Some instructions on food preservation

Franklin Hawley, left, and Ted Banas, both of East Hartford, explain a food drying apparatus to Mrs. Irene Lindquist, also of East Hartford, who is asking how long it takes the apple slices to dry on the trays. ## New Mideast talks open with U.S. as mediator

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Egypt and Israel today opened a new round of peace talks with the United States standing as mediator between them on the tough issues of a Palestinian homeland and Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory.

Hard-line speeches at the 20-minute opening ceremony by Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and his Egyptian counterpart, Mohammed Kamel, indicated the two nations were far apart on the crucial issues.

But Dayan acknowledged a peace agreement only can be achieved by concessions and compromises.

"If 30 years of hostility in the Middle East has any lesson for us," he said, "it is only that the longer we delay the peace settlement the graver and more complex the problems become and all the harder to resolve."

Dayan, Kamel and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance recessed the session in the basement ballroom of the tightly guarded Hilton Hotel and met privately for 15 minutes an hour later to begin what U.S. officials describe as a long, hard bargaining process.

Egypt and Israel exchanged what officials on both sides said were draft documents on the declaration of principles governing an overall Middle East peace settlement — the first item on the agenda of the talks.

They agreed to recess until mid-afternoon Wednesday to allow themselves time to digest the documents, but the officials said the parties will meet privately and informally during the recess.

Dayan spoke first at the opening session and called for a separate peace between Israel and Egypt. Kamel replied that "we have not come to seek a separate peace" or an interim solution.

Vance said any solution must recognize the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people and enable the Palestinians to participate in the determination of their own future."

Assuming his role as mediator, he said, "We must deal with and overcome many difficult problems, we will be held accountable today by world opinion, tomorrow by history. We will not be judged lightly if we fail."

Kamel said in his three-minute speech that "there will be no real peace in Palestine for the house of Israel unless there will be an equal house there for the Palestinian people."

Dayan referred only vaguely to the question of a Palestinian homeland, saying one issue was "the principle of just solutions of the problem of the Palestinian Arabs" on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Neither side referred to the Jewish settlements in the northeastern corner of Sinai that dominated military talks held in Cairo last week and scheduled to resume Thursday.

Kamel stuck to Egyptian demands that Israel pull out of all the Arab land captured in the 1967 war. Dayan made no direct mention of withdrawal.

Vance said "there must be withdrawal by Israel from territories occupied in 1967 and agreement on secure and recognized borders for all parties" in accordance with a U.N. resolution.

Town, district meet cordially

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

The directors of the town and the Eighth Utilities District met Monday night in an atmosphere of congeniality and cooperation.

It was the first time the two boards have met to discuss a variety of mutual concerns.

The topics included sewage treatment, public safety, including fire service and disaster control, and water service.

The term consolidation, or as Mayor Stephen Penny chose to call it, "unification" came up several times during the meeting at Whiton Memorial Library.

The meeting was called at the request of the Eighth District board several months ago, shortly after District President Gordon Lassow was elected last June. The meeting was not finally arranged until the new town board was elected in November.

The meeting started out in a humorous vein with Penny explaining how he and Lassow came to the conclusion that there would be "no real chairman" for the meeting. He and Lassow sat together at the center of a long table at which members of both boards were interspersed.

In his opening comments, Lassow said, "I hope this is just the start of the continuation of a good relationship. We'll try to be positive and hope we can end up on a positive note and hope we can solve mutual problems."

More than 40 persons attended the meeting, including several town department heads, as well as town and district residents. The public was not allowed to make comments.

The idea of forming some joint committees to deal with sewers, public safety and other areas was brought up several times and urged by members of both boards. Without making a definite commitment to establish some liaison, Penny concluded the meeting with a promise to include the item on the February agenda of the town board.

Town Director Vivian Ferguson made the most direct statements on consolidation. After listening to comments about various joint efforts, Mrs. Ferguson said, "I think we're building a case for consolidation here."

Personally, she said she favors consolidation of the district and town services, but added, "If consolidation is to come about, it will come by choice or economic demands" from within the district.

Mrs. Ferguson mentioned "outside pressure to establish consolidation, apparently referring to expected efforts by a group of citizens to petition for a townwide referendum on consolidation. She said these efforts at consolidation by outside groups would probably result in a long court case."

There is an apparent conflict between the Town Charter, which says consolidation requires a vote of approval by the district, and the state Home Rule Act.

Mrs. Ferguson stressed communications between the town and district as the most important factor and she suggested the formation of committees for both sewer and fire service.

Stephen Cassano, town director, also expressed concern about a plan of action in the event of such disasters as the grain elevator in the North End (Central Connecticut Co-op Farmers Association) blowing up, or the Risley Dam breaking. Larry Noone, district director, expressed similar concerns regarding high risk areas such as Manchester Memorial Hospital. He urged mutual drills with both fire departments.

