Retirement center rejected by PZC

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The application for permission to construct a retirement center on South United Methodist Church property on Hartford Road was denied Monday night by the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission voted three to two against the application for a plan which has been struggling for adoption since its first presentation to the commission nearly two years ago.

Voting in favor of the application were Alfred Siefert, commission chairman, and Joseph Swenson, commission member. Commission members opposed to the application were Ronald Gates, Leo Kwash and Truman Crandall.

The decision altered any further hope the Methodist group might have of developing a goal set in 1966 when the Methodist Health and Welfare Services was founded by the annual New England Conference of the Methodist Church to develop retirement centers.

representing the applicants, said that Wesley Retirement Center Inc. will likely appeal to HUD requesting them to switch the allocation of a retirement center from Manchester to another site.

"As far as I'm concerned, the application for Manchester is over and done with," Kolasa said.

Although there were no specific reasons given by the commission denying the application, Kolasa said he felt the commission voted against it because they didn't want to see elderly housing on that particular site.

The commission members who opposed it gave no reason for their negative vote.

Kolasa was disappointed in the outcome, but said that if the town through their officials expresses disfavor of a retirement center on the South United Methodist Church property, then the town has to abide by the commission's decision.

Dayan says Israel would give up jets

Begin is traveling to Washington Sunday and attending White House observations of Israel's 30th anniversary in May. Newspaper reports in Israel said Carter would not meet with Begin if the Vance-Dayan negotiations are unsuccessful.

Israel's former armed forces chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, said last week Israel does not need the 90 F-15s and F-16s that are part of Carter's proposed package.

Saudi Arabia is to get 60 F-15s, the West's most advanced plane, and Egypt will get 50 of the less sophisticated F-5Es.

Young leftists march in Italy

ROME (UPI) — Young leftists chanting, "This is only the beginning — Aldo Moro is no more," marched through Rome today as Italy awaited news on the fate of the ex-premier, kidnapped and "sentenced to death" by the Red Brigades.

Other youths shouted down and scuffled with the anti-Moro demonstrators and President Giovanni Leone asked Italians to stand firm against the Red Brigades' "perfidious and bloody menace."

The government of Premier Giulio Andreotti Monday rejected a demand that it free 15 imprisoned terrorists in return for Moro's life. It ignored a letter the 61-year-old statesman wrote from captivity, accusing his Christian Democratic party colleagues of causing his death, saying he wanted none of them at his funeral.

House fire was set

A fire which completely gutted the interior of a vacant home at 14 Shallowbrook Lane Monday night was "definitely set," according to Town Fire Chief John Rivosa.

It was the third fire in the home in eight months, and all were termed suspicious. The fires are under investigation by the Police Department and at least one insurance company, Rivosa said.

The owner of the home is Raymond Healy.

The Town Fire Department was called to the scene of the fire at 7:30 p.m. After the firefighters arrived at the house to find one-half of it totally involved in flames, a box alarm was sent out.

Two Engine Companies and a ladder truck from the Town Fire Department and the Glastonbury Fire Department responded, involving a total of 60 to 70 men to fight the fire. The last trucks left the scene shortly before 10 p.m.

The entire interior of the raised ranch home sustained some form of fire or heat damage, according to Deputy Chief William Griffin, who was in charge of the firefighting.

There was no furniture in the house, but materials have been sent to the state laboratories for inspection. Rivosa said he did not know how or where the fire started.

The first fire, which damaged a portion of the interior of the home occurred Aug. 7, 1977. A smaller fire occurred after that in a small woodpile inside the garage, Rivosa said.

Before the fires, police reported heavy vandalism to the home and the interior contents, which was also investigated.

GOP favors 31 mills

Dems aim for 34-mill taxing

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Manchester's Democrats are aiming for a 34-mill General Fund tax rate and the Republicans want a 31-mill rate, according to figures mentioned at the Board of Directors budget workshop Monday night.

The three-hour workshop, the ninth held by the board since budget work started a month ago, was the first time that the parties have mentioned publicly what they hope to set for a final 1978-79 town budget.

Town Manager Robert Weiss has proposed a $27,801,728 General Fund budget for 1978-79. That represents a 12.3 percent increase in spending over the present budget and would result in a 27-mill tax rate.

Both parties previously had said that the manager's proposal would be reduced. The size of the hoped-for reductions were mentioned for the first time Monday night.

