Gardening

By Frank Atwood

The Manchester Health Department received a house-warming present when the department moved into new offices two years ago at the Hall of Records. It was a large house plant but still not too big to stand on a table. Now it stands on the floor and is seven feet tall.

The begonia has been reported twice to give the roots more room, and at the rate it has been growing it will need another larger pot some day. The plant has been blooming since the first week of March, and when I saw it the begonia had two large, gracefully drooping clusters of pink blossoms with a white base and yellow pollen.

The begonia is of the "cane" type and has twice been provided with a longer stake to hold it upright. New leaves grow at the top of the plant and old leaves, near the bottom, have dropped off, revealing the green canes that are the plant's stems. The pot is set in an attractive wicker basket.

Ronald Kraatz, Health Department administrator, told me about the plant, calling attention to the wing-like shape of the green leaves with their spots of gray. Miss Naomi Zima, secretary in the department, is given credit for keeping the begonia watered, enough but not too much. The gift, at the department's open house for the new offices, was from Mrs. Jane Wlochowski of the Board of Education.

There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of varieties of begonias, all originating from warm countries. They cannot withstand frost and are grown here in the winter as house plants, outdoors only in the summer. Begonias are generally described as either fibrous rooted, such as the Angel Wing, or tuberous rooted, growing from flattened tuber under the surface of the soil. It is about time now to start the tuberous rooted begonias for the new season and the tubers that came in from the garden last fall, if they have stayed healthy, can be started in the house now.

They are covered lightly with soil, or one of the rooting media mixed for the purpose, and given water. Roots will grow from the bottom of the tuber and in a week or so a thick green sprout should poke up from the top of the tuber.

The tuber, the new shoot and the roots can be transplanted to the flower border when the danger of frost is past. The begonias will bloom in mid-to-late summer with some of the brightest-colored, most striking blossoms in the garden.

There is one caution to keep in mind. They will require staking. Especially when in bloom the plants will be top heavy and a summer storm will lay them flat, probably with some of the stems snapped off. Both kinds of begonias have varieties that are meant to grow as hanging plants. As a general rule, begonias do best in partial shade rather than in full sun. Snow mold There has been more snow mold on our lawns this spring than usual, revealed when the deep piles of snow pushed up on the sides of the driveway melted. Patches of grass covered with the gray cobwebby fungus are larger and more numerous than I've ever seen.

Fred Nelson, turf specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, says a thorough raking is the prescribed treatment, breaking up the fungus and helping the sunlight to dry it out. Probably, says Mrs. Nelson, the mold has not killed the grass.

Spraying with the fungicide is of no particular help now, says the turf expert. The spray, to be effective, should have been used in late fall before the snow came.

Canoe race to draw many Manchester's second annual Hockanum River Canoe Race, scheduled for April 29, is expected to draw contestants from throughout New England.

The American Canoe Association is listing the race in its guide to New England races open races, and to date the race committee has received applications from 15 entrants from five states, Lee Watkins, committee chairman, said.

Race committee members have been working with axes and chain saws to clear the river of large fallen trees to make the river clear of debris, Watkins said.

"It's incredible how the river has changed because of last winter's flooding, especially in the section near Economy Electric," he said.

The race will start from alongside the Steak Out Restaurant in Talcottville, with a check-in time set at 8:30 a.m. The finish line will be at the rear of the Hockanum Mill Shopping Center in East Hartford.

All entrants must be at least 12 years old, and all should wear lifejackets, according to race regulations.

Entry blanks for the race may be obtained starting Friday at Watkins Bros. furniture store on Main Street, at all offices of the Savings Bank of Manchester and at various sporting goods stores.

A popular choice

Tom Conran has been working with youths ever since he was numbered among them. His selection to receive the first annual Community Service Award in the field of youth activity by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is a popular choice. His record with youth was well served in the announcement in Wednesday's Herald. Those of us who have witnessed that mark of distinction — most of it as volunteer work — know that Tom has been a great contact for youths. He has taught them to keep themselves physically fit; he has taught them that winning isn't the only thing; he has provided them with excellent leadership. He could teach them those things because he has kept himself physically fit, he knows the value of being a participant, and he is a leader. The GMCC made its first choice an excellent one.

Pentagon does an about-face

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA)—All too often, a philosophically repugnant objective is deemed pragmatically unattainable by the powers-that-be in the country. It is a pleasant change, therefore, to see a marriage of moral and practical imperatives in the Pentagon's recent decision to seek congressional repeal of existing legal restrictions on the role of women in the military.

