

Good Morning Have A Good Day

News summary

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso asked President Carter to declare Connecticut a major disaster area as the state's damage tab from the Blizzard of '78 exceeded the $10 million mark.

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Panama said Friday the Senate's probe of alleged drug trafficking by top Panamanian officials was based on testimony by an ex-National Guard officer who once tried to overthrow Gen. Omar Torrijos.

A government spokesman said the source of the charges under study by the Senate was Col. Amado Sanjur, former chief-of-staff of the National Guard who has been in exiled California since an attempt to oust the Panamanian leader failed in 1969.

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese fishermen, charging that "dolphins who eat fish are bad," clubbed and stabbed to death some 1,000 playful dolphins in a two-day massacre ending Friday.

The dolphins, man-loving, sea-going mammals who have been known to protect humans from sharks and who can talk to each other, ranged from 12 to 15 feet in length and some weighed more than 1,000 pounds.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States failed to convince other maritime nations that double-hulled tankers are needed to prevent oil spills, but other measures just approved at an international conference should do an equally good job, U.S. officials said Friday.

Deputy Transportation Secretary Alan Butchman said the steps finally included in a pair of new treaties will provide key safeguards against such disasters as the 1976 wreck of the Argo Merchant that spilled millions of gallons of oil on the Atlantic off Nantucket Island.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A shipment of Israeli oranges, spot-checked because some of the fruit sold in Europe was contaminated, has been found free of mercury and cleared for sale in the United States, the government reported Friday.

A previously unheard of Palestinian terrorist group had claimed responsibility for spiking the contaminated oranges that appeared in Europe, saying the aim was to damage Israel's economy.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Muriel Humphrey urged the Senate Friday to ratify the Panama Canal treaties as a means of ending U.S. colonialism, and warned, "if a great power does not take care to keep its friends, it will stand alone against its enemies."

Making her maiden Senate speech, Mrs. Humphrey D-Minn., joined the treaty debate just as opponents began their effort to sink the pacts with amendments unacceptable to Panama.

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee has proposed giving the state Ethics Commission jurisdiction over the conduct of judges, including requiring them to make public financial disclosure.

Sen. Wayne Baker, D-Danbury, co-chairman of the Government Administration and Policy Committee, said Friday his panel approved the bill "unanimously, like a rocket."

WELLFLEET, Mass. (UPI) — The Coast Guard said Friday 4,000 gallons of oil that washed ashore on Cape Cod beaches is probably from the grounded tanker Global Hope.

A spokesman for the Guard's marine safety office talked at Wellfleet town hall to a group of residents to explain the clean-up operation.

Carter announces accord, tells miners to ratify it

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter announced a contract settlement in the nation's longest coal strike Friday and warned miners he will take "drastic and unsatisfactory legal action" if they do not ratify it.

Listeners back silenced station

After two years of broadcasting, a Manchester resident and full-time Manchester Community College student finds himself without a radio station.

But, support from listeners of the non-licensed station, including a petition by a group of Glastonbury firefighters, already has started.

Earlier this week, Federal Communications Commission officials shut down a non-licensed station operated by Barry Krupnikoff, 28, of 43 Wilfred Road.

Broadcasting without a license is not permitted under FCC regulations, and the station was shut down Tuesday night by FCC officials who said that they used electronic tracking equipment to find the broadcast location.

He has been charged with two violations of the Communications Act, but first offenders normally are not prosecuted.

Krupnikoff understands that the broadcasting, which he did about four nights a week, was illegal, but he feels that his station was a helpful one for the listeners.

"I don't think we should have been shut down because of what we did for the public," he said. He broadcast notices for churches and the community college. He received no paid advertisements.

He also felt that his all-request format was popular with the listeners. He received 40 to 50 calls a night, he said.

There is no telephone in his home, so the calls were taken by a friend who lives in East Hartford. The friend then would relay the requests to Krupnikoff by CB radio.

Some of his listeners, a group of firefighters at a firehouse in Glastonbury, have said that they will petition to support Krupnikoff. He is hoping other listeners will call to support him.

The cost of obtaining a license is very expensive, Krupnikoff, who is taking broadcasting courses at MCC, said.

"He really is good," his mother, Elaine Raymond, said. "It's just unfortunate that he can't get the backing that's necessary. He had a lot of listeners," she said.

announced immediately. Officials have estimated it would take nearly three weeks before coal production could be back to normal.

Although Carter did not say what action he had in mind, administration officials said the president was ready to order the miners back to work under the Taft-Hartley Act and perhaps to seek congressional approval for a federal take over of the mines.

But in a quickly arranged, live appearance on national television, Carter said federal intervention had been averted for the time being by a hurriedly arranged agreement between the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the United Mine Workers.

"This is the outcome toward which all of us have been working so hard," he said. "It was because we believe in the free process of collective bargaining that I have been so determined to give that process every chance to work. It has worked, and the settlement it has produced is better for everyone involved."

UMW President Arnold Miller termed the agreement a "good contract," and said it included all the health and pension guarantees the union sought.

He said the agreement was even better than the pact reached with the Pittsburg and Midway Coal Co., Monday, an agreement the BCOA had earlier refused to consider.

Carter had high praise for the UMW's 160,000 striking members even while telling them it is crucial they ratify the pact.

"Yours is a historic struggle," he said. "Your dedication to justice in the mines has been matched only by dedication to your country whenever it needed you, whether in war or in peacetime."

"The agreement that has been reached today is no different," he said. "You struggled for it and it is a significant achievement."

Carter noted that the union's 39-man bargaining council, which represents union miners nationwide, had approved the agreement, and he urged rank and file members to follow that lead.

"This agreement serves the national interest as well as your own interest and those of your families," he said. "If it is not approved without delay, time will have run out for all of us and I will have to take the drastic and unsatisfactory legal action which I would have announced tonight."

The agreement was good news for the scores of businesses, industries and laid off workers who have been affected by the strike.

Town afire, 20 dead, after propane blast

WAVERLY, Tenn. (UPI) — A derailed tank car carrying 2,000 gallons of propane exploded like "an atomic blast" when workmen began to empty it Friday, setting the town afire and killing at least 20 persons.

