

On Dasher! On Dancer! Santa Claus flies across the breezeway to the delight of children at the Center Road School.

Students' art decorates Vernon school windows

If you are driving east on Rt. 30 in Vernon, look to the left by the Center Congregational Church. If you're driving west, look to the right. The students at the Center Road School have turned the school into a big Christmas card. The effect is pleasing.

Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

Every large window in the school has a Christmas scene on it. The teachers helped draw the outlines and the children filled in the subjects.

First prize winners on each of the three floors of the school were Mrs. Jane Ireland's special education class, for a snow scene with carolers, first floor; Mrs. Jean Lobaugh's third-grade class, "Dove of Peace," second floor; and Mrs. Myrna Rabin's fourth-grade class, a church snow scene, third floor.

In the glassed-in breezeway on the second floor between building sections, Santa Claus prances across with his reindeer.

HARTFORD — The Connecticut Lung Association requests, if you can't kick the habit for good, at least try not smoking for a day. It has declared Jan. 14 the state's first "No Smoking Day."

BOSTON — Counsel for the Boston School Committee says it was "judicial excess" for U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. to put South Boston High School in receivership and strip the committee of some of its powers. The argument was made before the U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Appeals for a stay of Garrity's order. CONCORD, N.H. — An official warned Connecticut tax agents reported to be staking out liquor stores looking for Connecticut residents buying liquor to take home, will be dealt with under New Hampshire law if they interfere with activities in New Hampshire.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Robert N. Giacomini, D-Conn., said the failure of the House Thursday to override President Ford's veto of tax relief legislation may well stem economic recovery into "a sudden, impossibly irreversible nosedive."

WASHINGTON — A colossal holiday travel crush led the Civil Aeronautics Board to give emergency permission to four airlines to take over routes served by strike-bound United and National airlines.

WASHINGTON — The family of Frank Olson, a scientist who committed suicide after the CIA gave him LSD, will receive $1.25 million from the federal government, according to the family's attorney.

WASHINGTON — The government has given the makers of Listerine a choice: stop advertising the mouthwash or spend $10 million admitting they deceived the public for 50 years.

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., says President Ford's finance committee should explain why Greek-American industrialist Thomas Pappas is helping raise money for Ford's election campaign.

Spending ceiling compromise unlikely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A move developed in the Senate today to make one last effort to revive a tax cut bill. But House Democratic leaders said it was unlikely anything could be done to prevent a tax cut bill rising, at least temporarily, early next year.

Speaker Carl Albert said the Democrats were sticking to the position they took after Ford's veto of a six-month tax cut extension was upheld Thursday. No further efforts will be made to pass a tax cut bill unless Ford backs down on his demand that a specific binding ceiling on fiscal 1977 spending be attached. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., called a meeting of his Senate Finance Committee to push his plan to pass exactly the same bill that Ford vetoed, but with some nonbinding "conciliatory language" promising to hold down spending.

The Long plan would pledge "in principle" to cut a dollar from the budget for every dollar tax cut. But Congress would have the right to raise or lower ceilings at will, in effect ignoring the plan.

But Albert said no one had any assurances that Ford would accept such a plan. He said he understood some Republicans had talked with Ford about the plan, but "they haven't sold it to the President."

"They haven't sold me at all," Albert added. Further efforts eventually will be made to pass a tax cut. But unless some surprise compromise evolves, that will not be until next year. The cut could be made retroactive, but in the meantime, withholding rates will rise by roughly 64 to 84 cents a $1 billion-a-month blow to an already weak economy.

Once Ford's veto was upheld, each side blamed the other for the blame on the workable compromise.

Congressional Democrats said Ford was so afraid of Ronald Reagan that he was gambling with the American economy to gain right-wing votes. A Ford lieutenant, budget director James Lynn, said Congress should forget its Christmas vacation and give the public both a tax cut and a promise to stop runaway government spending.

Ford vetoed the bill Wednesday because it did not contain a ceiling on fiscal 1977 spending, something Democrats refused to do until they see Ford's budget. Democrats decided in a special meeting of House and Senate leaders Thursday they would take no further action on tax cuts until after Ford submitted his budget plans early next year or until Ford was ready to back away from his demand for the spending ceiling.

The result is likely to be this: American businesses will quickly begin re-programming their check-writing computers with higher withholding tables. Since this takes a few weeks, the first increased withholding taxes might not hit until mid- or late January.

The increased tax bite will vary but should be less than $6 a week in most cases.

On a yearly basis, that means an average family of four making $10,000 would pay $216 more in taxes than if the bill had passed. For the same family making $6,000, the extra bite would be $245, and for one making $15,000 and above it would be $180.

The spirit of Christmas is ageless, especially when being shared by members of the Club from Illing Junior High School and residents of Holiday House. Jim Dellaripa and

Kissinger presses senators to continue aid to Angola

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford sent Henry Kissinger on a diplomatic mission to Capitol Hill — to try to persuade senators not to halt U.S. aid to Angola.

In a highly unusual session lasting three hours Thursday, the secretary of state met behind closed doors with 25 of the Senate's leaders, a fourth of its membership.

He failed to budge the staunchest opponents of the aid, who said they would "hang tough" in their determination to bring a complete halt. But Kissinger returned to the White House late in the day with proposals for compromise made by some of the senators, involving congressional consultation on any future aid and perhaps a ceiling.

It remained to be seen whether Ford would compromise, or hang tough himself.

As Kissinger met with the legislators in the office of Republican leader Hugh Scott, it was clear that only a wavering Republican filibuster was keeping the Senate from voting a ban on all military aid to U.S.-supported factions fighting a civil war in the newly independent West African nation.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, one of those present, said "Kissinger is going back and telling the President we are hanging tough here. We pushed Henry to the wall."

Kissinger told newsmen the administration has "to stand for what we feel is in the best interests of the United States. Beyond a certain point, we cannot compromise," he said.

"The issue is what the United States has 40% of, and whether the United States can stand completely idly by when the Soviet Union makes a massive infiltration in an area 8,000 miles from its normal sphere of interest," Kissinger said.

Living climbs in November

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living continued its steady climb in November, increasing 0.7 per cent for the second consecutive month.

The increase, which translates into an annual rate of 8.4 per cent, dashed administration predictions that inflation would begin to moderate near the end of 1975.

Big increases in auto insurance and mortgage interest rates, property taxes, natural gas prices, telephone services, new cars and some foods cut deeply into a 0.9 per cent increase that the average worker received in his paycheck.

The real earnings of an average worker, nonetheless, rose 0.7 per cent, the department said.

WASHINGTON — Prospects are dimming rapidly for an emergency legislative session to take up a projected $80 million budget deficit, according to leaders of the Democratic majority in the House.

House Majority Leader Rep. William O'Neill, D-East Haddam, said Thursday a special session will not be called until there is agreement on how to trim the shortage, and that appears unlikely.

"I certainly wouldn't project a special session," said O'Neill, who also is Democratic state chairman. "Unless we can come up with a firm program, what's the sense of coming back," said Deputy House Speaker Bruce Morris, D-New Haven. A regular legislative session is due to begin in February.

The leaders, emerging from a lengthy meeting at the Capitol, said they will continue to look for ways to reduce the forecast $80 million shortage. Another session was set for Monday.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso's orders to off 500 state employees by Jan. 2 don't seem to have softened opposition to her key plans to trim the deficit, rejected during an emergency session that adjourned Dec. 4.

Morris said most of the Democratic lawmakers, with a 5-3 edge over Republicans in the lower chamber, still oppose Mrs. Grasso's plan.

Her plans — a state takeover of a $28.5 million fund for needy veterans and a longer work week for state employees — were rejected by wide margins in the emergency session.

"I counseled them to take a careful look at the deficit that has been put out by the administration," said Becker, a Republican whose projections pegged the deficit at $40 million.

"It all depends at how you look at the economy," he said.

Becker said the recession is nearly over and state revenues will rise soon due to the higher economic activity.

Becker's Democratic counterpart, Leo V. Donohue, agreed "it's a mistake to proceed on one set of figures." He said, "I couldn't take exception to the (Becker) findings, it's a very subjective area."

Becker said his deficit projections differed from those by Mrs. Grasso's

Moluccan gunmen release 25 hostages

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — South Moluccan gunmen who held two dozen people hostage in the Indonesian consulate for 15 days surrendered today and released their hostages.

Twenty-five smiling hostages walked out of the consulate at 1:22 p.m. (7:22 a.m. EST) and entered a special bus. They were followed about five minutes later by the seven gunmen who strode out of the building one by one.

The surrender came five days after another band of South Moluccans meekly gave up and released the 23 hostages they had held in a country train they hijacked about 75 miles north of Amsterdam.

