U.S. and Panama exchange treaties

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Sealing the historic canal treaties with Panamanian Gen. Omar Torrijos Friday, President Carter declared "there will be no instance when the path between the two great oceans will be closed."

Calling it "a moment of great historic importance," Carter exchanged with Torrijos the documents which stipulate the waterway linking the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans will be turned over to Panama on Dec. 31, 1999.

Riot-equipped National Guardsmen were deployed at critical points in the capital as Carter arrived to a red-carpet, festive welcome in which he told cheering, flag-waving Panamanians: "I come here not as a foreigner but as a friend and supporter."

Carter and Torrijos signed the protocol which officially says the treaties were approved by both nations, then exchanged the instruments of ratification to turn the canal over to Panama.

Carter and Torrijos shook hands, then embraced to applause in the domed Panama City Coliseum.

In his remarks after signing, Carter called the treaties a "great achievement... a gain for the cause of peace and cooperation among all nations. This path between the two seas remains one of the greatest and most benevolent creations ever wrought."

Each time his remarks were translated into Spanish, the crowd broke into rousing applause. But the spectators reserved their standing ovation for Carter's declaration that the treaties "reaffirm our commitment to honor national sovereignty and the principles of non-intervention."

"Now, after 14 years on opposition sides of the bargaining table, we sit together as partners," Carter said.

Torrijos gave credit to the Panamanian people for the approval of the treaties.

"They earned it with blood and sacrifice and they will defend it likewise," he said.

It took four presidents and 14 years for the United States to agree to turn the canal over to Panama. The neutrality treaty and the main treaty relinquishing the canal were approved by the Senate in March and April respectively by just one vote more than necessary after a bitter, divisive struggle.

On hand for the exchange of documents were the leaders of Mexico, Costa Rica, Colombia, Jamaica and Venezuela in a show of Latin-American solidarity.

On the route from the airport to the school to the outdoor arena, there were none of the anti-treaty demonstrators who have violently split Panama. Crowds were sparse along the motorcade route.

Economy outlook remains sluggish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing construction fell 4.9 percent in May for the first decline since January and the economic outlook for the summer and fall remained sluggish, the government said Friday.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said Americans' personal income, a prime indicator of future consumer spending, rose 0.9 percent in May, a moderate slowdown from big gains in the previous two months.

During the past two days, the government has issued four reports that indicated the economy is slowing down. On Thursday, the government said industrial production and inventory expansion were less buoyant in April and May.

The Commerce Department said construction of homes and apartments were started at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.07 million units last month, 4.9 percent below the April level. Starts had increased in April by 6.9 percent.

In addition, the department said building permits last month were issued at a rate 8.8 percent below April's level.

Tech graduates hear of potential prosperity

By JUNE TOMPKINS
 Herald Reporter

Young tradesman, 101 of them, were told of the potential for a future of limitless prosperity during Friday night commencement exercises of the Class of 1978 at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School.

Before hearing admonitions to educate themselves and be creative, the graduates marched in single file from the school to the outdoor arena, their green robed figures casting angular shadows on the grass.

When S. John Garofalo welcomed the class, he paid tribute to the late Robert Edward Duff Jr., class president, who died about a month ago. He told the audience that since he arrived at Cheney Tech as its director in 1972, the graduating class had increased from 44 in 1973 to 101 in 1978.

Referring to the recent cooperative agreement for a summer training program between Hamilton Standard Division of United Technologies Corp. and the state to be conducted at Cheney Tech, Garofalo said, "I think this proves we are not only a contribution to vocational education, but also an outstanding contribution to all education."

Representing the state Board of Education, assistant secretary Dr. Peter P. Horoschuk told the young men that their greatest challenge "is to enter this new world, search out without drifting, and participate without losing their own identity and integrity."

In the midst of a sudden gale, Richard A. Caron, class representative, kept his head while presenting some brief reflections, even though a gusty wind blew his hat off, and a cloudburst drenched his speech to the ground.

Although the class was told that most of them will not become soldiers in the conventional sense of defending our nation's security, Robert Weinberg, president of Economy Electric Supply Inc. in Manchester, said that "your country needs your services, desperately, just the same as it has in times of war."

As guest speaker, Weinberg began his remarks by saying that "from the vantage point of our present technology, we see the potential for a future of limitless prosperity. We see the possibility of cataclysmic destruction, technology run amok, or technology developed and controlled for the betterment of mankind."

Then he commended Cheney Tech for growing increasingly more selective, and training its students in skills "valued by American industry and the construction trades."

He referred specifically to the status of Connecticut's skilled population.

"Connecticut has a resource that exceeds all others in importance; that resource is a skilled and educated population. It was a skilled population, not the Marshall Plan, that was primarily responsible for the dramatic economic resurgence of Western Europe after the devastation of World War II."

"Ten Marshall Plans," he continued, "would not work the same miracle on the underdeveloped nations that have not yet produced the skilled and educated work force necessary to sustain a modern technological society."

"The oil rich nations of the Middle East have billions to spend on the most sophisticated products of the industrialized world, but they cannot operate or maintain much of this equipment without the skilled assistance of foreign nations."

"The armed might of Egypt lies near uselessness under a pitiless desert sun because the Russians have withdrawn their technicians and will not provide spare parts."

Also making reference to the new training program at Cheney Tech, Weinberg said that the future physical expansion of the school and the reinforcement of its curriculum are an absolute necessity "if we expect to maintain and expand the industrial base of this state."

Weinberg alluded to "giants" of the past — giants of science and of arts, politics and philosophy, on whose foundations of knowledge laid down by them, "our society, our culture, our technology continues to build."

He said that to gain the view from the heights, one must learn from those who have stood at the frontiers of human knowledge. "The process of educating oneself should never stop. In short, one must read."

Further crediting an industrial knowledge, Weinberg referred to an American economist, Thorstein B. Veblen. "He feels that engineers and not lawyers should predominate in governing a technological society," Weinberg said. He added, "It is equally important to study history and politics and to constantly remain current on the latest technical achievements in your field."

What, then, is the duty of these young graduates?

"It is your duty to understand the issues of today," Weinberg said, "to involve yourself in the legislative and elective processes and to speak out with a voice of reason. We must increase our productivity by modernizing our plants and production equipment."

Then Weinberg introduced a concept called "creative conceit."

"It is a very special form of benevolent arrogance which allows certain gifted people to achieve, to improvise, to invent and to accomplish what others cannot."

"You simply say to yourself, I can think of a way to do it better. It doesn't matter if this is the way it always has been, I can make an improvement."

He concluded by encouraging the graduates to exercise a little of their "creative conceit" on our imperfect world, so that we might all benefit from their efforts.

As the full name of each graduate was intoned in alphabetical order during the presentation of diplomas, there was a gasp in the machine-gun category while Gerald Blanchard, guidance coordinator, announced "in memory of Robert Edward Duff Jr."

The Rev. Stephen K. Jacobson delivered the invocation, and Garofalo gave the benediction, "for Bobby," he said.

To the martial strains of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," it was the parents and friends of the graduates who marched forth from the stands and chairs to embrace and congratulate the exuberant graduates, who by this time were tossing their hats high in the sky.

Brooke probe ordered

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Middlesex County District Attorney John Dronoy Friday ordered an investigation into admitted "mistatements" by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., during the lawmaker's recent divorce case.

The action follows the reopening of a bitter divorce case between Brooke and his wife, Remigia.

The divorce, which was to have been final Thursday, was reopened by Middlesex County Probate Judge Lawrence Perera after copies of Brooke's sworn financial disclosure statements were leaked to the Boston Globe.

Brooke then admitted he had made a "mistatement," but said he had not committed perjury.

Thursday Perera gave Mrs. Brooke 10 days to decide if she wants the divorce case reopened. Mrs. Brooke has yet to make a decision.

"Mr. Dronoy believes that Judge (Lawrence) Perera's order raises serious questions of fact and of law which questions must be answered before he can make a final determination of a course of action that can be taken," said first Assistant District Attorney John Kerry, speaking for Dronoy.

Dronoy, a Democrat who was beaten by Brooke in the 1972 Senate race by a 2-1 margin, said in his statement it would be "unwise" to make a statement on the case without reviewing the transcripts and depositions taken during the divorce proceedings.

