BRISTOL — Teachers today struck the city's 17 schools after negotiations on a new contract were broken off. School board officials failed to show up at a meeting Tuesday night and members of the Bristol Federation of Teachers voted 413-192 to strike.

DANBURY — Danbury High School was closed at the start of classes today when heavy fighting broke out among black and white students. The school has been the scene of racial tensions since 1971. One policeman was reported injured and several students taken into custody.

Regional

CONCORD, N.H. — Negotiations for key GOP campaign personnel in the nation's early-bird 1976 presidential primary are being undertaken by representatives of President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

BOSTON — Teachers are back to classes — and the spotlight has returned to court-ordered desegregation — with the settlement of the six-day strike by the Boston Teachers Union. Fines of $1,000 each were levied against two union officials and the union was ordered to pay $50,000 in fines owed for contempt conviction last week.

National

MIAMI — Hurricane Gladys gathered speed in the Atlantic today and turned its 100-mile-an-hour winds on a course aimed for the Eastern Seaboard. Forecasters said it is too early to tell if the hurricane will hit the coast.

SAN FRANCISCO — F. Lee Bailey, chief lawyer for Patricia Hearst, says his client will not be tried before 1976. He made it clear that when she does go on trial her mental condition will be a pivotal issue.

WASHINGTON — Threats against President Ford's life have tripled since recent assassination attempts including one mentally-troubled man who offer an undercover agent $25,000 to kill Ford, government officials have disclosed.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Emperor Hirohito of Japan made a point of honoring Douglas MacArthur, the American general who accepted the surrender of Japan in 1945 and then helped rebuild modern Japan, by ordering a wreath of white mums and red carnations placed on his behalf at the MacArthur Memorial in nearby Norfolk.

CHICAGO — Traveling through the Midwest with a cordon of bodyguards, President Ford says he hopes to visit all of the 50 states by the end of the year, but will not be "foolhardy" about security precautions. He has 11 states to go by the end of the year and already is scheduled to visit three by next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON — CIA Director William E. Colby answered a congressional subpoena Tuesday night and turned over secret intelligence documents to a special House committee after deleting 50 words and demanding extreme care in making the information public, sources said today. The committee is to meet today to decide if it will accept Colby's terms.

MEXICO CITY — Police reported today that 45 persons burned to death in a collision of a jammed bus and a trailer truck jack-knifed across a mountain highway Tuesday. Police said the death toll could go as high as 60.

LISBON, Portugal — Mutinous troops sealed off the streets leading to a Communist-controlled radio station in downtown Lisbon today and set up a mortar on the balcony to battle any attempt by police to occupy the facilities.

OSLO, Norway — Executives of the world's airlines today recommended a 3 per cent fare increase on all international flights beginning Dec. 1 to offset the rise in oil prices.

Terrorist bands roam Madrid

MADRID (UPI) — Bands of terrorists armed with sawed-off shotguns killed three Madrid policemen and critically wounded a fourth today while an emotional crowd of a million persons celebrated the 39th anniversary of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's rise to power.

Franco, angered by widespread European and world reaction to Spain's execution of five terrorists Saturday for the slaying of other policemen, said the violent anti-Spanish reaction was a foreign plot against Spain by Free Masons and Communists.

The almost simultaneous attacks on policemen in different parts of the city was the largest guerrilla operation of a wave of political violence that has hit Spain in recent months. It brought angry roars from the crowd of 500,000 persons jammed into 25-acre Plaza de Oriente Square who shouted, "The Army to Power" and "Terrorists to the Wall."

With his voice sometimes trailing off and becoming inaudible, the 82-year-old Franco said the foreign campaign was the result of a "plot hatched by left-wing Masonism in the ruling class (of Western European countries) and Communist-terrorist subversion in the social field."

Many Western diplomats earlier boycotted a reception marking the 39th anniversary of Franco's proclamation as Spain's Caudillo (leader) during the civil war. At least 15 nations have recalled their ambassadors from Spain in protest against the executions.

Spain executed five terrorists last Saturday for slaying Spanish policemen — a move that touched off anti-Spanish demonstrations throughout Europe and South America in a wave of continuing resentment against Franco's role in the Spanish Civil War and his authoritarian rule.

Town directors face full October agenda

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Board of Directors will tackle a varied agenda at its October meetings — the last in 1974-75 for the current board. The municipal election is Nov. 4, a usual board meeting night. That meeting will be re-scheduled and the November meetings will be by the new board.

The board will meet twice this month — next Tuesday for public discussion of its agenda items, and Oct. 14 for actions. It meets at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

An item of old business may or may not be acted upon Tuesday, depending on information available to the board. It has to do with assessments for sanitary sewers on Erie St., Garden Grove Rd. and a part of Keeney St. Many of the property owners involved claim they were promised their assessments would be deferred.

On Tuesday's agenda but expected to be tabled again is action on proposed amendments to Manchester's parking ordinance — to regulate the towing and impoundment of illegally parked vehicles.

Organized groups give views on I-84 corridor proposal

The second night of public hearings on the proposed path of Interstate 84 was dominated by organized groups opposing and favoring construction of the Eastern Connecticut expressway.

Only 100 persons attended the second session Tuesday night at Coventry High School, compared to a crowd of about 600 there Monday night. Hearings resume tonight at 7 at Bolton High School.

The Tuesday night hearing, which ended at 10:10 p.m. despite plans to run later, included comments by representatives of several construction industry groups and citizens' organizations.

Julie Mannarino of the Connecticut Citizen Action Group (a Ralph Nader-inspired organization) said the CAG opposed I-84 in 1972 hearings and its opinion hasn't changed.

"Events in the last three years have made it even more imperative that the highway should not be built," she said. "The state's fiscal condition, the energy shortage and a more severe air pollution problem than had been expected should, if good sense were to prevail, force state and federal highway officials to reassess their plans to build I-84."

William Huebner of the Connecticut Construction Industries Association called for construction of I-84 to attract new industry and new jobs. "We need this highway to provide jobs so our men can work," he said.

Mary Walton, president of the Save Our State Committee, said her group sympathized with jobless construction workers but I-84 isn't the answer. She suggested use of the highway money for other projects, such as hospitals or schools, to improve the quality of life.

John Olander, president of the Utility Contractors Association, favored I-84 and claimed that it would ultimately help save fuel. "It is a proven fact that you use more fuel at 30 miles per hour in stop-and-go traffic than you use on a highway," he said.

John Simon, secretary of Carpenters Local 443, supported I-84 construction,

Three policemen commended for actions at home fire

Police Chief Robert Lannan presented three of his officers with commendations Tuesday afternoon for their roles in discovering and stopping a fire Sept. 4.

The officers are Donald E. Burns, Gary E. Waterhouse, and Sgt. Lawrence M. Smith.

Retaining wall under construction

This concrete retaining wall on the north side of Green Rd., near Harlan St., is part of the town's $50,000 sidewalk construction program there — from N. Elm St. to Princeton St. The project includes the removal of about a dozen trees and cutbacks of banks and hills. About $24,000 of the cost is for the sidewalks. The other $26,000 is for the allied work. Director of Public Works

Jay Giles explained why the sidewalks are going on the north side of Green Rd., as opposed to the south side, which is level. He said the decision concurs with a petition from the area residents and cuts down on the intersections school children will cross on their way to Bowers School. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Vernon among towns affected by HUD subsidy injunction

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Vernon is the major Manchester area town affected by the issuance of a temporary injunction blocking federal subsidies to seven Hartford suburbs.

The temporary injunction, granted by Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld on request of the City of Hartford, stops the disbursement of some $5 million in U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grants.

Last week the town of Vernon filed its request for $25,000 which would be the town's first-year grant of a five-year program for a total grant of $100,000.

Vernon planned to use the first $25,000 for construction of a parking lot and beach at Camp Newhoca now owned by the town and to be used for a recreation area.

Hartford requested the injunction as part of the lawsuit it filed to challenge HUD approval of grants to suburban towns. Hartford claims the approval of the grants is illegal because the towns don't plan to increase low and moderate income housing with the funds.

Vernon's mayor, Frank McCoy, said he is disappointed with Judge Blumenfeld's decision but said he has not yet read the entire decision.

Judge Blumenfeld said the injunction is temporary and he will rule on the suit itself before making the injunction permanent or dismissing it.

The suit claims that the suburban towns have failed to provide housing for low-income families thus concentrating poverty in the central city, "which doesn't have sufficient resources to handle the problem."

Hartford Corporation Counsel Alexander Goldfarb praised Judge Blumenfeld's decision noting it would have widespread effects on city-suburb relations. He said, however, if Judge Blumenfeld rules against the city's suit, the city would lose a cash bond which the judge required it to post.

The HUD funds are approved for specific periods of time and if the town's cannot use them within the time period, HUD could keep the funds and allocate them to other towns.

Vernon officials have previously said that the $100,000 expected over the five-year period couldn't have any significant impact on housing in the town. The town had hoped to have the $25,000 released by Nov. 1.

Other towns effected are East and West Hartford, Enfield, Farmington, Glastonbury and Windsor Locks.

Grain deal talks going smoothly

MOSCOW (UPI) — The chief American negotiator at talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on a long-term grain deal said negotiations were going smoothly, but it was to early to predict when an agreement will be reached.

Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs Charles A. Robinson, meeting with Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai S. Patolichev, said "at the moment we are in the process of negotiations and they are going along well."

But Robinson told newsmen before the session "it is really to early to predict" if an agreement will be concluded during his current visit.

Keeney St. storm drains to be discussed Thursday

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

At the urging of Director Phyllis Jackson and in answer to a petition of concern from owners of nine Keeney St. properties south of Bush Hill Rd., the Manchester Board of Directors will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. to discuss storm drainage solutions in the area.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room, with the concerned property owners invited to attend.

What brought on their concern was town plans to construct leaching galleries (king-size catch basins) south of Bush Hill Rd. They contend their area was included for conventional storm sewers in the $2 million authorized for that purpose in a November 1974 referendum.

Director of Public Works Jay Giles, in a memo on the subject to the town manager; states, "I feel it is possible that the leaching galleries will not solve the Keeney St. problem but that the apparent cost savings at this time is worth the chance we are taking."

The cost savings are considerable, with $12,000 estimated for the leaching galleries and $70,000 for the conventional storm sewers.

Giles said, "If the leaching galleries do not properly solve the problem, they can be tied into a piped system at a later date."

That system, he explained, would come when the land east of Keeney St. is developed and the town will be in a position to require installation of a standard drainage system, from Bush Hill Rd. south.

Giles said he was unaware that the town planned to locate a leaching gallery under 75 feet from a private well at 638 Keeney St. He said it's being moved so it will be 75 feet from the well, the minimum distance permitted by the state Health Department.

Giles said the problems of drainage on the properties isn't being created by storm drainage from the town road and, "therefore, I do not feel that it is the town's obligation to install a piped system in Keeney St. to solve rear yard problems."

In answer to the question, "With new pavement scheduled for Keeney St. this year, would the street be torn up again next year if the leaching galleries don't operate properly and a piped system is installed?" Giles said, with the exception of some cutting to install culverts at three or four locations, the answer is, substantially "no."

calling it essential to the people. He said only one third of the 1,500 members of his local union are working.

Opponents also included Clifford Noll and Donna Parson of the Connecticut Committees of Correspondence, who said I-84 would hurt the people of Eastern Connecticut.

One of few local residents speaking, Donald Watt of Coventry, said, "I drive 30 miles each day one way along the old Wilbur Cross Highway. The laurel along the highway is beautiful. I don't drive that far because I like to; I had to go that far to get a job."

