Conferees reach gas price accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate energy negotiators Friday approved a compromise plan for removing natural gas price controls in 1985 and offered it for Congress' consideration.

The historic effort to undo the regulated gas price system in a manner acceptable to producers and consumers came a year and a day after President Carter issued his appeal for enactment of a national energy policy.

It drew applause and cheers audible through the closed door of the conferees' Capitol meeting room.

At the White House, press secretary Jody Powell said Carter was "pleased" by the tentative decision of the energy conference leaders — a recommendation that still has a number of congressional hurdles to clear.

"He appreciates the spirit of cooperation and compromise in the national interest shown by congressmen of both parties and all sections of the country," Powell said.

Disagreement over gas price deregulation — between the two houses and factions within the two houses — has blocked progress on the overall energy policy legislation. Friday's compromise among a small circle of leading energy conferees does not necessarily resolve those disputes.

First, the compromise plan must go to the full House-Senate energy conference, possibly on Wednesday. The conference includes lawmakers opposed to deregulation and some disgruntled at having been excluded from the secretive sessions of the conference leaders.

A weary Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a key figure among the energy conference leadership, conceded that "a real debate" would take place in the full conference.

A previous compromise agreement, reached before Christmas, fell apart within a day when the "mini-conference" leaders took it to their colleagues on the full conference committee.

In addition, whatever the conference adopts must go to the two houses for a vote.

Under the compromise plan, federal controls on the price of newly discovered natural gas would be phased out by Jan. 1, 1985.

In the interim, the regulated price of newly produced gas would be raised at the start to approximately $1.93 per thousand cubic feet, compared to the current ceiling of approximately $1.49.

Prices would go up on a scale tied to inflation plus a "sweetener," totaling generally about 10 percent a year until deregulation. The general agreement was for industry to bear the brunt of the higher prices.

Senate conferee Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said of the compromise plan: "The president did not get what he wanted. The Senate did not get what it wanted. The House did not get what it wanted. So we probably got a package good for both producer and consumer."

Jackson said, "We have, with all our differences, been able to merge these differences into a bill for the first time in 30 years."

Working under intensive pressure from the White House and the eye of Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, the energy negotiators worked from 2 p.m. Thursday until 2:30 a.m. Friday, then grabbed about five hours for sleep before hammering out the final accord in a final two-hour session.

When midnight Thursday passed without agreement, they had missed a symbolic deadline: the attempt to end the deadlock on the first anniversary of Carter's April 20, 1977, announcement to Congress of his energy program.

He had urged them Thursday to break the deadlock quickly because they had "wasted 12 months of precious time."

Italy's leaders eye ultimatum

ROME (UPI) — The cabinet and Christian Democratic leaders met separately in emergency sessions Friday to study a new letter from kidnapped ex-Premier Aldo Moro as the final hours tick away on a Red Brigades' ultimatum to kill him.

A petition signed by thousands of Italians pleaded with the government to yield from its hard-line stand and negotiate for the release of the frail 59-year-old Christian Democratic president who was kidnapped by the terrorist gang March 16.

Perhaps the most poignant appeal for the government and party to recant its previous stand against any negotiations with the kidnapers came from Mrs. Moro herself.

In her latest appeal, the wife of Italy's No. 1 politician asked the Christian Democrats to "adopt a realistic attitude, to state their readiness to ascertain what the concrete terms are for the release of their president."

However, the powerful Communist Party, new government colleagues of the Christian Democrats, remained firm against making any deals with the terrorist gang.

In their latest known demands, the Red Brigades said they would "execute" Moro unless the government released all "Communist prisoners" now held in Italian jails by 3 p.m. Saturday (9 a.m. EST).

The "Communist prisoners" referred to are assumed to be about 160 Red Brigades members now in Italian jails. The urban guerrilla gang considers the Italian Communist party to be traitors to the proletariat.

A sign that the Christian Democrats may be wavering from their no-negotiation stance came in a Friday editorial in the official party newspaper Il Popolo saying the Red Brigades should make their demands more clear and adding: "We still hope that some way out can be found."

Premier Giulio Andreotti met with the cabinet to hear a report by Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga on the hunt for Moro's abductors. But the real nail-biting was going on at the party's headquarters in Rome's Jesus Square.

There, party secretary Benigno Zaccagnini and other chieftains studied the text of an undisclosed letter from Moro.

Christian Democratic Party spokesman Guido Bodrato said the terrorists' ultimatum was a "dramatic document, but also full of contradictions." The ruling party's dilemma is that by even asking the Red Brigades for more details, they could be deemed to be negotiating with them.

Cities win fight on school funds

HARTFORD (UPI) — The seemingly endless battle between shrinking cities and growing suburbs and rural communities flared on the floor of the House of Representatives Friday in a battle over state education funds. The cities won.

Rep. Linda Emmons, R-Madison, introduced a proposal to alter the state's system of handing out "education equalization" grants. These grants are distributed to ensure that children in property-poor towns receive the same kind of educational opportunities as students in more affluent communities.

Emmons' plan would have updated population figures and changed the grant formula in a manner that would have proven beneficial to small communities at the expense of big cities. Her proposal was defeated 80-60.

In the coming fiscal year, the state will spend $40 million — twice as much as this year — on educational equalization. A large part of the grant formula is based on 1970 U.S. Census Bureau figures. Emmons wanted the state to use the Census Bureau's 1975 population estimates.

This approach would have benefited suburbs who have gained residents who moved out of decaying urban centers in recent years.

But Rep. Dorothy Goodwin, D-Storrs, said changing the formula now would be too much of a "jolt" to Connecticut cities who are planning on their state money.

"There are ways to do this more gradually," she said.

But Rep. Astrid Hanzalek, R-Suffield, said the big cities will have to face the music soon or later.

"Why are you afraid to start it this year?" she asked.

Rep. Clarice Osiecki, R-Danbury agreed, saying some suburban and rural communities in Connecticut have picked up as many as 10,000 residents during the past eight years.

But Rosalind Berman, R-New Haven, said satellite suburbs have a responsibility to the city they surround.

"Please note when a city decays, the entire metropolitan district decays," she said.

Mrs. Berman received support from Rep. Anthony Truglia, D-Stamford, who asked his colleagues

Public works pact going to mediation

The Town of Manchester and the union representing Public Works Department employees has reached an impasse in negotiations, Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said Friday.

A mediation session to resolve the impasse has been scheduled for May 12 between the town and the union — the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 991 — McCarthy said.

The town has been negotiating with the four unions that represent town employees for about two months. One other union, the one representing police employees, also has reached an impasse with the town.

Negotiations with the other two unions, the Municipal Employees Group Inc. and the union representing firefighters, have been going smoothly so far, McCarthy said.

There had been no problems with Local 991 until Thursday afternoon, he said.

McCarthy said that he made an offer on salaries for union employees — the first discussion of economic factors with the union thus far. He said he offered salary increases of 2½ percent in the first two years and 3 percent in the third year.

McCarthy said that the union failed to respond to the economic proposal from the town, resulting in the impasse Thursday afternoon.

He said that the town might consider a charge of failure to bargain in good faith against the union. Union officials could not be reached Friday for comment on the matter.

House successor sworn

HARTFORD (UPI) — Judge John P. Cotter, 67, was sworn in Friday as the 46th chief justice of the Connecticut Supreme Court.

Cotter, a member of the high court since 1965 and chief court administrator, was given the brief oath by Gov. Ella T. Grasso before about 200 friends, family and court employees in the Supreme Court building across from the Capitol.

A native of Hartford and a 28-year veteran of the judiciary system, Cotter succeeds Chief Justice Charles S. House who stepped down at the mandatory retirement age of 70.

"Cotter's post as chief court administrator will be taken over by Supreme Court Judge Anthony Speziale.

The new chief justice said he was looking forward to the initiation July 1 of Connecticut's unique one-tier court system. All courts, except the Supreme Court, will be merged into a Superior Court with 112 judges at 58 locations across the state.

Connecticut will be the only state in addition to the District of Columbia to have a one-tier court system.

Cotter said under the "superb and efficient" direction of Speziale, the new system will be one of flexibility aimed at lowering the tremendous caseload in the state.

He said the "phenomena of burgeoning caseloads" in the nation's courts was due in part to a current "permissiveness of society." He said criminal behavior "in our community is shaking and shaping our American institutions" and people were looking to the courts for guidance.

"Access to justice means access to the courts," he said.

'Spoon River'
Edgar Lee Masters' classic, "Spoon River Anthology," will be presented by the Manchester Community College theater department Wednesday through Saturday at 8:40 p.m. in the main auditorium on the Bidwell Street campus.

The play consists of poetic monologues by former inhabitants both real and imagined, of Spoon River, an area near Lewiston, Ill., where Master spent his boyhood. All of the characters are dead. Each speaks his own moving epitaph, and the two male and two female performers play a variety of characters. The vignettes are interspersed with folk music performed by two singers accompanied by guitar.

Case members are Danielle Pelletier, Sharon Foy, Alan Sivell and Carroll Maddox. Tobi Shapiro is the female singer and Warren Doyle, the show is directed by Albert Targuinio, a former MCC student, with Robert Vaier directing the music.

'Siendoadah,' the Tony Award musical starring John Hall, comes to American Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford Tuesday through April 29, 7 p.m. Sunday, and 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Feds attack school junk food

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government proposed Friday that schools receiving federal meal subsidies close down their "junk food" and soft drink vending machines until the lunch hour is over every day.
"We believe they contribute to a decline in consumption of nutritious foods in schools and have reduced participation in the school lunch and breakfast programs," said Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Foreman, outlining the proposal for the Newspaper Food Editors and Writers Association in San Jose, Calif.
The proposals, to be published in the Federal Register Monday, would require the 93,000 schools participating in the government's breakfast and lunch programs to implement the new restrictions on "junk food" or face possible loss of federal funds.
Schools would be required to unplug, lock or otherwise incapacitate the vending machines until a school lunch period of the day has ended, an Agriculture Department spokesman said.
The department, which is placing increasing emphasis on nutrition in its handling of federal domestic food subsidy programs, already has proposed to end use of a fortified "superdoughnut" in the school breakfast program.
Products such as the doughnut are high in sugar and fat and are "not good at all for conveying to children an idea of what they should eat for a balanced breakfast," Ms. Foreman said in her prepared speech, which was made available in Washington.
Last year, Congress gave the agriculture secretary authority to ban junk foods that "compete" with federal lunch programs.
The latest proposal would affect frozen desserts such as flavored ice bars and sherbets, but not ice cream. Also exempted would be sales in school of snack items such as fudge, caramels, cookies, chewing gum, potato chips, peanuts, fruits and milk.

