The kudzu will get you

When I was little, in imitation of the fabled Jack, I planted a handful of beans in the backyard and waited for the beanstalk to grow clear to the sky and carry me to the castle of the giant who said, "Fee, fie, fo, fum."

It didn't happen. My beanstalk grew to be five feet tall, produced some beans and then literally withered on the vine.

Many years later, here in Mississippi, I realize what went wrong. Jack didn't plant beans, as the fairy story would lead you to believe, he planted kudzu, the magic vine that grows in the south and would bury the entire region in six months if the highway crews didn't control it with their machetes.

Kudzu, a lush jungle vine, was brought to Mississippi from Africa during the 1930s in an effort to control erosion along the highways. For two years highway crews were kept busy planting the vine. For the 42 years since they have kept busy trying to control its growth.

The leafy green vine climbs and crawls and envelopes everything in its path, frequently assuming the shape of the object it covers. Many stories have sprung up about the secrets hidden beneath its tangle of greenery.

My neighbor says that kudzu stories were the ghost stories of his childhood. "Sitting around the campfire with a good kudzu storyteller was enough to give you goose flesh."

There are tales of kudzu vines that creep in bedroom windows and strangled people in their sleep, of vines that snatch babies from their carriages, and of vines that wrap their leafy tentacles about unsuspecting picnickers and bury them in a grave of greenery.

Near the state penitentiary in Parchment stands a mound of kudzu that local people claim is the figure of a prisoner in flight. They say it is grim living testimony that escape doesn't pay.

I don't believe in ghosts, not even in green leafy ones. And I know that kudzu is the one thing that will grow and flourish even for a brown-thumb like me. So yesterday I dug up a small piece of kudzu from the roadside and planted it next to my tool house.

"You shouldn't have done that!" said my neighbor. "If the stories are true, planting kudzu means you're in for three strokes of bad luck."

This morning I cut my hand opening a can of frozen orange juice. This afternoon my washing machine overflowed. I still don't believe in ghosts but I wish that third stroke would hurry and fall so I can get this thing behind me.

Wagner, Kundaje tops at Penney

EAST HARTFORD — Howard N. Wagner and Vanita R. Kundaje have been named valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the Class of 1978 at Penney High School.

Wagner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Heints of 35 Bluefield Drive. He will attend Tufts University in Medford, Mass., where he will major in engineering. In conjunction with his program at Tufts, Wagner will also attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology for ROTC.

Wagner, who plans to be a professional pilot, will receive his pilot's license in June. He is a member of the Academy of Model Aeronautics and the Northern Connecticut Radio Club, and has built some radio controlled planes of his own.

His school activities have included yearbook editor and photography editor, National Honor Society, Chess Club, Student Council, Band, Executive Board and French Club. His achievements and awards include participation in the Talcott Mountain Science Center and the Harvard Book Club Award.

Miss Kundaje is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramesh Kundaje of 9 Maple St. She is a native of India. She will major in pre-med at the University of Rochester (N.Y.). She is interested in genetic counseling with couples who seek advice on child bearing.

Her school activities include National Honor Society, Executive Board Yearbook Editor, French Club, Tutor, Girls Track in javelin and long jump. She has also served in the Penney library as a librarian's assistant.

Performing various roles in bloodmobile centers as a volunteer with the Red Cross, Miss Kundaje has obtained a first aid certificate and a license to function as a nurse's assistant. This summer she hopes to do volunteer hospital work.

Debris from a damaged apartment building shows where fire was started in the Centennial Apartments, Chestnut Street, Wednesday afternoon. Officials said the fire, similar to one at the same place on April 29, was "definitely set." Police are investigating. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Second apartment fire was arson

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

The second suspicious fire within two weeks at the Centennial Apartments on Chestnut Street was definitely set, according to Town Fire Department officials.

A resident of the apartments smelled smoke and called the fire department at 2:37 p.m. Wednesday. Firefighters discovered the origin of the fire in a closet of an empty janitor's apartment in the basement of the four-story structure and put it out quickly.

Police called the building a "real fire trap." There are no fire walls or fire doors in the basement area where the two fires were started. Some of the ceiling has holes in it.

The fire and police officials also pointed out the easy access to the basement area. The door to the apartment where the fire was set was not locked Wednesday, they said.

The debris from the last fire on April 29 in an adjacent basement storage area was still in the basement Wednesday. Three separate fires were discovered in the basement in the first incident. Town Fire Chief John Rivosa said those fires were set.

Fire and police officials as well as residents of the large apartment building are concerned over the dangerous situation. There are many elderly residents in the more than 40 units.

Rivosa inspected the building after

GOP chief still waits to choose

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hedging a bit on earlier statements, Republican State Chairman Frederick Biebel said today he may wait until after the GOP state convention in July before endorsing one of the party's three gubernatorial candidates.

At the same time, Biebel predicted that one of the GOP gubernatorial hopefuls — U.S. Rep. Ronald Sarasin, Senate Minority Leader Howard P. Thurmond, or Sen. Dan Claitor — will take a commanding lead in the next 30 to 45 days.

Earlier this year, Biebel suggested he would come out for one of the candidates this spring. But at a morning news conference today, Biebel told reporters he's having second thoughts about an earlier endorsement.

"I could come out beforehand or I could wait until the convention," Biebel said.

Later in the news conference, Biebel said he may wait until after the convention before making his choice known. By that time, the party will have already chosen its gubernatorial candidate for the November election.

Biebel said he expects one of the GOP gubernatorial hopefuls to "jump ahead" in the next month to 45 days. But he refused to say who that candidate would be.

"My feeling is we will have a first ballot victory and we won't have a primary," Biebel said.

He said the Republicans would be hurt by a state-wide primary and he would use his influence to convince candidates not to force the issue.

"I don't think we have the time or the money," he said.

The GOP state chairman also said the party will have an extensive poll conducted to see how the candidates are doing. The results should be ready by the end of May or the beginning of June, he said.

Biebel also announced that Stevens, Rome and Sarasin will square off in a "forum" in Hartford on June 5.

Opinion

End of smallpox road

There is a strong chance that a young male citizen of southern Somalia has assured himself a place in history. If the World Health Organization is correct, he had the world's last case of smallpox. That was last October. He has since recovered and in the subsequent six months there has not been another case reported anywhere in the world. It will be another 18 months before smallpox can be officially declared eradicated, since W.H.O. certifies a country free of the disease only after two years without a case having passed. The last recorded outbreak of smallpox in the United States was 1949. The worldwide campaign against the ancient scourge began little more than a decade ago and by 1975, all the continents were free except Africa. Medical surveillance continues in Somalia's East African neighborhood and this in fact not be the end of the road for the onetime killer and maimer of millions yearly. But it has to be awfully close to it.

