. Bridget's, Trinity Covenant, St. Bartholomew, St. Paul's - Glastonbury, Congregational Church-South Glastonbury, Bolton Congregational, Our Savior Lutheran-Wapping, St. Stevens Prayer Group, Church Women United, Second Congregational High School Group, St. Jude's Mothers Circle, Gate of Heaven Mothers Circle, Our Lady of Unity Mothers Circle, Queen of Angels Mothers Circle, St. Anne's Mothers Circle, St. Francis Xavier Mothers Circle.

These groups have come away from each meeting with a wider knowledge of the problem of alcoholism and what AA can do for those involved with alcohol. Any group interested in participating in this program should contact Mrs. Nancy von Hollen, 480 Woodland St.

Coordination of groups providing refreshments for the regular Monday sessions of Honor Court is done through the Manchester Area Conference of Churches' Social Action Division. Mrs. von Hollen has assumed the position of coordinator for two years. Anne Flynn, executive secretary of MACC, speaking for its board of directors, expresses thanks and appreciation to Mrs. von Hollen and the many groups that have participated in this program over the past two years.

The MACC Board of Directors wishes all concerned a happy second anniversary celebration and our support and help through the years to come.

Seeking patrons

Brochures are being mailed this week inviting patron memberships to the Manchester Civic Orchestra, now in its 15th year.

For the first time in the orchestra's history, an extra concert is planned this year in addition to the usual two.

The schedule is as follows: Nov. 2, full orchestra with instrumental soloist; Feb. 8, concerto concert with smaller group, and May 23, full orchestra with the Manchester Civic Chorus. All performances will be at the Manchester High School.

The orchestra is made up of adults and students from all walks of life who are considered amateur because they are not paid, but professional because of the caliber of their performances.

Students accepted into the orchestra by audition are given credit for playing in the orchestra at Manchester High School.

Dr. Jaek Heller of the University of Connecticut music department is the conductor.

Unique experience

A walk through the Wadsworth Athenaeum's Lions Gallery of the Senses during the next two months will be a unique experience for many visitors.

As they move through the space, their own bodies will activate sounds in infinitely varying patterns of pitch, volume and rhythm.

The exhibition, which opens Sept. 16, is entitled "Broken/Unbroken Terraotta: A Continuous Sound Composition."

Electromagnetic fields have been constructed which respond to even the slightest movement as someone enters them, setting off the sounds which emanate from a synthesizer hooked up to two speakers.

Visitors can experiment with the sounds by moving through the fields, creating their own patterns as they go. It is an experience designed for both sighted and unsighted people to enjoy.

BARITONE HORN

Folk singer

Folk singer Gerry Matthews and a quartet will present a Bicentennial folk concert at the John Lyman Auditorium on Crescent St. at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven on Wednesday at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

Dinner theaters

The combination of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II is brought to the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor in "Oklahoma" beginning Tuesday and playing through Nov. 2. There will be special matinee performances Sept. 18 and 24.

Still playing through Sunday at Coachlight is "Nice Faces of 1943," a musical revue.

At Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, an impressionist revue called "French Dressing" opens Tuesday and plays through Oct. 5.

In other shows

John Davidson and Joan Rivers team up for entertainment at the Oakdale in Wallingford Monday through Saturday.

Tonight is the final performance of "Grease" at Storowton Theatre in West Springfield, Mass.

Story readings

The Wadsworth Athenaeum in Hartford has planned a special series of story readings, "Good Stories," for September.

More than 150 original illustrations from the books which will be used in the readings will be hanging on the walls of Avery Court as a background for the stories themselves.

Beginning Sunday, and continuing every Saturday and Sunday through September, "Good Stories" will take place in Avery Court at 2 p.m. The program is designed for children in Grades 1 through 6.

Free concerts

The department of music at the University of Connecticut announces its faculty concert series beginning Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Von der Mehden Recital Hall at the university in Storrs. All concerts are free.

Robert Dan, violist, will perform on the first program. Other programs will feature vocal and instrumental soloists.

The New England String Quartet will again be in residence at the university and will present a series of six concerts presented Thursdays at 8:15 p.m. beginning Oct. 16.