Town Director Thomas Connors also said he would like to see a singular command set up for each potential disaster situation which could involve both the district and the town. Penny indicated that the town is reviewing the disaster plan and that other coordinated efforts have begun with the fire departments.

Lassow also asked that representatives from the district be included in the efforts to establish new costs for sewer users based on new federal guidelines.

Public Works Director Jay Giles said he did not know yet what the changed Eighth District costs would be.

Penny said, "Perhaps we should talk about the consolidation or unification of sewer service," saying there are disadvantages of having two sewer services.

The district directors said the advantages of the separate service to the district include a two-mill tax rate and a minimum of personnel and facilities.

Noone suggested that both the district and town boards apply for state and federal grants on projects to assure getting the grants. Lassow restated that the district did not hold up the sewer project for the town's industrial park. "We can work as fast as possible," he said.

The meeting ended on at least the promise for consideration of future meetings between the two boards or its representatives.

Industrial park sewer will start in spring

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A sewer project to service Manchester's proposed industrial park will start this spring, Jay Giles, director of public works, said Monday. A recent trend of high bids for sewer work may cause an increase in the cost for the project.

Because of these high bids and a state request to hold off some sewer work, at least part of another project may be delayed, Giles said.

The town has plans for two major sewer projects in the North End. One would include parts of New State Road and Adams Street and would run to the industrial park, which is expected to include the J.C. Penney Co.'s huge catalog distribution center.

The second project would include a trunk sewer from Union Pond to Tollard Turnpike and street sewers in the Bryan Farms area, which includes Concord and Baldwin roads.

Giles said that the town plans to begin work on the sewers leading to the industrial park first. "I'd like to see construction start as soon as possible in the spring," he said.

This means that bidding should begin in March.

The project, however, may face a possible increase in its price because of the present trend in bids for sewer projects, Giles said.

"There's an influx of work through federal programs," he said. Because of the large increase in sewer work, bids for such projects recently have increased in price, he said.

Because of this trend and a request from the state, part of the Bryan Farms project may be delayed, Giles said. The project is funded primarily through federal funds being made available for the state for sewer work.

There has been a large number of requests for the funding, and the state's appropriation from the federal government for this fiscal year is diminishing, Giles said.

The state has asked communities to delay sewer projects that can wait until the next fiscal year when more federal funds will be available. The 1978-79 fiscal year begins July 1.

Giles said that the town expects to begin work on the trunk sewer soon after the industrial park sewer work starts. The street sewers, however, probably will be delayed until next fiscal year, he said.

The town still has to do work to obtain several easements needed for both sewer projects, Giles said.

Monday votes may be illegal

HARTFORD (UPI) — Town meetings and official business conducted Monday may have been illegal, a spokeswoman for the secretary of the state's office said today.

The spokeswoman said that was because Monday was observed as a state holiday because of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday. His birthday was actually Sunday, but the holiday was fixed as Monday, the next working day.

Although it was a state holiday some meetings were held around the state and some towns conducted business as usual.

Manchester's Zoning Board of Appeals was the only board that took any formal action Monday. It voted on four public hearing items, all of which were heard Monday night.

Manchester also was one of only about a half-dozen towns in the state which left its Municipal Building open Monday.

The spokeswoman said the matter may be sent to the state Freedom of Information Commission to determine if meetings held Monday were illegal.

The FOI commission is charged with deciding if any state laws are violated at public meetings. It typically handles complaints regarding public officials keeping secret public information.

Today's News Summary

JERUSALEM — The United States moved today toward a direct role in the dispute between Greece and Turkey by the announcement that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will visit both countries on his way back to Washington.

Vance, who is spending three days at the Jerusalem conference of Egyptian and Israeli foreign ministers, will fly to Cairo Friday morning for a brief meeting with President Anwar Sadat.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The nation has said its last goodbye to its beloved Hubert Horatio Humphrey. His final tributes ended the way he wanted — with a "celebration of joy."

President Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale led Monday's series of funeral eulogies to the "Happy Warrior" of American politics, a senator of almost 26 years, former vice president and presidential nominee.

DANIELSON, Conn. (UPI) — Flames, sometimes leaping 100 feet into the air, destroyed the Danielson Cinema late Monday afternoon, an hour after a special children's matinee ended, fire officials said.

No injuries were reported. Authorities said the roof of the local landmark collapsed about 5:15 p.m., 15 minutes after the blaze was reported. An estimated crowd of 1,000 onlookers sometimes hampered firemen as they battled the blaze for about three hours.

TEHRAN, Iran — Three earthquakes and heavy floods hit southern Iran today but it was a freezing cold wave that killed most of the 31 reported dead.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Former Budget Director Bert Lance, who once accused the press of treating him unfairly, is expected to become a news commentator on an Atlanta television station, the Atlanta Constitution reported in today's editions.