Kerry said any action by Dronoy would have nothing to do with the 1972 election.

The site, including the Cheney Homestead on Hartford Road, and nearby industrial area, now will be included in the National Register of Historic Places.

John Sutherland, a former president of the Manchester Historical Society and head of the Institute of Local History at Manchester Community College, learned Friday that the Cheney site had received the designation.

He was informed of the decision by George Adams, consultant for the Historic Landmarks project of the American Association for State and Local History.

The Cheney site is only the third area in the state to become a National Historic Landmark District, Sutherland said. The others are the New Haven Green and the Litchfield Historic District.

Work on receiving such a designation started in September 1975 and was done by the Manchester Historical Society in cooperation with the Connecticut Historical Commission.

The idea actually generated from the late Herbert Swanson, who was a member of the Manchester Historical Society. Mr. Swanson submitted an application to the state commission that the Cheney Homestead be considered for an historical landmark designation.

The commission responded that the local historical group was being "too modest by submitting only the homestead."

There are benefits to residents in a National Historic District. Property owners within the district receive plaques to place on their buildings.

Also, property owners are eligible to compete in applying for grant funds from the Department of the Interior for restoration projects.

Sutherland said that Thomas Connors, a member of the Manchester Board of Directors has been exploring a variety of possibilities for rehabilitation in the Cheney Mill area. The advantages that come with this designation should assist these efforts, Sutherland said.

"This is a good opportunity for Manchester to show we don't have to preserve everything and halt all development, he said. "Preservation and responsible development can go hand in hand."

Constance Adams, who is now president of the Manchester Historical Society, could not be reached for comment Friday.

Protest accord reached

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — State officials, anti-nuclear demonstrators and the firm holding the major interest in the Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant Friday agreed to terms providing for a peaceful demonstration at the facility.

The state, the Clamshell Alliance and the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire agreed Friday the protest would be held June 23-26 at an 18-acre site near the plant, which is under construction.

Last year, 1,414 persons were arrested during an anti-nuclear protest there sponsored by the Clamshell and officials had worried that without an agreement there might be a repeat of that situation.

Mayor proclaims Eighth District Day

Stephen Penny, Mayor of the Town of Manchester, has proclaimed today "Manchester Fire Department, Eighth Utilities District Day."

"The District's Fire Department was established in 1854 and is observing its 90th anniversary today. A parade, which will be part of the anniversary celebration, will start at 4 p.m.

"The members of the Manchester Fire Department, Eighth Utilities District, have dedicated themselves to the protection of the property and people of the District," Penny said in his proclamation.

"The department has demonstrated that it is an effective fire fighting unit and continues to function in the highest tradition of the fire service," he said.

That's entertainment

By Allen M. Widem

By ALLEN M. WIDEM Herald entertainment buff with long memories will readily remember a comedy team that played "Pop" Simmons' Old Town Hall Inn on East Hartford's Main Street time and time again some 25 years ago. (This was back in the era of constant floor shows at dozens of restaurants, night clubs, supper clubs throughout Connecticut.)

One of the duo - Joe Halter - was back in the area on a rare visit the other night, as comic emcee for the Hartford Public Benevolent Association annual variety show at Bushnell Memorial. "Pop" Simmons was the kind of night club emcee who could build strong loyalties; he gave many a would-be "name" aspirant a chance and once they achieved recognition, would return often. Hartford's Totie Fields (nee Sophie Feldman) played the inn earlier in her career and came back many times. These fleeting years indeed!

This, too, is happening Tommy Brent, marking his 12th season as producer of Theatre-by-the-Sea, Newport, R.I., summer playhouse, knows what it means to have a door literally slammed in one's face. Many years ago, when he desperately wanted to crack into the charmed circle of Broadway star-

Forum of the arts

Seminar at Goodspeed The Goodspeed Opera House will offer its first Musical Theatre Seminar Aug. 16 through 19. The inaugural seminar is intended to acquaint secondary school theater directors, college theater directors and other interested theater practitioners with the historical values of the American Musical Theatre and with the Goodspeed techniques of producing for the musical stage. Seminar classes and discussions will range from choosing musicals for specific groups, to designing and directing for the musical stage, to live history of the American Musical Theatre.

Lehman Engel, noted Broadway musical director, will be featured as the keynote speaker for the seminar. Joining Engel as seminar discussion leaders will be Robert Kimball, Sylvia Herscher and Louis H. Aborn. Kimball is former special consultant to the Goodspeed for revival productions. He reviews recordings and writes feature articles on the arts for the New York Post. Ms. Herscher, publisher of theater scores for MacMillan Performing Arts Library, will offer advice and comments on how to select and lease musicals for production. Participating Goodspeed artistic staff members include Al Simmons, music research consultant; Lynn Crigler, musical director; Dan Sirella, choreographer; and Noel Wilman, director for "She Loves Me."

Further information and a brochure outlining activities for the seminar are available by contacting Sarah Shelley, c/o SEMINAR, Goodspeed Opera House, East Hartford, Conn. 06423, or call Mrs. Shelley at 672-8664.

Theater events "Twelfth Night," William Shakespeare's play of mistaken identity and merriment resolved by love, marks the return July 5 of the American Shakespeare Theatre to the Connecticut Center for the Performing Arts in Stratford after a one-year absence. Lynn Redgrave will play Viola in the romantic comedy. The play will run through Aug. 6 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8, and Matinees at 2:30 on Wednesday and Sunday matinees at 1:30.

Fire still being probed

A fire that could have caused extensive damage Wednesday night at the Central Connecticut Co-op Farmers Association on Ape Place and surrounding area was quickly brought under control and extinguished by the Eighth Utilities District Fire Department. A smoldering fire in an abandoned feed bin was reported at 7:58 p.m. and extinguished with water and chemicals. Chief Granville H. "Ted" Lingard said the cause of the fire is under investigation. "There are several possibilities," Lingard said, "among which are spontaneous combustion, but we can't say yet pinpoint the cause." He also said that there was some welding going on Wednesday at the Co-op, and possibly a spark might have been the cause. "It was a dangerous situation," he said, "because the grain mill is in a high hazard area. We could have used a piece of elevating equipment to help us break through the higher portion of the building," he said. The district is negotiating for purchase of an aerial lift which will aid the department in reaching high buildings. Lingard said that a water fog containing chemical was sprayed at the fire, and possibly a spark might have been the cause. "carefully" in the bin so as not to create a cloud of dust which could become explosive.

Board hears phase-in gripe

A resident complained on Thursday night's comment session about the phase-in approved by the Manchester Board of Directors. The board has approved phase-in plans for assessment resulting from revaluation and for new sewer rates. A South Adams Street resident said that 10 of the 14 sidewalk slabs in front of his home need repair. He wondered if the town could receive federal funding to make such repairs. Another man complained that Coop Sawmill Road serves no useful purpose and has become an attractive area for rowdy and troublesome activities. A member of the local chapter of Morality in Media said that the organization is available to service the town. It is willing to assist in any anti-pornography projects. Director Joseph Sweeney presided at the session. Also, two residents have clarified remarks that they made at last week's comment session. One man said that he felt driver's education should be eliminated from the school curriculum to save taxpayer's money. Another man who complained about noise and odor from a recent carnival said that his complaint included the fact that the carnival operators were using diesel fuel to run some machinery.

About town

North United Methodist Church will have a strawberry festival Sunday from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door. The public is invited.

Monday meeting set for Eighth District

Skokie tormented by nightmare

The First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

By DAVID SMOTHERS
UPI Senior Editor

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — This is just a stretch of pleasant homes, lived by mostly pleasant people, on the plain, pleasant flatlands north of Chicago. Skokie is, almost everywhere, a very nice place to live in a nice place to be in: Middle Class suburbia, U.S.A.

Except that it is tormented by a nightmare that will not die.

It has become a national, some say an international, testing ground because a small band of reckless men from the southwest side of Chicago propose to spend a half hour parading about Skokie's village hall, where they march, with an empty street, that they insist they cannot bring themselves to do that.

The reason is that Skokie is a community of survivors — most survivors of Nazi concentration camps, it is believed, than any other comparable town in the country.