Members of the quartet are Theodore Arm, first violin; Robert Dan, second violin; Robert Coleman, viola, and Mary Lou Rylands, cello. The quartet concerts are also free.

Beginning Oct. 30, the university symphonic wind ensemble heads a series of orchestral and band events in Jorgensen Auditorium.

The Hague Philharmonic Orchestra will perform Sept. 30 at 8:15 p.m. in Jorgensen Auditorium at the University of Connecticut in Storrs. Jean Martinon will conduct.

Stamps and coins

By Russ MacKendrick

These stamps were issued to mark the 10th anniversary of the Republic of Singapore. The ultramodernistic UN-ish designs are meant to indicate four aspects of their life: Homes, Shipping, Communications, and Trade.

Singapore is a island nation (one, 14 by 27 miles, others small), with a bustling city also called Singapore. (From "Singapura" - The City of the Lion.)

It was a British colony until 1959, then became a state within the Commonwealth. In 1963 they threw in with the Federation of Malaysia. This resulted in nothing but problems and they shook themselves free in 1965 to become an independent republic, joining the UN in September of that year.

Singapore is a nation with a mix of over two million souls. Fifty-four languages are current there - the official ones being Malay, Mandarin Chinese, Tamil (from southern India), and English.

It is the financial center of Southeast Asia and has been called a warehouse, an emporium, The Crossroads of the East, and - by Somerset Maugham - "The Laughing City." Here the attire of the streets' shoppers reflect the fashions of half the world.

Philatelically, Singapore is uncomplicated. Here would be a good chance to get a country complete. None of the 200-odd issues (starting in 1948) bring crazy prices.

As a rule the stamps are attractive, not at all as stark as the ones shown here. They have a Golden Lion set, some sailing vessels, a fish flower and bird set headed by a seahorse, sports, dancers in costumes, and a set with the flags of all the members of the Commonwealth on each stamp. In 1972 there was a coin-on-stamp issue featuring the $150 gold piece struck for the sesqui-centennial of their founding in 1819 by Stamford Raffles.

Coin World had two stories on the place lately. They were offering 1975 proof sets, one to a customer, at 75 Singapore dollars ($34 U.S.). Also there was the hot news that they were busy setting up a new gold exchange for spot and futures trading.

Best for dabblers

Sylvia Porter recommends coins over bullion as the best bet for gold dabblers, mentioning the Mex 50-peso, the kruggerand, and the United States double eagle.

A current ad is promoting a U.S. Gold Corp. medallion as the American kruggerand. This should mean a one-ounce piece offered at only a trifle more than bullion value. So beware of tricky pricing.

Town names remain

Cheers, cheers! The hue and cry over the loss of community postmarks has made the USPS wheels think twice about the faceless state-and-three-figure-Zip. Individual town names will be reinstated.

They are not so lucky in Canada, as mail from several towns in the Toronto area has come through with nothing but "Postes Canada Post MIP 470." Gone are historic names like Agincourt, Thornhill and others. An editorial in Linn's says it may be a pilot plan and suggests that Canadians should verbally bombard their MPs before the thing jells.

Business meeting

Bob Deming, president of the Manchester Philatelic Society, will call the members away from their circuit books for the first business meeting of the stamping season on Tuesday, Sept. 9. It will be at Mott's Community Hall, 7 to 10 p.m.

Show needs help before it can go

By JUNE TOMPKINS

"Cowboy," the new musical showing at Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, has a long way to go before it can go a long way.

Goodspeed is noted as a stage for tryout productions before Broadway appearances, but unless "Cowboy" gets a revamping and rewriting treatment, it stands a poor chance of ever getting to the big town.

The story of the famous Western artist, Charles Marion Russell, has potential for a fine stage interpretation. But Jess Gregg, unfortunately, has written a shallow story bordering, at times, on the ridiculous.

He has touched briefly on some encounters in Russell's career, which, combined with music and lyrics by Richard Riddle, result in a hodgepodge of short scenes and no tunes that linger in your memory afterward.

Suitable to a cowboy atmosphere in the West, Montana to be specific, the title role is played by David Canary who gives it just the right color. And why shouldn't he? He is known to TV audiences for his role of Candy on "Bonanza" and has guest starred on "Gunsmoke" and "Cimarron Strip."

