State

WATERFORD — Technicians are performing extensive tests before bringing the No. 2 generating unit at Millstone nuclear power station up to full power. The $400 million reactor at Waterford is scheduled to begin producing electricity before the end of the month.

HARTFORD — The 1976 legislative session will be asked to bring private laboratories in doctors' offices under state quality control review. At present only large hospital and commercial clinical laboratories are monitored by the state.

Regional

BOSTON — About 8,796 enrolled students, more than half of them white, have failed to report to class after almost two months of court-ordered desegregation, the school department reported Tuesday.

BOSTON — Under a new state law, it is possible for Sen. Edward Kennedy's name to be on the presidential primary ballot next spring unless he should act to remove himself. His name could be placed on by the secretary of state or by petition.

National

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — A federal judge has ordered President Ford, described by the defense as "maybe our most important witness," to give videotaped testimony on what he saw when Lynette Fromme aimed a loaded pistol at him Sept. 5.

WASHINGTON — An internal FBI investigation has determined a note from Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's alleged assassin, to the agency's Dallas office was destroyed two hours after Oswald's own assassination on Nov. 24, 1963 — but the FBI doesn't know why.

DETROIT — The mid-October new car sales were the highest in 14 months and dealers report more shoppers and buyers in their showrooms now than in the past two years, according to the trade publication Ward's Auto Reports.

SAN DIEGO — Psychiatrists examining Sara Jane Moore, accused of trying to kill President Ford, say they are not yet able to tell whether she is competent to stand trial. The report on her mental state is expected in federal court in San Francisco by Nov. 18.

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — Mrs. Julia Quinlan, mother of Karen Quinlan who lies in a coma, will try again today to explain why she wants Karen severed from a machine that is keeping her alive. A neurologist's description of Karen's reaction to pain forced Mrs. Quinlan into tears Tuesday and she fled from the courtroom.

MIAMI — An Indonesian seaman, Gun Supardi, who admitted killing four German officers and scuttling a Panamanian freighter, says he doesn't know why he killed the men or sunk the ship. His confession was introduced into evidence at a federal court hearing in which Indonesia, West Germany and Panama are seeking jurisdiction of the murder-mutiny case.

International

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union today soft-landed its Venus 9 spacecraft on cloud-shrouded Venus, earth's closest planetary neighbor, Moscow radio said. Russia launched Venus 9 last June 8 and followed it with Venus 10 on June 14.

MONASTEREVIN, Ireland — The standoff between police and kidnapers of Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema continued today with the kidnapers threatening to kill him if police and soldiers attempt to storm the second floor apartment where they are holed up.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Guerrillas kidnaped two U. S. Embassy officials in a Moslem-Palestinian district of Beirut today as they were driving to work. An embassy spokesman said there has been no word from the kidnapers.

Gov. Carey makes charge

Appearing before a House banking subcommittee Tuesday, Gov. Hugh Carey of New York said the Ford Administration would be guilty of "immorality" if it allowed New York City to default on its financial obligations. ## New York rescue plan in trouble in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A proposal to rescue New York City from insolvency barely survived its first test vote in Congress, reflecting suspicion of the figures and promises New York City officials have presented.

On the question of taking up for consideration a draft bill to provide a federally guaranteed loan to the state, the vote by the Senate Banking Committee was 7 to 6.

The narrowness of the vote showed that any save-New York legislation is in trouble. One senator counted six votes for helping New York, five against and two in doubt.

This afternoon's deliberations on the proposal could decide its fate.

All sides agree the city is likely to default if denied federal help. In default, the city would be unable to pay its debts as they become due, and debtors would sue for whatever revenue the city has.

Conservatives sat back and allowed two liberals, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., and Edward Brooke, R-Mass., to lead the opposition. Both challenged the accuracy of the figures New York has presented on its fiscal crisis.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, said a grand jury ought to look at them and at the fiscal "gimmicks" New York officials have used for years.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said New York's austerities "don't look very stringent to me." He said a wage freeze was insufficient; labor contracts should be renegotiated to reduce wages, fringe benefits and pensions.

The draft bill before the Senate committee would provide a $5 billion guaranteed loan for three years under terms so stringent they might be unacceptable to the city, the state and the banks.

The state would have to impose $420 million in taxes. Banks would have to make unguaranteed loans of $1 billion Brooke said when that idea was broached Saturday to David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, "I saw Mr. Rockefeller cringe."

Garn said the federal government could take care of New Yorkers — making certain they received health, fire, police, welfare and sanitation services — without "bailing out the Rockefellers."

Chinese still oppose U.S.-Soviet detente

PEKING (UPI) — Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua, speaking at a farewell banquet tonight for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, used some of the coolest words since resumption of Sino-American relations.

But the apparent coolness and Chinese opposition to the U.S. policy of detente with the Soviet Union is not expected to affect President Ford's planned visit to Peking after Thanksgiving.

"The preparations for president Ford's visit to China later this year are proceeding well," Kissinger told newsmen. "It will serve to promote Sino-U.S. relationships..."

Diplomats said Chiao's words underlined Chinese opposition to the U.S. policy of detente with Russia, Peking's arch enemy, and the Ford administration's determination to stick to that policy.

"We will nurture our relationships by respecting each other's views regarding our national interest," Kissinger said in his toast. "We are satisfied with our visit."

In his reply the Chinese foreign minister used no other words than "useful" to describe his talks with Kissinger.

"Our talks have enabled us to have a clearer understanding of each other's views," Chiao said. "This is useful."

In his Sunday night toast, Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping likened America's detente approach to the Soviet Union with pre-World War II appeasement of Nazi Germany.

Kissinger was host at the banquet tonight in the Great Hall of the People and he served his favorite dish, Peking Duck.

Diplomats said the Chinese attack on detente and the American defense of detente formed the major theme of Kissinger's talks. He conferred this morning with Chiao and Teng, the man running the government in the absence of the ailing Premier Chou En-lai.

Mao, leader of China's Communist party, called in Kissinger Tuesday night for a surprise, 100-minute meeting at the aging chairman's home behind a red-and-gold lanterned wall on Peking's main street.

Diplomats said the 81-year-old Mao, a poet as well as a revolutionary, switched from lyrical language to tough prose when he spoke of the dangers of detente with the Soviet Union.

CCLU alleges conflict of interest

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union has called for a state investigation of alleged conflict of interest charges against Democratic Legislative Commissioner Arthur M. Lewis.

The CCLU Tuesday asked the state's attorney's office to also look into claims some bills from the 1975 legislature were improperly altered in the legislative commissioner's office.

William Olds, executive director of the CCLU, said Lewis may be in conflict of interest in dealing with bills that involved clients of his private law firm, Danaher, Lewis and Tamoney of Hartford.

Olds, who submitted a 16-page report to Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley, said the information came from "reliable sources" whom he would identify for Gormley.

The legislative commissioner's office writes bills for lawmakers and reviews proposed legislation for approval or disapproval. If disapproved, bills are sent back to the legislative committee that drew it up.

It is headed by Democrat Lewis and his Republican counterpart, Samuel Freedman. Olds said Freedman is not involved in the CCLU report.

September living cost rise termed moderate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose a moderate 0.5 per cent in September, more than twice the pace set in August but nowhere near the high levels reached earlier this year, the Labor Department said today.

The consumer price rise in September compared to a slight jump of 0.2 per cent in August — the smallest advance in three years.

But the September increase, which works out to a 6 per cent annual rate, was more consistent with what economists believe is the current long-term trend of inflation. It was considerably lower than the 1.2 per cent jump — 14.4 per cent annually — in July.

Transit fare hikes — particularly in New York City — combined with increases in college tuition, physicians' fees, gas, electricity, clothing and pork to drive consumer prices up last month.

Those increases were partially offset by declines in the prices of fresh fruits, vegetables and beef.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 163.6 in September, 7.8 per cent higher than a year ago. That means the same goods and services that cost $100 in 1967, now cost $163.60.

The cost of services jumped a substantial 1 per cent in September, Labor said, primarily as a result of an increase in New York City transit fares from 35 cents to 50 cents. Food prices rose a slight 0.1 per cent and the costs of other goods were up 0.3 per cent, all seasonally adjusted.

These increases, combined with a decline in the hours an average worker spent on his job, produced an 0.6 per cent decline in real spendable income, Labor said. Over the year, however, real spendable earnings were up as the result of income tax cuts last May.

Food prices went up less than economists had expected in September. Beef prices, which have risen at enormous rates this year, fell sharply in September — a month when they normally hold stable. Fruit and vegetable prices also fell, particularly the prices of potatoes, onions and apples, along with cereal and bakery prices.

But the price of pork continued to rise, although at a slower pace than previous months. Milk, butter, cheese and coffee prices jumped sharply and sugar also was up again.

Assistant Commerce Secretary James Pate had predicted earlier this week the cost of living increase would be larger than August's, but smaller than July's.

July, August, and even last June, when consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent, have been described by economists as "turbulent" months that did not accurately reflect the long-term trend.

Food price increases were expected to have an impact in September, unlike August when they held steady. The Agriculture Department reported the prices of farm products, which quickly affect consumer prices, rose 3 per cent in the month ending Sept. 15.

Although consumers were paying higher prices for 1976 model cars in September, the impact of those annual price increases sometimes is softened by discount sellouts of the old year models.

Turkish ambassador murdered in Vienna

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Three men armed with automatic weapons invaded the Turkish Embassy today and shot and killed Ambassador Danis Tunahgil, police reported.

They escaped in a waiting car and their identity was not immediately known, police said.

Police said one held the ambassador's secretary while the other men forced a Turkish diplomat at gunpoint to take them to Tunahgil's office.

"Are you the ambassador?" they asked him.

The ambassador replied he was not. But the invaders made him sit in a chair and then shot him, police said. They then fled in a Mercedes automobile.

A police spokesman said the men armed with machine pistols stormed into the embassy on Prinz Eugen Strasse in downtown Vienna at about noon.

Police cordoned off Prinz Eugen Strasse

after the shooting and alerted police throughout Vienna and its surroundings to be on the lookout for the car.

Police picked up 13 suspects to bring to the Turkish embassy for an identity check, a police spokesman said.

Police said the three men spoke English but were dark and appeared to be "south European types."

Police said although they had no clues they could not rule out the possibility the killing was political.

The men carried their weapons in briefcases when they entered the embassy, police said.

Two of the automatic weapons were abandoned in the embassy when they fled.

Tunahgil, 60, was a career diplomat who had served in various diplomatic posts in Italy, Switzerland, Russia, Yugoslavia and the Netherlands before coming to Vienna as ambassador in December, 1973.

Improper 'donations' allegation denied by Democratic chairman

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Allegations by Edward Wilson, Republican candidate for the Board of Directors, of improper "donations" to the Democratic Town Committee have been promptly denied by Ted Cummings, Democratic town chairman.

Wilson said the "donations" were by Arthur M. Fischer of MAP Associates, developers of the proposed multi-million dollar Buckland Commons.

And, in order to clear the air of what he labels "smear charges," Cummings has reserved the Municipal Building Hearing Room for 6 p.m. Thursday and "until whatever hour it takes to clear the smear charges."

In a press release Tuesday afternoon, Wilson said, "It has been brought to my attention that a substantial amount of money has been donated to the Democratic Town Committee by Arthur Fischer of New York during 1975 and 1974."

He said, "I demand that the Democratic leaders of Manchester publicly explain to the people of Manchester what favors, if any, were promised for this New York money."

"Furthermore," continued Wilson, "if favors were extracted at the expense of Manchester, then I demand that, in all fairness to the guilty parties that arranged to accept these series of out-of-state donations, totaling in the hundreds of dollars, resign their positions immediately or provide a satisfactory explanation."

"Mr. Fischer," said Wilson, "is the principal behind MAP Associates of New York, who want to build an instant city in the Buckland area of Manchester, similar to the instant city that the people of Coventry threw out."

Cummings said his 6 p.m. "comment session" Thursday is in answer to Wilson's call for a public airing.

He said, "I'm challenging Mr. Wilson and his coach, the Republican town chairman, to appear with me because, above all, I want to give him equal time — to show people just what a sad character he (Wilson) is. I feel sorry for Eddie Wilson and I think he's in way over his head. He ought to have every opportunity to get out from under while he can."

Asked today whether they will attend Cummings' "comment session," Wilson and Nathan Agostinelli both said they haven't decided yet.

In answer to Wilson's allegations, Cummings said, "The substantial amounts of money he talks about weren't donated by Arthur Fischer of New York. Arthur Fischer and his associates bought a table of tickets ($200 worth — 8 seats at $25 each) at the Democrats Honoring Friends Dinner in 1974. He and the owners of the Buckland land came and they enjoyed the dinner and entertainment. They did the same thing (8 tickets at $25 each) in 1975. We listed it and there was nothing secret about it."

Cummings continued, "We don't give favors for $2 or $200 or whatever. What we do is work at selling tickets, in order to raise funds, and if the Republicans don't want to work as hard, that's their business."

He pointed out, "Many people contribute money to both parties, including some of the people who attended the $125-a-plate dinner for President Ford last week in Hartford."

Cummings concluded, "I sincerely feel it's too bad that any of them (Republicans) would stoop to these tactics. I find it difficult to think the entire Republican party is doing this. I know they have no issues and it seems they can't make up their minds about anything."

The Buckland Commons developers were granted a zone change for most of their requests March 1974 by the Planning and Zoning Commission. The action was appealed by a group of Buckland property owners, led by Larry Noone. A hearing is expected in Hartford County Court of Common Pleas soon.

Jacob Miller, civic leader, dies

Jacob F. Miller, 71, of 103 Adelaide Rd., former town director and retired president of the Manchester Memorial Hospital board of trustees, died Tuesday at his home.

Mr. Miller retired in 1974 as president of the hospital board of trustees after 25 years of service to the hospital. He canvassed house-to-house during the hospital's building campaign and worked for the hospital in numerous capacities before being named to the board of trustees in 1949. He became vice-president of the board in 1957 and president in 1961.

He also had been active in Manchester Chapter of the Red Cross, leading several of its drives and serving as president of the chapter.

A Republican, he was first elected to the town Board of Directors in 1952, ran successfully again in 1954, and was top vote-getter in the 1956 election. He was elected secretary of the board in 1954 and again in his last term. He retired from the board in 1957 because of the pressure of business.

Mr. Miller was born Nov. 11, 1904 in New York City, son of the late Cyrus C. and Emma Allen Miller, and had lived in Manchester since 1933.

A 1927 graduate of William College, Williamstown, Mass., he joined Pratt and Whitney Division of United Technologies shortly after graduation. He became associated in 1937 with the Hartford Machine Screw Co., Division of Standard Screw Co., now the Stanadyne Inc., Hartford Division. He served in various capacities including general production manager, general sales manager, and vice president in charge of sales. He was assistant to the general manager when he retired in 1969. He also was a director of the Hartford Electric Light Co.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Crane Miller; 2 sons, Cyrus C. Miller of Portland, Conn., and H. Crane Miller of Washington, D.C.; a daughter, Mrs. Marcia M. Spencer of Weston, Mass., a sister, Mrs. George Armstrong of Riverside; and 11 grandchildren.