They see the Soviet aid as a Kremlin test of U.S. will, as a quick grab for a strategic African outpost and as a danger to East-West détente.

Sen. John Tunney, leading the fight to prohibit any use of the $11.2 billion defense authorization for covert aid to Angolan factions, said only a presidential pledge not to send aid would be acceptable. "That is my minimum goal and my maximum goal."

"I want a complete cutoff now. I don't want any more money going down what I consider a rathole."

Cheers broke out among the crowds behind heavy police barriers outside the consulate as the hostages came out of the building. Police, marines, and royal constabulary forces cordoned off the streets. Doctors in white coats stood by with half a dozen ambulances.

Police vans were parked on all surrounding roads and alongside the barbed wire and sandbag barriers. After the gunmen were driven in police vans, two South Moluccan mediators — the Rev. Semol Metyar and Johannes Manusawa, president of the self-proclaimed South Moluccan Republic — left the building.

They had met face-to-face with the gunmen for half an hour to arrange the surrender.

The gunmen, each of whom was heard to shout a battle cry as he left the building, were driven in a police cortege of motorcycles and vans to police headquarters where they are to be interrogated and officially charged.

Bomb squad experts entered the consulate, followed by Indonesian Ambassador Sutopo Yuwono Projohandono.

Joyful relatives of the hostages, many of whom had maintained a non-stop two-week vigil in a hotel around the corner, cried, shouted and waved as the ordeal ended. The surrender and the release of hostages came after a government "crisis team" headed by Prime Minister Joop den Uyl met to discuss the long standoff.

Apparent Dutch willingness to discuss South Moluccan problems opened the way to the end of the siege. Shortly before the hostages were released, the red-and-blue South Moluccan flag that had fluttered from the third-floor balcony of the five-story red brick building, was taken down and rolled up.

The 40-hour work week plan, developed by Mrs. Grasso as an alternative to the furloughs, was rejected by legislators two weeks ago in the face of state employe union opposition.

The CPEEC was especially critical of the state's spending for higher education, saying all frills should be cut back, and it called for the repeal of a law giving state employes the right to collective bargaining.

Auditor warns against panic

HARTFORD (UPI) — Legislators should look again before rushing to trim a predicted $80 million budget deficit, a top state auditor has warned, warning the shortage may be only $40 million.

"The assembly should not panic into any fast action," auditor Henry Becker said at a hearing Thursday of the Appropriation Committee called to get advice on how to reduce the deficit.

Also at the hearing were taxpayer groups recommending cuts in state spending, especially payroll, and state employe unions backing minor tinkering with state spending but major changes in the tax system.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso, a Democrat whose aides forecast the $80 million shortage, is trying to reduce the deficit by cutting spending by $40 million — partly with layoffs for 500 state workers — and raising revenues by $40 million.

"I counseled them to take a careful look at the deficit that has been put out by the administration," said Becker, a Republican whose projections pegged the deficit at $40 million.

Becker's Democratic counterpart, Leo V. Donohue, agreed "it's a mistake to proceed on one set of figures." He said, "I couldn't take exception to the (Becker) findings, it's a very subjective area."

Becker said his deficit projections differed from those by Mrs. Grasso's

Scovill to reopen Waterbury plant

WATERBURY (UPI) — Waterbury's largest employer, the Scovill Mfg. Co., says it plans to reopen Jan. 2 after a tentative agreement would be ratified by the local's rank and file.

"The negotiating committee has reconsidered and given Waterbury a Christmas present even though there will be less underneath our tree next year," said Brown.

"I have one question for merchants in this town: Will they guarantee prices will remain the same for the next three years?" Brown asked.

No date was set for the ratification meeting, but it was expected it would be called soon.

Stolen money returned

Mrs. Stanislaw Jelinski, whose trip to her native Poland to get her son out of prison evaporated last Friday when her life savings ($11,000 in cash) was stolen by a purse snatcher, had $11,000 of the money returned to her Thursday. The thief had kept $800 and discarded the purse, which was found and turned over to police. Patrol Officer Nick Espisto counts out the money for Mrs. Jelinski while investigator Frank Riggio looks on. Riggio later escorted the 67-year-old woman to Chicago's O'Hare Airport, where she caught a flight to Poland. (UPI)

Hospital group purchasing saves more than $115,000

A hospital group purchasing program for pharmaceutical products, in which Manchester Memorial Hospital has been involved for the past four years, may save Connecticut Hospital Association (CHA) participating members more than $115,000 during the next year, a hospital spokesman said.

The program, a joint venture of the CHA and the Connecticut Society of Hospital Pharmacists, provides 50 group contracts for the purchase of drugs and related pharmaceuticals to member hospitals.

The savings will result from eight separate contracts entered into following bid openings last November, as well as 14 group contracts entered into after similar bidding procedures last July.

A committee of representatives as well as 10 practicing pharmacists from some of the state's hospitals provides direction in the selection of those drugs which lend themselves to group purchases and which may be available from a number of different companies.

Martin Aroian, chief pharmacist at MMH, said the hospital's involvement in this program has been successful in that a steady supply of very high quality pharmaceuticals at a very competitive cost has been guaranteed. This results in savings to the hospital and to the patients, Aroian said.

Some of the drugs purchased under the group contracts are tetracycline, ampicillin, erythromycin, oxacillin, heparin, and the penicillins, Aroian said.

Other items purchased under these contracts include certain intravenous solutions, intravenous administration sets, and pharmaceuticals used in conjunction with certain specialized procedures, Aroian said.

The purchasing programs are run jointly by the CHA and the Hospital Bureau, Inc. of Pleasantville, N.Y. Edward M. Kenney, administrator of MMH, serves both as a trustee of the Hospital Bureau and as chairman of CHA's Council on Shared Services and Facilities.

An advocate of group purchasing contracts for hospitals, Kenney said that such contracts can enable the hospital to pass along significant savings to the patients in the form of lower rates for hospital services.

During a recent six-month period, MMH participated in 31 group purchasing contracts, a total exceeded by only three other hospitals in the state, he said. The total volume of MMH's purchases under these contracts during that period was more than $222,000, a significant saving, Kenney said.

Bowling owners oppose cafe

South Windsor JUDY KUHNEL 644-1364 The proposed conversion of Robert Hall's in South Windsor to a cafe has come up against some opposition, said a spokesman for the Planning and Zoning Commission. Owners of the Ten Pin Bowl on Rt. 5 feel patrons of the cafe would be using the bowling alley's parking. Present owners of the Ten Pin Bowl fear persons leaving the cafe will come into the bowling alley and create a non-family atmosphere. A spokesman for the alley explained that the Ten-Pin Bowl has been built into a family type recreational facility.

According to PZC Chairman William Grace, the commission's regulations require more parking spaces than are presently available at the proposed site. Reportedly, there is an agreement with the owners of Kinney Shoes to use their back parking lot. The cafe would be called "Brace Bull Cafe" and would be a deli-style cafe with a bandstand. Maximum occupancy would be 300 persons. The application is being presented by Emil Lucek representing Peter Charlo. Lucek is the former town engineer and is now in the consulting engineer business.

Not all chain stores are 'carpetbaggers'

Vernon While it was noted at last week's meeting of the Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce many chain stores do not join the chamber. President Robert Tedoldi said today there are exceptions. A number of large national chain stores in the tri-town area are members of the chamber in excellent standing. Tedoldi said. Tedoldi said some of them are extremely active in supporting chamber projects. He cited the Grant City, D & L, Sage-Alten and Baskin-Robbins, as some examples.

Delage no longer a suspect in Pennsylvania coed murders HARTFORD (UPI) — Pennsylvania state police have eliminated Richard T. Delage as a suspect in the 1970 killings of two coeds whose slayings were thought linked to that of Paget A. Weatherly, United Press International learned Thursday.

Delage has been accused of killing Miss Weatherly, 23, a University of Connecticut graduate student from Milford who was found shot to death in a Bolton culvert off Rte. 44A, Nov. 16, 1969. He is also accused of the killing in 1960 of Carole Segretta, 23, a school teacher from North Troy, N.Y., who was found shot to death in her parked car off the Taconic State Parkway in Yorktown, N.Y., 30 miles from Greenwich where Delage was living at the time. Miss Weatherly was believed to have been hitchhiking from the Storrs campus when she was picked up by a motorist and shot to death. The Weatherly case and the coed Ballistics and other evidence thought killings in Fulton County, Pa., were linked.

Heritage Savings to offer new NOW checking accounts

A checking account which earns per cent interest will be offered at Heritage Savings and Loan Association beginning Dec. 31, when expected federal legislation authorizing the new account becomes law. The account, called NOW account (negotiable order of withdrawal) will be authorized for all banking institutions in Connecticut. Both houses of Congress have approved the NOW account authority, but it is expected to take another week for the resolution of technical differences between the two bills and for the final version to be signed up by President Ford.