Women's groups and their allies on Capitol Hill have long fought a long and hard battle to end to prohibitions against the assignment of women to combat jobs, a ban which has sharply limited both the quality and quantity of military positions open to women.

Until this year, the military establishment itself had stubbornly resisted such pressures despite repeated studies showing women could assume far more jobs than they are presently permitted to perform. But Pentagon planners have now done an about-face on the issue as a result of the rising costs and dwindling recruitment pool of the all-volunteer military. The reasons for the decision to expand the number of women in the service and the career opportunities open to them were outlined most clearly in a Brookings Institution study published last year. As the study demonstrated, there simply won't be enough qualified young men available in the future to sustain the enlistment levels required by the military. Between now and 1985, the number of 18-year-old males is expected to decline by 15 percent. By 1992, the fall-off will reach 25 percent.

The military could, of course, lower its standards to meet enlistment quotas. Or it could raise, still further, the pay and fringe benefits which help lure recruits into the service.

The first course, however, raises serious questions about the effectiveness of the armed services, while the second would result in staggering cost increases at a time when military pay and fringes are already viewed as excessive by many in Congress and the public.

Would more women sign up if military career opportunities were broadened? The answer is almost certainly yes. For one thing, a woman in the service earns far more, on the average, than her civilian counterpart — and the gap widens the longer she stays in uniform. In addition, while the services are already experiencing difficulty filling enlistment quotas with what they regard as highly qualified males, they have barely tapped the recruitment pool of well-qualified women.

It won't be easy to persuade Congress to lift the ban on combat-related roles for women. It wasn't easy for the Pentagon to decide such a move is needed. But the future of the all-volunteer military is riding on the outcome.

Dedicated people aided Health Fair

To the editor: The physical fitness screening test given by the Health Department at the third annual Health Fair on March 21 was a huge success. Over 100 people participated and were given a general indication of their physical fitness. All left with a suggested exercise program and with a better understanding of the many benefits of physical conditioning. We were able to conduct the tests because of the time and equipment donated by a great number of individual and businessmen from

Shared their talents

To the editor: As co-presidents of the Manchester Bicentennial Band Shell Choir, we wish to express our most sincere thanks and appreciation to all of those fine people who shared their talents with all of us last Wednesday at the townwide Talent Show held at Bailey Auditorium for the benefit of Manchester's Band Shell. Ralph MacCarone did an outstanding job in putting the show together. We could see that hours of work on an individual basis was the key to the

Did Congress lay an egg?

By LEE RODERICK
WASHINGTON — Cartoonist Herbert Block of the Washington Post — otherwise known as Herblock — hit the Social Security issue squarely on the head the other day by sketching a giant Easter egg rolling wildly down Capitol Hill, with two hapless congressmen trying to stop it. The egg is the recently enacted Social Security tax increase, and the representatives are saying: "Now to try rolling it back."

The plight of the nation's Social Security system is a vexing one indeed. In essence, the federal pension program counted on by millions of Americans to help tide them over their late years was going belly up as of late last year. The answer by President Carter and Congress was to pass a law calling for Social Security tax increases more than triple the current amount. The full impact would hit in 1987.

Pensioners understandably were relieved, but workers — especially those in the middle income bracket who are the backbone of our economy — were aghast. One result of their outrage was a call by the Democratic majority on the congressional Joint Economic Committee for President Carter to scrap his plan to cut income taxes by $33 billion, instead cutting Social Security taxes that amount. And Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Finance subcommittee on Social Security, has now called for a three-year hiatus from the Social Security increases while the problem is re-studied. Meanwhile, the difference would be made up from income tax revenues.

"When Social Security was enacted in 1935," noted the congressman, "half of the male population over age 65 was in the labor force. Today the figure is only one in five, or 20 percent. We should leave individuals alone to choose to work or not to work — unimpeded by government." Roussetot added that "the current

On busing

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — Over the phone, the Boston School Committee member sounded contemptuous. "So the judge thinks school busing has worked," he said. "Tell that to the parents of white kids who have stopped going to public school." The committeeman was referring to a statement by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity, who devised Boston's school integration, that "the court's student desegregation plan... seems to be taking hold... The areas of controversy... appear to be diminishing."

The figures back him up. White students have flocked to all-white private Catholic, and suburban schools. In 1973, before Judge Garrity's busing plan went into effect, there were 94,000 students in Boston's public schools, 62 percent of them white. Today, the enrollment is 72,000, 41 percent white. Judge Garrity's argument for busing was that he had been "directed" by the Supreme Court to desegregate. That, too, was only a half truth.

