

The candidates are saying

The fiscal responsibility for maintaining a fairly stable tax rate and providing improved services and facilities for the Town of Manchester has been demonstrated by the Democratic majority over the past four years, according to Robert B. Price, Democratic candidate for director.

The comparison of the past four years of Democratic control clearly exhibits that the Democrats have fulfilled the camaign promise of "we can do it better for less."

In the years 1971-1975, the Democrats increased the tax rate an average of 1.34 per cent per year contrasted to the years 1967-1971, where the Republican-controlled board increased the tax rate an average of 6.15 per cent per year. The Republican 6.15 per cent rate of tax increase occurred when the Consumer Price Index was increasing at an average rate of 4.94 per cent per year. The Democrat's 1.34 per cent rate of tax increase was accomplished when the Consumer Price Index was increasing at an average rate of 7.5 per cent per year.

Summarizing the tax record over the last four years clearly demonstrates the willingness, the desire, and capability of the Democrats to deliver to the people of Manchester the services they deserve at the lowest possible cost, Price said.

Moriarty coordinators Appointed

John Vichi, campaign chairman for Matt Moriarty Jr., Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has named campaign coordinators in each voting district:

District 1, Phil Burgess Jr.; District 2, Pat Mistretta; District 3, Charles Boggin; District 4, James McCavanaugh, 50 Clinton St.; District 5, Dave Doremus, 29 Elmwood Rd.; District 6, Joe Campose, 53 Kane Rd.; District 7, John Duka, 97 Cambridge St.; District 8, Steve Lauretti, 28 Bunce Dr.; District 9, John Dougan, 13 Santina Dr.; and District 10, Roberto Hublard, 4 Earl St.

Motor vehicle offices to close early

All state Motor Vehicle Department offices will close at 12:30 p.m. Friday for the Columbus Day weekend.

The offices will reopen at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday (Oct. 14) and will be open regular hours for the rest of the week. Department hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each Tuesday, Wednesday and

Mrs. Coltman names her campaign chief

Louise Nathan of 109 Adelaide Rd. has been named campaign manager for Eleanor D. Coltman, Democratic candidate for re-election to the Manchester Board of Education.

Others on Mrs. Coltman's campaign committee are Albert Harris of 205 Henry St., treasurer; James O. Tatso of 200 Redwood Rd., deputy treasurer; and Marge Flynn of 301 Henry St., publicity.

In accepting her appointment, Mrs. Nathan said, "Eleanor Coltman's lifetime involvement with education, including teaching experience at every level from kindergarten through community college, makes her singularly well-informed and well-qualified. In addition to her committee assignments on the Board of Education, she is also an alternate delegate to the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education."

Mrs. Nathan is a past president of the Manchester League of Women Voters and served on the Community Development Action Committee. Harris, a member of the school board, is manager of the Carousal Shop in Vernon Circle. Tatso is assistant dean and director of the Community Services Division at Manchester Community College. Mrs. Flynn is a former newspaper and magazine writer and editor.

Construction contract signed

Buckland firehouse issue now in court

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Town officials this morning signed a $233,000 construction contract for a new Buckland firehouse, only hours after being served with papers in a court action which seeks a determination of who has jurisdiction for fire service in Buckland—the Town of Manchester or the Eighth District.

The contract signing was only minutes after Superior Court Judge Harold Matvey signed a "show cause" order, directing Mayor John Thompson and other town officials, to appear Oct. 16 in Hartford Superior Court to show reasons why the court shouldn't issue a temporary injunction to stop the construction. The action was brought by Larry Noone of 227 Burnham St.

The first action, returnable Nov. 18 in Hartford Court Superior Court, also was brought by Larry Noone. It was filed on his behalf by Christopher Noble and Robert Blechman, counsel for Buckland area property owners petitioning the Eighth District for inclusion in its boundary lines.

Noone is a leader of the petition drive and is leader also in the drive by Buckland area property owners to halt construction of the multi-million dollar Buckland Commons industrial-commercial-residential complex.

Papers were served last night on Town Directors John Thompson, Pascal Prignano, Phyllis Jackson, Robert Price, Matt Moriarty Jr., Jack Goldberg, Vivian Ferguson, Carl Zisser and Paul Willhide; Town Manager Robert Weiss and Building Committee chairman Paul Phillips; and this morning on Fred Brunoli & Sons of Avon, contractors for the firehouse.

Also named in the suit and served with papers last night were Eighth District president Michael Massaro and District Directors Gordon Lassow, Patrick Brown, Paul Cervini, William Sheridan and John Flynn. Willard Marvin, also a director, wasn't named.

The court action, although anticipated, still came as a surprise to town directors. They were told by Town Counsel William Bronelli (at $233,000) be signed as scheduled.

Weiss signed for the town and Joseph C. Brunoli, secretary-treasurer of the Avon firm, signed for Fred Brunoli & Sons.

After studying the writs, Bronelli, this morning, recommended that the construction contract (at $233,000) be signed as scheduled.

The temporary notes are being purchased by the United Bank & Trust Co.

at 4.80 per cent interest. Joe Huchey of the Manchester State Bank, the certifying and paying agent for the notes, witnessed the signing.

Meanwhile, Eighth District counsel John LaBelle has validated Agency petition from Buckland area property owners and has told the district board it may schedule a new special meeting of district electors under Special Act 200, to consider expanding district lines into the Buckland area.

LaBelle had recommended the special meeting for after the Nov. 4 municipal election.

However, a new development today may convince the district board to schedule the special meeting sooner. A petition signed by 15 district electors was delivered to the board. It requests a special meeting as soon as possible to consider the Buckland request for expanding the district.

By a voice vote at a special meeting July 30, district electors approved expanding district lines into the Buckland area for fire protection.

LaBelle declared the July 30 action a "nullity" when he ruled the petition seeking the action was invalid.

Assistant Town Counsel Victor Moses also had declared the petition was invalid, but for a reason other than the one given by LaBelle.

LaBelle had said Special Act 200 of the 1962 General Assembly permits expansion of district lines. Bronelli, Moses and John FitzGerald, the attorney retained to give an outside (of government) opinion, have said the district can't expand into an area under town jurisdiction without Town of Manchester approval.

FBI arrests local man on hijacking charges

The FBI arrested a 27-year-old Manchester man in Tampa, Fla. this morning in connection with the hijacking of a single engine airplane.

Three men hijacked the airplane at Greensboro, N. C. today and forced the pilot to fly to Tampa.

FBI agents arrested one man inside the Tampa terminal but the other two escaped.

The arrested man was identified as Ronald Edwards, Ralph, 27, of 34 Englewood Dr., Manchester.

An FBI spokesman said the three men chartered the four-passenger plane for a flight from Greensboro to Atlanta. Ten minutes into the flight, one of the passengers produced a .32-caliber handgun and ordered the pilot to fly to Florida.

The pilot, who was not identified, landed at the fueling area of the Tampa Air Center and when the hijackers went into the terminal, he radioed authorities and

CCM urges state policy prohibiting rail removal

The Connecticut Conference of Municipalities (CCM) has urged state officials to start a policy which would prohibit removal of railroad tracks along abandoned rights-of-way for possible future mass transit use.

If such a policy had been in effect, the controversial removal of tracks on the Penn Central Railroad's Vernon-to-Willimantic line would have been prevented, officials said.

Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy, president of the CCM, said today the state should have a policy to assure that all abandoned rails will be left in place. His comments were in a letter to Gov. Ella Grasso.

McCoy and State Rep. Aloysius Ahern of Bolton have led the fight to stop a salvage contractor from removing 19 miles of track between Vernon and Willimantic. In Vernon, town officials

Reagan begins drive in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan today opened presidential campaign operations in the state with the nation's first 1976 primary, guaranteeing a showdown with President Ford.

The formation of a citizens committee for the conservative Republican was announced five days after President Ford's campaign declaration he would open his drive for the nomination in New Hampshire's Feb. 24 primary.

Reagan and Ford will skip the subsequent Massachusetts primary and meet two weeks later in the nation's third presidential primary in Florida.

Formation of the local Reagan committee, announced by Reagan organizer Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., came as Reagan continued to claim he was undecided about a challenge to Ford, an untested President.

Speaking in Houston Tuesday, Reagan said a convention battle for the nomination could be healthy to "spark a little interest in a tired old elephant." He has said he plans to announce his decision about a White House bid in November.

Named to head the New Hampshire Reagan organization was former GOP Gov. Hugh Gregg, a lawyer in the state's second largest city of Nashua and a single term chief executive in the 1960s.

Reagan's earliest supporter in the state, second-term conservative Gov. Meldrim Thomson, was absent when formation of the Reagan committee was announced. Thomson is vacationing in Israel.

Reagan said in a letter to his new New Hampshire chairman he felt strongly he must develop an organization independent of the governor to create "an effective nationwide effort."

Ford will use '100 vetoes' to get tax-spending cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders say President Ford's combination tax and spending cut proposal is "preposterous" and "irresponsible." But Ford insists it is a package deal — all or nothing.

On Capitol Hill, most Democrats responding to the President's fiscal program unveiled Monday night, were curious about the choices Ford had in mind.

"It is irresponsible for the President to call for a massive cut in federal spending without identifying where the cuts are to be made," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.

Long, D-La., said, "It might be better to push through a one-year extension of the tax-cut provisions which expire Dec. 31, rather than attempt to make them permanent."

Al Ullman, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee already working on tax legislation, put off further committee deliberations on major issues to give the administration time to be specific about the "hard choices" to strike out swinging blindly and put a $36 billion ceiling on without a budget just seems to me totally preposterous and something I'm shocked the administration would propose," Ullman said.

"I wonder who he would do if we took the $28 billion out of defense and space and foreign aid. He'd obviously veto them," Ullman said.

As expected, the Board of Directors Tuesday night authorized continuation of Manchester's leaf-pickup program. The action was by unanimous vote and followed only brief discussion.

The program is scheduled to start Oct. 20 and continue through the first week in December, weather permitting.

Actually, the program has been in effect for many years and hasn't been interrupted. What was interrupted, last May when the board adopted the 1975-76 budget, was the intent for the program.

The board had stipulated that the program be dropped, in favor of other work projects by highway department personnel.

Leaf-pickup program to begin on Oct. 20

However, because of the many calls and visits they received from people concerned with leaf-pickup, the directors indicated bi-partisan support for continuing the program.

On a suggestion by Director Phyllis Jackson, the town manager was instructed to seek cost figures for a leaf-pickup program by outside contractors — to be considered for next year, if favorable. The purpose, explained Mrs. Jackson, is to free highway personnel for other duties in 1976.

This fall's program, said Town Manager Robert Weiss, may require an additional $9,000 appropriation. He recommended a "wait-and-see" approach before an appropriation is considered to determine the severity of winter expenses.

Mayor taps campaign manager

Mayor John Thompson has named Joel E. Janenda of 42 Timber Trail as his campaign coordinator in his bid for re-election to the Town Board of Directors. Thompson has served as leader of the Democratic majority on the board for the past four years.

Janenda is a member of the Democratic Town Committee and chairman of the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission. He is an attorney with the law firm of Kelly and Janenda.

Thompson also named James Watt of 143 Autumn St. as treasurer for the campaign. Watt is chairman of the Commission on Aging.

A social evening chaired by John Fitzpatrick will be held Sunday, October 26 for the benefit of Thompson's campaign. The event will be at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Main St.

Gerald Okrant of 49 Waranoke Rd. was named deputy campaign treasurer.

Pastore came up hard way

United Press International

John O. Pastore came up the hard way, the American way. The son of immigrants, he worked in a jewelry shop by day and studied law at night.

The peppery Democrat used personal ambition and timely opportunities to rise quickly in public office, becoming the first Italian-American in the U.S. Senate in 1950.

The buoyant, energetic Rhode Islander stands five-foot-five inches but has a big voice. He earned his debating honors in one of the toughest clubs in the world the U.S. Senate.

Pastore still describes himself as "just an average fellow who got a lot of breaks" and he never lost an election. He entered politics during the lean years of the Depression "because business was hard in law."