Pharmaceutical preference

Five New York doctors may endorse a certain headache remedy, or whatever it was that used to be advertised that way. But 301,688 pharmacists prefer Ronald Reagan over Gerald Ford or any other candidate, Republican or Democrat, as the next President of the United States.

Anyway, that's what our arithmetic makes it.

American Druggist magazine reports that in a poll it conducted among 877 pharmacists, 34.4 per cent supported the former governor of California while Mr. Ford garnered only 25.4 per cent.

Common sense wins one court case

WASHINGTON — Methadone is an addictive drug used in the treatment of heroin addicts. There are junkies who prefer methadone after a few visits to a clinic, and in the bigger American cities dope dealers make a good living pushing methadone that has been either stolen or bought from doctors or hospital personnel.

In 1974, a Washington physician, Dr. Thomas W. Moore, was convicted for peddling large quantities of methadone. Evidence at his trial showed that Moore operated out of an office heavily guarded by dogs and private cops, that he earned $260,000 in a five-month period by writing as many as 100 prescriptions a day, and that he charged his "patients" a sliding fee scale based on the number of methadone tablets he prescribed.

The judge sentenced Moore to 15 to 45 years in the slammer and Moore was locked up while his counsel appealed his case. Two years later, the U.S. Court of Appeals did something that would be incredible in another country. It overturned Moore's conviction on the grounds that only misdemeanor charges — rather than the more severe felony charges — could be brought against doctors who abused their license to distribute drugs.

But the state also had the right of appeal, and the U.S. attorney's office took the unusual step of going directly to the Supreme Court instead of asking the full nine-member appellate court here to review the case. The prosecution properly claimed the appellate ruling had made it virtually impossible to prosecute doctors who doubled as dope pushers.

Well, the good guys won the case. The Supreme Court reversed the appellate decision, holding that "in practical effect, Moore acted as a large-scale pusher, not as a physician." In so doing, the highest bench ruled that felony statutes apply to doctors who sell drugs for profit.

Moore, of course, will stay in the jug and, I trust, serve most of his sentence. But his fate is relatively unimportant. What is significant and rather frightening about his case is the reminder that there are still judges sitting around the country ready, willing and able to hand down fatuous and even dangerous decisions in criminal cases.

Indeed, the attempted prosecution of another Washington doctor had been dismissed by a federal judge following the opinion in the Moore case, and other investigations had been blocked. In one of the real understatement of the year, U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert told the Supreme Court the appellate opinion "had an adverse effect on law enforcement efforts in this city to stop illegal dope peddling by doctors."

In so ruling, the Supreme Court was forced to remind the appellate bench that "Congress intended the CSA to strengthen rather than weaken the prior drug laws. Physicians who go beyond approved practice remain subject to serious criminal penalties."

Of course, and two and two — some judges — the contrary notwithstanding — still add up to four.

salesman be excused because of his trade?

Apparently, the appeals court based what must be humorously referred to as its collective judgment on the interpretation of the penalty provisions of the 1970 Controlled Substances Act. The language in the statute, it was claimed, was "ambiguous" in relation to penalties for physicians.

Writing the unanimous opinion, Justice Lewis Powell conceded ambiguity but took a stand for common sense. The interpretation, he wrote, should be based on the type of drug transaction instead of the profession of the person who conducts the transaction.

Recycling history

The old American motto of "waste not, want not" may only lately have been reborn in the nation's environmental consciousness, but recycling has been an important element in America's economic life since its founding.

Two signers of the Declaration of Independence were among the nation's early metal recyclers. Paul Revere was a noted silversmith and coopersmith who, like every metalworker of his day, made extensive use of scrap materials.

The Liberty Bell is the product of recycling, having been cast twice from the same materials.

Another little-known fact of recycling history deals with the fate of a lead statue of George III which once graced New York City's Bowling Green Park. In 1776 it was toppled by patriots, hacked into pieces and shipped off to Litchfield, Conn., where it was melted down and cast into 42,088 bullets for the guns of American revolutionaries.

These and other historical tidbits are contained in a booklet, "The Recycler in America," just issued by the National Association of Recycling Industries, which itself is nearly 63 years old.

The booklet traces the emergence of America's scrap dealers and peddlers and their impact on the economy, as colonial frugality gradually gave way to exploitation of the country's natural resources and "limitless" raw materials and the advent of the throwaway philosophy which is still predominant.

But recycling is coming back into style, and on a more modern note, the Aluminum Association reports that one out of every four all-aluminum cans was recycled in the first nine months of 1975.

This was a total of 2.8 billion cans recovered during the first three quarters of this year, compared with 2.3 billion cans collected during all of 1974.

Recyclers have received more than $1.8 million so far this year for 124 million pounds of aluminum brought back to some 1,300 recycling centers. Much of this money was paid to private individuals and to organizations like schools.

More than $45 million has been paid to such groups and individuals since 1970, says the association.

Those 24 million pounds of aluminum recycled back into cans and other products represent not only a substantial saving in material resources but also in energy. Recycling an aluminum can requires only five per cent of the energy it took to make it in the first place.

WASHINGTON — There's a great deal of confusion as to why President Ford acts the way he does:

- His off-again, on-again attitude toward financial aid to New York City.
- His strong stand in demanding Congress agree in advance to slash projected federal spending by a specified percentage.
- His repeated vetoes.
- His rapid pardon of former President Nixon.
- His quickie Halloween massacre, in which he fired Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Central Intelligence chief William Colby without warning.
- His consistent refusal to strike out a la Franklin Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy with national plans to lead us out of the inflation-unemployment wilderness.
- To his critics, Mr. Ford is weak, vacillating, uncertain — a feeling apparently shared by many of those queried in public opinion polls.

The fact is, that for better or for worse, Mr. Ford is a prisoner of his experience. As President, he is employing those tactics Congressman Gerald Ford found most profitable in his years as leader of a minority party in the House of Representatives.

Tactic One: Take a strong, hard stand on important issues. Know in your own mind what you will compromise for. But adamantly refuse to concede you're willing to budge. Publicize your stand with all the guns you have. Hold still, eyeball-to-eyeball without blinking until the opposition is willing to concede as much as you've calculated they can and will. Then make your deal.

To his critics, Mr. Ford has used with New York City:

Estimate: Success. He pushed New York into greater self-discipline, on paper anyway, than anyone thought possible.

It's the tactic he's using with Congress on the budget for fiscal year 1977.

Estimate: Possible failure. Congress isn't likely to cut much in an election year, even though Mr. Ford and Treasury Secretary Simon are convinced the voters are giving senators and representatives the message they want less spending and more fiscal self-restraint.

It's the principle behind this hefty pattern of vetoes of programs he doesn't like and those which he believes cost too much.

Estimate: Mixed. He's knocked out some hefty spending proposals Congress voted, gotten other bills modified to better suit his objectives, but he hasn't succeeded in getting Congress to pass bills of the type he wants in energy, economic stimulation and other major domestic problems.

In private, it is known that Mr. Ford readily acknowledges his methods and his gambles in dealing with Congress.

Most curiously, however, the President has not used this strong-

WASHINGTON — There is a fatalistic conviction here that the second shoe will inevitably fall in the endless investigation into intelligence agency abuses. Few would be surprised if tomorrow's headlines were to charge that the FBI and CIA have not only plotted assassinations, but have carried them out. Worse, the worry is that future evidence may reveal one ore more of the victims to have been anything but expendable thugs or security threats.

Already the hint is broad in some quarters that J. Edgar Hoover's FBI was involved in the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Black leaders are urging a reinvestigation of that assassination have done so with thinly disguised suspicion. No one charges complicity for public consumption, but privately they have little doubt of it.

In 1968, Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist party presidential candidate, died at the age of 84.

In 1972, the splashdown of Apollo 17 ended America's moon exploration program.

In 1974, Nelson Rockefeller was confirmed by Congress as vice president after a six-hour debate in the House. He then took the oath of office and was sworn in.

der Hoover it was capable of anything. The FBI has admitted to at least 238 illegal break-ins (called "bug jobs") between 1942 and 1968.

During his service, he burgled in the name of national defense and in pursuit of organized crime information. The agency has admitted unlawful buggings, unlawful interception of public mail, unlawful interference of individual civil liberties, and on and on drearily.

As for unlawful physical violence, the Bureau has admitted little, yet the record and the allegations indicate something other than innocence. In 1968, for example, FBI agents plotted and paid for a plan that was tantamount to an assassination of a hapless Ku Klux Klan member. Using $38,500 as the lure, and a pair of informants as also the skeletons to be found but also the damning shame and dishonor that those who survived him must now bear.