In fact the Court's decision in a 1971 case, widely interpreted as giving the green light to wholesale busing, actually did nothing of the kind. In Swann vs. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education in North Carolina, the highest bench unanimously and with utter clarity ruled that "the constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole."

and publicly. We are also appreciative of the Board of Education for their support in this project, which raised more than $800. Heartiest thanks to you, the people of Manchester, who came to the show and gave your support for the excellent program, thus showing your faith in Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell. Nathan Agostinelli Co-president Francis J. Mahoney Co-president

The case upon which Burger's one-man opinion was delivered certainly did not consider practicalities. It involved the school system at Winston-Salem, N.C., where the student population was 72.5 percent white and 27.5 percent black. Yet the lower court judge ordered the busing of 34,000 of the district's 50,000 students. That was more than two-thirds of the school population. Pahaw, and blast it. There will always be the professional "Look Ma!" activities who use civil rights to get attention, and there will always be racists determined to keep black children in their (inferior) place. But it is too bad some judges in the Republic have been so reluctant to summon up a little courage and try an occasional school busing case on its coldly legal merits.

Bloodmobile due in Manchester Monday

"Start the week right by being a blood donor." So says Joseph L. Swenson, the newly appointed chairman of the Manchester Red Cross Blood Program. The Bloodmobile will be stationed at Community Baptist Church, 585 E. Center St., Monday from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling the Manchester Red Cross office, 643-5111. Walk-in donors will be welcome throughout the day. Baby-sitting service will be offered. Anyone in good health between the ages of 18 and 65 may donate blood. Seventeen-year-old donors must have a Red Cross form signed by a parent or guardian. For this month's operation, four local church groups have combined to conduct a special recruitment campaign. They are Community Baptist Church, North Methodist Church, Second Congregational Church and Center Congregational Church. They have made informational brochures and appointment cards available to their members and encouraged their participation in this lifesaving effort.

How good

This spring, thus far, has been unusual. It has not afforded the weather needed by the scholastic squads to gear up and get ready for 78 campaigns.

For the record

Baseball divisional finishes, top to bottom, will be — AL East: 1. Yankees, 2. Tigers, 3. Red Sox, 4. Brewers, 5. Orioles, 6. Indians, 7. Blue Jays, AL West: 1. Angels, 2. Rangers, 3. Royals, 4. White Sox, 5. Twins, 6. Mariners, 7. A's, NL East: 1. Phillies, 2. Cardinals, 3. Expos, 4. Pirates, 5. Cubs, 6. Mets, NL West: 1. Reds, 2. Dodgers, 3. Astros, 4. Giants, 5. Braves, 6. Padres.

Hawks celebrate first playoff spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ted Turner was positively radiant. The colorful owner of Atlanta's Hawks and Braves, was floating around the Hawks locker room Wednesday night, congratulating everyone in sight.

Cheney Tech netmen launch play Friday

By LEN AUSTER

Senior Tom Talami at the moment will play No. 1 singles with junior Dave Rivard No. 2. The third singles spot is uncertain with sophomore Charlotte West and juniors Steve Ference and Bruce Hewitt in contention.

The pair which doesn't play No. 3 singles will help form the doubles tandem along with junior Graham Warner and freshman Terry Melendy among others. "We have to have some days outside to see who clicks together," explains Skinner.

The Tech prospects were dampened when three from last year didn't return. "I lost them to jobs," said a saddened Skinner. "It is kind of depressing to work with a kid for two years and turn around and see him with a job."

"I'm praying for some nice weather — to get practice time."

Schedule: April 7 East Hampton 4, 10 Rocky Hill 4, 13 Price Tech 14, 14 Portland 4, 17 Litchfield 18, 19 Rham 4, 21 Vinal Tech 4, May 1 East Hampton 4, 5 Rocky Hill 4, 8 Portland 4, 10 Coventry 4, 12 Price Tech 4, 15 Vinal Tech 4, 18 Lyman Memorial 14, 19 Rham 4, 22 Coventry 4, 24 CCC Tournament at Rocky Hill. Inflation slowing

The president warned Wednesday that the public will "be robbed of the improvements" resulting from a lower unemployment rate unless "we all stand firm" against the wage-price spiral.

And the latest public surveys show that citizens have placed inflation at the top of their list of domestic worries.

Wholesale prices, which usually forecast future consumer costs, soared 1.1 percent in February, the sharpest climb in more than three years. It was the fifth consecutive month that prices have advanced by at least 0.5 percent.

Consumer prices for the same month advanced at an annual rate of 7.2 percent.

Food has been the main culprit, moving upward at rates in double figures at the wholesale level.

Glaser also said the poll indicates a trend nationwide among teachers for a return to more required subjects for students. The teachers feel that a decline in aptitude and achievement test scores may be directly related to the wide range in freedom that students are given in the elective system.

