Fredonia, N.Y., man, 35, new principal for MHS

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Jacob Ludes III, assistant high school principal at Fredonia High School, Fredonia, N.Y., has been unanimously appointed Manchester High School principal by the Manchester Board of Education.

The appointment was approved in an executive session of the board Wednesday night following an interview with Ludes.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy recommended Ludes' appointment. The appointment is effective on or about July 1. Ludes will replace George Emmerling who is retiring as principal of MHS Dec. 1. Emmerling will remain at the high school during the fall to help with the transition of leadership.

Dr. Kennedy said he "enthusiastically recommended" Ludes' appointment. Last week he visited Fredonia and had the opportunity to talk with Board of Education members, school administrators, teachers, parents and students about Ludes' work. He said Ludes received praise from all of the groups and individuals with which he met.

"I am convinced that Mr. Ludes will be a strong, effective, efficient, people-oriented principal at Manchester High School. The Board of Education and the superintendent have high expectations for Mr. Ludes' performance and I am sure that Mr. Ludes will live up to these expectations," Kennedy said.

Ludes submitted to the Board of Education an extensive resume of his academic background, activities and honors.

Ludes, 35, received most of his formal education in the Fredonia and Buffalo, N.Y., area. Fredonia is southwest of Buffalo, near Lake Erie.

Ludes graduated from Dunkirk High School in 1960, received a bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from State University College, Fredonia, as well as additional studies at the college. He also has 24 hours of study in history at the University of Buffalo and received his administrative certification from the University of Connecticut in 1974.

Ludes' experience in the field of education included 10 years as coordinator of social sciences, Grades K-12 at Westfield Academy and Central School in Westfield, N.Y., where he is a resident. He has also served as an instructor in the history department at Jamestown Community College, as an adjunct professor at State University College and as a consultant to the State Education Department and Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich. He has been assistant principal at Fredonia High School since 1976.

Ludes is currently president of the New York State Social Studies Supervisory Association.

Among Ludes' community honors, he has received the outstanding young educator award from the Westfield Jaycees and was one of six New York finalists for the award. He was the 1971 nominee for the National Education Association Teacher of the Year award, was winner of the Outstanding Young American Award and was selected Citizen of the Year in Westfield.

Ludes' involvement in education has included participation in the local teachers' association, teacher negotiations, and establishment of various programs at the Westfield Academy and Central School. He has also published articles in several journals.

Ludes is married to Elaine Andolina Ludes. They have two children, Julie, 6, and James, 5.

Ludes' appointment follows an extensive nationwide search for a principal which brought in more than 100 applications to the Board of Education. A screening committee of parents, members of the public, teachers, administrators and school selection process.

The principal's appointment is the first of several personnel changes which will occur in the school system this year. Those changes will include selection of a new vice principal at MHS, two new elementary school principals and a new assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Pay bargaining fails in police union talks

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Representatives of the Town of Manchester and the local police union were unable to reach agreement in a mediation session Friday on economic matters involved in a new contract.

The negotiations now will enter fact-finding, the third step in the four-step process for contract negotiations with municipal employees.

Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, and Gary Wood, secretary-treasurer of the Manchester Police Union, Local 1495, both confirmed Friday that an agreement could not be reached on the salary section of the contract.

Neither side would give details on what each is offering for salary figures in the contract. Both sides are close in non-economic sections of the contract proposals.

The present contract expires June 30.

Rido Camarero, a mediator appointed to the case by the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration, now will certify that both sides have completed step two, mediation, and will move to step three, fact-finding.

"He feels we have exhausted the mediation," McCarthy said. Both sides met for most of the day Friday.

Fact-finding is the third of four steps in the process. A state-appointed fact finder comes in and hears the proposals of both parties.

He then writes a sample contract, as a recommendation to both parties.

The fact finder's contract must be accepted by both parties, or can be used as a base of agreement for a final contract.

If no agreement is reached, the negotiations move into the final step, binding arbitration.

Camarero also is the mediator for the town's negotiations with Local 1579 of the International Association of Firefighters. He also is expected to recommend in that case that the negotiations move into the fact-finding stage.

A session between the town and the union Wednesday produced no progress and a threat from the town that it will file a charge of failure to bargain in good faith against the union.

McCarthy said Friday that he has not filed the charge but still plans to do so.

He said that Camarero has not been able to contact the fire union's agent yet about Wednesday's session. After he does, he is expected to make the recommendation to move into the fact-finding stage.

Grasso told to defend primary

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — A Superior Court judge Friday ordered Gov. Ella T. Grasso to appear in court June 6 to explain why her defeat of Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian in the New Britain primary should not be rejected.

