

The candidates are saying Advisory group on aging proposed

VERNON
Thomas A. Benoit, Democratic candidate for mayor, today proposed the establishment of a Vernon Advisory Committee on the Aging to assist the Town Council and other local boards in identifying and providing necessary and desirable services to Vernon's senior citizens.
All too frequently, the needs of our elderly in the areas of transportation, recreation, health services and such, are not adequately met because their special problems are not identified and brought before the proper governmental body for prompt consideration and action, Benoit said.
He explained that those who need help are sometimes uncertain as to the proper way to voice their concerns. He said they don't know whether to take them to the Town Council, the mayor, the Housing Authority,

Goldberg names campaign manager

Mrs. Ann Roy of 133 Prospect St. has been named campaign manager by Jack D. Goldberg, Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors.
"I'm very happy to be working for the election of Jack Goldberg," said Mrs. Roy. "He's a man who can get things done and we need his experience and hard work on our board. Jack's awareness of financial matters and fiscal responsibility make him an excellent candidate particularly in the difficult economic situation we face."

or who.
He added that existing boards and commissions, with the pressure of town business, have a limited time in which to carefully weigh the needs expressed, examine the alternative solutions and recommend or take action.
"An advisory committee would be charged with the responsibility of remaining in close contact with our senior citizens by way of meetings and hearings throughout Vernon," Benoit said.

He particularly said this would include meetings at housing for the elderly to solicit views and recommendations as to current and future needs.
He said his proposed committee could see to it that, where appropriate, local boards and commissions are informed of situations requiring action to be taken and that such body have the benefit of the committee's recommendations.
He said this committee could also act as a valuable resource to state and federal legislators in the formulation and proposal of advisable legislation to assist the senior citizens.
"By providing our older residents with a means to reach the proper segment of our local government, which is devoted exclusively to the consideration of their special needs, we will have taken a major step toward the resolution of the many problems we face today and will encounter in the future," Benoit said.

Students get Merit commendations

Several Manchester High School students have been named Commended students in the Merit Program by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.
The following students have received Letters of Commendation because their scores were just below those of the Semifinalists announced earlier. To increase their opportunities for college, the NMSC reports the Commended students' names to the regionally accredited U.S. colleges they named as their first and second choices when they took their tests in October 1974.

State

HARTFORD—The 26 per cent budget increase requested by state agencies for the next fiscal year will not be approved, says State Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven. The request would raise the overall budget from $4.4 to $1.8 billion and require an increase in the state sales tax from 7 to 12 per cent, he said.
HARTFORD—Gov. Ella T. Grasso has asked state officials to recommend improvements in a $83.5 million contract the administration of former Gov. Thomas J. Meskill signed with General Electric for 100 railroad cars. One weakness was that GE was advanced $5 per cent of the cost of the work before a single car was delivered for Penn Central's New Haven commuter lines, she said.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - In about three months companies will begin their first major drilling activities in their quest for oil and natural gas on the North Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf, according to Gov. Philip W. Noel.
The Rhode Island chief executive said Friday a total of five "off-structure wells," each 1,500 feet deep, will be drilled by New Orleans firm to gather geological information on the Georges Bank and Baltimore Canyon Basin.
"These off-structure wells are meant to miss oil and natural gas deposits. They are first for scientific information. It is the first major drilling activity on the Outer Continental Shelf, and the drillers will base themselves in Rhode Island," Noel said.
He recently returned from a two day meeting with industry executives in New Orleans where he promoted the Rhode Island coastline as a base site for offshore oil exploration.
"Noel said the rigs to be used for the five "off-structure" borings will be the "exact same type" used to actually drill for oil. "Except they are not drilling for oil. They are just gathering information necessary for their future exploration. It is the same process and the same equipment used to drill for oil," he said.

Battle erupts at airport

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Guerrillas attacked Beirut International Airport today killing and wounding security guards and passengers in a burst of gunfire before they were overpowered.
A military statement said one of the guerrillas and a policeman died in the shooting and "several" civilians and security officers were wounded.
Witnesses had said earlier they believed at least two civilians, including a child, had been killed.
"A group of armed men stormed the main gateway of the airport building at 5:25 a.m. and began shooting at passengers and guards in the passenger hall," the military statement said.
It said a police sergeant, two policemen and two soldiers were wounded along with several passengers.
"One of the armed men was killed, another wounded and a third arrested." The statement said an investigation by the military prosecutor was underway.
The Palestinian News Agency Wafa said Lebanese security forces reported that the wounded guerrilla carried a membership card of Al Fatah - the largest Palestinian guerrilla group.
"Investigations will reveal whether this card is genuine or false," Wafa said.
Palestinian guerrilla units said they had no idea of the identity of the men in the operation, or if they belonged to any Palestinian unit.
Witnesses said four guerrillas were involved in the operation - one escaping after dropping the other three off at the airport building in a car.
Earlier, there was confusion over a possible fifth guerrilla having been captured, but the official military statement said only three were actually involved in the airport shooting.
Witnesses said "there were bullets flying everywhere and people were running around screaming it was a nightmare as no one knew what was going on."
Airport officials and screaming passengers ran for cover amid scattered baggage and shards of glass from bullet-shattered windows as the guerrillas fired on a line of passengers waiting to check in on the early morning Egyptian flight to Cairo.
The three guerrillas dived across the weighing in counter out to the terminal building and ran to the main airport building.
Security guards ringed the plane as officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization arrived at the airport two hours after the attack began, the guerrilla was taken off the plane.
One furious security guard tried to kill the captured guerrillas, but was restrained. A policeman said a friend of the guard had been killed. Over three hours after the attack, Beirut airport remained closed.
The PLO had no immediate comment on the identity of the guerrillas.
"Everybody knows that the PLO has consistently condemned such incidents as this," a PLO official said.

Ford to lead parade in bullet-proofed car

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A festival parade today in West Virginia was President Ford's first planned outdoor appearance since an assassination attempt two weeks ago, and a bulletproof, bubbletop limousine was enlisted for security.

Kissinger Mideast promises may turn out to be invalid

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The assurances given Israel and Egypt by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as part of the interim Sinai agreement may turn out to be invalid under domestic and international law, according to Senate legal specialists.
The assurances, after much wrangling, were made public by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday.
The wide-ranging promises of aid to Israel in the case of a Soviet threat, most particularly, were described by the Office of the Legislative Counsel of the Senate as "beyond the power of the President to enter into without the advice and consent of the Senate."
The Office of the Legislative Counsel found only one document clearly valid as it now stands. That document stated the United States would continue its non-recognition policy of the Palestine Liberation Organization until the PLO recognized Israel's right to exist.
The legal office concluded the executive branch probably also exceeded its power in promising to consider to sell Pershing missiles to Israel and to offer various forms of assistance to Egypt, at least, without the express consent of Congress.
It made its findings in a 44-page secret memorandum requested by Sen. Dick

New car sales up

DETROIT (UPI) - Despite higher prices for 1976 models, car buyers are responding enthusiastically, giving automakers their third best monthly sales figures in a year.
Even before they were introduced formally, the new models accounted for 39 per cent of the 590,323 monthly domestic sales, down 4 per cent from a year ago.
Business was off 3 per cent during the final 10 days of the month but was still the "highest 10-day period since Sept. 21-30, 1974, when buyers were trying to beat higher prices of 1975 models."
Imported car sales jumped 1.5 per cent with 139,000, but their share of the market dropped to 19 per cent. It was, however, their strongest recorded September performance since last September. GM sales of 332,730 cars were up 14 per cent. Ford said 155,775 cars off 25.5 per cent from a year-ago record. Chrysler had 73,630 sales, off 16 per cent with no 1976 models on the market; and American Motors' sales were up 13.5 per cent with 29,136 cars.
AMC once again became the No. 4 seller, occupying the past two months by Toyota then, Datsun, two Japanese imports that have replaced Volkswagens at the top of the foreign car sales list. Both set September sales records.

PRESS AND REVOLUTION

American Antiquarian Society
The Boston Port Bill, closing the town to all shipping, went into effect June 1, 1774. It was a day of mourning and demonstrations not only in Boston, but in other parts of America, too. Patriots of Rhode Island expressed their sympathy in the Newport Mercury and pledged their support to the Sons of Liberty who were to be ready to fight against slavery.

In Philadelphia flags were at half mast, shops were closed and muffled church bells rang a solemn protest. Effigies of the leading British minister, Lord North ("that blood-thirsty wretch"), and Gov. Thomas Hutchinson of Massachusetts were carried through the streets of New York and finally destroyed. At other places there were demonstrations where the Port Bill was publicly burned.

The British had surely miscalculated colonial feeling. Instead of isolating Boston, the ministry had aroused Americans to a show of sympathy and support for the town and the entire Bay Colony.

How to cope with the plight of Boston was the immediate problem. As business came to a halt, everyone in the city felt the pinch. The Massachusetts Spy reported that "nine tenths of the inhabitants had been rendered wretchedly miserable." It seemed to Sam Adams and the Boston Committee of Correspondence that the only way to save Boston from ruin was to suspend colonial trade with Britain. The Committee therefore drafted a Solemn League and Covenant by which the colonists would agree not to import or use British goods until the Port Bill was repealed.

A more judicious and reasoned comment during the debate over nonimportation came from John Jay of New York. "Negotiation, suspension of commerce, and war are the only three things. War is, by general consent, to be waived at the present. I am for negotiation and suspension of commerce."

Although some conservatives were opposed to nonimportation, general sentiment favored such a policy. The Continental Association (adopted 1774) was closely modeled on a Virginia Association that had been drawn up in the previous August. It was agreed that no goods would be imported from Britain after Dec. 1, 1774. At the same time the slave trade was to be discontinued. In March 1775, nonimportation of British imports and certain foreign goods was to commence. Effective Sept. 1, 1775, there would be an embargo on all exports to Britain, Ireland, and the British West Indies.

To enforce the plan each town and colony was to elect a committee of citizens who would watch for violators of the Association. Any persons found doing business with the British were to be condemned and exposed in the newspapers. It was also agreed to boycott business with any colony that did not uphold the agreement.

By April 1775, the plan had been approved by twelve of the colonies, and a modified form had been adopted by Georgia. Newspapers and broadsides printed these agreements in all of the colonies.

The colonists were disappointed in the immediate effects of the Continental Association because Parliament was in no mood to give in. Restrictions on trade with the colonists were followed by a royal proclamation banning all commerce with the rebellious Americans after March 1, 1776.