One obvious result of stricter requirements will be that it will be harder to graduate, Glaser said, something which some parents may not like.

Dr. Alfred B. Tychem, assistant superintendent for curriculum, said today he expects the administration to discuss the results of the teacher poll. However, he said it would be premature to get involved in a major overhaul of the high school requirements while the high school is undergoing a major change in administration. A new principal and assistant principal are to be hired later this year.

He also said one of the probable results of an increase in course and graduation requirements would be additional staff at the high school.

Under the existing requirements, a student must accumulate 15 credits, representing 30 courses, to graduate. Seven of the credits must be in specific areas, such as math or English, but the others may be in any subject taught at the high school.

Glaser said a 76-percent contingent of the poll could have "enormous ramifications" in terms of both practical (financial) and philosophical matters relating to the educational system.

He said the teachers stressed that the poll was done without extensive research, but the MEA hopes the school board will follow through on other officers elected are Joseph McCarthy, vice president; James McAuley, treasurer; Mary LeDuc, secretary; Mary Gollins, financial secretary; and Daniel Cole, sergeant-at-arms.

The officers will be installed at a meeting Tuesday, April 18.

Teachers hope poll will bring changes

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
Representatives of the Manchester Education Association are hopeful that a recent poll of all Manchester High School teachers, which indicated a desire for various changes at the school, will result in a thorough study by the Board of Education and school administration.

Arthur Glaser, an MHS social studies teacher, said the poll was taken after a number of teachers had expressed concern about too lenient course and graduation requirements at the high school. The MEA decided to get a consensus of the teachers on five questions to present in the annual discussion with the Board of Education held earlier this week.

A large majority of the teachers polled expressed a desire to have more course and credit requirements for graduation, and to place students who are not doing well in their course work in study halls instead of allowing them to leave the school grounds during the day.

The teachers also rejected keeping the present system of requirements. Glaser said he feels the vote indicates that a significant number of teachers feel the elective system is too permissive.

Under the existing requirements, a student must accumulate 15 credits, representing 30 courses, to graduate. Seven of the credits must be in specific areas, such as math or English, but the others may be in any subject taught at the high school.

Glaser said a 76-percent contingent of the poll could have "enormous ramifications" in terms of both practical (financial) and philosophical matters relating to the educational system.

Brothers win derby awards

Cub Scout Pack 112 conducted its annual Pinewood Derby recently in the Washington School cafeteria.

Mark Reid, of the Webelos Den, placed first, with his brother, Mitchell Reid of Den 1, placing second, and Peter LaPointe of Den 2, placing third.

Mike Reid, a third Reid brother, won the cake raffle.

Donna Leferski, president of the Washington School PTA, was placed first, with his brother, Mitchell Reid of Den 1, placing second, and Peter LaPointe of Den 2, placing third.

Mark Hennequin was awarded his Robert badge.

Patrick Vole placed first with his car, Paul Bradshaw's car came in second, and Douglas Strohbehn's car placed third. Vole also received an award for having the best appearing car in the derby.

Each den also had its own race. Winners in Den 1 were Brian Brophy, first; Jeff Juday, second; Howard Rovengo, third; Den 2, John Andrusik, first; Mark Kloter, second; Tim Paul, third; Den 3, Richard Krumins, first; Sean Cappala, second; Matthew Kloter, third; and Todd MacLaughlin, honorable mention.

Also, Den 4, Don Hentschel, first; Michael Rawson, second; Tully Fatukak, third; and Den 5, Kenneth Andrusik, first; John Enwright, second; Leon Keith, third; and Bradley Marandino and Dwayne Albert, honorable mention.

The pack recently visited the Children's Museum in West Hartford, including its aquarium and planetarium.

A pack meeting is scheduled for Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Bentley School. It will feature hiking, first aid, nutrition, clothing and compass reading. Saturday, the pack will make a six-mile hike.

Cleanup plan set downtown

Members of the new Downtown Manchester Association will kick off the week-long cleanup campaign of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce on April 16.

The Chamber Environment and Beautification Committee is sponsoring the townwide cleanup drive. The downtown association is interested in keeping the town neat, clean and picked up and would like to keep the clean-up as an ongoing activity, according to Al Cashman, community affairs coordinator for the association.

He said the downtown merchants hope to obtain a truck to use as they go along Main Street in the Sunday clean-up. The group will concentrate on Main Street initially, but may expand its work into the side streets through the summer, Cashman said.

The Chamber has endorsed the new organization which formed recently in an effort to improve the physical aspects and the overall atmosphere of the downtown area.