Canary is lean and lanky and jut-jawed.

Playing the young lady who attracts him, and eventually becomes his wife and business manager is Zan Charisse as Mammie Nancy Cooper.

Her role might be more impressive if her dialogue wasn't so full of corn. Charisse is almost a comedian at times, which doesn't become the story.

Ronnie Claire Edwards gives to the role Widow Jackson all she can give to a mediocre role. She stars in a rendition of "Dutchman's Pants" which, if you pay strict attention, is a parody on a collection of weather signs given by the clouds. But after that, her star falls, not because of lack of talent, but because she can do no less with the part that is written.

Complementing Canary are Gary Sandy and Dick Bonelle as Teddy Blue Abbott and Con Price, respectively, a couple of typical ranch hand sidekicks.

About the only interesting dance number in the show is a cleverly choreographed pantomime in which the two cowhands teach Mammie how to ride a horse.

The play tells you that Russell, at a young age, began to sketch scenes of the Old West which he could not even give away, but later finds that city slickers and brothel patronizers will pay fabulously for them.

Russell finds his way to New York City with his wife to attend exhibits of his paintings which become popular calendars arts. The show ends when Russell and his wife fade into the sunset as they return to Montana.

The backgrounds are ingeniously contrived in the manner of a roll of film that is turned to the setting appropriate to the scene through a large frame.

"Cowboy" will play at Goodspeed through Sept. 28.

Founded on the premise in 1916 that the New England farmer was an endangered species, the Eastern States Exposition at West Springfield, Mass., which runs Sept. 10 to 21, continues to be an agricultural showcase for the entire Northeast. The Big E, the eighth largest fair in the country, offers an opportunity to inspect purebred livestock and view agricultural exhibits. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Northeast's Big E opens Wednesday

Possibly the biggest New England event of the year begins in West Springfield, Mass., next week with the opening of the 54th Eastern States Exposition, Sept. 10 to 21.

There'll be hundreds of agricultural and educational exhibits on the 175-acre fairgrounds, free entertainment in the 6,000-seat Coliseum, other free shows and special events everywhere.

Gates will open Wednesday at 8 a.m., with Big E officials predicting record-breaking crowds. Last year's fair broke all previous records when 929,074 persons visited the eighth largest fair in the country.

Special days planned for the Exposition features many stars

There will be stars of every magnitude in West Springfield next week, but they won't be in the sky. The stars will be "down to earth" and on stage at the Eastern States Exposition, Sept. 10 to 21.

Performers will give two free shows daily, at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m., in the Big E Coliseum.

Scheduled Wednesday, Sept. 10, are singers B.J. Thomas and Tanya Tucker. Appearing

Thursday will be top-40 favorites The Captain and Tennille and The Brooklyn Bridge. Friday through Sunday, Sept. 12 to 14, there'll be the Royal International Circus. The show will include feats by Guy Gosling and his Royal Bengal Tigers, an aerial act by Rejennie Duo, and a light show with Miss Sonya.

Headliner for the Big E is John Davidson, who will appear Monday, Sept. 15.

On Tuesday, country-pop performer Lynn Anderson—who became a star with her recording of "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden"—will appear.

Headliner shows conclude Friday, Sept. 19, with two shows by Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods.

Also appearing at the Big E in one of the outdoor Bandshell shows will be Barbi Benton, known as a friend of Hugh Hefner and a regular star of TV's "Hee Haw." She'll give two free shows daily.

The Bandshell will also host The Ferko String Band (Mummers), known for their spectacular costumes. Billy Thunderkloud and The Chieftones will also perform on the Bandshell daily.

Elsewhere on the Exposition grounds, magic is the theme of Ronald's Magic Shop, an all-age show featuring Ronald McDonald and his helpers. They'll give five shows daily.

Fair has Bicentennial air

Almost everything at the Big E has a Bicentennial flavor this year. There'll be a return of many people, things, and ideas from the past: Blacksmiths, farmers, spinning wheels, cow milking contests, and Indians.