Bright babies who shame adults

By I.E.F. RODERICK
PHILADELPHIA — As in many American cities, there is a hue and cry this spring in Philadelphia over the thousands of high school seniors who are about to graduate, but who can't read. The screams of protest no doubt would be louder still if citizens were introduced to several thousand other boys and girls who have trained here and who can read. They are "graduates" of The Institutes for Achievement of Human Potential. And they are 2-year-olds. Rubbing salt into the wound is the fact that many of these children accomplished their mental feats — regarded as very commonplace here — being brain-injured. "A newborn child is like an empty computer," explains Glenn J. Doman, director of the Institutes. "If a parent starts early enough and stimulates his or her baby properly, most children could be geniuses." Doman, who heads a professional staff of 30 at this unique 35-year-old institution, has spanned the world developing and verifying such theories. One 2½-year-old in

Coventry petition is disturbing

To the editor:
It was most disturbing to see articles in the local papers concerning the move to petition the Coventry Town Meeting of May 12 to adjourn to a referendum. This is nothing short of absurdity! Let us hear, discuss, challenge, amend, and then vote. This can only be accomplished through the open process of the annual town meeting. If we are not satisfied with the results then let us seek a referendum. Given the obvious absurdity of this petition to referendum, I found it bewildering as to what motivated the authors of this petition. Initially, upon adjournment to a referendum, no motions or amendments to the budget can be presented by the citizens nor acted upon by the Town Council! In essence, the true spirit of the open town meeting is forsaken and the process reverts to a simple Yes or No vote at a referendum. The budget cannot be questioned or challenged by the citizens — a situation I regard as quite removed from "open government." Taken in this context — now with all the facts before us, the concept of immediate adjournment to referendum upon the convening of the town meeting is actually asking the citizens of Coventry to forego their right to hear and question the budget. This is nothing short of absurdity! Let us hear, discuss, challenge, amend, and then vote. This can only be accomplished through the open process of the annual town meeting. If we are not satisfied with the results then let us seek a referendum. Bible is ambiguous

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — It won't wash. Opponents of capital punishment simply cannot be permitted to quote selectively from the Bible to argue that God is on their side. I had thought better of State Sen. John Marchi of New York, a liberal of wondrous moderation. But during the debate just before the Senate failed by one vote to override Gov. Hugh Carey's veto of the death penalty, there stood Marchi shouting: "When did 'Thou shalt not kill' become negotiable?" To be sure, murder is outlawed by the Commandments. But in the same Book of Exodus, the Old Testament God who forbade it demands: "Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot." It can be argued, therefore, that he explicitly decreed the penalty for murder. Then, in Matthew, the issue becomes complicated by the strictures of a New Testament God: "Ye have learned that it hath been said, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. But I say unto you, that ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." No theologian, I'm not going to wander into a long-winded dissertation on the matter. But I would not reject the argument that in the New Testament God forbade only individual punishment of a murderer. It seems to me he left up in the air whether a government of men, which he accepted as a defense against anarchy, properly could claim a killer's life. There must be some explanation for that "eye for eye" imperative. So all imperfect man can do is to try to cope with living in the real world man has created. Facing this fact, it seems to me the death penalty people have a case. Murder is commonplace in America, not only in big cities but in many leafy suburbs and even in some sleepy farm towns. No other penalty has ever worked as punishment, or more important, as a deterrent. A case in point: Gov. Carey pardoned one Eric Thompson for his role in the Attica prison uprising several years ago. Under the name Cleveland Davis, Thompson now stands accused of the recent slaying of two New York City policemen. Thompson has been suspected of killing another inmate while in Attica. Had there been a death penalty, it might have been used against Thompson and those two policemen would be alive today. Yet Carey found the bill immoral. He declared that "retribution is not the same thing as punishment," a statement that surely must have surprised the average bank teller. Besides, what's the matter with retribution? The Bible did not command the Jews to smite their enemies blind and thigh as merely as a means of getting a little outdoor exercise. And surely a killer is everybody's enemy. Actually, the bill under consideration in the New York Senate was a relatively mild one. It would have allowed, but not required, executions for a number of "intentional murders," providing that a jury separate from the trial jury found at least one "aggravating circumstance" to be an element in the crime. A good lawyer could do business with a law like that. Yet Carey found the bill immoral. He declared that "retribution is not the same thing as punishment," a statement that surely must have surprised the average bank teller. Besides, what's the matter with retribution? The Bible did not command the Jews to smite their enemies blind and thigh as merely as a means of getting a little outdoor exercise. And surely a killer is everybody's enemy.

Hospital exceeds budget for year

Manchester Memorial Hospital is one of 25 of the state's 35 general hospitals that have exceeded their authorized budgets for the fiscal year ending last September, according to the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care. Manchester Memorial Hospital spent $741,173 over its authorized $16.1 million, or 4.6 percent in excess. Each year, the hospital submits a report to the commission with an estimated number of patients and services required for the following year. On the basis of that report, a hospital spokesman said that the commission approves the income allowed determined on a given amount of volume, from which the hospital reckons its rates. The spokesman said that Manchester Memorial Hospital had more patients than estimated during the 1977 fiscal year, and therefore more income. Manchester Memorial Hospital along with the other 24 hospitals will explain their excessive budgets to the commission at its May 23 meeting. Rockville General Hospital exceeded its budget by 1.2 percent.

GAO: investigate thyself

Defense is becoming too involved in the day-to-day management process.
Every major federal department and agency has been criticized by GAO, for spending money too fast or too slow, for having too few or too many employees and for every other imaginable managerial inadequacy. No area of government endeavor is too obscure to escape GAO's attention — including Guam's inadequate budgeting and accounting system, overpriced contracts for elevator maintenance at Veterans Administration hospitals and poor planning within the District of Columbia school system. The results of almost all the work of GAO's 5,200 employees — including 3,100 auditors, investigators and other professionals — are presented to Congress, the press and the public in the form of blue-covered reports. But those documents are distributed under a slipshod, inefficient and archaic system. The result is that much of GAO's valuable work is clogged in a bottleneck of massive proportions. "The system is inefficient and I know it," admits Cynthia A. Schwartz, acting manager of GAO's distribution branch, which is supposed to respond to 95,000 requests each year for copies of 480,000 GAO reports. To handle the requests that come pouring in by mail, telephone and personal visits, Ms. Schwartz is allowed to hire temporary workers for six months. Their term of service can be extended for an additional six months, but after a year they must be dismissed. Although agency officials have limited the number of permanent employees, Ms. Schwartz is allowed to hire temporary workers for six months. Their term of service can be extended for an additional six months, but after a year they must be dismissed. Automated equipment soon to be installed ought to reduce the processing time and Ms. Schwartz has long-range plans to seek authority for more permanent employees. # Mayor, council unmoved by educators' pleas

By MAL BARLOW Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD — Mayor Richard Blackstone and members of the Town Council appeared unmoved by the explanations for a bigger school system budget offered Wednesday night by school leaders.

The council held its third budget workshop session Wednesday at the Town Hall. Only item on the agenda was the $21 million Board of Education proposed budget for fiscal year 1979.

offered a bid on the next year's contract. The board has told the administration to go to bid once more for a better busing contract, he said.

Dr. Diggs said the busing contract is going to be high no matter who gets it. State and federal regulations on safety make the busing business much more costly. Also, the state mandates the town must transport students to state-mandated programs no matter where they are.

