Aid asked by Carter on strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, setting aside collective bargaining for the moment, sought the advice of key congressmen today how to end the record 77-day strike by 160,000 coal miners.

At the same time, one independent coal company reached a tentative settlement of its contract with the United Mine Workers, apparently the first crack in the record-long walkout.

Carter himself spoke with Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, who said he told the president the best recourse was continued negotiations.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and Carter sounded out lawmakers on what administration officials indicated were three options:

—Ordering the miners back to work under the Taft-Hartley Act—a move which UMW President Arnold Miller warned would provoke bloodshed at the mines.

—Submitting the soft coal industry and the UMW to binding arbitration.

—A federal takeover of the mines, under which the government would set "fair" wage and profit levels while the bargaining continues.

Congress would have to approve either of the last two options.

Administration officials said Marshall was shuttling between the House and Senate today to present the options.

Marshall scheduled a midday meeting with Chairman Harrison Williams, D-N.J., of the Senate labor subcommittee. Chairman Frank Thompson of the House labor-management subcommittee was also to be briefed on the "definitive" course of action.

Pittsburgh and Midway Coal Co., a subsidiary of Gulf Oil, climaxed weeks of independent bargaining by reaching a tentative settlement with a bargaining team made up of UMW national negotiators and local union leaders. Although headquartered in Denver, Pand-M has mines in western Kentucky, Kansas and Missouri.

Panama debate resumes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was resuming debate on the Panama Canal treaties today, with an unusual secret session scheduled for Tuesday to consider allegations of drug trafficking by the family of Panama's leader Omar Torrijos.

The treaties were called up in the Senate Feb. 8, but only three days of debate were held on them before the Senate adjourned for a week-long recess, which ended today.

Two directors favor Sunday liquor sale

Two Republican members of the Manchester Board of Directors have asked that the March agenda include a proposal to lift the town's ban on Sunday liquor sales.

Pointing out that Manchester is one of the few towns in the state that has such a ban and that local restaurants lose business on Sundays, Republican Directors Vivian Ferguson and William Diana are supporting the change.

So are many local restaurant owners, some of whom approached the directors about the proposal.

"We're getting much positive response," Mrs. Ferguson said of the idea of lifting the Sunday ban on any liquor sales.

Diana said that Manchester is one of very few towns in the state that has such a Sunday ban.

"People in Manchester are paying the same price for a liquor license as those in other towns, but they're not getting full use of it," he said.

No date set yet for GOP election

No date has been set for the election of the Manchester Republican Party's chairman. Both sides say now that they have enough votes to win.

Present Chairman Thomas Ferguson, who was elected two years ago, is seeking re-election and is being challenged by Scott Clendaniel, an attorney who is a member of the Republican Town Committee.

"As of this time, I'm not worried about retaining the chairmanship," Ferguson said. He said that he feels he has enough support from members of the town committee to keep the party's head position.

One of those supporting Clendaniel is Carl Zinsser, a Republican member of the Manchester Board of Directors. Clendaniel ran Zinsser's successful re-election campaign last year.

"We think we've got a good 30 to 35 votes," Zinsser said. "That's enough to win it."

The winner must receive a majority of votes from the committee members who attend the session when the chairman is elected. Since there are 82 members and perfect attendance is unlikely, the 30 to 35 votes should be enough for Clendaniel, Zinsser said.

The date of the election has not been set by Ferguson. It must be held within two weeks after March 13, the day the town committee members begin serving their next two-year terms.

Treaty backers argue that whether or not the information is damaging to the Torrijos family or to some U.S. officials, who may have tried to conceal it, it has nothing to do with the canal treaties.

Secret sessions are rare in the Senate, and are called only for the most sensitive intelligence and national security discussions.

Tragic raid brings Egypt, Cyprus rift

LARNACA, Cyprus (UPI) — Egypt and Cyprus exchanged angry accusations today over what caused an Entebbe-style hostage rescue by Egyptian commandos to degenerate into a tragic airport gunbattle that killed 15 persons and wounded 22, most of them Egyptians.

Eyewitnesses said that in the midst of the confusion, two Palestinian gunmen who began a weekend of terror Saturday by murdering one of President Anwar Sadat's close friends, surrendered with the 16 hostages they had seized.

The terrorists had commandeered a plane and forced it to fly to Djibouti — and back — in a fruitless search for asylum.

Egypt called an emergency cabinet meeting and dispatched cabinet minister Butros Ghali to Cyprus to try to avert a rupture in diplomatic relations between the two nations enmeshed in a web of terrorism that began Saturday when the gunmen raided a Middle East diplomatic conference.