"The whole sky lit up," said Brad Fussell, who was working at a furniture company nearby. "The blast could be felt two or three miles away. They say all the buildings are wrecked and bodies are everywhere lying on the ground."

Adj. Gen. Carl Wallace, head of the Tennessee National Guard, said 20 persons were killed and at least 145 others injured as the thunderous blast touched off blazes that wrecked the center of town.

Wallace said a second propane tanker, among 24 cars of a Louisville & Nashville freight train that derailed in downtown Waverly Wednesday, did not explode although it was only 30 feet from the first.

However, the general said firefighters who were pouring foam on the second car to keep it cool might eventually have to let it go.

Wallace called in 50 National Guard troops and began clearing everyone out of an area for half a mile around the derailment.

Four hours after the explosion, an area the size of two football fields was still burning in downtown Waverly, a town of about 4,000 persons.

Firefighters from across eastern Tennessee, including airborne units from Ft. Campbell, Ky., rushed to the scene. Medical rescue helicopters from Memphis, 155 miles to the east, and from Ft. Campbell flew out many of the injured.

Many of the injured, most of them badly burned, were being taken to Nashville, 60 miles west of Waverly.

Many homes in the area had been ordered evacuated before workmen began draining the propane from the tank cars into tractor-trailer trucks.

But downtown businesses were staffed as usual and there were 100 persons — law enforcement officials, Louisville & Nashville Railroad employees and civil defense workers — around the tankers at the time of the blast.

Workmen had just begun to drain the car when it blew up. Most of the dead were believed to have been the personnel around the tanker. The town's police chief was reportedly burned critically.

"It like to have knocked me out of my chair," said Mayor Jimmy Powers, who was in his office three miles away when the tanker exploded. "We all knew what it was. They had told us the way it would sound."

One bid received for senior buses

The Town of Manchester received only one bid Friday on the operation of a temporary transportation system for elderly and handicapped residents.

The bid was from Dial-a-Ride of Connecticut Inc. of 134 E. Center St. at a rate of $1,08.50 per operator per bus per day, or $151.15 per day for the operation of two buses. The cost includes the dispatcher in addition to the bus drivers.

The system was approved by the Board of Directors for a 26-week period until two buses arrive under a federal grant program. The buses originally were expected to arrive Jan. 1, but have been delayed through the grant process.

The cost outlined by Dial-a-Ride would include service Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. except for certain holidays.

Additional service on additional hours on Saturdays and Sundays would be $4.45 per hour per bus. Dial-a-Ride also designated available backup vehicles including a vehicle with hydraulic lift for wheelchairs, the company's entire fleet of seven taxicabs and wheelchair vans.

The buses to be used for the temporary service are a 16-passenger mini-bus and a bus with capacity for five passengers, including two wheelchair passengers, according to Maurice Pass, director of General Services.

The buses will be rented at a cost of $800 a day from Connecticut Auto Lease of West Hartford.

The town hopes to have the transportation system in operation as soon as possible.

News for senior citizens

Hey, what's happening? Man, with Mondays off on account of holidays, it sure makes the week move right along.

Action at the center starts with our Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes with the following results. In the Class A division Marg "Bionic" Hall took top honors for high single 176 and high triple with a 430 score. Andy "Bones" Lorenzen had a high single 203 and also copped high triple with a 545.

In the Class B division it was a little of the same thing as Kay Nettleton came through with a high single 114 and also popped in with a high triple of 323. Francis Minor took both ends for the men with a 179 high single and a high triple of 490.

Variety Show

We continue to talk about our brand new style Variety Show and we now have our tickets available here at the center. The show is scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings, April 14 and 15, at the Manchester High School Bailey Auditorium.

Although we are getting very good responses to the items we've been asking for, we still could use a few more pieces of white wrought iron furniture.

While our performers are really busy rehearsing, we have a number of volunteers who are working just as hard behind the scenes, and when you see the beautiful costumes and scenery, you'll know they really are doing a super job. We could use more help, and anyone interested need only to come to the center on Wednesday or Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m.

Card games

On Wednesday, we had a full house and talk about being busy! We had a nice turnout for our crewing a memory class and our Friendship Circle all downstairs. Upstairs was a meeting of the building site committee in one room, our health clinic in another room, and in the Main Hall it was our pinocchio games.

We had 40 players and the winners were: John Gally, 638; Joe Carlin, 627; Josephine O'Connor, 628; Bess Mooman, 623; Nadine Malcom, 588; Gladys Seeler, 585; Paul Schuetz, 569; Al Gates, 568; John Phelps, 567; Mabel Loomis, 563.

You may have been reading about the big annual Health Clinic coming up soon at the Manchester High School. Well, our bus will be available to pick up you so that you can attend this big affair. I'll tell you more about it later in another column.

By the way, while riding along Main Street last Wednesday, I spotted a friend of mine and yours walking along the sidewalk. The surprise was a pleasant one because it was good old Irving Kiprens who not too long ago was laid up with a broken hip. He sends his love to all, and believe me I can't keep admiring Irv for his courage and determination. He'll be back with us soon, you can bet on that.

We wish to extend our belated heartfelt condolences to Ida Cormier on the recent death of her brother-in-law. Also our heartfelt condolences to the family of Mrs. Loretta Hanley who passed away this past week.

Next Wednesday's prayer is:

"Father, it is Wednesday and time for us to have another sacrificial meal. But Father, last night, we overate again. Help us to learn that it is not priorities for one meal but that we must do it for our lives. We thank you for this food you have given us out of your abundance. Amen."

Few provisions for female offenders

Penal system ignores women's rights

By BEVERLY BRANDT
Beverly Brandt is a criminologist who has worked in the Washington, D.C. correctional system.

Jane spent her 18th birthday far away from her suburban, middle-class home. She is serving time in a federal women's detention center as an accomplice to an armed robbery she watched her boyfriend commit. Mary is doing a stint in the same institution for forgery. Financially strapped with two children to support, the divorcee turned to passing forged checks as a source of easy money. When the police caught up with her, she lost both her freedom and her children, who were placed in a foster home.