The board's proposal is six percent higher than the current budget. Mayor Blackstone suggested to the council the rise be only five percent.

The council has the final say over how big the school budget is. But the board has final say over just how the budget is spent.

A battle of press comments preceded the Wednesday meeting. The mayor said suggested cut of $200,000 is just one percent of the total and can easily be made by the board. He pointed to fat accounts for school administrators, custodians, and classroom supplies.

Board Chairman Lawrence DePonte said the board would have to cut out more teachers.

Superintendent Eugene Diggs said maybe the school system could eliminate the school nurses and social workers. The town could perform their functions.

Council questions
Esther Clarke, GOP minority leader of the council, did most of the hard questioning Wednesday of the school leaders. She asked about the $100 per month mileage allowance given the superintendent and the $50 per month given his top aides.

"I think it's cheaper in the long run to do it this way," said Dr. Diggs. He compared the system to buying staff cars or to paying by the mile.

She pressed several lines about the school system's use of and need for Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) workers. They are paid $760,000 with federal funds. But are they performing tasks the schools had been doing before with regular staff?

Harry Egazarian of the council joined Mrs. Clarke in asking for details on CETA workers.

Dr. Jerry Marcus, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, insisted the CETA workers were doing "things we couldn't do otherwise."

Dr. Diggs said both the school leaders and the CETA workers know well the program is only short term.

"We are benefiting from CETA," he said. "But they are not replacing anybody."

Mrs. Clarke also pressed them for details on school supplies. Leon Bassow, coordinator of the audio

They explained the total number of administrators has not shrunk at all since 1969, despite a drop of over 3,000 students, because of many things. One main reason is the heavy demand for "paper work" by state-mandated programs and federally funded programs.

"People are needed to answer them," said DePonte.

He noted the administrators now are heavy on the side of direct education. There is a new one in charge of reading and another in charge of math, for example.

Mrs. Clarke asked Dr. Diggs if he had really meant to cut out school nurses.

He said the nurses proposal was merely one of several options he would offer to the board as ways of cutting out the $213,000 suggested by the mayor. Other options would be to increase average class size and cut teachers, cut other services, or end the large increase in the number of police for the coming year.

The council will meet on the budget once more Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Town Hall. Then the council will hold a public hearing on the budget Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Finally, the council will set the tax rate and the final budget Tuesday, May 23.

On school maintenance, the mayor said, "We're tops (in salaries) in the state. We do a good job but there's a lot of waste."

He insisted the town had been "overly generous" with the school budget in the past. Many items in the town's budget had been neglected although he did not name them. He has asked for a more than 10 percent increase in the number of police for the coming year.

Teen-ager held in fire that killed his father

HARTFORD — An East Hartford teen-ager has been accused of setting a fire in a Hartford home shortly after Christmas last year that claimed the life of his father.

Jeffrey Baker, 17, was charged with criminal negligent homicide and arson. He was released from Common Pleas Court Wednesday until a hearing May 23, with the understanding he will continue psychiatric testing at Norwich State Hospital.

The youth's father, Earle Baker, 53, died Dec. 27 when fire swept the home of Virginia Bacon. Mrs. Bacon, newly widowed, asked Baker and his son to stay with her overnight because she had been harassed by telephone calls and was afraid.

Jeffrey Baker alerted the two about the fire and reported it before climbing out a window to a second-story roof, where he waited until rescued. Mrs. Bacon escaped from the second floor by a stairway to the kitchen.

The elder Baker died when the stairs collapsed beneath him.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today said she believes nothing was wrong with the newspaper advertising campaign leading to her crushing New Britain primary defeat of Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian.

While Killian has accused Mrs. Grasso's backers of using dirty tricks to win the May 2 primary, the governor today said the voters of New Britain "made their decision with full knowledge of all the facts involved."

There were several advertisements in the New Britain Herald before the primary that led the reader to believe they would be voting for a local politician if they pulled the correct voting machine lever.

But the politician, Eddy Januszewski, was not a candidate on the ballot.

Killian has asked the Elections Commission, the attorney general, the chief state's attorney and the Connecticut Probate Court administrator to review the advertising campaign to see if any laws were violated.

East Hartford sergeant graduate of FBI school

EAST HARTFORD — Police Sgt. James Keegan, 36, graduated March 24 from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Academy in Quantico, Va.

Police Chief Clarence Drumm said Monday, "The academy is the most prestigious educational facility in our field."

"When you start sending your officers to the academy, you're building the future hierarchy of the department," said the chief. "The school is available to middle and upper management people."

The departments in the state can send no more than a total of four to each 11-week session. The only other graduate of the academy on the East Hartford force is Lt. Richard Lewis of the administrative branch.

"I don't think East Hartford will have to go outside for the next chief," said Drumm who was hired away from the Hamden Police Department in 1973 to be chief. "We could certainly draw the leadership from this force today."

Board learns a lesson on need for craftsmen

EAST HARTFORD — The Board of Education members learned a lesson May 1 when they attended a career education workshop at the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft plant in town.

The lesson: Industry needs more skilled craftsmen. The personnel department of the United Technologies firm showed the educators slides and talked about the two main reasons for a shortage of education workers.

COVENTRY — The Board of Education will hear a report on the Captain Nathan Hale School Athletic Fund from School Superintendent Arnold Elman at its meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at the high school.

Disgruntled taxpayers have petitioned for the referendum as an alternative to permitting the public meeting to either accept or reject the budget.

Increased tax rate set after meeting

HEBRON — The Board of Finance voted, at a five minute meeting Monday, to set a 45 mill tax rate for 1978.

The meeting followed a Finance Board meeting that approved the Finance Board recommended budget of $2,761,110 on a voice vote. About 100 persons were present.

The mill rate is an increase of three mills over the current mill rate of 42 and is the first increase since 1975.

At the beginning of the town meeting Finance Chairman Jack Baker said he had received a petition stating the town is planning "to spend too much money this year."

Discussion at the meeting was basically for informational purposes on various items.

Gym funds approved

ANDOVER — Money for a gymnasium addition at Andover Elementary School was appropriated by voters in Wednesday's referendum.

A total of 444 persons voted, 257 cast "yes" votes and 187 cast "no" votes. The referendum was open to registered voters and property owners having at least $1,000 in property assessed.

Two directors suggest country club changes

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Two members of the Manchester Board of Directors have recommended several changes affecting the Manchester Country Club, including a renegotiation of the club's lease with the town and a discount day for seniors.

The directors - Stephen Cassano and Carl Zinzer - met Wednesday night with representatives of the country club to discuss proposed playing rate increases and changes in present arrangements.

Cassano and Zinzer have prepared a list of recommendations that they will present to the Board of Directors for Tuesday night's meeting.

Action is expected to be taken this week because some of the fee increases for daily play are expected to go into effect June 1.

The directors have proposed that the daily playing fee be raised to $7 for weekdays and $9 for weekends. The fees are now $5 and $7. The directors also are recommending a $10 daily fee for out-of-town players about half of what the country club originally had asked for.