Cypriot officials blamed the 50-minute rocket, machine gun and mortar battle on the 75 or more Egyptians and said they tried to stage the raid in violation of Cypriot sovereignty just as the Palestinians were about to surrender to the Cypriots.

Cairo said the Cypriots opened fire after the Egyptian commandos rushed the Cyprus Airlines DC-8 hostage plane and captured the killers of Youssef Sebai, editor of the influential Cairo newspaper Al

Ahram who was attending a meeting of an Afro-Asian Solidarity group.

Police put the death toll today at at least 15 — 12 of them Egyptian commandos — and 22 wounded, including seven Cypriot troops and two journalists, a West German and a Cypriot. The bodies of three of the Egyptians were discovered today in wreckage left by the shootout.

The harshest criticism came from Cypriot President Spyros Kyprianou, who was in the airport control tower when it was peppered by Egyptian machine gun fire. He had been there negotiating with the terrorists when the Egyptians attacked. A Cypriot official said he did not believe the placement of the shots was accidental.

The Palestinian gunmen — identified as Samir Mohamed Khadar, 28, of Jordan, and Zayet Hussein al-Ali, 26, of Kuwait — appeared in court today charged with assassinating Sebai, one of Sadat's advisers. The court set Feb. 28 as the date for a preliminary hearing, effectively ruling out an Egyptian call for their extradition.

Cyprus agreed to let the 75 Egyptian commandos who were captured or surrendered, including their commander, go home as soon as they can get transportation. The U.S.-made Hercules C-130 they used to fly into Larnaca was hit by a Cypriot artillery shell and destroyed.

Ghali, who is the Egyptian Deputy Foreign Minister, arrived in Nicosia today to meet with Cypriot officials, who have called the Egyptian raid an unexpected and unacceptable violation of the island nation's sovereignty.

The Egyptians had modeled the raid after the Israeli foray into Uganda's Entebbe airport July 4, 1976, to rescue more than 100 hostages hijacked by Palestinian and West German terrorists. The Israeli raid went off without a hitch.

The Palestinians shot Sebai at the Nicosia Hilton Hotel during a Middle Eastern diplomatic conference, took about 80 hostages and later freed most of them in exchange for a minibus that took them to the airport.

The gunmen freed five hostages in exchange for the DC-8 and took the other 12 hostages and four crewmen on a 24-hour odyssey through the Middle East during which even the most radical Arab nations refused them permission to land.

Only the tiny nation of Djibouti on the horn of Africa allowed the plane to land and refuel, and the plane headed back to Cyprus.

Cypriot officials said the Egyptian's Hercules transport carrying the commandos arrived at Larnaca about 30 minutes after the Cyprus Airways jet returned from Djibouti and back.

A jeopload of Egyptians stormed out off the Hercules and drove toward the jetliner, spraying it with bullets and, according to British pilot Bill Cox, almost blowing it up.

District to ask CCLU about merger voting

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Representatives of the Eighth Utilities District will contact the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union Tuesday to discuss "basic constitutional questions" about the present consolidation effort, a district spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Ted Cummings, one of the leaders of the consolidation move, has challenged district statements that consolidation of the district with the Town of Manchester would result in a tax increase of as much as seven mills to district residents.

The Committee for One Manchester, which includes Democratic Town Chairman Cummings, organized a petition drive to obtain signatures from residents supporting a referendum question on consolidation. The committee filed petitions Friday that it says has signatures from 10 percent of the residents of both the district and non-district areas, the number required to force a referendum.

District representatives, however, have said that many of the signers were misled by petition circulators. They have charged the circulators with "massive fraud."

Because of this, district officials are expected to contact the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union Tuesday. Also, representatives of the district are concerned that the proposed townwide referendum on consolidation would not include a separate vote from the district on the topic. Votes from both the district and non-district areas would be included in one townwide vote total, according to the state's Home Rule Act. The Town Charter, however, says that the district must vote itself out of existence.

This also will be brought up to the state's Civil Liberties Union, the district spokesman said.

"Can something be taken away from us without our making the decision?" the spokesman asked.

The district's committee opposing consolidation, Stop Tampering With the Eighth's American Liberties (STEAL), will submit more withdrawals from the petitions Tuesday. The number of the withdrawals now is 111. It should pass 200 Tuesday.

Cummings said today that district representatives have been saying consolidation will result in a five-to-seven-mill tax increase for district residents.

