Opinion

Who knows what oil lurks...

The most highly guarded secret in America is the truth about the nation's oil and gas production and the extent of known or potential reserves, charges Rep. Charles A. Vanik, (D-Ohio). Congress really doesn't know how much oil and gas is in the ground waiting to come out — when the price is right, he says.

"The great big government of America — which many would like to miniaturize — begs the oil and gas information from an industry-managed reporting facility. There are no penalties for false information, the suppression of truth or for underreporting.

"In this vacuum of information, the industry holds all the cards." Well, if the government really is that much in the dark about the situation, it can't be for what of cards of its own.

According to an estimate in the Wall Street Journal, the mountains of information the government requires from the oil industry is costing the 20 largest companies — and ultimately, of course, the consumer — about $60 million a year. At an average cost of $100,000, that is enough to drill 600 wells.

Standard Oil of Indiana, for example, has 636 miles of computer tape storing the information it has had to supply to just one government agency, the Federal Energy Administration. It gives the FEA about 225,000 pages of data a year on its various operations. Phone calls to the capital have soared to 27,000 a year from only 1,300 five years ago, and employees take more than 600 trips a year to Washington.

All the other companies complain about the money and manpower they are pouring into paperwork. Exxon last year submitted a one-shot report to the FEA of 475,000 pages, which took 100 employees two months to prepare.

Union Oil says regulatory requirements cost it about $3 million a year. Shell Oil has 250 employees working part-time on government regulation chores and says that even if the FEA closed up today (which would put 3,200 bureaucrats on welfare), it would still have to file 389 reports with 44 other agencies, ranging in frequency from once a week to once a year and providing figures on exploration and production, marketing, sales, profits and other aspects of its business.

Nevertheless, Vanik's charge has been echoed in the other wing of the Capitol.

The big oil companies, operating as a club, are inhibiting production of oil until prices go higher, says Sen. Birch Bayh, (D-Ind.). He and three other senators have introduced legislation to break up the 22 largest companies. They cite an antitrust and monopoly subcommittee report which found that "virtually all Gulf Coast outer continental shelf production comes from a couple of dozen producers, with the integrated major companies having the lion's share."

Aside from the highly questionable possibility that breaking up the oil giants or demanding more information from them would result in more and cheaper oil and gas for Americans, the interesting thing is that no other basic industry in the United States has anything remotely approaching "a couple of dozen producers," let alone hundreds of smaller, independent producers.

In the automobile industry, to take perhaps the most contrasting example, there are only three major manufacturers, the largest of which accounts for more than half of all production. Yet no one suggests we would have cheaper cars by breaking up General Motors into a number of smaller companies — one to make engines, another to make bodies, another to assemble them and another to market the finished vehicle.

If Vanik and Bayh are correct in their allegations, it would seem that the CIA ought to begin taking lessons in deception and conspiracy from the oil industry. Either that or "the great big government of America" could, indeed, stand some miniaturization.

Time a-wastin' on energy conservation

WASHINGTON — New surveys by men who devote their time to studying international investment and spending indicate the full effects of the world petroleum cartel's major oil price boosts of 1973 and 1974 haven't yet been felt.

The worst is yet to come. These higher energy costs — much like a major sudden increase in taxes — obviously leave us consumers with less money to spend for other things. So we buy less, keeping industrial production below capacity, unemployment high and production at inefficient levels. Recovery is slowed immeasurably. This is only a part of the problem. The oil cartel countries, which for a time funneled major portions of their new-found petrodollars into loans and investment, are gradually investing and loaning less proportionately and buying more. Through this shift does stimulate some companies producing industrial equipment, military hardware and other specialized goods, it is obvious the buying patterns of the oil cartel nations as a group are of little help to most of the mass production, consumer goods — industries on which our prosperity has relied this last decade or so. While heavy industry has been a very important component of our growing gross national product, the consumer market and the services industries have provided the "kicker" to keep our growing pool of workers. Unfortunately, however, much of the buying by the richer oil cartel nations tends toward those industrial goods which directly and indirectly employ less labor per dollar of sales than those products listed above, on which our own spending has been cut back because of higher energy costs.

