Federal lawsuit filed over industrial park

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

A federal suit involving the proposed J.C. Penney Co. project in the Town of Manchester was filed this morning in the U.S. District Court in Hartford.

The suit involves the elimination of the state's indirect source permit program.

The action is not a surprise because federal suits require a 60-day notification before they are filed. Last November, attorneys Bruce Beck and Anthony Pagano, who filed the federal suit, sent a letter to the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency that said such an action could be expected.

The J.C. Penney Co. plans to build a two-million square foot catalog distribution center in Manchester. The building would be the major one in the town's proposed 393-acre industrial park, which would be located near Exit 93 of Interstate Highway 86.

Several court proceedings have delayed the start of construction on the project, which had been scheduled to begin last fall. Now, J.C. Penney has said that it hopes to close a property transfer with the town in early March.

Construction would begin soon after the transfer of property, officials have said.

The announcement from J.C. Penney about planning to purchase its 162-acre parcel came after a State Superior Court judge ruled in favor of the project in an environmental suit handled by Beck and Pagano, who represented Michael Dworkin and Edith Schoell in the case.

That decision has been appealed to the State Supreme Court and there is also another suit challenging the sales price of property to J.C. Penney.

The firm said, however, that it is not concerned about any of these pending legal cases and is ready to proceed.

Feds will pay 75% of contract plowing

The Town of Manchester will receive federal funding to pay 75 percent of the cost of contractors hired during the period from Tuesday through Saturday, Town Manager Robert Weiss said this morning.

He said that he believes the same aid will be given to all communities in the state.

The town normally hires private contractors to help plow and pick up snow during winter storms. Weiss estimated that the town will have spent about $25,000 for such service during the five-day period covered by the federal aid. Thus, the federal government will pay 75 percent of that cost and the town will pay the rest.

All area schools were in session today, following the partial cleanup of the storm which hit the state this week.

Some outlying schools were closed yesterday while town highway crews continued their efforts to clear bus routes and parking areas.

East Catholic High School in Manchester, however, did announce today that there was no room for student parking due to the heavy snowfall.

Sixteen petition signers want to withdraw names

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

Sixteen residents from the Eighth Utilities District have asked that their names be removed from a petition for a referendum question on consolidation, which would combine the district and the Town of Manchester.

When contacted this morning, some of the residents who asked to have their names removed said that they were misinformed or misled by those doing the petitioning.

The Committee for One Manchester, organized to head the move for consolidation, has been directing the petitioning in both the district and non-district sections of town to obtain signatures needed to place a referendum question before the voters.

A total of at least ten per cent of the registered voters in the district and at least ten per cent of the registered voters in non-district sections of Manchester must sign the petition to place a consolidation question before the voters.

Consolidation would combine the district and the town. The two bodies now have separate fire departments and sewer authority in their areas.

The Committee for One Manchester said earlier this week that it already has obtained the 750 signatures representing ten percent of the district voters. At least 16 of those persons, however, have decided to remove their signatures.

Attorney Robert Blechman filed a document with the town clerk shortly before 4 p.m. Thursday that included forms signed by the 16 asking that their names be removed.

Blechman is head of an ad hoc committee formed by the district, which previously had charged petitioners with misleading signers of the petitions.

"These circulators have instructed electors that their signature in no way supports consolidation," the committee said. It called this "false and misleading."

Members of the Committee for One Manchester, however, said that there had been no misleading.

"Signing the petition does not mean there will be consolidation. It just means that the question will be placed on a referendum," Durward Miller, co-chairman of the committee, said.

Signers who asked to have their names removed felt that the petitioners they dealt with had been misleading.

Charleen and Roger Taggart of 39 Woodland St. both removed their names.

Mrs. Taggart said that the petitioner she talked with said that her signature had nothing to do with a vote on consolidation. She said that she was told her signature was just to

Kennedy takes blame for not closing school

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy, in a statement issued to the Manchester Board of Education Thursday, took the blame for the decision last Monday not to close the schools early because of the snowstorm.

The school administration has received many calls from parents all week complaining of the decision. Kennedy felt it necessary to explain the situation for this time and for any future storms.

In the statement he said, "The decision not to close the schools early turned out to be a poor one." As superintendent, he said, "I bear total responsibility for that misjudgment."

Kennedy said he relied overly upon what proved to be an inaccurate weather forecast supplied directly to Hartford area superintendents of schools by the Weather Bureau at Bradley Field in Windsor Locks. The superintendents have a relay system of transferring the information which is first given to the superintendent.

Grasso budget aims to please

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso, sprinkling her election year budget with political goodies that would make Santa Claus jealous, today proposed a record $2.086 billion plan with something for everyone.

Under the glare of live television, she delivered her storm-delayed budget message to lawmakers, legislative staff and spectators packed into the Hall of the House of Representatives.

Hundreds of others — including a sizeable contingent of women wearing "STOP ERA" buttons — filled the galleries and spilled out into the lobby.

Mrs. Grasso, who received several standing ovations, carried a small American flag as she entered the House, apparently handed her by one of the anti-ERA women.

Her pouch included a sales tax cut expected to save the average family of four $65; elimination of the tax on new industrial equipment for business; larger welfare payments and social services budgets for liberals; more municipal aid for unhappy local governments and a job development plan pleasing even to Republicans.

She proposed spending $13.9 million to increase the state payroll about 4 percent; a $5 million for a pilot farmland preservation program; increasing educational equalization aid by $10 million, and helping Hartford cope with the collapse of the Civic Center Coliseum roof.

A total of $115 million from existing surpluses is being used to finance the ambitious program. Mrs. Grasso is counting on tax revenues climbing by that amount plus what spending increases are needed next year. If that does not occur, she concedes, taxes might have to be raised again.

Administration officials privately said this year's ambitious spending program will hold down calls for new spending next year and publicly defended the budget as fiscally sound.

"This is in our opinion a sound fiscal document. We feel a strong economy is there, every indication is there," said Anthony Milano, the state budget chief.

But, Senate Minority Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, one of five candidates challenging Mrs. Grasso for re-election, called it "a political budget. It's a budget that tries to be all things to all people."

He predicted if it were passed taxes would have to be raised next year.

Proposals at a glance

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso's budget proposals at a glance.

