

New National Smoker Study:

Important News For 100's Smokers:

Smokers rate taste of MERIT 100's equal to -or better than-leading high tar 100's.

Can low tar MERIT 100's—packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco—measure up to the taste expectations of high tar 100's smokers?

Read the results from a new, nationwide research effort involving smokers who actually taste-tested MERIT 100's against leading high tar 100's.

Results Endorse MERIT Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers rate MERIT 100's taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar 100's tested! Cigarettes having up to 70% more tar.

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT 100's.

Detailed interviews were also conducted with current MERIT 100's smokers.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT 100's smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT 100's smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT 100's smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT 100's has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT 100's is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

U.S. protests bug

MOSCOW (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy said today it has lodged a protest with the Soviet Foreign Ministry over electronic eavesdropping devices discovered in the embassy building. An embassy spokesman confirmed a State Department statement in Washington that "electronic devices of an intelligence gathering nature" were found May 25. But the spokesman refused to comment on reports from other American sources that the devices had been planted in a secret shaft connected with an underground tunnel leading toward Soviet apartment and office buildings. Workmen remodeling the embassy following a fire there in August came upon the shaft in the south wing, which houses embassy apartments, the sources said. They said a workman who went down the shaft to investigate came upon a Soviet man who hurried out the other end. There was speculation the Soviets realized the shaft had been discovered and had sent the man to strip it of wires and other electronic gear. The sources said the devices included a dish-shaped unit resembling an antenna used for transmitting and receiving. The shaft was either part of, or near, an unused chimney toward the back of the roof and extended down seven stories to meet the tunnel, which branched off at an angle, they said. There was no indication how long it had been in use. Ambassador Malcolm Toon was in Washington for vacation and consultation and other embassy officials refused to comment on the announcement made Thursday in Washington. The south wing of the embassy was not damaged in the fire, which broke out the night of Aug. 26, but American personnel, including Navy Seabees, are extensively renovating the building in addition to fire repairs. In Washington, State Department spokesman Tom Reston said the devices found May 25 were of "an intelligence gathering nature," but he declined to give any details about the number, locations or type of equipment.

Angry Carter denies Post's SALT article

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter angrily denied today a published report that he had frozen U.S. talks on limiting strategic arms because of political considerations at home and abroad. The Washington Post report, Carter said, is "totally inaccurate and 'damaging (to) our country and our credibility.'" Carter, carrying the newspaper in his hand, called reporters to the Oval Office to personally castigate the Post for running the copyrighted story. "It damages our country," the president said. "It damages my credibility and I think it damages the prospects for continuation of the basic policy of our government which has not changed since I came in office, that is, to proceed aggressively with SALT negotiations to conclude a treaty as early as possible — and that is without delay or because of political consideration — to make sure the treaty, when concluded, will be in the best interests of our country." The Post, quoting reliable sources, said in today's editions that the administration decided it would be a political mistake to sign a SALT agreement because current domestic and international problems make ratification of such a treaty unlikely. The Post reported administration officials said the net effect of the tactic is to reject any new Soviet proposals for the time being. "We're stuck, we're not demonstrating flexibility," one official was quoted as saying. But Carter angrily rejected that account.

Court overrules PZC in Lenti subdivision

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

An appeal of a proposed subdivision on the Lenti Farms tract in Manchester has been sustained by Court of Common Pleas Judge Edward Y. O'Connell. O'Connell ruled that the town's Planning and Zoning Commission incorrectly accepted evidence after a public hearing on the subdivision.

The 59-lot subdivision had been proposed by developers Robert Stone and Jack Goldberg for the 40-acre Lenti Farms tract off Gardner Street. The PZC voted 4-1 last October to approve the plan.

The subdivision has sparked much discussion and opposition since it was first proposed more than a year ago. A previous Residence AA Cluster Zone subdivision had been rejected by the PZC.

Neighbors who opposed the proposal spoke most often about a detention basin that would be included as part of the subdivision. The basin would hold water during rainy periods and let it drain gradually into the ground and nearby water bodies. During other periods, the basin would be dry.

Residents, however, expressed concern about the safety of children in the area and the possibility of flooding if the basin overflowed or the dam broke.

Four residents of Thayer Road and one from Tuck Road appealed the approval of the subdivision and an inland-wetlands permit granted by the PZC.

The inland-wetlands permit appeal was based on a technical error which was corrected through a second public hearing on the matter. There was no appeal of the second inland-wetlands permit.

Judge O'Connell's decision was not based on the merits of the subdivision, but on the acceptance of evidence by the PZC after the public hearing.

On Oct. 19, the PZC received new hydraulic calculations concerning with redesign of the basin. The information was submitted by Griswold & Pusey, which is now Fuss & O'Neill.

The plaintiffs were not advised of the receipt of this letter and were offered no opportunity to respond," O'Connell wrote. "It is well esablished that receipt of evidence after a public hearing is improper," he said.

The firm had been retained as engineers by the applicants and, thus, was not a disinterested technical advisor, the judge ruled. The defendants in the case argued that a public hearing is not mandatory for subdivisions. Thus, certain rules should not be required.

"The court is not persuaded by this argument," O'Connell wrote. "The law will not allow a hearing to stand that violates the fundamental rights of natural justice."

The proposed developers, Stone and Goldberg, could not be reached for comment this morning.

They could appeal to the state Supreme Court. They also could submit another application to the PZC, Alan Lamson, town planner, said today.

Attorney David Call, who represented the neighbors who appealed, said he was "delighted" with the decision.

Cummings, District aides exchange harsh criticism

Theodore Cummings this morning issued a statement critical of the Eighth Utilities District and one of its fire officers who serves on the Charter Revision Commission.

The criticisms are unfounded, according to Gordon Lassow, District president, and Wallace Irish Jr., the District's assistant fire marshal who serves on the Charter Revision Commission.

Cummings, who is the leader of a recent move to consolidate the District with the Town of Manchester, said that the District often says that it is a minority group being picked on by the majority.

He is critical because he feels the District is run by only a handful of its residents.

"They use a law that allows a handful of people to harm the vast majority," Cummings said, referring to the petitioning effort of Buckland residents who asked to become part of the District. This would be harmful to a majority of Manchester residents who would face increased fire taxes because of the loss of the revenues from the Buckland area.