CIA's best success was fooling itself

First it was alleged assassination plots against foreign leaders and spying on Americans. Now, poison dart guns and exploding light bulbs, among other lethal James Bondish toys; simulated germ warfare attacks against the New York subway system, a secret cache of toxins, maintained against presidential orders, potent enough to wipe out a small city. What revelation will next be dredged out of a seemingly bottomless pit of nefarious Central Intelligence Agency activities? More important, what is to be done with an agency that has violated the charter by which it was created and has made the United States look both foolish and vicious in the eyes of the world?

DON OAKLEY

It would be one thing if the continuing parade of allegations against, and admissions by, the CIA could be balanced by showing what it has done during its existence to enhance the security and further the freedoms of Americans. By definition, of course, a country's intelligence apparatus is supposed to be secret. The CIA may have scored espionage triumphs the public knows nothing about. But the agency's bungles have been so

Directors given praise

To the editor: I was overjoyed to read in Tuesday night's Herald that "Buckland firehouse given green light." It is gratifying to know the Board of Directors are doing what is best for all the Town of Manchester residents. It is just over a year since the people in my area were given the fire protection of the Town of Manchester Fire Department, for which we were paying taxes. The service we are receiving is tops and we are very pleased with the outstanding job done by these professional fire fighters. Having had considerable training in industrial fire fighting when I served as a safety director for my company, I know the value of rapid response to fires and this can best be accomplished by having men on duty with equipment to respond to a fire call. The Eighth District has one paid man on duty during the day but he is only a dispatcher and cannot drive the fire truck. This could mean a delayed response.

I have been told that the American Insurance Association uses the ratio of three volunteer firemen equal to one paid professional firefighter when rating fire insurance rates. These are facts which affect the safety of people in a fire situation. It is because of these reasons that I support the Board of Directors in their decision to build and man a firehouse in Buckland.

In the words of Eighth District Volunteer Fire Chief Granville Lingard as reported in The Manchester Evening Herald a year ago, for the safety of the people, build a firehouse and man it in the Buckland area before taking over that area. Durward J. Miller 358 Lydall St. Manchester

MACC NEWS

By NANCY CARR
 Conference of Churches
 The second annual Evening of the Performing Arts will be presented Saturday, Oct. 18, at Bailey Auditorium by area musicians and artists to benefit the many works and programs of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

Keynote of the evening, the combined Sacred Dance Choirs of Center Congregational and South United Methodist will open the program with "This Little Light of Mine," danced with lights and chosen to show what individual people coming together can accomplish. This is the first time that the churches had presented to the public this form of religious art.

Shirley Stager of the Center Sacred Dance Choir notes that new words have been written to the song by Betty Simpson so that the dance represents not only what dancers can do coming together from different churches but also represents the people of MACC coming together to "let their light shine." "The Creation" by James Weldon Johnson as danced by the Center group will follow. The South Methodist Sacred Dance Group will then swing into a musical interpretation with bells and symbols of Praise the Lord.

A fun thing
 We are very fortunate in having the Civic Orchestra Strings with us again. This year under the direction of James Kirchner they will play Benjamin Britten's "Simple Symphony."

Glimy Dufco, coordinator of the group of 20 musicians (some coming from as far away as Granby for rehearsals and the performance), says the harmonics of the "Simple Symphony" are much like those of the romantic period, very listenable and enjoyable on a first-time basis.

She said, "It's really a fun thing to play. We believe it will be as much fun to listen to as it is for us to play it." Glimy also commented that in spite of the title "simple" it is not easy to play. It takes a lot of listening and rehearsal time to make it come together.

Art experience
 As a tribute to the Bicentennial we will be listening and watching an unusual art experience prepared by the Manchester Civic Chorus under the direction of Manchester's Ralph MacCarone.

The chorus will sing "A Cry for Freedom," a cantata based on music written by William Billings (1746-1800). Billings, a minor political figure and a friend of Paul Revere, sought to put into music his reactions to some of the things he saw happening around him. One of his songs, "Chester," was the rallying cry of the troops and almost became our national anthem (the Bell Choirs will be playing this selection).

