

Government checks fireworks as Fourth of July nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Fourth of July less than two weeks away, government safety experts have begun an investigation to try to keep unsafe and unlawful fireworks out of consumers' hands. Manufacturers, distributors and retailers of both foreign-made and domestic fireworks are being checked by Consumer Product Safety Commission agents across the country, the commission said, to root out violations of regulations requiring that the devices operate safely and are labeled to alert users to proper handling. The CPSC also is looking for illegal fireworks, most notably those with large charges of powder such as M-80 salutes and cherry bombs, which have been outlawed for some time. This will be the second Fourth of July that the CPSC's latest fireworks regulations have been in effect. Since late in 1976 no fireworks can be sold with more than 50 milligrams of powder. That limits firecrackers to the "ladyfinger" size. It said statistics show an estimated 75 percent of those hurt by fireworks are males, and 53 percent of the victims are between the ages of 5 and 14.

Grasso offers reports

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today said Republicans can have whatever reports they want out of the Department of Public Works and she denied her administration has been hiding information about state contracts.

"The information Sen. (Richard) Bozuto, (R-Waterbury), wants is there in the files and requires a little bit of digging out," Mrs. Grasso said at a Capitol news conference.

"It disturbs me that he said we have been hiding the reports," she said. "We have not."

Bozuto has accused the Grasso administration of hiding information on the awarding of state contracts, saying the Democratic-controlled governor's office doesn't want it known that architects and engineers making large contributions to the Democratic Party got big contracts.

Mrs. Grasso said she is not aware of any contract awards made on the basis of political affiliation and said she didn't believe they were. She said contractors belonging to the political party in power when they are awarded a contract are penalized by later charges of favoritism.

Bozuto claimed Thursday that he believes there is a correlation between those architect and engineers making large contributions to the Democrats or Mrs. Grasso's re-election campaign and those that get state work.

He said that is no difference from what has gone on under previous administrations, including Republican administrations, but said Mrs. Grasso ought to admit it.

On another front, Mrs. Grasso said State Police Commissioner Edward P. Leonard will be close to the scheduled anti-nuclear demonstration in Seabrook, New Hampshire, this weekend and will "monitor the situation."

She said if violence breaks out, Leonard will take whatever action he thinks necessary.

Timothy O'Sullivan, superintendent of the town's highway and sanitation division, will remain in his position, instead of resigning as of June 30, Jay Giles, director of public works, said this morning.

O'Sullivan submitted his resignation March 27 because of a disagreement with Giles on an engineering matter regarding the Lenti Farms subdivision application, Giles said today.

O'Sullivan's resignation was extended in April to June 30 to allow more time for the two men to resolve their differences, Giles said. He said now he and O'Sullivan understand the other's opinion more than before, although they still disagree on some matters.

O'Sullivan requested that the resignation be rescinded and Giles agreed to the request.

O'Sullivan has been in the highway position for two years and has been praised by his supervisors and his department employees for the job he has done.

Group says firms fight drug reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prescription drug industry has conducted a secret campaign across the country to cripple many state laws designed to make medicine cheaper, backers of drug reform laws said today.

The charge came at the beginning of a two-day conference on generic drugs called to assess how well efforts are succeeding to get less expensive, common-name drugs into consumers' hands.

The sponsors of the meeting — the National Association of Retired Persons — National Retired Teachers Association, the New York State Assembly and the Council of State Governments — said, "A covert campaign by the brand-name manufacturers and the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association has undermined and crippled the laws in many states."

So far 38 states have revised or repealed laws that prevented drugists from giving patients less expensive generic drugs instead of more costly brand-name ones prescribed by doctors.

Backers of the change claim Connecticut, the report said.

"This was achieved through the legislative adoption of various restrictive and inhibiting clauses that have made it impractical for pharmacists to substitute or have enabled physicians to easily prevent pharmacists from product selection," the report said.

"The decision is expected to be appealed to a higher state court. Since the case essentially is a challenge of the state constitution, the U.S. Supreme Court could not be involved. (See Page Eight)

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — New York's system of financing education through a property tax is unconstitutional, State Supreme Court Justice L. Kingsley Smith ruled today.

The suit, initiated by the Levittown School District, maintained that great disparities in property tax revenues among school districts has led to unequal educational opportunities.

Similar systems of financing schools through property taxes have already been found unconstitutional in New Jersey, California and Connecticut.

HUD units conflict on grant for town

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

The status of Manchester's Community Development funds appeared uncertain this morning, with conflicting reports coming in from the federal and district offices of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development which administers the funds.

The office of First District Congressman William Cotter Thursday afternoon received a report from the Washington office of HUD that all of the $483,000 in CD funds was approved, without conditions, for Manchester.

Ron Black, deputy director of HUD's area office in Hartford, said most of the money is being temporarily held until the town meets the HUD stipulations regarding fair housing.

The town was informed earlier this month of the conditions of the grant and proceeded to take steps to comply. The town will hire a full-time person to oversee the town housing programs and will also make a contract with a firm to monitor the town's rental market for discrimination.

The report received by Cotter's office said that Town Manager Robert Weiss said he was officially informed of the fund approval this morning, but neither Weiss or any other town officials had received any notification late this morning from either the Washington or Hartford offices.

Alan Mason, human services director who has been in charge of the CD grant applications, also said he had received no word from HUD. He added he thought it was poor procedure that the regional office released the information on withholding the funds to the press before informing the town.

A spokesman from the HUD office in Washington said today that the office knew nothing about the conditions of the grant which had been stipulated by the area office. The office had never been notified by the Hartford office of the conditions, the spokesman said.

Steve Steiner from the legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs division of HUD called Cotter's Washington office Thursday, which in turn informed Cotter's Hartford office that the grant had been approved with no conditions. Steiner is in charge of Connecticut for HUD.

The regional office said that $60,000 for administrative costs would be left in the CD funds, but the remaining $423,000 would be withheld until July 31.

Weiss said town officials are moving as quickly as possible on complying with the conditions. The contract for the housing monitoring is expected to be signed next week. Several good applications for the new staff position have been received and applications will be closed next week, Weiss said.

Thomas F. Ferguson, chairman of the Manchester Republican Town Committee, commented this morning on the possibility that the funds will be withheld. He said the withholding of the $423,000 "by the minor officialdom of HUD is just one more example of the unconscionable interference of the federal government in local affairs."

He noted that Republican Town Directors Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zimser voted against hiring the person to monitor the town's housing plan. He said the Republican party stands behind their action and "will continue to resist this unwarranted interference."

He said the tax dollars from Washington continue to bring increasing demands.

Congressman Cotter said late this morning he will ask Patricia Harris, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, to investigate the information sent to his office from HUD.

Audit says bus firm not worth its price

HARTFORD (UPI) — The appraiser used when the state paid $19.6 million for Connecticut Co. valued the buses at $3.9 million — although the auditors said they were worth only $172,470, state auditors said today.

The Department of Transportation may have been able to get a better deal on the bus line when it bought it two years ago if it had followed standard practice and used two independent appraisers, the report said.

The state bought the Connecticut Co. from E. Clayton Gengras, a West Hartford businessman appointed by Gov. Ella Grasso to head a task force on improving efficiency in state agencies. The task force was reviewing the company when sale negotiations were in process.

And they said the department didn't include the depreciation data when it made the subsidies.

The department said it did take depreciation of the buses into account, but said the federal government also requires that the cost of replacing equipment be included.

In another area, Donahue and Becker said the department should consolidate its records to keep track of money owed for property it leases. The auditors said they found some lease agreements involving small amounts of money had not been paid.

Dr. Gail C. Rowe Charles Senteio

Two principals named in elementary schools

By ALICE EVANS Herald Reporter

Charles Senteio of 293 Carter St., Manchester, and Dr. Gail C. Rowe of West Hartford have been named principals of town of Manchester elementary schools. The appointments were announced this morning by Dr. James Kennedy, superintendent of schools.

Senteio, assistant superintendent of Hartford schools and in charge of elementary schools, will serve as principal of Keeney Street School, and Dr. Rowe, educational coordinator for West Hartford elementary schools, will be the new principal of Highland Park School.

Manchester's Board of Education Thursday night unanimously approved Senteio and Dr. Rowe for the posts after interviewing candidates for the principalships of both schools.

Their appointments will become effective Aug. 29. Senteio's salary for the coming school year will be $62,000, which is step five of the elementary principals salary schedule for a class five (large) school. Dr. Rowe's salary for the coming year is $27,445, which is step two in the schedule for a class two school, plus $1,000 for her doctorate.

Senteio, who recently was named to the interim administrative team to run Hartford's public school system until a new superintendent of schools is found, said he was leaving his $64,000 Hartford post to take the lesser-paying job in Manchester because of the commitment Manchester has to its public school system.

"I have two children in the school system and they are getting a private school education in the public school system," he said.

Senteio called the school administrators, teachers and members of the Board of Education, a "winning team," and said, "I'm joining a team of winners and that's what I like." He also said that he believed the majority of Manchester residents wants to increase the quality of education in the schools and "will back it up in dollars."

