Gifts to hospital total $22,200

VERNON — Gifts, with a total value of $22,200, have been donated to Rockville General Hospital this year by the hospital's auxiliary.

In a final report to her executive board, Mrs. Ann Rowe, president of the auxiliary, said the auxiliary donated two bed cardiac monitors for the Intensive Care Unit, valued at $9,000; an internal blood pressure monitoring device, $4,000; a Bennett MA 1 volume ventilator, $5,200; and an operating room light, $4,000.

The money for the gifts was raised through projects planned by the Ways and Means Committee and through the sale of gift items in the Auxiliary Gift Shop at the hospital.

During Mrs. Rowe's year as president, a committee was established to set up a scholarship fund through which the auxiliary will award scholarships of $500 to a graduating senior from each of the three area high schools, Rockville, Tolland, and Ellington. The money will go toward their education in the health-care field.

Also during the year the auxiliary presented a new wheel chair for use in the emergency room. This was donated in memory of Laura Phelps. It also donated a sewing machine for use in the hospital's sewing room, in memory of Leila Griffin and in honor of Miss Marietta Fitch's 100th birthday. A Jobst extremity pump was donated for use in the physical therapy department. Miss Fitch is the auxiliary's oldest living charter member.

The auxiliary will have its annual meeting and election of officers, Oct. 8 in the hospital cafeteria starting at 6:30 p.m. The business meeting and election of officers will precede a buffet dinner which will be served at 8 p.m.

On Nov. 13, from 2 to 4 p.m., an awards tea will be conducted in the hospital cafeteria to honor all in-hospital volunteers. Volunteers are always needed. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Peggy Zowada, director of volunteers, at the hospital.

Eloise brings rains, floods to Northeast

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Tropical storm Eloise, a weakening mass of strong winds and heavy rain, pushed far inland today, leaving a trail of wreckage and shattered buildings along the Florida Panhandle.

Eloise, downgraded from a hurricane as it rolled into Tennessee, West Virginia and Pennsylvania early today, brought heavy rain and flash flood alerts to much of the Northeast.

Along the Florida coast, many of the 100,000 residents who fled the 140-mile-an-hour storm Tuesday came back to pick up their lives.

"Has anybody seen the rest of my trailer?" one man asked Tuesday as he walked into the Kentucky Tavern west of Panama City, Fla.

No one had.

Panama City Beach, Fort Walton Beach and Destin took the brunt of Eloise, a rejuvenated hurricane that killed 42 persons in Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Cuba.

There were no reports along the coast of death or serious injury directly attributed to the storm. Henry Passinger, 73, of Point Clear, Ala., was electrocuted while trying to store his boat Monday and a Fort Walton Beach man died of a heart attack in a shelter.

But the signs of damage were everywhere.

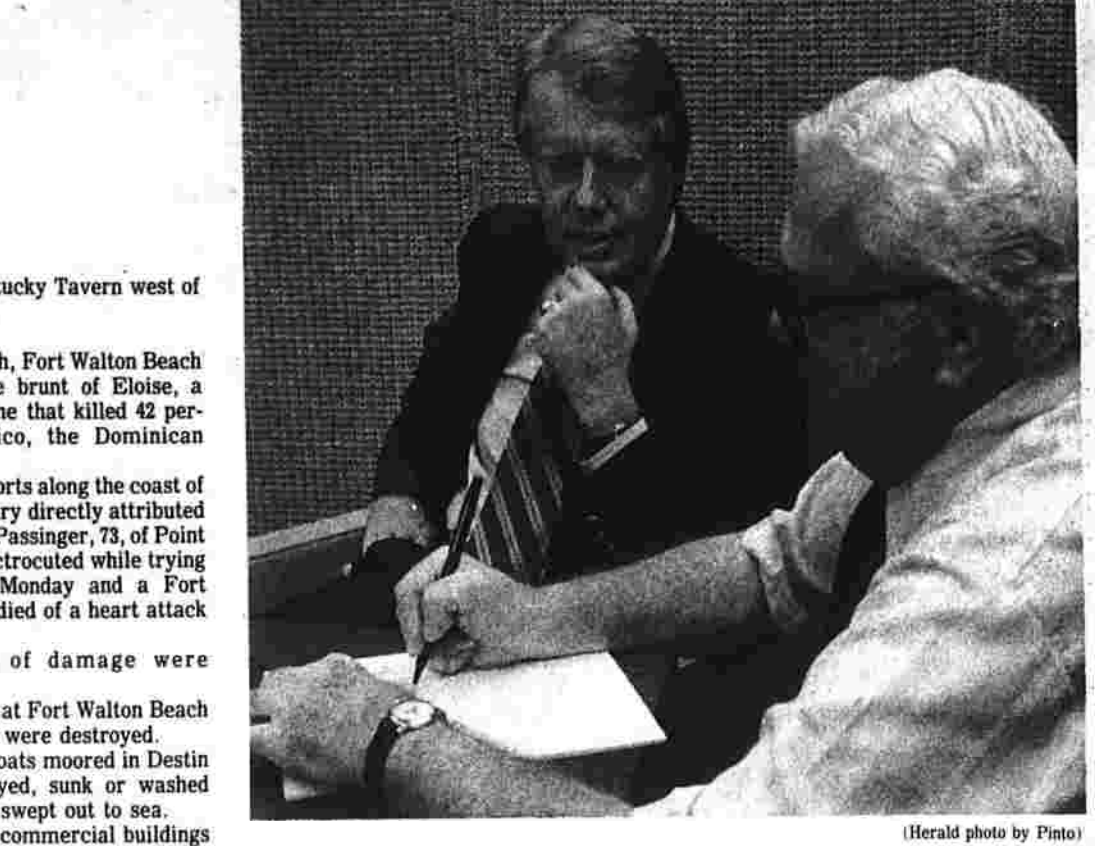

— Some 19 planes at Fort Walton Beach and Destin airports were destroyed.

— More than 30 boats moored in Destin were either destroyed, sunk or washed ashore. Piers were swept out to sea.

— More than 200 commercial buildings were unroofed in Fort Walton Beach.

— A sea wall collapsed at Panama City Beach, severely damaging two motels owned by W.A. Hill. "I don't know where I'm going to be able to start from or when I'll be able to rebuild," he said.

Mayor Dan Russell of Panama City Beach estimated damage in Bay County alone at $50 million.

Omnibus energy bill enacted by House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After months of wrangling, the House has passed an omnibus bill which Democrats say is the answer to President Ford's energy program. It calls for stiff controls on oil prices and an end to gas-guzzling autos.

But Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, called it "a veto bait ... an exercise in futility."

The energy bill, approved 255-148, is sure to be vetoed if it reaches Ford's desk without wholesale changes, Brown said.

The Senate has passed a widely differing version, and a compromise must be worked out in conference committee if neither house accepts the other's bill.

Final House action on the measure Tuesday was almost anticlimactic after the often emotional debate since the bill first came up July 18.

With fewer than 50 members on the floor, an amendment was approved by the voice vote to save fuel by barring the busing of school children beyond their neighborhood schools. Liberals got a roll call vote on that section later, but it still carried, 204-201, although several members decided to switch sides at the last minute.

The bill's major provision is for price controls — ceilings of $5.25 per barrel on "old oil," based on a 1972 production rate; $7.50 on "new oil," and a $10 price for oil from deep or distant wells that are particularly expensive to produce.

President Ford wants to phase out domestic price controls over approximately three years.

The legislation also would force car makers — under penalty of fines — to produce 1976 models averaging 18.5 miles per gallon of gas and manufacture even more economical cars in succeeding years.

Gasoline rationing would be allowed in emergencies, a billion-barrel civilian stockpile of fuels would be set up, and appliances would have to meet energy efficiency standards.

Democratic hopeful visits Herald

To former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, a Democratic presidential hopeful, assassination attempts are a fact of political life. However, said Carter in a visit today to The Manchester Herald, if he were in President Ford's shoes, he'd spend more time in Washington minding the store. Shown here with Herald political writer Sol R. Cohen, Carter averages six days a week campaigning and already has visited 43 states since he left the governor's office in January. He told Cohen he opposes the prohibition of citizens to own guns, favors the registration of handguns and is for prohibiting ownership of guns by people who have been involved in any sort of a crime using a weapon. Carter spent a whirlwind eight hours in Connecticut, stopping in Vernon and Hartford, in addition to Manchester — where he formally opened Jimmy Carter for President Headquarters at 164 E. Center St.