He does not feel this is so. He said that the present town fire budget is just under $2 million for five firehouses. This is an average cost of $400,000 per house.

Thus, the addition of the district firehouse to be manned full time by paid firefighters would cost about $400,000 and possibly less because several overhead costs are included in the total budget, Cummings said.

With this year's revaluation, he expects a mill of taxes on the Grand List to be worth $450,000 to $500,000. Thus, it will take one mill of taxes on all town properties to meet the cost of operating the firehouse, calculated on an average property value of $20,000, Cummings said.

A mill on this year's Grand List will generate more revenue than past years because of increased property values resulting from revaluation.

District residents now pay a tax of two mills for fire protection, he said.

"Since only one mill of tax is needed under the proposed consolidation plan, the Eighth District property owners will pay less than they pay now," Cummings said.

This figure, however, does not include the town's fire tax being spread to district residents if consolidation occurs. Under consolidation, both district and non-district residents would pay the same amount for fire protection. The present district rate is about five mills less than the town.

With consolidation, Cummings calculated that all residents would pay about five mills. Five mills will cost a taxpayer more in the upcoming year than now because of revalued property, however.

Cummings also said, however, that the district will be paid for equipment and its firehouse if consolidation occurs. Such a payment might be made through a tax break to district residents, he said.

ATLANTA (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says the United States is selling arms to Egypt to bolster the security of President Anwar Sadat and thus the security of Israel.

"I think Israel's security is dependent on Anwar Sadat's staying in power and I think we've got to look at Egypt as really a new ally and treat them as such," Young said Sunday at the dedication of the Martin Luther King Jr. chapel at Atlanta's Morehouse College.

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., has issued a call for an immediate federal probe of possible radiation hazards at the Portsmouth Naval Peter L. Kennedy, attorney for the Rhode Island chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, said he will take the case to the First Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The man identified as "Deep Throat" by H.R. Haldeman says he has proof he was out of the country when the secret informant gave key information about the Watergate scandal.

Fred Fielding, who served as assistant to presidential counsel John Dean, told the Philadelphia Bulletin even though he denied Haldeman's allegations immediately after they were made three weeks ago, he felt he had to prove that he was not "Deep Throat."

Washington the man

Americans are hero-makers but not really hero-worshippers. Like the Greeks, we want our gods to be larger than life yet still lifelike, with at least some of the faults and foibles of ordinary men.

That's why we love Lincoln—not just because he saved the Union or freed the slaves but because of his humanness. A man of the humblest beginnings, a failure for much of his life, Lincoln rose to greatness but was all the greater for remaining always one of the people.

That is why while we admire we do not love Washington, the second greatest figure in the American pantheon. Like Robert E. Lee, he was perhaps too fine, too noble, too patrician for us to be able to identify with.

Patrician—that is the word that describes Washington; one, as Webster defines it, of high birth, distinguished by superior breeding and a high degree of cultivation; a finished gentleman.

Thought

The Apostle Paul told the church at Ephesus—"Be angry but do not sin (Eph. 4:25-27)." How many angry people do you know? Do you get angry? What do people you know do with their anger? I believe one of the major paths to loving relationships is through our anger.

Generalism

(Editor's note: The following is an address given by Gilbert B. Hunt, head of the English Department at Manchester High School, at the induction of 48 students last week into the Verplanck Chapter of the National Honor Society.)

My world, as a Manchester High School student, was much more limited than yours. We didn't even know about the National Honor Society! We had not yet dreamed of this massive building, fuel and energy were cheap and abundant, and the American dollar was the standard of the world.

When I studied chemistry at Yale in 1939, I was taught about the smallest particle of matter capable of independent existence—the atom. Today, we know of more than three dozen sub-atomic particles, and we are discovering more constantly.

This thought of today's vastly expanded horizons—human knowledge is doubling about every eight years now—leads me to my message to you. Oldies such as I and antiquies such as your parents often try to advise young people; we do not want you to make the same ghastly mistakes we made.

Our educational system in America has traditionally been devised to produce narrow specialists. For example, we might write a theme about Shakespeare in our senior English class. In our collegiate English major, we would write our undergraduate paper on "Hamlet." Our master's degree was earned for a thesis on the character of Oedipus in "Hamlet." When we reached for our Ph.D., we wrote for a year on the costume of Oedipus, in "Hamlet!"

The real significance in this episode is that this was the first nuclear-related crisis in space, and it brought forth Soviet cooperation and informal preparations to deal with a potentially serious situation.