In another development, court records indicate Lance recently has paid off almost $3.9 million of his debts.

OLD SAYBROOK (UPI) — Connecticut State Police Commissioner Edward P. Leonard, who came under fire for his handling of the Peter A. Reilly case, said police can expect more heat from the press and the public in the future.

Lenoard said Monday public hostility and closer scrutiny of police departments by the press are taking their toll on policemen, who are experiencing more heart attacks, divorces and suicides.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Shock and sadness linger over Providence Police headquarters where Police Chief Robert E. Ricci committed suicide.

The city's finest were red-eyed and speechless Monday when they learned that Ricci, 50, killed himself with his service revolver in his locked office.

He left a terse note which said "everything is too much." His 38-caliber revolver was found in his right hand.

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The state Traffic Commission today threatened to revoke a permit for the proposed Middletown horse race track, but gave the promoters a month to convince the panel not to do so.

State Transportation Commissioner James F. Shugrue told Attorney Harold Keith, representing the Sawmill Brook Racing Association, that he favors revoking the permit because no action has been taken in the 14 months since it was issued.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has awarded $246,135 to the Poor People's Federation Inc. of Hartford to develop a neighborhood-by-neighborhood crime prevention program for the state's capital.

Under the one-year grant, announced Monday by the department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the federation will try to fight crime through neighborhood counseling and rehabilitation programs.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

One week from today we should be Israel-bound, and excitement is mounting as time draws near.

With the departure and arrival plans announced, it sounds as though it will be a madhouse at the Air National Guard hanger next Tuesday evening.

The Hartford ambassadors who will host the incoming Israelis, together with state dignitaries, will all converge on the airport to greet the visitors.

Maxine Jaffe, president of the Manchester Chapter of Hadassah, sent me a very nice card wishing me a happy journey.

Some interesting news comes from the Women's Committee of the Wadsworth Athenaeum about the second in the popular series of lectures-luncheons to be held Monday, Jan. 30, in the Avery Theatre of the museum.

Lecture luncheon of the Manchester Chapter of Hadassah, sent me a very nice card wishing me a happy journey.

Happy journey Had a nice "Bon Voyage" card from Mrs. Irene McCaughey of West Center Street wishing me "such a good time that when you return you'll need a vacation."

It also included a very handy folder to carry literary lists, currency tables, bills and receipts, and also listed the Hadassah Tourist Clubs in Israel so we can arrange for a tour of Hadassah projects there.

Some interesting news comes from the Women's Committee of the Wadsworth Athenaeum about the second in the popular series of lectures-luncheons to be held Monday, Jan. 30, in the Avery Theatre of the museum.

Charles Cunningham, a very familiar figure in the Greater Hartford area, former director of the Athenaeum, will be returning to Hartford to speak at this event.

Mr. Cunningham who has a national reputation in the art world, will speak of the special exhibit opening at the museum, Jan. 26, "Paintings from the Netherlands and the German Speaking Countries."

The lecture, which I understand will be attended by many of the Manchester area members, begins at 11 a.m. followed immediately by a wine reception and luncheon served in Tapestry Hall.

A fair rate increase

No one should complain about a $2 increase in recreation dues in Manchester. The fee has been $3 for as long as we can remember, and that outlives the report of Mel Siebold, recreation director, who last week said the fee has been held steady for at least eight years.

The fee is not in imminent danger at this time but a severe storm might tax it beyond its present strength and flooding might result, Galgowski said.

Open forum
Puzzled over property

To the editor:
I am disturbed and puzzled over reports in The Herald on Tuesday Jan. 10 and Jan. 14 concerning state land that is being offered to the town that abuts Interstate 84 and the Hartford Road property of the South Methodist trustees. While the state-offered property is reported to be 10 to 30 feet wide by about 800 feet long, the state maps on file at Town Hall show it to be up to 80 feet and 800 feet long, and amounting to 0.9 of an acre.

It seems to me that when the state offers the town a strip of land 800 feet long which contains a 21-inch concrete sewer trunk line that services a large area of the South End of town, that the township should be entitled to an open public hearing on all of the aspects of the transaction.

"It's a question of slicing the salami, and the salami happens to be in our hands."

Common Cause has surveyed state and Congressional election results from 1968 to 1976. The survey found that incumbents who ran for reelection were re-elected at rates frequently in excess of 90 percent.

Slicing the salami

One of the dirtiest tricks politicians play on their constituents is called gerrymandering.

The gerrymanderer is known as reapportionment — the redrawing of Congressional and state legislative districts. The big questions are who redraws them, and how?

In its 165-year history, gerrymandering has not been limited to a particular party.

