Revaluation boosts Grand List

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
The Town of Manchester's revaluated net taxable Grand List for 1977 increased by 74.3 percent to $533,634,235, figures released by the tax assessor's office show.

That figure is minus $8,397,403 in permitted exemptions and is a $227-

541,493 increase over last year. The figure is still subject to adjustments by the town's Board of Tax Review.

The substantial increase in the Grand List is due to the revaluation of property values that is being completed now by the assessor's office. The assessment of most residential properties more than doubled because of the revaluation, the first in Manchester since 1966.

By comparison, last year, before the revaluation was finished, the Grand List increased two percent.

The current Grand List will be the basis of tax rates for the fiscal year beginning July 1. A substantial decrease can be expected in the present tax rate, which is 55.06 mills for the General Fund budget.

How much the mill rate decreases will depend on policy and spending decisions made by the Town Board of Directors when it sets the 1978-79 town budget.

The largest increase in assessment was the real estate category, which increased by $215,807,380 to $454,589,859.

Personal property increased by $5,847,694 to $38,246,126. Motor vehicles increased by $5,247,885 to $40,699,250.

The breakdown of those net taxable categories between the Town of Manchester and the Eighth Utilities

District is as follows:

- Personal property — Town, $33,711,626; Eighth District, $4,634,500
- Real estate — Town, $361,850,442; Eighth District, $92,738,417
- Motor vehicle — Town, $31,041,950; Eighth District, $9,657,300.

Residents have been meeting for the past few weeks with employees of the assessor's office to review the new assessments resulting from revaluation.

Some changes have been made during these hearings and have been included in the Grand List calculation. Residents who are still dissatisfied may meet with the Board of Tax Review, which annually makes some adjustments to the Grand List.

A resident who is dissatisfied after meeting with the Board of Tax Review may appeal the new assessment to the Court of Common Pleas.

Dollar's value at record low

United Press International
The dollar plunged to new lows today against four major world currencies in a crisis of confidence. It was worth less than two West German marks for the first time in history.

It also fell to record lows against the Swiss franc, Belgian franc and Dutch guilder. Kuwait said if the dollar continues to drop, it will ask other oil producing nations to consider oil price hikes.

The crisis appeared caused by European money dealers refusing to believe that Washington really wants to halt the accelerating nosedive.

"There simply is no confidence either in the dollar or in Washington's assertions it will act forcefully to support the dollar," said

Black lung bill signed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter today signed legislation that makes it easier for coal miners stricken with black lung disease to claim disability benefits and to reapply for aid which may have been denied in the past.

Carter said the new act includes "fair and just" provisions making black lung benefits permanent, liberalizing standards for disabled miners to receive them and simplifying the procedures for claims.

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller was standing at Carter's side during the signing ceremony, but the president declined a chance to stump for ratification of the proposed UMW contract which could end the miners strike, now in its 85th day.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, asked if the miners would accept the new three-year contract, said, "It's looking favorable."

Bolton board told to rescind action

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

The Connecticut State Labor Relations Board has ruled largely in favor of the Bolton Education Association after a hearing Dec. 20.

The hearing was the result of a disagreement between the association and the Board of Education over the interpretation of the word "days" in the grievance procedure of their current contract. Because of the board's interpretation of the word "days," it refused to hear two teacher grievances.

The teacher's association filed an unfair labor practice against the school board, in November, and the hearing was held in December.

The teacher's association maintained that under the contract, "days" in the grievance procedure means just the 180 days school is officially in session by state law.

In September, the school board interpreted the word days to mean, "Excludes weekends and holidays but not time when school is not in session such as the summer recess."

The Labor Relations board has ordered the local school board to rescind action it took in September.

The labor board ordered the school board to hear one teacher grievance (by Dawn Varava), music teacher, to rescind its vote interpreting the word "days," in the grievance procedure of the contract, to interpret the word "days" to mean when school is actually in session, to post the ruling in a conspicuous place for 60 days, and to report to the labor board within 30 days the steps taken to comply with a leading Zurich money dealer. Families of American enlisted men in West Germany have been so hard hit by the dollar's decline against the mark that some are said to be living below the poverty level.

For Americans at home, it meant higher prices for imported goods, such as wine, clothes or cars, and less for their dollar when they travel abroad.

In Kuwait, Oil Minister Ali Khalifa As Sabah said Kuwaiti ruler Sheikh Jaber al Ahmed is deeply concerned over the drop in the dollar's value and its adverse effect on the oil incomes of members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Ali said Jaber told him that "in the event that the current slippage of the dollar continues, Kuwait will take the initiative in calling for an emergency meeting of OPEC oil and finance ministers to discuss the position of the dollar, as well as whether to continue the current freeze on oil prices or to decide on price hikes."

The historic low came as no surprise. Bankers, industrialists and government leaders have said for weeks that Washington was not taking adequate steps to support the dollar and they could foresee nothing that would halt its dive.

Nevertheless, the dollar's decline below two marks was a shock that brought home the American currency's sad plight.

Germans fearful for their export industries hard hit by the rising value of the mark wondered just how low the dollar could fall. West German Economics Minister Otto Lambsdorff said Tuesday it could conceivably hit 1.80 marks or even lower.

Switzerland has taken drastic monetary measures to stop the dollar's decline, imposing penalty fees on all large franc deposits held in Switzerland by foreigners and restricting the amount of foreign currency that may be brought into Switzerland.

the ruling. The ruling gives the teachers binding arbitration.

At least two people are very happy with the ruling, Ronald Cordilico, legal advisor for the Connecticut Education Association, and Patricia Bankel, Bolton Education Association president.

Cordilico said he has been handling teacher complaints since July 1976. He said about 115 complaints were filed with the labor board on behalf of various teacher associations throughout Connecticut.

Cordilico said this was the first complaint filed on behalf of the Bolton teachers and the first time he knows of, that the labor board ordered a local school board to rescind its action.

Cordilico said the current contract between the teachers and the school board was very clear and many hours of time went into it. He said, "It was very high-handed and cavalier of the Bolton Board of Education to think they could interpret the contract anyway they wanted to."

He said, "We had to go to the labor board to protect the teachers' rights. The clear and plain meaning of contract terms must be followed, you just can't walk away from a contract because you want to."

