First massage permit

parlor ordinance. Fairley is receiving the permit needed for the establishment, the first to be granted a permit. At right is Lois Ann Beckwith, a staff nurse. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Consolidation meeting to begin at 8 tonight

The meeting scheduled to appoint a Consolidation Commission will be held tonight at 8 in Manchester High School's Bailey Auditorium.

The formation of such a commission is the second step in seeking consolidation under the Home Rule Act of the General Statutes of Connecticut.

Consolidation would combine the Eighth Utilities District with the Town of Manchester.

The commission would be in charge of working out the details of the consolidation process if it is approved in a referendum vote.

Tonight's attempt to appoint such a commission is expected to be strongly opposed by district supporters.

District officials and the chairman of STEAL (Stop Tampering With the Eighth's American Liberties) have asked for all electors of the district who oppose consolidation to attend tonight's meeting.

The legislative bodies of the district and nondistrict sections of Manchester will have to agree on the makeup of the commission.

Thus, voting tonight will be done by registered voters from the Eighth District and the Town's Board of Directors.

Mayor Stephen Penny today said that a 15-member commission, including 11 non-district residents, seven Democrats and four Republicans, and four district residents, will be proposed.

He also said that electors from the Buckland area and Charles Drive should attend tonight's meeting.

The first vote of the evening will be whether these persons will be permitted to vote as district residents.

He said that the Town Board of Directors is expected to approve the motion that these residents vote as part of the district. The district undoubtedly also will support the proposal.

The doors will open tonight at 7 to begin identifying voters of the district for voting purposes. District voters must be registered to vote in the town and have lived in the district three months.

Baby-sitting for district residents wishing to attend the meeting will be available in the district firehouse, said Gordon Lassow, district president.

Lassow is encouraging residents to attend and to vote down the attempts to form a consolidation committee.

Lassow said the district has explained its opinion to the town directors that they feel the meeting is illegal. The district has questioned whether the state Home Rule Act, which the consolidation efforts have been based on, is valid in this case.

Lassow said the meeting is a waste of taxpayers' money and that the efforts by consolidation proponents are "splitting the town wider and wider."

"You can do a lot more with honey than vinegar," he said, "and they are just spreading a lot of vinegar."

The special committee which has formed to fight the consolidation efforts, STEAL has hired outside counsel, according to Robert Bletchman, chairman of the committee.

James Lotstein, an attorney in Hartford, will represent STEAL at tonight's meeting to "watch over" the events, Bletchman said.

Grasso to open town health fair

Governor Ella Grasso will officially open Manchester's third annual health fair Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Manchester High School. Mayor Stephen Penny will also speak.

Dr. Douglas S. Lloyd, state health commissioner, will also participate in the fair's opening.

The fair, which is co-sponsored by the Town Health Department and the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association (MPHNA), will be held in the MHS cafeteria, and is free.

Manchester Girl Scouts will offer free baby-sitting.

The new Phone-A-Ride bus will be available for senior citizens and the handicapped from 2 to 5 p.m. for transportation to the health fair. Call 646-2774 today to reserve a ride.

The Manchester Health Department will conduct a physical fitness screening program designed to attract the youth to the fair.

In conjunction with the fair's theme, "Improve Your Lifestyle," the health department will promote the benefits of physical conditioning and exercise, and stress that physical fitness is a part of preventive medicine.

Participants in the screening program will first be asked to fill out a short questionnaire that asks what shape they think they are in. Next they will take a cardiovascular

Improvements eyed to cut water costs

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Officials of the Town of Manchester Water Department said today that improving inefficiencies in the present water system would lead to substantial savings.

The remarks were made by Frank Jodaitis, water and sewer administrator, and Robert Young, water treatment manager, in response to recent comments by a Metropolitan District Commission representative who challenged the town's estimate of future water service charges.

The town estimated that the system would cost about the same to run, even after including the total costs of $7 million in proposed capital improvements.

Donald Vigneau, chairman of the MDC's Water Bureau, said, however, that he found the town's estimate of future costs unbelievable because of the expense of upgrading the system.

The town's Water Study Committee presently is reviewing how to upgrade the water system. The two basic options are to be serviced by the MDC or to maintain the present setup of a totally town-controlled system.

Jodaitis and Young both said that the existing system is so inefficient that substantial savings will result once improvements are made.

"I don't believe this gentleman is very well acquainted with the inefficiency of the system," Jodaitis said of Vigneau's remarks.

One of the major improvements being considered is a water treatment plant that would handle all of the water from the town's reservoirs.

"Once we get a centralized treatment plant, we'll realize a lot of economies," Jodaitis said.

He explained that water care and treatment is now done separately at several different locations. This requires transporting chemicals and other materials to each of these sites.

With one treatment plant, all of this work would be centrally located at that site.

"You end up with one central plant. The water comes in and you treat it," he said.

Young said that water testing also would be simplified. Now, two tests per day have to be taken at six different sites. If the treatment center were built, the town would only have to take two tests at the one site.

"It's six times more work," he said of the present system.

Jodaitis also said that a new treatment plant would include a substantial storage area which would permit the town to order chemicals in bulk. Now, because of the transporting required and the lack of storage, the chemicals are ordered in smaller, and more expensive, quantities.

Jodaitis said that the town's calculation of future costs did not include the saving in water loss that should occur if the system is improved.

The town presently loses 28 percent of its water, much of it because of leakage in old pipes.

Arabs send help to occupied land

By United Press International

Western correspondents reported that 46 Iraqi and Syrian military trucks were moving south today toward the front lines in Lebanon where Israeli troops in a mighty one-day Sunday offensive seized all of the territory below the Litani River — almost doubling their six-mile security strip.

Palestine guerrillas were still battling Israeli infantry and armor and the Palestine Liberation Organization's Wafa news agency said the PLO ambushed four Israeli troop trucks northeast of the port city of Tyre and killed more than 30 Israeli soldiers.

Contents of the trucks were hidden under blankets but residents told correspondents at the scene they held arms and ammunition. Syrian President Hafez Assad said this weekend he would open Syrian territory to countries wishing to send aid to the Palestinians.

Israel stopped short of Tyre and its surrounding refugee camps 13 miles north of the Israeli border but Tyre residents said there had been heavy fighting during the night with Israeli warships offshore apparently spotting targets for long-range Israeli artillery.

United Nations efforts to send a peacekeeping force to replace the Israeli occupation forces ran into several snags — Israeli refusal to leave the territory and administrative hitches that prevented the moving in today of the first handful of U.N. troops from the Sinai and the Golan Heights.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin conferred in New York today with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger before flying to Washington for talks — and a probable confrontation — with President Carter both over long-range peace efforts and the Israeli occupation of southern Lebanon.

Begin was en route to New York Sunday when the U.N. Security Council passed resolutions calling for Israeli withdrawal and their replacement by a U.N. peacekeeping force. But in an arrival statement Begin made it clear he would not withdraw the troops until Israel's security was assured.

The Israeli cabinet met today in Jerusalem to assess the overall situation. A communique said the cabinet discussed the Security Council resolution, but it did not mention what was concluded.