See related story on Page 11.

Chief Lannan said the three men saved a great deal of property. Also, they apparently saved the lives of three people sleeping above the fire, he said.

Officers of the Town Fire Department told the police department's leaders of the serious nature of the fire believed to have been set by an arsonist. Only minutes separated the family of three from death by fire and smoke, they said.

Sgt. Richard Thurston Sr. wrote a recommendation for the three officers. He detailed their actions and said they were "done in the finest tradition of the patrol division."

Acting patrol division head, Lt. Richard Sartor, added his endorsement.

Chief Lannan approved.

In his report of the incident, Burns said, "At 5:14 a.m., we observed flames at the rear door of (Adrian's) Fifth Avenue Hairdressers at 34 Oak St."

"I drove to the scene with (Waterhouse) and he used my cruiser's fire extinguisher to put out most of the blaze. It was on a shelf in the back room."

"I notified (headquarters) of same. Sgt. Smith pulled the fire alarm box on Oak St."

At this time, they went through heavy smoke to the second floor to get anyone there out. They found Mrs. Sharon Chapman and her two children, Scott, 9, and Kristine, 5, he said.

The three Chapmans were sleeping directly over the fire.

The police and fire fighters guessed the fire may have been set to cover up a burglary. It is still under investigation.

The commendations will become a part of the files of the three officers, Chief Lannan said.

Two penologists disagree on value of fixed sentences

Two men who help run the state's prisons argued over how to do it Monday night at the Concordia Lutheran Church on Pitkin St. They were the first speakers in the seminar "New Trends in Connecticut Corrections" being sponsored by the Social Action Division of Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

Carl Robinson, warden of the state's maximum security prison in Somers, said he fears people are too discouraged with rehabilitation. The programs do work, he said. "Some people want only to lock up the criminal. They won't do anything for him," he said.

James Harris, chief of planning for the state Department of Correction, described the latest trend in prisons. It involves doing away with parole boards. Convicted people will get set sentences and leave prison only on the day the sentence ends.

Opinion

Thanks to you, it's working

Why should you support the United Way of Manchester? Your contribution of itself doesn't mean very much because it is easy to rationalize that it isn't necessary.

It is a way of holding up our end by doing the things we ought to do, in the most efficient and effective way possible.

But perhaps the most gratifying thing about helping those in need in our community—and there are many—is that everyone can participate through payroll withholding where he works thus making giving a bit easier by paying off a pledge over a year's time.

In summary your United Way contribution enables each of us to the best of our financial ability, to share in an overall voluntary attempt to meet the community's major charity needs; enables all of us to rest easier knowing that our contribution is going to those needs rather than high fundraising and administrative costs; and preserves our freedom to give to those causes we believe in without the costly government red tape of tax-supported charities.

Honey cake still elusive

Last week, I wrote about my search for honey in the supermarket and how concerned I was because I couldn't find any.

SOL R. COHEN

Which brings up still another story. Once, she made a honey cake for a bake sale and, when she left to deliver it, my son and I instructed her to buy back her own cake.

"I know," she replied. "I made brownies because I don't like brownies. I like honey cake." Well, believe it or not, I knew what she meant. If she had made a honey cake, she'd have eaten some of it. She made brownies and didn't have to worry about being attracted to them.

Now, don't get me wrong, she's not at all bad at brownies. It's just that she's much better at honey cakes.

Since she didn't have a cake for the bake sale, she offered a cash donation instead. The committee had to be coaxed into taking it.

The 0.2 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index for August was the smallest monthly increase in three years, but a White House press officer said the increase "is lower than we expected and we do not expect that rate to be sustained."

It had been a special dream, according to those who know the family well, that the house would one day belong to the State of Maine and that it would be a showplace for the memorabilia and papers documenting the role of the Pepperells in the early history of the state and the nation.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Yesterday we mentioned the importance of recognizing and acknowledging the Lord Jesus Christ as truly God. We gave the illustration of Thomas who exclaimed in John 20:28, "My Lord and my God."

To continue this same thought, may we share the following with you:

The unique Christ His birth was contrary to the laws of life.

His death was contrary to the laws of death.

He had no cornfields or fisheries but He could spread a table for five thousand and have bread and fish to spare.

He walked on no beautiful carpets or velvet rugs, but He walked on the waters of the Sea of Galilee and they supported Him.

Three years He preached His Gospel. He wrote no book, but no church house, had no monetary backing. But after nineteen hundred years, He is the one central character of human history, the Pivot around which the events of the ages revolve, and the only Regenerator of the human race.

Was it merely the Son of Joseph and to produce a rapid recovery from a tragic recession. The preliminary report of the index of economic indicators leveled off in August to end a five month upward cycle, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

Stock prices, which fell 7.4 per cent on the Commerce index, were the major reason for downward pressure in August. Stock prices were unstable in August because investors were concerned over rising interest rates and the end of the OPEC oil price freeze in September.

Commerce said the index was unchanged in August because of mixed results among the 11 available indicators. Five rose, five fell and one—the worker layoff rate—was unchanged.

Commerce said the index stood at 101.7 in August matching July's figure exactly — compared with the 1967 base of 100.

The July index increase was revised upward to 2.8 per cent. The preliminary report last month had shown the increase from June was 1.7 per cent, second lowest rise since the upward cycle began in March.

Historic Maine house almost became open to public

By JOAN DEPPA KITTERY POINT, Maine (UPI) — The dark brown shingles and strong chain fence around the thick hedge make the house seem almost forbidding.

Only a carved eagle above the side door and a plaque nearly hidden on a low stone wall hint the history within.

But inside the grounds, sloping toward a ship-filled cove, or standing in the stately grandeur of the hallway with two tiers of stairs and an arched window echoed by the gentle curve connecting wall to ceiling, time moves backward to the late 17th century.

As the plaque on the wall states so discreetly, this was the birthplace and home of Sir William Pepperell, whose leadership of the expedition which conquered the French stronghold of Louisbourg in 1758 impressed King Charles II that he took the extraordinary step of creating an American baronet.

Born in 1682 by Sir William's father, the founder of the family's fortunes, the spacious house with its graceful, hand-carved woodwork and tiled fireplaces has been called home by one after another of the Pepperell descendants.

For a time, earlier this year, it looked as if it might be open to the public for the first time in its 332-year history.

Joseph W. P. Frost and his brother, John E. Frost, owners of the house, would one day belong to the State of Maine and that it would be a showplace for the memorabilia and papers documenting the role of the Pepperells in the early history of the state and the nation.

So they approached the Bureau of Parks and Recreation in the Department of Conservation and offered to sell the property for the fair market price, appraised professionally at $175,000, with the understanding that the contents would be a gift to the state.

That meant the site itself, the acre of land described in the original deed of 1682 as "a plain place near the highway."

That also meant such treasures collected by the family over the years as the original charter deeding the land that was to become Maine and New Hampshire to Sir Ferdinando Gorges and his associate John Mason.

Then there was the portrait of one of the Pepperell ladies by John Singleton Copley, the evidence of their work as ship-builders and traders, the papers and letters documenting life in colonial Maine.

And there also was the little building used as a countinghouse by Sir William and his father and put to a different use in the 1840s by John Bellamy, the wood carver whose American eagles have become so celebrated in recent years. Most of the contents were to be left in the house. Some would be deeded to the state immediately as gifts.

Others would be deeded at various times so the Frost brothers could declare their worth for tax purposes. No formal estimate was made of the value of the contents, but one state official who viewed them made a rough guess of $250,000.

Funds already had been appropriated for purchases of such property and the state had every reason to believe that making funds would be available from the federal government under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1969.

That was late January and federal funds could not be sent to Maine before July 1 at the earliest, so the Frosts agreed that an option of $5,275 would be enough to hold the property.

All that remained was the approval of Gov. James B. Longley and the Executive Council.

Last month the house was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Booth Hemingway of Stamford, Conn. Both are antique dealers and, according to their son who is looking after the house until they move in, have many friends in the Kittery area.

The history of what transpired between the Frosts offer to sell the house to the state and its purchase by the Hemingways seems more difficult to trace than its colonial heritage.

Longley had been in office less than a month, elected as the state's first independent governor on a campaign of "fiscal responsibility" in government.

The Executive Council, one of three such bodies left in the country, was elected by the legislature — in this instance, Democrats — and it had clashed with Longley from the very first meeting.

When the issue came before the governor and council in late January, Longley reacted in a way that has since become characteristic. He boarded a plane and flew to inspect the site. The Executive Council went with him.

hours touring the house, examining the contents and talking with Joseph Frost.

At the next meeting the council apparently approved the order but then agreed to delay action at Longley's request.

David E. Redmond of Biddeford, the vice chairman, recalls persuading the council to vote unanimously in favor of the motion. But at least one other member, Charles Abbott of Lewiston, remembers "coming down on the governor's side," although for different reasons.

"I was concerned that the Department of Conservation didn't have a plan to care for the property," Abbott said. "It's a beautiful old house. I would like to see the state have another chance to acquire it some day."

Exactly what the vote was on that motion or on Abbott's motion at the succeeding meeting to table the matter indefinitely is impossible to determine. The council only recorded whether it approved or disapproved issues and news accounts were sketchy.

From the age of 24 he had already was principal owner of a vessel or two and in his late 20s, Legend has it that when he failed to take an active role in the acquisition as reasons.

"The Kittery historical society didn't feel it deserving of their support, the American Historical Society didn't, the New England historical group for the preservation of properties didn't think that it was," he said.

"We had people who wanted us to take what seemed to be a gift but was a responsibility," Longley said. "The gift was well intended but I asked the Executive Council, and they agreed, that this was not a priority matter."

The governor argued that such funds could be better spent on coastal property that would benefit more Maine citizens.

Redmond disagreed with the suggestion that local historical groups should have purchased the house.

"If they had $12 raised in a bake sale, that's a lot," he said. "Like many officials and office holders questioned about the property, he had been unaware that the house had been sold. Several had been under the impression that the state would proceed with the purchase. Longley apparently never formally vetoed the order.

House Majority Leader Neil Rolde, D-York, who has written a book on the history of York, was one of the last to visit the house before Frost moved the contents to make room for the new owners.

"It was like a living museum," he said. "The house is almost empty for the moment. Young Booth Hemingway and a friend have been carefully occupying two rooms, waiting for his parents to arrive.

But the history of the house, so little known to the Maine public that some officials believe it may be one reason why there was not more pressure to make the purchase, comes alive as foresters echo on its bare floors.

Historian believe the first William Pepperell arrived from the Devon coast of England by way of Newfoundland and the Isles of Shoals, possibly having first set sail from home as an apprentice on a fishing vessel.

By the time he came to Kittery in the mid 1670s, he already was principal owner of a vessel or two and in his late 20s, Legend has it that when he first asked John Bray, a magistrate and shipwright, for his daughter's hand in marriage his future father-in-law refused because of Pepperell's humble circumstances.

But trading ventures soon solved that problem as the parents of the colonies' first native born baronet were first before they moved into the house. But it was not until June 27, 1696, in the midst of the Indian wars that William Jr. was born.

William Jr. was 17 when his elder brother died, leaving himself and his 65-year-old father to carry on the driving family trade with the West Indies, the Carolinas and England. He did not take full direction of the business until about 1730, when his father was well into his 60s.

By then he had already married a "proper Bostonian," Mary Hirst, the daughter of a merchant and granddaughter of a judge.