These women represent a new type of woman offender — one who is neither a hardened criminal nor a prostitute. The last decade has seen a tremendous upswing in crimes committed by women, and a major portion of that increase has been in such economically motivated crimes as embezzlement, larceny and forgery. Drug-related crimes, too, have brought large numbers of women into the nation's prisons.

But the criminal justice system has been slow to respond to the new — and more numerous — women offenders. Years ago, women were rarely sent to prison. The male-dominated criminal justice system was loathe to arrest, charge and incarcerate members of the "weaker sex." Only the most hardened, violent female offenders were sent to prison.

progressive and violent offenders. But government statistics show that only 4 percent of all female arrests are for prostitution and only 1 percent for homicides.

The criminal justice system's inattention to the needs of female offenders can be seen in the lack of holding facilities for women in many towns. Women arrested in those areas are routinely shipped to faraway institutions.

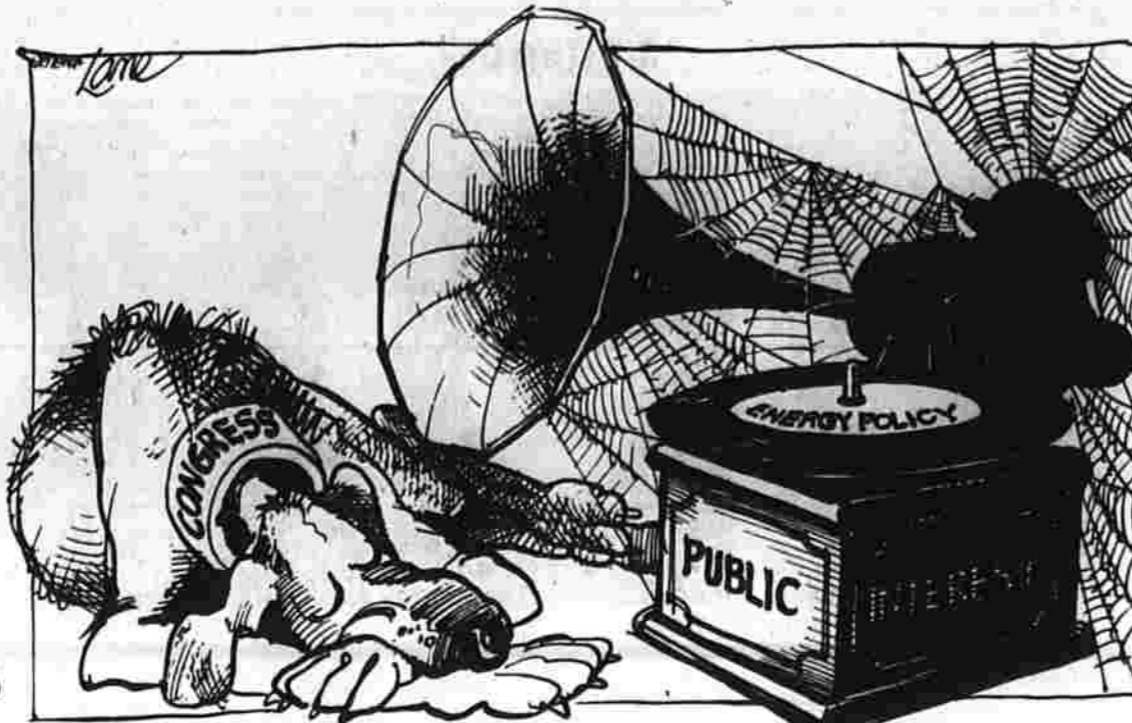

One such facility is the federal institution for women in Alderson, W. Va., located hours away from any city. In bad weather, the prison becomes virtually unreachable, isolating the inmates from their families.

Though more women are moving into prison jobs as guards, wardens and counselors, many women's institutions are still staffed largely by men.

Progressive, innovative programs — psychological treatment, job training, half-way houses — have flourished throughout the United States penal system in the last decade. That is, they have flourished in men's prisons. Women have been left with the same antiquated programs they always received: courses in sewing, cosmetology and typing.

Fewer women than men are offered places in half-way houses, and fewer women are awarded work releases. Programs to help women obtain work after their release from prison have run into difficulties obtaining funds. When questioned about this seeming inequality, administrators replied that there were too few female offenders to make the

Panama seeks sovereignty

To the editor:

In response to your editorial — "Develop Panama But Keep the Canal" — I'd like to respond to the following points:

The canal has never been "bought," as you allege, by the United States. Therefore, no treaty can cause us to surrender our claim to it as rightful territory. The 1903 treaty required the United States to pay an annuity to Panama as rental for the canal.

Regarding world peace and the security of the canal, the United States retains the right to defend the neutrality of the canal and to protect it from Third Party attacks. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have stated that an operational, secure and efficient canal can best be maintained by a cooperative effort with Panama.

Panama doesn't want American bridges. Panama is seeking to reclaim its sovereignty — control of its land and resources. United States ratification of the Panama Canal Treaty will assure this basic national right, and as well as the long-range interests of the United States. Perhaps more importantly, ratification will serve as a significant contribution to peace, which will benefit all people.

Sincerely,
Mary A. Breen

"Love and anger"
When Jesus was angry in the temple, he overturned tables. (John 2:14-16)

Remember Matthew 5:23-24? So if you are offering your gift at the altar, and there remember that your brother has something against you, leave your gift there before the altar and go; first be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift.

He may give it back. He is also steadfast and loving as well as judging and controlling. Remember Matthew 5:23-24? So if you are offering your gift at the altar, and there remember that your brother has something against you, leave your gift there before the altar and go; first be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift.

Television: the pervasive medium

Television inherited the mantle of the movies as the most prominent and pervasive medium in American popular culture, and we are in the midst of a heated debate about its possible effects. It is sometimes hard to remember that similar debates were carried on with the introduction of other technological innovations — the railroad, the telephone, the automobile, the movies.

Of course television's impact on society may be so much greater than that of any other device as to make comparisons irrelevant. The statistics of television use are staggering. The television set in the average American home is now turned on more than six hours a day. Children spend more time watching television than in any other activity except sleeping. Many Americans use television as their sole source of news.