Agostinelli credits GOP for low debt-service cost

Republican Town Chairman Nathan Agostinelli is attributing Manchester's favorable debt-service cost — the lowest in the state — to "the far-sightedness of dedicated Republicans of the past and present and their pay-as-you-go policy."

The town announced last week its debt-service cost is 3.3 per cent and that the state average is 10.5 per cent. The information was contained in a 32-page prospectus prepared for potential bidders on town bond issues.

Said Agostinelli, "I would like to publicly thank former Republican Mayor Harold Turkington, Harlan Taylor, Francis DellaPera and the many dedicated Republicans who fought, sometimes against overwhelming odds, for a pay-as-you-go system — a Republican principle."

"Many of us," concluded Agostinelli, "remember all too well the almost violent opposition by the Democratic Party, and its call for more and more bonding, which appears to be a Democratic principle."

Directors to discuss leaf-pickup program

Continuation of Manchester's leaf-pickup program rests with the Board of Directors and will be discussed and considered Oct. 7, Mayor John Thompson said today. He said he is placing the item on the board's agenda, at the request of Director Matt Storty Jr.

Thompson said that very little additional money is involved and that the major expense of the program is for manpower — already available in the highway department.

He said the directors have two choices — to utilize services of the workers for leaf-pickup for the six weeks of the program, or to utilize their services for townwide maintenance work, such as cleaning storm drains, filling potholes, etc.

Thompson said he's not taking a position at present but will have one after he reads a report being prepared by Highway Superintendent John Burchell.

He said he, too, has been receiving calls from concerned property owners, mostly elderly. He said he doesn't believe the ban against burning leaves can be lifted, based on statutory restrictions.

Referendum removal issue pushed by Vivian Ferguson

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Republican Director Vivian Ferguson has taken issue with Mayor John Thompson over his statement last week concerning a referendum question on the Nov. 4 voting machines.

Thompson said he's been informed by Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel it's too late to remove the question from the machines.

The question proposes "An appropriation of $2,373,000 for additions and renovations to Bentley School and Washington School and replacement of the West Side Recreation Building." The voters are to place an X in the "Yes" or "No" box.

Thompson said, because the question can't be removed and because there's no certainty of state grants next year for school construction, he'll ask the directors for an amended resolution at their next meeting. The resolution is to state that, in the event the question carries, construction won't commence unless a state grant is forthcoming.

Mrs. Ferguson said she doesn't agree that it's too late to remove the question from the voting machines.

She said she checked with the Elections Division in the secretary of the state's office and was told the state has no authority to prevent removal of a question or name from voting machines.

She said she was told the authority rests with the municipality, based on its own regulations.

Manchester's charter, said Mrs. Ferguson, doesn't spell out any action for removing a question or name.

Consequently, she has asked Town Counsel William Bronelli for "a legal opinion as to the special regulation applying to the referendum question to appear on the ballot in the coming town election on Nov. 4, 1975."

"I wish to know whether a special time limit is involved for the removal of any referendum questions."

An opinion from Bronelli is expected in time for the board's Oct. 7 meeting.

Patty Hearst alleges captors terrorized her into insanity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patty Hearst says she was so terrorized by her captors that she was slipping into insanity and brainwashed to the point that her criminal actions during the past one and one-half years were beyond her control.

An affidavit signed by Miss Hearst and submitted in federal court Tuesday said the brutalization led to a fantasy that her parents had abandoned her, the police would shoot her on sight and if she tried to run away her abductors would kill her.

Defense lawyers turned the document over to U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to back their motion that she be released on bail so she could be examined by doctors chosen by the Hearsts.

Carter refused to let her out of jail. He continued her bail hearing until next Tuesday.

The judge ordered she be examined "forthwith" by three court-appointed psychiatrists. He said she was still considered a "high risk." "Just because a person is mentally incompetent, you shouldn't allow them to wander down the street," he said.

The "insanity" approach not only was the basis of the defense plea for her release on bond, it also may be the rationale when she is brought to trial on 22 felony counts including kidnapping, bank robbery and assault with a deadly weapon.

Defense lawyer Vincent Hallinan said she was still "right on the verge of tipping one way or another" in terms of sanity.

During the entire time she was in captivity she was insane, he told reporters outside the courtroom.

"Any jury would acquit her in a minute," he said.

Patty's affidavit was couched in the third person. It was not clear to whom she had told her detailed story of torture, death threats, inferred drugging and fear the world was dissolving into "fantastic shapes and images."

The affidavit was in contrast to a tape recording made of a conversation between Patty and a friend, Patricia Tobin, who visited Miss Hearst Saturday in the San Mateo jail in Redwood City.

The tape was produced Tuesday at a hearing for Steven Solari, the house painter who rented the apartment, which Patty and Wendy Yoshimura were captured last Thursday.

There was this interchange: Tobin — "Who is he (Solari)? Is he the guy you rented the house from?"

Patty (giggling) — "No, I lived with him. I finally got to see him up in the jail. You know I got to kiss him. And then I had to leave to see about my bail. I really wonder if I can help with his $75,000 bail. He can't possibly come up with it."

Ford to speak in Hartford at Oct. 14 GOP fundraiser

HARTFORD (UPI) — President Ford will speak at a Republican fund-raising event in Hartford Oct. 14. He faces security problems posed by the threats on his life, GOP State Chairman Fred Biebel says.

Biebel said Tuesday he expects security to be intensified because of the two attempts on the President's life in California. Biebel said the President has indicated he wants to continue to meet the public despite the danger he faces.

"We are all apprehensive about some person who might do harm to the President. But it doesn't mean we should close the country," he said. "We can't let it stand in the way of a presidential visit."

The President indicated his desire to get out among the people and said he doesn't want to be a captive of the White House," Biebel said. "I would like to get as many people as possible in to see the President but it depends on security."

The chairman said the White House confirmed the appearance earlier in the day.

Biebel said several formats are being considered, including a dinner with graduated prices possibly as low as $5 a person for a box lunch, or a $5 seat at Hartford's Civic Center to hear him speak.

Biebel said the nature of the fund-raiser will depend on what the Secret Service approves because of security considerations.

The Republican State Central Committee met Tuesday night in Riverton to discuss the various options for the event, contingent on required security measures.

Biebel said he has not decided whether the Republican party should take a stand on the question of tighter gun controls because of the attempts on the President's life, but he is considering it.

The President's visit would be the second since he took office a little more than a year ago. Last April, he spoke at the Yale Law School for its sesquicentennial celebration.

Shortly after becoming vice president, Ford attended a fund-raising dinner in Danbury.

Assassination try sparks new debate on gun controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The crack of gunfire has once again ignited congressional debate over tougher gun control laws.

The administration is sticking fast to its proposal to outlaw only the small, cheap handguns commonly known as "Saturday night specials." Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was more forceful in his call for legislation to require licensing and registration of handguns and their owners.

Others call for a total ban on the ownership of handguns by anyone except the police. The attempt on Ford's life Monday in San Francisco started new calls for action on stringent handgun control proposals which have long been bogged down in Senate and House committees.

The National Rifle Association, which has strongly opposed any laws limiting gun ownership, called it a "tidal wave of hysterical outcries for additional gun controls."

Kennedy, whose brother Robert's assassination in 1968 led to enactment of a gun control law, asked, "Must we suffer a serious national tragedy again, before we redeem our pledge of leadership?"

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime, introduced a bill to make it illegal for anyone - except law enforcement personnel - to own or possess a handgun and to carry concealed weapons of up to five years in prison.

The 1968 law bans the importation of Saturday night specials, but a loophole allows their parts to be imported and reassembled.

A bill by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., would plug that loophole and ban the manufacture and sale of small handguns in this country. It passed the Senate in 1972 but was never acted on by the House.

The administration bill, almost identical to Bayh's, would also require a more thorough check by gun dealers to determine if purchasers have a police record, plus tougher licensing requirements for dealers.

Funds from the sale will be used to help support handicapped and underprivileged children in the community.