"The Israeli army entered Lebanese territory not to conquer territories but to root out the nests of the terrorists who sowed death and murder among the population of Lebanon and Israel," the statement said.

"Any settlement in southern Lebanon must guarantee that Lebanon will not be a base for terrorists and their murderous actions."

Leaders of Lebanon's political factions differed today in their appraisal of the Security Council decision to station peacekeeping troops in the south of the country. Christian leader Camille Chamoun said the resolution will not solve the problem. Phalangist leader Pierre Gemayel said U.N. troops could not avert disaster.

While there was no immediate comment from the country's hard-core leftist political factions, traditional Muslim leaders supported the Security Council decision. Former Prime Minister Saeb Salam welcomed the U.N. action. Former Premier Takiyeddine Solh called it a "blow to the Israeli arrogance."

The Beirut leftist newspaper As Safir said the resolution completely ignored Lebanon's sovereignty through its failure to condemn the Israeli invasion.

Residents of Tyre reported that an

Dollar erosion is hitting home

By United Press International

The weakening of the dollar abroad is beginning to hit Americans at home in the pocketbook.

You may think that if you're not an international trader and don't invest in money markets that it doesn't affect you. Not so.

So what if the dollar once bought 5 German marks and today buys only 2?

You'll find out what it means if you buy almost anything made in another country and sold in this country, particularly if it comes from Germany or Japan.

You'll have to pay more if you want to buy a Toyota or Volkswagen, a Sony television, a Swiss watch, French perfume, German wine, Swedish furniture, Danish cheese, or any of the other imported goods Americans regularly use, including stereos and cameras.

A Toyota Celica ST coupe that cost $4,369 last July, for example, now is priced at $4,989, and a Volkswagen Rabbit that cost $3,599 last July now costs $4,052.

And some of those higher prices come with familiar American products.

Chrysler Corp. announced an increase in the suggested retail price of Dodge Colt and Challenger and Plymouth Arrow and Sapporo cars — all made in Japan. Chrysler says the fall of the dollar is directly to blame.

What's the big reason?

France rejects leftists

PARIS (UPI) — France's voters overwhelmingly rejected a Socialist-Communist bid for power Sunday and gave President Giscard d'Estaing's incumbent center-rightists a solid victory in the National Assembly elections.

The margin of victory surprised the center-right politicians, confounded the experts who had predicted a close race, and threw the leftists into disarray.

The leftist coalition appeared to disintegrate. Robert Fabre, leader of the small Left Radicals, said he was pulling his party out of alliance and blamed the Communists for the loss.

Final official results gave the center-right alliance a total of 291 seats in the new National Assembly compared with 200 for the combined leftist opposition. This gave the incumbents an 89-seat majority compared to a majority of 120 seats in the last Assembly.

The result was also welcome news to the United States and France's other NATO allies, who had voiced fear about a leftist government that would include Communists in key cabinet positions.

The morning after the election saw the leaders of all sides conferring on future strategy.

Premier Raymond Barre, the man who masterminded the center-right victory, conferred with Interior

Today's news summary

WATCH HILL, R.I. (UPI) — After a two-day delay, the Coast Guard today began towing the crippled barge Ocean 250 to a Long Island port where the rest of its volatile cargo will be unloaded.

The barge, accompanied by a 96-foot Coast Guard cutter Cape Fairweather, left its Watch Hill anchorage at 6:40 a.m. The barge was no longer leaking.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Legislature's Finance Committee today approved a bill that would tax business for the cost of a litter clean-up campaign and sent it to the Senate floor.

The bill, approved by the panel 13-2, is being pushed as an alternative to the bottle bill, which would ban throwaway bottles and detachable flip-top cans.

The bottle bill is expected to come up before the House of Representatives this week, while the anti-litter bill, which would also ban flip-top cans, is to be considered by the Senate this week also.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormly says a special nine-member investigative panel will focus on Medicaid fraud in Connecticut.

Gormly said the unit will be funded largely by a two-year $1.5 million grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He said it will have three prosecutors and six investigators and predicted the panel could save the state $35 million annually by uncovering Medicaid cheats.

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Attorneys say there may be legal problems with a Coast Guard program of searching pleasure and commercial boats on Long Island Sound as a means of stopping drug smuggling.

About 200 Coast Guard personnel are being trained in drug identification and gun instruction by the New York Police Department for the program.

Striking coal miners pondered a new contract proposal today with little of the bitter rhetoric that heralded their 2-1 rejection of its predecessor.

With the crippling walkout in its 105th day, financial wounds festered with desperation for many of them, and many said they will opt for a return to the pits when the new pact comes up Friday for a ratification vote.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sentiment is growing in Congress to give Americans at least a partial reprieve from rising Social Security taxes.

Proposals to roll back the increases voted in December are being pressed in both houses.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill has told the White House the feeling against the increases is now so strong that unless the administration comes up with a proposal it could live with, the House will write and pass one of its own.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Spokesmen for Connecticut's big cities today descended on the Capitol pleading for tax breaks from the Legislature's Finance Committee.

Hartford's powerful legislative delegation asked their colleagues to allow the city to postpone property revaluation that is mandated by law Oct. 1.

Representatives of the state's other major cities pressed for legislation that would have the state pay $18 million to the 32 communities where tax-exempt property constitutes 20 percent or more of their grand list.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to rule whether a journalist who is sued for libel can be compelled to disclose the thoughts and opinions he held when preparing a news story.

The justices will hear arguments next winter on a 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision restricting the extent to which the "state of mind" and decision-making processes of journalists can be probed during a libel suit.

Opinion
For the record

Honesty, as Congress is wont to impress upon the likes of Tongsun Park and Bert Lance, is the preferred policy. Except sometimes in its own houses.

It is public knowledge that Congress has long been less than fully honest with the public in reporting House and Senate proceedings via its official journal, the Congressional Record.

I haven't been necessarily so that the speeches recorded therein are actually uttered in spirited debate on the House or Senate floor. Often they reach print via a procedure — "Extension of Remarks" — which permits members to revise their statements. Intended as a means of correcting errors and clarifying points for the public record, it has become a vehicle for inserting everything from speeches straight from the typewriter to letters from constituents and clippings from the home-town press in what is supposed to be a record of actual proceedings.

The privilege has contributed no little bit to the bloating of the size and consequent cost — $917 per page to print — of what has become an officially sanctioned blend of legislative fact and fantasy.

Chided for years for this deception of the public, Congress is at last facing up to the situation — sort of.

As of March 1, material which has not first been uttered on the floor will be so indicated in the pages of the Record by a bullet (*) preceding and concluding the passages in question.

But wait — there's more. A senator or representative need speak only the opening sentence on the floor to have an entire speech inserted, bulletless, in the Record. The more things change...

To the credit of the membership, the * has been highly visible on Record pages since the change. But for how long?

Will representatives be able to resist the temptation to use the loophole? Will the Senate succumb to an epidemic of one-sentence minispeeches?

Watch your Congressional Record for further developments.

Reflections

Two Manchester schools now carry the names of two pioneer teachers who gave years of service to them.