A memorial service is Thursday at 11 a.m. in the conference room at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Burial will be at the convenience of the family.

The Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St., is in charge of arrangements. There are no calling hours.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Manchester Memorial Hospital development fund.

Institute of living rededicates chapel

The Institute of Living in Hartford marked the 100th anniversary Sunday of Elizabeth Chapel, one of the oldest, free-standing institutional chapels in the country. The event was part of a two-day celebration.

Special guests attending the centennial service were Miss Hilda Keller and Capt. Walter Keller, of Coventry, daughter and son of George Keller, 19th century architect who designed the chapel in 1875.

Keller achieved prominence for a number of public buildings in the Hartford area including the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Arch in Bushnell Park, Hartford Public High School on Hopkins St., the railroad station at Union Place; Keeney Tower on N. Main St., and Christ Episcopal Cathedral on Church St. in Hartford.

Mr. Keller was one of a handful of architects invited to submit designs for the Connecticut State Capitol. He was involved in a controversy over how much of the Bulkeley Bridge was his design, and was even involved in controversy over renovation work at the nation's Capitol in Washington, D.C.

He died in 1935 in Hartford. Capt. Keller and Miss Keller were also special guests at a banquet at the Institute on Saturday. A picture exhibit of their father's works included a photo of Miss Keller as a baby on her father's knee.

Capt. Keller remembers visiting the Institute as a boy with his father at the turn of the century.

Television show to feature Manchester area musicians

What do musicians in a volunteer orchestra, those who don't make a living playing full time, do when they hang up their tubas and trombones and lay aside their bows and bassoons?

Many members of the Manchester Civic Orchestra and Chorale have chosen music as their vocation, such as public school teachers, private instructors and those in retail music business.

But mixed in with the "expected" are those whose jobs would give no clues as to their expertise.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 3 (WFSB-TV, Hartford), its "Land of the 3" program will focus on three particular professions represented in medicine, science and academics.

Appearing on the program will be Dr. Francis Hellrick, a pediatrician who plays trombone in the orchestra and is also orchestra president; Dr. William Ard, a nuclear physicist who plays cello, and Dr. Robert Richardson, a professor of English literature at Manchester Community College who plays tuba.

There are other occupations represented in the orchestra such as secretary, engineer, housewife, analyst, Spanish teacher and chemist who spend many hours a week practicing symphonic music in order to perform at two or three concerts a year.

Members of the chorale also come from all walks of life. Besides singing with the orchestra at weekly rehearsals, many of these people are members of choirs of area churches and other musical organizations.

The first orchestra concert will be Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School. Tickets will be available at the door.

Eighth District issues report for September

Eighth District fire fighters answered 16 calls in September, all within district lines, District Fire Chief Granville Lingard reported Monday night. He said 5 were for car fires, 1 an oxygen rescue call, 4 minor fires in dwellings, 5 miscellaneous and one a serious fire of suspicious origin — when the vacant Penn Central Freight Station was destroyed Sept. 11.

Lingard said the department's new rescue truck is being stored in the firehouse and No. 3 engine in the sewer plant garage, with provisions made to get it from there when needed.

The district board is considering a request for spending $5,000 for materials (in stages and with voluntary labor) to close in and renovate one section of the district's unused greenhouse. The area would be used for storing fire department and public works equipment.

The directors took the request under advisement and may reach a decision next week, after inspecting the area.

Mary Latria, district tax collector, reported receipts of $64,269 as of Oct. 20, for about one-third of the anticipated tax revenue for 1975-76. Oct. 1 was the first day for paying district taxes.

William Sheridan, chairman of the board's insurance committee, explained a recommendation for reducing the district's insurance coverage by $60,850 as of Dec. 28 — from the present $356,450 to the recommended $282,800.

The recommendation, said Sheridan, is by the agent holding the insurance — to cut or eliminate coverage on out-of-operation facilities and to meet an anticipated 20 per cent increase in premiums — forecast for 1976.

The recommendations will be studied and voted upon shortly.

Tureck elected president of park association

The New England Park Association elected Ernest Tureck its president for the coming year during its annual meeting Thursday in Springfield, Mass.

Tureck has been the superintendent of Manchester's parks since Jan. 1, 1968. He has worked for the town since 1945 and is its highest superintendent for nine years.

Robert McGione of Trinity College in Hartford was the other Connecticut man elected to an office. He will be the secretary.

Tureck said the NEPA is the oldest park association in the country. It was founded in 1898. Vandalism, litter, and crime were major topics during NEPA's 77th annual meeting, he said.

The lack of adult programs in the parks was another item.

Connecticut public acts available at libraries

The Connecticut State Library has distributed all public libraries, including Mary Cheney Library and Whiton Memorial Library, copies of a summary of 1975 Public Acts, Connecticut General Assembly.

The summary is a convenient reference for persons interested in the main features of any legislative act or those seeking information on particular subjects affected by new statutes.

Summaries of the public acts are listed under 24 topical headings. Particular emphasis is made on changes in the law. Also included is a comprehensive index. Omitted are special acts and resolutions.

Summaries are also available at the office of the Chief of Special Services in the state library's Sales and Publications Division on the ground floor of the state library building, 231 Capitol Ave., Hartford.

OPINION

Cyclists' helmets: A shared concern

A nationwide effort is under way to repeal laws that require motorcyclists to wear helmets when they ride on public streets and roads, reports the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

The effort is spearheaded primarily by motorcyclists and motorcycle organizations concerned about their alleged loss of constitutional rights. Those fighting helmet laws also claim that helmets which meet the federal standard are actually a hazard.

All the states except California, Illinois and Utah have laws that comply with the Department of Transportation's standards regarding motorcycle safety. For several years, motorcyclists have sought repeal of mandatory helmet laws by concentrating efforts in individual state legislatures, and 14 states currently have such bills under consideration.

Repeat efforts have been thwarted, however, mainly because of the possibility of a state's losing all federal highway safety funds and 10 per cent of federal highway construction funds. Thus efforts are now shifting to the national level in an attempt to remove the threat of federal penalties against states repealing helmet laws. Five such bills are now pending in Congress.

To the claim that helmets themselves cause accidents and injuries, the National Highway Traffic Administration replies that it knows of no factual data to support this contention. On the contrary, a 1974 analysis comparing helmet efficiency in Michigan (which has a helmet law) and Illinois (which does not have a helmet law) found that motorcycle crashes in Illinois resulted in "almost three times more serious or fatal head injury than similar accidents in Michigan."

But what about the argument of motorcyclists that it's nobody's business but their own if they want to risk having their skulls smashed?

Both the validity and the constitutionality of helmet laws are well established, says the Insurance Institute. It quotes the 1972 opinion of the Federal District Court for Massachusetts upholding that state's law (subsequently affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court):

"While we agree with plaintiff that the act's only realistic purpose is the prevention of head injuries incurred in motorcycle mishaps, we cannot agree that the consequences of such injuries are limited to the individual who sustains the injury...The public has an interest in minimizing the resources directly involved."

"From the moment of the injury, society picks the person up off the highway, delivers him to a municipal hospital and municipal doctors; provides him with unemployment compensation if, after recovery, he cannot replace his lost job, and, if the injury causes permanent disability, may assume the responsibility for his and his family's subsistence."

"We do not understand a state of mind that permits plaintiff to contend that only he himself is concerned."

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Oct. 22, the 29th day of 1975 with 70 to follow.
The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mercury, Mars and Saturn.
The evening star is Jupiter.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

Hungarian composer Franz Liszt was born Oct. 22, 1811. This is actress Joan Fontaine's 56th birthday.

On this day in history:
In 1836, Gen. Sam Houston was sworn in as the first president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced an arms blockade of Cuba after Soviet missiles were discovered on the Communist island 90 miles from Florida.
In 1968, the three Apollo 7 astronauts splashed down after an 11-day orbital flight.

One of these accomplishments is the purchase of Case Mountain, now called Look Out Mountain. In case you are wondering, it means look out for the vandals and junkies camping out there illegally. Of course, in their infinite wisdom, the board refused to ask you the taxpayer if you wanted Case Mountain, they went ahead and spent your money on it anyway.
Then we have the beautiful Lincoln Center parking lot, with its well planned entrance on Main Street. Of course when the board was reminded of the potential hazard and the reasonable alternative of making all access from the town hall lot, they in their infinite wisdom went ahead with their original plans and spent $38,000 of your tax dollars for 11 parking spaces.
Then we have the tax rate, held to a small increase when other cities and towns in the state were able to reduce their taxes. Were it not for federal revenue sharing funds, the vastly increased spending rate fostered by this board would have forced a much higher increase in taxes. We should keep in mind that if the federal revenue sharing were to be cut back — we would be forced with an immediate large tax increase. Just to continue the town's present rate of spending. For this we can thank the present Board of Directors.

Then we have the board's latest and perhaps most significant accomplishment, the building of a new firehouse in the Backland area. The fact that many of the Backland area residents do not want a new firehouse doesn't matter. The fact that inflammatory statements by town officials have created an acrimony between Eighth

District and town fire fighters doesn't matter. The fact that the town may be facing a very expensive lawsuit because the board acted in haste doesn't matter. What does matter is that Ted Cummings said "jump," and Mayor Thompson and his cronies jumped. Despite the fact that at several public hearings, the Board of Directors was urged to put this issue on a referendum question, Thompson and his cronies in their infinite wisdom, went ahead and railroaded it through.
These are all fine examples of Manchester democracy in action. Take note of how willing the majority members of the Board of Directors have been to listen to the people, then do what they damn well please. Or rather it seems, what their party bosses please.
If this is the type of responsive government we have had for the past two years, I don't think the town can afford it for another two. Thompson and his cronies do not deserve to be re-elected.

California covets chili cooking contest

If what happened down in Texas and Louisiana last week are any indicators, this great land of ours is slowly but surely going back to doing the things that count, that build character and that guarantee the destiny and future predicted for it by our founding fathers.

In Texas, chili cooks there was a court battle blocking an attempt to move the world championship chili cooking contest to California.

The International Chili Society had announced the event would be moved from its usual site in Terlingua, Tex., where it had been held for the past eight years, to Tropico, Calif. "It was a 'ramshackle, weatherbeaten town miles from nowhere,'" that it is "devoid of creature comforts," that it is "too dusty" and may already have been "swayed away by a prairie dust storm."

The real chili cookoff was scheduled for Terlingua, Tex. The one in Tropico, Calif., "wasn't worth a row of beans," said "Alleghani Jani."

In the meanwhile, back in New Iberia, La., one Juan "Hot Tamale" Sanchez gulped down an ultrahot Chili Bolero without so much as a flinch, a look of anguish or even the slightest burp.

Asked "Alleghani Jani" Schofield, the reigning world champion, "How can they have a world championship in California when I'm defending my title in Terlingua? Who will they cook against? Each other?"

The Texas Chili Society prevailed. Among other things, the restraining order prevented the California group

OPEN FORUM

U.N. called a failure

To the editor:
Have you ever wondered what the world would be like if there had been no United Nations formed in 1945? Some would answer that there would be wars in all parts of the world without the U.N. But haven't there been wars all over most of the globe anyway? Some would say that there would be massive starvation, racial animosity, and no cooperation among nations. But hasn't there been mass starvation in Biafra and India? And racial animosity all around the world? And very little cooperation among nations? But before you conclude that the U.N. has failed simply because not enough nations have given it enough support, let's think about another question. Have you ever wondered what the world would be like if the United Nations did become powerful enough to stop all wars and share all food? What if the U.N. did become what so many of its founders intended — a world super-government? All these charges are established facts, so wouldn't you agree that it is time for the United States to withdraw from the United Nations? Sincerely,

Community thanked

To the editor:
On behalf of Child & Family Services of Connecticut, Inc., I wish to thank the people of Manchester for their past support of the United Fund and to urge them to continue their generous contributions to the drive now being conducted. Child & Family Services of Connecticut, Inc., a non-profit, voluntarily supported, private agency with an office located at 110 Main St., Manchester, is one of the agencies that benefit from this drive. The services offered by this agency and available to any Manchester resident include family counseling, foster home care, adoption services, family day care and aid to unwed mothers and emotionally disturbed children. The agency receives its support from many sources. Individuals and parents who are able to pay are charged a fee according to their income and family size. Each year through special fund-raising events the Manchester Auxiliary assists the agency in realizing its financial budget. However, of immeasurable help is the financial support received through the United Way Alliance to Child & Family Services.
Don't pass up this opportunity to help a child or family in your community. Please give the United Way.
Thanks to you, it's working.

Supports Thompson

To the editor:
This letter is for the support of John Thompson for another two-year term on the Board of Directors. John has consistently demonstrated an ability and a willingness to provide the leadership to face the many complex issues of public policy and administration that are increasingly present in town affairs. Leadership is a quality seriously lacking at both state and national levels of government. When we find it in candidates for public office at the local level in a person like John Thompson we should recognize it and give him the responsibility he has so ably demonstrated he can handle. John Thompson needs the support of the people of Manchester so that he can continue to serve their interests and the people of Manchester need John Thompson.

All in the family

The old American dream of starting a business that will remain in family hands forever has gone the way of the buffalo. According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, few family business survive into the third generation.

One reason seems to be that fewer sons are willing to follow in the footsteps of their fathers. Another, much more important one, is that mass production, marketing and distribution today usually require heavy injections of outside capital to make expansion possible.

Nevertheless, some of America's best-known and most successful companies are still thriving in private hands.

For example, White Rock sodas, which have graced the nation's tables for nearly a century, have maintained their strong market position without having to raise equity capital by going public. Legions of readers of World Book Encyclopedia probably don't know that its publisher is the private company of Field Enterprises.

And there are firms like L. B. Foster, largest rail and highway construction marketers in the Western Hemisphere; Peter Frasse, a steel service center which is one of America's oldest companies, and the Anderson Co. of Gary, Ind., which supplies 70 per cent of the nation's windshield wiper blades.

Time for the world's meek to arise

WASHINGTON — Possibly the meek will still inherit the earth, but it may not be that big a bargain after the bustlers get theirs. As an un-meeek skeptic, I'd settle right now for 10 cents on the dollar.

This profound commentary is prompted by three entries in my notebook.

1. The number of persons detected committing fraud by collecting District of Columbia unemployment payments illegally has risen 600 per cent during the past two years. Yet the number of convictions is — what? Zero.

2. A client, the Gary Post-Tribune, reports that some 14,000 school employees (not teachers) in Indiana collected $1.4 million in unemployment checks this past summer because they were out of work when the schools closed.