Liquor story jumbled

A misplaced paragraph in a story in Wednesday's Herald may have caused some confusion to readers.

The story about the Tuesday meeting of the Manchester Board of Directors included a misplaced paragraph that said there were some persons who spoke at the meeting about a proposal to raise the annual fees at Manchester Country Club.

The paragraph should have proceeded one that told of William Ogden 137 Brantford St. speaking against the increase.

A couple of members of the club's Board of Governors attended the meeting and said that the increase is necessary.

Two men arrested in police scuffle
Two 20-year-old men were arrested early today as the result of a disturbance on East Center Street in which several police officers received minor injuries.
Ronald R. Descault, of 26 Birch St. and Bruce S. Montgomery of Marlborough were each charged with breach of peace and resisting arrest. In addition Descault was charged with two counts of assaulting a police officer and possession of less than four ounces of a cannabis type substance.
Police said the disturbance began in the Carry Nation's Cafe on East Center Street after midnight. Police arrived on the scene when a large group of persons were gathered on the sidewalk trying to get the two men to leave the area.
Descault and Montgomery were hostile and argumentative with police when asked to leave, police said. Police said Montgomery continued to harass Officer Ralph Nezas and attempted to fight with him. Officer Michael Sweetez, in assisting Nezas, was slightly injured in the knee and Nezas sustained a twisted ankle.
Descault was injured as the result of a scuffle with two other officers, Alan Anderson and Paul Lombardo. He was taken to the Manchester Memorial Hospital where he continued to cause a disturbance and refused treatment.
Montgomery was also arrested earlier in the evening on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor and was released.
Both men were held at police headquarters overnight for court presentations today.

Vernon council, police compromise on budget

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

Police Chief Herman Fritz and the Town Council, made some "trade agreements" and compromises last night and the council approved a police budget increasing it by $16,789 over the mayor's recommendation. The public safety portion of the police budget, as requested by Fritz, totaled $1,150,798 — the mayor's recommendation was for $1,025,845. These figures include salaries but the council had agreed at the onset of its budget workshops that salaries, other than union ones, will be considered separately.

Therefore, the council approved a public safety budget of $1,042,645 which is $16,789 more than the mayor's recommendation. At the outset of last night's workshop, Councilman Morgan Campbell reminded the council that the budget had doubled in eight years. He said the police budget, as presented, reflected a 21 percent increase and the mayor's recommendation reflected an 8.37 percent increase. He strongly objected to adding items to the budget.

In the trade-offs, an amount of $1,200 was switched from a monitoring device to buy a trail bike to patrol town parks, which the mayor had deleted.

The council also voted to add in $6,000 for one more police cruiser. The chief had asked for six and the mayor recommended three. The amount for a three-wheel vehicle for patrol at Vernon Circle, was deleted.

Another trade-off was a meter maid, a new position, for a part-time systems analyst. The systems analyst has been working part time but the chief had asked that the position be made full time.

The council further voted to increase the number of patrol officers to 30. The mayor had recommended 29. Chief Fritz said if the force was reduced he would have to do away with the position of juvenile officer and put that officer back on regular patrol.

The chief, in making the plea for more new cruisers, said this was one of the areas he felt would impede the proper operation of his department.

He said the five line cruisers used on patrol have an average of 81,000 miles each and the spare cars have an average of 103,893 miles on each of four and the two additional cars used for special services have an average of 87,732 miles on them.

He cited the high cost of repairing the older cruisers and termed it an excessive and avoidable expense.

The chief had also asked for a jeep but this was taken out by the mayor and not put back in by the council. This would replace a used jeep that was bought in 1969. The chief said it is used to pick up large or bulky items of evidence and also to plow the station lot because the town plows can't get in there.

The council also asked for a jeep but this was taken out by the mayor and not put back in by the council. This would replace a used jeep that was bought in 1969. The chief said it is used to pick up large or bulky items of evidence and also to plow the station lot because the town plows can't get in there.

The motions to add the items and make the trades were made by Councilman Marie Herbst who is a Democrat but had the support of members of her party as well as that of most of the Republican council members.

The mayor objected to adding the other cruiser but didn't object to the "trade-offs."

The council approved the mayor's recommendation of $1,042,645 for the school crossing guard portion of the police budget. Of this total, $22,446 is for salaries of 44 guards for an estimated 182 days of school.

An amount of $134,550 was approved for the Traffic Authority which is headed by Chief Fritz. The mayor had asked for $20,156. He said he felt the cut was a little severe and expressed doubt that the authority could do all it should with the approved amount.

The major portion of the budget is for street lighting. The request had been for $136,700 and the mayor recommended, $115,000.

