

Good Morning Have A Good Day

Summary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur F. Burns, rejected by President Carter for another term as Federal Reserve Board chairman, said Friday he will resign from the monetary board.

In an exchange of letters made public by the White House, Burns proposed his resignation become effective March 31, or "any earlier convenient time."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission said Friday it may try to force Ford Motor Co. to compensate the owners of up to 2.7 million cars which could have an engine-damaging piston defect.

Ford said the complaint issued against it was regrettable and unnecessary and said the company began working to correct the problem "well before the FTC inquired into the matter."

The FTC said the cars involved are 1974-77 Ford and Mercury compacts and subcompacts equipped with four and six-cylinder engines.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter informed business leaders Friday he means to fight inflation by traditional jawboning techniques and without imposing wage-price controls or guidelines. "We're willing to give this a try," said Reginald Jones, chairman of General Electric, who outlined the voluntary anti-inflation plan after Carter divulged it to an elite group of industrial leaders.

WAVERLY, Minn. (UPI) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey lapsed into critical condition from "a spreading tumor" Friday and aides indicated he was too weak to be moved from his home to a hospital.

Sudden notice of the deterioration in Humphrey's terminal pelvic cancer condition came only hours after aides had denied reports his health was failing rapidly, and insisted the doughty senator still hoped to return to work with the new session of Congress.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government gave notice Friday it may require that alcoholic beverage containers bear labels warning that women who drink while pregnant may be harming their unborn children.

Damage can be done to the fetus even before a woman becomes aware she is pregnant, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said in an "advance notice of proposed rulemaking" to be published Monday in the Federal Register.

The main stumbling block in talks between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association to end the nationwide soft-coal strike is the operators' insistence that wildcat strikers be penalized, sources said Friday.

Talks between the two sides resumed in Washington Friday afternoon. A meeting Thursday marked the first bargaining session since the operators broke off the talks two weeks ago. About 188,000 UMW members struck Dec. 6 when their contract expired. About 160,000 remain on strike.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency broke the astronaut sex barrier Friday in selecting 35 men and women as astronauts for the space shuttle set to start flying into orbit next year.

Identities of the successful candidates are to be revealed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Monday.

HARTFORD (UPI) — State coffers would gain an additional $2 million under a change in jai alai and dog racing taxes proposed Friday by Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

The announcement follows a series of complaints from some lawmakers and Mrs. Grasso — who makes no secret of her opposition to legalized gambling — that gaming entrepreneurs were making too much money. They said the state deserved a bigger share of the profits.

Consolidation move expected

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Petitioning to obtain signatures supporting a November townwide referendum about consolidation is expected to start next month in Manchester, several sources involved in the process have said.

"It's a very serious effort," one person said of the movement for consolidation, which would combine the Town of Manchester and Eighth Utilities District.

The town and the district now have separate fire departments and also have separate responsibility for sewer service in each area.

District officials have spoken strongly against consolidation and have said that such a move would require approval by district voters, a step that probably wouldn't occur because of the lower tax rate for services provided by the district.

The new move for consolidation, however, apparently is based on a state law that some feel would make one townwide referendum binding, sources said. The vote of the district and the rest of the town would be combined into one final vote total, they said.

The actual state law being discussed is not clear although a few people said that the law is part of an extension of the "Home Rule Act."

The Town Charter says that consolidation requires a vote of approval by the district itself.

"The charter provides a clearcut way for consolidation. The Home Rule Act provides another. They appear to be different," one source said. He and several others predicted that if the referendum is held, its results will lead to a lawsuit because of the apparent conflict between the Town Charter and the state law that the movement is being pegged on.

The petitioning effort is expected to start in early February. This would be the first step to set up a referendum question to be placed on the November ballot.

Sources said that the petitions will require signatures from ten per cent of the district residents and ten per cent of the non-district residents to place a consolidation question on the ballot.

"If the petitioning succeeds, the referendum will be anticlimactic," a source said, referring to the fact that the vote of both the district and the rest of the town apparently would be combined. The feeling is a townwide vote would lead to consolidation.

If the petitioning effort is successful, a Consolidation Commission then would be established to oversee the details of the proposed merger. The commission would be made up of Manchester residents, and several sources mentioned that the prospect is to name several prominent residents from both political parties to the commission.

"Their job is to iron out the technical details," one source said.

The petition and commission work would have to adhere to time guidelines that are established in the Home Rule Act. Thus, the petitioning has to be started by next month to insure a November referendum.

Also, some town residents have been approached to lend their early support to the consolidation move.

"I've been asked to help," one person said. He said that he was asked to

Friday the 13th miserable

United Press International

A dangerous winter storm walloped a broad stretch of the Atlantic Seaboard and Appalachians with deep snows or a blaze of ice on Friday the 13th.

It was a miserable day for people who tried to travel on treacherous highways, and the toll of dead mounted to 19 from three days of storms that surged from Texas to New England.

Alabama, Tennessee, Illinois and

Oklahoma each reported three weather-attributed deaths; Arkansas and Mississippi counted two each; North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas had one apiece.

Hundreds of thousands of youngsters found it a lucky day with time off to build snowmen. Thousands of schools in the Washington and Baltimore areas — and thousands more from the mid-South to New England — called off classes.