The Continental Congress responded by throwing American ports open to the world. Great Britain was determined to suppress the colonial rebellion, and the Continental Association did not bring the British to their knees immediately. In the long run, however, the effect on business brought pressure to give in to the American demands.

In an effort to placate the Patriots and save his business, James Rivington, the Loyalist printer of New York, signed the Continental Association, and was accordingly allowed to return to his home. The announcement of the Provincial Congress was printed in Rivington's New York Gazetteer, as seen here. These efforts didn't save Rivington, however, and his print shop was destroyed by a mob a few days later. (Courtesy, American Antiquarian Society)

News for senior citizens

By WALLY J. FORTIN
Director

Hello everybody, it's that time again, and this past Thursday 180 of our members headed for foliage country amidst the threat of rain. You'll have to wait until Wednesday to hear how everything went because this column is written Thursday to be in Saturday's Herald.

Things around the Center are really picking up and along with the coming of October, we're planning a Halloween Dance. Louis Joubert and his band will be back with us by popular demand, and there will be goodies to munch on, beverages, prizes for the costume parade, and also then our regular batch of door prizes. Lots of fun is in store for all who attend, and although tickets will be sold at the door, they are available now at our office. They are $1.50 each.

Tuesday here proved very busy. Our big bus was out taking seniors shopping. We had the semifinals in our outdoor shuffleboard tournament and were to complete the tournament Friday.

While all this was happening, we had our usual fine turnout for the oil painting class and also had 16 members in the ceramic class.

Howling scores
Tuesday afternoon, our Senior Bowling League was busy at the Parkade Lanes with the following results: In the women's Class A group, Betty Lamoureux won the high triple with a 336, and Lee Steiner won the high single with a 127.

In the men's Class A group, Andy Lamoureux won both the high triple with a 523, and the high single with a 186. In the Class B group, Al Bourret won the high triple with a 438, and Harding Carter won the high single with a 159.

On Wednesday we had 11 tables for pinocle in the morning, with the following winners: Cell Benson, 613; Betty Jesanis, 591; Bess Moanan, 574; Esther Anderson, 572; Rubina Carroll, 568; Lydia Steen, 567; Lillian Lewis, 565; Archie Houghtaling, 562; Helena Garelo, 553; Rene Maire, 551, and Ann Haupt, 551.

Along with that our crewel embroidery class was busy doing their thing.

In the afternoon we had 16 members for our arts and crafts class, not as large as usual, but other outside groups had things going on, and some of our class went with them. Meanwhile we had 20 bridge players and the lucky winners were: George Vallone, 4,830; Marge McLean, 4,550; William Lucas, 3,530; Kay Linhart, 3,130, and Nadine Malcolm, 2,870.

Photographer due
Next Thursday for our Funday we will have our No. 1 photographer, Nils Carlson, on hand to show us a variety of slides of happenings here at the Center and also of our Wildwood trip.

In the evening the bus will be heading to the Hartford Civic Center to see the Bob Hope Show. The bus will leave the Center at 7 p.m. Members should be at the Center not later than 6:45.

This is our last reminder about the Brown dog, your final payment is overdue, and must be paid by Wednesday of this week.

A date to remember is Thursday, Oct. 23, because it's the day that flu shots will be given at the Center.

Menus for the week
Menus for the week are:

Monday: Clam chowder with crackers, tuna boats, potato chips, homemade peanut butter soy-yo ketchup, beverage.

NOTICE MANCHESTER WATER DEPT
will begin flushing the water mains of the former Manchester Water Company in the North End of town on Monday, October 6, 1975 and will continue Monday thru Friday until completed.

Should you experience rusty water it may get into your hot water tank. If it does, after the water returns to normal, clear the settled material by drawing off the water from the faucet at the bottom of the tank. Should you have a load of wash stained or mottled by this disturbance, after the water returns to normal, wash the load with your regular soap and 4 ounces of cream of tartar. This should clean the wash satisfactorily.

Unanswered questions were answered

The week started off like any recent week in Manchester, with unanswered questions about a proposed Buckland firehouse and about a school construction referendum.

By 9:30 Monday night, both questions were answered, at least temporarily and in part to everyone's satisfaction. By 4:30 vote along straight party lines with the Democrats voting "yes" and the Republicans "no" the Board of Directors gave the green light to construction of the firehouse (N. Main St. and Toland Tpk.). It authorized the manager to sign a $233,000 contract with Fred Brunoli & Sons of Avon, the low bidder. Estimates are the construction could start in two weeks.

The board's action followed an opinion by John R. FitzGerald, the Manchester attorney retained to give an outside (of government) opinion, he said that the town has clear authority to construct a firehouse in the Buckland area. And, also by a 6 to 3 vote among the same lineup, the board left the $2,373,000 school project question on the Nov. 4 voting machines and adopted a resolution explaining its position. The resolution stipulates that the construction, if authorized by the voters will be contingent on town receipt of state funds (Catholic Church, 23 Colway St., Friday, the Manchester Property Owners Association (MPOA) executive board urged voters to defeat the $2,373,000 question, saying "We don't think it advisable to give the directors a blank check." on the basis the resolution is non-binding and could be countermanded by a future resolution.

Politics
With the municipal elections a little over four weeks away, politics and politicians were waiting eloquent and the campaigns were heating up. Charges and countercharges, claims and denials were issued every day, serving notice on the voters they can expect more campaign oratory than in many a year.
Republican Director Carl Zinsner's blamed poor planning by the Democrats for the flooding at White Brook and the damage to the Bidwell St. Bridge during last week's heavy rainfall.

Democratic Director Phyllis Jackson called Zinsner's remarks "political rhetoric" and blamed the Republicans for not correcting flooding conditions the many years they were in office.
Town Manager Robert Weiss estimated it would cost about $85,000 to replace the bridge. He said it will be repaired instead.

Edward Wilson, Republican candidate for the Board of Directors, announced that James O. Rogers of Bolton will be moderator at a debate Monday night between Wilson and Mayor John Thompson. It will be on the subject of "The State Income Tax," and will be at 8 p.m. at the K of C Hall, Main St.

Leaves, highway, shell
Continuation of Manchester's leaf-pickup program is an item on the board's agenda when it meets Tuesday night and indications are it will get bi-partisan support.

Court, police, fire

Manchester and East Hartford town officials are seeking bids for an 18,000-square-foot court house to serve Common Pleas Court, Geographical Area 12. The towns will lease the space to free up space they now rent in their respective police stations to the state for the court functions.

Police are seeking $11,333 in town matching funds to get a total of $189,600 to fund a pilot data system. The rest of the funds have been approved by federal and state agencies.

Chief Ted Lingard of the Eighth District Fire Department announced his volunteer force is developing "a new concept in fire fighting." The concept involves use of a new rescue and attack pump costing the department $10,000. The pump is designed to respond to small fires and auto accident scenes.

Wings of evening: Raw squash

At a recent meeting in Hartford, sponsored by the Capital Region Conference of Churches, we were seeking ways of helping the hungry of the world. We talked about the poverty level in the "third world," malnutrition in our own country, and low-income families around Hartford.

The shocking immediacy of the problem was brought home to us by a soft-spoken, grey haired lady who is in charge of "the Pantry" in Bushnell Church (Albany and Vine Sts. in Hartford). She related that recently a Puerto Rican family of four came asking for food. Fortunately a farmer had just brought in a load of squash. When she gave some to the family they were so hungry that they gobbled up the raw vegetable right there. She went on to say that "Pantry" needs more help for the demand is greater than the supply.

I mentioned this incident at the next meeting of our own Manchester World Hunger Council. Then and there, it was decided to make some kind of a double appeal — for our local pantry at Center Church, and for the one at Horace Bushnell Church. You will be hearing about her later in your school, church, club, or through the media.

If every family that came to worship at church or synagogue would bring a can or package of food to leave in a well-marked container for the hungry people of our area, it would be of great help to the world and keep us sensitive to the fact that there are indeed hungry families in our midst.

Cleaning up the grass roots

Most states, and numbers of counties and cities, are far ahead of the United States government in laws attacking conflicts of interest and corruption among office holders.

At least 30 states now have such laws. So do a fist-full of local governments.

But in all too many cases, even the well-written laws go unenforced. Most state and local prosecutors ignore corruption — if it's political. To act would involve prosecuting friends and associates.

Ethics committees, appointed to watch dog state legislatures, likewise have been snail-like in enforcing the rules governing financial disclosure and financial conduct for state legislators.

Sometimes, federal officers move in where locals fail to act. As in New Jersey and in Baltimore County, Maryland. But these cases are few and far between. And the federal officers, of course, cannot by any stretch of power, enforce state laws. Federal law, what there is of it, is filled with loopholes.

But who then will enforce federal corrupt practices, financial disclosure and conflict of interest laws? That is, if Congress ever stops its dilly dallying and comes up with adequate rules governing the ethics and the financial disclosure of Washington lawmakers, officials of the executive departments, and the military.

The answer is probably appallingly simple. Even if the laws are written with care and precision — and there is no evidence of this to date in the bills now before Congress — they will not be enforced, except in rare instances. The record of the Department of Justice has not been good in political crimes. Despite Watergate, the attorney general's batting average is not likely to improve greatly, especially when it comes to investigating, prosecuting and convicting U.S. congressmen.

This means that if we are to get the laws required, and see to their enforcement, individual citizens and citizen groups, and whichever political party is out of power at the moment, will of necessity bring these cases to public attention and see that they are brought to trial in whatever court is appropriate. The press is one of the most important of these groups, and it is certain that if we are to have effective enforcement of conflict of interest laws and a major reduction of political crime, more newspapers must of necessity assign additional reporters to dig where prosecutors are unwilling to go. Politicians are not going to police themselves, except in rare instances for short periods. There have been Watergates before, with nothing done.

This is not to despair. As Common Cause reports, of the 14 independent state ethics commissions monitoring state conflict of interest and financial disclosure laws, 11 have been established in the last 36 months. Half of the 30 state laws which require public officials to disclose financial interests and conflict of interest laws, have been put into force in the same short three years, including most of the more rigorous.

The California Political Reform Act, approved by 70 per cent of the state's voters, was passed in June, 1974. In November, 1972, 72 per cent of Washington State's voters put into effect a law requiring state and local elected officials to file each year a sworn statement of financial affairs. South Dakota, in 1974, passed a sweeping law which includes candidates for Congress, as well as state elected and appointed officials.

