Coal negotiators summoned to talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Ray Marshall called coal strike negotiators together today as the union spurned a management offer to settle their 79-day-old walkout with private, binding arbitration.

Marshall scheduled an afternoon meeting with United Mine Workers negotiators and the Labor Department said representatives of the UMW and Bituminous Coal Operators Association would meet tonight for the first time since Saturday.

"We're going to get them together," a department official said of the evening meeting.

Management's call for voluntary — instead of government-mandated — arbitration was not well received by the union.

"No, we are not," said a union spokesman when asked if the UMW was considering private arbitration. At the White House, a source said administration officials held "very little hope that the union would accept" such a move.

President Carter, pushing collective bargaining as the first answer, has put off more drastic moves such as a Taft-Hartley back-to-work order, federal takeover of the mines, or binding arbitration set up by the government. The later two require congressional action.

The BCOA said both sides should voluntarily choose a private panel of impartial arbitrators as "the fairest approach" to decide on the merits of the latest contract offer.

That contract was rejected overwhelmingly by the union when formal negotiations broke off Saturday morning at 3 a.m.

The governor of Indiana — "astounded" at lack of congressional action — demanded immediate federal intervention in the coal strike that is slowly strangling his state's economy.

But governors of four other coal-producing states urged Congress to keep its hands off the explosive issue and allow the negotiating process to run its course.

For 160,000 striking members of the United Mine Workers union, shipments of "scab coal" from non-union mines spawned rage and violence as the creeping paralysis of the 79-day-old walkout spread.

Begin asks renewal of talks with Egypt

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin has proposed an immediate resumption of Israeli-Egyptian peace talks and U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton is taking the proposal to Egypt.

Atherton spent a total of 3 1/2 hours Tuesday with Begin, Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, Defense Minister Ezer Weizman and Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin. He was continuing his Middle East shuttle today with a trip to Cairo.

Begin said he proposed, during a one-hour, 40-minute meeting with Atherton, that Israel and Egypt resume the military and political talks stalled since January.

"I made a suggestion to Assistant Secretary Atherton that both the committees — the military and the political — renew their deliberations, the military in Cairo and the political in Jerusalem...." Begin said.

Atherton said he intended to convey the latest Israeli views to Egyptian leaders today on the second stop of his Middle East shuttle.

In Moscow, Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev Tuesday called Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative in the Middle East "an unprincipled political maneuver" dangerous to Arab interests. It was his first direct comment on the Israeli-Egyptian peace effort.

Brezhnev made the remark at a dinner honoring Syrian President Hafez Assad, who is in Moscow seeking support for his anti-Sadat stand and more Soviet weapons.

Although Begin is proposing immediate resumption of the political and military talks, diplomatic sources in Jerusalem cited a recent statement by Sadat precluding such a development as long as a declaration of principles for a comprehensive Middle East settlement is not worked out.

Further, Dayan was quoted by the opposition newspaper Davar as pressing for resumption of the talks at some in-between point in the Sinai Desert instead of Cairo or Jerusalem.

This would keep negotiations away from the limelight and lessen the temptation for either party to stage dramatic walkouts.

Begin said he wrote President Carter Tuesday advising him Dayan and Weizman would accompany him on his Washington visit March 14-15. The two key ministers head the Israeli delegations to the political and military talks, stalled over the Palestinian issue and the problem of Israeli settlements in Sinai.

Carnivals get OK but PZC must act

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night approved an amendment permitting carnivals in town, but the town's Planning and Zoning Commission still has to okay the proposal.

The directors actually approved two amendments concerning carnivals. One permits the chief of police to grant written permission for events such as carnivals. The second prohibits such events except for "civic, fraternal, religious, educational, charitable or similar non-profit organizations."

Director Joseph Sweeney proposed further amendments that would assure that only Manchester organizations could hold such events in town and that only the organizations would profit from the proceeds. These were approved by the board members, who unanimously supported the entire package.

Carnivals had been held in Manchester in the past, but last July attorney Victor Moses, who was then town counsel, ruled that town laws do not permit carnivals.

He said that a change would be required in town regulations to permit such events in the future.

Directors William Diana and John FitzPatrick then proposed the amendments permitting carnivals, which the directors approved Tuesday night.

The directors held a public hearing on the proposal which drew several speakers, primarily from St. Bridget Church and the Knights of Columbus, who favored carnivals. Both the organizations have held carnivals or bazaars in past years.

Diana praised the board's decision to permit carnivals.

"It's just good, clean family fun. That's what we want in Manchester," he said.

FitzPatrick added, "This gives us an opportunity to help organizations that have spent a lot of volunteer time and money to help the needy. We certainly don't want to bring in anything that would be disreputable to the town."

The PZC now must approve a change in the zoning regulations, a step that it has not taken in the past.

PZC Chairman Alfred Sieffert said this morning that he would not comment on the proposed change before a PZC public hearing on the topic. The hearing is expected to be held at the commission's April meeting.

In January, however, a similar proposal to permit carnivals was rejected by the PZC. Sieffert and other members spoke against such events being held in town.

The directors also approved the proposed contract between the Board of Education and the school administrators. Both of the parties involved in the negotiations previously had approved the contract.

The board voted to purchase 11.17 acres from the Hartford Electric Light Co. for $56,600. The land will be used in the industrial park.

Mayor Stephen Penny questioned buying the land at this time when a decision about the movement of power lines has been finalized, but he agreed to the purchase because of the relatively low price.

Loan OK'd to enlarge print firm

The state Department of Commerce Tuesday approved lending $2.8 million to help five Connecticut companies, including one in Manchester, expand.

The Department of Commerce approved an $885,000 loan to Allied Printing Services Inc. of 579 W. Middle Turnpike. The loan is still "somewhat tentative" because it also must be approved by a local bank, a spokesman for the company said.

The loan is being sought through both the bank — Hartford National Bank & Trust — and the state department, he said.

If the loan is approved, the company plans to purchase the property where its plant is now located. It now leases the site. It also wants to purchase 4.3 acres to the rear of its present two-acre site.

This additional land would be considered for possible future expansion, the company spokesman said.

Commerce Commissioner Edward Stockton said the financing for the five companies will be in the form of revenue bonds and small business loans and will help save 410 jobs while creating 106 new ones.

The other four firms that were approved for funding from the Department of Commerce are Raybestos-Manhattan Inc. of Trumbull, $1.9 million; Audioanalyst Inc. of New Milford, $1,250; Contact Systems Inc. of Danbury, $25,000; and Wallingford Auto Co. of Wallingford, $25,000.

Today's news summary

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A final decision on whether to build the Rhode Island segment of Interstate 84 has been delayed until opponents of the proposed highway have a last chance to present their case.

An organization called Stop I-84 will make its final pitch to the state transportation committee studying the Hartford-to-Providence artery, Michael F. Ryan, an aide to Rhode Island Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy, said Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's highest court has rejected a challenge to the constitutionality of Connecticut's dividends tax, allowing state budgetary officials to sigh with relief.

The U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday dismissed an argument that the levy discriminates against elderly and married persons filing jointly. The justices acted in a brief order, without opinion.

The court decision is the final word in a lengthy challenge to the legality of the tax, which brings in about $32 million to state coffers.

BOSTON (UPI) — An environmental study shows even the most remote of New England's 5,000 lakes are affected by pollution due to increased urbanization, and a coordinated effort is needed to stop their deterioration.

A report released Tuesday by the New England Council of Water Center Directors said: "Pollution problems experienced in lakes in heavily populated areas of New England are not a 'local' problem, but part of a broader pollution pattern which has already affected even the region's most rural areas."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has rejected an appeal from Delta Air Lines claiming the federal government should help pay millions of dollars in damages to families of 83 passengers killed in a 1973 Boston plane crash.

Delta charged negligence by a federal air controller contributed to the disaster, and it wanted the government to share damages it is required to pay to estates of passengers.

But the justices, in a brief order issued today, let stand without comment lower court rulings that the federal government is not liable.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has reported its coal stocks down to a 24-day supply and has discovered its request for a voluntary 20 percent reduction in electricity use is not even being considered by industries, whose officials said they could not make the reduction and stay in business.

The same story essentially is reported in many states because of the United Mine Workers' 79-day-old strike. Indiana's governor has demanded federal intervention, but governors of West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania did not agree. They said union and management officials should settle their differences.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today the Senate goes into its second day of secret sessions to look at drug trafficking allegations against Panama's Gen. Omar Torrijos, some of his family and other high Panamanian officials.

Drug trafficking by Panamanian officials prompted the Nixon administration in 1973 to consider assassinating a key Panamanian official, the Senate was told Tuesday. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate's Intelligence Committee, said the assassination was not carried out, but other devious means were used to pressure Panama into cracking down on drug traffickers.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Tuesday rejected the University of Missouri's appeal from a lower court order that would have required recognition of Gay Lib as a student group on campus. Lawrence Eggleston, a homosexual, said attitudes have changed so much in the past 7 years that formal recognition of Gay Lib on campus would come as no shock.

Two hostages released by nervous bank robber

EATON, Ohio (UPI) — A nervous bank robber who had held a man and his two children hostage in a shot-up automobile for more than 20 hours today released the two boys, kept the father and fled in a car provided by authorities.

The car was chased by Ohio

Highway Patrol officers, the FBI and local authorities heading east on Interstate 70.

The bank robber, who had threatened to fire a pistol "into this kid's head and then his father's" released the two boys but kept the father after authorities agreed to provide him with a car, some gasoline and a head start.

The bank robber, tentatively identified as Don Patterson, took Robert Herrman of Eldorado, Ohio, and his two sons, Rob, 10, and Mike, 6, hostage at a store in Richmond, Ind., following an unsuccessful bank robbery. Patterson's accomplice, Richard E. Baker, 44, Springfield, Ohio, was shot and wounded and taken into custody in Richmond.