Judge Robert A. Wall issued the order in response to a civil lawsuit filed by Killian naming Mrs. Grasso, New Britain attorney Edward Januszewski and eight other persons as defendants.

Killian, who is challenging Mrs. Grasso for the gubernatorial nomination, asked to have the primary results thrown out.

He also asked that the court award him damages to compensate him for what he spent in the New Britain campaign which he lost to Mrs. Grasso by a 2-1 margin. A Killian spokesman said $20,000 was spent in the primary campaign.

He also asked for an unspecified amount of exemplary damages.

Killian claimed backers of Mrs. Grasso misled New Britain Democrats by running newspaper ads indicating that if they voted for a slate of delegates supporting for Mrs. Grasso they would be voting for Januszewski.

Januszewski, a popular city attorney, is an unopposed candidate for Probate Court. However, he was not on the ballot and had nothing to do with the election.

Mrs. Grasso has said that she did not review the ads ahead of time and as far as she knows the ads were not paid for by her re-election committee.

Also named as defendants were Gerald Lamb of West Hartford, treasurer for the Grasso re-election committee; Nathan Berry, treasurer for the committee to elect Januszewski; Thomas Domizio, Democratic town committee chairman; Gloria McCarthy, who placed ads on behalf of the endorsed party; Edward Karkowski and Dorothy Turner, the Democratic and Republican registrars of voters respectively, and town clerk Richard Murphy.

Killian spokesman said Mrs. Grasso was being sued as a candidate and not as governor. He said this would mean she would have to be represented by private counsel and not at state expense.

Three days after the primary Killian filed complaints with the Connecticut Elections Commission, Chief State's Attorney Joseph T. Gormley and the Connecticut Probate Assembly.

All three complaints were rejected without investigations.

Killian filed a 70-page document in support of a lawsuit, including copies of the advertisements, during the holiday weekend.

Ludes promises that he'll listen

Jacob Ludes III, newly appointed principal of Manchester High School, said Friday night his first goal as principal will be to "get the pulse of the community," including faculty, students and any interested citizens who would like to share their opinions with him.

"I intend to do a lot of listening and then I will be better able to respond to the needs" of the school and the community, Ludes said in a telephone interview from his home in Westfield, N.Y.

Ludes said he and his family are excited about coming to Manchester and will be here this weekend to do some house-hunting.

"I was very impressed with the size of MHS and has a semi-open campus," Ludes said. He had special praise for School Superintendent James P. Kennedy and said he was delighted that Dr. Kennedy visited him and his co-workers last week at Fredonia High School in New York.

Ludes called MHS a "very good comprehensive high school" and said he thinks Manchester has a very good school system.

"When asked about his opinions on the open campus system at MHS, Ludes said he is very much aware of the concern about it. He said the open campus question was brought up several times during his interviews. He said he hopes to get a handle on the problems and concerns" at the high school before making any specific suggestions.

Fredonia High School is about half the size of MHS and has a semi-open campus, Ludes said.

Soviet envoy denies build-up in Europe

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Friday denied charges of a Russian nuclear buildup in Europe and accused the United States of developing a "particularly vicious and cruel" weapon in the neutron bomb.

Gromyko also presented to the United Nations a sweeping, seven-point plan to halt the $400 billion-a-year arms race, centering on an end to production and eventually the "complete destruction" of all nuclear weapons. American officials declined comment on the specific proposals.

The foreign minister was irked at Vice President Walter Mondale, but the tone of his address was remarkably mild, in keeping with a Soviet "walk softly" policy in advance of Gromyko's talks later this week with President Carter.

Immediately after his U.N. appearance, Gromyko left for Washington to discuss an impending Soviet-American arms limitation agreement with Carter.

One high U.S. source seemed pleased that "what (Gromyko's address) reflects is a desire to go on" with the negotiating process.

The Russian was clearly miffed at Mondale's claim before the same U.N. General Assembly special session on disarmament Wednesday that Moscow was stepping up its threat against Western Europe with deployment of its triple-warhead nuclear SS-20 missile — a "trumped-up" charge, Gromyko said.

The speech was "very much in line with what has been put forward by the Soviet Union over and over again — both the good points and the bad points," the source said.

Gromyko also gave a hint of the message he will carry to Carter. Immediately after the new SALT II agreement is signed, he said, the Soviet Union "would be ready to enter into negotiations" to lead to "a substantial reduction. I repeat reduction" in strategic arms — a so-called SALT III pact.