Stephen Penny, Democratic chairman of the board, said that his party has set a goal of $1.3 million in new money in this year's budget. Based on the present year's $24.8 million budget, this means the Democrats are aiming at a $26,130,000 1978-79 budget, Penny said.

The $1.3 million in new money would include some increased revenues that would help keep the increase of the mill rate down. A mill, based on the revalued Grand List, is worth slightly more than $500,000.

This increase in spending would result in a 34-mill tax rate, Penny said.

This year's spending level, based on the revalued Grand List, would result in about a 32-mill tax rate.

The proposed increase by the Democrats would be a 5.3 percent hike over present spending, which is less than the rate of inflation, Penny said. Thus, the town probably would be faced with an inability to maintain its present level of services, he said.

The two Republican directors present, Carl Zinsner and William Diana, responded that the GOP is aiming for a 31-mill tax rate next year. This would be a drop in taxes, but increased revenues have been included in the figuring to obtain a budget that would be about equal to the present spending level.

Zinsner, Diana, and Vivian Ferguson, who was ill and unable to attend Monday's session, this morning released a statement on their 31-mill rate proposal.

"We believe that the manager and his department heads should restudy the budget document and come back to the board with figures that will present no tax increase over last year. We believe that the tax line can and should be held," they said.

Because of property revaluation, almost all homeowners will pay 20 percent more in taxes, even with a hold-the-line budget, the Republicans said. Mrs. Ferguson said that this

Vance has more work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance sees more hard work ahead, but says his meetings with Soviet leaders produced "some progress" toward a new arms limitation treaty.

Vance returned Monday from the 25,180-mile trip that took him to Africa and the Soviet Union. He immediately went to the White House where he briefed President Carter for one hour.

Vance declined to give reporters details of what the trip had accomplished. "All I'm going to say is that some progress was made," he said.

"In negotiations with the Soviet Union the mark of the seriousness of the negotiation is the confidentiality of the negotiation. If one gets into the details of public discussion of matters still under negotiation it is regarded by them as a propaganda exercise....

"I do not want to do anything that would jeopardize the serious negotiation between us."

Vance and the American strategic arms negotiating team were met at Andrews Air Force Base by Vice President Walter Mondale.

"The trip from which I am now returning has resulted in some forward movement on a number of matters, each of which will require further hard work," he said on arrival.

Vance's trip focused on a set of negotiations in Moscow, where American officials said there had been no progress on one of the issues the United States considers absolutely essential to any agreement: control over the Soviet Backfire bomber.

The officials said the talks had made progress on an agreement to prohibit both the United States and the Soviet Union from transferring strategic arms technology to other powers.

The officials said the United States had made important concessions, which now would have to be sold to its allies in the NATO alliance who have expressed fears of defense capabilities being hampered by the agreement.

Under SALT II, the United States would be free to transfer to other countries anything which it was permitted to possess itself under the agreement, reporters learned. U.S. officials said progress also had been made in Moscow in limiting further development of a new family of large Soviet missiles.

But the officials said there was no agreement on the controls that would be used to limit the Backfire bomber. American officials agree with the Soviets that the Backfire issue is political rather than military, but they insist there is no chance of Senate approval of a SALT agreement without a provision for the Backfire.

On other aspects of the trip, Vance said he and British Foreign Minister David Owen made "some progress" on two key issues in efforts to bring black majority rule to Rhodesia — what the powers of an interim high commissioner would be in reference to internal security and defense.

He said the Patriotic Front, made up of guerrilla black leaders, agreed to attend the Anglo-U.S.-sponsored all-parties conference on Rhodesia.

His and her retirement

Here's a footnote to the new retirement bill recently signed by President Carter. Delayed mandatory retirement — now to be age 70 rather than 65 — or, not, retirees as a population category are getting younger and younger. At least the males among them. In a new study reported by the Conference Board, a non-profit economic research organization, the number of older men (45 and over) dropping out of the work force was found to be rising rapidly. The age group now accounts for only a third of the male civilian labor market, down from some 40 percent 10 years ago and expected by 1990 to drop to 30 percent.