From the age of 24 he had already was principal owner of a vessel or two and in his late 20s, Legend has it that when he

Vermonters still do it themselves

By WILLIAM POOLE SPRINGFIELD, Vt. (UPI)—When Vermonters want to get something done, they often decide it's best to do it themselves. After all, it's part of the independent heritage often associated with the state. A recent example of such independence is the effort by the town of Springfield to set up its own $57.9 million hydroelectric plant on the Black River. The river was source of power in the 19th century that helped Springfield establish its worldwide reputation as an outstanding manufacturing center of precision machinery. In the late 1800s, the river drove water wheels that powered the machines at individual plants along the river. Later, as electricity produced at fossil fueled power plants became less expensive, Springfield — like other communities across the nation — began buying power from outside sources. The source of the town's power now is the Central Vermont Public Service Corp., the state's largest electric utility. It does about 10 per cent of its business in Springfield and it attempts to get the town to set up its own municipal system. Obviously upset by the fact that the private utility's rates have increased by about 65 per cent in the past five years, Springfield voters at their annual town meeting March 3 voted 2,303 to 825 in favor setting up their own municipal system. But Springfield soon found it's not easy to take an independent course of action. It has been challenged by Central Vermont on the legality of secret discussions held by the board of selectmen prior to the announcement of the proposal last January, and it has met overwhelming opposition from residents of neighboring towns where dams and the building of a reservoir are planned. Under Vermont law, one town can use the power of eminent domain to condemn land in another municipality. So when Springfield's plans became public, residents in nearby Cavendish learned that the width of the river would be widened in their town into a 500-acre reservoir that would cover an area where at least 15 homes are located. Springfield officials have said they will try to negotiate the purchase of the properties rather than use the eminent domain procedure. Meantime, the Vermont legislature has passed a special law applying only to Springfield. It forbids the town from using its condemnation power until March, 1976. "This compromise bill has no practical effect on the project," says George Lamb, chairman of the Springfield Board of Selectmen, adding that the bill is being in the order of 100 per cent. "The committee has found these products to meet the manufacturers' claims with the temporary increase in traction being in the order of 100 per cent," he said. But he said radial tires provide virtually no better stopping ability and traction on ice than conventional tires. The greatest improvement in stopping ability and traction on ice comes from reinforced tire chains, Whitehurst said. Test findings of the committee showed that reducing tire pressure helps rather than improves traction, he said, and adding extra weight in the back of a vehicle slightly increases traction, but at the expense of steering ability. What appears to irritate Cavendish residents more than that is their feeling of powerlessness against possible condemnation of their land by Springfield. Cavendish residents, who can understand Springfield's desire to show their independence, now feel that their own independence is threatened. The biologists are considering importing white amur, an Asian fish commonly known as grass carp, to eat the hydrilla. Leaping from cliffs, Andean condors ride updrafts to an altitude of three miles, attaining speeds of 35 miles an hour.

Tolland S&WCD sets meeting

The Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District will have its annual meeting, Oct. 23 at 8 p.m. at the Tolland Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon. The meeting will hear and act on the treasurer's report for 1974-75; review the minutes of the last annual meeting; and elect two supervisors for a term of three years. Cynthia Ivey, wetlands administrator for the Department of Environmental Protection, will be the guest speaker. The district is appealing to cooperators and friends for support to help provide money for the wide variety of services the district offers. The Board of Supervisors has set a goal of $2,000. The money is used for clerical help allowing the technicians to devote more time to the problems of people in the district. It is also used for office supplies, educational material for schools, and soil stewardship material. The State Association has tried to have the State Legislature assume a larger part of the financial support for the districts but this has not met with success. The supervisors said, however, at the same time more assistance is being requested in soil and water related problems. Contributions may be made payable to the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Bolton Tigers defeat Somers eleven, 18-6

Donna Holland 644-0375 The Bolton Tigers midget football team won its third straight game of the season Sunday defeating Somers 18-6. Touchdowns were scored by Lee Schiavetti on a five-yard run and Gary Vine on a 30-yard pass from Mike Ouellette and an eight-yard pass from Chris Hopper. Gil Boiseau, head coach, said Pat Myette, Ouellette, Vine and Hopper played well offensively. He said defensively Brian Reed, Peter McCarrick, Jim Vatteroni and Phil Pelierin played well. Boiseau said Bolton remains the only unbeaten team in the southern division of the eastern conference. It will be after its fourth win Sunday against Colchester.

New equipment uses explained

Eighth District adds rescue vehicle to implement fire fighting concept

By MAL BARLOW Herald Reporter Chief Ted Lingard of the Eighth District Fire Department announced this week his all-volunteer force is moving towards "a new concept in fire fighting." Key tool to effect the concept arrived Monday. It is a rescue and attack pump truck. Lingard said the department's rescue equipment will be placed on the truck. This includes first aid gear and the machinery for extricating victims from auto accidents. Since the truck also contains 500 gallons of water, the same amount as the department's three front-line pumps, it can also be used to stop small fires. "The truck costs $25,000 and is supplied by the Emergency One Co., part of the Superior Eastern Sales Inc. firm of Natick, Mass. This truck is a former demonstrator and therefore cost the district $18,000, Lingard said. "Why send a $50,000 pumper to a dumpster fire?" Lingard said. "The new rescue and attack pumper will be the first vehicle out of the district station on Main St. When it is known in advance the call is a minor one, the truck will be the only one sent out. "It will save wear and tear on our big units," Lingard said. "And it will get us on the scene quicker." The truck's limits are that it cannot handle a major fire. Once its tanks are empty, it cannot pump more water from hydrants. In a major fire, the truck will get there first. The district fire fighters may use it to get some water on the fire quickly while the three large pumps are moved into place. At that point, it will be parked to the side of the scene. It will then serve as a first aid station, Lingard explained. "It's speed is its big feature. We can make an attack on a fire before it can make any more headway." The rescue features of the truck will be operated by the district fire fighters now graduated from the state's Emergency Medical Training. District EMT's now include: Capt. Paul Gowrek, Robert Frolich, Sam Turkington, and Brian McKeeever. Glenn Vincent and Al Venard are now completing the EMT program, Lingard said. All the other men on the department have had first aid training. It may take several weeks before the new vehicle is fully integrated into the district's fire fighting effort, Lingard said.

Thailand still U.S. listening post

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The Thai government has ordered the last American combat troops out of this Southeast Asian nation by March, but is expected to let the United States keep on monitoring Soviet and Chinese communications. Thailand decided to bend with the wind and go along with North Vietnamese demands for the ouster of all U.S. warplanes and combat troops left from the Indochina war. But well-informed Thai and American sources say the United States will keep on operating secret communications stations that can pick up radio and telephone transmissions made thousands of miles away in China and the Soviet Union. One of the stations is the 1,200-man U.S. Army installation at Ramasun in northeast Thailand near the Laotian border. Ramasun, 300 miles from Bangkok, has become increasingly important as a listening post since the United States ended eavesdropping operations in the Philippines. "Thailand is now the only place we have between Taiwan and Turkey that handles these jobs — and Turkey has just about shut down since the dispute over U.S. military aid," an informed American source said. Another post expected to remain is an Air Force radar station at Ko Kha in northern Thailand. It is used to monitor the movements of Soviet as well as U.S. space satellites. Informed sources said Thai officials want installations such as Ramasun and Ko Kha to stay because they believe the outpost will benefit Thailand as well as the United States. Officials will not discuss the form of Ramasun except to say that "electronic research projects are undertaken in support of various elements of the U.S. government." It is known, however, that the outpost listens in on military and civilian communications from the Soviet Union and China. The transmissions are recorded and processed through computers. Air Force, Navy and Army personnel work at the base. The staff is also believed to include employees of the National Security Agency, the secret government agency that deals with code-breaking and electronic surveillance.

Coventry native is new principal

MONICA SHEA 742-9495

The new principal of Robertson Grammar School is a life-long resident of Coventry. Clarence "Coy" Edmondson was born and raised in Coventry and lives with his wife Nancy, and three children Paul, Peter and Bonnie on Rt. 44A. Coy is well-known as the "Coventry Punkin Man." He and his children have raised seven acres of pumpkins which are now on sale at his home.

Edmondson was the principal of Coventry Grammar School from 1960 to 1968 before leaving to work as an assistant superintendent of Portsmouth, N.H.

He was the coordinator of student teachers at Eastern Connecticut State College for two years and then went to Columbia as a principal and assistant superintendent of schools.

He most recently worked as the Columbia superintendent of schools until coming back to Coventry as a principal. Edmondson said, "I am happy to be an elementary school principal. I enjoy this work. I taught the basics have to be taught in terms of providing a quality program of instruction for children. It is the school's responsibility to see that there is a reasonable program for each child."

"I see many good things about the Sequential Learning Program but it also has its drawbacks. The prime drawback is the scheduling of special teachers, music, art and physical education. These have to be scheduled at a time that often disrupts the prime learning time in the morning."

Edmondson indicated that he was very impressed with the organization of the school and the school system.

He said, "Over the years Coventry has done very well with their education department. I'm pleased with the education I've gotten and the education that my children are receiving. I have two children in high school and one in the middle school."

Edmondson attended the Red School on Cedar Swamp Rd. for six years, the red brick school house on Goose Lane for one year, and Center School on School St. for one year.

After that he attended Manchester High School. This was during the period when Coventry had no high school and the students living in North Coventry went to Manchester High School and those living in South Coventry went to Windham High School.

Edmondson said, "I am very impressed with the PTO and the program that they have laid out for this year. This group has done an awful lot for the school in the past two years."

"We have a good staff here at the school. I am still visiting and getting to know them and learning their programs. They have been very helpful to me and are sharing their concerns with me."

Bailey thrives on controversy

BOSTON (UPI) — He was barred from the newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst's defense is just one of a long line of controversial cases handled by attorney F. Lee Bailey.

Bailey, who became Miss Hearst's defense attorney Friday night, by his presence adds a new dimension to one of the most publicized cases in history. The flamboyant Boston lawyer with the quiet courtroom demeanor has been involved in sensational and sometimes seemingly hopeless cases for many years.

He had been an attorney just six years when he defended Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard in one of the most celebrated cases in U.S. jurisprudence. Sheppard, who was accused of killing his wife, was acquitted in a retrial after a landmark decision by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Bailey defended Boston strangler Albert DeSalvo, Florida physician Carl Coppolino, accused of killing two people, including his wife; Charles Schmid, accused of killing two teen-age sisters in the desert near Tucson, Ariz., and a long list of other controversial figures.

His philosophy: "It's a lawyer's job to defend clients. It's the jury's job to decide guilt or innocence."

Bailey has three airplanes, a $150,000 suburban home and a 35-foot yacht.

Science today:

Postponing famine for another decade

AL ROSSITER JR., UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It appears that widespread starvation can be averted around the world for the next five to 10 years but the population growth must be slowed to meet needs of later years, according to a new National Research Council report.

Even to meet more immediate demands, a 13-member committee said there must be a concerted effort to increase food production globally. Any serious setback in critical agricultural regions could have disastrous effects.

"On any time scale, the problems of southern Asia appear large and more difficult than those of any other region," the panel said. "Without early and marked decline in the rate of population growth, those problems may become unmanageable."

The summary report prepared at the request of President Ford said the overall world population and food picture has improved somewhat during the past few years and gains in agricultural productivity have been greater than anticipated.

"The problems associated with meeting overall food needs for the next five or 10 years appear manageable," the panel said. "The outlook for subsequent years is alarming unless real progress can be made in reducing the rate of population growth."

The world's population is now nearly 4 billion and is increasing at the rate of almost 2 per cent a year — about 200,000 persons a day. The United Nations projects a minimum world population by the year 2000 of anywhere from 6 billion to 7.1 billion.