The Indians are returning to Massachusetts in the form of Billy Thunderkloud and the Chieftones, a musical group that will perform at the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield from Sept. 10 to 21. They'll give three free shows daily.

Another feature of the fair with a Bicentennial flavor are the Mitchell Marionettes, presenting four free historical shows daily.

The Big E, designated as one of the few National Bicentennial Fairs in the country, will fly the official Bicentennial flag. The fair will also welcome

Capsule book reviews

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International

My Son the Jack, by Gerald Greene. (Praeger, $7.95) Novelist and TV writer-producer Greene is a long way from his "Last Angry Man" in this book in which he writes with touching amazement at his son's prowess during a long and losing high school football season. Greene also muses about his own youth, in which he lacked the athletic ability he so proudly sees in his son. There is an intimacy and honesty about Greene's book that evokes unusual warmth and empathy.

We're Going To Make You a Star, by Sally Quinn. (Simon & Schuster, $7.95) Saying poor Sally Quinn is like saying poor little rich girl, but the fact remains that she writes convincingly here about the incredible negligence of CBS in throwing her on the air without even telling her what camera to look at. But the fact remains she could have helped herself more than she did and some simple factual mistakes in her book cast doubt on her claims to being a truly professional print reporter. She comes out looking like a talented amateur in one medium who couldn't hack it in another.

Lamy of Santa Fe, by Paul Horgan. (Farrar, Straus & Giroix, $15) Juan Baptista Lamy was a missionary priest born in France who, in the middle of the last century, was assigned to the desolate southwest as Bishop of New Mexico, presiding over the territory acquired by the United States after its victorious war with Mexico. Horgan, a prize-winning chronicler of the region, writes with compassion and intelligence of Lamy's trials and triumphs in his 30-year struggle to bring civilization to the raw, lawless region. Lamy was an extraordinarily interesting figure and this biography is every bit worthy of him.

Author unmasking CBS-TV

CBS, by Robert Metz. (Playboy, $13.50)

CBS has been such a profound force in the United States since the 1930s that one wonders why no one thought to tell the story of the communications behemoth before. It's a dandy tale.

For most adults, the network has been a formidable presence in the background of their lives. It fed them the news and entertained them for most of their leisure hours. Yet the men who ran the operation—the men whose decisions and attitudes affected what the public would see—remained unknown, except for occasional references in the television pages of newspapers.