Safe car probe expands

DETROIT (UPI) — Federal safety officials are expanding their investigation of Ford Motor Co. fuel tanks to see if Ford cars built from 1960 through 1976 have the same fire danger that led to the recall of 1.3 million Pintos and Bobcats. John Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, told UPI Thursday the action was prompted by reports that Ford cars other than the two subcompact models failed the company's own crash tests during the mid-1960s. He said Ford cars built since 1976, when federal safety standards for fuel tank design took effect, are not susceptible to the same danger of fire and explosion in rear end collisions.

Workers plan fitness program

About 25 employees sign up this week to participate in a regularly scheduled physical fitness program after a noon picnic Wednesday in Center Park. The Town Health Department and the Recreation department are coordinating the voluntary program to encourage physical fitness among all town employees. About 50 employees attended the picnic during which they were given information on how to begin a physical training program by John Salcius of the Health Department. Larry Woykovsky of the Health Department and a marathon runner, also answered questions about running. Melvin R. Siebold, recreation director, will organize group activities such as volleyball, and basketball teams and arrange for times and places for the physical activities. Other activities to be included in the program will be dancing, tennis, jogging, silmastics, handball, yoga, calisthenics, hiking, golf and swimming. Times for the organized activities will be set up either in the morning before work, at lunch time or after work. Facilities such as Globe Hollow pool will be made available for their exclusive use, said John Post who is coordinating the effort for the Health Department. Post said a general notice will be sent to all town employees who were not able to attend Wednesday's session to allow them to sign up for activities. He said he hopes the program can get started as soon as the schedules can be worked out.

127 pints of blood donated

The walk-in donors boosted Tuesday's Bloodmobile collection to its total of 127 pints drawn. There were 75 walk-in donors compared to 66 persons who kept appointments. The number of walk-ins may have been attributed to the special plea issued for type O-negative blood. There were 14 persons deferred until another time. William Bayer of 23 McKinley St. became a 14-gallon blood donor. Other gallon blood donors are as follows: Eight gallons — Thomas Curtiss and Robert Otten; seven gallons — Allan Aronson; five gallons — Sylvester Benson and Edward Timbrell Jr.; two gallons — Karen Saunders, one gallon — Marguerite Geer, Linda Quinn, Karen Lewis, and Nancy Fournier. The next Bloodmobile visit will be Wednesday, July 26, at South United Methodist Church from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling the Manchester Branch of the Red Cross at 643-5111. Walk-in donors are also welcome.

Congress asked by AMA to cut government cost

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The American Medical Association has asked Congress to help hold down rising medical costs by cutting the rate of increase in the cost of government. Delegates at the closing session of the AMA's 127th annual convention Thursday challenged Congress to put into effect a yearly two percent reduction in the rate of expenses for running all federal departments and agencies. In a resolution adopted unanimously, the convention asked Congress "to demonstrate its sincerity in reaching its objectives to curtail rising costs and galloping inflation" by also applying spending limits to operations of Congress. The AMA on Tuesday called for a constitutional amendment requiring the federal government to operate under a balanced budget. Backers said deficit spending is largely responsible for inflation that has been driving up health care costs. Doctors were asked by AMA President Tom E. Neill to cut by one percent the rate of increase in their fees to prevent government-imposed controls. The convention also adopted a resolution urging government agencies to "minimize the adverse impact on health care costs."

Emanuel Congregation to mark Maypole event

Members of Emanuel Lutheran Church will gather Saturday for an all-day picnic starting at 2 p.m. at the home of Florence Horton, 15 Peterson Road, Vernon. The rain date is Sunday. In Sweden, this would be the climax of the celebration of the official beginning of summer. There, families would gather to twine flowers and vines and hang circlets of flowers from a crossbow. Dressed in traditional clothing, they would dance and sing throughout the festival. Out in a field an outstretched pole would be lifted with a shout from onlookers and a push from the men. Emanuel members will lift a maypole also. They will celebrate with a golf and tennis tournament. Pictures will be taken to add to the historic 16mm film that is taken each year by the parish life committee. The youth group will conduct a volleyball marathon for the World Hunger campaign all day and night. There will be games and races for the young.

Orchestra gets $500

The Manchester Civic Orchestra and Choral received $500 for general operating expenses from a Hartford Arts Council fund of $87,000 for community arts groups Wednesday. Walter J. Connolly, Jr., president of Connecticut Bank & Trust and the Hartford Arts Council, said competition among grant applicants was tougher this year than ever before. The music group was among ten community arts groups to receive funding. According to W. Grant Brownrigg, executive director of the Arts Council, the board is reexamining its present method of allocating funds to make sure it will benefit every arts group in the Greater Hartford area.

Anti-nuclear protestors begin Seabrook occupation

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — Anti-nuclear protestors began a nationwide demonstration against atomic power today with a four-day "make-in" near the construction site of the $2.3-billion Seabrook plant. Organizers predicted up to 8,000 persons would show up and promised the protest would be peaceful. But hundreds of state police and National Guardsmen were stationed nearby the 18-acre plot set aside for the demonstration in case of trouble. Hundreds more were on standby just across the border in Newburyport, Mass. Similar protests were scheduled this weekend in at least 12 other states from California to Vermont. The Prime Service Co., the prime builder of the Seabrook plant, agreed to allow the protesters to use the adjacent land for a rally in hopes of avoiding a repeat of last year's demonstration in which 1,414 persons were arrested on criminal trespass charges when they occupied the plant site. The main construction area, where about 200 construction workers were expected to be on the job over the weekend, is fenced off under Nuclear Regulatory Commission regulations. The twin-tower, 2,300-management plant is now about 10 percent complete. Demonstrators were to begin converging on the 18-acre protest site tonight. The sponsoring Clamshell Alliance scheduled an energy fair Saturday and a rally Sunday featuring-name entertainers in an effort to draw protesters. The alliance agreed to leave the site by mid-afternoon Monday. The alliance contends Seabrook's cooling system would threaten marine life by dumping heated water from the plant back into the ocean. It also claims plans for disposing of nuclear waste are inadequate. A counter-rally by pro-nuclear groups was scheduled 30 miles west of Seabrook Sunday in Manchester, N.H. Backers said they expected up to 4,000 persons, including New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson, a staunch supporter of nuclear power. Thomson has pledged the state will use all force that might be necessary to keep the peace at the Seabrook rally, but said chances are "good" that police will not be needed. The governor said he would visit the site several times during the demonstration but would leave control of law enforcement to State Attorney General Thomas Rath. State police were setting up a command post on the demonstration site, but gubernatorial aide Jay McDuffee said Thursday, "I doubt very much if you will notice any police presence on the site."

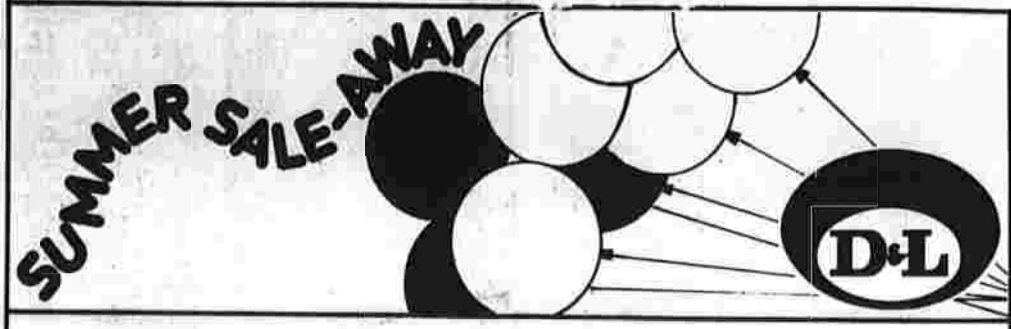

Vermont activists convicted

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UPI) — The defendants cried and invoked the laws of heaven and brought flowers and daisies into the courtroom. The judge read from "A Man For All Seasons" in a voice that shook ever so slightly. For two and a half days the two sides wrangled — usually out of the hearing of the jury — tarring trial into a series of interruptions and a test of wills. In the end, apparently none of that mattered. The 12 Vermont nuclear activists charged with trespassing at the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant in Vermont on Oct. 8 were convicted by a jury that deliberated just 27 minutes. Vermont District Court Judge William Mikell fined each defendant $25. The convicted trespassers said they would appeal. The hours of muted confrontation in the courtroom were not brought on by disagreements about the facts of the case. The 12 freely admitted they had been present at Yankee to protest against what they believe are the dangers of nuclear power and that they refused to leave when warned to do so by the plant management. But, the defendants wanted the court to hear why they trespassed. They wanted to tell the jury their actions were justified because they were attempting to prevent a danger to the public much greater than the danger they themselves posed. They wanted to ask the jury to try them under what they described as the higher, moral laws of God instead of the Vermont statutes. But Mikell was determined they would not make these arguments because another District Court judge had ruled them inadmissible in pre-trial proceedings. Further complications, delays and arguments arose because the defendants chose to represent themselves and were often unfamiliar with the law and with court procedures.