Many federal workers in the nation's capital stayed home from work or showed up late. Maryland threw every piece of snow-removal and road-sanding equipment into use.

"Everybody's out in every county," said Bob Olson, Maryland's chief maintenance engineer.

The National Weather Service, in a midday warning, called it a "dangerous winter storm." Winter storm, heavy snow or travel warnings were up in 17 Eastern,

Southern and Midwestern states.

Eight inches of snow piled up in some mountain areas. As much as 15 inches was predicted for some Upstate New York and northern New England communities and up to a foot in northeastern Pennsylvania.

The prime cause of death was accidents on slippery highways. Other victims died of heart attacks while shoveling snow. One victim's car slid down an ice-covered ferry ramp into the Tennessee River.

U.S. 441 through Great Smoky Mountain National Park was closed. The West Virginia Turnpike Commission placed a 35 mph limit on speed along the 88-mile-long highway. Many secondary highways in the Appalachians were blocked or declared off-limits to motorists.

Washington's National Airport was shut down for two hours while crews cleared snow off runways. Dulles International remained open.

Back along the storm's trail from Texas to the Appalachians, the interstate highway system at Birmingham, Ala., was reopened at 8 a.m. for the first time since ice and snow plastered the city early Thursday.

Outside today

Rain heavy at times today with small stream and street flooding possible. Rising temperatures with highs in the upper 30s. Occasional rain tonight and Sunday. Overnight lows in the 30s, highs Sunday in the 40s. National weather map on page 9B.

Flu covers the country

ATLANTA (UPI) — An early winter surge of influenza, packing a double punch of two attacking viruses, was reported in virtually all regions of the country Friday, and federal health officials are concerned that a third and potentially more dangerous flu may strike in the weeks ahead.

The national Center for Disease Control said influenza activity was occurring in at least 42 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, all caused by the A-Victoria and A-Texas viruses. Nine state health departments said they had flu cases caused by both types of viruses.

For the first time this winter, influenza deaths went over the so-called "epidemic threshold," with 110 deaths credited to the current outbreaks.

But it was a third strain of epidemic influenza — A-USSR — that occupied the attention of medical authorities and prompted the dispatch to the Soviet Union of three flu experts.

The three authorities on influenza were to leave today for the Soviet Union, where a strain of flu not seen in the world for more than 20 years has swept the country in less than a month. The flu strain, which has been named A-USSR, also has broken out in Hong Kong, Taiwan, Finland and Czechoslovakia and is believed to be present on the Chinese mainland.

Public health experts, meeting in Washington Thursday, agreed the Russian virus will reach this country this winter or next fall. They also agreed there was not enough time to prepare a protective vaccine to cope with any outbreaks of the virus this winter. The group recommended that a vaccine be prepared for use against the A-USSR virus next fall, with vaccination priority given to persons over 50 and those with chronic ailments.

The CDC reported widespread outbreaks of influenza caused by the A-Victoria and A-Texas viruses in eight states — Illinois, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Maryland, Wisconsin and Rhode Island.

Outbreaks of a more regional nature were reported in 19 additional areas — Alabama, California, Colorado, District of Columbia, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York City, North Carolina, Ohio, Puerto Rico, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, and Wyoming.

Wings of morning

By CLIFF SIMPSON

"Love never disappears" Until recently the subject of death was not freely discussed. It was hushed up and ignored as if there was no such reality. There is a much healthier emphasis today as we recognize that death is a part of life and must be faced openly. Special institutions for the dying are being established and special nurses trained for this particular ministry. He knew that what Paul wrote in Romans 8 was true: "For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord." (37-39) Our faith makes a difference. Let us be bold to witness to it. The church is the "poor minister" image is passing, but not all are yet free from that category. One such clergyman was awakened in the night when a burglar tripped over a chair in his bedroom. Alarmed, the thief drew his knife and threatened, "If you so much as yell for help you are a dead man." "What is it you want?" demanded the minister. "I am hunting for money," was the reply. "Well then," said the minister, "let me get up and light a light and I'll help you. I have been looking for the same thing for a long time. A question of motivation Some years ago during my active ministry in Center Church an alcoholic came to me with a deep sense of injustice. His wife had told him to leave her home and not come back until he was cured. We talked for a long time on more than one occasion. His main complaint was that she would not let him return until he was changed, whereas he kept insisting that if she would take him back he would quit like that as he snapped his fingers. My comment went something like this: "My friend, if giving up liquor is a good idea, let's put it on a different basis. Suppose for a moment you do stop drinking for her sake and rejoin the family. What will hold you to your pure heart? What happens if she dies? There are so many 'ifs.' Why not give up your liquor for the sake of giving it up? Then, no matter what happens, you will find more real satisfaction in your daily life." He didn't seem to understand what I was trying to say. So, I started again. "What is God's will for you? Do you believe he wants you to give liquor up? If this is your belief, then whether or not your wife takes you back is beside the point. It may well be that God is speaking to you through the demand of your wife." I am sure that the divine will is revealed to us in many ways. It may be during the act of prayer, or it may be from a verse in the Bible, a comment of a friend, a chance word on the radio, or even a cartoon in the paper. If our motivation is to do God's will and we are open to receive his will, we will not only find light but power to carry it out. In this case his motive worked and the family was reunited. (Not all such counseling experiences were that successful.) It's amazing When my Social Security check

The Saturday opinion page is open to all readers of The Herald. We solicit your opinions on topics of interest to the community. Is it education? Administration? Business? Recreation? Politics?