When asked about his opinions on the open campus system at MHS, Ludes said he is very much aware of the concern about it. He said the open campus question was brought up several times during his interviews. He said he hopes to get a handle on the problems and concerns" at the high school before making any specific suggestions.

Fredonia High School is about half the size of MHS and has a semi-open campus, Ludes said.

Many heading for 'outdoors'

By United Press International

Police stepped up patrols, parks braced for crowds and millions of motorists dashed to their cars and headed for the great outdoors Friday for the start of the Memorial Day weekend, the first holiday of the 1978 warm-weather season.

The National Safety Council estimated 400 to 500 holiday motorists could be killed in traffic mishaps in the long holiday weekend, from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

The council said 380 persons could be expected to die in traffic accidents in a three-day non-holiday weekend at this time of year. Last year, 456 persons were killed in Memorial Day weekend traffic accidents.

The Transportation Department said state police across the nation were participating in an unprecedented crackdown against speeders on interstate highways during the holiday weekend.

High school concert

The Manchester High School music department will present its annual outdoor spring concert Thursday at 6 p.m. in Center Park behind Mary Cheney Library.

Performing in the concert will be the Round Table Singers, all the choirs directed by the Manchester Drive-In Band Sunday at 8 p.m.

The public is asked to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets. Families may bring their picnic supper to enjoy during the concert. The event is free.

Souza concert

A concert saluting the marches of "March King" John Philip Sousa will be presented by the U.S. Coast Guard Band Sunday at 8 p.m.

The performance, directed by Lt. J.G. Lewis J. Buckley, will be in the Coast Guard Academy's Leamy Auditorium in New London, the city of 1923. For this reason, the Sousa, the world famous composer and band leader, assisted in the founding of the U.S. Coast Guard Band in May of 1923. For this reason, the USCG Band annually honors the "March King" by performing many of his most popular compositions.

Soloists will be Richard Storey, trumpet; Dana Ewing, oboe, and David Werden, euphonium.

'Abigail' dollar suggested

QUINCY, Mass. (UPI) — Abigail Adams, who sent a husband and a son to the presidency, Friday was nominated as a candidate to be portrayed on the proposed dollar coin.

She was the wife of John Adams, the second president of the United States, and the mother of John Quincy Adams, the sixth president. Her letters to her husband became a historical gold mine and were recently the subject of a widely-acclaimed television series.

Mrs. Adams would be a good compromise between the two leading candidates the fictional Miss Liberty and women's rights pioneer Susan B. Anthony, the Patriot Ledger of Quincy, Mass., said in an editorial.

Quincy, located several miles south of Boston, is steeped in Adams family history. Both presidents were born and buried in Quincy, and it is also Abigail's burial site.

"From our vantage point ... we have an ideal compromise to propose — a true-life woman who attained most of the honors symbolized by the female Liberty Head and was a women's rights advocate long before Ms. Anthony," the newspaper said. "That woman is Abigail Adams. 'A decision to carry Abigail Adams on the new coin could do much to restore dignity to the selection process, even if it does little to restore faith in the American dollar,'" the editorial said. "In her 74 years ... Abigail Adams accomplished much to deserve the designation of an ideal American woman, and not only because she was the wife of John Adams and mother of John Quincy Adams."

Despite a meager education and prolonged separations from her husband and Abigail in Quincy, and it is also Abigail's burial site.

For "Courting Music," the Peace Train's multi-talented "All Points Express" will present four Friday evenings of entertainment in the outdoor Gengras Court of Hartford's Wadsworth Athenaeum beginning June 2. Programs begin 8 p.m. and will last about an hour. In case of bad weather, they will be held in Avery Court.

That's entertainment

By Allen M. Wideman

The State, the Circle, the Center Theatres are gone, but the memories linger on. Where once the movies with the considerable talents of, say, a Shirley Temple, a Jackie Cooper, a Gene Autry and Roy Rogers beckoned the youngsters in the neighborhood, these now looms a roster of attractions categorized by the well-intentioned Motion Pictures Association of America as recommended for this age bloc and that age bloc.

Parents are in quandry — should youngsters sit through a movie known to contain more than a blushing quantity of four-letter words or violence simply because the well-intentioned MPAA rating system lists the attraction is PG (Parental Guidance Recommended) and hence Not That Gosh-Darned Bad, anyway?

The MPAA set out not that many years ago with the basic intent of establishing a rating system, per se, that could be acknowledged and accepted as a continuing guide to qualified parents seeking only to be confident the quality of screen entertainment to be enjoyed and, perhaps even absorbed, by progeny.