Taxes

- A cut in the state sales tax from 7 percent to 6.5 percent, an expected $51 million revenue loss;
- Elimination of the 2.5 percent tax on purchase of new business equipment, an expected revenue loss of about $9.4 million;

Spending

- $40.9 million in new aid to towns, $25.6 million in cash payments — including $10 million in educational equalization — and $15.3 million in bonding for specific projects;
- $4 million — of which $2 million is in bonding — to kick off an urban revitalization program Mrs. Grasso says will take a decade and cost $180 million to create 120,000 jobs;

- $30 million for economic development — $25 million of which is in bonding — to help stimulate the economy through support of vocational education and industrial development programs;

- $5 million for a pilot program aimed at saving the state's farmland;

- $18 million for a 10 percent increase in payments to most welfare recipients, which would mean an annual grant of about $5,000 for the typical family of four;

- Hiring of 1,471 new state workers, with a majority in the social services;

- An increase to 5 percent in the cost-of-living adjustment for retired state workers and teachers.

Noting the week's weather, Mrs. Grasso said she would junk her plan for a $2 million increase in state aid to towns for snow removal and come back with a larger figure once the cost is calculated.

Mrs. Grasso's budget, previously disclosed in bits and pieces, is 9 percent larger than last year's $1.915 billion package adopted by the Legislature.

"Our beloved state of Connecticut stands once again on firm (economic) ground," she told a joint legislative session that experienced an unprecedented two-day delay because of the blizzard.

Mrs. Grasso's spending and tax plan is certain to draw criticism that she is trying to pad her election budget with too many vote-getting goodies. If enacted, her critics say, that will leave the state facing potential tax increases next year.

Mrs. Grasso disagrees, claiming the continued economic improvement makes her programs possible.

Mrs. Grasso, a Democrat, cites a projected $82 million surplus for the current year; a $34.7 million surplus from last year; expected back federal welfare payments of $22 million and optimistic forecasts for future economic activity.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian and four Republicans — U.S. Rep. Ronald Sarasin, Senate Minority Leader Lewis B. Rome of Bloomfield, House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens of Milford and Sen. George Gunther of Stratford — are seeking her job.

Many of them contend the surplus is a one-year phenomenon and if the sales tax is cut, there won't be sufficient revenue on hand next year to balance the budget without raising it again.

The budget covers the fiscal year beginning July 1 and must go through an extensive legislative screening process, with lawmakers expected to make additions and deletions before approving a final version sometime in April.

Her plan to trim a half-cent from the 7 percent sales tax and eliminate the 2.5 percent levy on new business machinery would cost the state about $60.4 million.

The sales tax proposal is expected to face some opposition, but the elimination of the machinery tax should slide through the Legislature like a new sled.

Heading the increased spending side is $40.9 million in aid to local governments, $25.6 million in cash and $15.3 million in bonding for specific municipal projects.

Municipal officials have been among her toughest critics.

Court-ordered educational equalization payments for poorer communities would get a boost of $10 million of the $25.6 million in direct grants, bringing to $30 million the total state commitment for that purpose.

Many of Mrs. Grasso's critics say the recommendation is a token gesture and she is trying to put off dealing with the issue until after the November election.

Today's new's summary

The weather has let up in the Northeast, at least long enough to let residents start getting dug out from the effects of its worst blizzard in a century, but the second mudslide in a week closed southbound lanes of Southern California's main north-south artery as a result of pounding rains.

Numerous streets and highways were closed by slides and a Transportation Department spokesman said it was "too dangerous" to clear the oozing mud, "especially with the forecast for more heavy rains and high winds."

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian government said Thursday members of a Soviet spy ring, using such classic spy techniques as passwords and information drops in parks, paid $30,500 to a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for what they thought was top-secret information.

At least 13 members of the ring have been expelled in the largest espionage operation uncovered in Canada in 33 years. External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson ordered four Soviet officials to leave Canada within 48 hours. Seven others have until Feb. 23 to get out and two diplomats, who had already left Canada, were barred from returning.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said today he will seek a secret session of the Senate if necessary to air for his colleagues persistent allegations that high Panamanian officials have engaged in drug smuggling.

The Senate today went into its third day of debate on the controversial accord, which would turn the historic waterway over to Panama at the end of 1999.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.6 percent in January, about the same rate as the previous four months, the Labor Department reported today.

It was the second month in which the department has reported the new inflation figures for bulk purchasers. The new method places most emphasis on goods that are sold in so-called final user form.

Although the 0.6 percent rate at a seasonally adjusted rate was in line with increases back to September under revised measurements, the department said that stronger inflationary pressures surfaced in the price of materials not yet in final form.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An important new Canadian-American study shows a drug used since 1959 to treat gout appears effective in cutting in half the risk of sudden cardiac death during the risky months following a heart attack.

If the benefits are confirmed by additional research, the drug could save the lives of as many as 15,000 Americans annually, according to the scientists reporting the findings.

The drug is called sulfinpyrazone and is sold as Anturane by the Ciba-Geigy Corp., of Summit, N.J., to lower uric acid levels in gout victims.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian peace-keeping troops and Lebanese right-wing militiamen clashed today in the fourth straight day of the worst fighting since the end of the civil war 15 months ago.

Diplomatic sources estimated that up to 70 people died and many more were wounded in the past three days of clashes between the Syrians and rightist militia units and Lebanese troops.

Inspections set in town housing

The Town of Manchester Health Department will be conducting routine housing inspections during February and March of all dwelling units on Sherwood Circle, Doane Street, Oakwood, Avondale, Auburn, Phelps and Robin roads and part of North Elm Street.

The residences will be inspected for compliance with the town's housing code, which sets minimum standards governing the condition and maintenance of dwellings.

The Health Department inspectors will be looking for defects or deficiencies in plumbing, deterioration of walls, floors or roofs and faulty electrical systems. They also will be checking to see that heating systems and toilet facilities are adequate.

The inspectors will carry Town of Manchester identification cards with a personal photograph attached. All inspections will be made with permission of the occupants of the dwelling units.

Upon completion of the inspection, a letter will be sent to the owner about the results. The letter will include a list of any violations.

If inspectors could not enter the home, a letter will be sent telling the owner that an exterior inspection was done and asking that an appointment be set to complete an interior inspection.

The Health Department will work with the owner to reach an agreement on how to correct the violations. Homeowners who may be eligible for the town rehabilitation loan program are referred to the Human Services Department.

Anyone who wants an inspection but is not home between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. may call the Health Department at 649-5281 and set up an appointment.