The bank robber earlier had threatened to fire a pistol "into this kid's head and then his father's" unless he was given a getaway car not followed.

Patterson, who uses the citizens band radio handle "Silver Streak," has been negotiating with authorities since Tuesday night.

The bank robber agreed to release the two children but will keep the father and in return authorities said they will give him a car with a half tank of gasoline and a 45-minute head start.

Hospital selects nursing director

Mrs. Sandra Muller, R.N., B.S.N., has been named director of nurses at Manchester Memorial Hospital by Edward M. Kenney, administrator.

Mrs. Muller succeeds Mrs. Mary Sterud who retired recently.

Mrs. Muller comes to Manchester from Hartford Hospital where she was assistant director of nursing since 1973. She was responsible for all aspects of medical-surgical nursing, including the intensive and cardiac care units.

Before coming to Hartford she was assistant director of nursing at Missouri Baptist Hospital, St. Louis, Mo.

She had also previously served as cardio-vascular nurse specialist instructor at Methodist Hospital in Houston, Texas, under the supervision of Dr. Michael DeBakey, world-famous transplant surgeon. During that period, while acting supervisor of the operating room, Mrs. Muller participated in Dr. DeBakey's first heart transplant.

She received her nursing education at the University of Cincinnati where she received her bachelor's degree in nursing. She did postgraduate training at both the University of Houston and at St. Louis University.

Mrs. Muller lives with her husband in Cromwell where they are active in community affairs especially on the political scene.

10 town CETA workers stand to lose positions

A proposed regulation to limit persons hired through federal funded programs to 18 months on the job could affect 10 Comprehensive Employment Training Act employees working in Manchester. It is a situation that does not please Charles McCarthy Jr., assistant town manager.

"We've got a lot of employees who have been here more than 18 months," he said, referring to the CETA program. As of September, the town had 17 CETA employees. Ten of them have been here at least 18 months, McCarthy said. Since September, the town has hired an additional 23 CETA employees who eventually could be affected by the 18-month limit. Steven Werber, the town's personnel technician, said.

"The U.S. Department of Labor recently notified the City of Hartford that it has rejected the city's request for a waiver of the requirement to limit federal program jobs to 18 months."

CCLU stand on Nazis costly

HARTFORD (UPI)—The director of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union says the national organization's fight for the right of American Nazis to parade in a predominantly Jewish community in Illinois has taken a heavy financial and membership toll.

CCLU Director William Olds said Tuesday the state group's membership dropped from about 6,000 in 1976 to 5,000 this year. In addition, he said, financial contributions to the CCLU have declined about 19 per cent since the American Civil Liberties Union began fighting so American Nazis could demonstrate with swastikas in Skokie, Ill.

established as one to develop permanent positions in local governments. It was intended as a springboard to provide training for employees who would then seek permanent private employment.

If the 18-month limit stands, it would affect almost all communities in the state. McCarthy said that the enforcement of the 18-month limit is not expected to take place until the beginning of the new federal fiscal year Oct. 1. But he does not like the possibility.

Olds said although it's impossible to gauge how many persons have resigned their memberships because of the Skokie controversy, he has received 12 resignation letters citing the ACLU's defense of Nazis. "There's no doubt that the Skokie thing is involved," Olds said, "but some may have dropped out because of our stand on abortion or something else."

affected first by such a limit include some in the following departments: public works, controller, town clerk, engineering, manager, water and sewer and human services.

Survivor knew his family was gone

Twelve-year-old Jeff Mudd spent 12 hours surrounded by the bodies of his parents, two younger sisters and a brother while he waited to be rescued from the wreckage of a twin-engine plane.

On Monday searchers hampered by a winter storm finally found the Wyoming crash site where the plane went down, killing five members of the Mudd family and their pilot.

He appeared to be quite coherent for what he'd been through," said Converse County Sheriff Dean Parks. "One of the first things he asked was 'What day is it?'. I know my family's gone.'"

Two other Mudd children were not on the plane, which was returning from Salt Lake City, where the Mudds used to live. The cause of the crash was not immediately known, but at the time of the crash Sunday night a severe front was passing through the area, packing snow and high winds.

Sharing the wealth

Speaking of trends, there's an interesting one among the nation's affluent.
As the statistics figure it, these are the households with minimum family incomes of $22,000 annually. There are 11 million of them currently, 20 percent of all families, and they account for more than 40 percent of total consumer spending power in the United States.

economic research organization, 77 percent of upper-income families have two (or more) wage earners. Ten years ago it was 30 percent.
In most such households, the second paycheck is that of a working wife - 54 percent of all in the affluent category.

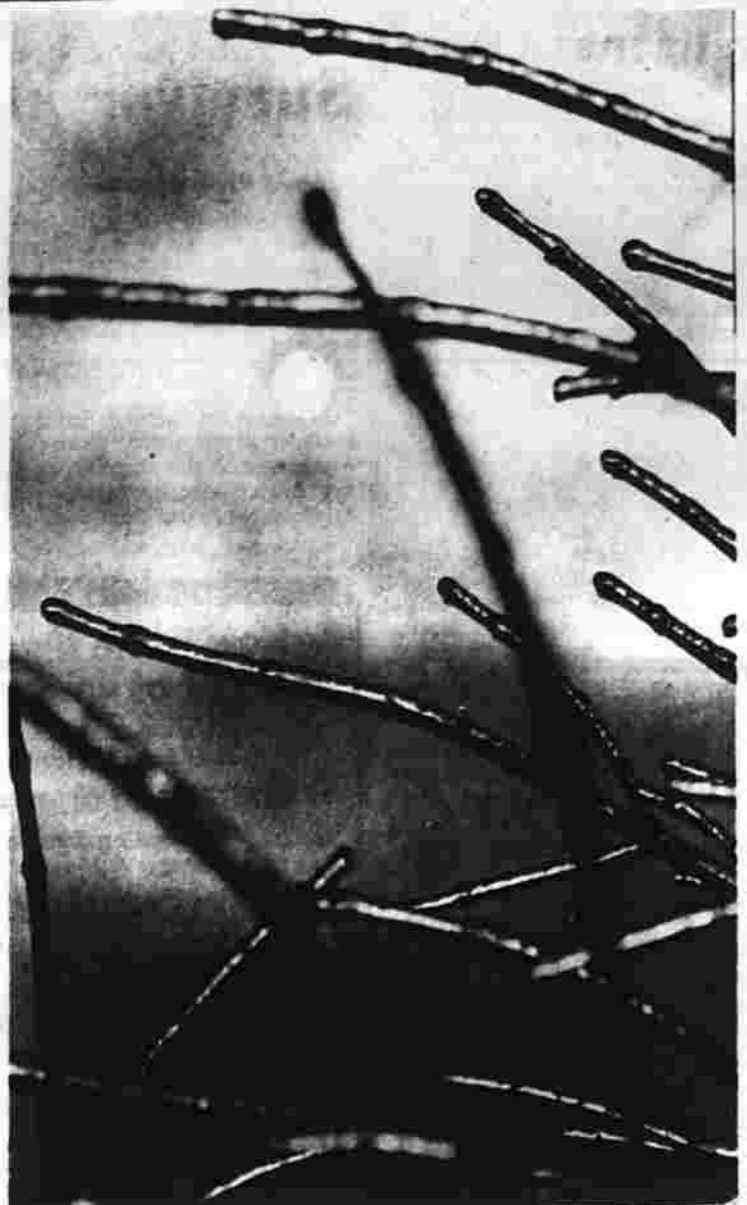

Big spenders

It should come as no surprise to any adult with one in the house, but the teen-ager represents a big and growing market in today's economy.
According to a recent poll, teenage spending reached a record $28.7 billion in 1977, up

$2.6 billion from the previous year. This wasn't all comic books and soft drinks. The trend, according to the Rand Youth Poll, is toward big-ticket items - TVs and cars.
Call us the super-affluent society.

Something came over me this morning while I was ironing and my two-year-old, who had been bugging me since 7 a.m., cried and pulled on my leg because I wouldn't read him a story.

Thoughts

"Love and anger"
What do you notice about hurt feelings? How do people react when their feelings are hurt?
More than anything else, most of us want to be loved. When we do not feel loved, when we feel rejected, we hurt. Sometimes the hurt of rejection is so painful to experience and express that it comes out as anger.

Politics
Iearson
A present member and former member of the Manchester Board of Directors both have said that they are supporting Scott Cendaniel for Republican town chairman.

frustration and anger and the closest persons to take that out on is our children.
Letter 2: "It's good to know there is a group that's so concerned about each other, that basically share the same problems, and try to find answers to those problems.
Hurtling your own child is the beginning of destruction of your own peace of mind and health. It's hard to accept the fact that family life isn't the way it's been presented on TV or in storybooks where everyone lives happily ever after.
Learning to cope in everyday life is where the problem is and learning not to take it out on others or ourselves is what it's all about."

Let district decide

To the editor:
These people paint a glowing picture of generalities, but neglect some basic, specific facts:
Regardless of whether the 8th Utilities District consolidates or not, the people of the Town of Manchester will still have the same terrible water, we will still pay the same 115 percent sewer charge figured on our water consumption, although it may be inequitable, and we will still have the protection of the same professional firemen who are doing just a job.

District history

To the editor:
There seems to be a great deal of misstatement circulating about the current dispute regarding consolidation. It would seem that a lesson in history is called for to help people understand what the dispute is all about.
In the first place the volunteer fire department, located within the 8th Utilities District is the Manchester Fire Department. During the past fiscal year, ending May 31, 1977, there were 360 responses to fire calls and inspections were made to places of public assembly, schools, apartments and private residences, when requested.