He was born on March 17, 1907, St. Patrick's Day, in Providence. Fatherless at age nine, he became the head of the family and worked while attending high school and Northeastern University Law School.

Pastore was elected to the state House of Representatives in 1934, re-elected in 1936 and became an assistant attorney general in 1937. He was elected lieutenant-governor in 1944 and one year later rose to chief executive when Gov. J. Howard McGrath was named U.S. Solicitor General.

Pastore's move to Washington also followed McGrath's political opportunities. The latter won a U.S. Senate seat in 1946 and resigned at mid-term to become U.S. Attorney General in 1949.

Pastore named Edward L. Leahy to serve in the Senate until the 1950 statewide election. Then Pastore won a special election race to serve out the remaining two years of McGrath's term.

He won his following elections by huge proportions the largest coming in 1964 with a 251,832 plurality over Republican Ronald R. Lauges, a record that still stands.

During his years as a state prosecutor, Pastore married the former Elena Calio in 1941. To this day, he fondly refers to her as "little mother."

They have three grown children—one son and two daughters.

The candidates speak

Jack Goldberg, Democratic candidate for Board of Directors, called attention today to "insufficient housing for the elderly in Manchester," pointing out there are presently 184 elderly waiting for accommodations at Mayfair Gardens and Westhill Gardens and that the number is bound to get larger. "The Manchester Housing Authority is to be commended for its undertaking on Spencer St. said Goldberg. It appears that the authority has faced one of the obstacles it faced and is about to start full fledged plans and construction. However, Spencer St. elderly housing contains only 40 units, leaving 144 others still waiting patiently. "I believe that the Manchester Housing Authority should maintain a permanent site selection committee. I would also recommend that the

Deadline nears to become voter before election

New voters may sign up from 7 to 9 p.m. tonight in the registrar of voters' office in the Manchester Municipal Building and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday. In addition, they may sign up Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the registrars' and town clerk's office. Eligible applicants must be at least 18 years of age, Manchester residents and U.S. citizens. With one exception, Saturday will be the last day to sign up for voting in the Nov. 4 municipal election. A 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. session will be conducted Saturday in the town clerk's office.

The exception is for those whose eligibility rights will mature between Saturday and Election Day. A limited 9 a.m. to noon voter-making session will be held for them Nov. 3, also in the town clerk's office. Those who will be 18 on Nov. 4, Election Day, will be permitted to sign up Nov. 3 and will become eligible voters.

Teachers take course

The Manchester Education Association is sponsoring a course in teacher effectiveness training already in progress. Classes are being held at Hing Union High School for one semester and offers three credits through University of Connecticut.

The course explores a conceptual framework for human relationships and teaches skills of effective counseling, techniques for modification of student behavior, the classroom environment and teacher behavior. The course also teaches skills and techniques for problem solving and classroom conflict resolution, eliminating the need for the teacher to choose between authoritarianism or permissiveness. It also instructs teachers in how to deal with conflicts of values between themselves and students as well as those between students and others. There are about 40 teachers involved in the course.

Grants offered

In cooperation with the state Department of Education, the Connecticut Commission on the Arts is offering non-matching grants of up to $250 to individual school teachers throughout the state for projects in the arts. Priority will be given to proposals of an innovative or unusual nature that involve direct student and teacher participation. In particular, projects suggesting strategies for making the arts more central in education will be funded in various Connecticut schools. Inquiries or applications, accompanied by a letter of endorsement from the school principal should be addressed to Dr. Stephen R. Shapiro, senior program associate, education division, Connecticut Commission on the Arts, 340 Capitol Ave., Hartford, 06106. Teachers are requested to describe proposed projects, indicate the purposes and itemize anticipated expenditures. Application deadline is Nov. 14 with notification of awards to be made early next January.

Just good business

Some years ago someone coined the slogan, "it is ability and not disability that counts" in an effort to encourage the hiring of our friends and neighbors who may be handicapped in some way.
The idea embodied in that slogan is still true today.
For when we look at what people can do rather than what they cannot, we do find more opportunities for hiring the handicapped.

Scene from here

From soup to flies

I've always been fascinated by "Fly in My Soup" jokes, even though they're a dime-a-dozen and Joe Miller's joke book (dating back to the first edition) is full of them. Cartoonists thrive on them. Comedians have built careers on them.
I think my involvement with them goes back several years, when I was eating supper (we still call it supper in our house and reserve the designation — dinner — for special occasions).

SOL R. COHEN

OPEN FORUM

Meditation law defended

To the editor:
Recently, the High School World carried an excellent article on the new Meditation Law.
The article asked the question, "Are these students who are not keeping quiet violating the law? Should they and the teachers who are in charge of them be arrested?"

Favors firehouse in Buckland area

To the editor:
I want to commend the Democratic members of the Board of Directors for fulfilling their responsibility as elected officials of the Town of Manchester by voting to proceed with construction of the Buckland firehouse.
I am not a property owner in either the Eighth District or the Buckland area, but rather a taxpayer in what is commonly referred to as the "grey area" of town. I am most distressed that this issue is being politicized. We, in this section of town, have been in limbo for many years as far as fire protection is concerned.

Willhide praised

To the editor:
For the first time in several years, the people of Manchester have an exceptional opportunity to make a choice in the type of town government they wish to have represent them. The Republican candidates collectively represent the most talented group of candidates offered to the voters in recent years.
I would, particularly, like to single out Paul E. Willhide. Rarely has a person of Paul's dedication and proven success in business been willing to sacrifice his time and effort for the good of all his people of Manchester.

Coventry sign law questioned

To the editor:
I am a 17-year-old girl who was told through 12 years of schooling that in this country of the United States of America we have freedom of speech.
I believed this until recently I heard of an instance where a member of the town of Coventry was forced to take down a sign in front of his home that read, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Federal raise unjustified

WASHINGTON — Don't anybody come around here expressing gratitude to Congress for "economizing" on the matter of pay increases for its members and 3.5 million other federal white-collar employees.

True, Congress approved a 5 per cent boost recommended by President Ford instead of the 8.66 per cent proposed by Ford's advisory board. In short, until 1975, Congress was in violation of the constitutional clause that it legislate ALL appropriations.
There is also the matter of a President's right to veto an appropriation bill. Had Ford been overruled and the 8.66 per cent pay raise been adopted, he would have been powerless to intervene with the veto which is his constitutional privilege.

Under the circumstances, there should have been no pay raise of any size for any federal employee. There, I've said it and I'm glad. Unfortunately, however, there is something called the Federal Pay Comparability Act which says federal workers get automatic pay boosts every year to keep them abreast of salaries paid employers in private industry.
It's no good stating that most federal workers already earn — or are paid — more than their counterparts in industry; the figures have been published many times. The law makes no distinctions — the pay boosts are across the board.

Campaign reform: Worse than before?

WASHINGTON — Dear Federal Election Commission:
"May newspaper subscriptions be paid out of the campaign fund?"

"Does the new Federal Election Law supersede state campaign regulations, or must state laws be adhered to separately?"

"Is there any limitation as to time that contributions can be accepted subsequent to the election?"
Are expenses such as lunches in Washington for constituents' ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with my duties as a federal office holder?

"Can a wife in a single-income family make a contribution to a candidate if the husband has contributed $1,000?"
"Can a partner, officer or member of a corporation or business holding a federal contract make a personal contribution?"
May a member of Congress be reimbursed for travel expenses he incurs in connection with political appearances in his congressional district?

Meany quips, Humphrey politicking only excitement at AFL-CIO meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The colorful quips of President George Meany and the politicking of Sen. Hubert Humphrey supplied the only real excitement at the AFL-CIO convention, which many union leaders called the dullist in the organization's 29 year history.
The convention adjourned Tuesday after adopting about 200 resolutions, many of them attacking President Ford's foreign and economic policies and calling for new programs to hasten full employment.

Hirohito makes whirlwind visit to Midwest America

CHICAGO (UPI) — Japanese Emperor Hirohito's trip to the Midwest lasted only one day, but he squeezed in a banquet and a trip to a corn belt farm to watch hogs fattened for market. The emperor ignored a bomb scare and the arrests of two persons with guns and two "suspicious" persons.
Hirohito — Japanese head of state for 49 years and the Empress Nagako lunched Tuesday with Mayor Richard Daley — Chicago's head of state for 20 years and chatted, with the aid of an interpreter, about gardening, shipping and pollution. He was scheduled to leave today for Los Angeles.

Free plants

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Parks and Recreation Department will give away over 5,000 house plants, one per person, at City Hall Plaza, on Oct. 8, beginning at noon. The plants, including geraniums, begonias, and coleus, came from Parks and Recreation gardens throughout the city.
Boston (UPI) — The Fall motor vehicle inspection period for all motor vehicles and trailers, ends at midnight Oct. 15. Fees are $2 for cars and 50 cents for trailer inspection. Beginning Oct. 16, any motor vehicle or trailer without the blue inspection sticker or with a rejection sticker will be stopped by enforcement officers, with owners and operators subject to prosecution.

Auto inspection

Police charged the man with gun violations but one officer said he was not believed to have posed a real threat to the Empress.
A man and a woman also were arrested in separate incidents along the royal couple's route during their visit to Chicago. Neither was armed, but police said they picked them up because they were acting suspiciously.

Rivers job status questioned

BOLTON

DONNA HOLLAND

Virginia Butterfield Monday questioned the Board of Selectmen about the fact that Leon Rivers, selectman, is now holding a classified job for the State of Connecticut. She said anyone holding a classified job shouldn't hold a political office. Rivers said he is awaiting a ruling on the matter.

The General Assembly reads that you can't be a classified employee and a candidate for elective office. He said the law says nothing about someone who is holding an office taking a classified job and there is a question as to whether or not Rivers is holding a classified job. Ahearn said according to his interpretation of the law he doesn't believe there is any problem but he's checking into the matter to be sure. An opinion is being sought from the state's attorney general.

Rivers recently began working at the prison in Somers. David Dreselly, first selectman, said he spoke to town counsel with respect to the problem, but it appears at this time there is no responsibility to the town. He said if there is anything to be concerned about it must come from the state level. He said Bolton's town counsel, John Mahon, will comment further.

Teacher awarded jobless pay

DONNA HOLLAND

Ronald Boothroyd, whose contract was not renewed as an industrial arts teacher at the Bolton Center School, has been awarded an unemployment compensation claim which will pay him $95 a week for 52 weeks. Boothroyd filed the claim with the unemployment compensation division of the state and the town is responsible for paying the claim. The town has no unemployment insurance. The total cost of employment insurance.

The award will be $4,940 if it runs for the full 52 weeks. Appointments: The Board of Selectmen has appointed Nan Dreselly, Elna Dimock and Donna Holland to the Jury Committee and Robert Young to the Conservation Committee.

PTO formulates plans for year

BOLTON

The Parent Teacher Organization plans a busy year for Bolton school children and their parents.

It has scheduled a tea, this month for room mothers. Between now and December parents will be making items which can be sold to children for gifts for their families and friends at a Christmas bazaar. In March the PTO has scheduled an arts festival. It will give children an opportunity to display their work in the various fields of art. The festival will replace the annual science fair held in past years. Subsequently the arts festival and science fair will be held in alternate years. In June the PTO will schedule a fair featuring games, raffles, contests, plants and food. The PTO will also sponsor a visit from Santa Claus, cultural activities, field trips and movies. It will conduct the annual enumeration of Bolton children. It plans four evening programs for parents, on Nov. 12, Jan. 31, April 7 and June 9. It will focus programs towards the local school system.

Under new business board members will ratify the appointment of a bus dispatcher and assistant dispatcher and establish a meditation policy. Under new business the board will discuss the lunch program and cooperative work experience program and ratify a nurse appointment. Commended: David Lima was the recent recipient of a letter of commendation in the merit program by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Lima is a senior at Bolton High School.

Bulldogs lead southern division

The Bolton Bulldogs senior pony football team defeated the Cromwell Falcons 22-14 Sunday at Herrick Memorial Park. The win leaves Bolton on top in the football league's southern division. Touchdowns were scored on runs by Robby Sewell and Bob Bogner and on a 50-yard return of a pass interception by Bob Peterson. Point after touchdown conversions were scored by Mark Ouellette and Sewell.