Manchester's Municipal Building will be closed Monday in observance of Lincoln's Birthday.

Emergency telephone numbers for the day are as follows: Highway, 649-5070; refuse, 649-1886; and sanitary sewer and water, 649-9697.

Troops launch the last assault

HARTFORD (UPI) — Army troops, National Guardsmen, and state and local highway crews in Connecticut today launched a final assault on the results of the Blizzard of '78.

About 100 3rd Army Corps engineers, more than 700 National Guardsmen, and hundreds of municipal employees were still at work in the hardest-hit communities, but the worst appeared over.

Aided by two days of bright sunshine, the army of machines and men Thursday gained the upper hand against nature's worst snowy onslaught on Connecticut in more than three decades.

Federal troops and their multi-ton payloaders chewed into five-foot snow drifts and mammoth mountains of snow in eastern and southeastern areas of the state, where up to two feet of snow that began early Monday fell over a 30-hour period.

White major cities, such as Waterbury, New Haven and Norwich, and rural areas still struggled under mountains of wind-blown snow, residents in other regions returned to work for the first time Thursday on nearly bone-dry interstates and highways.

The number of dead attributed to the fierce blizzard remained at nine.

Traffic jams greeted commuters in the greater Hartford area as the wheels of state government began to roll again and most factories, stores and shops threw open their doors for business.

Some communities opened schools. But they remained closed in Hartford, Stamford, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury and about 45 small towns.

Francis Keefe resigns from two town groups

Francis J. Keefe of 2 W. Center St., a member of Manchester's Human Relations Commission (HRC) and the town Democratic Committee for a number of years, has resigned from both groups because of ill health.

Keefe recently was appointed for his fourth consecutive term to the Human Relations Commission. He had served for two terms as chairman of the commission, and it was under his guidance that the Organization of the Handicapped and the Commission on Aging was formed through the efforts of the HRC. He also was responsible for initiating a personnel counseling service for town employees.

During his years as chairman of the commission, Keefe said "I received good non-partisan cooperation from both the Republican and Democratic Town Committees." He had been an active member of the Democratic Town Committee for the past 10 years and had previously served on the committee for a period of five years.

Before retiring in October, he had been a consultant to business and industry for the Greater Hartford Council on Alcoholism, for six years.

Ex-fed guilty in scheme

HARTFORD (UPI) — A former FBI agent has been found guilty in the federal court of being the go-between for wire company executives in a multi-million-dollar price-fixing scheme that lasted for a decade.

George Byrne, 61, of New York, decided to "throw in the sponge" and plead no contest to the conspiracy charge Thursday moments before he was to go on trial.

Robert Morse, senior trial attorney of the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department, said Byrne formed an association and collected dues from wire company executives.

Morse said Byrne "set up the Wiring Device Association and used it as a front to set up meetings so that the executives could get together and stabilize prices."

Patience! Patience!

It's too bad that there are motorists this week without patience.

Traffic is going slower; traffic is snarled; traffic is backed up at signal lights. Maybe four or five changes of the lights.

Motorists coming from the North End are going to find backed-up traffic from Middle Turnpike either at Main Street or at Summit Street.

Motorists in those lines of traffic aren't going to make any more progress by getting out of line, taking a side street, and trying to get into the other line. Roadways are naturally narrow; cars are going to travel slower passing one another.

Until some of this snow melts and roadways are widened, it is going to take you longer to get where you are going.

Leave earlier; allow for more time to reach your destination; the motorists behind you has the same problem. Patience! Patience!

The fuel oil man

This week we have heard a lot about clearing paths by hydrants; about cleaning catch basins; about moving snow onto laws rather than back into the streets.

We have forgotten one important man - the fuel oil man. Pity the fuel oil man who has to lug over his shoulders the pipe line from his truck to your fuel tank, and through all that snow.

The struggle is that much harder when there is no path to your backyard, where most fuel oil fill pipes are located. Some residents don't have walks to rear of their property.

Let's shovel a walk for the fuel oil man.

Wasteland revisited

Back in the 1960s, commercial television was labeled a "vast wasteland," prompting the networks to considerable argument and some program doctoring to prove that it wasn't so.

The labeler was Newton Minow, then chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and soon to be the next chairman of the Public Broadcasting Service.

Public television - back then underfunded, uncoordinated and virtually unnoticed as an industry influence - has since grown up to offer, in much of the country, a real alternative to commercial programming. Public television has changed greatly. There is some question as to whether the networks have.

The rematch could be interesting.

Over The (Capitol) Hill

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) - This far, barely into February, 40 members of the 95th Congress have announced they will not seek re-election this year.

If the present rate continues, the dropout total will reach a new high, breaking the record of 58 retirements two years ago.

Some lawmakers are stepping down for reasons of age or health, and some are seeking other offices. But most are quitting because they are frustrated, disenchanted, overworked, or simply fed up with the whole thing.

Indeed, the percentage of members of Congress who fail to seek re-election may now have surpassed the percentage of members of the armed forces who decline to reenlist.

The problems created by such a rapid turnover can hardly be underestimated. For one thing, it takes a lot of money to train a rookie congressman. Unless they stick around at least long enough to become a subcommittee chairman, the investment is largely lost.

Beyond that is the long-range question of whether the United States should continue to rely on an all-volunteer Congress, or whether we eventually may need to resort to some type of standby draft.

Compulsory congressional service is, of course, repugnant to our tradition of individual self-determination. But perhaps even more undesirable is the prospect of filling the legislative ranks with mercenaries who are lacking in partisanship, thirst for power, political fanaticism and other conventional motivations.

While political drafts are nothing new, most have been spontaneous aberrations brought about by deadlocked conventions or shortages of smoke-filled rooms. The concept of an organized draft on a permanent basis is something quite different.

A congressional conscription system presumably would work

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...
"The real trouble is that the economy really doesn't need these kids as far as production is concerned."
- Dr. Sar A. Levitan, director of the Center for Social Policy Studies in Washington, commenting on the problem of youth unemployment.
"We are still in the early days of achieving energy-efficient commercial buildings... (What is necessary is that) the large financial institutions which provide mortgage money for commercial buildings begin to practice new underwriting procedures which insist that the building whose mortgages they are buying are energy efficient."
- Charles E. Peck, a vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., at that firm's energy conservation awards ceremony.
"You can do a voice print analysis of people where you don't even know that what you're saying is being recorded and analyzed to determine whether you're telling a lie. You can use a parabolic microphone outside a building to hear what people are saying inside. Laser beams can be used to conduct surveillance. Technology has gotten so out of hand."
- Sam Merrill, director of the D.C.

