Firehouse injunction denied

Judge Harold J. Mulvey in Hartford County Superior Court early this afternoon turned down a request for a temporary injunction to halt construction of the Buckland firehouse. "I have no difficulty at all in this decision," said Judge Mulvey. "There is a cardinal rule in law not to embarrass or interfere with the operation of a municipality."

The request for a temporary injunction was brought by Larry Noone, leader of a petition drive to have an area of Buckland included in the Eighth Utilities District which provides fire protection in northern parts of town.

Just before rendering his decision, Judge Mulvey drew an admission from the attorneys for Noone that the firehouse would serve areas in town other than the area in contention.

The attorneys had no answer when Judge Mulvey asked, "How about the rights of the people of Manchester outside Buckland who would be served by the firehouse?"

Nixon nearly indicted twice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twice last year, Watergate prosecutors nearly indicted Richard Nixon.

First impeachment proceedings headed them off and finally they were stopped by President Ford's pardon.

The prosecutors said in their 277-page final report Wednesday that they felt they were on firm legal ground both times, but were not sure an indictment of Nixon while he was still president would be upheld by the Supreme Court.

Although the Watergate prosecutors' office will remain in business to handle appeals and perhaps one or two new cases of a minor nature, the work is generally done, the report said. It detailed 63 men indicted, 53 men convicted, 19 corporations guilty of illegal campaign contributions.

The prosecutors said some of the evidence they presented to grand juries — including Nixon's sworn statement — will remain sealed since it did not lead to criminal action. It would be unfair to those named in the evidence to have the material released without chance for rebuttal in court, they said.

Some major investigations did not lead to criminal action for lack of presentable evidence. The prosecutors said they could not unravel the 18½-minute gap on a crucial White House tape, nor find evidence of illegality in the $100,000 that billionaire Howard Hughes gave to Nixon friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

One matter still pending, prosecutors said, is the charge that the ambassadorship to Luxembourg was sold to Ruth Farkas for a $300,000 Nixon campaign contribution.

For the first time in the two and a half year investigation of the nation's worst political scandal, the report made clear that Nixon twice was on the brink of indictment.

The first time was in early 1974 when prosecutors learned from the March 21, 1973, tape that he had had extensive knowledge of the cover-up activities.

"The question of the President's indictability ... resulted in intense debate among members of the special prosecutor's staff," the report said.

"There appeared to be no basis for concluding that an incumbent president is immune from the ordinary process of criminal law."

But prosecutor Leon Jaworski concluded the Supreme Court might not uphold such an indictment, and the whole process would seriously delay the impeachment proceedings. So instead the grand jury named Nixon an unindicted coconspirator in the cover-up.

When Nixon resigned last August, there was no longer a constitutional question involved, and prosecutors rekindled the indictment discussion. They decided to delay legal action until the cover-up jury was sequestered. On Sept. 8, Ford's pardon halted their plans.

The experience led prosecutors to ask Congress in the report to introduce a constitutional amendment clarifying whether an incumbent president can be indicted for criminal acts. They did not say which way they felt the matter should be clarified.

Economy rebounds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House officials say the economy grew at a rate of about 10 per cent during the last three months in a sharp rebound from the recession.

This apparently is what President Ford had in mind Wednesday when he promised Americans some "very encouraging" economic news soon.

Aides said the big increase in the Gross National Product — the total U.S. output of goods and services — would be announced next week by the Commerce Department and would mean that economic growth in July, August and September was about five times as much as in the previous quarter.

Widow to make public sources of John Bailey estate assets

HARTFORD (UPI) — Mrs. John M. Bailey, widow of the former Connecticut and national Democratic chairman, says she will make public a list of her husband's estate in an effort to prove he did not receive an alleged $200,000 payment in connection with the Bridgeport jai alai fronton.

Mrs. Bailey said Wednesday the list would be accompanied by a statement of origin showing when each asset was purchased and where the funds to pay for it came from.

She said she directed William Glotzer of Troub, Glotzer and Co., certified public accountants for her husband's estate, to prepare the documents immediately and release them next week.

Organized crime investigators said earlier this week Bailey, who died April 10 of cancer at the age of 70, was named by David Friend of Hollywood, Fla., as the recipient of the payment in return for help in obtaining a license to open the fronton.

Democratic and Republican politicians have expressed shock and disbelief over Bailey's alleged role, which became known Tuesday as a portrait of Bailey was being unveiled at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

Connecticut Special Revenue Commission chairman Paul Silvergield said the payment took place in Hartford on or about April 9, 1974, shortly after the license was granted. The Teamsters pension fund is the principal source of money for the $14 million facility.

Among those listed as stockholders of the firm are Memphis Southern football star Larry Csonka and Washington lawyer Charles Emmet Lucey, a member of the finance council of the Democratic National Committee.

Meanwhile, a published report today said Bailey and his wife were in Florida the week of April 9, 1974, when the payoff was alleged to have taken place in Hartford.

The Hartford Courant quoted friends as saying the Baileys were in Clearwater, Fla., at the time to attend the American Seniors Golf Association tournament. The newspaper also said registration records at the Bellevue-Biltmore Hotel con-

Discuss rail line future

Parties involved or concerned with the removal of the railroad tracks along the abandoned Penn Central Vernon to Willimantic line met for the first time yesterday to discuss the situation. Deep in conversation are J. William Burns from the Department of Transportation, Aloysius Ahearn, state representative for the 55th district.

Looking on is Robert Klemme, owner of the salvage company removing the tracks. In the background are the bundled ties ready for transportation to their new owner. They will be mainly used for landscaping. The tracks however have been sold for reuse as tracks. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Officials meet to discuss Penn Central track issue

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent

Although a meeting is in the planning stage to discuss the removal of tracks on the abandoned Penn Central Railroad from Vernon to Willimantic, it's too late to save the five miles of track that run through Bolton.

Three miles have already been removed and two miles have been loosened and were scheduled for removal today.

The meeting will be attended by Samuel Kanell, state transportation commissioner, Robert Klemme, owner of Boss Cedric Equipment Co. Inc. of New York, the salvage company removing the tracks and Aloysius Ahearn, state representative for the 55th district who has led the fight in Bolton to halt the removal of tracks.

Ahearn arranged a meeting Wednesday attended by himself, Klemme, K. William Burns, assistant to Kanell and Robert D'Onofrio, assistant to Burns. It was the first time the various parties concerned with the track removal met.

Bill Pagano of Hartford Architect Conservancy also attended the meeting. Towards the end of the meeting Norman Preuss, selectman, arrived.

The meeting took place in Bolton where the railroad tracks cross Steele Crossing Rd.

On the line in question there remains 15 miles but whether or not they can be saved is debatable.

Contrary to an Oct. 8 article in The Herald when Robert McKernan, a spokesman for Penn Central, said the salvage contractor was asked to temporarily stop work, Klemme said he has never been asked or told by anyone to stop work.

Klemme said this past Tuesday an unidentified person walked the track and told one of his men he shouldn't be removing the tracks.

It was reported earlier that when Vernon stopped the salvage company from removing tracks in Vernon it moved to Bolton.

According to Klemme his crew never attempted to remove any tracks in Vernon. The removal work began in Bolton.

Klemme, who since June has owned the 20 miles of railroad line, said no lines have been placed on the property he owns.

From the bid he was awarded by Penn Central in June, Klemme is the owner of two miles of tracks and 20 miles of ties and fasteners.

Boss Cedric must return 18 miles of track to Penn Central.

The portion of track that is Klemme's has already been sold to another railroad for use as a line.

Klemme said the financial transaction was over $400,000.

If the state now wants to stop the removal of tracks it would have to negotiate with Klemme and until yesterday hadn't even spoken to him.