Down 14 at halftime, the Bulldogs bounced back behind the blocking of Brett Hanesey, Church Hillon, John Dzienis, Chris Soares, Chris Holbrook, John Varca and Rusty Chemka. Due to a cancellation from Coventry, the senior ponies will not have a game this weekend.

Bolton's junior pony team remained undefeated by beating the East Windsor Juniors, 8-0. Touchdowns were scored by Brett Guaretti and the point after touchdown was converted by Chris Everett. Defensive standouts for Bolton were Don Assard and Randy Potterton.

Antiwar activist given jail term for contempt

HARTFORD (UPI) — An antiwar activist was given an additional 90-day jail sentence for contempt after he spilled what he said was his own blood in a federal court room Tuesday.

The incident occurred after U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clarie gave John Bach, 27, and two other defendants 30-day jail sentences for chaining themselves to a door outside Hartford's federal building on Aug. 6 to mark the anniversary of the atom bomb attack on Hiroshima.

Bach and Gersh were among the 22 persons arrested Saturday after demonstrating at the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft show in East Hartford. Also arrested was antiwar activist Philip Berrigan. All were released pending an Oct. 20 hearing.

Hartford crime rate said stable

HARTFORD (UPI) — Despite an increase of robbery, murder, rape and burglary in Hartford over September 1974, Police Chief Hugo J. Masini says the city has maintained a relatively stable level of major crimes.

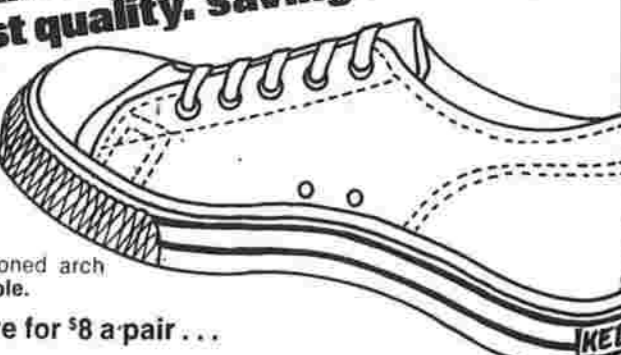

Bach tore up and threw a bill from the Internal Revenue Service on the floor, and despite a warning from the judge, spilled several drops of his own blood on them from a container he carried. The IRS bill was for an uncollected excise telephone tax put into effect to finance the Indochina War.

This printing test pattern is part of The Herald quality control program in order to give you one of the finest newspapers in the nation.

A comparison of September 1975 with September 1974 showed a decline in overall crime of two-tenths of a percent in Hartford, he said Tuesday. Aggravated assaults remained about the same as in September 1974, and there were decreases in larceny and automobile theft, he said.

The judge then issued the 90-day contempt sentence to Bach who dropped to the floor, joined by co-defendants Edward Gersh, 26, and Kevin Jones, 24. All three had to be dragged from the court as they locked arms and refused to move.

'Illusion of immortality' discussed at symposium

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Family Health Editor

"It can't happen to me," you say? Well, there. You're suffering under the illusion of immortality. Like millions of Americans you probably eat, drink, smoke to excess and wouldn't be caught dead with a seatbelt in place. You may even be in that unusual group of survivors of heart attacks or strokes who, despite the warnings return to the lifestyle that almost did them in.

How to get you and millions to practice control over how long you live was the topic tackled at Rockefeller University in New York a while back. The "Illusion of Immortality" symposium was sponsored by the American Health Foundation. On the platform were eminent men — the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale University chaplain; Dr. Michael de Bakey, heart surgeon; Dr. Rolfe May, psychoanalyst; the anthropologist Ashley Montagu. Dr. Robert Berg, community health expert from Rochester University.

All talked about how get the likes of you over the notion you'll live forever. They granted it's a hard hard for you to envision death when you're feeling good. But they cautioned that all that eating, drinking and abusing yourself to excess probably will get you to the undertaker ahead of your natural due date. Your ailments, say, get a grip on things threatening to shorten your lifespan.

Dr. Ernst Wynder, noted cancer researcher at the start of the foundation, at the start passed out an adage. To wit: "It should be the function of medicine to help people die young as late as possible." The theme of the meeting went like this: "It would appear that the greatest roadblock to the success of a disease prevention program is the individual potential victim."

Dr. May thought it probably would help to remind people that "it's your life." The idea: "Nobody can take care of you like you."

May said such a statement had a terrific impact on him when a young intern told him he had to give up smoking, alcohol, coffee and tea. These things were having a deleterious effect on his health.

May was about to pooh-pooh the intern's words to his face. But he stopped and grew thoughtful when the intern shrugged and said: "It's your life."

From then on, May said he started taking better care of himself. The Rev. Coffin said the real victims of disease are the persons who are not in a position to make a choice about running the risk of dying ahead of time by overeating, smoking, drinking to excess. They are the poor.

"We know poverty intensifies vulnerability to disease," he said. "That is the real roadblock."

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

Other side of the leaf

I'm really big on leaf-watching. In fact sometimes, I'm so overwhelmed by the vibrant colors and the splendor around me, that late at night, when everyone else is in bed, I try to write poetry.

Not only do I like to look at the autumn leaves, I like to smell their earthy richness, to feel their crispness under foot, and to watch them as they fall from the trees, drifting slowly — selecting their winter resting place with care.

I only wish (ah, here's the rub!) that so many of them did not select our yard as their special resting place. It puts a damper on an otherwise perfect season.

The leaves literally bury us. They alight in our gutters, our rain spouts, our birdbaths, the nooks and crannies around the terrace. They curl up in our basement-well, the corner of our garage—and when all those cozy hiding places are taken they collect in enormous quantities in our yard.

Now we have a lot of trees in our yard, but we don't have a forest, not enough to account for the number of leaves that gather there each fall. I'm convinced that the prevailing winds are always in the direction of our house and that they cause many of our neighbors' leaves to end up in our yard. I've actually seen it happen. I've watched leaves fall from our neighbors' maple tree, float, hesitate, and then hop a little air current for us. I've seen leaves cross the street and climb the curb to get to our yard.

My husband claims that one day he saw a leaf from our oak tree float over to our neighbor's yard, but I think he's just trying to pacify me. Anyway, getting the mass of fallen leaves raked up and stuffed into plastic bags is a major undertaking. My husband believes in working a little bit each week, never letting the leaves get ahead of us. What I'm hoping, is that the prevailing winds will shift their course and help us do the job.

bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Kowal Sr. of 56 Woodland St.

The Rev. Robert Stack celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Barbara Murphy was organist and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dubaldo were singers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported organza with lily of the valley lace motif and designed with fitted bodice, scooped neckline edged with lace, full Bishop sleeves with lace edged cuffs, and a full skirt with embroidered lace paneled hemline which extended into a chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a Camelot cap of floral Venice lace with seed pearls and flowers. She carried a small bouquet of assorted flowers with yellow baby's breath.

Miss Donna Lee Demko of Manchester, was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Robin Ann Demko of Manchester, the bride's sister; Mrs. Frederick Venezia of Manchester, the bride's aunt; and Mrs. Robert Godin of Manchester.

Ernest Tupper of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were John Quaglia of Manchester, Calvin Graham of Framingham, and Joseph Amaia of Bloomfield.

A reception was held at the Podunk Mill Tavern in South Windsor, after which the couple left for Montreal, Canada. They will reside in Manchester.

Mrs. Kowal is employed as a dental hygienist in East Hartford. Mr. Kowal was graduated from Southern Connecticut State College where he received his M.A. degree in physical education.

The couple is planning a Nov. 22 wedding at St. Patrick's Church in Bridgeport.

Mrs. Edward J. Kowal Jr. is employed as a physical therapist at the Connecticut State Hospital in Hartford.

ENGAGED

The engagement of Miss Jessica Jean Ramondetta to Mark Andrew Hanson, both of Vernon, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Ramondetta of 25 Box Mountain Dr., Vernon.

Mr. Hanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hanson of 30 Talcott Ave., Vernon. The bride-elect was graduated from Rockville High School in 1973. She is employed as a computer operator at Kaman Aerospace, Bloomfield. Her fiancé was graduated from Rockville High School in 1973 and from Hartford State Technical College in 1975. He is employed as a supervisor for the Windsor Bus Co. The couple is planning a May 8, 1976 wedding.

Social Security questions and answers

Q I recently heard that people who get Social Security payments can have their checks deposited directly to a bank or other financial organization. Where can I get more information about this procedure?

A If you get monthly Social Security checks, you should have received information with the Oct. 3 check. You can also get information by calling your financial organization or any Social Security office.

Q My husband is severely disabled and we think he is eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). I've heard that disability claims take a long time to process, and we need money now. Is there some way we can get some money to help us while he's waiting on his claim?

A Under the law, a person who is found to be presumptively disabled and is otherwise eligible can get SSI payments for up to three months while he waits for the decision on his disability claim. An applicant can be presumed to be disabled if he has one of the following conditions: Loss of two or more limbs; loss of a leg at the hips; total deafness; immobility (or bed confinement); stroke, cerebral palsy; muscular dystrophy; or muscular atrophy; diabetes with the loss of a foot; Down's Syndrome; or severe mental deficiency. When your husband applies for SSI, the people in the Social Security office will tell him if he can receive presumptive disability payments.

Q I understand that I can have my SSI checks deposited directly to a bank if I want to instead of have it sent home. If I do this, would anyone else be able to take money out of my account?

A Only people you authorize can make withdrawals from your checking or savings account.

Q I'm a widow and I've been working since 1962 when my husband died. In a couple months I'll be 60. Although I'm not disabled, I do want to cut down on my work. Would I be able to get any kind of Social Security monthly benefits?

A You may be eligible for a reduced monthly widow's benefit at age 60. Call, write, or visit any Social Security office for more details.

Q My nephew has been getting Social Security benefits since my sister-in-law died about a year ago. According to an article I recently read, the Supreme Court has ruled that widowed fathers can get Social Security payments. Does this mean that my brother is eligible for monthly checks on his late wife's work record?

A He might be. Under a Supreme Court decision made in March 1975, monthly benefits can be paid to a father if he is the widower of a woman who died while insured under Social Security, has not remarried, and has in his care any unmarried child under 18 (or older if disabled before 22) who is entitled to benefits. Also, his earnings may affect any benefits due him.

At confab

Dr. John F. Barry Jr. and Dr. Bernard J. Sheridan, dentists, of Manchester are members of the New England Dental Society who are attending the two-day conference this week at Forsyth Dental Center in Boston.

The conference is designed to provide continuing education and is called "Dentistry Update."

More than 35 table clinics will be conducted during the event.

Area nurses hosts for Oct. 23 meeting

Connecticut nurse epidemiologists will host the Oct. 23 meeting of the New England Branch, Association for Practitioners in Infection Control to be held at Holiday Inn, 5 Elm St., Waterbury.

Barbara Goldrick, R.N., of Manchester Memorial Hospital and Helen Withoff, R.N., of Rockville General Hospital are two of the co-hostesses.

Topics to be presented are "Basic Immunology, including Humoral and Cell-mediated Immunity," "Traumatic Wounds: Prevention of Infections," "Interpretation of Laboratory Data," and "Parasitic Infection in the Compromised Host."

In addition to members of the APIC, nurses from convalescent homes in the area are invited to attend.

For reservations, call Mrs. Stankus at 573-6258.

Democrats to conduct tag sale

The Democratic Town Committee is sponsoring a tag sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Democratic headquarters, 445 Hartford Rd.

In addition to the usual tag sale items, there will be apples and pumpkins for sale. Mrs. Janet Bycholski and Mrs. Ruth Macri are co-chairmen of the event.

Those wishing to have donations picked up and delivered to the headquarters may call Mrs. Bycholski, 646-3886, Mrs. Macri, 645-5306, or committee members, Mrs. Marion Clifford, 649-9227, Mrs. Mary Gelinax, 649-5549, or Mrs. Joanne Costello, 643-9639.

