Degree day expert. A native of East Hampton, Mr. Tracy found his first job in this area driving a truck to deliver coal for the American Coal Co. Soon after that the company shifted to the sale of fuel oil for household heating and brought Mr. Tracy into the office to manage the "degree day" program which told the company when a customer should be in need of more oil.

He is retired now and he and Mrs. Tracy, who wanted to live in "the country," bought land in Bolton after living in Manchester and built their home there. They have been there 20 years and the town has followed them out into the country so now they have neighbors all around.

Four little words stirring up executive-legislative hassle

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Four little words, apparently having to do with breaking foreign codes, have caused a confrontation between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

Dispute is over a committee decision to declassify four words of a former top secret intelligence report on why America's intelligence agencies failed to predict the outbreak of the October 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

Failure to decipher the new codes apparently was one reason the war caught U.S. officials by surprise.

Pike's committee, after probing the multi-million dollar budgets of some dozen U.S. intelligence branches, is now trying to find out their effectiveness and whether they are worth the taxpayers' money.

But an educated guess, from information available to reporters, was that they were part of a paragraph that reported notification of personnel in Egypt, increased readiness of isolated units, "and greater communication security."

Opinion
Will busing mean more white flight?

The future course of efforts to eliminate racial segregation in the public schools of America by means of busing may well be determined this fall. For the first time in the 21 years since the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its landmark decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, significant attempts to implement that decision in cities outside the deep South are being undertaken.

As events in Louisville have demonstrated, the strife that accompanied large-scale busing in Boston last year was not the North's first and last stand, as Little Rock was the South's in 1957.

Yet even if busing plans were to proceed smoothly in Detroit, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Dallas and other cities facing varying degrees of desegregation effort for the first time, the ultimate result could be only greater segregation in the form of accelerated white flight from the cities to the suburbs.

One who fears this eventually is University of Chicago sociologist James S. Coleman. His research shows that in those large cities that were undergoing some desegregation during 1968-73 there was considerably greater loss of children from the school systems than would be expected from the rate of loss of white children from non-desegregating systems.

The loss was especially great in a few cities undergoing significant desegregation. For example, Atlanta, whose segregation between 1970 and 1973 was reduced by almost half, lost 51 per cent of its white population. Memphis, where segregation was reduced by two-thirds, lost 47 per cent.

Civil rights activists don't quite know what to make of Coleman these days. As author of a study in 1966 that found that children from disadvantaged backgrounds did somewhat better in schools that were predominantly white than in schools that were all lower class, he gave them valuable programs. The courts in recent years, however, have gone beyond eliminating segregation due to state action and have tried to eliminate that action by individual action as well. "When courts do this—all the while ignoring the legitimate concerns of white parents—de facto segregation is simply reinstated another way. That is white flight."

A new chapter in Buckland story...

MANCHESTER WEEK IN REVIEW

A new chapter was made public this week in the Buckland area fire-service story with a report that Eighth District Councilman John LaBelle is to issue a legal opinion. Reportedly, LaBelle will declare that the petition from Buckland area property owners—requesting expansion of district lines into their area—is invalid.

On Friday, Mayor John Thompson said he's learned there's no way the question can be removed. He said he'll recommend to the Board of Directors in October that they specify, "if the voters approve the referendum question, the board should proceed with the project only if the original state funding is assured."

As expected, the Board of Directors rejected a state proposal for a commuter parking lot in Charter Oak Park. Its unanimous action followed a similar unanimous recommendation by the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission.

Both groups said recreation and traffic don't mix. Both urged state authorities, with town help, to find an alternate and acceptable location in the southern part of Manchester.

The board authorized sanitary sewers on about half of Linwood Dr., to service seven properties, but tabled action on levying assessments against 32 property owners in another area for sanitary sewers already installed.

The assessments are against properties on Erie St., Garden Grove Rd. and a portion of Keeney St. The tabling action is to consider a course of action, following an admission by Director of Public Works Jay Giles he had mistakenly promised some of the property owners their assessments would be deferred. It is board policy not to defer assessments.

Portugal's strange revolution

LISBON — Now that some measure of calm has settled over Portugal, we can take a perspective of the month's turbulence. Vasco Goncalves may prove the first Communist stalwart ousted from two important posts in succession in a European regime — first as prime minister, then as chief of staff.

This is a strange revolution. The more it changes, the more it remains the same. There were three principal sources for the pressure to oust Goncalves as prime minister. One was from the economy, which is reported to have a 10 per cent unemployment and a 30 per cent inflation rate.