Episcopal bishops censured

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) - The three Episcopal bishops who ordained 11 women priests in Philadelphia last year were censured Tuesday by an overwhelming majority of the Episcopal House of Bishops.

The same resolution decided, but did not censure, the action of a bishop who ordained four other women priests in Washington, D.C. It was followed by a resolution es-ablishing a committee to consider what steps should be taken if the General Convention either approves or rejects the ordination of women next year.

The roll call vote was 115-17 to censure the Philadelphia priests; Bishop Robert L. DeWitt, former bishop of Pennsylvania; Bishop Daniel Corrigan, retired bishop of Colorado; and Bishop Edward R. Welles, retired bishop of western Missouri. DeWitt and Welles were present at the session. Practical meaning of the censure, plus that of each individual bishop, was uncertain.

Davis explained that bishops in the dioceses in which the censored priests serve may decide whether to bar them from any or all participation in religious services.

The resolution also "decided" the action of Bishop George W. Barrett, former bishop of Rochester, N.Y., in the ordination of four women in Washington, D.C., Sept. 7.

The House decided against a censure of Barrett since his case might prejudice his case if charges were brought against him. Charges were filed against the three bishops involved in the Philadelphia ordination but were never finalized because of doctrinal questions.

A resolution decrying the Philadelphia ordinations had been made at the House of Bishops meeting in Chicago last year. Opponents of the resolution felt the Chicago statement was sufficient.

Mrs. Schaffer backs consumer agency bill

MYSTIC (UPI) - Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer has endorsed a proposed federal consumer protection agency, saying the nation's regulatory agencies are too close to the industries they regulate.

In another of her many recent public appearances, apparently aimed at a Senate bid next year, Mrs. Schaffer said the consumer agency would be an important first step in correcting the regulatory system.

She has said she is interested, but has made no official announcement, in the Democratic nomination to run against Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., in 1976.

"A major fault of the nation's regulatory agencies is that many of the regulators themselves are too closely allied with the industries they seek to regulate," Mrs. Schaffer told a Women's Club New England conference.

"While a general reform and reorientation of the nation's regulatory system is essential, it is a long-term proposition," she said. "Passage of the Agency for Consumer Advocacy will be an important first step in correcting the present imbalance of the regulatory system."

Earlier Tuesday, in a speech to the West Hartford YMCA, Mrs. Schaffer said more home health programs for the elderly would take a great burden off the nation's Medicare and Medicaid programs.

Police probe bus crash

WINDSOR (UPI) - Police today were examining a school bus which overturned on a rain-slicked road, causing minor injuries to the driver and 23 Hartford children being bused to a suburban school.

One student involved in the accident Tuesday suffered a broken collarbone. Police said they wanted to establish whether mechanical failure or human error caused the accident.

The front wheels of the bus apparently locked and caused it to tip about 6 a.m. as the driver applied his brakes in heavy traffic on the Blue Hills Avenue extension, police said.

The students were participating in Project Concern, a voluntary program in which inner-city students are sent to suburban schools. The bus was headed for schools in Simsbury when the mishap occurred, police said.

Emperor blasted in new history of Japan

By TEIJI SHIMIZU TOKYO (UPI) - Yoshio Kodama, the shadowy spiritual leader of Japan's right-wing movement, thinks Emperor Hirohito should have abdicated the Chrysanthemum throne at the end of World War II.

His feelings, quoted at length in an interview in a new best-selling postwar history of Japan, have come as a surprise to many right-wingers, ardent supporters of the imperial family.

"I have really been bitter against the emperor since the end of the war (for not publicly declaring) that 'I was responsible for this war'" says Kodama.

The emperor should have stepped down in clarifying where the responsibility lay, Kodama says, adding that Hirohito should have said, "I did it. I resign and give (the throne) to the crown prince."

Kodama's remarks appear in an interview in "Postwar History of Japan," an ambitious 10-volume project by Minoru Omori, former foreign editor of the Mainichi Shimbun newspaper.

The first two volumes of the history arrived at bookstores in August, just before Japan observed the 30th anniversary of its defeat by the allies and two months before Hirohito's scheduled state visit to the United States. About 200,000 copies of the books were sold in less than a month.

An Imperial Household Agency official told UPI that "many people have different opinions," but "we cannot make any comment on their views."

Hirohito has never publicly indicated readiness to abdicate after the war's end, but reports have said he told Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1945 that he would assume the "entire responsibility" for the war.

MacArthur in 1945 that he would assume the "entire responsibility" for the war.

Presidential traveling must be cut down

The most recent attempt on the life of President Ford is extremely disturbing. Despite his announced intentions to continue to be a President who is not afraid to meet with the people, we fear that such heroics will only inspire some other demented soul to make another attempt, and another, and another until despite all the security efforts taken, someone will succeed. We strongly suggest the President review his public appearance commitments and screen out those involving street crowds and other situations where protection of the President is most difficult. We do not want President Ford to isolate himself and in this day and age of communication he does not have to even if he does limit his "in the flesh" appearances. As much as we, like most Americans, would like to see our President in the flesh, we do not want a re-run of Monday's incident in which he was a target of a would-be assassin or a tragic repeat of the killing of John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. The American people and the people of Manchester and Connecticut, we are sure, will understand and give a big sigh of relief if the President will reassess his intention to continue public appearances as usual. It will not be capitulating "to those who want to undercut what's good in America." It will be only common sense to deny the opportunities for such attempts to those "individuals who want to destroy our society."

Scene from here
The great honey hunt

He could see right away I was looking for something. He was the manager of the store. "Are you looking for something?" he asked. "I sure am looking for something," I replied. "I'm looking for honey." Well! The way he raised his eyebrows and the way all those shoppers within earshot reacted, you'd swear I had said something hilarious. They laughed—that's how they reacted. Some wise guy even asked if I was sure "honey" was in the store and, if so, did I have any preference. That's when it dawned on me how funny that remark, "I'm looking for honey," must have sounded. I reddened and said, "It's a jar of honey I'm looking for." So, the manager told me where to look and I did. Only, I didn't find any honey—not the jar nor any other kind. There just wasn't any honey in that store. I finished my shopping—as per my wife's shopping list—checked out and put the bags in my car. Did I go straight home? No, I drove to another store determined to find some honey. There wasn't any in that store either. I gave up and drove home. On the way, I wondered why my wife wanted the honey in the first place. If it was for baking a honey cake, why hadn't she told me to buy the other ingredients? But, wait. Maybe she had them at home and only needed the honey. I felt badly. I like honey cake. I considered stopping at a bakery, but didn't. When I got home I told my wife. They didn't have any honey. "Why honey?" she asked. "You had it on the list," I replied. "No, I didn't," she said. "Yes you did," I insisted. After a few minutes of "No I didn't" and "Yes you did," I whipped out her shopping list. We were both right. The list did and didn't say "honey." It did because there was as clear as anything, the word "honey," all by itself on one line. It didn't because the word "honey," although all by itself on one line, actually referred to a word all by itself on the next line. I was supposed to buy "honey grams," that's what.