Polio is still threatening children

By LISA SHEPARD
Scraps League Newspapers
WASHINGTON - In 1955, the year the Salk antipolio vaccine was introduced, there were 29,000 cases of polio reported in the United States and 1,000 deaths caused by the crippling disease. In 1975 - two decades later - only eight cases of polio were reported. Yet medical experts warn that polio and other serious childhood diseases remain a dangerous threat to children if they are not properly immunized.
Even R2-D2 and C3PO, the two "Star Wars" "roids," know the dangers of not being immunized. They have been enlisted in a government aid campaign to increase public awareness to the possible dangers in not being immunized against the seven preventable childhood diseases. The seven are polio, measles, rubella, mumps, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.
With the exception of tetanus, these diseases are very contagious. If children remain unprotected against them, it is possible that serious out-

Carter urges tax cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The tax load on Americans is too heavy, President Carter said Friday in urging key lawmakers to approve in his proposed revisions in the system and "quite modest" $24 billion reduction in income levies.
Speaking with six Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee, Carter expressed concern that several of his proposed revisions would be rejected and that some committee members have called for smaller tax cuts, ranging from $15 billion to $20 billion.

State bank study backfires

HARTFORD (UPI) - A $25,000 study on how banks handle state-deposited money has fueled, rather than settle, a dispute between state Treasurer Henry Parker and the state auditors.
The study Friday proposed the state seek competitive bidding for services it gets from banks, but continue to pay them on a "compensating cash balance" system.
The state Treasury keeps about $28 million in two major banks. The banks get the interest on the money in return for providing the state with various banking services.
The study was conducted for the State Treasurer's office by the Hartford accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. It came about as the result of a dispute between Parker and state auditors Leo V. Donohue and Henry J. Becker Jr. over the handling of the state's investment funds.
The auditors disapproved of the "informal arrangements" with the two banks and suggested specific payments for services should be made rather than using the compensating cash balance concept.
Parker said in a letter to Gov. Ella T. Grasso the report "supports our use of compensating balances to pay for banking services" and added he would begin "immediately" to implement the recommendation his department seek bids on major banking services.
But the auditors in another letter to Mrs. Grasso said the report ignored their recommendation for "an in-

Envoy in Cairo for peace talks

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - U.S. Middle East mediator Alfred Atherton arrived Friday for talks with Egyptian leaders on reconvening the Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations but said he brought no new American peace proposals.
"Believe that those (Egyptian) negotiations can and must move forward and that they continue to offer the best prospect for progress toward a comprehensive peace in the Middle East," said Atherton, whose previous two shuttle missions between Cairo and Jerusalem were unsuccessful.
Atherton said the United States "always" has its own views on the issues but "I am not presenting any proposals on this visit."
But the visit came amid strong indications that the United States is preparing such an initiative.
"The United States remains as committed as ever to spare no effort to find ways of making progress towards an ultimately achieving a just, lasting and comprehensive peace settlement in this region," Atherton said.
He said he wanted to hear "any ideas the government of Egypt may expect to convey to me, but basically I am here as part of the continuing process of exchanging views and looking for ideas and ways to move the peace process forward."
Atherton originally had planned to visit Israel on his current swing but

Art thieves elude police

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) - Thieves who dropped through a skylight into the Pitta Palace escaped with 10 Flemish art works, including Rubens' masterpiece "The Three Graces," police said Friday.
Other stolen works were by Cornelis van Poelenburgh, Pieter Molyn the Elder and Paul Brill.
Art officials said the thieves appeared to be looking for specific paintings and speculated the heist was carried out on commission. Officials said the paintings were of great value and estimated the value of the Rubens alone at $50,000.

Opera comes to Keeney

Children at Keeney Street School were prepared somewhat for the opera presentation which was brought to them recently by members of the Connecticut Opera Association.
With the help of music teachers Lucille Bahnsen, Mary Kalbfleisch and Joyce Torn, the children in Grades 1 to 3 have been introduced to recorded music from various operas and their stories. Recently, they listened to music from "Barber of Seville" by Rossini, and "La Boheme" by Puccini.
The opera association members explained such terms as "aria," "recitative," and "trill" with demonstrations.
In addition to singing selections in both Italian and English from "The Masked Ball" by Verdi, Gale Richards, soprano, and Howard Sprout, baritone, sang selections from "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

Colleges combine visual arts with skills

By THEODORE D. LOCKWOOD

The liberal arts and career preparation are often seen to be at odds. Because of inflation and the depressed economy, coupled with high rates of unemployment and underemployment, it has become popular to fault liberal arts preparation for not being practical.

Few of us in higher education will forget the recent Newsweek cover which pictured college graduates in academic gowns putting a jackhammer to the pavement.

The colleges and universities which continue to offer the liberal arts and sciences represent only one-quarter of all higher education. Most of higher education is directed toward preparation for technical or professional competency. Indeed the public pressure has been for liberal arts colleges to teach students "marketable skills." Is that pressure either deserved or wise?

Suggestions that liberal arts education is obsolete for anyone who wants to earn living in today's society have drawn strenuous protest from many corners. We at Trinity, as well as others, remind our critics that most of our corporate leaders, as well as presidents, inventors, and teachers, are products of liberal arts education.

The academy has been one of the primary institutions responsible for the preservation of our cultural roots. We continue to believe that the liberal arts can provide its students with the best of both worlds — the humanistic education which will equip them to live as intelligent citizens in a free society, as well as the discipline, capacity to learn, and ability to express oneself orally and in writing, which are crucial attributes on the job.

Myths abound about the relationship between liberal arts education and the world of work. For example, although the number of technical courses of study has increased precipitously in this country in the last ten years, it is untrue that all employers are seeking the vocationally trained job candidate.

A recruiter from a major insurance company in Hartford was recently asked what he was looking for in new employees. He responded that he was interested in the college graduate whose record indicated that he or she had the mental flexibility to do a good job at whatever task happened to be assigned.

Similarly, people from middle and lower management at three large local companies were asked to indicate what courses they thought they needed to advance their careers. No purely vocational course appeared higher than No. 12 on the list. What they wanted was an education.

Thoughts

PRaise: God, how grateful we are that you have astounding patience. We praise you for your quiet persistence and unending forbearance with your creatures, your children.

Confession: But we have not been patient; we have not believed in your power, nor trusted in your wisdom, and have even doubted our goodness. Enable us to be patient in your love.

Intercession: For embattled peoples, we pray for peace, and that each of us may be one of the peacemakers.

PETITION: We seek your help, O God, that we may love in the sense that we accept every human being as a child of God — that we may rejoice when he rejoices, and weep when he weeps — that you may give us, O God, the power to love the unlovable.

Dedication: We enter into covenant with you, O God, to follow your leading without reservation, with the courage of Abraham, to be willing to go out "not knowing" as long as God is with us, armed with his love as he has so graciously revealed it to us in Jesus Christ.

Judge postpones jai alai query

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Superior Court judge Friday postponed for at least three weeks a decision on whether to force professional gambler Harvey Ziskis to tell the gaming commission what he knows about alleged game-fixing at the Hartford Jai Alai fronton.

The gaming commission has finished hearing testimony from several Hartford Jai Alai executives, employees and players. During the hearings, a ticket puncher said Ziskis, a former employee at the Hartford fronton, told him he had "players in his pocket."

Ziskis has refused to testify before the commission, saying he wants to talk but the state's immunity laws are not strong enough to protect his rights. The gaming commission has gone to court to make him testify.

Two weeks ago, Superior Court Judge Ellen Peters postponed action on the state's request because Ziskis' attorney, Alexander Goldfarb, suffered a heart attack.

Friday, Superior Court Judge Phillip Mancini, citing Goldfarb's health, granted Ziskis another extension until May 16.

Ziskis arrived in court with a prepared statement he wanted to read.

"I don't want any statements," Mancini said.

Assistant Attorney General Richard Sheridan told the judge the gaming commission has received its game-fixing hearings until it can hear from Ziskis and Goldfarb.

"The court wants to expedite it, but not at the expense of the attorney's (Goldfarb's) health," Mancini said. Goldfarb left the hospital Sunday and is recuperating at home.

Although Mancini would not let Ziskis read his statement, the Newington gambler handed out copies to the press after the brief court hearing.

In his statement, Ziskis said he will not let anyone but Goldfarb represent him. Judge Peters had hinted two weeks ago that if Goldfarb's health did not improve Ziskis would have to get another lawyer.

"There is no other counsel who can effectively and timely represent me in this matter," the statement said. "I believe that I have a constitutional right to the counsel of my choice and attorney Goldfarb is my sole choice as counsel."

Ziskis also said "evidence" the gaming commission is seeking is being stored "in safekeeping in a bank vault."

UConn prexy will leave in July

STORRS (UPI) — Glenn Ferguson, president of the University of Connecticut for the past five years, said Friday his resignation will take effect sometime after July 4.

Ferguson said he is scheduled to assume the position of director of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty in Munich, Germany, "on or before August 15" and would like to leave the university the third week of July after taking a ten-day leave of absence.

Ferguson, whose resignation was made public Wednesday by UConn officials, explained his action by saying the five-year mark in a position is "an appropriate time for review and reconsideration."

In addition, he said after completing nine years as a university president, he thought he was ready for a change. He said his career for nine years before he entered the education field was in foreign affairs.

Lesson ruling backed

A ruling from the Hartford County Court of Common Pleas has upheld a recent decision by the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals concerning tennis lessons at a private residence.

The ZBA ruled that Bonnie Castleman could not give tennis instructions in her backyard. She lives on Ellen Lane.

Mrs. Castleman, represented by her husband, attorney Roland Castleman, appealed the ZBA decision to the court.

The court, however, upheld the ZBA.

The board did not err in determining that the language of the regulations prohibits the activity of plaintiff set forth in the record of this case, namely the giving of tennis lessons for a fee on her tennis court," the court's decision said.

Such changes are the more or less temporary outcomes of perpetual conflicts over the "politics of culture." So long as the moral or aesthetic standards of some groups are offensive or threatening to the standards of other groups, these struggles will continue. Conflicts over sex or violence on TV are only the most blatant examples of much more widespread (and more subtle) struggles over what should be legitimately available in the popular culture.