Seabrook on cable TV Area people join protest

Twenty Manchester area residents will participate in this weekend's anti-nuclear demonstration on the construction site of the Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant. The action is being organized by the Clamshell Alliance, a coalition of New England groups who oppose the development of nuclear power. They will be camping on the site from Saturday to Monday. The campers have received non-violence training. Also on Saturday, a new television network, the Northeast Video Network, will go on the air. At 11:30 p.m. it will provide an hour of videotaped reports and live audio coverage of that day's "occupation" of the power plant site. The program will be called "Seabrook Calling." Area viewers subscribing to Greater Hartford CATV will be able to see it on Channel 12. The first half of the program will feature videotaped coverage of the attitudes and actions of those involved at the Seabrook site. The second half will begin when Seabrook calls with an updated report on events surrounding the demonstration. Jay April of Manchester will be part of a four Northeast Video Network crews that will videotape that day. The crews will stop shooting in the afternoon, edit their work, make copies, and dispatch tapes to 12 cable franchises that serve 20 communities in New England and New York. Both the demonstration and the cable network coverage are "unique, historic and exciting events," said April.

Thomson has estimated the cost of policing the demonstration at $150,000. The expense will be shared by the state and PSC, the leading utility in a New England consortium which is building the plant.

Opinion

Misunderstanding law

What is the present law on right turns at a red traffic light? It is this:
Right turns at red traffic lights can only be made when a sign is in place permitting the turn.
The Connecticut Safety Commission says there is some misunderstanding of the law because the Legislature passed in the last session a revision in the right-turn-on-red law. That law change will not take effect until July 1979, a year from now.

At present, you can turn right only where signs permit. Next year, right turns will be permitted at all intersections, except where a sign prohibits the turn.
Under both present and future laws, motorists can only turn right at red lights after coming to a complete stop and yielding to all traffic and pedestrians passing through the intersection on the green light phase.

Everybody's running

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — I made what charitably might be described as a speech in a pleasant little town. When a questioner asked how many people already were running for president, I couldn't resist the cute retort: "Everybody."
All right. Of course some folks are NOT running for top banana, but the field of "un-nominees" can already be so big that they could lend a few of them to Canada and still feel crowded.

Ford and Ronald Reagan have been running almost since the last vote was counted in November 1976. Jimmy Carter is running. So are Gov. Jerry Brown of California and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and Howard Baker of Tennessee. Sen. Teddy Kennedy won't say so, but he's in the race. Dole to Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington state, Frank Church of Idaho and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut. Numerous governors and mayors sound like candidates every time they make a public utterance.

The list is incomplete — but, enough. We could hold the presidential election next year and all those eggs would be ready with their speeches accepting the nomination. Yeah. Deary. Nervous breakdowns threaten both candidates and voters. Three and four years of campaigning are just too much for a country already strapping about inflation and legislation enacted for politics' sake.

One looks back wistfully to the day in November 1974, when Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., now vice president, announced his withdrawal from the '76 race. Mondale said simply that he didn't have "the overwhelming desire to be president which is essential for the kind of campaign that is required."

Well, maybe I propose the impossible in arguing that a candidate could run for president while still minding his own particular store. But I wish someone would give it a try. He just might turn out to be the working stiff's kind of politician.

House rails at random audits

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Embarrassed members of the House of Representatives are quietly seeking to terminate an auditing program designed to insure the financial integrity of political campaigns for seats in Congress.

The Federal Election Commission (FEC) initiated the project less than a year ago, but it already has produced discomfort among House members whose campaign records have been subjected to audits conducted by FEC investigators.

"I can't go to the (House) floor without being stopped by one of them," said Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., chairman of the House Administration Committee, whose jurisdiction includes authority over the FEC.

As a result, the routine bill authorizing the commission to spend $8.6 million for its operations in the next fiscal year includes a Thompson amendment that prohibits the expenditure of any money for what the FEC calls "random audits."

The Administration Committee, in a little-noticed move, recently voted 19-3 in favor of the amendment. The legislation is expected to be approved by the full House, although the Senate may resist efforts to suspend the audit program.

When the new program was initiated last July, the commission randomly selected 44 races for House seats and 4 contests for Senate seats held in 1976. Required to open their financial records for a thorough review were 99 candidates for House seats and 8 seeking Senate seats.

By last October, only three months after the surprise audits began, representatives began complaining about the practice. "A number of members are extremely upset about it," Thompson revealed at an Administration Committee hearing.

Rep. John Joseph Moakley, D-Mass., chimed in: "It is demeaning for an incumbent to have to go through these things."

Thompson promised that FEC officials "will be told ... indeed directed ... that only on what is the equivalent of probable cause of a civil or criminal violation will there be an audit" of any legislator in the future.

The Administration Committee will go further, Thompson added, requiring the commission to notify apparent violators of federal law before an audit is initiated and even allow them to make necessary changes before the probe begins.

The chairwoman of that committee, Rep. James J. Delaney, D-N.Y., was one of those whose campaign finances were subjected to an audit last July. The commission disclosed nothing but technical violations.

But, as Dickinson aptly noted, Congress wants an FEC that can "understand and appreciate the problems" of the Solons. Members of Congress have a long tradition of exempting themselves from the standards they apply to mere mortals.

When the bill came before the House Rules Committee last month, Thompson claimed that "in nearly every case, the commission's audit disclosed nothing but technical violations."

The French presence is economic, political (the bureaucracies is most West African capitals remain essentially French) and, when Paris considers it necessary, military. French armed force backstops a number of regimes and there has been active military intervention in a number of countries, currently in the civil conflict in Chad between the tribal government in the south and the Libyan-supported nomads in the north.

The French were thus well prepared for their rapid move into Zaire to counter the rebel seizure of Shaba province. The move was so rapid and so zealous, however, as to arouse suspicions of the Belgians that the primary French goal might be to displace them economically in their former possession. The French economic interest in the mineral-rich country still falls far short of the Belgian investment, but that is a situation subject to change — particularly should France become the main guarantor of security. And French-speaking Zaire already has been made welcome in the circle of francophone African countries.

France has been scoring points in late for doing the West's job in countering Communist machinations of Africa. The continent had not had to depend upon the Soviets and Cubans for unrest, however. Africa has a basic unresolved problem in that most of its states are not natural developments but artificial groupings of disparate and often antagonistic peoples, a situation for which France and the other former imperial powers are primarily responsible.

France now proposes to spread the West's burden around a bit, namely with a Western-backed African peacekeeping force drawn mainly from its own African client states and a reported $1 billion economic aid program, to which it suggests the United States chip in $400 million and Western Europe the rest.

A little historical perspective should be of assistance to the allies in considering prospects for deeper involvement in Africa.

Back relays

To the editor:
The MCC New England Relays will be held this weekend. The event includes a top notch track meet and Hawchester High School on Saturday and distance runs at Manchester Community College on Sunday.

While this event is orchestrated by Manchester Community College, it has truly become a community effort. It enjoys endorsement by the Manchester Board of Directors and Chamber of Commerce; in fact, the Chamber of Commerce will be awarding a 42 inch trophy to the outstanding performer.

The citizens of Manchester of all ages join in making this a very pleasurable community effort. In addition to the competitors, who last year ranged in age from 4 to 86, some 400 local citizens will serve as timers, judges and in the monitoring of each event. Our local Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will be serving a meal to the 1200 competitors.

I volunteered to work with Pat Mistretta on the New England Relays after attending the 1976 Relays as a spectator and being tremendously impressed not only by the quality of the competition and the efficiency with which the meet is conducted, but primarily by the tremendous number of young people who Pat enlists as volunteers in performing all the tasks that have to be carried out to make this event the success it is.

I understand that this year the Canadian team will include their national champion in the 400 and javelin; that the New York City club will have their usual number of Olympians, and don't be surprised if you find that the fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth grade boys or girls from your neighborhood are competing in the relay races.

The relays promise again this year to be a great event and I recommend it to one and all.

Very truly yours,
Vernon Hauschildt

Greatest in the kingdom of heaven.
The children on the beach at Scripps, have led me to search the Graytrons, treasure house of God's revelation, for further understanding on the church. (Matthew 18:1)

At this time the disciples came to Jesus and said "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" So he called a little child to him and set the child in front of them. Then he said, "I tell you solemnly that unless you change and become like little children you will never enter the kingdom of heaven." And so, the one who makes himself as little as this little child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

Gloria wants initiative plan

HARTFORD (UPI) — Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer wants Connecticut to join 22 other states in approving an initiative and referendum process so that voters can have a direct voice on issues.

Mrs. Schaffer said she will propose a resolution in the 1979 legislative session that would allow a referendum if at least five percent, or 91,379 voters, sign a petition.
California residents used the referendum vehicle earlier this month in approving Proposition 13, which is legislative initiative and a property tax cut July 1.