But when one structure has dissolved, through a revolution, another has to take its place, whether by belief or propaganda or force. Otherwise the revolution finds that it has broken its back by vaulting the stream. Cutting across all the conflicts between competing power centers, there has been one fatal failure in the Portugal of the generals — the failure of discipline and authority.

This has been all the more ironic because what a military revolution is supposed to offer the people when a crypto-fascist regime is replaced — is the fact of discipline and the example of discipline. How could the troika directorate expect discipline from the people when the troika's own discipline was so lax?

Start of something big

When the opening kickoff leaves the kicking tee at 1:30 this afternoon at Memorial Field history will be made on the schoolboy football field as Manchester High hosts cross-town rival East Catholic High.

The meeting has been a long time in coming. Following today's opener for both schools, the traditional one-game per season meeting between the two schools will take place on Thanksgiving morning. Present plans call for the holiday attraction to be staged each year at Memorial Field.

No attendance records are expected to be set today but the crowd could well be around the 2,000 mark, which would be a vast improvement over opening game turnouts for both schools in the past.

Once the turkey day meetings start crowds of at least 5,000 have been projected for a scholastic football game at Memorial Field in 1965 when 7,500 attended the Manchester High - East Hartford cogfest.

Notes off the cuff

Jeff Geyer has won a berth with the UConn cross country squad as well as Rockville's Pat Brand, a freshman... Jim Ruchner, who pocketed $1,000 for winning the Manchester Golf Open a year ago, was in the $150 bracket this season along with four others in deadlocking for third place. Runner-up Don Bierkan won $600, $400 less than Wayne Levi received for winning...Manchester Community College starts its fall baseball program today against Housatonic on the road and comes home to Mt. Nebo Sunday to face Eastern Connecticut State College's Jayvees. Both dates will be twinnings...Individual game tickets for New England Whaler home games will go on sale Monday at the Civic Center box office. Ducks will also be available via Ticketron at Sears in Manchester...Final International League baseball statistics show Manchester's Tom Kelley won once and dropped seven pitching decisions with Richmond's sixth place Braves. Kelly worked 45 innings and wound up with a 3.03 earned run average...Werner Canace is among the returning lettermen with the Eastern Connecticut State College varsity soccer team this fall...Attendance for NFL pre-season exhibitions is way off and could be John Q. Public is tired of paying regular season prices to watch for the most part, rookies play...There are plenty of tickets left for Sunday's New York Jets-New England Patriot game at Yale Bowl which has a 1 o'clock starting time.

End of the line

Red Auerback, general manager of the Boston Celtics, made an interesting observation during a recent stop-over in Hartford. "A player must learn to rest on offense, he has to. But he can never relax on defense." When George Blanda gets into the Oakland Raider lineup on opening day in the NFL as a kicking specialist it will mark his 327 game, a record. The recently retired Jim Otto is a distant second in having played in the most NFL games with a total of 309. Earl Morrill has been in 228 games, Sonny Jurgensen 218, Lou Groza 216 and John Unitas 211...A football game's still a day off for me. I grew up picking cotton on my dad's farm in Excel, Ala., and nobody ever cotton on that your autograph or put your name in the paper for that." Dallas middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan explains...Have a nice weekend.

Fans resorting to black magic, but Birds, Sox rely on pitching

NEW YORK (UPI) While their fans are resorting to black magic, the Boston Red Sox and the Baltimore Orioles are putting their faith in more practical things — like good pitching.

Fans of both clubs are turning to witchcraft in order to bring their respective teams home in first place in the American League East, but both managers Darrell Johnson of the Red Sox and Earl Weaver of the Orioles realize it is pitching, not evil spells, that will decide the pennant race in the final two weeks of the season.

With the Red Sox rained out at home against Milwaukee Friday night, the Orioles seized the opportunity to pick up a half game on the division leaders by trimming the Detroit Tigers, 6-4.

Orioles," said Johnson, "and I'll put those two up against Baltimore anytime. You know what Luis can do when he's healthy, and the Orioles have had a terrible time against Pole this year."

Weaver, however, remains confident his club can overthrow the Red Sox. "We proved we're not quivering already," says Weaver. "It's going right down to the wire. We're going to Boston and bust our families trying to win. Still, we need some help."

Johnny Walker, a Baltimore area disc jockey, thinks he can provide Weaver with the help he needs. Walker has gone to Nairobi, Kenya, to enlist the services of a witch doctor whom he wants to cast an evil spell on the Red Sox. Walker took an autographed baseball and some team pictures to the witch doctor, purportedly to adopt in hexing soccer teams.