3. Someone at the San Francisco Chronicle, another client, has dispatched to this desk enclosures listing the demands of various labor unions which call for a $0-per-week wage increase for all employees and a vacation schedule which suggests that working behavior be classified as a part-time endeavor.

On to the specifics:
D.C. records show that over the past five and a half years not one of the 1,725 reported cases of unemployment fraud has resulted in a successful criminal prosecution. Yet, during the same period, 2,000 persons in nearby Maryland and Virginia have been convicted for this polite form of larceny.

That crime usually is committed by someone who accepts job benefits at the same time he or she is gainfully employed. One man illegally collected $3,540 over a six-month period. He has received a notice from the city demanding only that he repay the amount fraudulently accepted.

In Indiana, the school employees knew they were taking nine-month jobs when they went to work. The assumption as with teachers, is that their wages for nine months are sufficient to support them for a year. But one group of food service employees in Valparaiso reportedly turned down proffered summer jobs and then filed for and got unemployment compensation because no one followed through on the complaint.

As the Post-Tribune notes, it could have been worse. Schoolteachers in many states filed for compensation but Congress, in one of its lucid moments, passed legislation specifically barring them from such lagniappe.

Representatives of 11 newspaper unions in the San Francisco area signed copies of a letter to the five newspaper employers involved. The unions ranged from the Newspaper Guild through the Typographical Union to the Newsvendors Local.

A copy of the notice, on the letterhead of the San Francisco Conference of Newspaper Unions, lists the following vacation demands:
Six weeks after one year of service; seven weeks after two years of service; eight weeks after three years of service; nine weeks after four years of service; 13 weeks after five years of service.

The $80-per-week wage increase for all employees applies with the following variations:
— Drivers and Guild to use the 1974 wage formula, but without a dollar ceiling in the case of the Guild formula. Wage increases for paper handlers, drivers and service employees to be prorated on basis of longer work weeks; increase for the newsvendors to be applied to the guarantee.
Arise, ye meek of the world! They're cutting up your property.

Groups urge support of school referendum

Several local organizations have voted to support the Nov. 4 referendum which proposes renovation of the Bentley and Washington Schools and replacement of the West Side Rec building.

The groups supporting the issue are the Manchester PTA Council, the Manchester Education Association, Manchester PTA for Exceptional Children, and the League of Women Voters.

Nine members of the Manchester PTA Council voted in favor of supporting the referendum and one member abstained. State Sen. Audrey Beck spoke at the recent council meeting on educational financing. She confirmed there is a shortage of state funds to be allocated in the near future. She said the State Department of Education now has $60 million committed to various projects that require only $20 million remaining to be bonded over the next three years.

Sen. Beck said some action will be taken between February and May of 1976 suggesting the possibility of a change in the funding formula, perhaps based on local ability to pay.

Lecturer explores the 'whys' of Salem witchcraft trials

In her elaboration after terms the "witchcraft trial period" of the great traumas in our history. Mrs. Mary Roy posed two questions in her illustrated talk, "The Witches of Salem," for the Manchester Historical Society Saturday in the Whitton Memorial Library auditorium.

Why did this happen? Why did Massachusetts place so much importance on witchcraft? Mrs. Roy, assistant professor of history at Manchester Community College, asked. For each she offered two possible answers.

As to the reasons for the June-October, 1692 series of trials, first, she said, the 17th century belief in witches was very real, and second, at the end of that century, the fear of impending doom probably translated itself into the hysterical behavior of the "bewitched" young girls. Fifty years later in the period of the Great Awakening, she pointed out, this same behavior occurred in people's attempts to achieve salvation. The newly installed Gov. Phisips' insecurity and the whole concept of Puritan thinking, Mrs. Roy suggested, probably figured in the short-lived but fanatical craze.

When Phisips' wife was accused of witchcraft, he immediately called a halt to the trials.

Preminant in Puritan theology, the speaker said, was the idea of a contract between man and God, and punishment following any act that broke the compact. Mrs. Roy said the loss of the Massachusetts charter and King Philip's War were two forms of retribution the Puritans cited as breaches of the state-God contract.

MCC to host VAP convlave

The Manchester Community College Voluntary Action Program (VAP) will host the northeast's first all-college conference on student volunteer programs Nov. 7 and 8 at the Hotel Somerset in Hartford.

Joseph McGee is the keynote speaker. He is the administrative assistant to Rep. Stewart McKinney of Connecticut.

McGee helped draft the house bill which would give a tax credit to volunteers who serve the physically and mentally infirm.

Stephen T. Casano, director of the MCC volunteer program and an ACTION consultant for two years, is coordinator of the conference.

hot lunch program. Bentley is the only school without a kitchen facility due to its age and the structure of the building. Renovation plans also include extensive plumbing repairs and correction of fire code violations.

The needs at Washington School include a gymnasium, auditorium, space for special services personnel, and modernization of older classrooms. The West Side Rec. used for physical education classes, is not regulation size and is in poor condition.

The entire student body at Washington may not assemble at one time in the cafeteria-auditorium because of fire regulations.

Renovation proposals at state funds to be allocated in the near future. She said the State Department of Education now has $60 million committed to various projects that require only $20 million remaining to be bonded over the next three years.

Seven prestigious judges presided over the trials, which started in June 1692. When they ended and a court adjourned on Oct. 29 of that year, 16 women, two men, and a dog had been executed as witches, and 140 accused were in jail.

Most of the women accused of witchcraft were middle-aged, married or widowed, and not middle-aged were often their relatives. The majority of witnesses against them were men, ages 20 to 70.

Most of the defendants tended to pay more taxes than their accusers and lived in or near the village, the accusers, in the village.

Mrs. Roy conjectured that lack of schooling and neglect of the poor may have been factors in the accusations. Sarah Good was a beggar. One of the first acts by a new minister after the trials was to open a school.

These officers were re-elected at the annual business meeting. W. Dennis Denison, president. Dr. John Sutherland, vice president. Miss Jeanne Wood, recording secretary. Mrs. George Walker, corresponding secretary.

Miss Emily Smith, treasurer pro tem, was elected to succeed Miss Mary McAdams.

Named to the executive committee were Miss Catherine Putnam, Mrs. Ernest Shepherd, Leonard Rivard, and John Johnston.

The president announced the committee chairman. Mrs. Stuart Segar and Herbert Swanson, Cheney Homestead; Mrs. Paul Adams, Manchester; Johnston, publicity; Arthur H. Illing, education; Miss Catherine Shea, library; Mrs. Walker, oral history; Mrs. Ruth Willey, DAR liaison; and Mrs. Mario Fratervoli, bulletin editor.

Children in Manchester. A multi-purpose facility which will serve the needs of both Washington School and the West Side Rec. Recreation Department, is considered sound planning on the part of the town and a definite need by the people of that area by the LWV.

The children at Washington School must go outside to use the facilities at the West Side Rec., not an ideal situation in bad weather.

The LWV points out that children who do use the recreation facility are those who have scheduled physical education classes. This means they are not in kindergarten, first and second grades who do not have a physical education class but have only very limited use of the gym.

The LWV compares two kindergarten situations—the children who go to kindergarten in a converted space in the Washington School cafeteria and other kindergartens in Manchester who have large specially equipped rooms for their first school experience.

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Vivian F. Ferguson

Republican Director Vivian F. Ferguson said today: "Upon election of the Republican party to the majority, I propose that the Board of Directors meet with all department heads of the town during the month of January to review the budget of each department. With the fiscal year beginning on July 1, this would afford an opportunity at the half-way mark to determine how each department is doing with its finances."

Special meeting slated on new development act

The Manchester Board of Directors to be elected Nov. 4 already has a special meeting scheduled for it by Town Manager Robert Weiss.

It will be Dec. 16 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room and will be a review and explanation of the controversial City and Town Development Act, adopted after several amendments by the 1975 General Assembly.

Attending the meeting also will be the Town Development Committee and the Manchester Chamber of Commerce development committee plus Manchester's bond counsel. The bond counsel will present and help clarify some of the complexities of the act as they relate to various bonding procedures.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD A "BARGAIN" HOUSE PAINT. USE CALIFORNIA Acrylic HOUSE PAINT. SPREAD-IT-AROUND.

You can't afford a paint that can't face the weather. And wear. That needs constant touch-ups. And repainting. You can't afford to waste the time you put into painting on a bargain-grade paint.

You can't afford less than California acrylic latex House Paint. It's the best protection you can get for the biggest investment you have — your home.

Directors to discuss country club lease

Proposals by the Manchester Country Club for two substantial changes in its lease with the town will be discussed in November by Manchester's Board of Directors.

Meet the candidates session tonight at 8

The public is invited to a round-robin Meet the Candidates meeting at 8 tonight in the cafeteria of Manchester High School, sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Legislators to tour Cheney Tech tonight

Seven area legislators will participate in a special tour of Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical School tonight at 8 p.m.

Basically, the club is seeking permission to raise its membership fees and greens fees without adhering to the existing requirement — amending the ordinance each time.

Presently, the ordinance provides for fixed greens fees, subject to change by amendments to the lease ordinance.

Relocation saves money

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Department of Social Services says it has saved $2.9 million by helping move 667 welfare families out of the state in the last fiscal year.

Most of the families moved to Puerto Rico, Florida, South Carolina, and North Carolina. Since these areas have lower welfare payments than Connecticut, the families apparently are not leaving to obtain higher welfare benefits, Capuano said.

Health insurance plan criticized by Kennedy

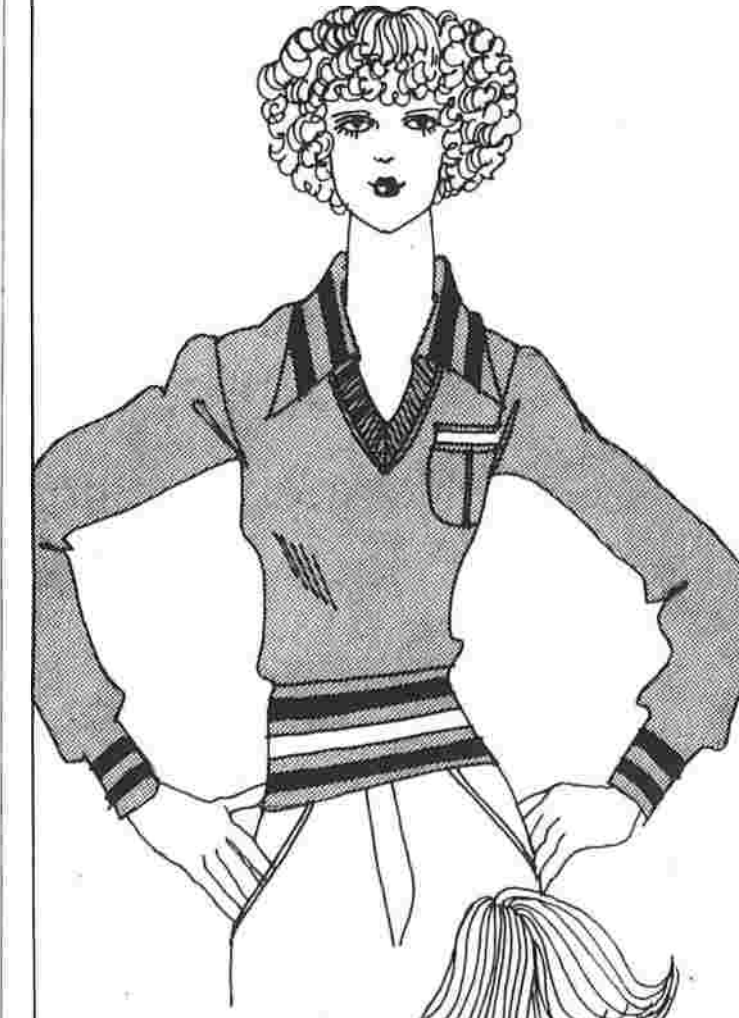

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said Tuesday that a health insurance plan co-sponsored by two Senate colleagues would perpetuate a "second-class system" of health care for the poor.

Such a bill would do nothing for children, Kennedy told the American Academy of Pediatrics which is holding its 44th annual meeting here.

The federalization of Medicaid for the needy under the Long-Ribicoff bill would perpetuate an "unimaginative" system of health care for children and result in "a separate and inevitably second-class health care system for the poor," Kennedy said.

Luettgens Limited. One man's promise opens tomorrow.

On October 23, Bill Luettgens will present Hartford with a personal promise:

That promise: One store that caters to your own personal sense of fashion, where you'll be completely and totally satisfied. No matter what. Satisfied with our fashions. Our store. And our people. To back up that promise, we've assembled the finest selection of fashions in Hartford history. Men or women. No matter which style you prefer, you'll have more to choose from at Luettgens Limited. For example, you'll find a greater selection of men's fashions in our Classic Shop alone, than any other men's shop offers in it's entire store.

That's a promise. Individual Shops for Individual Tastes.

Luettgens Limited is 18 self-contained worlds. One dedicated exclusively to the way you dress. Classic. Leisure. Contemporary. Country. Designer.

At Luettgens Limited you can dress from head to toe in your favorite style and never have to cross into someone else's world.

That's a promise. And no matter which world you enter, you'll find fashion specialists to help you reflect your every mood. With style. And taste. And that's a promise.

Luettgens' Promise of Complete Satisfaction. No Matter What.

Should we ever fail to live up to even one of our promises, we want to know about it. At Luettgens Limited, you may ask any of our people for a postage paid envelope addressed personally to Bill Luettgens. It doesn't go to a secretary. Or a Second Vice President. It goes directly to Bill. We want your comments and you will receive a prompt reply. And that's a promise, too.

Bill Luettgens has been learning what good retailing is all about for 40 years.

Now, he's putting that knowledge to work in a store of his own.

After all, when your name's on the door, you care what people think.

Luettgens Limited opens October 23 at the Hartford Civic Center shops. You know what you want. Now you know where to get it.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

Clothes no longer make the man

Friends of ours are taking their son around for his college interviews, and since we've already been this route, they asked what I thought a well-dressed applicant should wear. Now ordinarily, there's nothing I enjoy more than giving advice. But in this instance, I decided it would be wisest to just tell them of our experience.

Last fall, at the time of our son's first interview, we were 150 miles from home, driving on a super highway, when I looked over at Tom and suddenly realized that he was wearing blue jeans.

"You're wearing BLUE JEANS?" I cried. "I always wear blue jeans," he replied, deftly steering the car around a curve.

"But not today! No one wears blue jeans to a college interview."

"What's wrong? These are my best jeans and I'm wearing a clean turtle neck shirt which I plan to tuck in. What did you expect a tuxedo?" With that Tom looked over his shoulder at his father and winked.

"Don't be flip with me, young man," I said. "I expect slacks, a shirt, a tie and yes, for an important occasion like this, a jacket."

