Pullback set by Israelis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gunbattles between Moslems and Christians claimed more victims today on the southeast fringes of Beirut. But reports from southern Lebanon said Israeli occupation troops had begun a preliminary pullback.

The Lebanese army command announced in Beirut it would oversee a massive repatriation of southern refugees as Israel pulled back from forward positions.

In southern Lebanon today, the Israelis blew up recently constructed ramparts and vacated the first position in their announced pullback near the southeast frontier, residents said.

In Beirut, Sunday's full-scale fighting between the Christian suburb of Ain Rummaneh and predominantly Moslem Shiah tapered off today into sporadic gunbattles.

But the gunfire killed at least two more people, bringing the toll to at least seven dead — including a 13-year-old girl — and nine wounded, police and residents said.

The flareup, triggered by a local quarrel, was the worst in eight months between the Christians and Moslems who battled in Lebanon's civil war. It was the first major Beirut fighting since Christian militiamen clashed with Syrian peace-keeping troops in February.

In the south, with one-half of the 4,000-man U.N. peace-keeping force in place between Palestinian guerrillas and Israeli troops, general calm prevailed.

Israel invaded southern Lebanon three weeks ago in retaliation for a Palestinian raid in Israel that killed 35 Israelis and the United Nations sent in the peace keepers to supervise Israel's complete withdrawal and replacement by Lebanese soldiers.

Israeli officials have said they do not intend to pull out their troops until they are sure southern Lebanon will remain cleared of the guerrillas chased out.

Town considers new phone setup

The Town of Manchester may consider the installation of a new phone system that would permit direct dialing to all town departments.

Officials from the town and Board of Education offices have studied the problems of the present phone system, which is considered inadequate for the number of offices it covers. Frequently, callers to the Municipal Building will obtain a busy signal for long periods of time.

Thus, bids were taken for new systems. After analyzing the bids and the systems involved, Maurice Pass, director of general services, said that he will recommend a centrex system, which permits direct dialing to all departments.

Callers now have to contact a main operator in the Municipal Building or the Board of Education office to speak to anyone who works in either the town offices or the school system.

There are 24 trunk lines, lines from the outside to the switchboard, for the school system, and only 12 trunk lines for the Municipal Building. Once all the lines are in use, a caller will receive a busy signal. "When we've had peak loads, the peaks have been in certain areas," Pass said.

For instance, during an emergency or when tax bills have been mailed out, one department will receive a large number of calls. When this happens with the present system, it makes it impossible to reach other departments because all of the trunk lines are in use.

The new proposed system would be what's known as a "direct-in-dial" one, Pass said. Each department would have a separate number, and this would permit someone to call the department directly at any time the office is open.

The proposed system would include all town and school offices, Pass said. He expects that the cost for operation would be about the same as the present system.

There would be an initial installation charge, about $11,000. Pass is expected to attend tonight's budget workshop to discuss the phone system proposal.

The Board of Directors, working on preparing the 1978-79 budget, will hold the budget workshop at 7:30 in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room.

The proposed system would provide some efficiencies in the system. It would be easier, for instance, to distinguish toll-call billings for each extension.

Also, a reduction in personnel to operate the system could be expected, Pass said. There now are separate switchboards for the town and school offices. This would not be necessary with a direct dial system, although one main operator would be needed to handle general calls.

The system also would be centralized in the phone company office rather than in the Municipal Building. This would provide more security, particularly in the case of a power outage where the phone office has excellent emergency generators, Pass said.

If the system is installed, brochures explaining listing the new numbers probably would be sent to all town residents, he said.

Weiss tells about talks on future communities

Last week's seminar for town managers on the Future Horizons of the Profession concentrated on developing frameworks to look at future happenings in American communities, Manchester Town Manager Robert Weiss said.

Weiss was one of about 20 managers from across the country who attended the seminar in Kansas City. The program, which will include three more seminars in the next 18 months, is sponsored by the International City Management Association.

Weiss said that formats were developed for what might happen in cities and towns based on certain happenings — if conditions improved, declined or remained about the same.

Future sessions now will concentrate on what steps to take to improve communities.

"What will be the strategy to arrive at good cities instead of bad ones?" Weiss said as he explained the aim of the future seminars. "Maybe we can intervene so good things happen."

The managers will look at what training is needed today for future managers and what the effect of such things as the energy crisis will be in the future.