The rate of population increases in developed countries is declining steadily — it is now eight-tenths of 1 per cent. But in the developing countries, the population growth rate is rising at about 2.5 per cent.

This recent growth, the committee said, "constitutes a threat to the well-being and peace of mankind."

"Certainly, for the long term, breaking the rapid rise in human populations is the most central, urgent and imperative measure in moving toward a solution of the population-food problem."

"One can easily imagine substantially increasing food production only to find that, in the absence of success in reducing population growth, a crisis involving 4 billion persons in 1975 had been exchanged for a crisis involving 7 billion or more in 2000."

Innumerable areas already under cultivation in the developing countries offer the chief opportunity for significant increases in food production, the report said. Yields in those areas now are substantially lower than in the United States, Japan and Europe.

The committee said the developing world must increase its capacity to produce, store and distribute food and the developed world will have to support much of this effort with money and expertise.

March of Dimes poster child

Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., has its own source of sunshine in Tammy Patterson, 6, the 19/6 March of Dimes national poster child. Blonde and blue-eyed, Tammy has a ready smile, despite the fact that she was born immature with an immature spine and rib cage, and defective bladder and kidneys. And as you might have guessed, she wants to be a nurse when she grows up. (UPI photo)

Willhide names campaign aides

Mary E. Fletcher of 76 Irving St. has been named campaign manager by Paul E. Willhide, Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors. In accepting appointment, Mrs. Fletcher said, "I'm honored to be Paul Willhide's campaign manager. Paul is an outstanding member of the Manchester community and is an outstanding town director. He's concerned with giving Manchester good, efficient government, which is responsive to the needs of all residents." Mrs. Fletcher is a graduate of Eastern Connecticut State College and attended Columbia University Graduate School. She served as president of the Women's Republican Club, Child and Family Services and Cosmopolitan Club. She formerly was teaching principal at Storrs Elementary School. Mrs. Fletcher was Manchester Republican town committee district leader. Currently, she is president of the Women's Club of Manchester and is secretary of the First Congressional District Republican Women's Association. She was Manchester campaign manager for Ann Uccello when she ran for Congress.

Spassky weds French girl

MOSCOW (UPI) — Former world chess champion Boris Spassky, telling newsmen "Now I have an extra queen for my game," married a pretty French secretary Tuesday in a two-minute ceremony at Moscow's Palace of Weddings. The 38-year-old grand master said he wanted to continue living in the Soviet Union but had no idea how long his wife, the former Marina Sichevskaya, could remain. "We hope we can make a life in Moscow," he said.

The lighter side: Partly cloudy Soviet missiles

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI) — Switched on the television set last Sunday just in time to catch Rep. Otis G. Pike in the act of criticizing some government agency. He was saying the nation wasn't getting its money's worth out of the vast sums the agency was spending to collect information. Furthermore, he doubted it was able to provide advance warnings. He, of course, assumed that Pike was talking about the weather bureau. Had not a torrential rainstorm last week caused extensive flooding damage in this area? And had not the weather bureau assured us a few hours earlier that the rain was moving out of the area? Certainly that was sufficient cause for Pike to complain that "we are drowning in information in intelligence which we are not absorbing." Or if not drowning, at least muddling. Subsequently, it became clear that I had leaped to the wrong conclusion. The agency the New York Democrat was referring to was the Central Intelligence Agency rather than the weather bureau. Nevertheless, certain parallels raised in my mind. Have you ever considered the remarkable similarity between the CIA and the U.S. Weather Service? Both operate satellites that orbit the earth, one photographing cloud covers, the other spotting missile emplacements and the like. Both have developed highly complex technical equipment — barometers, listening devices, etc. — for detecting whatever it is they wish to detect. Both have multitudes of trained observers feeding them information. And, according to their critics, both are making poor use of their vast data-gathering capacity. While listening to Pike on television, I hit upon what might be a solution to the problem: let the CIA and the weather bureau swap jobs. In other words, let the CIA try its hand at forecasting the weather and give the weather bureau responsibility for finding out what the Russians are up to. Each could, I'm confident, perform the other's role with no loss of efficiency, and there just might be a noticeable improvement in both. But with one big difference. Secret intelligence reports would be broadcast every night by television weathermen whereas all of the weather forecasts would be leaked to the press. The controversial air bag will be optional equipment in some 1976 model autos.

Girl Scout registration plans made ANDOVER

Donna Holland 644-0335 Helen Donahue, area coordinator of the Sachem Service Unit of Connecticut Trails Council of Girl Scouts, said there will be a registration and organizational meeting of girls and adults interested in scouting Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Andover Elementary School. A $2 registration fee includes both registration and insurance. All girls registering must be accompanied by a parent. Marie Hakmiller, field executive for the northeast area of the council, will be present to assist with the orientation.

Mrs. Donahue said there is a potential of three troops in Andover, one at each level of scouting. The three potential levels are Brownies, Juniors and Cadettes. There is a possibility of a fourth troop at the senior level being formed in the near future. The Brownie leader will be Ellen Lariviere, Junior leader will be Arlene Bene and Cadette leader will be Cheryl Dubois assisted by Cindy Parkington. Assistant leaders, program aides and badge consultants are needed at all levels.

Dental program A two pronged dental program began last week at Andover Elementary School. Swiss and Spill has 275 of the 292 students at the school participating. The Regional No. 8 dental program introduced by Judy Trainor, dental hygienist, has 56 per cent participation. Ron Cody, Dawn Cook, Carl Haverl, Colleen Keenan, Gary Krewson, Joe Landry, Bridget MacDonald and Lis Soleski were elected by their classmates to plan activities for the Grade 6 annual trip.

News for Senior Citizens

Wally J. Fortin Director Hi there! Well, tomorrow four buses will be heading out on our foliage trip to New Hampshire. We have lots of things planned, and you can bet you'll have a talk with the man upstairs to be good to you folks. We want to get off and running as early as possible because we have a busy day, and we want all you folks going on the trip to be at our center 7:45 in the morning. That means we'll all be getting up before breakfast. The weather finally cleared long enough so that we could get going on our shuffleboard tournament. Monday results found Rita Cook moving into the finals of the Class A Division by besting George Windsor in two straight games. Josephine Schuetz edged out May Martin in two games to move up to the semi-finals in the Class B class. Edwin Cook downed George Last in two games to move into the semi-finals.

Tuesday was another busy day with the following results: Marge Hall beat Helen Silver two straight, Helen Flavell beat Mercedes Prior two straight, and James Copeland won over Al Bourret in two games. It took three games for Frank Perrone to win over Fred Libby. Now we decided that the finals for both men and women's Class A and B divisions will be held Friday morning starting at 9:30.

The men's Class A championship will be decided between James Copeland and Edwin Cook, and the Class B championship will be the winner between Frank Perrone vs. Clayton Greener. In the ladies Class A division Rita Cook faces Marge Hall and Pauline Maynard for the championship, while in Class B it will be Helen Flavell vs. Josephine Schuetz. Jaycee's Dick Bohadik and members of his committee will be on hand to help with the finals and trophies will be awarded the champions immediately after the games. Action here started with last Friday afternoon when we had 63 players for our setback games with the following winners: Ann Fisher, 139; Ann Ferras, 130; Frances Strange, Mna Reuther, 129; Michael Desjonne, Al Chelman and Edward Scott, 127; Robert Schubert and Oscar Cappaccio, 123; Lyla Steele, 121; Esther Anderson, Rose Valluzzi, Marietta Hammond, Paul Schuetz, and James Comins, 118, and Betha Dairing, 118. Monday, on our first beautiful sunny day in over a week, along with our shuffleboard tournament we had a large turnout for our kitchen social bingo in the morning. In the afternoon we had 15 tables for pinochle with the following winners: Marie Day.

Committee urges big tax cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Even as the recession is coming to an end, Congress' Joint Economic Committee today forecast "ominous signs on the horizon that a new recession could be in the making" and called for a big tax cut to head it off.

In its annual midyear report of the economy, the committee not only advocated continuation of the $25 billion of personal and business tax cuts enacted last March to stimulate the economy, but proposed an additional cut of $8 billion to $10 billion for businesses and their employees.

Guidance talks at MHS

The Manchester High School guidance department will sponsor a series of four consecutive seminars for parents on education, Oct. 21, and career planning and post-high school education, Oct. 28.

All seminars are sponsored by the adult evening school. There is no admission charge. Any interested parents and students may attend.

Friday School to begin

"Friday School" for three-, four- and five-year-old children will start Friday and continue through Nov. 21 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Church of Christ, Lyall and Vernon Sts.

Essentially a weekly nursery service, the school offers mothers and opportunity for two free hours and provides for the children Bible stories, supervised play, and an opportunity for social development.

Cosmopolitan meets Friday

The Cosmopolitan Club of Manchester will have its first meeting of the season Friday at 7 p.m. in the Federation Room of Center Congregational Church.

The program will include a presentation by a choral ensemble from Hart College under the direction of Miss Dee Etta Rowe of West Hartford.

Ali reigns supreme after 14th round TKO, Joe Frazier greater than champion thought before a silent crowd of 25,000 at the Philippine coliseum and a worldwide television audience estimated at 70 million.

MANILA (UPI) - Pounding Joe Frazier into a lumpy pulp that he could barely see or even blink longer, mighty Muhammad Ali retained his world heavyweight title Wednesday with a bloody, bruising 14th round technical knockout.

Ali's victory was a surprise to many who thought Frazier would win. He was seen to be in better shape than he had been in previous fights.

Town directors face...

Among the agenda items to be discussed Tuesday and acted upon the following Tuesday (it is possible the board may act early on a few are):

Continuation of Manchester's leaflet program - a six-week program, estimated to require an additional $9,000 appropriation.

Approval of an agreement with Manchester Community College, for placing a band shell on college property, near Bidwell St. The estimated cost of the proposed band shell is about $100,000.

Approval of job classification and pay scales for 18 employees of the Manchester Water Co. who are now town employees.

Authorization for the manager to apply for a state grant for completion of the town's sanitary sewer treatment system.

Approval of a lease (from Jan. 1, 1975 to Dec. 31, 1975) with the State of Connecticut for its rental of Police Headquarters facilities on a month-to-month basis.

Toll-free area wider

Customers of the Southern New England Telephone Co. in the towns of Coventry and Andover will have their toll-free service extended as of Sunday to include calls into the Rockville exchange.

The extended service applies to those in the 742 exchange which includes all customers in Andover and most customers in Coventry. Those in the Rockville exchange have been able to call the 742 exchange, toll-free, for the past several years.

The Rockville exchanges include 871, 872 and 875, in the towns of Tolland, Ellington and Vernon. The new service will not mean an increase in monthly bills to the Coventry and Andover residents.

Later in the month toll-free service will be extended to local Hartford customers to call the Rockville area toll-free. As in the other case, Rockville exchange can call Hartford toll-free.

The committee also urged the Board of Selectmen to appoint a Charter Commission, because it has been nine months since the original commission was dissolved.

The committee voted to urge the town Zoning Commission to carefully consider the safety and environmental impact of apartments for the south side of Rt. 44A.

Dems ask for action

The Democratic Town Committee of Bolton has sent separate letters to town officials urging careful study of proposed apartments on Rt. 44A and appointment of a new Charter Commission.

Pre-season flag picks

Half right were the major league baseball divisional winners made last April by this writer.

Tabbed right were the Oakland A's in the American League Western Division and Cincinnati in the National League's West.

The New York Yankees and New York Mets were picked in the junior and senior loop's Eastern Division but failed.