The diversity of popular culture and lifestyles, then, represents the diversity of American social groups. At the same time, it is as true of popular culture as it is of other "goods" that the interests of some groups are better represented than other groups, and the less well represented groups continually make claims that will be resisted by the more established groups.

Out of these struggles over cultural pluralism, one can hope that some balance can be achieved between the common culture that defines us as Americans, and the plurality of lifestyles that defines us as the particular kinds of Americans we are.

Funds asked for portrait

Among the appropriations being considered by the State of Connecticut this year is $5,000 for a portrait of Chief Justice Charles House, a Manchester resident.

House is retiring from his position of chief justice and his portrait would hang in the State Library and Supreme Court Building.

The appropriation has to be approved by the appropriate state channels, but the approval should be routine, Rep. Francis Mahoney of Manchester said.

Popular culture and American lifestyles

Popular culture embraces far more than the TV shows, movies, magazines, books, newspapers, recordings, sports, and other theatrical events that engage our time and attention.

It also includes the games we play, the pictures on our walls, the clothes on our backs, the furniture in our homes, and the food we consume, from McDonald's hamburgers to organically grown rice.

From the enormous variety of such things that are available, we select some (but not others) to watch, read, listen to, hang, eat, wear, sit on, play with, and otherwise buy or participate in.

Our selections usually have some consistency or coherence to them.

If one knows a person's taste in TV or music or cuisine, one can predict with some probability what his or her taste is likely to be in reading, clothes, or movies. The particular pattern of selections constitutes an individual's (or a group's) style of life, for "style" in anything refers to recurrent motifs or patterns which make a variety of objects or events recognizable "like" each other in some sense.

But how or why people go about selecting their lifestyles in the ways they do requires an understanding of their resources, for their selections (and therefore their lifestyles) are strongly affected by such things as their income, education, and age, as well as by other features of their social background.

Sociologist Herbert Gans has pointed out, for example, that shows appealing to the lowest "tastepublics" are gradually disappearing from network TV because the younger generation of even the lowest income groups is far better educated than their parents were, and their tastes are consequently more sophisticated.

As the size and characteristics of audiences change, so does the popular culture.

Some of the most interesting changes in the popular culture over the past decade or so have been introduced through the so-called "counterculture," a taste-culture promoted mostly (but not exclusively) by the young. But even so unusual a lifestyle as this can be understood in terms of the social backgrounds and circumstances of the people who shared it.

They were, in a sense, a leisure class: Well-educated, with no direct experience of financial insecurity, with disposable incomes provided largely by parents. Unbound by institutional commitments to job, family, community, or career, they were free to "do their thing," which they did with great abandon.

The culture they created was dominated by an antipathy to the impersonality and bureaucratic character of middle-class life which in their view, had preprogrammed them for bland corporate lives in mass-produced suburbs. In its place they substituted a culture of "liberation," which took a variety of forms.

Sexual freedom asserted liberation from restraints on physical pleasure. The psychedelic drugs were used to transcend the conventional limits of consciousness and achieve breakthroughs to the perception of "other realities."

Ecstatic, ecstatic, and occult religions were used for similar spiritual purposes.

Their music, too, was ecstatic: Enormously amplified guitars producing sheets of sound composed and played by the young themselves in rhythms alien to most of the older generation. Its lyrics preached love, sex, drugs, and criticisms of "establishments" who repressed liberation.

Dress and personal adornment had flamboyance, flash, and glitter, or expressed other modes of disavowing conservative, middle-class clothing.

Residences were often communal, putting sometimes large groups in intimate daily contact with each other in "intentional families," providing a kind of continual mutual psychotherapy in which utter "openness and honesty" were affirmed as liberation from repressed guilt and shame.

Add to these the great moral crusade of the civil rights movement and the movement against the most detested war in the history of the United States, and a political dimension was added to the cultural rebellion of the young against an "establishment" identified with war, death, repression, money-grubbing, and the oppression of colonial peoples at home and abroad.

These movements coalesced briefly in the late 1960s, attracted worldwide attention, and then rapidly declined.

Although the distinctive lifestyle of the "youth culture" of the 1960s was severely weakened, its influence is still visible throughout other American lifestyles and taste-cultures.

Sexuality is now more open and candid in books, magazines, films, and storefront massage parlors. Marijuana became so widespread that many states have "decriminalized" (if not legalized) it. Flamboyant clothes and jewelry are now a familiar part of middle-class male dress, even as blue jeans and work shirts became chic and expensive.

Life, which appeared to everyone, was being added to everyone. Natural foodstuffs are everywhere. Students carry their books not in briefcases or book bags but in knapsacks made for hitchhiking or camping in the wilderness.

Bob Dylan or The Rolling Stones may never have a prime-time TV series, but Sonny and Cher had, as well as other performers who adapt elements of counterculture music to more traditional pop forms to create a mix that successfully appeals to much larger audiences.

Those who adopt a particular lifestyle frequently attempt to influence other groups to adopt that culture and pass it on.

"Country and Western" music, formerly part of a taste-culture limited largely to Southern and Western rural people, has in recent times been transformed into a music with national, even international, appeal.

Obsolete or declining styles in popular culture may be revived through fashions for nostalgia, as happened recently with ragtime music (through the film "The Sting") or rural family life ("The Waltons") or the teen-age culture of the early 1950s ("Happy Days," "American Graffiti").

Formerly stigmatized lifestyles (for example, the urban black ghetto) may achieve subcultural legitimacy through TV shows like "Sanford and Son" or through soul

VERNON Tri-City Shopping Center

Obituary

Carman F. Christiana — Carman Francis Christiana, 51, of 1215 Silver Lane died Thursday at St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center. He was the husband of Mrs. Dorothy Irwin Christiana.

Mr. Christiana was born in Hartford and lived in East Hartford all his life.

He was self-employed as a market gardener in East Hartford. Other survivors are three daughters, Linda G. Christiana, Patricia J. Christiana and Karen J. Christiana, all of East Hartford; two brothers, William M. Christiana and George J. Christiana, both of East Hartford; and a sister, Mrs. Rosanna L. Brinley of East Hartford.

The funeral is Monday at 10:30 a.m. from the Newark & Whitney Funeral Home, 318 Burnside Ave., East Hartford. Burial will be in East Cemetery, Manchester. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that friends wishing to make memorial gifts to the American Diabetes Association or the American Heart Association.

Report cards will be late

Vernon — Due to a breakdown in computer equipment, report cards which were scheduled to be issued Friday at Rockville High School will instead be issued when pupils return from spring vacation on April 27. The public schools in Vernon will be closed for vacation the first three days of next week, April 24, 25, and 26 and will open the 27th and 28th to make up snow days.

Cities win

Continued From Page One-A — to examine the kind of person who has traded in big city life for the suburbs. "He's running away from the problems we're trying to face," he said. "How are we going to handle the problems those who moved left us with?"

Manchester

Manchester Police have charged Gary Olsvaver, 19, of 73 Seaman Circle with five drug-related counts and one count of illegal possession of fireworks.

Rec seeks input on whistle blall

The Manchester Recreation Department wants to determine if there is enough interest to form a whistle ball league for boys and girls between the ages of six and eight. Interested persons should call the department at 846-6010 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The department should be called no later than May 5 by anyone interested in joining.

In New Hampshire

Thomson rules out Senate

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Chalk up New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson as an all-but-announced candidate for a fourth term.

Thomson had spoken of challenging incumbent Democrat Thomas McIntyre for the U.S. Senate this year if McIntyre supported the Panama Canal treaties. McIntyre stuck by the treaties in the final Senate vote Tuesday, but Thomson announced Friday "I will not myself be a candidate for the U.S. Senate."

He said he thought there was a very excellent possibility McIntyre could be defeated.

McIntyre said he would have welcomed Governor Thomson to the race for the U.S. Senate. It would have given the people of New Hampshire an excellent opportunity to choose between the moderate whom I have characterized in my 15 years in the Senate and the radical extremism displayed by Meldrim Thomson during his six years as Governor.

Thomson is chairman of the National Conservative Caucus which fought the treaties vociferously. He said he'd support only Senate can-

Keith Blanchard, goalie, blocks a goal attempt by Richard Torsiello, Unit C teacher at Nathan Hale School, during Friday's Pilo-Polo championship game between Unit C students and faculty. Other teachers in the

Pilo-Polo game was exciting

It was an exciting afternoon for the fifth and sixth grade classes (Unit C) at Nathan Hale School, teachers, parents and friends who participated or attended the Pilo-Polo championship Friday.

The student Pilo-Polo champs, headed by captains Dave Negri and Glen Holden, battled the Faculty All-Stars to the delight of all. The All-Star team was composed of Unit C teachers and other professional staff members, including school principal Leo Diana.

The sports program is the second of its kind this year with the Unit C students. The first event was a soccer tournament.

Measles clinics scheduled

The Manchester Board of Education will sponsor measles clinics for elementary students in the following schools:

Tuesday — Manchester Green, Buckley, Bowers, Martin and Highland Park.

Wednesday — Robertson, Waddell, Verplanck and Washington.

Thursday — Kenney Street, Nathan Hale and Bentley.

Head school nurse Lynn Gustafson said that 300 slips have been sent home to parents of elementary students who at this time aren't properly immunized. It is imperative, she said, that parents return these slips immediately to their children's schools so that their children can be immunized.

If the parents desire to have their own physician give the vaccine, they must notify the school and give the date of appointment.

Rubella vaccine will be offered on the elementary level and 87 slips have been sent home to parents of students who aren't properly immunized against rubella.

According to school records, 136 students will require both measles and rubella immunizations. These parents have also been notified.

Tax relief explained for elderly citizens

Diane Wicks, outreach worker for the Town of Manchester, explained the process for the elderly residents in applying for tax relief.

A misunderstanding apparently arose among some elderly residents from an article on the Commission on Aging in Thursday's Herald.

Miss Wicks said that elderly homeowners can have either a tax freeze or the circuit breaker. They do not get cash refunds.

Elderly renters can get up to $400 back for rent and utilities. The homeowners have until May 15 to apply for the tax relief with the town. To qualify, either the husband or the wife must have been 65 years of age by Dec. 31, 1977, must have resided in Connecticut for the past five years prior to Dec. 31, 1977 and may have an adjusted gross income of not more than $5,000, including tax exempt interest but excluding gifts and Social Security.