Television is blamed for causing children to become more aggressive. Television is blamed for leading viewers to perceive society as violent. Television is blamed for lowering college admission test scores. Television is blamed for a decline in reading, for making children passive. Television is accused of turning America into a nation of sheep.

Anything that has happened in the past quarter century that people do not like has been blamed on television. They have been less inclined to give television credit for good things — an increase in cosmopolitanism, for example, or a decline in racial prejudice, for which television, as a rich source of information about other peoples and other places, may have played a part.

How you judge television may depend on what you think about the direction of American society in the past 25 years. But no matter what your verdict, the odds are very great that you watch it daily, and would not like to live without it even for a very short time. Television became the primary medium of American popular culture during a suburban era. Although TV had been developed technologically in the 1920s and 1930s, it was not until after World War II, in the late 1940s, that receiving sets were made commercially available to the general public.

This was a period of vast suburban expansion. Returning servicemen, aided by federal loans, and many other Americans were able to own homes for the first time. Television became the home entertainment for a home-centered age.

Television became an anthology of all previous forms of American popular entertainment. For radio, the earlier home medium, it took soap operas, dramatic series, sports events, talk shows, and even to some extent the news, leaving radio primarily to broadcast music. From movies it took principally old movies from the Golden Age of television in the 1950s. In those days, one sees were relatively expensive and the audience was still a minority of Americans, composed mainly of middle-class and well-to-do viewers, serious dramatic programs made up almost half the top-rated shows.

Week after week, on such programs as "Studio One" and "Intelligence Plus One," viewers could see live dramas written by Reginald Rose, Rod Serling, Paddy Chayefsky and other television playwrights.

For comedy, there are performers like Ernie Kovacs, Lucille Ball, Sid Caesar, Milton Berle, Groucho Marx, Jackie Gleason, Bob Hope and Ed Sullivan offering variety hours. Edward R. Murrow pioneered with news documentaries.

As television became increasingly a mass medium reaching all elements of society, according to this view, it tended to value quantity over quality. Programs were tailored for the highest possible ratings, in order to attract advertisers and increase revenue. Networks became copycats.

If Westerners proved popular, they flooded the screen with cowboys; if crime and mystery caught on, there was a glut of cops and detectives. The Golden Age, as others see it, is with us now. It began in the early 1970s when several situation comedies broke through the old stereotypes and restrictions that had long kept low people really feel — with attitudes towards race, sexuality, aging, loneliness.

Producers Norman Lear and Bud Yorkin pioneered by adapting a contemporary sitcom to the "The Dick Van Dyke Show," and after some difficulty aired it on CBS as "All in the Family."

Everlasting Grant Tinker of MTM Enterprises had launched "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," the saga of a career woman coping with life in the big city.

Out of these producers and shows have come much of the significant comedy programming of the 1970s — "Sanford and Son," "Maude," "The Jeffersons," "The Bob Newhart Show," "Rhoda," "Phyllis" and many more. Almost any regular television viewer can name a dozen or more characters from these programs. They seem as familiar as neighbors; indeed, we may spend more time with them than we do with our neighbors.

This is a point not to be taken lightly. Archie and Edith Bunker, Lou Grant, Ted Baxter, Mary Richards, Western, and detective movies. It took elements from vaudeville and variety shows, night club acts, Broadway musicals.

Television became a cornucopia of entertainers. People did not have to go out, pay for babysitters, pay for parking, pay for tickets, to be entertained.

Television, after the initial cost of the set, was free. It was paid for by commercial advertisers, whose messages comprised (and still do) a considerable share of television minutes every hour. Many viewers, moreover, find commercials more entertaining than the programs they interrupt.

There are two opposing perspectives today on the development of television entertainment. One view is that the Golden Age of television was in the 1950s. In those days, one sees were relatively expensive and the audience was still a minority of Americans, composed mainly of middle-class and well-to-do viewers, serious dramatic programs made up almost half the top-rated shows.

Regional council endorses Denison

Dr. Ronald Denison, president of Manchester Community College, has received support from the school's regional council and from the chairman of the town's Bicentennial Committee.

The Regional Council for MCC, an advisory group, announced its support for Denison in a letter to community college trustees. The letter also was sent to Searle Charles, executive director of the state system, who has been working on an evaluation of Denison.

There has been dissatisfaction about Denison's service as president at MCC. Charles reported Monday to the state Board of Trustees for regional community colleges, and indications are that the report may have been favorable about Denison's work.

The regional council met Tuesday and voted its support of Denison. James Nakos of East Hartford, chairman of the council, said that the group cited Denison's work to improve and expand the school's campus.

The president has spoken at several legislative hearings dealing with possible expansion or increased funding for the school, Nakos said.

"He's done very well and has worked with us. Our relationship is excellent," Nakos said.

Nathan Agostinelli and Francis Mahoney, co-chairmen of the Manchester Bicentennial Committee, wrote a letter to the trustees supporting Denison. They mentioned Denison's work with the committee and his efforts to help build the bicentennial bandshell on the MCC campus.

The two men, both former members of Manchester, also mentioned Denison's efforts to help reconstruct the old Keeney Street School.

Opposition to the MCC president has been generated by faculty and staff members at the school. There are mixed reports on how widespread the opposition is.

Nathan Agostinelli and Francis Mahoney, co-chairmen of the Manchester Bicentennial Committee, wrote a letter to the trustees supporting Denison. They mentioned Denison's work with the committee and his efforts to help build the bicentennial bandshell on the MCC campus.

The two men, both former members of Manchester, also mentioned Denison's efforts to help reconstruct the old Keeney Street School.

Opposition to the MCC president has been generated by faculty and staff members at the school. There are mixed reports on how widespread the opposition is.

The regional council met Tuesday and voted its support of Denison. James Nakos of East Hartford, chairman of the council, said that the group cited Denison's work to improve and expand the school's campus.

The president has spoken at several legislative hearings dealing with possible expansion or increased funding for the school, Nakos said.

"He's done very well and has worked with us. Our relationship is excellent," Nakos said.

Bowers students dress like book characters

Bowers School students have participated in a week-long program highlighting books, authors and reading. Activities and special events for "Stop, Look and Read Week" held this week were coordinated by Patricia Berry, children's librarian at the school.