Praise long overdue

To the editor: This letter is long overdue. As a resident of South Windsor, for the last 21 years, I would like to take the opportunity through your newspaper to praise the Highway Department for the Town of South Windsor.

Upon taking up residence in this town, my first thought at that time was to write a letter of praise in view of the fact that the highways and byways were so well maintained summer and winter by such a small work force. The years went by, the town grew, along with the work force and the quality of the work remained exemplary.

Have times really changed for the policeman? Read this. It carried the byline of Mary Bronson, and also credited the Police Journal. It was the first annual report of the Manchester Police Mutual Aid Association.

In this country almost all the prestige and moral effect possessed by the policeman is a reflection of and in direct ratio to the confidence reposed in him by the citizens of the city which they police. It is necessary to lay great emphasis on the fact that the more the citizens support the police and respect the law, the greater will be their own security and the better protection they will receive in respect to their persons and property.

Recall that the policeman in uniform, who is such a familiar sight to every dweller in the United States, has solemn duties and heavy responsibilities towards each and every citizen; even to the extent, as often happens, of protecting them against themselves or the consequences of their own folly; and that the least that the citizens can do is to lend their cooperation and active aid to these men in their efforts to maintain law and order, and to compel obedience to the law.

This soldier of peace is a hero, real or potential, as brave and valiant as any soldier who makes his sacrifice upon the field of battle. The soldier of war fights as a part of his great units: he fights under the "American Cop."

MACC news

By JOSEPH SMITH
Project Re-Entry Coordinator
 The days in Somers prison are like a long row of hurdles. Each morning you wake up knowing that although you have one more obstacle behind you, there is yet another one in front of you.

Eventually your period of incarceration comes to an end. You feel elated. You have gotten over the hurdles, one by one, day by day. Unfortunately, the feeling of elation is short-lived. There is one last hurdle confronting you. And this final obstacle, that of reentering the world you have dreamed about for the past several years, may well prove to be the most troublesome.

Helping the ex-offender to overcome this last difficult barrier is one of the aims of Project Re-Entry, the part of MACC's Project Service which was set up to deal with the special problems facing persons returning to the community after spending time in a correctional facility. The program, designed also to help meet the needs of those who have been in mental institutions, has assisted more than 20 people since its inception in November.

Cab panel member asked to step down

An attorney has asked that one of the Greater Hartford Transit District panel members who sat on a hearing for taxi service in East Hartford step down because of remarks made to the press after the hearing.

Attorney representing the applicant, Dial-A-Ride of Connecticut Inc., said, however, that he feels there is no need for DellaRipa to step down.

Attorney Morton Appleton sent a letter to the executive director of the Greater Hartford Transit District and asked that Gary DellaRipa, a member of the district's three-member panel who heard the Dial-A-Ride application, step down.

DellaRipa was quoted in The Herald as saying he favored a system similar to the one presented by Dial-A-Ride, a Manchester firm that now operates a taxi service for Manchester and South Windsor and the Call-A-Ride service in East Hartford.

The three-member panel that includes DellaRipa heard the Dial-A-Ride application at its Jan. 24 meeting.

In his letter, Appleton also mentioned a previous application by Capitol Cab Co. and City Cab Service Inc. The firm had sought to take over the services of the East Hartford Taxi Co., which went out of business last year. That application was denied by the Greater Hartford Transit District, but the decision is being appealed.

Attorney Josiah Lessner, who represents Dial-A-Ride, said that he feels there is no need for DellaRipa to step down.

"Anything he did after the hearing is without prejudice," Lessner said. He said that Appleton, who was involved in the Capitol Cab Co. application, is "just blowing smoke. He annoyed that his application was denied."

Arthur Handman, the district's executive director, said he could not comment on the request because it involves a pending case.

DellaRipa could not be reached for comment.

Lessner also said that he has filed a finding of fact, which summarizes evidence related to the application for the Dial-A-Ride request. The firm wants to operate four taxis in East Hartford. That number eventually would increase to seven, according to the applicants.

The three-member Greater Hartford Transit District panel will vote on the application. All three members must agree on the decision or the application is sent to the entire district membership for a vote.

Coventry house damaged by fire

A fire apparently caused by a broken gasoline line in a car caused extensive damage at the home of Truman Williams, Cooper Lane, Coventry, Saturday afternoon.

Williams had been working under the car when the line broke. Apparently the gasoline came into contact with an electric work light and the car burst into flames, fire officials said.

The fire spread to the garage and an attached shed and started to burn through a wall connecting the house to the garage.