News stories have commonly referred to Skokie as predominantly Jewish. That is not so and the untrue reference irritates Skokie Jews and gentiles in equal measure.

To which, Collin remarked, "I am only for First Amendment rights for National Socialists. I don't care for any other rights."

"I reaffirm that the NSPA will conduct our Skokie demonstration without acts of violence. But should we be attacked, we will fight with a ruthlessness as terrifying as it will be thorough."

To those in search of ironies another is that Collin and his followers he alleges no more than 50 people, and that (that) cannot even claim to be legitimate Nazis.

The American Nazi Party cut them loose because Collin could not prove his father is not Max Simon Cohn, a survivor of Auschwitz. A big reason for Collin's embarrassment is that his father had no reluctance in acknowledging he is a Jew.

Equally embarrassed is the American Civil Liberties Union, at an organization closely tied to Jewish causes and dedicated to the defense of human rights. When Collin's Nazis came along saying they have rights, too, the ACLU felt compelled to take them on their own terms and just let them go. But there is something in us that won't let us do it.

"There is the deep feeling that these 6 million (Jews killed under Hitler) shall not have died in vain — gone away as if they were never there."

"One concentration camp survivor, when he came out, told me, 'The first thing I thought, there never be another swastika on the streets; never another brown shirt.'" The Rev. Thomas O'Connor of St. Peter's United Church of Christ, was emphatic.

"...The nightmare, the memories, the realities, the images conjured up by the very presence and representation of the Nazi," he said. "Ask yourself the same question: If you watched your family carted away, if you escaped with your life and only that, would you be able to stand by and let any representation of that same thing be expressed in your presence?"

It is in the nature of a sour joke that Skokie's struggle to escape from torment went to the Supreme Court where a band of crypto-Nazis represented by largely Jewish lawyers and defended by libertarians pressed their cause wrapped in the righteous mantle of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

On Monday, the court, with two justices dissenting, refused to block the march.

The First Amendment guarantees freedom of speech to all Americans. Not just to nice Americans, but to all of them.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in declaring unconstitutional three Skokie ordinances designed to prevent the march, cited the First Amendment and concluded with evident regret that it had to follow "the fundamental proposition that if these civil rights are to remain vital for all, they must protect not only those society deems acceptable but also those whose ideas if quite justifiably projects and despises."

"Skokie isn't only a national flarepoint, it's an international flarepoint," O'Connor said. "I think we be attacked, we will fight with a ruthlessness as terrifying as it will be thorough."

To an outsider, some of the fighters against the Skokie march might seem a disparate band.

These are just a few examples of what Realtors and other concerned citizens are doing across the nation to curb vandalism and cut back on the $1 billion or more being spent for public television to increase awareness of the ever-growing vandalism problem and its effects on a community.

The film also has been made available to other community and civic groups, and some boards have donated copies of the film to schools.

"There has been a wonderful empathy and sympathy. The community is united that this shall not happen Jews and Christians, they are determined it will not happen."

Yes, for all the good will in Skokie, none of those interviewed thought the village could escape violence if the Nazis come.

Smith said, "I'm firmly convinced that if they do come there will be violence. I think that you can provoke a group of people just so much and there's a breaking point in all of us."

"I wish I could feel differently. All I can tell you is that we'll do everything possible with all the cooperation we will get from other agencies to protect the lives and property of our people."

Smith and others indicated whatever happens is to a degree beyond their control.

They may have some direction over their own people in Skokie, they said, but they are stymied about what to do about those sure to come with the Nazis — not to join them but to hate and fight them.

Angered Jewish militants said members of the Jewish Defense League figure as sure bets to show up.

"Since the national impact of the television mini-series, 'The Holocaust,' there is no telling how many others and from how far away might find their way to Skokie, whether brought by a sense of righteousness, or a real grievance, or the lure of excitement and the news cameras."

"We are really most concerned with the out-coming, what they may bring with them, in terms of their feeling of commitment, that we are about our own people, O'Connor said. "With the outsider, the person who comes to Skokie because they are drawn to this particular cause, we have no way of dealing with that."

"I talked with a man recently in Highland Park (another Chicago suburb). He was (Northwestern Chicago) and he was looking at me and said, 'Where are you from?' I said 'Skokie.' He said, 'I'll be there. I don't intend to bring an violence but I'm going to stand there and I'm going to have to walk over me to walk in that town.'"

"I said, 'Why? You're a gentile, a Norwegian, a Christian.' He said, 'Because I sat in my house and my uncle and my cousin and his son were taken away from our dining room table in Norway. I watched those Nazis take them to the front steps of our house and shoot them, and let the bodies fall on our front steps and put a guard so that we couldn't get them a decent burial for a week.'"

"I can't forget that and I never will forget that and the moment that I see that swastika and that uniform that they wear and that they come from here to Timbuktu but what it's been reported."

To an outsider, some of the fighters against the Skokie march might seem a disparate band.

These are just a few examples of what Realtors and other concerned citizens are doing across the nation to curb vandalism and cut back on the $1 billion or more being spent for public television to increase awareness of the ever-growing vandalism problem and its effects on a community.

The film also has been made available to other community and civic groups, and some boards have donated copies of the film to schools.

Requests by local organizations or school groups for showing the film should be made through the local board of Realtors. Thus far, the film has been shown 1,345 for of communities throughout the nation.

The Realtor program has served as a catalyst, spurring other civic groups and concerned citizens to start or reactivate vandalism prevention programs. State and local

Politics Pearson

July's state conventions could have a local flavor to them when nominations begin for positions on the state ticket.

Manchester Democrats have indicated that they will nominate Betty Intagliata, a member of the Town Board of Directors, for secretary of state. It is not likely that Mrs. Intagliata — strictly running as a "favorite daughter" candidate — would win the nomination, but as the local Democrats see their action as one for seeking recognition — both for Mrs. Intagliata and themselves. They feel they have not received as much notice from the state party as they should have considering their successful record in elections and their high voter registration rate.

Another Manchester woman, Barbara Weinberg, is considered a possible candidate for secretary of state. She and her husband, Stanley, were active in President Jimmy Carter's campaign for the presidency.

State Sen. David Barry of Manchester, who represents part of Manchester and several area towns, has been mentioned as a possible attorney general candidate. Agostinelli has been one of the earliest and stronger supporters of Rome in his bid for governor.

The research and development department Under that heading the Grace United Church in Farmington quoted this saying in its current Newsletter: "When I works, I falls asleep."

This is funny... In a fifth-grade schoolroom in Austin, Texas, there was a tense moment when the teacher asked, "Who said, 'God is in his heaven, all's right with the world?'" Finally, a young girl waved her hand and volunteered, "Mrs. God."

The church also ministers to a silent and continuous ministry. During my active service in the Center Church, I was often called on late at night and in the early morning for some kind of service. If I was involved with some problem, one of the other clergy would immediately step forward.

All kinds of trouble seemed to arise — death, suicide, drugs, insanity, lawbreaking, marital disputes, gambling, and whatever. But some kind of a record was reached when a woman called me to climb in her second story window because she had slammed the screen door and she was locked out. Probably the fire department might have been more appropriate, but I did it for her.

Last week, I was called to a hospital where a patient was plagued by a horrible attack of guilt. When she seized my hand and clung to it like a life-preserver. For an hour, we talked about God's love and forgiveness. I had two periods of spoken prayer — as well as many quiet times to God that I might be able to say the right word and relieve her anxiety. What a wonderful privilege it is to have experienced God's love and to be able to share it with another!

WINGS OF MORNING
BY CLIFF SIMPSON

The silent and continuous ministry One major reason for institutionalizing relies in the availability of the institution when the need is greatest and when an individual might easily be out of town, busy, or indisposed. The Service to Military Families answered 45 calls for help during last February when Storm Larry was raging through our community.

The American Red Cross lists this response as a sample of what went on: "An elderly diabetic amputee who spoke only Italian was cut off from his insulin supply because the Visiting Nurse Association could not bring his medication. The Red Cross arranged for a member of the Home Service Department of Saint Francis Hospital in Hartford, the closest hospital to his home, to take the insulin."

