Real GNP growth rate fastest in 20 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The national economy measured by the real Gross National Product increased 11.2 per cent in the third quarter for the fastest growth rate in more than 20 years, the Commerce Department said today.

The GNP gains occurred primarily because consumers dipped into their savings to buy durables like cars and home appliances, while wealthy Americans and business increased investment spending by a stunning 18 per cent.

Consumers had been saving at unusually high rates since last October. Private sector investment had been falling steadily since the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

The real GNP was estimated at $804.6 billion at the end of the July-September quarter, up from $783.6 billion in the second quarter.

The 11.2 per cent increase was the highest quarterly rise since the 12.4 per cent gain in the first quarter of 1955.

Commerce said private investment increased $14.2 billion to $94.9 billion. That was much lower than the $120.5 billion annual rate at the end of 1974, but still marked the first rise in two years, an indication that production and job opportunities will begin to grow rather than shrink.

GNP measures the dollar value of all the production of farms, factories, mines and utilities and the services of government employees, doctors, bank tellers, insurance salesmen, dry cleaners and other nonproduction workers.

Contributing to the second consecutive quarterly rise in GNP was an easing in the inflation rate which enabled consumers and investors to get more for their money.

The inflation rate was estimated at 5 per cent in the third quarter, down from 5.1 per cent in the second quarter and 9 per cent in the first quarter.

When inflation is added, Commerce said the GNP increased 16.7 per cent to $1.49 trillion. It was the biggest increase since the 8.9 per cent rise in the first quarter of 1951 during the Korean War.

Commerce said consumers increased spending $9.2 billion to $548.9 billion in the third quarter. Since personal income declined at an annual rate of $5 a person to $5,045, the increased spending came from personal savings and employment gains.

Personal savings dipped from 10.6 per cent of disposable personal income in the second quarter to 7.7 per cent in the third quarter.

But unemployment fell from a second quarter average of 8.9 per cent of the workforce to about 8.3 per cent in the third quarter.

New York City's next hurdle is how to save $724 million

By United Press International With imminent default averted, a three-year austerity plan to save $724 million is the next hurdle for New York City to surmount.

The city says the budget-trimming, ordered by a state board that has authority over the city's fiscal affairs, could result in the firing of up to 8,000 more workers this year, and a possible wage freeze for three years. Municipal workers have warned a general strike may be called if wages are frozen.

Mayor Abraham Beame has prepared budget proposals that would save $200 million during the remainder of this fiscal year, and a total of $724 million over three years. The spending cuts must be approved by the Emergency Financial Control Board, which has the authority to revise them.

The board was to begin its meeting this afternoon. Beame also was to testify on the city's financial problems before the House Subcommittee on Economic Stabilization in Washington.

Victor Gotbaum, head of the largest city employes union and chairman of a coalition of the municipal unions, said Sunday he would call a general strike if a three-year wage freeze was imposed.

"If they are able to enforce a three-year freeze it will effectively kill collective bargaining. Obviously we don't want that," Gotbaum said.

Default by the city, the mayor said Sunday, would have "a catastrophic effect, nationally and internationally," and the effect on municipal services would be devastating.

New York was about to default on its debts Friday when the city teachers' union, reversing its vote of the day before, decided to use $150 million in pension funds to buy city notes and support the state aid plan.

Treasury Secretary William Simon praised the mayor Sunday, saying, "Mayor Beame and those men have done a tremendous job in making a lot of tough political decisions. And they are tough - things that are going to put people out of work in their city."

But Simon said President Ford remains opposed to federal assistance for New York, "because he feels, and I believe rightfully so, that the solution to the problem up there rests there for (city officials) to solve. And they have the ability to solve them."

End of heavy rainfall expected late today

By United Press International Two days of steady and sometimes heavy rains in Connecticut were expected to give way to partial clearing late today with only minor flooding expected in low lying areas.

The soggy weekend put a damper on the opening of Connecticut's uplands hunting season, and at least one traffic death was attributed to the wet conditions.

The U.S. Weather Service at Windsor Locks said the rains would continue until late today but it would be a light rain that would only cause minor flooding in low lying areas.

Two inches of rain were recorded Saturday, and the rain began to let up by late afternoon Sunday. The service said another 7.5 inches fell Sunday.

The Connecticut River was expected to crest this afternoon at 14-15 feet, the Forecast Center in Hartford said Sunday. The river's flood level is 16 feet.

Minor flooding in low lying areas was expected, however, other rivers should remain in their banks, the center said.

In a fatal car accident, Mary Jane LaFlamme Carey, 30, of Hartford, died Saturday as a result of injuries she received when struck by a car Friday night as she walked across New Britain Avenue in Hartford. The driver told police the car skidded because of the rain.

These World Series tickets were to have been used Saturday in Boston's Fenway Park, but it rained. Ditto for Sunday. It was still raining this morning so tonight's game may be washed out, too. Kissinger, Chinese leader review world situation

PEKING (UPI) - Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and China's day-to-day ruler reviewed the international situation today in their first meeting in the ornate Great Hall of the People.

Kissinger attended the talks for an hour and 40 minutes, then knocked off for lunch and an extra hour so he could show his wife, Nancy, Peking's Museum of Ancient Art.

Kissinger then went back to the table for a second session with Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

A spokesman for Kissinger said the talks were "cordial and frank," but described them only as a "review of the international situation."

The Chinese staged their most popular modern opera, "The Azalea Mountain," for the Kissingers this evening. The opera tells the story of peasant revolutionaries faced with the choice of saving their hideout or a grandmother.

The initial meeting opened with Kissinger and Teng laughing off a dinner dispute over detente.

"It doesn't matter even if we quarrel a bit," Teng said, as he sat amid crystal chandeliers, porcelain spittoons and red velvet carpeting.