"Connecticut must follow their (22 states) lead to encourage effective citizen participation in our law making process," she said Thursday.
A similar resolution died in a legislative committee two years ago. Mrs. Schaffer said the issue her resolution will exclude are those related to the state Constitution, religious practices, tenure of judges and specific state appropriations.

Workshop dates set to discuss budget

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — Meeting in special session Thursday night, the Town Council made no changes in its $4.6 million budget proposal that was defeated in a second referendum this week.

Instead, chairman Jack Myles set Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. and June 29 at 7:30 p.m. for workshop sessions on the budget and targeted July 5 for a town hearing on its revised proposal.

Republican councilwoman, Roberta Kozmick, charged the Democratic-controlled council with stalling on a new budget. "I object to a public hearing. We need a town meeting instead. We know what the public wants — they want cuts," she said.

She added that the timetable proposed by Myles would postpone adoption of a new budget until mid-July.

But Myles countered, "We have a responsibility not to act hastily. We put many hours of work into that first budget."

Ms. Kozmick said that she had been ready to make cuts after the first referendum and that it wouldn't be acting hastily to do so now.

Town Manager Frank Connolly informed the council that $153,046 was in the town's cash surplus. Kozmick had suggested earlier this month that some of this money be used to offset a mill hike. The council's proposed budget would have hiked the tax rate from 70 to 71 mills. A mill amounts to about $4,000 in revenue.

In other business the council approved a "mini-budget" for July, authorizing Connolly to spend up to $300,000 for necessary items. Town treasurer, Elizabeth Ryehling, said the town had more than $100,000 on hand and usually borrows up to $100,000 more for July each year.

In a complicated series of motions, the council transferred and appropriated monies to balance the budget for this fiscal year which ends July 1.

The Board of Welfare received $1,500 from the unencumbered cash surplus to offset a deficit in its account.

The State Labor Department was given $91.75 for over payments to Coventry on the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) Program and town attorney, Abbot Schwebel was paid $2,450 from the CETA account for his services relevant to the Salvation Army property, the Keene College, and the McKinney case.

The contingency account was emptied of $21,462 as money was transferred to other accounts, and $65,000 was earmarked for work to be done on the Flinders Road drainage project.

Synergy students accept awards

EAST HARTFORD — Wearing casual clothes and brilliant smiles, graduating seniors in the Synergy School took part in graduation and award ceremonies Monday night at the Woodland School.

Synergy is the town's alternative high school. About 80 high school students are enrolled in the school. They are sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Gary LeBeau, head teacher at the school, presided over the fourth annual ceremonies. Judy McCue of the Friends of Alternative Education, the parent-teacher-citizen group supporting Synergy, gave the opening address.

Donna Salerno and Bhanu Moon gave out the awards. The awards and recipients were: The Critical Awareness Award, Synergy's highest honor, went to Todd Cramer. It is given to recognize "those students who have expanded their consciousness through critical questioning and use of ideas in experiencing their world."

The Nancy Collins Awards went to Marie Hovero and Elizabeth Miele. The awards are for students "whose positive self-image and respect for the school community."

The Dare to Struggle/Dare to Win awards went to Linda Stanley, Gail Dubay and Janine Sanderson. The award is for those who "sought control of their education by experimenting in learning and acquiring new skills." Honorable mention in this award competition went to Jay Gassett, Mary Smith, Cookie Olyon, Ron Dugan and Holly McPherson.

The graduates are: Cynthia Braun, Pamela Jordan Conklin, Cynthia Coppinger, Todd Cramer, Christine Dolinski, Gail Dubay, A. Kristine Dworsky, Karen Greenwood.

Also, Kathleen Kiehl, Steven MacNaughton, Vincent Maffessoli Jr., Kevin McCue, David Murphy, Mary Nixon, Bill Rosenwald, Caryn Rose, Mary Smith, Edward Tamin and Michael Wool.

NEW YORK (UPI) — One minute of ultraviolet radiation under some sunlamps, even at the distance specified by the manufacturer, can be equal to one hour under the sun.

About 12,000 skin burns and eye injuries caused annually by overexposure to such lamps are severe enough to require hospital treatment, says Hada de Stosser of Cornell University's Cooperative Extension Service.

Dr. De Stosser said the Food and Drug Administration has proposed a new rule that would limit shorter wave length radiation emissions from such lamps and provide for more adequate label warnings and safety instructions. She said about one million non-prescription sunlamps are sold in the U.S. annually.

Waste water disposal plan mulled by town officials

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — The Town Council this week brought together several town and state groups to see if agreement could be reached on what path Coventry should pursue to deal with its waste water disposal problems.

Each group used the opportunity to advocate its pet alternative and to vie for council support.

Coventry Sewer Authority Chairman Richard Broun is pushing a municipal sewer plan now that negotiations with Mansfield for a regional system have collapsed.

Earlier this month the council voted unanimously to seek a 90 percent funding grant from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) for a $15,500 facility plan for town sewers to be drawn up by the engineering firm of Fuss and O'Neill.

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) has informally agreed to turn thumbs down on any plan for large-scale sewerage of the lake area, contending that sewers will lead to increase in population density there.

However, the PZC does favor sewers for the village area to encourage development there. Broun said he would never agree to exclude the lake area from a major sewer program.

The Conservation Commission brought representatives from the Hartford-based Center for the Environment and Man, which advocates septic tank effluent pumping (STEP) systems. These systems pump waste water from individual septic tanks to a community teaching fields and can be used in conjunction with a municipal sewer system.

But Broun said the DEP said he did not think Coventry had suitable land available to service the lake area with a STEP system. "We consider Coventry's facility plan to be one of the best in considering alternatives to sewers," he stated, adding that a municipal sewer system "is the only way to do it."

Coventry has been under a DEP pollution abatement order since 1971. The state had favored a regional sewer system to comply with the abatement order, but since Mansfield has pulled out, the DEP is leaning toward support of municipal sewers for both towns.

"We could not find collector sites around the lake," May concluded after he made a search with the assistance of Town Sanitarian Donald Holmes. "A STEP system and a community leach field needs sand and gravel aquifers, which Coventry does not have."

May's comments appeared to dim the Conservation Commission's hopes that the town would move toward a STEP system as an alternative to municipal sewers.

Meanwhile, the Sewer Authority and the PZC appear to have reached an impasse on the question of sewers for the lake area. The PZC voted 4 to 1 earlier this year to oppose the regional plan.

Town Planner Gregory Padick suggested that those working on a facility plan "have dialogue with the PZC. We do not want to encourage density in the lake area. A STEP system may have lower cost and control density," the planner said.

The council took no action on sewer system to comply with the abatement order. The DEP said it would not take action on the council's facility plan until the council had made future decisions relevant to waste water systems.

Two Town Committees endorse Mrs. Miller's re-election

By DONNA HOLLAND

ANDOVER — The Republican Town Committee has endorsed incumbent Dorothy Miller as the party's candidate for state representative for the 56th District in the upcoming November elections.

L. Edward Whitcomb and Victor Bronke will be the party's delegates to the July 19 convention at which the party's candidates will be chosen.

The town committee also endorsed Norman Prouss as the party's candidate for probate judge for Andover, Bolton and Columbia. John B. Hutchinson and Theodore Wright will be the party's delegates to the July 25 convention at which the party's candidate will be chosen.

Yo Anson, chairman of the town committee, said although the town committee, said although the town committee has not yet taken an official stand on the candidate for governor, it seems to be leaning in the direction of Lewis Rome.

Anson said there is a possibility Rome will speak at the committee's July 11 meeting.

Indian Notch Park scheduled to be ready to open Aug. 15

By DONNA HOLLAND

HERALD CORRESPONDENT
BOLTON — Indian Notch Park will be ready for use by the public by August 15 according to Mark Nasin, president of Windham Sand and Stone Inc., general contractor. Nasin attended the Board of Selectmen's meeting Tuesday and said, "In no way is the company in violation of its contractual obligations."

The contract between the Public Building Commission and Windham Sand and Stone Inc. for development of the park called for completion of the park by June 9. For reasons that were not made public until Tuesday's meeting, the contractor ran behind schedule and was unable to complete the job by June 9.

Nasin said the principal reason for the delay was the soil conditions at the park. He said for awhile heavy equipment could not be used in the area.

DeSignore said the park is not and will not be open to use by the public until it is completed. The work must be approved by the building commission and the park must be accepted by the park department before it will be open to the public.

When the park is open to the public the park department will be seeking 12 seasonal employees for various positions.

They are park maintainers, park supervisor, life guards and ticket sellers. Anyone interested in any of the positions should fill out a job Bank application at the Community Hall.

The job Bank is being coordinated by selectman John Carey. He said he does not "sell the applicants." He said when a town board contacts me with a job I have the applicants but I must be contacted.

At the meeting the selectmen also discussed the telephone system at the Community Hall.