The increases, $25 for a single membership and $50 for a family, are about the same as what the country club has requested with the town and the country club representatives of the club who met with Cassano and Zinzer Wednesday.

The lease now runs through 1980. "There's a fear of making capital improvements to the clubhouse or the course in case the town takes over the club in 12 years," Cassano said.

Zinzer said that the town might consider extending the lease for another 12 years and Zinzer said that the renegotiation could include such things as a cost-of-living adjustment that would permit playing rates to increase at a certain rate based on inflation.

Any increases now have to be approved by the directors.

Cassano and Zinzer said that the renegotiation also might include student discount rates or additional discounts for senior citizens.

Joyner resigns post to preclude conflict

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Walter Joyner has resigned from Manchester's Advisory Board of Health because of an apparent conflict of interest connected with work his firm does for the town.

Joyner is president of Colonial Empire Inc., a firm that does maintenance work at the two town libraries. The firm has had the contract since 1963 without competitive bidding.

The town normally requires competitive bids for any service that costs more than $1,000 a year. This restriction is dropped if a bid waiver is approved by the Board of Directors, which has been done in past years for the library maintenance contract.

The maintenance work, which is renewed annually, now costs $22,153. The Library Board, which meets tonight, is in the process of considering the work for the 1978-79 fiscal year, which begins July 1, Leo Diana, chairman of the Library Board, said. The board in past years has endorsed the bid waiver for the work.

The work is done without competitive bids or a written contract.

Diana said that when the firm started working for the town, it was cheaper to hire a private firm than to have full-time custodians.

Joyner's firm also provides a monitoring service where an employee of the firm regularly walks through the aisles of the book stacks for security purposes, Diana said. Joyner is seeking the Republican Party's nomination for the 12th Assembly District, a seat he ran for and lost two years ago.

He announced his decision to step down from the Advisory Board of Health in a letter to Dr. Alice Turek, director of the town's Health Department.

"My attention has been called to the fact that I am in possible violation of the Town Charter by serving on the board," Joyner wrote.

The town's Charter Revision Commission recently began studying the conflict-of-interest provision and others included in the Town Charter. It is expected to recommend some changes.

Police report

John F. Calotta, 22, of Bloomfield was arrested on a warrant Wednesday on a charge of illegal sale of a controlled substance. He was released on a non-surety bond for court appearance June 5.

Linda Bobb, 30, of Hartford was arrested on a rearrest warrant on fourth-degree larceny charge in connection with a shoplifting incident. Court date is June 5.

A burglary was reported at a Pearl Street home Wednesday from which a handgun and some other weapons and ammunition were taken.

A burglar was reported to have entered a High Street home Tuesday night, but was frightened off when the resident investigated, police said. Nothing was missing.

An attempted burglary was reported at an Olcott Street apartment, but no entry was made.

Four cars parked in the commuter parking lot at Burr Corners were vandalized Wednesday. Two CB radios and some tools were stolen from two of the cars. Nothing was taken except an antenna from one of the other two.

Female firefighter not strong enough

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - Louise Harmony saw writing on the wall after three weeks training as New Haven's first, female firefighter.

The 30-year-old former physical education instructor, farmer and carpenter, resigned early this week. The 115-pound trainee said she just was not strong enough for the job.

"It was on Monday I began to see that I was having an extreme amount of difficulty with the scaling ladders," she said Wednesday, one day after she quit. "I decided to resign and move on to something I would do well, rather than staying around and doing something poorly."

She said she had no problems early in the training program when she had to lift a 160-pound man and hoist a 275-pound ladder with another firefighter.

But, Ms. Harmony could not manage the 14-foot scaling ladder, which is single-poled and weighs 20 pounds. Firefighters lift the ladder, attach the hook on the top of it to something solid, then climb up, re-attaching the ladder after pausing on a ledge at each level.

"When I got it fully extended, it seemed to weigh much more than 20 pounds," she said. "And, then I had to maneuver the hook. I was working at 100 percent capacity."

Assistant Fire Chief John Smith said Ms. Harmony was satisfied she had been given an equal opportunity. Smith said a few more women are taking the test Saturday.

Blue Shutter Play and Learn School for three- to five-year-olds, will have a Mother's Day program Friday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the school, which is located at Trinity Covenant Church, 302 Hackmatack St.

The program will feature mothers wearing hats designed and made by the children. There also be an art exhibit and dramatic play and music.

Registration is being accepted for the non-profit, non-sectarian school for the 1978-79 year. For information call Judy Martney, director, 682-7277, or Carolyn Dewey, 648-8356.

Survey fails to show needs of handicapped

By ALICE KAVANS
Herald Reporter

Manchester's door-to-door survey isn't doing what the Commission on the Handicapped wants because it is only identifying the handicapped in town and not their needs.

The commission feels that the only way it can help the handicapped is by finding out what they need the most and what they want the most.

"We have to find out if we're working for nothing. Maybe there is a need, and maybe there isn't," Commissioner Frank Vaccaro, said.

"Once we identify the handicapped and know their needs, then we can get them out of their shells," Commissioner Gerardo DeLoe said.

To help solve the problem, the commission will suggest that the interviewers ask people in the homes where there are handicapped persons to comment on their needs.

The commission is concerned about the Phone-a-Ride bus service for the handicapped, because few are using the bus.

Survey fails to show needs of handicapped

Two of the drawbacks, the commission feels, is that a 48-hour reservation is needed and that the schedule is confusing. The commissioners are questioning the difference between the Phone-a-Ride contract which calls for "at least 24" hour notice and the 48-hour regulation. It would be better to cope with the 24 hours notice; it's too complicated to call Thursday for a bus trip on Monday, Ms. DeLoe said.

The commission is planning to mail copies of the bus schedule and, perhaps, a copy of the bus routes to the members of the Organization of the Handicapped.

"I've been fighting for transportation equipment with lifts for several years and never thought of emergency," Vaccaro said. He discovered the need for emergency bus service recently when he needed help, and was told the only service he could get was a taxi with a medical assistant, costing $15 for a one-way trip.

The commission is also looking into ways to mark spaces reserved for the handicapped more clearly so that others won't use them.

Rule to be tested
The slow pitch softball controversy in Manchester which has raged for several years regarding non-residents is about ready to erupt again.

Carl Silver, program director for the Rec and supervisor of the nine local leagues, reports that the 1978 ruling restricting play only to local residents will be tested by a member of the Women's Rec League.

Silver said the woman, who owns property in Manchester but resides outside the town limits, has forwarded a letter to the Rec office. The matter will be turned over to Town Counsel Dave Barry for a legal opinion.

Scholastic tennis

MANCHESTER HIGH
With Mike Custer picking up a point in the No. 4 singles slot, Manchester High boys' tennis team was trimmed by Simsbury High, 6-1.

Custer had to go into a tiebreaker to win his three-set match. He was down, 3-6, in the tiebreaker but came back to take a 6-3, 6-6, and the match by 2-6, 6-4, 7-6 scores. The Silk Towners now sport a 7-2 record while Simsbury upped its standard to 7-1.