The purpose is to present a cross-section of community opinion on a wide variety of subjects.

We ask that you limit your writing to no more than 500 words, double spaced, and send them to: IT'S YOUR OPINION, Manchester Evening Herald, Herald Square, Manchester, Conn. 06040

Getting to the "roots" of the matter

Will success spoil ordinary words?

By DICK KLEINER

Becoming famous has done terrible things to people. The tragedy of Marilyn Monroe. The sorrowful life of Judy Garland. Recently, the private problems of Presley. Some people just can't seem to cope with great quantities of fame.

Neither can some words. The book business, coupled with the movie business, has lately made certain words zoom to the peak of popularity. And they just can't take it. Success has spoiled them, just as surely as it spoiled Rock Hunter.

Consider "jaws" or "roots." They will never be the same again. Becoming rich and famous has turned their heads, or rotated their wheels and spun their consonants.

It is no longer possible to use those words in simple sentences without people sneering or chortling, or at the very least raising a dubious eyebrow.

Try it sometime. Try saying something about aching jaws or putting down roots and see what happens. Your conversational vocabulary will certainly reorient with a quip about (a) sharks or (b) your ancestors.

Not long ago, I had occasion to remark to a friend that a tree on our property was disturbing us because its roots had grown into a drainpipe.

"I think I'll have to call somebody," I said.

"Better call Alex Haley," he said. And laughed.

The word "roots" has become obviously impossible to live with. I am sure it will have to be retired, like Mickey Mantle's number. Similarly, "jaws" has had it. We must immediately find substitutes for them, perhaps permanently but certainly un-

'Liberalism' is in eye of beholder

By LEE RODERICK

WASHINGTON - Liberalism and conservatism - whatever those slippery terms mean - sometimes are in the eye of the beholder. Evidence is available in year-end ratings of congressional voting during 1977.

It was widely reported in the press, for example, that Sen. Richard Schweiker (R-Penn.) had dropped from an 88 percent "liberal" voting record in 1976 to 15 percent in 1977.

In reporting this apparently abrupt change in balaful language, the liberal Americans for Democratic Action accused Schweiker of having "abandoned all previously held values."

ADA's analysis is suspect, however, for several reasons. One is that ADA obviously was misled when Schweiker jumped the liberal ship to serve as first mate on the S.S. Reagan during the 1976 GOP presidential primary. Another is that ADA's conclusion doesn't square with another voting analysis just released by a conservative group called Committee for the Survival of a Free Congress (CSFC).

CSFC contends that Schweiker voted liberal 44 percent of the time last year. While he may still be classified as a political chameleon, CSFC's rating - seems much closer to the mark than the 15 percent rating by the latter group.

Connecticut ratings. In Connecticut, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff received a 76 percent liberal vote rating from the ADA for 1977, and an 84 percent liberal vote rating from the CSFC. Sen. Lowell Weicker received a 60 percent liberal vote rating from the ADA and a 62 percent rating from CSFC.

Schweiker wasn't the only senator to be shortchanged by the ADA. A Fire Chief James Schaub is cleared of driving violations and applies for retirement, dropping his reinstatement move.

Orford Soap Co. to close six weeks for inventory.

Thought

It would be almost unprecedented for a senator to give up his seat to run for governor, but Schweiker has blithely confessed he is interested in the state house primarily as a stepping stone towards a presidential bid in 1980.

As governor, blessed with political patronage plums, he figures he could lock up the Pennsylvania GOP delegation to the 1980 convention. As senator, he's never picked much clout with party regulars.

Politicians elsewhere sneer at Schweiker's sudden conversion to survey by Scripps League Newspapers of the 32 senators serving states with member papers, for example, shows that five of the 32, including Schweiker, were given liberal ratings by ADA at least 22 percentage points lower than those given by CSFC.

Perhaps a better question than how accurate are such ratings is how significant they are. Many seasoned observers here in Washington don't put much stock in the percent figures very reason illustrated by the wide discrepancy on Schweiker. It is well known that such groups as the ADA can make favorite members of Congress look good and selected others look bad - as they view that term - simply by their choice of issues to analyze.

Too much stock in ratings. Despite the failings of such ratings, however, members of Congress tend to attach more importance to them than they often deserve. So do constituents. Ratings frequently surface as campaign issues to either extol or damn an incumbent candidate, and are grist for endless political games, usually played at the incumbent's expense.

Thoughtful persons realize that such ratings offer a very simplistic view of the work of a congressman or senator. They fail to indicate his fidelity to his public trust, how often he operates as a tool of special interest rather than in the public interest, how hard he works in his committee assignments, or whether he does his homework.

But the most serious flaw in conservation following his 1976 alliance with Ronald Reagan. His rating by the liberal Americans for Democratic Action plunged from 80 to 15 last year.

But Schweiker is unruffled by all the snickers. He has a virulent case of White House fever, and will pursue whichever course appears likely to lead to his goal.