News for senior citizens

Hi there! Tomorrow afternoon you are in for a real treat because our good friend Annie Johnston will present some super colorful slides on her recent trip to Israel.
May we invite you to spend part of the day with us, starting with a tasty ham dinner with all the trimmings at noon, and then you'll be all set for the entertainment which starts around 1 p.m.

Careers and Curricula

Connecticut is caught in a skilled-labor crunch. The gap is growing between job openings in industry and the availability of young people to fill them.
The average age of Connecticut's skilled craftsmen is in the 50s. The rub is that, as older workers retire, not enough young people are training, or motivated to seek the right training, to fill the jobs opening up.
Among parents, students, and teachers, the notion is widespread that a college degree is the only way to a career offering good pay and upward mobility.
For those who don't go on to college, Connecticut industry offers good jobs requiring high skill and craftsmanship, particularly in the metalworking trades.

Grasso turns other cheek as best political tactic

HARTFORD (UPI) — The reason Gov. Ella T. Grasso is ignoring Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian's increasingly can't help it might hurt.

Mrs. Grasso and Killian are battling for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and she is considered a strong favorite.

But winning the nomination is only half the battle and Mrs. Grasso is looking to the general election where a strong Republican challenge is expected.

She doesn't want to alienate disgruntled Democrats because even though they may support Killian now, she needs them in November for the fight against the Republicans.

The best way to do that is turning the other cheek to Killian's charges. Killian, on the other hand, can't afford the luxury of thinking about the November election.

He has to put everything he's got into the nomination fight. If he wins that he has to hope the Democrats' outnumber Republicans by more than 200,000 in Connecticut — will kiss and make up in time for the general election.

Because of that he has been firing away at Mrs. Grasso, accusing her of building a budget surplus "on the suffering of kids, and those who are mentally ill and mentally retarded."

Mrs. Grasso, who built her political reputation initially as a champion of the needy, refuses to join the fray.

"Campaigns are a full opportunity for comment. I don't think we should censor them," was the way she said on comment last week when asked about Killian's approach.

At virtually every news conference Mrs. Grasso has held in recent months she has passed up chances to criticize Killian.

Killian's challenge for the nomination is unprecedented in Connecticut and the only reason he has gotten this far is because Mrs. Grasso has alienated many of the supporters who helped her to a 1974 landslide victory.

Mrs. Grasso, aware of this, has no desire to make any more enemies and has sought to be as conciliatory as possible.

She even said she would be willing to mend the rift if Killian wanted to sit down and settle their dispute. But she acknowledged that was unlikely.

There are no major ideological differences between the two candidates and his support comes from those who just don't like her — a feeling Killian seems to share.

Mrs. Grasso and Killian have never been close and their agreement to share the ticket in 1974 was one of the last deals made by the late Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey.

Few give Killian any chance to win the state convention nomination in July, although it is likely he will get the 20 percent of the delegates needed to qualify for a September primary.

If that occurs, Mrs. Grasso faces the prospect of spending the next six months biting her tongue.

Complaint made over vibration from ice plant

Another noise complaint was filed at the recent Manchester Board of Directors comment session by a neighbor of the Manchester Ice & Fuel Co., 51 Bissell St. The man said that noise and vibration from the plant keeps him awake at night. Some residents of the area complained last summer about the noise.

A couple said that snow piled up at the corner of Hayes and Main streets makes it difficult for emergency vehicles to get by. The intersection is near Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The man also said that he sees young recipients of town welfare food vouchers using the vouchers to purchase such items as magazines and junk food.

Mary DellaFera, Manchester's director of social services, said that the town has little control over the use of the vouchers. The vouchers are marked so that they can't be used for liquor, and the town asks that merchants contact the town if it appears the vouchers are being misused.

Manchester maintains more control than many communities that just issue cash, she said.

A Woodbridge Street resident complained that trucks and cars frequently exceed the 30 miles per hour speed limit posted on the road.

Another man praised the town for its work on plowing streets during the recent storms. He said, however, that there is no place for buses to park near St. James School. He also said that the town dumped chunks of ice in his driveway.

Another resident said that housing for the elderly in town should be limited to Manchester residents. He also said that carnivals should be permitted as long as the sponsors are Manchester organizations.

Director William Diana was in charge of the session.

Foes of Concorde call it failure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kennedy Airport's neighbors gave the Concorde SST its first report card after three months of daily operations. Not surprisingly, the plane flunked.

"It flunked both its noise and operational tests here," said Carol Berman, co-chairman of the Citizens Committee to Stop the SST. "The Concorde is by far the noisiest plane on both landing and takeoff every day at Kennedy."

At a meeting with Concorde opponents, Mrs. Berman said the Federal Aviation Administration has received 700 noise complaints about the jet since Air France and British Airways began regular Concorde service to and from Kennedy Airport Nov. 22.

"When I called the FAA they told me the Concorde is the only plane that trips its noise-monitoring devices," Mrs. Berman said.

Many adult students

HARTFORD (UPI) — Part-time and adult students make up more than 60 percent of the enrollment at Connecticut's community colleges, a state report shows.

Kenneth Elterich, author of the enrollment report, which was released Monday, said students over 21 comprise 61 percent of the 27,943 students attending community college.

Five years ago, he said, adult students accounted for only 44 percent of the junior college enrollments.

In addition, the report showed seven out of 10 students at the community colleges are employed part-time while attending school.

Carlyle Johnson marks its 75th anniversary

Celebrating its 75th anniversary, the Carlyle Johnson Machine Co. at 52 Main St. is one of the oldest manufacturing establishments in Manchester.

The company moved to its present location in 1909 from Hartford. At that time there were only 20 employees who got their jobs by catching brooms thrown out of a second floor door by a foreman. The brooms were used as a method of selecting the new employees who were immediately put to work cleaning up the quantities of flour on the floors, walls and ceilings of the former Eastern Biscuit Co.

Today there are 65 full-time employees plus additional part-time workers.

Since its inception, the company has specialized in design and manufacture of clutches and brakes. Initially they were used on machine tools which made parts for other machines.

Today Carlyle Johnson's Maxitorg clutches and brakes start, stop or control machinery-making parts for many common every-day products, including automobiles and trucks, washing machines and clothes dryers, and many other household appliances.

The company's founder, Moses Carlyle Johnson, developed and made the first friction clutch in 1894 while an employee of the Pratt & Whitney Co. The clutch was installed on a P&W turret lathe and proved to be a great success. The patent was assigned to the company, but Johnson reserved the right to start his own business manufacturing clutches at a later date.

In 1900, Johnson and some local investors incorporated the Helix Gear Co. in Hartford and started the manufacture of the Johnson clutch at the factory of Asa S. Cook Co. The company was limited to a bare existence at first and did not start to prosper until Johnson patented three new ideas and got financial backing from John and Henry Stambaugh, financiers of iron and steel foundries in Ohio.

In 1903, the Carlyle Johnson Machine Co. was incorporated in Ohio. The new corporation absorbed the Helix Gear Co. and the Johnson clutch patents. Johnson was named superintendent and production began on Asylum Street in Hartford.

The three new patents resulted in a clutch that was universally applicable to line and counter shafting widely used at the time as well as all kinds of machinery and wherever transmission of power was required.

The Stambaughs picked their most promising young financial manager, Scott H. Simon, in 1904 to take charge of office details at the Carlyle Johnson plant in Hartford. He replaced the former treasurer, later becoming general manager, and in 1908 bought out Johnson's interest in the corporation.

The company grew rapidly at that time, requiring additional space. In 1909, the company moved to Main Street in Manchester.

Among those who helped with the growth of the company were John M. Miller, who served as assistant treasurer and treasurer from 1920 to 1960, J.S. Wolcott, corporate secretary for many years and Allen Coe and Carl Borat.

Coe, Tom Glesney and Herb Tenney were instrumental in developing the Maxitorg manually operated clutch just prior to World War II.

On May 22, 1928, Scott Simon became president and under his strong management the company prospered, increasing sales by 300 to 400 percent annually. In the 1950s, Scott Simon relinquished operating power to his son, Frank R. (Bud) Simon, who became president and has worked for the company for 40 years. He has served as general manager and in nearly every other capacity. Other officers are C.A. Treat, vice president, M.E. Strizn, treasurer, and R.D. Palmer, sales manager.

The original Johnson clutch has been improved considerably over the years, from the original hand-operated design. While today some models are made for manual operation, the bulk of the company's sales are for application on automated machines where clutch or brake actuation is electric or air or hydraulic power and are push button controlled or automatically operated.

LaPointe crews go back to work

Vernon
 Union workers at LaPointe Industries will be phased back into their jobs starting today, marking the end of a two-month strike. The strike ended last night following a four-hour negotiating session with the union accepting an offer of wage increases of 8 and 6 percent over a two-year contract.

The workers, in a 63-23 vote, accepted the same offer which was rejected Jan. 28. The union workers had originally asked for a 13 percent increase the first year of the contract and 12 percent the second.

The company countered with an offer of 9 percent the first year and 8 percent the second, which was almost unanimously rejected.

The union members went out on strike two days before Christmas. The company, which manufactures electronics equipment, has been kept going with a skeleton crew of non-union workers.

Those not called back on the job will be considered as being on furlough at this time. The contract applies to about 200 of the 400 workers at the plant.

The company has hired some new workers in the last couple of weeks, such as an increase in dividends for second and third-shift workers.

Other adjustments were agreed on, such as an increase in overtime pay for second and third-shift workers.

Assessor stresses revaluation need

Bolton
 Hutchinson said the actual revaluation will take about six to eight months. The town will probably seek bids from revaluation companies. The Board of Selectmen Tuesday night, "We should have started it yesterday."