"Com ma! This is a small country college. They're going to interview ME not my clothes."

"For the rest of the trip I ground and tugged and even suggested that we stop along the road to buy him a respectable pair of slacks."

By the time we reached the college I was emotionally exhausted. "In the final decision," I said, as we got out of the car, "these blue jeans may make the difference between acceptance and rejection."

"Now calm down, honey," soothed my husband. "At the admission office Tom was immediately ushered to an inner room. My husband and I sat outside in the office for an interminable time reading brochures."

Finally the door opened and Tom walked out with the admissions director. We all shook hands.

"I've had a good interview with your son," said the director, placing his hand companionably on Tom's shoulder. "A really good interview. The two of us see eye to eye on a lot of things."

As the admissions director talked I shifted my gaze to take in the whole picture. He was a handsome young man with intense brown eyes and a big black handle bar moustache. And -- he was wearing blue jeans and a turtle neck shirt -- tucked in.

Legion block dance Saturday

On Saturday, the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion will conduct its first Bicentennial program at the post grounds on American Legion Drive.

The program will be in the form of a block-dance with the theme "Happy Birthday America."

The event, sponsored by the Post Commanders Association of the Post, will open at 5 p.m., with dancing from 7 to 11 p.m. outside or inside the Post Home. Refreshments will be available from booths on the grounds and an old-fashioned beer garden will be featured inside the Post Home manned by members of the PCA.

Miss Manchester, Jane Scott, will preside over the festivities along with other town dignitaries, according to Cmdr. Harold Pohl and Hecy Wierzbicki, public relations director.

Norman LaRose is in charge of all outside activities and will be assisted by the Post Color Guard and Post officers.

Tickets will be available at the gate. Proceeds will help defray expenses for various Bicentennial programs scheduled for the coming year.

Entertaining at the event will be the following students from the Betty Jane Turner School of Dance: Vozzo sisters, "Mexican Hat Dance"; Lauri Darling and Bonnie Wierzbicki, "Dance of the 50's"; and Laurie Darling performing a baron number.

Medical service for breast cancer

PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Family Health Editor

Dorothy Johnson, nurse and mother of six, made the news last week on the American scene. Dialing it — 301-897-8888 — puts one in touch with the Breast Cancer Hotline in Kensington, Md. Women who call for guidance from Mrs. Johnson to the medical and psychological aspects of breast cancer do so at their own expense.

No "200" or toll-free number yet — but Rose Kushner, a mastectomist who started the hotline, said in an interview she hopes that will change as the organization behind Hotline ages. It started Sept. 26.

After the toll-free number, Mrs. Kushner wants to start a newsletter to help women with breast cancer to be better informed consumers of medical services.

Mrs. Kushner is the author of "Breast Cancer: A Personal History and an Investigative Report" (Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich). A medical writer and investigative reporter, she discovered a lump June 15, 1974. She died of an operation until some two weeks later — July 2.

Between the discovery and the operation she read up on breast cancer and talked with doctors and shopped around at medical centers. And she had a mammogram that turned out false negative.

The book and her Breast Cancer Advisory Center Inc., of which Hotline is a part, are the result of her discoveries and a strong sense of mission to share the facts with all women who develop breast cancer.

Mrs. Johnson, who is paid the minimum wage, has a tape-recorder answering device to take names and numbers when she can't.

Reached by telephone, Mrs. Johnson, in soft and slowly spoken words as soothing as the best bedside manner, told me about the first week of Hotline.

"We had about 50 calls," she said. "Some were women who just found a lump and were going to have it biopsied.

"I could tell they were depressed and did my best to reassure them. Of every 10 biopsies, only two turn out to be cancer."

"The chances of not having it are greater than having it."

"Then some women, understandably, are very depressed."

Mrs. Johnson said the center has a medical advisory board of four. Among Cancer Fighters on the board is Dr. Thomas Dao, Director of the Department of Breast Surgery and Breast Cancer Research unit, Roosevelt Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y. He also is professor of surgery and physiology at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Dr. Dao is Mrs. Kushner's doctor. In the forward to her book, bound to be controversial in some medical circles, Dr. Dao writes:

"Mrs. Kushner makes an exceptional effort to deal with the subject of oral contraceptives and breast cancer. Her concern over the lack of warning about the risk of breast cancer in users of oral contraceptives is both reasonable and justifiable."

"She correctly stresses the importance of early detection and the absolute necessity for women to learn and practice breast self-examination."

"Where surgery is necessary, as it so often is, she confronts the major controversial issue in breast-cancer treatment squarely."

"The issue is freedom of choice in surgery, and the controversy it has aroused will not soon be stilled."

Some doctors remove just the lump; some the breast; others, much more — including chest muscles.

When the latter is the case, the woman must wear high necklines and long sleeves to conceal scars.

"Mrs. Kushner," said Dr. Dao, "and I do not agree on every detail of her argument — she is harder on general surgeons than I would be, and what she says about the economic incentive in the diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer is not what I would say — but the value of her discussion far outweighs any differences we may have."

East Hartford's school board hears about Parent's Choice

SHILIA TULLER
289-4283

Andrew J. Esposito, coordinator of the Parent's Choice program reported to the Board of Education Monday night on the progress of the program.

The Educational Research and Development Center presented their first draft of the student management system. This will be reviewed by a committee of principals, supervisors, school secretaries, and the attorneys representing the National Institute of Education and the Parent's Choice program.

The review is necessary to have the system as comprehensive as possible when put into the computer program.

Volunteers for the Speaker's Bureau have met and reviewed the slide presentation which was made to explain the Parent's Choice to the public.

Letters have been sent to organizations in town and all the PTAs and PTOs have been contacted requesting an opportunity to present the slide program.

The Parent Advice Team is preparing an informational pamphlet "Parent's Choice and East Hartford" for mailing to the community.

This pamphlet describes the information covered in the slide presentation.

Information is also being collected to update the 1975 issue of the booklet, "Our Schools."

In a report from Ernest A. Grasso of the Department of Pupil Accounting, the board learned enrollment in East Hartford schools has dropped in the past year.

As of Oct. 1, 1975, there were 10,699 children in the East Hartford schools.

Of this number, 7,239 attend kindergarten through eighth grade.

High school students number 3,466 and four students of high school age receive home instruction.

Mr. Grasso's report also included a count of parochial school students in town showing 3,177 registered at Saint Christopher's School and 226 at Saint Rose School.

According to Finance Director Paul Costello's budget analysis, the 1974-75 budget closed with a 26 cent balance. The escalated cost of utilities was covered by transfers from textbook, teaching supply, and equipment accounts.

In an attempt to better control utility costs, a tentative conservation program is being studied by the administration.

The program, Mr. CREW (CONSERVE: reduce energy waste) is a campaign that has been used by the University of Connecticut.

Mr. CREW is a caricature that will issue conservation slogans and reminders on leaflets to be delivered to all in the school system.

The administration has also adopted several recommendations for the conservation of energy in East Hartford's schools.

The board confirmed the appointment of two part-time teachers. Mrs. Patricia Clark will teach second grade at Mayberry School half time due to increase enrollment at that level.

Mrs. Clark, a graduate of Our Lady of the Elms College, is an East Hartford resident.

Mrs. Joan Friedman, also a resident of East Hartford and a Southern Connecticut College graduate, will join the art department.

A full-time art teacher has requested her position be reduced and Mrs. Friedman will make up the time.

Auditions set

The East Hartford Puddle Wonderful Players will conduct auditions for "Taradiddle Tales" on Saturday, Oct. 25, in the Community Room at Raymond Library. Auditions will begin promptly at 11:30 a.m.

All East Hartford children in fourth through the eighth grades are eligible to try out for the production. However, there are only eight roles to be cast in this show, which will be presented Dec. 7. It will be the first of four Fine Arts Commission "Sunday at Two" programs.

Director James Quinn also stated that the eight chosen for Taradiddle Tales will make up the company's touring group for the season.

This printing test pattern is part of The Herald quality control program in order to give you one of the finest newspapers in the nation.

Tolland women set up coffees with candidates

The Public Affairs Committee of the Tolland Junior Women's Club will sponsor a series of "coffees" Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the homes of several club members.

There will be four to six candidates for the Nov. 4 elections, at each of the coffee hours, representing both political parties.

The coffees will be at the following homes: Mrs. Edwin Slavass, Columbine Rd.; Mrs. Daniel Fagan, 39 Robbie Rd.; and Mrs. Eric Brooker, 291 Grabagher Rd.

Persons interested in talking informally with the candidates should call the coffee hour nearest their home.

Need bowlers

The club is in need of substitute bowlers for its Tuesday league from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Vernon Lanes on Rt. 83.

Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Michael Skelley. A person need not be a club member to bowl.

Heritage Committee to meet

VERNON

The Heritage Committee of the Vernon Bicentennial Commission will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Joni Boulanger, 18 Willowstream Dr.

The committee is preparing a program to focus community attention on the history of Vernon. Among the committee's activities are the preparation of historic 1877 maps, the refurbishing of old cemeteries, and walking tours of various historic and picturesque areas of town.

The committee hopes that several activities can be put together to mark, in an old-fashioned way, the upcoming Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

The committee also has available commemorative coins which are pennies stamped with a sketch of Fox Hill Tower and lettered "Bicentennial, Rockville-Vernon."

The meeting Thursday is open to anyone interested or has a special idea on how the Bicentennial should be observed in town.

McCoy takes low bid

VERNON

On recommendation of the sewer subcommittee of the Sewer Authority, the Town Council, acting as the Sewer Authority, gave Mayor Frank McCoy the power to accept the low bid, award and sign the contract for the Richard Rd. sewer project.

The low bidder was Glenn Construction Corp. of Manchester with a bid of $772,375. The contract includes Lake St. from the Phoenix St. intersection to Richard Rd. with a portion of Tunnel Rd., all of Rosewood Dr., a portion of Mt. Mountain Dr., Montauk Dr. and all of Berkley Dr. and Richard Rd.

Mayor McCoy said the response to the offer for bid was very encouraging both in the number of bids (16) and in the figures bid which were substantially lower than the estimates of $982,000.

The mayor said Glenn Construction has previously done sewer work for Vernon and has been very satisfactory.

The mayor said problems with easements concerning the Overbrook Dr. sewer projects are about solved and that the notice for bids for contract will be advertised with the bids returnable Nov. 7.

This project includes Overbrook Rd., Kenwood Dr., Fernwood Dr., Riverside Dr., Pleasantview Dr., and Sunset Dr.

The mayor expressed the hope that both contracts will be started before winter sets in. He said this will speed completion of the projects and will also lock costs into the present economic climate rather than what may be a significantly higher cost area in the spring.

He added that the sewer treatment plant expansion project should be bid by the end of November with several modifications of the plans now being reviewed by the Department of Environmental Protection.

He said this project will also derive the benefit of the "current, keen competitive bids." He said, as in the past, he will strive to work out either a precontract agreement with contractors to hire a reasonable number of local construction workers or try, if possible, to have a requirement written into the contract itself.

Students give to charity

VERNON

The annual charity drive is being conducted this month in the Vernon public schools. The money received will be deposited in the bank and will go to help some 12 charity organizations.

Last year $238.55 was collected. Superintendent Raymond E. Ramsdell, urges parents to encourage their children to contribute to the drive and explain to them about the charities and the need that exists throughout the country.

The organizations helped by the drive are: Salvation Army, Mental Health Association, American Kidney Fund, Christmas Seals, March of Dimes, Newington Children's Hospital, Hockanum Valley Community Services Council, Cystic Fibrosis, American Foundation for the Blind, Inc., American Red Cross, National Cancer Cytology Center, Red Clay Indian School, and Connecticut Institute for the Blind.

Danbury suspensions THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT OF '76

By JOHN SIBUN

An event which may not have been fully appreciated at the time, this past summer, was the recognition of Manchester Community College as an official National Bicentennial College. Designated by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, MCC was the first community college in Connecticut to be thus recognized. Mrs. Georgia Ireland, Regional Director for ARBA, stated that MCC was selected "because of the fine program planned by the Bicentennial Committee." The college has a varied program planned which includes several guest lecturers on topics related to the Bicentennial sponsored by the Institute of Local History, the Cultural Program Committee of MCC and the Manchester Historical Society. A spring lecture on "Women in Connecticut History" is among those scheduled.

Under the direction of Charles Plesse, assistant professor of speech and drama, and Mary Ann Roy, professor of history, an all-American drama festival will be the theme of the 1975-1976 MCC dramatic productions.

Several other programs are under consideration, including a ballet, a screening of the film, "1776" and plans for a Peoples Park are in the development stage. Situated on the campus the park will be available for community use.

All in all, the MCC program, developed by John Sutherland and Thomas Bavier will make a most meaningful contribution to the over-all Manchester Town Bicentennial project.

Of immediate interest are the colonial dinners at the college. One was held on Oct. 8. If you missed this opportunity, make a note that you can enjoy an authentic colonial meal on Dec. 2 in the Hotel Food Management Dining Room.

Manchester area Bicentennial Commissions helped the state man their information booth at "The Big E" in Springfield and found it a rewarding experience. In addition to handing out local and state Bicentennial information of forthcoming events the volunteers met and talked with the hundreds of visitors who were attracted to the booth. One such visitor was Governor Ella Grasso, who dropped by for a chat on the Expositions Connecticut Day. What made the information center even more meaningful was that other New England states did not have one. Once again, Connecticut has taken the lead in the Bicentennial field. We were able to interest many potential out-of-state visitors to come to the Constitution State in 1976 and share our heritage.

Mention of visitors reminds us that there are plans afoot to bring people to this country next year from Great Britain. Under the working name of "Operation Redcoat" (though by usage this name seems to be also the official name), the Greater Hartford Bicentennial Advisory Committee, aims to develop this Bicentennial guest program. It is hoped that the 29 towns in the Capitol Region will take at least ten couples each, thus having open in 1976, but to ensure that its well-being continues for the years to come. All local historical, Bicentennial and like organizations are being asked to help in this project. If you would like to find out what contribution you can make to Save the Old State House call any of the above groups. To contemplate that this historic building may be closed in 1976 is unthinkable.

Another item of regional interest is the Old State House. Since we last mentioned this subject I am happy to say there have been positive steps taken, not only to keep this beautiful old building open in 1976, but to ensure that its well-being continues for the years to come. All local historical, Bicentennial and like organizations are being asked to help in this project. If you would like to find out what contribution you can make to Save the Old State House call any of the above groups. To contemplate that this historic building may be closed in 1976 is unthinkable.

at 7 p.m. Saturday 25th, in the auditorium of the Greater Hartford Community College on the "China Week" to be conducted by the Connecticut Valley Chapter of the U.S.-China People's Friendship Association. Their talks will be presented

Danbury suspensions being challenged

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A Danbury legal aid lawyer has filed a suit in U.S. District Court challenging the suspension of two unidentified black students from Danbury High School as a result of racial disturbances.

