

Silver Lane students busy EAST HARTFORD

The Silver Lane PTA recently sponsored a bus trip to Hartford so all classes could visit the Mayor's World Festival. There the students met Hartford's 60 ethnic groups in native dress. They sang, danced and prepared native dishes for sampling. In school, the classes have been studying world hunger in order to have an understanding of the problem, even at the kindergarten level. With this knowledge, a delegate from each of Silver Lane's classes held a mock U.N. meeting as part of the program.

Tolland man sues Coventry man

A Coventry man, Martin F. Walsh, has a civil suit filed against him in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville in connection with an incident involving an argument over a dog and an automobile accident. The civil suit was filed by Linwood White of Tolland. Walsh also faces a breach of the peace charge in connection with the alleged incident and is awaiting jury trial in the Rockville court where he pleaded innocent to the charge. The papers filed in court on White's request, charge that Walsh appeared at White's home and accused White of stealing his dog. White suffered an injury to his left leg, right elbow and back. White is seeking $12,500 in damages and has asked for an attachment on Walsh's property. The case is scheduled to be heard Nov. 7.

Walsh attempted to leave in his car, backed into White and "caused severe and permanent injury." The suit states that White suffered an injury to his left leg, right elbow and back. White is seeking $12,500 in damages and has asked for an attachment on Walsh's property. The case is scheduled to be heard Nov. 7.

Pre-default bills face vetoes

Ford suggests court control of NYC funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Ford today proposed legislation permitting a federal court to assume control of New York City's finances if the city defaults on its debts. Such court control, the President said, would assure that vital services to New York City's eight million residents would not be interrupted. Ford said he would veto "any bill that has as its purpose a federal ban on New York City to prevent a default." This was a hardening of his previous stand in which he said he had not yet seen any legislation he could sign.

"Why, they ask, should all the working people of this country be forced to rescue those who bankrupted New York City's policies for so long - the large investors and big banks," Ford said. Ford expressed confidence New York City's default - which could come as early as Nov. 17 - would not cause a financial panic. "We have heard enough scare talk," he said. Ford said the financial markets had already anticipated and discounted the possibility of the city's default. Ford said the legislation he was proposing would give the U.S. District Court in New York City authority to preside over an orderly reorganization of New York City's financial affairs - should that become necessary.

But in order to file a bankruptcy petition with the courts, the city would also have to present "a good faith plan" for repaying its debt and "a program for placing the fiscal affairs of the city on a sound basis." Then, Ford said, the court would be empowered to authorize debt certificates - a type of bond - covering new loans by the city. Future revenues would be bound to pay off these new debts. New York owes $12.3 billion. Since March it has not been able sell bonds to raise money to pay debts as they become due. Without a federally guaranteed loan, it is expected to go into default on its debts when the new round of bonds become due.

Parents query board members on school bond referendum

By JUNE TOMPKINS Herald Reporter
"What if the school referendum is not passed and why not wait until next year after the next legislative session to vote on the referendum?" were among the questions asked and answered Tuesday night at Bentley School.

Members of the Board of Education met with Concerned Parents for Better Education to clarify some of the existing questions concerning the school referendum.

The referendum concerns a $2.4 million appropriation for additions and renovations to Bentley School and Washington School and replacement of the West Side Recreation building.

Implementation of the program is contingent upon state aid which will make the net cost to the town not in excess of $1.4 million. Wilson Dwan, assistant school superintendent, explained to the group these were the final plans in a 10-year long range plan of building and renovations in the school system.

He reminded the parents present that there were not enough voters in the Washington and Bentley areas to carry the referendum and urged them to "get the word out" to others who would be bound to pay off these new debts.

Lack of state funds has thrown a cloud of uncertainty over the outcome of the issue. If the referendum is not passed, the issue would be returned to the citizens committee for reconsideration, and then the results presented to the community. "It is not a political issue," said Yavis. Because the availability of state funds will not be known until after the next session of the legislature in February, the question was asked, "Why don't we wait until after the next session and then vote?"

Officials view back tax check

A pleased Mayor John Thompson views a check for $26,864 shown him by an equally pleased Town Manager Robert Weiss. The sum is for delinquent taxes dating back three years on the property at 815-21 Main St. It was paid to Weiss Tuesday in New York City by Abraham Druckman, owner of the vacant building.

Druckman pays town $26,864 in back taxes

By SOL R. COHEN Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester is $26,864 richer today, thanks to a check in that amount from Abraham Druckman of New York City, owner of the vacant building at 815-21 Main St. The sum is for delinquent taxes through June 30 of this year and dating back to July 1, 1972. The payment stops a foreclosure action filed by the town counsel about two weeks ago.

The check was received Tuesday by Town Manager Robert Weiss, who was in New York on town business and called on Druckman at the same time, to see if he could collect the back taxes. Weiss said Druckman, who is in his 80s, is frail and in ill health and explained it was difficult for him to make personal contact in Manchester with town officials. He said also, that Druckman was over-assessed and was equally convinced he would prevail in any court action and have his taxes reduced.

Bailey law firm did work for Plainfield dog track

HARTFORD (UPI) - The law firm of the late national and state Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey did extensive legal work for Connecticut's first dog track in Plainfield.

Bailey's partner of 28 years, attorney Alfred F. Wechsler of Hartford, told UPI Tuesday night the firm received "considerably less than" $100,000 for legal work on behalf of Connecticut Yankee Greyhound Racing Inc., which is preparing to open a parimutuel dog racing track shortly.

"I don't mind anyone being reasonable, but this is a confidential relationship," Wechsler said while declining to disclose what fee the Bailey firm received. He said the firm's involvement was not connected with the Plainfield promoter's obtaining a license from the state gaming commission.

Bailey has been accused of being the recipient of $200,000 in cash from a Bridgeport jai alai promoter for help in getting state approval for a fronton. The Hartford Courant Wednesday quoted a Florida state's attorney as confirming its information that Bridgeport jai alai promoter David Friend flew to Hartford from Hollywood, Fla., on April 8, 1974, with a suitcase containing $230,000 cash drawn from his bank. Clinic helps disturbed tots

The Community Child Guidance Clinic began a new preschool program this past year designed to handle children with primary emotional, social and developmental handicaps.

The program's goal is to provide these gains in an important part in the continuing work with the parents and to increase the likelihood of success in future public school programs.

One 3 1/2-year-old who entered at the beginning of the school year made significant progress. When he entered the program, he was not toilet trained, could not sit still, did not know how to play with toys and was unable to communicate either verbally or non-verbally.

But by the end of the year, he was toilet trained, could play with toys on his own, was responsive to teacher requests, and most significantly began showing basic communication by shaking his head for "yes" and "no."

This was a major breakthrough and generated excitement throughout the clinic. Maintaining these gains is an important part in the continuing work with the parents and this boy in school, a work which is made possible through funding from United Way.

With increased funding, the clinic could improve its services by increasing the time the clinic is open, extending consultation and community service hours, improving outreach services to the more distant towns now being serviced, and developing use as a training center for professional schools. Recession and unemployment are definite factors affecting the clinic's client population, placing added stress on those families already under pressure.

Examining special equipment

Looking over some special equipment at the Community Child Guidance Clinic are, from left, Miss Ethel Robb, chairman of the pre-school committee; Dr. Tanash Atoyanatan, director-psychiatrist, and Dr. Ellen Marmer, president of the board of directors of the clinic. They are examining an object used to teach small muscle coordination and size differentiation to severely disturbed preschool aged children.

Most residents favor anti-crime citizen groups

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter
Of the 12 candidates running for the Manchester Board of Directors, nine are for organizing citizen watchdog groups, in order to combat crime and vandalism, and three are opposed. Of the nine in favor, three insist they can exist only with the complete approval and supervision of the local police department.
The stand on the watchdog groups is in answer to three questions put to the candidates by "Concerned Citizens," an informal organization concerned with acts of vandalism and the commission of crimes. It is headed by former State Rep. N. Charles Boggin.
Opposed to "neighborhood watchers" are Democrats John Thompson and Jack Goldberg and Republican Vivian Ferguson.
The three with the qualified "yes" answers are Democrats Phyllis Jackson and Matt Moriarty Jr. and Republican Harry Reinhorn.
Replying definitely "yes" were Democrats Robert Price and Pascal Prignano and Republicans Clarence (Bob) Brown, Paul Willhide, Edward Wilson and Carl Zinsser.
To the question, "Would you support the institution of a 911 phone line (an emergency phone number) for emergency services?" all 12 answered "yes."
All 12 answered "yes" also to the question, "Would you advocate taking proper action against any town employee who goes on strike against the law?"
Willhide said he advocates action against any group or individual who goes on strike against the law.
"Concerned Citizens" asked four questions of the eight candidates for the Board of Education and got mixed answers. Democrat Carolyn Becker returned the questionnaire unanswered, explaining, "There's no way that I could answer them with a simple yes or no." She said each question would require an answer of at least a page.

To the question, "Are you in favor of a dress code?" Republican Fred Otter replied "no." Answering "yes" were Democrats Eleanor Colman, John Yavis and Paul Greenberg and Republicans Earl Odom, Gertrude DeLeo and Verna Hubbard.
Otter said, "If parents and students are satisfied to have casual clothes, then I see nothing wrong with that. I certainly am not in favor of radical or sensational clothing."
Next was the question, "Is the theory of open classrooms working?" Mrs. Colman, Mrs. Hubbard and Yavis answered "yes." Otter answered "no," Miss DeLeo said it's "debatable," and Yavis and Greenberg had no reply.
The third question was, "Would you be in favor of changes in the tenure law to make it possible to dismiss a teacher who does not perform his or her duties properly?"
Yavis, Greenberg, Odom, Otter and Miss DeLeo replied "yes" and Mrs. Colman and Mrs. Hubbard "no." The last two said the dismissals can be made under existing law.
The last question was, "With all the conflict of interest laws now, is it advisable for an educator to serve on the Board of Education?"
Mrs. Colman, Mrs. Hubbard and Miss DeLeo replied "yes," and Odom and Otter "no." Yavis and Greenberg had no reply. Greenberg said he sees no conflict of interest if the educator doesn't work in the school system. Yavis said he'd have to judge each case on its facts.
Many of the candidates for the group of open classrooms working? Mrs. Colman, Mrs. Hubbard and Yavis answered "yes." Otter answered "no," Miss DeLeo said it's "debatable," and Yavis and Greenberg had no reply.

Attend workshop

Ulrich W. Escholz and Ronald Klepacki, both assistant professors of physics at Manchester Community College, will attend a workshop in cosmology in November.
The workshop is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, Chautauque Short Course.
It will be at Hampshire College in Amherst, Mass. Nov. 10 and 11 and for two days in next March. It will deal with the study of space with emphasis on verification of the relatively theory in understanding the cosmos.
It will cover the various current questions in astronomy. It will update developments of the last five years.
The men will take on a research project between November and March.

The candidates are saying

—Carl A. Zinsser—

Republican Director Carl Zinsser today issued the following statement. "So far, over the course of this political campaign, my Democratic opponents have been stating that 10 years ago or 12 years ago the Republicans did this or that. Well, I will not debate what happened 10 or 12 years ago on a board that I or any of the current Republican candidates were not part of.
"It is time that we make a decision to take care of today's problems and to look at Manchester's future. Make no mistake about it, Manchester is a good place to live.
"But, we must elect a Board of Directors that is willing to roll up their sleeves and tackle today's problems with today's techniques. Among these problems is to stop talking about revitalizing Main St. and to do something about it. We start by cleaning up Main St. of the tax violators and turning those buildings into productive tax paying properties. We use the money from the community development funds to improve our water and sewer sources in the downtown area. We establish a revolving fund for home owners and businesses in the core of the town to modernize and update their stores and homes and then pay back at low interest rates so that more people can participate. By doing this, we can stop potential cancer in our town and also keep government involvement at a minimum.
"We actively seek out a new location for housing for the elderly in the downtown area so that our senior citizens can be close to shopping, churches, buses and other interests. Also, by locating elderly housing downtown we encourage the senior citizen to patronize Main St. businesses so that one helps the other and both benefit.
"Over the past four years we have heard nothing but rhetoric from the Democratic majority on the board and our problems remain. It is time to stop talking and time to start doing. I believe it is time for a change. If you agree, then I ask you to support the entire Republican team and let us start doing for Manchester."

Louise Cronin

Louise Cronin pledged today, "As your Republican candidate for town treasurer, if elected to this office, I will appoint an advisory committee to assist me in keeping a close watch on our economic pulse. We are most fortunate to have the insurance capitol of the world at our doorstep and I intend to utilize it to the fullest. My advisors will consist of banking and insurance experts in both the field of pension planning and investments so that the highest and soundest return for each tax dollar will be realized.
"I will not hesitate to move funds — upon maturity, or, if possible, immediately — from one institution to another if I do not think they are performing in the best interest of our town. I want the best possible return for your tax dollars and mine."

Thompsons agree on rail need

A letter from one John Thompson to another John Thompson makes it clear that the State of Connecticut and the Town of Manchester agree that all rails of the Penn Central should remain in place, in order to meet future transportation needs in the area and in the state.
Deputy State Transportation Commissioner John B. Thompson, replying to an inquiry from Manchester Mayor John W. Thompson, wrote, "It has been the policy of this department to purchase rights-of-way and we already have purchased close to 100 miles. We have seen the need, as you have indicated, and are looking forward to the use of these rights-of-way for future transportation purposes."
Mayor Thompson said, "In addition to improved bus transportation service, rail service, or the use of rails for adaptable buses, will greatly increase the possibility of resolving mass transportation in our lifetime."
Thompson said he is recommending state purchase of the Manchester-Willimantic abandoned Penn Central right-of-way.

Teachers to meet here Friday

Manchester will host two of about 30 meetings scheduled Friday in a statewide teachers' convention day planned under the aegis of the Connecticut Education Association.
Public schools will be closed Friday to allow teachers to attend the meetings.

Police officers attend seminar

Detective Robert Hennequin and Detective Sgt. Samuel Kotsch of the Manchester Police Department were among 200 police officers participating in a homicide investigation seminar last week at Franklin, Mass.
The seminar, conducted by the Dean Junior College Police Science Institute, focused on an analysis by experts of homicide investigation, including preparation of the case for trial by police and prosecution.
The Manchester sessions are a program on personnel evaluation, to be conducted at Robertson School, and a conference on environmental education, slated at Manchester High School.
The national evaluation meeting is sponsored by the Manchester Board of Education and the Manchester Education Association. Speakers at the meeting will include School Supt. James Kennedy; Mrs. Marcia Kenefick, principal of Buckley School; Gilbert Hunt, chairman of the English department at Manchester High School; and Mrs. Jean Zurkigen of the Manchester school system's learning disabilities program.
The environmental education conference is sponsored by the local school board, the National Association of Biology Teachers, and the National Science Teachers Association. It is being coordinated by Mrs. Florence Levine of the Manchester High School science department.
Keynote speaker for the conference will be Dr. Richard Goodwin, professor of botany at Connecticut College. Following the general session, teachers will have a choice of 12

Town's seasonal all-night parking ban starts Nov. 1

Manchester's seasonal all-night parking ban goes into effect Saturday, Nov. 1, and will continue through March 31, Police Capt. Richard Sartor has reminded townpeople.