UConn student wins Vernon pageant title

Miss Pamela Grinnell, a freshman at the University of Connecticut, was named Miss Greater Vernon during the Scholarship Pageant Saturday night in Vernon.

Miss Grinnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Grinnell of Horseheads, N.Y., was among five contestants vying for the title. The pageant is sponsored by the Greater Vernon Jaycees.

The first runner-up was Miss Kimberley Blaney, a Tolland High School senior and second runner-up was Susan Poletti, a graduate of Rockville High School and now a sophomore at Central Connecticut State College.

Miss Grinnell also won the swim suit and talent contests. She sang, "Everything," from the show "Star is Born," as her talent presentation.

As winner, Miss Grinnell received scholarships totaling $700, gift certificates totaling $90, a sash, a trophy, and a crown, plus a plaque.

The first runner-up received a $300 scholarship and a $25 gift certificate and the second runner-up a $200 scholarship and both received trophies.

Miss Grinnell is majoring in home economics. She is on the varsity swimming and diving team at the university. Her hobbies are sewing, sports, reading, and going to the movies. She hopes for a career in fashion design or management.

She is five-feet, seven and one-half inches tall and has blond hair and brown eyes.

For her talent performance Miss Blaney sang "Love Starts With You," and Miss Poletti played the theme from Hawaii Five-O, on the drums.

Miss Catherine Delaripa, Miss Tolland County 1977, and Don Lavoie, a former professional master of ceremonies from Massachusetts, were hosts for the program.

Linda Westwood Evans was choreographer and music was by the "Odessey," an area band group.

The judges were Al Terzi of WFSB television; Peter Farn, chairman of the board of the Watertown Jaycees; Barbara McKay, dean of women at Briarwood School for Women; Chris Bruce, a professional dance instructor in East Hartford; and Mary Cadorette, Miss Connecticut 1975.

Vernon Jaycee, Tony Wasilefsky was executive director and business manager for the pageant. He was assisted by several other Jaycees and Jaycee Wives.

The other two contestants were Donna Tyo of Vernon, a Manchester High School graduate and Debra Miller of Andover, a student at East Catholic High School in Manchester.

Chamber 'M' Award going to Agostinelli

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce today announced that the winner of the prestigious 1978 "M" Award is Nathan G. Agostinelli.

He will be formally presented with the award at the chamber's annual banquet April 19 at The Colony. This year's banquet is being held as a celebration of local achievement, and will include the presentation of Community Service Awards to previously announced winners Thomas F. Conran Jr., Everett R. Kennedy and Rabbi Leon Wind.

Local residents wishing to attend the event may obtain reservations by contacting the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce office at 257 E. Center St., telephone 646-2223.

"M" Award winners traditionally are stable, well-known, and respected citizens who, have participated in a wide range of community projects, said James Breitenfeld, executive vice president of the chamber.

Leadership, ambition, determination, achievement and an ability to initiate are traits held by Agostinelli that make his selection appropriate, Breitenfeld said.

A resident of Manchester for most of his life, he and his wife, Helena, live on Delmont Street and are the parents of two sons, Michael and Steven.

A former mayor of Manchester, Agostinelli was also the first Manchester resident to be elected to a statewide office when, in 1970, he became comptroller of the State of Connecticut, a position he held until 1975.

While politics has played an important role in Agostinelli's life, his drive to work for a better community has involved him in numerous business, civic, fraternal, social and religious organizations where partisan issues become unimportant, Breitenfeld said.

Nathan G. Agostinelli

Another major involvement in Agostinelli's life is the defense and safety of the state and country. Noted for his leadership skills, he has earned the respect of military personnel on all levels, Breitenfeld said.

Agostinelli is a colonel in the Connecticut Army National Guard. Winners of the "M" Award are judged on the basis of their contributions to Manchester. Representing Manchester's interests in regional and state organizations has been an activity performed well by Agostinelli, Breitenfeld said.

When all the activities of an "M" Award candidate have been evaluated, one final test is applied. The winner must be an individual who has earned the respect of his or her neighbors and fellow citizens.

Besides serving as president of the Manchester State Bank, Agostinelli is chairman of the budget committee of the Board of Trustees of Manchester Memorial Hospital, a member of the town's Hire the Handicap Committee, Regional Advisory Board of Manchester Community College, and the Charter Revision Commission.

Agostinelli has served in a number of civic, fraternal, and church organizations, and has received numerous awards and citations for his work.