The evidence is not all in, but it seems clear that most of the 30 state laws were rammed through by public pressure.

performed its once-a-year act of providing food for the hungry by bringing something for the Thanksgiving baskets. I recall one church school in Vermont that responded with overwhelming generosity. The array of goodies were sorted, packed into baskets and delivered to the town's needy families, after which we went home to our stuffed turkey and pumpkin pie feeling that we had one good turn.

The next Sunday in the middle of the carefully prepared worship service a late-comer marched up to the altar with a can of corn and placed it next to the candles. Somewhat annoyed at this interruption, the teacher asked — "What did you do that for?" The young Christian innocently replied — "Last Sunday there were hungry people who needed food. Aren't there hungry people?"

Poem of the week
"Oh, God! Why did I do this thing?" is a cry many of us have uttered in our hearts as we ask forgiveness for "those things which we ought not to have done." Here these words are put in the mouth of Judas even as he seeks to justify his act. They call him king; and I would have no king.

Let all be equal, eye, nose, leg, be ever. Why should the weakling King be ever pressed should expect their troops home around August 5, 1968."

At about the same time, reports reaching the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research said representatives of the Viet Cong had boarded an international conference in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, of widespread speculation within the Saigon region. Conferees were told privately that one-third of the South Vietnamese government had been penetrated and that a major offensive was being directed at cities in the South early in 1968.

Various Vietnamese agents in U.S. occupied areas moved a flood of information about Viet agents moving through southwest Viet with the message that the war would be over in February. Captured enemy documents told the same story.

Other Communist agent passed the word that the South Vietnamese no longer could expect to be protected by the United States. The Saigon word was captured on February 1.

The material in "The Super Spies" came from informants in the Pentagon, the CIA and the State Department. Obviously, it was no secret to officials even at middle levels that the Johnson administration was kidding the public about the situation in Vietnam.

Adams names among those involved in the deception U.S. Ambassador to Vietnam Ellsworth Bunker; then White House security adviser: Walt Rostow; former CIA Director Richard Helms, and Gen. Creighton Abrams, Earl G. Wheeler and William C. Westmoreland. That figures. But, in 1967-68 the Pentagon's juggling of intelligence and another stay on class, unpublished, gossip even among lowly spear carriers in the White House, Pentagon and State Department.

Still, the great deception went officially undisclosed until Sam Adams' testimony would be over in February. Captured enemy documents told the same story.

"We rely on our intelligence to provide us with objective data," Pike said. "In this case, it seems to me that political decisions were made, after which intelligence was shaped to fit the political decisions."

blame the workers and unions, while the owners are an "us against them" class consciousness which is absurd in a modern democracy — blame the inefficiency and greed of the managers. Everybody blames the government, and nobody does anything about it.

There is no single enemy to isolate and attack. But one can spot a cluster of interwoven strands: The failure of innovation in management and technology, an educational system which was geared to the humanities and not technology, the erosion of the work ethic by class bitterness (even though most British workers do work hard), the failure of the London money market to invest in British industry, they have done everywhere.

This is a discouraging tangle of circumstances, but if it is broken at one or two crucial points it can unravel. How that can be done is the subject of my next piece.

blame the workers and unions, while the owners are an "us against them" class consciousness which is absurd in a modern democracy — blame the inefficiency and greed of the managers. Everybody blames the government, and nobody does anything about it.

There is no single enemy to isolate and attack. But one can spot a cluster of interwoven strands: The failure of innovation in management and technology, an educational system which was geared to the humanities and not technology, the erosion of the work ethic by class bitterness (even though most British workers do work hard), the failure of the London money market to invest in British industry, they have done everywhere.

This is a discouraging tangle of circumstances, but if it is broken at one or two crucial points it can unravel. How that can be done is the subject of my next piece.

Red Sox given nod today

While the pick is Oakland over Boston in the American League playoffs getting under way today in Boston, the choice is the Red Sox to win the opener behind Luis Tiant. Sunday's game at Fenway Park starts at 4 o'clock... Fred Compose was one lucky Manchester baseball fan who was able to get tickets for the two playoff games this week in Boston. "I feel happy about it," he said before departing for Beantown. He mailed his application on Monday, days after the Red Sox ticket office said applications would be accepted. Kevin Walsh of the New England Whalers reports 7,500 tickets have been sold for the WHA opener Saturday night, Oct. 11 against Houston, which means there are plenty of seats available. The Hartford Civic Center holds 10,400. Walsh said the Whalers expect the average between 9,500 and 10,000 for home games this season... Highly pleased with the turnout of 6,626 fans for the combination live and closed circuit fight card at the Hartford Civic Center last Tuesday night, Promoter Vito Tallarita is now planning to stage several live shows at the Civic Center's Exhibition Hall. Byron Trimble, Center director, told me the hall will seat up to 2,000 spectators for a ring show. The cost of renting the Civic Center was too high for an ordinary pro ring card. The $75,480 taken in at the box office for the Ali-Frazier show in Hartford represented a new all-time high for boxing in Connecticut.

Standard-sized ice rinks

Standard size for a hockey rink is 200 x 85 feet... When the Minnesota Fighting Saints met up with the New England Whalers in an exhibition WHA game this week in Hartford one of the local fans in attendance was Arnie Sterud, Manchester post office official, and a native Minnesotan. Dr. Robert Butterfield, Ted LaBonne and Paul Bortolotto were among the many local hockey fans on hand for the 1975 unveiling of the Whalers in a 5-4 loss to Minnesota. There are plenty of tickets available for tonight's game against Quebec... Sunday night at the Civic Center, Billy Cunningham and highly-touted George McGenis will lead the Philadelphia Flyers into Hartford to face the Boston Celtics Sunday night. Tickets are available at Nassif's Arms in Manchester. Game time is 7:30... Fourteen-year-old Cherrie Dow of Manchester and Hilary Demarest of Glastonbury will tangle this noon for the Women's Division championship in the Hartford Cistic Fibrosis Tennis Tournament. It will be the first meeting between the pair. Demarest is on the teaching staff at the Manchester Racquet Club... Can you believe that the Manchester Youth Hockey Association program starts tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock at the Bolton Ice Palace. Thirteen 14-year-olds will practice at that time... The annual MYHA door to door campaign will be held Sunday afternoon... John Bremser, Rob Cochrane and Jim Bell were the Manchester bowlers who wound up on the money list in last week's Pro-Am Bowling Tournament at the Holiday Lane. Bremser, Cochrane and Bell each won $20.

Notes off the cuff

Little League baseball program in Manchester will hold its annual meeting and election of officers Oct. 16 at the Legion Home. Jim Leber will step down as president after serving three years... Middle-aged tennis players who want to pick up a few points can't go wrong by taking in the Grand Masters Tournament. It will be the first meeting between the pair. Denver tops Nets

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The Denver Nuggets took a 114-104 win from the New York Nets Friday night in an American Basketball Association exhibition game. High scorers for Denver were rookie David Thompson with 25 points and Steve Jones, also with 25 points. Nets' Julius Erving had 31 points.

Frazier in news, new Mets' manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Joe Frazier, the New York Mets new manager, does as well as Joe Frazier, minor league manager, Mets fans can start buying their 1976 World Series tickets right now.

While managing in the minor leagues, Frazier, who will be 33 Monday, won five pennants in 10 years, including league titles the last three years and four of the last five. He began his current winning streak by leading Memphis and Victoria to respective back-to-back Texas League championships in 1973 and 1974 before piloting the Mets' Tidewater farm club to the 1975 International League flag.

"I'll try to manage exactly by the way I did the last three years and see if I can keep it going," said the jocular Frazier. "But all I can do is really try — the 11 other National League clubs are being paid to win, aren't they?"

Frazier was hired Friday to replace Roy McMillan, who took over after Yogi Berra was fired on Aug. 6. The Mets tied for third in the National League East, 10 1/2 games behind the first place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Grant said McMillan, who lost his job after criticism from both the players and the press, would be given a chance to coach first base for the Mets or manage the Mets' Tidewater farm club.

Red Sox-A's 'pick it'

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds are a 3-2 choice over Pittsburgh in the first game of the National League playoffs, but Harris's Reno-Tahoe Racebook Friday said the American League series opener between Oakland and Boston is rated a "pick it" 11-10.

Recognition sought by Athletics for endorsements, added income

BOSTON (UPI) — Sal Bando and Gene Tenace, two of the Oakland A's most outspoken stars, agree that there's one thing the world champions won't get in the American League's championship series — or the World Series, for that matter.

It's called recognition and in the language of ball players it means endorsements and other forms of outside income which world champions usually get in addition to their series shares.

"I guess you could call us 'the ugly duckling world champions,'" admitted Bando. "It's improved a bit this year. We got a little more than in the past. 'But if we played in the East, you'd be reading and ever done more than we've already done,'" said Tenace, referring to the fact that only the 1936-39 Yankees of Joe McCarthy and the 1949-53 Yankees of Casey Stengel ever won more than three straight world championships.

"We're always reading and hearing about the Dodgers, Reds and Pirates. They get the publicity and we win the world championships. 'I don't know what we have to do to get the recognition,'" he added. "Maybe there's nothing we can do. And maybe it doesn't matter — just as long as we keep winning those world championships."

First baseman Joe Rudi was one Oakland star who got more than enough "recognition" as dozens of newsmen crowded around him Friday asking if his injured left thumb was recovered sufficiently for him to play.

"Are you happy that you've been the central figure in all the pre-playoff publicity?" he was asked. "Not one bit," he said. "I don't mind answering the questions, of course, but it would be better to have been sound and been left alone."

The A's aren't taking the Red Sox lightly in the playoff series, but they've beaten so many different types of teams that they are supremely confident they can do whatever it takes to win. "We beat a very powerful offensive team when we beat the Reds," pointed out Bando. "We beat a team

Offense big weapon in Pittsburgh camp

CINCINNATI (UPI) — In Cincinnati to the Cincinnati Reds who can beat you with speed, power, defense and finesse, the Pittsburgh Pirates make no bones about their strength.

"That's their game," says Reds' third baseman Pete Rose. "It seems that ever since the Waner boys, the Pirates have had good hitting."

Well, maybe not that long, but certainly under the management of easy-going Danny Murtagh the name of the Pirates' game has been hitting.