The job went out to bid in June and from all appearances the state wasn't even aware of that fact.

Burns said last week Commissioner Kanell was looking for funds for the purchase.

He said a responsible official from Penn Central told Kanell he would make an effort to hold up the tearing of the railroad line until the state could pay for it.

There was no written agreement, only a verbal one.

All attending the Wednesday meeting were in complete agreement the present condition of the line was that it's in good shape and usable (or was until torn up).

Pagano said he has pictures of a main line owned and used by Penn Central that is in much worse shape than what the salvage contractor is tearing up.

He said, "It's dumb to be tearing it up, the replacement cost is $8 million, it's stupid."

Pagano said it's a resource that should be guarded and everyone will be "damn sorry" they're letting it go now.

Ahearn said somewhere somebody is not doing something to bridge the communications gap.

He said he had two questions, first, is there anything the state can do now, and second is the state even willing to do anything.

He said he gets the feeling the state is not really concerned.

Three years ago the entire Vernon to Willimantic line could have been purchased by the state for $400,000.

At that time Kanell was in charge of the rail division of the state Department of Transportation.

At that time Kanell negotiated with Penn Central for the purchase.

In response to a question as to why nothing was done at that time, Burns said, "I don't know."

Klemme said at today's prices it would cost about $50 a foot including labor and materials to replace the line.

If the entire 20 mile line is torn up and someone decides to replace it it would cost the state $5,280,000 at today's prices.

Those at the meeting agreed from a realistic point of view the present line is lost.

Burns asked Klemme how much it would cost the state to acquire his portion of the railroad. Klennens said before he submitted a bid to Penn Central he received a commitment for the material and after he was awarded the bid he contracted to accept the commitment.

Burns said the state has the right to purchase the right of way from Penn Central and has the funds to do it. However, he didn't know when the state would do it.

He said it's the policy of the state to acquire rights of way as they become available.

Earlier Frank McCoy, Mayor of Vernon, said when he talked to State Department of Transportation officials they said there were problems because the state purchased the railroad right of way but not the tracks.

According to Burns the state has the right to purchase the right of way but hasn't purchased it.

Until 1970, railroads were exempt from taxes.

In 1970 the exemption status was removed by law. However the Town of Bolton never included the railroad on its tax list.

If it had it could now be attempting to collect about $60,000. This month Bolton removed Penn Central from the exempt list and included it on the tax list.

When Press was asked what the town's feelings were on the removal of the tracks he said he wouldn't want to comment but he thinks they're mixed.

He said personally and from a fire safety standpoint he thinks it's best to remove them.

Officials in Bolton have made no attempt to stop the salvage contractor from removing the tracks.

Ahearn said, "I have four towns through which the railroad line passes and people are concerned."

Ahearn said first Kanell gives you the impression he doesn't care if the tracks are saved or not and then he tells you to do anything you can to halt their removal.

He said he had no cooperation from Bolton officials.

Case Mountain roadway plan is tabled

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on the building of a 1,500-foot section of roadway on Case Mountain.

"Why do we need it up there?" asked Paul Willhite, Republican director.

"The mountain should only be for hiking and nature trails," he said. "Mostly transients go their now for other purposes."

Mayor Jack Thompson, Democrat, did not argue with Willhite about building the roadway. But he did say he has received "enthusiastic" reports about the number of families now walking the trails on Case Mountain.

The section of roadway would complete a loop around the mountain top, said Jay Giles, public works director. It would allow police and fire vehicles to get in easily when needed.

He asked the board for $4,500 to match federal funds needed to build it.

Due to the lack of data on the roadway now, the board tabled action on it until their next meeting after Nov. 4 elections.

Opinion

Freeze the budget

Maybe the Connecticut taxpayer is still numb from the effects of paying for the current state budget or maybe the beauties of fall have lifted him into a dream world where taxes and budgets and politics would be an unwarranted intrusion.

But whatever the reason, the report that the various state agencies have requested budgets for next year in aggregate would mean about a 25 per cent plus increase in the state budget hardly stirred a ripple beyond the automatic reactions of a Democratic administration that these budgets will be cut back some — but not how much and the loyal Republican opposition saying pretty much the same only more so.

Of course, it goes without saying these budget requests despite protests to the contrary are negotiable. The various department budget makers ask for certain things knowing that these are expendable when it gets down to the nitty-gritty.

But the biggest barrier to overcome is the number one law of bureaucracy. No agency will admit that it can either get by with the same amount of money as last year or even less without any deterioration of services. Yet the fact of the matter is that most of our state agencies (and federal ones, too) are operating at levels attained when tax money was more plentiful and the taxpayer less dollar conscious.

To put it another way, not all the services being performed by government would be done if it were not for the money that goes to pay for them.

Just like most of us, government tends to indulge itself when it can afford to or the taxpayers can afford to. But unlike most of us who must cut back our living standard to keep it within income, government tends to classify even the least necessary of its functions as essential. The tactic used on us is to divide and conquer. Bureaucrats whose jobs are at stake should the budget get slashed, start rallying support for their functions such as the DOT commissioner has done for his budget citing the choice of more tax dollars or unfilled potholes.

We are sure that in the highway department there are ways to get the potholes filled and still fulfill other vital services, but we are equally sure no one in the department wants to make that decision.

Regardless of political labels, the fact of the matter is that neither party can really be effective in holding the budget line until both agree that it is essential to do so and agree to a common attack.

Gov. Ella Grasso hinted she is considering the possible budget freeze for the next fiscal year.

We endorse it. We hope her party endorses it. And we hope the Republicans endorse it. It won't be easy but we think at this stage of fiscal affairs, a breathing spell in which no new taxes were levied, repealed or otherwise juggled, coupled with a firm administrative stand to hold the budget to its current level, to give us a chance to reassess our priorities and goals.

Just as growth for growth's sake outside of government is coming under scrutiny, so should growth in government.

Perhaps by making do with the revenue sources we now have, we can get a consensus of state goals and limitations and in turn make state government responsive to the needs of the people rather than the needs of government.

Moynihan telling it like it is

ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Speaking for all 46 members of the African bloc, Tamiou Adjibade of Dahomey shrieked that Daniel P. Moynihan, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, had launched "unprovoked attacks" on Idi Amin, the lunatic president of Uganda.

I'm glad those guys got the point. Short of bringing on the firing squad, there is no other way to address a madman of Amin's ilk.

Moynihan laid it on the line in a San Francisco speech when he borrowed a phrase from a New York Times editorial to describe Amin as a "racist murderer."

At any rate, Moynihan called a racist murderer a racist murderer only in an offhand reference to Amin's recent demand that Israel be expelled from the U.N. and that the Jewish nation be demolished as a state.

pare Amin to Hitler and to sternly tease Adjibade about his concern for civility. "If we had been less courteous with that dictator (Hitler) in the beginning, immense human suffering would have been avoided," Mitchell told the General Assembly. He also reminded his audience that Amin's words were the kind used through centuries to persecute minorities, especially Jews.

For Americans, the stand taken by Moynihan and Mitchell is cause for rejoicing, if not dancing in the streets. We have taken a lot of vicious nonsense from too many fourth-rate "nations" in the U.N., and at last a couple of our boys now have reminded that gaggle of elegant and hedonistic hall-wits that there is a limit to our patience.

Forget the Israeli cause for a moment. A nut like Amin is not going to be heeded when he calls for Israel's extinction. But as Moynihan pointed out at a reception after his San Francisco speech, Amin had "slandered" all the American people by saying that the U.S. was "run by Zionists."

'Keep me alive' is new political credo

MAX LERNER

Now that they are launched on the presidential election year, the Republicans and Democrats face different arithmetic problems. The Republicans must pick two candidates, for President and Vice President, out of their three available men — Gerald Ford, Nelson Rockefeller, Ronald Reagan. The Democrats must pick their two out of about 20 — the eight already announced candidates and at least a dozen others who are ready and willing, if not always able.