Top Rockville High students ask for equal rights for all

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — Intervened in the valedictory and salutatory address given at Rockville High School's graduation ceremonies last night was the theme of equal rights for all.

Patricia Maurice, valedictorian, and Suzanne Niemann, salutatorian, each had different ways to approach the theme but the underlying thought was freedom for all.

Miss Maurice, using as her introduction, the preamble to the Declaration of Independence, said, "After 200 years of our nation's existence, we should examine the world around us and ask ourselves three important questions."

"The said these are: 'Have we, as Americans, kept our forefathers' promises? Are all Americans really free? Are they truly considered to be equal?'"

"To these she replied an emphatic 'No.' And then she continued to detail the plight of women in today's society as far as such things as being paid equal wages for equal work, difficulties in obtaining credit cards, business loans, mortgages, and desired jobs and promotions.

"She said she spent a good deal of time doing research after a friend said he believed that the women's movement was just a phase which women are going through, that they didn't really want to enter into the 'man's world.'"

"She spoke of the Egyptian princess Hatshepsut who was made Queen of the Nile and even though she was the last living descendant of the royal family, her husband alone could be crowned pharaoh.

But research proved that it was Hatshepsut who managed the affairs of the two lands by reason of her own designs, and all of Egypt was made to labor with bowed back to her, Miss Maurice said.

She cited many other powerful women who made history such as Joan of Arc, Susan B. Anthony, Eleanor Roosevelt, and more recent, by Gloria Steinem. She said her favorite feminine personality was Madam Marie Curie. "A scientist who proved that beside, not behind, every great man there stands an equally great woman."

She closed her speech by quoting Sarah Moore Grimké, a 19th century Quaker woman, who said, "I ask no favors for my sex. I surrender not our claim to equality. All I ask of our brethren is that they will take their feet from our necks and permit us to stand upright on the ground God designed us to occupy."

She then wished her fellow graduates productive, happy futures and asked them never to forget the importance of freedom and of equality for all people.

Salutatorian Niemann, on the other hand but nevertheless weaving in the importance of stepping out of the crowd and standing firmly on our own two feet, said, "You have to do this in a country where the majority too often tramples the minority."

She spoke of the importance of an high school education and said, "Whether we realize it or not, high school has given us innumerable chances to enrich our lives with the knowledge and with the experience necessary to live in an extremely competitive society."

She said it is the experience derived from high school which "will strengthen us as adults." She added that five or 10 years from now she and her classmates will probably not remember the Pythagorean Theorem, how to diagram a sentence, or the meaning of the word antithesis.

"On the other hand we will remember those special warm feelings inside of us when we achieved a goal or touched deep into the heart of a troubled classmate. We will remember the distinct emotional defeats and victories which helped us to mature into young adults," she said.

"Experiences, both exhilarating and defeating, such as those which we have encountered throughout high school, hold an underlying importance for us. Our future success and happiness depend upon the utilization of the knowledge which we have obtained in the classroom, on the athletic field, in our jobs, in our homes, and among our peers," she added.

She expressed the hope that every graduate will use the past four years as constructive stepping stones for the future. "Then we will realize the value of our total high school experience," she said.

Graduating class receives awards and scholarships

VERNON — At last night's graduation exercises at Rockville High School, Brian McCartney, school principal, presented the awards won by members of the class.

Patricia Maurice, valedictorian, received the Florence W. Whitebeck Memorial Award for excellence in biological science; and together with salutatorian Suzanne Niemann she received the Florence Whitebeck Memorial Award for being the top scholar of the class.

She also received the N. Helen Hendrick Memorial Award given annually to the senior who has the highest grades and who also graduated from the Maple Street elementary school.

The Bauson and Lomb Science Medal for the highest scholarship in science also went to Miss Maurice and she and Steven Snyrski were awarded the four-year Lebbeus Bissell scholarships.

The E. Stevens Henry Memorial Award for excellence in scholarship during the current school year went to Linda Strad, junior; Jonathan Connell, sophomore; and Theresa Brunone, freshman.

Michael Gottler received the Charles Ellsworth Nettleton Award. This goes to the senior boy best exemplifying the fine character, scholarship and leadership of Nettleton of the class of 1924.

Cecily Cloutier received the Girls' Club Award for excellence in scholarship, leadership and initiative and Gottler also received the Philip N. Howe Memorial Award for excellence in history.

The Joseph A. McCusker Good Citizenship award was given to William DiPietro; Nancy Rey received the Dr. John Flanery Memorial Award given to the senior who intends to enter some field of medicine.

The Paul J. Roden Memorial Award went to Thomas Foley for outstanding ability in the field of woodworking and the Carroll Plunder Choral Music Award went to Kathleen Doran.

The Kenneth Little Award in Industrial Arts was given to John Chapelaine; the John Ashe Memorial Scholarship went to Mark Moccadio and he and William Schauflier also were given the Friends of Football award.

Other awards: Thomas Art, Randall S. Fletcher Memorial Award, Robin Crotesu, Vocational Agricultural Award; Thomas Caravella, Whitney T. Ferguson III Memorial Award; Nancy Charlier, Eileen A. Murphy Foreign Language Award; Paul Grouchowski, Emil R. Scherwitzky Award; and William Gibbs, James H. Madden Jr. Memorial Award.

Many others received awards from various school PTO's and civic organizations.

Graduates salute classmates at Rockville High ceremonies

By BARBARA RICHMOND

VERNON — Hats and confetti went up in the air but 408 students held on to their hard-earned diplomas as the 108th graduating exercises came to a close at Rockville High School Thursday night.

School officials trusted the weatherman, and they were not disappointed, as graduates, friends, and parents enjoyed the cooling breezes in the courtyard of the school where the ceremonies were conducted.

The Rev. John J. White, pastor of St. Bernard's Church pronounced the invocation and the benediction and the school band and choir provided appropriate music including the National Anthem, and the traditional "Halls of Ivy," and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

It was a tender moment when the entire class arose and paid homage to a fellow classmate, Sharon Rowe, who suffered serious injuries in an accident about two years ago.

Sharon is confined to a wheelchair but despite her injuries has worked to receive her diploma.

Brian McCartney, who was appointed principal of the high school early this year, told the graduates, "As young adults you carry with you the hopes of those who have known and trusted you."

He said that learning never ceases and he offered the graduates "best wishes, peace, prosperity, and success."

Jennifer Gledhill, class president, said they had all been looking forward to graduation but now that it had all been looking forward to graduation but now that it had come they were a little sad.

She then announced that the class was giving, as its gift to students who follow, a security system which will connect the offices in all of the "houses" of the school.

Other class officers were: JoAnne C. Gerber, vice president; Amy Harrison, recording secretary; Kaylin Gifford, corresponding secretary; Catherine T. Foley, treasurer; and Janine L. Lombardi, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. JoAnne Worthen and Mrs. Joyce DiPietro, members of the Board of education assisted Dr. Robert Lintstone and Dr. Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendents, in giving out the diplomas. This honor is given to board members who have a child in the graduating class. Both women had sons graduating.

After the ceremonies the class had its party in Henry Park.

Rockville graduates receive many awards and scholarships

VERNON — Marking the end of 45 years in the Vernon School system, Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, who is retiring the end of this month performed the task of presenting class statistics at graduation exercises at Rockville High School last night.

For 40 of his 45 years, Dr. Ramsdell has served in the Vernon School system, 22 years as superintendent, and he has made the awards for about that many years.

"I've been very fortunate to serve the people of Vernon. In my opinion there is no better town to live in in the whole U.S.A.," he said.

He said he has been blessed with a good teaching staff which helped make his job easier.

He said 40 of the graduates were named Connors Scholars, which was a National Merit Scholarship finalist. 11 received National Merit Scholarship commendations and the student received a combined amount of $74,500 in scholarships, $16,200 of which was donated by local organizations. He said this will amount to at least $225,000 in the next four years.

He said 40 percent of the class will go to other schools of higher learning.

Some 25 percent of the class will go to jobs; two percent will go into a branch of the service; three percent plan to travel; one-half percent plan to marry; and three and one-half percent have no definite plans.

Ramsdell scholarship
To honor Dr. Ramsdell and in recognition of his retirement, the Vernon Educational Association set up a scholarship in his name. The scholarship will be awarded annually to a student in high standing in the graduating class.

The first scholarship, this year, was awarded to Donna Lee Smith. Miss Smith was among the top 20 students in her class. She is also a member of the National Honor Society.

involved in long-range planning for Manchester schools. In 1972, he was named assistant superintendent of special education and pupil personnel services for the Hartford schools, and in 1973 was promoted to his present post.

Dr. Rowe, who is involved with curriculum in the West Hartford schools, works closely with the teachers, and is working on a project to develop a diagnostic math system to determine math skills. She is also a member of a Summer Employment Task Force, a curriculum staff improvement team, reading management system and a workshop director for staff development and other for community development.

Dr. Kennedy called Sentero and Dr. Rowe, "outstanding candidates in an outstanding field of candidates."