But one of the three left-handed pitchers Murtagh will throw against the Reds in the best-of-five National League championship series which begins today, doesn't necessarily agree that hitting can win all that many games.

"Defense and pitching will show up more in a short series," said Jim Rooker, who will follow today's starter Jerry Reuss for the Pirates on Sunday. "We are not a defensive club. We're a club that made a lot of fundamental mistakes all year. You just can't afford to make those mistakes if you're going to win."

As a team, the Pirates batted .263 with six of their eight regulars batting .200 or better. Defensively, however they made 158 errors. "This is an offensive club," said Rooker. "It starts right in spring training where they give a guy a bat and tell him to go hit."

By contrast, the Reds set a major league record this season for 15 straight errors, less games. "This is the best defensive club we've had in my six years here," said Anderson, who refused to make any comparisons with the Pirates' obvious disdain for the game's finer points.

And so it comes down to just how much hitting the Pirates must do to offset their defensive lapses. Rooker and Reuss maintain pitching is actually one of the club's strong points.

"We've had to often get four or five outs in an inning," said Rooker.

Holds no terrors

BOSTON (UPI) — That inviting left field wall in Fenway Park, often referred to as "The Green Monster," holds no terrors for Ken Holtzman, starting pitcher for the Oakland A's in Saturday's playoff game with the Boston Red Sox.

"You can't make too many mistakes in this park," said Holtzman. "But you can't change your plans because of it. 'You have to do what you always do,'" he added, "and if the ball hits the wall, then that's the way it goes."

Over the years, many pitchers and hitters have tried to adjust their styles because of the 37-foot wall which bounds over the entire park — often with disastrous effects.

Veeck back in baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Veeck, one of baseball's greatest salesmen who introduced the exploding scoreboard in Comiskey Park, came back to the major leagues Saturday, buying control of the Chicago White Sox for a second time.

Veeck, who also operated the St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians before he bought the White Sox for the first time in 1959, reached agreement to buy majority control of the Chicago team from John Allyn.

At least one stringer for Manchester High soccer remains intact. Whenever the Indian booters have played on Coach Dick Danielson's birthday, they have yet to lose.

The Tribe kept that record unblemished yesterday with a 1-0 hard earned victory over CCIL for Coach Dick Danielson's birthday, they have yet to lose.

Manchester had several golden opportunities early but only the play of Chieftain netminder Gerry Guzik prevented any scoring. Right off the bat, the Indians had a chance.

Grand Masters tennis

Ulrich serve just too much

"If I'm going to beat him," Pancho Segura said moments before his Grand Masters quarter final match with defending Hartford champion Torben Ulrich. "I am going to have to win my service."

"His service is just too strong." Segura never claimed to be a prophet, but he was just that Friday night. The legendary man from Ecuador was blown out of Trinity's Ferris Athletic Center, 6-1, 6-1, by Ulrich, who played "beat him to the punch" to the hilt.

The bearded Dane took 4-0 leads in both sets, getting breaks with about as much apparent trouble as it takes to say "winner," and advanced to the Connecticut Bank and Trust-GM semifinal round.

Tonight, Sedgeman meets Brown in a 7:30 semifinal match followed by Ulrich and Stewart in the other semifinal. Ulrich and Davidson meet Segura and Stewart in a doubles semifinal to close the evening.

Bennet eleven trounces East

Scoring a resounding 64-6 win over the East Catholic freshmen yesterday was the Bennet Junior High football team.

Bob Walsh started the Bennet offense with a 60-yard run. John Lajoie scored on a 30-yard gallop. Dave Tio on a 50-yard scoring strike from John Wilson. Walsh added his second 60-yard TD jump to add to the scoring spree and Wilson sneaked over two yards out. Jamie Smith scored on a 25-yard pass play and Keith Congdon and Lajoie added 60-yard scoring runs later on.

Walsh, Wilson and Brian Dagle paced the Bennet attack while Kevin Frank was best for East.

Penney tops girl runners

Although improvement has been shown with every meet, the Manchester High girls' cross country team still hasn't reached the winning point yet, dropping a 23-38 verdict to Penney High yesterday at Center Springs Park.

Eagles top Pats for Midget lead

Two shutouts in Manchester Midget Football League action were recorded last night at Mt. Nero.

The Eagles blanked the Patriots, 6-0, to remain unbeaten with a 3-0 ledger and the Jets won their first start after one setback with a 6-0 whitewashing of the 0-2 Giants. The Patriots are 2-1 for the season.

The Eagles completed three shutouts in the first half but the Patriots' defense led by Scott Bayles, Bob Stokes and Ken Hill prevented any scores.

In the fourth quarter after a bad snap from center, Bob Gentile raced around right end to the Pats 38. On the ensuing play Tom McCluskey gobbled up 25 yards and four plays later McCluskey plunged over for the winning touchdown.

Best for the Eagles were McCluskey, Drew Flavell, Scott Schomchen and Jim Grout. Hill, Stokes and Scott Anderson were best for the Patriots.

In the nightcap, the Jets upset the defending league champs. Jim Garner and Jeff Dolin for the Jets and John Mumford and Dave Lauson gained yardage for the Giants but were repulsed early at the goal line.

The Jets finally got on the scoreboard in the second quarter. After receiving a punt, they drove 26 yards in six plays with Shawn Spears going over from four yards out.

Defensive units dominated second half action with fumbles and interceptions stopping scoring attempts. Best players included Garner, York Whitaker, Tim Mainville, Jim Dubois, Dave Quessel, Jim Paggioli and Steve Brown.

Cross country results

East, Tribe win, Cheney defeated

With senior Mark Skehan back in action, the East Catholic cross country team scored a double victory yesterday at Wickham Park, 24-31 over HCC foe Northwest Catholic and 15-4 over St. Thomas Aquinas.

With the double win, the Eagle harriers are 3-2 for the season. Junior Steve Colbert topped 34 seconds off his previous times to garner second place for the Eagles with junior Luke O'Connor nailing down third place.

Stump took fifth place and Skehan in his first action of the season taking down sixth place in a good opening performance.

Results: 1. Cobb (NW) 14:55, 2. Colbert (EC), 3. O'Connor (EC), 4. Molloy (NW), 5. Stamp (EC), 6. Skehan (EC), 7. Dineen (NW), 8. Lecko (EC), 9. Zydnowicz (A), 10. Murray (NW).

Manchester High

Despite a new Center Spring Park course record by Penny's Kelly Octigan, the Manchester High cross country team recorded a 25-30 victory over the Black Knights yesterday.

The triumph for Coach George Saitor's harriers were their seventh in eight starts.

Octigan and Manchester's Glenn Flosdorf battled the first two miles exchanging leads several times but Flosdorf fell shortly thereafter and Octigan went on to record the win in record setting time of 16:13 over the 2.8-mile layout.

Flosdorf took second 20 seconds behind with sophomore Wes Fedorchak taking fourth place. Senior Bruce Bayles and junior George Trian continued to run well and took fifth and sixth places to secure the win. Sophomore Matt Schmidt was eighth and Joe Gryzmowski was 11th. Results: 1. Octigan (P) 16:13, 2. Flosdorf (M), 3.

Coach gets gift on birthday, 1-0 win

At least one stringer for Manchester High soccer remains intact. Whenever the Indian booters have played on Coach Dick Danielson's birthday, they have yet to lose.

The Tribe kept that record unblemished yesterday with a 1-0 hard earned victory over CCIL for Coach Dick Danielson's birthday, they have yet to lose.

Manchester had several golden opportunities early but only the play of Chieftain netminder Gerry Guzik prevented any scoring. Right off the bat, the Indians had a chance.

Swim coach in debut

Dave Frost made his debut as coach of the new Manchester High varsity girls' swim team this week. Here he gives them instructions in before opening meet loss to Wethersfield High at local pool.

Grand Masters tennis

Ulrich serve just too much

"If I'm going to beat him," Pancho Segura said moments before his Grand Masters quarter final match with defending Hartford champion Torben Ulrich. "I am going to have to win my service."

"His service is just too strong." Segura never claimed to be a prophet, but he was just that Friday night. The legendary man from Ecuador was blown out of Trinity's Ferris Athletic Center, 6-1, 6-1, by Ulrich, who played "beat him to the punch" to the hilt.

The bearded Dane took 4-0 leads in both sets, getting breaks with about as much apparent trouble as it takes to say "winner," and advanced to the Connecticut Bank and Trust-GM semifinal round.

Tonight, Sedgeman meets Brown in a 7:30 semifinal match followed by Ulrich and Stewart in the other semifinal. Ulrich and Davidson meet Segura and Stewart in a doubles semifinal to close the evening.

Ulrich pummeled Segura with an array of power forehands and crisp backhand placements, keeping the match completely under control, much

Bennet eleven trounces East

Scoring a resounding 64-6 win over the East Catholic freshmen yesterday was the Bennet Junior High football team.

Bob Walsh started the Bennet offense with a 60-yard run. John Lajoie scored on a 30-yard gallop. Dave Tio on a 50-yard scoring strike from John Wilson. Walsh added his second 60-yard TD jump to add to the scoring spree and Wilson sneaked over two yards out. Jamie Smith scored on a 25-yard pass play and Keith Congdon and Lajoie added 60-yard scoring runs later on.

Walsh, Wilson and Brian Dagle paced the Bennet attack while Kevin Frank was best for East.

Penney tops girl runners

Although improvement has been shown with every meet, the Manchester High girls' cross country team still hasn't reached the winning point yet, dropping a 23-38 verdict to Penney High yesterday at Center Springs Park.

Building values below last year

The estimated construction cost of Manchester building last month was $934,312, a report by Acting Chief Building Inspector Francis Conti indicates. The total is far below the one for September of last year and slightly below that of two years ago. It was $4,758,541 in September 1974, when a $2,495,000 permit was issued for additions to Iling Junior High and $440,000 in permits for industrial buildings. It was $1,002,736 in September 1973 when $207,000 in permits were issued for industrial buildings.

Permits were issued last month for 24 single-family dwellings, the highest number in quite a while. It compares with only 5 single-family dwellings a year ago and 14 two years ago.