Gilbert Hunt, head of the English department of Manchester High School, will be narrator for the cantata. "A Cry for Freedom" musically traces the American Revolution revealing both Billings' patriotism and his calling forth the need for America to turn to God for guidance. Accompanying and completing the choral expression of the war for freedom

HERALD YESTERDAYS

25 Years Ago
 Due to crowded conditions at the polls election night when voters were lined up to vote at 8 p.m., Republican Town Chairman William Davis urges that the voting system be changed to place a greater distance between the check lists and the voting machines. Harry B. Benson, a vice president of Cheney Bros., is named to coordinating committee of National Federation of Textiles.

BERRY'S WORLD

With this stark outlook, it passes all understanding that President Ford and Congress have not moved with greater urgency to conserve the use of energy by stimulating more efficient industrial and household usage, or to step up the pace at which we develop alternate and more efficient substitutes. We have in hand, without further research, the ability to reduce our dependence on foreign oil by a significant percentage. The techniques for more efficient use are known. They have been adopted by a few companies in a few industries in the U.S. and abroad. We know already how to use heat more efficiently in our homes. There are efficient, low-cost ways in which to use a greater amount of solar energy that require no new knowledge. And there are some areas — such as the development of cheap ways for extracting much of the polluting material from coal — where breakthroughs seem possible with more research. The final solution will take two to three decades or more. A partial solution is at hand if the President and Congress would stop posturing and get on with the job.

will be slides prepared from pictures of the period, carefully selected after research through historical materials by Robert Jackson, head librarian of Mary Cheney Library and his staff. A highlight of the filling audio-visual department took pictures and made the slides. Calvin Fish of the Manchester High School audio-visual department was also instrumental in preparing the visual art which will add unusual dimension to the cantata.

If this sounds exciting, may I remind you that this is only one half of our magnificent Evening of the Performing Arts. More to follow next week about Gilbert and Sullivan, the Silk City Chorus and the Bell Choirs.

Corrections
 Todd Fish, coordinator of Hartford Coalition; Mr. Winston Johnson, Catholic Family Services; and Mr. William Lauten, co-director of P/PREP will be speakers at the second of three Monday seminars on Connecticut corrections sponsored by the Social Action Division at Concordia Lutheran Church from 8 to 10 tonight.

Prepared as part of the division's community education service, the topic for discussion will be "New Trends in Community Based Corrections." We invite you to join us this evening in this unique opportunity to find out what is happening in the criminal justice system, parole, work release, furloughs, group homes. Come and talk to the men who not only know what is going on but help make it happen.

The People Group
 More than 80 men and women met Wednesday night at a MACC-sponsored organizational meeting of a program for widowed, divorced, separated and never-married persons. The response to the invitation and the enthusiasm shown was so encouraging that five chapters may be formed instead of the one or two anticipated. Weekly discussion, coffee and "time to get acquainted" meetings will be held next month at the home of five volunteer host and hostesses.

Decisions concerning the format of the groups, times, places, and activities will be made and each group asked to select a group spokesman. At the end of a month, a meeting of the hosts and hostesses will be held to determine the future development of The People Group in Manchester.

Postcards giving the names and addresses of the hosts and hostesses and the discussion topics for each group will be sent out to those interested in attending the People Group. Please call the host or hostess of the group you select ahead of time to make a reservation so that no one will be too overcrowded. Anyone interested in more information is invited to call the conference office, 948-2093.

We urge you to support both the generosity and talents of our artistic community and the works of the conference by encouraging your friends and neighbors to join you for the Evening of the Performing Arts. Blocks of 10 more more tickets are available at your church office. Tickets are also available at Rega's and Pan's Kitchen on Main St., Frank's Supermarket, Farn's, and at the door the night of the performance.

AIR SHOW!

Boy dodges the shadows of a Sikorsky Skycrane.

James Haley Jr., an employee of Pratt & Whitney's engineering department, helps his son, James III, get a closer look.