Cummings also said that the District, whose legislative body is its voters, often has small turnouts at its public hearings and elections.

Lassow responded that the District's government is a more representative and open one than the town's, which is run by the nine-member Board of Directors.

"Everytime we have an issue, we bring it to the whole electorate," Lassow said.

He also spoke harshly of Cummings' criticism.

"The man is doing more to harm this town than anyone else," Lassow said. "He is bringing dissension, grief and pain."

Cummings also criticized Irish for voting on a matter concerning the District at Tuesday night's Charter Revision Commission meeting.

Cummings, who is Democratic town chairman, said that former Democratic mayor Matthew Moriarty Jr. is considering stepping down from the Charter Revision Commission because his firm may have to appear before the Zoning Board Appeals.

"We have a person on the commission making decisions on a governmental body by which he's paid," Cummings said of Irish. Irish is an assistant fire marshal and insurance carrier for the District.

Tuesday night, the Charter Revision Commission voted to take no action on revising the Town Charter to clarify the Buckland fire jurisdiction matter.

Irish's vote was one of five to take no action.

Irish said that he has tried to maintain an above-board policy in all matters he is involved in. One reason he dropped out of the race for the 12th Assembly District seat, which is now held by Cummings, was so he could continue to serve on the commission strictly as a resident and not a candidate.

District backs Barry for attorney general

State Sen. David Barry of Manchester has been endorsed for the state's attorney general position by the Democratic Fourth Senatorial District Association. Barry represents the Fourth District and has served four terms in the senate. The incumbent attorney general, Carl Ajello, is expected to run again. But, the endorsement of Barry was made just in case Ajello does not seek the position or is not re-nominated by the party. The party's nominee for attorney general, like all statewide elected offices, will be selected at the July convention.

Non-credit summer courses to start June 12 at MCC

The non-credit summer course program at Manchester Community College (MCC) will begin June 12 with 19 courses in a wide range of subjects. Some of the courses that will begin in the first week are "Introduction to Hand Bookbinding," "Buffet and Catering," "Advanced Cookery" and "Insects: Friends and Foes." The course on insects is for amateur insect collectors and others interested in entomology or biology. Topics will include anatomy and physiology of insects, techniques of collecting and preserving specimens and methods for rearing insects for study or monetary gain. Classes will begin June 13 and will continue on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. for six more weeks. "Advanced Cookery" is a lecture and demonstration course, with participation by the students, that will cover the preparation of appetizers, soups, entrees, vegetables, salads and desserts, including classical French cooking. Classes will begin June 14 and will continue on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. for seven more weeks. The format of "Buffet and Catering" is like that of the advanced cooking course. Students will learn how to prepare foods for a buffet, how to use certain pieces of equipment, and how to set up and serve buffets. Classes will begin on June 12 and will continue on Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m. for seven more weeks. Students in the bookbinding course will learn several operations, including the sewing, trimming and casing of a blank book; decorative papers, marbling and past papers. Each student will make a book, box and decorative papers. Classes will begin on June 13, and will continue on Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m., for six more weeks. For further information, call the Community Services Division of MCC at 646-2137.

Town board will discuss fair housing plan Tuesday

The Manchester Board of Directors next week is expected to discuss a fair housing plan that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has asked for as part of the town's application for Community Development funds. Town and HUD officials met Thursday in Hartford to discuss the town's application this year for $483,000 in CD funds. HUD has threatened to withhold the funding because it says the town has failed to meet certain regulations of the program. Members of the board who attended Thursday's session also expressed displeasure with HUD's reliance on regulations. They feel the department may not place enough emphasis on the actual accomplishments of the town. Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, said that he expects the meeting on the subject also was mentioned, but the board apparently will include the matter in its regular Tuesday meeting. HUD has said that the town must take an active role in encouraging fair housing. This might include such items as an educational program about fair housing. HUD also said that the town must present a plan that includes such activities within the next 10 days or it will recommend denial of the CD funds to Manchester. Town officials, particularly Penny and Director Carl Zinsler, said that plan to vote for a fair housing record is a good one. The rate of minority-group members moving into town has increased, and there have been no charges of discrimination from someone trying to buy a house, they said. "What I find frustrating is their (HUD's) discretion is very much limited by the regulations," Penny said after Thursday's meeting. "Why should it be necessary to establish a plan to alleviate a problem that doesn't exist?" Penny said. Director Betty Inagliata, who also attended Thursday's meeting, said of HUD, "I don't think they're the type that are lenient. When they see a regulation, they see a regulation. They don't bend." She was concerned that the board has such a short period of time to develop a plan to present to HUD. If it fails to do so, the CD monies could be withheld and other non-housing projects, such as the dental clinic, could be jeopardized. Zinsler is confident that the town will receive its funding. "I think they're going to approve the money," he said of HUD. He said, however, that he does not plan to vote for a fair housing plan because he does not believe it is just to obtain the money. He also would not support a proposal such as having the Urban League act as a housing monitor in Manchester. Another possibility might be the hiring of an employee to handle a fair housing plan, including education and counseling. Federal funding might pay the cost of the position. Thursday's meeting also focused on three other areas — the progress and location of CD projects, the town's hiring practices, and the town's lack of housing for low-income and elderly residents. Alan Mason, CD coordinator, will prepare information dealing with HUD's complaints in those areas. The key issue, however, seems to be the fair housing plan.

Enthusiasm pleases GOP

Peter Sylvester, chairman of the candidate selection committee for Manchester Republicans, said this morning that he is excited about the party's interest shown by two candidates seeking the 12th Assembly District seat. Frederick Peck, the party's registrar of voters since 1960, has said that he is interested in seeking the party's nomination for the seat, which includes four of the town's ten voting districts. Walter Joyner, who ran two years ago for the seat and lost, also has said that he is interested in running again. The seat now is held by State Rep. Theodore Cummings, who is also Democratic Town Chairman. "I'm very pleased to see the enthusiasm in our party shown by Fred Peck running for office," Sylvester said. Sylvester is not yet backing either of the two Republican hopefuls. Two years ago, the Party had no announced candidates for the seat before the local Republican Town Committee met to endorse candidates for the 12th and 13th Assembly Districts. Joyner was nominated that night. The year three candidates already have announced for the assembly seat, although one, Wallace Irish Jr., has dropped out because of personal and business commitments.