The renters have until Dec. 31 to file applications. Michael Nimirovski, deputy assessor for the town, suggests that they wait until after the homeowners have applied before filing.

Open house set Sunday at Chestnut Hill School

The Chestnut Hill Preschool at Emanuel Lutheran Church, 60 Church St., will have open house on Sunday from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

The purpose of the open house is to give present parents and parents of children for next year a chance to see what the children do during the school year and to meet the teachers. More interested parents will have an opportunity to ask questions and to see what type of program is offered. A special slide program will be presented to allow parents the opportunity to see children and teachers interacting.

The preschool is non-profit, non-sectarian and is sponsored by Emanuel for children of Manchester and surrounding communities.

The preschool has a two-and-one-half-hour schedule designed for learning and creative activities. The three-day morning session is held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 to 11:30 a.m., and the three-day afternoon schedule is from noon to 2:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The two-day morning session is offered from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Thursday and Friday, and the two-day afternoon session Tuesday and Thursday from noon to 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Carol Mahlstedt is director of the preschool, with Mrs. Linda Wiley, Mrs. Helen Pendleton, Mrs. Rosemary Smith, Mrs. Peggy Chadburn and Mrs. Betty Cranick as teachers. More information and application forms are available by calling Mrs. Mahlstedt at Galaxy Drive or Emanuel Lutheran Church.

Delectable Springtime Dining

The same three favorites, All-American Turkey, Alaska King Crab and Washington State Apples, play starring roles again in this

Spring Dinner

- Roast Turkey Breast
- on
- Bed of Rice
- Golden Apple Rings
- Crab Caesar Salad
- Hot Dinner Rolls

Served on fluffy rice, the all-white meat of the roast turkey breast, with only 175 calories in a 3-1/2 ounce serving, is a delicious diet food, yet provides 33 grams of all-important protein. Enrich it with gently simmered Golden Apple Rings for a delightful contrast in taste and texture. These Golden Delicious from Washington State are the same familiar apples that make great snacks for weight watchers. The delicate flavor of Alaska King Crab is the special surprise ingredient in the Caesar Salad. Fresh or frozen, with only 375 calories in a full pound of crabmeat, Alaska King Crab adds a colorful touch of elegance to this fresh-spring menu.

ROAST TURKEY BREAST

4-8 pound turkey breast. Place thawed turkey breast skin-side up on rack in shallow pan. Brush with melted butter if desired. If a meat thermometer is used, insert it into the thickest area. Bolls must not touch the bone. Roast at 325°F. for 25 minutes per pound, or until the thermometer registers 180-185°F.

GOLDEN APPLE RINGS

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 3 or 4 Golden Delicious Apples

In skillet or shallow saucepan, combine water, wine, orange juice, grated peel and sugar. Bring to boil and simmer 5 minutes. Core apples, but do not peel. Cut crosswise into 1/2 inch slices. Place in skillet and cook gently just until tender. Drain and keep warm. Arrange around roasted turkey breast. Yield: 6-8 servings.

CRAB CAESAR SALAD

- 1 clove garlic, quartered
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 package (6-8 oz.) frozen Alaska King Crab, thawed, or 1 can (7-1/2 oz.) Alaska King Crab
- 2 large heads romaine
- 1 small onion
- 1 egg, cooked 1 minute
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1-1/2 cups garlic croutons
- Freshly ground pepper

Add garlic to olive oil and let stand for at least 1 hour. Remove garlic and combine oil with lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Drain and slice crab. Tear romaine into bite-size pieces and place in salad bowl with onion, sliced and separated into rings. Break egg into salad. Add olive oil dressing and gently. Sprinkle with crab, cheese, croutons and pepper. Toss again and serve immediately. Yield: 6-8 servings.

People/Food

Your neighbor's kitchen

By Betty Ryder

"Health is your only wealth," according to Snehlan Cherniske of the Mother's Inn in Pomfret.

Lecturing at a luncheon meeting of FOCIS (Family Oriented Childbirth and Information Gatherings) held at the Nutmeg Branch of the YWCA in Manchester, Cherniske emphasized the need to get "back to eating fresh vegetables, grain and nuts."

"Television actually tells us how to eat, and we believe it. It tells us of bread that helps a child 10 ways, of chocolates that will make our children eat breakfast, and offers products which disguise the sugar content considerably."

"You wouldn't serve your children candy for breakfast, would you? But yet you'd let them eat cereal coated in sugar," he said.

Cherniske cited the packaging of products which list the contents on the box. The first item listed is the one which is supposed to be most predominant in the contents.

"If you look down the list, perhaps at the bottom you'll find 'sugar' and relax thinking there is not too much sugar in the product. But if you will also note there is an item called 'corn syrup,' another named 'glucose' and perhaps another 'malt mixture.' These are all sugar. But do you recognize them as such?"

"Sometimes an item will be studied by the FDA and a decision made to pull it from the market. More often than not, the businessman involved will prevail on the FDA to let a warehouse already stocked be put to public use rather than waste it and changes made when new products are produced."

"In the meanwhile, the inferior or harmful products are still on the shelves and available to the public," he said.

The Mother's Inn Center for Creative Living is being established as a nonsectarian, educational and spiritual meeting place, a common ground for people of any age, race or creed. The Mother's Inn will be a place where the entire community can meet and share with each other as a family, through informal as well as organized gatherings.

Cherniske said one of the projects of his group is "Holy Bread."

"We make about 100 loaves of bread a week, in cooperation with the Daughters of the Holy Spirit in Putnam. We sell it to certain stores to cover the expenses of ingredients, and the rest is distributed to the needy in the area."

Reiterating the need for a proper diet, Cherniske told the mothers attending the meeting to think for yourselves.

"Three things necessary for good nutrition are simplicity, purity and moderation. One of the best sources of vitamins is Brewer's Yeast. Another is kelp and seaweed," he said.

Most of the ingredients in the dishes featured on the luncheon menu are available at natural food stores, he said.

Here, in part, are a few of his recipes, which were delicious.

Spinach-Tofu Casserole Speciale — Take a baking pan the required size according to the number of servings, oil or butter it and put in a layer of grain. It could be a heavy one like brown rice, or something light like cous-cous. Or take the middle path and use either buckwheat groats, millet or lentils. Wilt the spinach by steaming it very briefly using one bunch for every 5 people. Layer some of the spinach on the grain. On the spinach, layer grated cheese and season with summer savory, chervil, and herb salt. (Herb salt is good and so is Spike, but the best for these casseroles is Don Fernando's Yerba Encanta.) Add a layer of tofu.

If you have room, layer again all the ingredients in the same order (grain, spinach, cheese, tofu) ending with cheese, preferably Parmesan, and top with lots of wheat germ previously soaked in butter. In order to make the casserole more moist, pour some thick stock (blended buttermilk squash) over the mixture just before the top layer of cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-45 minutes. You'll know it is done when the buttered wheat germ turns golden brown.

Another way to do this is to cook the grain (it is cooked in the above method as well), and while it is still hot, mix the tofu cheese and spices. Toss in the spinach, mix it up with your hands and pour into casserole. Top the same way with wheat germ and bake.

Quick and Simple Spread — Mix into spreadable consistency: 1/4 tahini or sesame butter 3 tablespoons Miso 2 ounces Tofu (optional)

The greatness of this spread is that when used with a wheat bread or cracker you have the most powerful protein combination: wheat, soy, and sesame.

Carrot-Carrot Pudding (serves 6 to 8): 1 qt. milk 3 tablespoons butter 3 tablespoons carob powder 3 tablespoons grated coconut 6 tablespoons Agar flakes 1/2 cup puffed cereal (optional) 1 ripe banana 1/4 cup honey or maple syrup

Melt the butter in a skillet and toast the coconut till golden brown. Place milk in a saucepan, add agar flakes and stir. Bring almost to a boil and simmer for five to six minutes.

Place half of this mixture in a blender and blend in the carob powder and honey. Add this back to the saucepan and mix well. Add the ground puffed cereal, mix well, and either pour into a 8x8x3 baking pan or into individual serving cups.

Add the sliced bananas and chill to set — (3 hours at room temperature, 1 1/2 hours in refrigerator).

A painting done by Kimberly Ruel, 16 months ago has been chosen for reproduction on the 1978 Christmas Seal. The seal is a part-time job. She takes care of her neighbor's dog when they go away.

The official announcement of Kim's painting being chosen will be May 25 at a banquet in her honor at the Ramada Inn, in North Haven. Kim will receive congratulations from Gov. Ellis Grasso at the banquet.

The Christmas seal project is sponsored by the American Lung Association and the National Art Education Association. There are no prizes because it is designed as an educational project and not a competition.

This is the third year children's paintings will appear on the seals. One painting from each of 51 states and four territories is selected.

Sarah Winter, Bolton art teacher, had all students in those grades paint pictures for a special project using the theme "Christmas With Family and Friends."

Mrs. Winter submitted four paintings to the state seal association. The state organization chose six paintings from a field of more than 300 entries from schools throughout Connecticut.

The six paintings were sent to the American Lung Association where Kim's painting was chosen for reproduction on the 1978 Christmas Seal. The seals are issued each year to fight lung disease.

Kim said art and gym are her favorite subjects in school. She rides a motorcycle at home and has since the age of five. Kim collects various cat objects "because I like them."

She also likes puppies, birds, horses, ice skating, swimming, softball and soccer.

This is the painting, done by Kimberly Ruel, which everyone will see on the Christmas Seal this year. (Herald photo by Dunn)

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

His now that our Variety Show is over, we are concentrating on our Big Week which is scheduled for May 15 through 19. May activities through the year on behalf of the long association.

Along with the regular programs we have golf and bowling tournaments. We are planning a short boat cruise, a special dance, a sports banquet, and end up with our gala card party.

It's a big week check full of activities, and hope you'll plan to join us for most of the planned programs.

Our Senior Golf League will start this coming Monday morning. Players should arrive at the East Hartford Golf Course no later than 8:30 a.m. for pairings and the first group will start promptly at 9.

Activities here at the center start with our Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes on Tuesday afternoon with the following results: Class A high triple, Edna Christensen, 428, Paul Desjardins, 350; high single, Mildred Buckler, 146, Paul Desjardins, 204.

On Wednesday morning we had 10 playing pinhole and the winners are: Lillian Lewis, 423; Marjorie McLain, 606; Paul Schuetz, 579; Helena Gavello, 575; Michael DeSimone, 561.