Not to be outdone, a Red Sox fan has enlisted the services of Laurie Cabot, a well-known "witch" from Salem, Mass., to neutralize any curse that might be put on the Red Sox. In other AL action, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from California 10-9 and 7-2, Oakland beat Minnesota 11-4 then lost 7-6 and Chicago nipped Texas 5-2. Cleveland at New York also was rained out. Royals 10-7, Angels 2-2. White Sox 5, Rangers 2. Jorge Orta drove in four runs with a single and a homer to spark the White Sox' victory over the Rangers. Rich Gossage posted his 25th save as he protected Rich Hinton's first victory of the year.

Moose gives lift to Pirates' staff

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are a half-step closer to the National League East pennant today thanks to a man who didn't think he would ever pitch again a year ago...

The man is Bob Moose, the same Bob Moose of no-hit fame in 1969 and wild-pitch infamy in the 1972 playoffs versus the Cincinnati Reds.

Since uncorking the disastrous wild pitch that allowed Cincinnati's George Foster to score the winning run in ninth inning of the final game of 1972 playoffs, Moose has come upon even harder times. Last May, for instance, he didn't even think he'd ever pitch again after undergoing surgery for the removal of a part of a rib due to a blood clot forming in a vein.

Then in spring training, after eight seasons with the Pirates, Moose was sent down to Charleston of the International League where he performed without much success.

Nevertheless, the 28-year-old right-hander was back on the mound for Pittsburgh Friday night and judging by his 7-3 innings of shutout relief in the Pirates' 6-3 win over the Montreal Expos, he may be all the way back.

"They told me I'd probably never pitch again after the surgery in May of '74," Moose said after giving up only four singles to gain his first victory since April 14, 1974.

"I didn't pitch well in 1974," he said. "I was just one of those things you have to live with," he said. "After all, I might never even have come back to the majors."

Dave Parker's three-run fifth inning homer wiped out a 3-2 Expo lead and supplied Moose with the runs he needed. The victory also enabled the Pirates to gain a half-game on the idle Philadelphia Phillies in the NL East race.

Fitzsimons leader at halfway point

PINEHURST, N. C. (UPI) — Pat Fitzsimons started the 1975 season with a determination to improve his game or leave the professional golf tour.

Nine months later he has banked almost $75,000 and is halfway home in a bid for a second victory.

"I decided I was going to make the top 60 (money list) or quit the tour," the curly-haired Oregon resident told reporters. "I was going to play every week until I made the top 60."

But that goal was quickly realized after a $30,000 first prize in the Los Angeles Open. He was one stroke lead going into the third round of the World Open golf tournament which pays $40,000 to the victor.

"I really don't make too many goals now," said Fitzsimons. "Life's a lot more fun if you do your best and see what happens."

His 69 Friday over the greening Pinehurst No. 2 course gave him a one-day total 136, six strokes better than par and a one-stroke margin over rookie Howard Twitty and veteran Rod Fung.

The wind was tricky and they've got some tough pin placements," said Weiskopf. Jack Nicklaus, who says Pinehurst No. 2 is one of his favorite courses, had a 71 Friday for a two day total 141. He agreed with Weiskopf about the difficult pin placements.

Indian backs ready to roll

Calling the signals for Manchester High this afternoon against East Catholic will be quarterback Wayne Ostrout with ball. His running mates will be, left to right, Mark Kiefer, Jason Dodge and Jeff Joy.

Trijeans' coach John McKay, while especially pleased with Bell's performance, refused to compare him with other USC tailbacks such as O.J. Simpson, Mike Garrett and Davis.

"I wouldn't compare this guy with those fellows because they did it over seasons, and I've only done it for one game," McKay said.

Bell carried the ball 45 times and gained 299 yards last week while Davis, now a star in the World Football League, carried 121 times for 1,000 yards rushing for the third straight week.

With Bell running over and around the blue USC outguards his opponents 481-307 in total yardage while posting his 21st consecutive victory at Los Angeles Coliseum.

In the only other Friday night game, Texas-Arlington, paced by Ed Favore in action, the Sooners, who return a strong nucleus from last year's goal area and Stimac lifted it over a reaching Fermi netminder for the second tally. Ballard played well in the fullback slot and sophomore Bob Gagnon gave the defense a lift on several occasions. Brian Boggs in his first start in goal registered the shutout.