Hutchinson said there is a lot of preparation to be done before the actual revaluation. He said if all the work is done by an outside company it will cost about $40,000. This estimate could be cut by about one-third if the town does some of the work, he said.

New hearing set on noise law

Bolton
 A second public hearing on a proposed noise ordinance for Bolton will be held March 9 at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

The first public hearing in January was attended by about 30 persons. There was support for the ordinance and there also were objections to the ordinance.

A vote of those at the January hearing showed 17 supported the ordinance and 10 opposed it.

After the hearing the selectmen reviewed the ordinance and made "substantive changes." Under the Town Charter, another hearing must be held if such changes are made.

Several persons attended the selectmen's meeting Tuesday, apparently concerned with the ordinance, but no one spoke. First Selectman Henry Ryba ruled the council to reconsider and to make it a quorum of two percent of electors to constitute the quorum and "in the absence of a quorum the budget, as proposed by the Town Council, is automatically accepted."

"out of order" a request to poll selectmen on their feelings about the ordinance.

Selectman Aloysius Ahearne said the ordinance has been simplified. He said it is not intended to prevent a person's freedom but it is intended to protect townspeople's rights.

A violation of the ordinance, which sets maximum sound levels based on zoning, could result in a $25 fine or 30 days in jail or both.

At a meeting of the Democratic Town Committee Friday, its members were opposed to the ordinance presented by the selectmen.

Ivi Cannon, Democratic town chairman, said after a lengthy discussion the town committee members were polled to see how they felt. Mrs. Cannon said 11 members opposed the ordinance and two supported it.

South Windsor
 Mark Durrenberger, 16, of 449 Oakland Road, South Windsor, was charged Tuesday with driving at an unreasonable speed. He was involved in a one-car accident on Mountain Drive.

Police said Durrenberger lost control of his car as he was rounding a curve. It jumped a four-foot snow bank and knocked down a mailbox. He is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, March 3.

John Grenier, 16, of 140 Farmstead Drive, South Windsor, was charged Tuesday night with breach of peace, after turning up with a complaint from a neighbor. He was released on his promise to appear in court in East Hartford, March 6.

Two juveniles were apprehended and turned over to juvenile authorities Tuesday, police said.

Police said they received a call from a South Windsor bank concerning two juveniles who were attempting to cash checks on an account which had been closed.

Later police investigated a complaint from a Barber Hill Road resident that several bank checks and about $6 in cash had been taken from her home. Entry was also forced into an Edgewood Street home but nothing was reported missing. The two juveniles were allegedly involved in both breaks.

A Millis Road resident reported to police that three handbags were taken from his home. Police are investigating.

Tolland
 Robert Wojcik, 35, of Farmington and John E. Dicarli, 56, of East St. Rockville, were both taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment Tuesday. They were involved in a two-truck accident on Route 30. The accident is still under investigation.

Cheney Tech comes from far down to clinch berth in State Tournament

By LEN ALSTER
Herald Sports Editor
 Cheney Tech was left for dead, all that remained was for the first shovel of dirt to be tossed on the open grave.

But the hard-working Beavers refused to be buried, rallying for a miraculous 55-51 Charter Oak Conference basketball win over Rocky Hill High last night in Rocky Hill.

The win coupled with Granby's 86-75 loss to St. Thomas Seminary clinched a State Tournament berth in Class 5 Region IV for the Beavers.

Cheney holds down the eighth and final spot with an aggregate 8-10 record with two games left while Granby and Rocky Hill each wind up 6-13.

The Techmen, who didn't attain their first lead until 21 seconds remained, led seemingly hopelessly behind by 15 points, 43-28, with just over seven minutes left. The momentum then, however, swung to the Beavers as Terrier Mike Spellman didn't seem to phase the Beavers at 6:57 and had to sit.

The momentum belonged to Cheney the rest of the way, even when season leading scorer Kevin Tyler looked out with 4:12 to go.

The Rocky Hill edge had been cut to 49-41 when Tyler, who had a season-low 6 points, departed. It didn't seem to phase the Beavers as they struck for 6 straight points to draw to 49-47 with 2:11 left.

Spellman, who returned with 3:17 left, cashed on two free throws to cut a string of 10 unanswered Tech points for a 51-47 advantage. That proved to be a momentary interruption as Dave Gustamachio hit a right-side jumper and knotted it at 51-all at 1:06 with an inside bucket on a pretty-as-you-please assist by Tim Martin.

The Terriers, who had only five turnovers the first 27 minutes but had eight more the final five minutes, never got off another shot turning the ball over again.

The locals wound the clock down to the 21-second mark when center Bernie Ertel hooped home a 6-foot turnaround jumper in the lane. Seconds later backcourt star Tally Boudreau came up with a steal at midpoint, driving for a clinching layup. At the final buzzer Rocky Hill Coach John McVicar slammed his clipboard on the scorer's table. His team held the lead 51-47 on a clip-board on the scorer's table. The Terriers, who had only five turnovers the first 27 minutes but had eight more the final five minutes, never got off another shot turning the ball over again.

Charter group, council to decide procedures

Vernon
 The Vernon Town Council and the Charter Revision Commission will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building to make several decisions concerning the charter.

The council will have to decide how it wants the revisions to be presented to the voters. The revision commission agreed last week that the questions should be divided on the voting machines.

Commission members feel there are many important and possibly controversial changes, and they wouldn't want to see the whole charter defeated because of one or two unpopular revisions.

The commission also feels that the revisions should be considered at a special election but also considered the possibility that a special election might not bring out enough voters and could mean defeat of the charter.

Commission chairman Seymour Lawitt and William Braslau, town attorney, were to meet before tonight's meeting to prepare the mechanics of the transition to present to the council. Minority representation will be included as part of the mechanics.

The commission has agreed to yield to the council's wishes on some proposed revisions. One of these concerns the office of selectmen. The commission recommended the office be eliminated but the council doesn't want the change.

The commission has agreed to come to a compromise concerning the change of term of school board members from six to four years. The union had no objection to the change but the school board said the change wouldn't legally work. The commission agreed to revise this to present to the council for reconsideration.

The two groups were not in agreement concerning the Annual Town Meeting. Some are for eliminating the meeting entirely.

The present charter reads that one percent of the registered voters constitutes a quorum for the meeting and the council wants to keep it that way.

The revision commission will ask the council to reconsider and to make it a quorum of two percent of electors to constitute the quorum and "in the absence of a quorum the budget, as proposed by the Town Council, is automatically accepted."

Democrats re-elect Baum

Vernon
 Lester Baum was re-elected as chairman of Vernon's Democratic Town Committee Tuesday night. There were no other nominations for the post.

Baum led the Democratic party to victory two years ago after having the town under Republican administration for 10 years. Last fall the Democrats lost the election with the incumbent, Mayor Thomas Benoit, defeated by Frank McCoy, who had served three terms before being defeated by Benoit.

Tuesday night's elections will be reaffirmed next month after a date for a challenge primary to the new town committee, selected in January, has passed. Baum said he doesn't expect any.

Joseph Merluzzo, a former member of the Town Council, was elected vice chairman of the committee. Other officers elected were Sylvia Morgan, secretary, and Nicholas Pawlik, treasurer.

All of the officers were elected unanimously.

Bettinger resigns

Vernon
 John Bettinger, a member of the Vernon Fire Department for about 20 years, resigned from the department Tuesday.

Bettinger has been in disagreement with a new set of bylaws drawn up by Fire Chief William Johnson and other department officers. He particularly objected to a provision that prevents department members from speaking out at department operations or business without permission from the chief.

Last spring Bettinger was suspended by Johnson and last fall he was asked to resign from the department when he allegedly broke that promise by asking questions about the department at a pre-election luncheon featuring the two mayoral candidates as speakers.

He said he is resigning because "I just can't work under those conditions anymore." He said he has had some good times while a member of the department but now felt he had to sit down and sort out his priorities. He said in doing so he decided he doesn't need the aggravation.

There has been a lot of disagreement among department members as to whether the Vernon and the Rockville departments should consolidate. The matter has been discussed at length during Charter Revision Commission meetings and at the commission and the Town Council have agreed the departments should be left separate at this time.

Birch-Brian waterline will cost about $45,200

South Windsor
 It will cost about $45,200 to bring water lines into the pollution plagued Birch-Brian Road area, according to South Windsor Town Manager Paul Talbot.

Talbot told the Town Council Tuesday night that the estimate for town water lines would not include house service, which would cost $229 per house. The estimates were for service to 38 homes on Birch and Brian roads.

The council asked Talbot to investigate costs for town water for the area following the discovery of well pollution in the area of Kelly, Birch and Brian roads and Oak Street.

Talbot said he would make arrangements for all homes in the area to be tested once a week. The contamination is confusing town officials because the pollution count may be high one day and zero the next.

One source of pollution is believed to be sewage draining into a storm catch basin. The responsible individual is said to have been unaware that a problem existed. He has, however, met with a contractor who is preparing estimates for correcting the hookup.

Talbot said that if water lines into the area are the only possible solution, it would have to be determined how much, if anything, it would cost the town. He said the town intends to pressure-test the entire sewer line this week.

Mayor Nancy Caffyn said the polluted area has had septic tank problems for some time.

"That's the reason sewer lines were brought into the area some time ago," said Mrs. Caffyn.

"However, few people have actually hooked up to them."

Mrs. Caffyn suggested that the septic systems of all those who have not hooked up to the sewer lines be tested, and persons forced to hook up if problems are discovered.

Deputy Mayor Robert Myette said he would like some investigation to see who was responsible for the sewage drain connected to the catch basin.

"I want to find out how many homes are actually hooked up in such a manner," said Myette.

Myette said that if the builder of the homes was responsible he would like him to be notified. He asked that the records in Town Hall be checked to see which, if any, town employee was negligent in allowing such a hookup.