In the afternoon it was bridge games with 16 players and the lucky prize winners were: Nadine Malcolm, 4,980; Marge Reed, 4,460; George Last, 4,050; Tom Reagan, 3,710.

Next Thursday morning we will have our round-robin dancing class under the direction of Anita and Russ White from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

At anytime we will have our regular Hot Meal and Meal-on-Wheels program. Because of our trip to the Coahlight in South Windsor, we will not have any scheduled programs in the afternoon. The bus will leave at 11 a.m. and those going should meet downstairs at 10:30.

A reminder that we still need a few more people to fill the bus for the Williamsburg trip scheduled for May 19th through 22. Flyers are available at our center explaining all about the trip, and that Betty Ryder will be your escort.

We also have 12 seats left for the second bus to the Stevensville Country Club in Swan Lake, N.Y., and must fill the bus before we take it.

Don't forget that on May 8, we will be signing up for our Wildwood, N.J. trip which is scheduled for the week of June 19. The complete package of $110, of which at least $60 must be paid when registering and the remainder must be paid on June 9.

While on trips, we still have flyers for the fly to Miami and then cruise for Word comes to us that our good friend Lillian Rutchik is now a patient at the Manchester Memorial Hospital and that an old friend of ours, Mabel Keeney is recuperating at her home on 490 Keeney St. Let's send them cards to help cheer them up. Also, Tommy O'Neill is now out of the hospital and must take things a little slower for a while.

Here's a reminder to our folks, who were in the Variety Show. Please bring in any items that you borrowed such as mitts, furs, etc., to the center here as soon as possible.

Monday: 8:30 a.m.

Patricia Maurice gets Bissell Award

By Barbara Richmond
Herald Reporter
Patricia Maurice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Maurice of 92 Range Hill Drive, Vernon, a senior at Rockville High School, has been chosen as the recipient of the full four-year Bissell Scholarship award.

The scholarship fund was established by Leobus Bissell of Rockville in 1964 and started in 1965. Bissell, head of the Bissell Insurance Co., died in 1972.

Since 1965, 25 students from Rockville, Tolland, and Ellington High Schools have received a total of $50,000. Eight students are in college now. This year two will go out.

John S. Mason is head of the local committee but the scholarship is now administered through the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving and preliminary selection is made at Princeton University and then officials there make recommendations to the local committee.

It's just over the past couple of years that the scholarship has gone through the Hartford Foundation. This had to be done for tax purposes.

Mason said this will be the last year that the Bissell Scholarship will give the full need for the four years.

Starting next year the amount limited to need will be $2,000. This is for each of the four. He said handling it his way, it could mean that as many as four area students could receive the scholarships.

Mason said it is the feeling now that there are other sources of money for students. He cited the Work Study Programs, scholarships given by the colleges themselves, the National Direct Student Loan Program, the Educational Opportunity Act for Disadvantaged Students and the Guaranteed Student Loan Program as some of these sources.

At a meeting, recently of the Hartford Foundation, the whole area of scholarships was discussed. Arthur Doyle, moderator for the discussion, and New England director of the College Board, said that two years ago the College Board conducted a study and found that a high percentage of the high school seniors, and their families, had gross misconceptions of the costs of higher education and the possibilities and details of aid to attend the college of their choice.

He said this breakdown occurs for several reasons: Colleges are afraid of scaring students off with the truth; the information is so complex; the school perhaps can't handle any more students; or the school's policies are so complex that no one can understand them.

This year for the first time all students will use one universal application form to apply for scholarship aid.

At the foundation meeting, Dick Judt, dean of students at Central Connecticut State College, spoke of the need for more flexibility in the scholarships, noting there is very little aid for foreign, part-time and older returning students.

In Vernon there has been some controversy about the whole testing picture and the importance of the results of the SAT's has been questioned.

Wayne Casey, at the foundation meeting, asked how important the SAT tests are, and he was told that it is merely an element of information on the student but that the most reliable predictor of future performance is the record of past performance.

House endorses plan for proficiency tests

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House of Representatives Friday endorsed a plan to test Connecticut students four times during their school lives to determine if they know how to read, write and multiply.

Under the plan, approved by the House on a 140-5 vote and sent to the Senate, communities with a large number of children who failed the proficiency tests would receive state aid to set up remedial education programs.

The proficiency testing would begin in September 1979. Local school boards would be required to test their third, fifth and seventh graders. The State Board of Education would administer a statewide test for all Connecticut ninth graders.

The annual exams would test the students in three areas — reading, language skills and mathematics.

"We graduate from high school today children who try to perform jobs, such as running a cash register in a store, and merchants in forcing them they are having problems performing like who can make change."

Stevens Henry Memorial Award in 1977-78, American History award, 1977; Bausch & Lomb Science Award, 1977; and the A. B. Hendricks Clothing Award, 1976.

She was team captain when the school participated in the "As Schools Match Wits" program last year and was treasurer of the Junior Classical League this year. She was a member of the "Quiz Bowl" team, attended the Yale Junior Science and Humanities Symposium last year; she was the school's representative to the Vernon Memorial Day parade; attended the Bermuda Biological Workshop; participates in the Research and Independent Study (gifted program); is presently studying chronobiology at the Talcott Mountain Science Center and is a member of the National Honor Society.

She is also a member of the Athletic Association and participates in tennis, golf and archery programs. Her activities outside of school include belonging to a bowling league, horseback riding, ballet classes, teaching Sunday school and doing volunteer work at Immaculate Retreat House, baby-sitting and tutoring.

Another newspaper folds in Connecticut

GROTON (UPI) — The award-winning News of Groton, citing the increased costs of producing a newspaper, ceased publication Friday. It was the third Connecticut afternoon daily to close in a year and a half.

The Friday edition of The News, published by its parent firm, the Bulletin Co. of Norwich, carried a front-page story bordered in black that began, "Today's issue will be a final one for The News."

The Bulletin Co., which also publishes the morning daily and Sunday Norwich Bulletin, will retain its approximately 20 full-time employees of The News in its operations, and will expand coverage in the four towns The News served.

The tabloid, founded May 29, 1970, and published Monday through Friday, covered the southeastern Connecticut towns of Groton, Ledyard, Stonington and North Stonington. It won many awards for photography, writing and reporting.

The newspaper, which had a circulation of more than 4,000, said in the front page announcement, "Because of increased costs of producing a quality newspaper, the economic needs of publishing a newspaper are not being met."

A year and a half ago, the 159-year-old Hartford Times, once Connecticut's largest newspaper, shut down Oct. 20, 1976, the victim of prolonged stagnation. Earlier this year, the fledgling Hartford Tribune, also an afternoon newspaper, closed its door after about two months of publication.

Four blazes considered arson

East Hartford

The office of Fire Marshall John Armstrong and the police department are now investigating four fires which took place in town within the last two weeks.

All are termed arson fires.

The first took place evening of April 10. Barbara Padowitz, 64, of 132 Tolland St. went to look out her living room window at 7:52 p.m. and saw a mass of flames climbing up the outside of her house. Someone had lit the shrubs by her house on fire, Armstrong said.

She got out without injury but lost nearly everything in the fire.

The second case took place April 15. Neighbors of William F. Howard at 70 Monroe St. in the South End called the fire department at 8:41 p.m. to say a car parked in his carport was on fire. The fire spread to the roof of the carport and into the attic of the home. Howard and his son, William Jr., were both away visiting friends at the time.

Armstrong said the fire had been lit. He also believes the fire which started in another car in the Howard's driveway at about 2 a.m. April 16 was also set.

Howard said someone has lit five cars on fire in his driveway since 1974.

The third arson case being studied was called in at 11:12 p.m. on April 15. A fire began inside the service station owned by John Adamson at 216 Park Ave.

It gutted much of the insides of the Howard's driveway at about 2 a.m. April 16 was also set.

Howard said someone has lit five cars on fire in his driveway since 1974.

Vandalsim on rise again

East Hartford

The latest report on vandalism to town property in East Hartford shows the effect of warmer weather and longer days. Police Chief Clarence Drummond listed 18 incidents of attacks from Feb. 18 through March 11.

The reports include:

- On Feb. 20 someone threw a snowball through a window at the back side of the Hockanum Library. Cost was $10.
- On Feb. 23 unknown vandals scaled the fence at the Gorman Park swimming pool and broke the glass on the door entering the boiler room. They smashed light bulbs and fixtures causing about $400 in damage.
- On Feb. 27 someone threw stones at the north side of the town garage on Ecology Drive breaking eight. Cost was $60.

McAuliffe Park by the softball field and the Little League Stadium. Damage estimate was $145.

- Also on March 21, vandals tore shingles from the Senior Citizens Center roof, broke a roof vent, and broke a window in a door. Damage was estimated at $312.
- On March 24 the O'Connell School alarm sounded at 4:48 p.m. Someone broke a window with a stone.
- On March 26 someone drove a vehicle on the turf at the Veteran's Memorial on Sunset Ridge.
- On March 27 someone dismantled a section of wooden fence in Martin Park. Damage was $25.
- On March 29 vandals attacked the bathroom building in the Hockanum playground. They damaged the plumbing and littered the area with debris. Damage estimated at $50.

- On Feb. 28 youths climbed on vast snow banks piled up at the Senior Citizens Center on Remington Road and then onto the roof. They damaged shingles, the gutter and outside lights. Damage was estimated at $200.
- March 1 vandals broke the town sand box in front of Martin Park.
- On March 10 the alarm at the Stevens School sounded at 10:37 p.m. Police found someone had thrown beer bottles through two windows on the west side. Damage was estimated at $120.
- On March 12 the alarm sounded at the Hockanum School at 10:01 a.m. Police found four broken windows costing $30.
- On March 13 someone drove a vehicle over the soft turf at Gorman Park causing $150 damage. The same day the street department reported someone had smashed the lights and reflectors on a storage trailer parked over the weekend on Brook Street. Damage to the trailer was estimated at $120.
- On March 15 it appears someone kicked the front door of the O'Connell School breaking the door's glass. Cost was $20.
- On March 16 someone broke the lock and hasps from the rest room door in the McAuliffe Park. Damage was $10.
- On March 19 the Slye School alarm sounded at 6:45 p.m. Police found someone had set off firecrackers by a window damaging the molding. Cost was $5.
- On March 21 vandals attacked the press boxes at

Open house get on land buying

Coventry

The Coventry Salvage Army Study Committee will host an open house tomorrow from 10 to 5 p.m. on the Army's Lake Street property near the Nathan Hale Cemetery.