Each class was asked to undertake a special project during the week. One class made movie rolls, several wrote their own books, and others prepared posters and murals.

The library sponsored several contests at different grade levels. The most popular event was the costume contest in which youngsters, faculty and staff were invited to participate in a parade of well-known characters such as Mother Goose, Tom Sawyer, Mary Poppins, Little Red Riding Hood, the Cat in the Hat, and others.

Prizes for the contest winners were provided by the school PTA. PTA members and parent library volunteers were the judges.

Church group to hear Lewis

Thomas R. Lewis Jr., a member of Manchester Community College faculty, will be guest speaker Sunday at 6:45 p.m. at Talcottville Congregational Church. His topic: "Silk on Steel."

The program, which is open to the public, will follow the church's monthly Family Night potluck, which will be served at 5:30.

Lewis has done research on the historical geography of American transportation and industry. His first illustrated lecture dealing with the history of Manchester was "Views from Cheney's Goat."

PUCA postpones hearing on East Hartford taxis

The state's Public Utilities Control Authority has postponed a public hearing that had been scheduled for an application for taxi service in East Hartford.

The applicant, Dial-A-Ride of Connecticut Inc., has applied to provide seven taxis in the town. The firm, located in Manchester, operates taxi service in Manchester and South Windsor and also operates the Call-A-Ride service in East Hartford.

The firm also has applied for approval of the East Hartford service from the Greater Hartford Transit District but has not yet received a decision. Thus, it asked that the PUCA hearing, which had been scheduled for Tuesday, be postponed until the Greater Hartford Transit District decision is made.

The drivers are authorized over nine towns, including East Hartford. The PUCA approval is needed so that the taxi service can deliver or pick up customers in the state's 100 other towns who might be going from or to East Hartford. A new date for the PUCA hearing has not been set.

Tax phone works

Those who called the telephone recording number that had been temporarily out of service were probably confused to hear a recording announce that that number was temporarily out of service.

A spokesman from the assessor's office told The Herald that the special telephone set up to handle those calls was indeed out of order Friday, and had been for a while before anyone knew about it.

The telephone service is being repaired and will be available to anyone calling the number, 643-4901, Monday.

Lottery

HARTFORD (UPI)—The number drawn Friday in the Connecticut Daily Lottery was 112.

CB Convac

Every CBER, at some time or another, thinks about more power, more channels and less interference. And that thought has got to lead to the single sideband system.

This doesn't mean that you have to give up your AM—unless as only three have survived out of a run of 26,000. It is a rough rectangle about 24 inches long and the "minting" consisted of hitting it in five places with a coin-sized die.

Another superlative credited to the Swedes is the first 380,000 volt transmission line. This was needed to push electric power 800 miles from Lapland to the shipyards at Malmo, Pa., 1724.

If the rig you currently have has a switch which sends USB and/or LSB, it's equipped to do the job of sending and receiving sideband transmissions. If it doesn't, then your set is purely AM. Most sets which have the USB or LSB designations on one of the panel switches also have a position which says AM. When that is the situation, you've got the whole ball of wax.

As you know, you don't get SSB signals on AM, and you don't get AM signals on SSB. But, if you get your switches set right, you can get 'em all!

As Stafford points out, there are legal operators (who have licenses and stay on prescribed channels) and then there are illegal operators. The legal ones use the power levels allowed by the FCC: 4 watts on AM and 12 watts peak envelope power on SSB.

Most important, though, is that there are certain channels that are considered to be sideband channels. This designation is sort of a gentlemen's agreement among CBERs rather than an FCC rule. Channel 16 is one channel so designated, but with the new 40-channel sets Jis will probably be expanded to additional access SSB channels. The idea is important, as we've said, because if you know which channels are CB sideband access channels, you know where to transmit and receive SSB signals.

Road closed

McKee Street between Center and West Center streets will be closed over the weekend through Monday at 4:30 p.m. because of construction on the Thompson Road storm drainage system.

Church group to hear Lewis

GOP dinner set tonight

The Manchester Republican Town Committee will hold its annual Lincoln Day Dinner-Tonight at the Manchester City Club.

The event will feature State Sen. Lewis Home, a GOP candidate for governor, as guest speaker. Cocktails will be served at 6:30; dinner will be served at 7:30, and dancing is expected to last until 1 a.m.

Peter DiRosa Jr. is chairman of the event.

About town

Mrs. Louis Heard of 281 Henry St. will be the hostess at the Lutz Junior Museum, 126 Cedar St., Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. She will give a water color demonstration. Admission is free. The public is invited.

Neighbor's kitchen

The Chinese world left the "Year of the Serpent" and welcomed the "Year of the Horse" this month at The Islander Restaurant at 179 Tolland Turnpike.

Leu Eng, congenial proprietor, prepared a delicious 10-course feast for Vivian and Tom Ferguson, who hosted their third annual banquet, and their guests.

The menu each year is completely different. Featured this year were delicious appetizers of chicken salad (shredded chicken with fine cut lettuce in imported spicy sauce), and shrimp rolls.

A delicate flavored soup course, Dried Conger Pike Fish Maw, was served.

The main course included: Cashews Shrimp Ding (diced shrimp with diced bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, imported mushrooms, Chinese vegetables and cashews); Broiled Chicken (in special sauce); and Butt Bo Braised Duck (tender browned whole duck braised together with mixed meat and various vegetables).

Also, Oyster Yuk Soong (minced, fine diced imported dried oysters, water chestnuts, bamboo shoots, Chinese vegetables in oyster sauce); Quail Eggs ala Crabmeat (fresh crabmeat sautéed with quail eggs and straw mushrooms in white gravy on a bed of fresh spinach).

As is traditional, the final course of Young Chew Fried Rice signified the end of the meal, following which Diplomat Pudding, a caramel-custard pudding, was served.

The Islander's chefs, Hon Y. Eng and Ying K. Eng, worked many hours preparing the feast and received the compliments of all attending for their sumptuous Chinese cuisine.

Here are a few Chinese recipes, not from The Islander, which I thought you might like to try.