Town ordinance prohibits parking on public highways or parking areas between 2 a.m. and 6 p.m. Violators are liable to a $5 fine for each violation, Sartor said.

Sartor said there were thousands of violations last year.
If parking of a vehicle presents a hazard to traffic movement or snow plowing, the vehicle may be towed at the owner's expense, Sartor said.

Sartor asked for cooperation of townpeople in keeping streets clear and safe during the winter.

PZC to delay action on sign rule changes

Town Manager Robert Weiss has asked the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) to change its regulations on temporary political signs, but PZC members aren't willing to do anything with a municipal election coming next week.

PZC members, discussing Weiss' request this week, decided not to consider rule changes for at least six months, to avoid a political conflict.

Sartor said there were thousands of violations last year.
If parking of a vehicle presents a hazard to traffic movement or snow plowing, the vehicle may be towed at the owner's expense, Sartor said.

Sartor asked for cooperation of townpeople in keeping streets clear and safe during the winter.

H.M.S. Rose recalls Newport's smuggling past

KEN FRANKLING
NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The shrill cries of seagulls mix with moist, salty air flowing down the beach of the H.M.S. Rose, the site of a Newport Harbor, the focal point of a continuing effort to spark appreciation for the city's finest patriotic hour.

In the 1760s, this was the fourth largest and second richest city in the American colonies. The wealth came from unusual "industry" — smuggling. Newport was one leg in the famed triangle trade which brought tax-free sugar and rum from the West Indies in the still of night.

The Rose was the last in a long line of ships the British government sent to halt the illegal trade and was directly responsible for creation of the Continental Navy. Angered over the 24-gun frigate being successful in her duties, the Rhode Island General Assembly asked Congress to set up a Continental Navy to get rid of the Rose. The bill passed on Oct. 13, 1775.

"For Newport, the 18th century was her finest hour, essentially it was when she led the rest of the colonies toward independence," said John F. Miller, a local historian who single handedly spearheaded restoration of the Rose.

"To a lot of people this country didn't start until the 19th century. Their heroes are cowboys," he said.

Miller raised $500,000 to reconstruct the 500-ton ship which sank off Savannah, Ga., in 1779. The new Rose was built in Nova Scotia, using the original blueprints from the British Naval Archives and a few pieces of salvaged original wood "to be able to say the soul lives on."

Manchester bandshell models available

Manchester residents will have a chance to see what the town's proposed bandshell will look like before it is built.

There are two three-dimensional models already built and available for display, said Ralph Maccaroni, member of the bandshell fund raising committee.

One of the models was built by Jay Giles, the town's public works director. The other one was built by Alan Wiedle of Mankey Associates, Architects.

The models are available to banks and other retail businesses for display in showrooms or other public areas to show people what the proposed bandshell will look like.

Plans include construction of the bandshell on a portion of Manchester Community College property for use by both the town and the college.

The bandshell is the main project of the Bicentennial Committee.

Persons wishing to contribute to the bandshell fund may send their donations or pledges to P.O. Box 1776, Bicentennial Bandshell Committee, Manchester.

Survey shows up housing need for the elderly

Housing is the most serious need of Manchester's elderly according to a survey conducted at the Senior Citizens Center.

John W. Mrosek, a member of the Commission on the Aging who conducted the survey, reported the results to the commission Monday night.

Of the 35 responses to the survey, Mrosek said, the majority listed housing as the area in the most serious need, with five listing transportation; three, finance; two, health and non-visible areas; and one, a lot near the center.

Other answers showed that 29 of the 35 approved the town's services for the elderly, with 16 listing them as excellent; 17 of the members would go to the Senior Citizens Center for assistance with a problem; 27 favored a weekly medical/nutritional counseling service; 21 were aware that a town Commission on Aging existed; and 15 would personally communicate with the commission if they had a problem.

The commission voted to write a petition to the U.S. Department of Agriculture protesting the proposed cut in food stamps, particularly for the elderly.

Air Guard F-100s to fly to Germany

Twenty-four Air National Guard F-100 Super Sabre jet fighters will fly out of Bradley International Airport shortly after midnight Saturday morning headed for Ramstein, Germany.

The single engine fighters will make the 4,000 mile flight non-stop. They will refuel in the air nine times from Strategic Air Command KC-135 jet tankers over the Atlantic. The flight is expected to take some eight and a half hours depending on the winds.

The purpose of the deployment to Germany is to demonstrate the Tactical Air Command's reserve forces worldwide deployment capability.

The F-100 jet fighters have to depart from Bradley at midnight in order to arrive at their unfamiliar destination during daylight hours.

The 24 Super Sabres, 12 from the Connecticut Air National Guard's 103D Tactical Fighter Group and another dozen from the 127th Tactical Fighter Wing based at Selfridge ANG Base, Mich., will fly low level missions in Germany supporting Army units in the field. They will return to Bradley on Nov. 14.

Seventy Connecticut Air National Guard support specialists will depart for Germany Thursday aboard a Military Airlift Command C-141 Starlifter jet transport.

Air Guard pilots have been training in a flight simulator making approaches to Ramstein Air Base and other alternate bases for the past several weeks. Each of the pilots and from Germany.

The fighters from Michigan will arrive at Bradley Thursday for final briefings before departure on Saturday.

Parker-Taylor area eyed as auction facility site

A seven-acre lot at the corner of Parker and Taylor Sts. would be an ideal site for a professional auction facility, auctioneer Sam Nussdorf told the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night.

Nussdorf described his plans for the site, seeking guidance from the commission. Commission members balked at committing themselves, though, and just told Nussdorf that attempted rezoning of the parcel failed last year.

Nussdorf, who lives at 688 N. Main St. and has been a professional auctioneer for 43 years, said he's been searching for a suitable auction facility site in Manchester for several years without luck.

The Parker and Taylor Sts. land — proposed as the site of a retail shopping center last year — would be ideal for an auction business, Nussdorf said. But there's one problem: The land is zoned for Rural Residence and an auction business would require a business zone.

Nussdorf said he plans a high-security warehouse and auction facility for the land.

PZC members listened to the proposal but wouldn't comment. If Nussdorf goes ahead with his plans, the rezoning will be the subject of a public hearing.

The seven-acre parcel was the subject of a rezoning application filed last year by Gastown Inc., which indicated it wanted to build a retail shopping center. The applicant said the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. had shown interest in building a supermarket at the proposed center.

The application was denied by the PZC, which cited traffic hazards and encroachment into residential areas as reasons for the decision.

Vigilance pays off for Slick

NEW YORK (UPI) — "You have to keep your eyes and ears open in this world," said Gracie Slick, "or they'll just kill you."

She sprawled out on the hotel couch and said, "I'm always watching."

Vigilance appears to have paid off for Ms. Slick, 35, lead singer of the Jefferson Starship rock 'n' roll group and heroin of the young drug-counter culture of the 1960s.

Ten years after she first sang with the original band, until 1970 known as Jefferson Airplane, the group is successful and looking for a new direction — something it feels it shares with the rest of the country.

"Back in the 60s we were just saying 'Let's go out and raise hell' and we didn't really care about much," said Paul Kantner, 34, the group's rhythm guitarist and father of Ms. Slick's 4 1/2-year-old daughter China.

"In a way we're mellow now, we're more into writing love songs — the world needs love songs."

Kantner said the group "mirrors the world as it exists and changes from day to day."

"Yeah," cut in Grace, "and the mirror is full of cracks and chips."

"People are still trying to change things," Kantner continued. "They're just going about it in a different way. They're waking up and saying some things have to be done but they don't know what."

"So for now, we're writing music about alternative futures."

The airplane's biggest hit, "White Rabbit" in 1967, foresaw a revolving circle of drug use and hallucination to deal with life: "One pill makes you smaller and one pill makes you tall, go ask Alice when she's 10 feet tall."

"Now," said Gracie, "I'd rather go out to a bar and throw things around."

"We were innocent when we wrote all those early drug songs, just like the country was innocent," Kantner said. "The kids who tried drugs were looking for a way to see truth and goodness."

"Ain't no such thing," Gracie whispered.

"We're different that way," her lover conceded. They agreed, however, China, whom they named god (no capital g) when she was born, could handle the world in which she is growing up.

"She's got a strong personality, which is helpful when she has to live this kind of life. We take her with us everywhere where she can learn something."

Grace said, "I want to her to know about keeping her eyes open and understanding reality."

What will China do when the Starship is on stage in New York this weekend?

"We got her a ticket to see 'The Magic Show' on Broadway," Gracie said. "It's really far out."

Halloween hoax story

It's trick or treat time again, and if the pattern of recent years is repeated, the day after Halloween we will be hearing stories of tainted candy allegedly being given unsuspecting youngsters.

In the most horrifying incident of last year — or of any year — an eight-year-old boy in Pasadena, Tex., died from eating candy laced with cyanide. Although the boy's own father was later convicted of the crime and had only used the holiday as a cover in hopes of getting away with murder (and insurance), for many parents the incident was proof that there a lot of evil people in the world and that Halloween is a dangerous time for their children.

Because of the number of such stories — though none as bad as the one in Texas — the Nation Confectioners Assn. (NCA) in 1972 began a program of investigation into alleged Halloween poisonings. That year it investigated 200 tainted-treat incidents out of 363 reported nationally and found that 76 were outright admitted hoaxes. There was not a single confirmation of any attempt by an adult to harm a child.

In 1973, there were only 67 reported incidents and of these, 26 were hoaxes or at least highly questionable and in most of the rest, police had no information other than the initial complaint and felt that further investigation would not be justified.

Two of the 1973 cases, however, were apparently valid. Police in Sonoma, Calif., found evidence of barbiturates in a child's candy, but no arrests were made. In Philadelphia, police reported that a pill was placed in a child's bag by an 80-year-old woman in "advanced stages of senility" who was ultimately given mental health supervision.

For Halloween of 1974, the NCA sent questionnaires directly to police departments across the country and 114 departments responded. Of these, 58 reported no incidents of 90 incidents, of which 27 were proved to be hoaxes; 22 were considered questionable and could not be factually supported, and in 40 instances there was no information other than the initial complaint and further investigation was not considered justified.

Significantly, survey forms returned by police included such comments as: "The kids do it to get attention, but we couldn't get any of them to admit it."

Just as skyjacking stories appear to breed more skyjacking, the NCA feels that Halloween hoax stories breed more hoaxes. And although follow-up media coverage often explains the true nature of Halloween hoaxes, it rarely has the same impact as the original, sensational news item.

To be on the safe side, however, and to keep Halloween the happy occasion it is supposed to be, parents are encouraged to accompany their children, to confine trick or treat visits to the immediate neighborhood and to permit their children to accept only wrapped or sealed candy or other treats.

The school question

Next Tuesday Manchester voters will go to the polls and will be asked to decide whether to authorize an appropriation of $2,373,000 for additions and renovations to Bentley School and Washington Schools and replacement of the West Side Recreation Building.

Here are some questions about the issue and some answers provided by the town administration.

Question: What is the need for the project?
Answer: School Superintendent James Kennedy says Bentley School has never had a cafeteria adequate to provide hot lunches and does not have any space which can economically be used to create such a cafeteria. The Bentley building, he says, needs modernization and renovation to bring it up to town standards.

The Washington building, Kennedy says, needs a modern gym and auditorium. The gym available in the West Side Recreation Building is inadequate for the school's needs, Kennedy said, cannot be integrated well into the school program.

Question: What will happen if the state does not contribute a share of the cost?
Answer: Kennedy says the Board of Education is in record unanimously that it will not go forward with the project if the cost goes above the $1,400,000 amount which would normally be the town's share of the $2,373,000.

Gerald Ford should sue

WASHINGTON — You can paste this in your hat: Gerald Ford will have trouble hanging onto the White House if many more big-shot Democrats take to talking like Herbert Hoover.

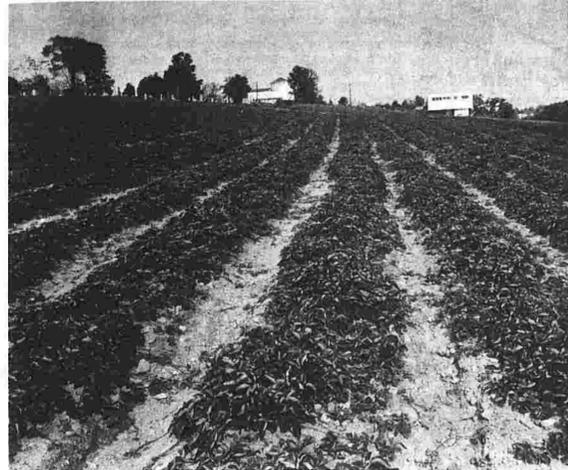

The fashion — or disease — is spreading like the plague. First there were Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who decided they should live like ordinary working stiff. Gov. Pat Lukey of Wisconsin urged his party to practice "the politics of austerity." Now Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie has joined the heretics. Brown and Dukakis are newcomers whose liberalism was only presumed. But Lukey is a veteran of the New Frontier and Great Society, and Muskie's record has been so liberal that he was the Democrats' Vice Presidential nominee in 1968 and last year got a "perfect" rating from the leftist Americans for Democratic Action.

Ford should be dismayed. If this

OPEN FORUM

Referendum is opposed

To the editor: This is to alert all voters and taxpayers of Manchester.

Before you vote for your favorite candidates for the various town offices make sure that you vote NO on Referendum Question 1 at the top of the voting machine.

This question for an appropriation of $2,373,000 for additions and renovation to Bentley and Washington Schools and replacement of the West Side Recreation Building should have been removed from the ballot due to the shaky and uncertain future of the state's ability to pump in the estimated $980,000 toward these programs.

However, the Board of Education and School Supt. James Kennedy in their anxiety to have their way in tapping the depleted state treasury plunged right ahead in urging the townspeople to support such a huge expenditure of tax funds. It almost seems as though most members of the Board of Education and the school officials are intent on keeping the hard pressed taxpayers of Manchester in a constant squeeze with their perennial building projects. Isn't it about time for the Board of Education to exercise some mature, sound judgment and get off the backs of the taxpayers?

There is no assurance that the state will bankroll Manchester to the tune of $980,000 or $500,000 or even $300,000. What will happen if Question 1 is approved and no state aid is available? Can Manchester afford to get stuck for the whole $2,373,000 just to satisfy the whims and desires of the educators?

The voters had better not take any chances with our scheming, shifty combination of school administrators and Board of Education. We all have witnessed their tricky operations and their disregard for the wishes of the people over and over again for the past 6 years in which they have sought a million dollar plus increase in their budgets while the school population has continued to decrease each year. It is a safe bet that they already have set their sights on another million dollar plus hike in school spending for the 1976-1977 school year.