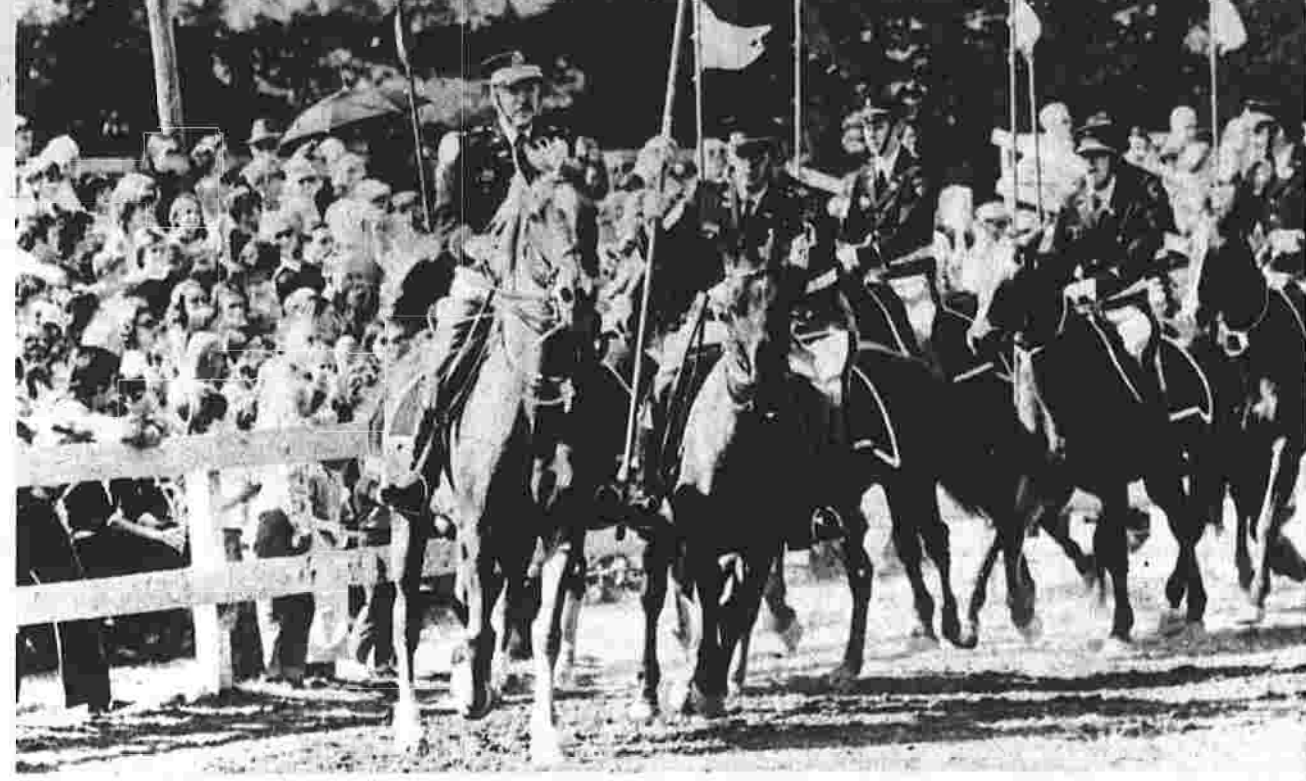

Permits were also issued last month for 23 two-family dwellings, 3 garages, 1 tool shed, 4 signs, 4 fences, 4 swimming pools, 1 swimming pool cabana, 22 alterations and additions, 4 demolitions and 13 affidavits (additional construction cost for permits issued previously).

Town asks for bids on power generator

Bids will be opened Oct. 17 in the Municipal Building for a gas-driven, emergency, portable power generator for Manchester's highway garage, Olcott St.

It is to be a gas-engine-driven electric plant, for providing emergency electric power; with an engine-mounted start-up control system and suitable to be mounted on a trailer to be supplied by the town. The unit must be enclosed in a weather-proof housing and must come with trailer-mounting accessories.

It must be 277/480 volt 60 cycle, 3 phase, 4 wire.

Horse guards perform

MCC sets courses in Bolton

Fairfield County will discuss the selection of places for different locations in the home and the basic care of them. Those attending may bring a problem or a sick plant for analysis. The workshop will include learning how to propagate cuttings in a miniature greenhouse and those who wish may start to learn how to make a simple macramé hanger for plants.

PLANT WORKSHOP
Leaders of youth groups or adult organizations are invited to attend a house plant workshop Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon.

Coventry GOP hopefuls seek industry for town

Leonard Giglio and Donald Smith, Republican candidates for the November election, have issued a position paper calling for the increase of the commercial and industrial tax base in town to lessen the tax impact on the residential home owner.

In addition we need a balanced representation of lawyers, businessmen and controlled taxes, employment to help keep our young people in Coventry, protection of our environmental values, controls on residential growth, and money circulation within, not out of Coventry.

Dear Abby. By Abigail Van Buren. DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. When Johnny was 6, he was with his father when he was speeding. He saw his father hand the officer a $5 bill with his driver's license.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. When Johnny was 15, he made right guard on the high school football team. His coach taught him to block and, at the same time, grab the opposing end by the shirt so the official couldn't see it.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. When Johnny was 16, he took a summer job at a big market. His job was to put the overripe tomatoes in the bottom of the boxes and good ones on top.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. When Johnny went to college, he was approached by an upperclassman who offered him the answers to an English exam for $3. "It's O.K. kids," he was told, "everybody does it." Johnny was caught and sent home in disgrace.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. Two years later, when I was having a particularly hard time of it, I received an envelope with a New York postmark. Pasted on the outside of the envelope was the same scamp of paper on which I'd written my name and address. On opening the envelope I found TWO crisp $100 bills. No letter, no explanation, nothing - just the money.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation. I don't know what happened to the man. I don't even know his name, but he certainly repaid me in a gesture of kindness. V.R.: BOUNTIFUL, UTAH

ASTROGRAPH. For Sunday, Oct. 5, 1975. ARIES (March 21-April 19). You may make some bad decisions today, but second thoughts will reveal your errors. Rectify your mistakes promptly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). There's a strong possibility today that you'll opt for a competitive situation. Those you go up against are of a domestic nature, but today you're likely to make some moves that aren't too trump cards than you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23). You could be a little forgetful today. If you have anything important to use care of, make a note of it or ask another to remind you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). It's not likely you'll be too motivated today to do things for others unless you see something in it for yourself. If there is, that's another story.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Some responsibilities that should be taken care of early will be left till the last minute. However, you'll get them in under the wire.

Unitarians to hear woman

Mrs. Ruthe Boyea of New Britain will be guest speaker for the Unitarian Universalist Society at 79 N. Main St. on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

She will tell of her impressions of the International Women's Year Tribune in Mexico City last summer. Mrs. Boyea was a delegate for the American Association of University Professors and the American Association of University Women.

"Women of the fourth world are interested in getting food, water and fuel; those of the third world are interested in education, and neither of these groups is particularly interested in population control.

"Population control is an issue for women of the second world and those in the first world are concerned with equality in managerial positions," Mrs. Boyea said.

"We heard the actual voices of women in different levels of development. Women of the world became aware at this convention of the needs and aspiration of women of different cultures," Mrs. Boyea said.

She is an assistant professor at Central Connecticut State College School of Education. She is also a corporate delegate for CCSC to the American Association of University Professors.

She was president of the New Britain League of Women Voters for two terms and is serving on its board of directors. She is also active in church affairs at New Britain South Congregational Church.

The Mizpah-Spencer Circle of South United Methodist Church will meet Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at Susannah Wesley Hall. Mrs. Shirley Davis will talk about the school of missions at Anhurst College in Putnam. Hostesses are Miss Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Mary Matchett and Mrs. Eleanora McCallum.

The Auxiliary to Manchester Midget Football Association will meet Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Bradley Park Parliaman, 180 Scott Dr. Hostesses are Mrs. Edward

The Rev. Dr. Felix Davis, pastor of Second Congregational Church, will lead a program of devotions Monday at 1:30 p.m. in Cronin Hall of Mayfair Gardens. All Mayfair residents are invited.

The executive board of Waddell School PTA will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Mullaney, 199 Woodland St.

Area police report several arrests

Arrests

Manchester
• Dean Shulman, 21, of Rochester, N.Y., Fred Goltra, 28, of 87 Summer St., Debra Goltra, 17, of Hartford, and Nancy Brown, 16, of 165 St. John St., arrested on St. John St. at 1:20 a.m. today.

They were charged with disorderly conduct. Goltra and Ms. Brown were also charged with intoxication.

Both women were released on $250 non-surety bonds for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford Oct. 20. The men were being held this morning on $250 surety bonds for court Monday.

• Michael F. Joy, 18, of 142 Woodbridge St., driving while under the influence, reckless driving, and failure to obey officer's signal on Green Rd. today at 2 a.m.

The arrest followed a chase through residential streets in the Bowers School area. Joy was released on a $250 non-surety bond for court Oct. 21.

• Thomas L. Stebbins, 21, of East Hartford, intoxication and breach of peace Friday at 1 p.m. at Willie's Steak House on Center St. Court, Oct. 20.

• Anthony B. McAuley, 27, of 442 W. Middle Tpke., operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs Friday at 11:34 p.m. on Broad St. Court, Oct. 21.

• Lloyd A. Wilcox, 19, of the U.S. Navy, operating while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, speeding, and operating without a license Friday at 10:45 p.m. on W. Middle Tpke. Court, Oct. 21.

• Nicholas P. Sokoloski, 16, of Marlborough, fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) Friday at 8:05 p.m. in the K-Mart store on Spencer St. Court, Oct. 20.

• Sandra J. Beaulieu, 29, of East Hartford, fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) Friday at 7:26 p.m. at the Shop-Rite supermarket on Spencer St. She was released on a $100 non-surety bond for court Oct. 20.

• The Rev. Earle R. Custer, pastor of North United Methodist Church, surprised two youths inside his home on Farmington St. Friday just before noon, police said.

They ran out his patio door. He chased them and caught them both.

The pastor brought them back to his home and called police. The youths, age 13 and 14, are being referred to Juvenile Court on charges relating to the break, police said. They were released to their parents.

• Police observed a 14-year-old Manchester youth going through cars parked in front of the Manchester High School auditorium Friday at 9:30 p.m.

He was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle and fourth-degree larceny, referred to Juvenile Court, and released to his parents.

Coventry

• Theodore Blessing Jr., 36, of Forest Rd., Coventry, charged Friday on a court warrant with third-degree burglary and third-degree criminal mischief in connection with the Aug. 24 break into a Coventry supermarket.