Fire officials said a motorcycle and farm equipment were also damaged by the fire and some antique furniture, walls and floors were damaged.

The 24-year-old home belongs to Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams.

The Coventry Fire Department was assisted by North Coventry, Eggleston, Andover, and the University of Connecticut fire departments.

James G. Vinick, 18, of 35 Greenwood Drive was charged with reckless driving in connection with an accident Saturday night in which his car went out of control on Main Street north of Russell Street.

Police said Vinick's car was traveling north on Main Street at an excessive rate of speed when it went out of control, hit a snowbank, traveled 42 feet in the air and landed, hit a sign 81 feet from the street, traveled across some driveways and struck a house.

He was not injured. Court date is March 7.

Two detectives from the East Hartford Police Department went to Las Vegas to pick up Benoit who had turned himself in to authorities there.

Anthony Rinaldi, 60, of 75 Lewis St., South Windsor, and his wife, Margaret, were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital, police said.

Police said witnesses said the Rinaldi car went through a red light and collided with the Pafford car. The accident is still under investigation.

Police are also investigating an accident early today on Route 5 involving a South Windsor fire truck and a car.

Police said the fire truck, called to a fire at the Sunoco station on Route 5, was backing north in the southbound lane and struck a car driven by Zigmund Dziedzicki, 21, of

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is not having enough strength to break up with a guy I've been going with for nearly three years. He's 24 and I'm 23. I have become emotionally involved with him that it's tearing me apart because I know he's playing me for a fool.

He never takes me anywhere unless it's my treat, and for the last three years, he has always managed to pick a fight with me just before the holidays so he doesn't have to buy me anything. (I always give him something, however.) We've talked about marriage, but he's careful never to get pinned down to a date.

I'd like to have a home and kids, Abby, and when this time is over, there is nobody in the world sweeter, but most of the time I'm walking around with an aching heart. How can I either get him to marry me or forget about him for good?

ACHING HEART

DEAR ABBY: I doubt that you can get him to marry you, which is a break for you. Tell him it's over and please do you a favor and stay out of your life. Keep busy with other thoughts, other activities and other people. I don't want my mother to think my friend had taken them, so I said I had "borrowed" them and left them somewhere.

Now I am being punished, but I would almost rather take the punishment than have my mother think my girlfriend is a thief. Abby, I turned the house upside down looking for those comies, and they were there!

Should I tell my mother I had nothing to do with it, and it just had to be that girl? Or should I take the punishment and let it go?

HIGHLAND PARK

DEAR H.P. PARK: If you can catch your girlfriend with the evidence, do so and give her a chance to confess to the stolen goods. If you can't, tell your mother that you didn't take her comies and that you lied to protect a friend who may not have deserved it.

DEAR ABBY: The first six years of our marriage we had four singles and a pair of twins. My work was never done, and I felt tired and dragged out all the time. Naturally, I took it on my husband. The poor guy used to sit in bars just to get away from my nagging and complaining.

Then I read a letter in your column from a woman whose situation was almost identical to mine. In your answer you said, "Mothers of small children tend to forget that their husbands need love and attention, too. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and concentrate on your husband. No matter how many complaints you have, keep quiet, and find something to compliment him on. Tell him you're proud of him. Well, I felt like killing him, so I was willing to try anything. At first it was a real effort to be nice to him, but I forced myself. Pretty soon I discovered that the nice I was to him the sweeter he was to me.

That was a year ago, and I am just getting around to thanking you for an answer to a letter that I didn't write.

Council, school board set meetings Tuesday

Because today is a legal holiday, the East Hartford Board of Education and the Town Council will meet Tuesday.

The school board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Penney High School. The council will meet at 8 p.m. at Town Hall. A public hearing concerning an amendment to the Code of Ordinances to allow the director of public works to issue regulations governing refuse collection is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the council chamber.

The board of education is expected to take action on two items tabled at its last regular meeting. Board member Joseph Vignillo's proposal to provide transportation on a uniform basis in town was made after the board granted transportation during the winter months to walk to Forbes Street north of the school.

The administration will ask the board to reconsider that decision as temporary conditions should not alter board policy.

A vote on the agenda revising the board's meeting agenda is also scheduled.

The revised agenda places business of major interest to the public at the beginning of the meeting. Internal board business and the executive session make up the next order of business. Routine financial statements and reports that require no action are at the end of the proposed agenda. Under the former agenda these items took time earlier in the meeting.