Town to inspect septic systems

The Manchester Health Department will conduct a septic system survey on Redwood, Galaxy Drive, Ralph Road, Hillstown Road, Bush Hill Road, Garnet Road, Winthrop Road, Glendale Road, Kenney Street and Santa Ina Drive in June. The inspectors will carry pictured identification cards and will conduct inspections between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. The inspection will involve checking the vicinity of the septic field for any overflow problems and the owners will be questioned on maintenance of the septic tank. A brief description and operation of a typical septic system will be given each homeowner with the recommendation that the septic tank be pumped out regularly every three years. If no one is at home at the time of the visit, a card will be left asking that the owner call the Health Department to set up an appointment.

If the hardhat fits ...

As it happens, women laborers to such skilled craft workers as electricians. Their numbers are likely to increase under federal rules that require contractors doing business with the government to set specific goals and timetables for hiring women. The magazine forecasts women climbing from 3.1 percent of the construction workforce in 1979 to 6.9 percent by 1981.

Climbing the corporate ladder

Women are also doing better higher up on the employment ladder. Currently comprising more than 40 percent of the entire workforce, women are moving out of their clerical and service ghetto and into better-paying corporate jobs. Between 1970 and 1975, the proportion of women in management positions rose from 16 to 19 percent, according to a survey by The

Has HEW met its master?

By Marth Angler and Robert Walters Washington (NEA) - If HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. ever wants a motto to hang on his office wall, he might frame the classic quote from Walt Kelly's Pogo character: "We have met the enemy and he is us." For that, in a nutshell, summarizes the real problem of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as it celebrates its 25th anniversary as a Cabinet agency. Managing HEW, the federal government's biggest bureaucracy, is like wrestling with an 800-pound gorilla. You can't quit when you need a rest; you've got to keep moving as long as the gorilla is twitching. In the long run, nothing that Califano does as secretary - whether it is a small undertaking like his anti-smoking crusade or a multi-billion dollar initiative like national health insurance - will be as important as his effort to gain management control of HEW.

Squaring off with IRS

By Don Graff Forget about the furor over the three-martini lunch. That may look like a minor skirmish compared to the battle coming up when the working public gets the word on what it may be paying additional taxes on henceforth. Items such as parking spaces in the company lot, employee discounts and company-provided physical checkups are among the fairly commonly enjoyed fringe benefits which the Internal Revenue Service is now of a mind to treat as taxable income.

There will be plenty of opportunity to express it. After publication in the Federal Register, the proposed regulations will be submitted to prolonged public study and hearings before the IRS and Treasury Department approve a final version for implementation - and that always barring congressional counteraction, not an unlikely possibility in an election year. The IRS realistic estimate is that the taxpayer suddenly attacked on a new front. Death and taxes are certainties, they tell us. So can be the outrage of the taxpayer suddenly attacked on a new front.

Thought

What are the dynamics of grief?? Feelings of anger, despair, guilt, depression, denial, fear, anxiety are often present. We all know such feelings! What we may not know is that these feelings are natural, normal, and even helpful. In our American culture, "control" is a highly valued aspect of human personality; being out of control and behaving irrationally is regarded as a very negative thing. So we seclude, convert and divert as many "out-of-control" grief emotions as we can.

The Town Board of Directors, in recent weeks, has been wrestling with matters that will affect both the Water and Sewer Departments. Proposed changes in the sewer use rate would eliminate a discount for large users and would have to go into effect by July 1, 1979, according to federal regulations. Also, the board must decide on proposed improvements to Manchester's water system. A proposal for a bond issue, including improvements to water distribution and treatment, is expected to be drawn up in time for a November referendum.

Nazis still regret not burning files

By WELLINGTON LONG BERLIN (UPI) - When Adolf Hitler finally realized he had lost, he took steps to deny himself and his Nazi party files to the enemy. Hitler instructed the staff at Nazi party headquarters on Koenigsplatz in Munich to destroy all membership and other files. Then the Fuehrer withdrew to his underground bunker in Berlin and killed himself. To make doubly sure he would not fall into enemy hands he left orders that sides burn his body. His Munich staff was much less efficient, a fact that a Nazi survivor has come to regret. On April 30, 1945 - day Hitler died in

Infection linked to diabetes

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Recent studies suggest certain viral infections may cause the most serious kind of diabetes in people with an inherited susceptibility, according to a report of the National Diabetes Advisory Board. "These observations raise the possibility of preventing diabetes by vaccinating susceptible individuals," the board said in its first report, sent to Congress and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in early May. While it called the studies "one of the most exciting potential breakthroughs" in tracing the cause of the most severe type of diabetes, the board said much research remains to be done. It called for increased government spending. Diabetes is considered a major health problem and the report said the prevalence of the disease is increasing for unknown reasons in the United States. "Ultimate success in conquering this disease will depend on continued and expanded efforts by the Congress, the administration, the private sector and a concerned public," said the 23-member panel which was created by Congress two years ago. As many as 10 million Americans may have diabetes. The disorder results from the body's inability to burn up its intake of sugars, starches and other carbohydrates because the body isn't making enough insulin. Although death statistics usually do not specify the underlying cause of death, it has been estimated that as many as 300,000 deaths a year are attributable to complications of diabetes. A 1975 study said the prevalence of diabetes in the United States had increased by more than 50 percent between 1968 and 1974. The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, a voluntary group, said recently, "The nation should sound an alarm because the number of diagnosed cases is increasing at 6 percent a year. "Chances of having diabetes during one's lifetime are one out of five," the foundation said. "For women, that jumps to two out of five. For black women, that goes to three out of five."

Mahurin likes caretaker job

By CHRIS BLAK
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Those who attend social functions at the Veterans Memorial Clubhouse may know Howard "Hy" Mahurin. But they will never be seen with him at one of those functions. Not if Mahurin can help it.

Mahurin, 66, is the caretaker of the clubhouse at 100 Sunset Ridge Drive. He coordinates the many functions which are held at the hall downstairs each year.

He likes to keep out of the way of his guests.

"My wife and I both don't like to interfere while a party is going on," Mahurin said. "The place is theirs while they're here, we'd like to keep it that way."

The Parks and Recreation Department, which employs Mahurin, takes care of the outside grounds on the 50-acre lot. Through Mahurin, it also rents the hall to various civic and community organizations and private groups for dinner parties, luncheons, receptions and dances.