On Nov. 4 you the voters can send the Board of Education and School Supt. James Kennedy a clear message to stop this madness by voting NO on Question 1. Yours sincerely, Frank U. Lupien 21 Sunset St. Manchester

Scene from here — Sol's 'so what' news report

The news we're about to spring on you isn't good news and it isn't bad news. The best we can tell you is that it's "so what?" news.

Today, we thought we'd write about two happenings about to happen — Halloween on Friday and Election Day on Tuesday.

About Halloween: Those of you who bought the biggest pumpkin you could find, just listen to this.

Out in Circleville, Ohio, someone harvested a 378-pound pumpkin, but the mayor of Half Moon Bay, Calif. is saying "foul."

YESTERDAYS

25 Years Ago This date was a Sunday; The Herald did not publish.

10 Years Ago State Bond Commission approves $228,471 for Manchester Redevelopment Agency for use in North End Redevelopment project.

George Churilla resigns post on Town Development Commission.

David S. McCamb to retire from Aetna after 38 years to become business manager of Pierce College, Athens, Greece.

SOL R. COHEN

He says the Ohio pumpkin isn't a pumpkin at all, but really a green squash. So, wouldn't you know it, he's claiming the world record for the 272½-pounder grown in his fog-shrouded seaside community.

Can you imagine cleaning out one or the other record-setting pumpkin? How many pumpkin pies do you suppose they'd make?

Better yet, can you imagine cutting eyes, a nose and a mouth out of one or the other? We're reminded of a 10-pound pumpkin bought a few years ago by a young Manchester mother.

She cleaned it out, cut eyes, a nose and a mouth into it and placed it out on the doorstep.

The next morning, she found it on the lawn, thrown there and broken, but not broken enough to throw away entirely. She placed it back on the doorstep. Then, she went into the house and typed out a message which she taped to the pumpkin.

It read, "There's a camera hidden in this pumpkin and it will take your picture if you as much as touch it." The next morning, the pumpkin was gone. Left behind was a picture of a pumpkin cut out of a magazine.

Now about Election Day: Medina, Tenn., a rural hamlet of about 450 people, will hold an election Tuesday without any candidates.

It wasn't planned that way. It's just that no candidates qualified before the deadline for filing.

Present Mayor Mark Williford said it's doubtful he'll continue serving his $1,200-a-year job beyond Tuesday.

"They can re-elect me with write-in votes, but there's no law says I have to serve," said His Honor. "That $1,200 won't even pay for the gas my car burns up while I'm running around on city business."

Evelyn Barnes, the town recorder (clerk), took an optimistic view of the whole thing.

"We can't let the city government collapse due to lack of interest," she said. "I'll stay on, if they want me to, until they can appoint someone else. That time can't be too far off."

Speaking of time, it wasn't too long ago people would snicker when someone showed off his genuine George Wallace wristwatch — the one with a caricature of the governor wearing boxing gloves and, believe it or not, selling for $22.50 each.

thing catches on, the Democratic Party may run its Presidential candidate next year on the platform of fiscal conservatism. Ford thought he had locked up instead of clinging to its traditional advocacy of a free-spending government.

By now everybody who bothers to read the newspapers knows about the sparse economizing practiced by Brown and Dukakis — a practice which won Brown an almost unbelievable 89 per cent approval rating in a Los Angeles Times poll, and has the old polls in Massachusetts in a state of panic. But Muskie has been working under wraps as chairman of the new Senate Budget Committee, and he got little publicity until recently when he made a speech asking why liberals couldn't "talk about fiscal responsibility and productivity without feeling uncomfortable."

A year or so ago, Muskie would have been burned at the stake by the leftist Torquemadas for publicly demanding to know why liberals can't "start raising hell about a government so big, so complex, so expensive and so unresponsive that it's dragging down every good program we've worked for." He still may be hauled into the radicals' dungeon for a spell on the rack, but he's got something working for him.

That is, of course, the general disenchantment with big government and small politicians reflected in every poll from Gallup and Harris down to the annual straw vote of Elm Street's Ladies Aid Society.

At any rate, Muskie can claim he knows what he's talking about on the fiscal responsibility bit. He's been running the Budget Committee for 15 months, and obviously this exposure to line-by-line items of government spending has been a moving experience. "We're in a rut," he announced. "Our emotional stake in government is so great that we regard common-sense criticism of government almost as a personal attack."

They laughed when the Budget Committee was assigned the task of holding government spending to a ceiling set by Congress. That sort of thing, said the cynics, just wasn't possible in an institution that for more than a decade attacked every problem with a barrage of dollars.

But Muskie, with the help of Sen. Henry Bellmon, an Oklahoma conservative, has convinced the Senate that some pieces of legislation are just too expensive. An indication of the committee's chief is that it was able to stall such sacrosanct items as the school lunch program and the military procurement bill, and hold the federal pay raise to 5 per cent instead of the recommended 8.66 per cent.

"We got to face the fact that we cannot forever push for a bigger and bigger federal budget," says Muskie. "What we are left with is a question of determining priorities. I don't think unrestrained federal spending makes economic sense anymore." Herbert Hoover couldn't have said it better. Gerald Ford should sue.

Birge elected to vets post

George H. Birge of Packard St., Manchester, was recently elected national secretary-treasurer by the 43rd Infantry Division Veterans Association at the organization's 29th annual convention in Hartford.

George H. Birge

Birge retired from the army after serving more than 20 years. He was on active duty with the 43rd from Feb. 21, 1941 to Aug. 15, 1945, serving on Guadalcanal, New Georgia, New Guinea, and the Philippine Islands.

His third person to hold the position of secretary-treasurer in the 29 years of the association. In this capacity he oversees the administrative and business functions of the association.

His name Birge has been prominent in military circles since 1976 when Capt. Jonathan Birge was inducted into the British General Howe way to capture New York City.

Town soliciting funds for signs

The town is soliciting contributions toward the cost of "Welcome to Manchester" signs, to be placed at various entrances into town.

Letters to 17 Manchester organizations (civic and fraternal), Town Manager Robert Weiss said each sign will cost about $100 and will be funded by town employees.

"We are soliciting contributions," he said in his letters, "to make this project partially self-supporting by virtue of public contributions."

Sept. 9, the Board of Directors allotted $1,500 for "welcome" signs at locations. The lettering will be done by inmates at the Enfield State Prison. The cost of materials and installation will be at town expense — reduced by whatever contributions are received.

State income tax bill filed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Irving J. Stolberg, D-New Haven, admits his bill filed to reduce the state sales tax and impose a graduated income tax has little chance of passage.

But Stolberg, who has tried in the past to have similar legislation enacted, said his latest try will be at least a starting point for the 1976 Legislature to discuss.

Stolberg said Sen. Audrey P. Beck, Finance Committee would take a serious look at the proposal for a state income tax.

was active in 1861 when President Abraham Lincoln called for troops. Birge, before entering the service in 1941, made his home with his aunt and uncle, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Luettgens of Manchester.

He is presently in the technical publications department of United Technologies Corp.

Al-Anon family groups will meet tonight at 8 at St. James Church, Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club, 102 Norman St., and Friday at 10 a.m. at South United Methodist Church campus. Alateen for the 12- to 20-year-old children of problem drinkers will meet at Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club, with the beginners group meeting at 7:30. The family groups are open to friends and relatives living with severe problem drinkers.

Stolberg said the Senate chairman of the committee, formerly supported a state referendum on an income tax but now was neutral on the issue.

Stolberg said his measure would institute a graduated income tax on all state residents from a flat 5 per cent on taxable income from $1,500 to $8,000 a year. The scale would climb to a tax of $4.70 on income of $100,000. Income above $100,000 would be taxed at 7 per cent, Stolberg said.

The measure would also reduce the current 7 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent.

CANCER... drugs and hot dogs...

More and more hard evidence is surfacing to tie cancer in with nitrates and nitrites found in hot dogs, ham and artificially red colored meat. Nitrates and nitrites in themselves are not carcinogenic (cancer producing). However, when brought together with certain secondary amines, in the proper proportions, they will form carcinogenic products called NITROSAMINES.

The cancers produced by these nitrosamines do not occur overnight, like a cold or skin infection. It may take several years for this tumor to pop up in the KIDNEY, STOMACH, LIVER or ESOPHAGUS. Many critics say that the scientists are using very high doses of nitrates to prove causal relationship. However, studies in mice have shown quite the reverse! This evidence* shows that as little as 0.15% Nitrite and 0.1% of a weak amine produced CANCER of the forestomach in 100% of the mice!

Now what amines can help form the nitrosamines? The antihistamines a person takes for his cold or hay fever or sinus congestion can help form the carcinogen. Also the very innocent decongestants and some of the common nose drops can also form nitrosamines. Some of the diet pills which contain appetite depressants might also react in the same manner. I am sure there are many more drugs and natural occurring amines, if researched out, would also produce the carcinogenic nitrosamines. Keep in mind also that sometimes it could take up to 1 full hour for your food to pass through your stomach and small intestines, giving adequate time for the reaction to occur.

What does one do to overcome this terrible situation? Write to the manufacturers and tell them that you will not buy their products unless the nitrates and nitrites are removed. Next, avoid eating these products and when shopping examine YOUR LABELS well! It taking the above types of medications it is best to take them 2 hours after eating. This nitrosamine is a potential cause of cancer. Of course, there are other variable factors such as nutritional factors, genetics, resistance, and extremes of age that could make one less or more resistant to tumor growth. But who wants to take the chance?

Phyllis Jackston

Democratic Town Director Phyllis Jackston today explained sewer deferrals as follows:

"When we speak of deferring a sewer installation, it means we are allowing the homeowner (on any given street where sewers are installed) not to pay any charges whatsoever, until that property owner decides to connect to the sewer line in the street. This is despite the fact that his property has increased in value by the mere presence of a sewer line on his street, and despite the fact that this property owner may never connect, could dispose of his property and the new owners still continue the same process.

"Since the Town of Manchester must pay for all sewer installations from the income that is derived from the sewer tax that you presently pay (10 per cent of your water bill), and since the Town of Manchester must borrow the money for these installations and must repay the money within a period (at the present time) of 12 years (by state statute) plus interest, therefore, it becomes necessary for you the present user of the sewer system to carry this additional burden for those property owners that do not pay for their installations. It should also be kept in mind that the Board of Directors does not indiscriminately install sewers. Sewers are installed only after residents of the area petition us because of health hazards which exist.

"The Republicans contend that by requiring a homeowner to assume his share of the sewer installations it is an unfair burden being placed on the individual homeowner by government, therefore let us defer assessments. But, they have not answered how we can accomplish this task without imposing additional taxes on all the sewer users, they avoid and skirt around this issue which should be answered by them. The Democrats, on the other hand, have taken the position that no deferrals be allowed, because we cannot deem it fair for all users to carry the burden for those property owners who want deferrals. Also it should be noted that if deferrals are allowed, until such time as the owner connects to the sewer line that many more areas of our town would petition for sewers, since no charge of any kind would be made to the homeowner that did not use the service. Of course the final outcome of this would be a very drastic and sharp increase in the sewer tax for all sewer users."

Edward Wilson

Edward Wilson, Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, said today, "I am asking the five board members running with Mayor John Thompson to inform the people if they support or oppose Mayor Thompson's proposal for a state income tax.

"I have talked with hundreds of voters throughout town who have told me the state income tax is certainly a local issue because a mayor has much influence on the state level through the Council of Mayors. The Council of Mayors, in turn, has much influence in the state legislature where laws are made.

Population estimated at 47,200

The town of Manchester leads the area towns with an estimated population of 47,200 with Vernon running second with 28,800, as of July 1, 1975. The population estimates for each town and county in the state have been prepared by the Public Health Statistics section of the Connecticut State Department of Health. The estimates will be used in computing birth, death, and marriage rates for the current year.

The committee doing the work said estimates obtained by this method can be neither perfect nor infallible. The committee said the primary objective has been to estimate the present population of the state to within plus or minus three per cent of the correct total and the larger towns to within plus or minus five per cent.

The population estimate for Hartford County, is 824,700 and for Tolland County, 108,090.

Manchester and Vernon, and South Windsor (estimated population of 15,900) are the only area towns listed with populations of 10,000 and over.

Other area towns and their estimated populations are: Andover, 2,200; Bolton, 3,800; Columbia, 3,300; Coventry, 8,400; Ellington, 8,700; Tolland, 8,800; Union, 490; and Willington, 4,000.

Parents say school program invades privacy

SOUTH WINDSOR JUDY KUEHNEL

More than 50 persons turned out last night for the South Windsor Board of Education meeting to hear charges by Mrs. Sally Kuchinska that an educational TV program, Inside-Outside, permitted the "prying" into the private lives of the students.

The 15-minute program is followed by 15 minutes of classroom discussion. It is shown once a week in the fifth grade classes at the Orchard Hill Elementary School.

A complaint was raised at the Oct. 4 meeting of the board following Mrs. Kuchinska's observation of the discussion program following that day's "Inside-Outside" program.

Mrs. Kuchinska charged the discussion encouraged students to divulge personal family matters. She felt this was an invasion of privacy. It was not part of the regular, approved curriculum for South Windsor schools, she said.

School Superintendent Dr. Robert Goldman said the program's purpose is to present real situations that young people confront in their lives in order to enable them to make responsible decisions.

Close vote to keep Grades 7 - 8 at Rham

HEBRON

By NANCY FOOTE

Members of the Committee to Study the Withdrawal of Grades 7 and 8 from Rham High School voted 4 to 3 against the removal of these grades at a meeting at Rham Monday night.

Chairman Dick Harrison of Marlborough, a member of the Regional Board of Education, asked the committee for "yes" motion. None was offered.

Nancy Foote, representing the Hebron elementary board, moved the committee not recommend the withdrawal. Her "no" motion was seconded by John Yeomans of Andover, representing the Andover Board of Finance.

Yeomans was joined by Mrs. Margaret Hohmann of Andover, representing the Rham Board, and Dennis Keenan of Andover, representing the Andover Board of Education.

Those voting against the motion were Harrison, Katharine Sibon of Hebron, representing the Rham Board, and Howard Dean of Marlborough, representing the Marlborough Board of Finance.

They also felt that the issue needed to be brought to a referendum. A decision to not recommend the withdrawal of the grades means there will be no public vote on the matter.

The committee will not complete its report to the state Board of Education.

The Rham board must go to work again on a solution to the overcrowded conditions in the school.

Committee members said the students would lose some programs if returned to the elementary system. Also their study showed such a plan would be much more expensive than adding space at Rham to eliminate the double sessions.

Committee members favoring the withdrawal cited the greater family involvement in schools in the local community and greater chance for cooperation between the local boards of education and their boards of finance.

Hebron Democrats speak

"Again, Republican officials have been totally inaccurate in presenting election time statements," said Aaron Reid, Democrat incumbent first selectman.