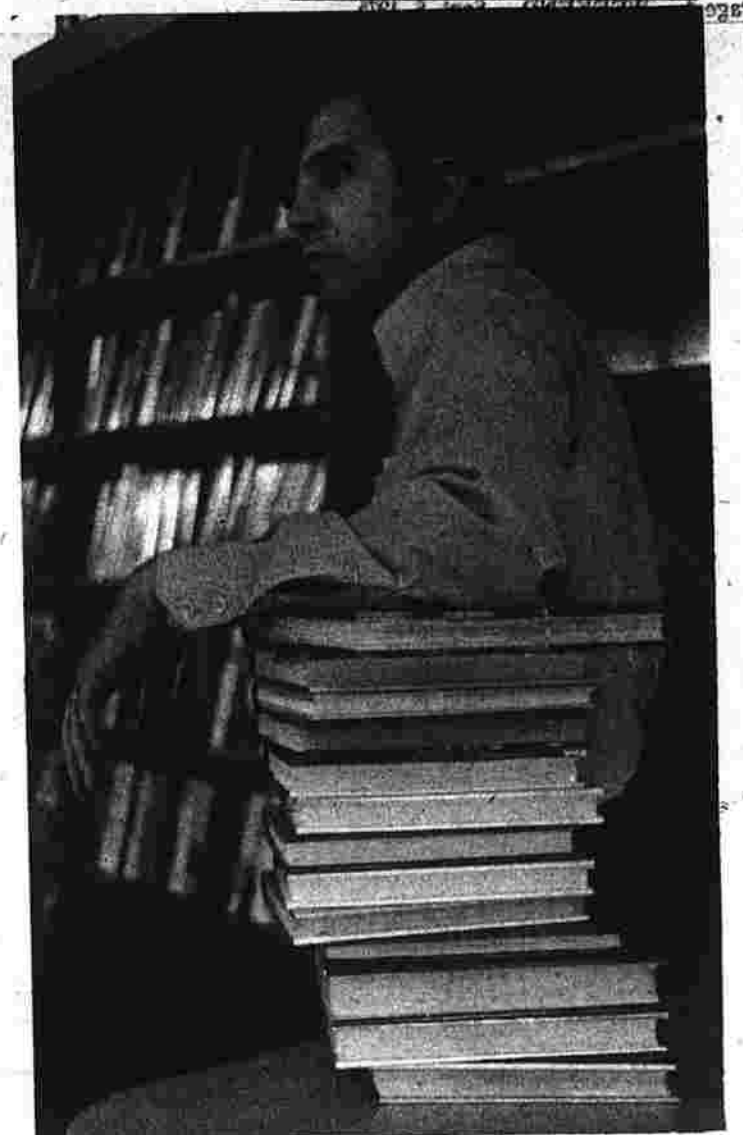

Robert Metz, a financial writer for The New York Times, has unmasked them and trotted them out for public view in this masterly corporate biography. His exceptional job of research has resulted in an engrossing document on how one man, William Paley, built a small radio station into a $1 billion a year goliath.

CBS always seemed the ultimate in a radio-TV network, just as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer once epitomized the powerful Hollywood studio. Its performers and programs always appeared to be the most popular and influential. No one has ever matched the power of Arthur Godfrey in his heyday. Edward R. Murrow was the prototype and the teacher for that new breed, the television newsmen. The network's "All in the Family" led to an entirely new type of television programming.

While some of its programming represented some of the worst trash to be seen on the tube, at the same time it offered some of the most effective shows ever broadcast.

And its scandals were the juiciest. The fall of "The $64,000 Question," which at one point was watched by 84 per cent of the TV audience, reverberated through the nation with Watergate-size shockwaves.

It's all there and as easy to read as "I Love Lucy" is to watch—but far more amusing.

John Cooney of the staff of the Manchester Public Library pauses during hectic work week in which the library prepared to operate a new bookmobile. The new town vehicle, which replaces a state loaner, will begin service Sept. 15. (Herald photo by Bevins)

Jim Rice takes his cuts in batting cage.

Red hot!

Story and photos
By EARL YOST

Hottest sports item in New England these days is once again the Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox are far from being a Boston-supported team. Fans come from every state in New England and each home game at Fenway Park finds hundreds of Manchester baseball fans in attendance.

After all, many like to be part of a winner...and going down the stretch, Manager Darrell Johnson's club looks like the American League's Eastern Division champion.

It's been a combination of youth and experience that Johnson has molded into a winning team with rookies Fred Lynn and Jim Rice enjoying banner years and veteran Carl Yastrzemski providing the bulk of the punch along with streak-hitting Dewey Evans and Cecil Cooper.

Veteran pitchers Luis Tiant, Bill Lee and Rick Wise are all potential 20-game winners, and newcomers Jim Willoughby and Jim Burton have supplied the needed strong arms in the bullpen.

Boston leads the league in total attendance despite having the smallest park. Sellout crowds of 34,000-plus have been common as rabid fans continue to jump on the band wagon.