On Dec. 13, 1961, the Board of Education named the Barnard Junior High School the Elizabeth M. Bennet Junior High School.

That same night the board named the Hollister Street School the Thomas Bentley School.

Miss Bennet retired in June 1951; she was deceased when the school was named in her memory.

Tom Bentley retired in June 1960 and was still alive when the school was dedicated in his memory. He died April 26, 1971.

Today let's talk about Barnard — coops, I mean Bennet — Junior High School, and Miss Elizabeth M. Bennet. Note the "s" in her name; that's correct.

We can relate to Miss Bennet and the old Barnard School that fronts on Vine Street in old Educational Square near lower Main Street.

When she retired in 1951, Miss Bennet was the supervising principal of Barnard, Nathan Hale, Highland Park and South schools. She came to Manchester from Danbury in 1909 as principal of Barnard. Barnard, of course, was originally named after Henry Barnard, the famous American educator.

Miss Bennet loved libraries, and when she retired they named the Barnard library in her honor. That was on Feb. 7, 1952.

She called libraries "the heart of the school" and said so in a Letter to the Editor after the dedication of that library. She organized the town's first junior high libraries.

Miss Bennet had many firsts to her credit in education. She was the first to promote a manual training program, and she was credited with promoting the first recreation center.

She was the first to use visual aids by means of movie projectors, and she stimulated interest in art and pottery.

No one writes about Miss Bennet without a strong reference to the Oct. 23, 1913 fire that destroyed the old Ninth District School on that same square that today houses the Barnard and Franklin Buildings, the East Side Rec, and the newest member of that family on Educational Square — the auditorium and library.

Manchester had been a pioneer in the practice of school fire drills; it was a saving factor during the fire. This correspondent researched that fire for a feature on its 40th anniversary — Oct. 23, 1953. We reprinted much of the paper of Oct. 23, 1913.

We sat for hours with Miss Bennet at her 64 Benton St. home drawing upon her reflections of that fire.

She had early that morning reprimanded a boy for using a pea shooter in class. It was he who discovered the fire and ran back to tell Miss Bennet.

She immediately rang the alarm and within three minutes every child of Barnard, Nathan Hale, Highland Park and South schools, she came to Manchester from Danbury in 1909 as principal of Barnard. Barnard, of course, was originally named after Henry Barnard, the famous American educator.

Miss Bennet loved libraries, and when she retired they named the Barnard library in her honor. That was on Feb. 7, 1952.

Miss Bennet was a real task master; she taught you to study; you learned; she had a tremendous influence on her students.

Ask them; you bump into them most every day in the week in Manchester.

We closed this column with those words expressed in the Oct. 23, 1913 Herald:

"...AND THREE CHEERS FOR MISS BENNET."

Fight consolidation

To the editor:

I have been a president of the Eighth District since October of 1966, and specifically of Oxford Street since October of 1971, and fortunately have never had the need to use the services of our fire volunteer firemen, but have been fortunate to know some of them, and to appreciate the results of their time and efforts to help those who did need their services. It seems to me that some of the politicians from the South End of town, specifically Ted Cummings, would shove consolidation down our throats in an effort to lower their own fire tax, and to save face on the Backland fire station episode. Doesn't it seem most strange that the South End wants the Eighth District so badly that they don't have any concern as to our wants or needs? I wonder if the taxpayers of both ends of town are aware just how much of an increase in taxes they can expect if two more fire stations have to be staffed with paid firemen in place of one very efficient volunteer force. I am of the opinion that all of Manchester would be better off staffed with volunteer forces and do away with the paid staff. That way we could expect a savings of quite a few mills on the tax rate.

Added to my concern of increased

Too much drinking

In the light of the latest Gallup Poll concerning the use and abuse of alcohol it does not seem to be the time to encourage more drinking by serving drinks on Sunday.

I realize many of the guests will drink in moderation but there are those who won't and will compound the problem of driving after drinking and creating other well known problems associated with drinking.

The following facts are taken from "American Business Men's Research Foundation" publication, Volume #1, 2.

"The percentage of adult drinkers in the United States has reached a 38-year high point, while the proportion of families where liquor is cited as cause of trouble has increased dramatically in just three years:

Alcohol among adolescents is on the rise, accompanied by indications that problem drinking during teen years is fast approaching adult levels.

These conclusions come from the most recent nationwide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup Poll) and recent youth drinking surveys reported by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA).

At the time of the last national survey by the Gallup Poll in 1974, the percentage of drinkers was 68 percent. This is a 10 percent increase over the last three years has come about almost entirely among women.

Almost one out of every five American adults (18 percent) now say that alcohol has been a cause of trouble in their families.

The Gallup Poll also found a growing number of adults who felt drinking was a serious problem among youth. The 1977 survey revealed that 55 percent of the American adults classed drinking in the "serious trouble" category for youth in their local communities."

Civic Orchestra had challenge

By HERBERT CHATZKY

The Manchester Civic Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Jack Heller Saturday night presented a challenging program which revealed certain assets and some liabilities.

The orchestra performed "The King Shall Rejoice" by Handel, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Richard Strauss, "Nocturnes" by Debussy, and a coronation anthem, "The King Shall Rejoice" by Handel. The King shall Rejoice" by Handel also suffered from poor pitch when attempting to move together after holding long tones, and at certain moments the woodwinds were also afflicted by very poor pitch.

Releases following long held sounds were also not played together. The clarinet solos in movement two, while showing feeling for the music were at moments played in a disturbing manner consisting of shoving of the pitch when the dynamic increased. The end of the movement was well conceived but here the French horn contributed a very poor release of a long held tone.

David Tabatsky, a mime, contributed his talents as part of performance of "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks." I found Mr. Tabatsky a very talented young man, and his work seemed to fit the moods of the music. I found that, at least for me, the idea of the mime and the music did not really work.

I did have a most strong feeling all evening that something was at the same time amiss with both orchestra and chorale. Very basic elements of performance seemed to be left unattended. It could be a lack of rehearsal time, or possibly a lack of proper seriousness with some of the players that led to the problems I heard. The intonation of lower strings and woodwinds was at many points rough to the point of jarring this listener.

As conductor of choruses, bands, and chamber music coach and player myself, I know how one can feel a real sense of accomplishment at holding one's groove together and bringing a piece of music to the audience which may hold together, while feeling that the many imminent disasters which could happen have not. When these disasters do not happen, both leader, players and audience feel pretty good, but I wonder if this is really enough; mv

Town losing fast

To the editor:

Manchester seems to be fast losing its "Village Charm." To date we have a poorly supported downtown shopping district. One rather ugly Industrial Park and another in the offing. A half-empty Parkade, the architectural design of the buildings leaving much to be desired. Two major highways sandwiching the town. Rapidly disappearing open land. A disheartening split with the 8th District. A rush for Federal and State funds which leaves us in the

Let's vote on liquor

To the editor:

I am not opposed to anyone having a drink with their dinner, but to allow liquor to be sold on Sunday just for the minority can hardly be justified. Years ago, Sunday, to most people, was a holy day. To allow the sale of liquor in restaurants and clubs on Sunday would most likely pave the way for taverns and package stores

Traffic light needed

It is near time that serious consideration be given placing a stop light at Center and Church streets. This is indeed a very dangerous spot. This week two accidents happened. The latest one was last night, Wednesday the 16th near midnight.