In the past when the teachers had a grievance they went to the principal, superintendent and school board in that order. The decision by the school board was the final step.

Cordilico said, "That is a thing of the past. The teachers now have binding arbitration."

Deadline set for MDC data

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Manchester's Water Study Committee, concerned that it still has not received cost estimates from the Metropolitan District Commission, set a 10-day deadline for the MDC to produce such information.

Also, the committee at its Tuesday night meeting received a four-part ruling from the town counsel's office. The letter included an opinion that the Globe Hollow swimming pool cannot be used as the site of the proposed water treatment plant without a passage of special legislation by the state Legislature.

Three representatives from the MDC — Peter Revill, Bert Carlson and Albert Hell — met with the Water Study Committee. Again, the committee asked questions about the cost to residents if the town joined the MDC, a regional water supplier. Again, the MDC representatives were not able to give specific answers, a situation that did not please the committee members or Water Department personnel present.

Frank Jodanis, water and sewer administrator, and Bob Young, water treatment manager, both said that the town faces a tight timetable for making improvements to the water system required by federal law.

Jodanis mentioned that Tuesday night was the third meeting the town had had with MDC representatives. They received no more definitive answers than the first meeting, he said.

Young said, "If you're a businessman and you can sell something cheaper, you want to put it out front and advertise it. You don't want someone to have to go through a maze to find the answer."

Chairman Harry Reinhorn and other members emphasized several times that the committee needs to have a comparison between the cost of joining the MDC and the town making water improvements on its own.

"We're going to have to come up with a dollar figure," Reinhorn said. The town has been planning to present a November referendum question on water improvements needed to meet new water quality standards.

The Water Study Committee originally approved a proposal to locate a treatment plant in the Globe Hollow area. The Board of Directors, however, asked the committee to consider proposals from the MDC. Some of the options that included joining the MDC were eliminated originally by the committee.

The committee proposed that some of its members meet along with MDC and Water Department workers to try to draw up some cost comparisons.

Bert Carlson, acting manager at MDC, said this morning that the ten-day timetable is a tight one, but added, "We'll certainly try to get them what they want within the time

State surplus to aid area

Manchester and its area towns are among 169 Connecticut cities and towns to benefit from a snow removal aid bill approved by a 28-0 vote by the state legislature's Appropriations Committee. The bill will divide $5 million among the towns.

The bill will be taken up by the House Thursday or Friday, and will then go to the Senate where it is expected to receive swift attention, according to House Speaker James Kennedy.

The money will be taken from this year's anticipated surplus of $80 million.

The breakdown of allocation to the Manchester area towns is as follows: Manchester, $65,484; East Hartford, $65,504; Andover, $6,690; Bolton, $8,627; South Windsor, $28,578; Coventry, $21,103; Hebron, $14,214; Vernon, $39,057, and Tolland, $22,318.

Under the bill, the $5 million would be divided in two ways. The first half would be given out on the basis of a town's population. The second $2.5 million would be doled out on the basis of miles of roads in a municipality.

After Gov. Ella Grasso signs the bill, the towns would get their money within seven days, according to Anthony V. Milano, secretary of the Office of Policy and Management. The governor could sign the bill before the end of the month, Milano said.

Appropriation Committee Republicans expressed token opposition to the measure saying it would throw Mrs. Grasso's fiscal 1979 budget off because the spending package relies heavily on money from this year's anticipated surplus. But when the roll call was taken, the vote was unanimous.

Today's news summary

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today doubled gasoline prices to $1.30 a gallon and boosted coffee prices to $13 a pound. It hiked prices on other items considered luxury goods.

The sharp hikes were sugar-coated by a corresponding announcement of reductions in the prices of some mass-market consumer goods, including television sets, refrigerators and ready-to-wear clothing.

DETROIT (UPI)—General Motors, Chairman Thomas A. Murphy said in a UPI interview the United States would suffer a setback if a pending antitrust investigation leads to a government-ordered breakup of the giant auto firm.

Murphy said the nation's No. 1 automaker will keep trying to expand its already huge share of the auto market, despite a widening federal investigation into alleged monopolies in the industry. He said success should not be penalized.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A consumer group whose petition to the Federal Trade Commission triggered the decision to crack down on commercials aimed at children thinks the ads may be changed even before any final rule is written.

Peggy Charren, head of Action for Children's Television, said public debate should make advertisers more sensitive to complaints that children are being lured into eating highly sugared foods.

An angry and divided UMW rank and file wrangled over the union's proposed new contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association Tuesday as their strike—now in its 86th day—tightened an economic noose on the power-hungry Midwest.

In West Virginia—where opposition to the new pact burned hottest—ranks of the unemployed stood at 67,000, with 7,000 laid off in non-mining industries as a result of the walkout.

In Indiana, an estimated 40,000 were out of work—including 30,000 UMW members—and public utilities in the stricken areas prepared electrical cutbacks to schools and industries as their coal supplies dwindled.

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI)—Egypt today gave U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton a draft declaration of principles for a Middle East peace settlement to counter an Israeli blueprint. Government sources said the two sides remained far apart on major issues.

The sources reiterated the belief that Atherton is unlikely to succeed in bridging the gap on his current "postman" shuttle between the two countries and that Washington's intervention with compromise proposals of its own represents the best chance of real progress.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter's national security adviser said today Russia must make concessions if the strategic arms talks are to progress, and he warned that any increase in tension caused by Soviet actions in Africa could block approval of a pact.

Zbigniew Brzezinski told reporters the United States feels "we have made substantial concessions" in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

Keep tabs on arson

If the FBI can issue regular reports on larceny and auto thefts, why can't it do the same for an even more serious crime — arson?
The FBI doesn't like the idea, arguing that arson statistics are unreliable and difficult to collect.

Custodians of our own

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — Dwight D. Eisenhower displayed what might be called amused annoyance when a reporter at a White House press conference asked what his administration had done lately about the denial of human rights in the Soviet Union.
"Well, not much," he replied. "What can we do except deplore it? We can't impose our human rights standards on another country. Right now, we're trying to avoid another war."