Excitement money can't buy

WASHINGTON — Tania Hearst, she called herself, after a woman guerrilla who died fighting alongside the legendary and unscrupulous Che Guevara in Bolivia. Ironically, it figures. The girl who was born Patricia Hearst is the daughter of the wealthy Randolph Hearsts of San Francisco. And Che Guevara, who was Fidel Castro's Chief of Staff in the guerrilla warfare that brought the Communist Castro to power in Cuba, approved of rich girls — certain rich girls. I interviewed Guevara in Havana shortly after the Castro takeover on New Year's Day 1959. I had been escorted into his presence through an outer office on a military base crowded with attractive young women. Jokingly, in an attempt to break the ice, I commented on the comeliness of his female entourage. No smile softened Guevara's set, intense features. "Yes," he said. There was a pause. Then, "Most of those young women come from rich families. I find such wealthy children helpful. We can use them. They seek excitement their parents' money can't buy." Unlike Guevara's harem, Patricia Hearst apparently did not come willingly to the terrorist Simbabian Liberation Army (SLA). At least, police records say she was abducted from the Berkeley, Calif. apartment she shared with a male philosophy student on Feb. 7, 1974. But less than three months later, she announced she was renouncing her parents and her fiancé and joining the SLA's fight for "justice." No one knows whether the SLA had to persuade Patricia to join up. But her voice on taped messages to her parents clearly indicated that whether through persuasion or not she was getting the excitement her parents' money couldn't buy. Automatic cameras photographed a young woman identified as Patricia during the holdup of a San Francisco bank. A clerk in a sporting goods store held up by the SLA identified Patricia as having fired shots from a getaway van. Now she faces up to 99 years in prison on counts including intent to commit murder, robbery, auto theft, kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon. Like any other defendant, Patricia is innocent until proved guilty, but her parents' wealth can't save her the ordeal of a trial nor influence the verdict; the charges against her are too serious to yield to wheeling and dealing. "Well, I love her," said her father, son of the late newspaper publishing emperor William Randolph Hearst. "I don't believe she's given up 19 years of our lives together so completely," said her mother. "I can hardly wait to see my child, however she is." Their words are warming, and predictable; few parents ever really stop loving a child. But, as Mrs. Hearst added, Patricia is "in a terrible spot...you can't blame her, she doesn't feel altogether comfortable." Of course we can't. And, after all she was only 19 when she was abducted. She marked her 20th and 21st birthdays as a fugitive. To most parents, Patricia would still be considered, privately, a little girl, because that's the way it is. But little girl or not, Patricia for a time believed she had found ideological and emotional romance with the SLA. When Patricia shot to death six SLA members in a house near the Watts ghetto in Los Angeles in May 1974, she mourned for a tape recorder the death of her lover, William (Cajo) Wolfe — "the gentlest, most beautiful man I ever knew." Some romance. Pondering the tragic saga of Patricia Campbell Hearst, memory returns to that interview 16 years ago with Che Guevara, another "romantic" figure. I wonder what happened to his rich kids.

70 per cent of capacity. Secondly, wage earners, whose incomes have not kept pace with the cost of living, will demand their share. When and if unemployment goes down to somewhere around 5 per cent, my economist friends believe that working men will, of necessity, press hard for more money. These demands will, of course, affect prices. In 1977 we will begin to get intensified demand-supply tightness, since industry has not of late been putting much new capacity in place. New figures indicate that the 1975 expansion plans of U.S. industry are 11 to 12 per cent less than in 1974 in real terms, after discounting inflation. Though, as of now, it appears that 1975 will be somewhat better, the outlook is not good. A hefty rebuilding of inventories, after the drastic cutback they've gone through, will stimulate demand in 1976. If all goes well, by 1977 or 1978 inflation could be cut to 5 per cent. That is, if anyone does the right thing. But it is unlikely that we'll get below that 5 per cent figure, at least in the foreseeable future. And even 5 per cent may not be realized in practice. One source, whose economic forecasts have been far more accurate than those of his fellows over the past 20 years, is not convinced, in fact, that no one knows how to prevent inflation. "Once you're caught in this cycle," he says, "I don't know anything that can break it." Except time, if we're lucky. The primary pressure in 1976 on prices is expected to come from industry — from the producers of steel, non-ferrous metals, machinery and other basic products, as demand begins to grow, forcing production rates up from today's dreary 60 per cent to

OPEN FORUM

Reasoning should be based on need

To the editor: I live in Manchester and recently attended, along with several neighbors, a meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission. We attended the meeting to voice our displeasure over a zoning change for an area of land adjacent to our homes. Our arguments against the rezoning have probably been heard by the Planning and Zoning Commission many times. They consist of noise and air pollution, endangerment of children, the depreciation of surrounding property, and a petition of approximately 60 signatures disapproving of the request. Although valid arguments to them, they appear to have fallen by the wayside. The arguments for the rezoning consisted of the following. Analyze each for validity. The Manchester Development Commission considers the land best suited for industrial uses. Investigation of this argument created unresolved confusion; therefore I will remain neutral on this argument for now. The land bordering to the north and south is zoned industrial. True, the land to the east and west is zoned rural residence and AA residence respectively. The soil, sandy and gravelly, is best suited for industrial development. The soil is sandy and gravelly but that describes the soil that my home, as well as others, was built on. Since the property has not been developed residentially, it probably never will be. Immaterial, after all, the fact that the land has not been developed industrially does not deter my opponents from submitting the zone change request. Equally important as our arguments against rezoning are the following questions which have yet to receive legitimate answers. Has an environmental impact study been done? If not, will a study be done? If there is existing industrial land available, and there is, why remove more land for industrial purposes? What is the specific need to rezone? How will Manchester and its residents benefit from the rezoning? What hardship is Manchester experiencing that requires further industrial zoning? Answers to the above questions seem an integral part of planning the use of land and controlling the development of the town. Let's not rezone and/or develop any land unless a real need exists. What will happen to the town and its residents when suitable land is no longer available for needed development? Can't happen you say—perhaps so, but think about it. Without proper control, it just might happen. Thank you, William H. Marsh, 35 Shepard Dr., Manchester

News for Manchester's senior citizens

Wally Fortin, Director
Hi members. The first bit of news is about our upcoming foliage trip, scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 2. We'll be leaving around 8 a.m. and should be back around 5:30 p.m. By the way, we filled four buses for closing time Monday. Now we're taking names for a waiting list. We can't take any more buses because there would be too big a problem in eating and other stops. Next news is our shuffleboard tournament. This year the tournament is cosponsored by the local Jaycees with Richard Bohardt doing the work involved. More details will be available soon. Action at center
The action at the center starts with our Friday, when after a large turnout for our kitchen social games in the morning we had 66 players for our afternoon setback games with the following winners: Michael DeSimone, 138; John Gally, James Comins, John Gotschalk, and Clara Hemingway, 135; Bessie Coste, 130; Archie Houglinting, 129; Lyla Steele, Rene Maire and Al Chealman, 126; Claire Comins, 124; Gladys Seelert, 123; Harriet Pitts, 121; Mina Reuther, 120; Marjorie Reed, 118 and Harvey Barrette, 117. Large turnout
Come Monday, along with registering for the foliage trip, we had one of our largest turnouts for passengers in the minibuses, and with Gloria out and me running around picking up passengers in the morning, along with running our shuffleboard tournament, I want to thank Bob Daggart and Al Bourret for handling the games for me. While this was going on our senior golfers were taking on the Rockville seniors at Twin Pinnacle scores
In the afternoon we had 16 tables for pinochle with the following winners: Roy Durey, 730; Edward Shensie, 701; Esther Anderson, 692; Fritz Wilkinson, 672; Paul Schmetz, 660; Bertha Duhring, 658; Gladys Seelert, 652; Robert Schubert, 650; Cecile Benson, 647; Mary Nackowski, 646; Peter Frey, George Last, and Lyla Steele, 645; Beatrice Mader, 642; Wilfred Messier, 641 and Harvey Barrette, 638. I guess that's it, except to turn this over to Gloria's Corner to update her schedule for you. Ceramic class
We have been in a dilemma about what to do with the large enrollment for our ceramic class. Rather than disappoint anyone, we are going to try to accommodate everyone. In order to do this I must depend on my colleagues, Elaine Millett, Philip and Dot Brass, and Lee Christian. The classes will run for eight weeks. By that time our Holiday Fair will be upon us. The date of the fair is Thursday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Anyone willing to serve on a committee, please come in and put your name on our list of volunteers.

Police arrests break up auto theft ring

WOLCOTT (UPI) — FBI, State and local police Tuesday arrested two men and seized seven 1975 vehicles they said were stolen in the operation of a major interstate auto theft ring. Investigators said other arrests were expected as the result of an eight-week probe of the alleged operation that enabled them to trace the vehicles to Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The vehicles were recovered from residents in Wolcott and Wolcott, some of them businessmen to whom they had been sold. Two pickup trucks and a home-type camper valued at $14,000 were recovered in Waterbury and two trucks and two sedans were returned in Wolcott. "We discovered our neighbors (what else could you do?) and we enjoyed them. We found other people like ourselves going to church. That was good, too. Come 'V-J' Day, we had many friends to celebrate with — our neighbors. Just by doing what came naturally after the fighting stopped, we finally realized that the whole town was our neighborhood. We met our friends on Main Street, in school, in church, in scouting, at the Nature Center. To paraphrase a song title, we found this to be true, 'This town is your town, this town is my town.' If only for myself, I have always been glad that we finally settled in Manchester. After all of our wandering, it seemed like the right place. Then one evening one of our grown children called from out-of-state to tell us about a valued sense of heritage carried over from growing up here. That did it. And it was just another way of saying 'Manchester people are good neighbors.' Sincerely yours, Clint Hendrickson, 73 S. Hawthorne St., Manchester

Educators face the music

VERNON
A music program may be evaluated in terms of its capacity to produce results, and this capacity is related to the facilities, enrollments, staff qualifications, the offerings and specific policies relating to instruction, Samuel Goldfarb, music supervisor, told the Vernon Board of Education Monday night.