Boston and Pittsburgh the No. 3 strokes six months ago wound up No. 1. Perhaps it was a stroke of good luck that the Red Sox were tabbed third best by this corner.

Coming up will be the best of five-game playoffs and the picks are Oakland and Cincinnati with the Athletics going on to win the World Series on superior pitching despite the loss of Catfish Hunter.

The latter was the reason, plus the addition of Bobby Bonds, for picking the Yankees.

Two ring records set

MANILA (UPI) - After his bruising battle with Joe Frazier, heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali said Wednesday there was a great possibility he might retire.

The 32-year-old champion was confident and as cocky as ever, however, said he was also ready to fight the winner of an elimination match between George Foreman and Ken Norton.

Ali showed up at the conference room in a post-fight interview naked to the waist, walking on stockings feet, after pointing out a technical 14th-round knockout win over Frazier in the third grade fight during a full house crowd of 25,000 at the Philippine Coliseum.

"There's a great possibility, fellas, this may be last fight," Ali said. "There's a great possibility you've seen the last of Ali."

The champion said that he was tired and his whole body was sore from the fight and that Frazier hit him at least twice with solid blows.

Champ needed rally

When Frazier's mouthpiece was knocked clear out of the ring by an Ali right, in the 13th end he was in sight. Frazier was staggered by a short right to the jaw but kept coming in.

A right and hard right and left buckled Frazier's knees. The 14th was again all Ali and it was a battered and beaten Frazier when the last three minute round ended.

All proved himself the champ with another magnificent display with his fists.

For the most part, the crowd loved the decision.

All's boxing skills were evident throughout and when he started his shuffle in the 13th one could sense he had realized his title was slowly slipping away unless he changed his tactics.

Questions remain same for Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — The same old questions started anew as the Boston Red Sox get ready for the first American League playoff in their history.

DENNY DOYLE

Is the bullpen strong enough? Will the hitting hold up in a best-of-five series? Will the pressure get to young players? The Red Sox, who returned to practice this afternoon after two days off, answered the questions sufficiently during the regular season by holding off a late charge by Baltimore. But, this time, the opponent is Oakland, winner of three consecutive World Series.

"Everyone on this team thinks we can beat Oakland," said second baseman Denny Doyle, traded from the California Angels early in the season. "We match up very well. I think hitting-wise, we're the same. We have better starters and they have an excellent bullpen."

Boston Manager Darrell Johnson answered the questions in a typically cautious manner. "You're asking me how we match up and I honestly won't know," said the second-year manager. "I mean, how can you compare teams with so many intangibles."

"You can have one pitcher who pitches the ball out of the ball for three games," Johnson said. "And he comes back and gets battered the fourth game. Then, where are you?" Johnson dismissed the relief pitcher who has pitched a 14-10 edge over Oakland in the past two seasons. "It doesn't matter about past records because you know what Oakland's like in the playoffs."

Dark may use Blue in relief if needed

DAKOTA (UPI) — Oakland A's Manager Alvin Dark says he'll need a deft touch with his pitchers as the world champions commence their American League Playoff series at Boston Saturday.

"I'm 100 percent confident Tuesday," he said (UPI) Dark said Tuesday, "we had (Cafis) Hunter, (Ken) Holtzman and (Vida) Huie. But now with Catfish Hunter, we have a different planning board."

Dark then described a scenario which had Oakland ace Vida Blue coming in as a reliever to end the series opener. "It is possible," he said. "I'm not sure, but I think it's possible. Blue is a reliever to end the series opener."

"I need to strike out a man in the last inning," Dark said. "I need a deft touch with his pitchers as the world champions commence their American League Playoff series at Boston Saturday."

Electric scoreboard gift

Robertson Park will have a new electric scoreboard next season for use during softball play thanks to the generosity of Sam Crispino, Manchester businessman.

Carl Silver, Recreation Department program director, said Crispino will provide funds to purchase an 18x18 scoreboard, the exact replica of the one in use at Charter Oak Park's Fitzgerald Field.

The Candlelight League will pay for the cable and materials needed for a press box at the site. Town workers will build the box similar to the one at Charter Oak. Crispino owns and operates the Supreme Food store on Hartford Rd.

'Stengelese' at its best

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of Casey Stengel's most memorable traits was his double-talking manner of speech, dubbed by the writers who traveled with him: "Stengelese."

Commenting on astronaut John Glenn's 1962 orbit of the earth: "There is a fellow who could find me a nice vacation to live in this club (the Mets) finishes last."

To a barber giving him a shave during the time he was a second baseman with the old Boston Braves: "Make it a close shave but don't cut my throat. I may want to do that myself later on."

To an astounded Mickey Mantle after showing the great Yankee outfielder how to play the wall in Ebbets Field: "What do you think that I was born out?"

To the same Mantle after the slugger had struck out and subsequently kicked the dugout water cooler: "It ain't the water cooler that's getting you out."

When once addressing a senate committee investigating baseball's possible monopoly: "I'm in the baseball business and it has been run cleaner than when we were out in 100 years at the present time."

To those who questioned him: "You could look it up."

"I'd like to hit in Fenway," he said. "It's the craziest town what happens, no matter, even if he can't make it in either of the games in Boston. If he can't make those, he should be healed in time to play again here next Tuesday."

"I'm worried six months ago when he fledging baseball career might be withering away, is now a solid starter and will hit right behind sluggers Johnny Bench and Tony Perez when the National League playoffs against Pittsburgh open here Saturday."

Double overtime loss for booters

By LEO AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
Successfully defending its CCIL soccer title will not be an easy accomplishment for Manchester High football players.

The Indians fell further behind in their quest yesterday being 1-0 in double overtime with Wethersfield High at the Eagles' field.

Wethersfield leads the league with an unblemished 5-0 mark for 25 points (each win worth five points) while Manchester is back in the pack with a 2-2-1 ledger for 12 points.

Forty-one seconds remained in the second extra session when Wethersfield drove home the winner. The Eagles had an indirect kick just outside the penalty area. On a set play, the Silk Towners shot in the first stanza until 20 seconds remained. Over-all, Wethersfield outshot Manchester, 32-10.

Linemen quit Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Two starting linemen say they quit the Portland Thunder this week because of low pay and their disappointment with the Hemmeter plan, on which salaries in the World Football League are based.

"I quit because I can't make a living on this," veteran NFL defensive tackle Dave Costa said Tuesday. "After what we've gone through and what lies ahead, I decided it wasn't worth it."

Guard Gary Roberts said, "When I figured all my expenses in Portland — car, house, food, insurance — I decided it wasn't worth it."

Costa, who said he made $45,000 a season in the latter stages of his National Football League career, said he lost faith in the Hemmeter plan because he was only getting $500 a game, which would add up to $9,000 for an 18-game season.

The plan provides for players to get either $500 a game or one per cent of the gate receipts. The $500 has not played before a crowd large enough for player salaries to go above the minimum.

ECAC approves resolution to rescind action of NCAA

HYANNIS, MASS. (UPI) — The 212-member Eastern College Athletic Conference has approved a resolution urging the NCAA executive council to rescind the student-athlete affidavit immediately.

The members, attending their annual meeting, overwhelmingly approved the resolution. ECAC spokesman Richard Bussey said the eight-page affidavit, which asks a great number of personal questions, was "too cumbersome to administer, and is probably illegal because it may violate the Privacy Act, adopted recently by Congress."

The affidavit, to be administered individually by athletic directors, is used as a document proving the athlete's amateur standing. Among other things, it asks if the student-athlete ever was convicted of fraud or if recruitment violations were used to lure him to other colleges.

The ECAC recommendation, which could be taken up at the Oct. 4 meeting of the NCAA executive council, calls for a shorter affidavit that complies with the Privacy Act, introduced by Sen. James Buckley, N.Y.

The ECAC members, in a straw vote, also recommended to the NCAA that traveling football squad limits be increased "by as much as 20 per cent" from the present 48-player ceiling. The membership further recommended the traveling and home squad limit be of equal number.

In other action, the membership created an ECAC Committee on Infractions to deal with violations by member schools. Don Russell, athletic director at Wesleyan (Conn.) University, was named chairman of the committee that includes the following athletic directors: Andy Geiger of Pennsylvania, Hal Westerman of Maine, Bill Moore of Central Connecticut, and Ray Whipple of Muhlenberg.

The members also voted to maintain the present membership dues at $50 and to assist Drew University of Madison, N.J., and the University of Scranton to the ECAC. Also passed were resolutions to rename ECAC headquarters in memory of Asa S. Bushnell, the organization's founder, and to propose legislation in several states that would legalize sports betting.

Garrett pleases coach

WINNER WORRIES ABOUT PATRIOTS
HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — You'd think that after watching his runners pound out 291 yards against Kansas City's three-man line, New York Jets Coach Charley Winner would be looking forward to taking on New England's three-man front Sunday.

"They're the same basic alignments but it's the people who make them different," said Winner after running his club through an unusually long two-hour Tuesday drill. "Kansas City had big strong people up front in their three-man line. They try to overpower you. New England's three men are all quick. You don't know where they're coming from and they're going to be and it's tough to put a good block on them."

The Jets gained their first victory in two games last Sunday, 30-24 over Kansas City as John Riggins ran for 146 yards and Carl Garrett lacked on 135 more. But Tuesday, a day usually reserved for loosening up, Riggins watched from the sidelines and Garrett was not at practice.

"Carl called me Monday and said he had a court case in Chicago and hoped to be in here this morning," Winner said Tuesday. "Then he called and said he was still tied up and would try to make it in Wednesday."

Riggins has a sore leg as it is described by the Jets as very minor.

"I spent yesterday in Kansas City and it was so sore I could hardly walk," said Riggins, the No. 2 runner in the American Conference behind Buffalo's Thurman.

"We're continuing to miss tactics but even worse we're missing mental mistakes," he said.

Garrett, who made his first start for the Jets last Sunday, ranks No. 4 in the AFC in rushing yards.

Winner said he hopes the Jets will cut down on the mental mistakes which have plagued them in the first two weeks on the season.

Girls' swim team organized at MHS

By LEO AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
Planned originally as just a girls' swimming at Manchester High will vary state status this fall.

The Indian maidens gained entrance into the Central Connecticut Intercollegiate League (CCIL) when Enfield High didn't field a team and took the Raiders' vacated schedule. The ladies splashed into action Thursday at the high school pool against Wethersfield High.

Coach is Dave Frost with the bulk of the squad composed of sophomores. Only three seniors, Debbie, Sue, and Sherrie, are in the team. The Indian maidens are expected, is hesitant to make any predictions considering this is the first year and he doesn't have any past performances to gauge his team on. Most likely, Frost will have to depend on the Rec program graduates to lead the way and hope others come through.

Schedule: Oct. 2 Wethersfield H, 7 Concord H, 16 Hall H, 23 Windham A, 28 Bulkeley H, 30 Penney A, Nov. 3 East Hartford H, 7 Fern A.

MIAMI (UPI) — A bolt of lightning struck and seriously injured a 14-year-old high school junior varsity football player during practice Tuesday, stunning the other players and three coaches.

Julio Portela was the worst injured of the 23 persons rushed to two area hospitals after the incident. He was listed in "very critical" condition at Baptist Hospital.

Two other youths were hospitalized in serious condition and the remainder of the players and coaches were treated and released.

Portela, practicing with the rest of the Columbus High school junior varsity team at an athletic field behind the school, was knocked unconscious by the bolt, which ripped open the legs of his uniform pants.

Assistant coach Tom O'Neil, who was standing close to where the bolt hit, said although there had been some light rain before the incident, there had been no prior signs of lightning.