And so actually there are identifiable bodies in the FBI past, and viable indications of others yet uncovered. I stress "the past" here, for the de-Hooverized FBI of today is for the most part a body of decent people, no doubt as professional as any police agency anywhere. And herein perhaps is the ultimate irony of the Hoover evil: His legacy includes not only the skeletons to be found but also the damnable shame and dishonor that those who survived him must now bear.

BOSTON, Dec. 19 — Gen. Howe, increasingly worried about short supplies, anxiously awaited the return of a transport sent to the West Indies for salt and was fitting out two others to go to Georgia under protection of a warship for rice.

Refueling at sea, routine but dangerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Refueling warships at sea is a routine but dangerous job. Three times in the past month, ships in the Atlantic Fleet have collided in the process — an unusually high number.

The statistics have been so high that Adm. I.C. Kidd Jr., who runs the Atlantic Fleet, has ordered experienced teams of refuelers to Europe to make sure there are no more mistakes.

Naval sources who saw Kidd's message said his blunt and salty language was an indication of how important the admiral sees the problem.

A Navy study found that in a statistically typical three-year period, there were 21 collisions out of the thousands of refuelings that took place. On the average, a vessel must refuel every three days.

Investigators found that 13 could be charged to human mistakes, five to mechanical error and the other three unknown.

A warship starts the refueling cycle about 500 yards behind the large oilers which carry millions of gallons of fuel. It must stay on course through the turbulence caused by wind and sea and the ship's wake and keep a distance of between 60 and 100 feet. Any further and the line will break, any closer and the ship will be sucked into a collision.

While the ships are moving on parallel courses about 15 miles an hour, a lightweight "skin line" aircraft carrier fired between them, is pulled aboard and is followed by hoses and mechanical gear. The hose can carry up to 6,000 gallons per minute and can weigh more than a ton when full of oil. The process can take anywhere from 20 minutes to four hours for aircraft carriers.

The Navy study found two fatalities and 54 injuries of all types in the three years. No one was injured in the three recent accidents.

The underway replenishment collisions, not counting the Nov. 22 crash between the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy and the cruiser USS Belknap that killed eight sailors: — On Nov. 20, the aircraft carrier USS Independence collided with the supply ship USS Denebola during replenishment of dry goods, not fuel.

— On Monday, the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga collided with the oiler USS Mississinewa off the Florida coast.

— On Tuesday, the assault vessel USS Inchon collided with the oiler USS Calossahatchee in the Mediterranean.

Energy conservation designs

World's largest solar heating and cooling system provides the roof for George A. Towns Elementary School in Atlanta. The 576 solar collector panels, totalling some 10,000 square feet, supply 50 to 60 per cent of the school's energy needs, providing heat in winter and driving a 100-ton air-conditioning system in summer. A conventional gas boiler is on standby in case of a string of cloudy days.

Prise-winning energy-conservation design is of the Wilton, Maine, Wastewater Treatment Plant. Integrated use of solar collector panels, heat pumps and a small building shell of basic concrete is expected to yield annual savings of $3,594 in heating oil and $875 in electricity expenditures. Methane gas from the plant's wastewater treatment process and an electric generator will provide energy on cloudy days. The design won in the industrial category in the fourth annual Owens-Corning Fiberglas Energy Awards competition.

Union suggests money savers to Appropriations Committee

HARTFORD (UPI) — deficit predicted for June. The state could save $10 million to $12 million a year if it eliminates some inefficiencies and does not farm out so much of its work, the Connecticut State Employees Association said Thursday. CSEA President Al Marotta detailed some of the inefficiencies to the legislative Appropriations Committee which is clouding suggestions on how to avoid an $80.1 million critical of the contracting of private firms to perform snow-removal and other maintenance work on state roads. He said much could be saved if the state hired its own crews and bought its own equipment. But Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper told reporters outside the hearing Connecticut now pays about $1.4 million for the outside contracts, but it would cost at least $3.2 million to hire its own crews.

Are you allergic to Christmas trees?

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Health Editor

"Tis the season to be itchy — if you're among those allergic to Christmas trees, Yule decorations and/or hidden ingredients in tasty holiday snacks.

Some victims of Yule sneezes, wheezes, scratches and rashes know from Christmas past to keep hands off the tree and green things festooning the place called home.

But, unfortunately, this Yule, new sufferers of Christmas allergy will be caught by surprise.

In an interview, Dr. Doris J. Rapp talked about allergies peculiar to Christmas trimmings and treats. She is a pediatric allergist and associate professor of pediatrics at the State University of New York in Buffalo. She also is author of "Allergies and Your Child" (Drake).

"It is not uncommon for a parent to put up the Christmas tree and a few days later the child or even one of the parents gets itchy or develops other allergic symptoms," Dr. Rapp said.

"Some say their children get sick every Christmas and then recover soon after the tree is taken down. They diagnose the allergy."

The allergist said some people have trouble as soon as they walk toward an area where Christmas trees are for sale — or in the woods, oil out to cut their own.

Off on the pine needles trigger the allergic reactions in some cases. Just the odor of a pine tree can touch off other cases.

"Some patients can tolerate a spruce but not a fir," Dr. Rapp said. "Persons allergic to quickly develop on contact in persons allergic to resins in the pine."

"If you know you're allergic to Christmas trees and decorations, the best idea is use artificial trees and trimming," she said.

If you don't like that idea, use sprays of tree branches painted white and decorate with tiny lights. Straw wreaths, new on the scene this year, can be spray-painted green for that holiday look.

Dr. Rapp suggested persons allergic to holiday greens take antihistamine before exposure to Christmas trees in public places. She also recommended those who find Christmas things triggering allergy check with their doctors about a new drug out this year.

The allergist said the drug, Cromolyn, is a powder that is inhaled before exposure to things linked to allergic reactions. It tends to help prevent symptoms such as asthma attacks.

If your Christmas tree allergy is a contact dermatitis type — as opposed to the kind touched off by breathing in pine scents — wear heavy gloves when handling the tree and/or greens.

Dr. Rapp also had a holiday caution for persons with food allergies. "The food most often forgotten about at Christmas is egg," she said.

"Those with egg allergies sip eggnog or drink root beer and the allergic signs appear."

"Eggwhite frequently is used to make the froth in root beer."

"A second forgotten food is nuts. If you're allergic to peanuts you dare not take a walnut from a dish of mixed nuts. Some of the peanut oil probably has rubbed off on the other nuts and will get your allergy going."

The persons allergic to nuts must be careful of Christmas cookies, too.

Dr. Rapp said a lot of cookie-makers put almond extract flavoring or walnut extract flavoring in cookies.

"People forget about their allergies, eat one of these cookies and get desperately ill," she said.

"Persons allergic to seafood get in trouble with fishy dips."

The holidays also are a time to take special precautions with asthmatic children. The allergist said:

"During the holidays there is a lot of excitement and the kids are up later and get tired and excited and may be more prone to asthma attacks."

"If the asthma medicine is given the day before Christmas and the day after it's a good bet there won't be so much wheezing Christmas Day."

Boom in car sales predicted

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II predicted that auto sales in 1976 would increase 12 to 15 per cent over this year and that virtually all of the gain would be made by U.S.-built cars.

In a year-end statement, Ford and President Lee A. Iacocca predicted sales, including imports, would range between 9.6 million and 9.9 million cars next year compared to the 8.8 million cars sold this year.

The two Ford executives warned that unless Congress eases proposed clean air standards "that are unworkable and inconsistent with the best and latest scientific knowledge," car prices could climb by $300 in the next three years and fuel economy would suffer.

Ford and Iacocca said there definitely would be growth in the car and truck market next year for the first time since the Arab oil embargo triggered a two-year slump in late 1973.

Backing up its planned production increases, GM will add 33,000 cars to the January-March schedules. That will give GM production of more than 1 1/4 million cars, double the depressed first quarter of 1975 and within 16 per cent of the record 1973.

Grand jury probing Quinlan case

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A friend of Karen Ann Quinlan's testified before a state grand jury under tight security Thursday in an inquiry into whether she may have been the victim of a beating before lapsing into a coma, a state police source said.

The grand jury, which normally sits at the state capitol, met at state police headquarters in a Trenton suburb to question William Zywot, 22, of Silvia, Ill.

The grand jury sometimes uses a state police building for security purposes.

Authorities would not officially comment on the grand jury's actions, which are conducted in secret.

However, a state police source said Zywot spent most of the morning in the grand jury room.

Miss Quinlan, 21, has never regained consciousness and is kept alive by an artificial respiration device, which her parents unsuccessfully tried to have disconnected last October.