CCIL title hopes dimmed in defeat

Hopes of a CCIL girls' softball title by Manchester High were dimmed yesterday as defending champion Simsbury High nipped the Indians, 3-2, at Simsbury's Memorial Field.

The loss drops Manchester into a tie for second place with Simsbury as each 11-2, while Enfield took sole possession of first place at 12-1 with a 20-2 pasting of Concord.

The Trojans did all their scoring in the second inning. The first two batters bunted and wound up at second and third base on bunt errors. After a strikeout, a perfectly executed squeeze bunt brought home the first triple.

Nancy Grigor bunted and was thrown out at first while Grigor and Manchester's Shirley Adams. The Indians got one back in the sixth.

EAST CATHOLIC

Once-beaten East Catholic boys' tennis team took a 6-1 decision over Newton High yesterday at Manchester Community College.

Pete Visiglio, Greg Larrea, David Shinn and Matt Barone swept the singles for the Eagles.

Results: Visiglio (EC) def. Pettengill 6-2, 7-6; Larrea (EC) def. Soderberg 6-2, 7-6; Shinn (EC) def. McCuskey 6-1, 7-5.

Scholastic sports

Track - EAST GIRLS
East Catholic girls' track team won a 40-point swing in the 440-yard relay because of a disqualification wound up on the short end of a 65-58 decision to Windsor High yesterday in Windsor.

The Eaglettes found one apparently had the four points locked up in the 440 relay with a time of :54.4 but was disqualified with the points going to Windsor. East now sports a 2-9 record.

Yvonne Nolen was a triple winner for East, copying the 100, 220 and 440 for Bennett. Nancy Walsh, Brenda Allen and Beth White also performed well for the locals.

Softball

EAST GIRLS
Dropping its fourth straight yesterday was East Catholic girls' softball team, 20-5, to Mercy High in Middletown.

The Eaglettes, now 6-7 for the season, must win five of their last six to qualify for post-season play. Mercy plated nine runs in the second inning and six more in the third to put the contest away early. East plated one run in the first, two in the second frame and one each in the sixth and seventh innings.

Laurie Barry had three hits including a two-run triple and Denise Douthett added a single and triple for the Eaglettes. Suzanne Willett contributed an RBI double to the East cause.

Mercy had 14 hits compared to eight for East.

Golf

EAST CATHOLIC
East Catholic golf team came away with a split yesterday at Goodwin Park. The Eagle linkamen topped but Bulkeley, 4-1, but were whitewashed by Norwich Free Academy, 5-0.

East is now 5-2 for the season. Norwich's Dino Malaspina took medalist honors with a 78. Paul Forley (EC) def. Bisso Lup, Smith (EC) def. Opalenik 6-5, East won medal point, 333-348.

East vs. NFA: Malaspina (N) def. Peracchio 3-2; Pentlands (N) def. Charvelis 7-4; McNally (N) def. Forley 2-1; Petka (N) def. Smith 5-3; Dietsch 1; Pavesi (N), 2; Griffin (EC), N. K. Walsh (EC) 8' 14".

MHS JAYVEES

Manchester High girls' jayvee softball team dropped a 13-6 decision to Simsbury High yesterday in Simsbury.

Teri Ferguson and Laura Hewitt each had two hits and Deb Dawson behind the plate and third baseman Pam Harmon played well defensively for the 8-2 Indians.

Baseball

ILLING JAYVEES
Illing jayvee baseball team thumped Ansonia yesterday, 15-5. Eric Stepper and Sean Nevins each had two hits and winning pitcher Paul Peck fanned nine for the 1-2 Rams.

Tech ends losing skein

Ending a three-game losing streak, Cheney Tech upended Vinal Tech, 6-4, in COC baseball action yesterday at the Beavers' Field.

The win improves Cheney's conference and overall record to 4-7 with the Beavers slated to play at Bolton in a makeup today. Vinal dips to 6-6 in the COC and 7-7 overall with the defeat.

"Not having played for about a week because of the weather, I really didn't know what was going to happen," pemed Tech Coach Aaron Silva. "Fortunately we played one of our better games of the year. We're still making the five or so errors per game - and it almost cost us another one."

The visitors plated one run in the second as Kevin Calhoun successfully squeezed home Babe Whitehead. Cheney, however, slipped back with two tallies in its half.

Ricky Ross reached on an error.

Vinal came back in the seventh to score three times, aided by Cheney bobbles, but came up short.

"(Dave) Gustamachio pitched a very strong game," noted Silva. "He was only in trouble because of pitched mistakes. What impressed me was that he didn't let the mistakes phase him. He hung in there and threw hard and well the entire seven innings."

Gustamachio walked one and fanned two in recording his second win against four losses. Pomeroy collected two of Cheney's six hits. Bill Nobility went the route for Vinal, walking two and striking out two, and absorbed the loss.

Beats the throw

Cheney's Randy Lanzano walked, Chuck Dumas reached on an error by right fielder scoring Ross and Bob Pomeroy delivered an RBI single plating Lanzano.

The locals added a run in the third as Mike Pitkin doubled, moved to third on a groundout and scored on Jim Bourdeau's grounder to first.

Cheney played key markers in the sixth. Bourdeau singled and stole second. He scored as Lanzano doubled and the latter came home on a single by Dumez. Pomeroy singled and grounder by Chris Vann, misjudged by the shortstop, sent Dumez home.

McCluskey and Alex Britnell

each had two hits and Bill Heathly slugged a two-run homer for the Rams, now 4-1.

MHS JAYVEES
Behind the five-hit, 12-strikeout, one-walk pitching performance of Matt Peterson, Manchester High jayvee baseball team blanked Simsbury, 6-0, yesterday in Simsbury.

Doug Ogden had a double, Jim Glibokey two hits and Cary Coffin a single and three RBIs for the young 9-5 Indians.

ILLING JAYVEES

Illing jayvee baseball team thumped Ansonia yesterday, 15-5. Eric Stepper and Sean Nevins each had two hits and winning pitcher Paul Peck fanned nine for the 1-2 Rams.

Area baseball

There were some close decisions in area baseball contests yesterday.

Rockyville won High nipped Windsor Locks, 7-6, while South Windsor High was edged in 10 innings by unbeaten Windsor, 9-8, in COC contests. Penney High saw its four-game win skein snapped by a 6-5 cut by Windham.

Also, CCCU leader East Hartford won its 11th straight, 6-1, over Permi High; Coventry High downed Bham, 6-1, and Bolton High dropped its second in as many days, 12-4, to Bacon Academy.

Scott Tetschell and Russ Allen each had two hits and Joe Murphy picked up the win for 8-3 Rockyville.

Paul Haggerty had a two-run homer to go High bingles but wasn't dropped its 11th in 13 outings and out of post-season consideration.

Windham played two runs in the bottom of the ninth to edge Penney. Dan Lima collected three of the Black Knights' 10 safeties. Penney slipped to 6-7 with the loss.

Bob Ouellette tossed a five-hitter to win his record to 5-1 as East Hartford looked its 12th win in 13 tries. Joe Kohler and Bob DeSaunier each racked two hits for the winning Hornets.