By early April, when the important primaries are over, and certainly by convention time, the Republicans will know who their team will be. I assume that Reagan has no serious expectations of displacing Ford for the presidential nomination. As he hinted in a recent press conference, it is Rockefeller he counts on replacing for the vice-presidential spot.

That is what his strong New Hampshire primary drive is all about. Despite the ups and downs more than up right now — the Republicans are not about to replace an incumbent moderate conservative by a far-right presidential candidate, and thus repeat their 1964 Goldwater blunder. Their decision will have to be between running the two in tandem or running the moderate conservative Mr. Ford with the moderate liberal Rockefeller. That decision won't have to be made until early summer. The intervening months, whatever the weather, will be a hot sweating-out time for all three men.

The arithmetic of the large Democratic field adds up, for most voters, not to a sense of the richness of the human resources but to a prevailing apathy. Robert S. Strauss, the Democratic party chairman, says the field will have narrowed to four or five by early April, which may prove true. However, when he adds that the convention will pick a survivor of the primaries' struggle, not a big-name veteran or a young dark horse waiting in the wings, I think he is consulting his hopes, not the reality principle.

The reality is the discounts of the people, and their loss of belief in the capacity of aspiring candidates to lead them out of the valley of the shadow. Another reality is the inadequacy of the present party

Reporter makes big entrance

ATTLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The spotlights were on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., but a local reporter made the biggest splash before a speech to area business leaders.

Lester C. Boyd of the Providence, R.I., Journal-Bulletin walked into a news conference at the home of C. Robert Yeager and promptly fell into the family's indoor swimming pool.

Yeager is retired board chairman of L.G. Balfour Co., a jewelry manufacturer.

Heads bond drive

Sidney Keller, chairman of the Manchester Israel Bond Committee, announced the start of the annual drive in behalf of State of Israel Bonds with an informal gathering Nov. 2, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Karp, 114 Waranoke Rd.

That event will mark two historic milestones in Israel's history: The 27th year of Israel's independence and the 25th anniversary of the Israel Bond drive.

"The occasion will be a good opportunity for the Manchester Jewish community to express its solidarity with Israel at a time when the beleaguered Jewish state is facing serious (financial) problems," Keller declared.

THOUGHT FOR DAY
What would we do without our friends? What would we do if we had no one with whom to share our joys and sorrows? Friends make life so much fuller and richer for us.
But do we ever think to thank God for our friends, to pray for them? Paul tells us: "I thank my God whenever I think of you; and every time I pray for you, I pray with joy... My prayer is that your love for each other may increase more and more"

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mercury, Mars and Saturn.
The evening star is Jupiter.

American playwright Eugene O'Neill was born Oct. 16, 1888. This is actress Angela Lansbury's 50th birthday.
On this day in history:
In 1940, anticipating a Japanese buildup for war, the United States banned all shipments of steel and scrap iron to Japan.

In 1924, U.S. Army Chief of Staff George Marshall died.
In 1969, the New York Mets, an expansion team formed in 1962, defeated Baltimore to win their first world baseball championship.
In 1972, a light plane carrying House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana, and three other men, was reported missing in Alaska. The plane was never found.
A thought for the day: Playwright Eugene O'Neill said, "Our lives are merely strange dark interludes in the electrical display of God the Father."

Presidential accident still under investigation

HARTFORD (UPI) — Police Chief Hugo Mastriano said today that the investigation into the Presidential limousine crash was still under way.

Salamites said he thought about writing a letter to the President, but wondered whether it would be possible for him to meet with Ford to deliver an apology in person.

Salamites and his four teenage passengers were released after Secret Service agents and police were convinced the crash was not an attempt on Ford's life. They said they were treated well by the Secret Service and FBI agents who questioned them.

Police said Salamites "admitted drinking a beer or two" before the crash, but "he did not appear to be under the influence." The results of a sobriety test Salamites took were expected Friday but police said charges probably would not be pressed.

Students protest pay cuts

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — About 80 Central Connecticut State College student employees went on strike Wednesday to protest pay cuts ordered after state auditors said payroll records were falsified to overstate working hours.

Picketing by the student waiters, coat checkers, the maintenance workers and others closed the Student Center, the main hub of campus social activity.

Auditors Leo V. Donahue and Henry J. Becker Jr. said in a report to the governor that "falsified records were processed for the payment of student employees" above what state law allows.

The state scale for student laborers ranges from $2.01 to $2.25, with a limit set by the Central Board of Trustees at $2.01 per hour.

The auditors said two sets of payroll calculations were made. One reflecting actual hours worked and a pay rate up to $2.75 per hour, while the other overstated the hours worked but calculated them at the correct pay rates, the auditors said.

David Ross, director of the center, and Richard L. Judd, dean of student affairs, acknowledged assistance of the practice which they said was started about a decade ago.

Judd said it was "the only way to accomplish a differential scale to recognize experience and extra responsibility" of some student workers.

He said there was "an administrative understanding" of the practice and while he never asked the Board of Trustees to officially change the pay scale, he would now.

"It may appear nefarious, but there was no attempt to defraud the state," said Judd. The students, who say they want the higher rates, collective bargaining rights and no reprisals from the strike, said they would continue to picket until the trustees act on Judd's proposal.

Shelton fire trial begins

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Testimony was to begin today in the federal trial of nine men charged in connection with the March 1 fire and bombing of the Sponge Rubber products Co. plant in Shelton.

U.S. District Court Judge Jon O. Newman Wednesday ordered the start of the trial after denying a series of defense motions for dismissal of conspiracy charges and a change of location of proceedings.

Newman also rejected arguments from 11 defense lawyers that the 12 person jury chosen was not representative and not unbiased, but he reserved decision on requests for separate trials by a number of defendants.

Among those seeking a change of venue was business executive Charles D. Moeller, 48, of Criderville, Ohio.

His attorney, Theodore L. Koskoff, said Moeller, president of The Grand Sheet Metal Co., the parent firm of the Shelton plant, cannot get a fair trial in the state because of pretrial publicity.

Moeller was among the 10 named in federal indictments last April on charges of conspiracy in the destruction of the $14 million factory.

One of the 10 has pleaded guilty and was expected to appear as a witness for the prosecution. All face similar state charges.

Another defendant, The Rev. David N. Bubar, a Memphis, Tenn., Baptist minister and psychic who predicted a disaster at the factory, described himself as a spiritual advisor to Moeller.

FROM YOUR NEIGHBOR'S KITCHEN

BY VIVIAN FERGUSON

The history of cheesecake is long and varied. The ancient Greeks used the word "tiropeia" to mean several things. It applied to a honey-sweetened mold of cream cheese that had been chilled in snow. It also meant a cheese mixture in a crust as well as tiny hot cheese-filled pastries which were undoubtedly hors d'oeuvres since they called them "provocatives to drinking."

Socrates, Aristophanes and Democritus, mentioned cheesecake in their writings. A fellow from Alexandria named Athanaeus, a historian, wrote in the third century, in his book "The Deipnosophists," of various cheese cakes.

Some of the early cheesecakes were the consistency of custards. Some are molded, others heavy in texture. Regardless of the type, most all cheesecakes are made with fresh cheese.

It is said that Americans eat more cheese cake than any other nationality in the world. It most certainly is one of our more popular desserts.

Probably one of the best-known cheesecakes is that of Lindy's famous restaurant in New York. I have had many requests for their recipe and have finally found it. This recipe, as well as the Italian-style refrigerator cheese cake, which is shown in the photo, are party fare. I hope you will enjoy them during the upcoming winter holidays.