The ensuing hue-and-cry, by the so-called Go Gooders — those all too quick to rise objection to anything and anybody not especially hewing to the established mold of acceptance — has since sparked even greater controversy. Who's right and who's wrong? Only the historians of the film industry in the next generation will be able to provide a proper and fitting insight.

The movie business has had more than its share of critics. There's much to be said indeed about unsavory elements in certain screen attractions. The movie business transactions to the attack; is it not better, the argument asserts, to provide entertainment of a particular kind for a particular audience than to abjectly ignore the same audience? The tenants of Fieg Speech are sounded, loud and clear! A counter argument insists that if the morals of America are beleaguered by film, "filth," the movie business has at least the more responsible components, which subscribe to the MPAA principles and precepts — must adepate out-and-out "filth" and, at least try, to uplift America's sights with greater emphasis on product carrying the G rating.

Enter the retail side of the industry — i.e., the movie exhibitors, the theatre owners. They contend that not enough people show up for G films in the long-run. And, whether the Do Gooders will admit this or not, the American movie business, unlike its counterparts throughout the civilized world, is not government-subsidized. Ergo, a quagmire exists. It will continue to exist as long as the creative side, i.e., Hollywood, simply is not enough to provide profitability.

Joe Camp, the gifted producer-director writer of "Benji" and the sequel, "For the Love of Benji," has been heard to say that if "Benji" had been rated PG instead of G, more of the post-toddler crowd would have been drawn to theatres. What's more, the same gifted Joe Camp has said that if the enormously grossing "Star Wars" had been rated G instead of PG, that $100,000,000-plus gross would have been unobtainable. It is interesting, too, to note that a new Roy Rogers movie has been in national release for the past several years. To our knowledge, it has yet to be seen in this immediate area. And with a G or at least a PG rating at that! Sic transit gloria ...

Ella complains to Navy about radiation reports

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso Friday told the Navy she was none too happy with the amount of time it took for the state to be notified about a possible radiation leak in New London.

Navy Capt. Dan Cooper, in charge of Submarine Squadron 10 in Groton, spent about 20 minutes in the governor's office Friday, and then told reporters the time spent discussing communications.

Cooper said the Navy was not satisfied with the way the Navy informed the state of the possibility of a leak.

Cooper said improvements will be made in the communications network.

A low-level radiation leak was reported aboard the submarine tender USS Fulton moored on the Thames River in New London on Monday. The Thames serves the largest submarine base on the Atlantic Coast, located in Groton.

The Navy first closed off an area surrounding the ship, to which three atomic submarines were moored. About 1,000 men are stationed on the Fulton, but no injuries were reported.

The Navy later said there was no leak, just a misinterpretation of meter readings.

"We discussed the communications between her office and the Navy," said Cooper who said little about the incident itself.

"We discussed the problem we had on Monday that was really not a problem," he said. "I assured her we would improve the system of getting word to her office."

"The governor was concerned that we should notify her office even in false alarms. We will notify the governor's office certainly more speedily in the future," he said.

State Pier, where the Fulton is docked, was closed for several hours Monday and Navy policemen refused to say why until late in the day. The Navy has continued to keep details of the incident sketchy.

The pier was reopened and the Navy reports all operations around the Fulton are back to normal.

Mrs. Grasso in March warned Northeast Utilities it had a responsibility to notify the state immediately in case of any accident. Her warning stemmed from two explosions at the Millstone nuclear power complex in Waterford. The state didn't find out about the explosions, which injured one worker, until a news reporter called state police.

Fourth suit on tax filed against town

A fourth tax suit has been filed against the Town of Manchester in connection with assessments set by the assessor's office.

The action was taken by William Peck, Gladys Peck and Marjorie Gussak, doing business as Romar Associates. The firm owns the apartments at 124 Highland St.

There are a total of 32 apartment buildings at that address. The assessor's office set the assessment for the property and the buildings at $463,760.

Romar Associates appealed to the Board of Tax Review, which reduced the figure to $434,420 — $29,340 for the property and $344,820 for the buildings.

The firm, however, still feels that assessment is too high and has appealed to the Court of Common Pleas. The court date for the appeal is listed as June 20. Three similar appeals were filed earlier this week.

Final measles clinic scheduled next week

Manchester school students who haven't yet been immunized for measles will have a final chance to receive the vaccine at a measles clinic Tuesday at Manchester High School, East Catholic High School, Iling Junior High School and Bannet Junior High School.

On Wednesday, measles and rubella vaccine will be administered in all elementary schools, Assumption Junior High School, St. Bridget School and St. James School.

Permission slips has been returned to less than 100 students who have not yet been vaccinated for measles or rubella.