January disappointing for collection of taxes

January was a disappointing month for the collection of taxes in the Town of Manchester, and James Turek, the collector of revenue, said that the town will now "pull out all the stops" to avoid a deficit caused primarily by a shortfall in tax revenues.

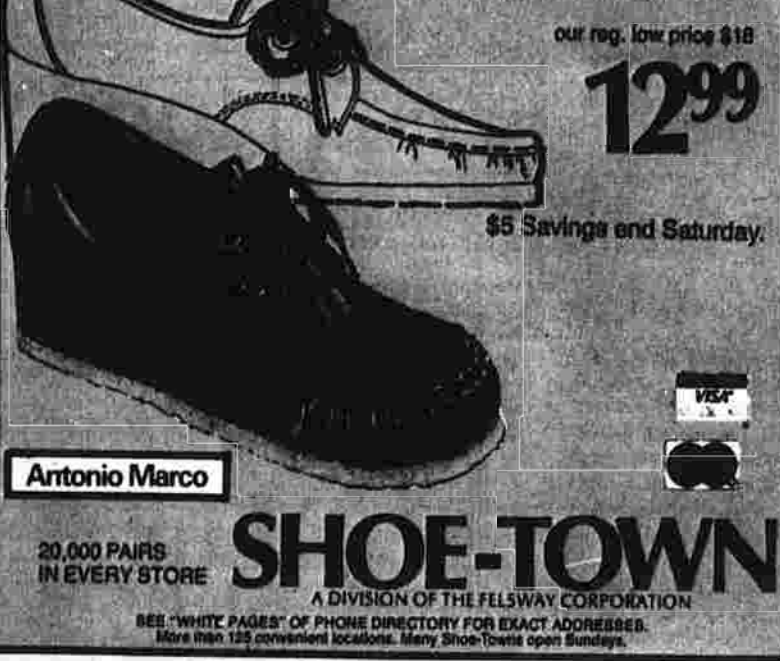

Normally, at the end of January, the town should have collected about 96 percent of its taxes for the year, Turek said. January is the month when the second installment of personal property taxes is due.

MISAC board plans parley with tenants

MISAC (Manchester Interfaith Social Action Council), the governing board for the Beechwood Apartments, a moderate income non-profit housing complex, has decided to have a meeting with all tenants of the complex to hear their comments and complaints.
 A tenants organization was formed last fall because of dissatisfaction with maintenance and the management of the apartments.
 The tenant relations committee of MISAC met with the executive board of the Rachel Road Tenants Association last Thursday. As a result of that meeting, the directors have asked the management agency, the Lee C. Greenough Co., to formulate a maintenance plan for building superintendents.
 The tenants have complained of inadequate snow removal this winter and lack of buildings and grounds maintenance.
 In other action by the MISAC board, 21 letters have been sent to professional housing project managers inviting them to make proposals for managing the Beechwood project.
 The letters are an exploratory step and are not a commitment to making a definite change in management, Earl Odum, vice president of the MISAC board, said. Greenough is aware of the letters, Odum said.
 In the past, MISAC board members have expressed dissatisfaction with some of the management techniques. MISAC has also been in serious financial difficulty.
 Steps have been taken to help relieve some of the financial problems, such as a rent increase that took effect today and an abatement of the principal on the mortgage on the property. Both items received approval from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which is required because MISAC has a HUD-insured mortgage on the property.
 The two actions should help relieve the outstanding debts of MISAC. Odum said, which include a natural gas heating bill of more than $50,000.

Deadline for MDC

 He said that he will try today to begin the process of meeting with town representatives about the issue.
 The committee received the letter from David Barry, town counsel, and one of his assistants, William Shea. The attorneys ruled that they feel the Globe Hollow pool can be used only for recreation purposes. The pool site was one of three in the area being considered for a possible treatment plant location.
 Special legislation would be required from the state Legislature to permit a change, according to the attorneys.
 Such special legislation also would be needed if the town wanted to discontinue serving some Glastonbury customers who live near the Manchester town line, they said. Such a discontinuance of service has been considered because of the high cost of serving the Glastonbury residents.
 The town, however, may charge higher rates to the Glastonbury customers if the higher charges are needed because of additional costs, the attorneys ruled.
 In the fourth and final part of the ruling, Barry and Shea said that the town and Glastonbury might be able to work out an agreement to further minimize Manchester's tax obligation for watershed property in Glastonbury.
 William Perkins of Weston & Sampson also told the Water Study Committee that a distribution study, originally expected in March, will not be ready until May.
HARTFORD (UPI) — Attendance by lawmakers at legislative hearings is becoming a problem.
 Leaders of the Legislature's budget-writing committee have written members complaining about their attendance records. Chairmen of another committee complained publicly Tuesday about the problem.
 Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers, and Rep. John Groppo, D-Windham, said they had written the 19 members of the Appropriations Committee asking them to show up at more hearings.
 "The public comes to hearings, and they see six or eight committee members and say 'what kind of government is this,' Houley said. "Then hopefully, everyone will devote their full attention to the education of Bolton students."

Connecticut news summary

ROCKY HILL (UPI) — State health officials say they are in favor of the town's decision to bar 18 grammar school students from vaccination because they need rubella vaccines next year.
 Dr. John Lewis, director of preventable diseases for the Connecticut Department of Health, said Tuesday the town health director's decision to bar the students means he is upholding the law.
 Town health officer Dr. David W. Moser ordered the ban for students lacking proof of German measles inoculation or immunity this week.
HARTFORD (UPI) — Several state prosecutors say they are either dismissing or declining to prosecute charges against persons arrested for violating Gov. Ella T. Grasso's snowstorm driving ban last month.
 Many court prosecutors interviewed Tuesday said most of the motorists who violated the controversial executive order had valid reasons for being on the road during the Feb. 6-7 blizzard.
HARTFORD (UPI) — A committee that spent several weeks studying Connecticut's troubled unemployment system has decided to throw in the sponge and not recommend any business tax increase.
 Connecticut is $447 million in debt to the federal government. The state has promised to keep up its payments for people thrown out of work during the economic slump of the late 1960s and early 1970s.
 Though the economy has recovered enough so Connecticut can maintain its payments without more borrowing, it can't afford any loan payments. The first, $38 million, is due in November.
HARTFORD (UPI) — Some Connecticut farmers are making it plain they don't want the government interfering with their land.
 At a public hearing Tuesday, about 100 people spoke at the Bunhill Auditorium about what they think of a state plan to buy up farmland development rights to stop speculators from gobbling up the land.
 "How can you even suggest such a thing?" asked Mrs. Jess E. Metcalf, whose husband tills the 640-acre Great Ring Farm in Newton.
 "There are no greedy developers beating down my door," said Mrs. Metcalf. "The state controls 68 percent of the land in Connecticut."