"Then the next thing you knew, a big bolt of lightning hit," O'Neil said. "I've never seen anything like this in my entire life."

Portela's heart stopped momentarily after being struck and two assistant coaches administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage before rescue units arrived.

Win first start
Winning its initial start of the season Monday was the Illing Junior High girls' field hockey team, 2-0, over Timothy Nichols of South Windsor.

Sue Roth and Cindy Mills scored for Illing.

Adult education registration open

COVENTRY
MONICA SHEA

Mail registrations are now being accepted for the first session of the Coventry Adult Education program. Mail registration will be accepted until Oct. 6 and in person registrations will be accepted Oct. 7 and 8, from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Capt. Nathan Hale School on Rt. 31. The classes will run from Oct. 14 to the middle of December with some classes running longer than others. Classes will be offered Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Coventry High School and the Capt. Nathan Hale School. Monday's classes include:

creative writing; needle point, acrylic painting; pine cone wreath making, beginners knitting, introductory Spanish, driver education, beginners photography, and folk guitar. Tuesday classes include typing I, bridge, cake decorating, pottery, silkscreening, Bicentennial history, house plant care, stained glass work, and how to get a job. Wednesday classes include wooden toy making, furniture restoring, parent effectiveness, breadmaking, chair caning, rug shirret, understanding the occult, small engine repair and silkscreening. The registration fee for most classes will be $5 or $7 with non residents paying an additional $3.

WILLIAM KENNEDY

Coventry street superintendent discusses job

MONICA SHEA
742-9495

William Kennedy, the new superintendent of streets has been working in Coventry for more than a week. Kennedy is from Brooklyn, Conn., 28 years old, and worked for the state Department of Transportation for eight years. Kennedy indicated that in his first week on the job he has found that Coventry has serious road drainage problems. Kennedy said, "Almost every road I have been on has a serious drainage problem. I am in the process of looking into the present problems and classifying which ones need immediate attention. I will classify them in order of priority based on condition of the road, the amount of traffic it receives, and the drainage destruction of personal prop-ty because of plugged pipes and catch basins."

Kennedy said, "I would like to see the town garage replaced. This one is in a very bad location and almost all of the trucks leaving in a storm must go uphill. It would be a saving to the town if the garage was more centrally located."

"I would like to see a garage along the line of ten bays. We have eight big trucks now."

Kennedy, who at 28 is younger than most of the town road crew, said, "I see no difficulty because of my age. The men here have been respectful and if they have had any problems they have approached me in a gentlemanly way."

public hearing into the problems at the garage. Kennedy said, "Mike has been very helpful so far and has shown no resentment about my taking over his position."

Kennedy indicated that the town needed additional equipment for future work.

He said, "For the amount of drainage work that we have to do, I think we could use another backhoe. Possibly a combination backhoe and loader. We also need another sand loader in North Coventry so that the trucks won't have to come all the way back to the garage during a storm for sand."

"I would definitely describe myself as environmentally concerned. We presently use 15 percent salt to 85 percent sand. I will consider the possibility of a reduction on the salt if it is feasible. We have to reach a compromise between environment and safety. Some people go out in winter storms ill-equipped for road conditions. People go out expecting clear roads and summer conditions which is impossible.

Kennedy's home in Brooklyn is 22 miles from Coventry but he doesn't feel that this will be a problem in the winter.

"I don't see this as a problem during the winter storms. I can be here in a very short time when it is necessary."

Kennedy indicated that he is planning to move to Coventry in the immediate future.

Chevette.

Chevrolet's new kind of American car.

Chevette

40 MPG HIGHWAY
28 MPG CITY
EPA RATING

That's with the standard 1.4-litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission. The mileage you get, of course, will be strongly influenced by how and where you drive.

- Chevette is international in design and heritage, incorporating engineering concepts proved around the world.
- Its wheelbase is about the same as a VW Rabbit's.
- It has more front-seat head room than a Datsun B-210, more front-seat leg room than a Toyota Corolla.
- Its turning circle is one of the shortest in the world.

- It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- It is well insulated against noise.
- It is protected by 17 anti-corrosion methods.
- It is basically a metric car.
- It comes with a clear, simple self-service booklet.
- It has a standard 1.4-litre engine. A 1.6-litre engine is available (except Scooter).
- It is sold and serviced by all 6,030 Chevrolet dealers.

Other Chevrolet values for 1976.

Vega

Built to take it. Vega for 1976: An extensive anti-corrosion program. New hydraulic valve lifters, for quieter engine performance. A new torque-arm rear suspension. And Vega offers a tough Dura-Built 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine guarantee.

5-YEAR/100,000-MILE ENGINE GUARANTEE.
This 5-year/100,000-mile engine guarantee is an added value feature. It covers the engine for 5 years or 100,000 miles, whichever comes first. The guarantee is for the 1976 Vega and Monza equipped with a 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine. It does not cover the transmission or other vehicle systems. The Chevrolet dealer will explain the details of this guarantee. It does not cover repairs required because of accidents, misuse or lack of proper maintenance. See your Chevy dealer for complete guarantee statement.

Impala

One of America's most popular full-size cars. That's the result of giving America good value for the dollar. This year, the Impala series includes the new value of the thrifty Impala S - Chevrolet's lowest priced full-size car.

Nova/Concours

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it.

And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.

Chevelle

Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for the average family, makes Chevelle a size whose time has come.

There's much more to see at your Chevy dealer's. Caprice, Monza, Vega, Nova, Impala, Camaro, Corvair, Blazer, Suburban, and more in 1976.

Scholarship competition announced

Katharine Gibbs School has introduced a fall competition in its enlarged scholarship program for the 1975-76 school year.

The program, which offers a total of 92 scholarships for executive secretarial training, is open to high school seniors or graduates and to college women.

For the one-year secretarial program, or the special program for college women, there are available 25 scholarships of $1,000 each, and 40 scholarships of $500 each.

For the two-year liberal arts-secretarial program, there are 8 scholarships of $1,000 for each year and 10 scholarships of $500 for each year.

Forty-six of the scholarships will be given to candidates who meet the fall competition deadline which is Nov. 12. The remaining awards will be given in the spring competition.

Scholarship applications may be obtained by writing to the Scholarship Committee, Katharine Gibbs School, 21 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass. 02116.

Elks group aids school for deaf

The American School for the Deaf in West Hartford will be able to purchase equipment for teaching high school students business courses in its vocational department, thanks to a $1,000 donation from the Connecticut Elks Past Exalted Rulers' Association of which Alfred Ritter, past exalted ruler of Manchester Lodge of Elks, is a member.

Deafness has been a prime concern of the Elks for many years. The American School for the Deaf has received assistance from the Elks for some time, and last year, the school was formally adopted by the Connecticut Elks Past Exalted Rulers' Association, which intends to help the school in various ways in the future.

Popping toy may be banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Consumer Product Safety Commission is investigating a possible ban on a toy allegedly caused a 13-year-old boy to lose the sight of one eye.

The toy is called a "Pop-Zit," a metal basket on a stick with a spring device which causes a ball to be flipped out of the basket in which it can be caught again when it falls.

According to a petition filed by lawyers representing the boy, the child was playing in the kitchen of his home and looking down into the basket when the steel spring strip popped out and cut his eye.

Three operations failed to restore his sight, the petition said, and the eye eventually was removed. The victim, a resident of the Seattle area, was not identified.

The petition asked that the toy, manufactured by Mallory Randall Corp., be banned as an "imminent hazard." The commission staff is investigating the toy and others like it to determine if safety rules or a ban are warranted.

In other consumer news:

Consumers Union said it and several public interest groups have won an out-of-court settlement with the Agriculture Department to prevent gas-powered green tomatoes from being forced on the American public instead of the vine-ripened variety. Under the settlement, the department will have to consider such things as taste and quality, not just supply, before issuing orders favoring the marketing of the forced-ripened tomatoes, they said.

The Product Safety Commission has voted to draw up new safety rules for aluminum wire. The Aluminum Association, however, said new techniques in use since 1971 have eliminated the suspected fire danger found in older wiring systems and new rules are "clearly unnecessary."

A report published by the Health, Education and Welfare Department urged regulations be drawn up to require a medical examination before any one may be sold a hearing aid.

The Food and Drug Administration said it will continue to require pre-market tests and clearance for "heat" contact lenses because of dangers that the plastic material used could otherwise injure the eye.

Guard probe of Kent State criticized

CLEVELAND (UPI) - The official Ohio National Guard investigation of the May 4, 1970, shooting at Kent State University has been branded as an incomplete cover-up by members of a federal grand jury which investigated the incident, it was reported Tuesday.

Among the contentions raised by the grand jury in its investigation of the shooting in which four students were killed, according to a copyright story in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, were:

- Two weapons were fired that no soldiers would admit firing.

- One of those weapons was fired five times, but no one knows who pulled the trigger.

- In at least one instance, a box of ammunition "was opened up and the men were told to help themselves" without the required recording.

- There was testimony from one armorer that, when ammunition was turned in and some men were short, "the word went back to the men that they better find more ammunition or they weren't going to go home."

Del Corso, who during his testimony to the grand jury in Cleveland Feb. 26, 1974, was repeatedly asked by skeptical grand jurors to defend the investigation done by J. Gordon Pettler, the state commerce director who was then inspector general of the Ohio National Guard, in his testimony Del Corso contradicted the major conclusions reached by Pettler, the Plain Dealer reported.

But Del Corso defended the report, saying matters raised by Pettler probably had not been brought to Pettler's attention.

Mott's opens 20th supermarket

By BETTY RYDER
Family Editor

Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer joined Mott's Shop-Rite Supermarket officials Tuesday morning as she snipped the ribbon marking the opening of the 20th store at 214 Spencer St., the biggest in the chain.

As the ribbon drifted to the ground making way for the crowds of shoppers, Mrs. Schaffer said, "May you sell only good products to your customers."

On hand to greet the Secretary of the State were Joseph P. Mott, founder of the chain; Stanford Cohen, president of Mott's Shop-Rite Supermarkets; Sylvia Gottlieb, vice president of consumer relations; and Richard Cohen, store manager.

People had been waiting in line for some time and were all prepared with shopping carts to tour the facility and hunt for bargains.

The new supermarket, which had a preview opening Monday night, has 50,000 square feet of space, 34,000 of which is shopping area. There are 15 checkout counters, a courtesy booth, and parking area for 600 cars.

The store has a complete pharmacy, tobacco shop, old-time butcher shop, fresh fish department, delicatessen and an imported cheese shop.

The Spencer St. store also contains an automotive shop, a flower and plant shop, its own instore bakery.

Besides its vast assortment of groceries, Shop-Rite will also sell small appliances and houseware items.

Market lists quarterly loss

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plagued by rising interest rates and the threat of inflation, the stock market suffered its first quarterly loss in a year during the three months that ended Tuesday.

The loss followed a near-record gain during the first half of this year.

July and August also resulted in a $2 billion decrease in the value of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. Figures for the second quarter of 1974, when the economy was in the worst recession since World War II.

There was a considerable slowdown in trading, dismaying many brokers who experienced record profits in the first six months.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 85.11 points in the third quarter to 793.88, or 9.06 per cent. It marked its first quarterly loss since falling a whopping 194.54 points, or 24.24 per cent, in the third quarter of 1974, when the economy was in the worst recession since World War II.

Grant Co. in trouble

NEW YORK (UPI) — W.T. Grant Co., the troubled variety store chain, has asked the New York Stock Exchange to suspend trading in its shares because it is experiencing losses greater than anticipated.

