NEW YORK—The New York Newspaper Guild plans to strike the New York Times at 7 a.m. Tuesday if an agreement on a new contract is not reached. The old contract expired last March 30.

NEW YORK—Pearl Bailey says she's quitting show business after 40 years to "turn to God's work, singing in hospitals or something like that." She made the announcement Thursday night at the opening night of her performance as Dolly Levi in "Hello Dolly."

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Lynette Fromme will testify on her own behalf against a charge of attempting to assassinate President Ford with a .45-caliber pistol. Her legal assistant says. Election of a pool of 40 potential jurors was completed Thursday.

SAN FRANCISCO—The judge in the Patricia Hearst case was expected to rule today on whether she is mentally competent to stand trial. Psychiatrists disagree and he has been evaluating their reports all week.

WASHINGTON—Despite warnings from ousted Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, a key Senate panel has restored only a small fraction of defense budget cuts.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Defense Henry Kissinger has told Congress that failure of approve aid for Israel and Egypt would endanger world economic development and risk U. S.-Soviet confrontation in the Middle East.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—President Ford's stand on New York City's financial crisis has been criticized in his hometown newspaper. The Grand Rapids Press said in an editorial Thursday that Ford "seems to be declaring war on failing cities and the people who live in them."

International

MADRID, Spain—Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon held a crisis meeting with his government today to deal with the threat of war by Morocco's mass civilian invasion of the Spanish Sahara. Generalissimo Francisco Franco continued to cling to life but remained in grave condition.

NEW DELHI, India—A general ousted as army commander only five days ago seized absolute power in Bangladesh today and declared martial law. Maj. Gen. Ziaur Rahman assumed power in the third political upheaval in Bangladesh in three months.

Falls from ladder

An Andover volunteer fireman falls off a ladder while fighting a fire that destroyed an Andover home Thursday. The man was not hurt in the fall, but the chief of the department was upset that the original call was delayed while people stood by and watched the fire. (UPI photo)

Bailey Rd. home to the fire about 700 feet away.

Hutchinson said there were no cars or people around when they got there.

He said, "The few who arrived immediately began breaking windows and doors and yelling to see if anyone was in the house."

He said the people, cars and trucks didn't arrive until after the fire trucks did.

Armstrong said only one call about the fire was received by the Willimantic Dispatch Center, no area station received calls even though the fire could be seen from as far away as the University of Connecticut.

He said the extent of the damage was "totally uncalled for."

Armstrong said, "All we can hope for now is that one or two citizens will be aroused and might make a call when and if they spot a fire."

The house was unoccupied at the time of the fire. No injuries were reported but two cats died in the blaze.

The home was being rented by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sobol, both at work at the time of the blaze.

It has been owned by Gulf Western and Mal Tool for four years.

The state fire marshal's office said there is no evidence of arson. They believe the fire began on the porch but don't know why.

Local fire marshal Joseph Comerford could not be reached for comment.

NYC bankruptcy bill clears subcommittee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House subcommittee has approved a bill to allow New York City to declare bankruptcy, renegotiate $12.3 billion in debts, rewrite labor and pension contracts and seek to live within its revenues.

The bill now appears more likely to become law than the multi-billion dollar loan guarantees sought by the city to avert default. A new obstacle arose Thursday when the AFL-CIO said it could not support a loan guarantee bill which gives Treasury Secretary William E. Simon power to compel the city to rewrite labor contracts.

House Speaker Carl Albert said he couldn't pass the loan guarantee. "We've got problems — lots of problems," he told reporters.

Under the bankruptcy bill, the city would be required to win the approval of two-thirds of its 200,000 bond holders for new terms — giving delayed and reduced payment on billions in debts at lower interest rates. The city also would have to renegotiate labor and pension agreements and come up with a plan for living within revenues.

A federal judge would then decide if the new arrangements were fair and feasible.

President to reaffirm international policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford has decided he must speak out to insure Russia and other nations do not believe his firing of Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and his curtailing Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's powers mean a change in U.S. national security policy, White House officials said today.

Ford planned to send the message to Moscow, Peking and other points in a speech in Boston.

Ford appeared in Springfield, Mass., at the 21st annual convention of the New England Society of Newspaper Editors at midday.

The speech covered national security policy from detente and Strategic Arms Limitation talks with Russia, to defense of his military budget proposals, to the Middle East peace-making effort and America's commitments to its allies, the sources said.

Ford does not want neither America's allies nor its possible foes to get the idea that the firing of Schlesinger means the administration will stand for the United States being anything less than the most powerful nation on earth, the sources said. Schlesinger is regarded in Washington as a "hard-liner" against defense cuts and on disarmament negotiations with Moscow.

The sources said Ford also wanted to make sure his stripping Kissinger of his dual office as the presidential

Friend declines to testify

NEWINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury will hear evidence next week in the Bridgeport jail scandal, a lawyer for promoter David Friend said today in a bid to block his client from testifying before the Connecticut Commission on Special Revenue.

Friend was made aware by commission Chairman Paul J. Silvergleid that he could be granted immunity and forced to testify although the evidence he might provide would not be used against him.

The onetime Hollywood, Fla., banker was called to the stand and commission invoked his right to remain silent as Friend himself did and the commission recessed for 10 minutes.

The commission began a round of hearings Thursday into the financing of the fronton and Friend was scheduled to be the leadoff witness. The state issued a grand jury sitting in the matter consisting of Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey.

The gaming panel is hearing evidence to determine if Friend's license for the jai alai arena in Bridgeport should be revoked.

His counsel, Jacob Zeldes, said Friend was to be a witness before "a United States grand jury conducted by the Organized Crime and Racketeering Division of the Department of Justice for Hartford Nov. 12, 1975. He is under all these circumstances clearly a target of investigation."

Indian high court rules in favor of Mrs. Gandhi

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today won a marathon legal battle that was threatening her leadership of the nation.

India's highest judicial tribunal, the Supreme Court, unanimously upheld her 1971 election to Parliament and set aside a high court ruling that convicted her of election malpractices.

"Sometimes we might lose sometimes we may win," Mrs. Gandhi told a jubilant crowd of well-wishers. "We may fall down, but we should always try to get up and go forward."

The court ruling upheld legislation passed by Parliament that made her immune—retroactively—from the election fraud charges. That session was boycotted by opposition members.

A five-judge bench of the Supreme Court, chaired by Chief Justice Ajit Nath Ray, overruled the high court verdict unseating her from Parliament.

At the same time, it removed a six-year ban imposed by the high court barring her from fighting an election for six years.

Caps and service awards were presented to Manchester Memorial Hospital junior volunteers in recent ceremonies at the hospital.

Making the presentations were Mrs. Jeanne Barrie, director of the volunteer program, and Mrs. Marjorie Roach, assistant director of nurses.

Awarded for the most hours of service was Beverly Rider of 608 N. Main St. for 475 hours. Joanne Wohlgenuth of Hendee Rd. was awarded a special certificate honoring her for 275 hours of volunteer service.