Reid was responding to Republican attacks on the Democratic platform and work.

"Out-of-context figures and statements can be used to insinuate almost anything," Reid said.

Each officer and board of the town has an opinion as to the amount of money required to best run their office or board, he said. The Board of Finance cannot always agree with these figures. Very few original budget requests are presented to Town Meeting by the Board of Finance.

About the building official's salary, the Board of Finance presented his salary of $8,000 to the Town Meeting. The Town Meeting accepted it. The building department is self-sustaining with its revenues covering outgo, Reid said.

No private moneys have ever been continually kept that board advised of the fiscal transactions of the town. And I have sought and followed the board's guidance in fiscal procedures," Reid quoted from the town's audit report for the fiscal year just ended.

The auditor wrote, "The bookkeeping records of all departments were found to be kept on a good accounting basis."

Reid said the audit report is available for inspection at the town clerk's office.

Democrats have party

A free Halloween Party sponsored by the Democrats will be Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Democratic headquarters on Rt. 96. Everyone is invited and asked to bring their own liquid refreshments.

Reid denied the selectmen and the Board of Finance were at odds. He termed the relationship "excellent."

Bolton Bulldogs win again

By DONNA HOLLAND

646-0373

The Bolton Bulldogs senior pony football team defeated the Lebanon ponies 30 to 0 in a game Sunday at Herrick Memorial Park.

By winning the game, the Bulldogs become the southern division champions of the Eastern Connecticut Midget and Pony Football Conference.

Touchdowns were scored by Paul Groves on runs of 5 and 7 yards and Mark Ouellette on runs of 1 and 11 yards.

Points after touchdowns were converted by Wayne Parlin and Robby Sewell, 2.

Steve Narsavage, head coach, said the defensive unit did a fine job of keeping Lebanon out of scoring position for the entire game.

Bolton's front five is made up of Brett Hussey, John Varca, Chuck Hilton, John Dziemis and Bob Bogner. The linchpinning group consists of Sewell, Bob Peterson, Rusty Chermeka and Chris Holbrook.

Quarterback Peter Ryba had his best game of the season intercepting a pass, throwing four pass completions and kicking well.

The Bulldogs will play the Tolland Eagles in a championship game on either Nov. 2 or 9.

Narsavage said, "I feel the team is healthier and stronger right now than at any other time this season. Whenever and wherever the championship is played we'll be looking to avenge the loss earlier this year to Tolland."

Oct. 19, the Bulldogs defeated the Stafford Springs ponies 24 to 0.

Bolton Tigers undefeated

The Bolton Tigers midget football team defeated the Lebanon midgets to 52 to 0 in a shortened game Sunday at Herrick Memorial Park.

Touchdowns were scored by Greg Mahon on a 20 yard pass from Mike Ouellette, Tom Peters on a 9 yard run, Peter McCarrick on a 40 yard interception, Pat Myette on a 6 yard run, Chris Hopper on a 10 yard run, Ouellette on a 30 yard run, and Gary Vine on a 60 yard run.

Extra points were converted by Myette, Vinnie Morrone and David Hooper.

Gil Boissoneau, head coach, said the Tigers will play the South Windsor Larrys Sunday. The game that will decide the division winner.

He said the Larrys will be the toughest team Bolton has faced.

The Tigers defeated the Hebron Tigers 20 to 0 in a game Oct. 19 at the park. Touchdowns were scored by Mike Ouellette, 1 and Vinnie Morrone, 2.

Boissoneau said outstanding players were Tim Banks, Peter McCarrick, Les Schiavetti, Mike Ouellette, Jim Vatteroni and Gregg Mahon.

Andover invites Hebron for walk on boundary

J. and K. SIBUN

The American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Andover invited its counterpart in Hebron to walk the town's mutual boundary.

The walk is viewed as a joint Bicentennial project. It is in actual fact carrying on a tradition which has its origins in medieval England. It was known then as "beating the bounds." Students were shown the boundary area of their town and immediately beaten with a stick to make an impression that would ensure that they would never forget.

Those who would like to "beat the bounds" should join the walk. They will appear on an NBC nationwide TV documentary. It will also be open during the show.

The Old Town Hall, the society's current restoration project, will also be open.

Antique show

The Hebron Historical Society will hold its Sixth Annual Antique Show and Sale Nov. 8 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. This will be an indoor show at Rham High School.

About 30 antique dealers will show furniture and accessories. This will be the largest antiques show and sale held under the society's auspices.

Mrs. Shirleyann McDonald is chairman.

Her committee heads are: publicity, Helen Brink and Susan Lowrey; refreshments, Dale Bland and Connie Bain; exhibitor services, Fillmore F. Bain; admissions, Kitty Sibun; and society table, Irene Baron and Anne Pepsing.

The 1725 Burrows Hill School House Museum, a restored one-room school, will soon appear on an NBC nationwide TV documentary. It will also be open during the show.

The Old Town Hall, the society's current restoration project, will also be open.

The Hebron Republicans speak

Mike Biskupiak, Republican candidate for first selectman, and Art Pinney, candidate for selectman, have answered the challenge of the Democratic party on the subject of issues as per press statement of Richard Keefe, Democratic Town Chairman to the press.

"We feel that after six years of the Reid administration, it is time for a change in Hebron.

"The Democrats have made a lot of claims in their platform and press releases concerning their desire for lower taxes, fiscal responsibility, prudent and businesslike conduct of Hebron's affairs and the leadership ability to insure the proper running of the town's government.

"But only a quick look at their record in office shows how hollow and hypocritical these claims really are.

"While the Democrats claim concern for lower taxes, the building inspector, who is also their Democratic town chairman, asks for a pay raise in the 1974-75 budget from $7,000 to $13,000.

"While they claim prudent businesslike conduct of town affairs, the Board of Finance must vote to caution that vendor invoices must be the basis for all town expenditures.

"They claim leadership and financial responsibility while for two years Mr. Reid has been ignoring his own Democratic controlled Board of Finance and the town auditor in their concern over the handling of certain funds. Over a seven-month period in 1973 the Board of Finance looked into the manner in which Mr. Reid handled private money that he permitted to be used in town road construction.

"There were never any public hearings or Town Meetings held to authorize these funds or to permit the townspeople to express their views. Mr. Reid made all the arrangements himself. The accounting procedures he used have been criticized by the town's auditor because they did not permit any audit control over the transactions.

"After much discussion the Board of Finance suggested a general ordinance be adopted to set up the corrective procedures. The board also suggested Town Meeting action on the matter and requested that the selectmen draft a policy to be followed for handling these funds.

"Some townspeople suggested that Mr. Reid make a full public disclosure of these private accounts and submit them to audit. But after seven months, in December 1973, the Board of Finance had to recommend their own policies because 'the selectmen had adopted no specific policy for handling these funds.'

Mr. Reid has now had nearly two years to implement these recommendations. But the selectmen have taken no action to establish policy for Town Meeting vote on receipts of funds. No ordinance has been adopted. No specific policy drafted to set up audit controls. No public disclosure or audit has been made.

"Under Mr. Reid's leadership we have accounting procedures setting up private accounts, outside of the town treasury, preventing auditing controls over their transactions.

"We have seen a party chairman appointed to a town position requesting pay raises in excess of 85 per cent while he claims to be concerned with your tax burden.

"We have had an administration ignoring unanimous recommendations of its Finance Board and ignoring the town auditors.

"This is the Democrats' idea of financial responsibility, prudent, businesslike conduct and leadership ability.

"We think that it is indeed time for a change.

"We suggest that you ask how 85 per cent pay raises for party officials appointed to town jobs will hold down our taxes.

"Ask how accounting procedures setting up private accounts outside the treasury and without any audit controls can be sound fiscal policy.

"Ask where these private funds came from and who was in charge of the road construction they paid for and if there were any public bids.

"Ask what happened to the policies for Town Meeting actions, the ordinances, and the policies as recommended by the Board of Finance and the auditor.

"Ask why there has been no public disclosure or audit of these accounts.

"Ask how two years of inaction by the Reid administration can be called leadership ability.

"Mr. Reid and Mr. Keefe have requested that we bring our issues in this campaign. We suggest that they start with full disclosure of all the private fund deals of the Reid administration. We ask them to open the books to the voters.

"We can then go on to other issues such as ignoring auditor and Finance Board recommendations and awarded construction contracts around without public bid.

Sunday, Nov. 2, the league's annual Flea Market will be in the Sunset Ridge School, Forbes St. and Silver Lane, from 10 to 5 p.m.

This annual event sponsors a graduating high school senior with an art scholarship.

The market, held in the school gym, will feature 25 booths and a variety of items such as antique glass, furniture, coins, stamps, lamps, tains and other items. Last year's recipient, Sandra Molino, is studying at Southern Connecticut State College.

The league begins Nov. 13 a series of community art exhibits at the Village Gallery on Tolland Turnpike in Talcutville, north of Manchester.

Dear Manchester Voter,

I believe that town government can and should be run in conformance with sound business principles and practices.

Administrators should be given definite goals and time-tables, together with suitable responsibility and authority to achieve; and then be held accountable for the results. When administrators are reporting to the public and elected officials, they should offer clear, crisp presentations that leave no room for confusion or mistaken conclusions.

Respectfully,

Ramsdell tells costs of single sessions

VERNON
By Barbara Richmond

If the Board of Education sticks by its vote to put Rockville High School on single sessions in February, more funds (not budgeted) will be needed and the schedules of other schools will also have to be changed.

The board directed Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, to prepare a report on the needs involved in switching from double to single sessions in mid-year.

He said the total cost will run close to $95,000. Also, the Permanent Building Committee has provided $200,000 for equipment and materials needed by February. The committee has told Dr. Ramsdell that the $200,000 is not the limit of building committee funds but it is not known just how much more there will be.

Prior to September, more money will be needed, about $168,000, for equipment for various departments. Of this, some $105,000 is for equipment for the Industrial Arts Department; $21,994, audio-visual; $7,310, Student Development Services; $10,946, English; $14,80, modern languages; $4,175, Instrumental Music; and $1,800 each for History and Mathematics.

The present telephone system at the high school costs $273 per month. This would mean for the period from February to June, the cost would be $1,365.

A seven-year lease plan has been selected for a new Com-Key system which will involve a total monthly cost of $380.16. This would mean a

The candidates speak

VERNON
Democratic candidate for mayor, Thomas Benoit of Vernon, is calling on Republican Mayor Frank McCoy to "start leveling with the people of Vernon."

Benoit labels claims by Republican Mayor McCoy concerning economy in government, as "half-truths designed to mislead the citizens of Vernon."

"Republican campaign literature and public statements by the mayor have conveniently ignored the fact that during his administration there has been a reassessment of taxpayers' property which has resulted in much higher tax bills for most citizens," Benoit said. He added, "People realize that their tax bills have gone up appreciably and that the mayor's claims are simply more political sleight-of-hand."

The fact is that in the past five years the town of Vernon budget has increased over 42 per cent."

Benoit said what relief there has been on the local property tax, over the past few years, has resulted from substantially increased state assistance and Federal revenue sharing, not from the mayor's attention to expenses as he would have our citizens believe.

"In the past five years the town has received almost $1.4 million in revenue sharing funds, more than $500,000 as grants for roads and $11.3 million for educational uses from the state," Benoit explained.

He said last year's educational grants to the town was $2.5 million and almost $600,000 higher than it was five years ago.

"While these grants do offset the amount the town must raise by property taxes, they are possible only by the taxpayer paying higher federal and state taxes. In the last analysis, it all comes out of the taxpayers' pocket," he said.

"In the past five years

Coventry Democrats speak

Al Carilli, Democratic Town Council incumbent seeking re-election, has taken exception to the statement issued by Republican incumbent, Town Councilman Robert Keller, on the amount and use of the town's cash surplus.

During the course of this campaign the Republican candidates, particularly the incumbent candidates, have been advocating fiscal responsibility but their statements have shown an appalling lack of knowledge of Coventry's present fiscal situation.

"For example, one of the candidates in a recent press article stated that Coventry's unappropriated cash surplus, in excess of $100,000, has become a virtual city to serve as seed money for projects without voter scrutiny."

Carilli said, "The actual cash surplus is $35,461, but $30,000 of this was applied to the present budget to reduce this year's tax rate.

"The surplus existed only because revenues were greater than had been anticipated at the time the Town Council set the budget."

Carilli said "Our representatives on the Town Council should have a reasonably accurate knowledge of the town's fiscal status before they start advocating fiscal responsibility."

Coventry Republicans speak

The Republican Campaign Committee has issued a summation of its campaign statements.

The Republicans position this year centers on one issue, money.

"We want to stop the spiraling spending of the townspeople's dollars and ease the individual's tax burden," they said.

Republicans proposed:
1. No new or major expansion of present programs requiring increased taxes without referendum.
2. Use the Cash Surplus to reduce taxes, not increase spending.
3. Defer non-emergency spending until the next annual town meeting.

4. A responsible master fiscal plan revealed at the annual town meeting.
5. Actively pursue appropriate commercial and light industrial development to broaden the tax base, and provide employment for our young people.

6. Support the completion of I-84, with a single interchange at a location designated by the town, most suitable for Coventry and a planned industrial park.

7. Provide an organized and more efficient government through charter revision and an elected chief executive.

8. Equalize the educational advantages in the Coventry school system to answer the needs of all of our children; including suitable vocational programs.

"We believe the time has come to take a hard look at those so-called services and get back to essentials. We all have faced the same kind of decisions in our personal lives during the recent recession.

"The voters have a choice. They can vote for increased spending and services and increased taxes, or they can vote for Republican candidates," they said.

A Hebron Republican speaks

Mike Biskupiak, Republican candidate for first selectman, offered this statement:

"I would appear the Democrats are offering the same old clique and criticizing us for opening up our town government to all the people of Hebron."

"In addition to Republican incumbents, we have successfully sought out qualified independents and newer residents to obtain a broad, not closed, cross-section of views to serve the people of Hebron.

"I do not feel it is fair to the people to continue making campaign promises that may not be kept with the hope that they will be forgotten after election to office. In the past two years, during the present Democratic administration, some residents' taxes have increased by as much as 30 per cent while the Democrats have stressed in their platform to hold tax increases to a bare minimum.

"They have also stated they will resist measures of the state or federal government which would limit the privileges and authority vested in each of us.

"We are asking for the opportunity to try and obtain available state and federal grants to lessen the burden on the taxpayer and what is there to be afraid of if dispersal of funds must be supervised by a higher form of government?"

"I believe our Republican Ticket can finally, at long last, give the people of Hebron town with themselves, their friends and neighbors maintaining that representation, making ourselves personally available to everyone.

"Hebron desperately needs a blood transfusion and we on the Republican ticket have the blood."

Ramsdell tells costs of single sessions

VERNON
By Barbara Richmond
Herald Reporter

If the Board of Education sticks to its vote to put Rockville High School on single sessions in February, more funds (not budgeted) will be needed and the schedules of other schools will also have to be changed.