Panel seeks site for dental clinic

By JUNE TOMPKINS
 Herald Reporter
 Seeking a site for Manchester's second dental clinic is the next step in the dental health committee's process of establishing a clinic for Title 19 patients.
 A committee composed of Dr. Nathan Schardt, chairman of the town's Advisory Board of Health, Ronald Kraatz, assistant health administrator, and Dr. Ronald Stephens, dentist, will check the possibility of a clinic location in Manchester Memorial Hospital, a school, and the Senior Citizens Center on Myrtle Street.
 A clinic location in the Manchester hospital is not a new idea. In fact, the hospital has committed space for a clinic if the need for a dental clinic is proved and management arrangements can be defined.
 But in order to be eligible for Community Development funds, the dental clinic must be located within the target area set up by the CD committee. The committee has designated Manchester's downtown area as one of its target areas.
 A downtown school location seems feasible, dental health committee members agreed, because it would simply transportation for Title 19 students within the target area. Title 19 patients would be those who are unable to pay for, or can only partially pay for services rendered.
 Committee members said that Nathan Schardt would be the ideal school location, although Bannet Junior High School might also be considered.
 Another possibility is the Senior Citizens Center. The senior citizens are looking for a new center which will provide them more space and convenience. Wally Fortin, senior citizens center director, has said that he would meet with anyone from the dental health committee and show them space at the center that could be converted into a dental clinic.
 Fortin said many of the senior citizens realize that the dental health committee is in the same position as they are — looking for space. He said that the senior citizens are willing to help in any way they can. The Senior Citizens Center is also in the target area.
 Although the committee has applied for CD funds to get the project of the ground, the final approval has to be approved by the Board of Directors. Elizabeth Inzaglia, Democratic board member, told the dental health committee Tuesday that the Board of Directors is "adamant" about wanting specific information from the dental health committee giving a site plan, a cost sheet, and a specific needs assessment. She also said it's possible to get CD funds for clinic operating costs, and suggested that the committee explore it.
 Dr. Jack Opinsky, past president of the Hartford Dental Society, with Lester Fine, head of a dental consultant service in Hartford, together described a one-chair dental clinic which is set to open Monday in the Sands Everywhere School in Hartford's North End.
 Its basic operation is to use Title 19 children on a "pay as you go" basis.
 Opinsky said the Hartford Board of Education is housing the clinic free of charge. Dentists chosen from a roster of about a dozen will perform restorative dentistry five days a week. A dental hygienist from the school staff acts as a dental assistant, makes appointments and arranges transportation.
 Committee member Dr. Larry Dutton, dentist, urged the committee to make every effort to locate the clinic in a school, because it would be "much more viable."
 Manchester Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are looking for information from anyone who was in the area of the Heritage Savings and Loan branch bank in Frank's Supermarket on East Middle Turnpike Saturday between 7 and 9 p.m.
 The bank was held up about 8:30 p.m. by a white male and a blond-haired woman who walked quietly out of the store with $7,000.
 Persons having any information which may relate to suspicious persons or the robbery are asked to call the Manchester Police at 646-6555 or the F.B.I. in Hartford at 522-1201 or in New Haven at 777-8311.

In the grassy area in the background is the other car which was driven by John K. Richert of Merline Road, Vernon. State Police said Ms. Bakus was entering the highway from Exit 92, lost control of her car on an icy patch, struck the Richert car pushing it across the guard rail on the median divider. Police said no injuries were reported. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Chief judge studies court location plans

The chief judge of Common Pleas Court 12 and the state Public Works Departments are reviewing schematic plans for locating the court in the former Marshalls department store at 410 Center St.
 Chief Judge Roman J. Lenton indicated that he just received the plans Tuesday.
 The rough schematic plan for Common Pleas Courts 12 and 13 was drawn up by Alan Greenberg of the state Justice Department.
 The Public Works Department has also started reviewing the plans with an eye toward negotiating a price with the owners, Second Center Street Corp., according to Harlan Jones, relations director of the Public Works Department.
 The proposal is to lease the building with an option to purchase. Jones received the plans Tuesday. The negotiations are still in the preliminary stages and the state still has other sites under consideration for the court location.
 The state has been looking for a new site for the Common Pleas Court 12 for over a year because of overcrowded conditions in its present location in the East Hartford Police Station.
 The new facility, if approved, would also handle the jury cases involving nine towns served by Common Pleas Court 13 in Windsor.
 The court has looked at other sites in Manchester including the present location of Marshalls in the Parkade and the former Pilgrim Mills store on Oakland Street.
 Final approval of the plans must be given by the state Property Review Board.

PZC backs land purchase

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission voted 4 to 1 to endorse the purchase of about 75 acres of Salvation Army land by the town. Only member Bentz Banak was opposed, largely on the basis of cost.

The Salvation Army Land Purchase Study Committee, headed by Daniel Manley, appeared before the commission to explain its lengthy report advocating purchase of the land on the southern end of Coventry Lake for recreation and open space.

A major parcel totaling 53.4 acres near the Robertson School contains water quality of the lake in the southern area," Manley explained. "It should be kept for open space."

He added that the 16-acre lakefront provides a unique recreational area, an excellent beach, and a scenic point of view.

"PZC approval of the purchase is necessary in order to obtain a federal grant from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to fund half the cost," he told the commission.

But Banak said even half the cost is too much for a town like Coventry.

Housing opinions sought

A questionnaire about a planned elderly housing unit in Andover is being mailed to Bolton and Columbia residents this week.

The Hop River Homes development was originally planned to have 24 units now and expand to 48 in the future. The teaching area required for 48 units made it unrealistic. So it was decided to have 36 units now and see if either Bolton or Columbia residents are interested.