Thoughts

The capacity for development inherent in the human soul is the greatest miracle of creation. One of the most exciting facts of history is the emergence of magnificent characters from amid the most unpromising circumstances. But here is a Christian preacher of the first century declaring that man

The treaty vote that didn't count

By LEE RODERICK
WASHINGTON — The second Panama Canal treaty vote had just become history and reporters covering it crowded into the Senate press room to talk to a jubilant Senate Majority Whip, Alan Cranston (D-Calif.). As a hush fell over the room in anticipation of Cranston's assessment, an insistent voice came instead from among the throng of reporters: "This is a tragic day for the country." All eyes turned from Cranston to the speaker, a distinguished-looking stranger of perhaps 60. "Who are you — a reporter?" challenged a newsmen. "I'm Worthington Cross and I'm not a reporter," said the stranger. To a chorus of boos and shouts of "throw him out," Cross quickly exited. The Senate spent 42 days debating the Canal agreement — more than for any treaty since the Treaty of Versailles ending World War I. Yet despite all those hours of tedious speeches, one large question remains: Was Worthington Cross — and millions of other like-minded Americans — fairly represented by the Senate? Did their vote mean anything to the 68 Senators who ratified the treaty? Evidence indicates that although

Nag crazy

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — This town is hard enough to live in at any time because it is operated roughly along the lines of an expensive loony bin, but a case can be made that the horse season was especially designed to send an innocent bystander up the wall. Starting with the Kentucky Derby and proceeding through the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, what passes for Washington society goes nag crazy. Forced to drop in on a drinking bout by Mama's insatiable lust for the high life, a man finds himself surrounded by red-faced types of both sexes determined to tell him more than he wants to know about five-year-old colts and the love life of a costly thoroughbred. It turns out that these experts not only attend horse races, they actually ride the critters, and have spent the day galloping over the countryside howling slogans like "yowks" and "tullyho." For Washington is also for hunting country, and a body is put down as a cad if he expresses disdain for the sport Oscar Wilde described as the pursuit of the inedible by the unspokeable.

Water service disruptions

On April 18, the water service was disrupted for the second time this month on East Center Street and the surrounding area. At certain times the water service must be disrupted because of flushing, etc. — but with proper notice! On the day mentioned, I'm convinced the notification was most in-spirited. Unless you read the morning Courier before you start breakfast, laundry, housework, or the simple act of brushing your teeth, you were out-of-luck. That was the only notice — the morning Courier, the day of the work. The reason given by the Water Department when phoned was that the notice wasn't out in time for the previous evening Herald. Does the Water Department plan its work from day-to-day? Even if they planned their work schedule just a week ahead, wouldn't they have time to meet The Herald's deadline? The inadequate notice caused

Town should be one

WASHINGTON — In my opinion, the Town of Manchester should be one. I am a person living in the Eighth District, see things from a renter's point of view, one with two fire hydrants. The town should be one. I have also learned the Eighth District doesn't have any CETA person working here and I'm sure there are many jobs that need doing. Third, I am being taxed twice — once, on my rent and again on my car (sewer). Now I don't bring my car into the house to go potty, and I don't wash my car in the street. Fourth, I attended Tuesday night's Democratic meeting and Mr. Noone asked Mr. Cummings if he would accept the Eighth's District board's decision on consolidation? Mr. Cummings said no, it was up to the voters. I as a registered voter want to exercise my right as a citizen to cast my own vote, and not let someone I don't even know do my thinking for me. MCC offers garden plots

About 20 garden plots are available to residents of Manchester and area towns who wish to participate in the community garden program sponsored by the Community Services Division of Manchester Community College. The garden site is on college property along Wells Street. The plots, each measuring 20 by 50 feet, will be available for planting by May 6. The land will be plowed, harrowed, fertilized and divided into plots by college staff. Persons who join the program must provide their own seeds, tools and pesticide, if that should be necessary. A small fee will be charged for each plot to cover the cost of preparation. For more information, call the Community Services Division at 646-2127.

Charter unit hears plan to combine departments

Manchester's Charter Revision Commission Monday night was asked by Town Manager Robert Weiss to consider several charter changes, including some that had been approved by the last Charter Revision Commission. The most controversial proposal, which was approved by the former commission, was to have the Water and Sewer Department become a division of the Public Works Department. Weiss said that this would be the most cost effective operation of the Water and Sewer Department. He said that his views were "180 degrees" different than those of water and sewer administrator Frank T. Jodanis, who would like an elected or appointed water and sewer commission to oversee his department. Jodanis said that his plan would remove the department from the Public Works Department and direct more attention to water and sewer needs. Weiss also suggested that the Park Department be formally incorporated into the Public Works Department. The park superintendent is presently reporting to the director of public works and the charter change would reflect the actual operations at this time, which provides for a high degree of efficiency and effectiveness. A consolidated department of Department of Public Works would be the best management possible, Weiss said. Another charter change, which was considered by the former Charter Commission, would also change another facet of the town administration. This suggestion was to consolidate all financial operations now under the jurisdiction of the town manager into a Department of Finance with the director appointed by the town manager. This proposed change would not do away with the town treasurer as an elective post, and the treasurer could either be inside or outside the proposed Department of Finance, Weiss said.