Under the operating supplies account the chief had asked for an amount of $17,206 and the mayor cut this to $8,000. This was to be used for sign blanks and such.

The mayor said the street signs have to be replaced continually and he suggested that some other way to put them up should be explored.

In other action the council approved a Sewer Authority budget totaling $500. The mayor deleted a request for $1,000 earmarked for hiring a consultant to review the sewer assessment ordinance.

The mayor said the ordinance was set up years ago and there was a lot of citizen participation in doing it. He said he didn't think it was necessary to hire someone to review it but rather the town could do it itself.

The Arts Commission budget was cut from a request of $3,550 to $1,575. Deleted was an amount of $1,000 which would be used to pay custodians for events held in the schools. The mayor said if the custodians are there anyway then the town doesn't have to pay them extra.

The Greater Hartford Transit District asked for a contribution of $1,362 which it figured was the town's share according to population. The mayor recommended $200.

The town hasn't contributed anything to the district for the past several years. Mayor McCoy said when he served as mayor several years ago he determined that the district didn't seem to be doing anything for Vernon but this past year it has helped with the senior citizen transportation program. He said in view of that he thought a nominal contribution should be made.

Rham High School seniors will hold their annual donut and basketball game Friday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. They are challenging the junior class to end their undefeated record.

Vernon
Chester W. Morgan, state representative from Vernon's 56th District, and Teresale Bertinason, state representative from Vernon-Ellington's 57th District, will have public office hours Saturday from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The meetings will be in the community room of the high rise apartment for the elderly at 21 Court St., Rockville. No appointments are necessary. For more information call Morgan at 875-8756 or 688-1911 (Ext. 2319).

Pageant Saturday in Vernon

The second annual Miss Greater Vernon Scholarship Pageant is scheduled for Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Vernon Center Middle School, Route 30.

This year seven area young women will be competing for the title and the scholarship. Contestants will be judged on the basis of a personal interview, talent, personality, and poise. They must be age 17 to 26 and must either be residents of the Greater Vernon area or attend a school in that area.

The winner of the local contest, sponsored by the Greater Vernon Jaycees, will also win the honor of representing the area in the Miss Connecticut Pageant and the opportunity to receive a $1,500 scholarship.

The winner of the Miss Connecticut Pageant will then go on to the national Miss America pageant in Atlantic City in September.

Briefs
Andover
The Herald's Wednesday report of Andover action on the school gymnasium fund request incorrectly said a decision was delayed by the Board of Selectmen. It was the Board of Finance, not the selectmen, which voted to table the matter.

Vernon man imprisoned on pot growing charge

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Vernon man with a green thumb and a 780 pound bumper crop of marijuana has been sentenced to a three-to-seven year prison term.

Hartford Superior Court Judge Maurice Spozzo sentenced Walter M. Albee, 33, of Vernon Wednesday after he was found guilty of possession of marijuana and a small quantity of cocaine.

The marijuana crop was discovered by state police last October in a secluded Marlborough backyard protected by five strategically placed guard dogs.

Authorities said the marijuana plants became obvious to neighbors after the leaves fell off the trees surrounding the marijuana garden.

Police said some of the marijuana plants found were 12 feet high. Albee, a former military policeman who served with the U.S. Army in Vietnam in 1966 and 1967, said he needed to grow the marijuana to raise money to pay off a proposed $20,000 to $30,000 settlement in a civil suit.

Albee said the damage suit was filed against him by a young man who claimed he had suffered an eye injury in a fight with the former soldier.

Marijuana charges against Albee's girlfriend, Alma Marie Voltman, were dropped because the state lacked sufficient evidence with which to prosecute her.

However, she was turned over to federal immigration officials for deportation proceedings and charged with overstaying her visa as a Canadian citizen.

Classes continue
HARTFORD (UPI) — School officials say classes are continuing without interruption as striking hall monitors picket Hartford's public high schools.

William H. Epps, Jr., President of the Hartford Federation of Corridor Supervisors, said Wednesday the hall monitors went on strike because "we just felt we couldn't wait any longer."

Epps said the hall monitors, who are often described as school policemen, earn $5,500 to $6,500 annually and are working under a contract that expired a year ago.

EDC won't recommend town I-park purchase

Coventry

In a surprise move, the Coventry Economic Development Commission voted unanimously not to recommend town purchase of the state owned industrial park on Route 31.

The Coventry Development Corporation is facing imminent foreclosure of the remaining 22 acres in the park by the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. Only two lots have been sold by the corporation since its formation seven years ago.