"It is my opinion that Dr. Rowe and Mr. Sentero bring outstanding backgrounds to the Manchester principalships and we are indeed fortunate to have them."

New York court nixes

At issue is a 53-year-old school finance system known as the "Florida Formula," which provides that the state will guarantee an annual minimum amount of money for each child's education. The current amount is $1,200.

Smith said his ruling "shall not prevent the continued operation of the state's school system under existing statutes, nor invalidate past or future obligations incurred for the operation of the school system."

He added "the court will retain jurisdiction of the action but otherwise will afford the Legislature the opportunity to take appropriate action."

Area police report

South Windsor
South Windsor Police charged two youths with two counts each of third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny Thursday in connection with breaks into Farmstead Lane homes.

Charges were Christopher Brown, of 145 Farmstead Lane and John Greiner of 50 Burnside Avenue, East Hartford.

Police said a 22-caliber pistol, money and jewelry were taken from one home and jewelry and some change were taken from the other. All items were recovered.

Both were released on $500 nonsurety bonds for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford.

Police received a report of a burglary allegedly in progress during this morning at the Kelsey-Ferguson Brick Yard on John Fitch Blvd.

In connection with this, Francis Stanislas, 19 and Bruce Conner, 22, both of Springfield, Mass. were charged with three counts of third-degree burglary and two counts of criminal attempt to commit larceny. Police said three buildings in the brick yard complex were entered.

Dancers arrested at Armory Tavern

Manchester Police detectives arrested two exotic dancers and a bartender at the Armory Tavern at 302 Main St. Thursday night.

Arrested on charges of public indecency were Gaila Sue Thompson, 22, of 85 Oak St. and Tawni Lynn Warholik, 18, of Waterbury. Joseph Balfiore, 42, of Summit St., the bartender, was charged with promoting obscenity.

The arrests were the result of an investigation by the patrol division. Police said an officer observed the two women dancing in the bar and exposing their entire bodies.

The two women were released on $100 bonds and Balfiore was released on a $2,500 nonsurety bond for court appearance July 10.

Similar arrests were made at the same tavern a few months ago.

Other arrests included Edward M. Kenney, 21, of 10 Orchard St. South Windsor, charged with speeding and evading responsibility in connection with an accident on Union Street early today. Police said he left the scene and left the car parked in a hazardous position after the police guard rails about 2 a.m. Court appearance is July 11.

Dorothy L. Monroe, 16, of 149 Oakland Dr., was charged with falsely reporting an accident and disorderly conduct in connection with an accident about 3 a.m.

East Hartford boosters foresee bright future

By MAI BARLOW

During the EDC meeting, Harry Egarian also a Town Council member, said it looks good for the New England Whalers to join the National Hockey League (NHL). When the Civic Center roof is repaired and the Whalers play in the NFL with 14,500 seats to fill, the whole Hartford region will get a boost, Egarian said.

Frank Collins, also chairman of the Redevelopment Commission, said there will be a heavy demand on area accommodations. He praised his commission's foresight some years ago in asking the Ramada Inn planners for the East Drive. Drive hotel to allow for future growth. The kitchens and other services of the hotel of 208 rooms can serve the additional 200 rooms by the town for a stay in the downtown Main Street area and along Connecticut Boulevard leading into Hartford.

"What we have now on Burnside Avenue isn't bad at all," Girouard said.

He noted the large number of apartment units, the fine homes kept in good repair, and the offices set up along Burnside Avenue. The few shops and stores there now make "a good mix."

He praised the town government's willingness to work with downtown merchants on their property. Arthur Mulligan, director of public works, offered his staff to merchants who wanted to beautify curb areas. If merchants bought the bricks, shrubs and other materials, Mulligan's people would do the work of installing them.

"We're negotiating with the businessmen in one block now," Girouard said. "It shows business and government can work together."

He noted too that there are few vacant stores along Main Street. Even though business is not as good as it should be, everyone appears to have confidence in their future and strength enough to wait for it, he said.

The Ramada Inn on East Drive in East Hartford has 208 rooms. Frank Collins, a member of the East Hartford Economic Development Commission, said Thursday the hotel can build an addition with 225 more rooms without straining the hotel's service facilities and thereby help the town serve a greatly expanded demand for accommodations in the next few years. Five charged at party; none were RHS grads

VERNON - Vernon Police made five arrests in Henry Park Thursday night where the graduating class of Rockville High School held a party. None of those arrested were members of the graduating class.

Four of the five were charged in connection with the same incident. Edward Rolocut, 16, of West Hartford was charged with first-degree assault in connection with the disturbance which involved his allegedly striking another person with a hammer.

William Kennan, 17, of 115 Prospect St., Steven Pattishall, 18, of 12 Windermere Ave., and Michael Ziemba, 16, of 47 Village St., all of Rockville were all charged with breach of the peace. Kennan had an added charge of interfering with a police officer with plain white at Rockville High School.

Kenney takes office as association head

The Connecticut Hospital Association recently installed Edward M. Kenney as chairman of the Board of Directors for the coming year at the association's 60th annual meeting. Jean A. Adonop was elected as executive director.

Kenney is the administrator of Manchester Hospital. He is also a member of the Board of the Hospital Bureau Inc., and past president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Mrs. Adonop has served as past president of the Connecticut Child Welfare Association and as a member of the Connecticut Association Board of Trustees.

A further highlight of the meeting was the presentation of the T. Stewart Hamilton, M.D. Distinguished Service Award to Anthony J. DeLuca, administrator of Griffin Hospital in Derby.

Martin's job safe at least another day as ace Guidry equates pitching mark

DETROIT (UPI) - Ron Guidry's streak is still intact — which helps keep Billy Martin from extending his.

Guidry won his 12th straight game of the season without a loss Thursday night thanks to Reggie Jackson's game-tying home run in the ninth inning plus three unearned runs that carried the New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

"The victory tied the club record for most consecutive pitching triumphs from the start of the season. It also prevented — for at least a day — Martin from adding to his streak of having been fired from all three of his previous managerial positions — with Minnesota, Detroit and Texas. "Billy knows all managers are hired to be fired," President Al

Rosen of the Yankees said before the game. "He knows he's got to get this thing turned around. It's time to get moving."

"We can't fall any farther behind," Rosen said. "A lot of people think this ball club should be in first place. "You know the all-star game is coming up soon," he said. "I don't place much stock in that cliché that the team in first place at the All-Star game is going to win the pennant — but we've got to be in contention."

"I don't know what you're talking about, then setting me up," he bristled. "They set me up last year — for a world series ring."

"Remember, last year I came in here (to Detroit) and was going to get fired. They got me this — a ring. "I didn't hear him (Rosen) say he thought we should be in first place. I don't believe he said it."

"I'd like to be in first place, it would be nice. But we will — come September," Martin predicted. "I've never run scared in my life and I'm not going to run scared now. My mother didn't raise a quitter."

For 8-1/2 innings, it looked like his Yankee players were gently nudging Martin another step toward the firing line. Dave Rosena, who had made only one start in the previous three weeks, took a four-hit shutout into the ninth.

But Jackson belted his 12th home run of the season to tie the score at 1-1 after Rosena got the first batter in the final frame. Rookie second baseman Lou Whitaker muffed an easy ground ball by Chris Chambliss for an error that put the tie-breaking run on first.

Graig Nettles lashed a long single to left-center to move Chambliss to first.

Martin countered by having right-handed batting Lou Piniella hit right-handed hitting Gary Thomsen. Piniella came through with a ground single up the middle on a 3-2 curveball to break the tie.

"John has been fantastic lately," Hook said, noting his left-handed hand given up only four hits and a run in his last six games, 13 1-3 innings with an ERA of 0.68.

"I had him pitching around Piniella. I almost had John walk him. But he got two strikes on him after three straight balls — and he hit a good pitch."

In other American League games, Baltimore beat Milwaukee, 10-3; California won Minnesota, 4-2; 12 innings; Texas took Oakland, 8-2; and Seattle defeated Chicago, 8-6, in 10 innings.

Orlando 10, Brewers 5

Mike Flanagan, 11-4, won his 10th game since May 5 and Eddie Murray and Kiko Garcia drove in three runs each to lead Baltimore over Milwaukee for the Orioles' 18th triumph in the last 20 games.

Angels 4, Twins 2

Ken Landreux and Ron Jackson had back-to-back run-producing singles with two out in the 12th inning to give California its victory. Dave LaRoche, 6-3, worked two perfect innings for the victory.

Managers: R. A. 2; Bump Wille two-run triple triggered a three-run first inning against 18-year-old Mike Morgan that carried Texas over Oakland. Dock Ellis, 6-3, went to seven innings and Morgan, 0-3, gave up six runs in 2-1/3 innings.

Mariners: R. White Sox 6; Bob Sison, who had homered earlier, doubled across the winning run as Seattle rallied for two runs in the top of the 10th to defeat Chicago. Reliever John Montague, 1-3, picked up the win.