Lindy's strawberry cheesecake

1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup butter, softened

Blend together flour, sugar and lemon rind; add egg yolk and butter, and mix with fingers until a smooth dough is formed. Spread on bottom and sides of 9" pie pan. Bake 10 minutes at 400 or until lightly browned. Cool.

Filling:

1 1/2 lbs. cream cheese
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tablespoon flour
3/4 teaspoon grated orange or lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
3 whole eggs plus 1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons heavy cream

Beat cheese until creamy. Add sugar, flour, grated orange or lemon rind, and vanilla. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each, then stir in egg yolk. Add cream. Pour into baked, cooled cookie shell. Have oven at 250, place cake in oven and bake one hour or until firm. Cool. When cold, cover with strawberry glaze.

Refrigerator cheese cake is light and airy and its flavoring was inspired by Italian cuisine.

- Strawberry glaze:
1 quart strawberries (or frozen equivalent)
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup cold water
dash salt
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon butter
- Wash strawberries and separate larger berries for garnish. Chop up remaining berries to make one cup. Mash through food mill or blender. Add sugar, salt and cornstarch to crushed berries. Bring slowly to boil, stirring constantly. Add butter and food coloring. Cool slightly. Arrange whole berries over top of cake. Spoon glaze over berries. Chill until firm.
- The next recipe is light in texture and probably more closely follows the ancient cheesecakes in texture. It becomes quite modern with wheat germ being used in the crust.
- Italian-style refrigerator cheese cake
- 1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
1/4 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup melted butter
ricotta filling
- Mix crumbs, wheat germ and melted butter. Press on bottom only of a 9" spring-form pan. Cover with ricotta filling. Mix crumbs, wheat germ and ricotta filling. Press on sides of pan. Bake 30 minutes. Refrigerate until firm, several hours or overnight. Remove sides of pan. Serve 12-16.
- Ricotta filling
- 4 large eggs, separated
1 cup milk
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 lbs. (2 cups) ricotta cheese
2 squares finely chopped semi-sweet chocolate
1/4 cup finely chopped mixed candied fruit
1/4 cup finely chopped, blanched almonds
1/2 cup orange juice or orange liqueur
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
- In medium saucepan, beat together the egg yolks and milk. In a cup, stir together the gelatin, 1/4 cup of the sugar and the salt; add to egg mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly — about five minutes. Remove from heat.
- In large mixing bowl, beat ricotta until smooth. Mix gelatin mixture into cheese. Stir in remaining ingredients except egg whites and 1/2 cup sugar.
- In medium mixing bowl, with clean beater, beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar, continue to beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into ricotta mixture.
- CORRECTION: Mrs. Osborn's Topsy Carrots. Quantity of lemon juice is two teaspoons.

South Windsor girl named Junior Miss

The Manchester Junior Women's Club has completed its selection for a Junior Miss and has named Miss Janet Nesteruk of South Windsor as the winner.
The 17-year-old senior at East Catholic High School will represent Manchester in the state Junior Miss Pageant in Farmington on Jan. 25 and will compete for many scholarship awards and a chance to participate in the National Junior Miss Pageant in Mobile, Ala.
Miss Nesteruk has served as president of the National Honor Society, Junior Class president; president of the Instructors of the Handicapped, drill team captain, member of the South Windsor Youth Council, member of the Student Council, member of the Student Council of the Yale Book Award and a member of the Girls Leaders Club.
Her talent presentation was a creative visual art display including drawing, painting, silk screening, macrame, and weaving along with an original three-minute oral presentation on the importance of creativity in today's society.
She will receive a $50 Savings Bond from the Manchester State Bank, dinner for two from Mister Steak of Manchester, a necklace pendant from Shoor Jewelers of Manchester, and dinner for two at Gus's Restaurant in Manchester.
The pageant is part of a nationwide program to honor and reward the country's leading high school seniors for achievement in scholastics, creative talents and community betterment.
Junior Miss is not a beauty contest, but seeks the representative "total" girl, the wholesome, intelligent individual.

Myette, Berghuis address Democrats

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel, South Windsor Councilman Robert Myette and Board of Education member Donald Berghuis were speakers in the fourth of a series of six luncheons presented by the Democratic Town Committee. Myette called for further partnership between "the town and its citizenry," citing many of the facilities and services offered by the town through the efforts of service clubs and organizations.

Myette referred to the recent Rotary Club donation of a senior citizen minibus, the work of the Jaycees on the Rye Street Park lighted softball field as well as the community services offered by the libraries and the volunteer Fire Department.

"All of these gifts and services have contributed much and have resulted in tremendous savings to the taxpayer," said Myette. "In the face of rising costs, improvement in community services and facilities within the town of South Windsor may be realized only through the participation and involvement of its citizenry."

Board of Education member Donald Berghuis spoke of the importance of an effective teacher evaluation process as a means of improving rather than firing teachers.

Berghuis made reference to the new teacher evaluation process recently introduced by School Supt. Robert Goldman whereby a teacher is evaluated by a team of 2 or 3 fellow teachers.

"Such a tool," said Berghuis, "has been devised by the administration in cooperation with the teaching staff. Both the principal's report and the peer evaluation have been accepted by the Board of Education as the working tool for improvement of the quality of education in South Windsor."

Berghuis said he intends to "press vigorously for the use of both (principal report and peer evaluation), and as for their upgrading, as may appear necessary and for the major use of this tool as a means of improving people rather than getting rid of them."

"If they improve (the teachers)," said Berghuis, "that can only be a plus for the principal's family, 17 Carmen Rd. He is attending South Windsor High School as a senior.

Suzanne will be the main speaker. Included in her presentation will be color slides.

Claudio is residing with the Allan Schubert family, 17 Carmen Rd. He is attending South Windsor High School as a senior.

Democrats respond to GOP criticism

COVENTRY
MONICA SHEA
742-9495

The Democratic Campaign Committee has issued a statement in response to a recent Republican release issued by the Republican candidates for the November election.

The statement says: "In view of the outstanding achievements of Coventry's boards and commissions, the Democratic candidates are mystified by the recently circulated statement of the Republican candidates charging that there is no following through by the town's boards and officials."

"Are they criticizing the Bicentennial Commission whose early efforts have made Coventry one of the first towns in Connecticut to be designated a Bicentennial community? Or are they criticizing other town boards and commissions who have equally outstanding records?"

"If so, and more importantly because the Republican charges are so broad and unsubstantiated, the Democratic candidates feel that the charges do not make sense except as empty political rhetoric."

Library Association

The annual meeting of the Booth-Dimock Memorial Library Association will be held Tuesday in the Children's Room of the library.

The annual meeting is called to elect new members to the board of trustees and to hear annual reports from the standing committees.

The library set a new all-time circulation record this past year with a total of 51,107 items checked out of the library for the fiscal year ending on June 30, 1975.

The previous year's total was 40,268 items checked out.

Ken Cruickshank of Coventry, columnist and book reviewer for the Hartford Courant, will speak about book reviewing.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Explorer post to resume meetings

COVENTRY
MONICA SHEA
742-9495

The Police Explorer Post will resume its bi-weekly meetings Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Coventry High School auditorium and will elect officers.

New members and interested persons are invited to attend. Persons must be 14 years of age or in high school to join the explorers.

The post has 24 members and was started in 1971.

Police Officer Art Tedford is advisor, and associate advisor is James Tilly, a part-time dispatcher for the police department.

The post has raised money to purchase and insure a bus which will be used exclusively by the post for transportation field trips and sports excursions.

The post has also been active in community projects in the past few years by helping the holiday committee with gifts and the refurbishing of toys for needy children at Christmas.

During the ice storm of December 1973 members of the post manned the emergency accommodations centers that were set up for persons unable to find heated accommodations.