However, the commission has asked the Eastern Connecticut Development Council to investigate the tax advantages to the town in case revenues from businesses there could be used for assistance to the development corporation.

The commission will also ask the town to consider giving available fill to the park to regrade four lots which have been leveled below flood lines.

Commissioner John Matycka estimated that it would cost the town up to $100,000 to buy the park, construct an internal road, and make other improvements to make the remaining lots salable. However, a development council representative pointed out that the town could be eligible for federal grants if it acquired the industrial park.

Corporation President James Ladd is still hopeful that the site can be salvaged if some assistance is forthcoming from the town. The park is owned by 180 local stockholders who went into the venture in the hope of attracting light industry to Coventry.

Reading report
The Coventry Board of Education will hear a report on the reading program for Grades 5 through 12 at its meeting tonight at 7 at the high school.

School Superintendent Arnold Elman will discuss Comprehensive Education and Training Act (CETA) positions and submit revenue sharing bills for approval.

The board is expected to appoint substitute teachers and nurses. Also on the agenda is an update on negotiations with cafeteria workers and a report by the board's new Basic Competency Testing Com-tee.

The board is expected to plan for a public hearing later this month on its proposed budget of $3.1 million. Board Chairman Joan Lewis recently told the Town Council that her group could reduce costs no further and that the 9 percent increase is a result of stringent budget cutting in the past few years that has made the town's four schools unable to meet student needs.

Council Chairman Jack Myles said the board's budget would probably go before April 13 hearing without council cuts. He felt that public input was needed before the council finalized its budget proposal for the annual town meeting.

Donations being sought for family help fund

South Windsor
The Family Help Fund, which provides emergency aid to local residents, is depleted, and Community Service Office Director Beth O'Brien is asking for donations from local residents and organizations.

Mrs. O'Brien said the fund is used for emergency purchases of food, medicines, clothing and tide residents over when welfare checks are lost or delayed.

Grants are made only at the requests of other social service agencies, not on the appeal of individuals. Mrs. O'Brien said.

The agencies that usually refer cases to the fund are school social workers, the local Public Health Nursing Association, Social Department of Social Services.

The fund has had only $300 since October 1975. Most of the money loaned is repaid. Mrs. O'Brien said, and the fund has been able to provide $1,186 in loans.

Letters will be sent to local organizations this week asking for donations to rebuild the fund.

Jukido demonstration
Paul Arel, YMCA Jukido instructor, announces and invites the public to a Jukido demonstration. It will be held from 5 to 6 p.m. at the Wapping Community Hall in South Windsor.

Jukido is a modern system of self-defense with an emphasis on safety. Students currently enrolled in the "V" program will show their parents and friends their skills. Prospective students are invited to come and learn what Jukido is all about.

At the end of the winter session the following students recently advanced to various levels of achievement: Orangebell, Alan Pienkowski, Neil Greiner, Sandra Parker, Neil David Fry and Michael Sadtak; White 2 belt, Paul Pfeiffer, James Mueller; Yellow belt, Jeremy Fiori, Clifford Parker, Tim Steffen, White 1 belt, Matthew DiCorleto; Purple belt, Stephen Howard, Larry Pagano, Stephen Cotte; Bluebelt, Gordon Johnson, Mark Murphy, and Brown belt, John Dzen.

The new classes will begin on April 13 and are open to individuals ages 6 to 16. Further information concerning enrollment is available by calling the Indian Valley YMCA office at 872-7229.

Rules no longer a joke

HARTFORD (UPI) — What started out as something of a legislative joke has become a very serious problem. The Legislature and about 150 of its bills are being held hostage by the lawmakers' own rules.

It became readily apparent Wednesday that solving the problem will be kind of like trying to get chewing gum out of a child's hair. It will be time-consuming. But more importantly, it will be messy.

The rule that is causing all the problems is one that requires a legislative committee to notify the public five days in advance when a bill is going to be aired at a public hearing.

If this isn't done, the bill has to go back to the committee and a proper public hearing must be held. But because most committees are limited for the year, bills they passed that violated the rule may well die.

Apparently, the proper procedure was not followed in at least 10 committees and more than 50 bills may be affected.

A week ago, House Majority Leader William O'Neill, D-East Hampton, employed the little known rule to dispose of a Labor and Industrial Relations Committee bill that prevented a municipal official from hiring a relative, a fellow worker or a member of his political party for a federal public services job.

The bill he passed that day, bills they passed that violated the rule may well die.

But later, the Republicans used the same rule to kill Labor Committee bills they weren't too fond of.

Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Borrah and House chairman, was away in Washington while all this was going on. He came back to find that all but one of his committee's 31 bills were in jeopardy.