One of the cars involved was a police car. Possibly he could tell you why a light should be installed there.

For years, the authorities had one of two reasons against it. They tell you the state would be responsible. The other reason was it would slow up traffic. That sure would be a shame to slow up traffic on this race track.

Persons who have to go in or out of Church Street should get behind a move to have a light placed there.

Just how crazy can politicians get, as the paper stated the directors are split on party lines, the Republicans against it.

Don't let the matter drop. By all means do it. It has been needed for years.

Thought

The holiest week

This week is the holiest week of the year for Christians as they celebrate the love of God expressed in the sacrifice of Christ. The extent of divine love cannot be measured for it is infinite, but a sign of its immensity, its extravagance, is to be found in the total gift of Jesus' life for us. Drinking to God is utterly self-sufficient, he can be profligate in his gift of self. We humans find that our very creatureliness limits our ability to love in an age when we have been freed from some of our other limitations. Yet only the most callous can be unaffected at the sight of genuine love — e.g., the sacrifices of parents for their children, the true patriot who willingly risks his life for his countrymen. There is an aspiration in our nature that moves us to admire and, at times, to imitate the generosity of God. There is a nagging suspicion that pure practicality, exclusive justice, does not quite satisfy the real craving of humanity. We want to be inspired by examples of the nobility latent within us; we hunger to be moved to love unselfishly because we suspect that there lies the meaning of our lives. God's love is an invitation to rise above ourselves and to be our real selves by risking all and by giving ourselves away.

smaller orchestral sound. When the harpsichord was playing as part of tutti passages, it, too, was not important enough due to the massive orchestral volume being produced.

This music needed to be treated to very bright vowels by the chorus, but they failed to do this. The basses of the chorus were not blending and I felt it was sort of every man on his own, and the tenors, were fairly uninteresting to the point that I hardly missed them at all. The point at which the sound of the instruments was especially too loud was when the instruments doubled voices and all I heard were instruments.

My feeling then was the music all needed more rehearsal and that especially the lower string players should heed their conductor. The most irresponsible person I, who am a performing musician, can think of is that person who feels he really knows the music and really does not. Music should be that which brings people to rise to it. One cannot be inattentive, or miss rehearsals, or worst of all, not practice at home and still expect to make good music. We have an obligation to music, to the composers, to the public to have high musical morality.

Dr. Heller displayed very much of this. I hope that when I hear his orchestra and chorus again they will display a higher level of this same musical morality.

(Editor's note: Mr. Chatzky is minister of music at Second Congregational Church, a concert pianist, and is a member of the music staff in the South Windsor school system.)

Ferguson sends letter seeking more support

Thomas Ferguson, Manchester's Republican town chairman, has circulated a letter to town committee members seeking support in his reelection bid.

Ferguson is running for a second term as chairman and is being challenged by Scott Clendaniel. The election will be held Tuesday.

In his letter, Ferguson said, "An excellent effort has been made to broaden the membership of the Republican Party in Manchester to include not only more people but also people of various opinions and attitudes."

Ferguson also said that he will continue to attempt to balance the needs of patients and try to meet them, there simply is not enough time for them to provide as much attention to the patients as they would like. The participation of the community volunteer in the lives of convalescent home residents is essential if the residents are to live full, rich lives. A performance in a convalescent home requires very little time and brings immeasurable joy to the patients.

We all celebrate life in some way. We don't sing or dance or play the fiddle, how about reading a few poems, or helping a patient write a letter, or leaving through a book of art with someone who can't go to a gallery?

If you have some joy to share, call the Project Service office, or stop in to see us. We'll help you get started. One word of caution; you may be surprised to find yourself receiving joy as well as giving it!

Barry tells of changes in laws for children

By MAL BARLOW
Herald Reporter

"When I was a boy, kids didn't do that to their parents."

Sale Sen. David Barry (D-Fourth District) said at the Palm Sunday breakfast of the men of South United Methodist Church this is the statement he often gets from fathers about their children's actions. Older teens will back talk and walk out of their house. And no one will do anything about it.

It's true, Barry said. Police, for example, will not chase down a 16-year-old for parents. The law won't let them if all the kid has done is commit a "status offense" such as running away from home.

Other status offenses are being treated from school, sexual promiscuity, and refusal to obey parents.

But it isn't the law which has changed, Barry told the fathers and sons at the breakfast. Status offenses have applied only to children under age 16 since the 1960s, he said.

And soon that may change, too, he said.

Studies are under way now in Connecticut on the effect of ending enforcement of status offenses laws against all children, he said. By November, members of the General Assembly may suggest getting rid of the status offenses. Barry suggested the impact of the change will affect far more than just the home.

"You can imagine what will happen if truancy is done away with," he said. "Kids can't then be forced to go to school."

There's not much to be gained to do with juvenile delinquency unless you begin at the grammar school level," he said.

He urged schools to set up alternative programs in grammar schools for kids with problems. Don't dump them back on the streets, truant laws or not, he said. Give them different school hours, or work-study programs, or something else that will do the job.

Barry praised the formation of juvenile review boards in many towns. East Hartford has had one for years. A board is composed of church leaders, citizens, police and others. They review cases of kids in trouble. They can take no action, refer him to some agency for special advice, or let him enter the court process.

Barry said new laws are in the works for youth. The laws must come up to the needs of the 1970s, he said. He urged the men to tell him what they think should be done.

Barry answered a series of questions from the men on new laws. As to the town's youth commission, he said it should first be organized especially to youth and then push for what it feels is needed. He said SAM (Summer Activity in Manchester) was a good result of such meetings of minds.

He agreed with one man who would police and other officials are not close enough to the town's kids.

"There are no more Mr. T. Taggart on Main Street," he said of a popular officer who often worked the downtown walk beat. Taggart is now deceased.

So much corned beef

Fred Peck, Republican registrar of voters, introduced the senator to the men's breakfast before Barry's talk. He told a story stemming from a political campaign to show Barry's not a bad guy for a Democrat.

During the campaign, Barry had set up his headquarters across the street from Republican Headquarters. Peck showed up to work at his headquarters but found the door locked. He crossed to Barry's place to use his phone and get a key.

Barry said to go ahead. But Peck was leaving and he asked Peck to lock up after his call.

Just as Peck was about to pick up the phone, it rang. Peck picked it up. "Hello, Barry Headquarters."

The man called was astonished. "Peck, is that you?" he asked.

"What are you doing in Barry's place?"

The Methodist men roared with the tale.

Barry began his talk by thanking them for a breakfast that had nothing to do with corned beef and cabbage. He had been eating many meals during St. Patrick's Day dinners up to Friday.

The Irish senator said, "There's just so much corned beef and cabbage a body can handle."

Manchester police report

Three persons sustained minor injuries as a result of an accident involving a car and a school bus Friday morning.