Hop River Homes will be located on a 15.9-acre site on Long Hill Road in Andover. Construction may begin in the fall.

Plans for the housing development have been in the works for about three years. It is being planned by a local committee under the auspices of New Samaritan Housing Corp., a non-profit organization.

The ground-level apartments are being designed by Henry Schaffler and Associates of West Hartford. There will be 32 one-bedroom units and 4 two-bedroom units. Four of the units will be designed for handicapped people.

Each apartment will have a refrigerator, stove, counter cabinets, storage space, ample sun exposure, private patio and garden plot. There will be a community building with laundry facilities and a social room. If a reduced loan interest rate is

Road funding unlikely

State Rep. Abraham Glassman told the South Windsor Town Council last week that it is unlikely the town will get the $900,000 needed to rebuild three local roads through state legislation.

It has been estimated it would cost the town about $900,000 for reconstruction of Pleasant Valley, Chapel and Buckland roads — all expected to bear the blunt of traffic resulting from Manchester's new J.C. Penney Industrial Park.

Total costs of the projects, based on 1977 figures, would be 1.8 million for Pleasant Valley, $900,000 for Chapel and $175,000 for Buckland. The federal government, however, is supposed to pay for 70 percent of each project. The state will pay for 15 percent of the rest of the cost, with South Windsor picking up the balance of 15 percent for Pleasant Valley. As it stands now, the town will have to pay 30 percent of the costs on Chapel and Buckland roads, because they have not yet been listed top priority items by the state.

Speaking at the council's work session this week, Glassman told the council, "I don't believe I could ask for $900,000 and ever hope to get it out of committee. In my wildest imagination I don't believe I could convince the General Assembly to give South Windsor $900,000.

Glassman was obviously annoyed at what he termed a lack of communication between the council and him.

"I think it's inappropriate," said Glassman, "that I should be asked to submit legislation for $900,000. Maybe we should communicate with each other early instead of through newspapers."

Mayor Nancy Caffyn had written a letter to Glassman asking that he submit legislation asking the state to pick up the tab for the balance of road reconstruction. Glassman, however, said that her letter had arrived after the Legislature's deadline for filing special bills.

Councilwoman Joan Cushman said the reason Glassman had read about the proposed legislation in the newspaper before he had been contacted personally is that before sending the letter Mayor Caffyn had consulted the council about the proposal at an open work session.

Glassman said he was disappointed that he had not been included in work sessions, and that he would appreciate the opportunity to be included. "We can always go back next year and ask for a priority rating of both Buckland and Chapel roads."

Glassman said, although he has no immediate solutions to the road reconstruction problems, he has "thoughts on the subject" and has been working for the last year and a half toward some conclusion.

He said sometimes legislation, such as the council proposed, takes years, and there were faster ways of solving such problems.

Glassman said one of the possibilities is for South Windsor to be included in the J.C. Penney project for state funding. He said the state might agree to add the $900,000 sum to the state's expenses on the J.C. Penney warehouse and make the sum part of the Department of Transportation's general appropriations bill.

He said he will discuss other ways of getting the money with state Transportation Commissioner James Shugart today.

Pleasant Valley Road has been listed on the state's priority list, however, Chapel and Buckland roads are low in state priority.

"It will take at least three years before traffic of any magnitude will be realized," said Glassman. "We can always go back next year and ask for a priority rating of both Buckland and Chapel roads."

Age of specialization noted in alpine skiing

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Cindy Nelson, the national women's downhill and combined alpine ski champion, says she's disappointed her sport has entered the age of specialization.

Nelson, a veteran U.S. Ski Team member, Tuesday added the two titles to her already impressive trophy case, but voiced concern over the course skiing has taken.

"It's sad to say, but this is becoming a day of specialization," she said. "The boys are already doing that. They're already special in slalom or downhill events."

Nelson, who captured the downhill crown by almost 15 seconds — even though she was dissatisfied with her performance — won the combined title as a result of her second and fourth place finishes in the national slalom and giant slalom.

The winner of the men's downhill was Karl Anderson, 23, a U.S. Team member from Greene, Maine, but the combined champion in the men's division was 19-year-old Billy Taylor, of Orchard Park, N.Y.

Phil Mahre, 20, from White Pass, Wash., winner of the men's national slalom and giant slalom, didn't enter

Default triumph to Jim Connors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors won his opening round match in the U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championships on a default, but the Wimbledon champ says he will take his victories any way he can get them.

"I'm a lucky guy," Connors said after the recurrence of a nagging back ailment forced Dick Stockton to default in the middle of the second set Tuesday night.

Connors had good reason to reflect on his good fortune since Stockton had matched him stroke for stroke in the first set and won it 7-5 after a tiebreaker. The 27-year-old Texan, who has beaten Connors in national competition several times, mixed unreachable passing shots with gentle drops at the net to defuse the explosive aggressiveness of the tournament's top seed.

Stockton was the second player to pull out of the $225,000 tournament Tuesday. Arthur Ashe held a news conference just before his scheduled match with Cliff Drysdale to announce his recurring eye ailment had flared again and he would be unable to play.

Drysdale went on to win against substitute Dino Martin, 6-3, 6-2. The tournament's second seed, Vitas Gerulaitis, was unable to match the execution-style volley of Marty Riessen and was eliminated, 7-6, 5-

Stags outscore UConns

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — Fairfield University defeated the University of Connecticut, 57, Tuesday night in a tune-up in their first round ECAC match against the University of Rhode Island on Thursday.

The loss ended UConn's season with an 11-15 record and the high-scoring Stags registered their most successful season at 22-3.

Junior Mark Young led the Stags to victory scoring a game-high of 23 points, that included 11 of 11 from the foul line.

The Stags rolled up a 14-2 lead just 5 1/2 minutes into the game before UConn was able to recover with a six point string to cut the lead to six.

By the end of the first half UConn had whittled down the Stags' lead to three points, 29-26.

UConn's Joe Whelton paced the Huskies in the scoring column with 12 points, putting his team on top with a 34-29 score with two minutes gone in the second half.

A six-point spurt by the Stags, including four by captain Steve Balkun, put Fairfield back on top 35-34.