Thought

A time for spiritual growth
Lent can be a time to think about the need for spiritual growth and to design a plan to allow it to happen. Personal growth programs are much publicized these days. They stress the importance of an intentional program to achieve personal goals. More important, it seems to me, is to devise a plan for continued, life-long spiritual growth.
Jesus emphasized the importance of a growing faith, and cautioned against drifting away from and a denial of his faith.
Obviously, the spiritual life must be nourished as regularly as a burning fire must be fueled. To fail to seek such a strengthening of faith is to lose out on a treasure which God gives to his children.
The New Testament reminds us that spiritual renewal comes only to those who seek it. It is God's gift, but it requires an act of our will to appropriate it and use it. The writer of Hebrews speaks of the quest as a discipline, calling on the reader not to "regard lightly the discipline of the Lord."
Paul acknowledges the difficulty of the Christian life when he talks about the "fight." "Fight the good fight of the faith," he says, "take hold of the eternal life to which you were called when you made the good confession in the presence of many witnesses." (I Tim. 6:12) It was to be a struggle for Timothy, as it is for every person.
"Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him..." (Rev. 3:20)

Question:
"There are some 'hot-rodgers' who race up and down our street on weekends. Besides the noise, we worry about them hitting one of the kids. Is there anything we can do to make them slow down?"
Answer:
The Manchester Police Department is willing and capable of rectifying this type of problem for you. However, as in many types of problems, the key to solving this one is citizen cooperation.
Are these "hot-rodgers" residents of your street, and if so can you speak to the parents and express your concern to them? If this is possible, the remedy may be as simple as that. If the "hot-rodgers" do not reside on your street, or you cannot talk to the parents, you will have to consider other methods.
You should first obtain the license number and description of the vehicles involved. You should also note the times of the day that these incidents most often occur and description of driver. You may then relay this information to the police department, which can then contact the parties involved and attempt to end this problem.
If this does not work, you may then consider giving a written complaint to the Police Department, which may then arrest the operators of these vehicles. You must be prepared in this instance to appear in court as a witness if the accused parties plead not guilty to the charges brought against them.

The Police Department has other methods of enforcement available in this event that neither of these alternatives work or are feasible. They may step up the normal routine patrol of cruiser units on your street, discouraging this type of activity by their presence. They may also institute surveillance of the street or radar enforcement on the street. A study could also be made to determine the need for, or possibilities of, putting traffic control signs or signals on your street.
As you can see, there are many viable methods of dealing with this type of problem, but the most important one is the willingness of the citizenry affected by this type of behavior to cooperate with the police in ending it.

Town running scared?

To the editor:
I wish to address you and the citizens of Manchester, as a private citizen and a resident of the 8th Utilities District, on the subject of consolidation.
Why should consolidation spring up like "a twig in the springtime" just now? One very good reason is that the town had run out of delays in the Buckland case and had to find some other means of holding on to the area. They are running scared.

The residents of the South End are not generally interested in consolidation and most are not even aware that there is an 8th Utilities District. It will mean very little to them one way or the other. However, there are many "newcomers" to the North End and they should be apprised of their benefits under the present regime.

The Committee for One Manchester are fully aware that their actions are suspect and that they are in violation of the Town Charter. They know that long and costly lawsuits will have to be fought with the taxpayer's money before this matter could be settled.

Why then do they continue? I have already told you in the beginning of this article!

Dental health

This is the fifth in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 5-11.

I was amazed to learn recently that it may be harmful to my baby's teeth to give him a bottle at bedtime. Can you explain why?

The content of the bedtime bottle may be harmful to your baby's teeth. The liquid interacts with the bacteria in plaque to form acids that eat away at the tooth enamel. The length of time these acids are in contact with the teeth is a major factor.

Normal bottle feeding does not contribute to this condition since the baby who takes a bottle while awake swallows the fluids quickly. But if he is drowsy, or asleep, his normal salivary flow and swallowing processes decrease. The tongue and the nipple tend to pool the sugary liquid around the top front teeth which are the one most frequently affected.

If you feel that your baby receives comfort and security from a bedtime bottle, fill it only with plain water. Fluids containing sugar such as formula or fruit juices can cause decay - particularly if they remain in the mouth for an extended period of time.

To save your baby's teeth, remember to clean his mouth and teeth after each feeding with a clean cloth or gauze pad.

In addition, check content labels on baby foods. Look for foods that do not contain sugar.

ROTC needs work to satisfy rules

Several changes must be made to the Regional Occupational Training Center, only in its second year of operation, to comply with new federal regulations regarding physical facilities for the handicapped, Wilfred Dion, director of buildings and grounds for the Board of Education, told the Town Building Committee Wednesday night.

The changes to toilet facilities and outdoor ramping will cost nearly $250, Dion estimated. Dion proposed that the changes be paid for with unencumbered funds remaining in the ROTC account which has not been closed out. The building was completed in the fall of 1976, and was the first such facility in the nation to train special education students for vocations. There is $11,600 remaining in the account for the $1.3 million facility.

Richard Lawrence, architect for the ROTC building, said, "It's a sad thing (about the new regulations). When the building was designed and completed it was in complete compliance with the state regulations." He said there are grab bars and stall partitions in the toilets, but the government will not accept the kind that are there.

The new federal regulations were announced in May 1977. Towns have until June 1, 1980 to comply, Dion said, and added that there is no positive indication of financial aid from the federal or state government. The state also has regulations, which are in some ways stricter than the federal ones, Dion indicated.

He said he has compiled a complete list for all the schools of facilities which will have to be changed to meet the new regulations, but he said he is hoping that everything will not have to be done in every school.

He said the school board will try to do one school in each area of town initially.

Wednesday approved the allocation of funds to do the work to comply with the regulations as well as some other work that needs to be done.

Other actions The Building Committee also announced that a portable trailer unit has been moved to Washington School. The trailer will serve as a reading and speech classroom while school renovations are under way. It will be in use on Friday. The cost of the trailer until the end of the school year will be $615. Paul Phillips, chairman of the Building Committee, said.

The committee also accepted the bid of Clear Span Structures, Inc. of Hartford for renovation at Bentley School. The base bid by the company was $408,000. The committee also decided that all the work listed as alternates on the project, including four lower level classrooms, should be done at ROTC.