The action, filed by attorney Whitney Lewendon, challenges the constitutionality of a new state law covering student suspensions from public schools. Named as defendants are Dr. Mark Shedd, state commissioner of education; Danbury School Supt. Pasquale Nappi and Danbury High Principal William Ryan. Lewendon said he filed the suit as part of a class action covering all students at the school who may be suspended as a result of the current board policy. The two, he said, were denied due process of law. Lewendon said due to a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, students have a fundamental right to be in school and that before being suspended, they must be given notification of their suspension. Lewendon also said that students are required to have a hearing into the reasons for the suspension. A stipulation in the Selecting what to model at a fashion show can be difficult for twins Joan Goulet, left, and Jane Goulet, especially if their tastes are different. The Goulet sisters are one of four sets of twins who will be modeling tonight at 7:30 in a fashion show at Bailey Auditorium, Manchester High School. The show is co-sponsored by the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) group of the Cooperative Education-Occupational Program at the high school and King's Department Store. There will be refreshments and door prizes. The event is open to the public. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Nun to speak at St. James

Sr. M. Francis de Sales, director of School Apostolates of Sisters of Mercy in West Hartford, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the St. James Home and School Association Monday at 8 p.m. in St. James School cafeteria.

Her topic will be "The Parent, Child, School." Sr. de Sales is a former faculty member and dean of Diocesan Sisters College, Madison Branch, and a former principal of campus school, Our Lady of Mercy Country Day School in Madison.

From 1965 to 1971, she was assistant to Major Superior of Sisters of Mercy with special responsibility in the area of education for Community of Sisters of Mercy.

Sr. de Sales is a member of the general council of Sisters of Mercy, chairman of the New England Association of Directors of Education, and a member of the archdiocesan committee on adult education. She received her B.S. degree from St. Joseph College, West Hartford, and her master's degree in education from Boston College.

Check fireplace
Sitting near a nice hot, crackling fire in the fireplace is a cozy way to spend a cool fall or winter night. When you have a fire in the fireplace do you...
1. Always have a metal screen across the front of the fireplace?
2. Never try to quicken fire with kerosene or gasoline?
3. Arrange andirons so logs can't roll out?
4. Keep paper, kindling, rugs, and furniture away from area where a spark could hit them?
5. Never go off and leave a fire unattended in the fireplace?
6. Remember not to burn trash in the fireplace?

Health Careermobile to visit MHS

The Manchester High School guidance department is sponsoring a series of activities for seniors who do not plan to continue formal education beyond high school. The first session began today with Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche of the Connecticut State Employment Service discussing the various job opportunities now and in the near future.

On Monday, a Health Career-mobile will be available in the student parking lot from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. In the career-mobile will be information on health careers, professionals in the field to talk with students, and audio-visual materials for student use.

The Health Career-mobile has been made available by the Connecticut Institute for Health Manpower Resources, Inc. Apprenticeships and labor unions will be discussed by speakers Tuesday.

Representatives from the armed forces will be at the high school Oct. 30 to explain the opportunities after high school in the armed services. The training and educational programs will also be discussed.

If there is sufficient student interest, a Manchester business and industry day is being considered. To date, more than 40 Manchester businesses or industries have indicated a willingness to have students visit their establishments for a tour and discussion of the kinds of jobs available.

On Nov. 13, Mrs. Sara Robinson, guidance counselor, will conduct a seminar on applying for jobs. It will include activities such as filling out applications, writing a job resume, and job interviews.

Early in December, bus trips to technical schools and to business schools or Hartford businesses will be arranged if student interest warrants them.

For students who desire them, tests to determine mechanical and finger dexterity and other aptitudes will be given in December.

Parents or townspeople who wish to attend any of the sessions are welcome.

Colonial course offered

"Colonial America," a six-week, non-credit course will be offered Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. starting Nov. 4 at Manchester Community College.

It is part of MCC's Bicentennial celebration. The MCC Institute of Local History and the Division of Community Services worked together to offer the course.

Mrs. Mary Ann Roy will be the main instructor. She is an assistant professor of history at MCC.

Guest lecturers will include Freeman Meyer, a professor at the University of Connecticut, and John Sutherland, assistant professor of history at MCC.

Topics will include town planning, architecture, family life, and religion.

To learn more or to register, call the community services office at 646-2137.

MCC soccer clinic set for Saturday

The Manchester Community College soccer clinic is reset for Saturday at Cougar Field off Wetherell St., weather permitting.

Two earlier dates were rained out. It is open to boys and girls 6 to 12.

MCC coach Jim Dyer and his varsity booters will hold the session from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Young booters can register from 9 to 9:30 a.m. Dyer will work on the basics of soccer: passing, trapping, heading, dribbling, and shooting.

The winner of a "beat the goalie" contest with MCC's Dave Treeschuk will get a new soccer ball. John Pringle and Associates of Williamstam donated the ball.

MCC will play Worcester Junior College of Worcester, Mass. at 11 a.m.

Divers recover drowning victims

MARLBORO, Vt. (UPI) — The body of a Connecticut father and his 3-year-old son were found by divers Tuesday in Sunset Lake here, according to state police.

Police said the bodies of John Burke, 48, and his son, John, were found near each other in the bottom of the small southern Vermont lake.

On Sunday the body of a third member of the Wetherfield, Conn. family, Mrs. Eleanor Burke, was found floating near a submerged rowboat.

Obituary

Parker dies, ex-bank head

Edmund E. Parker, 55, of 71 Charter Oak St., former president of the Manchester State Bank, died Wednesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Parker was named president and a director of the bank when it was formed in 1970 and served in the post until he retired in December 1974.

Before joining the State Bank, he was executive vice-president of the Woodbridge Bank and Trust Co. He was executive vice-president and cashier of the Vermont National Bank for four years before assuming the post in Woodbridge, a suburb of New Haven.

He was born Sept. 2, 1920 in Grand Isle, Vt., and lived in Vermont before coming to Manchester five years ago. He was a graduate of Burlington (Vt.) High School and the University of Tampa (Fla.) School of Business. He attended banking courses for two years each at West Point Academy in New York, and at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. He also took courses at Dale Carnegie Institute, Hartford, and at various schools sponsored by the American Institute of Banking.

During his banking career, he was associated with the Massa (N.Y.) Banking and Trust Co., first as assistant secretary and then as vice-president, and with the Chittenden County Trust Co., Liverton, Vt. During World War II, he served with the Navy. Mr. Parker was a member of South United Methodist Church, Manchester, Lodge of Elks and the Massa Lodge of Massa. He also was treasurer of the Vernon Square Dance Club.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs.

Blood drawing canceled

Monday's scheduled visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at Concordia Lutheran Church has been postponed due to the strike of the blood collection workers.

Only one other collection of such a visit occurred many years ago to a blizzard when the Bloodmobile was scheduled to visit Manchester Memorial Hospital. There was a problem at time with plowing out parking spaces. However, the Bloodmobile visit was made the following week, said Mrs. Elaine Sweet, director of the Manchester Red Cross office.

The local office is attempting to contact the 150 persons who had made appointments and reschedule them for a later operation. The monthly quota is 150 pints.

Blood donations will be taken at the Farmington Red Cross Headquarters on Friday and Saturday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

In addition, blood donors are being scheduled by the Manchester Red Cross office to donate directly at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Arnold Toynebe historian, dies

YORK, England (UPI) — Historian Arnold Toynebe, 86, died at his home today. The cause of death was not immediately disclosed by a family spokesman who made the announcement.

Toynebe was best known for his monumental 12-volume work, "A Study of History," written between 1927 and 1961.

He described it as an attempt to take a synthetic view of the whole of human history. It traces a pattern in the rise and fall of civilizations, their birth, growth and decay.

Pantry needs restocking

Mrs. Edward Cavin of 18 Denver Rd. checks over the shelves of the Emergency Food Pantry for needed items. The Collegiate Civic Club at Manchester Community College is working with the Manchester Area Council of Churches to restock the shelves. The club will pick up donated items from town schools Friday and from churches on Sunday. The pantry was built by the club and MAOC members last March. It has helped 78 families during the winter. Supplies needed most are powdered and canned milk, canned meats and fruits, peanut butter and crackers, tuna fish, juices, pasta and sauces, gelatine and puddings. (Herald photo by Pinto)

CAP squadron to join walk

Members of Manchester Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will participate in a walk-a-thon Nov. 2 for the benefit of the Arthritis Foundation.

Cadets will walk in uniform with full back packs. The Civil Air Patrol will also make a first aid station along the route.

Individuals or groups interested in sponsoring the group may call Lt. Rosalie Gwyn, 646-8344.

Return from Italy

Enrico Reale and John Kozak, past grand knights of Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus, with their wives returned recently from a two-week tour of Italy.

The high spots of their trip were a Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome in which they visited the Basilica, St. Peter's Cathedral and the Sistine Chapel. They also had an audience with Pope Paul at the Vatican.

Other sites visited were Strada, Venice, Florence, the Isle of Capri, and the Colosseum.

Scott Joplin's first success, "Maple Leaf Rag," was named for a saloon in Sedalia, Mo.

Two firms to be honored for hiring handicapped

Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche, secretary of the Local Area Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped, will present Employer of the Year awards Thursday at an Insight '75 breakfast at The Colony in Talcottville.

Awards will be presented to Lydall, Inc. and Cheney Brothers. These awards are presented each year to area employers who have demonstrated a consistent policy of hiring handicapped workers.

Brief talks outlining their experience with handicapped employees and the contributions made by these employees to the company's progress will be given by Durward Miller, representing Cheney Brothers, and Daniel Sotarsky, from area employers, town officials and legislators.

Juveniles went on spree with loot from burglaries

State police in connection with investigations of breaks into homes and businesses and the theft of motor vehicles in Mansfield, Tolland, Ellington, 10-41 Manager Johnson to meet to talk to Tiant, who had lost his fast ball.

10:46 After two long fly balls, Foster doubled off center field wall to give Reds 5-3 lead.

10:55 When Geromino led off with long homer down rightfield line, Tiant exited to standing ovation and pat on backside from manager.

11:00 Some fans started to move toward the exits.

11:17 Pinch hitter Carbo lined homer into centerfield bleachers with two runners on base and Fenway came alive.

11:27 "Let's go Sox" chant marked start of last half of ninth.

11:29 Doyle walked.

11:30 Yaz singled to left.

11:32 McEnaney, seventh Red pitcher, came on with everyone in park standing.

11:34 Fisk was intentionally walked to load the bases with no outs.

11:35 Lynn skied to short left near the stands and Foster's throw home was in plenty of time for Bench to tag out Doyle.

11:37 Petrocelli was an infield out and Red Sox hearts nearly stopped pounding.

11:47 Concepcion stole second in 10th with one out.

11:54 Darcy in to pitch, No. 8 for Reds.

12:09 Evans made the catch of game, robbing Morgan of a possible homer, sure extra base hit, and his throw to first doubled up Griffey who had rounded second and was on his way to third. Catch made just in front of Red bullpen.

12:18 Wise in to pitch, marking 12th pitcher to work in series, eight for Reds, four for Red Sox, a record for most pitchers in one game.

12:30 Geromino called out to end 12th Cincinnati inning with two men on base.

12:33 Fisk watched a high pitch for a ball and deposited second high off leftfield foul line pole for game-winning homer as Boston fans went wild.

No. 6 will go down as one of the all-time great dramatic series games, complete with everything one would want.

Tonight, Boston will attempt to become the first team in major league history to win two World Series games in the same year.

Fans will talk about Tuesday's game for years to come. It's too bad one team had to lose.

Dramatic home run by Fisk in 12th inning ties World Series and forces seventh game

Happiest man at Fenway Park Carlton Fisk watches home run in 12th

The Herald Angle

By Earl Yost Sports Editor

Fenway Park timetable

8:08 Tiant received a standing ovation when he walked from the dugout to the bullpen to warm up. Temperature was 64 degrees.

8:11 He took one lap around outfield from bullpen to left field corner as brilliant full moon glowed over rightfield bleachers.

8:15 Started warming up.

8:25 Finished warming up.

8:31 Tiant walked to mound.

8:33 First pitch to Pete Rose called strike.

8:34 Yastrzemski made sliding catch of Rose bid for hit.

8:36 First baserunner, Ken Griffey, walked.

8:42 Tiant fanned Bench to end first inning.

8:48 Lynn hammered three-run homer into centerfield bleachers, his first since Sept. 14. Also, first by rookie since Reggie Smith in 1967 with Red Sox against St. Louis.

8:58 First chant of Lou-e, Lou-e from stands.

9:03 Tiant batted and at 9:04 was called out on strikes.

9:10 Rose singled to center on change-up, first Red hit.

9:27 Petrocelli went down swinging, foul tip with bases loaded with Red Sox.

9:30 Banner 'Tiant for President' displayed.

9:36 Perez to third, Foster to first on Burleson's error.

9:37 Second chant, Lou-e ringer park.

9:38 Concepcion fouled out to end threat.

9:45 Tiant, attempting to bunt, dropped fly over head of charging first baseman Perez and Red Sox runners on second and third.

9:50 Rose singled to center, moving Armbrister to third.

10:01 Griffey tripled off centerfield wall, scoring two runs as Lynn felt motionless after all-out try to catch ball. The triple was the first ball in three games Cincinnati hit off wall.

10:06 Fench singled off wall to drive in Griffey with tying run.

10:26 Tiant got out of serious jam with two runners on base in sixth and it was obvious he was tiring.

10:37 Griffey singled past Cooper (goat of the series with one hit in 18 at bats) to open seventh.

10:41 Morgan fouled single to left.

10:41 Manager Johnson to mound to talk to Tiant, who had lost his fast ball.

10:46 After two long fly balls, Foster doubled off center field wall to give Reds 5-3 lead.

10:55 When Geromino led off with long homer down rightfield line, Tiant exited to standing ovation and pat on backside from manager.

12:33 Fisk watched a high pitch for a ball and deposited second high off leftfield foul line pole for game-winning homer as Boston fans went wild.

No. 6 will go down as one of the all-time great dramatic series games, complete with everything one would want.

Tonight, Boston will attempt to become the first team in major league history to win two World Series games in the same year.

Fans will talk about Tuesday's game for years to come. It's too bad one team had to lose.

Time of game, 4:01.

BOSTON (UPI) — It could only have been more dramatic if Carlton Fisk hit his home run in the seventh game rather than the sixth, when, in the bottom of the twelfth inning he kept the Red Sox alive in the World Series.

Fisk's homer was the Red Sox' third of the night—each more climactic than the previous one—and combined with a game-saving catch by Dwight Evans gave Boston a 7-6 win over the Reds and set up a seventh game finale.

Tonight two lefties, Cincinnati's Don Gullett and Boston's Bill Lee—oppose each other in the deciding game at a park that is supposed to be death for left-handed pitchers.