Mahurin said he arranges "about two or three parties a day, seven days a week" at the hall.

His responsibilities include interviewing potential renters and setting up times for their parties and taking care of security at the hall during the function itself.

The job means long and sometimes irregular hours for Mahurin. He said he works "an average of 16 to 18 hours a day."

He added, "sometimes you have to work all night. You may get a Saturday night wedding reception and another group on Sunday morning. I have to stay until they leave."

While the parties are going on, Mahurin stays out of the guests' way and does his favorite hobby.

His hobby is "doing things and making things. I like to make unusual things that you can't buy in any store."

Right now Mahurin is building a miniature wooden bird house modeled after McDonald's Restaurant.

On the back porch of the house there is a miniature red barn house which Mahurin made. It serves as a greenhouse for some of his plants.

Mahurin was a tool foreman for 20 years at Royal Typewriter in Hartford before he became caretaker of the clubhouse in 1962.

He came to Hartford from Lancaster, N.H., where he was born and grew up. He worked at the Fuller Brush Co. in the Tool and Gage Department until the plant was shut down during World War II.

When it comes to the clubhouse, Mahurin is a walking history book.

The property, he said, used to be a private, nine-hole golf course called the Sunset Ridge Golf Club. Golfers used to tee off for the first hole at the hill near the back of the house.

In 1946, the owner of the golf club sold the place. It became a nightclub for three years.

Pratt and Whitney Aircraft then bought the lot and used it for Army officer training.

"They used it for small weapons care, but it wasn't big enough for their purposes. So they sold it to the town."

As a town building, it gets heavy use. In addition to the social functions inside, the outside grounds have been used for sledding and trees are being cleared for a small ski slope.

In addition, the Jaycees used to hold soap box derby races in front of the house. This stopped when the Jaycees could not get enough sponsors.

Newlyweds have also taken advantage of the scenic grounds for wedding pictures. Mahurin said he happily obliges a new couple.

Stag parties are one of the few activities prohibited at the hall.

The hall has a permit to serve, but not to sell liquor. Liquor is not permitted inside the building.

Mahurin lives upstairs in a five-room apartment with his wife, Barbara.

They have three children who are grown. Their son, Howard, lives in Florida. One daughter, Judy, is married and lives in Texas, and the other daughter, Marian, lives in Garrisonville.

"My wife helps me a lot," he said. "This would be an impossible job for one person. My wife takes care of all the phone calls and there are quite a few."

Either Mahurin or his wife must stay on the grounds at all times. "If

Drumm denies leaving town

EAST HARTFORD — Police Chief Clarence Drumm today denied reports he is planning to take a job in another town or city.

"I am very happy here," said the chief.

"I couldn't have it any better. The morale is high, political support is solid."

He noted the recent Town Council action to give his department 10 more patrol officer positions bringing his total uniformed force up to 101 officers.

"That's a tremendous vote of confidence," Drumm said. "I told the people we needed them and would use them well. Everyone recognized the need and trusted me with the men."

He said he has already begun putting officers on the street with his "stop, walk and talk" plan. An officer will park his cruiser and walk through a neighborhood for an hour or so talking to merchants and residents. Officers have done this week at Burnside Center and parts of downtown Main Street, he said.

"I still will resist but men I don't see the value in it."

Career Education Day held

EAST HARTFORD — Career Education day was held at the O'Connell Middle School Thursday with 518 students participating in the program.

The program will again be presented at the Pilgrim Middle School today and at the O'Brien Middle School on Wednesday, June 7.

Career Education Specialist Peter Buttafoco and school guidance staffs arranged personal appearances of 25 specialists from various occupations at the south end school.

Prior to scheduling and application of events, middle school students were requested to indicate their preferences in career employment.

Students questioned the speakers and, along with teachers, evaluated the program. Youngsters also were able to observe equipment and instruments which were furnished by employers of the speakers.

Dr. George R. Scheidt, O'Connell principal; and Charles A. Duren, O'Connell guidance counselor, assisted Buttafoco in directing and presenting the program.

Heritage trail

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 21-day Irish Heritage Trail program that incorporates a 12-day stay with an Irish family has been announced by a group of academic and cultural interests in New York and Dublin.

Led by a specialist in Irish arts and crafts from the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York, the venture involves the co-operation of The Experiment in International Living, a worldwide non-profit learning organization.

The "trail" begins at Shannon and progresses to Dublin via Cork and Kilkenny, with guided tours of places of scenic, craft and cultural interest such as Blarney Castle, Kilkenny Design Workshops, the Rock of Cashel and Kilkake Castle.

MANCHESTER COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Where have all the young people gone?

EAST HARTFORD — "I have no idea where they have gone," said Syle School Principal Ray Brown.

"They are going to go someplace."

Large groups of young people who had been congregating on the school grounds in the evenings for months have left the school yard. Some of them used to do nightly vandalism to the school, its grounds, and the home of neighbors in the area.

Brown joined with neighbors in protesting against the steady attacks. After publishing details of the problem and taking their complaints to such town bodies as the Town Council, things began to improve.

More regular police patrols, some measures by the neighbors and the spotlight of publicity appears to have kept the young people away.

Brown said he understands the young people's problems, too. They have no place to go in the south part of town to meet and talk. So they go to such places as his school. Sooner or later, some members of the group will do careless and foolish things, he said.

"The trail" begins at Shannon and progresses to Dublin via Cork and Kilkenny, with guided tours of places of scenic, craft and cultural interest such as Blarney Castle, Kilkenny Design Workshops, the Rock of Cashel and Kilkake Castle.

"We live in a teen-age world," said Brown. "The birth rate decline of recent years will reverse things, he said. Soon there will be more adults than teens. The culture will return to one geared for adults. Such happenings as large gatherings of teens at school grounds, which often end in violence and vandalism, will happen less often."

"I hope that's true," said Brown.

Shifting vandalism
Superintendent Eugene Diggs said he is pleased to hear that the great amount of vandalism at the Syle School is abating. He said though that it is likely to start up again at another school or town park later.

He said the Syle school has been shifted from different sites each year. This year it has been worst at Syle and the O'Connell schools. Both town high schools have been relatively steady targets for vandals, he said.

"It moves from place to place and from time to time," said Diggs, the town's school chief for nine years.