I was recently involved in a very minor way in the national convention that took place in Hartford and caught a vision of some of the ways our Red Cross is lighting candles all around the world as well as here in our own community.

Last Tuesday, we held our annual meeting of the local branch and although I am to be the chairman for another year, it is always a revelation to hear the ramifications of what the ARC is doing.

The church also ministers to a silent and continuous ministry. During my active service in the Center Church, I was often called on late at night and in the early morning for some kind of service. If I was involved with some problem, one of the other clergy would immediately step forward.

Witnesses to attend Canadian convention

A number of families from the Manchester area are planning to attend the largest religious convention in the history of Canada next month.

More than 75,000 people are expected to attend the international assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses July 5 through July 9 at Olympic Park in Montreal, site of the 1976 summer Olympics.

George Harrison of South Windsor, presiding overseer of the Manchester congregation, said that over 100 Witnesses from Manchester, Bolton and South Windsor will join Witnesses from throughout New England and Eastern Canada.

Delegates will also be on hand from many other countries, with the program being carried on simultaneously in French, English, Portuguese, Italian, Greek and Arabic. Sessions will be held in Korean and Ukrainian.

Harrison said the convention program will give practical information on human relations, marriage will be studied and counsel given to every family member. Witnesses will receive special attention in several program segments.

The purpose of the program, according to Harrison, "is to point out the practical value of Bible laws and principles for maintaining a high standard of morality and enhancing the quality of life."

One of the main features of the assembly will be the baptism of members who will be baptized in the Olympic pool.

After the baptism, there will be 22 convention departments. The Manchester congregation is currently completing construction of a new meeting hall located at Slater Street and Tolland Turnpike.

Church announcements

Calvary Church Karl Gustafson, speaker, and soloist Beatrice Maher will be featured in Sunday's service of worship and gospel music at 6:30 p.m. at Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Turnpike.

Stephen Mooney of East Hartford, and a teenage girls' singing group will also participate in the musical program.

After the service, there will be a social hour, with strawberry shortcake, in Fellowship Hall. A free-buffet coffee and fellowship luncheon will be held at Calvary Church on Father's Day. The Public is invited.

Trinity Covenant Church will have its annual all-church picnic Saturday, June 24, on the grounds of the East Coast Conference camp at Lake Swansee, N.H.

Arrangements, made by Mrs. Kenneth Nelson, Sunday School superintendent, will include fun and fellowship for all Sunday school departments and the church. Lunch will be at noon, and members and their friends are asked to bring their own picnic lunches and cold drinks.

Coffee will be provided. Games for all ages are being arranged by Gail Johnson and Darrell Zyka. Facilities are available for swimming and tennis. At 4 p.m., the Rev.

Norman Swensen, pastor, will conduct a baptism service by immersion. The summer schedule of Sunday services will begin June 25. The first service will start at 8:15 a.m. and the second, at 10 a.m. Starting at 9:15, there will be a coffee and fellowship luncheon designed to accommodate worshippers at both services. Light-hearted crowd cheers EHHS grads

By MAI BARLOW
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD—A light-hearted, casually dressed crowd of over 2,000 clapped and cheered the 317 East Hartford High School graduating seniors Friday evening under brilliant skies during ceremonies on the athletic fields.

The graduates filled into bleachers marked off for them at the west end of the fields. The setting sun shone on their already lit faces during the National Anthem.

The Rev. Alva Decker, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church on Main Street, gave the invocation and the graduates and crowd sat down.

Martha Flynn, salutatorian, told what her father, the Rev. William E. Flynn, pastor of First Congregational Church on Main Street, used to tell her as a girl. She said, "A person all wrapped up in herself makes a very small package."

She said the philosophy in the statement can make for success in personal dealings whether during high school years or after.

The EHHS graduation abounds in traditions. Some are serious and done by the students in solemn fashion. Others reflect the joyous nature of the occasion for graduates, family and friends.

Officers of the class meet each graduate as they filed off their bleacher seats and shook their hands, hugged them, and even kissed some. Then they mounted the steps of the stage and recently by the Rotary Club, got their diplomas, and were greeted again at the other end by other members of the class.

The class of 317 has been said to be small enough for just about everyone in it to personally know just about everyone else. So the handshakes and hugs and kisses meant far more than mere tradition, several said.

Bursts of applause and cheers from family and friends of each graduate made their faces break up often as DelPonte shook their hands. Most of the cheering came from different parts of the large crowd.

But everyone cheered Robert H. Bagley, 53, as he met DelPonte. The oldest member of the class returned to high school studies to get his diploma and he showed a broad, proud grin as he waved it for all to see from the stage.

Carole Maracci stands as her special honors are read off by Principal John Callahan. One honor included the Langford Scholarship.

The graduates of the EHHS Class of 1978 sing "Reach Out And Touch" under the direction of music teacher Richard Sterner at the beginning of the ceremonies.

DelPonte said the last diploma had to be awarded posthumously to Mary Joseph Antill. The young man died in an auto accident on Tolland Street at the Manchester town line earlier this spring. The crowd remained silent for a few moments it took DelPonte and Callahan to present the diploma to the boy's mother.

Callahan read off the scholarship and award winners' names and each winner stood as their awards were listed.

At the end of the program, the graduates let loose with another tradition. Many tossed their mortarboards high over the fields. They cheered themselves and the crowd cheered too.

Planner to evaluate report of Human Rights Commission

COVENTRY—The Planning and Zoning Commission will evaluate a report of the Human Rights Commission on the town's zoning regulations. The report, which was prepared by the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Oppression, was presented to the commission on June 14.

The report lists a number of zoning regulations that are considered to be discriminatory on the basis of race, sex, or religion. The commission will evaluate the report and make recommendations to the town council.

Obituary

Richard E. Jean
Richard E. Jean, 54, of 14 Goslee Drive died Thursday in Mount Sinai Hospital in Hartford.
Mr. Jean was born April 14, 1924, in Fall River, Mass., and lived in Manchester six years after having lived in California.
He was a World War II U.S. Navy veteran, and a member of the Anderson-Shea Post, VFW.
He is survived by a daughter, Ms. Darlene Farro of California and a brother, Larry Jean of Manchester.
The funeral is Monday at 8:15 a.m. from the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with a Mass at 9 a.m. at St. James Church. Full military honors will be accorded at the gravesite in the Veterans Section at East Cemetery.
Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Special events set at churches

Two Manchester area churches are planning special events for Sunday, which are open to the public. There will be no admission charge, but free-will offerings will be received.
A concert by the choir and quartet of Tupelo (Miss.) Children's Mansion, an orphanage, will be presented at 7 p.m. at the United Pentecostal Church of Manchester, 185 Woodbridge St. The orphanage is sponsored by the United Pentecostal Church International.
"The Cross and the Switchblade," starring Pat Boone, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at the Vernon Assembly of God Church, 551 Old Town Road, Rockville. The showing is being sponsored by the staff fellowship of the church.

Police report

Manchester
Manchester Police Thursday charged two Andover residents with fourth-degree larceny.
Police said that Ronald J. Landry, 17, and Robert P. Popoff, 18, both of Lake Road, Andover, were charged in connection with a shoplifting incident at King's Department Store. Court date is June 22.
Police also arrested Gary Olsvater, 19, of 71 Seaman Circle. He was charged with interfering with an officer, carrying weapons in a motor vehicle and illegal possession of a cannabis substance. Court date is July 3.
East Hartford
Marc Cyr, 12, of 57 Bodwell St., East Hartford, was hit by a vehicle Friday at 6:53 p.m. as he was crossing Burnside Avenue in front of the Marco Polo restaurant, police said.
He was taken by ambulance to

Manchester Memorial Hospital, where his condition was reported as satisfactory.
Vernon
Thomas P. Gammo, 30, of no certain address was arrested Friday on a Tolland County bench warrant. He was charged with first-degree sexual assault in an incident which took place about May 26, police said. He was arranged in Superior Court and is being held on a $10,000 bond at the Hartford Correctional Center. His case was continued to June 22.
Jeffrey Daigle, 17, of 38 Campbell Ave., Vernon, was arrested Friday in a Circuit Court warrant. He was charged with tampering with a witness and with second-degree unlawful restraint. Police said the charges stem from threats made to a witness in a criminal case which is still under investigation, police said. He is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond, police said. Court date is June 19.