Public to view 1742 dwelling

ANDOVER

The charms of one of Andover's pre-revolutionary homes will be shared with the public when Wellsweep, home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Clarke, will be opened on Oct. 18 rain date Oct. 19. This event is sponsored by the Clarks, the Bicentennial Commission and the Andover Art League Association. Mrs. Clarke will be hostess. She will be assisted by several ladies in colonial dress.

Outside some arts and crafts will be displayed for sale. A chief attraction will be an exhibit of Clarke's collection of restored antique cars — not, however, for sale.

The house was the home of William Sweetland who moved here from Massachusetts in early times and built his home now called Wellsweep, in 1742. The grave of William Sweetland

Heads drive

Patrick Macomber has been named chairman of the East Hartford section for the United Way's 1975 drive. It was announced by campaign chairman Raymond H. Deek.

A graduate of the University of Massachusetts with a degree in business administration, Macomber has been director of the East Hartford Jaycees 1974-1975.

Macomber lives at 22 Brandy St. with his wife and one child.

Parish Village motif for bazaar

TOLLAND

"The Parish Village 1776" will be the theme of the annual holiday bazaar of the Tolland Congregational Church, Oct. 25 from 10 a.m. in the education building to the rear of the church.

The bazaar will feature a flower stall, Christmas and Mission corners, The Spinning Wheel featuring handsewn items, a blacksmith shop with items made by the men of the church, and a Cider Mill lunch shop.

There will also be a Post Office booth containing items mailed to the church by people who were on vacation. There will be a blind auction, Ye Olde Bake Shoppe, and The Olde School House which will feature gifts for children.

Vernon expands school program

VERNON

The Vernon Board of Education has approved expansion of a summer program for "exceptional" students which has helped about 65 students each year since it was started in 1971 in cooperation with the University of Connecticut.

Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent in charge of special education, explained Monday night that the program provides "exceptional" students the space and basic materials and the university provides the staff.

Successful experience in Vernon, the town is being offered the opportunity to cooperate in this expanded program.

In the new proposal, 140 students would be provided with space and use of materials in the school building and the university will provide transportation (which is new), additional help from aides, a nurse, and a custodian.

The students will also be allowed recreation time at the pool, 24 special education and 24 regular teachers and four administrators and supervisors.

Vernon teachers will be offered four of the special education slots and four regular slots on the teaching staff if they wish to participate. This would equal nine credits at no cost to them.

Further the resource room teacher and the regular classroom teacher would work together and this would provide a better integration of "exceptional" into the mainstream, Kerkin said.

Jobs for handicapped urged

Manchester's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped has launched a full-scale campaign to make employers and the public aware of the problems of the handicapped and their value as employees and citizens.

Chairman of the local committee is Robert Charnas, owner of Radio Station WINF; secretary of the committee is Vivian E. Ladaboschke, supervisor of the local State Department office.

Other committee members are Suzanne

Flocken, executive vice president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce; Nathan Agostinelli, president of the Manchester State Bank; Millard Pryor Jr., president of Lydall Inc.; Michael Marino, counselor with the state Division of Vocational Rehabilitation; and Raymond Robinson, publisher of The Manchester Evening Herald.

The committee has arranged an "Insight Breakfast," sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, for area employers on Oct. 23. Cheney Bros. and Lydall, designated "Employers of the Year" for hiring the handicapped, will be recognized.

Later this year, the local committee will sponsor a WINF talk show.

The committee's plans were announced this week to coincide with national and state proclamations of "Employ the Handicapped Week," Oct. 5 to 11.

People make the difference

CHEPACHET, R.I. (UPI) — Two years ago, when Allen Balboni bought the mattress company founded by his grandfather in 1923, he put a second mortgage on his house, had $200 in the bank, two machines and three employees.

When an October, 1974 fire wiped out the Justice Bedding Co. plant in nearby Greenville inadequate insurance left Balboni $82,000 in the red. He was "depressed" and ready to throw in the towel.

His employees, then 34 in number, wouldn't hear of it.

Nineteen worked without pay for three weeks to get the small manufacturing firm back on its feet.

Second shift employees traded mattress-making equipment for hammers, saws and tools to renovate and expand a former auto salesroom into the firm's new factory-corporate office complex.

Other employees worked inside cramped 40-foot trailers, making mattresses three shifts a day to keep pace with a mountain of orders from hospitals, nursing homes and private customers.

BUSINESS TODAY

"I like the place. I like to work here. We had to pull together to keep on working," said Frank Tucker, 20, an employee for the last 18 months.

"You rarely see the owner of a place come out and give you a hand when you need it like Allen does. He was working as hard as anybody after the fire," Tucker said.

Loretta Villanova, Balboni's next-door neighbor, works as a cutter and sewer and from time to time is drafted to repair the machinery.

"It's a long way back, but we made it. We couldn't let it die. This is a happy place to work because everybody is easy to get along with," she said while cutting, patterned fabric for mattress covers.

"It was then, because I was really depressed," Balboni said. "The people all banded together and said 'Look, we know you, we know the company. If (the fire) is a shame, but don't stop now. Let's keep going.'"

"I listened to them and we moved. Six months later we were in the black again. It's the American way. We expect to do $1.2 million in business this year," Balboni said.

Justice Bedding has opened six retail stores in Rhode Island with two more on the way by November.

The recovery has been so swift the firm is marketing an electric mattress to provide heat therapy for people who need it and to compete with the electric blanket.

The 30-year-old owner feels the electric mattress, with three separate temperature control zones, for which patent is pending, "will revolutionize sleeping on the East Coast."

"Do you know how many wives there are with cold feet?" he said.

Balboni says Justice Bedding is thriving in rural Rhode Island despite the recession and the state's 16 per cent unemployment for one reason only — his people.

"The fire really sparked us into better things," he said. "I love the people. I'd give my right arm for any one of them. We've been through hell, but there isn't a person in this place that doesn't appreciate it."

Realtors have info on septic problems

Problems with a septic system could require a homeowner to pay $1,500 or more to replace the system, not to mention expenses of replanting a lawn, according to Richard E. Merritt, president of the Manchester Board of Realtors.

Merritt has announced that a free brochure is now available to homeowners on "How to Avoid Septic System Failure." The brochure was prepared by the Connecticut Association of Realtors in cooperation with the state Department of Environmental Protection and state Department of Consumer Protection.

"Forty per cent of Connecticut's homeowners live outside city sewage service and are on septic systems," Merritt said. "The purpose of the brochure is to help these people as well as those who are moving from urban areas into the country."

The brochure describes how a system works, the common causes of failures, and lists the "do's" and "don'ts" for keeping a system in good working order.

Copies of the brochure are available from the Manchester Board of Realtors, 156 E. Center St., or the Department of Environmental Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115.

Consumers threaten industry

NEW YORK (UPI) — "In their quest for real happiness, people have become lawless and that could wreck the property and casualty insurance industry," a leading insurance executive suggests.

T. Lawrence Jones, president of the American Insurance Association, said, "A consumerist attitude that the buyer should be compensated, no matter what the cause has manifested itself in a series of government regulations and a spate of court actions that make experience the hallmark of insurance operations — no longer a guide."

As a result, Jones predicted, the financial debacle in medical malpractice insurance soon will be duplicated in product liability insurance and probably in other kinds of insurance.

He said the traditional legal theory of "let the buyer beware" has been reversed. The whole practice of business law today, he said, is based on the maxim "let the seller beware." The legal doctrine of "privity," which required a direct relationship between seller and buyer to justify a damage claim, has been nullified. The manufacturer, under the new legal doctrine of strict liability, now is liable to people he never heard of or dealt with.

Jones pointed out that since the courts and legislators began accepting the strict liability concept, product liability suits in the United States have risen from 50,000 in 1960 to possibly one million this year.

Congress overrides veto of school breakfast bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the third time this year, Congress has voted by a wide margin to tell President Ford it gives top priority to the nation's education, food and health problems. The latest came Tuesday in an override of his veto of the school lunch bill.

The House voted 397-18 (120 more than needed) and the Senate 79-13 (17 more than needed) to put the big child-feeding program into law.

Ford, in vetoing the measure, had objected it was too costly and subsidized children who could afford to buy their own lunch.

Congress overrode Ford's veto of an education money bill and a health services act by similar wide margins earlier this year. But it failed to kill his other measures such as oil price controls, strip mining, farm price supports, housing and emergency jobs.

Ford has vetoed 39 bills since taking office, and Congress has overridden seven of them.

Children from poverty level families already get free lunches under permanent law.

Fromme wants to explain actions

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Lynette Fromme, the Charles Manson apostle charged with attempting to murder President Ford, says she wants to tell the court the "why" behind her actions.

In her first courtroom appearance as her own attorney, Miss Fromme, 26, said Tuesday she would make "unusual" motions to Chief U.S. District Judge Thomas J. McBride "to bring truth to the world."

"I want to determine not only the who, what and where but also the why," she said of her case scheduled for trial Nov. 4. If convicted, she could face life imprisonment.

Taking a page from Manson's script, the wispy red-haired woman who allegedly pointed a loaded 45-caliber pistol at the President Sept. 5, also demanded that her co-lawyer, federal defender E. Richard Walker, be removed from the case and replaced with a federal defense attorney of her choice.

The judge took the request under consideration for a ruling later.

During his nine-month trial for the 1969 Tate-LaBianca mass murders in Los Angeles, Manson several times switched his lawyers and briefly acted as his own defense attorney.

Miss Fromme, who claims her Manson cult name is "Red," wore a call-length red dress and scarf rather than her usual flowing scarlet robe. In contrast to her first bizarre appearance in court when she warned McBride that the "gun is pointed," Miss Fromme's mood shifted from argumentative to docile.

Speaking evenly and calmly into a microphone attached to a lectern, Miss Fromme frequently interrupted McBride while demanding that Walker be replaced by Robert Holley, a federal defender who has never tried a felony case.

Lawyers say Hearst needs mental hospital care

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's lawyers think she belongs in a mental institution.

They plan to ask a federal judge later this month to transfer the 21-year-old newspaper heiress from jail to a private mental hospital — contending she needs treatment before she'll be able to stand trial on bank robbery charges.

"We want to obtain psychiatric care for her so that she is able to participate in her trial," Al Johnson, an associate federal defender E. Richard Walker, said Tuesday.

He said a motion asking for the transfer will be filed at a hearing, tentatively scheduled Oct. 22, which will take up the final report on Miss Hearst's "mental capacity" by three court-appointed psychiatrists.

The psychiatrists handed their preliminary findings to U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter Tuesday. He sealed them from public scrutiny and turned copies over to prosecution and defense lawyers.

Carter said the final report was expected in 10 days to two weeks and he would schedule the hearing after he receives it. The judge must decide, on the basis of the psychiatrists' findings, whether Miss Hearst is mentally capable of standing trial, whether she should be institutionalized or whether she is a good risk for bail.

Arson suspect pleads guilty

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — One of 10 defendants charged in the firebombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant in Shelton has changed his innocent plea to guilty.

John W. Shaw, 28, of Pittsburgh, Pa., entered the plea Tuesday before U.S. District Court Judge Jon O. Newman who is examining prospective jurors in the conspiracy trial of nine other defendants that is expected to last from six to eight weeks.

The 10 also face state conspiracy charges for the March 1 destruction of the plant that three hundreds of employees out of work in the already job-depressed Shelton area.

Shaw has given a statement to the prosecution and was expected to appear as a state witness in the trial.

He pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit arson and use of interstate commerce in aid of racketeering. The prosecution reportedly will drop 10 other charges against Shaw before he is sentenced at the end of the trial.

Jury selection began Monday and by Tuesday, Newman had excused 47 prospective jurors. The jurors were questioned about the publicity of the case and Newman has automatically eliminated anyone from Shelton or the surrounding communities of Seymour, Naugatuck, Ansonia, Oxford and Derby. Defense attorneys have questioned whether any juror could be impartial because of the widespread publicity in the case and Judge Newman has yet to decide on a motion to move the trial out of state.