The investigation conducted by Patrolman Dennis Tetreault which led to his arrest may lead to several more, police said.

Blessing was being held on $5,000 surety bond for court Monday in Rockville.

• Christopher P. Lathrop, 16, of Nathan Hale Dr., Coventry, and two Coventry juveniles were arrested by Patrolman Donald Rouillard Friday as they ran from the Knights of Columbus Hall on Snake Hill Rd., police said. The hall had just been broken into, police said.

Lathrop was charged with first-degree burglary (two counts), third-degree criminal mischief (two counts), fourth-degree larceny, and carrying a pistol without a permit.

Both juveniles were charged with first-degree burglary (two counts), second-degree burglary (two counts), third-degree burglary, fourth-degree larceny (four counts), criminal attempt to commit burglary, and criminal mischief (five counts).

The charges stem from reports of recent breaks in the Snake Hill Rd. area, police said.

Lathrop was released on a $500 non-surety bond for court Oct. 29 in Rockville. The juveniles were referred to Juvenile Court and released to their parents.

Vernon
• Glen J. Trahan, 18, of Rosewood Dr., Vernon, reckless driving today on Rt.

83, Court, Oct. 29.

• William M. Coe, 39, of Windsor Locks, driving while under the influence, improper passing, failure to obey state traffic control signal, and failure to obey officer's signal on Windsor Ave. today. Released on $250 non-surety bond for court Oct. 29.

Housing officials face money misuse charges

EAST HARTFORD

East Hartford's former housing authority director and two others have been indicted on larceny charges for allegedly misusing authority funds.

Two more suspects were being sought on Hartford Superior Court bench warrants issued Friday. The five warrants charge a total of 22 larceny counts dating back to 1970.

Officials would not disclose the amount of money allegedly misused but it was said to be in the tens of thousands of dollars.

Asst. State's Atty. Robert M. Meyers said he expects to bring additional charges against the five and that more arrests might be made as the investigation continues.

They could also face federal charges since the authority is funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Details of the charges were not immediately available but they reportedly involve Mayor Richard Blackstone's recent charges that false invoices and bogus checks had been issued by the authority.

The arrested were identified as:

—Former Housing Authority Director Stanley A. Ozimek 65, who retired because of ill health last summer. He was charged with six counts of larceny.

—William D. Perkins Jr., 40, another authority employee. He is charged with four counts of larceny.

—Joseph N. Giannetti, 65, a former authority supervisor who resigned under pressure Aug. 28. He is charged with five counts of larceny.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mildred Damato who passed away October 4, 1967.

You are still beside us in all we do. Your memories will guide us and see us through. Life must go on, we know it's true. But it's not the same since we lost you.

Dr. Levai to speak at South Methodist

Dr. Blaise Levai, director of literature for the education and cultivation division of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries, will speak Sunday at the 9 and 10:45 a.m. services at South United Methodist Church.

Dr. Levai has served since 1967 in the editorial and literature department of the section of communications, which publishes educational, promotional and administrative materials relating to the mission of the church.

Before joining the Board of Global Ministries, he was a member of the staff of the American Bible Society in New York City. He was managing editor of its "Record," and in 1965 was appointed church relations secretary.

Dr. Levai is author of "Ask an Indian about India," which was the main book for the 1972-73 India study year. During a recent sabbatical, he taught journalism in Costa Rica and was at the Literature Center in Kitwe, Zambia.

He spent nearly 15 years in Vellore, South India, where he served as a college professor of English and New Testament, high school chaplain and pastor. He was a missionary of the Reformed Church in America.

Community College and the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

The company of 12 actors will present an epic revue entitled "Parade," which they created themselves during rehearsal at their home base, the Eugene O'Neill Theater Center in Waterford. The play chronicles the attempts of a revolutionary deaf girl to establish a separate deaf state.

Nine of the company's actors are deaf. Some of the deaf actors speak; all of the actors, deaf and hearing, use visual language.

They are a theater of the deaf, not for the deaf, and are designed to be enjoyed by all people.

For further information, call Donna Freeman, 646-4900.

Jazz season

The Hartford Jazz Society begins its 15th concert season Oct. 12 at the Sheraton Tobacco Valley Inn, Windsor, at 8 p.m. Featured will be Randy Weston with his quartet. For further information and membership in the Society, call 242-6688.

The Trevor Richards Trio, a group of young British jazz musicians, will appear at Holiday Inn, Darien, at 8:30 on Oct. 11. For information, call Boardman G. Getsinger Jr. at 274-8412 or 666-6911.

Mark Twain Masquers

The 1975-76 season of the Mark Twain Masquers has opened with "Finishing Touches." The play will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Roberts Theatre in the Kingswood School, 170 Kingswood Rd., West Hartford.

For reservations, call 523-7345.

Musical at Jorgensen

The department of dramatic arts of University of Connecticut presents "West Side Story" at the Harriet S. Jorgensen Theater in Storrs Oct. 17 through 25 nightly except Oct. 19. For reservations, call 486-4226.

At the Bushnell

The Hartford Symphony Orchestra opens the 1975-76 season Wednesday at Bushnell Memorial Hall in Hartford. Eugene Fodor will be featured soloist in the Glazounov Violin Concerto. As part of the orchestra's tribute to America's Bicentennial celebration, an American composer and artist will be featured at each concert.

For reservations, call 278-1450, or 246-6807.

'Finishing Touches'

Duane Dow and Sally Portfield (seated) are featured with Stan Fellman in "Finishing Touches," the Mark Twain Masquers production tonight and Oct. 9 to 11 at the Roberts Center Theatre, West Hartford. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Atheneum offers noon mini-talks

A new way to brighten up lunch hour in downtown Hartford is to "Take Ten at Noon," — a series of mini-lectures on the American arts at the Wadsworth Atheneum.

Starting Oct. 7, "Take Ten at Noon" will be offered every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday through May and is part of the Atheneum's Bicentennial program "American Arts/An American Museum."

Starting promptly at noon from the museum's Main St. Lobby, visitors will go to an Atheneum gallery where one of the several collections of American art is on display. The Atheneum's American Arts collection include paintings from the 18th, 19th and 20th Centuries, the Wallace Nutting and other collections of colonial furniture, silver, glass and costumes. The talks are informal and will be given by the museum's deacons, volunteers who are trained tour guides.

There is no extra charge for "Take Ten at Noon"; the Atheneum's suggested admission fees to the entire museum are $1 for adults and 50 cents for 12 to 18. Museum members and children under 12 are admitted free.

Garrison due at JFK talks

Jim Garrison, former New Orleans district attorney, will be among featured speakers attending the first National Conference on the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy, to be held at the University of Hartford Oct. 10 to 12.

Garrison, who conducted his own probe of the assassination, will be joined in speaking by Mark Lane, director of the Citizens Commission on Inquiry, and Donald Freed, author of "Executive Action."

All conference events are open to the public; admission costs $1.

Stamps and coins

By Russ MacKendrick

Here, looking almost like a fractional currency item out of the past, we have the Banking and Commerce pair due for a First Day this Monday at New York City.

The occasion will be the centennial convention of the American Bankers Association. (See Scott number 987 for their 75th.) The colors of these stamps will be a tasteful arrangement of blue, yellow, brown, green and gray.

It might be worthwhile to put a few of these in stash as set-tenants always seem to end up scarce and sought-for.

Cheers while it lasts

Cheers for the new seven-cent postal card rate — while it lasts. A card with this value popped up out of nowhere, apparently, at Bryn Mawr, Pa., last month. It is the fourth in the Colonial Patriots' series and honors Charles Thomson, secretary of the Continental Congress. The printing and pic are in a soft shade of green.

Previous cards in the series were Paul Revere, 1971; John Hanson, '72, and Samuel Adams, '73.

Annual convention

The annual convention of the United Postal Stationery Society is in full blast this weekend at New Orleans. They have announced that a new edition of the Thorp-Bartels "20th Century Stamped Envelopes and Wrappers Catalog" was to be ready. Other cats under their wing deal with postal stationery of U.S. possessions and U.S. postal cards. Also they have specialized handbooks for that more assiduous study known as "fly-specking."

The Sept. 20 issue of "Stamps" is chockful of info on this organization (Mary Cheney Library has it).

Also in the news

A related group in the news is the "Deltologists of America." Sounds a bit ominous and medical but they are harmless and go for picture postcards. They have just fostered a 288-page illustrated book, "Detroit Publishing Company Collectors' Guide."

Chicken sandwiches?

The Bicentennial sheets, 50-Flag and Declaration, continue to inspire an anvil chorus serenade in the philatelic press (and a few choice notes from our Manchester society). A piece in Linn's details the horrors of trying to mount and preserve such things.

One interesting comment was a letter to the editor from a South Carolina reader saying: "I include these issues in the same category as the Bicentennial chicken sandwiches currently being sold in this area."

The same deal

Last week's column had word of the new arm of the Franklin

Mint that plans to supply international FDC's honoring the Bicentennial. A well-stuffed envelope recently received from Fleetwood ("Americas' oldest and largest purveyor of First Day Covers") offers much the same deal, 35 countries, with the old tweak that "memberships are limited to only one in 1776 American families." How ad-writers are straining to milk that magic "1776!"

Sunday outing

Another Sunday outing for collectors: The "First Sunday Stamp Bourse" starts tomorrow at the Ramada Inn, East Hartford, 10 to 5. There will be a U.S. post office and more than 15 dealers.

Other events

Also tomorrow — the Central Connecticut Coin Club's autumn coin show at the KofC Home, 135 Main St., Manchester.

Then on Tuesday, the 7th, the club will have its annual dinner meeting at Willie's Steak House. The guest speaker will be John Ferrarri — subject: "Broken Bank Notes." This is a fertile field and largely uncharted.

A recent CCCClub show had a display of Quinebag Valley (Conn.) "bank" emissions which included a State Bank Note (so-called) that went into circulation solely from a saloon in New York City.

Not just a log cabin...

In the rustic atmosphere of their log interior living room, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pisch Jr. and son, Mark, share a plate of homemade cookies. In keeping with the rustic simplicity, Mrs. Pisch made the drapes of unbleached linen trimmed with bands of chair webbing.

The soft glow of candlelight combined with lamplight give the dining room the appearance of yesteryear — except for the baseboard heating unit under the window.