Across the bargaining table in the ornate, block-square hall, Kissinger laughed, nodded and joked that an argument "gives the press something to write about."

"Yes, and they will immediately report this sentence," the 5-foot-2 Teng, his shoulders barely above the table, said as he grinned at American reporters in the hall.

Teng is the man who governs China while Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, 82, lives as a virtual recluse and Premier Chou En-lai, 77, is reported to be incurably ill with a heart ailment.

Charged with six murders

Charles Erwin Simants, right, is charged with first degree murder of six members of a Sutherland, Neb., family Saturday. Bail was refused for the unemployed 29-year-old man described by neighbors as a loner. Taking him back to jail in North Platte after his Sunday arraignment is Lincoln County Sheriff Gordon Gilster. Jai alai promoter requests closed hearing on allegations

HARTFORD (UPI) - State gaming commission Chairman Paul J. Silvergield says some parts of a Nov. 6 hearing into alleged wrongdoings by a Bridgeport jai alai fronton could be closed to the public.

Silvergield said the lawyer for the jai alai promoter, Connecticut Sports Enterprises Inc., has asked the entire hearing in Wethersfield be closed.

"If there are any portions of that hearing that they request to be held in executive session, they must justify it," Silvergield said in a weekend broadcast interview. "The commission will make its determination at the time."

The hearing is to determine whether Connecticut Sports should have its gaming license revoked. A federal probe and two state agencies are looking into possible legal violations involved in the fronton.

The U.S. Organized Crime Strike force has joined a one-man state grand jury and the Statewide Organized Crime Investigative Task Force in probing the allegations.

The gaming commission has said Connecticut Sports Chairman David Friend, of Hollywood, Fla., has "admitted" paying $200,000 cash to the late John M. Bailey, former national and state Democratic chairman, in exchange for helping get a gambling permit.

The commission also alleged a jai alai official had been seen with reputed organized crime figures, and the firm filed false statements with the commission and lending institutions.

The $14 million jai alai fronton, believed to be the largest in the world, is scheduled to open in Bridgeport's East Side by mid-November.

The fronton was principally financed by a Teamsters union pension fund under investigation by federal authorities for allegedly making risky loans and denying benefits to qualified union members.

State Supreme Court Justice John P. Crotter Thursday appointed Hartford Superior Court Judge Harold Mulvey as a one-man state grand jury.

SOCITF began its inquiry into the jai alai's finances about three months ago at the request of the state gaming commission, officially known as the Connecticut Commission on Special Revenue.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso has ordered the gaming commission to stop issuing gambling licenses until all other parimutuel betting outlets in Connecticut are investigated.

They include other frontons in Milford and Hartford, a dog track in Plainfield and a horse track in Wolcott which apparently will lose its provisional license because of environmental and traffic problems.

Eighth District to set date on Buckland petition tonight

The Eighth District board of directors tonight will set a date for a special meeting of district electors - to consider a petition for expanding district boundaries into the Buckland area. The scheduled date is expected to be Nov. 7.

Tonight's meeting is at 7 in the District Firehouse, Main and Hilliard Sts.

The special meeting will be the district's second for the same purpose - expansion for fire service into Buckland.

By a voice vote July 31, district electors authorized the expansion. However, the petition which led to the vote was declared invalid by District counsel John LaBelle and Assistant Town Counsel Victor Moses. As a result, a new petition was circulated - to meet all requirements. The new special meeting will be on the new petition.

The mechanics of the Nov. 7 special meeting and vote will be spelled out after Oct. 26, when LaBelle returns from a trip to Europe.

The candidates are saying Vivian F. Ferguson

A specific example of lack of proper control of salaried management by the Thompson-Democrat majority is Keeney St. and its numerous problems according to Town Director Vivian F. Ferguson.

1. Sewers. The first hearing on sewers was held in December 1973. Presentation of material by employees was extremely poor. Questions asked by taxpayers were poorly answered or not answered at all. Not once during a two-year period did the public get the total answer at any of the several meetings held on this same topic.

2. 1974 Bond Referendum on Storm Drainage Projects. Two million dollars was voted by taxpayers to provide adequate storm drainage on various streets including Keeney. Instead of starting a proper project, management used $2,172 to build leaching galleries to take care of the water drain-off. Town personnel did not even know that these leaching galleries were being built too close to a well, the only source of water supply for long-time residents. When questioned by the residents, they were told that town employees did not know there was a well nearby. It was thought that a septic tank was located there. Why was this not checked?

Following heavy rains, these leaching galleries proved inadequate. At the same time, water testing indicated a change in the quality of water in the well of the resident possibly endangering his supply. This might have led to liability on the part of the town in providing water of considerable expense to all taxpayers. Now, these $2,000 fields are being sealed off — a complete waste of the taxpayer's money.

3. Keeney St. is to have storm sewers installed by next spring. The town is now paying a portion of the street. Work was done on Columbus Day requiring overtime payments. Had it not rained the previous Saturday, work would have been done on that day as well, again requiring overtime pay. Two questions immediately arise: Would a day or two have made that much difference when the residents of Keeney St. have been more than patient for years? Why pay overtime? More importantly, will this paving have to be ripped up and redone when the storm drainage work takes place? Let me point out, too, that those storm drains that have been put in are already settling and cracking. Finally, although paving has been done, there is still a big "Thank-you-mam" bump in the road.

The Women's Home League of the Salvation Army will meet Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the Citadel. Hostesses are Mrs. Molly Bell and Mrs. Brig. G. Simons.

Mayor John Thompson

Mayor John Thompson stated today the Democratic majority directors can campaign on a record of responsible and responsive government.