For the Red Sox, Fisk's homer was the last of three dramatic game saving plays.

The first was Bernie Carbo's pinch hit home run in the eighth inning for three runs to tie the score at 6-6 in the last of the eighth.

"The book says to pitch him (Carbo) away," said Rawley Eastwick. "I threw it high and inside."

Then the catch by Evans—a desperate over-the-shoulder grab to rob Morgan of a run scoring triple in the 11th.

And finally Fisk's homer, a 1-0 pitch off loser Pat Darcy which hit off the left field foul pole.

The Red Sox went up 3-0 in their first when rookie Fred Lynn belted a home run into the center field bleachers after singles by Carl Yastrzemski and Fisk.

The Reds finally solved the mystery of Luis Tiant's more in the seventh of Tiant, who has beaten them twice in this series, on George Foster's two-out double plus another in the eighth on a homer by Cesar Geronimo.

Rick Wise, the fourth Red Sox pitcher and the 12th in the game, was the winner after retiring the Reds in the 11th.

"Hell, I hate to lose," said Rose in the dressing room after the game. "But Fisk's homer was the only way that game could end. I'm just glad I was a part of it. My son and I will be talking about this one for years to come."

After Geromino's homer, no one could blame the Reds if they had begun to really believe Manager Sparky Anderson's season-long boast that they were the best team in baseball. When Carbo stepped to the plate in the eighth, the Reds were only four outs away from making that boast reality.

But Carbo, an ex-Red who stung them for a pinch-hit solo homer to the opposite field in the third game of the series, did it again, tagging a 2-2 Rawley Eastwick fastball into the center field bleachers with Lynn and Rico Petrocelli aboard to tie the game 6-6.

But if Carbo's homer didn't stun the Reds, Evans' catch certainly did.

Rose led off the Reds' 11th by getting hit by a pitch from Dick Dargatzis. Fisk, however, threw Rose out at second on a pinpoint peg after Ken Griffey unsuccessfully tried a sacrifice bunt. Morgan followed with a line drive to right which looked like certain extra bases until Evans grabbed it at the wall in the webbing of his glove, then Griffey and relayed the ball back to the infield, doubling up Griffey at first.

Actually, the Red Sox could have prevented Evans' catch from ever being necessary. Obviously given new life and hop by Carbo's homer, they loaded the bases with none out in the ninth.

Denny Doyle led off with a walk, Yastrzemski singled and after Will McEnaney replaced Eastwick, Fisk was walked intentionally to load the bases. Lynn then lofted a fly down the left field line which Foster caught a foot inside fair territory and nailed Doyle at the plate with a near-perfect throw to Johnny Bench.

"I know one thing," said Reds third baseman Rose. "Third base coach Dom Zimmerman gave Doyle the 'go' sign. He went home on his own."

Doyle's daring decision proved temporarily costly to the Red Sox, who saw the opportunity die with Petrocelli's inning-ending ground out.

For sure, it was not a seventh game. But for sheer drama and memorable baseball, one needed only to seek out Rose—a genuine charged up live wire in an otherwise gloom-stricken Cincinnati clubhouse.

"If this ain't the number one pastime, I don't know what is," Rose crowed.

Eerie hush draped over Fenway Park

Lynn sprawled motionless

BOSTON (UPI) — It lasted only a few seconds but it seemed like forever.

For that awful moment, all was quiet. An eerie hush draped over Fenway Park Tuesday night. Hardly a word was heard.

As Lynn lay there, in full view, another picture flashed through to mind. It was that of Boston's other star rookie outfielder Jim Rice doubled over on pain on Sept. 21 in Detroit. A bone in his left hand had been broken by an inside pitch from Vern Ruhle. And Rice never played another game this season.

Lynn, a daredevil fielder, had taken off like a rocket against St. Louis. He didn't even break stride as he reached the warning track. At the last second, he leaped for the ball.

His right shoulder slammed into the concrete wall. His body twisted cruelly and the impact whipped his body, shoulders and head against the wall.

As the ball craved away, right-fielder Dwight Evans chased it down and fired it into the infield. He then turned and raced toward Lynn. Left fielder Carl Yastrzemski already was standing over Lynn.

Neither Evans nor Yaz knew what to do. So they left him alone until for Boston's Charlie Leisach, who followed closely by Manager Darrell Johnson.

Sure the Reds were rallying. And this was a do-or-die game for Boston. But all that seemed trivial. What

Washouts good, bad in Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — The rains that washed the World Series into this week brought some good news and some bad news.

The good news was for Boston area business, which received an extra $450,000, according to an estimate by Robert Cummings, president of the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau.

The bad news was for NBC, which is paying some of its employees triple-time for their work in radio and television broadcasting of the series.

It was also for the Boston Red Sox, who have incurred extra overtime for the ground crew and extra expense in maintaining their hospitality suite for visiting media personnel for several extra days.

The Sox also had to pay for the bus which took the Cincinnati Reds to Tufts for workouts.

Another bad news recipient was Harold Crozier, 42, of Australia. He saw the first five games of the series, but could not rearrange his travel for three extra days in Boston. He had to leave Tuesday night.

Hotels reported a windfall of rooms staying full longer than expected, although the Ritz Carlton said, "October is our peak month, and we fill regardless."

Baseball No. 1? Ask Pete Rose

BOSTON (UPI) — "If this ain't the number one pastime, I don't know what is," bellowed Pete Rose in the gloom of the losing Cincinnati Reds dressing room.

The Reds had just been beaten 7-6 by the Boston Red Sox in one of the most dramatic World Series games in history, but Rose couldn't have been more excited.

"My God, you couldn't have more exciting things than that," said Rose, referring to Carlton Fisk's game-winning homer off the foul pole leading off the 12th.

Fisk agreed, saying, "I'm sure he's going to be sore tomorrow because he took a good shot on the tailbone, but he showed me a lot of guts."

It was Lynn in the first inning who brought the Red Sox fans out of their seats with a towering, 400-foot homer over the Red Sox bullpen in left centerfield. The shot, which gave Boston a 3-0 lead, was the first homer hit by a rookie in World Series play since Reggie Smith did it twice in 1967 for Boston against St. Louis. And ironically, Griffey's drive that nearly kayoed Lynn was the first ball hit off the Green Monster—Fenway Park's 37-foot high left field fence—in the three World Series games played here this year.

Before getting tying homer

'Don't strike out' Carbo kept saying

BOSTON (UPI) — Bernie Carbo kept telling himself, "Don't strike out." He didn't.

Instead, one of the forgotten men of the Boston Red Sox tied the game and a World Series record with a three-run eighth inning homer Tuesday. The Red Sox finally won 7-6 on a dramatic Carlton Fisk home run in the 12th.

With two on and two out in the eighth, Carbo, relegated to the bench during the series, pinch-hit for pitcher Roger Moret. Boston was behind 6-3.

After working Cincinnati's ace reliever, Rawley Eastwick, out of the box, Carbo took a feeble out of a breaking ball, getting enough to foul it behind the plate. He sent the next one out to dead center on a line.

It disappeared into the bleachers.

"I was just trying to make contact," said Carbo. "All I kept saying to myself was 'Don't strike out. Don't strike out.' I was a little embarrassed on the pitch before. I took a funny swing."

The homer was his second as a pinch-hitter in the series, tying a record set in 1959 by Chuck Essegian of the Los Angeles Dodgers. His first one, in last Tuesday's third game, was hit off his old Cincinnati roommate, Clay Carroll.

Carbo was mobbed in the dugout.

"I was really excited," said Carbo. "When I hit it, I thought it was good enough to go out but I wasn't sure. After I touched first, I looked again and it was gone."

Carbo, acquired during the 1973 World Series along with Tuesday's winner, Rick Wise, has had a history of home runs on memorable occasions.

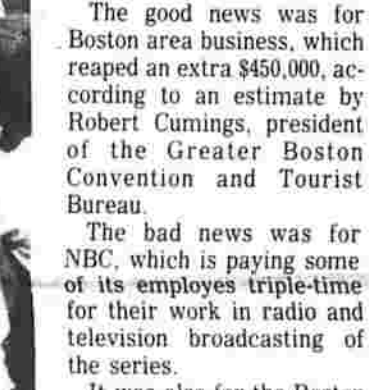

"My first hit in the big leagues was a homer and my first hit in the World Series was a homer," said Carbo. "After Cecil Cooper struck out to end the eighth, Carbo was sent in to play left field, moving Carl Yastrzemski to first."

"I was really surprised," he said. "My defense isn't that strong and I'm kind of surprised he (Manager Darrell Johnson) stuck with me."

He made himself useful in left, snaring a wind-blown pop-up to end the 11th inning.

Catholic's best offensive showing of season nets easy 31-6 victory against Bloomfield

East, now 3-0 over-all with a game just two days away Friday night in Middletown against awesome Xavier High, was whistled 14 times and charged with 176 yards in penalties. Bloomfield totaled 11 first downs, five coming on yellow flags.

Catholic after they were off for a long time. This was a good tuneup for Xavier. East's five touchdowns came on lengthy runs including a record-setting 94-yard jaunt by fullback Kevin Shorey in the third period.

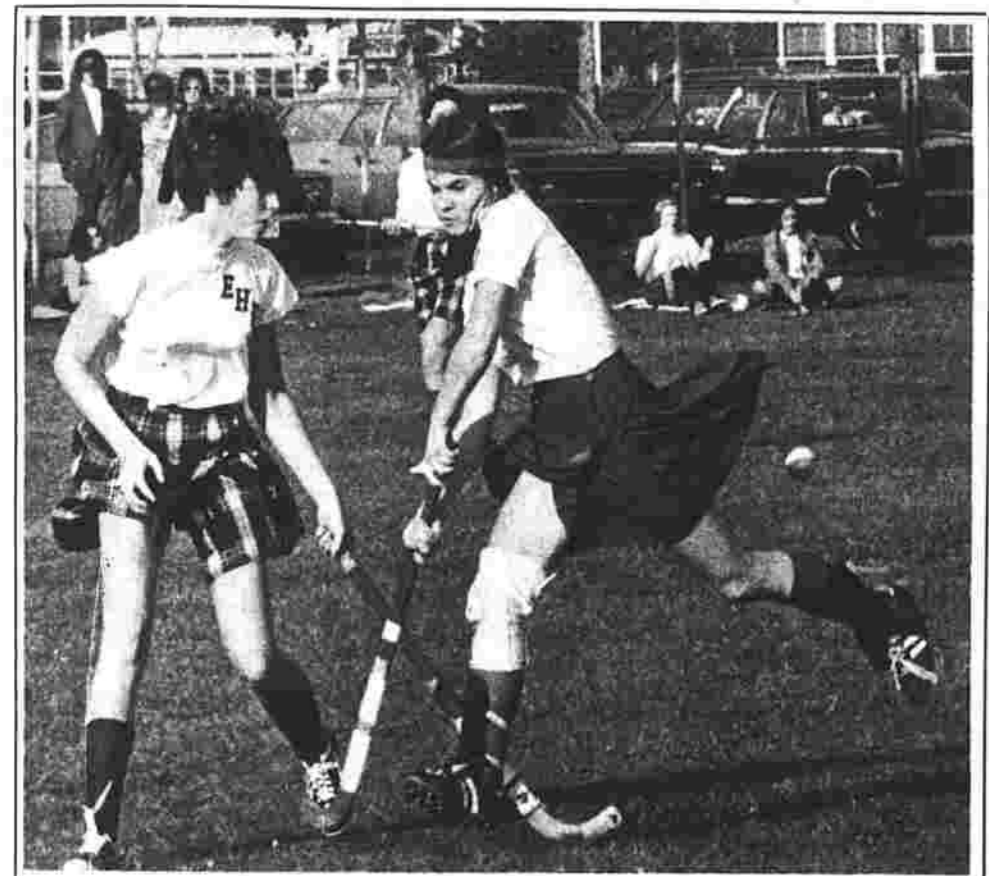

After stopping the Warhams, now 1-5 in all games, cold, East took over at its own 36. On the first play, Furlong, who is not a passer of what you'd call dazzling speed, darted right on the option and kept it going the distance for the touchdown.

East's defense, was effectively giving Bloomfield no yardage but a personal foul infraction nullified one punt and a too many men on the field penalty allowed the visitors to hold onto the pigskin.

Bloomfield prevented the shutout on a nice 39-yard bolt up the middle by sophomore Robert Walker. Walker did all the work setting up the touchdown, returning the kickoff 41 yards and then carrying three straight times. Walker totaled 60 yards on 14 carries with his teammates netting a total of one yard.

Shorey led the East attack with 140 yards on just six carries. Furlong completed two of three passes for 80 yards and one score.

U.S. renews domination in swimming, wrestling

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States, having asserted itself in track and field, renewed its domination in swimming and wrestling, will try to regain some lost prestige in basketball and baseball at the Pan American Games today.

The Americans have gone without a major international basketball victory since the 1968 Olympics, but that embarrassment will be cured tonight if the U.S. can knock off the Cubans.

And over at the baseball stadium, curiously named Club Social Security Park, the U.S. club coached by Florida Southern's Hal Smetizky will have a chance at the Cubans as well, a win in that game putting the Americans into a gold medal contest with Mexico. The U.S. team has won only one of the previous six Pan American baseball titles.

While these two clubs were waiting their chance, the American gold medal tidal wave continued as the Games began to wind down. Of the 23 gold medals decided Tuesday, 15 went to the U.S.

It was a 6-for-6 sweep for the United States in the swimming pool. Americans grabbed five of the 10 first places in a night of freestyle wrestling finals, the U.S. picked off a team gold medal in gymnastics, captured two more in yachting and won another at fencing in women's sabre.

That brought the American gold medal total to 73 and moved them within range of the astounding 89 first places collected in the Games four years ago at Cali, Colombia. Cuba was far back in second place with 31.

As successful as the Games have been for the Americans, the U.S. guys are looking forward to this one," said basketball coach Marv Harshman of the University of Washington. "I think we have the people capable of playing well."

A victory over Cuba would automatically give the U.S. the

Showing in track sparked by anger

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States' Pan American Games track and field coach, Roy Griak, today credited his team's overwhelming performance last week at least in part — to anger.

"I think our kids got a little mad," said Griak, from the University of Minnesota. "The kids felt they were being unfairly treated and they took it out with a better performance against the competition. It was a matter of self motivation."

The U.S. won 19 of 37 gold medals awarded in track and field to only seven for the challenging Cubans. And many of those medals were won under very hostile conditions.

"The jeering we received was very distressing to me," Griak said. "I know nobody in our group ever boomed an athlete. It is kind of tough to see one of our young people—and some of them were very young, 15-17 to take the stand after an effort and get whistled at."

And the treatment of our walkers was deplorable. Some were shoved and spat on. There is no place in sport for that kind of thing."