The committee also heard a brief explanation of the preliminary plans for the instructors of the Handicapped pool planned as an addition to the Manchester High School pool. No formal action by the committee is necessary yet on the project.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I notice that you commend restaurateurs that provide their blind customers with menus in Braille. Will you please do a little favor for those of us who are hard of hearing or partially deaf?

Suggest that some enterprising novelty or gift manufacturer make up large, easy-to-read buttons that we can wear on our coats and dresses reading as follows: PLEASE SPEAK UP—I'M HARD OF HEARING. I am so tired of having to ask people who mumble to please repeat what they have said. I'd bet those "Speak up" buttons would sell like hotcakes!

HARD OF HEARING.
DEAR ABBY: Oddly enough, many people who have a hearing disability are so self-conscious about it, they refuse to wear even the most inconspicuous hearing aid. But to your suggestion, I say, "Hear! Hear!" Such buttons would be a blessing for those who want them.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this in response to JUST PLAIN JEALOUS, who resents her husband's taking business trips with an attractive young female co-worker. Dear Just Plain Jealous: I am a professional woman. The fact that I am young and attractive should be in my favor, but it isn't. It's just the opposite. I'm tired of hearing those "what will my wife think" comments from men who refuse to travel with me, and the snide remarks made about men who do.

Believe me, I am not interested in seducing your husband. I'm just trying to do my job, and it's a woman like you who makes it very difficult. Your insecurities are YOUR problem, please don't make them mine. It's not fair for attractive professional women to be held back by men with jealous wives, so next time you kick up a fuss because your husband has an out-of-town assignment with a woman, try walking a mile in my shoes. It's not easy. Sign me...

PROFESSIONAL GAL.
DEAR ABBY: You make a good point. Youth and beauty are not always advantages to a professional woman. They're sometimes handicaps.
DEAR ABBY: A friend telephoned and invited me and my husband to her home for a dinner party. I asked very politely, "Who else have you invited?" She replied, "You'll find out when you get here." Do you think my question was out of line? And how about her answer?

JUST ASKING
DEAR JUST: You asked because you wanted to know. Nothing wrong with that. And she resented your question and refused to answer it. Nothing wrong with that either.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I notice that you commend restaurateurs that provide their blind customers with menus in Braille. Will you please do a little favor for those of us who are hard of hearing or partially deaf?

Suggest that some enterprising novelty or gift manufacturer make up large, easy-to-read buttons that we can wear on our coats and dresses reading as follows: PLEASE SPEAK UP—I'M HARD OF HEARING. I am so tired of having to ask people who mumble to please repeat what they have said. I'd bet those "Speak up" buttons would sell like hotcakes!

HARD OF HEARING.
DEAR ABBY: Oddly enough, many people who have a hearing disability are so self-conscious about it, they refuse to wear even the most inconspicuous hearing aid. But to your suggestion, I say, "Hear! Hear!" Such buttons would be a blessing for those who want them.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this in response to JUST PLAIN JEALOUS, who resents her husband's taking business trips with an attractive young female co-worker. Dear Just Plain Jealous: I am a professional woman. The fact that I am young and attractive should be in my favor, but it isn't. It's just the opposite. I'm tired of hearing those "what will my wife think" comments from men who refuse to travel with me, and the snide remarks made about men who do.

Believe me, I am not interested in seducing your husband. I'm just trying to do my job, and it's a woman like you who makes it very difficult. Your insecurities are YOUR problem, please don't make them mine. It's not fair for attractive professional women to be held back by men with jealous wives, so next time you kick up a fuss because your husband has an out-of-town assignment with a woman, try walking a mile in my shoes. It's not easy. Sign me...

PROFESSIONAL GAL.
DEAR ABBY: You make a good point. Youth and beauty are not always advantages to a professional woman. They're sometimes handicaps.
DEAR ABBY: A friend telephoned and invited me and my husband to her home for a dinner party. I asked very politely, "Who else have you invited?" She replied, "You'll find out when you get here." Do you think my question was out of line? And how about her answer?

JUST ASKING
DEAR JUST: You asked because you wanted to know. Nothing wrong with that. And she resented your question and refused to answer it. Nothing wrong with that either.

Kennedy takes blame

dent in Simsbury, Kennedy explained, to avoid several calls to the Weather Bureau.

based upon the weather conditions at the time. The Weather Bureau predicted the storm would move slowly and not intensify until late afternoon; however, it began to intensify after 1 p.m.

A joint decision to follow the regular schedule was made at 11 a.m. Monday among superintendents or representatives from East Hartford, West Hartford, Hartford, Windsor, Bloomfield and Manchester.

Kennedy said that a decision to close the Manchester schools early must be made at the latest, by noon. After that time it is not possible to "get the word out" in time for bus drivers to get their buses and begin their runs, call all of the schools, contact radio stations and inform parents and arrange for crossing guards to change their schedules.

At noon on Monday, Kennedy said he mistakenly concluded that an early closing would not be necessary.

Hours for Saturday and Sunday will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It has not been determined whether the park will open Monday, a holiday.

ECHS student wins oratorical contest

Michael Ciszewski, a student at East Catholic High School, won the recent oratorical contest sponsored by the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion in Manchester.

He received a $25 Savings Bond and his name and the name of his school will be engraved on the American Legion Oratorical award plaque, which will be retained by the school for a year.

Miss Mary Toland, a student at Manchester High School and Nicolas Minutello, a ECHS student, tied for second place.

Judges were Miss Catherine Putnam, Miss Ethel Robb and Mrs. Mary Davidson, all former teachers in the Manchester school system.

Ciszewski will represent the Manchester post in the First District contest on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the East Hartford Police and Court Building. The public is invited.

Federal lawsuit

The federal suit challenges the State's decision to drop the indirect source permit program. Large new developments had been required to obtain such a permit.

The program measured traffic generated by the development and increases in auto-emission pollution that could be expected.

The state last summer dropped the program, saying that it hindered industrial development and was not always a fair measurement for the developers. The program was retained only for highway construction projects and major airport construction.

The federal suit says that the federal government has never approved the state's elimination of the indirect source permit program. It says that J.C. Penney cannot construct until it obtains the permit.

Both have filed to remove their names from the petition.

Ernest Morse, 37 Strong St., signed a notice that said he would sign both his and his wife's names. Both have filed to remove their names from the petition.