Lines of people waiting to board an American Airlines 747 snaked around Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's Rentschler Field during the weekend air show celebrating the firm's 50th anniversary. The two-day show, which featured 45 aircraft and a display of Pratt & Whitney engines, drew more than 150,000 people Saturday and another 250,000 Sunday.

Younger air show visitors were thrilled by the many airplanes and helicopters on display. Here, they're looking at an F-15 Eagle powered by Pratt & Whitney engines, as were most of the aircraft at the show.

One of the major attractions of the air show was this French-made, 1909 Bleriot monoplane, purchased by Pratt & Whitney and presented to the Connecticut Aeronautical Association's Bradley Air Museum.

.200 hitter stars in clutch for Sox

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
FENWAY PARK, Boston — Although batting just .202 since the mid-season All-Star break, Carl Yastrzemski's bat came to life yesterday and as a result the surprising and underdog Red Sox hold a 2-0 lead in games over Oakland.

Captain Carl was the leader all the way, both at bat and on the field, as Boston advanced to within one more win in the best-of-five game set which will put the club in the 1975 World Series. Thus, the odds are now with Boston.

No team has ever lost the first two games since the divisional playoff system came into use and then went on to win.

Down 3-0 against the A's best pitcher, 22-game winner Vida Blue, Yastrzemski hammered his first homer of the season into the leftfield nets in the fourth inning to ignite the club and bring a capacity crowd of 35,578 to its feet. The opposite field homer for the lefthanded batter hit the top of the wall and dropped

76ers in rally to nip Celtics

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
Billed as an exhibition game and played like one in many spots, the Philadelphia 76ers staged a late rally to down the Boston Celtics, 115-109, last night at the Hartford Civic Center before an announced house of 6,147.

Powerfully built 6-8, 235-pound George McGinnis, signed in the off-season by Philadelphia from the ABA Indiana Pacers, sparked the late surge with four points to snap a 109-111 tie. Picked up by Boston's rugged center Dave Cowens, McGinnis drove the lane and was fouled with 15 seconds showing on the clock. He converted the foul shot and got a rousing standing ovation both after his homer and when he took his place in leftfield at the end of the inning.

"Anytime you get a standing ovation, it makes you feel good."

"I appreciate the fans, they have been very kind to me during these past few weeks (while in a slump). I hope to have a few more good games this season."

So do Boston fans for that will insure at least two World Series games in Beantown, Saturday and Sunday.

Fenway death on southpaws

BOSTON - Fenway Park is a graveyard for lefthanded pitchers and the past season was no exception, and this has been carried through in the first two playoff games to decide the American League champion. Southpaws lost 10 of 12 regular season decisions and Oakland's top starters, Ken Holtzman and Vida Blue, who both throw from the left side, were bombed in the two playoff losses to Boston on the weekend...Overall, Boston was 20-18 in wins and losses this season against lefthanded pitching...Porter Blinn, chief ace scout for the Cincinnati Reds, who has been following the Red Sox for the past three weeks, charting every pitch, reported Luis Tiant threw 37 fast balls in his 143-pitch winning effort against the A's on Saturday...Local baseball fans at Fenway yesterday include Bernie Giovanni, former minor league umpire and now Parkade Lanes manager, Nick Jackson, ex-minor league and high school coach, Lefty Bray and the LaBelles, John J.D. and Peter...The Red Sox have handled Oakland's best pitchers, Holtzman and Blue, as well as Fingers, Glenn Abbott, Paul Lindblad and Jim Todd...A's owner Charlie Finley doffed his green and gold outfit after Saturday's loss for a check suit Sunday but it wasn't any luckier. Finley answered a chorus of "Good-bye Charlie" chants late in yesterday's game by standing up and waving from his box seat next to the A's dugout...Oakland club officials and player wives, outlived in Oakland colors and waving banners, were a noisy group especially in the first inning when Reggie Jackson hammered a two-run homer.