Caps were awarded to the following: Jeanne Barrie, Sally Bartone, Marlene Belliveau, Roin Bradley, Terry Bramande, Cheryl Burnett, Lynn Damon, Denise Dickinson, Helen Fazzina, Sheila Foley, Sharon Factor, Kim Fiano, Cindy Frabrizi, Meg Larnett, Pamela Little, Sally Mazzone, Barbara Miller, Diane Peck, Kim Pennington, Paula Quirici, Lynn Rocker, Cindy Roy, Linda Royce, Nancy Salmon, Pam Summers, Sandy Thurston, Val Toros, Kim Tully, Christine Wall, Diane Wisneski.

Pins for 150 hours of service were awarded to the following: Gretel Bailey, Sandy Beare, Sue Collins, Clara Cosme, Dawn DesRosier, Heidi Foster, Diane Krivnak, Stacey McKay, Robin Redens, Penny Sibun, Sandy Spieckli, Lisa Stearns, Amy Trablitz.

New officers elected are Penny Smith, president; Pam Summers, vice-president; and Val Toros, secretary.

The junior volunteers are made up of girls from nine towns surrounding and including Manchester. They are

Condoning bribery: Business as usual?

The views of 531 top and middle managers, representing a cross section of leading U.S. businesses, were polled recently on the question of paying bribes to foreign officials. It was found that:

— While 50 per cent of the executives surveyed said that bribes should not be paid, 48 per cent said they should be paid if that was the normal practice in the particular country.

— Of those who condoned the practice, 68 per cent said bribery was a cost of doing business in certain countries. Asked if U.S. legislation would be effective in preventing bribery, 92 per cent felt it would not — that bribery would continue anyway.

The survey was sponsored by Pitney Bowes Corp. Calling the results "startling," board chairman and president Fred T. Allen says it is time for American businessmen to face the facts of "the sad state of corporate morality" and for those who do not share the attitudes which have led to scandals are reading about daily to speak out.

"Attitudes, not environment, determine the morality of a corporation," he says. "I feel we should say to the public that we do not condone and will not make excuses for those who offend our sense of corporate morality...The price we may have to pay for continued disregard of ethics is too high to allow us to do less."

Business corporations usually reflect the character of their leaders, Allen contends. Thus it is up to corporate leaders to establish and communicate the pattern for business ethics they wish to permeate their companies. "In the final analysis, any corporation's adherence to a code of ethics must be scrupulously maintained at the top and published through the company, if morality is to be practiced at all levels. Employees must know exactly what is expected of them and how to respond when tempted by others to pursue illegal or unethical practices."

That requires, he says, "immediate corporate justice, commensurate with the degree of transgression," from the pinnacle of the corporate pyramid to its base.

When a company fails to take strong action, many employees may assume that unethical acts are accepted standards of corporate behavior. They may think they have the implicit — if not the explicit — consent of management to repeat unethical acts they have seen go unpunished.

Allen believes, however, that there is a moral strain in all of us that moves us to good beyond self-interest and that "the urge to do what is right, not expedient — without penalties or rewards, rules or regulations — is our hope for the corporate morality we seek."

He notes one bright light in the otherwise dismal survey: Of those businessmen who stated that they would not pay bribes, 64 per cent said they would not do so for moral reasons.

Nipponese Nader

Ralph Nader has become as popular among the Japanese as "beisu-boru" (baseball). That is, the image of the American consumer advocate is said to be inspiring all kinds of consumer protest movements popping up in Japan.

Some recent examples include the "Liaison Council on Detergent Problems," the "Study Group on School Lunches," the "Liaison Council for Elimination of the Use of Saccharine," the "Group to Improve Prefabricated Housing," the "Group to Recover the Losses Inflicted by Oil Firms" and the "Old Rate Maintenance Committee." (The latter was formed in Tokyo to fight against power rate hikes by electric companies.) There is virtually no end to similar protest organizations formed for a wide variety of provocations by "big business" and "all those in power," reports the Japan Economic Journal.

Although the actual number of participants in such organizations is tiny and Japanese businessmen remain, for the most part, unimpressed by their activities, they have scored some successes. They have, for instance, forced the competent authorities to ban the use of petroleum-derived food and a once widely used food additive and have moved the construction industry to grapple seriously with the country's housing problem.

Thanks media

To the editor, I should like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the press who were on duty to cover the Wilson-Thompson state income tax debate.

Their reporting was exceptionally good, and their fairness to each candidate certainly reflects the highest ideals of responsible journalism.

We in Manchester can point with pride to the reporters of The Manchester Herald, the Hartford Times, the Hartford Courant and radio station WINF for without them to get the word out to the public, debates such as this one would be non-existent.

I would like to thank also James Rogers for his role as moderator. His ability to move the debate along smoothly contributed immensely to its success. I thank all and may God bless you.

DIA too costly too inefficient

WASHINGTON — During the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, President Kennedy was first amused and then annoyed by the antics of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and John McConne, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

McNamara, who had a private spook shop labeled the Defense Intelligence Agency, and McConne used to compete to see who could bring Kennedy the latest intelligence reports. The rivalry approached the ridiculous, with McNamara and McConne rushing at all hours to the White House to show the President identical newly developed pictures taken by American U-2 spy planes.

"Gentlemen, I order a truce," Kennedy finally told them. "Pool your information and deliver it to me through a neutral power."

The story is relevant these days when House and Senate intelligence committees are eyeing the Defense Intelligence Agency with a view to cutting its budget and perhaps even ending its existence. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Intelligence panel, would cut back the DIA to a small unit in the offices of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., says the DIA should be abolished.

ANDREW TULLY

In the spirit of the secret world in which the spying industry operates, McNamara gave no details of this great economy move. Explaining the "how" part probably was impossible. The three military service intelligence arms continued to exist, and CIA men pointed out there was nothing the DIA could do that the CIA was already doing.

So it is not surprising that today the DIA has grown into an empire of more than 4,600 employees and an annual budget of more than $200-million. Meanwhile, duplication of military intelligence efforts continues apace. The Army, Navy and Air Force espionage shops are bigger than they were in 1961, with a total of more than 50,000 employees and an estimated combined budget of $750-million a year.

Although it might be wiser to just abolish the DIA, that sort of final solution is virtually impossible in Washington. What the Congressional intelligence committees probably will wind up recommending is a reduction in the DIA's body count and a rearrangement by which DIA would be responsible only for strategic intelligence, leaving tactical intelligence to the three services.

Gun control poses another Civil War

TOM TIEDE

ATLANTA — A bumper sticker here says it nicely: "Support the Second Amendment and the South May Rise Again." No part of the nation is as devoted to the preservation and proliferation of weaponry as in the South. Estimates are that 60 per cent of the people in this region own private shooters. In Atlanta, the guess is two guns for every man, woman and child.

If the South broke now from the Union, folks grin, its private and military arms stockpile would make it the third most powerful nation in the world. Small wonder then that the increasing momentum towards new federal gun controls has "become perhaps the third most controversial issue from Tennessee through Florida." "After inflation and unemployment," says a Georgia legislator, "gun control ranks with busing on the grand list of grumbles." Indeed, the lawmaker adds, if gun control does come, it will be resisted here even more violently than busing, to the point, he says, "approaching revolution."