The Stags ran up a 40-40 lead at 12:31 on two free throws by Young, but the Huskies battled back to tied the game at 51-51 on a basket by Whelton at 5:25.

From there, it was Fairfield's game, as the Stags topped off 12 of the last 18 points.

ding in that suit. This allowed East to make a safe diamond return at trick two. South ruffed and planked down his ace of hearts. He should have entered dummy in order to finesse against the king of spades. He had a play to avoid the loss of two spade tricks. East was ready to attack clubs. He led to dummy and finessed the 10. His only chance to avoid the loss, but just as such a overtrick.

East took his queen of clubs, cashed the king of hearts and got out with a third diamond.

South was ready to go after the fourth suit and committed the final and most misplay of the hand. He only had a chance to avoid the loss of two spade tricks if he had led East with ace and one spade. In that case he could enter dummy, lead a spade toward his queen, lead back a second spade from his own hand, duck in dummy and watch East play his ace.

This is a normal last resort play that works fairly well four out of five times. It was not South's. He led the first spade toward dummy's king cards. He made a mistake and lost two spade tricks. In addition to the three tricks already won, he ended up with one down two at a hand where he might easily have scored an overtrick.

Richards awaits rematch after hard-fought win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Renee Richards is looking forward to today's rematch against sixth-seeded Rosie Casals — who will be hard pressed to duplicate her glittering performance in Seattle.

Richards, a 43-year-old transsexual who last year obtained USTA sanction to play pro tennis, defeated Rita Gerulaitis, 7-5, 6-3, in a grueling match Tuesday, but she thinks more than 24 hours of rest should leave her in good shape for Casals, who whipped Richards, 6-1, 6-3 in Seattle three weeks ago.

That loss, Richards said, should give her some insight into how to play Casals, who has won more than $1,000 this winter in six singles tournaments.

"I hope I'm not the same player I was against her in Seattle," Richards said. "Loss wasn't the word for it — she killed me. She played like God that day."

A 6-foot-1 left-hander, Richards used her strong serve-and-volley

Milwaukee Bucks excel in overtime contests

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks found themselves precisely where they wanted to be Tuesday night — in overtime.

The Bucks edged the Washington Bullets, 126-125, in overtime last night for their third straight victory, and all three have gone into overtime.

The Bucks will attain the playoff spot they are seeking if they keep performing overtime games, with six OT triumphs, they are the most successful team in the league in contests which need an extra period to be decided.

With a record of 33-29, Milwaukee holds second place in the Midwest Division, two games ahead of Chicago, and Bucks' Coach Don Nelson figures the team, which has now won five of its last six games, needs a streak of six or seven victories to seal a playoff spot.

"We've only got three in a row," Nelson said. "But we've made a giant step in getting there with those two road wins (at Chicago and New Orleans) and coming back and scratching this one out too."

Brian Wright scored the last six points in overtime to give Milwaukee a win. The game was tied, 124-124, after regulation time and Milwaukee led, 120-119, when Wright, who had all scorers with 29 points, hit three long jumpers to put the Bucks on top, 125-123.

In other games in the National Basketball Association, New York routed San Antonio, 128-123, Chicago topped Phoenix, 126-115, New Orleans beat Buffalo, 125-109, Denver 124-117, and Dallas 122-106.

Atlanta dumped Indiana, 122-106, Atlanta dumped Boston, 117-85, Seattle downed Kansas City, 114-107, in overtime and Portland romped over Philadelphia, 112-92.

Bob McAdoo hit 15-of-23 shots from the field and scored 30 points to spark New York to its third straight victory. Spencer Hayward added 21 while Earl Monroe and rookie Glen Edwards had 17 each. Billy Paultz topped San Antonio with 27 points. Built 126, Nuns 115.

Chicago snapped a three-game losing streak as Wilbur Holland scored 21 points and the Bulls rallied from a 97-90 deficit entering the fourth quarter. Phoenix, which dropped its fourth straight, was led by rookie Walter Davis, who topped all scorers with 36 points, and Paul Westphal, who had 32.

Pisch surpassed his previous best of 44 yards to go with a punt that landed in the end zone. "Pisch is a fine player," praised Clark Coach Woody Halas. "He's a gutsy kid. When it comes down to clutch time, you put your money on him."

Kevin Clark, one of three freshmen including Pisch in the starting lineup, led the Division III Cougars, now 16-4, took the lead for good with a 34-yard pass to Clark on a drive that took a 64-41 lead.

But the Division III Cougars, now 16-4, took the lead for good with a 34-yard pass to Clark on a drive that took a 64-41 lead.

Clark ranked third, is slated to face second-seeded and host Brandeis Friday night in the opening round of the Division III Tournament at Waltham, Mass. In the other matchup top-ranked Boston State faces Suffolk.

Pisch leads way in Clark victory

Freshman John Pisch hit for a career-high 21 points in his fledgling collegiate career in helping Clark University upset the University of Hartford, 91-85, last night in Worcester, Mass.

The Manchester High product, whose previous best effort was 20 points against Wesleyan, tossed in 20 points and dished out six assists in the closing minutes to thwart a Hartford comeback.

The Hawks, a Division II school, downed 41-22 at one stage in the first half after a Pisch three-point play and 43-30 at the intermission, rallied to take a 64-41 lead.

But the Division III Cougars, now 16-4, took the lead for good with a 34-yard pass to Clark on a drive that took a 64-41 lead.

Lafleur too much for Detroit Wings

NEW YORK (UPI) — The haves and the have-nots were at it again Tuesday night. The game was in Montreal. Three guesses what happened.

"They made it easy for me tonight," said Guy Lafleur after scoring three goals and adding three assists as the Montreal Canadiens ripped the Detroit Red Wings, 9-3.

"They played a wide-open game and they didn't bother to check us. Before the game we figured we would be a tight-checking game."

Lafleur was doubly happy because the six points enabled him to overtake the New York Islanders' Bryan Trottier in the league scoring race.

"It was tough for me to get there, especially when I was trailing him at one point by about 13 points," said Lafleur. "When you're behind you always want to get ahead and when you're in front you always want to stay there. I was always confident that I'd get to the lead."

In the only game in the World Hockey Association, the Quebec Nordiques downed the Houston Aeros, 5-2.