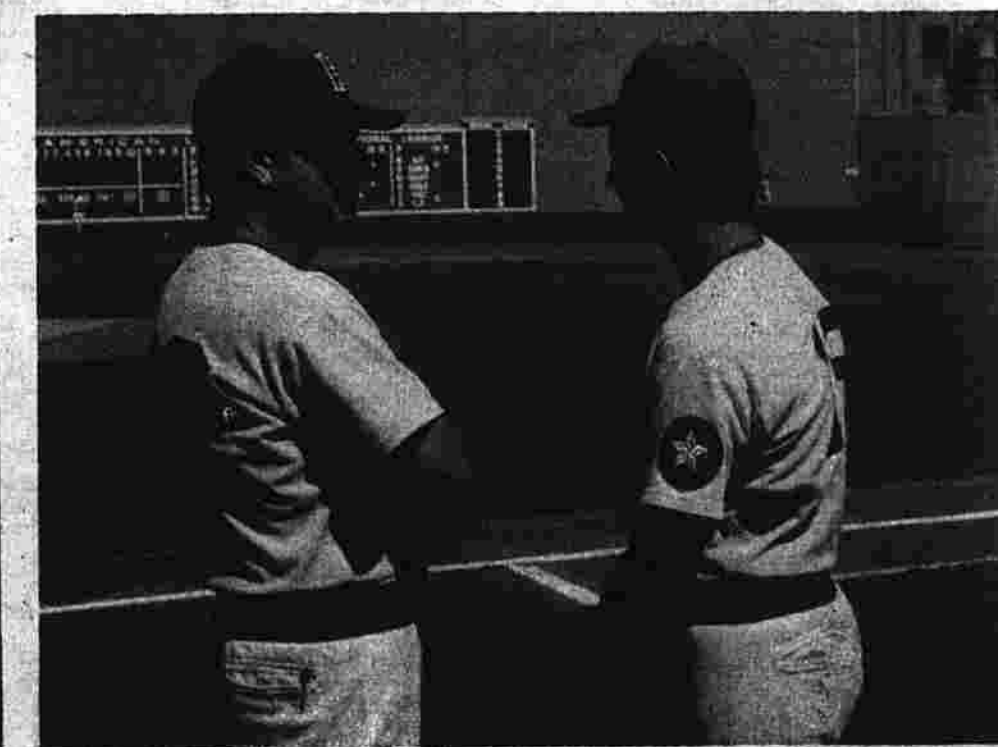

The return of oft-injured Carlton Fisk to the major league lineup at mid-season was a big plus.

Dick Bursleson has been steady at shortstop and the addition of a rejuvenated Denny Doyle has solidified the infield.

Fenway is an action park which features excitement. It's park where Joe Fan is closer to the playing field than at any place in the league.

Its famed "green monster" is its leftfield wall, a short, 315-foot distance from home plate but 37 feet high, where balls rattle off like hail in a summer storm and hits and runs are usually plentiful. It meets with the approval of all except the pitchers.

The American League playoff dates will be Oct. 4 and 5 and the junior league will host the first two World Series games Oct. 11 and 12. Boston hopes to be involved in both.

Still another private eye series hits the TV airwaves this season when Eddie Albert and Robert Wagner (above) team in CBS-TV's "Switch." George Peppard (top right) dons white tunic and stethoscope for NBC-TV's "Doctors' Hospital" and comedienne Anne Meara appears as woman lawyer "Kate McShane" for CBS-TV.

The fall season

Shows to sleep by

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — In most arts, it is creativity that counts. Being new, different, original — those are the qualities that make for success.

But, judging by the '75-'76 TV schedule, television is the exception to the rule. If you want to call TV an art, then TV is the art where originality runs second to imitation.

There are 26 new programs on the ABC, CBS and NBC schedules for this fall. With a very few exceptions, they are all imitations of previous successes.

Producer George Schlatter took one look at the new season's entries and said, "It's one giant sleeping pill."

There may be some hits among the 26, but you will be hard put to distinguish the new hits from the old hits. This is particularly true in the realm of the cop shows; there are six new ones, and they are strictly variations on an old theme.

How do you create a new cop show? It's almost obvious.

Private eyes have worked in the past, right? OK, let's get Tony Franciosa to play Matt Helm, because the Helm character has worked in the movies (ABC). One private eye is good, maybe two will be better. Let's put Robert Wagner and Eddie Albert together and call it Switch! (CBS).

Plainsclothes cops have long been a standby, right? OK, how about a team of plainclothes cops? So Paul Michael Glaser and David Soul will be Starsky and Hutch (ABC). Or how about Jack Palance as Bronk, a police lieutenant in plain clothes (CBS).

If it works in books, maybe it will work on TV. Ellery Queen has worked before, why not now? So Jim Hutton will be Ellery Queen (NBC). Adam-12 and others were successful showing uniformed cops, why not try Lloyd Bridges as a cop on the beat. We'll call him Joe Forrester (NBC).

In the area of non-cop dramas, we find 10 new entries. Most of these are blatant copies of previous hits, with what passes as a new twist.