New rules will limit carnivals

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter
The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night approved an amendment to the town's ordinance on carnivals and circuses. Included in the PZC's approval, however, are certain requirements. The Board of Directors earlier this year approved the amendment which permits events such as carnivals to be sponsored by "civic, fraternal, religious, education, charitable or similar nonprofit organizations," and for the chief of police to grant written permission for such events. However, one commission member, Ronald Gates, opposed the amendment when the vote was taken. He based his opposition on his first responsibility to the PZC which he said is to consider land use. The move to accept the amendment was made by Leo Kwash who proposed the added requirements as follows: Any organization can sponsor no more than one carnival event of seven consecutive days in a single location in any one year; parking shall be provided on site or within a reasonable distance, and extra lights shall be shielded from adjacent properties. The parking requirement was proposed to avoid possible traffic congestion, and the lighting requirement to avoid as much as possible the annoyance of bright lights to adjacent properties. Town Planner Alan Lamon reminded the commission that one of its goals is to avoid traffic congestion.

PZC approves permit for basin

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night voted 5-1 to approve an inland-wetlands permit for a proposed development of Gardner Street. The permit is for a large detention basin that would be part of a 20-lot subdivision proposed for the 40-acre Lenti Farms tract off Gardner Street. The subdivision plan, including the basin, was approved last October by the PZC. Five residents of the area, however, appealed that decision — an appeal that is still pending. The detention basin is designed to hold water during heavy rainy periods. The water would be held in the basin and then drained slowly into existing water bodies. Residents of the area, however, have questioned the safety and adequacy of the proposal. Two town department heads, Highway Superintendent Timothy O'Sullivan and Engineer Walter Senkow, also have raised questions about the basin's design and the capabilities of the proposal. The state Department of Environmental Protection also has raised questions about the proposed plan for the basin. Jay Giles, Manchester's director of public works, has said that he feels the basin is adequate to handle runoff in the area. He and William O'Neill, the engineer who designed the proposal, both have said that the basin will improve the area's drainage. PZC chairman Alfred Sieffert called the ordinance "real loose" without hour restrictions. But Kwash suggested that the police could determine the hours when issuing the permit. The commission briefly discussed excluding carnival events from residential zones, but decided in favor of continuing past practices of holding the activity on properties owned by the sponsoring group. "We'll know if the ordinance works after we've had a couple of carnival events," Sieffert said. In other action Monday, the school board unanimously approved a change in the report cards for Grades 4 through 8, with third grade left as an option for the individual schools. The upper grades will return to use of letter grades next fall instead of the non-graded system which has been used for the past few years. The action was taken on the recommendation of a parent-teacher report card revision committee which conducted an extensive survey of all teachers and parents in the elementary schools. The surveys indicated a majority of the parents and teachers prefer a return to the letter grades for the upper elementary grades. A subcommittee of the larger committee will meet now to develop a new report card. Board approves teacher contract

The Manchester Board of Education accepted the two-year settlement with the Manchester Education Association Monday night, with one dissenting vote. The settlement ended eight months of negotiation between the school board and the public school teachers and resulted in a four percent pay increase for all teachers for the first year of the contract, with two percent increments for a majority of teachers. A retirement incentive proposal of the Board of Education was adopted as a policy separate from the contract. Earl Odum, Republican member of the board, cast the dissenting vote. Today he explained his reasons for voting against the contract settlement. He said a vote at this time is inappropriate because the town directors have not yet allocated the Board of Education's portion of the budget. The town budget will be adopted in the next 10 days. "To take action of this fiscal magnitude at this time is inappropriate," Odum said. Odum said he feels the offer made by the Board of Education was too high. He also said the Board of Education has been giving proportionally more of each year for the past five years or so to the different salary groups. This takes away from curriculum development, he said. Odum said he is very concerned about the expected large budget cuts by the town directors this year. He said he had hoped it would be a year for improvements in the budget, other than salary increases. In other action Monday, the school board unanimously approved a change in the report cards for Grades 4 through 8, with third grade left as an option for the individual schools. Bolton finance board OKs $2,542,536 budget

A $2,542,536 budget for 1978-79 was adopted by the Bolton Board of Finance Monday. Of that amount $1,018,994 is for the general government and $1,523,542 is for the Board of Education.