The clinics are being held in conjunction with Public Act 77-52 which requires that each child be properly immunized against rubella up to 12 years of age, and measles before they are permitted to attend public schools.

Mrs. Lynn Gustafson, head school nurse, said that the Board of Education will not allow any students to return to school in September unless the student can provide proof of immunization for measles.

Permission slips must be signed by a parent or guardian and returned to the school by Wednesday, May 31.

Spotted fever

SHARON (UPI) — Two cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, possibly contracted during a youth retreat in Connecticut, have been reported to the state Health Department.

The victims, a 15-year-old Newtown girl and a 16-year-old girl from West Hartford, both attended a weekend at the Silver Lake Conference Center early this month.

Officials were checking the likelihood and Sharon areas of the infected ticks which carry the disease.

Symptoms of the sickness appear about 10 days after a person is bitten by an infected tick and range from fever and chills to headaches and vomiting.

Memorial trees planted for year

The 28th annual planting in the memorial tree program of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce was completed recently.

Grassland Nursery did the planting under the supervision of Dr. Douglas H. Smith, program chairman.

This spring's memorial trees were placed at six locations on public property: New State Road at West Middle Turnpike, Tolland Turnpike at North Main Street, Wadswell School, Manchester Memorial Hospital, Main Street at Woodbridge Street and South Main Street at Line Street.

Varieties of trees planted include Kwansan cherry, Kousa dogwood, hawthorn, flowering crabapple, yew and Andromeda.

Anyone with suggestions regarding tree types and specific planting stations on public property is urged to call the Chamber of Commerce.

The following is a list of donors in the program in recent months:

RING MASTER

Don Haggerty, star of NBC-TV's "The Untouchables," takes a look at his performance in the new movie "The Untouchables" with Robert De Niro. Haggerty says he's proud to be part of the film, which is based on the lives of the original "Untouchables" who fought crime in Chicago during the 1930s.

TV star scene

By RUTH THOMPSON

Michelle Wood reportedly said no thanks to the Cannes Festival invitation because it might be an "NBC-TV" thing. The actress, who plays the role of "Michelle" in the new movie "The Untouchables," is being courted by both networks. NBC is offering her a role in the new series "The Untouchables," while CBS is offering her a role in the new series "The Untouchables." Wood is currently starring in the motion picture "The Untouchables" with Robert De Niro. She is being courted by both networks because of her performance in the film.

Memorial Day parade Monday starts at 9:30 on Main St.

By ALICE EVANS Herald Reporter... Flags will be flying and strains of patriotic music will fill the air Monday during Manchester's annual Memorial Day Parade, which will move out at 9:30 a.m. from in front of the Army and Navy Club on Main Street.

The parade will continue north on Main Street to East Center Street, then to Munro Park, where a short service will be conducted, returning west on East Center Street to Linden Street, where it will enter Center Park and pass the reviewing stand. Lt. Col. Edward Kennedy, USAF, parade marshal, will lead off the first division, which will include a marching unit of the Manchester Police Department and its color guard, Everett Kennedy, honorary parade marshal; wreath bearers, Manchester High School Band, and the marching unit of the First Battalion of the 169th Infantry and its color guard.

Manchester man ready for summer in USSR

John F. Garaventa of Manchester is one of 12 young American men and women from 11 states who is preparing to visit Russia for three months this summer on the 4-H Agricultural Specialist Exchange program.

Mr. Garaventa, 24, holds a bachelor's degree in animal science from the University of Connecticut. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ermanno Garaventa of 109 N. Lakewood Circle, he was an active 4-H member. He was waterfront director for the Hartford County 4-H Camp, and has helped to organize 4-H leader councils in the county.

Major objectives of the exchange, now in its third year, are to share agricultural technology and increase understanding between the people of the two nations. Major funding for the program comes from International Harvester Company, Chicago.

What's New on the Grill--Lamb

Lamb is a rising star in the wonderful world of outdoor cookery. Backyard chefs, who have searched for new grill triumphs ever since the cookout became a favorite summer sport, are discovering that lamb is the answer. For this fine meat provides many special treats -- both gourmet and everyday.

The "butterflied" leg is fashioned from a whole leg, from which the sirloin section has been removed. If a "Lamb Leg Short Cut Sirloin Off" is not on display at your market simply ask your retailer to remove three to four sirloin chops from the portion of a leg.

This is but one of the many ways lamb can breathe new life into the outdoor meal scene. Rather than yielding a "butterflied" leg and sirloin chops, the center portion of a leg can be cut crosswise into 1 to 1 1/4-inch slices for meaty lamb steaks that are ideal for a broiling on the grill. Then the sirloin and shank portions of the leg can be cut into boneless pieces for kabobs.