"Soon some other place in town will be the 'in place' and they'll move there," Dr. Diggs said.

The use of school by 18-year-olds who give it to younger friends hasn't helped the problem, he said.

Mayor Richard Blacketer has said youth centers may not be the answer either. He did propose, however, to study setting up community centers in town for use by all ages, including young people. Funds for the study are in the fourth year Community Development Act (CDA) application to the Federal Office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

YMCA swim registration
EAST HARTFORD — The town's YMCA branch will be accepting registrations for its backyard swim program on Friday, June 8, at 9 a.m.

The program offers swimming lessons to three to six year olds in privately owned backyard pools. Pool owners will have the opportunity to pre-register their children and the children of friends or relatives.

June 23 will be the last day of school for all East Hartford public schools. This will be a four-hour session.

Howell Cheney Technical School will also hold its final day of school on June 23. Dismissal is at noon.

Emblem Club meeting
The East Hartford Emblem Club No. 341 will hold its regular meeting Monday, June 12, at the Elks Home on Roberts Street at 8 p.m.

Auto safety, repair meeting
EAST HARTFORD — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is sponsoring a town meeting to discuss auto safety and repair Tuesday, June 13, at the First Congregational Church, 837 Main St. from 7-10 p.m.

U.S. Representative William R. Cotter (D, 1st), who announced the public meeting, said "This will be the first such event in Connecticut and I urge motorists to air their concerns and safety and design, fuel economy and repair problems."

Representatives from the Environmental Protection Agency and the Federal Trade Commission will also be on hand to discuss automobile issues related to their areas.

For further information call the Connecticut Citizens Action Group at 527-7191.

REACT tag sale
EAST HARTFORD — The East Hartford REACT Team will hold a tag sale on Saturday, June 24, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 199 Burnside Ave.

REACT is an independent, non-profit organization which serves the public by providing organized citizens with two-way radio communications in local emergencies.

The group needs donations of any salable items for the tag sale.

The money will be used to replenish REACT's emergency fund, which was depleted during the February blizzard.

REACT is asking those interested in making a suggestion to call 528-7889 or 528-7701.

School closings
EAST HARTFORD — St. Rose and St. Christopher schools will be dismissed early on Friday, June 2, because of teachers' professional meetings. St. Rose will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. and St. Christopher at 1 p.m.

From June 12-15, St. Christopher will have four-hour sessions and be dismissed at 1 p.m. St. Rose will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

One June 14, Howell Cheney Technical School will be dismissed at 1 p.m.

June 16 will be the last day of school for St. Rose and St.

Dog licenses due by end of month

BOLTON — All dogs more than six months old must be licensed by June 30 or must be licensed when the dog reaches that age. Licenses may be obtained in the town clerk's office or by mail.

The cost of a license for a neutered male or spayed female is $3.50 and for an unneutered male or unspayed female, $7.00. The cost of a kennel license is $51.

To obtain a license by mail send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, 30¢ or must be licensed when the dog reaches that age. Licenses may be obtained in the town clerk's office or by mail.

Historical Society plans show and sale

HEBRON — The Hebron Historical Society will sponsor its Fourth Annual Antique Doll and Miniature Show and Sale, Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Rham High School, Route 85, Hebron.

Jacques and France Rammel make 15-inch high figures which are true in every minute detail to the spirit of the period of fashion history which each doll represents.

Viewers may order dolls from those which are on display, however, no two are alike and all are numbered when sold. These figures take from two to six weeks for completion.

Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews Fisher of Middletown, Mrs. Alicia Bailey of Dudley, Mass., and Mrs. May Ai Neumann are the invited authors for this occasion.

Anna Lee of Amos, show manager, has announced that all dealer space is completely sold out. Also, that snacks and lunch will be offered all day.

Concert series
The final program in the Spring Concert series at the First Congregational Church of Hebron will be tonight at 7 p.m.

The Clarion Brass Quintet will present a varied program of music, from popular to classical, on the lawn by the church.

The Quintet has performed extensively throughout Central Connecticut and has been heard frequently at the Asylum Hill Congregational Church in Hartford.

The concert will be preceded by a box supper on the lawn at 6 p.m. Beverages will be provided, and people coming for supper are asked to bring their own box supper.

Bloodmobile scheduled
A Bloodmobile will be conducted Friday, June 2 from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Rham High School in Hebron. Walk-in donors are invited and students must be 17 years old to participate.

All 17-year-olds must have signed permission from their parents.

For further information, persons may contact Marion Poole, of Gilead Street.

Board continues to work on budget cut

By JUDY KUEHNEL
Herald Correspondent

The South Windsor Board of Education has eliminated the position of associate principal at the Timothy Edwards School proposed for next year, in an attempt to meet the $225,000 cut in its budget imposed by the Town Council.

The position, which would have cost the town $19,553, was suggested by school superintendent, Robert Goldman, and approved by the Board of Education.

The board met Wednesday night in the second of three scheduled budget deliberation sessions during which time the board must find places to implement the budget deduction.

The Town Council has the authority, according to the town charter, to approve a dollar figure for the school department, but only the Board of Education can decide where and how the monies are to be divided.

Also slashed from the budget for the coming year was $2,353 slated for the proposed renovation of the Wapping Elementary School and the cost of the project is eligible for reimbursement from state funds.

Wapping Elementary School will close June 23. Declining enrollment on the elementary level and increased enrollment in the high school, is the reason for the replacement decision.

The use of a portion of Wapping School for the high school will permit expansion of the home economics and industrial arts departments.

In other action Wednesday night the board discussed bids received from three Hartford area architectural firms for schematic drawings for the proposed renovation of the Wapping Elementary School and the high school. Estimates ran from $5,000 to $6,000. The total cost of the renovations is expected to run about $346,000. However, one half of the cost of the project is eligible for reimbursement from state funds.

Ethiopia exhibit featured at library

SOUTH WINDSOR — An exhibit being shown at Wood Memorial Library, features articles from Ethiopia gathered by Claire Kennedy during her stay there as a Peace Corp volunteer from 1964 to 1966.

Exhibits include examples of native dress, household goods, including a rug made entirely of monkey skins, baskets, handwoven jewelry, and a painting of the famed Queen of Sheba.