Siddiq Sattar, finance board chairman, said the town's mill rate could be reduced from the current rate of 61.4 mills to about 60.5 mills with the adopted budget.

The school board budget was cut $1,500 and the town budget $510.

Morris Silverstein, finance board member, voted against both cuts because he felt the school board cut should be higher and the town cut lower.

Shirley Potter voted against the school board cut because she felt it was too high. Potter did not feel anything should be cut from the school board budget.

Residents will be asked to approve the budget at the Annual Budget Town Meeting May 15 at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

The finance board will meet immediately after the budget hearing to set the mill rate for next year.

Closed meeting

The Board of Selectmen met with the Consolidation Committee Monday night in executive session to discuss potential sites for the consolidation of public facilities, including a facility for solid waste disposal.

First Selectman Henry Ryba said four sites are being checked for price and feasibility. The two groups will have a special meeting May 4 to continue their business.

Volunteers to meet

The St. Maurice Church annual Bishop's appeal volunteers will meet tonight at 7:30 at the church parish center.

Vandalism to buses

Vandalism to Bolton school buses occurred the weekends of March 23 and April 1.

The vandalism included spitting, gas, a broken windshield and headlights, contents of two first aid kits and reflectors stolen, and a fire extinguisher sprayed over a bus.

School Superintendent Raymond Allen said the incidents were reported to Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson.

Senate OKs stud repeal

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Senate has decided to heed the cries of many Connecticut residents who don't want to give up their winter security blanket — studied snow tires.

The Senate Monday unanimously gave final legislative approval and sent to the governor a bill that would repeal a May 1 ban on the use of studded snow tires.

It also approved the hotly debated anti-litter bill, but made a change in the bill so it has to go to the House of Representatives for a second time.

In 1976 the Legislature voted to ban the use of studded snow tires, saying the steel spikes which stick out of the rubber tread gouge the roadways and cause severe damage.

The law halted the sale of studded snow tires as of Feb. 1 last year and the use of the tires as of May 1.

Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers and chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said it is estimated the use of the special tires would mean between $5 million and $8 million damage to Connecticut roads in the next 10 years.

A bill to define bribery of public officials and set a 5-year-jail term for violation of the bill was passed by the Senate.

Vernon to close Polliwog School

With only 349 children registered for kindergarten in the Vernon school system next year, the Board of Education voted Monday night to close the Polliwog School on Hale Street starting next year.

The Polliwog school is the kindergarten annex for Northeast School.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said enrollment projections have been accurate in the past and there is no reason the annex can't be closed and the children put into the Northeast School with a very minimal number of transfers. He said the transfers will be major and all of the parents will be informed which school their child will attend, before the end of school this year.

However, the board is not saying how it will completely close the school. He said he is sure that the Polliwog

School has some sentimental value attached to it, but it probably will be better for the children to be in the Northeast. He said about four years ago there were about 700 children registering for kindergarten and he said he feels the move is worthwhile to do from an educational point of view.

However, the board is not saying how it will completely close the school. He said he is sure that the Polliwog

Board won't have plan for cuts

The Board of Education will go to the budget hearing tonight without a concrete recommendation as to where it could cut $125,000 from its proposed budget. The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Middle School.

The Town Council has asked the school board to cut the $125,000 from its budget request of $10.3 million. The board's budget committee said this can't be done without cutting into programs.

At its meeting Monday night the board expressed the hope that the public will come to the hearing and back the board in its endeavor to have the cut, or at least part of it, restored.

Daniel Woolwich, chairman of the board, said he feels the council will make its decision on what it hears at the Town Meeting next month.

Debra Baum, a board member, said she would like to feel that the council will listen and she also said she would like a climate created so that the council would respect the board's decision as to how much money is needed to run the schools.

She said she doesn't think a budget of $10.3 million gives quality education. She said it gives the minimum education.