Councilman Edwards Havens, however, said he doubted that either the builder or the town were responsible.

"I have found that most building code violations are by homeowners themselves," Havens said. "Most of these things are done by private individuals and probably no one in Town Hall is even aware that the situation exists."

Although just one house apparently has been draining raw sewage into the catch basin, officials have suggested that others may have hooked washing machines into basins, adding to the pollution.

Date changed
 HARTFORD (UPI) — Lawmakers have changed the Feb. 27 date for a public hearing on recommendations that laws guaranteeing the liquor industry a profit be repealed.

That recommendation and others including one urging abolition of the Liquor Control Commission will be the subject of a March 6 hearing at the Bushnell Auditorium, across the street from the Capitol.

Wait is over
 You can bet Manchester High basketball coach Doug Pearson and his players will be able to get a good night's sleep tonight — and be raring to go in practice Thursday.

Their wait, to see if they would have another game, is over and the answer is yes, the Indians will play again in 1978.

Manchester can finish no worse than 18th for eighth and final post-season berth in Class LL Region 1 with Rockville High, each with 8-12 records.

Norwich Free Academy eliminated itself from the chase by dropping a 70-53 decision last night to Montville. NFA is 6-12 with one game left Thursday against Hamden.

There is still a possibility that Manchester and Rockville won't be forced into a playoff game. Fitch High of Groton is 7-10, having lost a 70-47 fudge to New London last night. Fitch has one game left, Thursday at home against Waterford.

A loss drops Fitch to 7-11, a 38th winning percentage. Manchester and Rockville have 400 winning percentages. Thus, a Fitch loss puts them in ninth place, and out of post-season play.

White not totally in, Manchester definitely is in better position than it was beginning Tuesday. A playoff is still a possibility, and betcha it's game Pearson and crew won't mind playing if forced.

Rhody in upset
 PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Sly Williams scored 17 points and John Nelson 15 Tuesday to guide Rhode Island to a 73-64 win over 11th-ranked Providence, which made only six baskets in the first half.

The Friars, 22-5, shot 21 percent from the field in the first half as Rhode Island took a 28-19 lead. The score was tied at 11-11 before the Rams scored eight straight to win the game.

The margin bulged to 25 points, 30-5, before Providence scored 19 of the final 42 points.

Jiggy Williamson added 13 for Rhode Island, 19-6.

Arkansas assured share of SWC title
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Eddie Sutton's fourth-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks have lived up to his expectations so far — but he just didn't figure on those pesky Texas Longhorns.

"At the beginning of the year, I would have sold out for 14-2 which was the record the Razorbacks and North Carolina set at South Bend, Ind. The Irish grabbed a 34-27 halftime lead and never led by fewer than six points the rest of the way."

Arkansas forward Marvin Delph scored 16 points to pace the Razorbacks to a 58-41 victory over Texas Tech Tuesday night, giving them a share of the SWC championship.

Coventry five takes second straight title
 With senior center Al Schmidt netting 37 points, Coventry High captured its second consecutive Charter Oak Conference basketball title last night with a 92-68 win over East Hampton High in East Hampton.

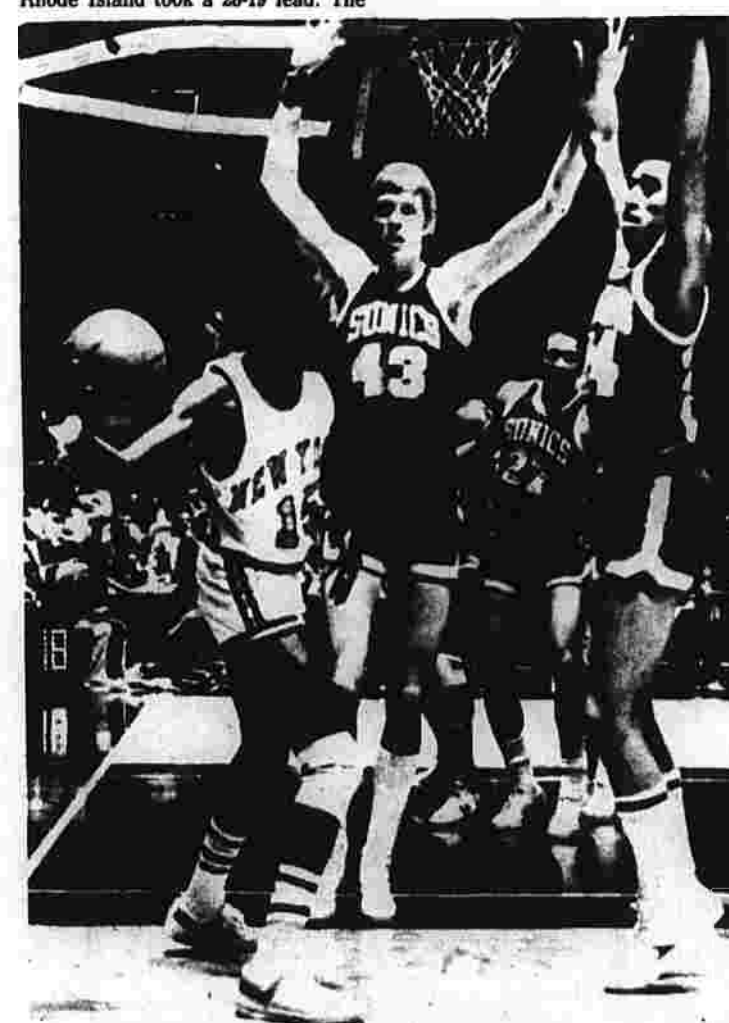

In other area contests, Bolton High won its second game of the season, 63-61, over Vinal Tech; Rham bowed to Portland, 64-57; and South Windsor dropped a 79-75 overtime decision to Hartford Public.

Coventry, which shared the crown with Cromwell last year, wound up 17-1 in conference play and 19-1 overall. Curt LeDoy added 12 markers to the new champs' total.

Jim Kowalyn's hoop at the buzzer gave Bolton a final 2-17 mark. He wound up with 28 points with Jeff Winkler adding 23 for the Bulldogs.

Tobin Morey had 21 points for Rham, won 7-12 in all games and 7-11 in the OCC. Portland winds 10-6 in loop play and is 12-7 overall.

Andy Goodwin had 29 points and Scott Waters 21 for South Windsor, won 17-13. The Bobcats had a 12-game winning streak snapped by Public, which at 6-9 has assured itself a second post-berth.

East routed by Commerce, 105-73

Springfield Commerce
 Running into a juggernaut, East Catholic was clipped by powerful Springfield Commerce, 105-73, in non-conference basketball action last night in Springfield, Mass.

The victory was the 20th in 22 starts for the Raiders and came on the heels of a 12-point win over Wilbraham-Monson Academy the previous evening. East winds up 11-9 in regular season play with a 11-9 record Friday night at the HCC Playoffs against St. Thomas Aquinas at 8:30 at the University of Hartford.

"That was one of the best offensive displays I've seen in 12 years," said Head Coach Jim Penders. "It was an incredible offensive performance. They had about 12 slam dunks, and that's a conservative figure. They also hit an easy 89 percent from the floor."

Springfield raced to a 24-13 lead after one quarter and built it to 54-30 at the half. Commerce continued the onslaught in the third period moving to an 82-50 advantage and didn't ease up until it hit the century mark.

Highly touted Mark Hall lived up to his billing for Commerce with 42 points, 10 rebounds, 7 assists and 10 steals. Brian and Paul Gasque were also in twin figures for the winners with 20 and 10 markers respectively.

Rob Smith paced East with 17 points with John Wiczekro (14) and Bob Venora (12) also hitting double digits. The Eagles were without starting guard Mark Murphy, out because of disciplinary measures.

Rookie trio supplies big lift as Knicks top SuperSonics

NBA
 NEW YORK (UPI) — A trio of rookies — Glen Gonzalez, Ray Williams, and Toby Knight — picked up where the veterans failed Tuesday night and the result was a wild 122-120 New York victory over the stunned Seattle SuperSonics.

The Knicks jumped off quickly to an 8-2 lead, then stretched it to a 13-point margin, 49-36, midway through the second period. But Gus Williams fired in 12 of his team-high 24 points in that quarter, and quickly the lead was whittled to 61-60, at halftime.

Williams continued his hot shooting in the third quarter, got help from Fred Brown and Johnny Johnson, and the Sonics opened up a seemingly insurmountable 97-90 lead entering the fourth quarter.

But Knicks Coach Willis Reed, in what appeared to be a move of desperation at the time, inserted the three rookies and quickly they got turned around. Ray Williams, Gus' brother, canned a corner jumper. Gonzalez jammed home a rebound. Williams hit on a few more. Gonzalez hit again, and Knight took care of things on the other end of the floor, hauling in five rebounds the final period.

"What looked to be a Sonics victory here turned into a New York youth movement."

"I was kind of praying Ray would wake up," said Willis Reed, saying a win he had apparently chalked up as a loss.

"When me, Toby, and Glen are out there together," said Williams, "things get going."

"We thought it was over so we just stopped playing," said Len Leno, who was in a subdued Sonics locker room. "We just let them off the hook."

In other games, Phoenix downed Buffalo, 114-111, Philadelphia dumped Cleveland, 127-114, Los Angeles edged Chicago, 106-104, Houston clibbed Boston, 118-96, and Portland got by San Antonio, 118-114, in overtime.

Suns 114, Braves 111

Rookie Walter Davis hit 15-of-20 from the field for a game-high 32 points and Paul Westphal collected 23 points and seven assists to lead the Suns.

Niners 127, Cavaliers 114

George McGinnis scored 27 points and Doug Collins added 24 to spark Philadelphia, which led by as much as 25 points during the game. Campy Russell paced Cleveland with 20.