The town is considering purchasing about 76 acres of land currently owned by the Army for recreation and open space. The asking price is $375,000 but up to 75 percent of this could be received federal and state funding if voters approve the purchase in a referendum slated for next month.

Residents will have an opportunity to view the property during the open house, and members of the study committee will act as guides, answer questions, and discuss proposed uses for the land.

Committee Chairman Daniel Manley said his group "urges residents to take this opportunity to walk the property and see the many facilities as well as the four parcels of land included in the purchase." In addition to the 16-acre lakefront lot, there is a larger parcel over the watershed area near the Robertson School.

"Parking is available in the overflow area at the corner of High and Lake streets," Manley said. "There will be signs directing people to the parking area."

ZBA takes applications

The Coventry Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) has tabled action on two applications in order to gather additional information.

Lyndon Wilnot of Woodbridge Road has asked for a property line variance in order to construct a garage and breezeway adjacent to his home. Abutting property owner Donald Rouillard contends that the proposed construction would block his view and crowd a home he plans to build on his rear lot.

Rouillard's attorney, Vincent Diana, argued that Wilnot's plans were formulated for his convenience and not because a hardship exists for him. Under ZBA rules, variances may be granted only if a hardship exists.

But Wilnot claims that because of the topography of his land and the location of his septic tank, the only place he can build a garage is within 10 feet of the property boundary line. The ZBA decided to inspect the property before making a decision.

Another appeal is before the board for a reduction and separation of commercial land on Route 4A (Boston Turnpike) owned by Donald and Norman Nadeau, who own a post construction business.

Their attorney, David Rappe, told the ZBA his clients want to parcel off a two-acre lot for residential use, although the land is zoned commercial and requires five acres per lot. A legal complication is that the owners plan to continue to use a barn on the proposed residential lot for manufacturing.

The ZBA decided to ask Town Attorney Abbot Schwelbe whether it would be illegal to create a residential lot having an industrial use.

Mike Jordan's second one-hit job blanks Penney High for Indians, 4-0

By LEN AUSTER

Herald Sportswriter

Three days ago, Mike Jordan was on the hill in a relief role as Manchester High upended nemesis Conard.

The senior left-hander was on the mound again yesterday and responded by twirling his second one-hitter of the 1978 baseball season in leading the Indians to a 4-0 blanking of Penney High yesterday at Kelley Field.

Jordan, 3-2, who tossed a one-hitter had absolutely no chance to make the catch. Lettato, however, was shortly thereafter erased from the base paths by Jordan's excellent pickoff move.

Manchester, 3-3 for the season with a two-game win streak, plated the only run it was to need in the first inning. Tom Prignano singled and moved to second on a Jordan sacrifice.

After a flyout and walk, backstop Mike Linsenbiger blooped a single to for-11 hitless skein with a fourth-inning line single.

Senior Carl Guzzardi went the route for Penney, walking four and striking out five. His record drops to 0-2. The Knights now stand 2-3 in league play with their next action Monday against Conard High at Hall High's field in West Hartford.

Prignano and Glushko each had a pair of blows for Manchester, which next plays Monday at home against DeAngelis. Glushko snapped an 0-

Undeclared girls cop sixth start

Continuing on its winning ways, Manchester High unbeaten girls' softball team made it six straight with a 13-8 decision over Penney High yesterday at Goodwin Park in East Hartford.

The win assured the Silk Towers at least a tie for the top rung in the CCIL standings as yet undefeated Enfield was to play Simsbury. The Indians travel to Enfield High Monday for what should be a battle for first place.

The locals scored two runs in the first inning but Penney, 2-4 for the season, came back scoring four times its half of the frame for the lead.

Manchester took the lead for good with a four-run third-inning which included a fielder's choice by winning hurler Shirley Adams which drove in a run and RBI hits by Lisa Schwartz and Jacquie Figley.

The Indians plated five markers in the sixth and completed their scoring with a pair in the seventh. The Black Knights could counter with a single tally in the sixth and three in the last at bats.

Schwartz was 3-for-4 and scored three times, Wendy Warren was 2-

Eagles gain win column, Steurnagel gets 21 K's

It didn't come easily but the East Catholic baseball team broke into the win column yesterday with a 6-4 decision over St. Paul at Park Park in Bristol.

The Eagles, 1-4, will go after No. 2 Saturday morning against Bulkeley High in Hartford in an 11 o'clock start. St. Paul slips to 2-2 overall with the setback.

Junior left-hander Craig Steurnagel was a big part in the East victory as he fanned 21 Falcons in 8 2/3 innings before running out of gas in the closing innings.

"The thing that was so great about Craig's performance was that it came against such a good hitting club like St. Paul," praised East Coach Jim Penders, who wasn't assured of his first 1978 win until the final out.

Steurnagel, 1-1, started out like a house on fire by striking out the first nine St. Paul hitters. The Falcons' first hit was a fourth-inning bunt off an Ed Barnett seventh-inning triple, that the first solid safety.

East plated two runs in the first as Pete Kiro singled stole second, and scored on Ken Brasa's wicked single to center field. Brasa's blow got through the legs of Dave Peceevich with Brasa scurrying home on the three-base miscue.

The Eagles added a run in the fifth as Mike Gilbertero reached on an error, was sacrificed to second by Dave Bottaro and scored on Kiro's single.

Bottaro singled in the seventh, took third on a Dave Blake single and came home on Don Martin's RBI two strikeouts loaded the bases for St. Paul in the ninth. When a firing Steurnagel reached 3-0 on Peceevich, Penders elected to bring in Jim Dakin. He got two strikes before Peceevich sent a roller down the third base line. Gilbertero's throw to first was wide with a run scoring and the bases still empty.

Dakin got the final out as Sturno sent left fielder Brasa back to the batter to haul down his liner, which could've won it for St. Paul.

"I was pleased we played with great intensity," stated Penders. "We were ready to play ball."

Kiro had three hits and scored two runs and Martin and Brasa each had two hits for East with the former driving in three runs. Blodoue had two of St. Paul's six hits.

East Hartford nine surprises Windham

Pulling off what has to be classified as an upset, East Hartford High knocked Windham High out of the ranks of the unbeaten 5-1, in CCIL baseball action yesterday in East Hartford.

The win ups the Hornets' league record to 5-1 while the Whippets slip to 4-1 in league competition and 5-1 overall.

Right-hander Greg McGowan tossed a five-hitter, striking out 14 and walking 11, in stopping Windham.

"McGowan pitched a super game," stated Hornet Coach Al Lussier. "He was within inches of being pulled out but I knew he would come through when faced with real difficulty. He pitched a gutsy game."

Last inning rally topples Tech, 4-3

Two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, the winner scoring on a throwing error, lifted host Rocky Hill High past Cheney Tech, 4-3, in OOC baseball action yesterday.

"It was disappointing to come from behind for two runs to get ahead in the top of the seventh and end up losing the game," noted Tech Coach Aaron Silva.

Cheney, 14, had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh inning, but couldn't hold it as the Terriers won their fourth straight after an opening loss. Rocky Hill scored two runs in the first and it stayed that way until the sixth inning.

Cheney plated an unearned run in the sixth and took the lead in the top of the seventh. Mike Pinks doubled. Lew LaBree singled and Jim Boudreau singled home Pinks. Pete Fitzgerald walked the bases and Dave Gustamachio walked forcing in the lead run.

But the Beavers couldn't hold the upper hand. A walk, stolen base and fielder's choice error led the score and after another fielder's choice the winning run scored on a throwing error by the Tech shortstop. Cheney hurt itself with six miscues.

Lew Bonto had three of the Terriers' six hits while three different players had hits for Cheney. Glenn Churchill was the winning hurler in going the distance while Ed Lackard in relief was the loser for Cheney.

Spinks in headlines again, this time on dope charges

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Heavyweight champion Leon Spinks, beset by troubles since his title fight victory over Muhammad Ali last February, was arrested in his home town Friday and charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana.

It was the second time Spinks, 24, had been arrested in St. Louis since he claimed the championship. The first arrest was on a traffic charge. This time he greeted arresting officers with the words, "Come on man, I'm Leon."

Then, police said, he seemed to deliberately display the broad-brimmed black hat where the evidence was found. Circuit Attorney George Peach waited until afternoon before finally filing charges on the 4 a.m. arrest.

He said, "There was a question of both law and fact, as lawyers say. We wanted to be sure."

He said Spinks is scheduled to appear at a bond hearing May 5, at which time a preliminary hearing date will be set. When the charges were filed, Spinks had already been released on $3,700 bond and was reported flying to Miami.

Arresting officers said a foil packet in the band of the black hat contained cocaine. A search at police headquarters uncovered the marijuana, police said.

Fight promoter Bob Arum said in New York he did not think the arrest would hurt the gate for Spinks' rematch with Ali scheduled for Sept. 15. "It might even attract a bigger crowd," he said.

"There is something fishy going on," the promoter said. "We'll have to see what happens. It just seems so absurd. Here you have such a marvelously well conditioned athlete in a situation where he's allegedly involved with cocaine." Attorney Edward Bell questioned why police arrested Spinks. "Leon is a target in St. Louis," Bell said. "It's a mystery to me why he ever goes there."

Spinks was arrested with a female companion at a drive-in restaurant on the city's south side, near the public housing complex where he grew up and where his mother still lives.

Sgt. Francis Corona said Spinks was driving without headlights, and he did not recognize the boxer. He said Spinks did not have a driver's license, as he did not the last time he was arrested.

"I asked him for his license, and he said something to the effect of, 'Come on, man, I'm Leon. You know I still don't have one,'" Corona said. Corona said Spinks got out and put the hat on the top of the car, and when the police gave it back to him, he quickly put it on the car again.

Stanley-Mierzejewski suspicious, so they searched the hat and found the foil packet. Police said laboratory tests showed the packet contained cocaine. Spinks and Charlan Gunn, 35, were handcuffed and taken to police headquarters. Miss Gunn was booked on suspicion of interfering with the arrest.

"She started cursing us," Corona said. "You know, the usual routine—if he was white, you wouldn't be arresting him."

A search at police headquarters uncovered the marijuana and hand-rolled cigarettes on both Spinks and Miss Gunn, Corona said. Police said Spinks was calm after his arrest, and at one point appeared tearful while in the police holdover cell, where he stayed until his release more than four hours later.