NBC has The Family Holvak, about a small town minister and his family, set in the '30s and '40s. It has Glenn Ford and Julie Harris and lots of warmth and human kindness. What it is, basically, is The Waltons with a new twist — pappa is a minister.

NBC is running two medical shows. One, Medical Story, is an anthology series about doctors and other medical creatures. It is Police Story, with a medical theme. The other is Doctors' Hospital, about a large metropolitan hospital. George Peppard, last seen in Banacok, has given up his gun for a stethoscope to star in this.

ABC has Swiss Family Robinson, with Martin Milner as the head of the stranded family. Every week they think maybe they'll be rescued. It's a straight-faced Gilligan's Island.

Also new from ABC is Barbary Coast, with William Shatner as a man who adopts many disguises as he battles evil in wide open old San Francisco. It is a semi-civilized Wild, Wild West.

CBS has Beacon Hill, and at least they admit this is an adaptation. It is taken from the big PBS hit, Upstairs, Downstairs, transferred to Boston in the 1920s.

CBS also has Kate McShane, with Anne Meara in the title role of a lawyer. It is Owen Marshall with skirts.

Again, from CBS, is Three For the Road, about a photographer (Alex Rocco) jaunting around the country with his two teen-age sons. It is Movin' On, with a few changes.

Comedy only new fare

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — About the only dramatic series that is trying a new area in the upcoming television season is NBC's The Invisible Man. But this, of course, comes from an old movie hit. David McCallum will play the scientist.

There are also nine new situation comedies on the three networks' schedules. Here, at last, we find a few with something new to offer. Perhaps the most exciting of all the new shows is When Things Were Rotten (ABC), which is Mel Brooks' crazy version of the Robin Hood legend.

Another comedy with promise is a new one from Jimmie Komack, who gave us Chico and the Man last season. This year, it's Welcome Back, Kotter (ABC), with Gabriel Kaplan as a teacher

One that might be different, if the network lets it alone, is Fay. This has Lee Grant as a divorcee, and the premise is for her to face reality. The problem is that it may be too real.

Ethnic humor continues to be big. Two new comedies focus on Italian-American humor. One is NBC's The Montefuscos, with Joe Sirola heading a large clan, full of love and wit. The other is CBS' Joe and Sons, which has Richard Castellano as an Italian-American father bringing up two teen-age sons alone.

Among the other comedies coming are Phyllis, which has Cloris Leachman playing the same character she has played on The Mary Tyler Moore Show (CBS); Doc, with Barnard Hughes as a veteran doctor practicing in a big city (CBS); and Big Eddie, with Sheldon Leonard and Sheree North as a gambler and his wife raising a small grandchild (CBS). Lastly, there is ABC's new comedy, On the Rocks. This is set in prison and it is based on an English prison series called Porridge. The men who did the English show, Dick Clement and Ian LaFrenais, have been imported to do the new U.S. version, too.

It is hard to imagine finding fun in stir, but it was hard to imagine finding fun in a POW camp and Hogan's Heroes managed it. But On the Rocks may have a tough time, if judged by this sample gag, taken from an early script.

PALIK: We're shorthanded backstage. We lost Capaldi today. He was working the wind machine.

FUENTES: What do we need a wind machine for? All you have to do is eat a double ration of those terrible beans

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me what has become of Red Skelton? — S.P. BALL, Bay Minette, Ala.

Skelton is pretty retired these days. He does very little but recently was on Johnny Carson's show.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why Snapper, on The Young and the Restless, wears a towel on his head when they show the etching of the charters. My granddaughter says it is his hair. I say it is a towel. — MRS. F. YACCARINO, Cordele, Ga.

William Grey Espy plays Snapper, and he hasn't worn a towel on his head in public in some years. That's his hair. One victory for your granddaughter.

DEAR DICK: I heard recently that The Young and the Restless was going off the air for Tattle Tales. Is this true? — JEAN TIPTON, Lucedale, Miss.

No, it's not true. There was just a time change, that's all, and The Young are still being Restless.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Betty White at anytime in her career ever played the part of the mother in any of the Lassie series. — THOMAS EARL, Millville, N.J.