Senate hostilities coming? Former Rep. William Roy, D-Kansas, is the early favorite to succeed retiring GOP Sen. James B. Pearson, which could produce one of the most hostile Senate combinations in recent years.

Roy, an obstetrician and lawyer, was narrowly defeated in 1974 by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., following a bruising and bitter campaign which left deep scars. He had planned to tackle Dole again in 1980, but could wind up serving with him instead as a result of Pearson's unexpected retirement.

Hoist by his own petard? The anti-union National Right-to-Work Committee didn't have long to enjoy its success in forcing the Federal Election Commission to crack down on campaign financing practices of labor organizations.

After repeated prodding from the conservative group, the FEC late last year filed suit against both the National Education Association and the AFL-CIO charging illegal use of compulsory union dues to support political candidates.

But the week after the AFL-CIO action, the FEC says it can't solicit political contributions from anyone but its employees - unless it has "members." The committee claims it does indeed have "members" - all those folks who support its goals - but the FEC notes its articles of incorporation specifically says it shall not have members.

National Right-to-Work calls the FEC suit "outrageous" and "vindictive," but it's now up to the courts to settle the fight.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Men are raised to scorn and fear any sexual activity with girls who are legally under age. This I can understand. But now I realize that in some cases the men are the victims and the girls are guilty.

First let me say that I am not a child molester. I lived 50 years without ever touching an underage girl. In fact, the thought of it repulsed me. Then it happened, and I found myself totally helpless. There was no way I could resist her, and if she hadn't left town with her mother just after it started in September, I'd probably still be involved with her.

Our involvement lasted only two weeks, and at no time did I take advantage of her. She was the aggressor from the moment we met, and she was as mature physically and aware sexually as a woman of 20. Perhaps the fact that she was fatherless played a part in it, but she really went after me, and when she turned on the charm I for got how young she was.

It will probably never happen to me again, but what bothers me is knowing that there are hundreds (maybe thousands) of innocent men who are behind bars because of girls like her. I'm sure the courts don't fully understand that a grown man can be the victim of an underage girl. What is your opinion?

VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: I don't buy your plea of "total helplessness." Knowing that she was under age, you should have resisted her advances, regardless of how aggressive, appealing and seductive she was. Worse yet, you missed a golden opportunity to help a mixed-up fatherless child straighten out her head and get off a collision course with disaster.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know why every time I change my hair style, some nifty guys come a compliment, and then blows the compliment by asking, "Is that your real hair or is it a wig?"

Not only is this rude and ill-mannered, it is also none of your business.

To me it's like complimenting a lady on her teeth - then asking if they're false.

Please give this letter if it takes a year! I am sure I'm not the only person this happens to.

South's four-ace bid showed two aces. North's five clubs asked for kings and South's five-spade bid showed two of those line countenances.

At this point North gambled on seven trump. It would be much of a gamble. South's two aces and two kings accounted for 14 high-card points. He had shown at least two more points. North could count 12 tricks in aces and kings. A queen would give a 13th trick; two jacks would give South a lot of play for seven, so North bid it.

Needless to say, the moment West followed to the first spade South was able to claim the grand slam.

By Oswald Jacoby & Alan Sontag

The Gerber convention is used by practically all expert tournament players to check for aces when a four-trump call is made.

South's jump to three trumps was in no sense a stop bid. It was the standard American three-trump response to show a standard 15-18 point notrump.

In this situation a four-trump bid by North would be a "Bury World."

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) There is a possibility you could catch it from an aces today. It won't be for something done by you, but for something done by the person you're responsible to.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is not one of your better days for decision-making. After over-analyzing all alternatives, you may be more confused than before.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Not only will you make heavy demands of yourself today, but others are likely to do so as well. Know when to quit, and when to go.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Long shots will look more appealing to you than usual today. You're left to fend off your longshots.

Snow less than forecast

A Friday the 13th storm dropped about three inches of snow over most of Connecticut, less than the precipitation forecast for the state's second storm in four days.

A winter storm warning remained in effect overnight. However, the National Weather Service said the earlier prediction of six inches of snow did not materialize because freezing rain came on sooner than expected.

The snow began early Friday. Some communities closed schools but many, with classes already started, sent children home early.

State employees were also allowed to go home early and many firms closed for business early to allow commuters to get a jump on the traffic.

Petitioning expected

Ted Cummings, Democratic town chairman who is generally recognized as a major supporter of consolidation, responded, "There are rumors all over the place. It's more rumor than fact."

He added, "Consolidation is an issue that involves the town. Everybody should have a right to vote on it."

Gordon Lassow, president of the district, when asked about the expected plan, said, "According to anything we've read or seen, that's not true. As far as I know, anything Ted Cummings has done so far is illegal or wrong according to the laws of the district."

Wallace Irish Jr., an active citizen in the district, said, "Who is the Dr. Jekyll that has developed this super-concoction?"

He said that the district should be judged on its own merits and not be voted on as part of a political issue. He also criticized the fact that no public mention of the proposal has yet been made.

Police report
Manchester Police reported a robbery that occurred early Friday morning in Center Park.

The victim, a man, was walking through the park shortly before 1:30 when he was grabbed from behind. The assailant started choking the man and took his wallet, police said. There was $60 to $70 in the wallet, according to the report.

The victim was not injured. The only description of the assailant was that he had a blue jacket and collar-length brown hair.