Islanders 4, Maple Leafs 3

Wayne Merrick and Denis Potvin scored within a one-minute span early in the third period, snapping a 2-2 tie. New York's Bryan Trottier fell four points behind Guy Lafleur in the league scoring race and Toronto's Darryl Sittler failed to score a goal.

Alaimo resigns post

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — With his name in the Ivy League chair, Brown University basketball coach Gerry Alaimo has resigned.

"Gerry's decision was mutually agreed upon but obviously it was difficult for him to make and I was reluctant to accept it," Brown Athletic Director Bob Seiple said Tuesday.

"Gerry and I have talked about a number of times over the last few months," Seiple said.

Brown's overall record was 3-20 going into Tuesday night's game against Harvard in the Ivy League. Brown is in the cellar with an 1-11 mark.

Last year, Seiple continued to back Alaimo despite growing dissatisfaction among students.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 9-year-old girl who has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. To treat my symptoms I take a heavy daily dose of cortisone. Until my illness I was a normal kid in size and appearance, but the medicine I take has made me "moonfaced" and very heavy.

DEAR ABBY: I recently borrowed a glass flower vase from a friend. When I went to her house to return it, she wasn't home, but her next-door neighbor volunteered to see that she got it, and I left it for her. Well, the neighbor's little boy accidentally broke the vase. It can be replaced, but it is rather expensive, so I told this neighbor that I thought she should pay half and I would pay half. But she said she was only trying to do a favor and she didn't see why she should pay anything. Who is responsible in this case?

DEAR WAITING: You need not be ashamed to tell your classmates exactly what you have told me. Please do. When they learn the truth, I bet they'll stop the teasing and name-calling. Please write again and give me a progress report. I care.

modifies Rockville High School schedule

Frank and Ernest

modified scheduling next year at Rockville High School, recommended by Brian McCartney, newly appointed principal, was approved by the Board of Education Monday night.

The problem of scheduling at the school could be eliminated if the school had a larger cafeteria or if the students didn't have to eat. There are 1,000 students at the school and the cafeteria only holds 400 at a time.

McCartney recommended to the board that the present seven period day schedule, with several modifications, remain in effect for the 1978-79 school year.

He said this is an attempt to resolve the immediate problems of course selection for those students who wish to take more than five subjects and allow time for further investigation of an eight period day schedule.

Modifications include that physical education be offered as a one semester course, meeting five days a week for one-half credit. Consistent with this recommendation, all students in Grades 9-11 would be required to take and pass one semester of physical education each year. Seniors would have the option to take physical education on an elective basis.

Another modification to the existing schedule would accommodate those students who wish to take more than five subjects and still be able to complete their physical education requirements. This will be to offer two sections of physical education after school with the classes to meet on alternate days for the full year.

Implementation of these modifications hinge on providing a late bus for those students who stay late and that the school day, for the physical education teacher or teachers assigned to this class, be revised accordingly.

In approving that portion of McCartney's recommendations, the board also voted to have him return to the board, no later than Dec. 1, with a full report as to his proposed assigned to a half period lunch. McCartney said this plan has several constraints. He said during the lunch waves, study halls could not take additional course work, failed. It was decided it would create too many problems with scheduling of teachers.

JoAnn Worthen said she sees the approved schedule as an eventual dissolution of the physical education program or at least the eroding of it. We have now," she said she liked the five-day gym schedule and having physical education being required. She said she felt the proposal had enough positive aspects that she would be willing to take a chance with it.

An amendment to the motion, made by Robert Schwartz, to provide an optional eighth period to accommodate those students who wish to take additional course work, failed. He also said that food preparation and serving procedures would have to be revised in order to feed students in three, rather than five, periods.

He said in addition, consideration must also be given to staff availability for building supervision during the lunch waves.

He said he recommended that his proposal not be implemented until the following year to give lead time to allow the committee to make on site observations of schools with similar problems. The board agreed.

Council OKs pool repair

Vernon

Money earmarked for sidewalk repair will now go for repair of the Horowitz Pool in Henry Park. The Town Council voted its approval after a public hearing Monday night.

Only two persons spoke at the hearing and both favored using community development block grant funds for the pool.

The public hearings were held to amend the 1977 and 1978 block grant applications. The council vote was 7-4 with the Democrats voting against reallocating the funds in the 1977 block grant but unanimously approved the amendment to the 1978 grant.

Of the 1977 grant, the council had already applied to have $15,000 used for pool repairs. But the cost estimate of the repairs was made more than a year ago and since then there are more repairs needed and costs have gone up.

An additional $5,000 of that grant, earmarked for sidewalk reconstruction, will now go into the pool fund along with another $17,000 from the 1978 grant.

Leonard Szczeny, town engineer, said these amounts should be sufficient to complete the major repairs on the pool and to bring it into compliance with health and safety standards.

Szczeny said, however, that the total of $38,000 allocated may not be enough to make some repairs to the filler and the pool house. The Horowitz Pool is the town's oldest pool. It's only other one is the one at Vernon Elementary School.

State Rep. Chester Morgan (D-Vernon) has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the General Assembly's Finance Committee.

Israel by car is a busy, people-laden country. At the crossroads of the world, the commercial hub of the Middle East, it has a rich history of 70 years ago. This is the area around the ancient port from which Jonah sailed to Tarshish and where Napoleon first set foot in the Holy Land. Jaffa's skyline tells a story of age-old past: minarets (lighthouses), domes and spires overlook the harbour where fishermen mend their nets as it was done centuries ago.

In the Yeminit Quarter, sidewalk vendors offer the Israeli special: pita and falafel, round flat-bread with a pocket for its chickpea filling.

Farrand-McConville

Barbara Jean McConville and John Vincent Farrand, both of Manchester, were married Feb. 25 at the Church of the Assumption in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. McConville of 99 Kenney St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Farrand of 158 Cooper St.

The Rev. George Laliberte of the Church of the Assumption officiated at the double-ring ceremony. David Eddy and Shari Bauer, both of Manchester, were guitarist and singer, respectively. Music was played by the Westminster Women's Bell Choir of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in West Hartford under the direction of Mrs. Becky Isaacson.

Valerie J. Boroch of Manchester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia A. Duff and Kathleen D. McConville, both of Manchester and sisters of the bride; and Wendy J. Farrand of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister.