Butterflied Leg of Lamb

Remove fat, trim excess fat and "butterflied" leg of lamb following directions provided in box. Combine wine, lemon juice, onion, garlic, salt, paprika, cardamom and hot sauce in small saucepan; simmer 10 minutes.

Mediterranean Lamb Kabobs

2 pounds lamb cubes for kabobs (1 1/4 inch pieces) 1 bay leaf 1/2 cup lemon juice 3 orange slices (1/2 inch thick), each cut in wedges 2 small red onions, halved and cut in wedges 2 tablespoons snipped parsley, if desired

Grill-Top Lamb Chops

Use above recipe for Mediterranean Lamb Kabobs, substituting 4 lamb chops for kabobs. Marinate chops as directed and place 3 inches from heat. Broil as directed for kabobs. 4 servings.

Pineapple Lime Lamb Steaks

3 lamb leg center slices, cut 1 inch thick 1 teaspoon salt 1/8 teaspoon pepper

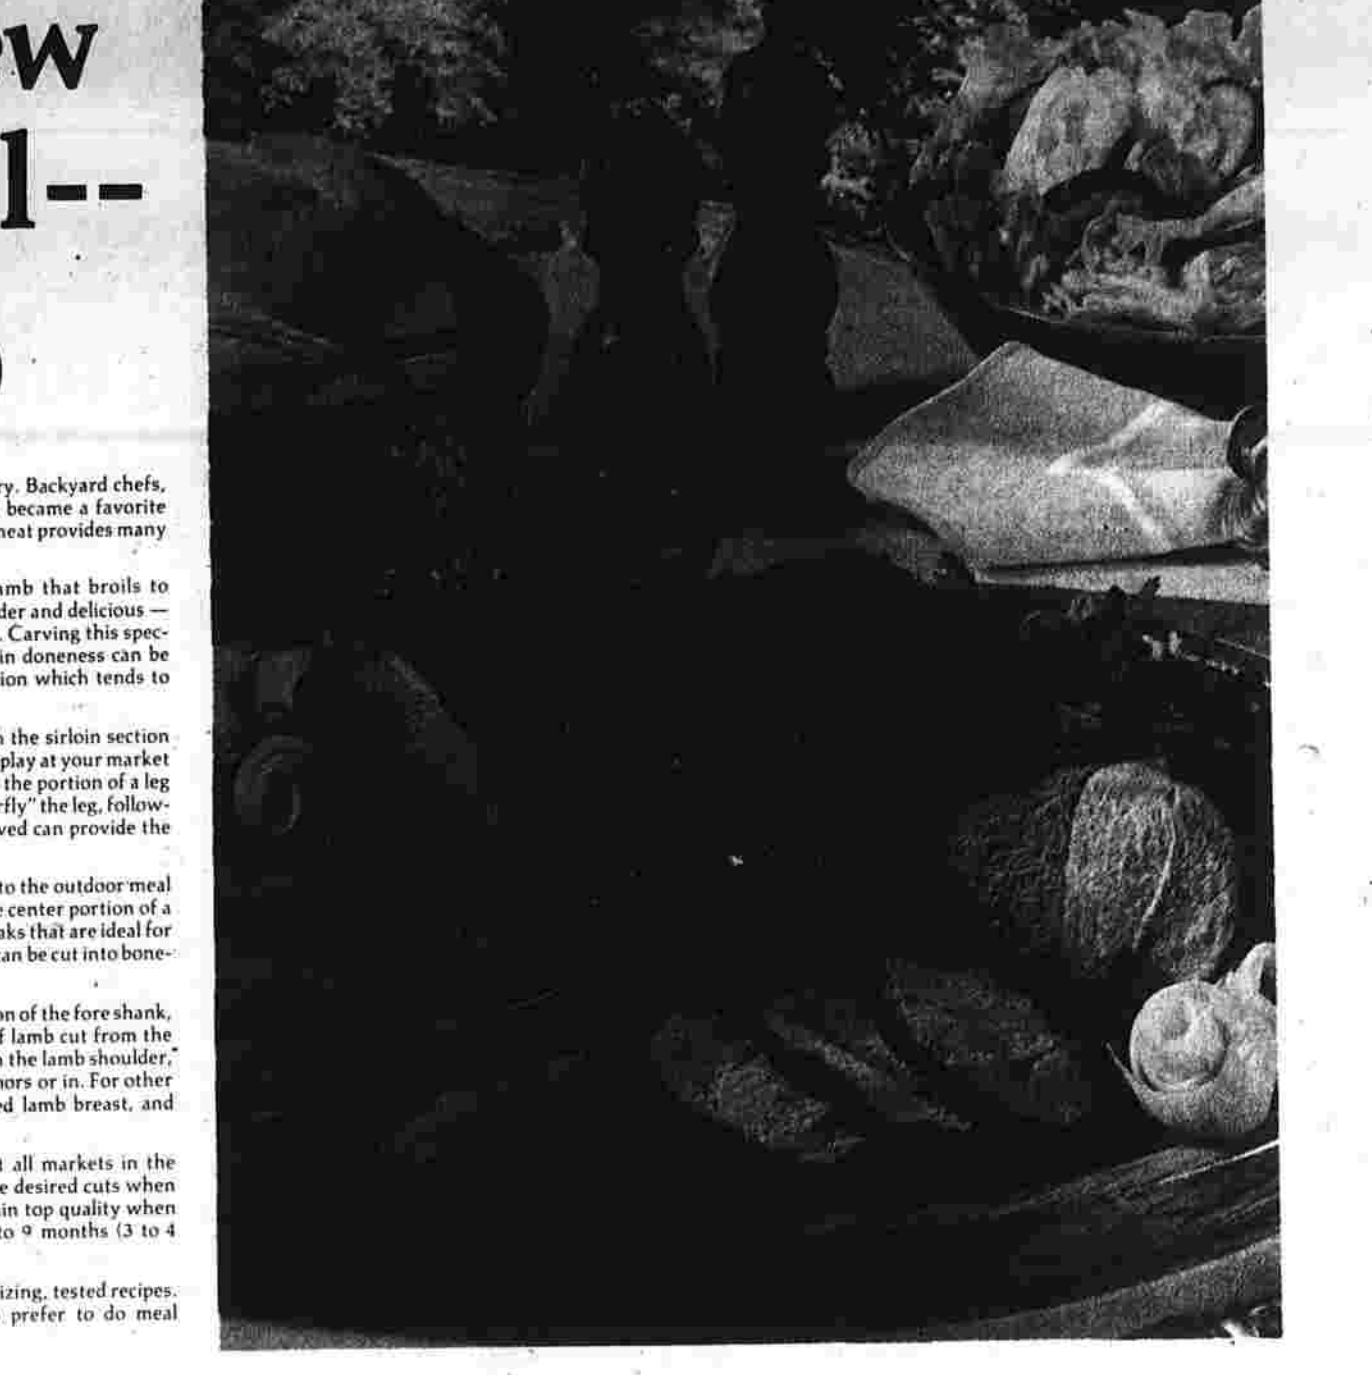

Your neighbor's kitchen

Quite often some great kitchen tested recipes find their way to my desk. Recently, one for Saucy Spinach Parmesan was sent by the Milk Promotion Service, Inc. and it is delicious.

There are, of course, many ways to prepare spinach, but first, the MPS suggests being certain that all the sand is removed. That means washing and rinsing with generous quantities of water, starting with tepid to remove the sand, then proceeding to cold. It cooks in minutes just with the water left on the leaves from the rinsing.

After draining, plan to mix it with a sauce. Medium white sauce is popular, but so is dairy sour cream, which is easier. Sour cream has a delicate tang that goes well with the spinach, while Parmesan cheese adds still another flavor dimension.

Allyn Seidman, director of food publicity and consumer information for MPS, writes that nutmeg is good with spinach and wedges of hard-cooked eggs atop the sour cream make a pretty vegetable dish.

1. A leg of lamb, about cut sirloin off, can be boned and formed into a "butterflied" leg. The section between the whole leg and the cut has been removed from the whole leg and the cut has been placed on the end of the leg bone at the ball joint. Remove the fat from the leg, pulling from the inside out to the shank. Turn the leg, bone side up, and run a boning knife around the ball joint. Work the knife around the ball joint to loosen it, keeping the blade close to the bone. You should feel the blade against the bone as you cut. Remove the whole leg.

2. Start cutting at the ball joint (B) of the leg bone from which the whole leg was removed. Make a straight cut to the center of the leg to cut along the bone until the blade reaches the next joint, known as the stifle joint (C). Now the point of the blade around the stifle joint and close to the bone all the way to the end of the shank.

3. Work the point of the blade in around the stifle joint (C), and then around the two largest joints and all are completely exposed and severed.

4. Remove the leg from the grill. Cut the leg into 1 1/2 inch thick slices. Cut the leg into 1 1/2 inch thick slices. Cut the leg into 1 1/2 inch thick slices.