Corona said that made him and patrolman Ronald Strothman and

Player follows up record 64 with 5-under-par 67 round

HOUSTON (UPI) - Gary Player fired a 5-under-par 67 Friday to go with his record 64 and help him skip away from the early second round of the $200,000 Houston Open.

Big George Burns shot his second straight 67 to remain closer than anyone else to Player. His 36-hole total of 10-under-par was three strokes back of Player.

Orville Moody, who won his last major tournament in Houston nine years ago, yielded a hot putter to make a run at Player in the morning round. But two bogeys cut his round to four-under-68 and left him four strokes behind the leader.

Howard Twitty made a late morning charge to fire a 65, the best round to four under-68 and left him four strokes behind the leader.

Behind Moody and Twitty were John Schroder and Tim Simpson, who each fired 67s to move seven-under-par for the tournament.

Bob Murphy was the only one of the first round leaders to play in the afternoon group.

Player's 13-under-par score ties him for the best 36-hole total on the PGA tour this year.

Tom Watson fired the same score at Tucson in January.

Player's 12-under also places him only two strokes behind the best competitive 72-hole score shot since the Houston Open was moved to the Woodlands Golf Club four years ago.

RSox win Kingman homers in Cubs' victory

CHICAGO (UPI) - Dave Kingman hit a three-run homer and Dennis Lamp pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory Friday as the Chicago Cubs to 5-0 victory over the New York Mets.

Kingman's second homer of the season and first in Wrigley Field since joining the Cubs broke a scoreless tie in the sixth. Ivan DeJesus led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. After the second out of the inning, Bobby Murcer was intentionally walked to get to Kingman, who hit a 3-2 pitch into the first row of the left field bleachers.

Mick Kelleher's singled in a run for Chicago and the Cubs added their fifth run in the bottom of the eighth on Greg Gross' single with the bases loaded. The four runs off loser Craig Swan were the first he has allowed in 22 innings pitched this season.

Lamp, 1-2, struck out one and walked one in a game played in 30 degree temperature.

'Doubles' by four pace Catholic win

Getting elusive victory No. 1 yesterday was the East Catholic girls' track team with an 85 1/2 to 31 1/2 duke over Coventry High in Coventry.

Patti Walsh won the javelin and shot put. Anne Williams took the long jump and 100-yard dash and Mary Carr won the 80-yard hurdles and 40-yard run for the 1-5 Eaglesettes. Freshman Kathy Kirtledge also scored a double for East by copping the mile and 800-yard run.

Results: 80 hurdles: 1. Carr (EC), 2. Kozuch (EC), 3. Ausberger (C), 12.4. 100: 1. Williams (EC), 2. Ehrhardt (EC), 3. Kozuch (EC), 12.6. Mile: 1. Kirtledge (EC), 2. Peterson (EC), 3. Bob Hallidin had four hits in four at-bats including a double, Jamie Gallagher was 2-for-4 and Edgar Exerits and Ray Tilden tripled and doubled respectively for the young Indians, who now show a 5-1 record. Matt Peterson earned a save for Manchester with sophomore Ken Hill notching his fourth win without a loss.

Satisfied Lions

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) - Linebacker Charlie Weaver, voted most valuable defensive player the last two seasons by his teammates, and guard Mark Markovich signed multi-year contracts yesterday with the Detroit Lions.

Clifford places second in Eastern Track Relays

Four members of the East Catholic boys' track team participated in yesterday's segment of the Eastern Track Coaches' Relays staged at Willbrook Park in New Britain.

Sophomore John Clifford placed second in the 3,000-meter run, beaten in the stretch run by St. Paul's Terry Perreault. The Falcon finished with an 8:54 clocking while Clifford clocked 8:56.0, an excellent time this early in the year according to Eagle Coach George Sultor. Rick Walsh took fifth place in the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a 10:18 clocking. Harry Carr garnered sixth place in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles while sophomore Rudy Mendes took third place in the long jump with a leap of 30-feet, 11-inches. Manchester High did not enter. The Relays continue today in West Hartford.

Fisk risks injuries in normal workday

BOSTON (UPI) - Carlton Fisk lay on the ground, spitting out a mouthful of dirt and going through a mental checklist.

"I'm still breathing and nothing hurts," he said to himself. "I don't know I escaped it but I'm still here."

Two hours later after Fisk picked himself back up and finished his day's work as a professional baseball player, he still was thinking about the fastball that somehow missed shattering his jaw.

"He (Texas flame-thrower Len Barker) is strictly a fastball pitcher but he had thrown me four straight breaking balls and I dove away each time," said Fisk. "So I figured if he had thrown four in a row, he could throw five."

chest, you know it's intentional but no one throws deliberately at your head."

Fisk himself questions his last statement when talking about his California's Nolan Ryan, the speed king among major league pitchers. Ryan, who once beated Boston second baseman Doug Griffin, struck Fisk on the helmet a couple of years ago. "I had just enough time to turn my head so that the ball hit the top of my helmet and carried it all the way back to the screen."

"But the worst I was ever hit came on a Gaylord Perry pitch that just kept moving in on me. It struck the earplug and broke my helmet right across the top all the way around to watch the pitch, so you only know in the last six feet where the ball is going. The ball just nicked me. I couldn't believe I was still alive. I don't even know where it hit. All I know is that I said I take my prayer down there on the ground."

As a high-paid catcher for the Boston Red Sox, Fisk has put his body in jeopardy many times over a seven-year career. He missed 110 games in 1974 when his left knee was shattered by Cleveland's Leron Lee in a home plate collision. In spring training the following year, as he training to come back, Fisk broke his right wrist when hit by Detroit pitcher Fred Hutchinson.

"But what scares me most are those high, inside pitches," said Fisk. "Part of the pitcher's job is to intimidate the batter and I like our pitchers to come inside - but below the neck. If a pitcher hits you in the

In order to play a major league sport, an athlete must have great agility, hand-to-eye coordination and a durable body that can handle punishment. In sports like baseball and hockey, the athlete also must have excellent eyesight and an instinct for avoiding a hard pellet traveling at a blurring velocity.

The fan in the stands or on television is away from the danger on the field, court or rink. The spectator expects the gladiator in the home uniform to be fearless. But the fittest contract in sports cannot compensate for a crippling or mortal injury.

The idea is that as you are tooling down the highway at some speed in excess of 55 miles per hour you get a loud beep indicating Smokey is beaming in.

There's been a lot written about how citizens band radio is being used as a way of protecting against speeding tickets on the highway. This is often cited as the prime reason for its tremendous growth. Other reasons are mere window dressing, it is said.

One support of this theory is the widespread use of an instrument called the Fuzzbuster, a device its manufacturers say monitors police radar. It is reasonably small in size, sits on your dashboard, and sounds your attention when it receives the signal being transmitted by a radar. The idea is that as you are tooling down the highway at some speed in excess of 55 miles per hour you get a loud beep indicating Smokey is beaming in. You slow down to the legal limit and Smokey is left with a blank speeding ticket on his pad.

It backs up the old CB warning: "Put the hammer in your tool box - Smokey with camera ahead at 1-XX." Or at least that's the way the story goes.

There are reportedly several million radar monitors in operation on the highways. The biggest manufacturer of these units is Electrolert, the company that makes the Fuzzbuster. Located in Troy, Ohio, it was founded by its inventor, Dale Smith.

"People have a right to know that radar is in use, and this knowledge helps maintain the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit," explained Fred Huntsman, vice president of Electrolert, when asked if his instrument was not sold for the express purpose of aiding people to break the law. "We think it has exactly the reverse effect and helps the police."

This column has repeatedly stated that it believes CB is a communications medium, and that those who bought units for the purpose of breaking the law were fadists. What you see in the Fuzzbuster and its use is your business. But CB and radar monitoring units are not to be confused.

The People Page

Disco dream come true

In 1969 the only one who knew Thelma Houston had a solo album was probably her mother. But by 1976 anyone who turned on his AM or dropped into a disco knew who the sultry screamer was.

Thelma Houston

Disappointment went down the drain when "Don't Leave Me This Way" finally brought Thelma her first million seller and put her in the spotlight of disco drama.

It means, wow, I really do exist as a singer, I do count," says Thelma in Discoworld magazine. Thelma also comes to the defense of the rhythmic music that launched her, which some detractors call complacent and mindless.

Everyone's Miss Brooks

Our Miss Brooks hasn't been on the air for 20 years, but it seems Eve Arden is still everyone's favorite wisecracking English teacher.

Eve Arden

Locked up for laughs

Ronald Coleman didn't find much humor in "The Prisoner of Zenda," when he starred in it 1937, but now Peter Sellers will try to play the dual roles for laughs in a comedy re-make of Ruritanian swashbuckler.

fans pop up. Aboard the Queen Mary to Europe once, Arden was treated not only to the sounds of the sea, the theme song of Our Miss Brooks - being played over the ship's radio by the captain. Then on a flight from San Francisco, an enthusiastic stewardess finished up her farewell appeal with, "and thank-you for flying with us, Our Miss Brooks."

But a lot has happened, particularly in TV, since Connie Brooks first passed out grades in 1952. In those early days of the medium, said Arden, "We had great autonomy. We were left pretty much alone, and felt comfortable. Maybe there are too many fingers in the pie now. Often, it seems to me, shows don't really get a chance to prove themselves. You need time to find yourself, to learn to know and love the characters."

Which perhaps wasn't too hard for Arden. According to Richard Crenna, who played her favorite student Walter Denton, "All that warmth exuded on the screen as Connie Brooks or whoever, that's the real Eve Arden."

WHO IS THAT MASKED MAN? He may look a bit like one of Darth Vader's Imperial stormtroopers, but it's actually "Star Wars" alumna Mark Hamill equipped for his latest role in United Artist's "Corvette Summer."

The 26-year-old Hamill plays a high schooler who is tops in his auto shop class, which rebuilds a sports car. The car is stolen, and the chase is on to Las Vegas. Along the way, Hamill falls in love before running into the car thieves. Filmed on location in Vegas and Los Angeles, the movie is set for June release.

Average White Band

Warming trend from AWB

In an era when corporations and conglomerates are growing to almost dehumanizing proportions, Scotland's Average White Band has struck a blow for more comfortable corporate images. Their newest album is Warmer Communications, which takes on an added meaning when you note that AWB records for Atlantic Records, a division of Warner Communications - whose interests include Atlantic, Warner Brothers, and Elektra-Asylum Records, Warner paperbacks, Mad magazine and the New York Cosmos - is something that brings warmer communications in any company.