Griak said that although the United States should have a good track and field team for the Montreal Olympics, that did not mean the Americans would dominate.

"Some of the possibilities we could have good performances but fewer medals," he said. And he said the Pan American Games was a "clear example that more help should be provided American's international athletes."

Summer Olympic site workers out on strike

MONTREAL (UPI) — Workers at the 1976 Summer Olympics sites have vowed to remain on strike until city officials justify identity card procedures which have blacklisted 300 men from the sites.

A spokesman for the Municipal Department of Public Works said Tuesday, however, the city and construction companies are waiting for the union to take the initiative and end the three-day strike.

A spokesman for the Quebec Federation of Labor said the workers walked out for the second time in three weeks because of the city's reluctance to scrap an identity card procedure on the sites.

"Now we don't even know the reason for the exclusion of about 300 workers in the last five months. It is for the city to say what it will do to abolish this situation. It's not for us to give them an answer."

It was the second walkout on the sites since Sept. 30 when 200 crane operators went on strike for four hours in protest of the identity cards.

The cards were issued to workers last May by police after the Quebec government released a report exposing corruption in the labor industry. The identity cards are used to screen out "troublemakers."

"It's impossible to work in these conditions of repression and insecurity," the union spokesman said. "The workers want the abolition

Hartford action questioned by Glastonbury association

VERNON

Concerning the suit filed by the City of Hartford to halt the release of Community Development Act funds to seven suburban communities, a Glastonbury group called, Homeowners Association of Addition Bog, is urging the governing bodies in the towns, the general public, and the news media to join in demanding answers to some questions.

Vernon, East Hartford, and Glastonbury are the Manchester area towns involved in the funding. Hartford has charged that the towns do not intend to use the funds for low-rent housing.

The association questions how this legal action is going to bring more low and moderate income housing into the area noting that it appears that the action is doing nothing except depriving the general area of its share of federal funds.

The group also questions how Hartford's actions can justify the blocking of $5 million in federal money mostly earmarked for redevelopment and construction projects, to the unemployed construction workers in the area during this period of high unemployment.

They claim that most of the $5 million would be spent to provide jobs and improve the economic conditions of the area but because of the city's legal action the funds are frozen in Washington where they benefit no one.

"Who is to gain from carrying out this legal action?" is another question raised by the homeowners group. "It is difficult to see any potential gain for the city since funds would be turned back to HUD and Hartford has already received its maximum share according to HUD," the group states.

They also said the suburban towns can't benefit from a delay of funds which would require them to complete many projects with higher tax revenues instead of federal grants, or delay projects and watch the cost continue to rise.

The group further claims that the blocking of the federal funds from coming into the area is not going to build more low and middle income housing but, it is going to keep many of them unemployed for a longer period of time.

"Antagonizing your neighbors is not the best avenue toward regional cooperation," the group told the city officials.

It also posed the question as to how much money will be spent to pursue and defend the legal action and said, "We wonder how many housing units could be constructed with the funds being appropriated to pay the city and town legal fees which will be required to bring this legal action to a conclusion."

They call on the town officials, the general public, and the news media of the area to join them in demanding answers to the questions and said they are convinced that the answers will point out the detrimental effects on all the area by continuing to pursue the legal action.

Some towns have threatened boycotting the city as a means of showing their disagreement with the action. James D. Black, president of the homeowners group said, "We sincerely hope that the extreme actions of imposing an economic boycott and terminating cooperative regional projects, will not be necessary as a demonstration to convince Hartford's leaders to drop this senseless pursuit."

Council okays teacher pact

VERNON

A teacher salary contract, approved by the Vernon Education Association and the Board of Education, will be in effect from July 1 to June 30, 1976. The contract provides for a 7 percent increase in the first year and an eight percent increase the second year.

In recommending that the contract be approved, Mayor Frank McCoy said, "I think the teachers, by avoidance of inflammatory statements or job actions, showed their dedication to education in town. Salary negotiations went on for about 10 months and finally an agreement was reached between the two groups after going to mediation."

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said the agreement reached fits in the budget approved at the annual budget meeting. It is a two-year package allowing for a seven percent increase the first year and an eight percent increase the second year.

In connection with salary schedules, the mayor asked the council to reconsider the schedule approved for non-union town employees when the budget was being compiled.

This schedule called for a 4.5 percent increase for most employees in this category. The mayor said he did not want to be unfair to these people who are, for the most part, some of the town's oldest employees.

Sue Brainard wants Coventry schools back to basics

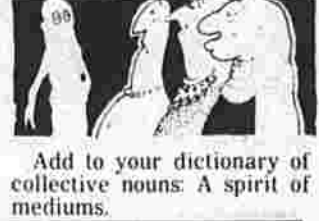

Our children are being experimented with from the time they start kindergarten until they graduate from high school, said Suzanne Brainard, GOP candidate for the Board of Education.

With all this at greater costs, there has been no improvement in our students' basic skills. In short, so much paperwork, planning, equipment and personnel have diffused and diminished the efforts of the elementary teachers with no overall benefit to the children. While some children respond well to an open, interest centered, multi-sided situation, many others require a more structured, contained classroom. From my on-going survey of the elementary schools, it is my considered opinion that most teachers are not comfortable with open classrooms sequential education.

The high school desperately needs at least one more learning disabilities teacher to help the many students in serious need of one-to-one instruction. We also need a strong administration in the high school that will provide genuine professional leadership to the staff and will develop a healthy morale in the whole student body.

Most of Coventry's students upon graduation still have little or no marketable skills. Many cannot read, write or compute well.

Barbs By PHIL PASTORET "Jaws" has swallowed every box office motion picture record on the books - including some stuff unpalatable enough to make even a shark sick.

Coventry Democrats want town manager

Democratic Town Council candidate Sandra Marrotte and William McEwen today announced their support for retaining Coventry's present system of an appointed town manager.

They do not want the Republican proposal of an elected chief executive. McEwen said, "Our present charter provides that the town manager is directly responsible to the Town Council, an elected body that closely reflects the interests of Coventry voters."

Effective administrator of the town government. "It would be unwise to turn town manager into a political football."

Some people consider frozen orange juice concentrates superior to hand-squeezed juice because they contain less oil from the skins which can cause allergies.

They do not want the Republican proposal of an elected chief executive. McEwen said, "Our present charter provides that the town manager is directly responsible to the Town Council, an elected body that closely reflects the interests of Coventry voters."

Firemen promoted

VERNON On recommendation of Rockville Fire Chief Donald Maguda the Town Council approved three appointments in the department.

Henry Pigeon of the Hook and Ladder Co. was appointed as battalion chief; Lester Waite Sr., with the department for eight years, was appointed as captain of Hook and Ladder Co. and Armand Dauphin, with the department for 28 years, was appointed captain of Fitton company.

The council also approved the appointment of Republican Charles O'Flinn as an alternate to the Zoning Commission. His term is to expire June 30, 1978.

Women's club sponsoring arts and crafts auction

TOLLAND The Tolland Junior Women's Club will sponsor its annual arts and crafts auction Oct. 30 at 8 p.m. in Tolland High School cafeteria.

Members Debbie Kaynor will conduct the auction which will feature all handmade items including Christmas gifts, and all-occasion gifts, to suit all ages and interests.

Articles to be auctioned will include home-baked goods, knitted and crocheted items, decoupage and decorative accessories, preserves and relishes, plant terrariums and many others.

Long-time newswoman honored by Council

Miss Gertrude Fuller of Cottage St., Rockville, who celebrated her 79th birthday this month will retire as Vernon bureau chief for the Hartford Courant on Nov. 10.

The Vernon Town Council, Monday night, passed a resolution designating Nov. 10 as Miss Gertrude Fuller Day in Vernon.

Bolton plans colonial ball

At a recent meeting of the Bolton Bicentennial Committee, plans for the New Year's Eve Colonial Ball were discussed.

It will be at the St. Maurice Church parish center and be a bring-your-own-bottle affair (BYOB).

Three lawyers form East Hartford firm

Atty. Marvin Apter, Philip P. Apter and Nicholas F. Serignese have announced the formation of a partnership - Clark Apter & Serignese - which will engage in the general practice of law at 531 Main St., East Boston.

He has been admitted to practice before the U.S. District Court for Connecticut. He received his B.A. degree from Clark University in 1971, graduating magna cum laude. He is also a member of Phi Kappa Phi.

When you think your budget won't stretch any further, it will...with Stop & Shop Brands.

"Always give the customer the best possible value". That's one of Stop & Shop's principles. It's one that surely applies to the products under our Stop & Shop Brands. There are more than 1200 of them... and we sell them for less than the nationally advertised brands.

"If we wouldn't want to serve it on our tables, in our homes, we don't want it in our stores". That's the rule with our Stop & Shop Brands. Under our own labels, we bring you the quality foods you like and we save you money on them.

Kindly Mr. Norris allowed the neighbors to use the swimming pool in his backyard. One day, while he was away from home, a teenage girl dove in from the top of the bathroom and injured her arm.

In short order Norris found himself on the target end of a damage suit. The injured girl claimed that he should have posted a warning sign against high dives.

Many communities, however, have increased an owner's responsibility by special ordinance—usually, by requiring pools to be fenced. Furthermore, he may become liable on grounds of simple negligence.

Another case involved the drowning of a neighbor's child in an unfenced pool. Although the pool was properly fenced, the owner had left the gate open and a gurgling noise running into the water.

In these circumstances, a court said the owner could be blamed for having set the stage for tragedy.

One neighbor, irked by the lights and noise from a new pool next door, called it a "nuisance" and sued for an abatement order. But the court, after hearing from other neighbors and finding them unimpaired, decided that the lights and noise were within lawful limits.

Social Security questions and answers

Q My husband and I are going to move to another state in two months. We both get Social Security checks. Is there some special form we have to fill out to give Social Security our new address?

A You can report your new address on the change of address form printed on the back of the envelope your Social Security checks are mailed in or you can call your Social Security office. Be sure to give both your old and new address, including zip codes, and your Social Security claim numbers which are printed on your checks. You should report your new address as soon as you know it to assure uninterrupted delivery of your checks.

Q I plan to take a holiday job in early December. I've never had a Social Security number. How do I get one?

A You can get information about applying for a number by calling or writing to any Social Security office. Do it right away because it takes several weeks to get a Social Security number. Since you are applying for a Social Security number for the first time, you will need evidence to prove your age, identity, and citizenship.

Q My husband recently started a small business and I plan to work for him. Will my work be covered by Social Security?

A No, it will not. Generally, work performed by a spouse in the employ of her husband, or husband in the employ of his wife, or a child under 21 in the employ of his father or mother, is not covered by Social Security.

Q How many people in the United States now have Medicare coverage?

A About 22.3 million people have Medicare hospital insurance, including 21.5 million people over age 65, and 1.8 million disabled people under 65. About 21 million people 65 and over and 1.6 million disabled people have Medicare medical insurance.

Q My son wants to take me to Canada for seven months. Will this affect my Supplemental Security Income payments?

A Yes, Supplemental Security Income cannot be paid for any month to anyone who is outside the United States for the entire month.

Council meets for last time

EAST HARTFORD
East Hartford's present Town Council met for the last time Tuesday.

When the council meets again Nov. 10, there will be new members on the council.

Majority Leader Stephen Barron isn't seeking reelection. On the other side of the aisle, mayoral candidate Anthony Donatelli and Hans DeFolli are not on the ballot as council candidates.

At the opening of last night's meeting, the council adopted a resolution honoring Miss Connecticut, Mary Cadorette.

Miss Cadorette, an East Hartford resident, represented the state in the recent Miss America Pageant in New York at the University of Connecticut.

Several young people gathered in council chambers to seek a teen center.

Guest speaker Ted Leitner, sports anchor for WFSB-TV in Hartford, will be guest speaker for the Thursday night meeting of the Men's Club of Temple Beth Torah. The meeting starts at 7 p.m.

East Hartford's Junior Women's Club will have their children's fair - "A Day with Six Grapes" - from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at Sunset Ridge School. There will be games, refreshments, and a white elephant sale.

Vernon's senior bus not going

Vernon's "senior citizen bus" is temporarily out of commission, Donald Berger, director of recreation said today.

He said this will affect the seniors who take the bus for club picnics on Thursday and possibly those who play bingo Monday plus the Golden Age Club meeting scheduled for Tuesday.

Berger asks the seniors to check with office on Monday morning to find out if the bus is back in running order.

The Recreation Department is seeking persons interested in working part time during the coming indoor season.

Positions to be filled include gym supervisors, league directors, and special activity personnel.

Those interested should call the recreation office or pick up an application at the department, 26 Park Pl., Rockville.

Dreselly, Ahearn differ over taxes on railroad

BOLTON
First Selectman David Dreselly has disputed previously reported amounts of back taxes which Penn Central Railroad may owe the Town of Bolton and has said it would be useless to try to collect the taxes.

Dreselly said the back taxes would amount to $4,000 or $5,000 - not the $80,000 quoted last week - if the town could collect.

He said it would be useless to place a lien against the railroad because it went bankrupt before its tax exemption expired in 1970.

Dreselly said the assessed value of the five-mile railroad right-of-way through Bolton is about $15,000.

State Rep. Aloysius Ahearn of Bolton, who has been fighting to prevent removal of tracks and ties along the right-of-way, doesn't agree with Dreselly.

Ahearn says the true value of the Bolton portion of the railroad is between $50,000 and $60,000 per mile. Ahearn said that if Bolton had placed the right-of-way on its tax list it could now try to collect more than $18,000 in back taxes.

Meanwhile, the salvage contractor removing tracks and ties along the right-of-way, Robert Klemme, says he is still waiting to hear from State Transportation Commissioner Samuel Kanell on proposals to halt removal of the tracks and ties.

The Board of Selectmen, in a letter to Park Commissioner Stanley Bates, expressed its concern that the condition of the building presented a hazard.

Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson suggested immediate demolition.

Bates said the building was of no value to the town. He said no value to the town. He said no value to the town.

Another Republican Council hopeful, Allan Caffen, said that the Democratic Council has caused the town to be plagued with unresolved problems, many of which have caused considerable disturbance and disruption to its citizens.

"As a candidate for Town Council," said Caffen, "I believe that background information and citizen input are essential. I will visit and investigate the areas (which are considered problems) and gain first hand experience about these situations."

Caffen last week visited such areas of concern as Buckland Rd., long plagued with construction problems; Pierce Rd., recently under construction; Dennis St. Smith St. and Land Rd. intersection, a spot of numerous accidents; Avery St. spillway and flooding areas; Pine Tree Lane, plagued with sinking sewers; Rye St. Park, the site of our top lighted ballfield; Firehouse on Ellington Rd.; Town Dump and the Sewerage Disposal Plant.

Caffen asked that any citizen wishing to bring his attention to other problems in town call him.