Lakers 106, Bulls 104

Nike posted its fourth straight victory and eighth in its last nine games as Lou Hudson, who scored the go-ahead basket, equaled his season-high of 29 points to pace the Lakers.

Rockets 111, Celtics 96

Calvin Murphy scored 32 points and John Lucas added 23, hitting 9-of-11 from the field and handing out 15 assists. The Celtics were without Kermit Washington, who did not play with the team.

Trail Blazers 118, Spurs 114

Bill Walton, with a season-high 34 points, scored six points in overtime to help the Blazers down the stubborn Spurs, who had backed back from a 15-point deficit to take the lead.

Whalers bow in overtime

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Jean Claude Tremblay scored in overtime Tuesday night to lead the Quebec Nordiques to a 5-3 victory over the New England Whalers and end a seven-game losing streak.

The win, in the Nordiques' first game at home in more than two weeks, ended a losing streak that had tied a previous club record set in the 1974-75 season. New England led 3-2 going into the third period, but Quebec fought back to tie the game three times in succession and send it into overtime.

West won by South's king. South now led his club jack. West won with his queen. He continued with his last diamond and South took the trick.

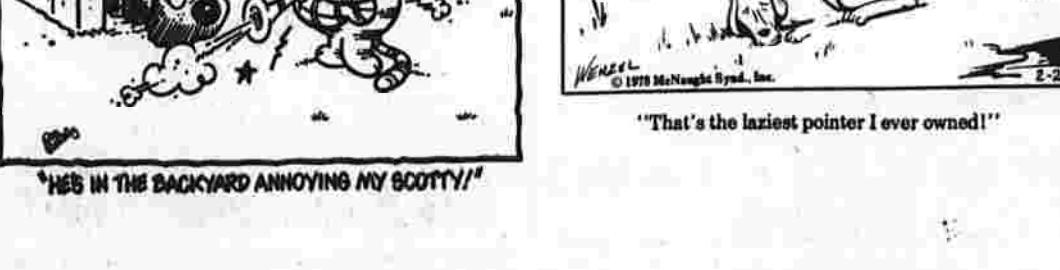

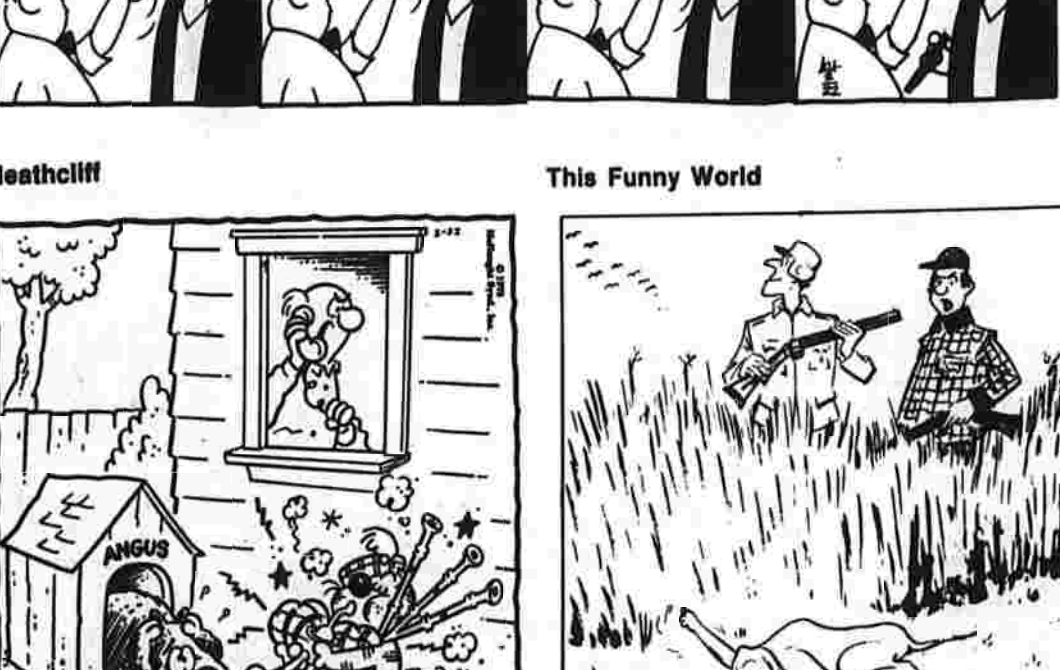

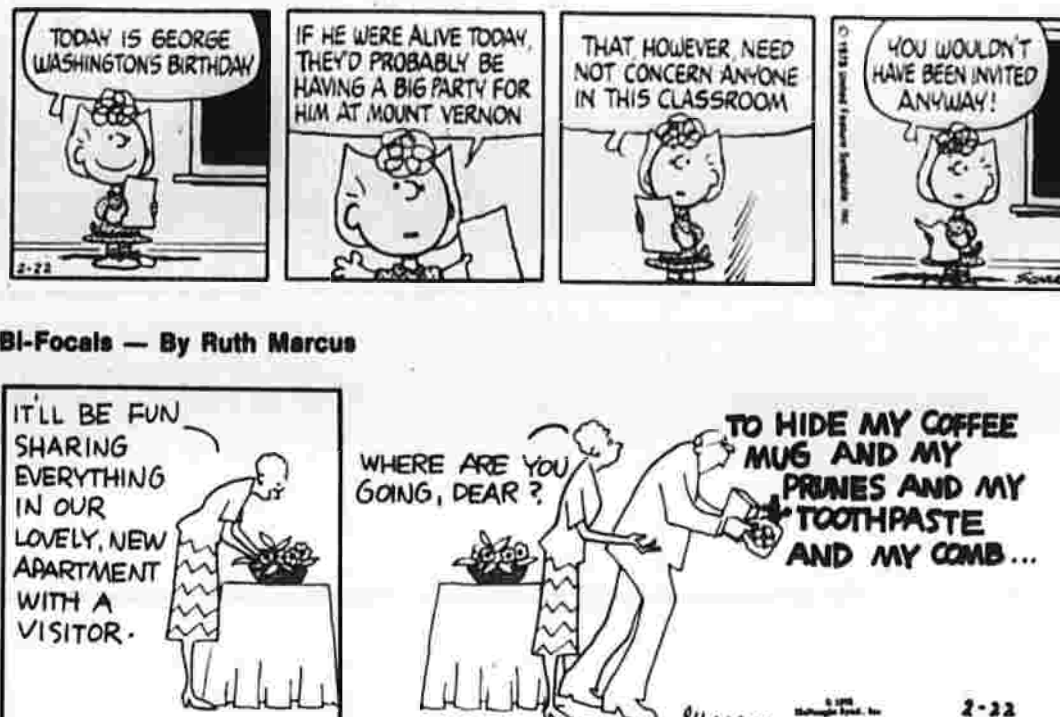

West pondered. He had started with the ace, and dummy ruffed with the spade four. Declarer tried a trump finesse, losing to West's king.

West found out this important information before he made his opening lead by the simple and direct procedure of asking the declarer for the trump suit.

West's opening diamond led to a game for the declarer.

Rehab guidelines planned

Vernon
A subcommittee of the Vernon Town Council, appointed to study the housing rehabilitation program, has prepared preliminary guidelines which, along with revisions to the town's housing code, will be presented to the council next week.

The proposed guidelines are for implementation of the town's investment-owned housing rehabilitation program to be funded with a $289,000 federal grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The committee has worked with area landlords, legal services and human relations agencies in preparing the guidelines. The guidelines reflect their concerns about the program and the need for providing decent housing for low-income families in town.

The program is to be conducted with minimum displacement of families. The town also wants to make sure that the revised housing code will be strictly enforced.

Under the program, landlords will be arranged their own financing and then will receive the grant after the work is completed and meets the provisions of the contract. Of the total grant, $185,000 will be used to subsidize the landlords and the rest will be needed for administrative and related costs.

The committee said that if a landlord agreed to make repairs costing $4,500 to a two-family house, he would obtain a five-year loan at a hypothetical open market interest rate of 12 percent, resulting in a total repayment cost of $6,000.

Using the same figures but with town financing at an interest rate of 7 percent, the amount would be $5,346. The subsidy payment to the landlord, under the town program, would be $660, the difference between the two amounts.

School budget plan up 9.5%

Coventry

A $3,089,247 budget for 1978-79 has been presented to the Coventry Board of Education by Superintendent Arnold Elman. It represents an increase of $267,781 over the present year's budget, or about 9.5 percent.

The school board has three weeks to review Elman's proposal before a board-approved budget must be turned over to the Town Council. The council may revise the bottom line of the appropriations, but it cannot cut or add specific line items.

"No personnel additions have been built into the budget," Elman told the board. "Equipment is up sharply because first-year capital listing requests have all been built into the budget."

Although capital equipment may receive state and federal funding next year, Elman included it in the budget for town financing in case the outside revenue does not materialize.

He said the proposed budget provides only for a maintenance of effort at providing reasonable levels of support for the instructional program.

Area bulletin board

Coventry

The North Coventry Co-op Nursery is taking applications for the coming school year. Children will be four years old by Feb. 28, 1979.

Applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Raymond Joesten at 742-5269.

The Co-op will host an open house for interested parents on March 2 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church on Route 4A.

South Windsor

The South Windsor Down To Earth Garden Club will meet March 1 at 7:45 p.m. at St. Peter's Episcopal Church Hall, Sand Hill Road. JoAnn Vaccaro will speak on decorating with house plants. Ms. Vaccaro is a plant specialist from Lexington Gardens, Glastonbury. A business meeting will follow the program. Hostesses for the evening will be Karen Sanso and Emily Zampano.