Town workers to talk about recreation plan

Town Manager Robert Weiss is planning to invite town employees to bring bag lunches to work Wednesday and join him at noon in Center Park to discuss using town facilities for a recreational program for their before and after work.
That's what Melvin Siebold, town recreation director, told the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission Thursday night.
Many town employees have asked for such a program, and the Recreation Department has been considering the program but has made no decision, Siebold said.
Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, has been doing a lot to encourage town employees to exercise on a regular basis, especially policemen and firemen, and this is a step in the right direction, Siebold said.
Siebold suggested that one of the town pools could be open for adult swimming each morning from 6 to 7:30 for employees and other adults in the community. There will be no problem for those interested in jogging, soccer or basketball, the only place where Siebold sees a problem is for those who want to play tennis.
He suggested that four tennis courts on East Center Street could be reserved for town employees before work and for an hour or two after work.
When Joel Janenda, commission chairman, said he saw a real problem with the tennis courts, Siebold changed his suggestion to using two courts back of the high school two days a week in the morning and two in the afternoon.
Many town employees have been involved in bowling leagues during the winter months, and a lot feel if they can do things as a group with their friends, they will get more out of it, feel better and do better, Siebold said.
The commission, which had only three members attending Thursday night's meeting, has scheduled a meeting for next Thursday night to consider such things as this program and a request to endorse the Conservation Commission's application for a Bureau of Outdoor Recreation grant.

The winning number drawn Friday in the Connecticut daily lottery was 862.

Rec leaders sought for summer program

Manchester's Recreation Department is seeking young people between the ages of 18 and 21 who would like to work as recreation leaders in a program for children at Squire Village and the Beechwood Apts. on Rachel Road.
Applicants for the posts must meet the Comprehensive Employment Training Act income guidelines. College students who are self supporting are encouraged to apply for these posts, Melvin Siebold, town recreation director, said. Those interested may contact Dawn Lindsay at the recreation office, 646-6010.
This program is federally funded through the Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program and is being administered this year by the town Recreation Department. In previous years, Manchester Community College has administered the program, Siebold said.
Last year, there were about 30 children enrolled in the arts and crafts program in the morning and about 20 in the afternoon. Siebold said he expects this year the attendance will be doubled or tripled, since there are 200 young people in Squire Village alone who might want to participate in the program.
Manchester's Recreation Department also has received a state grant of $1,800 to pay for transporting children to state recreational facilities, such as Devil's

Beef Says It Best on Dad's Day

Doesn't Dad deserve the best? Of course he does — particularly on his day of days. So serve him a meal made up of all his special favorites, cooked and served in his own backyard, with family and friends gathered round.
Ten to one, Dad's favorite meal is based on beef — almost every man's Number One choice in the meat department. For this special occasion, choose a lovely roast to turn on the outdoor rotisserie or select juicy top loin or Porterhouse steaks to broil over charcoal.
Accompany the master's meat with colorful vegetables, deftly seasoned and cooked on the grill. The array of frozen vegetables in your supermarket freezer offers endless possibilities for intriguing combinations that will delight both eye and palate. For the beverage, serve tea — hot and hearty or refreshingly iced. If it's a blistering day, set out a tall pitcher of amber-clear iced tea, the refreshing, thirst-quenching beverage that goes well with all outdoor menus. Or if you prefer a hot beverage with dinner, provide the pick-me-up of hot tea, made as needed from a kettle of water bubbling on the grill.
Check the recipes below, lay in your supplies and put on a real dinner for that man who really does deserve the best on Father's Day.

Barbecued Beef Rotisserie Roast
Apple Barbecue Sauce
Stuffed Potatoes with Cheese-Flavored Topping
Peas Deluxe
Sunshine Salad
Iced Tea

Barbecued Beef Rotisserie Roast
3 1/2 to 4-pound beef round tip roast or beef round rump roast (boneless)
Apple Barbecue Sauce

Insert rotisserie rod lengthwise through center of roast. Balance roast and tighten spit forks to fasten most securely so that it turns only with the rod. Insert roast meat thermometer at a slight angle, so the tip is in the center of the roast but not resting in fat or on rotisserie rod. Place on rotisserie and roast at moderate temperature to desired degree of doneness (140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium). Brush with Apple Barbecue Sauce during last 30 minutes of cooking time. For a 3 1/2 to 4-pound roast, allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound, depending on doneness desired. For a 5 to 8 pound roast, allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound.
A tip or rump roast is best when carved in thin slices. For easier carving allow roast to "stand" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after removal from rotisserie. Since roast usually continues to cook during this time, it is best to remove it about 5°F. below the temperature desired.
Note: To cook roast in an oven, place, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.), brushing with sauce as directed.

Apple Barbecue Sauce
1 1/2 cups apple juice 1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cornstarch 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1 cup catsup 1/2 teaspoon turmeric
1 medium onion, finely chopped 1/4 teaspoon hot sauce

Mix 2 tablespoons apple juice with cornstarch to blend. Combine remaining apple juice with catsup in small saucepan. Add onion, salt, turmeric, celery seed and hot sauce; cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Gradually add reserved apple juice-cornstarch mixture and continue cooking 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Dinner Deluxe: Beef Tip Roast with a tangy Barbecue Sauce; cheese-topped Stuffed Potatoes; Peas Deluxe; a Sunshine Salad and a tall pitcher of amber-clear iced tea.

Potatoes with Cheese-Flavored Topping
Remove frozen stuffed potatoes topped with cheese from cartons; place halves, right side up, on a large piece of heavy duty aluminum foil. Bring edges of foil together over center of potatoes and fold over with a double fold, leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Seal ends securely. Place, fold side down, on grill over sub-covered coals for 15 minutes. Turn and continue grilling for an additional 15 to 20 minutes. Carefully open foil to serve.

Peas Deluxe
2 packages (10 ounces each) sweet peas 2 tablespoons sliced ripe olives
Frozen in butter sauce 1/3 cup pasteurized process cheese spread
1/4 cup sliced celery

Remove frozen peas from pouches; place side by side on large piece of heavy duty aluminum foil. Add celery and olives; top with cheese and bring edges of foil together over center of vegetables. Fold over with a double fold, leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Seal ends securely. Place on grill over ash-covered coals for 35 to 40 minutes. Open foil and stir to combine. 6 servings.

Sunshine Salad

4 cups fresh spinach, torn 1 jar (2 1/2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 cup cauliflowerettes 1 1/2 cups bean sprouts, fresh or canned
1 cup coarsely sliced carrots 1/2 cup sunflower nuts
1/4 cup sliced green onions 1 cup lime or lemon yogurt
1 can (16 ounce) diagonal-cut green beans, drained

In large mixing bowl, toss all ingredients except yogurt. At serving time, add yogurt or any other favorite dressing. 6 to 8 servings.

POINTERS FOR PERFECT TEA

For Hot Tea
• Be sure water is at a full rolling boil.
• Use enough tea — one teabag per serving.
• Pour water over tea.
• Let stand 3 to 5 minutes.
• Remove teabag... if you want tea less strong, dilute with hot water.
For Iced Tea
• Make it in a pot: Follow rules above but use 50% more tea to allow for dilution. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Add 8 to 10 teabags (remove tags).
• Make it in a saucepan: Bring 1 quart of water to a full boil in saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add 15 teabags or 1/3 cup loose tea. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Strain again and strain into a pitcher, holding another quart of cold water.

• Make it in a pitcher (with cold water): Fill a quart container with cold water. Add 8 to 10 teabags (remove tags). Cover. Let stand at room temperature or in refrigerator at least 6 hours or overnight. Remove teabags, squeezing against side of container. • Make it instantly: Use instant tea or an iced tea mix, following directions on jar or package.