He is treasurer of the Leukemia Society of America, and a corporator for the Oak Hill School for the Blind. Agostinelli served as Manchester's mayor from 1966 to 1971. He has also served as chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CRCOG) from 1969 to 1971, and as secretary of the State Employees Retirement Commission.

Agostinelli's military career includes service with the U.S. Army in the Korean Conflict, Commandant in the Connecticut Military Academy, Medical Field Service School, Military Police Career School, Command General Staff College, National Defense University, and various specialized civilian and military courses in various parts of the United States.

Neighbors concerned about park

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Residents near the Town of Manchester's new industrial park will meet Thursday night with Town Planner Alan Lamson to discuss concerns they have about park construction work.

The meeting was arranged this morning because of some questions the residents have raised since construction started two weeks ago.

The park is expected to include 393 acres of property in the Buckland section. The planned J.C. Penney Co. catalog distribution center will be the major building in the park.

One concern developed late last week when workers were seen cutting some trees down near the site.

"People didn't know whether these were settlers coming in or whether it was part of the project plan," Town Manager Robert Weiss said.

This morning, when work on tree removal started again, Weiss was called at 8 a.m. and taken to the site.

"We were upset because there were trees that were 100 years old, and he (a construction worker) was cutting them," Joanne Neale of 271 Burnham St. said, explaining the concern of the neighbors.

Some of the trees in the area have been slated for removal because of the project.

Mrs. Neale said that there are some concerns about traffic.

Curious passers-by are stopping to look at the site. Also, there has been some construction traffic on the road, she said. The neighbors had been told that construction vehicles would not use Burnham Street.

"That has upset us," she said. Thus, the residents met Sunday. A committee of about seven was appointed to meet with town officials to discuss matters connected with construction.

Weiss scheduled the meeting for Thursday night with Lamson. Weiss will be attending a budget workshop session that night, but he also hopes to attend at least parts of the meeting with the neighbors, he said.

"We owe the neighborhood at least open communication so they know what's happening with the construction," he said.

He mentioned the support that the residents of the park area gave the project in the past and said, "I feel we should keep the neighbors informed."

President plans trip to summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will attend an economic summit in Bonn July 16-17 with the leaders of Canada, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan and Great Britain, the White House announced today.

Carter accepted the invitation of West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to attend the meeting which "will provide an occasion for the participants to review the world economic situation and to give impetus to national and international approaches that can contribute to a healthier world economy," officials said.

"The world faces serious and interrelated economic problems," said the announcement made in Washington and Bonn. "Their resolution requires approaches in various areas that, taken together, will reinforce each other in improving the economic situation."

The interrelated issues up for review include ways to stimulate global economic growth through further reduction of inflation and to confront energy trade and other monetary problems, plus cooperation between the industrial and developing countries.

"These issues must be tackled by individual countries in a mutually supportive manner," the White House said.

"The participants will work to this end in developing their policies and in preparing for the July meeting," the statement said.

Carter human rights policy hit

WASHINGTON — "The citizens of most of the newly independent states in Asia and Africa now experience less freedom and fewer guaranteed rights than they did under Western colonial rule."

In the column of March 27 — one about Tom Bentley — we made reference to Camp Kiwanis in Hebron.

Henry Gryk brought it to our attention several months ago, and we promised to seek out some information for a column.

Only last Tuesday at Kiwanis Club luncheon we learned that a past president of Kiwanis remembers going to the camp.

Well, he was right. Another unidentified man who said he was a North Ender recalled being at the camp in 1926.

Some of our best information, though, came from the last director of the Kiwanis Camp in Hebron — Pete Wigren.

conspicuous intervention on behalf of Soviet dissidents.

Lefever, who is director of the Ethics and Public Policy Center at Georgetown, notes that there is a "profound difference" between authoritarian regimes such as most of those in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, and the totalitarian regimes which control most Communist countries.

"Almost all authoritarian regimes permit a significantly greater degree of freedom and diversity than the totalitarian ones in all spheres — political, cultural, economic, and religious," he writes.

There is, for example, far more freedom of choice, diversity of opinion and activity, and respect for human rights in authoritarian South Korea than in totalitarian North Korea.

Federal aid to town less than expected

The Town of Manchester received the checks today from two federal programs. The check for one — the federal Anti-Recession program — is less than expected and funding for next year also probably will fall short of town estimates.

One check for the federal Energy Sharing program covers the quarter ending March 31 and is for $264,227, about what the town estimated.