Mark Morse tossed a five-hitter, fanning nine, to pace 7-3 Coventry to victory over 8-4 Ham. Bolton fell to 0-11 with the loss to Bacon Academy.

Tribe hits homers, bows to Simsbury

Manchester High baseball team's bus got lost going to Simsbury's Memorial Field, taking the scenic route to West Hartford arriving a half hour late, and considering the outcome the Indians probably wish they never made it.

With the top four in the batting order inflicting most of the damage, the homecoming Trojans tacked a 6-2 setback on the Silk Towners in CCIL baseball play yesterday.

The loss drops the locals to 6-8 overall and they must win four of their last six to qualify for the State Tournament for the sixth consecutive time. Simsbury improved its league and overall log to 7-6 with the decision.

The hosts scored once in the second on a single by Dave Elmer, two walks and a fielder's choice. John Sorich belted a two-run, third-inning 340-foot homer to right center following a long double by Rick Samuelsen.

Simsbury chased Triber starter Brad Ingraham, who didn't have the velocity exhibited in an impressive relief outing last Saturday, in the fifth. Ingraham, 1-2, walked five, fanned five and was touched for six hits in 4 2/3 innings.

Elmer slugged a 2-RBI double and a bases-loaded walk to John Reilly. The last batter faced by Ingraham, completed the Trojan scoring.

Manchester, blanked 5-0 by Simsbury the first meeting, averted a second shutout with a back-to-back 260-foot homers to Tom Prignano and Mike Jordan in the eighth off firing starter Rick Pratt. "It's too bad we didn't get those homers" with men on base," commented Manchester Coach Hal Parks, referring to the fifth inning when the locals loaded the sacks but came up empty.

Matt Heaghey hurried the last 1-2/3 innings to save the win for Pratt. Pratt, 3-1, allowed just three hits.

Wellesley, Mass. (UPI) -

Dennis Bussard, assistant basketball coach and head tennis coach at Wellesley and Lee University, has been named head basketball coach and assistant athletic director at Babson College.

Murray outguessed Boston's Burgmeier

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Boston relief pitcher Tom Murray thought Baltimore Orioles slugger Eddie Murray would be thinking fastball on the 3-2 pitch in the ninth inning Wednesday night.

Instead, Burgmeier tossed Murray a slider on the outside part of the plate, which Murray drilled over the right center field fence for a two-run homer that gave the Orioles a 3-2 victory over Boston.

"I wasn't guessing up at the plate, I was just relaxing," said young career home runs against Boston, plus 18 runs batted in for 17 lifetime games against the Red Sox.

Boston Manager Don Zimmer had replaced starting pitcher Allen Ripley with Burgmeier, 1-1, after the rookie had spaced six Orioles hits in seven and one third innings, including Ken Singleton's third home run in the fourth inning.

"I'd ever did what I wanted to do, this was the game," Zimmer said, while refusing to second guess his strategy.

"With Burgmeier pitching, their switch-hitters were going to have to hit into the right field wind. Murray is a strong man. We had (Bob) Stanley ready to pitch to Lee May but he never got to him. And I wasn't about to walk Murray to get to May," he said.

"Pitcher Carlos Lopez, batting for left-handed hitter Larry Harlow, blooped a broken-bat single to center field off Burgmeier to start the ninth inning and Singleton's sacrifice bunt nudged Lopez to second base.

"I figured he'd be looking for a fastball on the 3-2 pitch," said Burgmeier about Murray's fifth home run.

"I threw him a slider on the outside part of the plate. Even when he hit it, I thought it was a double. It was just one of those things."

The dramatic two-run blast made southpaw Mike Flanagan, 3-3, the winning pitcher.

Flanagan struck out a season high of 10 batters, including Boston second basemen Jerry Remy three times.

"Our hitters usually don't say much about opposing pitchers," said Zimmer, "but they talk about Flanagan's stuff." "He was sharp tonight and I thought Ripley pitched well."

Red Sox designated hitter Butch Hobson singled in his 26th run in the second inning and utility infielder Frank Duffy belted a seventh inning double that gave Boston a 2-1 lead after Hobson had walked and took third base on a single by Dwight Evans.

"Flanagan has command of four pitches," said Duffy, who also had an infield single.

"It's unusual for a pitcher to have that many pitches, but he can throw the fastball, a hard slider, offspeed curve ball or straight changeup any time for strikes that he wants."

Flanagan cited the success of his straight changeup. "It's the first time this season I managed to get Tim Lincecum over for a strikeout. It's a good sign winning this way."

Flanagan has a 2-1 record with 31.00 ERA.

Five double plays spice Chisox win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even in the exhilaration of winning his first major-league game, Chicago White Sox rookie left-hander Rich Wortham might be excused for wondering if he was pitching for the right ballclub Wednesday night.

It isn't often a team turns over four double plays for in its first four innings and adds another later on just for good measure — especially if that team is the White Sox, which last year ranked last in the major leagues in double plays.

But Wednesday night the White Sox suddenly discovered the knack of turning the double play for Wortham, who was making only his second major-league start. The 24-year-old southpaw scattered nine hits over eight innings in the 7-2 Chicago victory over the Minnesota Twins.

"The double play is a pitcher's best friend — that's what they always told me when I was in the minors," said Wortham.

While Wortham's fielders were hauling him out of potential early trouble, the White Sox hitters finally emerged from their four-game losing streak and the worst overall record in baseball. Jorge Orta's double and Chet Lemon's single accounted for two of their first-inning runs off rookie Roger Erickson and Lamar Johnson and Bill Naborczyk added two-run homers.

Wortham was lifted after eight innings, but reliever Jim Willoughby wasn't let down. The White Sox turned over a fifth double play for him in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Boston, 3-2, Cleveland cut away Seattle, 6-1; Texas shaded Milwaukee, 4-3, and Toronto downed Oakland, 3-1.

Blue Jays 3, A's 1

No longer are they the awesome A's. With right-hander Jim Clancy spacing six hits and Rick Bennett and Bob Blair contributing RBI-singles, the Blue Jays handed the A's their fourth straight loss.

Rangers 4, Brewers 3

Bump Willis hit his second home run of the season in the third inning and singled and scored on Al Oliver's two-run double in the fifth. Doyle Alexander got the win.

Indians 6, Mariners 1

Ted Cox singled home two runs and Fred Pruitt belted his third homer of the season to spark Cleveland. Rick Weyant won six innings to gain his second victory.

MCC draws Rhode Island nine in baseball tournament

Ranked seventh in the eight-team field, Manchester Community College's baseball team hopes to continue its giant-killer role this weekend in the New England Junior College Tournament in Brockton, Mass.

The locals will meet several ranked Rhode Island Junior College Saturday morning at 10:30. Rhode Island hosts a 17-4 record while the Cougars fashioned a 15-15 log.

The locals came on strong last week and capped the Connecticut Community College Athletic Association Tournament at their home diamond in a major upset.