The board commended Goldfarb for doing an excellent job in preparing an evaluation report of the music programs in the school system. They especially noted that he had given board members both sides of the picture.

In noting his observations as a supervisor, Goldfarb requested that the board consider making him a full-time supervisor instead of the part-time position he presently maintains.

In discussing this proposal, and all other recommendations made by Goldfarb, the board decided to turn the entire report over to the Curriculum Committee for its consideration and recommendations.

Goldfarb now works on a 10-month schedule and wishes to have that changed to 12-months. He also teaches.

Another suggestion he made concerned the Hartford Symphony concerts which he recommended be dropped for this season. In lieu of an experimental enrichment program.

This program would call for expansion of the arts such as opera, ballet, dance, jazz, piano, guitar and others and having the artists come to the schools rather than the students going to Hartford, thus saving on transportation costs.

He said funding could come from transferring transportation money from the elementary school budgets, by fund raising campaigns, student contributions and such.

He also recommended implementation of a summer music program for Grades 5 and 6 and noted he is in dire need of professional secretarial help.

"Our music curriculum is meant to be more than 'learning music' in the narrow sense; it is a medium for the students' development through music as well as in music," Goldfarb said. He said the program has as its goal a curriculum geared to meet the varied interests of all students at Rockville High School.

At the Middle School, the basic objective for all is to gain a working knowledge of the basic theory of music and be able to apply this to an instrument.

On the elementary level, "Making music a joyful and productive experience for the students, through the use of the ORFF philosophy (the element of rhythm) involvement is the key to the success of the program," Goldfarb noted.

In his weighing of the positive and negative aspects of the programs in the various schools, Goldfarb, cited the lack of rehearsal space as one of the prime problems on all levels, the lack of enough instructors, improper grouping of students, improper scheduling, lack of allotment of time at the kindergarten level, for music classes, and the lack of a string program.

In connection with the string program, Goldfarb recommended that a string teacher be hired, on a half-time basis to start.

He also recommended that full credit be given for band and choir noting that music practice preparation is extremely time-consuming.

Couple offers to aid schools

VERNON
Mrs. Michael Turk has offered her and her husband's assistance in organizing a resource list for use in Vernon schools.

When offering the aid at Monday night's Board of Education meeting, Mrs. Turk said she and her husband would be willing to coordinate the program but the initiative would have to come from the board and they would not be willing to do the work alone.

She said she feels outside persons could come into the schools and bring the students a wealth of information on a variety of subjects.

Mrs. Betsy Steele, a member of the school board, said she had investigated this program a year ago and at that time she suggested that perhaps senior citizens could also help in such a program.

She added that any money involved would have to come from sources other than the board's budget and the board agreed to investigate the possibility but added nothing could be done until the new members come on the board after the Nov. 4 election.

YMCA offers music courses

The Indian Valley YMCA will offer two music courses for young children during its fall program term.

Pre-school music will introduce four and five-year olds to melody, song, and rhythm and Magic Keyboard will start six through eight-year olds on piano.

The pre-school program will be at St. Matthew's Church in Tolland, Thursday mornings starting Oct. 2 and will run for eight consecutive weeks. The five-year olds will meet from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. and four-year olds from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

The keyboard class will meet at the Avery Street Church, South Windsor, for eight consecutive Tuesdays starting Oct. 7, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Preregistration is required for both courses. Anyone wishing further information should call the "Y" office at Vernon Circle, Vernon.

In addition to regular office hours, the "Y" office will be open from 9:30 a.m. to noon on Sept. 27 and Oct. 4.

The YMCA is offering 28 fall programs. Brochures are available at the office.

Havens lauds budgeting of Democrats

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnler
644-1364

In the first of a series of Monday luncheons, South Windsor Democrats have cited "sound fiscal management and sound administration" over the past two years, and predicted a record-setting third victory for Democrats Nov. 4.

Speaker Ed Havens, an incumbent candidate for Town Council, said "In spite of economic hard times, your council was able to lower the mill rate and still add a measure of services to our citizens. This is in spite of reassessment."

Havens said that "under the Republican majority we had, from 1968 to 1971, a 10-mill increase. Under our Democratic leadership, from 1972-1974, we had a 4-mill decrease."

"The Democrats are not the big spenders," said Havens. "We are not daddies with other people's money. These Democrats are truly the fiscal conservatives."

William Grace, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, also running for reelection, said the PZC was attempting to lower housing costs in town.

"We don't want a community with only $70,000 and $80,000 homes in town. This would make it impossible for the town's young couples to remain here."

Grace also cited that South Windsor PZC meetings have been open to the public for four years, while other towns are just now making the meeting open.

"I'm not sure we can keep South Windsor green," said Grace, "but we can make every effort to make sure it is well planned."

State Rep. Abraham Glassman, D-South Windsor, said the Democrats were in an excellent position to make history by winning its third consecutive election.

"Until recently South Windsor was only a bedroom town, but Democrats have brought industry and jobs to town," said Glassman.

Democratic Town Chairman Dennis Moynihan urged the more than 30 persons who dined on veal parmesan to "have fun" at the series of luncheons.

"If it's a good time than everyone comes," said Moynihan, "and the luncheons will be a success."

Agency asks survey on needs of elderly

The Commission on Aging will ask the Board of Directors to conduct a survey on the number of elderly in Manchester and assess their transportation, housing and nutrition needs.

This action was taken by the commission Monday night at the Senior Citizens Center.

The commission will also ask the Board of Directors to explain what has happened to the town's Advisory Committee on Transportation Needs request to have a certain number of dollars put in the town budget for transportation needs in the community.

The commission is also concerned in replacing the two VISTA volunteers who were involved in an outreach program to the elderly and have recently left Manchester to return to school. Ann Mason, town community development coordinator, said that federal funds are scheduled to be released this fall and hopes that these funds will soon be available to replace the VISTA workers.

Sweet Adelines have openings for women

There are openings in the Mountain Laurel Chapter of Sweet Adelines for young women who like to sing.

The all female chorus sings current ballads and show tunes in four-part harmony, barbershop style. The group has achieved many first place awards and national recognition during its 14-year history.

Guest evening will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at St. James Episcopal Church, 1018 Farmington Ave., West Hartford.

Interested women are invited to hear the chorus and join in singing with them.

For further information or transportation, call 633-5553 or 643-9138.

Board expects cash from towns in area

The Manchester Board of Education voted Monday night to request the Board of Directors to establish a washout account for $2,726 for the 1975-76 school year for the receipt of funds from surrounding towns for services rendered by the Environmental Education Center. This money actually goes directly toward the salary for Mrs. Betty Newton who works with the surrounding towns.

So far, $2,476 has been contracted for Bolton, East Hartford and Vernon. The additional $250 is requested in the washout account in order to receive late school year for the receipt of funds from surrounding towns for services rendered by the Environmental Education Center. This money actually goes directly toward the salary for Mrs. Betty Newton who works with the surrounding towns.

Electronic brains are her babies

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Grace Murray Hopper's first love is the U.S. Navy.

Now a captain on active duty at the Pentagon, she said, "There's a saying that you can take the man out of the Navy but you can't take the Navy out of her."

As for her super-specialty in computers, she said, "They may be the second finest tool man ever produced. The first? Language of course."

Captain Hopper wishes we would change our image of the computer as one big machine responsible for mistakes in our telephone or electric bills.

"Few people realize how computers shape our lives, what they can do," she said.

"Without them, you wouldn't have automatic washing machines. Even the toaster, set for light or dark, is computerized.

The American Revolution and the Civil War, in which a great-grandfather was an admiral.