The gerrymander got its name from Massachusetts Gov. Elbridge Gerry. In 1812 he signed a bill restricting his state in such a way to weaken the Federalists' position, and strengthen that of the Democrats.

Several years ago the state paid the church about $120,000 for 2.85 acres of rear land. Some of the church members have been led to believe that the 0.8-acre strip may be acquired back again for about $2,000.

In 1972 an artist at the Des Moines Register and Tribune found political districts in his state that looked like a moose, a hungry horse, an outboard motor, a flying wedge and a nesting hen.

In 1975 Chicago Mayor Richard Daley proposed a redrawing of the boundaries of Illinois' 10th Congressional District in an effort to unseat Democrat Abner Mikva. On seeing the proposed boundaries Mikva commented: "That's not a map, that's spaghetti."

Practitioners of this fine art of partisan political reapportionment sometimes refer to it as "slicing the salami."

David Cohen, Common Cause president, notes that the high rate of reelection can hardly be traced to public satisfaction with the performance of government.

"Political gerrymandering is generally designed to minimize competition and give incumbent state legislators and members of Congress a free ride. Our survey shows it works. The incumbents benefit. The public doesn't."

Common Cause is preparing an attack on Gov. Gerry's creation. The group has prepared a model proposal that would "bypass the self-interest of incumbent legislators and set objective standards for reapportionment."

The next United States census will take place in 1980. Once the population figures are published the following year, the boundaries of virtually every state legislative and congressional district will be redrawn.

Since most anti-gerrymandering moves succeed before 1981, politics at its rawest will prevail in most states when districts are redrawn," Common Cause concludes.

The Department of Transportation declared the land as surplus with restrictions, and a letter to General Manager Robert Weiss, A. The directors claimed at last Tuesday's board meeting that they had not given final approval of two CETA projects and had not wanted any hiring until the approval was received.

The state officials had thought that a program for the Police Department would have to be scrubbed because of a lack of applicants. Steven Werber, the town's personnel assistant, sent a notice Monday to the Town Board of Directors that said the project can proceed.

Hilliard dam
or removal

The Hilliard Pond dam has been found in need of repair and will either have to be put into a safe condition or removed, according to the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP).

The DEP cannot force an individual to repair a dam on his own property when it might be able to remove it at a lesser expense, he said.

The commission would like to see the pond returned to what it was 25 years ago when it was used for swimming, fishing and ice skating. To do this, it will resume its efforts to have the town purchase the property. The federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation would provide 50 percent of the appraisal value of the land, the state 25 percent, leaving the remaining 25 percent for the town to pay.

The commission will notify the town and its Planning and Zoning Commission as well as DEP and the Bezzini brothers that it opposes the removal of the dam.

The Bezzini brothers refused an offer of $100,000 for the property made by the late Alexander Jarvis several years ago. Mrs. Parla, however, does not believe the land is worth that much today, she said.

Hilliard Pond is included in the Capitol Region Planning Agency's master "Green Belt" program to provide a linked water and land recreational area stretching from Vernon in the north to the mouth of the Hockanum River.

HARTFORD (UPI) — A federal judge has ruled a hotel and promoters will have to decide on whether to present the Broadway musical "Oh, Calcutta!"

Although the liquor commission warned the musical would violate liquor license regulations against nudity, the court based its ruling on grounds the hotel, as a liquor license holder, never applied to the commission for a live-show permit.

The show, which contains some nude scenes, was to have started a five-day run Tuesday night. Attorneys for both sides plan to meet to decide on whether to go ahead with the show.

What it means is, if you withdraw a certificate before maturity you receive regular savings account interest of 5 1/2% less 90 days interest. We do it too, but we don't like to do so... First Federal Savings developed a program I.C.A. (Individual Choice Account) with rotating maturity dates. By staggering maturity dates the probability of early withdrawal and penalties are lessened.

Council to consider charter revisions

Vernon

The public hearing on proposed revisions to the Town Charter has been adjourned from tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building, to Tuesday night, due to the heavy storm warnings.

The Connecticut Public Expenditure Council, Inc., was asked to review the recommendations by town attorney William Breslau, and offered several comments on the proposed changes.

In the chapter concerning the method of electing town officers, Donald W. Goodrich, director of CPCEC, said the phrase, "shall be nominated" warranted the council somewhat.

That section says the town elections shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November and "prior to each election under this Charter, there shall be nominated..." and goes on to list the offices to fill.

Goodrich said the word "shall" is compulsory or denotes an obligation and he wonders if such obligations can be imposed on political parties or those who may be considering an independent run for office. He said a more common usage is "there shall be elected."

Another area of concern to the CPCEC is the manner of electing Board of Education members. The current board is composed of nine members elected for six-year terms, and the three terms expiring from each election.