By June Tompkins

A woody odor continually pervades the Dutch colonial style house of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pisch Jr. of 21 Steele Crossing Rd. in Bolton.

The outdoors scent comes from the logs used to build the house, a seven-room structure which is a far cry from the one-room log cabin built by the American pioneers.

Constructed during the summer of 1974, the house is made of pre-cut white pine logs from Hartland, Vt., with oak girders. It was built by Pisch, with the help of his brother and a friend. Plumbing and electrical work were subcontracted.

Pisch says the 2,500-square foot dwelling cost about $40,000 when completed. The cost doesn't include the cost of the land.

A teacher by profession, Pisch attributes his building ability to being the grandson of John Ponticelli, a Manchester builder, from whom he "just picked it up by osmosis."

The natural insulation of the wood is superior to most other types of house construction, says Pisch. The wood expands and contracts with the weather and assures a tight fitting log construction with a wall depth of 10 or 12 inches. The logs are grooved to fit together.

In the 16-by-24-foot living room, a brick fireplace throws out sufficient heat for the whole room. The house is heated, however, by electric heat.

In keeping with the colonial look, braided and hooked rugs are used on the wide yellow pine floorboards. The rugs were made by Mrs. Pisch's grandmother.

Besides the living room, dining room and kitchen, there is also a small den. The inner walls of the rooms are sheetrock painted in pastel colors.

Some of the furniture Pisch has made from kits and stained to appear antique.

A unique coffee table in the living room was once a lobster pot. Covered with an embroidered cloth, it is as attractive as it is useful.

Candlelight reflected from tin wall sconces in the dining room creates an atmosphere of another era. The tinsmithing was done by Mrs. Pisch's father. Her mother does the dried flower arrangements which are used for decorations in the house.

In the kitchen, the muted greens and pumpkin colors of the braided rug blend with the pumpkin counter top and the green plants at the window. A wicker lamp hangs over the pedestal pine table. A laundry area is in a small room just off the kitchen.

The stairway and upstairs hall are carpeted in thick chocolate brown carpeting. The three bedrooms have ample closets with stained louvered doors.

Mark's room is striking with cobalt blue carpeting and red gingham curtains. On his bed is a coverlet in gay patchwork squares.

A reproduction of a four-posted cannonball bed dominates the master bedroom. The Federal pattern bedspread adds to the antique look which is encased by a rug hooked in a floral pattern and green print curtains.

An antique low trunk serves as a bedside stand for a reproduction milk glass hobnail lamp.

Hanging in the upstairs hall is a charming oil portrait of Mrs. Pisch's great-great-grandmother, Susan Pindar, at the age of six.

Throughout the house are paintings appropriate to the rustic setting — paintings by Mary Roy, who teaches art at South Catholic High School in Hartford where both Mr. and Mrs. Pisch also teach.

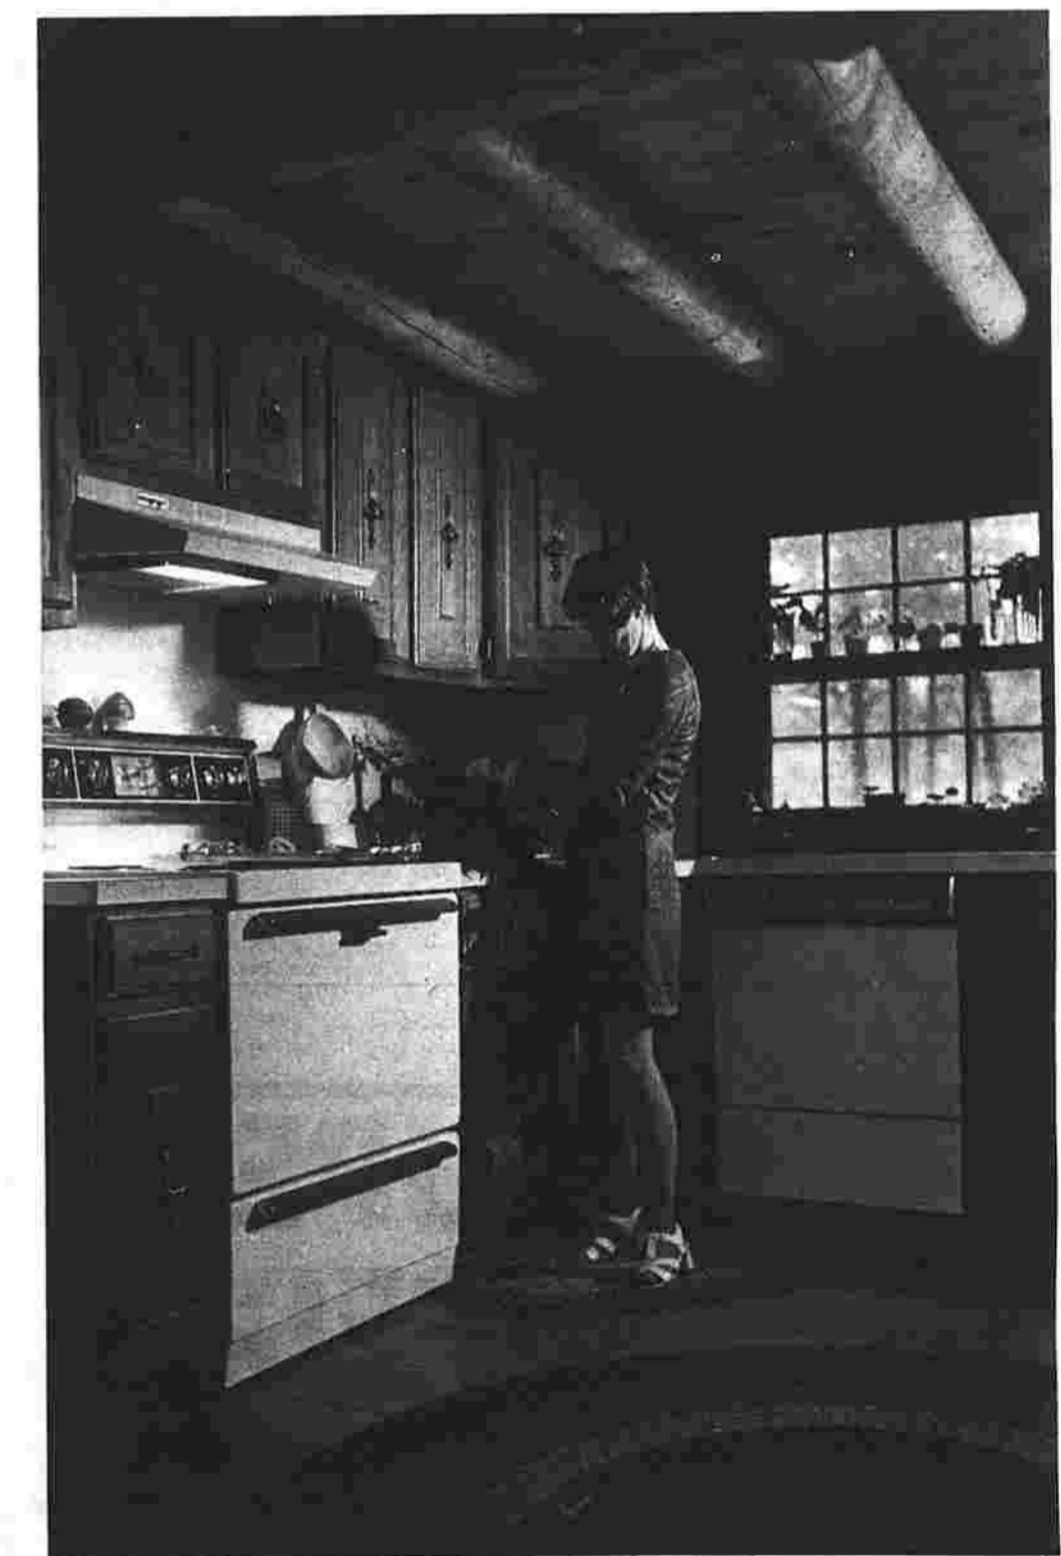

The Pisch's home is one that will be featured on the Bicentennial house tour Oct. 18. Other features of the tour include an old colonial cape, a colonial farmhouse, a blacksmith shop featuring tinsmithing, and an herb garden.

Mrs. Helen Campbell is chairman of the house tour and may be contacted for further information at 649-7225.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pisch Jr. enjoy luxury living in their log home at 21 Steele Crossing Rd., Bolton.

Kitchen conveniences in the early colonial days of log cabins were not as they are in Mrs. Pisch's kitchen. With timesaving utilities, she has time to fuss with one of her hobbies, plants.

Porter works at UConn

An exhibition of more than 50 paintings by the late American artist Fairfield Porter leads off a series of exhibitions at the University of Connecticut Jorgensen Auditorium Gallery that help mark the Auditorium's 20th anniversary this year.

The Porter retrospective will continue until Oct. 18.

In the judgment of Gerard Doudera, head of the UConn Department of Art, "Fairfield Porter is the most important American representational painter to have emerged in the period since 1945." Porter died recently at the age of 68.

The gallery exhibition will concentrate on works done during the past 20 years, with special emphasis on landscapes and portraits from the 1970s.

Following the Porter show, graphics by two American designers, Malcolm Grear and Werner Pfeiffer, will be on display from Oct. 21 to Nov. 14. Included will be typographical designs, posters, supergraphics and banners.

Another exhibition of painting will follow from Nov. 20 to Dec. 13, focusing on works by James Brooks, a key figure in the development of abstract impressionism.

The spring semester will open with the "New England Invitational" from Jan. 20 to Feb. 11. Three invited artists — painter Arthur Hoener, sculptor Erwin Auer, and printmaker Richard Ziemann — will be represented. Additionally, each will be asked to invite four other artists of their choice from the New England region, bringing the total number of participating artists to 15.

From Feb. 17 to March 5 the gallery will feature works by students in the UConn art department, in a variety of traditional and experimental media. A second student show, by graduating seniors in the department, is slated for April 13 to May 16.

Between the two student shows will come a show of sculpture by Philip Grausman, who works in bronze and marble, with subjects ranging from the human form to human-sized insects.

The Jorgensen Gallery is open free to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. It also is open 45 minutes before all Jorgensen Auditorium and Harriet S. Jorgensen Theater events.