Fenway swing by Bando

Talk about Rico Petricelli's Fenway park swing, San Baldo's isn't bad either. He denied the leftfield wall four straight times, two falling for doubles...Former New York Yankee pitcher Lefty Gomez credited a lot of his success to a "last outfielder." Boston's Fred Lynn made two sensational catches yesterday and just missed a third by inches with a belly slide...No one can accuse the Red Sox of not hustling. Another example was Rooter Burleson's losing effort in attempting to track down Claudell Washington's soft pop fly ball to leftfield in the ninth inning...It will be hard to pick one play that stands out in the series...Yastrzemski and Lynn are running one-two with Luis Tiant just a shade behind on this man's scoreboard...The crowd each day was 35,578, the press taking up 225 seats in the skyview boxes...Should Boston get in the World Series, the media number will be over 500...World Series tickets are due to go in the malls today and area baseball fans can hope for the best...Two stars of the last Boston flag winner, Jim Lonborg and Ken Harrelson were part of a Boston three-man team in the teevee booth yesterday.

Seven persons die in weekend mishaps

United Press International
At least seven persons died in weekend accidents in Connecticut, including four deaths attributed to fires.

One of the fire victims was John Johansen, 63, veteran sports reporter and editor for the Bridgeport Post-Telegram. Police said Johansen was found dead in his bed after firemen answered an alarm Saturday at his Fairfield home.

The fire was confined to his bedroom and a medical examiner listed the cause of death as smoke inhalation.

A Hartford man, Frank Brewer Sr., 63, died in a fire in the room of his home where he was sleeping early Sunday.

The other two fire victims were women. Police said Sophie Z. Shepherd, 50, died after a two-alarm fire gutted her home Friday night in Newton and 77-year-old Claire S. Mulholland was found dead early Sunday in the front hall of her Heritage Village apartment in Southbury.

In highway mishaps, Sandra Kealey, 19, of Bridgeport was killed when her car struck a utility pole Saturday in Greenwich.

In Enfield, Robert Gauthier, 18, of Enfield was injured fatally in a two-car crash on Rte. 5. He was pronounced dead at Wesson Memorial Hospital in Springfield, Mass.

A one-car crash in Clinton claimed the life of a 16-year-old

It was produced and narrated by a U.S. Navy chaplain. It is a serious yet often humorous film on the disease and how it affects its users.

The public is invited.

Income tax debate indicates issue transcends party lines
By SOL R. COHEN
By HERALD REPORTER

Nobody won and nobody lost last night in the heated debate over a "State Income Tax" between Edward Wilson, Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, and Mayor John Thompson, Democrat seeking his third consecutive term on the board.

There was no vote and no show of hands. What there was was a political debate in the old tradition. The crowd of about 150 which packed the Koff Hall was a partisan crowd, made up of party loyalists—office holders, candidates, town committee members, campaign workers, plus their spouses, friends and neighbors.

However, it was evident from the applause and from the comments that the subject of the debate transcended party loyalty, and was of concern to most of the audience and attested to their worry over taxes and the economic picture in general.

Wilson agreed early today to end their four-day strike in return for city assurances of good faith bargaining with a federal mediator. The city's central demand of equal pay with policemen.

Ford links tax cuts to spending slashes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has asked Congress to permanently lower individual and business income taxes by 25 percent, but to cut the personal exemption to $1,000 that would save the average, middle-class taxpayer more than $200.

But Ford insisted the tax cuts be accompanied by sharp cutbacks in federal spending to offset the loss of revenue, under threat of presidential veto.

Presidential aides said the main effect of Ford's plan to extend and broaden tax reductions that went into effect earlier this year would be to cut the average, middle-class family's federal tax bill by more than $200 next year. Ford proposed to increase the personal exemption to $1,000 for taxpayers and dependents. Now the exemption is $750.

Ford's plan also would set a standard deduction of $2,500 regardless of income and reduce tax rates in low and moderate income brackets.

For business, Ford proposed a reduction of the maximum tax on profits from 48 to 46 percent, reduced rates on the first $50,000 of profits from 52 to 48 percent, and a 40 percent rate on profits over $100,000. Ford also proposed to reduce the corporate tax rate from 48 percent to 46 percent and to continue to cut down to 10 percent investment tax credit as an incentive for investment in new plants and materials. Special tax incentives would go to electric utilities, which have had trouble attracting expansion capital.