Mrs. Kennedy, a resident of South Windsor, served as a secondary school teacher in Ethiopia. While there she spent a vacation climbing Mt. Kilimanjaro in Kenya, bargained for food in an outdoor market, rode to work on a bicycle, and learned to eat and enjoy the extremely spicy food of that country.

The items on exhibit reflect the most Biblical pastoral existence of the African people. Traditions extending back before the time of Christ have remained virtually unchanged in this country which is isolated by its mountainous terrain and by the fact that it is a Christian country surrounded by Moslem neighbors.

The exhibit will be on display in the library during regular library hours until June 23.

Lions Club plans big carnival week

GLASTONBURY — The Glastonbury Lions Club will sponsor a carnival of the week of June 12 through 17 on the grounds of St. Paul's Church, Wells Street.

The carnival will open each night at 8:30 and close about 11. On the 16th there will be a special children's matinee with rides at reduced prices from 1 to 5 p.m.

Ferris wheel, paratrooper, spin-out are some of the rides that will be featured plus many rides for children such as a giant merry-go-round, cars, and fire engines.

Many foods will also be on sale from hotdogs to cotton candy. Proceeds from the carnival will help support the community activities in which the Lions are involved as well as the club's continued particular project of help for the blind.

COPE continues support of original education budget

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — The Committee on Public Education (COPE) is continuing its support of the original budget for fiscal year 1978-79, the annual meeting of the Board of Education, James Moore, chairman of the committee said Thursday night.

The mayor and the Town Council reduced the board's $10.4 million budget by $185,000. The annual meeting was held at the Middle School. The motion was voted against by Democratic members of the council.

Moore said he called the tax collector's office to find out the status of the collections to date now that it's nearing the end of the fiscal year.

BOLTON — An idea of Tony A. Kalkus to have his church "give" to townpeople will become a reality Sunday.

Several members of St. Maurice Church will host a family picnic Sunday from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Herrick Memorial Park.

The picnic will feature sausage and peppers, shells with sauce, roast beef, hot dogs, hamburgers, salads, rolls, New England clam chowder and cold drinks.

Search is fruitless

VERNON — A four-hour search through a wooded area inter-duced 86 in Vernon Thursday didn't turn up any clues in connection with the finding of a badly decomposed body in that area on May 18.

Paul says, "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as unto the Lord."

The 53rd verse goes on to say, "And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is as the church is subject to Christ, so the church is subject to Christ, who is his body, which he himself has saved, and himself has cleansed with the word of water by the word."

DEAR AUNT: Thank you for protesting my answer. You are right. My "I'm an amateur" philosophy should not have been applied to a matter as potentially dangerous as wife-beating.

DEAR PREACHER: In regard to LADY PREACHER IN IOWA, she needs to read First Corinthians, Chapter 14 (King James version).

DEAR PREACHER: Although the printed word remains unchanged, over the years even Scripture has been interpreted in a variety of ways.

DEAR NICE: Don't try to "prove" anything. People who aren't willing to judge you on your own record aren't worth having as friends.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please reconsider your answer to DEBATING, who asked if he should tell the woman her ex-husband was about to marry that he had beaten her up.

My sweet young niece was married only three months. No one would have believed that the man she married was capable of such violence as he later evidenced.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished crying my eyes out over something that is not my fault. A very nice boy from school started dating me and I was on cloud nine.

Expert knows safety play

West was indignant. Turning to the girl he said, "You should learn the correct play which is to go to dummy, lead low and stick in your ten."

She thanked him politely. A couple of months later she made the same ace play with a similar hand and again she collected the two tricks she needed for her contract. This time the former West was North.

He said, "Lucky again. I guess you'll never learn."

That ace play was a perfect safety play that would guarantee two tricks to the suit against any combination of adverse cards.

The young lady was Helen Sobel Smith the greatest woman player of all time and she didn't have to learn. She knew.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Attention should be centered today on discharging an old obligation. Do so quickly and cheerfully. You've saved yourself a lot of anguish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) In making an important decision today, you might need to bypass a strong-willed person. His cooperation will be needed to get an answer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 21) The whole day could slip by without accomplishing a thing. You'll want to be alert and watch for what needs to be done. Tackle one task at a time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being around a depressing, moody individual today will rub salt in your wound and it was a simple matter for her to score two club tricks, game and rubber.

Woman found dead in bed; $73,601 in cash in house

Glenn E. Robinett
Glenn E. Robinett, 74, of Holiday, Fla., died Wednesday at Tarpon Springs General Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Mae Robinett and the father of Mrs. Phyllis Robinett of Manchester.

EAST HARTFORD - Police discovered $73,601 in cash secreted about Mrs. Serpello. She had not come out in her yard that day as she usually did, he said.

Police went to the home and found her lying in her bed, police said. Donald Hazen, medical examiner, came to the home at 3:05 p.m. and pronounced her dead. She had apparently died of natural causes in her sleep, police said.

Mr. Serpello was born in Bisaccia, Province of Avellino, Italy, and lived in Hartford more than 50 years.

Robert S. Kelley
SOUTH WINDSOR - Robert Scott Kelley, 24, of 156 Farmham road died Thursday in Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Kelley was born in Hartford and lived in Johnston, N.Y., before moving to South Windsor 20 years ago.

Then they found a large metal strong box in the master bedroom which contained a total of $34,414 in cash. It was in packets of $1,000 plus one of $14, police said.

Commissioner and Mrs. Edward Carey
A thorough search of the home turned up a total of $73,601 in cash, police said. Much of it was in pots, pans, the oven, and in other places wrapped in tinfoil, police said.

Eight-game trip on road for R Sox

BOSTON (UPI) - The Boston Red Sox have taken a deep breath and a 3,000-mile journey to prepare for the third month of an already exciting baseball season.

Toronto, Boston scored 11 runs. "We're just going through one of those times," said catcher Carlton Fisk.

Scoring all runs in two innings, Crispino's topped Zipser Club last night at Fitzgerald, 12-1.

Pushing over at least one run in every inning, MCC stopped Woodley's last night at Nebo, 12-3.

Two hits each by Bob Simler, Ray Brent, Joe Ruggiero, Dick Klein and Fred Schneider paced Manchester OI Heat to a 14-1 win over Annulli's last night at Marlborough.

Yanks learn first hand 'new' Palmer still tough

NEW YORK (UPI) - The "new" Jim Palmer isn't any easier to hit than the old one.