The check for Anti-Recession funding covers the quarter beginning April 1 for $11,871.

Town Controller Thomas Moore said that the town had expected the check to be about $50,000 based on the average of recent payments the town has received through the program.

The program's funding is based primarily on a community's unemployment rate.

Our unemployment rate has been going down, Moore said. That means that our Anti-Recession check has gone down, Moore said.

A letter received with the funds also said that the present program will end Sept. 30. That means that the town will receive only one check in the next fiscal year under the present program's regulations.

The program undoubtedly will be extended, Moore said, but it is "very possible" the figure the town receives in the next fiscal year will fall short of that estimate.

This, along with the lower-than-expected payment for the last quarter of this fiscal year, means that the town's budget will need more funding from other sources to pay the final cost of town expenses or more cuts will be made.

The Town Board of Directors meets tonight at 7:30 to continue its work on the 1978-79 budget.

Manchester police report

Michael Caron, 18, of New Britain was charged with driving under the influence of liquor in connection with an accident late Friday night on Interstate Highway 84.

Police said he was traveling at a high rate of speed racing with a second unidentified vehicle when his car drove off the side of the ramp, knocking down six guard rails. There was no injury. Court date is April 25.

Gary L. Wotton, 32, of 196 Maple St., sustained a fractured ankle and multiple abrasions as a result of an accident at Oak and Clinton streets Friday about 6:45 p.m. Police said his car was headed north on Clinton Street and went through a stop sign and was struck by a car on Oak Street driven by Peter J. Cary, 21, of 272 Oak St.

Wotton was in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was charged with failure to obey a stop sign.

Other arrests over a weekend included the following:

- Carl Petrowich, 58, of 4 Pearl St., charged with breach of peace in connection with alleged indecent actions on Main Street Friday. Court date is April 24.
- Lawrence Bethea, 33, of 33 Henderson Drive, East Hartford, charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at the Finast store, 214 Spencer St. Friday night. Court date is April 24.
- Edith J. Hicks, 37, of 87 Harbour St., East Hartford, charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at Tagway Shoes, 207 Spencer St. Court date is April 17.
- Eugene F. Torpey, 29, of 74 Cooper St., charged with breach of peace in connection with a disturbance at a business at Center Street early Sunday. Court date is April 24.
- Manuel J. Rodriguez, 21, of New Britain, charged with driving under the influence of liquor. Court date is April 25.
- Laura Maillette, 23, of 15 Oakland St., charged with issuing a bad check on a warrant from Vernon Police Department. She was turned over to Vernon Police.

Board of Tax Review listens to complaints

The Manchester Board of Tax Review has listened to complaints from about 200 property owners and has two meetings left this week.

The board listens to any resident who feels the assessment listed by the town's tax assessor's office is not accurate.

Most of the comments made by the visitors to the board have been routine, Roger McDermott, a board member, said.

The board has been busier than usual this year because the town is completing its revaluation of property, a process that last occurred in 1966.

Most of those who have visited the board's meetings are owners of homes, but there have been some apartment owners and commercial property owners who also have attended.

The owners of the Parkade Apartments on West Middle Turnpike attended a recent meeting. Also, the owners of the Quality Inn in Vernon appeared before the board. None of the buildings run by Quality Inn are in Manchester but some of the adjacent property is in town.

The Board of Tax Review has two afternoon meetings scheduled this week. One is scheduled today and the second Thursday. Both will be from 1:4 in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room.

Budget work continues

South Windsor

The South Windsor Town Council will continue to review budgets this week, with two budget work sessions scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday nights.

In order to avoid what could mean as much as a 3-mill tax hike the council will have to do some heavy slicing in both the Board of Education budget and the General Government budget.

Deputy Mayor Robert Myette said Sunday he was unsure how much cutting of the proposed budgets would be done in the next two weeks.

"All I know is we have to review each one, line by line," said Myette. Although no cuts have been made final, the council tentatively cut the library budget by $14,662 last week, leaving the library with $2,000 less than it had in the previous fiscal year.

The library had submitted a proposed budget of $11,962. If the council's slice is finalized, the library will be left with an operational budget of $175,000. Town Manager Paul Talbot had made an initial trim in the library budget, reducing the figure to $199,662 before it was submitted to the council for evaluation.

Library Director W. Clayton Massey was told by the council that the budget trim should come in the area of additional staff proposed for the new library facility now under construction.