The officer, born in New York, claims Wolfoord, N.H. as her second hometown.

She was graduated from Vassar College in 1928, Phi Beta Kappa, received her master's and doctorate at Yale University.

In December, 1943, the Navy tapped her, as a WAVE, to work on the first large scale digital computer, the Mark I.

Her major job now is standardization of computer language and components for the Navy and to "spread the word" to the computer world.

"What we do in the Navy we turn back to the people," she said. "It's the taxpayers' money we use. We must give it back."

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

Too many children jam the computer

Last week I took our youngest son to the emergency room and when the nurse who was registering us asked me his middle name, I drew a blank. A complete and absolute blank! "It's a family name," I said, stalling for time.

"Yes," she questioned, her pencil poised.

"All our children have family names. We have a Doran, a Thayer, a Taylor and a... a... Knox. That's it! John Knox Warren."

Now through all this the nurse never changed her expression. But she didn't fool me. I knew exactly what she was thinking. She was thinking that I was pretty poor excuse for a mother!

I can't really explain it. But sometimes, the computer in my head, the one programmed Warren-children-four, must get overloaded and it temporarily jams.

Mr. and Mrs. James Muisener

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Muisener of 506 Woodbridge St. were honored at a surprise party Sunday in observance of their 40th wedding anniversary.

The party was hosted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Muisener of Ellington.

The couple's maid of honor, Mrs. Irene Knapp, and the best man, William Andrus, were among the well-wishers. About 60 relatives and friends attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Muisener were married on Aug. 31, 1935, in Hartford with the Rev. Harold Clemens officiating. Mrs. Muisener is a native of Manchester. Mr. Muisener was born in Athens, Pa.

The Dionne quintuplets, claimed to be the first quints to survive infancy, were so tiny at birth that their mother was able to slip her wadding ring over their hands.

Washington window: Hymie, where are you now?

ARNOLD SAWISLAK WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the classic anecdotes of American politics concerns a self-important fellow in the 1920's who was running for a judgeship on the Democratic ticket in Brooklyn.

The candidate didn't think the local Democratic machine was doing enough for him and complained to the borough boss, Hymie Shorenstein. Hymie took the man down to the waterfront and pointed to a ferry boat arriving in its slip.

"Do you see that garbage in the water behind the boat?" Hymie asked. The candidate nodded. "Do you see when the garbage is pulled the garbage in behind it?" The candidate signified his understanding.

"Well," said Hymie, "think of the ferry boat as Gov. Alfred E. Smith and yourself as the garbage."

This story is supposed to illustrate the power of political coattails, and from it has developed the theory that a small time candidate can do no better for himself than to be seen in the company and receive the blessing of a big league officeholder.

But it has happened before and last week in New Hampshire it happened again: Hymie's ferry boat hit a rock.

Louis Wyman, trying for the second time to defeat John Doherty for the U.S. Senate called in the two heaviest dreadnaughts of the GOP fleet — President Ford and former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Ford and Reagan gave Wyman what should have been an ironclad, all-purpose dead solid perfect endorsement.

So Durkin beat Wyman, and both Ford and Reagan end up with egg on their faces. Both of them should have known better.

Without doing a detailed statistical study of the question, it seems likely that the attempt to use the influence and popularity of one politician to get another elected is more often than not a mistake.

ZINNEMAN DIRECTS HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Veteran filmmaker Fred Zinneman will produce and direct the 20th Century-Fox film version of Thomas Wiseman's World War II adventure novel, "The Secret Policeman." Zinneman currently is filming Paramount's "The French Lieutenant's Woman" in London.

Jets in trouble early in season

HEMPSTAD, N.Y. (UPI) — The National Football League season is only a week old and already the New York Jets look like they could be in trouble. Joe Namath has a sore and swollen right knee and Coach Charley Kneer is still trying to figure why his new defense looked like the Keystone Kops chasing Buffalo's O.J. Simpson Sunday. Namath took a pounding from the Bills in the 42-14 rout and while he was only dropped twice, he took some heavy shots after releasing the ball. The injury apparently came as Namath threw a touchdown pass to Eddie Bell in the second quarter but he finished the game.

"Right now, we have to list Joe as questionable for Kansas City Sunday," Winner said Tuesday. "He told me if there's any way possible, though, he'll be in there." Trainer Jeff Sneider, who has treated Namath's knees ever since he joined the club in 1965, isn't that pessimistic. "Six years ago, this was a common thing with Joe," he explained. "Only nobody made anything of it then. There were lots of weeks where he couldn't work before Thursday. It just hasn't happened in a long time." Rain wiped out any outdoor work Tuesday, normally just a loosening up day. Heavy rain was predicted for today and it was doubtful Namath would work out of Hofstra University's ar-

Accept pact or strike ultimatum given NFL

CHICAGO (UPI) — National Football League players will vote on a contract proposal starting Thursday and management officials have subtly issued them a challenge: accept it or strike for a second straight year. The NFL Players Association decided to submit the proposal for a membership vote Tuesday as negotiations broke down after two days of conciliation efforts by top federal mediator W.J. Usery.

The players' negotiators, charging that management changed its position "very little" in two days of talks, said they would make no recommendation for or against the offer. But Sarge Karch, chief management negotiator, tactfully issued an ultimatum: "We believe the package is a very attractive one, particularly economically. It offers a great deal of money and we don't see how the players could turn it down." If the contract is rejected, Karch said, "We're right back where we were, back to bargaining. They have the right to take collective action. They have the right to strike, and we have the right to go about our business. We have every hope that it will be approved." Players' negotiators weren't so optimistic. Both Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins and Randy Vataha of the New England Patriots, whose strike last week precipitated the contract discussions, said the proposal was not significantly different from one rejected by the players last July.

David's dine, honor Lessig
It's always nice to be a winner and David's softball team wound up the 1975 season in a blaze of glory with a victory dinner at the Steak Out. Winners of the Felina Slow Pitch League and second best in the Connecticut ASA Women's Tournament, David's gathered with sponsor David Woodbury to wrap up the season.

Nancy Lessig was named the most valuable player and each member was presented with an appropriate gift marking a highlight during the year.

Coaches Joe Massolini and George Raymond, along with Woodbury, were cited for their efforts in producing a champion.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Tommy John
MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Tommy John, the Los Angeles Dodger lefthander who hurt his pitching arm in 1974, threw three innings Tuesday in an Arizona Instructional League game in what a Dodger official called an "outstanding performance."

"I thought if we could not reach an agreement, we could agree to submit the offer to binding arbitration," said Ed Garvey, players association executive director. "It [arbitration] was rejected. We offered to submit it to impartial fact finding and it was rejected. We finally offered to let (Commissioner Pete) Rozelle make recommendations which both sides would consider and that was rejected. We found we could not reach agreement."

Karch said the players were unhappy with the proposed Rozelle Rule, covering compensation to a team for a player who plays out his option and then joins another club. He said they also were dissatisfied with the pension offer and particularly with the owners' desire to take financial control of the pension fund since the owners have guaranteed fixed payments.

Anderson said the pension plan included no cost of living increase and that players could not get a pension until age 55 or 65, meaning, "We have to wait 25 or 30 years for it."

He also said the proposed increases in preseason pay were no better than previous offers, covering only 10 percent of the players' regular season salary. He said an offer to hike Super Bowl winners' pay to $31,500 in 1976 was not a market improvement since the current guarantee is $23,500 plus a game salary, or nearly the same amount.

Rennie Stennett
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pittsburgh's Rennie Stennett, who set and tied several modern major league hitting records last week, Monday was named National League Player of the Week.

Jerry Coggin
CLEARLAKE, Calif. (UPI) — Jerry Coggin, of Scottsdale, Ariz., won the U.S. mens open water ski title during the weekend, speeding over the 2.5 mile course on Clear Lake at speed up to 100 miles an hour.

Steven Van Meter, Torrance, Calif., finished second, and John Belvai of South San Francisco was third.

Claude St. Sauveur
ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Flames of National Hockey League Tuesday announced the purchase of forward Claude St. Sauveur, a two-year World Hockey League veteran.