"In the past four years said Thompson, taxes in Manchester have increased a bare 3 per cent. The Consumer Price Index in that same period increased 28 per cent. Using an average house assessment of $12,500, a homeowner paid a total property and fire tax of $671.50 in 1971. Four years later, he paid an additional $36.50. An increase of 5 per cent or less than $1 per month over four years."

"At the same time, we have successfully implemented a low-rise sidewalk construction program. A major drainage improvement program is under way. Twenty-eight projects will be done in the next several years. Improvements that were not acted upon by previous Republican boards.

"Lincoln Center was renovated. New office space for our public works and engineering departments were created. This move allowed valuable town hall space to be freed to house all our fiscal offices under one roof. Improved fiscal coordination has kept our tax rate low. Lincoln Center has also meant a new, attractive sheltered workshop for our retarded citizens."

Mayor Thompson concluded by promising "continued improvements in the fiscal operation of government. Our opponents find it difficult to attack this record of accomplishment. I believe the voters will judge us on this record."

Clarence Brown

Clarence (Bud) Brown, Republican candidate for the Board of Directors, today charged, "There is an alarming trend in Manchester toward the kind of uncontrolled government spending which is at this moment creating disastrous situations for municipalities across the country."

He said his concern is not new and "isn't a campaign stance."

"For years," said Brown, "I have been aware of the apparent disregard shown by our manager and board for the way tax money is spent. I have long advocated more restraint in this area."

Predicting figures he said was prepared for him by the town controller, he said, "They show a progressive yearly increase in spending in nearly every area, even though the population of the town has remained nearly constant."

His comparative figures are for 1970 and 1973 and don't include Board of Education expenditures.

The payroll for the General Fund (including benefits), said Brown, rose 67 per cent between 1970 and 1973, for the water and sewer fund 79 per cent and for the Fire District fund 92 per cent.

He said permanent employees increased by 28 per cent from 1970 to 1973 and part-time employees also by 28 per cent. Passenger vehicles, he said, increased by 107 per cent, even as the total for all other vehicles remained constant.

He insisted, "There can be no excuse or rational explanation for these outrageous increases. In my judgment, for the manager and a majority of the board to have allowed this sort of thing to happen borders on gross mismanagement of public funds. The people of this town are entitled to know why, over a brief five-year period, they have been made to support all those additional employees and passenger cars, with no appreciable increases in services or in population."

Brown concluded, "I will not stop demanding that those who are entrusted with the management of our tax dollars do so responsibly. I intend to get elected, so I can start doing something to reverse this unfortunate trend. But, win or lose, I won't stop trying."

Newcomers Club meets Tuesday

A representative of Crossroads, the local drug and counseling information center, will speak to the Manchester Newcomers Club Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Y, 78 N. Main St.

The representative will discuss drug problems and how they affect the community. The program will also include a Chinese auction. Members are asked to bring homemade items such as crafts, baked goods or preserves for the auction.

Those wishing more information may contact Mrs. Laura Myers, 76 Carpenter Rd., or Mrs. Mary Boyle, 55 S. Alton St.

Jennifer Kelly, 6, and her sister, Colleen, 4, both of Rachel Rd., look over the picture display in Manchester State Bank featuring the day care center at Manchester Community College. An MCC official said Friday the center has openings in several of its time periods. Note the stickers on the girls' coats. They like the Red Sox. (Herald photo by Dunn)

NOW meeting is tonight at Hartford

The Central Connecticut Chapter of the National Organization for Women will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Hartford YWCA, 135 Broad St., Hartford.

After the business meeting, a program on "Political Routes to Feminist Goals" will begin at 8:15 p.m.

There will be a panel featuring Ms. Betty Hudson, Connecticut State Senator from the 33rd Senatorial District, and Mrs. Ruth Mantak, attorney and co-chairwoman of the Connecticut Women's Political Caucus, a part of the National WPC.

There will be a discussion period on the importance of women's involvement in politics as a means of achieving equality and a majority of the board and of effecting successful passage of laws critical to women.

The public is invited.

Conservation still key to energy crisis

With the effects of the latest 10 per cent hike in the price of crude oil decreed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries yet to be felt at the gasoline pump, and amidst continued warnings of natural gas shortages in the event of a severe winter, it may be difficult to believe that what threatens the United States is not too little energy but too much.

According to one specialist in this field, however, forecasts of U.S. energy needs over the next 25 years have been placed much too high, and rapid expansion of energy production to meet those inflated forecasts is not only unnecessary but hazardous.

Among the hazards, says John Holden, an instructor in the University of California's Energy and Resource Program, are the diversion of financial resources from more compelling social needs, the making of hasty commitments to unproven technologies and environmental damage that would harm human welfare more than the extra energy improved it.

Apparently by coincidence, Holden issued his warning just before President Ford unveiled an ambitious proposal for a new government corporation to be called the Energy Independence Authority, which could underwrite some $100 billion in energy projects.

Instead of crash program to expand conventional energy sources such as coal and oil and to develop presently uneconomical new sources such as solar, geothermal and wind power,

Holden argues for conservation of the energy we have now — in industry, transportation, homes and offices.

Reducing waste makes more energy available at smaller economic cost than the alternatives of mining, drilling and building power plants, he argues. "In this sense, conservation is the cheapest new energy source."

Also, contrary to "widespread misconception," he says, energy conservation is likely to increase employment, not decrease it.

This is because "each dollar of investment capital taken out of energy consumption and invested in something else, and each personal-consumption dollar saved by reduced energy use and spent elsewhere in the economy, is likely to benefit employment."

Unfortunately, at least one major barrier stands in the way of implementing Holden's recommendation. This is the conviction most people have that there really is no energy shortage, or if there is, it is a shortage that has been artificially and arbitrarily created by certain groups for their own purposes. OPEC is the prime example.