Mabel and Harry Baskind, both of 206 Lydall St., also had their names purchased at the door.

Proceeds will benefit the Manchester Scholarship Fund. The J.P. Allen orchestra will play for dancing.

"It was misleading. We were told the petition was only to get it consolidated on the referendum," Mrs. Baskind said.

"When you read the wording of the petition, it made it sound like you support consolidation, which we don't," she said.

The petition says the signers "present this petition under the provisions of section 7-106 (of the state statutes) proposing a consolidation with the Eighth Utilities District."

Expansion, staff pleas dominate board hearing

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

Requests for more art, music and physical education teachers, expansion of the gifted program and more building repairs and improvements dominated the Manchester Board of Education's public hearing on the proposed school budget at Robertson School Thursday night.

Although there were fewer than 50 parents, teachers and aides at the meeting, many spoke, all urging the various improvements to the schools and additions to the budget.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy began the hearing with a brief presentation of the basis criteria relating to his recommended $15.8 million school budget.

The PTA Council Budget Study Committee which was snoued out of a meeting scheduled with the board Monday night, presented its recommendations which urged quick completion of the classroom lighting replacement at Verplanck School and expansion of the media center at Waddell School, both items delayed from last year's budget.

The PTA Council is also in favor of a list of 10 improvement priorities. The first four items on the list are the same four items on the superintendent's entire list, with physical education a priority over the music teacher on the PTA list.

The fifth item, in terms of priority recommended by the council, is the addition of one art teacher for the elementary schools. Some Board of Education members had also recommended that art teacher be listed as a priority.

Moroney also noted the extensive study by the budget committee of the PTA which had an average attendance at seven meetings of 11 persons, representing nine of the 12 PTA elementary schools. Some Board of Education members had also recommended that art teacher be listed as a priority.

Lee McCray, co-chairman of the chairman, said.

There are about 1,300 youths that sign up for summer soccer programs in Manchester, Janenda said.

The location of soccer fields in the Lower area seemed indivisible after hearing Tierney's report. The site is wooded, there are high tension wires and it is in a wetlands area, Tierney said. Also, he said he had heard of the nearby sand pits for parking possibilities.

Commission members Fred Ramey and Dorothy Bristow suggested that the commission investigate the possibility of the town acquisition of Hickey's Grove, a 16-acre tract, adjacent to Union Pond for future recreational development.

For future development, the commission also talked about neighborhood playgrounds in the Kennedy Road and Redwood areas.

These and other community recreation improvements were discussed at a commission workshop session Thursday night in an effort to determine the town's top recreation needs.

The commission also favors increased lighting at Mt. Nebo. Mel Siebold, Town Recreation Director, said he would rather see more lights installed at Mt. Nebo than have another baseball diamond built.

Siebold added that he would also like to see another community swimming pool and a skating rink.

After hearing a report on possible locations for soccer fields from William Tierney, head of the town staff committee studying recreation facilities, the commission decided the most economical and feasible location would be at Manchester Community College. The commission recommends three soccer fields at an estimated total cost of $60,000 less 25 percent that the town would pay, assuming that would be the town's share, Joel Janenda, commission chairman, said.

SECOND SECTION FEBRUARY 10, 1978

The PTA list also includes recommendations for the establishment of an equipment replacement schedule at Manchester High School, and the addition of an elementary school physical education teacher, a librarian and an aide, a speech clinician and an elementary school music teacher.

The cost of the first four items is about $66,000 and the last six are estimated at $83,500.

James Moroney, co-chairman of the budget study committee, who made the presentation for the council, said the committee also had a suggestion of the need for the establishment of a regular renovations or repair program for the school building funds. He noted the large expense the board has each year for roof maintenance, and the particular concern with this year's weather conditions.

Moroney also noted the extensive study by the budget committee of the PTA which had an average attendance at seven meetings of 11 persons, representing nine of the 12 PTA elementary schools. Some Board of Education members had also recommended that art teacher be listed as a priority.

The commission also favors increased lighting at Mt. Nebo. Mel Siebold, Town Recreation Director, said he would rather see more lights installed at Mt. Nebo than have another baseball diamond built.

committee, noted the comparison list of the four elementary school art teachers in Manchester and surrounding towns presented by Kennedy. He said the statistics show that Manchester has 1,342 students for each of the four elementary school art teachers. He said, "What kind of program can we offer at that level? It borders on the ridiculous." He said the ratio for the physical education is similar. He also said the schools are wasting the resources in the libraries by not having enough librarians to help use them properly.

Manchester has about half the number of special teachers in its elementary schools as East Hartford with comparable student populations. East Hartford has 4,942 elementary students and Manchester has 4,970.

Several parents, teachers and aides supported the expansion of both the fine arts and the physical education programs, stressing the importance of all aspects of children's development.

Some also spoke in favor of the continuation and possible expansion of the new gifted program, which has been included in the superintendent's budget.

Eleanor Colman, chairman of the board's personnel and finance committee, said the board would seriously consider all the recommendations and she urged the public attendance at the town budget hearing in the spring.

The board will adopt its final budget recommendation to be sent to Town Manager Robert Weiss at next Tuesday's board meeting at 8 p.m. at 45 N. School St.

Selectmen still facing some work

Bolton

After two nights of meetings, the Board of Selectmen almost, but not quite, made it through a lengthy agenda.

The board met more than three hours both Wednesday and Thursday. The agenda included about 50 items.

First Selectman Henry Ryba said the board discussed at length the road subcommittee report, especially by the condition of the town's 1972 Dodge truck.

Ryba said the truck has just about had it, and he can't see putting any more money into it. He said the truck is being pushed beyond its capability and it's just not standing up.

Ryba was authorized by the board to find out the cost of a new vehicle. Joann Neath and Ernest Shepherd were appointed to a personnel subcommittee. A report from them is due by September. They will establish a merit system, wage scale, benefits and reclassify job responsibilities for town employees.

At least until September Ryba was authorized by the board to establish the responsibilities of employees under the selectmen's jurisdiction.

The selectmen will meet for budget workshops Feb. 14 and 15. They will have a special meeting in March concerning waste disposal.

Ryba plans to continue seeking funds for the improvement of Bolton roads.

Ryba said the town needs a program with set priorities because some of the roads are in very bad condition.

Ryba said the amount being allocated for Bolton isn't enough. He said the town will need more money for road maintenance.