Police said the school bus was turning onto Hackmatack Street from Primer Road after leaving Keene Street School about 8:36 a.m. and drove into the path of a car, forcing the car up onto the sidewalk. Three pedestrians standing on the side of the street were struck by the side of the car.

The driver of the school bus, Michael J. Sensie, 22, of 54 Tuck Road was charged with failure to grant the right of way. The driver of the car was Earle L. Lerner, 22, of Gales Ferry.

The pedestrians who were treated for minor injuries at Manchester Hospital were Sylvia W. Allison, 40, of 405 Hackmatack St. and Cynthia D. Harkins, 12, of 71 Niles Drive.

Another pedestrian, Margaret J. Hanley, 11, of 22 Diane Drive, also received minor injuries.

Mary E. Cormier, 17, of 14 Hitchcock Place, East Hartford, sustained minor injuries for which she was treated and released at Manchester Memorial Hospital following an auto accident on Tolland Turnpike west of Glove Road Thursday night. Police said her car slid off the icy road and struck a utility pole. The broken light fixture fell onto a second car which had slid off the road in the same place about five minutes before. The first car was driven by Susan L. Bolduc, 24, of 549 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, where there was no charge.

James B. Boyle, 33, of 230 Oak St. was charged with evading responsibility in connection with an accident on Oak Street Saturday afternoon. Police said his car struck a parked car owned by Zenon C. Zanic, 27, of 218 Oak St. and left the scene. Court date is March 28.

Teresa Henderson, 44, of 23 Laurel St. was charged with third-degree assault in connection with a fight at Hartford Road and Fairfield Street early Sunday. Police said he struck a man who sustained a cut over his eye, was treated at the Manchester Hospital and released. He was held in lieu of $200 bond for court today.

Barbara J. Rasmus, 33, of 73 Walnut St. was charged with disturbing a public place in connection with a disturbance at a cash booth on Saturday night in connection with a disturbance at a cash booth. She was released on a cash bond for court April 3.

Tyce M. Roesch, 19, of 22 N. Elm St. was charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting. Court date is April 3.

Five persons charged with driving under the influence of liquor over the weekend were the following:

Robert B. McGivney, 22, of the Manchester Motel. Court date is April 4.

Survey of citizens set to begin today

A townwide survey, being conducted by the Town of Manchester through a federal employment program, will begin today.

Residents will be asked approximately 70 questions about town government that have been prepared by the project's director and assistant director, Robert George and Wanda Lalushis. The questionnaire has been approved by the Town Board of Directors.

Interviewers are expected to stop at every residence in Manchester. They will wear Town of Manchester identification badges and questionnaires will be done in the afternoon and evening hours.

The director, assistant director and eight interviewers have been hired through the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

A total of 10 interviewers are expected to be hired, but only eight have been hired thus far. William Tierney, management analyst, said Tierney, who has been involved in planning the survey, said that the other two slots should be filled soon.

CETA is providing increased funding this year to develop temporary projects lasting a maximum of one year. The survey is one of several such temporary projects that has been developed in Manchester.

Interviewing is expected to start in the area bounded by Center, Summit, Hilliard and Broad streets. All responses of individuals will be kept confidential. The Board of Directors will receive a statistical breakdown of the responses.

ZBA to air three bids

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct three public hearings tonight including one for the temporary sale of alcoholic liquor by the Kiwanis Club of Manchester.

The club is seeking a variance for the one-day sale of alcohol at 748 Tolland Turnpike on May 19. The club has scheduled a "vegas night" to raise funds for scholarships and is seeking to sell liquor as part of the event.

A similar event was held a year ago. Also, the ZBA will hear a request from A.W.S. Inc., which is seeking a special exception to permit the sale of seasonal merchandise in the yard at 445 Hartford Road, a Rural Residence Zone.

The board will hear a request from

Penney ground-breaking delayed to Wednesday

Ground-breaking for the start of construction at the J.C. Penney Co.'s Manchester site now will be Wednesday at 10 a.m., town officials announced today.

The town originally had thought the ceremony might take place today, but the actual digging will begin Wednesday. The ground-breaking will take place at the end of Meekville Road.

The Ball Co. of Newtonington is in charge of the site clearing, the first process in the building's construction. It is expected to begin moving equipment to the site sometime today or tomorrow.

Savin Brothers of Newtonington was the apparent low bidder on another phase of the project work - construction of a road through the industrial park, a temporary road to replace Windsor Street and some site work.

The firm bid $2,175,098.50 for the package. There was only one other bid. Della Construction of Enfield submitted a price of $2,375,771.

The J.C. Penney Co. plans to build a two-million square foot catalog distribution center on a 162-acre tract in Backland. The building will be the main one in the town's planned 329-acre industrial park.

Auto body shop fire causes little damage

A fire at Moriarty Bros., 315 Center St., was confined to ductwork and the body shop in which it started this morning, according to Deputy Chief William D. Griffin of the Town Fire Department.

Town firefighters were called at 9:30 a.m. to douse the fire which was partially extinguished by the sprinkler system.

The fire apparently was started by sparks from a ceiling torch being used in the body shop. The sparks ignited lint and dust accumulated in the ductwork, Griffin said.

There was some scorching to the cement block walls and a lot of smoke, Griffin said, but there were no injuries and no damage to the car in the garage.

The single bay was segregated from the rest of the garage and there was no extension of fire into the rest of the auto dealership business, Griffin said.

Swensson backs Ferguson

Eleie "Bibi" Swensson, vice chairwoman of the Manchester Republican Town Committee, has announced her support for Chairman Thomas Ferguson and said that she will not seek re-election under the another chairman.

Ferguson, who has served as chairman for two years, is being challenged by Arthur Scott Clendaniel, a town committee member.

The town committee meets Tuesday to elect its officers and also select candidates for this fall's election convention.

Mrs. Swensson said that she feels she has the qualifications and experience to continue in her present position.

"However, I have decided not to serve under a new chairman, firstly because I have not been asked to and, secondly, because I feel we just don't

Sewer plan still doubted

Covenry
While Covenry Sewer Authority Chairman Richard Breault was working on a new sewer proposal for submission to the Planning and Zoning Commission, the PZC decided in informal discussion that it would reject any plan for sewerage of the lake area.
Last month the commission voted 4 to 1 to turn down a regional sewer plan developed by the engineering firm of Griswold and Foss. It would cost about $18 million, receive up to 90 percent federal and state funding, and be shared with Mansfield with the treatment plant located in Covenry.
The PZC's main objection was that sewers might cause increased development in the already congested lake area and that they would not include the village area and the industrial park along Route 31.
In a sharply worded letter to the PZC, Breault said "nonsewer alternatives are not a panacea that will solve the septic overflow problems around Covenry Lake. These alternatives will allow development on small lots and will result in a decrease in property values and ultimately higher taxes."
Labeling sewer opponents as "zero growth activists," Breault charged that their suggestion for non-discharge toilets would still require a septic tank leaching field system for domestic wash water.
Breault speculated that sewers may in fact justify large-lot zoning because "about a half-acre lot is required to maintain an on-site well in the presence of sewers."
Other alternatives such as holding tanks, incinerator toilets, composting toilets, and recirculating toilets are not generally accepted by the public, he said. "To force several hundred property owners to use one of these devices would be to force them to accept a second-class way of life."
Breault also said the ultimate effect will be a negative impact on real estate values. On the other hand, sewers will increase values by about 10 percent, he said.
The Town Council may still override the PZC rejection by a two-thirds majority if it wishes to. A recent poll of the seven council members found five in favor of some type of sewers, with Harold Crane opposed and Roberta Kooztz refusing to comment. A town meeting would also be held to discuss the issue.