This, plus our penchant for making problems go away by throwing vast sums of money at them, makes it much more likely that Americans will support a variety of "Manhattan Projects" in the energy field before they will entertain suggestions that they make any drastic changes in their accustomed style of energy consumption.

When Pat is on a diet, he broods. He snaps at people, growls back at dogs and once started run away from home when his wife ate a plate of french fries with two pork chops. (He changed his mind when Sadie refused to get up from the table to kiss him farewell.)

Friends and diets

WASHINGTON — An old and dear friend has just gone on a diet again. This is all right with me. Live, as it were, and let live. But I have several relations with Pat for the duration of his dalliance with watercress and raw carrots.

I just can't stand another bout of the misery that accrues from association with a dieter. In his right mind, Pat is the most companionable and congenial of males. But he is not exception to the law that says there is no such thing as a happy human being who is trying to lose a substantial amount of weight.

When Pat is on a diet, he broods. He snaps at people, growls back at dogs and once started run away from home when his wife ate a plate of french fries with two pork chops. (He changed his mind when Sadie refused to get up from the table to kiss him farewell.)

The fact is that this lovable man, like all dieters, hates everybody when he is trying to chop away his blubber because he knows that even if he gets thin he won't be able to stay that way. Genetics, or something, in any case, once Pat starts to count calories his lovable traits disappear and he becomes a beast temporarily prohibited from ravening, in Webster's sense of "feeding greedily."

There have been happy times when Pat and I repaired to Duke's and staked ourselves with hot corn on the cob, dripping butter, and hot biscuits soaked in sauce. We devoured asparagus hollandaise, pot roasts in thick gravies and friend Chesapeake Bay crab cakes. For Pat, no day was complete that didn't include the mastication of at least two potatoes. At breakfast, he favored hot cakes, three fried eggs and four link sausages — with buttered toast on the side.

In those days, Pat did not shriek with horror if someone suggested a panikin of distilled grain against the age. He was a consumer of good Scotch and made three-hour lunches merry with four Martinis, an adventure we weaker males abandoned when middle age beckoned. For Pat, brandy was for drinking not sniffing.

He was fat, but happy. He couldn't run 100 yards in 60 seconds, but he didn't want to. He ate and drank of the earth's abundance and then took eight hours of dreamless sleep. His one regret was that he couldn't smoke; tobacco made him physically ill. But feminine eyes lit up when he entered a room.

Now he has become insufferable again. He wears an air of ersatz nobility, rather like that affected by people who take cold showers in January. He is sorry that his friends, who are legion, do not have the superiority of soul which enables him to conquer the temptations of the table and Eddie's gin mill. Despite his impressive girth, he somehow manages to strut and preen himself before nondieters. He counts imaginary chins on my jawting, and sneers at my waistline.

Worst of all, perhaps, Pat seems to think that the story of his ordeal of living off high-protein pills or other such dietary fiddle faddle is a fascinating experience every passerby is yearning to hear about. Pat not only wants to tell you all about his dieting, he wants you join him in a tablespoonful of cottage cheese and call it dinner.

So I am not seeing Pat for a while. I say for a while because I know he'll recover. Sooner or later the doorbell will ring and it will be Pat and Sadie, loaded down with four or five bottles of wine, the makings of a lasagna feed, and a homemade cheese cake.

"What happened to the watercress?" I'll ask later, burping happily.

"What watercress?" Pat will reply, cutting himself another slab of cheesecake. "Don't talk rot."

MACC NEWS

MANCHESTER AREA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

The Collegiate Civitan Club of Manchester Community College is conducting a townwide non-perishable food drive this week to stock the MACC Emergency Pantry for the winter months. Collections will be held in all the schools, Friday and in the churches and synagogue Saturday and Sunday.

Since last March, when Civitan students held the first drive to provide food for the establishment of the food bank, more than 78 families have received food directly from the pantry. In addition food boxes each providing three days food for a family of four are kept stationed at state and town welfare office for emergency distribution.

The Pantry was established to provide one to three day emergency food supply for families or individuals in Manchester referred by state or local welfare, Crossroads, clergymen, Manchester Public Health nurses, or school social workers.

Donations may be left at any time during the year in the "Pantry" box in the Center Congregational Church parish house. Those wishing to contribute money may make checks payable to Emergency Pantry — MACC, Box 773, Manchester.

People aided by community giving have included families whose welfare check was lost or held up, people out of job and trying to find employment, recent widow with children, elderly persons whose Social Security check just had not stretched far enough to cover the basics, and neighbors caught up in all kinds of personal disasters and emergencies. In several cases it was necessary to provide food for longer than the three-day limit until further aid could be secured.

Supplies most needed are powdered and canned milk, canned meats and fruits, peanut butter and crackers, tuna fish, juice with vitamin C, pasta and sauces, gelatine and puddings.

Glora Weiss, nutritionist, has recently helped to reorganize the pantry for more effective balancing of meals for families. She has also provided information sheets now included in each applicant's bag which tell how to plan and prepare low cost nutritional meals.

Mrs. Edward Goss, coordinator of The Pantry, and Mrs. Nicholas Cataldo, assistant coordinator, stressed that any group wishing to visit the pantry was welcome either during the day or evening. Interested groups may make arrangements by calling either one of the coordinators or the MACC office at 649-2093.

The Pantry, housed at Center Congregational Church, is open Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and Wednesday and Fridays from 1 to 4 p.m. by a staff of 14 volunteers. Several volunteers are still needed to round out the month's schedule.

"Land of the 3"
The Manchester Civic Orchestra and Chorus, who participated in the MACC Evening of the Performing Arts, will be one of the features on the Chancel 3 program, "Land of the 3," at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The program will pursue what the musicians do when they are not playing for the orchestra or singing in the choir. Be sure and tune in and find out more about these talented people.