The reason is that many Southerners believe gun control would be a much more serious federal invasion of their lives than forced busing. Less and less do they govern themselves. Southern citizens feel, more and more they are being ruled by Washington, and they damn well better do it. "The line's got to be drawn somewhere," says Georgia orchard worker Lyle Hamsey, "and gun rights to me is it. If we give in on this one, well, I don't know."

The issue then is whether the South and the rest of the nation will allow government after 20 years, to surprising poll by the National Opinion Research Center in 1973 indicated even then that three-fifths of Southern gun owners and four-fifths of non-owners felt some gun control was necessary, if not inevitable. Authorities here feel the fractions may be even greater now, certainly no less. Southerners may be stougy, as a U.S. firearms agent in Atlanta says it. "But they aren't suicidal"; from 1971 to 1974 in Atlanta there were 788 homicides, 70 per cent by handgun.

Change then is likely to come to the South, federally mandated or no. Georgia, which for a hundred years had no firearms control, and for 65 years had one that requires only a buyer's signature, is considering a tightening of at least handgun sales. Though Georgia Sen. Herman Talmadge considers gun laws to be "as useless as trying to legislate the weather," the state's lawmakers considered at least five bills on the subject last session, one of which would give permit authority to police to issue driver's licenses.

But Southern officials caution that change must come carefully, and with regards to the regional view. The fear here of cultural colonialization is real. Besides this, the Southern arguments against massive controls have solid merit: gun laws already on the books in Georgia are virtually unenforceable, one study indicating that only 4 of 10 people convicted of gun law violations in the Atlanta area last year went to prison. There must be a step by step realization that gun control is better than gun-anarchy and a whole lot more compatible with liberty for all.

By United Press International TORONTO, Canada, Nov. 7 — Word reached American lines that Canadian Gov. Guy Carleton advised city merchants he was planning to abandon Montreal in the near future. To the east, Col. Benedict Arnold informed Gen. Schuyler he intended to cross the St. Lawrence and attack Quebec as soon as possible.

THOUGHT

If instead of trusting in God I trust only my own intelligence, my own strength and my own prudence, I will not find my way to Him and His help. He has offered me the gift of faith. In accepting it, I must put aside my own human will and trust in Him, Dante, in Divine Comedy, wrote: "In His will is our peace." Environmental seminar conducted

Last Friday, when most students were enjoying their day off, science teachers and students from all over Connecticut were attending a conference on environmental education at MHS.

The day officially began at 9 a.m. with opening remarks by Mrs. Florence Levine, a science teacher at MHS who was conference coordinator. She was followed by Alfred B. Tyson, assistant superintendent of schools, and George Emmerling, principal of MHS.

The featured speaker was Dr. Richard H. Goodwin, a professor of botany at Connecticut College in New London. His speech included thoughts on recycling, more specifically, the tremendous amount of energy needed to recycle glass bottles. He also spoke on the costs of strip mining and the problem of pollution from offshore drilling. Dr. Goodwin then asked the teachers to think about what they could personally do about the ecology in the classroom.

After Dr. Goodwin's speech, Mrs. Levine again spoke. She invited all present to attend one of the eleven workshops being held on such topics as "Monitoring of Air Pollution in Connecticut" and "Eliminating Weekend Worry in the Growth of Plants in Controlled Environments."

I attended the workshop entitled "Ecology in the Classroom." The teacher in charge of this session was Mr. Juan Sanchez, director of the Oak Grove Nature Center in Manchester. He was assisted by Steven Fish, also a worker at Oak Grove.

This workshop was primarily concerned with what could be done in the classroom to promote a better understanding of ecological concepts such as food chains and animal adaptability.

After a few minutes of talk by Mr. Sanchez, the teacher and the students who were present got ready to examine an owl pellet. We learned

Demons dance

As devils danced through the bumping mobs, the music of "Rapunzel" shook Clarke Arena. It was the night before Halloween dance.

Because of a delay in half of the band arriving, the dance got off to a slow start. However, they made up for it with a fine performance. Rapunzel played a number of current hits as well as some fine progressive music, including songs from Led Zeppelin and Deep Purple.

The dancers rubbed the arena with feet thumping while people were bumping, everyone seemed to be having a good time. Shades of Halloween were all around. The arena was decorated with orange and black streamers, and a number of those dancing seemed a bit monstrous. Among these was a devil, a hunchback and an ugly she-creature that looked like an over-anxious pig that had gotten its face in some red paint.

Two changes are seen this year at the dance. No shoes were allowed into the gym and no one was allowed out of the building during the dance. All in all, the group did a great job. We were bumping, everyone seemed to be having a good time. — Steve Latham

S'n B prepares for 'Butterfly'

It is exactly one week before the opening night of "I Never Saw Another Butterfly." All of the members of Sock 'n Buskin who have been working diligently have contributed to the progress made over this past month. There have been five rehearsals every week and the actors have been learning a lot about developing their characters and motivating their movements.

"I Never Saw Another Butterfly" is a touching story about real people and a real place. The main character, Raja Engenderova, was a child who lived in Terezin, a stopping place for Jewish children of Czechoslovakia between their homes and a concentration camp. Raja was one of very few children who was alive when Terezin was liberated at the end of World War II. Terezin was the Nazis' model camp, but all the children who lived there knew they were doomed to be sent on a transport for what the Nazis called "work resettlement."

Through it all there were those who refused to abandon hope, those who maintained their will to live. Irene Synkova ran the school at Terezin. Learning was forbidden for the Jewish children, but Irene refused to give up.

Each platform must be lighted separately by the lighting crew. Posters have been printed, banners painted, and articles written thanks to the publicity crew. The programs crew has been visiting various printers and creating a design for the program. The house crew has held meetings and made plans for ushering at each performance. Tickets are printed and on sale. They can be purchased from any Sock 'n Buskin member or before school in Room 271.

"I Never Saw Another Butterfly" is a very special and beautiful play, so set aside the evening of Nov. 14, 15, 21 or 22 for a moving experience. — Debby Duchesneau

Senior girls wallop juniors

Oct. 30, the senior girls played the junior girls in a brisk game of flag football. The juniors with a record of 2-0 were highly favored to win the seniors, whose record was 0-1. But to the surprise of everyone, the seniors emerged victorious with a score of 12-0.

The senior defense did well, never letting the juniors come too close to their end zone. Along with the defense, the offense performed well, not letting the junior defense penetrate through. However, occasionally, someone did sneak through.

Playing well for the juniors was quarterback Caroline Jaworski and other juniors. Overall, it was a great game and lots of fun. Many thanks to everyone who played, to the officials and to the fans who showed up to cheer on their classes. — Amy Mazotta

"I like people. When you look into individuals, they are all basically good." This is the way Bob Mumford feels toward the human race, and he certainly makes it evident through his friendly personality.

One of Bob's major interests is the sea. Because of this, he would like to attend the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, N.Y. and major in thermodynamic nuclear engineering. To have one's application accepted to this institution, one must be nominated by a United States senator or congressman. Bob has asked Sen. Lowell Weicker to recommend him. He has also asked UConn's mechanical engineering program as an alternate choice.