Did you know that the botanical name for the banana (Musa sapientum) means fruit of the wise men? Certainly the person who dreamed up the first banana split was wise in the ways of food.
When this recipe for Banana Split, Italian-style, came to my desk, I must admit all I could think of was bananas with spaghetti sauce. But, after reading it through, I decided it really sounded good and might be a fine addition to top off your Father's Day celebration.
No drug store in memory ever served anything quite like this banana split, Italian-style. It's a scrumptious combination of banana, three kids of ice cream and a warm zabaglione sauce fragrant with Amaretto di Saronno, Italy's provocative liqueur that's making quite a name for itself in this country.
Another fruit that takes deliciously to joining forces with ice cream and Amaretto di Saronno is the mango. Fragrant and juicy, it makes a memorable sundae that will bring the tropics to your table.
Instead of sugaring fresh fruit, particularly berries, peaches and apricots, try a splash of Amaretto di Saronno.

Banana Split, Italian-style
6 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar
6 tablespoons Amaretto di Saronno
6 large bananas
1 pint each strawberry, vanilla and pistachio ice cream
Whipped cream, cherries, sliced almonds, mixed candied fruits

In the top part of a double boiler, mix egg yolks, sugar and Amaretto di Saronno. Place mixture over hot simmering (not boiling) water and beat with an electric mixer until very thick and creamy, about 7 minutes. Remove from heat and continue beating until mixture is warm. Peel bananas and slice lengthwise and place in serving dishes. Top each banana with 3 scoops of ice cream — strawberry, vanilla and pistachio. Spoon warm Amaretto di Saronno mixture over ice cream. Top with whipped cream, cherries, almonds or candied fruits. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Mango Sundae Saronno
1 ripe mango
1/2 cup Amaretto di Saronno
Vanilla ice cream
Peel and slice mango. Place in shallow bowl with Amaretto di Saronno. Spoon liqueur over slices so all are coated. Chill 30 minutes. When ready to serve, place a scoop or two of vanilla ice cream in each of 4 dessert dishes. Top ice cream with mango slices and Amaretto di Saronno — mango juice mixture. Makes 4 servings.

ADDENDUM: The requests for the pamphlets "Bread Making Made Easy" which Bert Porter, vice president of King Arthur Flour Co., offered to our readers has been tremendous. If any of you are still interested in receiving the recipes write to: "Bread Making Made Easy" in care of The Herald and I will forward your requests to Bert. He promised prompt replies, so you should receive copies in less than a week after we receive your request here at The Herald.

You haven't lived until you've had a Banana Split, Italian-style. Scoops of pistachio, vanilla and strawberry ice cream (representing the colors in the Italian flag) nestle on banana halves... all of this yummy goodness topped off with a fabulous warm zabaglione sauce, lusciously laced with Amaretto di Saronno.

News for senior citizens

HI! This past Thursday our members made a trip to the races and at this writing it was hard to tell who or if any won any money. They had a nice day for it and from reports all had a nice day, win, lose or draw.

Pinocle here at the center starts with our Wednesday morning pinocle games. We had 30 players and the winners were: Rene Maire, 64; Paul Schmitt, 57; Mary Hill, 51; Marge McLean, 55; Ed Scott, 50; George Last, 54; John Derby, 54; Cecil Benson, 54.

Speaking of cheering up, just a note to all you men, tomorrow is your day. So first of all you get breakfast in bed. Then off to church, and then the rest of the day you are allowed to go and come as you please.

Weight loss program works

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new and apparently successful treatment for obesity, using an appetite suppressant in combination with diet and exercise, has been reported to the American Psychiatric Association.

The medical researchers who developed the treatment call it "one of the most effective controlled clinical trials of obesity yet reported, and one which pioneers what may be a particularly useful combination of psychological and pharmacological therapies."

The treatment was reported at a recent meeting of the association in a paper prepared by Dr. Albert Stunkard, Linda Craighead and Richard O'Brien, representing the Williamsport, Pa., Hospital; the University of Pennsylvania; Pennsylvania State University, and Hofstra University.

Dr. Craighead, who delivered the paper, said some of the over-weight people in the program lost up to 25 pounds in 23 weeks. In addition, patients with high blood pressure experienced a decided improvement and one half were able to reduce or discontinue anti-hypertensive medication, she said.

Group discussions included dietary counseling and a behavioral program, intensive training in stimulus control, and measures to slow the act of eating. An exercise program also was part of the treatment.

CENJEX '78
30th ANNUAL STAMP EXHIBITION
FEDERAL STAMP CLUB - CENTRAL NEW JERSEY
FREDERICK NEW JERSEY
JUNE 23-29, 1978

Collectors' Corner

By RUSSELL MACKENDRICK

This is the new souvenir card to be offered at the CENJEX in New Jersey on June 23-29. It will be 8 1/2 by 10 1/2 inches, so the block of four stamps will be about the natural size while the others will be shown enlarged. The theme of the card is the anniversary of the Battle of Monmouth (June 28, 1778). The block stamp is the one-cent value in the Army issue of 1936. It shows George Washington and Nathaniel Greene with Mt. Vernon in the background.

At the right are expanded reproductions of stamps honoring individuals who, along with Washington and Greene, had a part in the victory at Monmouth. There is the Molly Pitcher overprint, the two-cent Von Steuben, then another little red commemorative for Mad Anthony Wayne, the three-cent Hamilton of 1957 and last year's Lafayette jumbo.

The card is priced at $1.75 and may be ordered from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing after the 23rd. It will be offered until Sept. 20, unless it is sold out earlier. The check or m.o. should be made out to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and mailed to CENJEX '78 SOUVENIR CARD, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D.C. 20226.

They suggest that the order be made out on a letter-size sheet and that you include a return address sticker.

The BEP has been putting out souvenir cards right along since 1969. The Post Office has also been in on the act. (The P.O. cards are somewhat smaller.) Scott's Specialized Catalogue for 1978 shows that 57 cards were issued by these two facilities. The forerunner of these cards was the Philatelic Truck issue of 1938. This was distributed at $5 with gum and $12 without. The real prima donna is the 1954 "Postage Stamp Design Exhibition" card that shows view of four Washington buildings, each in a different color. How to do it

Tips on snapshots

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Your color snapshots can turn out great instead of just okay if you stop to look before squeezing the shutter.

Pay heed to the following tips from the experts at Kodak:

- Keep the horizon above or below the center of the photo so it does not chop the picture in half.
- Place the main object of interest off-center. If there are fences, roads, or shadows from trees, make sure these "lines" lead into the picture, toward the main focal point.

- Shoot from different angles to add impact. Shoot from the side or over your subject's shoulder for a picture of someone totally absorbed in an activity and the object of that person's interest.
- Vary the camera-to-subject distance to suit the situation. Shoot from a distance when you're picturing scenes, move in to medium-range to identify specific action, and then move in close via the telephoto lens for close-up views that focus on details, capture facial expressions.

One year's growth

What a difference a year makes in appearance for Bill Campbell of the Boston Red Sox. A year ago, when he joined the club after being acquired for a tidy sum in baseball's first re-entry draft, Campbell sported only a small mustache and flowing locks. This spring, the 29-year-old right-hander, tabbed the best Red Sox bullpen operator since the glory days of Dick Radtzy, came to camp with a full grown beard, a mustache to match and hair to spare.

It's hardly likely that Campbell can repeat his 1977 performance when he paced the Red Sox staff in victories and losses. The change didn't do any good as the Red Sox finished with a record of 74-86, a far cry from the 90-72 record of last year. Campbell's batting average was .268, a far cry from the .300 he posted last year. He also had a .268 ERA, a far cry from the 2.17 he posted last year.

Carl Silver, program director for the Recreation Department, reports only 14 teams have signed up for summer basketball play. The stumbling block is a registration fee which has been inserted to help curb late season forfeits.

Changing managers at mid-stream when a team is faltering does not always work wonders. Latest case is in St. Louis where the Cardinals were stumbling along and not winning under Manager Jack Kral. He received the pink slip and former Cardinal third baseman and popular Ken Boyer was brought up from the minors. The change didn't do any good as the Red Birds have yet to find the winning formula with a scarcity of talent.

Pete Meyers of Vernon, an outfielder, has been elected captain of the varsity baseball team at Kingswood. He has hit over .300 the past two years. Pete is the son of Ed Meyers, former football coach and current physical education department member at Fenwick High in East Hartford. Pete Meyers has yet to commit an error in three seasons at Kingswood and is now with the Rockville American Legion.