The People Group
The People Group has five groups meeting weekly in Manchester and South Windsor. Those interested may attend any or all of these discussion/social meetings for widowed, divorced, separated or never married persons. If you are interested in finding out more about The People Group call MACC office, 649-2093, and we will send you a card listing the times, places and hosts of this month's weekly meetings. At the end of the month a meeting of spokesmen for the groups will be held to determine the future direction and development of this program for singles.

Sacred Dance workshop
Members of sacred dance groups in Manchester area churches are sponsoring a monthly Liturgical Dance Workshop at Footprints Studio, 466 Main St. The purpose is to expand the possibilities for use of movement in worship. Classes will be led by Katie Sakol, president of Footprints, Inc., a non-profit community arts center. The first class was this afternoon. Workshops include a warm-up and exercise time and an opportunity to explore new ways of expressing praise and joy in worship. There will be time set aside for sharing and discussion. The workshops are open to members of established sacred dance groups, rhythm choirs, liturgical dance groups, as well as anyone who is interested in experimenting with this medium of worship. It is not necessary to have a background in movement or dance to participate. Classes will be held the third Monday of each month from 3 to 5 p.m. Baby-sitting will be provided. For further information on baby-sitting and small cost, please contact Footprints, 643-8943.

New home for MACC
The MACC office has been moved to St. Bartholomew Church, 741 E. Middle Tpk. We are most grateful to St. Bartholomew for generosity providing the conference with both much needed office space and office equipment, to Community Baptist for providing us with a second desk for the use of the volunteer coordinator of convalescent home visitation, and for the filing cabinets given by the Rev. Clifford Simpson.

May we again express our deep appreciation to the people of St. Mary's who housed the conference since its creation almost two years ago. Please use the church entrance facing Dale Road to reach the MACC office. The telephone and mailing address remain the same.

FISH
FISH of Manchester had a get-acquainted tea at North United Methodist Church last Wednesday morning. Specially needed are drivers willing to make an occasional help into Hartford with persons requiring medical treatment or aid.

OPEN FORUM

Referendum passage urged

To the editor:
I urge all Manchester taxpayers to vote for the referendum question regarding the renovations on Bentley and Washington Schools.

After hearing Alan Thomas, head of the Board of Education, and Dr. James Kennedy, superintendent of schools, speak about the project I feel very strongly about this. We have upgraded and improved most of our schools to give all Manchester children an equal education opportunity: a hot lunch program for Bentley children and adequate sport facilities for Washington children, plus modernization for both schools in within reasonable scope for our educational system. In addition this will provide new facilities for the town recreation department in the Washington School area.

As a parent whose children have, and are, attending the Manchester Green School, I realize that it is impractical to improve the physical atmosphere of this building. I also strongly hope that this school will not be phased out because of the excellent educational program which Dr. Wolf and his staff are giving our children. The fact that 25 per cent of the children at Green are from other school districts speaks highly for this school. I do not feel that because one school in town is not up to physical standards that others should be denied improvements.

Both Dr. Kennedy and Mr. Thomas assured those attending the Green School PTA meeting that the cost of renovation would not exceed $12 million to the town.

What next, Mrs. Ford?

Mrs. Betty Ford has upset an unknown number of Americans with her outspoken views on abortion, the Equal Rights Amendment and premarital affairs. Now it might be the turn of some radical feminists to arch their eyebrows.

The First Lady met the other day with 130 women who were participating in an "Identity and Homemaking Conference" in Washington.

Accepting an award as "an outstanding homemaker," she stated that "We, too, must have our equal rights," thereby declaring herself a member of a group that has been put pretty much on the defensive by some interpreters of the feminist movement in recent years.

"Just as a career woman finds an identity through her job," she went on, "the homemaker needs to find that same sense of awareness, that same sense of self, through her job."

Beaulieu-Hennessey

Mr. and Mrs. Gilford C. Beaulieu

Eileen Marie Hennessey and Gilford Charles Beaulieu, both of Manchester, were married July 26 at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hennessey of 65 Helaine Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lauretta Beaulieu of 125 Loomis St.

The Rev. Stephen Jacobson of St. Mary's Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Ronald Rothemel was organist and Miss Iga Paups was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory sheer organza gown complemented with Belgium and re-embroidered Alencon lace, designed with lace and seed pearl fitted bodice, illusion scoop neckline with lace insert, ruffled stand-up collar, long traditional sleeves with wide cuffs and ruffles, peaked waistline with A-line skirt with ruffled hemline terminating into a full-length chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion was bordered in lace and attached to a Camelot cap of lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of daisies with white sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Cauliflower - the unlikely cabbage

Although family resemblance is slight, cauliflower is a cabbage. And like its relatives, broccoli, brussels sprouts and cabbage, cauliflower is low in calories and a good source of vitamin C. The freshness, maturity and method of preparation determines the vitamin C content. Cauliflower also provides small amounts of iron, other minerals and vitamins.

When buying fresh cauliflower, look for compact white heads. Avoid heads that are loose and discolored. This indicates an overmature cauliflower. Look for leaves that are green and fresh-looking.

Keep cauliflower in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. Remove the leaves and wash cauliflower. Soak cauliflower in cold, salted water for a few minutes to remove dirt and insects which may be in the flowers.

Use raw cauliflower in salads or dip into sour cream or cheese dips. Cauliflower marinated with cherry tomatoes, fresh mushrooms and cloves makes a delicious salad.