The post is planning a field trip to Mystic in November.

The "free" office space available in the Manchester Community College Student Center according to an item in Tuesday's Herald is neither free nor available, said an MCC spokeswoman Wednesday.
Any long term space available at MCC would be filled only by college groups, she said.
The Herald item prompted five calls from groups outside the college. Another caller was an elected state official wanting to know how the college used its space.
The original notice about the space apparently came from a student eager to make good use of the space.
The Herald regrets the error.

Tiant, Lynn heroics even Series for Red Sox

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Luis Tiant's experience and Fred Lynn's exuberance foiled another ninth-inning Cincinnati comeback to bring the Boston Red Sox even in the 1975 World Series.
Tiant, the 34-year-old Red Sox right-hander, frustrated the Reds with his blaze of motions for the second time in five days Wednesday night holding the Reds scoreless for the last five innings.

A sacrifice bunt by Ed Armbrister and a walk to Pete Rose brought Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson to the mound to bring the Boston Red Sox even in the 1975 World Series.
Tiant, the 34-year-old Red Sox right-hander, frustrated the Reds with his blaze of motions for the second time in five days Wednesday night holding the Reds scoreless for the last five innings.

But it was a Red Sox comeback that gave Tiant something to save.
In the fourth, Fisk and Lynn led off with singles off Freddie Norman and one out later, moved up on a wild pitch. Dwight Evans scored them with a triple to the right field wall.

"I was especially concerned about Griffey because he had us at our park," Tiant said.
Tiant, perhaps sensing after that inning he was going to have to win this one on his own merits, survived a rocky fifth and allowed only two base runners from the sixth through the eighth.
"You have to be lucky to win one like this," the balding, mustache-haired Cuban-born Tiant said.

Three straight wins

Eastwick misses mark

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Cincinnati rookie relief pitcher Frankie Eastwick came within inches of setting a World Series record Wednesday night.
Eastwick had been credited with the Reds' two Series victories and was doing an outstanding job in relief but it was a futile effort, as the Boston Red Sox hung on for a 5-4 win and a 2-2 split in the first four Series games.

Three straight wins

Eastwick misses mark

Eastwick that the catch by Lynn cost the Reds the ball game.
"His catch was a helluva catch," said Rose.
"Now it's a three-game Series," said Rose, who wasn't concerned about returning to Boston.
"You swing the bat, you hit the ball and you make the game," Eastwick said. "It doesn't really matter where you play the game."

Baseball is fun

Sparky takes defeat just like victories

CINCINNATI (UPI) - "I don't take anything hard," said Sparky Anderson, propping his feet upon his desk.
The Cincinnati Reds manager did not look like a man who had just lost a World Series game.
A victory over Boston Wednesday night would have given the Reds a decisive 3-1 game advantage, but the loss evened the series at two games each.

Baseball is fun

"I don't think he could stand it out the last five innings," said Morgan. "He'd gotten everybody out before I guess he figured he could again. He didn't."
Although Tiant figured he was as sharp as he was in last Saturday's victory, Pete Rose disagreed.
"I think he was better," said Rose. "We hit the ball more Saturday. Tonight, he kept the ball away from us. He was being very careful. He made the big pitch when he needed it. And Lynn made the big play too."

Wet playing turf moved Lynn back

CINCINNATI (UPI) - If the artificial turf at Riverfront Stadium hadn't been wet Wednesday night, it might have been a different game.
But the playing field, dampened by a pre-game shower, helped Boston center fielder Fred Lynn in his game-saving catch of Ken Griffey's 400-foot ninth-inning shot in the fourth game of the World Series.
"it was a wet field and the ball carries well in this ballpark so I was playing about 15 feet deeper," Lynn said.

Wet playing turf moved Lynn back

Johnson retreated to the dugout and Griffey took his stance at the plate. Tiant, who had made 155 pitches already, made five more, going to a full count before Griffey rebeked one toward the wall in center field.
Freddie Lynn, the Red Sox rookie sensation, took one quick look at the ball headed down-town and got on his back.

Running on fumes, Tiant 'busted it'

CINCINNATI (UPI) - This was no time to fool around. Darrell Johnson knew it, Carlton Fisk knew it. Luis Tiant knew it.
Tiant was struggling.
He was dangerously close to running out of gas and was operating now mostly on fumes.
Pitching carefully with a slony disappearing one-run lead in the ninth inning, with one out and one on, he had just lost Pete Rose, walking him, and now Cincinnati had runners on first and second with Ken Griffey coming up.

Can't anybody play

Don't anybody around here know how to play this game? I cried the late Casey Stengel years back after watching his laughable New York Mets find another way to lose a baseball game.

If the 'Old Professor' had been watching Manchester football teams in action last Monday he probably would've come out with the same lament.

East Catholic pulled enough behind plays to fill two seasons in losing 41-8 to St. Bernard and Manchester High was equally futile in a 33-0 thrashing to Conard High in West Hartford.

Eagle Coach John LaFontana called it a total "lack of concentration" on the part of his club for the downfall. Defensive backs, for example, knew they were playing man-for-man yet mysteriously left their men all alone for long gains.

"In high school ball you have to concentrate and you need enthusiasm," LaFontana analyzed hours after the loss to the Saints—a game which should have been even.

Enthusiasm in that statement is the key word. You have to play with emotion in football or in any sport. A vivid illustration is last year's NBA championship which went to the Golden State Warriors.

Emotion does help. One thing seen the last few weeks is emotion on the part of opponents.

Manchester has lost 11 of its last 12 gridiron encounters and the question is if they'll win another this campaign.

Wilt ABA property DeBusschere warns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave DeBusschere, forced into a second possible court situation, warned all interested parties Wednesday the only place Wilt Chamberlain could legally play professional basketball was in San Diego.

In a letter addressed to NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien, Wilt Chamberlain, Mike Burke, the president of Madison Square Garden Inc., which owns the New York Knicks, Los Angeles Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke and Seymour Goldberg, Chamberlain's lawyer, DeBusschere said.

"In response to recent newspaper articles, this shall serve as notice to you that in the event Wilt Chamberlain desires to play professional basketball, he is obligated to render said services to the American Basketball Association pursuant to a contract dated Sept. 15, 1973, said contract to expire by its terms on Sept. 30, 1974."

Chamberlain's position is that his contract was breached by the San Diego franchise last year. Under the standard ABA contract, however, a clause states that in the event a player believes his contract has been breached, the club and the league must be notified within 10 days.

According to a league spokesman, Chamberlain did not report to camp, subsequently retired and never notified the league that his contract had been breached.

The San Diego Conquistadors had fallen into financial trouble and briefly were taken over by the league office. They have since been sold and renamed the Sails. The ABA trustees agreed to give owner Frank Goldberg all the rights to players on the active roster and reserve list, which includes Chamberlain.

Gets added prize BOSTON (UPI) — The winners of the 26-mile Boston Marathon each spring for the next five years will get an additional prize—a chance to run in Japan.

Will Rodgers, who set a Boston Marathon record last April, will be the first winner to take advantage of an agreement announced Wednesday by Will Cloney, president of the Boston Athletic Association.

Cougar booters beaten

By Larry Olsen

Despite Bob Henry's 12th goal of the season, the Manchester Community College soccer team dropped a 2-1 decision to the Yale University Jayvees yesterday in New Haven.

The Bulldogs struck first when Matt Barger took a Raleigh Humphries pass and chipping home a shot from 15 yards out past Cougar goalie Dave Treschuk at 21:25 of the first half.

MCC tied it about seven minutes later when Henry took a Kyle Doonan pass and put it past Yale netminder John Earltman.

Alan Copp scored the winning goal for the Bulldogs in the second period taking a Steve Dinkerspell header and putting it past Treschuk.