One lawmaker chided the distressed Gejdenson by telling the Labor Committee co-chairman he was "the best friend" big business ever had.

Well, Gejdenson didn't think this was too funny so ordered his staff to find out if any other committees had violated the public notification rule.

By going through old legislative bulletins, his staff found plenty and it produced a long list of violations.

Wednesday, committee chairmen, who had teased Gejdenson before, were running up to him on the floor of the House, trying to find out if their bills were in trouble. Others were trying to convince him that they had played by the rules and their bills were good.

"This is a real mess," one lawmaker lamented. While this was going on, the House Democratic leadership was trying to figure out what to do.

Apparently all of the bills on Gejdenson's list did not belong on the list. Others did.

"I had to pass on one bill until we can find out if it's good or not," said O'Neill, who determines for the most part what will be taken up by the House.

WORDS OF WISDOM $1.00

"A FOOL AND HIS MONEY ARE SOON PARTED" ... THANK YOU, SIR, COME AGAIN.

WELL, HERE I AM, THE WORLD-FAMOUS ASTROGRAPHER!

HI, WINTHROP! HI, CINDY!

THERE'S FAMOUS AND THERE'S FAMOUS!

DID YOU HEAR SOMETHING?

YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 7, 1978

An active, busy year ahead can lead you into new areas where lessons in creative self-expression will be studied. These exciting challenges open up many fresh beginnings.

APRIL 23-24 (Sat-Sun) This is a good day to make a new effort to contact someone you previously have been hard to reach. You'll get a warm and responsive welcome. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others help you today in a situation in which you feel alone and deserted. They'll solve your problem and their intervention provides a new start.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have an opportunity to fulfill some responsibility of a friend's shoulders today. Your good deed will root a new kind of comradeship.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) The realization of your goals is possible today. Taking a more and highly resourceful approach to things will be the key.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a refrigerator is a good place to keep money stored? My husband keeps all our savings in our refrigerator, and when I think of all the interest we're missing out on, it's very upsetting to me. Don't tell me to try to convince him to open a savings account, because he'll only say he wants his money where he can get it in a hurry.

Any suggestions you have will be greatly appreciated.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: A refrigerator is a poor place to store one's savings—whether it's hot money or cold cash. Aside from the interest you're losing, you risk being robbed. Tell that lunkhead you're married to do himself a favor and put at least part of it into a savings account!

DEAR ABBY: When I got home from work last evening, my wife said to me, "Tory (our 15-year-old son) snessed me back so I am giving him the cold, silent treatment, and I want you to do the same."

Abby, I told her that I was not going to go along with that kind of stuff—that if she says snessed her back, it was HER problem. He never snessed ME BACK.

The wife got mad and now she's giving ME the silent treatment. I was 1 wrong, or was she?

ATLANTA QUERY

DEAR ATLANTA: She was wrong for demanding that you punish the boy per her prescription. And you're wrong, too, for letting her down. Although Rory wasn't guilty of snassing YOU, his rudeness to his mother calls for some kind of punishment. And since his mother is unable to discipline the boy, it becomes YOUR responsibility.

A few well-chosen "but" words from you could have accomplished more than the cold, silent treatment. Unless you want a father-son team versus mother, try to develop better communication with your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I have just observed a group of "useful" church women preparing for a church rummage sale, the proceeds of which will go to charity. Almost every good item donated by someone from this group was snapped up by another member of the group. Of course, they pay for these items, but a typical conversation was, "Say, who marked this lamp five dollars? The shade is soiled."

Then someone would reply, "I did. I paid $65 for it new—but mark it whatever you want and take it."

Then the other woman would mark it a dollar and promptly cart it off to her car.

Understand, Abby, these volunteers are not charity cases themselves. They are well-to-do society women. Do you think it is fair to them to skim the cream off the top that way? Hundreds of dollars could have been added to the proceeds if it weren't for this kind of thing. I welcome your remarks and you may sign me.

APPALLED IN OMAHA

DEAR APPALLED: The volunteers should have been told that such shenanigans are tantamount to taking money out of the cash register. Why didn't you speak up? Silence implies approval.

Win at Bridge

Failed finesses win big winning bid would be all that would be necessary for six.

Since the only way Pete could get a good match point score would be if both finesses didn't work, Pete played ahead on that assumption. He rose with dummy's ace of heart, came to his hand with a club and lost the diamond finesse.

East shifted to a spade, but Pete took his ace and cashed out two more clubs and five diamonds to wind up with four trump and a plus 630 score for a top.

Why was it a top? Because the hand would only make five diamonds and when North played trump a spade would be opened and North would only make three trump.