To cook cauliflower, break up the head into smaller clusters. Cauliflower. Look for leaves that are green and fresh-looking. Place in about two-thirds of a cup of boiling water. Cover and return water to boiling. Lower the heat and cook until just tender, about 10 minutes. Over-

COLLEGE NOTES

Lincoln H. Streeter of 110 Diane Dr., South Windsor, has been elected director of the National Alumni Association of Saint Michael's College, Winooski, Vt.

He said Bolton has a good chance of getting reimbursed because the courts are completed. Allen said the courts are being used to their maximum.

In his September report to the Board of Education submitted for its October meeting, Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, said, "A recent talk with state officials continues my optimism that reimbursement will be received."

In an oral report to the school board Allen said a memo from Mark Shedd, commissioner of the state Department of Education, said those who had their forms submitted were assured of being reimbursed. All appropriate forms have been submitted by Bolton.

Aloysius Ahearn, state representative for the 5th District, said he feels confident Bolton will get reimbursement but everyone should remember there's always the possibility anything can happen.

YWCA offers auto course

The Nutmeg Branch of the Hartford Region YWCA is offering an Auto Maintenance Course for all interested women and beginning Oct. 29 at the Manchester Army on Main St.

The course is being coordinated by Vi Oliver, of the Connecticut National Guard. This seven-week class will meet on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 and will cover the fundamentals of routine auto care.

Students will see films, study tools and techniques. The format of the course will consist of four class lectures at the armory and three evenings of working with cars at selected area dealerships.

The instructor is Paul Varcoe, who has taught similar courses for the Rockville evening school and the Connecticut National Guard. He is a teacher in the cooperative occupational education program at Manchester High School.

More information may be obtained by calling Pat Wilson, YWCA director, 647-1437.

Council to consider teacher contract

VERNON

The Town Council will be asked, at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Administration Building, to act on the salary contract between the Vernon Education Association and the Board of Education.

The contract was approved by the two groups about two weeks ago after going to mediation. The approved increase stays within the budget approved by the council at the annual budget meeting.

The council will also be asked to discuss a proposal for shelters to be provided by the Department of Transportation; to approve a resolution authorizing use of Capital Reserve Funds; consider a proposed ordinance authorizing the establishment of fire lanes in town and set a date for a public hearing on the ordinance.

Mayor Frank McCoy will give a progress report on the removal of the Penn Central rails which run between Manchester and Willimantic and go through Vernon. A request of the Board of Education for advancement of funds for Basic Adult Education and Vocational Education will also be acted on at the meeting.

The mayor will also discuss the status of the Box Mountain Dr. Sewer petition. Residents of the area originally wanted sewers but now have petitioned against them.

The council, as the Sewer Authority, will be asked to give the mayor authorization to accept the bid, award the contract and sign it for sewer installations on Richard Rd.

After adjournment as the Town Council members will reconvene as the Sewer Authority and Councilman Richard MacDonald will review the status of the Box Mountain Dr. Sewer petition.

New check planned on health course

SOUTH WINDSOR JUDY KUEHNEL 644-1364

While officials still maintain South Windsor's controversial Health Education and Human Development Program will be offered in schools before the year is out, the new curriculum has hit another snag.

The Board of Education has agreed to reactivate the Human Development Committee - an advisory group of parents, teachers, administrators and clergy - to pass judgment on materials selected for use in the curriculum.

The materials have been selected by Human Development Curriculum Coordinator Joel Wells.

Before the program actually begins, each student will have to have a permission slip signed by a parent, and a grade synopsis of subject matter to be covered will be sent home with each child.

Officials agreed to making the program optional after a segment of parents voiced opposition to the personality

Packers tack first loss of season on Cowboys

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bart Starr never had any trouble beating the Dallas Cowboys. In seven games as a player, Starr quarterbacked the Green Bay Packers to six victories before a stunned sellout crowd of 64,934 at Texas Stadium. The score was set up by a Golden Richards fumble of a Green Bay punt at the Dallas 31.

There was no way they could beat us," added Dallas tackle Rayfield Wright, "but they did."

The Packers got a bonus in pro football. It's going to give us a lot of confidence."

St. Louis 31, Philadelphia 20
Jim Otis scored on touchdown runs of one and five yards and finished with 116 yards rushing for his finest performance to date. He was intercepted by the Cardinals within one game of first place in the NFC Eastern Division. Otis out-rushed teammate Terry McCall, who finished with 81 yards in 14 carries and caught five passes for 37 yards.

Los Angeles 22, Atlanta 7
James Harris fired two touchdowns passes and Tom Dempsey kicked three field goals to give the Rams their fourth straight victory. Los Angeles took advantage of six Atlanta turnovers in the game, including five in the first half.

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — His teammates had called him A-J ever since he arrived from the University of Georgia campus last week on a last over the right side to put the Patriots ahead 14-7, in the final minute of the first half.

Every week it (the left shoulder) that still has a screw through it improves. It hurts very much after the game but you've got to expect it. But the win helps and it was great to see Andy play exceptionally well. He's a fine back, with good blocking speed. And he's got good hands."

On the other hand, the Colts did not get to play their game. Quarterback Bert Jones, who had thrown seven touchdowns over the previous three games as a Patriot, "I don't think he was a surprise and we are happy with his great performance. He's a good player and has been a good player since coming here."

Win at Bridge. Oswald: "If North opens one spade South responds one notrump. The hand plays three and South will probably make one notrump. Jim: "There is a lot of difference between three hearts and one notrump in a match point game and that 50 points is worth something in rubik's cube. Incidentally, if West tries to compete with a three-diamond bid he is likely to be set three tricks doubled."