The Flames purchased the NHL rights to St. Sauveur from the California Seals and worked out an agreement with Calgary of the WHL for the 23-year-old forward, who can play center and both wing positions. St. Sauveur was runnerup to Mark Howe for rookie of the year honors in 1973-74 when he played for Vancouver. In two seasons with Vancouver, he scored 63 goals and 53 assists.

Zaid Abdul-Aziz
HOUSTON (UPI) — Zaid Abdul-Aziz, whose contract with the Houston Rockets ran out last season, has been released by the NBA club.

Abdul-Aziz, a 6-9 center known as Don Smith until he changed his name last year, had played with the Rockets since 1972. He was the Cincinnati Royals first-round draft choice out of Iowa State in 1968.

Abdul-Aziz played little for the Rockets last year after a mid-season workout in which he missed one game. Seven-foot Kevin Kunnert established himself as the Rockets' center.

Houston has signed four-year ABA vet Tom Owens, a center, and several rookies prospects look to strengthen the center position in the absence of Abdul-Aziz.

Ed Budde
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Knee surgery today was ordered for guard Ed Budde of the Kansas City Chiefs. Coach Paul Wiggin said he would wait a report on the operation before considering playing Budde on the injured reserve list.

Budde, playing his 13th year with Kansas City, injured his right knee in the fourth quarter Sunday in the Chiefs' 37-53 loss at Denver. X rays showed the 35, 285-pound offensive lineman damaged cartilage in his right knee.

Philippine government to realize $1.5 million
MANILA (UPI) — American promoters of the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight said today the event would be telecast to a record total of 60 countries, including the Soviet Union, with a potential audience of more than 70 million people.

Don King, head of the New York-based agency that teamed up with the Philippine government in putting up the match in Manila, said he hoped to announce in a few days the latest figures on advance closed-circuit television bookings.

King, who flew in early today from New York, said the Philippine world harvest tremendous audience, both for live and delayed showing involved a potential viewership of 770 million persons and would set a record for a televised boxing match.

Schwartz, however, said that the Soviet Union will not show the event to its regular television audience until the following day. He declined to cite the revenue from Moscow's participation in the project and said the important thing was that the Soviet market had been cracked for the first time.

Schwartz said their group tried to make a similar offer to Chinese authorities but added circuit television bookings "We've not been successful and we're still trying."

He said the worldwide audience, both for live and delayed showing involved a potential viewership of 770 million persons and would set a record for a televised boxing match.

The Philippine investment is about $4.6 million in purses for Ali and Frazier and in promotional expenses but Filipino organizers predicted that in the end, the government would make net earnings of $1.5 million from gate receipts, merchandising promotions, television rights and tourism.

Henry Schwartz, executive vice president of Don King Productions, said the Soviet Union's linkup with the television coverage of the Ali-Frazier fight marked the first time it has joined the international

Ali slows pace, plans long rest

MANILA (UPI) — With fight day only a week away, Muhammad Ali "slowed down his training Wednesday and said he was so sure of beating Joe Frazier he was already looking forward to one year's rest afterward."

"I deserve a year's rest after this," he said. Later, he said he would meet the winner of an elimination match between George Foreman and Ken Norton in the final fight of his career then "I really would like to retire while I'm champion."

The 33-year-old Ali limited his workout Wednesday to a five-round session with the heavy bag, skipping his sparring and even his early morning roadwork. He also changed his mind about stopping non-stop for 15 rounds sometime this week as he had promised earlier and said his manager had advised him against it so much energy.

"I'm already in perfect shape," he said. "I'm hitting harder than I'm hitting in all my life and I'm more serious now. The stage is set — Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier, rubber match, showdown. I'll be so much superior I'll knock him out."

Ali said he plans to end his training next Monday, two days before the Oct. 1 (Sept. 30 in the U.S.) match and will concentrate on developing power in his punches with workouts on the heavy bag.

"I'll stop training on the 29th and then the following day take a 10-mile walk and rest work on his newly acquired farm in Michigan and do a movie. He did not disclose any details about his acting venture.

He said the last of the great fights would be his final ring assignment against either Foreman or Norton.

"If anybody's scared, Ken is scared of George. George's not scared of Ken," he said.

Asked what he would do if both boxers refuse to go through an elimination, Ali said, "then next year I'll come back and negotiate with Foreman. What do I fight Norton for? Foreman gave me a shot when he was champion."

American promoter Don King, who flew in early today from New York, said the Manila match could turn out to be the final fight for either Ali or Frazier.

"This will be a knockout, dragout scuffle. This is a fight of deep-seated, insidious, raging hate. There's no way I can fight him if he was a Muslim," he said.

After the bout with Frazier, Ali said he would

Joe buttons lip to press

MANILA (UPI) — Joe Frazier, who hasn't had too much to say in any event, said today, "I'm not talking any more to the press. Only to the fans."

Frazier, who has approached the press with a willing smile, has found it a virtually mute when he asks for questions. Then, when they come, they inevitably turn to "What do you think Ali meant when he said ... How do you feel about Ali saying that you ... If all does what he says he will ... Obviously, that line of questioning has gotten through Frazier's thick skin and perhaps is an indication that Ali has scored in this phase of his psychological war with Frazier.

But Frazier insisted that that was not so, only that from now until after the Oct. 1 (Sept. 30 in USA) bout, Eddie Futch, his handler, would answer questions.

Frazier then concluded by saying "I feel good. I don't want to get worked up. I got up this morning and chewed nails and right now I could chew up this microphone."

Indians, Simsbury booters deadlock

Battling back from a 2-0 halftime deficit, Manchester High knotted Simsbury High, 2-2, in CCIL soccer action yesterday at the Trojans' soggy grounds. Skip Diorio scored in the first period for the hosts and Bud Ciabotti came back in the second stanza to up the margin to 2-0. But the Indian booters refused to quit and senior Tayo Stimac scored two third period goals to knot the count. Stimac's first goal of the game and fourth of the season came three minutes into the period on a rebound shot, putting it through the goalie's legs. His second score came just before the end of the third canto. The fourth quarter was scoreless and two five-minute overtime sessions couldn't provide a winner. "We played pretty well in the second half," Coach Dick Danielson stated. "We were down but came back. Over-all it was just two teams stopping around in the mud."

Whalers' president to fight WHA office

HARTFORD (UPI) — New England Whalers officials say they'll fight any attempt by the World Hockey Association to invalidate the signing of 17-year-old Canadian amateur hockey star Gordie Roberts. Howard Baldwin, managing general partner of the Whalers, said Tuesday there has been "a lot of repercussions and rumblings of a big fine" from the league over the signing. Roberts, touted as possibly the best junior player in Canada, and his 32-year-old brother, Doug Roberts, a veteran of the National Hockey League, were signed Monday to 1975 Whaler contracts. Both are defencemen and natives of Detroit. Doug Roberts, who broke into the NHL in 1966 with Detroit, played with California and Boston and obtained his release from the Red Wings to sign with the Whalers. He has a career record of 106 goals and 233 assists. Gordie Roberts, who won't be 18 until Oct. 22, joined the Western Canada Hockey League's Victoria Cougars last season and scored 19 goals and 45 assists in the team's 53 final games. Baldwin said the team "will fight" threats of a suit and loss of draft picks by the WHA because of the signing of the youth whom he described as "a legitimate superstar."

Greenberg remembers first $100,000 contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Remember the first ballplayer to sign a $100,000 contract? Hank Greenberg remembers, and it figures he would because he was the first player ever to receive that kind of money. Greenberg recalls the year he became the first $100,000 ballplayer. It was 1947. He had just turned 21. He had been playing for 11 years with Detroit, a fruit and vegetable wholesaler in the Air Force and now at 36 he thought it was the right time to quit, but John Galbreath, who had just bought the Pittsburgh Pirates, came along with an offer too good to turn down and Hammerin' Hank said okay. He'd give it one more try. He remembers bringing home the $100,000 contract and showing it proudly to his father. "I don't believe it," said the elder Greenberg, who was in the textile business. "Well, here it is in black and white," said the big first baseman, holding the contract. "The figures are right there." "I still don't believe it," his father said. Hank Greenberg was one of the top names in baseball back in those days and he was switching over to the Pirates with a solid .318 lifetime batting average. Times have changed, though. Now 250 hitters ask for and receive $100,000 contracts, and officials in the NBA report the average player salary in their league runs that much. So Hank Greenberg hardly even bats an eye when he picks up a newspaper and reads that somebody like Pete, who is 34, has come over here from Brazil and is getting $4.7 million to

Ashe scores easy win in coast net tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Wimbledon champ Arthur Ashe, fresh from capturing the Pacific Southwest tourney in Los Angeles, won his first round match at the Firestone's "Pond Tennis Tournament" against another former UCLA star, Billy Martin, 6-3, 6-2. Ashe, of Miami, broke Martin's serve five times in the Cow Palace match but lost his serve only once in each set and collected four aces in his victory. "I like those heavy balls which are made for indoor courts," said Ashe. "I was able to hit all sorts of strokes." Ashe said his 20-year-old foe from Palos Verdes, Calif., "is a good player but it will take him a while to get used to the pro circuit. He is too unpredictable right now." Ashe meets Tray Walkie in today's second round while top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina will meet Alan Stone.