The Cougars, now 6-3 for the season, had 21 shots on goal compared to 23 for Yale which is now 2-1.

By John LaFontana EAST CATHOLIC There are days when nothing goes right and last Monday was one of them for us. We lost to a thing to lose to a team that is bigger, quicker, or more agile than you are, but when you lose to a team either because they were in better condition or they made less mistakes than you did, then you are getting into an area in which you, as coaches and players, can do something about it, and you have no one to blame but yourselves.

We have suffered three losses this year and although each of these teams is a top contender for their league championship, it doesn't excuse us from the glaring truth that each of the victories against us was due more to our own inadequacies than the skill of the other teams.

I will have to put the pride of the team on the line this week and say that we will be heavily favored to beat this week's opponent. The team is Bloomfield High and they have been beset with key injuries all season.

They are coming into the game badly undermanned for this week and we are not going to have any excuse for losing if we still consider ourselves as a good football team. I am issuing this challenge to our team to prove to our fans that we really haven't lived up to the potential that I believe we are capable of.

In few people last week did I think the team did its best to make the Saints look like the best team in the state. You will always hear losing coaches state that the score was not indicative of the performance of their teams but in this case I would have to say that the 41-8 score told the whole story of our effort.

We were beaten in every phase of the game except perhaps, the running game and that was due to the running of Cephus Nolen and the blocking of Kevin Shorey on long outside runs.

What is disturbing is that the main reason for the defeat is that a lot of mental mistakes on our part allowed the team with about the same level of athletic ability, to take advantage of these mistakes and dominate. I always preach that it's one

Scoring two goals in the second half, Glastonbury downed East Catholic, 2-0, in soccer action yesterday at the winner's field.

The contest resumed what was once a great rivalry between the two schools. Two years ago the Eagles tied Glastonbury which ended its chances of making the tournament.

Some fundamental mistakes hurt East but East Coach Tom Malin was pleased that some injured players are getting back into the lineup and performed well.

Kevin Juselis scored at 5:48 in the third period and Mike Marino at 3:40 in the final stanza for Glastonbury. Best in defeat for East was goalie Geoff Blackwell who was called on to make 16 saves. East is now 0-7-1 for the season.

Jets' defense worries coach

COACHES' CORNER

By Larry Olsen

Interior linemen to fill areas for "bowed" players. Ralph Faber was moved to a tackle from his center spot and John Madden to the other tackle spot from his tight end spot.

The Jets are 2-2, mainly because their defense hasn't been able to hold down the opposition. Its only solid outing was a 36-7 rout of New England two weeks ago but it reverted to form Sunday when Chuck Foreman caught nine passes for 105 yards and rushed for 96 more to lead Minnesota to a 29-21 victory.

The big sore spot has been linebacking and middle linebacker Jamie Rivers, returning after missing two games with a leg injury, feels the defense must begin to show some consistency against Miami Sunday or fall hopelessly behind in the division race.

The Jets are third in the AFC East, a game behind Miami (3-1) and two behind undefeated Buffalo.

"Certainly I expect to see what we've been seeing," said Rivers, the Jets' defensive captain. "They'd be foolish not to do it. They look at films. They see what has worked against us. They're going to keep doing it to us until we stop it and it's up to us to bring it back."

"A lot of guys around here have the attitude that the Minnesota game is over and done with and let's forget about it. Bull! I don't say forget it. I say remember what happened and don't let it happen again. If you let it go and let it go, pretty soon the season's over. The exhibition season was all sunshine for our defense but when the regular season started, the curtain came down. Now it's time to let the sun shine in again."

Inexperience has been a big problem. Godwin Turk is in his first full season and Richard Lewis, who was victimized by Foreman, missed all last year with an injury.

"I don't think it's a matter of personnel," Rivers said. "I think we have the people who can do the job. When we were hot at the end of last season and won our last six games, we were giving up 17 points a game. If we did that this season, we'd be 4-0 now instead of 2-2."

"The offense has been doing a great job. They scored 21 points against Minnesota, one of the best defensive clubs in the NFL, and that should have been enough to win. It's up to the defense to get it going. We need a few three and outs against Miami to get the offense the ball right away. We can score points as well as anyone. We're just giving up too many."

By EARL YOST Sports Editor Five of the top 13 finishers in last year's record field of 709 starters have filed their entries for the 1975 Five Mile Road Race Thanksgiving morning.

The No. 3 man a year ago was Bill Rodgers, of Boston, who won the world-famous Boston Marathon last spring.

Tom Hollander from Eastern Michigan placed sixth and Charlie Duggan of Springfield College was seventh last November.

Rick Bayko of the North Medford Club was 11th and Tom Derronian of Sugarloaf Mountain A.C. came in 13th.

Hollander and Duggan are both currently members of the All-America college track and cross country squads. The latter considered the finest distance runner ever at Springfield.

He's a product of Hartford Public High. Bayko is the reigning New England AAU 30 kilometer and marathon champion. Derronian is a former New England six-mile champ.

The entry list has neared the 100 mark. A field of over 700 is likely for the AAU-sanctioned run over Manchester's paved and policed streets.

Race sponsor for the 25th consecutive year will be Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon. Will Hadden is serving as general chairman with Pete Wiggen race director.

Entries will be accepted with postmarks no later than Nov. 19. The race starts at 10:30 on Main St., opposite School St.

Connors leads team TUCSON, ARIZ. (UPI) — A rejuvenated U.S. Davis Cup team, led by the world's top ranking male Jimmy Connors, is heavily favored to win its second round match against Venezuela starting Friday.

Tony Trabert, the team's non-playing coach, wants to bring the Davis Cup to the U.S. after two consecutive years in which the Yanks were eliminated in early rounds. Connors is making his Davis Cup debut this year.

Joining Connors in singles competition Friday—and probably Sunday—will be Ruesco Tanner. Saturday's doubles features Dick Stockton and Eric Van Dillen, a strong duo who have played together frequently.

'No problems' NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien said Wednesday that he did not expect compensation to be any issue if Wilt Chamberlain signs with a National Basketball Association club.

Washington sinking again in NHL action

NEW YORK (UPI) — After setting all kinds of records for futility last season, the Washington Capitals are wasting little time in sinking toward a repeat performance.

As a first-year club in 1974-75, Washington won only eight games while losing 67 and allowing an all-time National Hockey League record of 446 goals. So far this season the Capitals have played more games than any other team—five—and lost them all.

If there is any consolation, their goals-for-goals against ratio of 16:27 gives cause for hope, and they certainly weren't that outclassed Wednesday night when they dropped a 4-3 decision at Los Angeles. In fact, Washington took a 3-2 lead with only 8:05 left in the game on a goal by Blair Stewart but Vic Vaseny and Neil Komadoski then scored within a 1:48 span to enable the Kings to pull out their home opener.

Another significant note for Washington Coach Milt Schmidt was his club's ability to hold the Kings to a single shot on goal in the second period.

Los Angeles opened in runaway fashion with goals by Don Kozak and Marcel Dionne in the first 3:47 of play, but the Capitals drew even before the first period ended as Bill Clement and Mike Marson scored.

Kings Coach Bob Pulford admitted, "we were fortunate to win the game. Washington skated and played well."

In other NHL games, Pittsburgh overpowered Toronto to beat the New York Rangers 4-1, Minnesota downed California 4-1 and Detroit and Chicago skated to a 4-4 tie.

In the World Hockey Association, New England edged Edmonton 5-4 in overtime and Cleveland beat Minnesota 8-4.

Penguins 8, Maple Leafs 4

2-1 count yesterday was Iling Junior High over the Coventry freshman squad.