Win at Bridge. An Ohio reader wants to know what we respond to partner's one-heart opening bid. Jim: "Probably the invention of the 'inventor' was back in 1933 or 1934 I suggested that a hand such as this is opened with a club rather than one spade. That club bid was a general utility bid. It guaranteed at least three clubs to an honor and partner was supposed to assume we held four. It was in

Extend Yourself

Did you ever notice that your phone always rings when you're at the other end of the house? Or that your phone just happens to be located where everyone congregates, so you can't hear anything anyway? That's so convenient about an extension phone. You can't be in more than one place at one time but your phone can. For as little as $1.35 a month. (Plus a one-time charge which covers any number of phones installed at the same time.) Which really makes an extension phone worthwhile. To order, call your local Phone Store or ask your telephone installer.

When you think your budget won't stretch any further, it will...with Stop & Shop Brands.

"Always give the customer the best possible value". That's one of Stop & Shop's principles. It's one that surely applies to the products under our Stop & Shop Brands. There are more than 1200 of them... and we sell them for less than the nationally advertised brands.

Switch to everyday-low-priced Stop & Shop Brands and you'll see a worthwhile saving on your food order. Every item under our Stop & Shop labels is quality-tested and quality-guaranteed. We'll give you a refund or a replacement if you're not completely satisfied. That's the way we do things around here.

Ray Benjamin
 Manchester Store Mgr.

"If we wouldn't want to serve it on our tables, in our homes, we don't want it in our stores". That's the rule with our Stop & Shop Brands. Under our own labels, we bring you the quality foods you like and we save you money on them. Through the years, our customers have bought more Stop & Shop Brand foods—bread, meat, deli, dairy, prepared foods, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables than all the national brands in our stores. And you know people wouldn't keep coming back for more if they weren't good. I bring home Stop & Shop Brands too because I'm just as concerned as you are about feeding my family well without going over our budget. I urge you to try our Stop & Shop Brands. If you're not completely satisfied, I'll give you a refund or a replacement. That's the way we do things around here.

State

NEW HAVEN - Ronald Reagan, who may challenge President Ford next year, is scheduled to address the Yale Political Union late today. On Thursday, former South Vietnamese leader Nguyen Cao Ky will address the group.

HARTFORD - Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey says his one-man grand jury probe of alleged payments to obtain state approval of a Bridgeport jail fronton will open next Monday in Hartford. He is conducting the probe at the order of Superior Court Chief Justice John F. Cotter on an application by the office of Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gronley Jr.

Regional

CONCORD, N.H. - Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire has proclaimed this week "Withdrawal from the United Nations Week" and asked Congress to start proceedings "to compel the removal of the United Nations from the United States." Thomson is chairman of the national Conservative Caucus and considered a potential third party candidate for president in 1976.

ELLSWORTH, Maine - Phillips H. Lord, creator of "Gangbusters" and other thrillers of radio's heyday, was to be buried here today. He died Sunday at the age of 73. His first effort was aired on a Hartford, Conn., radio station which was favored by listeners and picked up by the National Broadcasting Co.

National

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. - Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for president. He became the ninth Democrat to announce. Bayh, 47, a friend of the Kennedy's, geared his campaign theme to moral leadership as exemplified by the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON - President Ford canceled his official schedule again for the second day today because of a cold. His plans to fly to South Carolina and Florida Friday were called off because of the sinus infection but a trip to California next week is still on the schedule.

MORRISTOWN, N.J. - Joseph and Julia Quinlan were to testify today in the court hearing in which they are seeking a ruling to end their daughter's vegetable-like existence by disconnecting the machine that keeps her alive, but in a coma.

WASHINGTON - The United States and Russia have signed a five-year agreement providing for more stable purchases of U.S. wheat and corn. They are still negotiating a deal for the U.S. purchase of Soviet oil.

International

MEXICO CITY - At least 26 persons were killed and more than 50 injured when two of Mexico City's ultramodern subway system trains crashed Monday. Supposedly, roof supports of the system broke down, according to the system's officials.

BONN, West Germany - Western Europe's leaders seem to be avoiding Alabama Gov. George Wallace on his two-week, five-nation tour. Saturday Pope Paul declined to meet with the governor and Monday his efforts to meet with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and President Walter Scheel failed.

LISBON, Portugal - The revolutionary left mobilized its forces today in an intensified campaign to bring down Portugal's Socialist-dominated government with mass street protests and attacks in the Communist press.

DUBLIN, Ireland - Police discovered the hideout of the kidnapers of Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema today and occupied the ground floor of the house. They are negotiating for his release.

Mao meets Kissinger

PEKING (UPI) - Communist party chief Mao Tse-tung met unexpectedly with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger tonight, American delegation officials said. The meeting in the Great Hall of the People came so suddenly that Kissinger left some 2,000 guests at a reception he was hosting.

Vernon to seek injunction to halt removal of rails

BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald reporter

The town of Vernon is in the process of preparing supportive data to go into court to attempt to obtain a temporary injunction to stop action on removal of Penn Central rails in town.

The representative added that Penn Central feels the state has been given ample time to have come up with an offer concerning the tracks and therefore does not feel it is acting in bad faith.

The railroad spokesman, Robert McKernan, was referring to the fact that the state has agreed to purchase the 19-mile right-of-way but hasn't been successful in obtaining federal funds to buy the rails.

Mayor McCoy said the only other town which has indicated interest in the court action, is Coventry. Belton has, however, attempted to stop action on rail removal in that town where some rail has already been torn up.

Vernon's Town Attorney Abbej Schwelb is also town attorney for Coventry. He said he had been in contact with with Russia, Peking still held in high esteem the relationship with the United States that began with Kissinger's first visit to Peking in 1971.

There had been concern a combination of antipathy plus a question of the ability of Washington to influence world affairs - because of troubles there from the Ford administration and Congress - had caused a dip in American prestige in China.