The present proposed school budget represents 65 percent of the $25 million available in tax monies, and the town budget represents 35 percent.

The Board of Education is seeking $7.8 million, $448.74 higher than their 1977-78 budget. The town is asking an operational budget of $5,276,470, an increase of $5 million over the 1977-78 budget.

The council is expected to finalize the Board of Education budget by April 18, in preparation of a public hearing on it April 27.

The public hearing on the General Government budget is scheduled May 2. The council will then review the results of the public hearings at a special work session May 4.

The Board of Education budget will be adopted at the regular council meeting May 15, and the town budget only be adopted May 22. The tax rate is expected to be set May 22.

Pay for Myette

South Windsor Deputy Mayor Robert Myette will be paid $103,74 as compensation for the time he served as acting mayor.

Originally council members had voted against compensation for Myette, however, the Town Charter says that if the town's chief elected officer be paid a monthly rate of $75. Although he was not mayor, Myette was the town's chief elected officer before the election of Nancy Calfyn as mayor, according to Town Attorney Richard Rittenband.

Most councilmen said they feared setting a precedent for paying the deputy mayor, whenever the mayor was ill or out of town; however Rittenband said he did not believe a precedent would be set. Rittenband said payment would be made again only if the town is without a duly elected mayor and the deputy mayor must serve in that capacity.

Rham teachers complain about their substitutes

Ronald P. Ouellette, president of the Rham Education Association, has complained to Salvatore Mastandrea, chairman of the District 4 Board of Education about the substitute teacher situation at Rham High School.

REA members have expressed their dissatisfaction and continuing concern about insufficient number of available substitutes. They also expressed concern about qualifications of substitute teachers.

Ouellette said, "We see little or no concern for matching the academic background of the substitute teacher to the assigned class schedule."

He said that, even in the instance of a long-term teacher replacement, substitutes are not necessarily certified or "even competent in the academic area."

Ouellette said an injury to a science teacher resulted in a five-week absence from school. He said the interim teacher had no science background and class instruction "suffered badly."

Ouellette added that another long-term illness in the social studies department resulted in reduced instruction because a qualified teacher substitute was not found.

Ouellette and the REA also said the problem exists when teachers are absent from school for approved leave with prior notification. He said substitutes are not hired until the last day and that "no attempt is made to provide academically qualified substitutes."

The REA is charging that there is an "overall lack of concern for the quality of substitute coverage."

Rham High School Principal Diana Vecchione denied the allegations that all substitutes were academically unqualified for assigned classes.

She said that up until a few months ago many substitutes were taken directly from the Rham faculty with his school teachers substituting for junior high teachers in the morning or vice-versa.

She said that these teachers were highly qualified, being well acquainted with curriculum as well as the students.

A light moment occurred when the second prize winner of a microwave oven was drawn by MaryAnne Drew, a member of the women's auxiliary. She drew the name of Mrs. Gardner Drew of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., her mother-in-law.

And everyone seemed happy when the third prize winner of a 10-speed bicycle was drawn by Joyce Cavanagh, wife of William Cavanagh, Bolton's fire chief. She drew the name of Joseph Armstrong, chief of the Andover Volunteer Fire Department.

Proceeds from the raffle will go towards the purchase of equipment.

Board of Finance gets requests for vehicles

Bolton

The Board of Selectmen is seeking approval of $48,500 for a diesel dump truck and a utility vehicle from the Board of Finance.

The dump truck would replace the town's Dodge truck which is out of service because of the need for extensive repairs.

The selectmen have five estimates for the dump truck that range from $38,000 to $55,000 and four estimates for the utility vehicle which range from $48,300 to $5,600.

Delivery of the dump truck would take from five to six months and delivery of the utility vehicle would take three months.

The board authorized First Selectman Henry Ryba to draft a letter in support of the state's $2 million bond issue dealing with open land acquisition. If it is approved, Bolton would get $30,000 for the purchase of Indian Notch Park, the former E.J. Holl property.

The selectmen's next meeting will be April 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall. The April 18 meeting was postponed because of a conflict with hearings on the proposed 1978-79 budgets.

Manchester Realtors hear mortgage plans

About 200 Manchester Realtors were to have heard today about plans by the State Legislature to offer two new types of mortgage plans.

The state does have, however, a mortgage lending program available designed to encourage middle-income families to buy homes. The Connecticut Housing Finance Authority (CHFA) working through savings and loan associations and banks in the state is making available home mortgage loans for middle-income borrowers at the special low interest rate of 7.25 percent with little or no down payments.