Police arrested Bonnie L. Colgan, 21, of Route 85, Hebron, and charged her with two counts of issuing a bad check. Court date is Jan. 30.

Two arrests also were made following a dispute at a Wells Street address, police said. Vidal Vasquez, 34, of 88 Wells St. and Steven A. Hedlin, 21, of 86 Wells St., both were charged with breach of the peace. Court date is Jan. 30.

Group to meet
The Manchester Recreation Department's women's Monday night slimastics and volleyball held at Verplanck School will meet Monday.

Slimastics begins at 7:30 followed by volleyball at 8:30. Both classes are open to Manchester residents only and are free with a recreation membership card.

For further information contact the Recreation Department or call 643-6795.

Crombie's custard
While retiring behind the TV screen filled with Super Bowl images, Pete Crombie, with help from his wife Pat, will keep the spirit of American football alive as he also opens the Lutz Junior Museum to the public Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

But there will be a special surprise for museum visitors this Sunday. Between plays, the Crombies will make homemade ice cream for the enjoyment of all. In short—Crombie's custard.

1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups milk

As Americans return to simple, basic foods for flavor and economy, soups are becoming mainstays in many menus. So popular, in fact, have they become it's even chic to entertain friends at a "come dip your ladle in our soup" party.

Serve A Super Sandwich

Little did the Earl of Sandwich (1718-1792) realize how popular sandwiches would become! He's the nobleman, reluctant to leave the gambling tables, who ordered his food brought between slices of bread.

Neighbor's kitchen

Members of LaLeche Leagues throughout the United States have contributed their favorite recipes and presented them in a cookbook entitled "Mother's in the Kitchen."

The purpose of the cookbook is to help mothers plan nourishing meals for their families using the best of the products available on the market today.

The LaLeche League is a nonprofit, nonsectarian organization founded by seven nursing mothers in Franklin Park, Ill., in 1856 for the purpose of helping mothers who want to breastfeed their babies.

Since then the league has grown from its one group in Franklin Park to more than 2,500 groups throughout the United States and in over 30 foreign countries. More than half a million copies of the League's basic publication, "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding," have been distributed.

All the recipes in "Mother's in the Kitchen" have been tested four or five times by mothers in various parts of the United States. Some are very explicit and easy to follow, others, perhaps, presume more knowledge and experience on your part and leave room for imagination and variety in taste.

The 228-page cookbook has color-coded pages as follows: orchid—ground meat; yellow—chicken; blue, pink, red and light tan—meat; green—liver, variety meats; seafoam; blue—bread; pink—desserts; and green—vegetables, salads, soups and stews.

It also includes helpful cooking hints and hints on nutrition, time savers, and nice-to-know tips on adding more food value to your diet. Talking with Lois Lawrence, coauthor of the Manchester/Silkton LaLeche League, and Ellen Falzarano, leader of the South Windsor LaLeche League, they both agreed that "Mother's in the Kitchen" is a boon to homemakers.

HERO SANDWICHES

4 servings
Lettuce: 2 tablespoons plain yogurt, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1/2 teaspoon celery seed, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups shredded iceberg lettuce. Sandwich: 4 French bread sections (7 inches each), Butter, softened.

For stew, combine all ingredients. For each sandwich, slice 1 French bread section in half lengthwise. Butter bottom half of bread and cover with stew. Top with 1 slice of salami, 1 slice of Provolone cheese, 2 slices of tomato, 1 slice of Cheddar cheese, 3 pepper rings, 1 slice of Swiss cheese and 3 slices of pepperoni. Butter top half of bread and close sandwich. Serve cold or wrap in foil and bake in preheated 350° F. oven for 10 minutes or until cheese begins to melt.

MONTE CRISTO SANDWICHES

6 servings
3 eggs, beaten, 1/3 cup milk, 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened, 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard, 12 slices white bread, Beat together eggs and milk; set aside. Beat together butter and mustard until well blended; spread on 1 side of each slice of bread. For each sandwich, top 1 slice of bread with 1 slice of cheese, 1 slice of ham, a second slice of cheese and a second slice of bread, butter side down. Dip each sandwich in egg mixture; brown on both sides on a lightly buttered griddle. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 425° F. oven for 8 to 10 minutes. To serve, slice each sandwich in half diagonally; sprinkle with sugar and top with a spoonful of preserves.

News for senior citizens

Hi! You can tell that time is flying by when it's already income tax time. Once again, our good friend John Dormer is putting together a staff of qualified senior volunteers who will be coming to our center offering assistance to you folks. It will all be for free and will be held here at our center on Tuesday afternoons. We'll be giving you the starting date in another column.

By the way, I hope you all read the news about the Board of Directors meeting possible for a much-needed Dial-A-Ride to become a reality. Hopefully, it can start on March 1, and this will mean that you folks will be able to get your rides to various places by calling Dial-A-Ride.

However, our mini-bus will continue as in the past to pick up members and bring them to our center. We are very grateful to the board members for their speedy decision, and we hope you folks will take advantage of this opportunity. We will give you more details as soon as we get them.

New plays placed into both systems for Cowboys-Broncos in Super Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Super Bowl games have gotten the reputation for being extra conservative, even in nature. But both coaches for Sunday's title game indicated Friday there could be some trick plays unleashed this time around.

right. Some of these so-called trick plays can look foolish when they don't work but they are great when they do.