USC unveils newest hero

NEW YORK (UPI) — It took Southern California only one game to find the answer to its biggest question for the 1975 college football season.

The Trojans, concerned about who would replace the graduated All-America Anthony Davis at the key position of fullback, don't have to worry about that any longer.

Ricky Bell, a 6-foot-2, 215-pound junior who played in Davis' shadow last year, ran better than any previous tailback in USC history Friday night when he rushed for a school record 256 yards and scored four touchdowns while leading the defending UPI national champion Trojans to a 35-7 rout of Duke in the season opener for both schools.

Bell, recruited as a fullback and more of a power runner than his predecessors, gained 141 yards in the first 30 minutes of play and his TDs came on runs of eight, six and one yard. In the true tradition of USC tailbacks, Bell hugged the ball carrier between third-ranked Ohio State and 12th-ranked Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., and fifth-ranked Michigan and 16th-ranked Wisconsin at Madison, Wis.

Ohio State, which returns freshman Trophy winner Archie Griffin from a club that won the Big Ten championship a year ago, suffered its only regular season loss to Michigan State last season, and the Spartans have beaten the Buckeyes in three of their last four meetings.

"This is like Christmas for us," said Spartans coach Don Dryden. "We're really like kids. We've been waiting all year for it and it's almost here."

Michigan State, which went 7-1 a year ago, is considered an outside choice to win the Big Ten championship. The Spartans return a number of starters from last year's club, including quarterback Charlie Baggitt.

With Bell running over and around the blue USC outguards his opponents 481-307 in total yardage while posting his 21st consecutive victory at Los Angeles Coliseum.

Manchester added an insurance marker at 12:10. Senior Captain Bruce Ballard cleared a Fermi clearing shot back into the goal area and Stimac lifted it over a reaching Fermi netminder for the second tally.

Catholic's offensive backs

so, Back row, Mike Furlong, Frank Carper, Cephus Nolen, Kieckoff. Against Manchester will be at 1:30 at Memorial Field.

Carpenter's goal wins for Cheney

With Kevin Carpenter scoring his second goal of the game at the 2:55 mark in the first overtime session, Cheney Tech ended its 1975 soccer season with a 3-2 decision over Cromwell High at the Beavers' field.

Freshman Lewis LaBrec got the Techmen on the scoreboard first at the 8:00 minute mark of the first period, chipping a 25-yard home over the Cromwell goalie's head after the latter came out to make an initial stop.

The visiting Panthers edged ahead with Skip Agnew scoring in the second period and Nick Incerati at the 11:00 minute mark of the fourth quarter.

The Beavers weren't to be denied, however, and Carpenter knotted it two minutes later.

In the first extra period, freshman John Dziato hit the crossbar for the Beavers but moments later Carpenter gathered in a cross from sophomore Peter Krawitz and sent home the winning tally.

"We played pretty well considering the conditions," Cheney Coach Manny Gonçalves stated. "The forward line did a pretty good job. They pass the ball around which hasn't been the case the last two years. I also thought (freshman) Ben Hennigan did a good job."

The Beavers' next tilt is Tuesday against St. Thomas Seminary in Bloomfield.

Pro football roundup

NEW YORK (UPI) — The starting quarterback job of the Washington Redskins was up for grabs at the start of the 1975 pre-season campaign — all he had to do was complete a few passes, direct a few scoring drives and clap his hands along the sidelines when the defense was on the field.

Cowach George Allen talked fan favorite Sonny Jurgensen into retiring and that left only Billy Kilmer and a vagabond Randy Johnson for Theisman to be kept out.

Kilmer even got a late start in training camp and, at 35, those late starts begin to take their toll. Johnson had never won anything in eight previous seasons, leaving the starting job at Kilmer's disposal. Allen still feels Theisman is the best quarterback for the future, though he has yet to prove he can direct an NFL team. Theisman is a long way from Sam's where he served his pro apprenticeship.

Kilmer hit rookie Frank Grant with an 84-yard touchdown pass to give him an 8-3 tie and ignite a 17-point second quarter by the Redskins.

Harriers open with triumph

Taking four of the top six places, the Manchester High cross country team opened the 1975 campaign with a 25-31 victory over Hartford Public yesterday in a steady downpour at the Indians' course.

Indian senior Bruce Bayles and sophomore Matt Schmidt, each in their initial varsity outings, placed fifth and sixth respectively. Sophomore Joe Grzymkowski ran well and took 10th place.

Manchester's next meet is Tuesday against cross-town East Catholic and Rockville High at Wickham Park.