Zywot is not under suspicion of any wrongdoing, authorities said.

Attorney General William A. Hyland has said there is a possibility bruises on Karen's leg and buttocks and the large lump on the back of her head were the results of a beating.

Medical experts have said the bruises, which were first noticed when Karen was brought to a Den-Ville, N.J. hospital last April, were not enough to cause her to lose consciousness.

Hyland said he ordered a probe into Karen's private life before her parents asked a Morris County court to let the young woman die "with dignity." Testimony at the trial revealed Miss Quinlan passed out after consuming tranquilizers and gin and tonic.

Beth gets special present

By JANE ANDERSON
 NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Beth Ann Cameron, 8, was closer to home today after President Ford's Christmas gift of her first plane ride.
 "She said she enjoyed the flight," Sen. Vito M. Mazza, D-East Haven, who personally appealed to the White House for the use of the hospital plane Thursday.
 The plane landed in a biting wind as darkness fell at Tweed-New Haven Airport about 4:30 p.m. after the hour-long flight. A small group of relatives and well-wishers watched from inside the terminal.
 Beth Ann was accompanied from Lebanon Regional Airport in Hanover, N.H., by her aunt, Vivian Massey, of East Haven; Mazza; an Air Force medical staff of six; and Jack Pickering, the chairman of the West Haven fund-raising drive to help Beth Ann.

With both arms and both legs in casts, the young orphan was transferred from the plane to a waiting ambulance that drove her to Yale-New Haven Hospital.
 Beth Ann's parents and three sisters were killed near White River Junction, Vt., in a traffic accident Dec. 6. After that mishap, Beth Ann was taken to the hospital in the same ambulance with her father. Mazza said it was felt another, long ambulance trip should be avoided.

Barry panel to review worker's charges

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee will investigate the contention by a Health Department employe that she was laid off because she once testified against Health Commissioner Dr. Douglas Lloyd.

 Patricia Gilbert, a computer programmer, said she was one of the 500 state employes furloughed effective Jan. 2 because she accused Lloyd of traveling out of state too much and violating state employment rules.
 Her supervisor, who did not want to be identified, said he also was dismissed for refusing to obey his boss's order to threaten Miss Gilbert with firing if she testified against Lloyd.

Too-young lottery winner may get legislative help

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature may pass a law requiring the state to pay $10,000 to a 17-year-old boy who won the money on an "Instant Lottery" ticket but was refused payment because he is a minor.
 Rep. Robert J. Vicino, D-Bristol, deputy majority leader, said Thursday he will try to introduce legislation in the coming session to rectify the "injustice" barring Barry Brunelle of Stafford from collecting the cash.
 The state Commission on Special Revenue has refused to award the money but voted Wednesday to return Barry's dollar. The youth declined, saying, "They need it more than I do."
 The commission said because Brunelle is ineligible to receive a prize because he was underage when he purchased the ticket. His parents said they will bring the matter to court if necessary.

 "Unless the commission is prepared to enforce this rule prohibiting minors from buying tickets, then I think the rule should be changed," Vicino said.
 Vicino said he didn't know if he could introduce the legislation this session because of a restriction all business be confined to fiscal matters. If not, he said, he would "get the proper committee to do so."
 Brunelle purchased the ticket at a grocery store in September. He said he wasn't aware at the time of a regulation prohibiting sale of tickets to anyone under 18.

Piskorski summations under way

HARTFORD (UPI) — Lawyers for defense and prosecution today were to sum up seven weeks of testimony in the case of Ronald Piskorski, accused of killing six persons in the Donna Lee Bakery.
 Superior Court Judge Edward C. Hamill Thursday did not direct the jury be sequestered over the weekend. He said he would charge the panel Monday.
 The state presented about 70 witnesses and more than 200 exhibits in testimony since Oct. 31 which covered more than 3,000 pages of transcripts. The defense summoned a total of six witnesses in the past two days, mainly to challenge testimony of the state's last witness, and that of a convict who said Piskorski, 26, admitted the crimes.
 "This is the gentleman I saw," the witness, Mrs. Nancy Pizzoferrato, said Wednesday, identifying Piskorski as a man she observed moments before New Britain police say the six victims were shot to death on the night of Oct. 19, 1974 in a bungled robbery.

Firebombing defendant traces day's activities

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Dennis C. Tiche, one of the defendants in the firebombing of a Shelton rubber factory, says he was in Connecticut the day of the fire but never went to the plant.
 Tiche, 29, of Boyers, Pa., said he was led to Connecticut by John W. Shaw, a friend who became the government's star witness in the case against nine men accused of conspiring to blow up the Sponge Rubber Products Co. factory March 1.
 On the stand in U.S. District Court for seven hours Thursday, Tiche traced his activities from January through April 1975, including a trip to New York and New Haven Feb. 28 and March 1.
 After direct testimony, he was cross-examined by U.S. Attorney Peter Dorsey, who asked about Tiche's activities as a blaster at the family coal mine in Boyers and about frequent trips he took for used machinery.
 Dates in Tiche's blasting log show Tiche was blasting at the time his testimony stated he was away on business trips. Tiche blamed the discrepancies on a faulty wrist watch.
 He also admitted he lied to the FBI in April when he said he had not been in Connecticut in 1975.
 Tiche testified under questioning from his lawyer he and Shaw flew to New York Feb. 28 to see a man about some used machinery for sale "in the New York City area," and ended up in New Haven. The meeting was scheduled for March 1, he said.
 The man failed to show up, Tiche testified. Shaw refused to give him his airline ticket, Tiche said, so he left him waiting and said he would meet him later at LaGuardia Airport in New York.
 "Tiche said he arrived at Laguardia "well before midnight," fell asleep

General Dynamics picks Norwich for data center

HARTFORD (UPI) — A decision by the General Dynamics Corp. to build its eastern data service center in the Norwich Industrial Park will mean more than 450 jobs, Gov. Ella T. Grasso and Rep. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., announced Thursday.
 When the 72,000 square foot center is completed, it will employ about 350 workers and the construction of the center will mean 100 jobs in that field, the two said.
 A major factor in choosing Connecticut as the site for the center was a commitment to provide $5.5 million in industrial revenue bond financing by the Connecticut Development Authority, the financing arm of the state department of commerce.
 The center will provide data services for three major divisions of General Dynamics: Electric Boat in Groton, Quincy shipbuilding in Massachusetts and South Carolina, as well as Stromberg-Carlson plants in six states.

Cost of maids a-milking soars

LONDON (UPI) — The British government's anti-inflation policy has cut the cost of Christmas this year—at least for anyone planning to give his true love all the gifts suggested in the carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas."
In 1973 the cost of providing a partridge in a pear tree, along with all the other fowl and an assorted collection of singers, dancers, pipers and drummers, was £52 for an eight-hour day to £11 following a pay award to agricultural workers.

In 1974 the cost rocketed to $5,810. But this year, it has been reduced by about 20 percent, to $7,856, according to the World Wildlife Fund, compilers of this unlikely economic indicator.
The list of gifts suggested by the carol was dreamed up in a feudal age long before union rates affected prices.

Kentucky findings awaited

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — One phase of the University of Kentucky's "in-house" investigation of possible violations may be completed and released by Christmas. University of Kentucky Athletic Director Cliff Hagan said Thursday.

The school is currently conducting a two-pronged investigation into alleged student code and NCAA violations. Hagan said the report dealing with possible student code infractions at the school may be completed by next week.

The investigation of possible NCAA violations probably will not be completed for several weeks, Hagan said. We've talked with the dean of students and it is possible that something will be completed, hopefully by next week," Hagan said. "The last time we talked about it there was the feeling something would be ready by Christmas."

The investigations were prompted following reports of possible drug use by members of the school football team, illegal point shaving and students' possible connection with a murder-kidnaping in Lexington earlier this year.

Several of the reports centered around star running back Sonny Collins. However, in a news conference last Friday, Collins and his attorneys denied he had any part in any of the allegations at the school and cited a polygraph test as proof for their statements.

Bruins on tear BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins, who host the Sabres Saturday, have lost just once in 18 games since they were humiliated in Buffalo Nov. 5.

In that span, the Sabres have gone 9-3-3 and now lead Boston by just two points.

The Sabres, who led Boston by nine points after the 4-0 drubbing in Buffalo, have lost winger Rene Robert for a month and have sputtered in general. The Bruins, bolstered by the return of Bobby Orr for 10 games and the acquisition of Brad Park, Jean Ratelle and Joe Zannussi, have tightened on defense while keeping up a steady goal production.

Orr is now out of action, recovering from a knee operation.