Women artists plan exhibit in November

The Connecticut Women Artists will hold its 46th semi-annual exhibit at the Slater Memorial Museum, Norwich Free Academy, Norwich, Nov. 2 to 30.

Vincenza Uccello, president, has announced that the prospecture for the show is now available to all Connecticut women artists. The form may be obtained by contacting the exhibition chairman, Margot Rosenthal, 17 Pine Rd., West Hartford, or Gio Sessions, 1260 Burlington Ave., Bristol.

'Beacon Hill' still alive

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS is backing its big prestige and dollar investment in "Beacon Hill" despite the show's poor ratings, and has commissioned four additional scripts beyond the original 13.

NBC already has dropped two of its low-rated shows, "The Montefuscos" and "Fay," preferring to cut its losses and try to recoup its ratings. The big ballyhoo given "Beacon Hill" makes it much more difficult for CBS to follow suit.

"I think we're going to sweat it out," said Lee Currin, CBS network vice president, programs. "We have a 13-week commitment and we have ordered some additional scripts to be prepared to continue the series, that's where it stands."

Currin admitted the show faced "an uphill fight," but said he thought upcoming stronger scripts and an increased sense of continuity, of serialization, would add to audience appeal.

Among the first to agree is Beryl Vertue, the British executive producer of "Beacon Hill," who accepts part of the blame for "Beacon Hill's" poor showing.

"Some of what has happened is my own fault," she said. "This is my first production in this country for Americans. I'm really learning — am I ever learning."

Ask Kleiner
By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I recently saw a movie, "The Curse of the Undead," and the young man playing the lead was named Eric Fleming. Is he now James Bralton, of Marcus Welby? MRS. D.W.M., Joplin, Mo.

No, Fleming, who used to be Clint Eastwood's co-star in Rawhide, was drowned making a movie in South America in 1966.

DEAR DICK: I heard that Luther and Carl Perkins are the sons of Helen Carter of the Carter family. I think that is wrong? Is it? J.A.M., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Yes, it is wrong. The Perkins boys — Luther is now dead — and the Carter family are unrelated.

DEAR DICK: I was told that Laura of Little House on the Prairie was Michael Landon's own daughter. True? MRS. D.M. MCK., Williamsport, Pa.

No, Laura is played by Melissa Gilbert, who is the daughter of comedian Paul Gilbert.

DEAR DICK: I saw "Fiddler On The Roof" and loved it. A man named Topol played Tevye. Is his first name Heime? JANET SMITH, Mocksville, N.C.

It was a great movie, and Topol was magnificent. His first name is spelled Chaim, pronounced chi-yum, with the ch sound very guttural.

DEAR DICK: In the movie, "Jaws," how big is the mechanical shark (size, weight)? ERIC CRAGIN, Oneida, N.Y.

Bruce, as the "Jaws" folks called their mechanical contraption, was a one-ton, 25-foot long gizmo. It required a 12-ton platform, sunk some 12 feet beneath the surface of the ocean, and a crew of 15 to make it work.

DEAR DICK: My mom, sister and I have been puzzled about what the initials S.W.A.T. stand for. M. GLASIER, Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

Puzzle no more. S.W.A.T. are the initials and have become the acronym, for Special Weapons And Tactics, a police department section in Los Angeles and some other large cities charged with control of hostage situations.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me who was the man on The $64,000 Question? I believe you'd call him the "host." He was the man that asked the questions. Also, did Mogen David wine sponsor the show? MRS. J.H., Pittsfield, Wis.

The late Hal March was the master of ceremonies, or host, or whatever, on that newsmaking quiz show. For most of its run, Revlon was the sponsor.

DEAR DICK: I was just wondering if that lady of the Folger's coffee commercial, Mrs. Olsen, is Susan Olsen's mom because they both have the same last name. DENNIS CAPOBIANCO, Jeffersonville, Pa.

Mrs. Olsen isn't really Mrs. Olsen. That's just the name of the part she's playing. Her real name is Virginia Christine, so it's obvious she can't be Susan Olsen's mom, unless Susan Olsen is playing a part, too.

DEAR DICK: I see that there is going to be a TV movie on soon called "Gable and Lombard." What I want to know is this: do they dare keep Miss Lombard's spicy language in or are they going to leave it out? CARLA ZIMMERMAN, Kinston, N.C.

In the first place, the "Gable and Lombard" movie isn't a TV movie, it's a regular movie for theaters. So what you call Carole Lombard's "spicy" language will probably be retained. In the second place, what was considered "spicy" in Carole's day would probably be pretty mild today.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Robert York, the star of the 1975 TV movie, "The Specialists," and Robert Urch of S.W.A.T. are the same person. They look like twins. Also, could you please tell me how old Dick Powell and Debbie Reynolds were when they electric the '54 movie, "Susan Slept Here." MRS. A.A. ANDERSON, Steubenville, O.

Yes, Robert Urch changed his name for that one film, then changed it back again. As to your second question, Debbie was a slip of a girl, just 22, and Dick was 50 when they made "Susan Slept Here."

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me if Gail Russell was the girl in the movie, "Wake of the Red Witch." ROSE BUSH, Mobile, Ala.

Yes, she was the leading lady of that '49 rouser.

DEAR DICK: I was wondering how come they took the series, Movin' On, off TV? Also how come they don't have any more western shows, like Big Valley and The Virginian? EILEEN JO JUHASZ, Del Bonita, Ala., Can.

Movin' On isn't off network TV, but it's possible it has been dropped by your local station. About westerns, TV fare runs in cycles. For a while, westerns were hot. Just now, they're cold. Wait a few years, they'll be back again.

DEAR DICK: Is Carol Burnett married to Harvey Korman or is she single or what? And is Gilligan and them ever going to get off the island? DEBORAH THOMPSON, Theodore, Ala.

Carol Burnett is married, but not to Korman. She is the wife of Joe Hamilton, who produces her show. Gilligan and them are stuck on the island in perpetuity. The show finished filming years ago, and they never wrote a show where they were rescued.

Bo Svenson walks tall these days

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — This is a good year for Bo Svenson.

From out of nowhere, he's become a big new movie name. He has a major role in "The Great Waldo Pepper," with Robert Redford, and he has the lead in "Part 2 Walking Tall," the sequel to the big hit about the crime-busting sheriff, Buford Pusser.

And now there's talk of a series based on Pusser's exploits. Svenson says ABC has an option on the property.

"I might do it," Svenson says, "if it was written to reflect what I consider the most important element in Pusser's story — that a man in America today can be independent and fight for what he believes is right."

Svenson is a man of such independence. His own life reflects that. He was born in Lapland, in the extreme northern part of Sweden. He says he comes from a family of nomadic reindeer herders. When he was very young, his parents separated and his mother moved to southern Sweden.

So his independence came early. And, by the time he was a teen-ager, he had reached an independent decision.

"I came to the conclusion," he says, "that life in Sweden's socialistic society was stifling. A man can make almost as much money not working in Sweden as he can by working. There is, thus, very little incentive to work."

"And I kept seeing all the American movies, which showed an entirely different way of life. So I began dreaming and planning to come here."

He worked hard and saved his money. Then he tricked his mother into signing his emigration papers, by handing them to her when she was half-asleep and telling her it was a form for school. When he was 17, he flew to the U.S. Three days later, he enlisted in the Marine Corps.

Svenson spent six years in the Marines. He says when he came out he was a man — and he had a few judo titles to his credit.

He fell in love with acting and has been doing it since. It's been a long, hard climb, but now he seems on the threshold of making it.

Buford Pusser wasn't the only man to walk tall — Bo Svenson walks as tall as anyone.

Bank to begin opera preview

The First Federal Savings of East Hartford will begin its series of opera previews Wednesday at the Manchester office of the First Federal Savings, 344 W. Middle Tpke. There will be two sessions, one at 10 a.m. and one at 8 p.m., each lasting about two hours with the same material presented at each session.

The program of previews is planned each year to coincide with the operas being performed by the Connecticut Opera Association.

This season's first opera is Puccini's "Girl of The Golden West."

Those planning to attend the free programs are reminded to notify Miss Doris Rayner by calling 646-8300 or 289-6401. Registration blanks will also be available at the service desks at all branches of the First Federal Savings. These may be left with the tellers at any of the offices with the request they be forwarded to Miss Rayner.

Children's theater

The Ragbag Children's Theater Troupe of the University of Connecticut will present "Grabag" Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and noon in the Mobius Theater of the fine arts building on the UConn campus. Tickets are available at the door.

Faculty recital

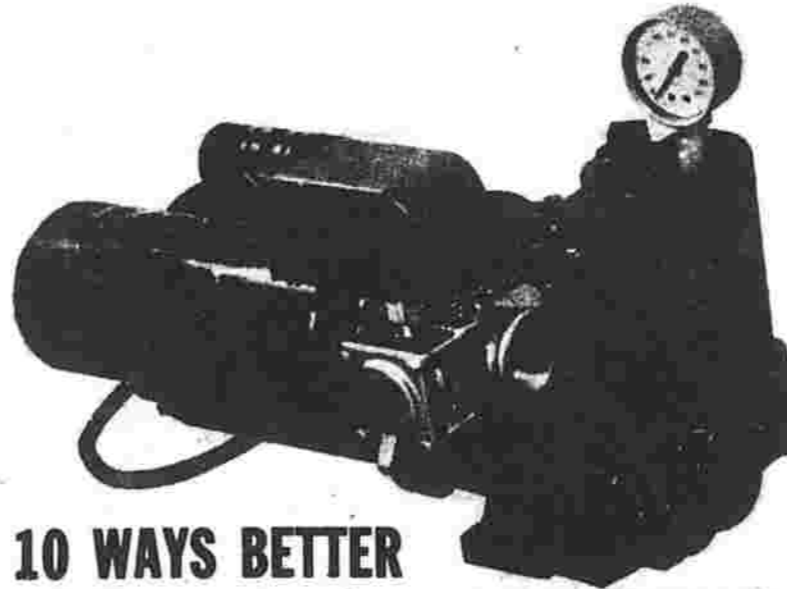

Rose Mende and Watson Morrison, faculty members at Hartt College of Music of the University of Hartford, will present a two-piano recital Sunday at 3 p.m. in Millard Auditorium, Fuller Music Center at the UofH campus, 200 Bloomfield Ave., West Hartford. Included in the program will be a performance of Poulenc's "Sonata for Two Pianos."

The public is invited.