Modern day record
Fourteen runs in one inning by one team has to be a modern day record in Twilight League baseball play. This feat was turned in last Tuesday night by defending champion Jai Alai against Moriarty's at Moriarty Field on route to a 16-0 victory.

Without question, one mark was established when five home runs were hit in the first inning, two by Jai Alai players, Gary LaRoche and Bob Stich, and one each by Moriarty's Fred Flynn, Ed Smith and Ron Krogh.

All told, 18 runs crossed the plate in the first inning which required 49 minutes to complete.

"I took more insults than money," Jeff Koebch noted when he passed the collection bucket and collected for the best. Fans generously dropped in $21.

The defeat was the worst for Moriarty's in 15 Twilight League seasons.

Hurt Cincinnati narrows deficit

NEW YORK (UPI) The Cincinnati Reds are playing with two of their best players, Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan, sidelined with injuries, yet the club remains in close contention.

Led by George Foster and pitchers Bill Enlow and Manny Sarmiento, the Reds downed the division-leading San Francisco Giants, 5-0, Thursday night to move within one game of first place.

Foster drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Bonham and Sarmiento combined on a three-hit-ter in the NL lead in earned run average with 1.9.

Astros 4, Dodgers 3

Enos Cabell's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning gave the Astros a victory. Doug Fister, 7-3, took the loss while Joe Niekro pitched a six-hit-ter for Houston.

Expos 2, Mets 0

Ex-Mets Wayne Garrett and Del Unser each knocked in a run to back the two-hit pitching of Hal Dues and Mike Garman for the Expos victory. Dues notched his first victory of the season against three defeats.

Phillies 2, Cardinals 1

Steve Carlton tossed a seven-hitter for his 189th career triumph and outduelled John Denny in pitching Philadelphia to victory. Keith Hernandez homered for St. Louis.

Brewers 2, Padres 0

Relievers Homer Devine and Gene Garber combined on an eight-hitter and Gary Matthews drove in both runs with two singles to lead the Braves.

Narbon finished her match on the 19th hole by rolling in a six-foot birdie putt. She finished her day two-over par.

"I was kind of nervous starting out today, but tomorrow I don't feel there will be much pressure because I'm not supposed to win," stated Narkon, who captured the Manchester Country Club women's club championship the past two years.

Hurt Cincinnati narrows deficit

NEW YORK (UPI) The Cincinnati Reds are playing with two of their best players, Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan, sidelined with injuries, yet the club remains in close contention.

Led by George Foster and pitchers Bill Enlow and Manny Sarmiento, the Reds downed the division-leading San Francisco Giants, 5-0, Thursday night to move within one game of first place.

Foster drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Bonham and Sarmiento combined on a three-hit-ter in the NL lead in earned run average with 1.9.

Narbon advances to state golf finals

NEW YORK (UPI) - Catcher Thurman Munson of New York faces a possible suspension plus a fine for bumping home plate umpire Jim McKean during the sixth inning of the Yankees' 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The enraged Munson bumped McKean away as he kicked out of Thursday night's game after striking out to end the sixth. A similar incident involving Fred Lynn of Boston cost the outfielder some money and a three-day suspension earlier this season.

Munson had to duck out of the way of a high, inside Dave Kezema two-strike pitch but his bat hit the ball and catcher Lane Parrish caught it. He whirled, flung his bat to the ground, and thrust his stomach toward the umpire while beginning a verbal tirade.

New York suffered another possible suspension when second baseman Willie Randolph had to come out of the game after five innings because his right knee began bothering him again.

Randolph had to miss four games last week because the knee was sore. He had only returned to action Sunday against Boston.

Unknown Hewes nabs Canadian Open lead

OAKVILLE Ontario (UPI) - Little-known Jeff Hewes, taking his third crack at the PGA tour, relied on a deft putting touch to grab a three-stroke lead Thursday in the first round of the $250,000 Canadian Open.

Hewes, 31, had a rimmer drop into the cup for a par on the 14th, and a pitch shot 12 feet back downhill to set up a birdie putt on the 16th. On the last two holes, he sank a pair of 12-foot putts from the fringe to finish with a 67, tying the course record.

Lee Trevino, well back with a 3-over 74 Thursday, set the record in his first round of last year's Open.

Hewes of Santa Barbara, Calif., turned professional in 1968, but twice lost his ticket for failing to win $7,000 in his first year and returned to qualifying school.

"One thing I do as well as anyone on the course is, I have a lot of patience," Hewes said. "Anyone who's been to the school three times has to have a lot of patience."

East Hartford Legion winner

Behind the combined four-hit pitching of Craig Steuermann and Bob Ouellette, East Hartford Legion baseball team trounced Windsor Locks, 7-3, in Zone Eight action last night at Windsor Locks High.

East Hartford is now 3-1 in zone play, 5-3 overall, while Windsor Locks slips to 1-2 in zone competition.

The Post 77 entry took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on a two-run single by Tony DeAngelis and built to the margin with a three-run sprint in the third frame. Carl Guzzardi's two-run triple and Phil Shiner's RBI single highlighted the latter inning.

DeAngelis had three hits and knocked in three runs and Shiner also had three safeties for East Hartford. Steuermann hurled the first five innings to gain the victory. Rich Harrison singled and tripled and Kevin Kervick had a three-base knock to pace Windsor Locks.

Wide open fields in distance races
Look for wide open races in both the men's 3-mile and 12-mile road races Sunday as part two of the third annual two-day Manchester Community College-sponsored New England Relays at the college campus.

Last year's winners and runners-up in both divisions will be among the absentees.

Tom Hollander of Michigan surprised many by competing starting in the 12-mile run. University of Connecticut distance runner Pat O'Neil led the field in the 3-mile race will be about six hours later at Wigren Track.

Feature of the day will be the two-day schedule with some of the finest scholastic, collegiate and club track men and women entered.

More than 1,000 entries have been received to date.

Manchester Legion undefeated in zone

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

Bunching eight runs in the first two innings to support the two-hit pitching of youthful Shawn Spears, Manchester American Legion baseball team remained unbeaten in Zone Eight play with a 10-2 win over Stafford last night at Eagle Field.

The Post 102 entry is now 3-0 in zone competition and 6-2 overall. Stafford drops to 0-2 in the zone with the loss. Manchester next sees action Saturday night at 7:30 in an exhibition tilt in Brattleboro, Vt. It returns to Eagle Field Sunday at 5 o'clock to combat zone foe Rockville.

Manchester scored three times in the first and those were all the runs Spears, who will be a sophomore in the fall at Manchester High, needed to get the ball out to the mound, while center fielder and scored Mike Freheit's infield grounder was boosted. Ray Githa worked out a walk and cleanup stickler Don Martin drilled a two-run double up the alley in right center field.

Five more tallies crossed the plate in the second. Two runs came home on a wild pitch and passed ball, two on errors and the fifth on a Martin single.

Stafford did all its scoring in the third inning without benefit of a hit. Spears issued three walks with a passed ball sending home the first marker. The second was a result of a totally unusual play.

Strong Canada squad in relay competition

The Vikings Track Club of Montreal, has entered a strong contingent in the Saturday track and field events of the Manchester Community College New England Relays at Eldrig Track.

Larry Wigren, president of the Canadian Track and Field Association, announced that among the 20 athletes coming to Manchester there are several of Canada's best, even though there are three meets in Canada that weekend and many athletes are preparing to compete for places on the team for the upcoming Commonwealth Games.

One of the outstanding Canadians will be quarter-miler Bruce Roberts, who this year set a Canadian indoor record for 400 meters. Roberts ran 47.79 electric in a Canada vs. Italy meet. This compares with the fourth or fifth best times in the event recorded in the United States during the indoor season. The Canadian will face strong competition in the Men's Open Division 400 yard dash, particularly from Dan Harris of University of Lowell-Albany Assn. (U.L.A.C.) who has run 400 yards in 46.5 and from Omar Harrison of New York's Astor Track Club who has run 47.3.

Marvin Nash, who represented Canada in the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal, is entered in the Men's Open Division 100 yard and 200-yard dashes. Nash finished ninth in the 1976 Olympic 100 meters — approximately 10 years longer than 100 yards — and has recorded a very fast 10.2 for that distance. He has also recorded 20.8 for 200 meters and should be a major threat in both events.

He will be running against a strong field, including Anthony Stewart of Brooklyn, N.Y., who has run 100 yards in 9.4, Darryl Rhone of Massachusetts (U.L.A.C.) with a best time of 8.4, and UConn's Mike DePietro who has run 9.7.

Pole vaulter Glen Colvins is ranked second in Canada and placed second in last year's MCC New England Relays. Colvins' best in 1978 is 16'7" and is considered one of the favorites in the Men's Open Division.

Fifteen-year-old Monique Leslie has a best time of 25.3 for 200 meters, and is expected to be a strong threat to Hartford's Jennifer Marshall and Tollard's Jeremy Edmonds in the Women's High School Division 200.