The revision commission proposes to change this to four-year terms and Goodrich said this doesn't address the question of how the other six members shall be elected.

"For instance, three members each were elected in 1972, 1975, and 1977. The change calls for three to be elected for four-year terms, thus in 1979, if the amendments are approved," Goodrich said.

He said in 1981 the three 1975 terms would expire and three members would be elected for four-year terms. He added that the problem would arise in 1983 when the terms of the three elected in 1977 would expire together with the three elected for four-year terms in 1979.

He said this would mean there would be six terms expiring with a charter that calls for only three to be elected. He said in order to have four-year terms the elections must provide for five to be elected one year and four the next.

Goodrich suggested that the problem could be corrected by providing for an election in 1979 at which two members are elected for four-year terms and one for a two-year term. Then, in 1981 the two elected in 1979 for a two-year term and the three expiring from 1975 and 1977 in 1983 (the two from 1979 elected for four-year terms and the three terms expiring from 1977.)

"Alternately, thereafter, at each biennial election there shall be elected four members and then five members who shall hold office for a term of four years to succeed those whose terms expire."

Commenting on the sections on the Conservation and Cemetery Commissions, Goodrich said that since the town already has both these commissions functioning he assumes that the intent of the change is to give the commissions charter status and not just status according to ordinance.

He suggested that the language be "There shall continue to be a Conservation (Cemetery) Commission" and the manner of appointment of members. He said a sentence should be added to say that the members of the commissions in office on the effective date of the charter amendment shall continue in office for the unexpired portions of their terms.

In Chapter 12, concerning extension of sewer services, Goodrich said mention is made of an "adequate private sewerage system (septic tanks) but there is no assigned responsibility as to who shall determine if such private systems are indeed adequate."

He said the town might want to consider assigning this responsibility to some town officials or agency so as to have someone to whom a private individual can turn for a decision as to adequacy.

Goodrich suggested several other minor technical changes in wording and also said since there are some transitions to be made regarding charter amendments, he would suggest the inclusion of an effective date to the revisions. He said lack of this inclusion would mean that the charter revisions would become effective 30 days after approval by the voters, according to state statutes.

The revision commission is proposing that the annual budget meeting can neither increase or decrease the budget. This has caused some concern among officials that the budget process could be considerably delayed.

"I transferred from the other large bank in the area to CBT because of the convenience and service and the people I deal with. I thought it was more like dealing with a small bank. Not with the people downtown but with the people in town."

— John Carlson

"I just take my deposit and put it in the Jet Deposit Box and I'm on my way. It's great over lunch hour."

— Dawn Forbes

"I used to bank at another bank here in town and switched over here because of the fast service that I was getting here. I'm very pleased with the quickness of the service. Never found it at the other bank."

— David Powell

"CBT Jet Banking to me is a very convenient way of doing banking. Nobody is standing over you. You don't want everybody in the bank to know your business."

— Bertha Greenberg

"They've got a line for cashing checks that makes it speedy, quicker. You're out in no time."

Dog care Council topic

Coventry

The Coventry Town Council will discuss the dog warden and the dog pound under new business at its meeting this evening. The council postponed its regular Monday meeting to tonight to observe the state holiday honoring the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The performance of Robert Schefisch, who has been warden for the past ten years, is currently under investigation by Anthony Lapacchino of the state's Canine Control Division and by George Johnson of the Connecticut Humane Society.

Schefisch recently acknowledged that he had not taken any dogs for veterinary treatment in his ten-year service. Six dogs died at the pound according to the warden's last quarterly report.

At first Schefisch said he had never impounded a dog needing treatment. Later he said he had tried to take dogs for treatment but they had died before he could get them to a vet. Sick or injured impounded dogs are entitled to medical care under state statutes.

Schefisch was taken to task last month for failure to advertise impounded dogs, which also is required under state law. Other allegations include illegal conditions at the pound and cruel handling of animals.

Town Manager Frank Connolly is expected to present the council with estimates for improving facilities at the pound. Plans call for the installation of a two-toned trailer to serve as headquarters for the warden. It will be equipped with a telephone-answering service.

In Chapter 12, concerning extension of sewer services, Goodrich said mention is made of an "adequate private sewerage system (septic tanks) but there is no assigned responsibility as to who shall determine if such private systems are indeed adequate."

He said the town might want to consider assigning this responsibility to some town officials or agency so as to have someone to whom a private individual can turn for a decision as to adequacy.

Second day thoughts

Second day thoughts on Super Bowl.

The best team won. The Dallas defense was superior to the Orange Crush Denver defense and the Cowbo offense was superior to the Bronco offense. Result: Dallas 27, Denver 10.