Fred DeGiacomo, Republican incumbent candidate for the Board of Education seeking his third term, is running on what he terms as "Back to Basics" theme.

DeGiacomo believes that his stand against the newly adopted Family Life Program typifies his superintendent of schools indicates that this goal has been met. We have a good program for teacher evaluation and improvement."

"In reaching the point where we can now evaluate teaching and the programs we have, it was necessary for our administrators to acquire good management skills. These skills can work in general government as well as in the school system."

"The success in achieving my main goal for education gives me confidence to believe that we can also achieve a desirable goal of better control in local government," says Cohen.

Cohen took a swipe at what he called "irresponsible statements by Republicans on fiscal responsibility."

"In four years of Republican government," said Cohen, "taxes rose ten mills."

"The Democrats have reduced taxes four mills over the last three years. Industrial assessments have risen over three per cent, which means homeowners pay a smaller share of the town's taxes which business pays a larger share," says Cohen.

Michael Enea, Democratic candidate for South Windsor Town Council, has asked for "a listing of priorities" of townpeople so that this might be used to guide township government.

Enea, son of veteran Town Clerk Charles Enea, says "A growing community like South Windsor must constantly be looked at from a fresh approach."

"I'd like to see us get back on the beam as far as new industry is concerned," said Enea. "The town's tremendous growth potential in this area can be a factor in keeping the taxes constant."

Enea feels that the question regarding the $8.7 million sewer project is "a question requiring careful understanding and consideration" by the voter.

"This issue...represents an investment, for everyone in the future and one whose effects will be magnified many times over in years ahead, both in residential and commercial development," said Enea.

South Windsor candidates are saying The Republicans

Republican incumbent Councilman Howard Fitts today charged that the "Democratic led Town Council has squandered the most important asset South Windsor has - the people."

"The people of this town have not been listened to and those who give up their time to serve on town agencies have been ignored," said Fitts.

Fitts cited the "recent debate between the mayor and the sewer Commission chairman, the resignation and ultimate resignation in the Park and Recreation Commission, and the unhappiness and later resignation of members of the Capital Improvement Commission."

Fitts, a former Mayor of South Windsor, said "there have been no inter-agency gatherings where

Less South Windsor land open to hunters

Hunting is allowed in South Windsor. But it is becoming more and more limited.

In past years, hunters have been able to hunt on a great deal of private land with the permission of landowners, said a state game warden in the Hartford office.

An area called "The Meadows" near Bissell Bridge had been leased from a landowner. It was open to hunters and it was popular among them.

Hunters can hunt in any town in the state as long as they have a valid license, hunt on state land or private land with the owner's permission, do not shoot within 500 feet of a building, and shoot only at legal game, the warden said.

"Unfortunately, more and more land is posted each year. More and more houses are built closing more and more property to hunters," he said.

But there are still hunting areas open in South Windsor, he said. The hunter just has to find them.

Patrolman appointed: Roy B. Bradrick Jr., of Storrs, a dispatcher with the South Windsor Police Department for the past two years, has been selected to fill a vacancy in a patrolman position. Chief John Kerrigan announced Tuesday.

Square dance set: The South Windsor Square Dance Club will hold an open dance Friday at the Wapping Elementary School from 8 to 11 p.m.

The caller will be Yikes Cameron. Rounds will be cued by Russ and Anita White. All club level dancers are invited.

Vernon subcommittee will study new law

A subcommittee, appointed by Mayor Frank McCoy, will study the new Town and City Development Act, to determine if its provisions would aid the town in over-all community development.

The legislative bodies of the towns have to pass the act by referendum then it has to go to a referendum vote before it is actually passed.

The mayor appointed Councilman Morgan Campbell, A. Richard Owens, and Peter Humphry, to the committee which is to work with the Economic Development Commission and Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel.

The mayor said the act could be a valuable tool to meet competition with other towns. The act offers towns wide-ranging powers to attract industry and business.

He said the act could be of some advantage in the rehabilitation of the downtown areas through provisions allowing the town to purchase, renovate and lease property to prospective businesses.

He said the law gives the tool to be selective as to the type of industry the town might want. He said he also feels it is supposed to give towns and cities protection from the escape of industries into other states because of more attractive tax packages. He said the smaller towns feel that in order to keep Connecticut in competition with other states, something like this has to be done.

The subcommittee is to report back to the council in 30 days.

News summary

Compiled from United Press International

State

NEW HAVEN — The Connecticut State Taxpayers Association will argue against proposed $1.3 million in highway toll increases because they affect only New Haven and Fairfield counties. Walter Longyear, executive director, says of the 12 toll gates affected all but three are in the two counties.

HARTFORD — "I have to go to work. If this is what they want to do to my business," Gov. Ella T. Grasso answered Wednesday when asked if she will answer the call of the National Organization of Women (NOW) to strike against sex discrimination.

Regional

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Stressing moral leadership, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., opened his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination Wednesday in the New Hampshire primary.

National

WASHINGTON — The Senate has voted to start creating more than 20 years of federal control on natural gas prices but the Senate bill faces changes in House.

LOS ANGELES — Richard Nixon, reportedly considering becoming a broadcast commentator on international affairs, says other presidents had Watergate-style operations much worse than those of his administration. He blames his downfall on biased reporting in the news media who exaggerated a "stupid mistake" of the kind tolerated by other presidents, according to television producer Wally George.

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller says he probably would have been elected President if he had changed parties and become a Democrat, "but I've always believed in the Republican Party." He made the disclosure that President Truman and Sen. Hubert Humphrey had both suggested he change parties during an interview on national public television.

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — Karen Ann Quinlan's mother says the girl, comatose since spring, must never lose sight of the need to provide her situation alive mechanically if the situation ever occurred.

NEW YORK — Children staged a Times Square march Wednesday to urge ouster of pimps, prostitutes and pornography dealers.

WASHINGTON — An Indiana congressman has set out to stop what he calls "the mad pace" of U.S. arms sales to oil-rich Kuwait and he has a fight on his hands.

LISBON, Portugal — The Socialist party today accused Portugal's Communists of intentionally instigating a climate of anarchy at all levels of society. The Communists are backing a mass rally tonight against the Socialist-dominated government of Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Eugenio Montale, a 78-year-old Italian poet, whose last collection was published 20 years ago, today won the 1975 Nobel prize in Literature, the Swedish Academy of Letters announced.

MADRID, Spain — Spanish government officials said today Generalissimo Francisco Franco was making an excellent recovery from a heart attack, but diplomats said pressure was nevertheless mounting on Franco to step down. He is 82.

JFK's daughter unhurt

Bomb explodes near home of Miss Kennedy

LONDON (UPI) — A bomb, possibly planted by the Irish Republican Army, exploded today outside the London residence of Caroline Kennedy, daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy.

One man was killed and six persons were hurt but 17-year-old Miss Kennedy escaped unhurt.

The bomb went off under the automobile of Miss Kennedy's host in London, Hugh Fraser, a conservative member of Parliament, only minutes before he was to drive her to an art course at Sotheby's Park Bernet downs.

Fraser told reporters he would have left the house earlier with Miss Kennedy had he not received a telephone call from a member of Parliament to discuss a new British trade agreement with Saudi Arabia, signed Wednesday.

So powerful was the blast that it flipped Fraser's car onto its back, with flames shooting 50 feet high.

The dead man was identified only as a passing motorist, 300 yards away, who was shaken. But none of the injured was seriously hurt.

This latest in a series of bombings in London shattered windows throughout the Fraser home and knocked him off a chair. Miss Kennedy was said to have been in her bedroom. Fraser's wife, Lady Antonia, wasn't believed to be at home.

It was not immediately clear whether the bomb was attached to the car or placed on the street beneath it in the fashionable neighborhood where many government officials and diplomats reside.

Miss Kennedy and the Fraser family left the house shortly after the blast to stay with friends nearby. She was described by a witness as "a little bit nervous" and informed Sotheby's she would not attend class today.

The bomb exploded at 8:53 a.m. on a tree-lined Campden Hill Square. One of the injured was a Fraser servant, Tessa Gundersen, 32, of the Philippines, who suffered shock and was the only victim hospitalized.

The police had two theories on the motive for the bombing.

—That it was retaliation for the life sentences given Wednesday to four IRA bombers convicted of murder in pub bombings that killed 12 persons earlier this year.

—That it was aimed at Fraser, a supporter of Ireland, as retribution for the Irish government's refusal to give in to the demands of the besieged kidnappers of Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema in Monastervein.

you can't take it with you

Oh sure, it's just a little lamp or picture, or a small chair...that's easy. But how about a 96" sofa or a pair of expensive, velvet covered love seats — What then? Or how about a full-size dining room suite — Even if you have your own truck and somehow manage to get it home and in place you're going to spend a fortune having all the scratches, dents, marks and chips removed by a furniture refinisher — kind of silly, isn't it?

On the other hand, if you shopped Watkins you wouldn't think of trying to "save-a-buck" by trying to do the impossible with your furniture. At Watkins, we pride ourselves on having super quality home furnishings at the lowest prices. (Smart shoppers know that means value.) At Watkins you won't see an additional "delivered price." Unless it's something you really can take with you and you really can save money by taking it home yourself. Smart shoppers already know that our gentle delivery, our service par excellence and satisfaction doesn't cost extra... It's one "heck you" great bonus!

Series cuts attendance at candidate session

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

The competition of the seventh and final game of the World Series was just too much to overcome Wednesday night, as a sparse audience of about 45 turned out to meet 21 Manchester office seekers at a League of Women's "Meet the Candidates" night, held in Manchester High School Cafeteria.

Included in the audience were League members, Junior Women's Club members, and candidates' spouses and friends.

All of the candidates but one was present. Paul Wilhoite, Republican running for the Board of Directors, had business commitments.

The League's program was an excellent one and the novel format permitted personal visits with the candidates on an almost one-to-one basis.

After a one-minute "statement on the issues" by each candidate, "table-hopping" was the order of business, with the candidates moving from table to table, meeting with those seated there, answering questions and talking about Manchester problems and possible solutions.

Given a different night with a larger audience, the League could have provided a much greater contribution to this year's election campaign. Be it as it may, its contribution still was great and certainly in the public interest.

Speaking first Wednesday night was Louise Cronin, Republican candidate for town treasurer. Her top priority issue, she said, is a "fully-funded and actuarially sound Pension Fund." She said, "It's up to the treasurer to object loudly and clearly when appropriation requests for the funds aren't forthcoming." She pledged to work for "prudent investment of town funds."

Democrat Roger Negro, incumbent town treasurer running for re-election, said the "proven record of professional administration" during his four years in office speaks for itself. He pointed to "the $1,928,688 in interest earned for the town during those four years," the additional yield earned by investing idle funds and the interest earned by short-term investments, as proof the town's funds are being managed properly and profitably.

To the Republicans running for the Board of Directors, the issues are as follows:

Clarence (Bud) Brown — "The issue is very clear — whether you're satisfied with the management of Manchester or not. If you return the Democrats, it's a clear indication you're satisfied with the performance of the general manager. If not, then you agree with us and there'll be a change."

Carl Zinsser — "In 1973 I pledged to listen and speak out for all the people of Manchester. I think I've done that and I pledge to continue. We must never lose sight of the need to provide Manchester taxpayers with full value for their dollars."

Harry Heinhorn — "The Democratic claim of holding down the taxline is deceiving. Without federal funding, and what is federal funding but your tax dollars, Manchester's tax rate would have gone up 10.9 mills in the past four years."

Vivian Ferguson — "The single most important issue is the abdication of the authority by the Democratic board to the

Cheney Tech boosters alarmed over consolidation suggestion

State legislators and parents of students at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical School met Wednesday night at the school in a surprise confrontation on an act concerning a master plan for vocational and career education.

Invited to the school to tour its facilities, the legislators were taken by surprise after the opening remarks in the auditorium when Andrew Tomko, president of the newly formed Parent-Student Organization, asked if anyone had any questions.

A parent from the audience stood and said he had heard a rumor of a master plan that would combine the public schools and the technical schools.

Responding to that and a barrage of questions that followed, the eight legislators seated on the platform acknowledged they neither knew the details of the plan nor had seen a copy of the plan.

A spokesman from the Connecticut Master Plan for Vocational and Career Education of the State Department of Education said today the plan only came from the printers the end of last week and probably "had not reached all the legislators yet."

Grasso wants more funds for special probe unit

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso Wednesday called for increased funding and manpower for the special state police squad that uncovered the Bridgeport-Jai Alai scandal.

Mrs. Grasso also said she doesn't believe the scandal will damage the reputation of the state.

"I feel the public image of Connecticut as being a clean state can and will be sustained," she said.

The governor said the Statewide Organized Crime Investigative Task Force, conducting the jai alai inquiry, will need more funds and agents to carry out investigations of all other parimutuel gambling operations in Connecticut.

Maj. Orlando Ragazzi, head of SOCTIF, said his men would beat the investigations immediately.

Mrs. Grasso said she has approved the state gaming commission and SOCTIF revealed jai alai owner David Friend, of Hollywood, Fla., had "admitted" giving $200,000 cash to the late John M. Bailey, former national and state Democratic chairman, in return for help in getting a gambling license.

Mrs. Grasso also said any member of her administration subpoenaed to appear at a Nov. 6 hearing into the jai alai will be required to testify. No members of her administration have been subpoenaed to the gaming commission hearing.

The governor answered with only a "yes" when asked whether there are pockets of corruption in the state as opposed to widespread corruption.

Meantime, with the Bridgeport scandal in mind, the gaming commission Wednesday placed a moratorium on the consideration of future parimutuel licenses until the SOCTIF investigations are completed.

Commission Chairman Paul Silvergeld said he believed investigators would begin first with the Plainfield greyhound racing track and the Hartford jai alai fronton, the facilities nearest completion.

The commission has subpoenaed two fronton officials to the Nov. 6 hearing on whether the commission should revoke Bridgeport-Jai Alai's gaming permit.

Friend and William Moy, also of Hollywood, the fronton's concessionaire, were handed the subpoena papers as they left a day-long session with the commission Tuesday.

Mrs. Grasso also said any member of her administration subpoenaed to appear at a Nov. 6 hearing into the jai alai will be required to testify. No members of her administration have been subpoenaed to the gaming commission hearing.

Vernon ready to serve lien on rail owner

Armed with a stop-work order and a tax lien, Vernon officials waited by the Penn Central railroad tracks on Washington St., Vernon this morning to serve them on a Brooklyn, N.Y. contractor.

Removal of the tracks has been of concern to local officials since removal equipment was spotted by Mayor Frank McCoy a few weeks ago.

The towns served tax liens on Penn Central in an effort to delay action on removal of the rails until the State Department of Transportation could come up with some way to solve the problem.

Meanwhile, the contractor has been taking up rails in the town of Bolton. This morning the contractor was in Vernon and told a Vernon police officer who was checking him out that he was going to Bolton.