Tougher schedule in Denver's favor

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Denver Coach Red Miller said Friday his team is not as good on paper as Dallas, but added the Broncos played a tougher schedule and have an emotional edge on the Cowboys for Sunday night's Super Bowl XII contest.

White pumped up, primed and ready

NEW YORK (UPI) — Come Super Bowl Sunday and Danny White will be all pumped up, all primed and ready but with only time to go.

both worked out there yesterday. Miller described his club as "very relaxed" while Landry felt his players were building up some necessary pre-game anxiety.

Landry not certain Cowboys are ready

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tom Landry feels he is a poor judge of just how ready a team might be to play a football game.

Landry said he is not sure if his team is ready to play a game. "I don't think we are ready to play a game," he said.

Balmy temperature hurt NE ski areas

BOSTON (UPI) — For New England's ski areas, this week was a horror story of balmy temperatures and melted surfaces followed by stinging gales and forced closings.

Both clubs tapered off their workouts Friday and the coaches indicated they would go through light sessions on Saturday at their individual practice sites.

Decorating Tips

- To add dimension to a small room, use the same color tone for floor covering, ceiling and large furniture pieces. To relieve monotony, use a bright accent color or vivid print, check or plaid, for accessories.
- For a coordinated look, try covering window shades with fabric to match curtains and slipcovers.
- Add Old World elegance to picture arrangements by replacing simple wood frames with ornate gilt and the use of velvet overlays.
- For the custom look, try covering wooden window valances with wallpaper to match the walls or fabric to match curtains or upholstery.
- Dress up simple bed and mattress combination with a "custom" headboard made from wallpaper panels or strips of fabric and glued to wall.

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Would you please tell me why Ellen Corby isn't on The Waltons any more? And why did they take the Edwards family off Little House On the Prairie? SUE SLOOTHAAK, Otsego, Mich.

The news gets to Otsego slowly. Ellen Corby suffered a stroke last year, and has not yet recovered sufficiently to permit her to resume acting. And the Edwards family was dropped because Pa Edwards — Victor French — left to star in Carter Country, and they figured they couldn't have the family without Dad. In the first show this season, they wrote in a line saying the family had moved to California.

DEAR DICK: I like your column immensely, but you are wrong. You recently said the song, "Good Morning," was from the Kelly-Reynolds-O'Connor movie, "Singin' in the Rain." True, the song was sung in that film, but it was first sung by Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney in either "Babes in Arms" or "Babes on Broadway." Which movie was it? J.K. RUSSELL, Quantico, Md.

You are right. I had checked back and found it in "Singin' in the Rain," and looked back no further. It was originally in "Babes in Arms," which was in 1939.

DEAR DICK: Would you please tell me if Johnny Sheffield, who played Boy in the old "Tarzan" movies, is the present-day James MacArthur of Hawaii Five-O. I can see a resemblance. P.J., Abbotsford, B.C., Can.

A resemblance, yes. A relationship, no. And certainly not the same person.

DEAR DICK: I was told that Robert Fuller was dead, and I don't believe it. My husband insists that he is. MRS. H. SCHNEIDER, Port Coquitlam, B.C., Can.
Husbands usually know best. Not this time, however. Fuller is alive and well.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if Farrah Fawcett-Majors was married and had a child before she married Lee Majors. BETH WEBB, Charlottesville, Va.
No.

DEAR DICK: Could you give me some information on Herman Wedemeyer of Hawaii Five-O? My grandfather had a brother named Herman Wedemeyer who traveled extensively. I thought we might be related. LINDA VOLK, Tucson, Ariz.

It's possible. Hawaii Five-O's Wedemeyer is a native Hawaiian, of German-Scottish-Hawaiian-Irish-English-Chinese ancestry. He was an all-American football player at St. Mary's, then went back home to Hawaii and was in business and politics, and very successfully, when he began acting in the series.

DEAR DICK: I know there never was a Gilligan's Island episode in which they got rescued. But I was wondering if CBS would have a one-hour special to have them rescued while all of them are still alive. It was dumb not to do that before the show was cancelled. RODNEY BOND, Stockton, Calif.

If I ran CBS, I'd do it. They brought back the Addams Family and the Father Knows Best family, so why not the Gilligan's Island gang? I think the show would have a good rating.

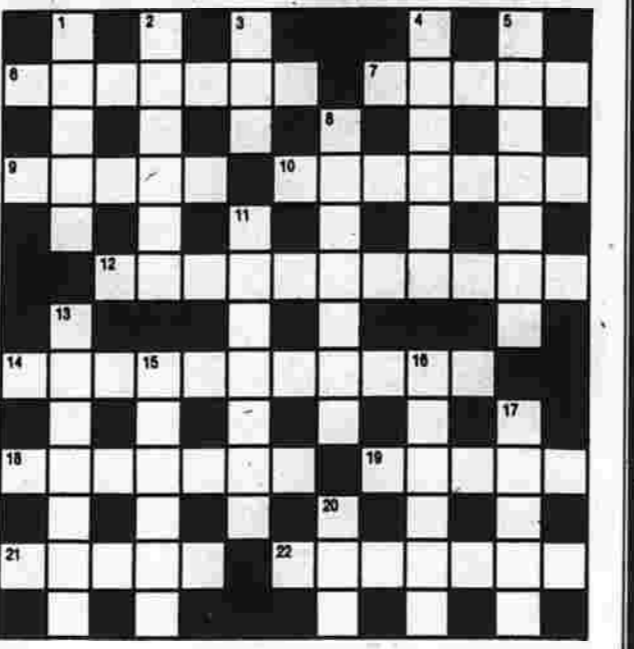

Singer-actor David Soul and rock star Natalie Cole (both pictured) will be joined by Glen Campbell as the hosts of ABC's live telecast of THE AMERICAN MUSIC AWARDS Monday, Jan. 16.