Sewer hearings planned

Vernon
Proceeding its regular meeting, the Vernon Town Council will conduct hearings on three matters tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building.
The first will be on a proposed ordinance to establish sewer use charges for town residents. This sets the charge at $21 per unit for residential users. For all other users, the charge will be based on the average daily flow.
The second hearing will be on a proposed resolution establishing sewer use charges for users outside of Vernon. This includes the towns of Ellington, Tolland, South Windsor and one user in Manchester, the Quality Inn.
The final hearing will be on a proposed ordinance extending sewer lines to Estelle Drive, Susan Drive, Kanter Drive, Frederick Road, Jonathan Drive, Range Hill Drive, Country Lane, a portion of West Road north of Daryl Drive and a portion of Tunnel Road between Feeder Road and the Tankerosee River.
The ordinance will call for an appropriation of $1.04 million to be financed by the sale of bonds.
In connection with the sewer use charges, the Town of Ellington will pay the highest amount, a total of $24,153. In Ellington, there are about 400 households connected to a Rockville line. This averages out to a charge of about $60 a year per customer.
Next year the new sewage treatment plant will be completed and this is expected to cause a large increase in charge for all customers.

Area police report

Police said the center and he crossed the center line and struck a car coming northbound, driven by Dwight G. Peterson, 22, of 46 Hillside St., Manchester, causing extensive damage.
Police said Bye was southbound and he crossed the center line and struck a car coming northbound, driven by Dwight G. Peterson, 22, of 46 Hillside St., Manchester, causing extensive damage.
Vernon
Two 15-year-old boys were charged Sunday with third-degree burglary, larceny and arson in connection with a break into the Sykes School on Park Street.
Police said the youths allegedly broke into the school Saturday night and took several items. The arson charge stemmed from the fact that a boarded-up window had been burned. The two were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Area Democrats favor Houley for higher post

The Ellington Democratic Town Committee has unanimously voted to direct its chairman, Yale Cantor, to "do everything possible in working with the other town committees and delegates throughout the state to nominate Senator Robert Houley for a position on the state ticket."
Houley said several months ago he probably would be interested in running for governor, if Gov. Grassano did not seek re-election.
With the exception of one term when he decided not to seek re-election, due to business pressures, Houley has served since 1968.
The Ellington Town Committee, in passing the motion, cited Houley as a "hardworking legislator since 1968. His accessibility, knowledge, and decisiveness have been demonstrated to us in his role as chairman of the Appropriations Committee and as a responsive senator to our district (SD1)."
"Bob Houley is a man who lets you know what he thinks and where he stands," committee members said.
Houley, who had lived in Vernon for many years, moved to Somers last year.

Bujaucius, MacMullen pin champs

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Don't ever bet against the "house" in any form and yesterday afternoon at the Holiday Lanes, big Ed Bujaucius, who manages the lanes, regained the Town Men's Duckpin Bowling Tournament he last won 14 years ago.
On the other hand, once again a teenager, pretty 19-year-old Lea MacMullen rules the roost in the Women's Division after beating Ed Bujaucius in the best-of-five final yesterday afternoon.
"It was a long time coming," the 45-year-old Bujaucius noted after triumph over Don McAllister, one of several outstanding young small pinners who made it into the head-to-head rolling.
Bujaucius, who becomes a three-time winner, held the honor in 1964 and 1965, averaged 122.2, six pins below his season league average, in winning by a 4-2 margin. The 30-year-old McAllister, who recorded a 200 single in whipping Anton Mayer, averaged 129.5 in the championship test.
The men's champ had to get past Andy Lamoureux, defending champion Roy Andreotta, and Pat Irish to reach the finals while McAllister whipped Mayer, ex-winner Tony Marinelli, and Carl Bujaucius, who was runner-up a year ago.
Three-time winner Larry Bates got past John Fox in the first round but fell to Bujaucius in the quarterfinals.
The women's champ, rolling in her first town tournament, was the Women's Division after beating Ed Bujaucius in the best-of-five final yesterday afternoon.

Travelers, bowled 10 pins over her two-league season average of 112 with a 122.4 showing. Actually, Rozell was more consistent with a 742 total pinfall and a 123.4 average for the six games.
MacMullen won the first game by two pins, 121-119, and the second by 15, 148-128. Rozell came back to square the match with 116 and 124 efforts while MacMullen rolled 104 and 96. The latter came up with 114 and then a whopping 168 game, which she needed to close out the match, for her first rolled 108 and 147.
Experience was a factor as Bujaucius prevailed and inconsistency on McAllister's part. The latter rolled 125-108-126-124-109-106 while Bujaucius 104-128-140-153-128-144.
Bujaucius received a check for $100 and a trophy and MacMullen collected $50 and a trophy. All 16 men and eight women in the weekend play made the prize list.
Results: Men - C. Bujaucius 2 (107, 172, 117), Jim Evans 1 (158, 118, 113), Larry Bates 2 (110, 145), John Fox 0 (100, 126).
Women - Irish 2 (112, 119), Sue Balesano 0 (119, 110), L. MacMullen 2 (121, 114), Buncie 0 (108, 104), Rozell 2 (123, 99, 159), Edwards 1 (118, 113, 103), 1. MacMullen 2 (129, 148), C. MacMullen 4 (121, 143, 104, 96, 114, 168), Rozell 2 (119, 128, 116, 124, 108, 187, 5).

Nicklaus run nets triumph

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The way Jack Nicklaus has been playing of late, a PGA official may not have been kidding when he suggested there be two pro golf tours — "one for Jack and another for the rest of the guys."
Nicklaus has been almost unbeatable the past month. He did let the lead get away right at the end when he lost by two strokes to Gil Morgan at Los Angeles. But he then won at Inverrary by birdying the last five holes; came within a stroke of winning at Doral when he closed with a 65; and Sunday won the rich Tour's named Players Championship for the third time in five years.
"It's been a pretty good run," said Nicklaus. "I couldn't be more confident going into the Masters."
Nicklaus, who picked up his 65th U.S. professional victory and $60,000 Sunday with his one-stroke win over runner-up Lou Graham, plans to skip the next two tournaments (Hilton Head and Greensboro) and go to Augusta, Ga., early next week to begin practice for what he believes will be his sixth Masters' triumph.
Graham, a former U.S. Open champ, got $34,200 for his second-place finish and pointed out that that's more than most tournaments pay their winners.
"I thought it was going to take a better score to win," said Graham. "But this course is so tough, no one was going to make any birdies. If you can't win, it's always nice to get second."
Lon Hinkle, who did manage four birdies while shooting 70-79, took third-place money of $21,300. Ben Crenshaw, who was tied with Nicklaus and Graham at the end of Friday's second round, tied for fourth at 292, with Larry Nelson, Andy North and John Schroeder. Jim Colbert was alone at 294, the next lowest score.
John Mahaffey made a hole-in-one, in full view of a national television audience, at the 201-yard 15th hole, but shot 77-79.
Aging Arnold Palmer skied to an embarrassing 85 Sunday to wind up tied for last place among the 62-hole finishes at 313. That 85 is believed to be the highest score the 46-year-old Palmer ever shot in a PGA tournament.