3 lbs. pork shoulder, cubed
4 or 5 bunches celery, sliced on diagonal
8 or 10 onions, chopped

East Hartford
Ronald F. Carter of no certain address was charged with four different counts following an incident on Burnside Avenue Friday, East Hartford Police said.

Police said that Carter, whose age also was unknown, was charged with breach of peace following a problem on Burnside Avenue.

When he was brought to the police station, he was charged with three other counts — interfering with a police officer, criminal impersonation and failure to be fingerprinted, police said.

The impersonation charge was filed because the suspect gave police several false names when asked his identity, police said.

He is being held in lieu of $1,500 bond and will be presented in court Monday if the bond is not paid.

An 18-year-old East Hartford resident was charged Friday with third-degree criminal mischief, police said.

John Cafazzy, 18, of 63 Lydall Road was charged in connection with damage to an apartment in the Mill Road area, police said. The apartment reportedly was damaged Feb. 14.

Court date is March 13.
Police charged Herman Green, 25, of Hartford with second-degree failure to appear. He was scheduled to be presented Friday in court, police said.

Gary LaPlant, 23, of 9 Porter Brook Ave., East Hartford, was charged with breach of peace and third-degree criminal mischief, police said. The charges were made following an incident at the Eastview Cafe, police said. Court date is March 6.

Ronald Blessing, 31, of Hartford was charged with fourth-degree larceny following a reported shoplifting incident at Bradlees, police said. Court date is March 13.

Collectors' Corner

By RUSS MacKENDRICK
These pictures arrived as a glossy print sent from the Swedish Post Office in Stockholm. They were designed for some postal stationery to be released on March 8.

The depictions celebrate the 100th year of their rural delivery service. The top one, of 1.15 kronor, with the postman pushing a kind of ski sled, is for a postal card; the bicycle-and-mailboxes design, (1.30 kr) is to go on a "postletter"; and the last one, of 1.70 kronor, is for an aereogram sheet.

The prices of these new issues take account of the boost in postage rates last month.

They had another mail anniversary with a commemorative stamp in 1920, supporting their claim to the world's first postal service, the "Secretary of the route between Stockholm and Hamburg, Germany. Readers of "Stamps" magazine must have seen the every-week advertisement with the headline "Get To Know Sweden." It says that their stamps have genuine Swedish motifs and that most of them are steel engravings. Each week they discuss a particular stamp. One of these recently shown was issued to mark the founding of the 1838 "New Sweden" colony in Delaware.

The first Swedish stamps appeared in 1855 with a coat of arms device. Later they had royal heads and posthorns. In 1920 the P.O. discovered coils and booklets, and it seems that now they put out more of these than anybody.

The total of their stamp issuances is not overwhelming — Scott's highest number for them is 1224. This was for the last one in a booklet of five picturing public transportation.

They had a Horse-drawn Trolley, an Electric Trolley, Ferry, Tandem Bus, and Subway. Another good-looking issue that came out last year is No. 1214, a booklet stamp with three "Gulland Pone."

Now and then, of course, they have featured some Nobel prize-winners. In 1976, in a booklet of five Swedish inventors, we find a stamp honoring John Ericsson who made the first ship propeller and also designed the Monitor, that "Cheese-box on a Raft" that fought off the warship Merrimack at Hampton Roads in 1862.

Collectors might wonder about Sweden's coins. The Krause catalog starts with some 1799 dates but they

Take the Easy Way

Of course there's a time for long days of cooking with steaming pots on the range and tantalizing fragrances wafting through the house. But what a relief to know that you can also present a marvelous meal by taking the easy way. In just a little over an hour the Peachy Deviled Chicken, Garden Salad with Tenerife Dressing, and Confetti Cake are ready to be served along with a steaming pot of hot tea. And there's time during that hour to set the table! All this with no loss of atmosphere, either, for the aromatic fragrance of the seasoned chicken is truly mouthwatering.

With the convenience of simple recipes, plenty of delicious, young broiler-fryer chickens, canned cling peaches and fruit cocktail, easy to use dairy products and the stimulating flavor and fragrance of freshly made tea, taking the easy way can become a way of life.

PEACHY DEVILED CHICKEN

- 2 cans (29 ounce each) cling peach halves
- 1 cube butter
- 3 teaspoons curry powder
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving parts
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon Worcester-shire sauce
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 2 cups fresh garden crumbs
- 1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper

Drain peach halves, saving 1 cup syrup. Melt 1/2 cube (1/4 cup) butter in large saucepan. Add saved syrup and curry powder. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn off heat and add peach halves to syrup, marinate while preparing chicken. Melt remaining butter. Add mustard, Worcester-shire sauce and lemon juice to melted butter. Mix bread crumbs, parsley and poultry seasoning in blender. Dip chicken parts in melted butter then roll in bread crumbs. Arrange breaded chicken in one 3-quart baking dish or two 1 1/2-quart greased oblong baking dishes. Arrange marinated peach halves around chicken parts. Pour marinade over parts. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook baking dishes tightly. Bake for approximately 1 hour at 350 degrees F. To brown, remove cover for last 15 minutes of baking. Serves 6.

Note: If preparation steps are done the day or night before baking, refrigerate, then add 15 minutes to baking time.

TENERIFE SALAD

- 1 carton (8 ounce) plain yogurt
- 1 avocado, mashed
- 3 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/4 cup parsley, finely chopped
- 3 drops hot sauce
- Pinch salt
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 quart torn, fresh salad greens
- Radishes

Combine yogurt with rest of ingredients, mixing well. Chill. Serve over torn greens mixed with sliced radishes. Serves 6.

CONFETTI CAKE

- 1 can (17 ounce) fruit cocktail
- 1 angel food cake
- 2 egg whites
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup whipping cream
- 3 or 4 drops mint extract

Drain fruit cocktail thoroughly. With forks or serrated knife, separate cake into three layers. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; beat in sugar gradually until stiff peak is firm. Whip cream, adding mint extract to taste. Fold cream into egg whites and add fruit cocktail. Spread between layers of cake. Chill at least two hours before serving. Garnish with additional fruit cocktail and mint sprigs, if desired. Makes one cake.