While the game's most valuable player award was shared by Randy White and Harvey Martin, any one of the Dallas front four would have been a good choice. Tom Tail Jones and Jethro Pugh were the other linemen who held the Broncos in check.

Too much attention was paid by the field cameramen, and announcers Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshire, to the dancing girls who also acted as cheerleaders. One man's opinion, the Dallas cities were a cut or two prettier than the Denver girls.

Neither side could blame the weatherman for the field conditions. It seemed good to see the game played under more normal conditions than sub-zero temperatures, torrential rain showers or snow and sleet as had been the case on occasion in the past.

Oakland's experienced Raiders, with a sound quarterback in Ken Stabler, would have offered better competition for Dallas than Denver.

The Super Sunday telecast, which started at 4:30 and didn't end until six hours later was much, much too long to hold one's interest, even for die-in-the-wool NFL fans.

Two weeks between the end of the playoff season and the Super Bowl is one week too long. The teams lose their edge and fans get tired of their reveries.

Kentucky holds top berth in poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kentucky held onto the top spot in the weekly United Press International Board of Coaches college basketball poll, but a series of upsets forced the rest of the teams to scramble for new spots.

North Carolina, Arkansas, Notre Dame and Syracuse all suffered moved up two spots into the No. 3 position after beating Oregon and Oregon State. Indiana State, seventh-ranked last week and now 12-0 with victories over Tulsa and Drake, took over the No. 5 spot.

The Wildcats, now 12-0, look 40 first-place votes in winning two games this week, but North Carolina, second last week, fell to fourth after being stunned by Duke early in the week. Arkansas, third a week ago, was upset Saturday night 79-69 by Texas and fell to No. 6, while Notre Dame, which lost to San Francisco, fell four places to No. 10. Syracuse dropped out of the top 10 after losing to Pittsburgh Saturday night.

Marquette, fourth a week ago, moved into the No. 2 spot after beating Missouri, St. Louis and Nevada-Las Vegas, while UCLA, also

Lapses hurt Tribe again, lose to Windham, 63-60

By LEN AUSTER

People, teams go through phases — and Manchester High's basketball squad has experienced just about all of them.

Once again, lapses at key points hurt the Indians' overall cause in a 63-60 loss to Windham High last night at Clarke Arena in CCLL action.

"I really don't know what to say," stated a perplexed Tribe Coach Doug Pearson. "We have lulls and slumps in every game and I don't know how to stop them. If I did, I would."

The decision, in part, went to the Whippets in the early going as Manchester suffered through a season-long problem — poor shooting. Windham led 12-10 after one quarter and built it to 30-23 at the end of the second half.

Windham, with guard Chris Risley penetrating inside and then shooting off, was led the opening 15 minutes by forward Russ Shea's 8 points and 10 from pivotman John Felie.

Six o'clock, plus, is no time for a kickoff. It disrupted the schedule of millions in the Eastern time zone.

The playing surface at the New Orleans Superdome was responsible for most of the injuries suffered by players from both sides.

One man's opinion, the halftime show was not as impressive as those staged in the past, which was partly due to being staged indoors.

The Super Bowl will have a hard time catching and holding the fancy of John Public in the manner which baseball's World Series enjoys. The baseball set in October was tense and exciting until the final out.

Dallas defeated the Denver Broncos, 27-10, Sunday night in an error-filled game for the National Football League title, but the Cowboys coach thinks his team can still improve.

"I think we could be an outstanding team," said Landry, whose squad won its second Super Bowl and only the first for an NFL team after five straight NFC triumphs. "Our young players are not near the maturity level, they will have in a year or two."

Landry added, the key to the Cowboys' performance next year will be the veterans, most of whom he expects to return.

"The veterans also must perform," he said. "Don't forget we have a quarterback (Roger Staubach) who is 36 and a lot of key players in their 30s and 40s of offensive tackle (Ralph Neely) and possibly (cornerback) Mel Renfro, who is 36 with a bad knee, they'll be back."

The Cowboys did their part in one of the steepest Super Bowls ever. The Broncos simply failed to take advantage of the Dallas tide.

"If somebody told me we would have six fumbles and 12 penalties (both Super Bowl records) I would have thought we couldn't win against a field position team like Denver," said Landry. "The game was shooting extremely poorly, just unbelievable. Every game it's the same thing," offered a downcast Pearson.

The visitors, now 7-2 in the CCLL and overall, stretched their advantage to 47-38 after three stanzas hitting the last 6 fouls from the charity stripe. The 15-foot stripe would prove the difference for Windham the final period.

The Indians, reminiscent to last Tuesday's setback to Permi, rallied ferociously the final 8 minutes only to fall short. The deficit soared to 11 points, 49-38, after two Tom Kokoska free throws before the comeback began.

Scott Hyde canned an offensive rebound and Frank Beaupre converted a Dave Wyman steal into a two-pointer with Beaupre moments later tossing in a free throw on a technical on Risley.