Bob's philosophy about life is, "You should be able to be humorous, yet take things seriously, too. To enjoy life takes the right combination of both." Because Bob seems to possess these capabilities, he will certainly attain recognition in whatever he pursues. — Mary Stack

Lydall subsidiary wins big contract

Spheric Corp., Superior Division, a subsidiary of Lydall Inc. of Manchester, has been awarded a contract from the Atomic Energy Commission of Canada Ltd. for reactor shielding balls for the New Brunswick nuclear power station.

About 500,000 pounds of shielding balls are to be delivered late next year. The balls are used as both a shield against radiation and heat in the reactor.

Lydall officials said work on the contract will be transferred from its Washington, Ind., facility to the Canadian subsidiary in the Toronto area.

Spheric Corp. is the largest independent manufacturer of steel balls in the world. Lydall Inc., a publicly owned company, has seven operating plants in Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, Indiana, and Tennessee.

GARDENING

Every working day during the summer vacation at the University of Connecticut, one professor, Dr. Gustav A.L. Melquist, and two students, hired by the hour to help him, dug rhododendron plants at Dr. Melquist's home, moved them by truck to the Mansfield Training School and set them out.

They worked in the hot sun and in the rain, whatever the weather, because they needed every available hour of the vacation to move the 15,000 rhododendron seedlings that Prof. Melquist had raised from his own breeding.

Retirement from the faculty is ahead for Dr. Melquist at the end of the current academic year and since the plants belong to the University they had to be moved from the professor's home grounds.

The farm land at the training school has been turned over to the university for management, making it possible for the land in one field to be planted with university-owned rhododendrons.

Exposed location

Dr. Melquist hopes that the university will permit him, although retired, to continue evaluating the plants and selecting those that show promise of developing into desirable new varieties. This process will take three to five years. The winter is approaching which will be the first stern test for the young plants, since the open field offers no protection from cold winter winds.

The new varieties Dr. Melquist is hoping to develop must show the stamina to survive Connecticut's weather at its worst, and at his Bundy Lane home on the east side of Storrs, the plants had ideal growing conditions. The soil is sandy and well-drained and the plants had protection from many trees.

It was a fortunate chance that the field to which the plants were moved had once been used by the training school to grow strawberries and was provided with underground pipes and sprinkler connections for irrigation. The available water made it possible to set plants even in hot dry periods.

It is a long process to develop new rhododendron varieties. The parents of these plants were partly New England-grown rhododendrons that have proved their hardiness and are not dependably hardy here.

The crosses were made at the Bundy Lane location and buy the new variety may total 20 years. A commercial grower cannot afford this much time, Dr. Melquist says, which leaves the work to be done by such publicly supported institutions as the Storrs Experiment Station which sponsors Dr. Melquist's project.

Some funds from the United States Department of Agriculture have been allocated to Dr. Melquist's work and he has been told by the USDA that his is the only federally supported program of its kind.

While the seedlings were still small and no one could predict the results, Dr. Melquist was given last year the prestigious gold medal of the American Rhododendron Society for achievement in rhododendron breeding.

Early Christmas cactus

Mrs. Mabel Keeney of Keeney St. has a Christmas cactus that blossomed this year before Halloween. It is a big plant and when Mrs. Keeney had counted 100 blossoms she stopped counting. She has a smaller plant with 60 blossoms.

There are two kinds of Christmas cactus and Mrs. Keeney has the one that is called "crab" cactus because there are points on the leaf segments which give them a resemblance to crab claws. Zygocactus is the botanical name.

Schlumbergera is the one with the "claw" points. "Crab cactus" can usually be counted on to bloom well before Christmas and for this reason is sometimes called the Thanksgiving cactus. Mrs. Keeney's plant seems to pay no attention to the calendar.

When all of these tests have been passed and the nurseryman is convinced he has a fine new variety, it may take another 10 years to "saturate the market," as Dr. Melquist puts it, and make the new rhododendron generally available for sale.

Speak Out!

"Anonymity is the state of being anonymous." So said Hubert Fortinworth XXII. This earth-shattering statement struck us as we watched returns of "The Flying Nun." We thought Hubert's quote was of such importance that we had to make a social comment on this subject.

In today's society, people tend to flow with the crowd rather than go their own direction. Take a good look at any crowd and you can come up with our specimen A: the Joe Schlump type. Joe Schlump can be anyone, even your best friend. He can be seen in large crowds pretending he knows what's going on or perspiring nervously in the library after knocking down the magazine rack. However, specimen A does have a certain flare, personality, charm, and wit. If only he would stand up and show his individuality and let his natural charm emerge. If our type A would do this, he could be classified as our type B: the Wolfgang Bramblebrains type.

The Wolfgang Bramblebrains type seldom cares about what others think. This outgoing individual doesn't flow with the crowd but rather falls all over it. This is where our type A specimen gets injured. Wolfgang sees the world in a totally different way. He is not afraid to sign his name to his work. No matter how ridiculous his work may be, he has enough courage to back it up with his signature.

Perhaps if some one is too afraid to back up his convictions with his name he isn't really worth listening to. Remember that you should stand up on your own two feet. Nobody is going to hang you by your toenails and wrap toilet paper around your body while writing outcast on your forehead with fluorescent paint. Don't be afraid of what others think. — Ann Onimus and Gigi A. Poe

Elizabeth Jean Funke of Manchester and Scott E. Mayo of Windsor Locks were married Sept. 27 at the Church of the Assumption in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Funke of 565 Adams St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mayo of Windsor Locks.

The Rev. Paul Trigue officiated. The church was decorated with floral arrangements. Wendy Comp was guitarist and she and Marriane McCuskey were vocalists.

The bride wore a gown designed with Empire waist, sheer neckline and sleeves and applied bodice. Her veil of imported silk illusion was appliqued with flowers and edged in lace.

Miss Nancy Welch of Manchester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Karen Daigle and Miss Linda Spinato, both of Manchester; and Miss Pam Mayo and Miss Marcia Mayo, both of Windsor Locks, the bridegroom's sisters. Jo Ellen Funke of Manchester, the bride's sister, was junior bridesmaid.

Tim McNamara of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were Robert Funke and Richard Funke, both of Manchester, the bride's brothers; and Dennis Dakin and James Leddy, both of Windsor Locks. Peter M. McNamara of Manchester was ring bearer.

Dining Out

with BETTY RYDER

The Islander offers unique oriental food

By BETTY RYDER

Family/Travel Editor

A bubbling fieldstone fountain covered with foliage greets visitors to The Islander at 179 Tolland Tpke., noted for its delicious Chinese-Polynesian cuisine.

The Islander's interior decorated in unique oriental decor, has a bamboo roof, colorful lanterns, huge shell-covered lights to add to your dining pleasure.

In surroundings that put you in a relaxed mood, exotic drinks such as Pineapple Passion, Head Hunter, Blue Hawaii, or Beach Comber, turn your thoughts to a complete menu from which to choose sumptuous dinners.

There is a Pu Pu Platter with six varieties, served in native style with flaming hibachi (a favorite for young and old alike); or Subgum Wor Ba (fresh lobster meat, roast pork, white meat chicken, combined with imported mushrooms, choice vegetables and water chestnut, served on a bed of sizzling rice).