The company said it is currently operating at "a negative net worth" and has so informed its creditor banks.

Early in August, Grant obtained an unprecedented subordination by the 27 major creditor banks of $300 million of its debt. The banks agreed to the subordination in order to enable Grant to finance larger purchases of merchandise on credit. The banks also agreed to deferrals of the rest of Grant's $600 million overall debt, of which $100 million is long term. And Grant President Robert H. Anderson said the banks also waived the working capital and net worth covenant in the loan agreements. Maturity of much of the short term debt was extended to July 31, 1976, from March 1976.

In January, Grant had announced plans to close 126 of its 1,200 stores. The company had a $175 million loss in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

Aetna joins Travelers in stopping coverage

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Aetna Insurance Co. has joined Travelers Insurance in taking steps to discontinue writing automobile insurance in Massachusetts.

Aetna said Tuesday that current rates in effect in Massachusetts are inadequate and recent legislative actions could allow the situation to continue into 1976, endangering the financial well-being of insurance companies in Massachusetts.

Aetna said it has complied with Massachusetts law and notified its agents that auto insurance coverage will be suspended after Jan. 1, 1976. Aetna said its decision is not final but depends on future events.

Travelers announced Monday its agents in Massachusetts would not be writing auto insurance policies after Dec. 31. Aetna said it insures more than 30,000 cars in Massachusetts, about two per cent of the auto business in the state.

Employers get break in paying back taxes

An estimated 13,000 Connecticut employers who are delinquent in paying unemployment compensation taxes are receiving a break — in time only — because of a computer breakdown at state Labor Department headquarters.

Labor Commissioner Frank Santaguida has extended until Oct. 15 the final deadline for payment of about $3 million in delinquent taxes that were due Tuesday.

He explained that because of a computer breakdown tax bills, which normally would have been mailed Sept. 15, were delayed eight days.

Employers whose delinquent unemployment compensation taxes remain unpaid on Oct. 15 will automatically be assessed the maximum six per cent for the 1975 calendar year. Those employers are still obligated by law to pay the overdue tax amounts, Santaguida said.

Info on corporations is easier to get now

Persons seeking information about Connecticut and foreign stock and non-stock corporations will have easier access to materials filed with the Secretary of the State, thanks to an expanded phone info-line service.

Gloria Schaffer, secretary of the state, said eight new information lines have been installed in the Corporations Division to help the public get information about corporations. Information on stock corporations has been divided into five alphabetical segments so that someone seeking information about a specific corporation can dial direct to the operator handling it.

"I feel that these innovations in the Corporations Division, headed by Atty. John Maloney, will facilitate use of corporation files by both the public and corporations," Mrs. Schaffer said.

The following are the new phone numbers for stock corporations:

For corporations with names beginning with A and Z — 566-2112; with names beginning with B to D — 566-3235; with names beginning with E to I — 566-2598; with names beginning with J to N — 566-4000; with names beginning with O to S — 566-3068.

Information on non-stock corporations can be obtained by calling 566-4833.

Long-range goals pay off for former meat packer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every company talks about long range planning, but for many it's just a gib expression.

Esmark is different. It made a batch of long-range decisions back in 1968 and has stuck to them. Esmark is the nation's largest conglomerate built on Swift & Co., the meat packer.

All the great Chicago meat baronies except Swift have been swallowed up by conglomerates in recent years. But Swift's management decided it was going to buy instead of being bought.

"The decision entailed a staggering change in our business philosophy," recalls Esmark President Don P. Kelly. "I forced us to close 300 plants and cut our payroll from $5,000 persons to $2,000. It compelled us to give up first place in beef and pork packing to our competitors, some of whom had seen the handwriting on the wall before we did. We were a little slow to realize it no longer made sense to tie up money by shipping whole trainloads of unused meat to New York, for example."

So Swift's management set long range goals and pursued them ruthlessly. Sales of properties and writedowns ran $100 million.

Swift's meat business was streamlined and diversified into poultry. Dairy and other food processing businesses were acquired and the company invested heavily in fertilizer, chemicals, petroleum, insurance and many other lines. It now is in the process of taking over 11,000 and similar products. Bought from Rapid-American for $210 million, Playtex has sales of about $225 million a year.

The name Esmark wasn't adopted until 1973. By that time half the company's volume was no longer meat. But despite the streamlining and the closing of so many plants, the Swift & Co. subsidiary still is tops in the nation's meat business, "if you count poultry as meat," Kelly said.

Other results of long range planning — and sticking to it — have been impressive. Earnings have gone up 250 per cent since 1968, sales 33 per cent, assets 37 per cent and stockholder equity by $100 million. Even when discounted for inflation, the gains are not bad.

The toughest long range decision of all, Kelly says, was that top management must give up its voice in daily operations and judge subsidiary managements and their planning on results. The top Esmark management is concerned only with more long range planning, financial, tax and legal problems, developments and acquisitions and manpower and organizational questions.

"In the old days at Swift's," Kelly said, "the question of how much to pay for soy beans or corn might have been considered all the way up to the board of directors. If I tried that today, the officers of the subsidiary would say bluntly: 'You don't know enough about it, Kelly.' And they'd be right."

The biggest job of Esmark's top management is apportioning the available funds for expansion and development, Kelly said.

"If we had unlimited borrowing rights on Uncle Sam's Treasury we still couldn't give our subsidiaries all the money they'd like to invest in their ideas for the future."

Receive awards

John J. Sullivan (left) of Ellington and Gerard E. Mahoney of Manchester were among employees of the Defense Contract Administration Services Office at Hamilton Standard, Windsor Locks, receiving cash awards recently for cost-saving work. Sullivan, a contract specialist, and Mahoney, a price specialist, helped develop and negotiate a defense contract which is expected to save the government about $2 million in overhead charges.

Herald honored for service

Alexander Girelli, left, city editor of The Manchester Evening Herald accepts a plaque from Major William Gates of the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service. The plaque cites The Herald for its service to the Air Force in publishing news of the organization and its personnel. In the background is a T-37 jet pilot trainer on display at the Parkade. Student pilots receive 90 hours of flying instruction in this trainer during the second phase of Air Force undergraduate pilot training. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Of Consumer Concern

Coping with mildew

By State Department of Consumer Protection

Cleaning closets and storage spaces is one of the chores we often keep putting off, but when you do get around to it you will probably find it can be a good feeling to get rid of some of the things you don't need anymore.

However, if you discover mildew on some of the things you still want, you need to know how to cope with it.

Once you find articles with mildew spots on them, plan to remove the mildew as quickly as possible so that the mold growth won't have a further chance to weaken or rot the material. Brush off any surface growth outdoors to prevent scattering mildew spores in the house, then sun and air fabrics thoroughly.

Wash mildew-stained articles with soap and detergent and water, then rise well and dry in the sun. If any stain remains, bleach with lemon juice and salt, or use a commercial bleach. Prior to using the bleach remember to test any colored fabrics to be sure they are colorfast.

If you discover mildew on furniture, take it outside and remove the loose mold by brushing it off with a broom. Run a vacuum cleaner attachment over the surface of the article to draw out more of the mold and then air the furniture to stop mold growth.

If mildew remains on upholstered articles or mattresses, sponge lightly with thick suds of soap and detergent and wipe with clean, damp cloth. Be sure to use the minimum of water on the fabric so the filling doesn't get soaked.

Sponge mildewed rugs and carpets with thick suds on rug shampoo, then remove the suds by wiping with a cloth dampened in clear water. Dry in the sun if possible.

If you find mildew on papers or books, remove the dry, loose mold with clean, soft cloth. If the mildewed paper is damp, dry it first, in an airy place or outside if possible.

To treat books, spread the pages out fanwise to air. If the book is damp, sprinkle cornstarch or talcum powder between the leaves to take up the moisture. Leave the starch or powder on for several hours, then brush off.

We welcome suggestions and questions. Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: Of Consumer Concern, Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or dial 1-800-842-2649 — toll free.

Meeting set

The Hartford chapter of the American Association of Medical Assistants will have a dinner-meeting Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Willie's Steak House, Manchester.

After the dinner, Grace Moore of Professional Management Consultants in Manchester will speak about "The Medical Assistant as Secretary-Receptionist."

Association members should make reservations with Mrs. Judy Vincent, tel. 644-1944, before Thursday.

Little known industry has a big future

NEW YORK (UPI) — A little known industry that may have a big future is called "ion implantation." It implants tiny amounts of metals on various surfaces in precisely the desired spot at huge savings in quantity and vast acceleration of the operation.

The speedup in the operation is so important that a leading firm in the field, located in Austin, Tex., calls itself

Accelerators, Inc. This company is engaged primarily in making equipment for ion implantation of the electrical conductive additives such as boron, phosphorus or arsenic in the silicon (glass) wafers of semiconductor chips.

This is an esoteric specialty only 10 years old and there are only a handful of other companies of importance in the field.

Accelerators numbers among its customers nearly all the giants in semiconductor industry—RCA, Motorola, National Semiconductor, Hewlett-Packard, Fairchild, General Electric, Bell Labs and Texas Instruments, and such government agencies as the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Bureau of Mines and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The ion implantation machine directs a beam of high velocity positive ions of boron or some other electroconductive additive at the non-conductive silicon wafer and embeds the conductive material in it. The chips are made up of layers of these almost microscopic wafers and microcircuits are made of chips.

"The entire $2.5 billion a year semiconductor industry has become increasingly dependent on ion implantation," explains B. A. Peskin, chairman of Accelerators, Inc., who came to the company from General Dynamics Corp. three years ago. He expects ion implantation to help the semiconductor industry to grow at an even more explosive rate than the past as the current recession ends.

Accelerators, Inc., is 20 per cent owned by Hughes Aircraft Corp.

A somewhat similar type of implantation recently has been used to save enormous amounts of gold and platinum in the electrical and electronic connector industry.

Peskin said his firm now is perfecting a technique for chromium implantation that could have enormous possibilities because a world shortage of chromium seems to be developing.

The company also is working with RP Industries, Inc., of Hudson, Mass., on a system of generating ozone to purify water more cheaply than chlorine does.

"That eventually could be a $4 billion a year market," Peskin said.

Questions and answers about Social Security

Q. When I took a part time job near the end of June, I hired a babysitter to stay with my little boy. I pay her $20 a week. Is it true that I should deduct Social Security taxes from her salary?

A. If you pay a household worker $80 or more in cash wages in any three-month calendar quarter, you must send a report of the wages and the Social Security contributions due on the wages to the Internal Revenue Service within a month after the end of the quarter. A babysitter who comes to your home is considered a household worker. Wage reports and Social Security contributions for the third quarter of 1975 - July, August, and September - are due by Oct. 31.

Q. I've been planning to apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments, but I'm afraid I won't qualify because of my income. What's the limit on income for a single person?

A. An individual may be eligible for SSI if his income is less than $177.20 a month. In determining your total income for SSI purposes, however, not all of your income is counted. If your countable income does not exceed the federal limit, you will be eligible for a federal payment, but you still could be eligible for a state payment. You should inquire if you think your income is below the limit.

Q. I started getting Social Security checks in February, but have continued to work part-time all year. I didn't think I'd earn very much, but now I find that my earnings have exceeded the estimate I gave the Social Security people in February. Should I report this change?

A. Yes. If you expect to make more than $2,500 for the year. Otherwise, you may get Social Security payments not due you and then have to pay back some money at the end of the year. If your earnings are $2,500 or less, your benefits won't be affected. But if your earnings exceed $2,500 your checks are reduced $1 for every $2 over $2,500. Regardless of how much you earn for the year, however, you can get your full check for any month you neither earn over $210 nor do substantial work in your own business.