Both goals for Iling were scored by Bill Frantz in the third period. Also playing well for the Rams were Tom Roach, Pete Krupp and Dave White.

Defensively, goalie Mark Copeland, Rich Getting, Burt Pina, Steve Pyka, Dave Golnik and Joe Foran were outstanding.

Iling now stands 5-1 for the campaign.

Booters win

Victorious in soccer action by a 2-1 count yesterday was Iling Junior High over the Coventry freshman squad.

Both goals for Iling were scored by Bill Frantz in the third period. Also playing well for the Rams were Tom Roach, Pete Krupp and Dave White.

Defensively, goalie Mark Copeland, Rich Getting, Burt Pina, Steve Pyka, Dave Golnik and Joe Foran were outstanding.

Iling now stands 5-1 for the campaign.

Acad fifth

Firing a hole-in-one yesterday at Manchester Country Club was Andy Brown on the par-three 147-yard fifth hole. Brown ended it using a five-iron. He was in a foursome with Joe Clementino, Jim D'Amato and Ed Ansaldo.

Whalers cop win

HARTFORD (UPI) — Left wing Ron Clime was cast in the starring role Wednesday night as the New England Whalers continued their overtime magic at the Hartford Civic Center.

Clime's second goal of the night, at 8:52 in overtime, gave New England a 5-4 World Hockey Association win over the Edmonton Oilers and preserved the Whalers' record of never having lost in 13 overtime games at the center, their home since last January.

In that time, the Whalers have won eight and tied five times. In the team's four-year history, they have an overall overtime record of 18-2-11.

Jack Kelley, Whalers general manager and coach, was pleased with his first win of the season. "I would have been satisfied with this team's effort even if we lost."

"We outshot them 22-8 in the third period and overtime and I think that was the key," Kelley said.

Downed in field hockey action yesterday was the Iling Junior High girls' team, 1-0, by Koscusko in Enfield.

Debbie Dawson, Laurie Turkington and Janet Ritchie played well defensively and Sue Roth and Liz Neubert offensively.

"We outshot them 22-8 in the third period and overtime and I think that was the key," Kelley said.

Ramsdell promises steps to curb damage to buses

VERNON School children are attacking the school buses, said Dr. Raymond E. Ramsdell, superintendent of schools.

After only six weeks of school, much damage has been done to the bus seats and padding, he said.

He warned parents they are liable for the damage their children do. The cost of each seat to repair is about $25.

If a child is caught with seat padding in his hand, they will be assessed the full cost of repairing the seat, he said.

Besides their parents being billed for the seats, the students will not be allowed to ride the buses, he added.

Three-year-old hears mother shot

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Three-year-old Chad Chaney huddled beneath the covers, too terrified by the loud argument in the room outside to get out of bed, and listened while his mother and sister were shot to death.

"My sister was yelling and screaming and then James clapped his hands real loud and my sister was quiet," the boy told police.

"Mommy was screaming, too, and then James clapped his hands real loud again and Mommy was quiet."

The boy did not know his mother and sister had been killed. His description of the events, however, led to the boy's arrest.

The boy told officers he tried to raise his mother.

"I tried to wake Mommy up, but I couldn't," he said. "My sister wouldn't talk to me, either."

They both had stuff all over their faces."

Police said the young boy's clothing was covered with blood, the "stuff" he apparently had tried to wipe from his mother's face.

"I got up when I heard the door close and I saw James leaving in Mommy's car," the boy told officers. "They didn't wake up so I went back to bed for awhile, 'cause I'm a big boy."

Officers said the boy later went downstairs and asked a neighbor to help him awaken his mother and sister. The neighbor did not go inside the apartment, however, and police arrived a short time later, tipped by an anonymous call about a possible double homicide.

Hartford representatives decline to attend

EAST HARTFORD SHEILA TULLER 289-4283

Yesterday Mayor Richard H. Blackstone was forced to cancel a scheduled meeting between the representatives from seven suburban towns and the City of Hartford because of Hartford's decision not to attend.

In a letter to Hartford Councilman William DiBella, East Hartford's mayor stated he felt it was unfortunate that Hartford's leader chose not to meet. It was Blackstone's hope that officials from city and suburbs could discuss the suit in regard to the Community Development Funds and other important questions facing the city and its surrounding towns.

A low-key soccer program which will emphasize the development of fundamental skills and enjoyment of playing the game will be conducted by John Warren. Warren is the boy's soccer program, contact the Park Department office, 289-2781.

Family ice skating
The Park Department has also announced it will sponsor a family ice skating program. The program will be held Wednesday evenings beginning Oct. 29, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Any resident of East Hartford is invited to register. Proof of residency is required. After the registration there will be free skating for residents who signed up for the skating program.

Persons with registered identification cards will be charged 50 cents for each skating session. Without registered I.D. cards, the cost will be $1.25 per session. Skate rentals are available.

The skating program is open to all East Hartford residents of all ages.

NEW LONDON (UPI) — A state's attorney probe is under way in the death of a New London man struck by a policeman's ricocheting bullet following a motor vehicle chase.

Eric D'Arcy Jr., 21, died Wednesday of a bullet wound of the head in Lawrence and Memorial Hospital about 15 hours after the incident Tuesday night, police said.

Police Chief John J. Crowley said a patrolman spotted a nude man in a van about 10 p.m. and minutes later, officers Clayton Sizer and James Jauquet spotted the van and gave chase.

Crowley said the chase ended in a dead end street and as the two officers approached the vehicle, it began to move.

Crowley said, "Sizer drew his weapon, the gun went off," and "the bullet struck the driver in the head."

New London County State's Attorney Edmund O'Brien began an investigation of the incident, police said.

Wants to beautify America with old tires

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milton F. Kohl thinks there is still time to clean up America in time for its 200th birthday and he aims to help with a plan to recycle old auto tires into outdoor furnishings.

He has taken out ads and plans to be in touch with national news magazines. He thinks it would be a good way for groups to raise money and Kohl said he thought of it in terms of another hula-hoop success.

Northrop yacht expenses termed 'questionable'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Northrop Corp., a major defense contractor, purchased the yacht El Comandante in 1972 for company recreational purposes, then tried to get the U.S. government to reimburse $273,000 in operating expenses.

ment contracts with taxpayer picking up the entire tab. The Pentagon report said the log of the El Comandante "did not disclose any use for political or other unusual purposes."

Other details in the Pentagon report: — Northrop provided free convenience flights for a Beaver Dam, Wis., window cleaning firm. But his sideline of recycling old automobile tires as planters and other outdoor furnishings has been taking up most of his time this past year.

What Kohl has done is to chalk a design on the sidewalks of an old tire, slit the pattern with a hammer and linoleum knife, and turn the tire inside out on its rim.

He began making only two chairs, but since has turned old tires into patio tables, chairs, bird feeders and sand-filled cigar disposal urns.

Kohl charges $10 for one planter, $18 for two, $8 each for three or more, $6 each if they pick them up at the store. It is $1 extra if the customer wants them painted white.

Handing out the badges

Police Chief Robert Lannan, right, hands out the badges with the new ranks to four of his officers at 8:30 this morning. The men and their new ranks are, left to right, Russell Holyfield as detective, James Sweeney as sergeant, Robert Gullano as lieutenant, and Richard Sartor as captain.

Four policemen promoted

By MAL BARLOW Herald Reporter

Youth and education are the common factors in four promotions and two re-assignments announced today by Manchester Police Chief Robert Lannan.

The ages of the police officers affected is no older than 32 and as young as 27. All have at least an associate's degree in police science.

Richard J. Sartor, 32, rose from lieutenant to captain of the patrol division. Robert J. Gullano, 30, rose from sergeant to lieutenant in the patrol division.