And if you are a true connoisseur of sea food, you will find great delight in the Lobster & Crab Meat Singapore, which is fresh lobster and crab meat sauteed with mushrooms and fine cut vegetables, surrounded with imported crisp noodles.

Other irresistible offerings are Chicken Aloha (chicken wrapped in white meat lobster, deep fried to a golden brown sauteed with mixed Chinese vegetables and a most luscious oyster sauce); Yuen Young Steak (fresh breast of chicken and sliced tender beef, sauteed with mushrooms, water chestnuts, bamboo shoots and pea pods with The Islander chef's special sauce); or you may wish to feast on Bora Bora Steak (big pieces of tender filet mignon cut in cubes with white mushrooms and pepper, broiled to your own taste.)

There are also meat and seafood combinations, one bearing the popular name of "Hawaii Four 'O'" which consists of chunks of lobster, juicy filet mignon, breast of chicken and loin of pork, sauteed with Polynesian vegetables, all served with flaming brandy sauce.

American selections are also available, but the real taste treats are The Islander specialties prepared by a master chef and cooked in delicate sauces which enhance the flavor of the entire entrée.

A large pot of hot tea served in small bowl-type cups, fortune cookies (for the believers or non-believers) or coconut-covered ice cream are but a part of the enjoyment of dining at The Islander.

Lew Eng, owner-manager, of The Islander is no newcomer to the restaurant business.

A veteran of World War II, (he entered the service in 1941 in Windsor Locks) Eng has spent 30 years as a restaurateur. He is assisted at The Islander by his daughter Sue.

Prior to opening The Islander last May, Eng was active in the restaurant business in the Springfield Mass. area.

"We had been looking for just the right spot," Eng said, "and now we have found it."

For a night out, or just a drop in luncheon, try The Islander. Its complete menu will suit hearty appetites, and fine fare for the younger set is also offered.

A "palm" tree sign welcomes visitors to The Islander at 179 Tolland Tpke.

Yale, with a thrilling 16-4 win over Dartmouth last week, will seek its fifth win in seven games. The victory would make Carm Cozza Yale's winningest coach, with one more than the 67 victories recorded by the legendary Walter Camp. Yale remains in the race for the Ivy League crown which could be decided in its traditional season closer against leader Harvard in three weeks.

Indians anxious to play role of sleeping giant

Sleeping Giant or Cinderella? In which guise will Manchester High emerge for its quarterfinal round soccer class against downstate Ridgfield High. The State Tournament Class AA Division tag has been set for Saturday morning at 10:30 at Nonnewaug High in Woodbury.

The Silk Towners, originally 23rd ranked in a 26-team field, have assumed the top rung by virtue of upsets won over Bristol Eastern and Hamden High, the latter top seed going into tournament action. "We might be No. 1, according to what I heard from the press," said Coach Dick Danielson, who said the team is going to score. "Ridgfield moved into the round of eight with a 1-0 victory over Simsbury. The fifth-ranked 9-3 Tigers have been members of the powerful Fairfield County Interscholastic Athletic Conference (FCIAC) for five years and the affiliation has been beneficial. Third-year Ridgfield Coach Al Diniz remarked in a telephone conversation that the year before he assumed the reigns, the school scored seven goals and allowed 107. "The FCIAC gives very tough competition and we had to get better or else," he voiced. Last year the Tigers won just two games but came on strong in league play at the Staples.

Ridgfield is spearheaded by goalie Cesar Noble who according to his mentor is the "best goalie in Connecticut." Greg Bechar leads the club in scoring with nine goals, including the winner against Simsbury, which owns a victory over the locals. Sophomore Scott Hyde drove home what proved to be the winning penalty kick against Hamden for the Indians along with playing a strong game at fullback despite a nagging leg injury. Tavo Stimar rebounded from a poor performance against Eastern to tally two goals, including one in the second overtime period to send the contest into sudden death, to boost his season total to nine. Tony Barrett, with seven and John Paquette with five have also provided offensive punch for Manchester from their wing slots. On the defensive side, senior Captain Bruce Ballard has done yeoman work and has been supported by juniors Bob Nurmi, Bill Meier and Matt Walsh. The defense was spotty against Hamden but proved strong in key situations, especially those agonizing 20 minutes of sudden death.

The win was a big one for our club. It was our first big win of the season. It was the first time we didn't fold when we fell behind. We just refused to be beaten," offered Danielson. "I'm not sure how far we can go but it would be nice to cap the season with a couple more wins." The Manchester-Ridgfield winner will face the Rockville-New Britain victor in Wednesday's semifinals. Finals in all divisions will be staged next Saturday. Directions to Nonnewaug: Take I-84 West exit 17 (marked Middlebury, Woodbury). Follow Rt. 64 into Woodbury (about five miles) and take right onto Rt. 6 East. You will go through three traffic lights and immediately following the third take a right onto Middle Road Turnpike (there will be a sign noting Nonnewaug High School).

Catholic, Indian gridders in home contests Saturday

Manchester unwantingly holds down the cellar rung in the CCIL with a 0-6 record. The Indians have also been beset by injuries and with their lack of over-all depth the situation has proved damaging. Third-year Tribe Coach Larry Olsen reports, however, "position by position we'll be strongest this season in the line." John Madden and John Keane will be at the tackles, Ralph Faber at center and Bob Hawkes and Mike Demers, the latter back to where he started the season, at guard. "Our offense just hasn't been able to carry the load required. The defense has been asked to play too long and many times in poor field position," Olsen insisted. "There just isn't one reason why we've gained just 100 yards a game. If we knew we'd rectify it, 'What has happened is lack of mental concentration. Which has been caused by the amount of juggling we've had to do. Which goes back to our lack of depth.' It's a vicious cycle. The attitude of the Indians remains good despite the losing skid. "The kids we have out here we've been getting good efforts from. There just hasn't been enough bodies." If there is a silver lining in a dark cloud it's that Manchester has a number of underclassmen in key positions including quarterback who will be back for next year. "It's really difficult having lost six in a row. But on the other hand we haven't been wiped out. East Hartford is the game this week and we have every chance to win. I'm judging this on the basis we're capable of playing them. East Hartford has not played the last four weeks as they did earlier in the season and we fully expect to be in the game. Another thing is that the players don't want to be included in the record of most losses in a season," Olsen said hopefully.

State college grid roundup

UConn plays tonight, Yale to host Cornell

HARTFORD (UPI) — The University of Connecticut opens up this weekend's football action tonight with a Yankee Conference clash at Boston University. The Huskies, 1-6, will try to avert a loss that would be the most for a Connecticut team since the 9-7 team of 1961. BU, formerly coach by Huskie mentor Larry Naviaux, has a 4-4 record including upset wins over Harvard and Holy Cross. The two teams will be shooting for third place in the conference. Uconn, which lost nine of its last 10 games over two seasons, is 1-2 and BU is 1-3 in conference play. BU has a 14-8 edge in the series. Heading the action among state teams Saturday, will be Yale hosting Penn and Wesleyan shooting for its first Little Three title since 1970 against unbeaten Williams at Middletown. Trinity, whose only loss was to Williams, plays at Amherst, Coast Guard is at Hobart, Southern Connecticut plays at unbeaten AIC, Cortland State visits Central Connecticut, New Haven is at Nichols and Western Connecticut hosts Framingham.