The board directed Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, to prepare a report on the needs involved in switching from double to single sessions in mid-year.

He said the total cost will run close to $95,000. Also, the Permanent Building Committee has provided $200,000 for equipment and materials needed by February. The committee has told Dr. Ramsdell that the $200,000 is not the limit of building committee funds but it is not known just how much more there will be.

"It would appear the Democrats are offering the same old clique and criticizing us for opening up our town government to all the people of Hebron.

"In addition to Republican incumbents, we have successfully sought out qualified independents and newer residents to obtain a broad, not closed, cross-section of views to serve the people of Hebron.

"I do not feel it is fair to the people to continue making campaign promises that may not be kept with the hope that they will be forgotten after election to office. In the past two years, during the present Democratic administration, some residents' taxes have increased by as much as 30 per cent while the Democrats have stressed in their platform to hold tax increases to a bare minimum.

The candidates speak

VERNON
Democratic candidate for mayor, Thomas Benoit of Vernon, is calling on Republican Mayor Frank McCoy to "start leveling with the people of Vernon."

Benoit labels claims by Republican Mayor McCoy, concerning economy in government, as "half-truths designed to mislead the citizens of Vernon."

higher tax bills for most citizens," Benoit said. He added, "People realize that their tax bills have gone up appreciably and that the mayor's claims are simply more political sleight-of-hand."

The fact is that in the past five years the town of Vernon budget has increased over 42 per cent. Benoit said what relief there has been on the local property tax, over the past few years, has resulted from substantially increased state assistance and federal revenue sharing, not from the mayor's attention to expenses as he would have our citizens believe.

the town has received almost $1.4 million in revenue sharing funds, more than $600,000 as grants for roads and $1.3 million for educational uses from the state," Benoit explained.

He said last year's educational grant to the town was $2.5 million and almost $600,000 higher than it was five years ago. "While these grants do offset the amount the town must raise by property taxes, they are possible only by the taxpayer paying higher federal and state taxes. In the last analysis, it all comes out of the taxpayers' pocket," he said.

One million in CMS plan

CMS has announced that membership under its most comprehensive medical/surgical coverage, the Century Contract, has reached the one million mark.

R. Bruce Thayer Jr., M.D., president of the corporation, said the new high in Century Contract membership enables CMS to help more Connecticut people pay medical bills than ever before because of its broad coverage.

The contract was introduced by CMS in 1968 as a new concept in the prepaid medical care field, designed to provide full payment of covered services rendered by CMS participating physicians and providers regardless of the CMS member's income.

Dr. Thayer said more than 8,000 of CMS' 10,000 payroll groups have made the Century Contract available to their employees.

Total CMS membership now stands at more than 1,400,000.

Should lawyers have the right to advertise?

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a few states lawyers recently have been permitted by their bar associations to hang signs in their offices saying clients may charge services on bank credit cards and now some lawyers are demanding the right to advertise. Lawyers have been forbidden by bar associations to advertise since 1908.

Bradford W. Hildebrandt, one of the very few management consultants specializing in the business affairs of law firms, says lawyers ought to be allowed to advertise because that is an effective way to disseminate better information about legal practices and to bring down the high cost of legal services.

"Suits to upset the bar association bans on advertising presently are pending in New York and in Virginia. Attorney Carl E. Person of Manhattan filed the New York suit and the Virginia action was initiated by Philip Hirsch and Richard Shadyac. Both suits argue that the ban on advertising violates the federal antitrust laws and unlawfully limits the public's access to legal information."

Person told United Press International he is confident he soon will get a three-judge trial of his suit in Brooklyn and he expects to win. He said the American Bar Association had tried without success to get the court to delay trial of his suit on the grounds the ABA House of Delegates was preparing to review the whole question of advertising by lawyers at its meeting in Philadelphia in February.

Such paralegal help is available, Hildebrandt said. A society of legal administrators was founded in 1971 and now has more than 1,000 members. It is devoted to teaching office workers to operate law offices more efficiently and cheaply and remove the burden of vast amounts of routine work from the firm's attorneys.

Fraternity bows to the times — admits girls

By ARTHUR FREDERICK BRUNSWICK, Maine (UPI) — Kappa Sig is one of Bowdoin College's smaller fraternities and it resided when the other fraternities on campus began admitting women students.

This year, however, the brothers gave in and six freshmen women now are among Kappa Sig's 50 brothers.

"It was pretty much a matter of tradition," said Kappa Sig President Mike Roy. "But many of the members who were here for the past few years left last spring and we voted in the women," he said.

Another consideration was money. Kappa Sig needed the extra revenue from the female members.

Bowdoin was a men's college up until five years ago. When the college began admitting women students, several of the fraternities began allowing the women to join.

"We needed the extra members," Roy said. "There are fewer men on campus now, and more women."

The eight-bedroom fraternity house still hasn't had to deal with living arrangements for both sexes. The six freshmen women members won't get a chance to live in the house until next year.

When that happens, the tone of the house probably will change, Roy admitted.

"We can do things in an all-male house that we can't do with women," he said.

"But we are finding out that those things are fewer and fewer."

Some of the other fraternities which previously admitted women have managed to make the transition without much trouble.

"My father almost died when he heard I joined a fraternity," said Althea Wagman, a junior who is a member of Alpha Rho Epsilon.

Coe fraternities are becoming the norm at campuses around the country.

"The fraternities across the nation are pretty much moving in that direction," Roy said. "It seems a lot more of them are beginning to accept women."

The transition from an all-male fraternity to a coed house has gone smoothly so far and all the members are in favor of admitting women, Roy said.

"So far things have been going along fairly smoothly," he said. "The only issue raised is women living in the house itself, but most of the guys want it."

Cheney, Lydall honored for hiring handicapped

Two large Manchester employers, Cheney Bros. and Lydall Inc., have received "Employer of the Year" awards from the Local Committee for Employment of the Handicapped.

The awards were presented at a recent insight '75 breakfast at The Colony, sponsored by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the committee. Awards are presented each year to area employers who have demonstrated a consistent policy of hiring handicapped workers.

Cheney Bros. was represented by Durward Miller and Lydall Inc. was represented by Daniel Sudarsky when Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche, secretary of the committee, presented the awards. Miller and Sudarsky related the successful experiences their companies have had with handicapped workers. "Don't handicap yourselves by failing to utilize the skills of handicapped workers," Miller advised employers attending the breakfast.

What's in a name?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the fact he's now 88, William Levitt hopes to achieve nearly as big a success in retailing as he did in building his Levitts scattered around the world. The one-time giant of the construction industry now is running a company called Levitt Industries which had sales of $60 million last year. It has two divisions, the Big L chain of discount stores that stretches from Maine to North Carolina and the H. Moore Drug Exchange, a New Britain, Conn., mail order house whose sales spurred nearly 28 per cent last year to $26 million.

Never exactly a shrinking violet, Bill Levitt thinks his name will be quite helpful in his company's battle for growth. "Big L is 58 years old and always has been well run but it neglected one important thing — public image," Levitt said. "The name stood only for the founder's given name, Leonard. Now it will be associated with my name."

Levitt thinks his name, which is known worldwide, will be particularly helpful to the company in acquiring other businesses to speed growth. "This matter of the company image has been a joke too long," Levitt said. "Some sales spurted nearly 28 per cent last year to $26 million. Never exactly a shrinking violet, Bill Levitt thinks his name will be quite help-

Halloween

Who doesn't look forward to sending their children out for trick or treating and seeing the kids in their costumes?

As a parent, you know enough to warn your children about traffic safety and the other particular hazards of Halloween.

But did you know that many children are burned unnecessarily each year because their parents were unaware that fire resistant clothing is now available?

Most important of all, do not allow your child to carry a candle-light pumpkin, and while your at it keep that pumpkin away from the curtains.

Statistics always make for good reading and today we offer these. National Football League officials receive from $225 per game for rookies to a maximum of $875 after 11 years, plus expenses. The salary increases $50 every two years. Each official in the Super Bowl draws $1,500 and $1,000 goes to each of the six officials working conference and divisional playoffs.

The electric scoreboard that Sam Crispino of Supreme Foods donated to the Recreation Department to be installed at Robertson Park cost $2,859. With the cable and lumber for a press box the improvements at the North End field for next season will come to approximately $3,700. Men's volleyball league play starts Nov. 3 at the West Side Rec with the women's volleyball league getting underway Nov. 12. Kasden has dropped from the league with Economy Electric taking over the spot. Bob Parizeau has relinquished his duties as director of the West Side Rec but will continue to referee men's volleyball action this winter. A. Siebold, Rec director, was in Dallas, Texas last week attending the National Park and Recreation conference. Ernie Turck, Park department head, reports M. Nobe's football field is in the best shape in years. Future improvement plans at Robertson Park include erection of an eight-foot fence along the first and third base lines with a fence completely surrounding the playing field. Park crew is now leveling the bank in left field and the distance will be 180 feet down the foul line starting next season.

Giants losing their appeal

Apparently the New York football Giants are no longer the box office magnet they were for years. The flashy sports coats worn by Hoywood Hale Brown on CBS sports segments have often been referred to as test patterns for color video sets. Connecticut hunters planning to hunt in Vermont must have a Connecticut license and must have either a Vermont license or must have in their possession a card showing he or she has successfully passed the National Hunter Safety test. Fred Nassif passes along the information that Connecticut hunters traveling through Massachusetts must have their guns in a case or are subject to arrest.

Shed no tears for gridders

Here's one fellow who isn't shedding any tears over the NFL defectors who signed on with the ill-fated WFL and now want to come back to the established lole. The Cronkas, Kicks and Warfields want their cake and to eat it, too. Bill Rodgers has relinquished his national 20-kilometer championship to Dave Babiracki of California. The Boston Marathon winner, who will race here and was established to the winner's circle, placed second with John Vitale third and Amby Burfoot fifth.

Notes off the cuff

"The first thing you realize when you win is that everybody loves you." Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said after being welcomed back in Cincinnati after the World Series. Several members of the New York Jets have family athletic ties. Tackle Carl Barzilauskas' uncle, Fritz, played with the New York Giants. The latter is now an assistant coach at Yale. Cornerback Delles Howell was preceded to the team by his brother, Mike, with the Browns, and Lane with the Giants and Eagles. Mike Adamie's father, Tony, was a

Statistics make good reading

By LEN AUSTER - Herald Sports-writer - Len Auster will not with the Manchester High soccer team yesterday as it suffered a 2-0 loss to OCHL foe Hall High in West Hartford in the season finale for both clubs. "They put the pressure on in the first quarter and didn't score and we put the pressure on in the second period and they came up with two goals," mused Tribe Coach Dick Danielson. "You got to get one sooner or later. You can't keep on coming close as we did."

Two goals within a 50 second span in the second stanza was all the Warriors needed. Jamie Cherlin tallied the first goal at the 4:57 mark from his left wing position on a header with an assist from Greg Calibey. Fifty seconds later, Shan O'Shary controlled a pass from Paul Roberts with his chest and blasted a shot from pointblank range past Indian goalie Dave Koski.

The Silk Towners early in the third in the season finale for both clubs. Tony Barrett just missed from his left wing slot, Bill Finnegan misfired with goalie Bruce Behan out of position and John Paquette hit the crossbar all within a minute span. Later, Tayo Stima missed on a breakaway and the steam seemed to ebb out of the locals.

With the verdict, Hall finished with a 9-2 record and 49 points and sole possession of third place in the CCIL. Wethersfield took league honors for the first time since 1969 with a 2-1 win over Simsbury while Entfield, which had led going into yesterday's action, was upset 2-1 by Conard and had to settle for second place. Simsbury and Conard shared fourth place with 7-4 records while Manchester wound up fifth with a 7-5-2 ledger. All have qualified for post-season action.

Surgery set for Plunkett - FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) - New England Patriots quarterback Jim Plunkett is expected to be back practicing in one to two weeks.

Plunkett undergoes surgery today at the Stanford Medical Center in Palo Alto, Calif., for removal of a screw that has been holding together his separated shoulder.

The screw was inserted by Dr. Fred Behling after Plunkett was injured in a preseason game. It was jarred loose in last Sunday's game. "Jim should be able to start throwing a ball around 10 days to two weeks" from the today, Behling said Tuesday.

However, told that Plunkett said he would start practicing within a week, Behling said he wouldn't be surprised.

"Jim can do anything he says he can," Behling said. "He's a super football player, a super patient and a super human being. They throw away the mold after he was made."

Patriots coach Chuck Fairbanks announced quarterback Neil Grahm was signed back up Steve Gronan, who directed the Patriots for the final three periods Sunday after Plunkett was injured. Graft was put on waivers by the Patriots earlier this season.

Entry list goes over 300 mark

Robbins enters 30th Five Miler turkey day

By EARL YOST

Signed entry blanks continue to arrive daily for the 30th edition of the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester Thanksgiving morning.

Will Hadden, general chairman for the sponsoring Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, reports more than 300 have been received with the race just over a month away.

Assigned to wear No. 1 in the 1975 race, the 25th under the sponsorship of the Tall Cedars, is Charlie Robbins, the grand-daddy among active participants since the race was instituted in 1944.

Robbins, 55, and a practicing physician on the staff of the Middletown State Hospital, will be making his 30th appearance.

The slender former Manchester High and University of Connecticut runner still weighs the same as he did in 1944 — 117 pounds.

Robbins, holder of 11 national long distance championships, scored back-to-back triumphs in the Manchester races in 1944 and 1945.

For several years he has been reigned as American's No. 1 marathoner, a course that measures 26 miles, 385 yards.

Thus, the Manchester Five Miler will be a breeze for the Middletown resident who always runs bare-footed.

Ernie D appears all better, leads Braves to triumph

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ernie DiGregorio, or "Ernie D" as he's better known, appeared to be completely recovered from left knee surgery which forced him to miss most of last season as he scored 22 points and had nine assists Tuesday night in the Buffalo Braves' 124-108 victory over the Houston Rockets.

"I have no problem," DiGregorio said of his knee. "I've worked hard over the summer and I feel good."

The Braves, paced by Bob McAdoo's 34 points, actually broke the game open late in the first quarter when they scored 10 successive points to open up a 34-18 lead. They led 64-51 at the half and 98-78 after three quarters.

Ed Ratleff was high for the Rockets with 27 points and Rudy Tomjanovich and Mike Newlin had 16 apiece.

The Golden State Warriors defeated the New York Knicks 117-94, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Milwaukee Bucks 99-92, the Chicago Bulls topped the Seattle SuperSonics 101-90, and the New Orleans Jazz downed the Portland Trail Blazers 99-90, in other National Basketball Association games.

The San Antonio Spurs scored a 108-103 victory over the Virginia Squires in the only American Basketball Association game.

Final round set today on sports TV blackout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee began its final round of hearings today on legislation to make permanent a ban on sports television blackouts of sold-out games with pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle waging an almost hopeless battle against the bill.