The 22-year-old righthander of the Baltimore Orioles has been forced to use a different pitching style this year because of a chronically sore right shoulder.

He stopped the hard-hitting New York Yankees on just two singles Thursday in leading the Orioles to a 1-0 victory. It was his third straight shutout and raised his record to 7-4.

Palmer's shutout moved him one ahead of Gaylord Perry for the most among active pitchers and tied him with Early Wynn and Don Drysdale for 14th place on the all-time list.

Olin fined $45,000 - A federal court judge has fined Olin Corp. $45,000 and approved their plan to donate $500,000 to charity for illegally selling arms to South Africa. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Zampano had ordered the company to set up the charity fund as punishment for selling 2,000 guns and 30 million rounds of ammunition to South African retailers. Zampano, in deciding on the unusual fine in March, said it was an attempt "to restore continuity confidence in one of our most respected corporations." He said some Olin employees told him they were embarrassed by the conviction. Phone bills unchecked - Hartford (UPI) - State government in Connecticut paid a $7.5 million telephone bill last year but never checked whether all the charges were legitimate, a state auditing team says. Auditors Henry Becker and Leo Donohue said Thursday their report covered state payments to Southern New England Telephone for the fiscal year ending June 1977. The study "disclosed that internal control over expenditures charged to this account is weak in nearly all phases of the state's telephone service," the auditors said. Jobs rate drops - Hartford (UPI) - Connecticut's unemployment rate dropped to five percent in April, the lowest jobs rate in eight years, state Labor Department officials report. Labor Department figures showed Thursday showed unemployment dropped from 6,800 or 5.9 percent in March to 75,900 in April - the lowest rate since unemployment was below 5 percent in the spring of 1970. Strike ends - SPRAGUE (UPI) - A month-long strike at Amstar Corp. has ended with workers voting to accept a three-year contract that management says is a little bit better than their original offer. Union members at the Sprague and Versailles plants voted 92-15 Thursday to accept the package, which includes a $1.29 per hour pay increase for production and maintenance workers over the life of the contract. Church to present musical - "Celebration of Hope," a musical by Olla Skilling, will be presented by the Teen Choir of the Church of the Nazarene, 236 Main St., Sunday at 6 p.m. More than 30 young people have prepared the 45-minute presentation with full orchestral tape accompaniment. Seven members of the youth choir will be soloists. The event is free and the public is invited. There will be a fellowship hour in the lower auditorium after the concert.

Peopletalk - Jack Lemmon backstage Thursday night after Lemmon ended an 18-year absence from Broadway by opening in Slade's new play, "Tribute." Donald O'Connor and Milton Berle were among the stars victimizing playwright Neil Simon Thursday night at a roast in New York. Julie Budd paid a backstage visit to her old pal Melba Moore Thursday night after watching her perform in Broadway's "Trinkets." The Harvard Business School will present its annual business statesman award June 11 to Jack Valenti, head of the NAACP's Image Awards, the group's top civil rights award function, will be "a tribute to Roy Wilkins," the organization's retired executive director. "We will stand fast in our commitment to Mr. Wilkins in this hour of crucial challenge," said an NAACP statement Thursday. Quote of the day - Actor Paul Newman on his role as a member of the U.S. delegation to the disarmament session at the United Nations: "I'm not a great negotiator and I'm not a great drafter of initiatives. But I can get to the idiot box and my goal is to spotlight what is going on at the United Nations." Glimpses - Columbia Pictures Thursday named Daniel Melnick to replace David Begelman as head of its film-making division. Ellen Burstyn joined playwright Bernard Slade and

Open door policy - "The emotional aspect is over," says Jeanne Ehrlichman. "John" is John Ehrlichman, the convicted Watergate figure who was the first of the president's men to finish serving his time. "John wants to live alone," a resigned Mrs. Ehrlichman said in a recent interview with the Bellevue, Wash., Daily Journal American. But she added, "John can come home whenever he wants. The door will always be open." Ehrlichman, who lives in Santa Fe, N.M., since he was paroled April 27, was not available for comment. Let George do it - As anybody who reads newspapers knows, there's a good chance Jerry Ford will run in 1980 for the job he lost to Jimmy Carter - "a 50-50 chance," according to Ford's 20-year-old daughter, Susan. But she says there's no way she'll help him get the job. "I've already done (the campaign) gambit once and I have no desire to go back to Washington again." Miss Ford said in Baltimore Thursday, "I think he still has a desire for the job, but whatever that desire is, I can't understand him wanting the job. The hours are rotten, the travel is rotten."

TV can be teaching tool

By JOAN HANAUER - NEW YORK (UPI) - Parents who find their children glued to the television set can make them a captive audience for some home study. American children watch, on average, 50 hours of television a week, according to an article in the Ford Foundation Letter, which means they spend more time in front of the tube than behind a desk in school. At the same time three out of four families are unable to talk to their children about sensitive subjects ranging from drugs to death, according to the General Mills "American Family Report." Kenneth Keniston of the Carnegie Council on Children has charged that American youngsters are being brought up by a "lickering blue parent." The ideal might be for parents to regulate carefully what and how much television their children watch. It can be done by parents such as Michael Landon, star of "Little House on the Prairie," whose children are not permitted to tube-watch on school nights - except, obviously, for "Little House" on Mondays. Most parents find that somewhere between difficult and impossible. The alternative - if you can't fight it, use it! Teachers also are being urged to use their students' television experiences to promote learning. One example is the Prime Time School Television program supported by the Ford Foundation. Students are assigned to watch programs such as "Starsky and Hutch" and "S.W.A.T.," not ordinarily the darlings of the educational set, and analyze how the shows handle such hot topics as the constitutional rights of suspects, use of force, and crime-solving techniques. Students also are asked to explore their own knowledge of law enforcement practices and compare what they know with the way television handles similar experience. This not only teaches about the criminal justice system, its good points and its abuses, but also helps kids learn to take what they see on the screen with a grain - or maybe a heaping mound - of salt. Along the line of helping children become intelligent consumers of television, the American Broadcasting Companies has granted a pair of Uva professors $100,000 to construct an eight-lesson course for third, fourth and fifth grade teachers. The aim is to teach children to understand such things as the difference between commercials and programs, and fantasy and reality, as well as finding ways teachers and parents can use the natural interest of children in TV to enhance cognitive and social skills including reading.