The streak was interrupted by two Risley free throws, but Bill Finnegan netted a 25-foot jumper from the top of the lane and one of two charity attempts to cut the Windham lead to 51-46 with 4:35 to go.

Little Steve Piesz hit a 15-foot jumper after a spin move but then Finnegan, John Haslett and Wyman receded off 6 Manchester points to bring the locals to within 1 point with three minutes to go.

Pressure by Beaupre resulted in a 5 seconds violation but Manchester's bid to take the lead, and maybe the victory, went out the window as a long jumper was missed, a Haslett follow-up layup attempt spun off and Beaupre free on the other side and was whistled for traveling. "If we scored then we probably would've won but..." sighed Pearson.

Manchester, 4-5 in the league and 4-6 over-all, hit 10 of 21 from the field the final period but each time Windham would counter from the charity stripe. Risley popped in 6 straight in the closing moments and Piesz and Kokoska 2 each with the Whippets converting 14 of 16 fourth-quarter free throws along with 1 of 6 from the field. Over-all, Windham was 23 for 27 from the 15-foot stripe to take the decision. It was 20 for 48 from the field.

Piesz and Risley each had 16 points for Windham, the latter a perfect 10-for-10 from the foul line, with Felie

(12) and Shea (11) also hitting twin figures.

Haslett had a game-high 18 points for Manchester, which was 26 for 62 from the field, with Finnegan (11) and Hyde (10) also in double digits.

Manchester capped the jayvee tilt, 65-53, with Rich Koepel (20), Ed Kenison (19), Chris Boser (11) and Jamie Gallagher (10) pacing the 6-4 Indians.

ZBA approves conversion of house to four-family

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals Monday night approved the conversion of a single-family house at 617 Center St. to a four-family house.

The special exception for the conversion was requested by Blanchard & Rossetto Construction Inc.

The conversion will be done by an addition to the existing single-family house at the site. Attorney William Bronelli, who represented the applicants, said that the existing house is surrounded by multiple-family dwellings and commercial businesses.

Two couples who live near the Center Street address had several concerns about the proposal. Gustave and Mary Michelitsch and Ray and Emma Trueman, all of St. John Street, said that they would be satisfied if a stockade fence was built between their homes and the Center Street building, a step that the ZBA approved in its approval of the project.

For the Center Street work, the ZBA also granted a 25-foot extension of a Residence C Zone use into an adjacent Residence A Zone and a variance for relief from restrictions governing exterior structural change.

The board denied a request for a special exception to permit Lewellyn Pelletier to acquire a limited repairer's license for a nonconforming gas station at 134 Oakland St. Pelletier had owned a station on Hartford Road, but the oil company he leased with is cutting back its service and did not renew his license.

Thus, he sought to establish a station and repair shop at the Oakland Street site. A few neighbors spoke against the proposal, and attorney John O'Connor, who represented some area property owners, also spoke.

"For a repairer's license, it is not a suitable location," he said.

The ZBA agreed unanimously. "I think this is a poor application and a poor location," Chairman Bernard Johnson said.

Snow threatens public meetings

Snow which began falling this morning as children walked to school threatened to postpone both the Town Council and Board of Education meetings scheduled for tonight.

The council has postponed a meeting for weather reasons only once in the past 10 years.

Lead item on the council agenda tonight is the salary of Mayor Richard Blackstone. He is now paid $26,250. Council members have proposed an ordinance which would raise the pay to $29,250.

The public can speak on the mayor's pay at a hearing set for 7 p.m. at the council chambers.

Republican Majority Leader Esther Clarke has said the pay raise is too steep. Democrats have said the current pay is far too low for the chief elected official of a town of 60,000 people and an annual budget of more than $33 million.

Pay to firefighters and paramedics is also on the agenda. The mayor has asked the council to transfer $15,000 from the contingency fund to the fire department's overtime fund to cover the higher than expected overtime costs.

Richard C. Harvey, director of finance, reported to the mayor last week the overtime account was set at $30,000. On Sept. 27 the fire department had to transfer $10,200 to the overtime account from within the department's budget. The department's budget, the department reported, had to do it again Dec. 29 with $3,500.

Continued high overtime costs plus $5,500 to send the present eight paramedics for further schooling now mean the department needs the $15,000 requested, Harvey said.

The department spent a total of $43,745 on overtime between July and December, Harvey reported. Of this, the paramedics were paid $9,250 in overtime.

Police will also need another $27,000, the mayor has told the council.

Officer William M. DeBastiani in 1949.

Community honors retiring policeman

Det. Sgt. William M. DeBastiani, 64, of the East Hartford Police Department will be given a retirement party by his fellow officers and friends Friday, March 10 at the Army & Navy Club in Manchester.