Snowplowing cost $22,000

Coventry
Coventry Town Manager Frank Connolly told the Town Council that Storm Larry cost approximately $22,000 to clean up.

"The extensive costs for snowplowing during the storm, the length of time it took to dig residents out, the equipment breakdowns, and a host of related items all attest to the severity of the storm," the manager summed up.

Almost $11,000 of the amount went for outside contractual services, and Connolly expects 75 percent federal reimbursement on this. About $3,000 was spent on regular labor and more than $6,000 on overtime. The remainder of the money went for temporary help and supplies such as sand and salt.

The council received a letter of praise from resident Judith D'Ambrino for the town's handling of the blizzard problems. She lives on Lewis Hill Road, one of the steepest roads in Coventry, and said the road crew "deserves a medal" for keeping the hill plowed and sanded.

"Most of the roads in Coventry seem to be very well taken care of this year," she added.

In other business, Connolly informed the council that specifications had been drawn up for repairs to the Pucker Street and Flanders River Road bridges. They have been submitted for bids, and the manager and Town Engineer Donald Holmes will sift through the replies and select several engineering firms to meet with the council and the Columbia Board of Selectmen.

The Flanders bridge was closed temporarily last week to replace a spring that had broken. Temporary repairs were made to the bridge last year, and it is awaiting permanent reconstruction.

The Pucker bridge has been closed since an overweight oil truck plunged through it into the Hop River two months ago. The town is trying to reclaim its loss in that incident from the M&M Oil Co. of Bolton.

Teacher contract approved

Coventry
The Coventry Board of Education has voted to approve a three-year contract with the teachers' union that provides for 5.8 percent average increase in salaries over all steps.

The contract resulted from 13 meetings between representatives of the teachers and board chairman Joan Lewis. One of the provisions allows the board to withhold monetary increases from teachers who have received a "less than satisfactory annual evaluation."

The board will also have the right to offer alternative medical insurance plans to those now in effect as long as the coverage is equivalent.

The agreement has a reopener provision for 1980-81 for a salary schedule. Longevity payments have been increased as well as life insurance and mileage allowances.

Increases to athletic directors at the Captain Nathan Hale School exceeded the average, and three new positions were added at the high school: one student council advisor and two assistant principals.

Only board member Gary Doppiaf abstained from the Thursday vote, citing his position as a teacher and a union member as a possible conflict of interest.

Cooking demonstration set

Vernon
Mrs. Ann Howard of Farmington, formerly of Vernon, will give a demonstration on German cooking March 2 at 10 a.m. at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Route 30.

Adults wishing to attend must pre-register by calling the Cooperative Extension Service, 875-3331. A small fee will be charged to cover the cost of food. The extension's homemakers groups are sponsoring the demonstration to train leaders who will do a similar demonstration with their groups later in the spring.

Parents and Cub Scouts representing seven dens attended the annual Blue and Gold Banquet of Cub Scout Pack 221 recently at the Vernon Middle School.

Wolf badges were presented to 22 boys and Bear badges to 14. Six silver, and 12 gold, arrows were also awarded.

Recognition was also given to the overall winners of the recent Pinewood Derby. First place winner was Brian Werstak; second, Dick Wimmer; and third, James Leachman.

Atty. Robert Blechman of Manchester, whose hobby is following reports of UFO sightings, was the guest speaker.

Wetland hearing scheduled

Bolton
There will be a public hearing on a proposed inland wetlands map Monday at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall. The hearing is sponsored by the state Department of Environmental Protection.

The proposed map may be seen at the Community Hall. It is based on soil groups as published in the Tolland County soil survey. The Conservation Commission is now reviewing a draft of inland wetland regulations for Bolton. If the proposed map is approved, it will probably be used in setting the local regulations.

Guest speaker
Theological Education Sunday will be observed tomorrow at the 10 a.m. service of St. George's Episcopal Church in Bolton.

Richard Menees of the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, Mass. will be guest speaker. He will discuss seminary education and his participation in the Roman Catholic Dialogue of 1977 in Rome. Menees will also speak at the Young People's Fellowship pancake breakfast after the service. No meeting.

The Bolton High School parents group meeting scheduled for Monday has been canceled. The next meeting of the group will be March 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Musical exchange planned

South Windsor
Members of the Randolph Township High School Concert Band will arrive in South Windsor Thursday to participate in a musical exchange program with the South Windsor High Concert Band.

A motorcade, headed by a police cruiser, carrying the school's "Bobcat," will escort the band to the high school where the school's Stage Band will perform for them.

Later that night the visitors and the South Windsor bands will rehearse followed by a dance. On Friday there will be another rehearsal and the two groups will also go on a tour of Stridbridge Village. Friday night at 8 there will be a concert featuring the two bands.

Ceremonies during Friday evening will include the presentation of a South Windsor town seal and suitably inscribed gifts for each visiting student.

The concert will be open to the public. Tickets will be available at the door. On the weekend of March 10 the South Windsor students will be guests in Randolph for three days.

Public hearing
The Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a public hearing March 2 to consider the application of Carol Doyer, 12 Farnham Road, for a temporary permit to allow an apartment in a single-family home. The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Bruins lose two goalies

BOSTON (UPI)—Early in the season, Boston Bruins Coach Don Cherry referred to his overstock of goaltenders as an enjoyable problem, but he faces more serious woes Saturday night.

With Gerry Cheevers out with a torn ligament in his right knee and Gilles Gilbert sidelined with a strained right ankle, Boston will go with one goalie when they face off against the Los Angeles Kings on the West Coast.

Rex Grahame, who is statistically one of the top five goaltenders in the NHL, will play the former WIA goalie in goal Friday during Boston's win over Vancouver Wednesday. It was the first time Grahame, in his first year in the NHL, played two consecutive games for the Bruins.

Cheevers will probably be lost for the season. He must wear a cast on his knee for about six weeks. By the time he becomes available, the Bruins will be approaching the playoffs.

Cheevers tore the ligament in a Tuesday collision in the Bruins' win over the Colorado Rockies. It was the second injury to his right knee this season.

Gilbert, however, is expected to return to active duty next week. He is also one of the NHL's top five goaltenders. He's allowed an average of 2.38 goals a game while posting a 15-5-2 record.