Lee Belanger, another board member, termed herself a skinflint "and a Republican" but said she has to say it the way it is.

It is a Republican Council and may the way it has asked for the cuts. The minority Democrats on the council were against.

"Maybe the town can't afford to have education stay on the level it is. It's foolish to say we can maintain quality education with this cut," she said.

Educators OK plan for no RHS finals

The Vernon Board of Education will abide by a recommendation of Brian McCartney, principal of Rockville High School, not to have final exams this year.

Area police report

Gerald Gibson, 18, of 23 Ward St., Rockville, is reported in satisfactory condition at Rockville General Hospital today after he was cut during what police called a domestic disturbance.

Police said he was taken to the hospital early this morning with a cut hand. The wound was allegedly inflicted by his father, Columbus Gibson, 80, of the same address, during a domestic disturbance.

The father was charged with first-degree assault and held at the police station in lieu of $500 bond and was to be presented in court today.

South Windsor

Barbara R. Sullivan, 36, of Enfield, was arrested Monday on a warrant charging her with negligent homicide with a motor vehicle.

The arrest was made after investigation of a March 6 accident which killed Brian McGrath, 26, of 43 Northview Drive, South Windsor. The accident happened on Route 5. Ms. Sullivan is scheduled to appear in court in East Hartford May 9.

THE CUSTOM

The title (from Old English "teogothian" meaning tenth) was a custom dating back to times of the Old Testament and adopted by the Christian church. Lay people were supposed to contribute one tenth of their annual income to the church. The money, or its equivalent, was used to support the clergy, maintain churches and assist the poor.

State will send notices on how much we saved

HARTFORD (UPI) — Shortly before the November election, Connecticut homeowners should receive notices in the mail telling them how much they saved in taxes this year because of the state's generosity.

House Democrats flexed their legislative brown Monday and pushed through a bill forcing Connecticut cities and towns to send the notices to their taxpayers.

Republicans claimed the bill was a Democratic "trick" to buy votes in November. Democrats said the measure would merely inform Connecticut property owners what is happening to their tax dollars.

Besides, the Democrats said, they learned the election year "trick" from the Republicans.

On a 115-35 vote, the Democrat-controlled House approved and sent to the Senate a bill passing $20 million to Connecticut's 169 cities and towns on the basis of population.

The bill contained a provision requiring municipalities to mail notices to property tax owners three weeks before this year's election. The notices would tell taxpayers how much the state, under Gov. Ella T. Grasso's administration, gave to their community.

The taxpayers would also have to be told how much they saved in property taxes as a result of state grants to their towns.

The Democrat-dominated Senate is expected to endorse the plan.

Guidry swallows more than pride

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ron Guidry swallowed more than a bit of pride Monday night before a nationwide television audience — he swallowed a mouthful of chewing tobacco.

The Yankees' stopper accidentally doled the stuff while leaping for a Rich Dauer bouncer in the fifth. He developed an upset stomach and dizzy spells by the seventh and had to be removed from New York's 8-2 romp over Baltimore.

"I told Billy Martin that I felt queasy," he said after spicing six hits in seven innings before yielding to Rich Gossage. "I had a headache and I didn't know where I was in the seventh inning."

Chris Chambliss cracked a eight-run double to finish off a night-long fifth for the Yanks in their most productive inning of the season. New York sent 13 batters to the plate, knocked out seven consecutive singles in the eighth and barrage and sent starter Scott McGregor to his third loss in as many decisions.

Bucky Dent, Mickey Rivers and Thurman Munson had RBI singles in the inning and Reggie Jackson drove in two others with a base hit to help Guidry raise his record to 2-1.

In other American League games, Detroit stopped Chicago, 4-1. Cleveland downed Toronto, 4-2. Kansas City outscored Texas, 8-6, and Seattle nipped California, 6-5, in 12

10 runs in third inning enough for Cheney win

Erupting for a 10-run third-inning, Cheney Tech snapped its four-game losing streak and scored a 10-7 COC baseball victory over East Hampton High yesterday in a makeup contest at the Beavers' field.

"It was good to break out of our slump. We hit the ball very hard and I can only hope we continue to do so," noted Tech Coach Aaron Silva.

The Beavers, 2-4 in the conference overall, returned to action Tuesday morning against Portland High in a home date at 11 o'clock.

The loss dropped the Bellingers also to 2-4 in COC play.