Over-all, Ford's bill would amount to $20.7 billion in cuts for individuals, $8 billion greater than current year-cuts, and $7 billion in business tax cuts, $3 billion more than the current breaks.

Penn Central halts removal of track

Removal of Penn Central Railroad tracks on the abandoned Vernon-to-Williamstown right-of-way was to be halted today to give state officials time to raise money to buy the rails.

The railroad has asked its salvage contractor to suspend track removal, state Transportation Commissioner Samuel Kanell said today, and the agreement to delay rail removal has apparently succeeded.

The state has agreed to buy the 18-mile right-of-way but has been unable so far to get federal grants to buy the actual rails, Kanell said.

Railroad spokesman Robert McKernan said Monday that Penn Central's salvage contractor — Boss Cedric Equipment Co. Inc. of Brooklyn, N.Y. — was asked to stop work temporarily.

Penn Central hired Boss Cedric to rip up 17 miles of rail for use elsewhere in the railroad system. Boss Cedric, which was to remove the rails, had already removed about two miles of rail and all the ties.

About one-half mile of rail has already been removed, Kanell said. Kanell said Penn Central will work with the state Department of Transportation to obtain federal funds to buy the rails. Penn Central was reached. Kanell promised to study the controversy but decided there was nothing they could do.

On Monday, after the agreement with Penn Central was reached, Kanell said that the state Department of Transportation would be used in its present condition, Kanell said, although the rails have considerable salvage value.

Ford to discuss energy with Appalachia leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford met with Appalachian congressional leaders today before leaving for a brief trip to Knoxville, Tenn., to discuss energy with Appalachian state governors.

Ford met with the GOP leaders in the White House at 8 a.m. EDT to start a busy morning schedule which included a conference with a group of lawmakers on a bill proposing extending U.S. fishing rights to 200 miles.

Ferguson named to GOP post

Republican State Chairman Frederick K. Biebel today announced the appointment of Thomas F. Ferguson of Manchester as Chairman of the Republican Key Committee. Ferguson is former co-publisher of The Manchester Evening Herald.

The Republican Key Committee is a group of statewide continuing financial supporters of the Republican Party. Each member contributed $250 annually on a continuing basis and the funds realized are used to operate the state Republican Party Headquarters in Hartford. A husband and wife may become Key Committee members together for a $400 annual contribution.

Ferguson will take over direction of the Key Committee Nov. 1. He will succeed Biebel, who has been chairman of the Key Committee for the past four years. At present it includes 400 members.

"I am very grateful to Tom Ferguson for taking on this important assignment," Biebel said. "Funds contributed by Key Committee members form the financial backbone for the continuing operations of the Republican Party. It is vital that membership in this committee not only sustained, but increased. I am confident that Mr. Ferguson will do a good job." Ferguson, who retired from the newspaper business in November 1971 after the Herald was sold, is well known throughout the state. He has long been active in both professional and civic affairs.

Ferguson is 50 years old and he attended Manchester schools and after a tour of duty with the Army Air Force during World War II he graduated from Trinity College in Hartford in 1951. Upon graduation from college he joined the Manchester paper, a family enterprise. He is married and has three children.

He is former president of the Connecticut Council of the Associated Press, former president of the New England Associated Press News Executives Association and has held many other top offices in newspaper organizations. He is chairman of the Associated Board of Manchester Branch of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company, a trustee of the Manchester Memorial Hospital, a member of the Board of Incorporators of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind and is active in many fraternal and civic organizations.

NOTICE MANCHESTER WATER DEPT
will begin flushing the water mains of the former Manchester Water Company in the North End of town on Monday, October 6, 1975 and will continue Monday thru Friday until completion.

Should you experience rusty water it may get into your hot water tank. If it does, after the water returns to normal, clear the settled material by drawing off the water from the faucet at the bottom of the tank. Should you have a load of wash stained or muddied by this disturbance, after the water returns to normal, wash the load with your regular soap and 4 ounces of cream of tartar. This should clean the wash satisfactorily.