The Bruins will return to Boston Garden Feb. 28 when they play the Philadelphia Flyers. The game was originally scheduled for Feb. 11 but was snowed out. It is the first of four home games for Boston.

Listeners back silenced station

After two years of broadcasting, a Manchester resident and full-time Manchester Community College student finds himself without a radio station.

But, support from listeners of the non-licensed station, including a petition by a group of Glastonbury firefighters, already has started.

Earlier this week, Federal Communications Commission officials shut down a non-licensed station operated by Barry Krupnikoff, 28, of 43 Wilfred Road.

Broadcasting without a license is not permitted under FCC regulations, and the station was shut down Tuesday night by FCC officials who said that they used electronic tracking equipment to find the broadcast location.

He has been charged with two violations of the Communications Act, but first offenders normally are not prosecuted.

Krupnikoff understands that the broadcasting, which he did about four nights a week, was illegal, but he feels that his station was a helpful announced immediately. Officials have estimated it would take nearly three weeks before coal production could be back to normal.

Although Carter did not say what action he had in mind, administration officials said the president was ready to order the miners back to work under the Taft-Hartley Act and perhaps to seek congressional approval for a federal take over of the mines.

But in a quickly arranged, live appearance on national television, Carter said federal intervention had been averted for the time being by a hurriedly arranged agreement between the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the United Mine Workers.

"This is the outcome toward which all of us have been working so hard," he said. "It was because we believe in the free process of collective bargaining that I have been so determined to give that process every chance to work. It has worked, and the settlement it has produced is better for everyone involved."

UMW President Arnold Miller termed the agreement a "good contract," and said it included all the health and pension guarantees the union sought.

He said the agreement was even better than the pact reached with the Pittsburg and Midway Coal Co., Monday, an agreement the BCOA had earlier refused to consider.

Carter had high praise for the UMW's 160,000 striking members even while telling them it is crucial they ratify the pact.

"Yours is a historic struggle," he said. "Your dedication to justice in the mines has been matched only by dedication to your country whenever it needed you, whether in war or in peacetime."

"The agreement that has been reached today is no different," he said. "You struggled for it and it is a significant achievement."

Carter noted that the union's 39-man bargaining council, which represents union miners nationwide, had approved the agreement, and he urged rank and file members to follow that lead.

"This agreement serves the national interest as well as your own interest and those of your families," he said. "If it is not approved without delay, time will have run out for all of us and I will have to take the drastic and unsatisfactory legal action which I would have announced tonight."

The agreement was good news for the scores of businesses, industries and laid off workers who have been affected by the strike.

Town afire, 20 dead, after propane blast

WAVERLY, Tenn. (UPI) — A derailed tank car carrying 2,000 gallons of propane exploded like "an atomic blast" when workmen began to empty it Friday, setting the town afire and killing at least 20 persons.

"The whole sky lit up," said Brad Fussell, who was working at a furniture company nearby. "The blast could be felt two or three miles away. They say all the buildings are wrecked and bodies are everywhere lying on the ground."

Adj. Gen. Carl Wallace, head of the Tennessee National Guard, said 20 persons were killed and at least 145 others injured as the thunderous blast touched off blazes that wrecked the center of town.

Wallace said a second propane tanker, among 24 cars of a Louisville & Nashville freight train that derailed in downtown Waverly Wednesday, did not explode although it was only 30 feet from the first.

However, the general said firefighters who were pouring foam on the second car to keep it cool might eventually have to let it go.

Wallace called in 50 National Guard troops and began clearing

everyone out of an area for half a mile around the derailment.

Four hours after the explosion, an area the size of two football fields was still burning in downtown Waverly, a town of about 4,000 persons.

Firefighters from across eastern Tennessee, including airborne units from Ft. Campbell, Ky., rushed to the scene. Medical rescue helicopters from Memphis, 155 miles to the east, and from Ft. Campbell flew out many of the injured.

Many of the injured, most of them badly burned, were being taken to Nashville, 60 miles west of Waverly.

Many homes in the area had been ordered evacuated before workmen began draining the propane from the tank cars into tractor-trailer trucks.

But downtown businesses were staffed as usual and there were 100 persons — law enforcement officials, Louisville & Nashville Railroad employees and civil defense workers — around the tankers at the time of the blast.

Workmen had just begun to drain the car when it blew up. Most of the dead were believed to have been the personnel around the tanker. The town's police chief was reportedly burned critically.

"It like to have knocked me out of my chair," said Mayor Jimmy Powers, who was in his office three miles away when the tanker exploded. "We all knew what it was. They had told us the way it would sound."

Police probe double death

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Police said two persons were found dead inside a Middletown drug store Friday in what appeared to be a murder-suicide.

Police, still at the scene Friday night, declined to reveal any details of how the deaths occurred in the incident that reportedly took place in a drug store on Washington Street between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The police spokesman would only say the deaths of the two unidentified persons were not the result of a robbery.

One bid received for senior buses

The Town of Manchester received only one bid Friday on the operation of a temporary transportation system for elderly and handicapped residents.

The bid was from Dial-a-Ride of Connecticut Inc. of 134 E. Center St. at a rate of $108.50 per operator per bus per day, or $151.15 per day for the operation of two buses. The cost includes the dispatcher in addition to the bus drivers.

The system was approved by the Board of Directors for a 26-week period until two buses arrive under a federal grant program. The buses originally were expected to arrive Jan. 1, but have been delayed through the grant process.

The cost outlined by Dial-a-Ride would include service Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. except for certain holidays.

Additional service on additional hours or Saturdays and Sundays would be $4.45 per hour per bus. Dial-a-Ride also designated available backup vehicles including a vehicle with hydraulic lift for wheelchairs, the company's entire fleet of seven taxicabs and wheelchair vans.

The buses to be used for the temporary service are a 16-passenger mini-bus and a bus with capacity for five passengers, including two wheelchair passengers, according to Maurice Pass, director of General Services.

The buses will be rented at a cost of $800 a day from Connecticut Auto Lease of West Hartford.

The town hopes to have the transportation system in operation as soon as possible.