Little League baseball season has been recovering from surgery performed earlier in the day for removal of torn cartilage in his right knee. The local resident will be at St. Francis with his and saved 31 other games and won the "Fireman of the Year" award. At night, Campbell ranks with the best relievers in all baseball and he'll be a key factor in the next two months that should decide the American League's Eastern Division.

With the added bar on his face, Campbell looks meaner but it hasn't scared opposing batters to any degree as yet.

Black book notes

Instead of playing softball with his New England Whaler teammates last night against the Titans at Fitzgerald Field, Alan Hangleben was recovering from surgery performed earlier in the day for removal of torn cartilage in his right knee. The local resident will be at St. Francis

Mental warfare keys World Cup

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Psychological warfare overtook the real battle on the field Friday as eight soccer teams geared up for crucial World Cup matches Sunday.

In the second round there are three rest days between each match day, as opposed to two rest days in the first round. The extra time has given coaches, players, officials and some journalists a chance to float rumors aimed at disturbing opponents.

One said to have been started by Brazilian reporters, indicating Argentina star Mario Kempas had failed a dope test after Wednesday's game against Poland in Rosario in which he scored two goals.

Not so, said FIFA officials late Thursday. Because of fog, all flights to Buenos Aires had been delayed and the samples had not even arrived.

Brazil faces Argentina Sunday in a crucial Group B game. Another story concerned Brazil's army of crickles. After Wednesday's game against Peru, Coach Claudio Coutinho said five of his players —

REC Four runs in the top of the seventh inning gave MCC Vets a come-from-behind 10-7 win over Personal Tee last night at Keeneey Field. John Kearney had four hits, Brad Cooper tripled and Jim Silver scored four times for the Vets. Jim Restillo had two hits and Rob Nicola a like number for the Tees.

Standings: Reed Construction 5-0, MCC Vets 5-1, Looking Glass 11-32, Personal Tee 3-3, DeMolay 2-4, Zembrowski's 2-4, Hartford National Bank 1-4, Manchester Jaycees (blue) 1-4.

INDY Behind a 26-hit attack, Bob & Marie's outdistanced Nassiff Field. Tony Quintillani, Barry Silva, Bob Andreoli, Bob Plemzio, Rick Siedkowski, and Jerry Ribaltine each had three hits for Pizza. Silvia homered. Jay Howroyd had four hits including a homer. Josh Howroyd threw three blows and Steve Rauscher, Stu Wolf and Pat Collet each two singles for Nassiff's.

Nicklaus in range of North

DENVER (UPI) — Wistfully admitting that time is running out even for him, Jack Nicklaus set two records Friday with a second round 89 that muscled him within two strokes of U.S. Open leader Andy North.

Seeking to become only the fourth man ever to win the Open four times, Nicklaus sizzled in near 90-degree sunshine with three consecutive birdies on the front nine to leave him at even par 142 at the halfway point of the championship.

"I'm getting older," said the 38-year-old Nicklaus, golf's all-time leading money winner. "There's not too many more of these things left for me."

North, a winner only once in five years on the tour, took control Friday when he sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the treacherous 18th hole, a par-4 monster which only two players in the field of 133 managed to birdie there in the previous 11 years.

Thus only four players have bettered or equaled par for 36 holes over the 7,083-yard Cherry Hills Country Club course.

"I'm in perfect position, but so are a lot of other fellows, which means that it'll probably be a very exciting tournament that comes down to the last hole," Player said. "And anybody who needs a four on the last hole to win is going to have his tonsils talking to him."

Hale Irwin, the first round leader at 89, suffered a double bogey on the 17th hole and settled for a 74, trying him at 143 with Lee Trevino (71), 18-year-old amateur Bob Clampett (73) and Mark Hayes (70).

Thanks to his string of birdies from the third to fifth holes following a bogey on No. 1, Nicklaus set two records for his 78-year-old championship. He now has shot more sub-par rounds in Open history with 18, breaking the mark he shared with Ben Hogan, and he also gained the record for most rounds under 70 with 16. He had been tied in that category with Arnold Palmer.

"My game is pretty close to where I want it," said Nicklaus, who hasn't won the Open since 1972. "Hopefully in the next two days it will get right where I want it. I played well enough today and had several other opportunities for birdies, but I couldn't make them."

North scrambled with four birdies and three bogeys, but said he was fortunate enough that he was able to keep the ball in play most of the round.

Bosox Lee walks out

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, apparently upset with the sale of outfielder Bernie Carbo, failed to show up before the team's Friday night game with the Seattle Mariners.

Lee had emptied out his locker earlier in the day and removed his name from the top of the dressing room stall.

Lee had been off to one of his better starts in his career, with 7-3 record and an earned run average of 2.80. His lifetime record in nine major league seasons is 91-61.

"He's hopping mad," said his wife, Mary Lou, "I hope he calms down."

Lee was close friends with Carbo, who was sold to the Cleveland Indians early Friday by the Red Sox.

He has also been upset with the departure of friends Jim Willoughby and Ferguson Jenkins, both pitchers who were dealt away earlier this year.

"We'll see what he has to say before we take any action," said General Manager Haywood Sullivan, "we owe him that much. I hope he comes back. If not tonight, then tomorrow."

Manager Don Zimmer said he knew nothing about Lee's disappearance.

Fournier second after first day

Standing in second place after the first day of competition in the grueling two-day, 10-event decathlon at the State Decathlon Championship at Willow Brook Park in New Britain is East Catholic High's Mark Fournier.

The standout junior had a total of 3,462 points after the first five events of 200-foot, 60-foot, 6-inch, 6-inch, 6-inch, had a total of 3,586 points, a 6-foot, 3 1/2-inch in the high jump, was clocked in the 400-meter dash at 52.4 and in the 100-meter dash at a time of 1:16.

The two-day competition winds up today.

Proper preparation cuts down injuries

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Women need only one thing to compete successfully with men in most sports — proper preparation.

That's the view of Dr. Lyle Micheli, a Harvard physician and director of sports medicine at the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston.

Micheli is watching the growing participation of women and children in sports — and the growing number of injuries that result. He wants all athletes to spend more time training to reduce the frequency and severity of their injuries.

Any athletic activity, even simple running or throwing, results in small strains of muscles. Without proper preparation, Micheli said, these injuries can lead to more severe hurt.

Pacemaker in 13-year-old does not curtail sports

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Kimberly Kyles, a frisky 13-year-old, competes in school sports and leads a typically teen-age life — although she has worn a heart pacemaker for the past 10 years.

She was among the first group of children in the United States to get permanently implanted pacemakers.

"When Kimberly was born, they told us nothing could be done. She has complete heart block," said her mother, Donna Kyles.

Kimberly said her implanted pacemaker "doesn't bother me at all, except if I run long distances. I get dizzy. But I do all the gymnastics, swimming and can run short distances in track."

She ran the 100-yard dash last year at Millard Central Junior High School. This year she played on the gymnastics and volleyball teams.

"She's also an honor student," her mother said.

"Kimberly would have a bed-chair existence if it weren't for her pacemaker," said Dr. William Fleming of the Nebraska Medical Center.

Mrs. Kyles said her daughter has had "eight or nine pacemakers. A couple of those were put in because she developed an infection. But we hope the one put in last October will last her until 1982."

Children with heart block and implanted pacemakers "may have some limitations on physical activity," Fleming said. "They get tired before their competitors, but they can't overdo it to the point of passing out."

Eagle track season pleasing for coach

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer

Only one loss in the dual meet season to perennial state power Xavier marred the 1978 campaign of the East Catholic High boys' track team.

The Eagles completed a fine 11-1 mark under first-year Coach George Sutor, finished second for the umpteenth time in the HCC Championships to Xavier, and took second place in the Class M Meet.

"I was very pleased with the season," Sutor commented. "We beat Hartford Public (Class LL and State Open champ) and Norwich (Free Academy) and a lot of double L schools."

"It was really a good year. The kids are good ones. They were good to me considering this was my first year over there," voiced Sutor, who is also Manchester boys' cross country coach.

Three other school standards were set this season. Mendes took charge in the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 5 inches. Sophomore John Clifford, who has a bright future in front of him also, broke the two-mile mark with a 9:29.6 clocking. Finally, junior Mark Fournier in the pole vault cleared 12-feet, 6 inches to snap his cousin Ernie's previous mark.