A cassette tape which aids in filing 1977 income tax returns may be borrowed at the South Windsor Public Library. The recording, distributed by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, gives instructions for filling out form 1040 and 1040A in an easy to follow step-by-step format. It is similar to the booklets the IRS publishes and offers instructions only. It is not advisory. One cassette tape recording was given to the library through the Taxpayer Education Audio Program of the IRS. It may be borrowed for two days.

Vernon

The Friends of Valley Falls Park will meet tonight at 8 at the Burke home, 507 Bolton Road. The home is the former Beech estate, and the Beeches were the original owners of much of the land that is now Valley Falls Park. The group will discuss trail development and forest preservation at the park.

Church Women United will conduct an ecumenical service in observance of World Day of Prayer, March 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Rockville United Methodist Church, Grove Street. The theme will be "Community Spirit in Modern Living." Men, women, and children are invited to attend the service. Junior choirs from various churches and the Methodist Church Bellingers will provide the music. The program is sponsored by the Greater Rockville Area of Church Women United.

The Ways and Means Committee of Rockville General Hospital will sponsor a dessert card party Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. in the hospital's cafeteria. Door prizes and table prizes will be offered. Tickets are available at the hospital's gift shop or from Maureen Cosgrove, 875-3728.

The Ladies Auxiliary to Vernon VFW Post 1021 will meet March 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Post Home, Route 83. Following the regular meeting there will be a grocery social. Members are asked to bring wrapped grocery items.

Wife of first selectman makes spare time count

By DONNA HOLLAND

What do you do in your spare time? Is a question First Selectman Henry Ryba has probably heard frequently in the past seven months.

Ryba took office as first selectman on July 1, 1977. He not only devotes about 48 hours each week to that position, he is a superintendent of construction for AC and S Inc.

And Ryba is well-known — at least in Bolton — for his catering business. He is also an auxiliary state trooper (and has been for 9 years), a member of the Polish League of American Veterans, the St. Maurice Church men's club and the St. Maurice Nocturnal Adoration Society.

But that's enough about him. Seriously, what does the wife of a very busy man do in her spare time? Janina Ryba, Hank's wife, said as she saw it she had two choices. She said she could either sit around and pout, watch television and read books or you could do something.

Mrs. Ryba chose to do something because "— You really feel good when you do something." Mrs. Ryba works as a medical secretary in Manchester. But that's not enough to fill all the hours in a week when your husband is as involved as hers.

And she chose not to sit around and doing nothing in her spare time. Her reasons include the "good feeling of knowing I can do things, the good feeling when I do things and because I like to surprise Hank." A visit to the Ryba house on Notch Road will highlight many of Janina's accomplishments.

She has painted and wallpapered ceilings and walls. But she doesn't stop at regular painting. She painted a mural on the bathroom wall of their home and on a wall at their beachhouse. And she does pencil sketches.

Mrs. Ryba said she has a natural talent for painting. She graduated from high school at the age of 15 and received an art scholarship to an out-of-state school. She said, "Because of my young age, my Mom wouldn't let me go."

Janina also sews and has made a braided rug, clothes for her daughter and suit jackets for her husband and sons.

And the busier Hank became, the busier Janina became. She enrolled in a woodworking class. She made two end tables using antique sewing machine stands. She is now making a piano stool from one that didn't have all its parts. And she reupholstered two chairs and loves to refinish and antique furniture.

One of her proudest accomplishments is having her secret Chinese recipe for Sweet and Sour Pork published in a cookbook that includes recipes of very famous people.

And she doesn't plan on stopping.

in the works is a chess table for one of her sons and a trestle table for her kitchen.

The Rybas have three children, Michael, Peter and Janina. Michael is a pre-med student at Boston College. Peter recently received the commandant's award at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London. Janina is president of her junior class at Bolton High School.

And three children involve the parents even more. They attend the sports and academic activities of all their children and drive their teenage daughter around. They all participate in local social and sports activities, play tennis and water ski. A big event during the summer is having a large garden from which home-grown vegetables are canned.

And how does Janina feel about her husband running for first selectman again. She said, "It's entirely up to him. It's okay. It gives me a chance to do the things I put off for so long."

He said, "I don't know yet. There is a lot of work to be done and we have to start doing it soon. I hope to initiate some programs that I hope will be carried out. You're learning all the time. I honestly don't know."

Hank said, "Each day you live is a learning experience."

And judging by the way the Rybas live, they are proving that statement true.

Facts from our file

In our two years in Mississippi we've picked up an abundance of information that might be classified as "Rural-Mississippi Miscellaneous."

These are facts that are neither good, nor bad, they just ARE.

For example, we've learned that: Double names are very popular and they're not proper names by New England standards.

Bobby Ray Smithers is Bobby (not Robert). Sue-Sue Walton was christened Sue-Sue. And no matter how old you are, you call your parents "momma" and "daddy."

Unless you have a tree in your yard, pecans (pea-KAHN) are just as expensive down here as they are in the north.

In our town people don't die, they "depart" or "go to their just reward."

There are printed programs at the funerals and the flowers are always abundant and always plastic.

Peas are a staple of the diet, but they aren't green. They cook-up brown and come in many varieties. If you eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day, you'll have good luck all year.

At the Westoba County Fair, advertised as the north's biggest horse party, corn dogs outsell hot dogs 10 to one. (A corn dog is a hot dog dipped in corn batter and deep fried. Delicious!)

Most every pick-up truck has a shot-gun hanging in the cab behind the driver. And everyone in the household knows how to use it, including mom-ma who can pick off a rabbit in the lettuce patch at 50-feet.

Corporal punishment is the penalty for classroom crimes ranging from chewing gum to playing hooky. When a teacher means business he uses a paddle with holes. When a student is smart he lines the seat of his blue jeans with newspaper.

The Bible belt is for real and "in season" there is a revised schedule every night of the week. The Pentecostal revivals are the most spirited.

The Pentecostals, by the way, also make and market the best peanut brittle in town.

During the deer season, the man of the house is excused from everything, even when it means (as it did in the case of our neighbor) missing his 10th wedding anniversary party.

There's no rush to harvesting cotton. It's one crop that doesn't get over ripe and the white fields are a joy to behold all through December.

Salespeople treat you like royalty, even when you don't buy. And it never fails, as you leave the store, that they'll smile and say "Y'all come back now, hear!"

Southern country talk takes getting used to. People say "rit" for right, "purr" for prayer, "purr" for poor. And when someone says "Y'all drop in and see us!"...

for heaven's sake, don't consider it a nice southern way of saying "Hi!"

College notes

Women's Center sets open house

The Women's Center at Manchester Community College will have an open house Wednesday, March 1, for the purpose of introducing two staff interns and to familiarize visitors with the center's programs.

The open house, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., is for the entire Manchester area community as well as staff and students at the college.

The two college interns working at the center this semester are Denise Christopher from the University of Connecticut and Nancy Swafford from the University of Hartford.

Ms. Christopher, a resident of East Hartford, is enrolled in a master's degree program in college counseling and is doing her required practicum at the Women's Center. Her work at the center will include career and personal counseling, getting involved as a team member of the staff at the center, working 20 hours a week, leading a divorce-support group on Monday evenings and helping with the newsletter from the center.

In addition, Ms. Christopher is taking three classes at the university and working as a psychologist at the counseling center. A native of Norwich, she earned her bachelor's degree at Sacred Heart University in Bridgeport and worked as an educational assistant to counselors at Norwich Community College for seven years.

Ms. Swafford, a Glastonbury resident, is also interested in providing career and personal counseling at the center. She is currently organizing a personal growth group which will meet for the first time March 3 at 1 p.m. at the Women's Center.

Ms. Swafford is a graduate student and a teaching assistant in counseling program at the University of Hartford. She is also in the Gestalt Therapy training program.

She will be at the Women's Center Wednesday mornings and Friday afternoons this semester.

The Women's Center has many special programs planned for the afternoons and evenings this semester as well as ongoing programs, counseling and resource materials.

About town

The Rev. Norman Swensen, pastor of Trinity Covenant Church, speaks on "Father, Forgive Me," tonight during the church, 48 Spruce St. A 7:15 Lenten Service at the church, Mrs. Sharon Dayton will be soloist.

Social security

Q. I opened my own business last year. I know I have to report my self-employment earnings and pay Social Security contributions on them, but when should I do this?

A. A report of your 1977 earnings and the Social Security contributions should be sent with your income tax return to the Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1978.

Q. I've worked two jobs off and on most of my life. Since I'll retire in a few years, I'm wondering if my employers reported all my wages each year. How can I check this?

A. Get a free "Request for Statement of Earnings" postcard form at any Social Security office. Fill it out and mail it. You'll get a statement of earnings reported for you. If you spot an error, get in touch with the people at any Social Security office. They'll be glad to check it out.

Q. Does the amount of time I work under Social Security have anything to do with the amount of my Social Security benefits?

A. Not directly. Working under Social Security only means that you and your family may become entitled to benefits. The amount of your check depends on your covered earnings over a period of years.

Q. I served three years in the Army during World War II and worked at various civilian jobs off and on since. Will my military time give me a higher Social Security retirement check?

A. Probably not. Most people get higher Social Security benefits based on average covered earnings after 1950. Special earnings credit of $100 for each month of active service may be granted, however, if those credits would help you become insured or would raise your benefit.

Q. When I started getting SS payments, I was living with my son. Now I'm thinking of moving into an apartment by myself. Do I have to report this move?

A. Yes. Supplemental

Unprivate Eye
Strange things began to happen after Marvin, hurt in a bus accident, put in a claim for damages. A detective began eavesdropping at his windows, spying through his hedges, tailgating his car, and following him into stores.

One day, when Marvin found the detective waiting as he emerged from a restroom, he decided it was the last straw. He filed suit for "invasion of privacy."