Rozelle is not scheduled to appear before the House Commerce panel until Thursday but spokesmen for professional basketball and hockey were ready to reluctantly accept at today's session a continuation of a three-year blackout in their sports.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn is expected to follow their lead on Friday when the subcommittee headed by Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., finishes up with testimony and starts considering sending the legislation to the House floor. Companion legislation is pending also in the Senate.

Gail Goodrich suspended

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday suspended Gail Goodrich, who is embroiled in a contractual dispute with Laker owner Jack Kent Cooke, and replaced him on their roster with 7-footer Jim McDaniel.

Warriors 111, Knicks 94. Jamaal Wilkes scored 23 points to lead Golden State to its victory at New York. Rick Barry scored 24 points for Golden State while Walt Frazier had 19 and Spencer Haywood 16 for the Knicks.

Lakers 99, Bucks 92. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, returning to the Milwaukee Bucks as a visitor for the first time, scored 30 points, had 19 rebounds and blocked nine shots in leading the Lakers over the Bucks.

The Bulls, paced by Bob Love scored 18 points in the second half and Rowland Garrett added 14 as the Bulls rallied for their victory over the Sonics. Love scored 12 of his 23 points in the third period when the Bulls took a 63-62 lead which never was overcome.

Slick Watts had 18 points for Seattle. Jazz 99, Trail Blazers 90. Louie Nelson had 20 points, Nate Williams 17 and Pete Maravich 15 to lead the Jazz.

Bill Walton scored 17 points in the first half but was held to four in the second half as the Trail Blazers dropped their third straight game.

Squires 108, Squires 103. James Silas' 31 points led the Squires to their win in a game which was tied 29 times. The Squires trailed most of the game by six or seven points until John Neumann hit a three-point goal with 7:56 left to cut the score to 94-91.

Wilde Wise led Virginia with 27 points.

Only once, since the race was revived, has Robbins failed to appear at the starting line. In 1951, while interning in Philadelphia, he was among the missing. Since 1952, 23 consecutive years, Robbins has started and finished the grind which has attracted the nation's best distance runners for years.

Robbins will represent the New York Pioneer Club. All indications point to another record field. Last year there were 830 entries received of which 709 showed and 682 finished, all three totals being all-time highs.

Amby Burfoot, who has practically owned the Five Miler over the past seven years with six firsts and one third, won the '74. The former Wesleyan University star has broken the tape first the last four years, being clocked in 22:32 last November.

Entries, which must be accompanied by a $2 registration fee, which is turned over to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund, will be received until Nov. 19.

The race, sanctioned by the AAU and open to men and women, boys and girls 14 and over, starts at 10:30 on the lower end of Main St., opposite School St.

Race headquarters will be set up at the East Side Rec Centers on School St.

Area soccer

Going unbeaten is one desire of every team but South Windsor High spoiled Windsor Locks' dreams yesterday with a 4-2 upset win to highlight area soccer action.

In other area clashes, Rockville blanked Windsor, 1-0, Ellington whitewashed Somers, 1-0, and Rham High took the measure of Killingly, 1-0.

Paul Lenkeit led the Bobcats' attack with two goals with Bret Arnsen and Skip DeRosa adding one apiece. South Windsor winds up with an 8-5-1 mark while Windsor Locks finishes 1-1-1.

Tim Berger scored the only goal for Rockville which finishes with a 7-4-2 ledger. Joe Graves scored for Ellington which winds up 10-1-3. Rham High saw its mark improve to 7-3-3 with Chip Bunker registering the only goal.

Hockey performers seek funds Sunday

Rain resulted in postponement of the annual house to house canvass for funds last weekend by the Manchester Youth Hockey Association.

Entries, which must be accompanied by a $2 registration fee, which is turned over to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund, will be received until Nov. 19.

The race, sanctioned by the AAU and open to men and women, boys and girls 14 and over, starts at 10:30 on the lower end of Main St., opposite School St.

COACHES' CORNER

By LARRY OLSEN

Manchester High

It is said that games won or lost can be boiled down to a few key plays. Such was the case in Saturday's loss to Enfield (28-12). Enfield had a respectable team and moved the ball at will on us in their first two possessions, but even at that I count two key attempts that kept us out of range. The first came while we trailed 15-6, with seconds left in the first half when Paul Rogers connected on a long halfback pass putting Enfield in the position where they eventually scored with one second on the clock giving them a big 21-6 halftime edge.

The second key play came with the score 21-12 when we forced Enfield back to a third-and-22 and with an opportunity to take over the ball near midfield after a punt. However, Enfield pulled out of the hole with a well run end sweep and a gain of 22 yards giving them the first down. As I said, each of these plays helped keep Enfield just enough out of reach and then we had to try to get the big gainer which has been coming all too infrequently for us.

I felt this was perhaps the poorest overall performance by our defense. We were not consistent and I felt that the errors committed were mental lapses. Errors in technique or lack of skill can be compensated for but mental errors, the area of all coaches, can be corrected only by concentration. I must mention however that even though as a team we did not shine defensively there were some bright spots. John Keane, returning from a two-week absence played the full game and did a very nice job defensively. His consistent play helped us considerably. Offensively we were able to move the ball but not consistently. Our third quarter score was a "three yards and a cloud of dust" type of drive consuming many minutes on the scoreboard. But aside from that we were unable to muster any other sustained style of a drive. I was pleased to see a glimmer of the running style of Jason Dodge that made him a threat last year and Ralph Donadio also ran with the power needed from a back in our offense.

As for our next opponent, Enrico Ferni, well what do I need to say, I can't imagine needing much more incentive to be ready for any game. Every time we reflect on last year's game we reaffirm our vows. That was a mistake and one that needs to be rectified. Emotionally, we will be ready for this game.

Illing, Rham booters play to 1-1 deadlock

Playing to a 1-1 tie yesterday was the Illing Junior High soccer team with the Rham freshmen at Illing's field.

After a scoreless first half, Illing got on the scoreboard with Pete Krupp booting it home with an assist from Tom Roach. Less than a minute later, Rham knotted it and the two clubs played two overtimes without a score.

Goalie Mark Copeland played well for the Rams turning away 21 shots. Illing, now 7-2-1, has two games remaining against cross-town Bennet Monday at Bennet and Thursday at Illing.

His condition was described as "satisfactory" by a hospital spokesman and "fine" by his wife. Dempsey, 80, entered New York University Hospital during the weekend.

Today's sports parade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Remember how close Rusty Staub came to being hit him in their fight which lasted only four rounds... "I was convinced I could beat him," Carpenter remembered. "I was sure I could knock out anybody who came at me, and I knew he'd come at me because he was a close quarter fighter. I hit him on the chin with my hardest right in the second round. The punch staggered him, but the bell rang 20 seconds later. He came out fighting the third round. He was like a tiger and began hitting me with the hardest punches any human ever threw. Nobody ever could hit the way Dempsey did that day. And he was shaking off my punches as if I were patting him with my open hand. He was the toughest man I ever saw, and that time he helped develop more than 20 of the kids on the Expos' roster right now...."

Tom Seaver, up for the National League's Cy Young Award a third time, is the latest big name athlete to take to TV commenting on sports, both nationally and for a local channel in the metropolitan New York area. The Mets' ace could wind up the first $200,000 pitcher next season. That's purely in salary. Catfish Hunter received $3 million from the Yankees, but only $150,000 a year of that was in the form of salary. Sandy Koufax must still remember when

George Carver, who died of a heart attack in Paris Monday at 81, was the first Frenchman ever to win a world boxing title of any kind. He was world light heavyweight king for two years and not much more than a middleweight when he, had his famous meeting with Jack Dempsey at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, N.J., in 1921. Carpenter fought a number of heavyweights. Gene Tunney among them, but maintained until the end no man in the world could hit any harder than Dempsey was the toughest man I ever saw, and that time he helped develop more than 20 of the kids on the Expos' roster right now...."

Before the final game of the World Series, many of Sparky Anderson's well-wishers wanted to cushion the pain of defeat in case the Red Sox beat the Reds, so a number of them told the Cincinnati manager, "remember this, no matter what, the sun still is gonna shine tomorrow."

"And you know what?" he says. "The sun actually did shine. It turned out to be a gorgeous day."

Whalers' veteran Caffery to Colgary

HARTFORD (UPI) — Terry Caffery, World Hockey Association rookie of the year in 1973, was traded by the New England Whalers to the Calgary Cowboys in return for a high draft pick next year and other considerations.

Jack Kelley, coach and general manager of the Whalers, said Tuesday Caffery didn't fit into any of the lines he drew up for the 1975-76 season. He said Caffery's experience would help the Cowboys.

Kelley said, in return for Caffery, the Whalers will get "a high draft choice in next year's amateur draft plus other considerations."

The Whalers, 4-2, are tied with Cincinnati for lead of the WHA's eastern division and will be seeking their fourth straight win at the Hartford Civic Center against Quebec tonight.

Ranger roster up for grabs

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Rangers General Manager Emile Francis, in a move to pave the way for more trades and earn the players, Tuesday threw the roster up for grabs.

"It is a league policy that waiver transactions are treated as confidential, so I regret I cannot comment on this," said Francis.

The only Ranger exempt is defenseman Doug Jarrett, acquired Tuesday from Chicago for goaltender Gilles Villeneuve.

Derek Sanderson, one of the Ranger players said of Francis, "He does not make idle threats. He told us that no one player was playing well enough not to go down (to the minors). There were no exceptions."

But Sanderson said the move was made not only a warning but a means to find out which players could be good trade bait.

"He didn't really threaten everybody. We're all on recall," Sanderson said. "This way he'll find out who wants who and who's claiming who. He's not a quitter. He's looking for a way to make moves. He'll see who's interested in what."

Another task will be the installation of a six-foot high steel rail fence around the coliseum oval. Purpose of the barrier is to protect spectators from bucking broncs and Brahman bulls that can go out of control after dumping their riders. The fence will not obstruct the view of spectators.

The Kings won 6-0 over the Washington Capitals Tuesday night, with Dionne, a new acquisition from the Detroit Red Wings, pacing Los Angeles with three goals and an assist.

Herculean task to convert center for rodeo

The herculean task of converting the Hartford Civic Center coliseum into a rodeo arena within 36 hours will begin Thursday morning with the machine and an army of workmen.

Their biggest mission will be to spread a 12-inch thick blanket of topsoil across the vast coliseum floor. A total of 600 cubic yards of dirt will be trucked into the center by Russo Brothers of Wilson. Spreaders and bulldozers will work around the clock to lamp and compress the soil to the right consistency.

To bind the soil to the coliseum floor in areas which will feel the sharpest bite of hooves heaviest, a base of corrugated pressboard will be laid down before the dirt is dumped.

Other crew work will install the chutes from which broncs, steers, calves and bulls will break in competition events, and establish a stable area for rodeo animals in an isolated area behind exhibition hall.

"I feel sharper now," he said. "I hope we can put a good streak together."

Flames 3, Canucks 2. Curt Bennett's two first period goals boosted Atlanta over Vancouver. The Flames jumped into a 3-0 and held on in the final period as Don Lever and Dennis Verveer scored Canuck goals.

Oilers 7, Roadrunners 3. Ken Sheehy broke an extended scoring slump to lead Edmonton over Phoenix. His two goals marked his first in 11 games this season. Other Oiler scorers were Ken Baird, Ed Joyal, Gary Long, Norm Ullman and Bob McAneeby. Robbie Florak, Jim Boyd and Al Hall hit for Phoenix.

Toros 6, Nordiques 4. Vaclav Nedomansky and Gavin Kirk scored two goals each to lead Toronto past Quebec. Real Cloutier's seventh goal and another by Serge Bernier put the Nordiques up 2-0 before the Toros rallied to win.

NEW YORK (UPI) — this team," said Dionne. "My main concern is thinking about the playoffs — and he hopes he can help the Los Angeles Kings get there."

The Kings won 6-0 over the Washington Capitals Tuesday night, with Dionne, a new acquisition from the Detroit Red Wings, pacing Los Angeles with three goals and an assist.

Rogie Vaughan, who along with the defensive team allowed 16 goals in the Kings' first two games, was credited with his first shutout this season. "I want to play well for very well. He handled the puck well." Vachon, who posted his 29th career shutout, 16 of them with the Kings, was in high spirits.

"I feel sharper now," he said. "I hope we can put a good streak together."

Herculean task to convert center for rodeo

The herculean task of converting the Hartford Civic Center coliseum into a rodeo arena within 36 hours will begin Thursday morning with the machine and an army of workmen.

Their biggest mission will be to spread a 12-inch thick blanket of topsoil across the vast coliseum floor. A total of 600 cubic yards of dirt will be trucked into the center by Russo Brothers of Wilson. Spreaders and bulldozers will work around the clock to lamp and compress the soil to the right consistency.

Promoted

Carolyn Weindruch, a native of Manchester, has been promoted to assistant manager of the Louisville, Ky., Sales Division of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co.

Ms. Weindruch is the first female to hold a managerial position in the company's field sales department. Brown & Williamson is the nation's third largest tobacco company.

Ms. Weindruch joined the firm as a retail sales representative in Boston, Mass., in 1974. Before that, she attended Manchester Community College and the Hartford Hospital Respiratory Therapy School.

Elected

Mark D'Zamba of Ellington, data processing manager of the third shift operations staff, has been elected assistant treasurer of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., Hartford.

D'Zamba joined CBT as a computer operator in 1969 following his discharge from the U.S. Air Force. He was named shift supervisor in 1972, assistant manager of data processing (third shift) in 1973, and he assumed his present duties in 1974.

Elected

George Glaser of Manchester has been elected an assistant treasurer of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., Hartford.

Taxes don't scare industry

High taxes don't necessarily drive out industry, nor do artificial tax and financial incentives necessarily attract it. Moreover, industrial growth may not be much of a bargain after all for many communities.

So concludes William A. McEachern, an assistant professor of economics at the University of Connecticut. He made his observations in an article, "State and Local Economic Finances and Industrial Location: A Look at the Evidence," published by the UConn Institute of Public Service.

He tempered this by saying that if a state gets a particularly bad reputation for excessively high business taxes, that may affect the decision to move into it. But for a state that does not have such national notoriety, marginal changes in tax rates are unimportant.

Comparative studies have shown that "there appears to be no observable link between the growth in manufacturing and the relative tax effort in a state," he reported. "So many other variables differ between states that the effect of taxes often gets lost."

Direct surveys of businessmen also show that taxes appear to be a secondary consideration when choosing location, he observed. As an example, "Business Week" magazine reported that in one of its surveys on factors influencing business location, only five per cent of the respondents mentioned taxation.

In terms of business' costs, taxes are a relatively minor factor, compared with others. "One study found a state-local tax differential between the highest-taxed state and the lowest-taxed state of only 0.3 per cent of sales."

He observed that other costs, such as labor, represent such a larger fraction of total costs that even small differences in labor costs between states can easily outweigh the effect of tax differentials.