Pro basketball roundup

18-year-old rookie stars for Atlanta

NEW YORK (UPI) — Atlanta Hawks Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons says Bill Willoughby is coming along just fine, thank you, but please don't rush the 18-year-old rookie.

Willoughby got his first starting assignment in the NBA Thursday night when veteran Connie Hawkins was sidelined by a sprained ankle. Although he was too tight to play well at first, his fourth-period performance sparked the Hawks to a 114-98 win over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The 6-foot-8, 205-pound teenager, who was playing high school basketball at this time last year, got nine of his 13 points and nine of his 12 rebounds in the final period when the Hawks took advantage of a tiring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to outscore the Lakers 38-29.

"I don't want everyone to get too excited about Willoughby," said Fitzsimmons. "I'm not getting too excited. I have my plans for bringing him along slowly. If Hawkins can play Friday night, he'll start against Houston."

"I don't want to rush Willoughby. He's going to be a fine player, but he needs to gain experience. I think he was tight when he started against the Lakers, but then, so was everyone else."

Dwight Jones and John Drew, both in NBA their second season in the final Thursday night when the Hawks turned an up-to-then close game into a runaway.

Win streaks on line tonight for Manchester and Catholic

By LENA AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Winning streaks will be on the line tonight when the three local cage combines swing back into action. Haxed East Catholic, with a soaring injury list with 6-4 junior John Lindberg the latest casualty, returns to the hardwood after being idle for a week for a 3 o'clock clash at the Eagles' Nest with Bulkeley High. Manchester High, leading the CCLL at this stage with a 3-0 record, visits league foe Simsbury High which sports a 1-2 league mark and aggregate ledger of 2-2. Finally, Cheney Tech, 2-1 and winners of its last two, journeys to Middletown to combat Charter Oak Conference rival Vinal Tech which is 1-2.

Elsewhere, 2-1 Ellington High entertains NCCC for 5-1 Granby High, 1-1 Bolton is at unbeaten 3-0 Cromwell High, 0-2 Rham meets 0-2 Rocky Hill at the Sachem gym and in a battle of undefeated COC clubs, 3-0

Portland is at 3-0 Coventry High. "I've never seen collectively in my seven years anything like this," grimaced East Coach Stan Ogrodnik talking about his injury situation. "As a coach you don't ask for wins or losses just that everybody stays healthy. I just hope sometime during the season we get everybody back and find out what kind of club we really have."

Lindberg, East's second leading point maker with a 17.5 average along with the intangibles he also does very well, sustained a bruised hip in practice. It swelled way beyond normal limitations and there was some internal hemorrhaging which had to be drained Wednesday night at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He is definitely out for the Bulkeley game and how much more is uncertain. He joins senior Captain Bill Moffett on the sideline with a disabling injury. Jeff Heim and Scott Holland who missed the last game should be ready, Ogrodnik reported. Mark Dumais and John Lusa are suffering from bouts with the flu but will be in the starting lineup. Reserve guard John Murphy has a had ankle but will dress for today's game. Only 6-4 junior Gary Carlson seems to have escaped either injury or illness. The walking wounded Eagles sport a 2-0 record and have not lost in seven previous meetings with Bulkeley. Manchester High has exhibited a strong defense and good poise under pressure in taking its first three.

Senior Captain Mike Quesnel paces the Indians in scoring with a 19-point average followed by Mark Demko, senior guard, who is hitting at a 15-point per game clip. Simsbury is a new CCIL member having won the CVC crown a year ago with since departed 7-0 Tom Young leading the way.

Revamped Cheney Tech has won two straight after an opening loss to East Hampton. Two big reasons for the early Beaver success have been 6-1 Emil Haberern and 6-2 Paul Strycharz. Haberern has tallied 42 points and Strycharz is right behind with 40 markers. The rest of the scoring is well divided as Tech Coach Gerry Blanchard has substituted liberally. Cheney is 1-1 in COC play while Vinal has not won in two conference games.

three games behind Golden State in the NBA Pacific Division. It was the only game played in the NBA Thursday night. In the ABA, the last-place Virginia Squires beat the second-place New York Nets 94-90 in overtime and San Antonio topped Kentucky, 119-102. Abdul-Jabbar dominated the early play in Atlanta Thursday night and won up with 23 points and 20 rebounds. But the visibly tired big man had only two points and four rebounds in the final period and left the game with nearly four minutes to play after the Hawks, ahead by only four points after three periods, built a 17-point lead. Squires' 94, Nov. 90 High-scoring rookie Ticky Burden pumped in 33 points to pace Virginia over the Nets. Burden was assisted by another rookie, Mel Bennett, who scored what proved to be the winning points with 1.05 left in the game. The victory snapped a five-game Virginia losing streak. Spurs 115, Colones 102 George Gerwin dropped in 32 points, Larry Kenon 24 and James Silas 22 as San Antonio thrashed Kentucky before the smallest home crowd in the Colones' history, 2,761. San Antonio put the game away with 12 straight points in the second period that opened up a 53-40 lead. The loss was the Colones' fourth straight.

Celtics in final home game tonight

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics play their final home game of 1975 tonight, and who should show up for the year-end party but the sagging New York Knicks.

Boston has won seven in a row and is 9 1/2 games ahead of the last place Knicks in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division. The Celtics have won nine straight from New York, which almost certainly will play without star guard Earl Monroe. Monroe is suffering from gastro enteritis and was left at home. The Knicks said it was possible, but unlikely, the flashy backcourt man could fly up in time for the game. The Knicks, who have won three straight themselves, arrive in time to see the Celtics at the top of their running game. The adjustment of new players and the maturing of three second-year men have put Boston into first place, just ahead of Philadelphia. Guard Charlie Scott, acquired from Phoenix last spring, has stopped getting into foul trouble and started to score consistently, as well as play good defense. "But what's happening to me is more of an indication of what's happening with our team," said Scott.

Minnesota five surprises nationally rated Marquette

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marquette Coach Al McGuire said his second-ranked Warriors simply fell victim to what he called "the best center we'll face all year" and a crowd that loves its team.

The Minnesota Gophers, picked to finish ninth in the Big Ten and facing severe NCAA penalties for recruiting violations, responded to the crowd of 11,147 Thursday night and played as if they were a national power — handing Marquette a 77-73 defeat in overtime with some torrid shooting. It gave the Gophers a 4-0 record under new coach Jim Dutcher after three earlier one-sided wins over small college teams. Marquette, which had four easy home victories to its credit, lost in its first road game of the year. And McGuire made no excuses, leaving in awe of 6-foot-10 sophomore Mike Thompson, who dumped in 29 points, seven in the overtime, and grabbed 16 rebounds. "Thompson is the best center we'll face all year," McGuire said. "Minnesota is very fortunate to have gotten a coach of the caliber of Dutcher — and that crowd was certainly good to them. The first road game of the year is always the toughest. We were more than respectable."

"We had every opportunity to win," Dutcher said, "but we hung in there and at the end I felt we looked like the composed team. We went into the game with the attitude that whether we won or not, it wasn't going to make or break our season."

Thompson hit 9-of-19 shots and 11-of-12 free throws while Marquette's Bo Ellis went 5-for-17 with no free throws. Thompson also blocked two of Ellis' shots and had a 16-8 rebound advantage. With Ellis ineffective, forward Earl Fatum picked up much of the slack for the Warriors, making half of his team's 30 field goals and finishing with 35 points.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The New England Whalers return to home ice tonight to encounter the Edmonton Oilers in World Hockey Association play. The Whalers return to Hartford after winding up a road trip with an overtime, scoreless tie with the Minnesota Fighting Saints Wednesday night in St. Paul. Goalie Christer Abrahamsson was the Whalers' hero in that game, turning away 39 assaults on the net, including what appeared to be the game-winning shot with two minutes remaining in the sudden death overtime.

Figures and Andre St. Laurent scored the winning goal for a shot, but he and Abrahamsson collided and the Swedish goalie had made still another save for the Whalers.

Hockey roundup

Dumped yesterday in league play was Manchester by Glastonbury, 62-33, at Illing Junior High. Joe Coy had 22 points for the winners with Larry Murray adding 12 and Tom Boles 10. Pete Kiro poured in 30 points for Manchester followed by Jamie Gallagher (9) and Ken Hill (6).

Islanders proving self in 'Fun City'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Islanders are fast establishing "Fun City" as a "one city" hockey town. Only 24 hours after whitewashing the New York Rangers, their older, more established cousins, the Islanders put away the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 Thursday night. The win wasn't a work of art, but rather another integral part of the overall picture destined to make New Yorkers forget all about the Rangers.