Yale, with a thrilling 16-4 win over Dartmouth last week, will seek its fifth win in seven games. The victory would make Carm Cozza Yale's winningest coach, with one more than the 67 victories recorded by the legendary Walter Camp. Yale remains in the race for the Ivy League crown which could be decided in its traditional season closer against leader Harvard in three weeks.

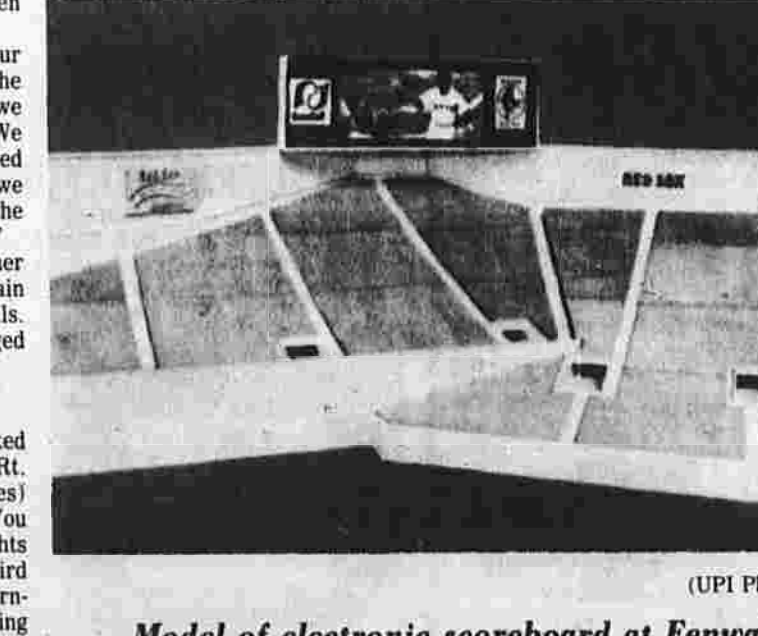

Trinity, 4-1-1, has not done well in trips to Amherst, where the Lord Howe College team has won nine games at Amherst. The Cadets and Yale are the only state schools with five wins. Trinity, 4-1-1, has not done well in trips to Amherst, where the Lord Howe College team has won nine games at Amherst. The Cadets and Yale are the only state schools with five wins. Rounding out the schedule, Western Connecticut, 2-4, hopes to extend its win streak to three games in a contest at Framingham. New Haven, which fell to Western 30-16 last week, aims for its third win in eight tries at Nichols.

Midget finale

With tonight's single game at Mt. Nebo between the Jets and Giants the 21st Manchester Midget Football League will ring down the curtain. This has been a complete turnaround season for the Giants, undefeated and league champs a year ago and losers of all five starts this fall. The Jets show one win, two ties and two losses in five games. Kickoff will be at 6:30. The Eagles (6-0) reign as 1975 champions.

Illing girls down Bennet

Winding up the season on a high note, Iling Junior High's field hockey team topped Bennet at Charter Oak park yesterday, 2-1. Lisa Schwartz scored both Iling goals and Dawn Farhart countered for Bennet. Sue Roth, Lisa Griffin, Mary Neubert, Liz Neubert, Karen Godreau, Carl Waddell, Cindy Mills, Debbie Dawson, Ann Morrison and Janet Ritchie played well for the winners. Best for Bennet were Eileen Greener, Monica Marphy, Pat Shelton, Nancy Duffy and Lois Ann Dion. Iling had a 5-3-2 record and Bennet was 0-1-1.

Jack Medzella paced Bennet success

Two scores by Jack Medzella sparked Bennet Junior High to a 3-0 win over crossover rival Iling Junior High yesterday afternoon on the latter's field and thus gained the mythical town junior high crown. Jim Gluhosky added the third tally for the winners who wound up the campaign with a brilliant 9-1-1 record. Bennet also compiled a fine record with seven wins in 12 starts including two ties. Outstanding in the goal for the winners was Ron Apter as well as line Lovell, Jeff Lombardo, Walt Adams, Matt Gluhosky and Jon Keller.

New wrinkles, old faces assured at Fenway Park

BOSTON (UPI) — Fenway Park will feature some new wrinkles and the same old faces next season. A news conference was held Thursday at Fenway Park to detail plans for an electronic scoreboard. But before the session ended, manager Darrell Johnson told reporters via a telephone hookup from Florida that he has agreed to a new, two-year contract. General Manager Dick O'Connell also announced coaches Stan Williams, Don Zimmer, John Pesky and Don Bryant have been rehired. O'Connell also said he has hired John Claiborne, a former aide to Oakland owner Charlie Finley who scouted for the Red Sox late last season, as "my general assistant."

Johnson, named American League Manager of the Year in his second season, said he had not signed his contract yet but his signature was just a formality. The manager, who took time out from duck hunting to call, will be quite surprised at the change in the 64-year-old park next spring. The entire left field wall is in the process of being resurfaced, a six-foot-high pad will be installed from the left field corner to right centerfield and the 89-by-90 foot scoreboard will be functioning above the centerfield bleachers. The board will be mounted on pylons and rise to 100 feet above ground level — the same height as the top of the center field flagpole. Board designers assured the images on the screen would not interfere with a batter or catcher's concentration because of its height from the ground. Stewart-Warner has designed scoreboards for a dozen other major arenas and parks, including the Kansas City Royals' stadium.

The designers, Stewart-Warner Electronics of Chicago, said they were installing "the most advanced scoreboard in the world." The board, run by a computer, will be able to show films, video replays, pictures, cartoons, statistics, and virtually anything that can be photographed, drawn or printed. It also will be capable of showing more than one image at once. "My viewpoint is that we're not going to show any controversial replays of any umpire's decisions that would arouse the ire and anger of the fans," said O'Connell, obviously thinking of umpire Larry Barnett's controversial decision not to call interference in the third game of the recent Boston-Cincinnati World Series. "And I don't think a player should be ridiculed either (by remarks or pictures from the board). They're doing their best and I think they should get every benefit."

O'Connell said the scoreboard would flash pictures and statistics of players coming to bat and could be used as a giant television screen to show game moments in baseball during rain delays.

Connecticut's hoop leaders

Big John Thomas and Al Weston (center) will co-captain the University of Connecticut basketball squad this season under coach Dee Rowe, right. The Huskies open Nov. 28 in the Lapchick Classic at St. John's University. Weston suffered a broken hand in practice and will be out for six weeks.

Third straight for Washington

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only after the Seattle SuperSonics ran out of offensive adjustments Thursday night did the Washington Bullets come away with their third straight National Basketball Association victory.

The Bullets beat Seattle 110-100 to improve their record to 4-1. Seattle is 3-5.

Elsewhere in the NBA Thursday night, Cleveland put away Atlanta 115-108 and Golden State beat the New York Knicks 111-96. Denver beat Utah 111-105 in the only American Basketball Association game.

"Seattle continually changed its style of play," said Bullets' Al-Star forward Elvin Hayes, who led his mates in scoring with 27 points.