Kissinger's meeting with Mao also indicated that Ford, when he arrives in China shortly after Thanksgiving, will also see the chairman.

Before meeting with Mao, Kissinger took a break in negotiations and joined China's top diplomat on a joke-filled, huffing-and-puffing march up the hills west of Peking.

"This is the most exercise I've had in six months," Kissinger told Chinese Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua. "Do I have to walk up again?"

The sighting came on the third day of a five-day China trip aimed at setting the stage for Ford's trip.

More than halfway through the hike, Chiao began to feel the exertion. He shrugged off his overcoat, which an aide picked up before it hit the ground. Kissinger kept his jacket on.

Before the hike, Kissinger appeared to underline the U.S. devotion to detente by inviting the Soviet Union, China's arch enemy, to today's reception for Peking's diplomatic colony.

Witness places defendants on Shelton factory fire scene

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - A prosecution witness said eight defendants were at the scene of the March 1 fire and bombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant in Shelton.

The identification was made Monday in U.S. District Court at an evidence hearing at the trial of nine men accused of conspiracy in the $14 million fire.

John W. Shaw, 32, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who has pleaded guilty to his part in the fire, said he participated in the fire "and there were others with me."

Shaw's testimony came with the jury absent from the courtroom. The jury was to hear Shaw's testimony today.

The only defendant not placed at the scene by Shaw was Charles D. Moeller, of Cridersville, Ohio, president of the Shelton company's parent firm, Ohio Decorative Products Co.

Shaw said seven Pennsylvania men and the Rev. David N. Bubar, of Memphis, Tenn., met in Shelton on the afternoon of the Saturday night fire.

He said the group unloosed dynamite, detonating cord and barrels of gasoline and placed and linked them throughout the company's Canal Street plant.

At one point Shaw testified, one of the defendants pulled a gun on him in the darkened plant, thinking he was a maintenance man.

Three employees on duty at the time were abducted, driven from the plant and released unharmed a short time later.

Shaw said he and several of the defendants then drove to New York City, where they stopped off for a drink in a Manhattan bar.

Shaw said he and several of the defendants were taken to a New York City hotel where they were held for several days.

Beame's austerity plan get's board approval

NEW YORK (UPI) - The state board overseeing New York City finances has given last-minute approval to a plan to cut city expenses by $74 million over three years by eliminating jobs and programs and freezing wages.

Mayor Abraham Beame had been required to submit the program to the Emergency Financial Control Board. The board's approval Monday night - two days before a midnight deadline - cleared the way for allocation of $2.3 billion in state funds designed to stave off city default through November.

In addition to Washington to plead for federal aid and was given a mixed reception Monday, Rep. Thomas Rees, D-Calif., a supporter of aid for the city, said after a House banking subcommittee finished with the mayor, "I thought we had a 50-50 chance, but now I think maybe it's one chance in three."

Beame's proposal would slash $200 million from the present budget and $282 million in each of the next two years.

In addition to expense budget cuts, $300 million will be cut over three years from the capital budget - which covers construction - bringing it to $3.6 billion.

Kenneth Axelson, deputy mayor for finance, said "the thrust of the cuts would be made through accelerated attrition of jobs in the city" and the rest through program reductions and layoffs.

He declined to specify the number of layoffs that would be necessary, but said it probably would be "a number of thousands" with an announcement expected by the end of the month.

Sources estimated last week as many as 800 persons might be laid off in the present fiscal year.

There were indications Monday the city might receive federal help. The New York Times reported President Ford "would reluctantly sign legislation to ease New York's fiscal crisis," despite earlier opposition.

Last week, Victor Gotbaum, head of the Municipal Labor Committee, a steering group for more than 200,000 civil service workers in the city, threatened a general strike if there were more layoffs or a three-year wage freeze.

Thanks. It is working

United Way helps Homemaker Service

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc. is celebrating its 11th birthday this month. The agency serves seven towns including Manchester.

During 1974 the agency carried a caseload of 250 clients with about 23 homemaker-health aides serving about 22,000 hours.

Of this number of cases, 181 were in Manchester and South Windsor, both of which pay their share of supplementary funding through the United Way Fund as well as through the town's budgets.

The other towns, Bolton, Vernon, Tolland, Ellington, and Somers supplement the service to residents of their towns solely through their general town budgets.

Because Homemaker Service is a community-supported agency, families are charged on a sliding scale according to their ability to pay.

The agency, over the years, can take credit for keeping many a family together in cases where it would be impossible due to the housewife's inability to handle her household duties for a variety of reasons.

The homemaker-home health aides receive special training in household management and learn to handle a variety of some situations competently. They are also trained in personal care techniques for patients. The training program is conducted by the Connecticut Department of Health and the Department of Vocational Education.

In this case, there were no children at home but the homemaker stepped in and cared for the woman's physical needs and took care of the household duties throughout the woman's illness, all supervised by the public health nurse.

Another classic case involved a young woman from a middle class family who had undergone gallbladder surgery. Upon her return home from the hospital she was not up to the physical demands of keeping up her home and caring for a pre-school child.

With the help of the homemaker she was able to convalesce and her husband was able to continue his normal work schedule.

Thanks to you it's working.

Solon predicts Ford will sign NRC bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., ranking Republican member of the House Banking Committee, says he thinks President Ford will sign a bill to help build up New York City.

But, said McKinney Monday, the measure would have to be one which "would cost no federal dollars" and have a "strong limiting criteria to keep the city from getting into trouble."

Kenneth Axelson, deputy mayor for finance, said "the thrust of the cuts would be made through accelerated attrition of jobs in the city" and the rest through program reductions and layoffs.

He declined to specify the number of layoffs that would be necessary, but said it probably would be "a number of thousands" with an announcement expected by the end of the month.