Stamps and coins

By Russ MacKendrick

The seals of the 13 original colonies are offered struck in 23-carat gold by the island freehold of Staffa. The next to the last in the top row here is our Connecticut "sigillum."

Staffa is not a household word except for spelunkers. This place, off the west coast of Scotland, has several named caves (Clam-shell, Herdsman, Cormorant). The most famous is called Fingal's. It can be reached only by the sea. You can take a boat in there and see giant basalt pillars like the Giants' Causeway in Ireland. The name, Staffa, is Norse for columns.

These golden stamps must be beautiful ($20 each), but how this windswept island of 71 acres got into the act has not been revealed to us.

So much for Colony seals — the flags of the 50 states will be easier to get as the USPS has announced a sheet that will have them all in living color.

This seems great, but now we hear that the American Philatelic Society's Watchdog Committee has decided to clobber this issue with one of their dreaded (?) Black Blots. This means that it is to be described in their journal in a column headed by a Roschach design that could be taken for an ameba or a wet turkey. They hit it on their Point 2: "An excessively extended issue. They feel that it would make it tough for anyone aspiring to a complete collection, as he would have to hold all 50 stamps.

Previous disapprovals have been expressed against the UPU set of 8 and the Postal People (10). And another blot goes to an upcoming sheet with the Declaration of Independence spread all over it to be cut up into pieces when the stamps are used. That one does seem to be a bit weird, but the 50-flag set would be timely, informative, and interesting.

'You tell us'

"Stamps" magazine always has a calendar of coming auctions just inside the front cover with some highlights further on. The sale by Robert A. Siegel in NYC on the 10th was to have a United States revenue known as the "Large Persian Rug." It is Scott number R133, the $500 one in the 1871 second issue.

We are all agog to hear what it brought because nobody seems to know how to price it. Harris doesn't even offer a copy, and Scott shows it in pussyfooting italics at $3,250, meaning "You tell us."

Shows everywhere

BERMUPEX 1975, the first international stamp exhibition to be held in Bermuda, will be going on Nov. 28 to 30 — so if you were planning a trip there anyway...

A real binge would be the AAA tour to Vienna Nov. 25 through December 3rd. This would include the Vienna Exhibition, Austrian Postal Museum, the UPU offices at Berne, and the Postal Museum and PO at Vaduz.

Coming down to earth — On the 28th of this month — PLAIN-PEX at Plainville. They will have 25 dealers and a CPS meeting (at the High School on Walnut St.).

And the Second Sunday Stamp Show will be at the Meriden Holiday Inn tomorrow. This time Arlene and John Dunn will have the Canadian Philatelic Agency with a full line of stamps, corner blocks, postal stationery, and souvenir collections. Besides this currently available material, they will offer some Olympic stamps that have been withdrawn from sale in Canada. Also on hand will be the USPS and dealers from seven states. Free: Parking, admission, door prizes, and literature.

Rabbi Wind reads from the Torah (The Law — The Five Books of Moses). Photo by Steve Dunn.

After 30 years in Manchester

By SOL R. COHEN

Jews the world over are observing their High Holy Days this week and, here in Manchester, it's important and it's appropriate to note that Rabbi Leon Wind this week is observing his 30th anniversary at Temple Beth Shalom.

It's important and appropriate for the record, for future historians to write about, and for three generations of Manchester Jews to be thoughtful about. Last month marked 30 years at one stand for the dean of local clergymen.

Thirty years is a long time for a spiritual leader, teacher and confidant. For Rabbi Wind, who has been friends here with clergymen of all denominations and who remained friends with them even after they left Manchester, it's just another anniversary. He shows no signs of slowing down or of losing touch.

Temple Beth Shalom, as it observes the year 5736 in the Hebrew calendar, is observing an anniversary of its own this week, for it's 35 years since the old temple (now the Senior Citizens Center) was founded, built and constructed.

The two anniversaries are fitting and analogous, for Rabbi Wind is, in effect, Temple Beth Shalom and Temple Beth Shalom is, indeed, Rabbi Wind.

They can't be separated, nor should they be. His guidance, his influence, his persuasion, his love is everywhere.

It's common knowledge

among Jews in Manchester and Connecticut and among the teachers and leaders of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, whose task it is to keep track of such things, that Rabbi Wind has had many attractive offers over the years to leave Manchester.

Why hasn't he?

His explanation, when we asked him the question in 1970, on the occasion of his 25th anniversary, speaks for itself.