Kevin Hanlon, ace right-handed pitcher, who beat top-seeded Housatonic with a brilliant three-hitter last Saturday, has received honorable mention on the All-New England Junior College squad.

EASTERN

Scorer's nightmare best describes last night's play at Army & Navy outlasted Second Congo, 32-25, at Nebo.

The winners scored 15 runs in the second inning and were so tired they went scoreless in the third.

Ron Allen stroked four hits and Wayne Gagnon had three, one grand slam homer. Bill Belekewicz and Bob Gagnon each had three hits and Charlie Feder and Gary Wieliczka two each for the Vets.

Five hits came off the bat of Dave Strimkie and Neal Montany. Syl Bolton and Ron Tweedie each hammered out three and Bob Flah and Al Flyer two each in defeat.

DUSTY

Snapping a 9-9 tie with eight runs in the sixth frame, Trash Away topped the BA Club last night at Robertson, 19-9.

Big guns for the winners were Stu Magdefarn with three hits and Henry Cammeyer, Pete Lombardo and Jim Michalek with two singles each.

Jim Tuttle homered for the Club and Ernie Brown collected three hits and Gordie Plouffe and Bill Sigrins two hits each.

WOMEN'S REC

Keytrounced the Elks last night at Cheney, 18-3, as Karen Lemier stroked three hits, Barbara Faul and Sherril Nelson added two each for the Painters. The Elks were held to four hits.

CANDLELIGHT

Pogarty's trimmed Vito's, 11-4, at Robertson Park and Peter's nipped Allied Printing, 10-9, at Fitzgerald last night.

Merrill Myers and Dave White each homered and singled for the Oilers and Tim Flaherty, John Barry and Rich Marsh were all in the two-hit class.

Best for Vito's were Bud Talaga with three hits and Stan Talaga, Tom Botticello, Tod Talaga and Don Gagnon with two safeties each.

Six runs in the fifth paced Peter's as Neal Mackay had four hits, one a homer. Lou Wellington had a homer in his three-hit game and Rick Nicola and George Brook each added two hits to the cause.

Snapping a 9-9 tie with eight runs in the sixth frame, Trash Away topped the BA Club last night at Robertson, 19-9.

Two hits each were collected by Ed Kowal, Joe Travano, Don Leonard and John Sommers for the Printers.

Colt League tryouts set

Manchester Recreation Department will conduct tryouts the next two Saturdays at Moriarty Field to select players for the two local entries in the Colt Inter-Town Baseball League.

Saturday, infielders only will report from 1 to 3 with outfielders from 3 to 5. The following Saturday the schedule will be reversed.

Rain dates will be May 14 and May 21.

Boys playing schoolboy ball must try out.

Registration will be accepted at the practices.

Ray Camposo will coach one of the entries and a second head coach is sought for the other team. Anyone interested may contact Silver at the Rec office, 646-6010.

League play starts June 11.

Stargell joins elite company

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Stargell, who tied his late teammate for second place on the all-time Pittsburgh Pirate RBI parade Wednesday, reflected, "I joined outstanding company when I got up alongside Roberto Clemente. What a friend he was."

When Stargell drove in his latest two runs, helping Bert Blyleven and the Pirates score a 5-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants, he reached 1,306 career RBIs. 170 behind Honus Wagner, the all-time team leader.

He capped a three-run fifth inning with a double after a single by Frank Taveras, a pair of walks and a sacrifice fly by John Milner. It helped snap San Francisco's four-game winning streak and left Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner praising his veteran.

"He'll play most of the time," Tanner said. "I'd love to see him get the record. He's had a great career with this club and he's been a great asset to the whole game of baseball. If I can help him in any way I will."

Padres 1, Cubs 0

George Hendrick broke an 8-0 17th-inning slump with a solo homer in the fourth inning and Randy Jones pitched his first complete game since May 4, 1977. Rookie Dennis Lamp, 1-4, was the loser.

National League

Phillies 3, Astros 1

Rookie Jim Morrison belted his first major-league home run and drove in two runs. Jim Lonborg, 4-2, earned the victory, allowing his only run on a homer by Cesar Cedeno.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 3

Lon Brock stroked a game-winning sacrifice fly and Jerry Morales socked a two-run homer. Right-hander Mark Littell, in relief of starter John Denny, blanked Los Angeles on two hits over the final six innings to register his first NL victory.

76ers, Sonics triumph

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers presented their best case for the defense Wednesday night, but the Washington Bullets held them off for a 107-97 victory.

The Sixers managed to hold Washington's high-scoring forwards — Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge — to only 12 points apiece Wednesday night en route to a solid 107-97 victory. The win cut the 76ers' deficit to 3-2 in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference final series, but now Philadelphia must travel to Landover, Md., for the sixth game Friday night in the Capital Centre.

A Maryland has treated Philadelphia with very little brotherly love.

"We established our game on the defensive end in the first quarter," Sixers Coach Billy Cunningham said, of the teamwork that contributed to the Bullets missing 11 of their first 12 shots. "We communicated beautifully on defense. Our people were determined to go out there and do the job."

In the Western Conference finals, the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Denver Nuggets, 105-91, to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven series.

The damage was done by Fred Brown and John Johnson, who scored 21 of Seattle's 28 points in the fourth quarter.

Security costs for 1984 Olympics soar

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The estimated cost of security for the 1984 Olympic Games, which are already mired in a quarrel over finances between the city and the International Olympic Committee, has ballooned to more than 20 times the first estimate.

A Police Department spokesman said a study ordered by Chief Daryl Gates, who took command of the department only recently, concluded it will cost at least $2 billion to guard the games.

The Olympics have become an attractive stage for domestic violence and international terrorism in recent years, as at the Mexico City Games in 1968 and the Munich Olympics of 1972.

Former Police Chief Edward Davis originally told Olympic planners that if the city got the 1984 games security would cost from $1 million to $2 million. He later testified before a City Council committee in December that the cost would be about $7 million.

The city attorney's office continued work today on changes in the proposed contract between the IOC and Los Angeles.

Each refused this week to accept the contract written by the other.

Although Los Angeles was the only city to offer to host the 1984 Games, the IOC is not scheduled to make the official designation until a meeting in Athens next week.

It appeared increasingly likely that the gulf between the two sides would force a postponement of the decision.

The IOC has proposed its standard two-page contract, like that signed by Olympic host cities in the past. The city, under political pressure from taxpayers fearful they will get stuck with the bills, brought in lawyers from three of the city's most prestigious law firms, who wrote a 24-page pact filled with specific prohibitions and clauses to protect the city from unwanted expenses.

Anton Caillea, Mayor Tom Bradley's Olympic aide, Tuesday called the disagreement a "question of form," saying there is "no difference in substance," and he expects the city attorney's office can condense the long contract into a shorter version the IOC will accept.

The council previously planned to present the IOC with a take-it-or-leave-it offer, but the two sides were so far apart it was apparent there will be some dickering in Athens.

The IOC has said that if Los Angeles pushes its sole-contender status too far, the committee will go looking for another city.