Ask Kleiner
By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I have noted that whenever a phone number is mentioned within the context of a TV show, it always begins with "555." Is this due to some FCC regulation? BETTY CAULEY, Lynchburg, Va.

DEAR DICK: A nagging question has beset us and, hopefully, you can answer it. For years and years, the world has known Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride as Ma and Pa Kettle. But what were Ma and Pa Kettle's first names? DARREL WILSON, Wilcox, Ariz.

DEAR DICK: One of the prettiest songs I've heard was sung by Hoyt Axton. He did it a couple of times on TV but I never did catch the name. I thought it was "A Lion In Winter" but I'm not sure. When he sang it on TV, he had a young woman singing background. Can you find out the name for me? L. BOMMERSCHMIDT, Hoquiam, Wash.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me why they took All My Children off the air? They ended it on a Friday night as Chuck told Donna she could not be pregnant; Erica is missing; Estelle, the prostitute, is a caring person being beat up by her pimp; and poor little Tad is scared to death of his real father. Now how can they end a show in the middle of all that. It's inhuman! DEBBIE GLOWINSKI, Byron, Ill.

DEAR DICK: What ever happened to the girl who played Diane so long on General Hospital? CARMYNE BURGESS, Detroit, Mich.

DEAR DICK: A few weeks ago, Sally Struthers of All In the Family married a Bill Rader. I used to go to school in California with a Bill Rader, and wondered if it might be the same man. T.E. ALDENDERFER, Joplin, Mo.

DEAR DICK: Can you please tell me who played the darling little girl who was the daughter of the lady whom Fred MacMurray married on My Three Sons? L. LOHRMEYER, Pueblo, Colo.

DEAR DICK: Is the Red West who plays the sergeant on Black Sheep Squadron the same Red West who was Elvis Presley's bodyguard? W. DAVIS, Rock Hill, S.C.

DEAR DICK: My friends say that Mark Hamill (Luke Skywalker in "Star Wars") is related to the figure skater, Dorothy Hamill. Is that true? DANA ERWINE, Safford, Ariz.

DEAR DICK: Would you please give me the year and the age of Nelson Eddy when he died, and the same information about Jeanette MacDonald. They were so beautiful together. MRS. ANN EVERETT, Welland, Ont., Can.

Collectors' Corner

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

"Get your pay, Have some lunch, Off to Maine, In a bunch." This was a sign hanging up in a Pratt & Whitney machining area just before one of their summer shutdowns. That was all right — but the unkind cut was a pair of shoes "abandoned" nearby.

This column may be of interest mostly to Maine people who have put down roots in this C-of-V-Charm.

The Katahdin Iron Works "Fifty Cents" with the arm and hammer is pictured in a new book: "Maine Obsolete Paper Money and Scrip" by George W. Wait. The author takes up 79 Maine cities, towns and "entities," from Alfred to Wiscasset, and describes their 1,464 items of paper currency.

The book covers not only bank notes but also merchants' scrip, commission scrip, business certificates and business college teaching money. These are all priced and about 250 of them are illustrated.

The pricing is not exact but goes by Rarity Ratings from 1 to 7. For instance, the Katahdin 50-cent scrip is Rarity 5, which means that 10 to 25 specimens are known, and each one is worth $6.50 in very good condition and $15.00 if uncirculated. Katahdin also has had a dollar piece that is rated 7 — one to 5 are known, worth $12.00 to $40.00.

The very first Down East establishment to issue paper money was the Portland Bank in 1799, when Maine was still an appendage of Massachusetts. Author Wait gives this bank's charter in full. It states that any 3 incorporators, out of forty, could call a meeting by advertising three weeks in the "Oriental Trumpet."

There is a section entitled "Imprints on Maine Paper Money." This is a list of names of printers or artists that appear on the obsolete paper currency — all 69 of them. One name sounds especially familiar to philatelists: Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson. This firm printed our first two stamps in 1847.

Elaborate artistry was encouraged to make it tough for counterfeiters. A 20-dollar bill from the Sandy River Bank of Farmington (Inc. 1853) shows a man and boy poling a raft on a river. There is a cabin on the raft with smoke coming from the chimney and a mother and child seated nearby. On the far side of the river are buildings and trees.

Another piece, a one-dollar commission scrip put out by a vendor of "Dry Goods and Carpetings," has a standing Libery with flag at left, a cherub, book and pedestal at right, and in the center a dock scene with ship, stevedores, crates, cotton bales and horse-carts.

Not all of the items are this ornate. There is an especially simple one from a place in Portland in 1863. It has a large figure "5" on a dark scallop, then "Five Cents" printed in Old English, and the rest just typeset, saying: "Redeemable at my Junk Store, No. 28 Oak Street..." This was evidently before the term "Antique Boutique" came into general use.

(The book may be obtained from the author: Box 165, Glen Ridge, NJ 07028 — $14.50 postpaid.)

Coming events

"Tradition-Breaking" Northeast Stamp Festival at the Hartford Civic Center April 28 to 30. It is expected to bring together more foreign post offices and agencies ever before assembled in this area, with, of course, the usual UNPA and USPS and many dealers. Admission is free — after you find a place to park.

Nearer and sooner

MANPEX '78 — today and tomorrow at the high school on East Middle Turnpike. The hours will be noon to 5:30 today and 10 to 5:30 Sunday. Three cacheted covers and a souvenir card commemorating aviation history will depict the Wright brothers' original aircraft. Door prizes, exhibits, Postal Service booth, dealers and refreshments. The auction, unfortunately, will be silent, and we will miss the dulcet (0) tones of old pro F. J. Gamache.

Alexis Smith confounds the cliches

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywood is the place, as everybody knows, where marriages don't last more than 35 seconds and where the girls live it up so wildly that by the time they are in their mid-20s they all look worn and haggard.

Right? Well, along came Smith. Alexis Smith. She and Craig Stevens have been married so long they won't say how long.

"When anybody asks me how long," Alexis says, "I just say 'forever.' When anybody asks Craig, he says '12 years.' He says that sounds long enough so the questioner is happy, but not so long that they want to give you a plaque."

(Actually, they were married in 1944, so this year they will celebrate their 34th anniversary.)

As for that other cliché, that Hollywood gals are worn out and ugly by their mid-20s, we can consider Alexis Smith again. She is 55 and she is still something to turn around and look at. Tall, slim, blonde, beautiful — and there's hardly a mark of any wild living if, indeed, she indulged.

So, like all other clichés, the one ones about Hollywood have their exceptions. Alexis Smith is a living, breathing exception.

She is also getting more and more active in films. There was a period, about a dozen years long, in which she hardly worked at all.

ALEXIS SMITH: "Today the important thing to me is the acting."

That part of her life began, she says, when she and Craig moved to London.

"People would say to me that, while I was in London, I really should do a play there," she says. "And I would say, 'Do a play? You must be mad.' Or words to that effect. Why, when I was in such a wonderful place as London, and living there for the first time in my life, why would I want to spoil it all by going to work?"

So she didn't work. And she didn't work. But now, all that is behind her. It was "Follies" which brought her back to fame with a resounding splash. And, since then, she's been in demand on the stages of the world.

Then she did her first film in some 16 years — "Once Is Not Enough." And followed that with a nice part in the spooky "The Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane." And now you can see her, with Walter Matthau, in the charming "Casey's Shadow."

But, at this point in her life, she works for enjoyment, not for any other reason. Certainly not for ambition.

"I used to be ambitious," she says. "Or, let's say, I used to think my career was very important. But it doesn't mean very much to me today."

"But — and this is going to sound very Zen — acting is more important to me now than it was. What I mean is this — in the 1940s, the important thing to me was my career, the parts I got, the people I impressed. But today the important thing to me is the acting."

"And the result is that I enjoy the work much more now."

Over the years, even when she wasn't working, she kept busy and she still keeps busy, work or no work.

"I'm queer for classes," she says. "I do two hours of dancing every day. An hour of singing. And other lessons. I even studied real estate for a while, but that's part of acting, too, because selling real estate is what many actors do when they aren't acting."

Home, for Alexis and Craig, is a little bit of California and a little bit of New York. The problem is that one of them likes one coast, the other prefers the other.

"I'd rather live in New York," says Alexis, a native-born Californian. "But Craig likes it better here."

"I find New York much more stimulating. In New York, you don't have to work to find things to do, things to do always find you, they're all around you. But here, you have to really buckle down to try and find things to do."

"I remember my first visit to New York, I think it was in 1944. And I remember going up the steps of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in my Warner Brothers' wardrobe — mink coat and all — and now when I go anywhere I go in jeans."

"Anyhow, there I was, going up the museum steps in my mink, and I overheard two kids talking, and one of them said, 'Isn't that Alexis Smith?' and the other said, 'Yeah, I wonder what she's doing here.' The implication was that a Hollywood star had no business being interested in an art museum."

But, in New York, she says, Hollywood stars can go to art museums. Or libraries. Or any place else.

ALMANAC BIRTHDAYS

Compiled by the editors of The World Almanac

April 23 — Lester Pearson (1897-1972), Canadian politician and diplomat who was prime minister of Canada (1963-68). He received the Nobel Peace Prize (1957) for his efforts to solve the Suez crisis of 1956.

April 24 — Barbra Streisand (1942-), big-voiced Brooklyn-born singer and actress. She starred on Broadway in "Funny Girl," a musical based on the life of Fanny Brice, and went on to do the film version for which she won an Oscar as best actress (1968). Her other films include "Hello Dolly," "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever," and "The Way We Were."

April 25 — Ella Fitzgerald (1918-), born in Newport News, Va., she began her career with the Chick Webb orchestra in 1935. Often using her voice as an orchestral instrument, she developed a singing style that has made her one of the most respected and popular artists of her time.

April 26 — John James Audubon (1785-1851), naturalist and painter who is famed for his "Birds of America" portfolio.

April 27 — Ulysses S. Grant (1822-1885), the 18th president of the U.S. As General in Chief of the Union army, he forced Lee's surrender at Appomattox Court House (Apr. 9, 1865) effectively ending the Civil War.

April 29 — Duke Ellington (1899-1974), the jazz pianist, bandleader, and composer was born in Washington, D.C. He wrote hundreds of songs including "Mood Indigo" and "Take the A-Train."