Danbury union wants chief ousted

DANBURY (UPI) — The latest disturbances at Danbury High School have resulted in a call by police union leaders for the ouster of Police Chief James Tallon.

Union attorney LeRoy F. Dreyfuss said Tuesday the union policemen complained they were poorly led, untrained and ill-equipped during fighting last week between black and white students in which seven officers were injured.

About 10 students were injured and 12 were arrested and the school was closed for three days. It was re-opened Monday under the eye of 25 policemen who patrolled the school halls. Fighting among students forced school officials to close the school for two days last April.

Dreyfuss said charges against Tallon, which date back 18 months, would be presented within the next 10 days to mayor Charles A. Ducibella.

The attorney said the union blamed Tallon for demoralizing the department and will "demand the resignation or dismissal of Chief Tallon."

Tallon would not comment Tuesday and Ducibella said he may issue a statement today after he studies the complaints.

Tallon has received criticism at public meetings for both not acting decisively to break up rock throwing students and for roughing them up.

The dispute also involved whether Tallon ordered policemen not to wear protective helmets and visors at the school because he felt "wearing helmets tend to worsen disturbances," Dreyfuss said.

Hartford suit souring city-town relations

By ROBERT LAMBERT
HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford's attempt to divert $4.4 million in federal community development funds from seven suburban towns into its own coffers has soured city-town relationships in the Hartford area.

Last week, U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal issued a temporary order blocking the towns from using the community development funds on grounds they failed to build adequate low income housing.

But Mayor Frank J. McCoy of Vernon said the suit as an attempt by Hartford to raid suburban treasuries of federal funds.

The decision provoked threats of a suburban boycott of Hartford and warnings that cooperation between the city and its suburbs may have suffered an irreparable setback.

If Hartford goes to a permanent injunction and the wishes of the towns are thwarted and compromised, regional cooperation will be seriously damaged and may never be resurrected," McCoy said.

The communities in the Hartford area, McCoy said, have been cooperating on mutual problems such as land use and housing, but the city's action shows a mutual concern does not exist.

"I think it is a very damaging action on the part of the city of Hartford," McCoy said.

There is the feeling that the regional approach Hartford has is a one way street," McCoy said. "They apparently do not mind damaging their fellow communities by seeking to take away funds they need just about as much as Hartford does."

Attorney Walter Twachtman of Glastonbury, who is representing the towns, said Hartford is claiming all it wants is for the towns to have an adequate housing assistance plan.

"But they almost seem to be speaking out of both sides of their mouth," Twachtman said.

In order to file the suit, Hartford claimed it is entitled to obtain the funds which were improperly allocated to the seven communities, he said.

If Hartford's own application for the community development funds were examined, the same alleged errors found in the suburban applications would turn up, McCoy said.

Twachtman said the seven towns — East Hartford, Eastford, Farmington, Glastonbury, Vernon, West Hartford and Windsor Locks — have complied with all Department of Housing and Urban Development requirements.

McCoy said the motives behind the suit are suspect because it was filed only two days after Gov. Ella T. Grasso signed a controversial city and town development bill which required strong suburban support for passage.

He said Carbone who is Hartford Democratic town chairman and city council majority leader, waited to file the suit until the bill, which grants broad borrowing privileges to certain communities, became law.

The suit is the first legal challenge of the way federal community development funds have been spent and the towns will make their response later this week, Twachtman said.

The federal community development legislation, he said, was designed to pull together 10 different assistance programs and provide for citizen involvement in how the money was to be spent.

Any money not spent by a community is returned to the federal government for redistribution under a system which gives high priority to cities within the state, he said.

If the seven towns were deemed ineligible to collect them from the federal government, Hartford Mayor George A. Athanson said Tuesday, Hartford may be able to collect them from the federal government.

"It was in my opinion, the wrong way to go about it," he said. "We should have broad ahead of time and discussed it on a give-and-take basis."

The mayor said he wants to explore with suburban officials ways of resolving the dispute.

"We need each other," Athanson said. "We are interdependent."

Rickover's active duty tour extended to 1978

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger has decided to keep Adm. Hyman Rickover on active duty with the Navy until he is 78 years old.

In an action that has become almost routine since Rickover retired in 1964, Schlesinger sent letters to the chairman of congressional committees dealing with national energy, armed services and appropriations saying that he would keep the outspoken admiral on active duty, as head of the Navy's nuclear propulsion program, until January, 1978.

Rickover, born Jan. 27, 1900, is considered the father of the nuclear Navy — with Congress' help. He lobbied, enjoyed, testified and argued both with his naval superiors and congressional committees and, with the launching of the USS Nautilus in 1958, proved that an atomic submarine could be built and work.

Representation petition papers being filed

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Energy Union Independent has filed petitions to represent about 3,200 state workers.

The workers represent 30 percent of the employees at Norwich Hospital, the state Veterans Home and Hospital in Rocky Hill, the state Purchasing Division in Meriden, and the Connecticut Valley Hospital and the Whiting Forensic Institution, both in Middletown.

Many who are unwilling to be quoted say the admiral under-

MacPhail neutral at this point

"I don't have any personal rooting interest in either team this weekend but I will next week," Lee MacPhail, American League president, told me as we chatted before last Saturday's opening baseball playoff game at Fenway Park. "I only hope for good weather, well-played games and no arguments with the umpires," he quipped as we watched the Red Sox take batting practice before beating Oakland... MacPhail said that there is no rule in his league that prohibits players in uniform from signing autographs on the field. "In fact, we encourage it, but as you know, some players don't bother," he added... Bud Leavitt, Bangor, Maine, outdoor columnist, sends his best to Gene Moriarty of Manchester who owns and operates Pocomoonshine Lake Lodges in Alexander, Maine, a fisherman's paradise. "The best bass fishing in the East can be found at Crawford Lake," Leavitt offered, an area this writer has visited with Moriarty... Kenny Smith, director of baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., told me Rennie Stennett's bat used in getting seven base hits in one game this season with Pittsburgh is now on display in the shrine. Smith is a Trinity College grad and before taking over at Cooperstown was one of the top major league baseball writers while working for the New York Mirror. With the Red Sox in the World Series, Ted Williams will be in Boston... Several readers have asked why Sunday's playoff game between Boston and Oakland started at 4:15 instead of 1 o'clock as did Saturday's. The answer is pure and simple. Teevee set the time schedule, just as it set the schedule for World Series games. The teevee package is so lucrative that it can dictate policy.

Hockey star moves in town

One of Manchester's newest families is the Rosie Pajements. The husky winger is one of the new faces with the New England Whalers in the World Hockey Association this season. Fred O'Donnell, who called Manchester his home last season, is now renting in Vernon... The Boston Red Sox won 30 games during the regular season in which they were either tied or trailed entering the seventh inning and lost 19 others over the last three innings after being tied or ahead at that juncture. Not until the final week of the season was a left-handed pitcher able to start, finish and win a game against the Red Sox at Fenway Park... Rookie Eddie Waits of Cleveland turned the trick on Sept. 27... Sam Maitempo, local boxing referee who worked on the live card at the Hartford Civic Center before the All-Frazier closed circuit bout, handled himself like a pro and his dress was immaculate. The ex-pro and former Manchester policeman is now on the security staff at the state capitol... Mike Simmons, head football coach at Rockville High, is a former Manchester High stickout as a running back... British-American Club Dart League is now in its 52nd season and is believed to be the oldest in the United States... Rod Curl, a member of the PGA golf tour, pocketed $19,550 with a second place finish in the Kaiser Open last weekend... Curl has several local personal contacts and has played several rounds at the Manchester Country Club... John Spencer of Manchester has been appointed to the New England Don Testing Board of the Uechi Karate Academy. Spencer, holder of a black belt, is director and chief instructor at the Uechi Karate Academy in Hartford.

Rain causes headaches

Not only does foul weather raise havoc with officiating commissions but also those serving as directors of athletic capacities. Both Dave Wiggins at Manchester High and Cliff Demers at East Catholic had to seek new dates following recent postponements as well as to line up transportation... It costs sponsors between $50,000 and $55,000 per minute for ads shown during NFL telecasts this season... Manchester Community College will play half its home basketball schedule next season at East Catholic High and the other half at Cheney Tech. Season opens Nov. 21 in the Mitchell College Invitational. First home game is listed Dec. 3 at East's gym.

Caps at bottom of heap as expected after loss

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Capitals were at the bottom of the heap as expected today after losing to the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 in the inaugural game of the new National Hockey League season but at least they were respectable... The Caps, an expansion team which posted the worst record in NHL history last season, tied the Penguins 2-2 after two periods but bowed to the Stanley Cup quarterfinalists of a year ago on the third period goals by Colin Campbell and Syl Apps... Washington General Manager Coach Milt Schmidt said of his players: "I'm just damned proud of them and we'll get better as the season goes on..." The Caps-Penguins encounter was the only game Tuesday night. Twelve of the remaining 16 teams swing into action tonight highlighted by the Los Angeles Kings-Montreal Canadiens contest. In other games, St. Louis visits Detroit, Chicago takes on the New York Rangers, the New York Islanders travel to Kansas City, California visits Atlanta, and Minnesota hosts Vancouver... On Thursday, the defending NHL champion Philadelphia Flyers take on the Caps at home, Montreal goes to Boston and Detroit visits Buffalo... The Penguins took a 2-0 lead on a first period goal by Dave Burrows and another by Vic

Loyalty rates high with Anderson

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The most important thing in Sparky Anderson's life is loyalty. Loyalty to his family, his country, his employer, his players and his friends. That's why his heart was so heavy and there were tears in his eyes Tuesday night while everybody else around him was drinking champagne and celebrating.

It was the perfect night to celebrate if you were wearing a Cincinnati Reds' uniform. They had just won the National League pennant with a 10 inning 5-3 thriller over the Pittsburgh Pirates and would now be going into the World Series with the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

All the Reds were having champagne. Not Sparky Anderson. He was enormously proud of his players — "the Cincinnati Reds proved tonight they are the best team in the National League without any help and without any gimmicks" — but part of him was a couple of thousand miles away.

Sparky Anderson was thinking of a friend of his in Los Angeles, a friend by the name of Harold "Lefty" Phillips, the former manager of the California Angels who had helped and encouraged him around the Los Angeles playgrounds during his early years. Now he was remembering someone else who had assisted him. "He was a sales manager and I sold cars for him," explained the Reds manager, when prodded about who

For Sparky Anderson, it was typical that he should remember somebody who helped him in this time of triumph.

The last time the Reds won the pennant, he dedicated that victory to the widow of Harold "Lefty" Phillips, the former manager of the California Angels who had helped and encouraged him around the Los Angeles playgrounds during his early years.

Now he was remembering someone else who had assisted him. "He was a sales manager and I sold cars for him," explained the Reds manager, when prodded about who

Milt Blisch was. "In 1964, when I was first as manager by Toronto I came back home and wasn't selling cars anymore, but he gave me all his deals."

"He's on his back now," Sparky Anderson said, speaking with some difficulty because he was trying to control his emotion. "I call him 'Uncle Miltie' and he loves the Detroit Tigers, Los Angeles Dodgers, the Rams and USC. I told him 'God Almighty, Miltie, you're having a bad year.'"

Nobody felt any prouder of the Reds than he did. "They're the greatest bunch of kids you ever saw," he said. "Look at 'em all. Rose will be in the Hall of Fame five years after he's through playing... Morgan, I think, will be in the Hall of Fame... this is just a great team."

Now they were starting to ask him about the Red Sox and the left field wall at Fenway Park. "I've never seen the wall," he tried explaining. "I've never been to Fenway Park. Who's gonna pitch in the opener for us in Boston? Gullett the first day, and a right-hander the second day. I don't know who the right-hander will be. I'll pitch Gullett in Yellowstone National Park or anywhere else."

No tomorrow for Athletics

Oakland's Reggie Jackson is a picture of dejection as he stands in A's dugout and glances across field to watch jubilant Boston players whoop it up after clinching American League playoffs last night.