Robert H. Farrand of Manchester was his brother's best man. Ushers were William G. Duff and Robert Baker, both of Manchester; Scott Person of Andover; John C. McConville of Manchester and Richard M. McConville of New York, brothers of the bride.

A dinner reception was held at Flano's Restaurant in Bolton, after which the couple left for Arabia. They will reside in Geneva, Ohio.

A case for the ERA

Despite the fact that both working mothers and fathers go off to their jobs wearing pants these days, there are still some big differences in their roles, particularly in the eyes of their children.

"Did you find the note I left?" "Yes." "You just called to say you missed me?" "Well, that, and because I wondered if I could go to the basketball game tonight. I've done this (specifying the good kind that come in the eyes of the refrigerator case) I decided that I'd better set a new policy on phone calls. "I'm all for communication," I explained to the kids, "but communication with your father, too. Let's keep the calls brief and divide them between Dad and me." "I'm putting the new system into effect last week, but after a few days all the calls were back in my office. "We just hate to bother dad," explained Kate. "Don't give me that old line," I warned. "What's the story?" "Well," said Kate, "it's this way. When we call dad, we ask him to get us something from the store. When we call you, you answer 'YES!'" where I keep the brown sugar and to check to see if a stick of oleo is really equal to a half a cup. The day my boss took the message and said my daughter wanted me to stop for milk, hamburger, bread and dill pickles (specifying the good kind that come in the eyes of the refrigerator case) I decided that I'd better set a new policy on phone calls. "I'm all for communication," I explained to the kids, "but communication with your father, too. Let's keep the calls brief and divide them between Dad and me." "I'm putting the new system into effect last week, but after a few days all the calls were back in my office. "We just hate to bother dad," explained Kate. "Don't give me that old line," I warned. "What's the story?" "Well," said Kate, "it's this way. When we call dad, we ask him to get us something from the store. When we call you, you answer 'YES!'"

Not wanting to waste a second of our limited time (we only had three days), we set off again, this time for Ramallah just north of the city and about 15 minutes driving time, if you don't get lost. We did. Leaving Ramallah, some 40 minutes later, we noted many newly constructed Arab villas made of white stone and set on various levels along the hillsides. It had been our intention to bring a message to an Arab in Ramallah with his brother in the United States, but luck was not with us and we were unable to make contact with him. The picturesque Arabian town had streets lined with open markets and clerical merchants urging us to buy their fruits, taste their pastries or purchase their wares. The women of the village wore colorful long dresses and peered out from beneath their half-face veils as they hurried along the streets carrying huge baskets of fresh produce on their heads. The men, for the most part, wore Western clothing but retained their length headpieces held secure by a black braided cord. The second day of our visit in the Holy City we set off down the Jaffa Road for Jericho, stopping to purchase some cheese, pitta (flat bread) and a bottle of Israeli wine so we could picnic along the way. Jericho is truly an oasis in the desert. We visited the site where Joshua blew and the wall came tumbling down. Also the ruins of an ancient palace which took 20 years to build and was toppled by an earthquake only four years after its completion. Beautiful mosaics are still plainly visible on the floors in several of the rooms, and fragments of what once were high statues still stand in part in the outdoor pool. Leaving Jericho, we headed for Ein Gedi in the Judean desert and our first glimpse of the Dead Sea. This inland bay of salt water (370 square miles) is located between Israel and Jordan. It was near here in caves that a number of scrolls dating from about 100 B.C. to about 70 A.D. were found. They contained Jewish apocalyptic writings and religious writings of an Essene-like community. Along our way, we picked up a couple of young hitchhikers who were traveling to a kibbutz in Ein Gedi. She was from Belgium and he from France. They had been in Israel about three months and had stopped to work in several kibbutzes (farm communities) along the way. Our third and last day in Jerusalem, we spent visiting The Old City and Bethlehem. We entered the Old City on foot through the Jaffa Gate into the walled compound which houses a Christian Quarter, an Armenian Quarter, a Moslem Quarter and a Jewish Quarter. Down the narrow cobble streets, we soon learned to "boggle" with the Arab merchants who appeared quite disappointed when we did not try to purchase items for less than their asking price. Following the Via Dolorosa (the Way of the Cross) from Pilate's Judgement Place to the Holy Sepulchre, we came finally to a huge courtyard where the golden domed Omar's Mosque stood. Shoes must be removed when entering the mosque. David's Tomb is a Jewish site. It was explained that an irate Australian tourist had damaged which is a six-grade class. Money earned from the button sale will be used for defray the cost of the sixth grade trip to New York.

A country of contrasts

(Continued from Page One-C) means high hill). During four months of digging, the expedition excavated an area of 1,700 square miles. Traces of five settlements were found. The first Jewish settlers of Givat Ram cut the foundations of their houses and their cisterns into the living rock. This was in the beginning of the First Century C.E. The second settlement, possibly by those same inhabitants, made their home during the middle of the First Century and until the destruction of the second temple (in 70 C.E.). Later the site was to house a detachment of the Tenth Legion — the Jerusalem garrison. Being the highest point on the route to Jerusalem, Givat Ram was held as a military observation post. Artifacts found on Givat Ram are now the property of the Department of Antiquities and are on exhibit at the Israel Museum in Jerusalem.

Setting into our accommodations at the luxurious Jerusalem Hilton, we were astounded at the view of the city as viewed from our ninth floor balcony. Not wanting to waste a second of our limited time (we only had three days), we set off again, this time for Ramallah just north of the city and about 15 minutes driving time, if you don't get lost. Coventry The Coventry Senior Citizens' Club is sponsoring a trip to the Coachlight Dinner Theater April 6 to see "The Sound of Music." Reservations may be made by calling Elma Martin at 742-7171. Checks may be in by March 15. The club meets the third Wednesday of each month at 1 p.m. at the Church Community House on Route 44A.

Reluctantly, we headed back to our hotel, packed our belongings, said goodbye to our host, Dan Barkai, general manager of the Jerusalem Hilton, and started for Tel Aviv where our friends were waiting for us. The sun was setting as we retraced our route and look-backward glance at the Holy City content in the knowledge that we had shared a unique experience.