Reggie still has range in spring exhibition

HERO OF THE 1977 World Series with New York when he went on a home run spree, Red Sox yesterday, Jackson singled on his first swing and hit Sox won in 12th, 5-4. (UPI photo)

Wise best RSox pitcher

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — On the basis of spring training alone, he has earned a starting assignment on Opening Day.
"Luis Tiant? Mike Torrez? Try Rick Wise, the man who's been in Don Zimmer's dog house for more than a year."
Wise has asked to be traded from the Boston Red Sox since he was pulled from the starting rotation last season, but spring rolled around and once again the bespectacled right-hander found himself back with the Sox.
Sunday, he pitched two-hit ball and four scoreless innings against the world champion New York Yankees as the Sox eked out a 5-4 win in 10 innings.
Three exhibition appearances, Wise has pitched shutout ball in 11 innings and limited the opposition to six hits.
"Wise was tremendous," manager Don Zimmer said after the game. "The veteran will be in the starting rotation on opening day. There are still 17 days left and 16 pitchers."

Spring Training

Carl Yastrzemski left the game after two innings with a sore lower back. He is expected to play again by midweek.
Elsewhere on the spring circuit, Baltimore blanked Pittsburgh, 5-0. Cincinnati topped the New York Mets, 8-5. Montreal upended Los Angeles, 7-5. Detroit nipped Chicago, 5-4. Texas edged Atlanta, 3-2, and Minnesota dined Houston, 3-2, and San Diego routed Cleveland, 8-3. Philadelphia shelved St. Louis, 7-2. Seattle stopped San Francisco, 3-2. Left-hander Mike Pizarro pitched five and one-half perfect innings and two runs in the eighth inning with a double to lift the Cubs.

Shorter wins

CROWLEY, La. (UPI) — Olympic gold medalist Frank Shorter Sunday finished first in a field of 500 runners to win the Cajun 10 Miler in 48 minutes, 36 seconds.

Board seeks PUCA hearing

Hebron
The Hebron Board of Selectmen voted unanimously Thursday to ask the Public Utilities Control Authority to schedule a public hearing in Hebron for discussion of the multiple telephone exchanges within the town.
First Selectman Aaron Reid said he has been advised by the PUCA that it would be possible to request a local hearing.
Reid said the Town Office Building Addition Study Committee will meet tonight at 8 with Architect Dennis Keele.
Reid said he expects the plan for the proposed addition to be ready for presentation to the Board of Finance Wednesday.
Reid said he intends to recommend to the building committee a public hearing be scheduled if the finance board gives the project its stamp of approval.
Meetings snowed
Thursday's snowfall caused the cancellation of evening meetings, including the Board of Education, the Business and Professional Association and the Republican Town Committee.
At this time only the Board of Education and the Republicans have rescheduled their meetings. The Board of Education will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Gilead Hill School, and the Republicans have rescheduled their meeting to Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hebron Elementary School.
Town Republicans will be asked to name a party-endorsed slate of delegates to the state, congressional, senatorial house and county conventions. The town committee will also name officers for the next two years.
Democratic caucus
State Sen. David M. Barry will be guest speaker at Tuesday's Democratic caucus at the Town Office Building.
The town committee will meet at 7 p.m. and the 8 p.m. caucus will select delegates to the state and district conventions in July.
Barry is scheduled to speak at about 8:30 p.m.
Town committee officers for the next two years will be elected at the 7 p.m. meeting.

Big energy eaters can gain from this ad.

Northeast Utilities has come up with a new way to reduce home energy bills. It's called the "Time-of-Day Rate." This service is now available to Connecticut homeowners using more than 20,000 kilowatt-hours of power a year.
"Time-of-Day" encourages you to shift your use of major home appliances to off-peak hours. And by using your heavy energy eaters during these times, you can lower the cost of your monthly electric bill.
Due to a limited supply of special "Time-of-Day" meters, customers able to benefit most will naturally take priority. In the future, Northeast Utilities hopes to make this innovative program available to more Connecticut homes.
If you haven't received our "Time-of-Day" questionnaire in the mail but are interested in learning about your own eligibility, write Ralph Marone, Northeast Utilities, P.O. Box 1953, Hartford, Connecticut 06144.
When you put your home on a "Time-of-Day" energy diet, your electric bills may look a whole lot trimmer.

Evonne in rally to beat Evert

BOSTON (UPI) — After all this time, you would think they'd know each other like a couple of books.
But that's what makes the rivalry between Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong so interesting.
After five years of facing each other on the tennis court, they still have no idea what to expect.
"I never knew which way it was going to go," said Goolagong, who overcame a painful left ankle and a one-set deficit Sunday to beat Evert, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, to win the $100,000 Boston stop on the women's professional tennis tour.
"She's so steady it's harder for me with her. If someone's aggressive, I can deal with her," she said.
Evert, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., who managed to fight off four match points before losing, admitted Goolagong's game bothers her as much as hers scares Goolagong.
"Evonne is not predictable," said Evert, who was playing in her first tournament in four months. "At least with Rosie (Casals) or Billie Jean (King), I know what to expect. With Evonne, you never know. If she's in the mood to play, she plays brilliantly."
The rivalry dates back to Wimbledon 1973, when the Australian ousted Evert in the quarterfinals. Since then, Goolagong has had the upper hand, although Evert beat her at Forest Hills two years ago.
"Wise was tremendous," manager Don Zimmer said after the game. "The veteran will be in the starting rotation on opening day. There are still 17 days left and 16 pitchers."

Emanuel adds playoff crown

Regular season champ Emanuel of Manchester emerged also with the playoff crown yesterday in the Church Basketball League at Illing Junior High.
Emanuel, with three players hitting double figures, ousted Center Congo, 63-43, in the semifinals and outlasted Wapping of South Windsor, 59-45, for the title. Wapping made the finals with a 45-40 decision over St. Mary's.
In first round games Saturday night at Illing, Wapping trimmed Faith Lutheran, 23-18, with Mike McGuiness tallying 10 points for the winners and Joel Baranowski 7 for the losers. Center in overtime behind Matt Ghabosky (15) and Mark Ghabosky (10) nipped Temple Beth Shalom, 42-39. Ed Piotek and Jon Keller had 14 and 11 respectively for Temple Beth.
Also, St. Mary's topped South Methodist, 39-28, with Craig Ostrout and Mike Gaffney leading the way for the winners with 15 and 10 points respectively. Alan Sincrope had 12

Basketball's top prize reduced to four teams

NEW YORK (UPI) — What began as a 32-team scramble for college basketball's top prize has been reduced to four.