"You are looking at a team mature," said Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin, who is fast maturing himself into the National Hockey League's best defenseman. "Coming off a big game like last night's (3-0) win over the Rangers, a team often lets down. We didn't play as well tonight as we did against the Rangers, but we played well enough."

"We're consistent. That's what makes a contender." Gary Howatt rammed home what proved to be the game-winning goal against the Leafs at 12:57 of the second period. J.P. Parise, Clark Gillies and Andre St. Laurent scored the other Islander goals. "The St. Laurent line is skating well now," said Islanders Coach Al Arbour. "We needed that third line to win consistently." The victory gave the Islanders an 18-9 overall record, five points back of first place Philadelphia in the NHL's Patrick Division. The Rangers are next (13-14) in the same division. In the only other NHL game Thursday night, Buffalo clipped Minnesota 5-2.

Sabres 5, North Stars 2 Rick Martin scored his third hat trick of the season— including two goals within the first 49 seconds of play—as Buffalo snapped Minnesota's winning streak at four games. Martin's goals gave him 17 for the season. The victory also snapped a brief two-game Sabre losing streak.

Finley waited for W Sox move and then went after Tanner

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley says he has "outwaited" Bill Veck by signing Chuck Tanner to manage his Western Division champion Oakland A's for the next three seasons.

The 64-year-old Tanner, eased out as manager of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday by newly-approved owner Veck, sealed the deal with former Oakland boss Finley Thursday in Chicago. Tanner, who performed for the Braves and Cubs in 1971, Tanner brought his team in third in the tough American League West and the Chicago finished a surprise second in 1972. But they skidded to fifth in 1973 and fourth in 1974.

"Tanner possesses the qualities I have been looking for in a manager for a long time," said Finley. "I expect him to lead the A's to their fourth World Championship in five years. He'll be the best manager I've ever had."

Tanner will be in a tough spot. Dark piloted the A's to their unusual Sept. 14, 1970, when he replaced Don Guttridge.

losing the playoffs to Boston. Many wondered if the fact that Finley had lost pitching ace Catfish Hunter to the New York Yankees in a contract dispute had not been the real key to the A's' playoff loss.

The Tanner deal was sealed in Chicago. Finley's business headquarters and the city where Veck announced 24 hours earlier he was putting an old friend and cohort, 67-year-old Paul Richards, in the place of Tanner.

Tanner still had three years to go on his Sox contract and Finley reportedly will get the same $70,000 a year he had been getting from the Sox.

Finley said "the reason I have not named a manager before this is because I was waiting to see what would take place in the Chicago White Sox organization...I wanted to see if Tanner would be available."

The fact that Finley gave Tanner a three-year pact seemed to prove that Finley really wanted Tanner, who had managed the White Sox since Sept. 14, 1970, when he replaced Don Guttridge.

chortled. "If I signed him for $10,000 a year, Veck would have to make up the difference. So I've outvecked Veck. That's comedy, bud."

Veck said, "I'm disappointed, obviously," and implied he had wanted to keep Tanner around as an "insurance policy" in case Richards ran into trouble.

"I had certainly made a legitimate pitch to try and get him to stay with our organization," Veck said. "I think that Charlie Finley has signed an excellent manager."

Connors favored in Davis Cup test

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — An Oakland County judge has handed down a $55-million dollar verdict in the Davis Cup test of the Detroit Lions, on health grounds.

The ban does not apply to the stadium, which includes dressing rooms and the press box.

The stadium, the largest domed sports arena in North America, seats 60,636.

The first test of Beer's order comes Sunday when the Lions close their NFL season at home against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The ban does not apply to the stadium, which includes dressing rooms and the press box. The ruling stemmed from a suit filed several months ago by Lawrence Stockler, a West Bloomfield lawyer and longtime Detroit soccer season ticket holder.

During court hearings, Stockler called several experts to give testimony that smoking during football games may harm the health of non-smokers.

Norton to box Lovell Jan. 10

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Ken Norton, the No. 1 challenger to Muhammad Ali's world heavyweight title, and once-beater Argentinian Pedro Lovell will meet in a 12-round fight on national television at the Las Vegas Convention Center Jan. 10.

The fight, announced Thursday, will come two weeks before a 12-round heavyweight bout at Caesars Palace Jan. 24 between former champion George Foreman and Ron Lyle. The Foreman-Lyle match also will be on national TV.

"I have a winning mentality from all my years in tennis and I'm sure we'll beat Mexico," he said.

AFS students enjoy retreat

At four o'clock Friday afternoon 25 AFS members and chaperones left MHS, bound for Timber Trails Camp in Tolland, Mass. This marked the beginning of the third successful American Field Service Retreat Weekend.

The purpose of the retreat was twofold; that was for the participants to learn something about foreign cultures and to have fun while doing so. Last weekend both of these objectives were realized.

Upon arrival at Timber Trails AFS'ers wasted no time in setting in a matter of minutes the once empty cabin in which they were to spend the next two nights was littered with a collection of sleeping bags, backpacks, and sports equipment.

Eventually dinner was served and all became prepared for the "Get To Know You" activity. On this night, it consisted of a game in which everyone formed a circle, singled out the person to his left and then tried to find ten things he had in common with him.

The remainder of the evening was spent in any way one chose. Many elected to walk in the brisk New England air or participate in a unique sport which I will call "Indoor Soccer."

Editorial: Reviving bad habits

In recent years a new trend has begun to influence the high school student's life. Perhaps it should be called an old trend. It is called the Fifties Revival.

Not so in the Sixties. The music was innovative, it had style and form. Most important, it carried a message. "The Sounds of Silence," "I am a Rock," "Nowhere Man" and many more were excellent social commentary.

Profile: Linda Reilly

The first time I met Linda Reilly, I found her to be a friendly person in her own quiet way. I have since come to know her as a sensitive, intelligent, amiable, and loving person.

Before she came to Manchester, Linda lived in Waterbury, which is smaller than Manchester. Most teenagers complain that there is little to do for amusement in Waterbury but drive around town and eat at the various hamburger stands and ice cream shops.

Tech careers explored

In line with the career exploration program, on Dec. 9, the guidance department took a busload of 40 students from MHS to visit technical schools in this area.

Officers elected

It appears to be a promising year for the French Club. With Miss Dutilleul's help the club is being organized and this year could be more exciting than any previous ones.

Carolers praised

The Round Table Singers and the choir, accompanied by the MHS band and the Manchester Civic Orchestra, presented the 4th annual Christmas Concert last Thursday.

On stage, the Round Table Singers sang six of their carols including "The Night Before Christmas," which was a thrill for the younger generation.

The advanced choir and the regular choir sang some popular carols, including the fast paced "Carol of the Bells" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Math pencil pushers place

The Thursday, Dec. 8 math meet at South Windsor High School saw Manchester High's team overpower Hall High School for sole possession of second place in the Capital Area Math League.

Skaters score

Manchester's Hockey team opened its season missing two games from the already small team. The Permi Falcons, with four lines, swooped upon the tired locals in a lopsided 13-0 crushing.

Old and new Japan

Old Japan's warriors ride again during "Yabusame." The annual ceremony at Tokyo's Meiji Shrine in which archers practice their age-old art is said to have originated 1,600 years ago as training for Samurai.

Modern Japan's warriors put on an impressive display for the 25th anniversary of the founding of the nation's postwar Self-Defense Forces.

Education today: Proposed: Way to shake up liberal arts students

The Bennington plan, still at the recommendation stage, is for each liberal arts student to knock off two majors instead of one.

A four-year liberal arts degree from a private college currently, with room and board bills, costs $24,000.

Continuing their early season hot streak, however, was Conard High school, who stretched their lead over the Silk Towners to 22 points for the season.

Let's ask ourselves questions like these. Let's look around. Let's think. The Fifties may be good clean fun, but don't forget the Seventies.

The lighter side: No relief in situs

DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI)—The so-called "situs picketing" bill approved by Congress confronts President Ford with his stickiest political dilemma to date.

And if he vetoes it, he will surely offend a large bloc of conservative Republicans who are backing Ronald Reagan for President.

U.S.-Soviet shipping deal completed

MOSCOW (UPI)—American and Soviet officials announced Thursday they have reached agreement on a new six-year shipping deal, including arrangements that will permit U.S. grain shipments to Russian ports.

A joint statement today said the agreement, initiated by the chief negotiators, included "the rate arrangements of Sept. 17, 1971, regarding the shipment of grain to the USSR."