No, she didn't. The Lassie mothers were, in order, Jan Clayton, Cloris Leachman and June Lockhart. And you may be able to pick up some bar bets on Cloris, but it's true — she played the part for 13 weeks. The story is that she was then interviewed and asked if she used the sponsor's canned soups and said, "Hell, no, I make my own," and that's when she lost the part.

DEAR DICK: I heard recently that Alan Alda of M*A*S*H had died from injuries received in a car wreck. True? — M. MCNEIL, Johnson City, Tenn.

False.

DEAR DICK: It is important that I learn the title of a rather old movie in which James Stewart played the part of a brilliant but eccentric scientist. And he discovered that a plane he was flying in was unsafe. — MRS. BASIL DENISON, Sutherlin, Ore.

That was "No Highway in the Sky," a '51 release.

DEAR DICK: My friend said Charlie Weaver had passed away. Is that true? — MRS. EARL SELDEN, Lamar, Colo.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Joe Flynn died? — MAXINE DINGEMAN, Richmond, Va.

Both those reports are true. Weaver and Flynn have both died.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know what ever happened to Ben Cartwright's oldest son on Bonanza. Pernell Roberts played Adam Cartwright. A friend of mine said he died, but I think he's still living. — ED CAIN, Ocala, Fla.

Bully for you. Roberts is still living. He quit Bonanza because he wanted to do better things and still acts as a guest star here and there.

DEAR DICK: Did they take off We'll Get By? If they did, why? I think it was a good show. — BRANTLEY S. BUSH, Mobile, Ala.

We'll Get By has gone bye-bye. They did 12 shows only and that was that. It wasn't a bad show, but certainly didn't set the ratings on fire.

Television notes

Jack Lemmon, starring in the TV version of "The Entertainer," asked Laurence Olivier for some tips on playing the part. Olivier originated the role of a seedy song-and-dance man on the stage and later played the movie version. Cliff De Young and Eileen Brennan star in "The Night the Martians Landed," the TV drama about Orson Welles' famous "War of the Worlds" radio broadcast.

Atheneum show explores video art

In the thirty years since World War II ended, television has affected the lives of people throughout the world as perhaps no other single medium has ever done. It was then inevitable that artists would begin to see television as an exciting new means for expressing their own creativity.

"Video Art," an exhibition which is the first comprehensive attempt to explore the artistic possibilities of television, will open at the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford on Sept. 17.

"Video Art" includes works by more than 80 artists. Among them are artists well-known for their work in other media, such as Andy Warhol, Robert Morris and Les Levine; others are known primarily for their video art—Nam June Paik and Peter Campus, for example.

Visitors will discover that their own participation is often an integral part of work, an involvement which is quite different from sitting in front of a home television set.

The Atheneum's Austin Gallery is being transformed into a maze of viewing rooms in order to present effectively the variety of works in the exhibition.

Three types of works are represented in "Video Art." Environments are created by the positioning of video hardware, the images transmitted, and the actions of viewers, who themselves are participants in the work. There are sculptures combining the same elements in a different format. Videotapes, the software of video art, will be shown continuously in two

Atheneum plans cinema history

As part of its Bicentennial program, the Wadsworth Atheneum of Hartford is planning a history of the American cinema, starting Oct. 1 and continuing through June 1976.

More than 150 films in several categories will be shown. The movies range from the earliest one-reelers to new films still in the making. Details will be announced soon.

London proms

LONDON (UPI) —The 81st season of the Henry Wood Promenade concerts continue through Sept. 20. A total of 23 orchestras, 14 choirs, 50 soloists and 40 conductors will take part in the session.

spaces designed expressly for this exhibition, including performance and conceptual art tapes, examples of early TV productions, and abstract tapes.

As visitors enter the Atheneum's Main St. lobby, they will move into the visual field of a TV camera and come face-to-face with six rainbow-colored video images of themselves. The images are transmitted through two vertical decks of monitors that form Les Levine's "Iris."

Video art has an immediacy emphasized by its brief history. Until the development of portable equipment and videotape in the last 10 years, few artists had access to the complicated and expensive machinery necessary to produce video work, operated almost exclusively by commercial TV networks and stations. The experimental pieces displayed in the "Video Art" exhibition foreshadow an era in which almost anyone will be able to produce his own TV show.