Saturday Kentucky and Arkansas qualified for the NCAA tournament semifinals with victories over Michigan State and Cal State-Fullerton, respectively. Sunday Duke and Notre Dame went through their version of "Meet Me in St. Louis" by beating Villanova and DePaul.

Top-ranked Kentucky will play No. 6 Arkansas in next Saturday's semifinals while No. 9 Duke takes on Notre Dame. The winners meet Monday night.

Duke had an easy time Sunday, running a devastating fast break that carried the Blue Devils to a 90-72 victory over the Wildcats to win the East Regional at Providence, R.I.

NCAA

With center Mike Gminski controlling the boards and Jim Spanerel on the receiving end of the break, Duke rolled to an early 2-8 lead and all but confirmed its flight reservations to St. Louis.

"I think we came out a little more fired up than we have in the past three games," said Spanerel, a 6-foot-9 junior who scored 22 points and was named the tournament's MVP.

Gminski had 21 points and 11 rebounds, while Keith Herron had 20 points and 11 rebounds for Duke.

Reggie Robinson 16 for Villanova, the Eastern Eight champ, whose record fell to 23-4. For Notre Dame, it was Kelly Tripucka who was outstanding as the Irish captured the Midwest Regional with an 84-64 victory over the Blue Demons.

It marks the first time the Irish have ever reached the NCAA semis in 15 tournament tries. They also have a shot at becoming the only team to win the national title in both basketball and football in the same school year.

Everything we accomplish from here is gravy," said Notre Dame Coach Richard "Digger" Phelps. Branning had 14 points, Duck Williams 12 and Bill Lambier 11 for Notre Dame while Gary Giarran topped DePaul, 27-3, with 18 points.

"There is no alibi," said DePaul Coach Ray Meyer. "The way they rebounded on us, they just took everything away ... I still say this is the best team I've ever coached at DePaul."

In Saturday's games, upstart Fullerton State had a chance to win it when Keith Anderson, who scored 23 points, drove downtown in the first seconds. But Sidney Moncrief kept the ball loose to preserve the win for Arkansas.

Kentucky sealed its game when Kyle Macy sank six foul shots in the final 2:43 to win it for the Wildcats. "Macy on the free throw line was the difference," said Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote.

76ers win division but hold up party

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers tossed a champagne party in their dressing room after beating the New York Knicks, 125-118, Sunday night. They had clinched the NBA's Atlantic Division title Saturday night in New York but elected to hold their victory party at home.

"I'm not drinking any champagne," said sport-spook Coach Billy Cunningham. "I'm waiting until we win it all (the playoffs) in June."

The 76ers scored their 21st straight home victory with a 69-point second half, after trailing by three points at halftime.

Doug Collins scored 20 points in the second half and Steve Mix in nine in the fourth period to lead the comeback. Collins led all scorers with 20 points while Julius Erving had 25 for the 76ers. Bob McAdoo had 22 for the Knicks.

Detroit defeated Denver, 122-95. Detroit beat Chicago, 112-92. Kansas City topped Buffalo, 122-112. Phoenix routed the San Antonio Spurs, 116-99. Milwaukee blasted Washington, 117-106 and Los Angeles beat Atlanta, 101-87, in other games.

John Havlicek scored 27 points as the Celtics kept their playoff hopes alive with a victory over the Los Angeles Lakers, 116-99. Milwaukee blasted Washington, 117-106 and Los Angeles beat Atlanta, 101-87, in other games.

PUBLIC NOTICE
FOR OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING
FOR THE MANCHESTER WATER DEPARTMENT
TO COMPLY WITH THE SAFE DRINKING WATER ACT
Under the provisions of the Safe Drinking Water Act, the Manchester Water Department has been granted an exemption for turbidity, color and odor. The State Health Department has prescribed a schedule by which said water system will achieve compliance with State and Federal regulations. Under the schedule, the water system will achieve compliance with water quality standards by January 1, 1981 (Primary Program) or January 1, 1983 (Alternate Program).

TENTATIVE COMPLIANCE SCHEDULE
1. Preliminary Plans Submitted for Review: Primary - November 1, 1978 (start design); Alternate - May 1, 1979.
2. Final Plans Submitted for Review: Primary - August 1, 1979; Alternate - May 1, 1981.
3. Start Construction: Primary - November 1, 1979; Alternate - July 1, 1981.
4. Finish Construction: Primary - January 1, 1981; Alternate - January 1, 1983.

Any interested party may request a hearing on this compliance schedule by submitting a written request to the address below. Such requests should include: the name of the person or organization requesting the hearing.
The planned date, time and location for hearing is as follows: State Health Department Auditorium, 79 Elm Street, Hartford, Connecticut on April 7, 1978 at 1:00 p.m. If no requests are received by April 3, 1978, there will be no hearing, and the proposed schedule will be subsequently adopted.
Send requests to Richard S. Woodhill, Chief, Water Supplies Section, State Health Department, 79 Elm Street, Hartford, Connecticut 06115.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations on your advice to TRAVELER'S WIFE, who had mixed emotions about leaving her children in order to accompany her husband on his business trips.

I've always asked my wife to come along on my business trips, but the excuses ranged all the way from, "I don't want to leave the kids alone," to, "I don't know anyone there," to "What will I do while you're at your meetings?"

After 20 years of being totally faithful, I met a woman on one of these trips who appeared to me. She shared me more than I did her, and eventually I asked my wife for a divorce.

I moved this lady to my town, gave her a job, and moved in with her—all out in the open. After a few months I knew it wasn't going to work, so we broke up and I moved back home again.

Through this experience we all learned some lessons, one of which resulted in my wife's willingness to travel with me to take care of her.

We were lucky enough to get a second chance, but I'm sure there are others who weren't that lucky.

HAPPY ENDING

DEAR HAPPY: It's not practical for in most cases possible for wives of traveling salesmen to accompany their husbands on the road. But for out-of-town meetings and conventions, if either wives go, the wife will see a lot of her, and eventually I asked my wife for a divorce.

I moved this lady to my town, gave her a job, and moved in with her—all out in the open. After a few months I knew it wasn't going to work, so we broke up and I moved back home again.

We were lucky enough to get a second chance, but I'm sure there are others who weren't that lucky.

HAPPY ENDING

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of people who choose to ignore a new grandchild just because it was born seventh month early?

Our baby is 3 weeks old now—healthy and adorable—and my husband's parents haven't been over to see her yet. And they didn't even send a gift.

They are still upset because we didn't get married the minute I knew I was expecting.

Abby, in this old age, premarital sex is no big deal, and we didn't see any reason to be hypocritical about it, so we took our time and got married when I was in my seventh month.

We had a nice church wedding, but his mother stayed home with a migraine headache, and her husband stayed home to take care of her.

I am 20 and my husband is 21; we went together for two years, if that makes any difference. Your opinion will be appreciated.

NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Your in-laws continue to cling to a code of conventional behavior that differs vastly from yours. For them to ignore their grandchild for that reason is narrow and foolish. Give them time. They'll come around. If they don't, it will be their loss.