Sixth straight loss for Tech

After opening the 1975 soccer season with two straight wins, Cheney Tech has fallen into a losing skid. The Beavers lost their sixth straight yesterday, 6-0, to Vinal Tech in Charter Oak Conference play in Middletown. The Beavers are 2-6 overall and 0-6 in the COC which Vinal improved its mark to 3-3.

Ship Gennaro scored five goals for Vinal with Chip Corcino accounting for the other score. Cheney was hurt by the loss of freshman halfback Ben Hemigan, out sick. Vinal outshot Cheney, 14-8, with Beaver goalie Bruce Beebe making seven saves.

Whalers' rally to top Quebec

QUEBEC, CITY (UPI) — Behind by three goals in the first period, the New England Whalers came from behind for the first time in the final 20 minutes to beat Quebec 7-4 in their final World Hockey Association exhibition game Tuesday night. The Whalers, who open the regular season in Hartford Saturday, ended the exhibition tour with a 3-1 record. Mike Byers scored the clincher on a pass from Tommy Earl with 1:31 left in the game.

Tie contests mark soccer

Four of five area scholastic soccer games wound up deadlocked yesterday. In the only one in which there was a winner, Hockey Hill blanked Bolton, 5-0. South Windsor and Newtonington played a 2-2 tie. Rockville and Glastonbury battled to a 2-2 stalemate. Ellington and Tolland deadlocked 1-1 and Coventry and Portland wound up 1-1.

East booters bow

Downed in soccer action last night was East Catholic, 5-0, by Middletown High at Palmer Field in Middletown. The Eagle booters are now 0-5-1 for the season.

BOSTON (UPI) — Neils Nelson has been appointed assistant varsity coach of basketball at Northeastern University. Athletic Director Herbert Gallagher announced he joins Northeastern after two seasons as head coach of basketball at Stonington High School in Pawcatuck, Conn.

Rham runners down Cheney
Downed for the fourth time in five meets yesterday was the Cheney Tech cross country team, 23-33, by Rham High in Charter Oak Conference action in Hebron. Sachem Mark Lyman took individual honors with a 14:19 clocking over a 2.8-mile course with Cheney's Andy West taking second place. Sophomore Ed West took fourth spot for the Beavers but then took the next three places to secure the win, its third in six attempts. Results: 1. Lyman (R) 14:19, 2. A. West (CT), 3. Morin (R), 4. E. West (CT), 5. Clark (R), 6. Harmon (R), 7. Butt (R), 8. Martin (CT), 9. Lajoie (CT), 10. Sherwood (CT).

Tribe thinclads victors

What Manchester High cross country Coach George Sutor expected from his youthful harriers before the season was uncertain. The squad was captained by a junior and the bulk of the Indians across the finish line with a time of 15:29 over a 2.3-mile course. Sophomore Wes Fedorchak placed second eight seconds behind senior Bruce Bayles and junior George Trian taking the next two spots. The top four were within 30 seconds of each other.

Booters blank Penney

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
Playing just as hard as it had to, the Manchester High soccer team blanked hapless Penney High, 3-0, in CCIL action yesterday at Memorial Field.

Senior halfback Bill Donovan got credit for Manchester's second tally. Hajbucki sent a long pass up the left wing to Tony Barrett who chipped a pass to Bruce Ballard. The latter gave it back to Barrett who drilled a high shot to the far post.

Third victory for Illing team
Winning its third game in four tries yesterday was the Illing Junior High soccer team nipping Timothy Edwards of South Windsor, 1-0.

Pete Krupp scored the goal for Illing assisted by Tom Rouch and Bert Pina. Offensively, Barry Vincens, Bill Fraterelli and Joe Foran played well. Goalie Mark Copeland, Rick Getting, Steve Pyka and Dave Golub also played well on the defensive side.

Pete Krupp scored the goal for Illing assisted by Tom Rouch and Bert Pina. Offensively, Barry Vincens, Bill Fraterelli and Joe Foran played well. Goalie Mark Copeland, Rick Getting, Steve Pyka and Dave Golub also played well on the defensive side.

World Football League in financial bind

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Sagging attendance has prompted World Football League plans for a nationwide marketing program, WFL President Chris Hemminger says.

"Up until this point, the ultimate responsibility for attendance has been at the franchise level," Hemminger said Tuesday. "We're going to try something new."

For example, he said WFL owners are perplexed by Memphis fan response to Sunday's battle between the Southmen and Southern California.

Hemminger said he is "sufficiently worried" but not "gravely concerned."

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Karl Kuehl, twice named Manager of the Year in the minors, is favored to succeed Gene March as pilot of the Montreal Expos.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears will give a tryout Wednesday to quarterback Virgil Carter.

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins Tuesday farmed out four more players, including veteran goaltenders Ron Brooks and Ken Broderick.

SEATTLE (UPI) — Some eastern franchises in the North American Soccer League may have to be refinanced or transferred to western cities where interest is greater.

Woonsocket said the league wants to keep its present 30 teams but will have to find a way to help "a couple" of Eastern franchises, a situation which should be decided by mid-November.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Cut from squad

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints Tuesday cut placekicker Bill McClard, reassigned quarterback coach Lamar McLain to a scouting position and juggled two other coaching assignments in an effort to improve their fortunes.

J.C. Sneed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — J.C. Sneed defeated George Burns 6 and 5, Jerry Heard downed David Graham 3 and 2, Eddie Pearce stopped Joe Inman 2-up, Tom Kite ousted Kazumari Takahashi 5 and 3 and Forrest Foster edged Bernard Gallacher 1-up in the $17,500 International All-Star golf matches Tuesday.

Denny Stols

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan State Coach Denny Stols has been named UPI Coach of the Week for the Spartans' 10-3 upset Saturday of unbeaten Notre Dame.

Abortion gap noted in report

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of American women wanted and could not obtain an abortion last year — despite the 1973 Supreme Court decision overturning restrictive state abortion laws.

The abortion gap, documented in a nationwide analytical report released Tuesday, was put at between 400,000 and 900,000.

The report from the Alan Guttmacher Institute said more than a third of the women denied abortions were poor and 186,000 were under 20.

The institute is an arm of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The study was funded by grants from the Commonwealth Fund and the Rockefeller-Ford Foundation's program of Social Research on Population Policy.

Dr. Christopher Tietze, principal investigator and senior consultant with the Population Council, traced the abortion gap in hospitals, especially public ones.

"The shocking fact is that the Supreme Court decision has had little effect on hospitals," he said.

"Most of the unmet abortion needs end up in the cradle." The report showed that only 15 per cent of public hospitals had performed "even a single abortion by the first quarter of 1974. Many of the poor depend on such hospitals for medical services."

The report said the consequences of retained pregnancies include an estimated 50,000 illegal self-induced abortions but year, unwanted or mistimed births out of wedlock births school dropouts, and precipitous marriages.

In states for which Medicaid data was available, "the number of abortions financed through Medicaid comprised less than 30 per cent of the estimated number needed by low-income women."

Cancer lobby strong

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No cause has a more powerful or personal lobby in the Senate than the crusade against cancer.

Washington window:

Cranton, D-Calif., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., sought to cut $100 million from appropriations for National Cancer Institute and $50 million from the National Heart Institute.

Neither Cranton nor Nelson are against the scientific war to subdue cancer. The aim of their amendment to the $45 billion HEW appropriations bill — shared by many in the medical community — was to bring a closer balance between federal funds spent on cancer and heart-lung research and the much smaller amounts devoted to other diseases.

"If we could have our druthers," Nelson exclaimed, "I would say let us give a billion to cancer and another billion to the other institutes."

But Nelson said Congress does not have that choice and warned that "what is happening is that in the competition for money, we are dramatically expanding support for cancer and heart-lung disease at the expense of the other institutes."

Whether by accident or design, a number of senators who must be consulted in the Cranton-Nelson amendment had himself or a member of his family hit by cancer. Only Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., mentioned it, however.

"To be totally honest and aboveboard with my colleagues, I confess I come into this with a decided conflict of interest," Bayh said. Then Bayh told his colleagues that his mother died of cancer when he was eight and that his wife underwent successful surgery for cancer four years ago.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., floor managing the bill, said "it is a little hard for me to be quite objective about the matter of cancer, for many reasons."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., his wife suffered from cancer. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., his son Teddy lost a leg to cancer. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., he underwent treatment for cancer.

Miss Kerr will play a motion picture actress embarking on a love affair with a younger man and learning to cope with changing moralities in her career and private life. Gerald Freedman directed.

Home energy symposium scheduled

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) - A day-long symposium on building with alternative energy will be held by the Maine Audubon Society Oct. 23 at the Portland campus of the University of Maine.

The meeting will include a dozen "how-to-do-it" workshops, hosted by experts in home design and alternate energy use from throughout Maine. The topics range from financing alternate energy building to choosing and designing solar collectors.

Prof. Richard Hill of the University of Maine, who developed the experimental wood heater which will be used in the Audubon Society's new headquarters in Falmouth, will lead a workshop on wood furnace and stove technology.

Representatives from Sunworks of Guilford, Conn., and Total Environmental Action of Hattisville, N.H., two of the oldest New England firms dealing with alternate energies, will conduct discussions on home design and the reliability of alternate energy components.

The meeting is designed for the general public but the society said it would extend special invitations to home builders and financiers in an effort to inform them of the many applications to which energy from the sun, wind and wood can be put in home building.

In addition to the workshops, there will be general sessions featuring a discussion of the design and construction of the energy systems for the society headquarters and speeches by Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, and Robert Manks, the former director of the Maine Department of Energy Resources.

"No Visible Means Of Support"

Eddie was taking his afternoon siesta on a park bench when an ordinance was passed which forbade idling in a public place with "no visible means of support."

But in court, Eddie argued that the ordinance was unconstitutional because it punished him for doing nothing at all. The judge agreed—and the case was dismissed.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

If there, I guess the first bit of news is to you folks who are going to see the Bob Hope Show at the Civic Center tomorrow night. We expect you to be here at the Center no later than 6:15 in the evening.

Another important bit of news is about the flu shots we will be making available to all Manchester senior citizens. The shots will cost $1 per person, and will be given here in the main hall at 10:30 in the morning on Thursday, Oct. 23.

Immediately after completion of the "shots" here at the Center, the nurses from the Manchester Public Health Department will leave for the Westhill homes in their recreation hall. Right from there they will go to the Mayfair Gardens.

On Friday we had a large turnout for our kitchen social games in the morning, and then had 60 players for softball in the afternoon with the following winners: Sue Kerr, 133; Clara Hemmingway, 131; Robert Schuber, 129; Joseph Windsor, 126; Alice Marzasette, 124; Michael Desimone, 122; Lillian Hatchuk, 121; Robert Gardner, Thomas Murphy and Bess Moonan, 120; Paul Schuetz, 118; Oscar Cappuccino, Lena Speed, and Ann Ferras, 117.

We also had our shuffleboard final that morning, and as you may have noticed by the picture in Saturday's column, it showed the winners: Helen Flavell bested Josephine Schuetz in two straight games, as did James Copeland over Edwin Cook and Frank Perrone over Clayton Greenier. It took Rita Cook the full three games in downing her strong competitor, Marge Hall.

I want to thank Dick Bohadik, Jaycee's Chairman for this tournament with us. We look forward to their help again next year, and perhaps we can start a little earlier, and hopefully get a few more members to participate.

On Monday we had 80 members for our kitchen social games in the morning, and then had 60 players for softball in the afternoon with the following winners: Marjorie McLain and Leon Falot, 726; Wesley Frost, 688; Inez Mahoney, 678; Olive Houghtaling, 673; Audrey Brown, 669; Paul Schuetz, 665; Sam Schores, 657; Emma Russell, 650; Mary Nacowski, 646; Helena Gavello, 638; Robert Schuber, 636; Alfreda Hallin, 633; and Mabel Wilson, 631.

By the way, tomorrow afternoon for our Fun-Day we will get a chance to see some colorful slides on some of the happenings here at the Center, and also of the Wildwood Trip. Our narrator will be Nils Carlson, and it should make for an interesting afternoon.