Moreover, the effect of taxes is diminished even more by the fact that state and local taxes are fully deductible from federal taxes, and tax costs not already covered often can be passed on to the buyer.

Merger is still the route for small company growth

NEW YORK (UPI) — The era of easy mergers has ended, probably for a long time, but thousands of vigorous small companies still need to be acquired by bigger firms that can help them grow, says a New York merger consultant.

Victor Niederhoffer is head of Niederhoffer, Cross & Zechhauser, Inc., which has arranged 10 mergers this year in spite of the difficulties — low stock prices, high interest rates and the need of more affluent companies to conserve their cash and avoid further dilution of their equity capital.

"That the number of mergers still is falling from the 1970 peak of more than 3,500 is shown by the latest report of W.T. Grimm & Co. of Chicago, which keeps tabs on the matter. Grimm said the number of completed mergers dropped 25 per cent from a year ago in the first nine months of this year to 1,725 after a 27 per cent drop the year before.

"Mergers to make a fast buck by running up a company's stock or liquidating it or to buy a tax loss carry forward haven't made sense for a long time if they ever really did," said Niederhoffer. But he said the capital and growth problems of good small companies and the serious estate problems of the owners of family controlled businesses are more acute than they ever have been. Frequently highly innovative in their fields, good small companies can grow in sales volume by 15 to 20 per cent a year, Niederhoffer said, if they can find the capital to finance plant expansion, inventories, marketing and distribution and accounts receivable.

In the lush 1960s and 1960s, they could sell stock or debentures to the public or find an angel in a bank, an insurance company or a wealthy individual. Today those sources of money have pretty well dried up and no one knows how long it will be before they are available again.

Yet the market demand definitely is there for the products these firms make — frequently unique products.

The problem is to find just the right company whose business is compatible and which has the resources to make an acceptable offer for the business.

In the lush acquisition period, many merger consultants represented buying companies, eager to grow by acquisition or even to buy up useful tax loss carry forwards. Those consulting firms have largely withered on the vine. Not many companies are looking hard for acquisitions now. Those willing to buy wait for sellers to approach them.

Stock dividend

Industries Inc. of South Windsor has announced a 10 per cent stock dividend to stockholders on record Oct. 24.

Industries President Allen E. Caffyn said the dividend was approved by company directors on the basis of record profits and sales in 1975 and a projected 20 per cent increase in sales and 50 per cent increase in profits for 1976.

Also taken into consideration, Caffyn said, was a current backlog of new orders which is the largest in the company's history.

Banker elected

William H. Hale, president of Heritage Savings and Loan Association of Manchester, has been elected first vice president of the Savings and Loan League of Connecticut.

Hale, active in civic affairs, recently served as convention program chairman for the league's annual convention, held in Bermuda.

The league represents 36 savings and loan associations with more than $2.8 billion in assets.

Earnings increase

Earnings of AMF Inc., a worldwide producer of leisure time and industrial products, rose to $6.3 million in the third quarter of 1975, compared to $1.3 million in the third quarter of 1974, the company has announced.

For the first nine months of 1975, earnings were $25 million, compared to $13.9 million a year ago.

The company said the increase in third quarter earnings was unusually large because of strikes in the third quarter of 1974 which depressed results.

AMF's Cuno Division, which makes water filters, is in Talcoctville.

Director again

J. Herbert Anderson of J. H. Anderson Jewelers of East Hartford has been named to the board of directors of the Connecticut Retail Jewelers Association.

Jobless claims down

Claims for unemployment compensation filed in Manchester declined 1.6 per cent to a weekly average of 3,912 for the two-week period ending Oct. 18, the state Labor Department has reported.

Statewide, jobless claims decreased 5.4 per cent to an average of 127,343 for the period, the department reported.

Accounting talk

Dr. Robert N. Anthony, a leading accounting educator, will address a conference of community and junior college accounting teachers from Connecticut and Rhode Island Saturday at the University of Connecticut, Storrs.

Among panelists at an afternoon discussion is Professor LeRoy N. Schober of Manchester Community College.

Further information is available from the UConn Department of Accounting, Box U-41A, School of Business Administration, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. 06268.

On loan

Gary Lehrman of East Hartford, supervisor of production support for Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. in Bloomfield, is working as a "loaned executive."

Connecticut General is one of nine area companies cooperating in the program, in which personnel are released to the United Way of Greater Hartford to work as staff members for the two-month United Way campaign.

Lehrman is assisting individual companies in the commercial section with their employe campaigns.

Social Security

Q. I work as a waitress at a supper club. I collect all the tips at the tables I serve, and later I share them with the bus boys working my table. Do I report all these tips to Social Security?

A. You must give your employer a written report of your tips within 10 days after the month you receive them when they amount to $20 or more for a month. Report only the amount you keep for yourself.

Q. Both my husband and I are retired and getting monthly Social Security payments based on his work. If we are divorced, will my monthly benefits stop?

A. Your benefits will not stop after the divorce if your marriage lasted 20 years or longer.

Q. I'm looking ahead and trying to figure my retirement income. Is it possible for me to find out how much my monthly Social Security payments will be?

A. Yes. Any Social Security office can give you an estimate of your Social Security payments. It's good to talk to a representative when you're beginning to think about retirement. In addition to giving you an estimate of what your payments will be when you retire, he can also tell you what proofs and other information you'll need when you apply.

Q. I'm planning to retire in January 1976, and I heard that it takes six to nine months for Social Security to get my latest wages on their records. How can I be sure my most recent wages will be included in figuring my monthly payments?

A. When you apply for retirement payments, you should take a copy of our 1975 Statement of Earnings (Form W-2) to the Social Security office. On the basis of the W-2, all of your creditable earnings for 1975 will be recorded to your record.

Q. I own a drug store and recently cashed a bad check for a person who used his Social Security card for identification. Can you help me locate this person?

A. No. According to the law, Social Security records are confidential, and we are not allowed to give out such information. As a word of caution, Social Security cards are not intended to be used for identification purposes and therefore, they are not good proof of identity for check cashing and related purposes.

The candidates are saying John Thompson

Mayor John Thompson predicted today that "a relocation of our fiscal services will improve controls on revenue and spending." When Lincoln Center was renovated, said Thompson, public works and engineering offices were moved from the town hall to the Center. Their place in the town hall was taken by the treasurer's and controller's departments. Thus, we have achieved a centralization of all our fiscal operations.

"Our fiscal centralization has produced marked improvements in efficiency," claimed Mayor Thompson. "For example, on Sept. 1, 1975 we had collected over $100,000 in prior year taxes, which is more than the total for all of the previous year. Our state-required re-evaluation is on schedule and we are doing it at a saving of over $100,000 to the taxpayers. The Board of Directors receives a monthly report on spending and revenue. This will produce another $100,000 in underspending by our departments. Finally, Treasurer Roger Negro continues a sound investment program making use of previously idle funds.

"This record contrasts sharply with the fiscal situation we inherited in 1971," said Thompson. "On May 4, 1971 a Republican-controlled Board of Directors authorized the borrowing of $600,000 in anticipation of federal and state sewer grants. Although the grants were received on May 18, 1971, the borrowing was done in June 1971. This action was done due to lack of cash on hand to meet operating expenses. I am confident that our tightening up of fiscal operations has and will avoid any necessary borrowing expenses.

Paul Willhide

Paul Willhide, Republican candidate for the Board of Directors, is forecasting that the Manchester town leaders take a positive role in pressing for an early completion of the I-91-I-96 connector for the convenience and cost savings to our residents.

Shortage villians plentiful

By GEORGE J. MARDER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The worker who gets laid off because of a shortage of natural gas, can blame — Congress for delaying a solution so long.

The Ford administration for linking emergency action with controversial long-range proposals.

Liberals for failing to recognize that gas sold interstate controlled at 51 cents a thousand cubic feet and uncontrolled gas sold within a producing state for as much as $2 a thousand cubic feet would surely bring on a crisis.

Conservatives for using the crisis to push for long-range decontrol which would add a cubic foot of gas this winter. Decontrol would start next April under the bill pushed through the Senate.

The industry for helping create the crisis by failing to provide pipelines with the gas promised.

The Federal Power Commission for failing to make the industry live up to commitments.

If the idled worker wants any more villians, he probably can find them easily.

At the moment, the focus is on Congress. And Congress is doing what comes naturally — squabbling so much that the outlook is for more crisis and more unemployment before Congress acts, if then.

Here's what's been happening.

President Ford and the industry's solution for the long-term gas shortage is to lift the price controls on gas moving in interstate commerce. That would allow the price of interstate gas to treble and probably more. That, the industry insists, would provide the incentive to explore for new gas reserves.

Congress, split on decontrol, has twice in recent years turned it down. Some liberals insist the better answer is to put gas sold within producing states under price control, make the price for both the same and reasonably profitable for the industry.

Last year, gas shortages developed and the government had to force allocations. It would have been much worse if the winter hadn't been so mild.

This year, much greater shortages are in prospect. The weatherman can't be counted upon to cooperate.

The administration proposed an emergency solution — bypass the price controls just for the areas which may run short of gas this winter.

Congressional leaders went along. Democrats introduced a bill which would allow pipelines to buy gas at the wellhead for uncontrolled prices prevailing this past summer, and charge the higher prices to needy customers in other states. That would mean the price of the emergency supplies would increase from 51 cents a thousand cubic feet to anywhere between $1.30 and $2 a thousand cubic feet.

The emergency bill seemed headed for easy passage. But state senators were convinced it might be now or never for long-range decontrol. Congress would not act when there was no crisis, but the crisis — and complaints over unemployment — might get Congress to accept decontrol now.

With backing from the administration, they attached the long-range decontrol to the emergency bill.

Liberal senators retaliated by bringing up other long-range proposals such as breaking up the giants of the industry and forcing them to get out of other energy fields. All the liberal proposals were defeated, after heated debate. But it took time.

Now, however, it's up to the House where there is considerable opposition to the long-range price decontrol. The prospect is for more delay, more squabbles — and possibly stalemate.

Bay State gun law hard and unforgiving

JAMES R. DORSEY BOSTON (UPI) — There have been few convictions under Massachusetts' new gun control law, but it has touched people in all walks of life and it is hard and unforgiving.

The law mandates a one-year prison sentence. There is no parole, no probation no suspended sentences, no furloughs.

The law at times deals in extremes. One night last June, a 58-year-old woman, who fell out the apartment door and tumbled down the stairs, thumping her head in the process.

The downstairs neighbor, hearing the shot and the fight, called police.

Mary recently was sentenced to one year in Framingham State Prison for unlawful possession of a firearm. She and Sorrett claim the gun did not belong to her. But the judge said he had no choice because the gun law doesn't allow judges to use discretion—the guilty must be sentenced to at least one year in jail.

To date, it has been impossible to obtain factual statistics on arrests and convictions during the first six months of the law, which was steamrolled through the legislature last year to placate gun control advocates.

The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts, despite being in the forefront of strong gun control laws, vehemently opposes the present law because of its non-discretionary mandate that judges impose the stiff prison sentence. A CLUM spokesman stated that makes the law unconstitutional.

Pickering censure recalled

By DREW VON BERGEN WASHINGTON (UPI) - Michael Harrington is a rebellious son of Massachusetts, caught in a legislative vise between his conscience and the rules of Congress over unauthorized disclosure of secret government documents.

So was Timothy Pickering. It was the winter of 1810, not 1975, but there is a sharp similarity between the cases.

Pickering was a native of Salem, Mass. So is Harrington. Pickering graduated from Harvard and practiced law in Salem before entering politics.

On Dec. 31, 1810, Sen. Henry Clay of Kentucky introduced a resolution to censure Pickering for reading a secret government letter about a French-American treaty to a public session of the Senate.

On June 18, 1975, Rep. Robin Beard of Tennessee filed a complaint with the House Ethics Committee calling for "appropriate action" against Harrington for discussing with a newspaper reporter secret testimony about CIA activities in Chile.

Harrington, a liberal Democrat, faces formal disciplinary hearings early next month that could lead to censure and even expulsion.

In Pickering's case, he was censured by a vote of 29-7. Later that year he lost a bid for re-election, although he later served in the House.

"I hope we've come a long way in 170 years," Harrington said in a recent interview.

Like Harrington, who avoids the Washington cocktail circuit and is considered a loner even among his fellow liberals, Pickering had a rebellious past that precipitated his troubles in the Senate.

After taking part in the Revolutionary War, he served in the cabinets of George Washington as postmaster general, secretary of war and secretary of state.

He was held over when John Adams became President, but opposed Adams' effort to settle differences with France peacefully. In May, 1800, when he refused a request to resign, Pickering was fired.

Pickering returned to Massachusetts and became senator in 1803.

He incurred the wrath of his colleagues when he took the Senate floor in December of 1810 and read a letter from Charles Maurice Talleyrand, the French minister of foreign affairs, to General Armstrong, the U.S. minister at Paris.

According to official Senate records, Talleyrand's letter purported to deny that the United States had acquired, by the Treaty of 1803, any title to Louisiana east of the Mississippi.

Backers of Clay's censure resolution contended Pickering violated Senate rules by reading a confidential communication sent the Senate by the President on the floor of the Senate "the injunction of secrecy" not having been removed.

Despite no written Senate rule regarding confidentiality, Clay cited a general understanding that "all confidential communications made by the President of the United States to the Senate, shall, by the members thereof, be kept inviolably secret."

Two days after the resolution was introduced, on Jan. 2, 1811, Pickering was censured.

Harrington contends that violation of a House rule is not the issue in his case.

"The issue is not Michael Harrington," he said, "but the use of the CIA and government secrecy in general to short-circuit the democratic process and cover up illegal activity."

The candidates are saying Pascal Prignano

Democrat Pascal Prignano, running for re-election to the Board of Directors, said today, "Manchester is not a New York City, as the attitudes and recent political ads by the Republican Party might lead one to believe. Republican attempts to degrade our community is merely an extension of Republican shortsightedness and the lack of faith and pride in our town. I, like thousands of others, like to live in Manchester and take pride in our community and what it has to offer. Just in the past seven days, I met two individuals who have moved back to Manchester after having moved to a neighboring town within the last two years. They were happy to get back to

Manchester. A third person, a recent newcomer to our community, expressed to me how wonderful he found our town to be. "Manchester is a great place to live, to work, to raise your children. The first thing you see upon entering a new place, generally, leaves the most lasting and influential impression. Yet, the Republicans could not bring themselves to vote to spend a few thousand dollars for attractive, new wooden signs to be placed at the gates of our city. They apparently prefer that the first thing a traveler to our community sees is a dilapidated, rusted-out marker. "We must show our pride in our community. It's good for the morale of the community, for the spirit of our people and it's good for business. If people take pride in something, they will take better care of it. Let people know we have a superior school system, superior recreation programs and superior town services. All, I might add, at a comparatively reasonable tax rate. "Not only a candidate, but as a resident and taxpayer of Manchester, I recommend you reelect the Democrats who have and will continue to convey the pride and spirit in their attitudes and in their actions, by keeping Manchester superior in every area. To the Republicans I say the message is stop putting Manchester down, we have a lot to be proud of and a lot to gain by reflecting that pride to others."