Overcoming Christmas blues

DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer
Christmas, the season of good cheer, is usually painted in reds and greens.

will acknowledge:
Christmas to many people is almost a commandment to be happy and that happiness is the "proper" attitude for the season.

is possible and so we are set up for a letdown.
Christmas, Benson concludes, has ceased to be a symbol, has ceased to condense a variety of feelings and memories into a commonly shared celebration but instead has become a provocateur of insatiable desire.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: I'm getting married soon, and my fiance and I discussed our pasts together. I asked him if he had any kids anywhere, and he said he didn't think so. He admitted that he did go to bed with one girl before he met me. He said he might have gotten her pregnant, but he didn't think he did because he never saw her after that. He said he didn't care and didn't want to know. But I want to know.
I found out her name and address and went to call her up and ask her, but my fiance says he doesn't want me to. I would like your advice.
WANTS TO KNOW
DEAR WANTS: If your fiance had gotten the girl pregnant she would have contacted him, if for no other reason, to help with the expenses. The word from here is to forget it.
DEAR ABBY: Dick and I have been married for two years. I'm a little older than he is, and maybe that's why I feel so insecure.
Two weeks ago, I found a letter hidden in his underwear drawer. It was addressed to his office and was from an old girl friend. She wrote that she is being divorced and wants to pick up where she and Dick left off.
I wrote to her and told her that we were happily married and to leave my husband alone. Then I tore up her letter. She either called Dick at work or wrote him to tell him about my letter because he came home and raised Cain with me for writing to her and destroying her letter. I explained that I only did it because I loved him and was trying to save my marriage. That is the G's honest truth, Abby.
Last night while he was sleeping, I went through his billfold and found her phone number, so I'm sure he's been calling her.
Should I write to her again or call her or what? This is my third marriage and I want it to last. Dick was a perfect husband until this woman came into his life again. Please help me. My whole world is falling apart.
NOWHERE TO TURN
DEAR NOWHERE: Stay out of your husband's billfold and drawer! And don't call or write the other woman. It will only infuriate him and drive them closer together. If Dick has an interest in her, there is nothing you can do. The only hope for a marriage that's falling apart is counseling. If he won't go, go alone.
DEAR ABBY: My wife has a habit of downgrading sincere compliments.
I'll say, "Gee, Hon, you look nice in that dress," her reply is likely to be, "Do you really think so? It's just a rag my sister gave me."
Or if I tell her she did a great job cleaning up the house, her response might be, "Well, I guess you haven't seen the kids' rooms today."
I find it hard to understand why she can't accept a compliment without putting herself down. And it hurts a little. How do you explain it, Abby?
PERPLEXED
DEAR PERPLEXED: Your wife lacks self-confidence and feels somewhat embarrassed to accept praise. Don't be hurt. Most people have difficulty accepting compliments with grace.

Win at Bridge
South looked at the dummy with distaste. There was at least one trump loser, plus an apparent diamond loser. He couldn't do anything about the trump loser; perhaps he could take care of the diamond. He hummed, "With a little bit of luck," and proceeded to make the contract.
He started by playing the ace of hearts. Both opponents followed and there was only one heart loser. Then he cashed the second high spade; played king of clubs; ace of clubs; small club to be ruffed. Next came the ace and king of diamonds followed by a small trump. West won and had to lead a black card. South promptly discarded dummy's losing diamond, ruffed in his own hand and claimed the slam.

For Saturday, Dec. 20, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't attempt to burn the candle at both ends today. Your best energy and drive have very definite limitations.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Laid in the days is not the time to try to resolve serious family problems. Wait till everyone has a chance to sleep on the issues.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful today that your remarks aren't too casual or biting. Someone you'll put down will not forgive readily.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You tend to be a shade selfish today where your self-interest and resources are concerned. You must give a little in order to get.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your resolve grows as the day lengthens. Don't give up on something important just because it doesn't come off on the first try.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is likely to be a rather busy day for you. You're apt to run out of steam rather early in the evening. Don't make it a late night.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Goals that eluded you yesterday are achievable today. If you're willing to set your own standards, be tenacious and you'll succeed.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The general drift of today's events will at first appear to be working against you. Conditions will later alter to your satisfaction.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Have faith in yourself and your ideas today. There is a chance for each objective if you take time to think it out.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may be a bit of a show-starter today. But, once you set your mind to a task, you're capable of gaining desirable results regardless of obstacles.
PISCES (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have the opportunity today to let a friend who has been loyal to you know that you're also an ally who can be relied upon.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may be a bit of a show-starter today. But, once you set your mind to a task, you're capable of gaining desirable results regardless of obstacles.

Washington window: Going to the mountains

RICHARD E. LERNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some White House officials expect President Ford to do a lot of hard political thinking during his Christmas skiing vacation high in the Colorado Rockies and to come down from the mountains ready for tough election battles with Ronald Reagan.

These aides agree that Ford's visit to Vail, set to begin Tuesday and to last a week, may inspire renewed criticism of his out-of-town trips and could even further reduce his apparently sagging popularity.

But they feel it will do the President good to get away from the pressures of the Oval Office and, perhaps more important, give him ample time to contemplate changes at the White House and in his campaign organization that some political advisers consider necessary to fend off Reagan's challenge.

For the record, Ford's official spokesmen say he plans to venture frequently onto the snow-covered slopes to try to unwind and that he probably will follow a relatively light work schedule while with his family at the Colorado resort.

The biggest tasks confronting him, they say, will be the drafting of the State of the Union message that will be submitted to Congress in January and final decisions on the federal budget that he will propose later next month.

But the press spokesmen say Ford is limiting his vacation so that he can get back to Washington to work on those same matters. Other aides think that the President will spend a lot of his non-skiing hours in Vail weighing shifts in the White House hierarchy and in his election campaign strategy.

They say that is inevitable after the latest Gallup Poll found him trailing Reagan for the first time among Republican and independent voters.

These officials say Ford and his senior advisers knew the former California governor was picking up strength, but never anticipated the poll's finding that Reagan had gone from 23 points behind to eight points ahead of the President in just a month.

The widely held view is that Reagan's apparent upsurge in popular support will almost surely compel Ford to take some significant actions, and quickly.

Although those steps still are uncertain, some officials predict Ford will try to recruit top-notch new talent or high-ranking men in former administrations to come to work at the White House and in his campaign.

They also say the President is reluctant to start his own attacks on Reagan but that Ford will be letting campaign director Howard Callaway and other supporters do the job for him.

The key Ford objective will be to deny Reagan a victory in New Hampshire, site of the first GOP primary, and these aides say the President will have to make his strategy decisions fast to allow time to implement them well before that Feb. 24 race.

The concern, they say, is that a Reagan win in New Hampshire and another the next week in Massachusetts would be bound to help him in the crucial March 9 contest in Florida.

Ford strategists acknowledge privately that he must capture the next primary in Illinois to maintain a viable candidacy and that Reagan might prove almost unstoppable if he went into that fourth battle with the momentum of three victories under his belt.

Factory Jobs
Some 19 million people now hold U.S. manufacturing jobs. Behind every manufacturing employe is an average capital investment of more than $31,580, according to The Conference Board. Investment is highest in the oil industry — which averages $203,000 for each worker.

'Ho-ho' no-no

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One of the nation's largest Santas-for-hire agencies says it's a no-no for their holiday employes to say "ho, ho."

A booming voice can frighten children and sounds phony, according to the agency's guidelines for the 100 to 125 Santa Clauses it provides yearly.

"Thou shalt not promise nuthin'," says one of the commandments handed to each Santa employed through Western Temporary Services, Inc.

One of the firm's "Santa coordinators," Sheila Allen, says Santas go through rigorous screening and training. Much research, she said, has gone into the main reasons Santas are dismissed.

Among these are: —Shoplifting: "The Santa uniform is quite large. Santas have actually been known to use it to hide merchandise."

—Drinking: "We would of course not want an inebriated Santa Claus." —Suggesting political or controversial philosophies to youngsters.

—Cavorting with young girls. "Normally Santa's helpers are young and pretty...flirting is out."

—Rough handling of children, indifference or a belligerent attitude.

What should a Santa be? "He is there to offer a happy memory and comfort to a child," said Miss Allen. "I feel very strongly that the Santa Claus experience should be handled with extreme care, and only by a person with an outgoing, very loving disposition."

Chrysler gets funds

LONDON (UPI) — Parliament Thursday approved funding for the government's plan to pump $325 million into Chrysler's ailing British subsidiary to save it from fiscal collapse. But more than 6,000 workers at the firm's plant in Scotland unanimously rejected the proposal.

Under the plan 8,000 Chrysler workers would be fired, including 3,000 at the Linwood plant in Scotland, but the remaining 17,000 would keep their jobs and Chrysler would continue production in Britain.

A spokesman for the Linwood workers said a 20-man negotiating committee will meet senior executives of the company today.

He said they would seek a compromise under which only 1,500 workers would be fired and the rest would work part time until August to save jobs.