Gloria's Corner: Next Wednesday our arts and crafts class should complete our new aprons and hats for our students. Hopefully we will finish them this week and our fashion show will be next week. I want to thank everyone in the class who helped with this project.

Tulsa's first major airport was dedicated on July 3, 1928, and by the end of 1929 led all airports in the world in paid-passenger volume. The first commercial air transportation firm to operate through Tulsa was the Tulsa-Oklahoma City Airline, which eventually became Braniff International.

High court turns down Rte. 7 appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court has sent back to a lower court a dispute between conservationist groups and government over construction of a 20-mile stretch of Rte. 7 in Vermont.

The Court Monday told the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reconsider its order requiring the Department of Transportation to file a substantially expanded environmental impact statement before proceeding with expansion of the road from Bennington to Manchester.

The brief order cited a decision last term involving an unsuccessful attempt by a student group to push the Interstate Commerce Commission into providing environmental impact statements when considering rate hikes on recyclable goods such as paper and scrap glass.

In another action, the Court Monday refused to review a decision by a different panel of the 2nd Circuit which allowed Connecticut to start building a 4.7-mile stretch of U.S. 7 north of Danbury without the environmental impact statement.

The panel said no federal funds would be used in the short segment and therefore no statement was needed.

Courts have blocked work on the Vermont highway since 1972 after challenges by the Conservation Society of Southern Vermont and other environmental groups.

The DOT appeal to the Supreme Court involved a ruling by Circuit Judge James L. Oakes that the Federal Highway Administration and not Vermont, was obligated to write the environmental statement.

He said the statement also must consider the overall impact of the entire contemplated improvement of U.S. 7 stretching 200 miles across Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Oakes ruling. In the Connecticut case, a different set of appeals court judges affirmed a ruling by U.S. District Judge Jon O. Newman that since no federal funds would be used for the small stretch of road near Danbury, no environmental impact statement was necessary.

The Connecticut case was appealed to the Supreme Court by Citizens for Balanced Environment and Transportation, Inc.

DOT argued in the Vermont case it was appropriate for the state to prepare the environmental impact statement and the federal government was only obligated to review it for approval.

The Connecticut citizens group said Newman's decision conflicted with Oakes' because the Danbury section of U.S. 7 would be part of the longer highway to Vermont and should be included in an overall assessment of the impact the contemplated highway would have on New England's environment.

Gov. Grasso considering budget freeze

HARTFORD (UPI) - Gov. Ella T. Grasso said Tuesday there is no chance state agencies will get the 25.8 per cent increase in spending they have demanded which would boost the state budget from $1.67 billion to $2.1 billion.

In response to newsmen's questions, the governor said there is a possibility some state agencies may be asked to freeze their budgets at current levels next year.

Mrs. Grasso gave no indication of what agencies might be held to existing spending levels. She said the performance of state revenues during the first quarter of the current fiscal year will give an indication of how much budgetary flexibility she will have next year.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph I. Lieberman, D-New Haven, said earlier that a $43 million increase in spending would necessitate a boost in the state's 7 per cent sales tax to 12 per cent.

Both the governor and the Democratic legislative leadership have ruled out the possibility of a state income tax because of widespread public opposition.

On another matter, Mrs. Grasso said she has not yet decided whether to run as a "favorite daughter" candidate in Connecticut's Democratic presidential preference primary next year.

Northern Ireland perilously close to civil war

BY JOSEPH W. GRIGG LONDON (UPI) - The latest bloodbath has driven Northern Ireland perilously close to civil war.

In a 24-hour period last Thursday and Friday, 13 persons were killed and some 50 injured in one of the grimmest 24 hours of bloodshed even Northern Ireland has known.

British officials are deeply concerned that one more such explosion of bombing and shooting may push it over the edge.

In the six years since the present upheaval began more than 1,300 have been killed and thousands injured and maimed.

What was additionally disturbing about the latest eruption of killing and wounding was that it bore all the hallmarks of the long feared "Protestant backlash."

In fact, the militant extreme Protestant Ulster Volunteer Force claimed responsibility for most of the carnage, asserting it was a reprisal for recent sporadic bombings and shootings by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Marilyn Rees, Britain's civilian administrator for the province, hit back by outlawing once again the Ulster Volunteer Force.

It had been illegal until about 18 months ago when the ban on it was lifted in the hope of getting the Protestant majority of two-thirds in the province to cooperate in working out a political settlement in which it would share power with the minority of one-third Roman Catholics.

That hope has proved futile. A political settlement seems as far away as ever.

The Ulster Unionist Coalition, which represents the vast majority of the Protestant community in the Northern Ireland Constitutional Convention elected last April, has turned down any power sharing plan.

That in itself was a grim development.

Then came last week's bloodbath which gave every indication that the militant Protestants were ready if necessary, to turn to the bomb and the gun themselves to get their own way.

British officials are worried that the Irish Republican Army - the militant spearhead of the movement to incorporate Northern Ireland into the largely Catholic Irish Republic - may end the shaky ceasefire if it has maintained, despite frequent breaches, since last December. This, it is feared, could well plunge the province into full scale civil war, with the 14,500 British troops who are trying to hold the line between Protestants and Catholics caught in the middle.

The British government, in fact, appears uncertain what to do now. It has been struggling to avoid this, since intervention is one of the most emotional issues in the North.

Rees had hoped not only to end internment but to release the remaining 200 internees out of an original 500 by the end of the year.

Antifreeze supply said abundant. WASHINGTON (UPI) - Antifreeze will be abundant, and maybe cheaper, this year because the market for permanent press clothes has been pinched by the recession.

But if the economy continues to recover, there could be another shortage for the winter of 1976-77.

Last fall and winter some areas had shortages and the year before panic buying made things even worse for those worried about keeping their auto radiators and engines from freezing.

This year, ethylene glycol, the stuff from which antifreeze is made, has been available because not as much of it is going to its other main use - the manufacture of polyester fiber.

Polyester fiber is used in making suits, shirts, blouses and other products. Americans have not been buying as much of these things because of the recession.

Which means plenty of antifreeze. But, there is no way to expand the basic supply of ethylene glycol, which comes from crude oil and natural gas.

Union Carbide, which makes "Frestone" brand antifreeze, said the situation could become a shortage next year if the economy perks up, consumers start buying more clothes, and more of the raw material gets diverted back to polyester fiber production.

The lighter side: When you say that, mister, smile

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Shagworth came to work in a foul mood.

"Why are you in such a foul mood, Shagworth?" asked Shagworth said he was in a foul mood because he was fed up with everyone telling him to have a nice day.

"I had to stop by the bank, the grocery store and the gas station before coming to work this morning," he said. "The teller, the checker and the pump attendant all told me to have a nice day."

"Then, driving to work, I passed four cars with 'Have a Nice Day' bumperstickers. I'm sure they meant well but it's getting under my skin."

"If one more person tells me to have a nice day I'm liable to punch him right in the nose!" I said. "What do you want them to do, Shagworth? Wish you 'Happy New Year'?"

"You have touched on the very point I was about to make," Shagworth said. During the Christmas season don't you get tired of people wishing you 'Merry Christmas'?"

I agreed that Merry Christmas wishing probably was a bit overdue, but I added that since it only lasted a few weeks once a year it was something you could live with.

"Now you've hit the point dead center," Shagworth said. "Suppose people wished you Merry Christmas all year long the way they tell you to have a nice day. Wouldn't that drive you up the wall?"

"What are you suggesting, Shagworth?"

Shagworth said he was suggesting that Congress officially designate March 15 as National Nice Day and declare it a legal holiday.

"For a couple of weeks beforehand, we could all go around telling each other to have a Nice Day. Then when the holiday was over, we could go back to saying 'Don't take any wooden nickels' or whatever."

"I said, 'What's wrong with having nice days all the time?'"

"Simply this. There are some days when you don't feel like having a nice day. You feel like having a crummy day, and when people tell you to have a nice day it rubs you the wrong way."

"You feel like giving them a nasty reply, like 'Don't tell me you have a nice day with a root canal job starting you in the face.'"

"Then there are other days when external conditions — say a dental appointment — are such that there is no way in God's world you could have a nice day."

"As a result, the pronounced loss of physicians from rural areas in recent years is matched by a reluctance among younger physicians to take over small town practices as they become vacant," the foundation said. It said its program is based on the premise that doctors who want to practice in rural communities are not extinct.

Rural health care improving

By AL ROSSITER JR.
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an effort to counter the doctor drain from rural America, a private health care foundation plans to set up 25 modern small town medical practices designed to attract bright young physicians to similar communities.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton, N.J., is committing $14 million to the innovative project.

"The program represents a search for new approaches to the problem of health care access in rural America," said Dr. David Rogers, president of the foundation.

The number of doctors practicing in rural areas of the United States has dropped at a rate far greater than the decline in the overall rural population. As a result, the ratio of physicians to people in rural counties is less than half what it is in metropolitan communities.

In parts of the South, the situation is even more severe. In parts of Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi, there are an average of only 28 doctors for every 100,000 people. The national average is 156 per 100,000.

More than one of four Americans lives in rural communities and the foundation said they have traditionally been served by a lone, dedicated but overworked practitioner who lacks professional stimulation. This style of isolated professional life holds far less attraction for today's physicians.

"As a result, the pronounced loss of physicians from rural areas in recent years is matched by a reluctance among younger physicians to take over small town practices as they become vacant," the foundation said. It said its program is based on the premise that doctors who want to practice in rural communities are not extinct.

Buckley School library workshop will be conducted Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the school library.

The Democratic Club of Manchester will meet tonight at 8 at the Democratic headquarters, 445 Hartford Rd., to discuss participation in the coming campaign.

See who's doing the work

Women are truly liberated when two gentlemen can sit idly by laughing while a woman picks up a shovel and begins digging. All in fun, the occasion was the planting of bushes at Bolton's new Bentley Memorial Library. Alison Boisoneau, with shovel in hand, is chairman of the Bolton Women's Club conservation committee that donated $300 worth of shrubbery for the library. Looking on while Mrs. Boisoneau digs is Jack Whitman of Whitman's Nursery and Leon Zapadka of Woodland Gardens. Both businesses also made donations to the library.

Foliage trip starts program

For further information concerning fees.

League meeting There will be an organizational meeting of the Environmental Quality Committee of the Vernon League of Women Voters Oct. 1, at the home of Mrs. Marilyne McKinley, 25 Pineview Dr., Vernon, at 7:30 p.m.

This committee studies such issues as the 1-88 expansion, recycling, air quality, and use of wetlands. Anyone interested in being on the committee should attend the meeting.

Special session The final special water making session before the Nov. 4 election will be Oct. 11 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Memorial Building, Park Pl., Rockville. Anyone who is 18 or older, a bonafide resident of Vernon, and a citizen, is eligible to become a voter.

Pinnacle winners Tuesday winners in the Vernon Senior Citizen Pinnacle Group, last week, were: Alexina Moran 78; Ann Quinn, 73; Irene Petersen 72; Ann Hietala 68; Ed Quinn 67; Joe Kincaid 66; Jennie Starke 66; Stella 65.

Tuesday tournament winners were: Katherine Duetz 67; Harold Weber 58; Betty Laetjen 57; John Poggie 57. John Poggie has high total score to date with 687 and high individual score to date is Ed Kresy 463.

Pinnacle is played Tuesdays and Thursdays at 1:30 p.m. at the Lottie Fish Building, Henry Park.

School lunches The following lunches will be served in the Vernon public schools next week. Schools will be closed Monday in observance of Columbus Day.

Tuesday: Ravioli with meat sauce, spinach, bread and butter, vanilla pudding with fruit.

Wednesday: Cheeseburger on bun, crisp potatoes, fiesta salad, chipped peaches.

Thursday: Juice, pizza, tossed salad, ice cream cone.

Friday: Fish, buttered noodles, carrots, bread and butter, pineapple.

Milk is served with all meals.

Washington trip approved

VERNON The students of the Government Club at Sykes School will be able to visit Washington, D.C. in May. The trip was given the approval of the Board of Education, Monday night.