In court, the detective argued that he could go wherever he pleased in public places. But the court disagreed and ordered him to pay damages. The court pointed out that such intensive shadowing, done so openly, could "subject (Marvin) to public disgrace."

It is not unusual, when an injured person claims damages, for the defense to hire a detective to do some checking. But as this case illustrates, excessive zeal may be held unlawful.

On the other hand, detective work performed in a reasonable manner is perfectly all right. In another case, a detective did his work so discreetly that the claimant did not realize until the trial that he had been watched. Here, when the man complained about invasion of his privacy, the court turned him down.

A court said no, because of the detective's good intentions. He had followed her, said the court, not for any purpose of intimidation but as a "reasonable means of securing evidence."

He lives in Ellington with his wife Patricia, and two children.

Generic labels offered

Kenneth G. Abrahams, president of Food Marts, a division of Wakeham Inc., introduced a generic "no fill" label program he says will result in a large savings for food shoppers.

"The introduction of the new line earlier this week reflects the company's desire to provide its customers with an alternate way of cutting food shopping expenses, and is considered to be the most progressive step in reducing consumer food costs in many years."

"Our generic products offer a reasonable option. As will be wholesale products with nutritional value comparable to higher priced nationally-advertised brands, but at greatly reduced retail price, enabling our customers to get more purchasing power from each household dollar."

Abrahams explained that the labels include a statement explaining how these items may vary from what customers have been buying.

"For example, peas bear the statement: 'These peas may vary in color, size and maturity. They are suitable for regular home meals.'"

Most labels will also include a complete statement of the nutritional value of the contents of the package. In many cases, this information is more detailed than that provided on nationally-advertised brands.

"We intend to continue carrying national brands, but wish to offer our customers an alternative in buying. The items bearing generic labels will all be in the same section of the store and are all designed to provide savings for the customer," he said.

The generic products are guaranteed, the same as all other products sold in Food Marts.

In Manchester, Food Mart is located at 410 West Middle Turnpike.

Finnegan on council

The appointment of John Finnegan to the East Hartford Town Council was unanimously approved Tuesday night. His appointment fills the vacancy in the Republican minority created by the resignation of James Rober.

Finnegan served on the council from 1975 to 1977 and ran for reelection last November, but lost by 73 votes to the lowest vote-getter of the nine council members. He now joins Republicans Esther Clarke and Robert Ryan on the council.

Commenting on Finnegan's appointment, Mrs. Clarke said he was "known to do his work well and has a fine sense of integrity."

Finnegan was sworn in by James Mirabile, Republican Town Chairman.

Town aide to formulate trash collection rules

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The East Hartford Town Council approved a public works ordinance Tuesday that gives Public Works Director Arthur Mulligan authority to issue certain rules regarding trash collection.

The ordinance states that the public works director shall have power to issue orders on the placing of garbage cans or plastic bags, the protection of them from fires or vermin, and the collection and transportation through the streets.

The ordinance also states that the disposal of garbage and refuse shall be in places to be designated by the director of public works.

He shall also have the authority to issue rules and regulations governing the separation, collection, transportation and disposal of all solid wastes that he "may deem suitable and economical for recycling."

There was considerable discussion among council members concerning the implications of the ordinance, which could mean eventually separating papers, garbage, glass and cans.

Mrs. Esther Clarke, Republican council member, wondered if there would be a penalty if the separations aren't made when ordered, and what the penalty would be.

Several council members agreed that although there might be a "cry" from the citizens concerning future collection regulations, there should be advance complete information to "educate the public."

During his report early in the council meeting, Mulligan suggested a change in the method of trash collections when he said he would like to see a regional plan for solid waste come in to East Hartford.

"Solid waste is probably one of the most critical areas in town government today," he said.

He said the town is well known for its recycling program even though most of the work is voluntary.

Referring to the recycling bins that are situated around town, he told the council three have been relocated because their former locations were bringing complaints from nearby residents who objected to bottles and cans that sometimes lay on the ground. Bins had been relocated.

Mulligan said he'd like to see recycling bins put in shopping centers where people could be encouraged to place their bottles for recycling.

"People will use them if you make the facility convenient for them," he said. "It's a problem to find a place where they're not disturbing the existing quality of life," he added.

In his report, Mulligan told the council his department is now updating a lot of the street lighting. There are fixtures now coming out with a much brighter light at the same price as the existing ones, he said. There will be 270 new lights installed on Burrside Avenue, and new lights on Tolland Street.

Council Chairman George Dagon praised Mulligan for the superb job his department did in clearing the streets and clearing up after the last snow storm.

Hartford has seven sites for insurance

HARTFORD (UPI) — City officials say Hartford owns seven sites that could accommodate the new office building Connecticut General Insurance Co. wants to build downtown.

City Development Director Paul Strecker said Tuesday a site sought by the insurance company for a 500,000 square foot office building would require about 50,000 square feet of land.

Warren Leuteritz, head of the non-profit Hartford Economic Development Corp., which helps promote city development, said Connecticut General has indicated its field of choices is wide open.

The Bloomfield-based firm announced plans Monday to construct what is called a "landmark" office building to house a part of its home office operations, but has declined to say which sites it's interested in.

City officials said some privately owned sites are also available in the central business district.

The multiple insurer said plans call for a building large enough to house 2,000 employees with additional space for lease and expansion.

Connecticut General officials said most of their top level employees will continue to work in the firm's Bloomfield complex.

EHHS to present musical 'Carnival'

The music department of East Hartford High School will present the musical, "Carnival," March 2 and 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Jillie McCarthy, a senior, will play the lead role of Lili. Robert Lynds, a freshman, will play the part of Paul.

Others in the cast will be David deBeard, Anita Pistoria, Bill Mullin, Brian Johnson, Jeff Porter, Suzanne Kenney, Joanne Lasky and Chris Monaccio.

The voices of the puppets will be Leslie Power, Karen Joyce, Joanna deBeard, Charles Eskey and Lisa Pressanarita.

Richard Stern and Raymond Grasso are directors; Richard Prior, musical director; Peter Ferreira, assistant director, and Kathy Begin, stage manager.

EHHS hoopsters drop from second

East Hartford High fell out of a tie for second place in the CCHL basketball standings, bowing 24-38 Tuesday night to Simsbury High at Simsbury.

The Trojans wind up 12-8 in league play, 14-6 overall, while East Hartford finishes 11-7 in the CCHL and 11-9 in all games. The Hornets' record is 12-10 in the league.

Lucien Bolduc was the lone performer in double digits for East Hartford with 13 points.

The Hornets will be one of four teams — Penny, Simsbury and Windham the others — in the CCHL Playoff beginning Thursday night at Penny. Pairings are still to be determined.

Students do poorly in standard tests

By SHEILA TULLER
Herald Correspondent

How well are the children in East Hartford learning? If only scores of the Iowa Test of Basic Skills are considered, the answer to that question is "not very well."

However, administrators explaining the scores said the Iowa tests are only one of many sources used in an evaluation of education.

Iowa tests are achievement tests given to help determine how students are progressing. According to the report, given to the Board of Education Tuesday night by Richard Welch, director of special services, the test measures achievement in vocabulary, reading comprehension, language, work study and math.

Welch said the emphasis of the test is to determine skills rather than specific information in a subject area.

The Iowa tests, given annually to students in Grades 2, 4, 6 and 8, has been used in East Hartford for about 10 years.

More than half of all communities in Connecticut use the same test to measure skills.

Scores started for a four-year period were included in Welch's report. The scores taken from tests given from 1974 to 1977 show East Hartford's fourth graders have scored consistently above the national average.

Spelling scores proved the local fourth graders were strongest in this area of language arts.

Youngsters tested in 1975 had the highest composite score. As a group they scored above the 80th percentile.

As sixth graders the group maintained an above-average score in spelling but dropped to the national level in vocabulary and below average in other areas.

Because test scores dropped as students advanced in school, some board members were worried about the curriculum.

Assistant Superintendent Sam Leone explained a needs assessment of the middle and high school curriculums is planned. "We are changing curriculums because of needs," he said, "not because of the Iowa test scores."

Leone also said new objectives were written for the Kindergarten-to-Grade 5 math program. Dr. Thomas Andreoli, math supervisor, is now reviewing new tests for this level.

Andreoli will continue his math program assessment, focusing on the middle school grades.

Reading supervisor Frann Klein is writing new objectives for the language arts, composition and spelling curriculums for all levels.

An outside consultant is scheduled to meet with the administration in March to review the curriculum. Board member Richard Daley, disturbed by the declining scores from the K-5 environment better motivates a youngster to learn while the middle school environment is failing.

Daley wants to see changes made soon. "We're at the eleventh hour," he said.

Leone countered, "Change takes time. It would be an injustice to staff and students to quickly make changes based on one test."

"It's evident there's been a decline (in test scores). We're working on it and we'll be back to the board with specific recommendations of what we're going to do," Leone said.

Dr. Richard Veitri, also concerned with the reported scores, offered a plan to serve all students who fall under the 20th percentile on the Iowa tests.

Dr. Veitri wants the board to direct the superintendent to ensure that each middle school principal discusses the test results with his teaching staff within two weeks of the availability of the scores. Veitri added he wants the class, building and system scores discussed with all sixth and eighth grade teachers.

Dr. Veitri suggested the teachers develop a plan to service each student who falls below the suggested percentile in any of the two sub-groups of language arts and reading.

Dr. Veitri expects the plan to be implemented without additional costs. If it can't, the principal is directed to ask for help from the board within eight weeks of receiving the test scores.

Dr. Veitri also wants the middle school principals to report to the board by March 1 of each year, stating the number of students identified and served. The principals will be asked to give examples of the plans implemented in each area.

Board members will study Dr. Veitri's plan before the next board meeting.