A royal pet

Bonnie Van Duchess wears the crown and cloak of royalty after being crowned "Queen of the Purebred Household Pets" at last weekend's cat show in the West Hartford Armory. Her owner, 13-year-old Catherine Loallo of 122 Hebron Road, Bolton, smiles admiringly at her kitty which also won several other awards at the show. She is a Manx, and, according to officials at the show, also is a mixture of Abyssinian, Himalayan, and Egyptian Mau cat blood. Six-month-old Bonnie, picked from a litter destined for the pound, is further enhanced with four double paws. Catherine is an eighth grade student at St. James School in Manchester. Council panel to probe towing fee complaints

Complaints from two irate residents, concerning charges for towing their cars, led Mayor Frank McCoy to appoint a Council Committee to investigate the complaints and any other that may arise.

The mayor said it appears that some local wreckers may be taking advantage of the storm.

One person said his towing charge was $62.75. Wayne Besaw, president of the Vernon Wrecker's Association, said he couldn't say if this bill is excessive until he sees it. He said there are many variables in connection with towing charges but maximum charges are controlled by the state, not the town.

The car owner said he drove from Bloomfield and then when he reached Vernon he couldn't get up his street because it wasn't plowed.

In an agreement reached a few years ago, Vernon Police call only local wrecker services on a rotating basis unless the owner of the vehicle to be towed specifically requests a certain garage.

The mayor said he felt that because everyone else was making sacrifices during the storm and many persons volunteered their services, he felt the wreckers should be given residents reasonable treatment.

The committee will be asked to investigate establishing a special set rate with wreckers, during emergency situations, to avoid future discrepancies in charges.

Those named to the committee were Robert Romejko, Carl Anderson, and Lena Therault.

David R. Dougan of Vernon, a veteran member of the Vernon Fire Department, has informed Mayor Frank McCoy that he is leaving the department.

Dougan, who has been serving as deputy chief for 10 of the 30 years he has been a department member, said he wishes to spend his spare time with his wife and family. He had applied for the position of assistant chief of the Vernon Department but said he is also withdrawing that application.

The Town Council Wednesday night accepted the resignation and later approved the appointment of Michael Polo as deputy chief and Itamar B. Davis as assistant chief.

The council also accepted the resignations of Gardner W. Ruggles and James S. Lamb from the Conservation Commission and David H. Rivers from the Sewer Authority.

The council also approved the appointment of Dorothy Peabody (R), 48 Sunnyside Drive, to the Conservation Commission and Mercedes D. Hawley (R), of 40 Reed St. to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

To the newly formed Energy Conservation Committee, Mayor Frank McCoy appointed Sam Blonstein, Stanley Roesler, Donald Maguire, Sherwood Aborn, Charles Brisson, G.G. May, Robert Romejko, and Peter Durieko.

Mayor pro tem, Morgan Campbell was appointed as the council's representative to the Board of Education Budget Committee and Councilman Robert Hurt was appointed to the council's sidewalk subcommittee.

Funds transferred The remaining $1,500 in the Emily Swindell Trust Fund will be used to buy equipment to compliment the town's "Showmobile."

The mobile stage unit was bought last summer with funds from the trust account. The original fund was set up for recreational purposes and last year it was ruled that the mobile stage was an appropriate use.

Donald Berger, director of recreation, said that when the mobile unit was bought it was not known exactly how much money was in the fund and therefore the accessories were not bought at that time.

The remaining money will be used to buy 30 folding chairs for the unit, special markers to keep the speakers column secure, letters for the unit, and to make some changes in the electrical system.

School district plan rescinded in Hebron

By KAREN BISKUPIAK Herald Correspondent

The Hebron Board of Education voted unanimously last night to honor the public mandate to rescind its Jan. 12 vote to approve a redistricting of the local elementary schools into a primary-intermediate system.

Board member Judith Gregory made the motion with the stipulation that "We set up a study committee comprised of volunteers representing parents, teachers, administrators and board members, with each side equally represented, to look at the various solutions to our current problems and that this study committee report back to the board with its findings on or before Oct. 31."

Mrs. Gregory said to about 70 people who had gathered to hear the board discussion that she still remained firm in her support of the primary-intermediate school system as the best solution to the problem.

She added that "For various reasons, I haven't been able to convince you of this fact." She continued that the present course would divide the board, lessening its effectiveness and alienating the public. She stated that to combine forces would enable all to provide the best possible education for local children, "which is the primary goal for each of us."

Mrs. Gregory's motion had a rough time getting off the ground because some board members wished to table action on it until the public had had a chance to speak on the issue one last time.

The agenda for last night's meeting provided that each board member state his or her position on the issue before the public could participate in the discussion. Some board members had voiced discontent with not being allowed to state their positions at a special meeting held two weeks ago.

Board member Marilu DeCarvalho told residents that she had been "neither bullied nor forced into this act." She also commented that "a solution must benefit the children not the parents."

Tom Kelley, president of the Hebron-Mariborough Jaycees presented the board with a survey taken by the Jaycees. He said 1,073 persons were interviewed and that 71 had no opinion on the issue; 113 were in favor of the redistricting through an intermediate-primary system and 2,222 were opposed. He added there was a figure discrepancy because where individuals had to be told the board's decision on the matter the opinions were not counted.

Board member Robert Owens stated, "I was on the public side of the issue and voted against the redistricting in this manner." He explained his reasons, saying that he found the disadvantages far outweighed the advantages.

Harvey Desruaisseau of Walnut Drive urged all the board members to state their positions on the matter. He termed the lack of advance notice on the original decision a "political ploy" on the part of the press and the board.

One resident questioned Board Chairman Joseph Pelletier if this was "a government for each of us."

Pelletier responded that a referendum would be subject to board approval and that he didn't know the town was divided until the board told him it was.

Estelle Armstrong strongly admonished the board, saying, "This reorganization plan seems to have come out of the blue." She continued "What fish are you people trying to fry in the kettle of reorganization? Don't fry any fish in the interest of our children's education."

The board instructed School Superintendent David Cattanauch to research the redistricting proposal again and to return to the board with his findings.

Pelletier told Cattanauch to provide the board with every possible alternative and method that might be eliminated for next year in lieu of the study committee's recommendations. Cattanauch will present his findings at the regular meeting of the board next month.