BROADWAY is my beat

by Joey Sasso

CAST OF CHARACTERS: 'Equus' star Richard Burton nixed a knighthood because that would mean he'd have to pull up stakes and return to England, becoming subject to high English taxes. According to London visitors in New York he'd rather live here as plain old Mister than go back to his roots and become Sir Richard... Michelle Phillips, the luscious co-star of 'Valentino,' says that Rudolf Nureyev hated her guts. According to Missa Phillips, Nureyev "was temperamental and resented my attitude during production. I had made only one movie before but that was one more than he had made. It was hard on him." But Rud! poo-poo's this. "She will eat her hat," he claims. "The day will come when she will say she was proud to work with me." Ahh, modesty...

CELEBRITIES IN CANDID: For Carrie Fisher of 'Star Wars' fame, the future is not something to look forward to. The 21-year-old instant star said: "I can't really think about failure and I can't think much about success, either. If I did, I'd probably go insane. After all, when you start your career by becoming a star in the most successful movie of all time, there's no place to go but down."... Thanks to the tremendous popularity of 'Star Wars,' Hollywood's movie moguls are bringing back 'Flash Gordon.' Dino de Laurentis, who managed to turn 'King Kong' into a giant lemon, has picked up the film rights to 'Flash Gordon' for himself.

FOOTLIGHTS AND STATIC: Lily Tomlin is about to play a tiny part in a big movie and she is thrilled. Universal Studios have recently signed her to do a remake of the science-fiction classic 'The Incredible Shrinking Man.' The title is in for a sex change and Lily will soon become a woman with a tiny view of the world around her. Will her paycheck also be tiny? That's another story... Ursula Andress threw a tantrum when she discovered her boyfriend, Italian actor Fabio Testi, had posed in the buff for a women's magazine. She thought it was disgusting but it wasn't too long ago that she was doing the same thing.

EXCLUSIVE FROM HOLLYWOOD: With no thanks to 'Rocky' star Sylvester Stallone, Melinda Dillon, who stars in 'Close Encounters of the Third Kind,' is now smiling through a false tooth. While rehearsing a scene for their upcoming film 'F.L.S.T.', the muscular star accidentally flung his arm in Melinda's direction, smacking her in the kisser and Melinda became minus a tooth. "He didn't mean to do it," Melinda pointed out. "He just doesn't know his own strength."... The word is that Warren Beatty wants to direct himself in films (he's now directing and starring in 'Heaven Can Wait') because he's afraid other directors might display his facial wrinkles.

LATE WATCH: One thing publisher Bobbs-Merrill insisted on in signing Colleen Dewhurst to write her autobiography for $250,000 is that she'll devote lots of pages to her first and second marriages. The husband both times was George C. Scott... It's been something of a secret but now that during the filming of 'Star Wars,' director George Lucas almost died. He's a diabetic and he got so busy that he forgot to take his required medicine. Mary Tyler Moore, another diabetic, persuaded him that talking about it might help others.

STAR-BIO

Dixie Carter

Dixie Carter, alias April Baxter in 'On Our Own' on CBS, was born in McMoresville, Tenn. When she was 12 years old, she moved to Huntington, Tenn., where she attended school and worked at her family's dry goods store.

While pursuing musical studies at the University of Tennessee, she was groomed for the Miss Tennessee contest and placed second in it. On discovering a latent talent for singing, she switched to Southwestern University in Memphis, Tenn., and worked as a member of the performing company at the Front Street Theater there.

Her third and final switch in schools brought her to Memphis State, from which she graduated. Shortly after moving to New York, she got a part in the New York Shakespeare Festival's 'A Winter's Tale,' joining a remarkable cast which included James Earl Jones, Michael Moriarty, Charles Durning and John Heffernan. Following that, she was understudy for the leads in a number of musicals, including 'The King and I' and 'The Merry Widow' in New York.

In 1967, while appearing in a revue at Upstairs at the Downstairs, she met and married Arthur Carter. For a time after her two children were born, she continued doing musical theater in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania but eventually just "pruned the bushes and sat on the lawn," as she says.

Later the performance of Michael Moriarty in 'Bang the Drum Slowly' impressed her and inspired her decision to go back to work in show business. She later appeared in 'Sextet' in New York and then in 'One Life to Lead.' For a year and a half, she was known to television viewers as Brandy Henderson on 'The Edge of Night.' She won the Theater World Award for her role in 'Jesse and the Bandit Queen' at the New York Public Theater and received an afternoon television award for her role on 'The Edge of Night.'