"Once we adjusted to one style, they went to something different. But by the fourth quarter, Seattle had showed us everything and there was nothing left to beat us with."

So the Bullets, according to Coach K.C. Jones, "woke up to what Seattle was attempting to do" and got a 10-point final period performance from Phil Chenier to gradually pull away. Chenier finished with 29 points.

"He (Bing) outdid himself tonight," said Jones. "He gave us points again, ran the offense, and stopped Fred Brown in the final period. Holding Brown to a mere field goal and just five points in the last period may have been the most important job Bing did all night."

Warriors 111, New York 96

Rookie guard Gus Williams scored a team-high 19 points and sparked a 40-point Warriors' second quarter that erased a short-lived New York lead. The Knicks later closed to 66-63 in the third period with a 17-9 spurt featuring seven points from Walt Frazier, who wound up with a game high 27.

Dick Snyder had 25 points and Jim Chones added 24 to help Cleveland (3-4) climb out of the cellar in the NBA Central. Cleveland, which never trailed but was tied three times, also got 21 points from Bobby Smith. Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 24.

Nuggets 111, Stars 105
Rookie David Thompson scored 26 points and Dan Issel 23 as Denver (5-

2) handed Utah its seventh straight loss in a see-saw ABA game. The score was tied three times in the final minutes. Issel then scored twice and Ralph Simpson put in the final basket as the Nuggets held Utah scoreless. Randy Denton scored a game-high 29 points and pulled in 25 rebounds for the losers.

Abrahamsson hat trick paces Whalers' triumph

HARTFORD (UPI) — Tommy Abrahamsson played center like he belonged there. He might become a regular in that position.

The Swedish import scored the first hat trick of his World Hockey Association career Thursday night, leading the New England Whalers to an 8-3 win over the Cincinnati Stingers.

The win puts New England ahead of the Stingers in the Eastern Division.

Abrahamsson, 28, normally a defenseman, was moved to center for the game.

"I felt I could do the job at center, but to be honest, I really didn't expect to have quite this much success," said Abrahamsson.

The converted defenseman got his third goal early in the third period. New England got three goals in a little more than two minutes in the last period to move into an insurmountable 7-3 lead.

Elated Whaler coach

Thommy Abrahamsson Jack Kelley, who changed the lineup, seeking some straight overtime losses, said, "I didn't do anything to hurt his chances of playing some more at center but I won't hesitate to move him back to defense if the situation elated Whaler coach

Abrahamsson's other goals came in the first period and second periods, both on assists from teammate Tom Webster, who had scored the game's first goal.

Wayne Carleton scored twice, Rossaire Paiment scored once, and rookie left wing Danny Arndt scored the game's final goal for the Whalers.

Scoring for the Stingers were Bernie MacNeil, Steve Andrusick and Don O'Donoghue.

Abrahamsson's brother, Christer, was the winning goalie, making 36 saves.

The Whalers, 6-4-1, moved one point ahead of the 4-4-9 Stingers.

Latest hockey rhubarb Maloney wanted following assault

TORONTO (UPI) — Detroit Red Wings' forward Dan Maloney is wanted on assault charges after a fight with Toronto Maple Leafs' defenseman Brian Glennie in a recent National Hockey League game.

The charge of assault "with the intent to commit bodily harm" was filed Thursday by Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry, who had said last week he would take legal action against any on-ice violence.

"No hearing date has been set."

In Montreal, NHL President Clarence Campbell said it was a legal matter. "We cannot make a statement," he said. "It is now in the hands of the courts."

Maloney and Glennie clashed during the second period of the Leafs' 7-3 win over Detroit Wednesday night. The hard-fought contest featured numerous fights and 107 minutes in penalties were called against both teams.

Maloney drew a five-minute major for the Glennie fight. The Leafs' defenseman was taken to a hospital where he was kept overnight under observation with a mild concussion.

McDonald fits into Celt mold

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics veteran John Havlicek has found a new hero in young Glenn McDonald.

"I root for him every second of the way," the 36-year-old swingman said of his 23-year-old backup.

"It's the kind of guy that will make me last longer."

McDonald, a sophomore pro from Long Beach State, heads into tonight's game at Milwaukee as a different player from the kid who averaged 6.5 minutes and 2.7 points a game last season.

His game at Milwaukee in Wednesday night's win over Buffalo, McDonald played 19 minutes and scored eight points — hitting four of six field goal attempts.

"Last year I didn't know whether to shoot or not," said the 6-foot-6 McDonald before the Celtics left Thursday night for Milwaukee. "I'd get in the game and I didn't know what they expected of me. But this year coach (Tom) Heinsohn has given me confidence by playing me in tight situations and the players also are giving me confidence."

"They tell me to shoot whenever I have the shot and they say, 'Keep moving more and get the ball more. Now I've got the confidence and I don't plan to lose it.'"

McDonald's improved play has allowed Heinsohn to rest Havlicek more. The 14-year veteran, who averaged 38 minutes a game last season, played 26 minutes against the Braves and scored 14 points. When he was in the game, Havlicek ran like a youngster.

"I think John has it in his contract that he's going to play until Red retires," said center Dave Cowens, noting that General Manager Auerbach still is going strong in his 26th year with the Celtics.

In that span, Auerbach has been responsible for 12 National Basketball Association championships, the last one coming in 1956 against the Bucks, whom the Celtics play tonight.

"It is our right to have a cutoff date for a certain class of player," Rozelle said. "The other major sports have it. It prevents a team from buying a championship."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle Thursday said the teams must sign WFL players before Nov. 26 for them to be eligible for this season. He said the NFL owners have given permission to the league's two incoming franchises, Tampa and Seattle, to sign WFL players for the 1976 season.

"It is our right to have a cutoff date for a certain class of player," Rozelle said. "The other major sports have it. It prevents a team from buying a championship."

Rozelle said the owners were having difficulty resolving the player allocation problem of Seattle and Tampa. He said some owners want to give the two clubs high college draft choices and other teams want to make more players available to them in the expansion draft.

Teams who don't have the draft choices, who have traded them away, say "Let's give them a break in the college draft—that's how you build a club," Rozelle said.

Pair of new skates proved no handicap

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wayne Bianchin was so excited about getting back to the National Hockey League he forgot his skates.

Bianchin, a No. 2 draft choice of the Pittsburgh Penguins in 1973, is still making his way back from a broken neck suffered in a surfing accident after his rookie season. He started this season in the minors at Hershey, Pa., but got his chance to rejoin the Penguins for Thursday night's 9-3 win at St. Louis, still making his way back from a broken neck suffered in a surfing accident after his rookie season. NFL deadline for signing players set

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League has given its 26 teams a deadline for signing ex-World Football League players to keep teams from "buying a championship."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle Thursday said the teams must sign WFL players before Nov. 26 for them to be eligible for this season. He said the NFL owners have given permission to the league's two incoming franchises, Tampa and Seattle, to sign WFL players for the 1976 season.

Weston out, breaks hand

STORRS (UPI) — The University of Connecticut basketball team has been dealt a serious setback with the announcement that senior co-captain Al Weston has suffered a broken hand that will shelve him for about six weeks.