The first internment in the Woodlawn Cemetery, located in the Bronx, New York, was that of a Mrs. Phoebe E. Underhill in January, 1885, three months before Gen. Robert E. Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Vacation home built into thriving business

JACQUELINE HUARD WILMOT FLAT, N.H. (UPI) - Twenty-nine years ago Kay White and Donna Miles struggled through a harsh New Hampshire winter under the skeptical eyes of native mountain dwellers to construct a small home on a slope of 3,000 feet Mt. Kearsage.

Today 45,000 people drive up the steep granite incline each year to tour Freedom Acres, the sprawling ranch complex of the two retired Army WACs hammered out of a scarcity of post-war building materials.

In their 50's, the women spend their days guiding tourists through the brown wooden structure and making repairs and renovations on what started as a vacation home - now a combination of their year-round living quarters and $60,000 a year jam and jelly shop.

Sitting in a green rocker in the pine-paneled living room, Kay White recalled how the idea for Freedom Acres began in 1936.

Fresh from serving in World War II, she and Miss Niles, a former professor at Northwestern University in Illinois, stopped while vacationing at a friend's cabin on Mt. Kearsage to nurse their sick Irish Setter puppy.

"We looked at the beautiful country and decided to build a small summer place to have roots somewhere," said Miss White, a 68-year-old Brockton, Mass., native and former musical comedy director. "By spring we decided we would stick around."

The women bought 26 acres of woodland 1,100 feet up the mountain and then waited two weeks for a mason to pour the foundation for a 12 by 24 foot structure. When he arrived, the mason only troweled while Miss White and Niles hauled water, mixed the cement and poured.

That experience made them decide they could go it alone. "We decided if we could read we could build," Miss White said.

That first winter their mountain neighbors waged the two women would last one winter as they watched them rough it in a ramshackle hut, with no running water or electricity, and only an old Army foot locker buried in the snow as a refrigerator.

But the second winter came and Misses White and Niles stayed. They labored in the warmer seasons and built a barn, stocked it with animals, constructed a fireplace for their house and began subsistence farming.

The women later stumbled into the jam and jelly making business by accident - about the same time they discovered that the cost of keeping farm animals outweighed any profit.

They harvested the acres of wild fruits and berries on the mountain and made preserves from an old family recipe for friends. Soon they began a mail order business and today ship their "A Taste of the Wild" jams and jellies around the world.

"We have no desire to be big," says Miss White, who plays an electric vibrate organ for visitors. "We just wanted to break from the routine and have a more leisurely life."

She said many people who have visited or heard about Freedom Acres also have decided to abandon the ordinary and go out on their own.

"We've started a lot of people on this type of thing," Miss White said. "They'll look around and say, 'If they can do it, we can do it.'"

"This place, for us, was freedom to do anything we wanted to and to live the type of life we wanted," she said. From a begonia-lined terrace in the rear of the home, visitors can view the craggy, pine-studded mountain ranges surrounding Mt. Kearsage.

"People go out there and dream of what they could do," Miss White said.

Smithson, who died in Italy in 1829, willed his entire fortune to the U.S. - to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men. The bequest totaled more than half a million dollars, a great fortune in that day.

A quick glance back at the past

Members of Manchester High School Class of 1935, Mike Karpuska, left, of Farmersville, Tex., Mrs. Rose Mistretta Lambruno, Mrs. Rose Patelli Karpuska, Edward Atkinson and Mrs. Elizabeth DeSimone Pavelack pause during the class' 40th reunion to reminisce as they look at pictures of past reunions and their school years plus notes from class members unable to attend the event. Atkinson, class treasurer, was master of ceremonies for the reunion Saturday at The Colony, Talcottville. The Rev. John Tierney of Branford, a classmate, gave the opening prayer. Door prizes were distributed by Esther Wells Clarke.

Police report

Kurt P. Bryant, 17, of East Hartford was arrested Tuesday on a charge of fourth-degree larceny, Manchester Police reported. He was released on his written promise to appear in Common Pleas Court, East Hartford, on Nov. 10. Police said the charge stems from an investigation into the recent theft of pallets from the K-Mart Department Store on Spencer St. In other Manchester Police reports today: An East Hartford woman reported the theft of her automobile from its parked location at the Top Notch Supermarket at the North End. Abraham Lincoln was the only president ever to undergo enemy gunfire. Lincoln faced confederate bullets at Fort Stevens, where restored ramparts stand today a few miles from the White House.

Senior citizens' news

Hi! Here we go again, and by the way you begin reading this column some 180 members will be landing at the Brown's Hotel in the Catskills for a three-day stay. Meanwhile back here at the ranch the activities go on as usual with Gloria handling the reins. Only problem is that the minibus had to make a stop at the hospital for a checkup, therefore it was out of action for at least a couple of days.

Action here at the Center starts with the happenings on Friday when in the morning we had 70 playing our kitchen social bingo games. After lunch the gang moved upstairs for setback. We had 59 players, and the following winners: Audrey Durey, 139; Michael DeSimone, 130; Bessie Coste, 129; Edward Scott and Ernestine Donnelly, 126; Lyla Steele, 127; Helena Gavello, 126; Louis Weber, John Gally and Lillian Rutchik, 125; Clara Hemingway, 123; Wilbur Messier, 122; Oscar Cappuccio and Mabel Loomis, 121; Gladys Seelert and Marjorie Hall, 120.

Next comes Monday, when in the morning we had 87 playing our kitchen social games, and in the afternoon we had one of our largest crowds of the season with 68 players with the following winners: Esther Anderson, 712; Fritz Wilkinson, 704; Al Chellman, 701; Violet Dion, 696; Wesley Frost, 679; Beatrice Mader, 676; Robert Schubert, 674; Lillian Lewis, 668; Robina Carroll, 665; Grace Moore, 662; Olive Houghtaling, 666; John Derby, 661.

Marie Hebenstreit, 660; Helena Gavello, 645; Annie Young, 641; Sam Schors, 639, and Emma Russell, 637.

Starting next week it's the first of November and that means we have a new group of volunteers all lined up for the next two months. For our kitchen social games, Anna Haupt and Ernie Irwin will be calling. Working in the kitchen will be Celi Wandt as chairman, Ann Thompson, Agnes Halpryn, and Peggy Thierren. Taking care of the bingo cards will be Ann Rice and Elsa Hirsch. A substitute for the bingo and kitchen will be Lena Speed.

For the card games it will be Lyla Steele and Alfreda Hallin. I want to take this opportunity to extend a sincere thank you to the following volunteers who did an outstanding job for us these past two months. We are very grateful to them, and hope we can call on them again one day: Marge Hall, Dorothy Andrew, Al Bourret, George Vallone and Bob Doggart, who helped with our kitchen social games. Then to Marge Reed, Mae Martin, Theresa Negro and Anna Demko who helped serve the morning snacks from the kitchen, and Betty Jeanis, Annie Thompson, and Bob Schubert for their help with our card games.

Let's see, tomorrow there won't be too much action with so many away but there will be a nice lunch at noon in the afternoon paper games and a sing-along will be in the office. Our bus will pick up at the regular time.

Lenny Lazusky, top, struggles with shears to cut the steering wheel away from the victim, Ross Easton, while Lt. Don Davis, right, directs during a demonstration rescue Saturday noon at the Top Notch Foods parking lot of N. Main St. The demonstration was set up by the Eighth District Fire Department and the Manchester Ambulance service. The cervical collar on Easton was put on him during the show. A large crowd watched despite the rain. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Would-be attorney now learning potter's trade

WARREN TALBOT
CHEPACHET, R.I. (UPI) — Ronald E. Cook tried corporate law but didn't like it. Then he went to work helping prison inmates with their legal problems, but found there were too many frustrations in that, too.

After four years at Providence College and three more at Catholic University Law School in Washington, D.C., Cook has given up his dream of becoming an attorney and joined the ranks of disenfranchised professionals who are turning to other lifestyles.

He is now an apprentice potter. "I was working with a law firm in Providence. I was doing the corporate law bit and making money at it, but I just couldn't get off on corporate law," Cook said.

He jumped at the chance for an alternative lifestyle when two friends offered him a chance to become a partner in a fledgling pottery and crafts business.

The dropout lawyer says he and his wife are learning to become self-sufficient. Instead of law books, Cook is reading books on how to do things with his hands — farming, blacksmithing and carpentry.

Eventually he and several other disenfranchised professionals hope to move into the woods of northern New England. "Our intentions are to cut as many ties as possible. I'm going to do a lot in my life. I'm going to learn how to build things. I'm looking to become a Renaissance man," he said.

SURPRISE

Our Vega Dura-Built 140 engine is guaranteed for more miles than VW, Toyota and Datsun combined.

VW: 24,000 miles/Toyota: 12,500 miles/Datsun: 12,000 miles

Vega 140: 60,000 miles.

Get out your pocket calculator and punch in the figures. The engine warranties of three leading foreign cars, all added together, don't equal that of Chevy Vega's Dura-Built 140 engine guarantee.

The Chevrolet guarantee covers 60,000 miles, or 5 years, whichever occurs first. The guarantee is for 1976 Vegas equipped with 4-cylinder, Dura-Built 140-cubic-inch engines. It means that should something go wrong with the engine, your Chevy dealer will fix it free. The guarantee covers repairs to the cylinder block, cylinder head, all internal engine parts, intake and exhaust manifolds, and water pump, made necessary because of defects in material or workmanship. It does not cover repairs required because of accident, misuse or lack of proper maintenance.

This 5-year/60,000-mile engine guarantee is an added value feature included in your 1976 Vega.

See your Chevy dealer for complete guarantee statement. And see him about his pleasantly surprising Vega prices, too. It's a one-two punch that's changing the minds of a lot of small car buyers about foreign cars.

Don't buy any small car until you've seen your Chevy dealer.

Directors lack of responsiveness scorned by writer

I close, knowing completely that everyone does not see it the way I do, but I urge all voters to weigh the issues and make a decision, and please get out and vote.

Jack Goldberg election urged

To the editor: I would like to see Jack Goldberg elected to the Board of Directors.

Negro's ability draws praise

To the editor: As a local businessman, I can certainly appreciate Roger Negro's continued aggressive approach of professional money management.

A parent who cares Marilyn McCann 151 McKee St. Manchester

Bucks Decker

To the editor: As a registered Republican in the Town of South Windsor, I find that I am embarrassed to be affiliated with a party who resorts to distasteful campaign tactics.

Referendum favored

To the editor: It is unfortunate that state funding became a problem for the much needed Bentley and Washington Schools West Side Rec additions and renovations.

Thank you, Steven Cavagnaro 78 Woodstock Manchester

Supports Colman

To the editor: I would appreciate the use of your column for the following item. Eleanor D. Colman, a mother, who is in the educational field as an occupation does have the educational tools to serve our education system.

Thank you, Eileen L. Dunbar South Windsor cents a month (which this proposal would cost) to be proud of its educational facilities? I am a taxpayer in this town and I'm proud to have two elementary schools districts out of twelve that are not up to townwide standards.

Bentley School with no cafeteria can offer no lunch program to its students. Washington School with no gymnasium offers a very limited physical education program in a totally inadequate gym in the adjacent Rec building and has no facility for school assemblies.

To support this referendum with a Yes vote on November 4 would give these two schools a chance to be in line with a prepared package in February when state funding is resolved.

Very truly yours, Edith D. MacKendrick Russell MacKendrick 18 Elsie Dr. Manchester

To the editor: I have been associated with Clarence (Bud) Brown on the board of the MPOA. I know how hard he worked for fiscal responsibility and our town budget.

To the editor: Three cheers for open government and Cile Decker.

To the editor: One of the many primary obligations of a public servant is to serve his constituents. Service means discharging his duties in accordance with the legal and philosophical principles which established the office he holds.

To the editor: I have been associated with Clarence (Bud) Brown on the board of the MPOA. I know how hard he worked for fiscal responsibility and our town budget.

New York City default said not inevitable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today New York City still has "vast financial resources" which it could use to avert default in New York City.

Simon testified before a House banking subcommittee against legislation which would make multi-billion dollar federal guarantees loans available to avert default next month in the nation's largest city.

President Ford said Wednesday he would veto such a bill. But Democratic leaders, after meeting privately, decided to go ahead with efforts to pass it — even though they seemed to sense they were losing the battle.

The Senate Banking Committee met to vote on a measure today that would provide for $4 billion in guaranteed loans.

Simon argued that default was still preventable — and that it would not be devastating if it did occur.

Reactions to veto threat blunt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elected officials say default by the New York City is now inevitable — the only question is when.

"If we convened a special session of the legislature tonight at midnight and tripled our taxes — if we cut every human being off the city payroll tomorrow, we could not avoid default," Gov. Hugh Carey said Wednesday.

Mayor Abraham Beame said Ford is "conducting a cold war on the domestic front" and that federal loan guarantees were essential to avoid default.

City Council President Paul O'Dwyer said the President's speech was an "outrageous, irresponsible diatribe that Richard Nixon, at his worst, would never have uttered."

Officials then turned to more budget-cutting sessions to stave off default, now considered likely in a matter of weeks.

Witches predict NYC will avoid default

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City will avoid default, Hubert Humphrey will be elected president, and medical researchers will conclude during the coming year that kissing is a serious threat to the nation's health.

Those are among conclusions reached in an annual Halloween survey of 280 American witches released Wednesday by the New York Center for the Strange.

The center claims the witches accurately predicted a year ago the fall of South Vietnam and the CIA scandal.

Among predictions for this year's survey: New York will avoid default by receiving "a massive infusion of capital from a foreign source."

Medical researchers will conclude during the coming year that kissing is a serious threat to the nation's health.

Hubert Humphrey will be elected president.

One of America's most prominent political figures asks the Soviet Union for asylum.

Reluctant witness changes her mind

HARTFORD (UPI) — The niece of former state Public Works Commissioner Paul J. Manafort today agreed to testify before a one-man grand jury when she was told she would go to jail if she refused.

Angela Manafort appeared before Superior Court Judge Thomas O'Sullivan in a contempt hearing ordered Wednesday after she said she would not answer questions posed by the grand juror in his probe of the Bridgeport jail scandal.

Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey is sitting as the one-man jury.

Sources said Miss Manafort refused to tell who was present when she attended a meeting that reportedly included David Friend, jail promoter and president of Connecticut Sports Enterprises Inc.

The question was asked by Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley.

Miss Manafort said she declined to answer on the grounds it might be self-incriminating, according to the sources.

The attorney, F. Mac Buckley, indicated later there may have been some misunderstanding by his client on whether she would answer no questions at all or merely the one regarding the mat gathering.

Defense attorneys are not permitted to sit in on grand jury proceedings.