Depth key element with East racquets

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer
There might not be any superstars in the lineup, but depth has been the key element as the East Catholic girls' tennis team roll to a hoped-for unbeaten season.

Jack Redmond.
"We're strong in the first two singles slots and have good depth after that," Redmond continued. "We have people who would be playing higher up for some other teams."

White, a senior who lost her first regular season singles match in four years recently to Fenney High's Kim Murphy, and freshman Monica Murphy spearhead the East lineup. Seniors Anne Marie Cannata and Kathy Viola, sophomores Katie Sullivan and Sharon Kuczyński and freshman Beth Phillips supply the added strength.

East is two-time defending state Class M champion and could make it three straight in '78. "We're definitely optimistic as far as the states," conceded Redmond. "We're crazy not to consider our depth."

"I don't know who is tough in the division because I've been away from coaching the girls for two years. If we get a couple of points out of doubles, we have a good shot of repeating."

Sugar Ray enjoys life in role helping others

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most of the old trademarks are gone—the long pink Cadillac, the slick high pompadour and the pretentious peacock-like swagger.

Sugar Ray Robinson ain't misbehavin' anymore. Partly through circumstances but primarily by design, he has changed his life style completely. Where big money and bright lights were once his chief preoccupations, he now devotes virtually all his time to kids.

He says he has never enjoyed anything so much in his life. As chairman of the board of the Sugar Ray Youth Foundation in Los Angeles, with additional outlets in Orange County, Calif., Las Vegas and San Francisco, the 38-year-old former middleweight and welterweight champion works with the Board of Education in dealing with the problems of youngsters.

"It's the greatest therapy in the world," he beams. "They keep you so busy, you don't even have time to die. I love children and always have. The kids we work with range from 6 to 16 and we have both girls and boys. Our program takes in music, drama, everything."

Robinson won 174 of his 201 professional bouts, including 109 by knockouts. Along the way, he won the middleweight crown five different times and became recognized as probably the best fighter ever pound for pound before retiring for good in 1955.

On Tuesday, the Boxing Writers of America voted Sugar Ray not only the best boxer of all time, but also the best middleweight and best welterweight.

Joe Louis beat out Muhammad Ali as the best heavyweight. Archie Moore was named best light heavyweight and Roberto Duran, the current champ, was voted the best middleweight.

Teddy Brenner, President of Madison Square Garden Boxing, tells of the time near the end of Robinson's career when he tried to get him to fight Joey Giardello in Philadelphia as a favor to Philadelphia promoter Herman Taylor.

Sugar Ray, 43 at the time, balked at first because he felt he'd have to train too hard at that stage of his career.

"I think you should take the fight no matter how tough it's liable to be," Brenner said.

"Why?" asked Robinson. "I'll tell you why," said Brenner. "The only great black fighter he hasn't fought is you. He deserves your name on his record and you deserve his on yours."

"You're right," Robinson agreed. They fought and Giardello won a decision. That victory earned Giardello a title shot against Dick Tiger in his next fight, which Giardello won to become the middleweight champion.

Had it not been for Sugar Ray Robinson, Giardello never would have even gotten the chance. And if it was for Sugar Ray Robinson now, a lot of kids might not be getting a chance today.

Robinson was stopped only once in his 25-year career and that was by light heavyweight champ Joey Maxim in 1952 when the temperature at ringside reached 98 degrees at Yankee Stadium. Robinson was so dehydrated, he couldn't answer the bell for the 14th round. He went into that fight weighing 159 pounds and came out at 146.

Attracted by Arab armies, the outnumbered Jews fought back with ancient rifles, improvised cannons, homemade mortars and leftover German Messerschmitt 109E warplanes from Czechoslovakia.

The new state of Israel consolidated its hold on the captured territories, building as many settlements as it could to defend frontline positions in the Golan Heights of Syria and along the Jordan River.

Israel enters fourth decade, still unsettled

By RICHARD C. GROSS
TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — After 30 embattled years, Israel is embarking on its fourth decade still searching for peace.

Most of the world says this is Israel's own fault. Israel embarked on its first adventure in 1948, joining with the British and French to launch an assault against the Egyptians in Sinai that took Israeli troops all the way to the Suez Canal.

The message from the Americans then as now was the same: Get out. Little, it seems, has changed. Israel, now as in 1956, never has had a viable alternative other than to bow to Washington.

Its unwillingness to accept only a piece of paper labeled "Peace Agreement" from the Arabs has cost it friends and provoked anger among its few allies. But Israel today trusts no one and wants ironclad guarantees of peace.

It wasn't always that way. A world terrified by the Nazi extermination of 6 million European Jews before and during World War II gave the survivors the homeland they had been seeking for half a century.

The new state of Israel consolidated its hold on the captured territories, building as many settlements as it could to defend frontline positions in the Golan Heights of Syria and along the Jordan River.

Bank of the Jordan River and trying to make the desert bloom in Sinai. For these areas were captured in 1967 from Jordan and Egypt and the world doesn't see them as lands for Jewish settlement.

A Texas spread

Lawrence Skloss decided to take up the culinary cudgel on behalf of Texas culture. Skloss, a newspaper advertising director, said he wanted to put an end to the image of Texas as a state full of 'a bunch of cowboys and Indians'.

American securities laws, conspiracy and wire fraud for allegedly stripping his off-shore mutual fund, Investors Overseas Services, of $224 million.

He also is charged in New York with making an illegal $250,000 contribution in 1972 to then-President Richard Nixon's re-election campaign.

Jackie ripped Glenn Frey, singer-guitarist on the Eagles rock band, had both good and bad news after the Eagles, in a much-heralded 'grudge match,' beat the Rolling Stone newspaper staff, 15-4, in a weekend softball game in Los Angeles.

The bad news: While he was celebrating, a thief - probably a soured fan - slipped into the dugout and stole his special Eagles jacket. The good news: The thief won't have to worry about musical competition from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodgers Manager Tommy Lasorda wired the Eagles congratulations, offering 'I won't teach my girls to sing or play guitar, I'll promise to keep your team off the field.'

'Why, Miss Jones...' Shirley Hack, the model familiar from 'Charlie' perfume ads, got a surprise when she went to audition

Moffett wants new judge system

HARTFORD (UPI) - Federal judges and U.S. attorneys should be selected on the basis of what they know, not who they know, says Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn.

Plane orders to mean jobs

HARTFORD (UPI) - Pratt & Whitney Aircraft says it will hire 800 more employees in Connecticut this year, partly because of a huge order from Singapore Airlines Ltd. for Boeing jets equipped with Pratt & Whitney engines.

YOU CAN ALWAYS SPOT SBM's - SPOILED! The principal reason for this large order is the expansion of our normal routes to Europe, Tokyo, Australia and also over the Pacific, Pilly said.

Next head of UConn may be from within

FARMINGTON (UPI) - University of Connecticut trustees say the next UConn president may be selected from the school's vice presidents.

State nurses claim labor law violation

HARTFORD (UPI) - A state employees' union has filed an unfair labor practice charge against Connecticut, demanding a pay raise for 800 nurses who work in 14 state facilities.