Head Coach Dee Rowe, who disclosed the injury Thursday, said the foot-10 guard, whose 12 point scoring average was third best for the Huskies last season, may be lost at least up to mid-December because of the injury.

Rowe described the injury that occurred during a Tuesday night practice session as "like a death blow to us."

Weston was a guiding force in last year's drive by the 19-10 Huskies to their second straight appearance in the National Invitational Tournament. Rowe said the injury may force him to move junior Tony Hanson from forward or use a freshman. Either way, said Rowe, the moves will place a heavier burden on starting 5-foot-10 sophomore guard Joe Whelton.

HCC vacancy
One vacancy in the Hartford County Conference membership will be created in June when St. Bernard High in Uncasville picks up stakes.
East Catholic High is a HCC member.
Cliff Demers, East director of athletics, said the Saints will join a new league comprising schools in their own area. New London High, Norwich and Fitch.
He added that no new applications for HCC membership have been received. St. Bernard notified the HCC a year ago that it would drop its affiliation under honoring its contracts thru June.

Brewers name Alex Grammas

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Alex Grammas is the new manager of the Milwaukee Brewers and one of the players under him next year will be home run king Hank Aaron, who will move from the field to the board room after the 1976 season.

The Brewers today were to make it official that Grammas, a right-hand man to Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson the last few seasons, is the new Brewer skipper. The 49-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native will accept a two-year contract for an estimated $45,000 a year.

The Brewers Thursday announced that Aaron will finish out his two-year contract with them as a player at an estimated $250,000 a year and then become a vice president.

That is the highest position ever given a black in baseball. It will cap a career that began with the old Milwaukee Braves in 1954 and saw him smash record after record, including the biggest of them all—Babe Ruth's lifetime mark for homers.

The announcement by Aaron and the Brewers Thursday and Grammas' arrival here ended talk that Aaron would succeed Del Crandall as the new manager. It also ended rumors that Aaron wouldn't play another year because of the poor season he had in 1975 when he hit .211 with 12 homers and 60 RBIs.

Aaron started his career here 22 years and 745 home runs ago and said, "this is where I want to finish it."

Grammas, a third base coach with the world champion Reds, will become the third manager in the Brewers' six-year history. Crandall, a former Milwaukee Braves star, was fired before the final game of the 1975 season after having led the club since May 1972 when he took over from Dave Bristol.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I want to be popular with the dudes, so I smoked grass, got drunk and did things only married people should do. Now I want to change.
I haven't messed around for four months. I took a part-time job as a janitor at a restaurant and I'm getting real good grades, but I'm still called a "whore."
Nobody will give me a chance, Abby. I have no friends. Girls are afraid they'll get a bad name if they're seen with me, and I can't blame them. Boys want only one thing, and since I've stopped putting out, they don't bother with me. I hate myself. I've been so down and lonely lately. When I was a whore, at least I had someone to talk to. Shrinkers are expensive, and there are no free clinics here for counseling. All my teachers hate me because of my reputation, and I feel too cheap and dirty to go to church. Please help me. WANTS TO CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: I'm proud of you. You have already grown spiritually, or you wouldn't have thought of going to church or changing your ways.
You're wrong, honey. Your teachers don't hate you, and you're not too "dirty" to go to church.
Pick the teacher you'd like most for a friend and meet her half-way. Also, go to church and give your churchman a chance to help you. All you need to change your life is the will to do it. Please try and write to me again in six months and tell me how things are going.

DEAR ABBY: In response to that 52-year-old woman who is going with a 36-year-old man. She's afraid her children and others will think she's making a fool of herself. She's also afraid people might think she is his mother. I am 61, and I've been going with a very handsome, 28-year-old man for over two years.
Doyle and I don't care if someone mistakes me for his mother. After all, I am 23 years older than Doyle and that's old enough to be his mother.
The day I stopped worrying about what other people thought I started living.
I have a son who's older than Doyle, and he says, "Mom, anything that makes you happy is just fine with me."
If people limited their friends to their own age group, they'd miss a lot of fun. I say, enjoy what you have while you have it. It will all be gone too soon.

DEAR CAL: I'm with you!

DEAR ABBY: How does one address a congratulatory telegram to newlyweds who are retaining their individual surnames? Western Union couldn't give me an answer. UNCLE CLIFF

DEAR UNCLE: Congratulations to Mary Smith and John Jones on your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the rooster-to-be who asked whether some people were uncomfortable in the presence of a woman who was breast-feeding her baby in public, I would like to post a definite YES!
A woman's bare breast is a bare breast, whether it's exposed to nurse a baby or displayed for sexual titillation. There is no excuse for a mother's nursing her baby in public. She can always find a rest room.

For Saturday, Nov. 8, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your ambitions are somewhat acute today. If someone comes up with an interesting speculative proposition, you'll be all ears.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Normally you take a lot of time to think things out. Today you'll act on impulse, but you'll later know you took the right action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Today you'll find you work as well with your hands as you do with your head. You have a talent for taking something useless and making it into something worthwhile.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
You'll want to do something exciting today. Chose someone new who you think will be interesting. Ask them to join you in an evening out.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22)
Set your mind aside today and putter around the house and do something constructive if you've been thinking about for a long time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You're at your best in social situations today. Though it may not seem like much to you, your oft-heard remarks will help create merriment in your crowd.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You have some clever ideas today on instructing others on how to handle their resources wisely. Feel free to suggest when someone looks adrift.

Win at Bridge

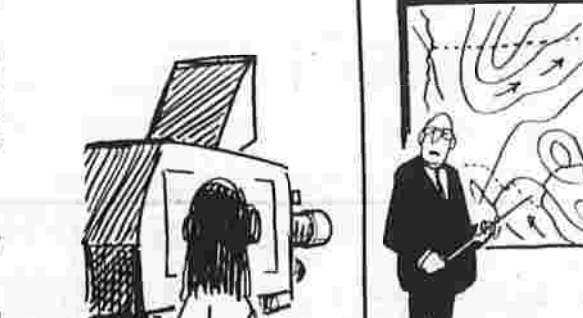

Play easier than bidding

The correct technique against a club lead is to play ace of spades at trick two. Lead a diamond at trick three. Lead a diamond to the ace. Lead a spade with dummy's ace, cash dummy's king of diamonds in order to discard the losing club, draw trumps and claim the balance since the spades are all good by this time.
Our own experience with ordinary bridge players is that most Norths would just bid four hearts over South's three hearts, but this would not stop the South players from going right into Blackwood and maybe even trying for a grand slam by bidding five no-trump after North shows the missing ace.

TOWN OF MANCHESTER DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS NOTICE OF LEAF PICKUP. The following streets are scheduled for leaf collection on the days listed below. In the event of heavy rain on any scheduled collection day, pickup on remaining routes will be postponed one working day. Home owners, on the streets listed below, who wish to have yard leaves collected are requested to rake leaves into the gutter so as to form a windrow the length of the property and confine the leaves in the gutter as much as possible. This should be done on the day prior to scheduled leaf collection. Property owners are requested to make certain that no foreign objects such as stones, branches, cans or any other material other than leaves or grass are placed in the windrows. Additional scheduled routes will be advertised next week.