Fournier and Clifford are a list of returnees. Hurdlers Harry Carr and Jim Fleming will also be back with distance runner Dave Kittredge. Jim Hartmann in the shot put, discus and javelin and Mike Fournier in the pole vault are other good prospects for '79.

"We need some sprinters and people to fill in the jumping events... We'll need replacements but we do have prospects," Sutor remarked.

"We need a lot of people to fill in spots but we could be good again." Being good—that has not been too much of a problem for East boys' track.

Oliver sidelined
CHICAGO (UPI) — Texas Rangers' outfielder Al Oliver will be sidelined for an undetermined length of time after pulling a muscle in his rib cage in Wednesday night's 4-1 loss to the Chicago White Sox.

Rangers' spokesman Bart Hawkins said the team had no firm indication how long Oliver would be out of action.

Joins Phillies
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced they had acquired right-handed pitcher Dick Baughen from the Atlanta Braves for veteran relief pitcher Gene Garber and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark said Ruthven, 27, would be inserted in the starting rotation this weekend against the San Diego Padres. He was expected to join the team in San Diego today.

Complete trade
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals sent outfielder Jim Dwyer to the San Francisco Giants to complete the Frank Riccielli trade last winter.

Last week the Cardinals sent Riccielli, a left-handed pitcher, from their Springfield, Ill., club in the American Association to Charleston, W. Va., in the International League in exchange for outfielder Bob Coluccio.

Podolak retires
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Running back Ed Podolak announced his retirement from the Kansas City Chiefs. Podolak, 33, closed his 9-year career with 1,000 yards as a running back and 4,451 yards. He is the only back in Kansas City history to top the 1,000-yard mark.

Remarkable year for Indian squad

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer

What more can be said other than the 1978 season for Manchester High's softball team was exemplary.

The Silk Throwers were 15-3 in regular season play which earned them a share of second place in the CCLL standings. Then in the state tournament Manchester won twice, avenging two earlier losses to CCLL champion Enfield, and reached the semifinals of the Class LL Division before having its season ended. And there was no shame there either as Southington, the Indians' conqueror, went on to claim the state title with a 4-3 win over Norwalk.

"This year turned out to be a remarkable one," stated Tribe Coach Mary Faigant, her face glowing with the recollections. "The girls were interested in doing a good job and I'd say some put softball ahead of other priorities."

"I'm pleased for the girls. Each one can walk away with a lot of satisfaction. We had 12 girls who played together as a team."

"It's a refrain Faigant won't like to hear but that ole gang of mine (hers) will be broken up in '79. Four integral members graduate with very important point to remember is the Indians will have their two top pitchers returning for '79. Junior Shirley Adams had an 8-4 won-loss record including all decisions in the tournament while sophomore Lynne Wright was unbeaten in six decisions. Downham registered the other three Manchester victories.

The right side of the infield, first baseman Lisa Schwartz and second baseman Lisa Tilden also will be back along with catcher Janet Bidwell (77 for 56, .304, 15 RBI) and Warren (77 for 56, .327, 22 RBI, 15 RBI). The latter might gain a post elsewhere as Faigant indicated she wants to bidwell's bat and enthusiasm in the lineup.

Left fielder Lauri Turkington should be another star returnee while sophomore reserve Liz Newbell probably will work herself into a starting post. Top prospects off the 193 Jayce club are Cathy McCarthy, Lisa Griffin, Teri Foran, Carrie Hagler and Judy Stocker.

"We showed we play good softball up here. The southern part of the state thought it dominated. But the last couple of years (in the tournament) we've shown we can play," stated Faigant.

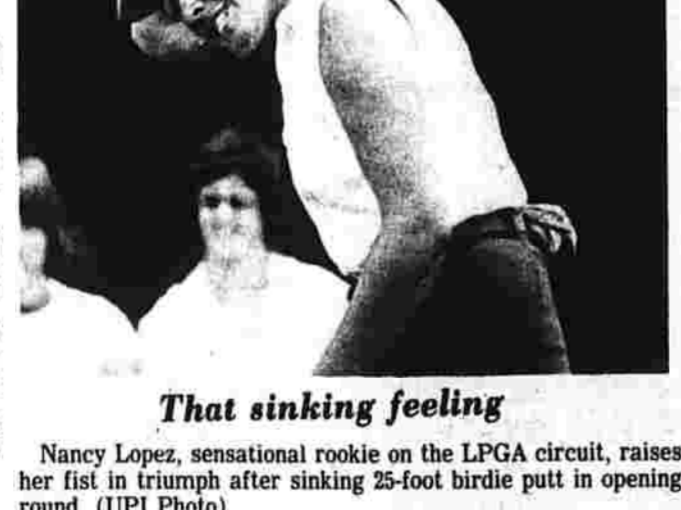

"I think the last of going as far as we did in the tournament has made those returning eager to go a little bit further next year."

Softball review

ling average during regular season, 36 RBI and 23 runs scored; shortstop Ellen Donadio (25 for 66, .379, 21 RBI, 23 runs scored); center fielder Nella Leigh (19 for 56, .337, 22 RBI, 19 runs scored); and third baseman Jacquie Figley (16 for 49, .327, 11 RBI).

Leigher was most productive sticker in the tournament going 4-for-11 with four runs batted in. Donadio and Downham each scored five times in post-season play.

The seniors will be missed two-fold. "The seniors offensively carried some of the stronger bats in the lineup. They were run producers. And their leadership and attitude was very good. They'll be definitely a big loss," Faigant asserted.

Shannon takes home golf championship

AVON (UPI) — Leslie Shannon of the New Haven Country Club carried a four-over-par 76 Friday to capture the Connecticut Tournament of Lady Club Champions.

Mrs. Shannon, the 1976 Connecticut state women's amateur champion, came in one stroke ahead of runner up Jean Welch of the Simsbury Farms Country Club.

Third place was shared by Marcia Dolan, three-time state women's amateur champion out of the Ridgewood Country Club in Danbury, and Barbara Young, Aspetuck Valley Country Club in Weston, who both shot a 79.

The one-day par-72 tournament at the Club of Avon featured 95 women champions from country clubs across the state.

Mrs. Shannon shot a 29 on the front nine and went out with a one-over-par 37 including two bogies and one birdie.

Affirmed possible

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Laz Barrera, who trains Triple Crown winner Affirmed, said again Friday that the colt may run in the $200,000 Swapsstakes at Hollywood Park July 2.

Under the conditions of the race, however, the presence of a Derby winner in the Swaps raises the purse to $550,000. A decision will be made next week, the trainer said, after Affirmed takes his first workout Thursday or Friday after winning the Belmont and after a conference with owner Louis Wolfson.

"He will go to the track tomorrow and if he's okay a week from now, I will breeze him. If he goes well in the breeze and shows that he is back to himself, there's no reason we wouldn't bring him here for the Swaps," said Barrera at a news conference.

Seattle Slew, last year's Triple Crown winner, ran in the 1977 Swaps, a 1 1/2-mile race and was beaten by J.O. Tobin, trained by Barrera.

"The situation this year is totally different than it was last year with Seattle Slew," Barrera commented. "My horse knows this track, likes this track and would be running against horses he has beaten before."

Nine slated for Mass Cap

BOSTON (UPI) — Up to nine thoroughbreds will battle Sunday for the top prize in the $100,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Among the top contenders in New England's richest race are Life's Hope, trained by Laz Barrera and stablemate of 1974 triple crown winner Affirmed, Big John Taylor, stablemate of 1977 Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew, and Silver Series, whose jockey, Ron Tarcoite, rode Riva Ridge to victory in the 1973 Mass Cap.

Also expected to race is Buckfinger, who will be ridden by Angel Cordero. Cordero won the Mass Cap last year on Blue Times. Buckfinger was edged out by Steve Cauthen and Life's Hope in a $30,000 race last Saturday at Belmont.

Cauthen has an earlier commitment to ride Believe It Sunday in the $100,000 Ohio Derby. Ruben Hernandez will take his place on Life's Hope.

East Hartford Legion belted