Q. I am 70 years old and have no income at all. My neighbors told me I could probably get SSI payments but they've reduced because I live with my son. What does my living arrangement have to do with it?

A. Under the SSI program, the basic payment amount may be reduced depending on a person's income and living arrangements. If an eligible person is living in another's household and receiving support and maintenance from that person, the basic payment amount is reduced by one third. This reduction takes the place of determining the dollar value of support and maintenance and considering it income.

Q. While I was in the hospital last month, I received radiology services from a doctor. I thought the charges for these services could count toward my Social Security check. Is this true?

A. Yes, while you are an inpatient in the hospital, medical insurance pays 100 per cent of the reasonable charges for services by doctors in the field of radiology and pathology. Because the full reasonable charges are paid, they do not count toward the $60 annual medical insurance deductible.

Q. A one-inch rainfall will drop 28,721 gallons of rainwater weighing 113 tons on each acre of ground.

FBI statistics indicate epidemic of serious crime is spreading

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The epidemic of serious crime, murders, rapes, robberies, assaults and thefts — is still spreading, according to the latest FBI count made June 30.

FBI figures made public Tuesday showed a 13 per cent increase over mid-1974 in reports of serious crime during the first six months of this year.

The rate of increase was down from June 30, 1974, when a 16 per cent rise above mid-1973 statistics was recorded.

But Attorney General Edward Levi said, "We can claim no great solace in the fact that the rate in the rise of serious crime has lessened somewhat."

"Crime remains an enormous national problem and current levels are — and must be — seen as unacceptable."

The FBI said crime reports actually shot up more sharply — by 18 per cent — in the first three months of 1975, and rose 8 per cent in the second quarter when compared to the same periods of 1974.

The new figures for January to June of this year showed robbery led all serious crimes in rate of increase at 17 per cent. Murder and rape rose 4 per cent each, while aggravated assault jumped by 9 per cent.

As a group, these violent crimes rose by 12 per cent.

Property crimes — burglary, theft and car theft — were up 13 per cent.

Rural and suburban areas reported slightly bigger increases in serious crime than cities of 100,000 or more inhabitants. The urban crime rate was up 12 per cent, compared to 13 per cent in rural areas and 14 per cent in suburbs.

The South showed a 16 per cent overall increase, while northeastern states registered 13 per cent, north central states 12 per cent and western states 10 per cent.

All the increases were comparisons between crime levels tabulated at mid year in 1975 and 1974 and did not show, for example, how much the daily number of crimes increased during either six-month period.

Northeast crime rate up also

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Crime statistics for the first six months of 1975 showed a hike of 13 per cent over 1974 in the seven crimes catalogued in the Uniform Crime Report for the Northeast.

The national increase also averaged 13 per cent. The greatest increase in the Northeast came in larceny, which increased 15 per cent.

The property crimes of burglary, larceny and auto theft increased 13 per cent as a group in the Northeast, while the violent crimes of murder, forcible rape and robbery increased 14 per cent.

Three Massachusetts cities, Cambridge, New Bedford and Springfield, were the only New England areas with more than 100,000 population to show crime decreases. In Cambridge, auto theft dropped from 2,311 to 1,054. In New Bedford, larceny and auto theft both decreased. In Springfield, burglary and larceny decreased.

The largest increase in reported crime in New England was a 31 per cent hike reported in New Haven, Conn., most of it in the property crimes.

GM executive describes kidnaping as 'unnerving'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — All night, General Motors executive William Schulenberg feared for the lives of his family, kidnaped by three-tough-talking gunmen. Then — unharmed — they came home, freed by the payment of $54,000.

"It was an unnerving experience," said Schulenberg Tuesday. "I never want to do that again."

The three youthful kidnapers, one described as "just a kid," were still free today.

The 13-hour drama began about 9:30 p.m. Monday when the gunmen broke into the Schulenberg home in an exclusive neighborhood and demanded money.

Schulenberg, 48, manager of the GM Hydramatic division plant at nearby Ypsilanti, said the men were "rough and tough for the first 10 or 15 minutes. They started with some ridiculous figures."

"I had the feeling they must have wanted publicity," he said.

He told them he had no money in the house.

The gunmen then took his wife, Ruth, and their sons, Will, 11, Jeff, 15, and Bob, 16, and jammed them in the trunk of Schulenberg's company-owned car.

Two of the men drove away. The third stayed with Schulenberg, who began trying to raise the ransom by calling friends, police said.

Mrs. Schulenberg said she complained, at one point, about a lack of air in the trunk, so one of the men lifted the lid and shot three holes into it.

Schulenberg, meanwhile, arranged for his boss to pick up the ransom money from an Ann Arbor bank.

Schulenberg said he spent most of the night with his captor watching television, while the two accomplices called off and on.

"In fact, one time I had to wake him up to answer the phone," Schulenberg said.

Police were notified, but did not move in immediately out of fear for the victims' lives.

Schulenberg's wife and two sons were returned just before the ransom was paid, and the third son returned home on foot three hours later.

"I have no idea why they chose me," Schulenberg said.

Rep. Giaimo asking House to end concealment of CIA appropriation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Somewhere in the $2,010,400,000 set aside for "other procurement, Air Force" in the fiscal 1976 appropriations bill are the operating funds for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., Tuesday used the word "concealed" to describe the location of some of America's spy expenditures. He wants the CIA budget total to be public.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., used the word "classified." He says releasing that figure would help the enemies of the United States.

Both agree that if the House votes today to reveal that appropriation, further probes are possible.

This is expected to be the major disagreement in the debate over the $112 billion Pentagon money bill for the 15 months ending Sept. 30, 1976, although there also is contention over the Navy's $132.7 million request for the F18 jet fighter plane.

The CIA's budget and where the figures are hidden in the accountings of other agencies have always been secret, known to a few select committee members in both houses.

The precedent was broken this year when the House Appropriations Committee said the spy funds were in the Pentagon appropriations bill.

What's more, the committee report said $344.2 million had been cut out of the intelligence budget and that a secret letter went to the various spy agencies with spending recommendations.

"I'm telling you today that the funds for the Central Intelligence Agency are concealed in the line that says 'for other procurement, Air Force ...'" Giaimo told the House Tuesday. "We will retain in this bill the exact funds the committee voted for the CIA."

The amount will not include money for other intelligence agencies. These, Giaimo said, are tucked away elsewhere.

"The House of Representatives can't exercise its oversight," Giaimo said, "if you gentlemen don't even know the figure they spend in a year."

"We will be watching the figure from year to year and see whether it grows extensively," he said. "This will be one of the best levers we have to bring accountability to the Central Intelligence Agency."

Giaimo is not sure what he is starting. "I'm not sure how far I or anyone else wants to go in this area," he said. "We understand the reasons for secrecy, for covert actions, but we are sure the present system does not work."

Many Nutmeg motorists using marker loophole

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Thousands of Connecticut motorists turned in marker plates Tuesday to take advantage of a loophole that frees them from paying property taxes on their vehicles.

State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Stanley J. Pac said the loophole causes part of the estimated $10 million in losses annually to cities and towns resulting from all forms of motor vehicle evasions.

Motorists avoid paying an average $200 to $300 property tax on their vehicles by turning in their plates before Oct. 1, the date on which most communities base their assessments. Few towns begin assessments Sept. 1. Several days later, they will pay out a $5 transfer fee and reapply for a new registration, costing from $10 to $20, depending on the registration date.

Pac said the loophole should be closed to stop the losses.

He said his department tries to help communities keep track of motorists who take advantage of the loophole.

Town assessors, however, may claim a vehicle taxable if a car recently removed from the assessment list is registered a few days later by the same person.

One employe in charge of hauling the hundreds of marker plates turned in Tuesday at MVD headquarters here complained, "They should fine every one of them trying to beat the tax."

Collective bargaining act spurs union organizers

By ROBERT LAMBERT HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's 40,000 state workers, who have gone hat in hand for pay hikes in the past are going to be looking at their employer from across the bargaining table from now on.

With a new labor relations law which went into effect today, state employe unions were lining up to win the right to represent state workers at the bargaining table.

Employes will choose their bargaining agents for a dozen groups in representation elections, and an office of collective bargaining will be established for the state.

Once the bargaining agents are selected, negotiations can start, and the final contract is subject to approval by the legislature.

Ready with representation petitions were nearly 800 professional employes at a dozen community colleges who are asking the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, to represent them.

The Connecticut State Employees Association, with 22,000 members, is hoping to talk wages and benefits for such groups as clerical workers, toll collectors, motor vehicles inspectors, county detectives and firefighters.

The collective bargaining law comes at a time when confidence in government has been shaken by New York City's fiscal disaster and the public has become more conscious of governmental costs and efficiency.

As central to the battle as wages and working conditions will be the state's financial resources and the willingness of the public to pay for government services.

The demands for higher wages and fringe benefits will be tempered by economic uncertainty, stagnating sources of revenue and public opposition to increased taxes or an income tax.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso and the Democratic legislative leadership have pledged to operate the state within the existing revenue structure and without an income tax.

Union officials hope the first round of contracts can be presented to the legislature for ratification next February, but they will have to deal with lawmakers who have one eye on the 1976 elections.

Earlier this year, medical personnel at state institutions were given a $4,600 pay increase, a hike state Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper said was necessary to maintain competitive salary levels for doctors and psychiatrists.

The public employe unions say the public has made them the scapegoats for the state's financial problems and bureaucratic mismanagement.

HARTFORD — The Bristol teachers shifted to Superior Court today with sides were to meet to resumption of talks. Judge M. Mulvey Wednesday granted a temporary injunction by city officials until meeting.

WEST HARTFORD — of the news media will study Connecticut's new information law in a workshop late this afternoon at the University of Hartford. It will include a 7 p.m. dinner by U.S. District Judge John Man of New Haven.

Regional

KINGSTON, R.I. — A committee of the University of Rhode Island is being used to figure out tips for serving home heating oil. It has been fed floor and space heaters, small house and other data to calculate fuel usage. Setbacks at 65 instead of 70 can cut fuel bills 10 to 12 percent according to the committee.

MONTPELIER, Vt. — Eric Schuppin of Jericho has been subpoenaed to testify in Connecticut about the state's nuclear power program. He has refused to grant immunity from prosecution. They admit arranging the "rescue" of their daughter, Tamara, 19, from the controversial Unitarian Church.

National

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says he will not buy 5 million more acres of this season's grain crop in the United States, a quantity that Ford calls a "good figure."

BRYAN, Ohio — Two men charged as accomplices in the 1970 extortion-kidnaping of a General Motors executive and his wife were captured early today in Cleveland. One suspect had $25,000 in his possession. Arrested were: Kenneth Royce, 18, and John Szyrnolowicz, both of Ann Arbor, Mich.

SAN FRANCISCO — Hearst has been positively identified as the woman who rented the cars used in a suburban San Francisco bank robbery in which a woman was killed, the San Francisco Chronicle reported today.

WASHINGTON — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said today that he has become one of the most vocal critics for fighting organized crime. He urged 400 state and local police chiefs and leaders at a national crime conference to seek state authority if their local agencies have not already acted.

WASHINGTON — Sharp increases for food, metals, wholesale prices per cent in September, the Department said today. For three months, prices have risen at a compounded annual rate of 10 per cent for bulk purchases.

International

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Four persons were shot and killed in two separate shootings shattering a hitherto peace in Northern Ireland. Five persons were wounded in the attacks caused widespread panic and two policemen were wounded.