Loan counselors from the Heritage Savings and Loan Association will be in each of the bank's offices except the Moneymarkets to obtain information that the bank can process these loan requests.

Persons wishing to make an appointment with a loan counselor may call the Heritage Savings and Loan, 649-4586.

Public works spending up for review tonight

Vernon

The Town Council will continue its budget deliberations tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building when the public works budget, plus several other small department budgets, will be reviewed.

The public works budget consists of several separate budgets such as snow removal, cemeteries, tree wardens, bridges, and several others. The total is about $1.2 million.

In his budget, Ronald Hine, director of public works, is asking for two additional dump trucks.

He also said a start should be made in updating radio equipment.

He is also asking for an additional equipment operator, another truck driver, and a carpenter, and is asking to have the acting foreman be made a foreman, and for a minor change in the reclassification of the mechanics regulations drafted.

Hine is also asking for a considerable increase in his salary and that of the deputy director. His salary is now $23,170 and he asked for a $6,456 increase. The mayor is recommending an increase of $1,412.

Shooter education

The Greater Vernon Jaycees will sponsor a shooter education program in cooperation with the Vernon Police Department.

The program will be for children age 9 to 14. They may register at the police station, West Street, today and Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. There will be a small registration fee.

The course will be conducted April 12 and 19 and May 3, 10 and 17.

PZC will air new plan

Coventry

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will take advantage of an unusually light agenda tonight to entertain public input on a master plan of development for the town that is being prepared by Town Planner Gregory Padick.

"This public meeting is for information and comments and will not result on any official action by the commission," Padick said. "Upon the commission's completion of drafts for major plan of development sections, formal public hearings shall be conducted."

The primary emphasis of tonight's meeting will be on residential aspects of the plan, but residents may also discuss other areas such as commercial and industrial areas, open space, recreational land, and governmental uses. The public portion of the meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Board Room at the Town Hall.

The planner said the PZC favors incorporation of standards to create lower densities in areas with water courses or poorly drained and floodplain soils.

The PZC also hopes to incorporate standards that will encourage internal road development and planned residential and cluster development. At present, most development is occurring along existing roads and is highly visible.

Padick said that special protection for the Lake Wampanoag Basin and river-aquifer areas should continue and that he would like to see mixed residential and commercial development in the village area.

Hypnosis talk tonight

"Hypnosis — What Is It All About?" will be discussed by Professor Edward Bartek of Manchester Community College tonight at a meeting of the Episcopal Church Women (ECW) of St. Mary's Church at 7:30 in the old parish hall.

He will speak and also demonstrate some of the principles of hypnosis, such as the uses of hypnosis, self-hypnosis and self-suggestion.

All women attending the lecture are asked to bring an unwrapped gift that costs no more than $2 for a tea-cup auction. Proceeds will go to the Diocesan ECW to be used for its production of a film about the ministry to the deaf in Connecticut.

Board meets tonight

Vernon

The Board of Education will meet at 7:30 tonight in executive session to discuss special education cases. The regular meeting is scheduled to start about 9 p.m. at the Middle School.

During the regular meeting Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, will make a recommendation to the board to close the Poliwog School which is the kindergarten annex to the Northeast School. Declining enrollment is the reason.

The board will also discuss a proposal to have the Grade 1 students attend half day sessions for the first two weeks of school in September.

In other action the board will be asked to approve a schooner trip for the students in the gifted program, approve several resignations, review the proposed budget, hear a report from the Superintendent Search Committee, hear a report on the public relations survey and one on insurance liability.

These leisurely hours your family spends in the bath could be costing you a bucket.

Because one big energy gulper in your home is the hot water heater. It alone can account for up to 15% of your home fuel bills.

So if you really want to keep your money from going down the drain, try taking a shower instead of a bath. You'll end up using only about half the hot water you normally use in a tub.

Showers are just one step you can take to cut down on your home fuel bills. There are lots of others.

Like keeping your refrigerator and freezer full, because food retains cold better than air. Not pre-heating your oven. Switching from incandescent to fluorescent lighting when convenient.

Northeast Utilities wants you to learn about even more energy-saving tips, including our Controlled Water Heating program. So write: Ralph Marroce, Northeast Utilities, P.O. Box 1953, Hartford, Connecticut 06144.

When it comes to home fuel bills, we don't want you to be the one who gets burned.