DeBastiani joined the department as a regular in September 1949. His near 29 years of service include acts of heroism and concern for townspeople.

During his life, he has saved a total of 41 people from drowning. He used his lifesaving skills along the Connecticut River, especially by the railroad bridge where town kids used to swim on hot summer days despite the dangerous currents. He saved three people while stationed in the Pacific during World War II as a member of the Navy's Seabees.

Other savings took place down the river and along the New England shore.

DeBastiani taught the use of heavy equipment while in the Seabees.

As a policeman, he did patrol duty, ran the parking meter operation, and was canine control officer. In 1969 he was on duty when he heard two men termed "hardened criminals" had escaped from guards in East Hart-

Policeman completes course in management

Police Sgt. Herbert L. Weeks of the East Hartford Police Department completed the recent three-week management course at Babson College, Wellesley, Mass.

He was among 33 officers from around New England to attend the college's New England Institute of Law Enforcement Management. The course was co-sponsored by the New England Association of Chiefs of Police with the college.

Sgt. Weeks joined the local force April 27, 1964 as a regular. He served on the Regional Crime Squad in 1974 and was promoted to sergeant in 1976.

His completion of the course means that all the supervisory officers on the East Hartford force have had the Babson course. Police Chief Clarence Drumm, also a Babson graduate, began sending officers to the college after his appointment as chief in 1973. Many of the higher officers have returned for refresher courses and special courses.

Gaps in your windows mean holes in your wallet!

Heat escapes from your home even through the smallest cracks. A gap as small as 1/16" of an inch in your 7'x5' window adds up to 13 square inches.

That's like having a hole in your wall the size of a brick. Add air leakage and heat loss through conduction and the "hole" size is increased to four bricks.

If you have twelve bad fitting 7'x5' windows in your home, that could be the equivalent of trying to heat your home with a 1 1/2" x 2" hole in the wall. No wonder your fuel bills are so high!

REDUCE YOUR HEAT LOSS!

Replace these energy wasting windows now and you'll virtually eliminate costly air drafts from leaking windows. Thermal Guard by Mario is a custom fit, dual pane replacement window with a non-rigid thermal barrier. This barrier traps an effective insulating air space. A polymeric thermal break throughout the frame virtually eliminates conduction of the cold through the frame.

VIRTUALLY MAINTENANCE FREE

Our baked-on finish is tough. It will not chip, peel or blister. You can get it in beige, black, brown or white. And if you choose, we can finish the interior and exterior in different colors! Cleaning is easier. Both with water or with simple washing. Thermal Guard by Mario — the modern window system that solves all your old window problems.

I.C.A. (Individual Choice Account)

Most banks say "Our savings certificates pay the highest interest allowed by law with substantial penalty for early withdrawal." What it means is, if you withdraw a certificate before maturity you receive regular savings account interest of 5 1/2% less 90 days interest. We do it too, but we don't like to, so... First Federal Savings developed a program... I.C.A. (Individual Choice Account) with rotating maturity dates. By staggering maturity dates the probability of early withdrawal and penalties are lessened.

KEEP YOUR REGULAR SAVINGS ACCOUNT 5 1/2% for immediate use, but let us open savings certificates on a planned, flexible program.

Short range needs... $1,000 or more 2 1/2 years certificate, interest rate 6 1/4%, annual yield 7.08%

Intermediate needs... $1,000 or more 4 year certificate, interest rate 7 1/2%, annual yield 7.90%

Long range needs... $1,000 or more 6 year certificate, interest rate 7 3/4%, annual yield 8.17%

Now that's the truth... and it's good financial planning. See us at First Federal... your family financial center.

ACCOUNT	INTEREST RATE	ANNUAL YIELD PER YEAR
1 or 2 year	6 1/4%	6.81%
2 1/2 to 4 year	6 3/4%	7.08%
4 to 6 year	7 1/2%	7.90%
6 to 10 year	7 3/4%	8.17%

$1,000 deposit minimum for Savings Certificate. F.I.C.I. regulations apply with withdrawals from time savings accounts before maturity, but with substantial penalties.

Knowing how to buy life insurance can mean "money in the bank" too

There's a lot that's new about Savings Bank Life Insurance. Effective January 1, a new Connecticut law allows you to buy low-cost SBLI policies with higher limits of protection and lower rates — even lower for females.

You can choose from a broad selection of plans — with emphasis on maximum insurance at low cost, or with emphasis on savings... A low-cost children's rider includes all children in most policies... New children are automatically added to a family plan at no additional cost... Education funds, mortgage insurance, family income, emergency funds — a whole host of different plans to cover your personal needs.

To know all about it, simply get a copy of the new SBLI life insurance free folder by calling or — better yet — visiting your local mutual savings bank.