Her most recent credits include an appearance in the revival of 'Pal Joey' at Circle in the Square and another in the premiere episode of 'The Andros Targets.'

CB Convac

It was in April, 1976, that John Johnston, chief of the Personal Radio Division of the FCC, and his staff decided that the booming field of citizens band radio needed more attention. The result of this meeting was the creation of the Personal Use Radio Advisory Committee, or PURAC as it is called in the corridors of the FCC.

"It was felt that in order for chief Johnston to properly administer CB as it began to boom, it was necessary to involve the public as much as possible," Bob Cassler, legal counsel for the division, explained. "To do this in an orderly manner and to get organized input, an Advisory Committee made up of individuals from all segments of the CB world could be greatly beneficial."

An announcement of the creation of the PURAC organization was made and all were invited to respond. From the many volunteers, 180 persons were selected. The group represents individual users, manufacturers, CB clubs, retailers, traffic safety people, law enforcement agencies - people from all walks of CB life. It's really a great cross-section.

The project is worth mentioning, as we review 1977, because the first results of PURAC became evident last year. PURAC provided pressure for adding the 13 channels. It was a direct result of PURAC that Part 95 was rewritten in understandable language. The technical standards for manufacturing both mobile and stationary units involved some recommendations of PURAC.

As this column is being written four papers about areas of concern for all CBers are in the process of completion. They cover: the dissemination of information to the public, operator training programs, public safety uses, and local interference. The full committee has moved to have the four task forces' recommendations transmitted to the FCC for its action.

Though problems like CB equipment thefts, electron magnetic compatibility, channel clutter, etc., have not been completely studied, or at least sufficiently to bring specific recommendations, it is on PURAC's agenda. The present specifications for CB manufacturing will make a giant step forward in combating television interference which has caused so many complaints. Now PURAC is urging that television set manufacturers make further technical corrections in television receivers to guard against CB signal invasion. The combination of both efforts should eliminate this problem within a few years as the proliferation of new sets and units becomes evident.

One of the steps taken in the area of public safety has been the development of the 0911 call sign for state police. Though the FCC has had a million requests from local, state, county and other law enforcement agencies for a uniform call sign, no single one that would serve all could be devised. So the start was for the state police with the formula of K (two letters for state) and 0911 (KTN (Tennessee) 0911) in all states. A search is on for other formulas for other agencies. An operator training program has been high on PURAC's list of problems.

The FCC has consistently refused to require tests before granting licenses, a very common suggestion. However, PURAC will recommend that a comprehensive training program be developed and, then, disseminated throughout the country, utilizing CB organizations, high school driver classes, civic clubs and police and fire departments. It has been obvious to FCC regulators that the development of a uniform broadcasting discipline will greatly aid CB's health. The patient right now, they say, is suffering from the growing pains of youth. A trained operator who knows how to handle his strength will be a valuable and helpful citizen.

PURAC's charter ends in April, 1978. Like all volunteer groups, it has been difficult to keep viable. But, it has made some very worthwhile contributions to the nation's most personal medium - CB.

Isra U.S. join

JERUSALEM (UPI) - The United States to play an active role in Middle East peace talks, an agenda for the political conference that will compromise U.S. pro-Palestinian issue.

Foreign Minister M. Dayan termed positive the U.S. role in talks that will resume the foreign ministerial conference. Dayan expressed satisfaction with the U.S. role in the talks.

"Israel needs the United States as an active mediator," Dayan said. He reported prior to a meeting with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Kamel at the Hilton Hotel, several miles from the conference site at the Hilton Hotel.

Dayan's statement coincided with similar remarks by an American role made by a spokesman at the conference. Evidence Israel supported Carter's pledge that the United States would play an active role in the talks.

The luncheon and dinner between Kamel, Dayan and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, flying to Israel 24 hours after originally scheduled.

Egypt accepted a U.S. proposal to save the peace parley with Israel, strong fears today the end in failure - and a resumption of hostilities.

Egyptian Prime Minister Moustafah Salem accused the government of "placing the way of peace" and might be confronted by a military situation.

But Salem voiced confidence in "attempts made by Anwar Sadat's historic initiative" will not succeed.

Vance had canceled his departure from Washington night because Israel and the United States were unable to agree on the agenda item on the Palestine. The central obstacle to a settlement. Vance left Washington Sunday after a U.S. proposal apparently on the agenda dispute.

The Egyptian Foreign Minister arrived in Jerusalem Sunday.

Israeli officials told what was described as an agenda for the talks. Dayan said Egypt and Israel agreed on three items on it. All of them vaguely worded though.

Today's

HARTFORD (UPI) - Ash Peters, a Yale professor, has become the first woman ever nominated for Connecticut Supreme Court. Gov. Ella T. Grasso sent Mrs. Peters' name to the Legislature, which will vote on her selection and is expected to do so after it convenes.

HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut County Municipalities want the state to provide state surplus to go to municipal aid instead of the sales tax.

The CCM, composed of government officials from the state's 169 towns, has increased aid would be provided to governments to levy.

ROME (UPI) - Francesco Andreotti yielded to pressure today and resigned his post as Christian Democrat leader. Italy's 39th prime minister since World War II.

The move opened the door to a possible Communist government. Andreotti is expected to resign.