The revised agenda includes an audience time at every meeting. Presently, audience time is allowed only at the first regular meeting of the month.

The public may comment on meeting agenda items at other meetings.

Dr. Jerry Marcus, assistant superintendent for personnel, will ask for board authorization to hire additional CETA personnel.

According to the Marcus report, his office is asking for $27,742 to employ 95 persons. The proposed projects would add personnel at every school level. Reading tutors, math tutors, guidance technicians, health aides, and attendant aides would account for 52 positions.

Twenty educational specialists in the arts would staff a multi-arts talent program for students at all levels who demonstrate a high level of ability in at least two talents. The talents considered are art, music, drama, humanities and dance (movement).

A coordinator and office personnel would also be hired for this program.

Two athletic trainers and locker room attendants are being requested for the town's two high schools.

A task force of 12 people to coordinate the activities of all CETA personnel has also been proposed.

The town council is expected to make an appointment to fill the seat vacated by Republican James Corrier.

Arthur Mulligan, director of public works, and John Cummings, director of city defense, are scheduled to report to the council.

Mayor Richard Blackstone will ask for council approval of two appointments to the Human Rights Commission. Blackstone appointed Lee Palino to three year term and Carol Colbeth to fill the unexpired term of Michael Whelton.

Recreation department sets vacation programs

The East Hartford Department of Parks and Recreation has scheduled a variety of programs for the February school vacation.

In addition to the regular night basketball programs, the following gyms will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Friday: Goodwin, O'Brien, Pitkin, Woodland, Sunset and Mayberry.

Penney and East Hartford High School swimming pools will be open for recreational swimming from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in addition to the regular night schedule.

Also, an all-day movie program is planned Wednesday at East Hartford High School. Students in kindergarten through Grade 5 may attend a movie from 10 a.m. to noon, Grades 6-8, from 2 to 4 p.m.; and high school students and adults, 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Supervised skating will be available at Martin and Gorman Parks, weather permitting, from 10 a.m. to noon; 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m.

For additional information, contact the Parks and Recreation office, 288-2781, extension 317, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The movie program will feature a Three Stooges movie for the younger children plus some cartoons, an adventure film for the middle group and a suspense thriller and Three Stooges short films for the older group.

Supervision will be provided. Proof of residency will be required.

Cab panel member asked to step down

An attorney has asked that one of last year's Greater Hartford Transit District panel members who sat on a hearing for tax service in East Hartford step down because of remarks made to the press after the hearing.

An attorney representing the applicant, Dial-A-Ride of Connecticut Inc., said, however, that he feels there is no need for the member to step down.

Attorney Morton Appleton sent a letter to the executive director of the Greater Hartford Transit District and asked that Gary DellaRipa, a member of the district's three-member panel who heard the Dial-A-Ride application, step down.

DellaRipa was quoted in The Herald as saying he favored a system similar to the one presented by Dial-A-Ride, a Manchester firm that now operates a taxi service for Manchester and South Windsor and the Call-A-Ride service in East Hartford. That number eventually would increase to seven, according to the applicant.

The three-member panel that includes DellaRipa heard the Dial-A-Ride application at its Jan. 24 meeting.

In his letter, Appleton also mentioned a previous application by Capitol Cab Co. and City Cab Service Inc. The firm had sought to take over the services of the East Hartford Taxi Co., which went out of business.

The Greater Hartford Transit District panel will vote on the application. All three members must agree on the decision or the application is sent to the entire district membership for a vote.

Both high schools in CCIL tourney

In contrast to last year when Penney was tied for first place and the Hornets were on the bottom of the league, both East Hartford teams will play in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League championship tournament this year.

Penney with a 16-2 league record, is undisputed holder of the No. 1 spot.

East Hartford's final standing will be decided Tuesday night when they play Simsbury. Both have 11-5 league records. East Hartford won the first meeting. Their second meeting was stopped by snow.

All middle school and high school students are eligible to join the junior group. Applications may be obtained from the social studies teacher or the principal of the school attended.

Woodland, Mayberry, and Sunset Ridge, South division teams are O'Connell, Syle, Pitkin, Hockanum, and Goodwin.

Members of the winning team in each division will be awarded individual trophies. The two division champs will meet to determine the town champions. Championship trophies will be awarded.

All teams will be coached by gymnasium supervisors and officiated by competent personnel.

Town hoop playoff to begin Tuesday

A town basketball tournament, for boys in Grades 7 and 8, will start Tuesday under the supervision of the East Hartford Department of Parks and Recreation.