Coverity school board cancels vacation time

To compensate for days of school lost because of winter storms, the Coverity Board of Education voted unanimously Thursday night to cancel the school vacation which was scheduled for Feb. 21-24.

In order to qualify for Average Daily Membership (ADM) funds, schools must be in session at least 180 days before June 30, Arnold Elman, schools superintendent said.

He said schools may also be in session Feb. 20, Washington's birthday, if this is deemed legal. He said if the regular school calendar is followed schools would have to remain open into July to complete the required 180 days. Schools are supposed to be in session.

About 26 teachers had planned to travel during the February vacation so the cancellations will now have to be found to replace them. The board couldn't resolve, last night, how this move will be financed. William McDermott, principal of the Coverity Grammar School, said that part of the April vacation may also have to be canceled if additional snowfalls force schools to close.

A motion to keep schools open on Lincoln's birth was defeated because there was not enough time to find out if this would be legal, and if it is, to give parents adequate notice.

The commissioner said some staff members will also work Sunday to catch up on a paperwork backlog and insure welfare checks and food stamps reach recipients on time.

The offices are normally closed Saturday and would have been closed Monday for Lincoln's Birthday.

Church supper

The First Congregational Church of Coventry will have its "Supper of the Month" Feb. 11 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the church. The dinner will consist of roast turkey, appetizer, mashed potato, gravy, vegetable, dessert and beverage. The public is invited. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Welfare Aid

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Social Services Commissioner Edward Maher says state welfare offices will be open Saturday and Monday to help out persons who were unable to process their claims due to the blizzard.

Maher said Thursday, "We are concerned that many people on public assistance have pressing business to report to our offices and have been prevented from doing so."

Distant second

Trying to buck CBS with the Sugar Bowl football game Jan. 2 between Alabama and Ohio State, ABC wound up a distance second in attracting viewers. The Cotton Bowl meeting which saw Notre Dame trounce Texas attracted 23.4 percent of the available viewers while the Sugar Bowl game lured 10.3 percent. Of the four major football bowl games New Year's, the Rose Bowl at Pasadena had the most viewers, 29.2 percent as Washington surprised Michigan and the Orange Bowl meeting between Arkansas and Oklahoma drew 17.8 percent of the viewers. The latter two tilts had no conflicting competition on the tube from the sports tub. Dave Roback, sports publicist at Manchester Community College the past two years, is now a student at the University of South Carolina majoring in photo journalism and has already joined the college paper and his work has been featured in recent editions. East hoop record perfect in three overtime games

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports-writer

Victory is the goal of every team. For East Catholic, it just sometimes takes it a little longer.

The Eagles have played three overtime games this season, and won them all, including last night's 75-69 extra session decision over Xavier High in Middletown.

The triumph pushes East to 2-5 in the Hartford County Conference basketball standings and 8-7 overall. The setback drops the Falcons to 1-6 in conference clashes and 6-9 overall. The two clubs play off again tonight at the Eagles' Nest at 8 o'clock, completing the home-and-home series. It was 61-61 all after 32 minutes

Notes off the cuff

Saturday's UConn-Rhode Island basketball game at Storrs is a sellout. Tickets are still available for the three remaining home UConn games, Feb. 18 against Vermont, Feb. 22 against Boston College and Feb. 25 against Manhattan. Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference reports gross receipts were $5,000 less than a year ago. All-America season football playoffs. Seating capacity at the Springfield Civic Center has been increased from 7,500 to 8,200 for all remaining New England Whaler hockey games in the WHA. The Winnipeg Jets have finally caught the Hawks and each team has now picked up 16 points to pace the standings. The All-American Basketball League which formed several weeks ago has folded. All players were reported to be drawing salaries of $150 a game. Manchester Community College has two basketball games to be made up due to the recent storms. Visitor in Manchester the past few days has been Mike Coppa who for many years was associated with the Little League baseball program in Manchester as a coach. Coppa has resided in Hollywood, Fla., the past seven years. The Boston Celtics final "home" game against the Washington Bullets, originally set for Hartford April 6 has been shifted to the Providence Civic Center. Ernie DiGregorio, ex-PC standout, could be one of the reasons the Celtics picked Rhode Island over the Springfield Civic Center. The Celtics drew poorly in the Bay State last month. State for the New York Knicks to unload Willis Reed as coach. The former Knick star has not been able to cope with several star players and the team is also not winning.

Northville will be the site of the Manchester State Bank's annual children's ski races Saturday morning starting at 10 o'clock. Registration will be from 9 to 10. Competition will be open to all age 6 thru 14. Four divisions are listed for each boys and girls, 6-8, 9-10, 11-12 and 13-15. Trophies will be awarded to top three finishers in each category. The area has been plowed and is reported in good condition.

Rogers stroke ahead of golfers in classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — His fellow pros on the golf tour call Bill Rogers the Panther.

Nervous, fidgety, hyperactive — all those adjectives fit the 26-year-old Texan to a tee. But only off the golf course. On it he becomes the panther, slinking his way around while no one else is looking.

Thursday was a perfect case in point as Rogers shot a 5-under-par 67 for a one-stroke lead after two rounds of the 90-hole, $225,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Five other players — Miller Barber, Lon Hinkle, Danny Edwards, Bill Calfee and Lee Trevino — also had 67s, which seemed remarkable in view of winds which at times were clocked at 40 miles per hour. But all five started the day behind Rogers and they finished it the same way.

Rogers shot a 69 in the opening round, so his 36-hole score is 8-under-par 136.

Barber, who won the Phoenix Open three times, improved enough to land at 7-under 137 along with Tom Watson.

But Palmer plays well on desert courses. Bermuda Dunes is the home course of the four courses they use here, so this year Arnie will play that layout twice, in the fourth round Saturday and the fifth on Sunday. Significantly, four of his five Hope victories came when Bermuda was the host course.

"I didn't know that," said Palmer. "What I do know is that I'm playing reasonably well and that pleases me. Of course, I can't be completely pleased until I win a tournament. But playing here and in this tournament is fun."

Rogers said it took perhaps the best of his short career to shoot 67 Thursday.

"I guess it was as good a round as I played on the tour," he said. "I hit my iron shots solidly and I made all the short putts."

Stock named YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — Mike Stock, former assistant coach at Notre Dame and Wisconsin, was named head football coach at Mid-America Conference power Eastern Michigan.

Stock, 38, replaces Ed Chlebek, who resigned in January to become head coach at Boston College.