Ken Pitts led off the explosion with a triple and scored on Randy Lanzano's single. Ed Lackard and winning pitcher Dave Gustamachio singled leading the sacks followed by Chris Vann's 2-RBI single.

Mike Pankin tripled adding two more runs and he in turn was driven in by Jim Boudreau's single. PHIs, up again, singled and Lanzano stroked a 2-RBI double. An error brought in the ninth run and a Gustamachio single drove in the 10th Tech tally.

East Hampton had a 2-0 lead until

Comedy of errors in Indian victory

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

It was a comedy of errors — for Enfield High that is, as Manchester High chalked up its third successive baseball win, 12-4, yesterday at Kelley Field.

The triumph elevates the Silk Towners over the 500 mark for the first time this year at 4-3. The Raiders, charged with eight errors among other mistakes, slipped to 2-5.

DeCantus and Mike Jordan each had 3 RBIs for Manchester while Tom Prignano stretched his hitting streak to six games. Blanked in the opener, Prignano went 3-for-4 with three runs scored to improve his batting average to a gaudy .433.

Junior Brad Ingraham went the distance for the Indians to earn the triumph. He walked eight, fanned 14, with all four Enfield tallies unearned. Wheeler topped the first three frames for Enfield and took the loss.

Surprising Expos lead East division

NEW YORK (UPI) — Look who's leading the National League East — the Montreal Expos with their patchwork pitching staff of American League castoffs.

The Expos continued their surprising early-season streaking Monday by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3. It was the fifth straight triumph for Expos, the first National League victory by Rudy May, late of the Baltimore Orioles; and the third straight save for Stan Bahnsen, a recent alumnus of the Pirates' manager Charlie Finley's mending Oakland A's.

"We got another fantastic job out of the bullpen from Stan Bahnsen," acknowledged Expos Manager Dick Williams, who called on the veteran right-hander in the eighth inning after May was touched for a one-out single. "The next batter was Ted Simmons, a switch-hitter, who had been hitting righty all afternoon."

"I knew Simmons would have to hit from the left side against Bahnsen and that's what he did, when he hit into an inning-ending double play."

Seventh-inning singles by Dave Cash and Andrew Dawson snapped a 3-2 tie with the Cardinals. A two-run homer by Roger Freed had given St. Louis a 3-2 lead in the sixth, but the Expos tied it in the bottom of the inning on a triple by Dawson and Gary Carter's sacrifice fly.

Hobson best No. 9 hitter in major league lineup

BOSTON (UPI) — If there is a giant hole just outside Kenmore Square today it means the Boston Red Sox have taken Fenway Park on the road with them.

The Red Sox, who had 120 hits and 77 runs in winning eight of 10 games at home, left this morning on a 10-game trip that was to open tonight in Milwaukee with Bill Lee, 3-4, facing fellow lefty Jerry Augustine, 3-1.

If anyone could disassemble Fenway Park, it would be third baseman Butch Hobson, who battered the 66-year-old ballfield for runs batted in, a total of 17 hits and 21 six homers, and in over the 10-game stretch. Most of his production came while he batted in the ninth spot in the order.

Hobson, the 11th player in baseball history to drive in a run in 10 consecutive games, was named American League Player of the Week.

He needs RBIs in the next three games, two against Milwaukee and the first contest this weekend in Texas, to tie the major league mark set by former Red Sox Joe Cronin (1931) and Ted Williams (1942) as well as Pittsburgh's Paul Waner (1927).

"Hobson has been just great for us," making a good play in the field every day and hitting the way he has," said Manager Don Zimmer, whose first managerial move in mid-1976 was to replace popular veteran Rico Petrocelli with Hobson.

"I don't want it with Butch. He struck out all those times last year (tying a league mark with 162) and yet he deals with a strikeout like he and South line drive for H. out. It just doesn't upset him and that's good."

Hobson again leads the team with 12 strikeouts, but also paces the club in homers and RBIs. Zimmer, however, wants Hobson and his teammates to keep swinging and forget about mounting "strikeouts."

"My elbow tightened up in the second game," said Campbell, who pitched 5 1-3 innings in the doubleheader after being injured for 15 days with elbow pain. "But I threw better in the second game than I did in the first and that was encouraging."

Following two night games in Milwaukee, the Red Sox travel to Arlington, Texas, Thursday and finish the short road swing with a three-game weekend series against the Rangers.