1 can (20 ounces) pineapple chunks in syrup 1 stick cinnamon 2 tablespoons lemon juice 2 tablespoons soy sauce 2 tablespoons salad oil

Drain pineapple, reserve juice and combine all but 2 tablespoons with lime juice, soy sauce, salad oil, salt, pepper, cloves and cinnamon stick in small saucepan; simmer 10 minutes. Remove cloves and cinnamon stick. Mix cornstarch with remaining pineapple juice, combine with sauce and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and place on grill or broiler pan in broiler pan on surface of meat 3 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature 7 minutes, turn and broil 5 minutes. Brush moderate temperature 3 minutes, turn and broil 5 minutes. Brush moderate temperature 3 minutes, turn and broil 5 minutes. Thread pineapple chunks on small skewers, broil 10 minutes. Place and place on grill last minute of broiling, turning at least once. 6 servings.

3 cups shredded red cabbage 3 cups shredded green cabbage 2 carrots, shredded 1/2 cup honey 1/4 cup vinegar 2 tablespoons oil 1 tablespoon poppy seeds 1 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard 1/4 teaspoon onion powder. Shred cabbage and carrots. Place cabbage and carrots in medium-size bowl. Mix remaining ingredients until blended. Pour over cabbage and carrots. Yield: 1 1/2 quarts.

ADDENDUM: In last Saturday's column, due to a typographical error, the recipe for Tri-cheese Noodle Pudding had the wrong amount of sugar. It should have read 1/3 to 1/4 cups sugar (to taste) and cooked in a 3-quart casserole.

Hard to Figure Department: How the New England Whaler players could vote Danny Bolduc only a half share and not Tom Webster in for a full share of playoff money in the WHA? During the regular season, Bolduc played in 41 games and all the playoffs, including a key role against Quebec and Marc Tardif. Webster managed to get into only eight regular season games before being sidelined for the balance of play due to back surgery.

State says Califano was wrong

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Health Department officials Friday disputed the statement of the federal government's top health official that Connecticut has one of the nation's worst records on immunizing children.

Dr. John Lewis, director of preventable diseases for the Connecticut Department of Health, said he was "quite shocked to hear (Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano's comments)."

"We have no idea where he got his information," Lewis said. "We at the Health Department do the surveys, and send them on to HEW. He obviously didn't use our numbers. The numbers he used were wrong."

Lewis said latest Health Department surveys show more than 90 percent of Connecticut's public school children are protected against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio and measles.

Between 80 and 90 percent of Connecticut's children are protected against rubella, he said.

Lewis said Connecticut Health Commissioner Dr. Douglas Lloyd told Califano about the statistics his department has compiled. Lewis said Califano was "very apologetic."

Califano had said Thursday Connecticut has one of the most serious problems in the country and the most serious problem in New England in the area of immunizing children.

"It's inexcusable for parents with young children and for public health systems and schools not to immunize children," Califano told a news conference.

A spokesman for the Health Department said there was a substantial rise in the number of measles cases in Connecticut in 1971, 1972 and 1973, but he said that was because federal funds to provide measles vaccine were withdrawn nationwide.

Until 1977, there had been a drop in measles cases, in particular, in Connecticut — from 1,739 cases in

Grasso signs measure for welfare increases

HARTFORD (UPI) — State welfare checks will be 10 percent higher as of July 1 under the provisions of a bill approved by the 1978 Legislature and signed into law Friday by Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

The new law will mean about a $45 increase in the monthly check to a family of four. It brings the maximum payment for a family of four to $400 for recipients living in Danbury, Greenwich or Norwalk; $422 for recipients in Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport; and $411 for the rest of the state.

Mrs. Grasso also signed bill to expand the list of required immunizations for public school children, establishing a state energy policy and setting aside $5,000 of state money for the painting of a portrait of retired Chief Justice Charles S. House of Manchester.

Mrs. Grasso signed more than 60 bills in two days. She has now signed 315 of the 453 measures approved by the 1978 Legislature. She has also vetoed two bills.

The required immunization list will be expanded as of July 1 to include polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. Non-public school students would also have to be immunized.

Memorial Day

On this special day, let us pay tribute to all the brave men and women who so gallantly served in our armed forces.

★

We are truly proud to honor those valiant Americans who gave their time, their energy and their very lives in the name of freedom. The dedication and determination of so many to defend this country's ideals have been the foundation of strength for us all.

★

Their courageous efforts have given all mankind wisdom of the past... and bright hope for the future. Let us not forget their heroic deeds... and the very principles that they fought to uphold so that this nation may grow and prosper in peace.