James D. Sweeney Jr., 29, rose from detective to sergeant in the patrol division. Russell C. Holyfield, 27, went from community relations officer to detective in the detective division.

Lt. Henry Minor, 32, shifted from the patrol division to command of the administration division, Sartor's former assignment.

Sgt. Orville Cleveland, 29, shifted to the training program. Sartor, who joined the local force in 1969, has been acting captain of the patrol division since June 27.

He holds a B.S. degree from the University of Connecticut in business and industry administration and a master's degree in public administration from the University of Hartford.

Despite his new rank and duties, he will still supervise the installation of the new data processing system at the station this coming year. It will cost $169,660, most of it in federal funds. Sartor initiated the program in 1972.

Sartor is also a graduate of the FBI Academy, one of five now on the local force in 1969. He holds an associate's degree from MCC and is now working on his third year at MCC in police administration.

Judge upholds town decision for firehouse

By SOL R. COHEN Herald Reporter

When Superior Court Judge Harold Mulvey refused to issue an injunction Thursday for halting construction of the Buckland Firehouse, he said, "I'm not here to decide whether or not the firehouse is needed. I'm here only to decide on the legal matter of a request for a temporary injunction."

The matter of the firehouse itself and who has jurisdiction for fire protection in the Buckland area, he said, can be decided at a declaratory action brought by Larry Noone of 327 Burnham St. and returnable Nov. 18 in Hartford County Superior Court.

After a 45-minute hearing on the "show cause" action, also brought by Noone, Judge Mulvey declared, "I have no difficulty at all in this decision (denying the injunction). There is a cardinal rule in law not to embarrass or interfere with the operation of a municipality."

Prior to the hearing in open court, Judge Mulvey conferred in his chambers with all of the attorneys involved, in an attempt at an agreement. "Nobody could agree on anything," said one of the attorneys later.

Representing Noone, who is a leader in the petition drive for expanding Eighth District boundaries into the Buckland area, were Robert Blechman and Christopher Noble.

Representing the town were Town Counsel William Bronnelli, Asst. Counsel Victor Moses, and John R. Fitzgerald, special counsel.

State Sen. David Barry was present as counsel for Manchester's Professional Firefighters' Union. He was permitted to speak as a friend of the court. The "show cause" hearing involved the town directors, the town manager and the chairman of the building committee, and not the union or Eighth District officials.

Present as interested observers were Laurence Rubinow and John LaBelle Jr., representing LaBelle, Rothenberg & Woodhouse, counsel for the Eighth District. Neither spoke. Rubinnow said for the record that the Eighth District wasn't a party in the "show cause" action.

Blechman and Noble asked for "time" pending a decision in the Nov. 18 declaratory action, with Blechman insisting there's no barring need for the Buckland firehouse at this point.

He indicated the Eighth District board of directors, when it meets Monday at 7 p.m. for its regular meeting, will accept a new petition from Buckland area property owners and will schedule a Nov. 7 special meeting of district electors — to consider again expansion of district boundaries into the area.

Reports are the district directors may specify that voting Nov. 7 should be on a voting machine. It was by voice vote July 31, when the first special meeting was held. Critics of the July 31 procedure said it left no recourse for vote challenges — to determine if anyone other than district electors voted.

Noble based his arguments on the constitutional rights of the people to petition and on the right of district electors under Special Act 200 of the 1963 General Assembly) to consider expansion of district lines.

Judge Mulvey drew an admission from Blechman and Noble that the new firehouse would serve other areas of town, in addition to the area in contention, but he received no reply to his question, "How about the rights of the people of Manchester outside the area you talk about but also to benefit from the firehouse?"

Judge Mulvey is a former state attorney general and a former municipal corporation counsel. He has been named a one-man grand jury to investigate scandal charges involving the Bridgeport jail facility. He was involved in controversial fluoridation and school-prayer opinions while attorney general and in the mistrial ruling in the New Haven Black Panther trial in the early '70s.

He said Thursday to Blechman and Noble, "Why do you think I should stick my neck out and interfere with Town of Manchester officials in the performance of their duties? You ask me to issue a temporary injunction to restrain the town from doing something, as a municipality, it has a right to do."

He added, "They're not playing with toys here. They are serious officials, trying to give the citizens the best possible government they can. It seems they considered all the angles before they came to their decision."

He posed the question, "How can I, or any other judge, rule on an action of a town made in good faith?"

Parents push school issue

A group of concerned parents from Bentley and Washington Schools, headed by Susan Perkins and Gail Brown, have formed a political issue committee to work for passage of Question 1 in the Nov. 4 referendum.

Question 1 calls for additions and renovations to Bentley and Washington Schools and the building of a joint educational/recreational facility to replace the old West Side Rec.

The political issue committee, formed by the parents under the title of Concerned Parents for Better Education has as its primary goal informing the voters of the community of the needs of the two schools.

The committee will underwrite the cost of informational brochures and conducting a limited public information campaign.

Along with school personnel and the Board of Education members, committee members are speaking to as many community gatherings as possible.

The committee is concerned that the question of state reimbursement has placed a cloud over the issue.

They feel that the position taken by the Board of Directors has answered this concern.

Most important, the committee feels that the needs of the schools have not changed. They remain. Therefore, the Concerned Parents for Better Education Committee feels that it is necessary to go forward with a positive vote in November.

Workshop needs help to continue progress

To expect that there'll be enough jobs and subcontract work for 60 clients of the Manchester Sheltered Workshop is to dream.

While acknowledging that inflation and high unemployment have had negative effects for the handicapped in Manchester, staff and clients have accepted these trends as challenges and have reacted with some very creative programs.

Several clients are busy in a special ecology project where they cut, sort, count, package and sell all-purpose poly bags. The repeat sales to homeowners in the area is proof that the workshop has a quality product which is competitively priced.

The handicapped also appreciate the opportunity to provide a service in a community whose programs have become a model for the state.

Automation and complex industrialization are eliminating opportunities for the client of the Sheltered Workshop, but recycling and ecology are creating new possibilities.

For the past seven years, schools, stores and families have been helping out the workshop. The clients sort, straighten, count and pack these hangers which are then sold to commercial outlets. In addition to the small paycheck for the disabled, this service helps conserve and recycle a needed resource.

Workshop needs help to continue progress

Five mornings a week, four hours a day, six clients from the workshop maintain, under supervision, town-controlled parking facilities in downtown Manchester.

Maintenance of the parking areas includes sweeping of debris, weeding, cutting grass, clipping benches and painting parking stalls when needed.

This program operates year round and the clients are paid for their services by the Town of Manchester.

Included in the morning's work schedule is a break at the corner coffee shop. The clients have learned to pay their own bills and to count change.

The Manchester program has implications for handicapped throughout the country. Traditionally, a retardate who could not function in competitive employment would have to enter a sheltered workshop.

Supervised work in a community setting offers a new avenue with exciting possibilities.

The Manchester Sheltered Workshop is one of several local agencies to benefit from the United Way fund. Thanks to you, it's working.

'Big Apple' near brink

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford call top economic advisers to the White House today for an urgent meeting after receiving word that financial default by New York City "was imminent."

The advisers held a 90-minute session but Ford did not meet with them. When it ended, a White House spokesman said they would report to the President shortly.

The spokesman cautioned, however, against speculation that the President might change his stand against any federal aid to the financially-troubled city.

New York City, battling for months to avoid default, had $43 million in debts due today but not enough money to pay them.

"Only a miracle will save us," said City Council President Paul D'wyer, "and I don't expect that miracle."

The crisis worsened Thursday night when trustees of the city teachers' retirement fund refused to put $150 million in pension funds into a $2.3 billion state plan aimed at keeping the city from default through the beginning of December.

On the New York Stock Exchange, prices opened lower in heavy trading today with the city on the doorstep of a default.