Most of the students planning to go will help raise the money to cover their expenses. The school board will not have to pay anything but, according to policy, it does have to give approval when school days will be missed.

The prime purpose of the club is to better inform interested students of local, state, and federal government operation and function.

Fred Ramsdell, principal of the school, noted that it is hoped the Washington trip, in this Bicentennial year, will help foster an understanding and appreciation for this nation, its government, and its history along with other events planned as guest speakers, help from the historical society, and field trips.

During the year six sessions will concern local government, eight state and 10 federal. The Washington trip comes under the latter group.

Plans now are to make the trip leaving May 15 and returning May 18. There will be a maximum ratio of 10 students per chaperone.

The Sykes School houses all of the sixth grades in the school system.

Dropout rate declines

VERNON During the 1974-75 school year a total of 104 students dropped out of Rockville High School as compared to the 1973-74 school year when a total of 171 dropped out.

The breakdown for boys for the previous year in brackets, is as follows: Seniors 14 (16); Juniors 25 (44); Sophomores 17 (39); and Freshmen 5 (23).

For the girls, Seniors 10 (6); Juniors 18 (18); Sophomores 9 (21); Freshmen 11 (27).

School board members, in the past, have expressed the hope that the expanded high school will offer more courses for the non-college bound students to encourage them to complete their high school education.

Author to attend Bolton fair

Donna Holland 64-0375

Yella Niclas, award winning photographer and author, will attend the Bolton Parent Teachers Organization book fair tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Bolton Public Library.

Mrs. Niclas will autograph copies of her book, "White Talis and Green Clover."

She lives with her husband in East Hartford. She was born in Berlin, Germany. After the Nazi rise to power, she fled to Paris.

After being interned in a concentration camp, she emigrated to the United States.

She has had one woman photography shows in the U.S. and abroad.

Her book concerns the life and adventures of the colonialist rabbits that live and play among the meadows of Wickham Park in East Hartford.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a TV program that really shook me up. A 30-year-old wife and mother who had always known that she was adopted decided to try to locate her "real" parents.

With the help of a lawyer, she was successful in finding her "real" father. (Her mother had died.) Although the young woman was certain that she had found her natural father and the man at first confirmed that he was, he later denied it.

Abby, I was an unwed mother at the age of 15. I gave my child up for adoption and later married a fine man with whom I had four children. I told him about my illegitimate child, but our children don't know it and neither do any of his relatives—which is the way I want it.

I think it's grossly unfair for an adopted person to go looking for his (or her) natural parents. The couple who raised my firstborn are her "real" parents.

In some states, when an adopted person reaches legal age, he has a right to know who his natural parents are. But what about MY right to privacy?

DEAR NAMELESS: I agree with you. But for another point of view on that subject, read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have always known that I was adopted. I am now 17 and know when I become "of age," I can demand that my file be opened to me so I can know my natural parents are.

Abby, I have absolutely no desire to locate them. They gave me up because they felt it would be better for me and possibly for them, too.

The parents who took me when I was 1-week old, raised me and gave me their love and affection. I could not possibly afford to be a "real" parent. No other parents could be more real to me.

I am not saying that I have never wondered what my natural parents are like, but I can truthfully say that my curiosity is not so great that I would risk upsetting their lives by suddenly appearing or risk hurting the parents to whom I owe so much.

NOT LOOKING IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: My husband has always been a very selfish man, but the other day he lapped himself when I was in the car. He says he was drunk because I had cut three roses from his rosebushes. The rosebushes have loads of buds on them, and I can't see that I did them any harm.

My husband claims that roses should not be picked in the first year. I always thought that rosebushes produced bigger and more abundant blooms after the flowers were plucked. Who's right?

If my husband is right, I'll keep my bloomin' hands off his blooms.

DEAR N.: Picking roses off the bush the first year will not affect the health of the rosebush. But it might not be too healthy for your marriage.

Win at Bridge

one short, although there is a perfect safety play available. Playing in six clubs, South wins the spade lead, draws trumps, cashes three hearts in order to get rid of his small spade, ruffs dummy's last spade and since he is in his diamond hand he leads in his diamond and to play dummy's eight spot. East wins and is end-played.

Suppose West held the four diamonds. If they included just two honors West would win and be forced to give South a ruff and discard. If West held all three honors and did not play one that trick spot would have won the trick. If he played one, South would win with dummy's king, lead back the eight, duck and let West be end-played.

Suppose diamonds were 3-2. Then there would be only one diamond loser and everyone would make the slam.

Ask the Jacobs

If today's hand were played in the national charity duplicate the chances are that there would be several thousand bidding sequences. Some pairs would just reach game. Others would reach six notrump, down one after a spade lead. Some would play in six diamonds (also down one).

The few who would be in six clubs would also be likely to fail.

Catholic scouts discuss programs

Eligibility, membership, and bylaws were discussed at a recent organizational meeting for the Catholic Committee on Girl Scouting at St. Mary's Recreation Hall in Coventry.

Ursula Wohlbe of Tolland is the District II chairlady. The guest speaker at the meeting was Kathryn Briggs of Norwich, Diocesan chairlady.

Ms. Briggs outlined the program levels for the Hall Mary, Holy Family, Marion Medal, and Ancilla Domini and project direction for the Good Samaritan, Paraclete, and St. Anne Award were also discussed.

Towns represented at this organizational meeting were Vernon, Tolland, Coventry, Willimantic, Mansfield, Storrs and Bolton.

Father LaRocque of Gales Ferry was named Diocesan chaplain and Father Gerard Roux, district chaplain. Mrs.

Robert J. Callahan was appointed activities director and Mrs. Stephen Bellinghri, publicity chairman.

The next District II Diocesan meeting is scheduled for Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. in St. Matthew's Church, Tolland. Anyone wishing further information on this new committee should contact Mrs. Anthony Cacace, Miss Wohlbe, or Mrs. Callahan.

State gets clean water fund

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut has received a $227,200 grant from the New England Regional Commission to get the state's clean water program moving, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today.

The governor said the state Department of Environmental Protection has given 58 municipal and state projects top priority. She said the commission grant will be used to get the programs, which will cost $250 million, moving within the next two years.

Municipal projects will be built with 75 per cent federal funding, 15 per cent state funding and 10 per cent local funding. State projects will receive 75 per cent federal support, the governor said.

Environmental Protection will hire 20 additional employees, including 10 technical, five administration and five secretarial persons, the governor said.

The projects include: Berlin, Bloomfield, Branford, Bridgeport, Bristol, Brookfield, Brooklyn, Burlington, Chester, Norwich State Hospital, Trumbull Airport, University of Connecticut, Deep River, East Hartford, East Haven, East Windsor, Enfield, and Farmington.

Also, Glastonbury, Greenwich, Griswold, Groton, Manchester, Mansfield, New Britain, New Haven, New London, New Milford, North Branford, Norwalk, Orange, Plainville and Simsbury.

Also Somers, Stafford, Stratford, Torrington, Trumbull, Vernon, Waterbury, Waterford, Watertown, West Hartford West Haven, Westport, Windsor, Windsor Locks and Wolcott.

Manchester Square Dance Club will have an advanced workshop at Martin School Thursday from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The Martha Circle of Emanuel Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in the music room at the church. Miss Anna T. Anderson will lead the devotions. Hostesses are Mrs. Gerda Orr, Mrs. Anna Murphy and Mrs. Emma Nyquist.

AREA POLICE

ARRESTS

Vernon
Robert E. Berry, 31, of 126 Main St., Rockville was charged Tuesday with third-degree criminal mischief and fourth-degree larceny in connection with the investigation of a complaint that someone was tampering with the coin boxes of the dryer in the building where Berry lives.

He was released on a $300 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, Oct. 29.

South Windsor
Bryan J. Topolski, 17, of Hartford, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 12 charging him with second-degree larceny in connection with the investigation of a motor vehicle taken from South Windsor. He was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Oct. 14.

George T. Anderson, 44, of 62 Diane Dr., Vernon was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 19 charging him with violation of the public health code.

The warrant was served on order of Health Officer Herbert Slicer. Police said Anderson was warned several times concerning the condition of the septic field at his home. He was released on his promise to appear in court in Rockville, Oct. 29.

South Windsor
Bryan J. Topolski, 17, of Hartford, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 12 charging him with second-degree larceny in connection with the investigation of a motor vehicle taken from South Windsor. He was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Oct. 14.

Vernon Post Office to improve service

Starting Oct. 11, the Vernon Post Office will put into effect an improved program for first class mail service.

Postmaster Wilton Lisk said under the program, first class mail will receive service that is equal or better than airmail.

He said this major new service step will extend to all first-class mail weighing 13 ounces or less and will mean that domestic first-class postage now will purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy.

Lisk said under the new program there no longer will be an advantage in purchasing airmail postage for domestic delivery.

Priority mail, now starting at a weight in excess of 13 ounces, which includes air parcel service and international airmail are unaffected by the improvement program and will continue in the present form.

Air mail stamps will be sold for use of priority and international airmail. Lisk said they can also be used in various combinations with other stamps for first class mail.

Customers may exchange airmail stamps, stamped envelopes and cards. Stationery bearing airmail markings will be allowed to be mailed at the first-class rate.

Lannan sees obstacles to red-on-right turns

Setting up a "Right Turn on Red Light" intersection in Manchester will be hard, said Police Chief Robert Lannan Tuesday.

"It will be a long time coming to Manchester," he said. The state has okayed the setting up of such intersections when certain conditions are met. People making right turns can go through red lights if there is a "Right Turn on Red Light" sign on their corner and they can safely enter the flow of traffic moving on the green light, he said.

The state law requires the local police find and study a proper corner. Then the police suggest it to the state Department of Transportation (DOT) for final okay.

Lannan said the sign might go up along any state highway passing through Manchester. Possible corners could be any involving Main St., Center St., E. Center St. or Oakland St. To explain his doubts, he gave Broad and Center Sts. as an example.

A car trying to enter Center St. from Broad on the red light might have plenty of space. But the flow of traffic is so heavy and fast there, a driver could not move into it safely, he said.

Other corners do not have enough space or they have other problems.

Reservations near deadline

Reservations will close Thursday night for a testimonial dinner Friday for Kenneth Smith, who retired recently from the Town Fire Department after 42 years' service.

The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. at the Army-Navy Club and is for men and women.

Tickets may be obtained at any town firehouse.

Long-time road advocate favors completing I-84

Everett McKinney, Bolton businessman, and long-time advocate of improved roads and transportation, today spoke out in favor of the completion of I-84.

McKinney, a native of Manchester, has been involved in highway improvement projects for many years. He was a member of a Civic Progress Committee, promoting construction of the Charter Oak Bridge in Hartford and worked on a citizen's committee promoting the "road" which eventually became the Wilbur Cross Parkway.

He was also active in Manchester as a member of the Board of Tax Review, was chairman of the Board of Education at one time, and also served as a police commissioner. He has been active in civic affairs in Bolton since he moved there in 1945.

While advocating the completion of the I-84 corridor,

McKinney said the environment can still be kept perfect... "we can still make progress... and solve the transit problem."

He contends that the highway completion will improve the rural character of Eastern Connecticut, the pollution will be less, the fishing will be better on the streams, and that no agricultural property will be destroyed.

"The beauty of the countryside will be enhanced and enjoyed by all who travel locally as well as those who are traveling long distances," he said.

He said the towns will offer opportunities to live and work and local zoning and planning agencies in each community will see to it that we have orderly growth.

He also said the highway will allow easy access to places of employment, east and west, allowing most people in the area to travel to work in one-half hour or less. "Economically, the area will prosper," he said.

He said the Department of Transportation (DOT) estimates land acquisitions will cost some $6 million. He said this amount will be spent for new homes, new shopping areas at interchanges, and for expansion of industry.

He said it is also estimated that the total expansion will generate about $20 million worth of business in the next five years. "This, of course, will be a shot-in-the-arm that is so badly needed at this time. It will mean going ahead and not backwards... it will mean orderly progress," McKinney said.

Noting that the new highway would have areas for parking cars at each interchange and also bus stops, McKinney said this would encourage car pools which are impossible now.