In fact, it's all the explanation we need of his life's work and of his accomplishments in Manchester.

"Basically," said Rabbi Wind, "because I became part and parcel of the community and because I saw that the need for building up Jewish life was important here as elsewhere."

"I felt that it was my duty to help a very robust and growing community — a community of dedicated people with broad vision. Sure, I've had many opportunities. But, the opportunity also was here, and here is where I felt it my duty to be."

"My greatest satisfaction as a rabbi has been working with youth and seeing them apply the teachings of their faith to those issues and those problems facing them as they entered adulthood."

Nobody could have said it better.

Congratulations, Rabbi Wind and, congratulations, Temple Beth Shalom.

Some Kind of Hero, by James Kirkwood. (T.Y. Crowell, $8.95)
With the war in Vietnam behind us as an American battleground, the timing seems right for a novel delineating the effect of the conflict on some of its participants.

Here is a fine, slashing story about the damages wreaked on one soldier whose life was blighted more than most, which makes the novel lose credibility. Still, exaggeration is the meat and potatoes of fiction.

The hero, Eddie Keller, comes home after five years in a Viet Cong prison camp to the artificial hoopla that characterized the public return of the POWs.

Keller's wife and child are living with another man. His mother is ill and the medical bills are mounting. The final blow comes when the army delays his back pay. It seems that while a POW he went along with some Viet Cong propaganda. The publically acclaimed hero has been tainted.

The author handles with careful taste the sexual feeling that Keller has developed for his POW cellmate. Now a civilian, Keller's reactions to problems are colored by this relationship.

Then comes the twist. The desperate Keller turns to crime. And he makes an expert thief. He is elated, and his problems are less difficult to handle. His criminal adventures lead to a rousing climax that, considering the sympathy the reader feels for Keller, is excruciating.

The material is handled beautifully. This is a powerful book, replete with wit and drama.

The Big Apple keeps dancing

By GLENNE CURRIE

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York ended the summer the way it began: dancing, dancing, dancing.

It may have been the recession that pushed escape-seeking crowds to the free New York Dance Festival in Central Park or to the Contemporary Ballet Co. in the bowels of City Center. But every performance was an enthusiastic sell-out.

Here's a look at some of the rewards — and some of the punishments — provided by the 30-odd companies and individuals in the 11th annual dance festival at the open-air Delacorte Theater, under the auspices of Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival.

There was something for every taste: Patricia McBride; Christine Sarry and the Eliot Feld Ballet; the Cincinnati and San Francisco Ballets; the Louis Johnson, Kathryn Posin, Chuck Davis, Erick Hawkins, Murray Louis and Sophie Maslow companies; Chiang Ching; and the drag Ballet Trockadero de Monte Carlo.

Also-rans in the first two programs included: Erick Hawkins' epicene salute to the cache-sexe entitled "Greek Dreams, With Flute;" Annabelle Gamson's imitation of Isadora Duncan; Jeff Duncan's 12-year-old mime of "Winesburg, Ohio," which is only about one per cent dance; and the Cincinnati Ballet's inexplicable resurrection of the late Lester Horton's interminable 22-year-old "Face of Violence (Salome)."

To compensate there was Eliot Feld's pas de six, "Intermezzo," magnificently danced by Miss Sarry and her companions. This is surely a benchmark for small ballet companies. Kathryn Posin's "Waves," apparently partly a cooperative effort by a handsome young company of four girls and three boys, was equally successful, though its stylized recreation of waves and swimming is poles apart from Feld's classicism.

Art Baumann's eight-year-old "Dialog," an ingenious one-man depiction of Madison Avenue neurosis, part danced, part filmed, to a fine score by Michael Czajkowski, was a high point of the second program.

It was topped only by Louis Johnson's "When Malindy Sings," a dance tribute by an outstanding black company to poet Paul Lawrence Dunbar and to five black woman singers, from Aretha Franklin through Leontyne Price. Each of the five sections of "When Malindy Sings" is introduced by an extract from the poem, and has a woman soloist interpreting the singer, backed by five male dancers.

Johnson's firm grasp of different jazz-based dance styles, though open to criticism as slick Broadway-chorus, has a theatricality which some find preferable to the ethnocentric Alvin Ailey company, for which Johnson has mounted some works.

Final item on the program was the "Corsair" pas de deux by Patricia McBride and her husband, Jean-Pierre Bonnefus. The Delacorte stage is not the best for adagio, but Miss McBride almost triumphed. Her partner was overweight and earthbound.