Off-duty policemen capture man fleeing robbery scene

EAST HARTFORD - Off-duty Police Officer David Sherwood saw a man fleeing the Roman Market at 494 Burnside Ave. Thursday at 4:40 p.m. as a woman yelled there had been a robbery there, East Hartford Police said. Sherwood chased him and, with a flying leap, tackled him. Christopher Heller, another off-duty officer with him, jumped on top of them and, with four other officers assisting, they arrested the man, police said. He'll be charged with first-degree robbery, assault on a police officer, assault on a person over age 60, and interference with an officer. Kyle had allegedly entered the store and walked to the counter to Stanley J. Roman, 39, the store owner. Roman said he thought the man was going to buy the beer. Instead, Kyle beat Roman over the head with the bottle and grabbed $15 in cash from the register, police said. Roman's brother Edward Roman, 60, saw the acts and started fighting with Kyle, police said. A woman entered the back of the store, saw them fighting and ran back out for help, police said. Sherwood and Heller were with other officers at Wish's Restaurant at 488 Burnside Ave. They had taken part in an all-day training program at the police station. As Sherwood came out of Wish's, he heard the woman and saw the man running out of the market, police said. His fellow officers came rushing behind him.

Manchester police report

A Rachel Road resident reported to police Thursday afternoon that a large amount of cash was missing from his apartment. The resident said he found an outside door ajar when he arrived home about 1:30 p.m. He discovered an envelope of cash belonging to an athletic league missing. Nothing else was touched, police said. An attempted theft of cash from the courtesy window of the Food Mart store in the Manchester Parkade was reported Thursday about 7:15 p.m. Police said the employee at the counter turned around to get some cigarettes for the two suspects who then started to take money at the counter. When she turned around, the two fled on foot through the parking lot, police said. Two purse thefts were reported to police Thursday. One involved the theft of several items, including checkbooks, from a purse of a woman at David's Restaurant in the Parkade Thursday morning. A female student at Manchester High School reported the theft of her wallet from her pocketbook in a classroom. Some money and bank books were among the contents. An attempted break and entry was reported at 38 Haynes St. office. A lock on a door was broken, police said, sometime Wednesday night. Randy G. McCarthy, 20, of 132 Falkner Drive was charged with third-degree criminal mischief in connection with vandalism to some property in his neighborhood in May. He was arrested on a warrant and was released on a non-surety bond for court June 19. Police gave several verbal warnings to motorists for making illegal u-turns on Main Street in the downtown area Thursday. Warnings are given for the action this week and police will start making arrests Monday for the u-turns in connection with efforts to curb accidents in the area. Police patrol made 15 motor vehicle arrests Thursday.

The best way to determine ability to pay is by a detailed analysis of assets and earning power. Individual analyses are obviously necessary, but there are some general principles that help every individual. The price which should be paid for a house rarely should exceed two and one-half times annual family income. An outside limit of before annual family income is still better, and if it is possible for even lower payments, analysis can also be made considering weekly disposable income in relation to monthly fixed payments, it is to his advantage to do so.

When you buy a home, you're adding to your capital. You're investing in your future, the future of your family, and the future of the home itself. Your investment will pay off in many ways. The satisfaction of ownership, the pleasure of watching your home grow as your family grows. Because, in effect, a home is a living thing, it responds to your care and attention. The more effort you put into it the more satisfaction you will get out of it. It repays your interest — with interest. Steadily increasing equity in a home is one of the most rewarding forms of painless, automatic saving. Everything you do to make your home more livable makes it more valuable, to you and others in the long run.

HOME SELLERS RELY ON US FOR THE SAME REASONS HOME BUYERS RELY ON US.

ERA EXPOSURE AND HOME WARRANTY PROGRAMS.
How quickly you sell your home depends mainly on how much exposure it receives. The more it's seen the faster it sells. And that's why ERA could be important to you. Through ERA's photo-by-wire listing system, your home is exposed both locally and nationwide through ERA's 2,500 offices.

That's especially important when you consider that up to 40% of all homes sell to out-of-town buyers. Since the ERA system is geared to put you in touch with these highly qualified buyers, it means the fastest possible sale at the best possible price.

ERA HOME SELLERS PROTECTION.
As a home seller, you'll be happy to know you can save money, worry, and perhaps a sale by insulating on ERA's Home Sellers Protection. It covers the repair or replacement of all these working components: Built-in appliances, central air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems, water heaters and softeners, and the central heating system.* Coverage lasts from two weeks until the home is sold, or up to 180 days.

PROTECTION FOR BUYERS TOO.
If you're buying a home, you will enjoy the same protection for one year from the day of sale. And you never pay more than a modest deductible even if the claim is $1,000 or more (regardless of how many times you file a claim). Buying or selling, coming or going, it always makes sense to deal with an ERA Member Broker.

ERA. We're the real estate brokers with exclusive home warranties that make buying or selling simple and fast.

"Hot Gains" Control Cooling

Room size alone will not determine the efficiency of an air conditioning unit.
A room's dimensions reveal only the amount of air that must be conditioned in an ideal situation. What also must be considered is the "Heat-gain source."
For example, if there is nothing in a room 15 by 17 feet that increases normal heat and humidity, that space may be comfortably cooled and dehumidified by a 5,000 BTU unit (a little less than one-half ton).
What is important in determining the correct unit for a room is consideration of the following heat-gain sources if they exist in a room:
— Sliding glass doors that let in the sun's radiant heat.
— Windows with southern exposure.
— Heavy draperies that absorb and capsule heat in a room.
— Heat and humidity in a bedroom with adjoining bath.
— Cooling heat from a nearby kitchen.
With air conditioners that contain thermostats it is better to install a slightly oversized unit than one too large for an area. A too-large unit will cool the room too quickly, causing the compressor to turn on and off repeatedly, thus using more power without filtering or dehumidifying the air adequately.

COVENTRY — Large 8 room Raised Ranch, 1 1/2 baths, on 1 1/2 wooded acres. $48,900.
COVENTRY north — New listing. 7 room Raised Ranch, 1 1/2 baths, 1 acre. $49,900.

COLUMBIA — New Ranches, 1 1/2 wooded acres, natural siding, stone fireplace. $49,900.
COLUMBIA LAKE — 2 acre wooded lot close to lake. Private beach rights only $19,000.