"THE MOST EXCITING ADDITION TO THE WEIGHT WATCHERS PROGRAM SINCE SPAGHETTI!"

Three years ago, The Weight Watchers Organization introduced spaghetti, potatoes and bananas to its food program which added variety and helped fight eating boredom. Today we've made another addition—the new Personal Action Plan... simple-to-follow "modules" that can help you regain control over those eating habits that caused those pounds to pile up. Regularly at Weight Watchers' meetings, you'll receive a "module" a booklet that deals with a different eating problem such as: How to avoid temptation. How to tell when you're really hungry. How to control impulse food shopping. How to manage eating at home, and more. You can adopt these ideas to your own lifestyle. THERE ARE DAY AND EVENING CLASSES NEAR YOUR HOME. FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION, HARTFORD COUNTY 232-7600 WEIGHT WATCHERS® NEW PERSONAL ACTION PLAN™

20th Mott's set to open on Tuesday

The 20th Mott's Shop-Rite Supermarket is ready to open next Tuesday on Spencer St., Manchester, with store executives confident they'll succeed in the same location in which Pathmark of Manchester failed.

Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer will cut the tape at 10 a.m. Tuesday to open the 50,000-square foot store. Her hostess will be Sylvia Gottlieb, vice president of consumer relations for Mott's, and East Hartford-based chain.

Mott's President Stanford Cohen, responding to comments about Mott's takeover of the Pathmark facility, said he's confident of success on Spencer St. because Mott's is a local organization while Pathmark was a nationwide operation.

"We're completely tuned to the needs of our area shoppers," Cohen said. "Over a quarter million people shop at our stores each week. We give top priority to knowing what they want and, equally important, what they don't want."

"We hold consumer board meetings. We don't say too much. Mainly we listen. Our answers come in the form of action. It is impossible for an out-of-state organization to furnish such precise store-to-customer service," Cohen said.

The combination grocery-drug store on Spencer St. will be the largest in the Mott's chain, which started in 1932 when Chairman of the Board Joseph Mott opened a supermarket on State St. in Hartford.

Supervisor of the new Manchester Mott's is Douglas Short, formerly of Wethersfield. The new store will employ about 250 people.

The first Mott's outlet in Manchester—at 587 E. Middle Tpk., opened in 1961—won't be affected by the new store.

Next month, Mott's plans to open another huge supermarket in Chicopee, Mass., in another location vacated by Pathmark last month. The Manchester and Chicopee Pathmark stores were closed with little notice in the first week of August, and Mott's announced within a week that it would take over the stores.

Mott's Supermarkets Inc. is one of several independent members of Wakefern Food Corp. (Shop-Rite), a retail-owned cooperative based in Elizabeth, N.J.

Top achievement

The Cycle Safe carbonated beverage container, developed by the Monsanto Co.'s Bloomfield laboratory, has been named one of the best achievements of 1975 by the Industrial Research Institute, Chicago.

The container, made from an acrylonitrile-styrene polymer, is being manufactured in South Windsor and is being introduced by the Coca-Cola Co.

Due in Vernon

The state Consumer Protection Department's mobile information center is scheduled to be in Vernon next Tuesday, the department has announced.

The information van will be at Ty-City Plaza from about 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Department officials will answer consumer questions and make referrals, if necessary.

Bank dividend

Directors of Hartford National Corp., the parent firm of Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 45 cents a common share, payable Oct. 20 to stockholders of record Sept. 30.

UConn author says few firms run the show

The dean of the University of Connecticut's law school has authored a book which he says shows that a few hundred huge corporations, "led by an interlocking group of men and women," dominate the national economy and strongly affect the world's economic scene.

Dean Philip I. Blumberg, an authority on corporate law, is author of "The Megacorporation in American Society: The Scope of Corporate Power." It is primarily a textbook.

According to Prentice-Hall, the publisher, Blumberg's book demonstrates that the megacorporations not only possess important political power but represent one of the basic social institutions of the age.

"The author further demonstrates that this concentration of economic power is matched by an increasing concentration of share ownership in the hands of financial institutions—particularly the trust departments of commercial banks," the publisher says.

The book also shows that the building of economic concentration via financial concentration gives financial institutions a course of potential control over the corporate world.

Blumberg warns that this dual concentration of economic power—with wide political and social implications—holds far-reaching consequences for the nation.

Social Security: Questions and answers

Q I just got a letter from Social Security telling me that it is time for my redetermination. I've been eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment for year. Why do I have to have a redetermination?

A Under the SSI program, a yearly redetermination is made for each recipient. The purpose of the redetermination is simply to make sure the payment amount is correct, and that there have been no changes in your income, resources, or living arrangements.

Q My mother was very ill recently, and the doctor had to come to the house to treat her. Will her Medicare pay for his visit, or does it only cover office visits to the doctor?

A Medicare's medical insurance helps pay for covered services your mother receives from her doctor no matter where she receives them — in her home, in a hospital, or skilled nursing facility, or in any new address?

A You should notify Social Security now. Prompt notice helps assure delivery of your check to your new address without delay or interruption. You can report your move on the change of address form which is printed on the back of the envelope your check is delivered in. Be sure to give both your old and new address — including zip codes — and the Social Security claim number now, or wait until I'm living at unearned income is less than $177.70 a month, and his resources are $1,500 or less. Not all income and resources are counted, however, in determining these amounts. An applicant must be a U.S. resident and either a U.S. citizen or an alien lawfully residing in this country. Your board may apply for SSI at any Social Security office.

A To be eligible for SSI, a person must be 65 or older, or blind or disabled. They must have limited resources and income. An individual may be eligible for some payment if his payments. When Social Security makes a redetermination of your case, will I have to be examined by a doctor to prove I'm still disabled?

A No. Social Security will make a redetermination of your eligibility for payments based on such factors as your income and resources. A redetermination of your disability would be made only if evidence indicates your condition improves or if you return to work.

Q I'm disabled and I get SSI

Extra beds are costly

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is a surplus of hospital beds in United States cities that must be eliminated if the cost of medical care is to be brought down, according to a Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive.

"The existence of surplus beds inflates the cost of medical care," said Dr. Peter Rogatz, a senior vice president of Blue Cross-Blue Shield in New York. "It costs almost as much to maintain an empty bed in a hospital as an occupied bed."

Worse than that, he said, is the fact that, since Medicare, Medicaid and other hospitalization and medical insurance plans will pay the bills, surplus beds offer a constant temptation to hospital administrators to use them and to physicians to put people in them who really should be treated as ambulatory patients.

"The existence of surplus hospital beds also can contribute to the performance of unnecessary surgery," he said.

Rogatz was commenting on the rise of the Ambulatory Surgical Facility in the past five years.

Starting in Phoenix, the ASF movement has spread until there are several across the country. They are equipped for the performance of tonsillectomies and many other simpler operations formerly done entirely in hospitals, but the costs are much lower — typically about $175 for removing a youngster's tonsils as against perhaps $475 for the same operation in a hospital.

The rapid growth of the ASF is causing much concern in the hospital industry.

"The solution," Rogatz told United Press International, "is to eliminate the surplus hospital beds simultaneously with the creation of ASFs. If you don't do open a lot of ASFs in a hurry and put off eliminating the surplus hospital beds, that just means society will then be paying for duplicate facilities," he said.