Her 18-year-old sister Carolyn is entered in the dash events and also competes in the hurdles and the 100 yard. Sixteen-year-old Lisa Ferland has high jumped 5'9" and must be considered a definite threat in the Women's High School Division, and Susan Maynard, the Quebec Province pentathlon champion, will be competing in several events.

In the Women's Open Division, 200 athletes entered in Saturday's track and field events and 450 runners expected to run in Sunday's 3 mile and 12-mile road races.

Track and field trial heats and semifinals begin at 10 a.m. Saturday with finals starting at 1 p.m. After this year, a feature will be the National AAU 56-pound Weight Throw Championship at 1:30. Tickets will be sold at the gate.

Sunday, at 1 p.m. on the college campus, the road races will be held.

Baseball

Eight runs in the last inning gave Moriarty Bros. a come-from-behind 12-11 win over Krause Florist last night at the West Side Oval.

Earl Lappen collected two of four safeties stroked by Moriarty's. Eric Gilbert highlighted a four-run sixth inning which gave the locals the comeback triumph.

Alex Britnell fired a five-hitter in his first mound outing of the year. He walked four and fanned two and received excellent defensive work from catcher Dave Parks who gunned down two attempting to steal and picked off a third runner.

Four Newtoning errors abetted Dave Modan had a sacrifice fly which produced what proved to be the winning run.

Nazis cancel plan for Skokie march

CHICAGO (UPI) — A small band of Nazis who attracted worldwide attention by threatening to parade in the heavily Jewish suburb of Skokie has canceled the march in favor of a July 9 rally in racially tense Marquette Park.

"As far as Skokie itself, since it began in March 1977, I said it was pure agitation to restore our right to free speech in Marquette Park," Nazi leader Frank Collins told a news conference at the group's headquarters Thursday night.

"This agitating pressure has now worked. I have decided that, because our rights have been restored, the demonstration scheduled for Sunday in Skokie is canceled."

Albert Smith, village president of Skokie, said the news was "a triumph for all mankind, not just Skokie."

But Collins, dressed in a brown Nazi uniform before a backdrop of a red Nazi flag, said he will schedule another march in Skokie "the moment I suspect our rights are again denied."

Leaders of the Jewish United Fund immediately announced the cancellation of their planned counterdemonstration Sunday in Skokie. It was expected to attract up to 50,000 people, including some from Israel.

"If the Nazis are not going to bring their despised symbols to Skokie, we do not want to encourage large numbers of people to come to that community," said David Smirkin, president of the JUF.

The Nazis had targeted Skokie because the northern suburb of 69,000 has a 35 percent Jewish population, including many survivors of Nazi Germany's death camps.

Pope admits anguish over birth controls

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI said today that his encyclical of 10 years ago banning all forms of artificial birth control including the Pill had caused him anguish, but there was no reason to change it.

Addressing the College of Cardinals, the 88-year-old pontiff who has now entered the 10th year of his reign, said that the encyclical entitled Humanae Vitae (Of Human Life) "was an unhesitant document of our pontificate not only because of the grave and delicate matter it dealt with, but also — and perhaps more so — because of a certain atmosphere of expectancy in which, among Catholics and in the greater sphere of public opinion, there had been generated the idea of supposed concessions, facilitation or liberalization of the moral and matrimonial doctrine of the church."

There had been considerable speculation before the pope's pronouncement 10 years ago that he might authorize the use of birth control pills.

His ban caused many Catholics to lapse or simply ignore it.

The pontiff told the cardinals today, meeting on the eve of his 80th birthday (John the Baptist), that "it seems to us that the decade since the promulgation of the encyclical has been a sufficient period to evaluate it better."

Suspects questioned in hijack

MONTVILLE (UPI) — Two men awaited questioning today in the Connecticut hijacking of 31.6 million in gold and silver after their arrests in the highway seizure the same day of another precious metals shipment in Massachusetts.

The suspects were arrested 11 hours after Wednesday's Interstate 95 hijacking in North Stonington of a tractor-trailer owned by Handy & Harman's main plant in Fairfield for its refinery in Attleboro, Mass.

The rig hijacked in Connecticut was hidden and camouflaged in a Voluntown state forest 10 miles from Interstate 95. Police making aerial sweeps found it at 1 p.m. Wednesday, and kept it under surveillance for 13 hours into early Thursday.

The suspects in the Massachusetts hijacking — John A. Tosi, 37, of Canton, Mass., and Albert Gonzalez, 35, of Lowell, Mass. — were in custody since Wednesday evening.

They were charged in the hijacking in Mansfield, Mass., about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday of a United Parcel Service van.

City Jaycees keep women

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Jaycees will try to convince their national executive committee at the July meeting to keep the organization's pilot program allowing women as full members, a spokesman says.

The Jaycees voted at their national convention in Atlantic City, N.J., this week to remain an all-male organization. The Connecticut Jaycees in February voted against joining with Massachusetts, Alaska and Washington, D.C., in the pilot program to admit women.

But Hartford Jaycees' board chairman R. Jean Valieres said Thursday his group will try to persuade the executive committee on the women's issue at the July meeting. He said the Connecticut Jaycees were divided on the issues at the national convention.

MANCHESTER FIRE DEPARTMENT

To: The People of the Eighth Utilities District
From: Gordon B. Lassow, President

The last year has been filled with much activity both fun and tedious. The on going business of running the District was an usual, and I'm proud to report that the District was financially responsible and finished the year in the black.

In this day of raising costs — all the Directors must be thanked for their diligent work and good attendance to the business of the District.

The legal battle with the town of Manchester over the Buckland area is still at this writing in the hands of the Supreme Court of the State of Connecticut. We hope that this matter will be resolved shortly.

The high light of the year was when we appointed an Ad-hoc committee, to inform the electors that there was some indication of a move by some people in the south end of town to force the District to consolidate. And... it eliminated after much ado with those people who would see us eliminated, getting a resounding defeat on March 20, at Manchester High School.

We of the Board of Directors of the Eighth District would like to thank STEAL and all those who worked many hours to defeat the consolidation effort.

We also got your message loud and clear — and we don't want to consolidate — and we as the Board of Directors will do all in our power to see that it never happens.

We will work with the electors.

But first, last and always we are committed to bring the best in fire and sewer service to the electors of the Eighth Utilities District.

Respectfully submitted,
Gordon B. Lassow
Fire Chief and Fire Marshal

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CHIEF OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Our Department answered 352 alarms during the 1977-1978 fiscal year. This compares with 360 in 1977 and 275 in 1976. This includes fire and calls for rescue and medical aid given by the Department's E.M.T.'s. In addition to these many service calls for water problems and other non-emergencies were handled by the Department.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FIRE MARSHAL
Fire safety inspections were made throughout the District. At the four schools, extensive inspections were made and a program presented to the children by the Department Fire Prevention Team.

Estimated losses by fire for last year was $143,000.00. I wish to thank all those who helped to keep our fire loss to a minimum.

Respectfully submitted,
Granville H. Lingard,
Fire Chief and Fire Marshal

A home should be, above all else, comfortable. If your home reflects your personality, you'll be happy there.

If you know what you want but have trouble putting these ideas together there are professional people right in your town who can help you with your decorating questions.

The people who run the local paint & wallpaper shops are willing to answer your questions. They know all about matching paint and wallpaper and what will give you the best results.

Your furniture stores have people who will coordinate your ideas and give helpful suggestions to result in a smashing room. Don't rush into decisions though; give yourself time to make sure you're happy with your purchases.

Also consider a decorator. Free lance decorators are not as expensive as you might think. They will be happy to work on a room by room basis, with you, decorating as your budget allows.

Their suggestions combined with your personal taste will result in long lasting satisfaction in your home.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old male with a problem. On the first date with a girl, I feel no irresistible urge to kiss her or to make out with her as is expected of most guys nowadays. I feel that I should get to know the girl better in order to be certain of my feelings toward her. It seems that most girls expect a guy to do more than just talk or hold hands even before they know him very well. In my slow approach normal and something to be desired? Or should I go ahead and jump all over a girl as is expected? I am sure many boys my age are wondering the same thing and we'd be greatly relieved of much pressure if we knew how to act.

UNCERTAIN
DEAR UNCERTAIN: Who said "all" girls expect a guy to jump all over them on the first date? My mail tells me that most girls prefer the "slow approach," and I recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Frank) and I are in our late 20s, have been married four years and have a 2-year-old daughter I'll call Tammy. Frank has always had a rotten temper. We'll last week he got mad and slapped me around and I cried. Tammy was in the room at the time and saw it, and now Tammy won't have anything to do with her father. When he comes near her, she turns her head away and cries. If he tries to touch her, she screams and draws away. This hurts Frank something terrible. I keep telling him that Tammy will forget and get over it, but...

DEAR RED: Tammy may, in time, become more "forgiving" - but don't count her on that. In the meantime, unless you enjoy being slapped around, I'd advise that Frank get some professional help in learning how to control his temper. A man who "slaps" his wife around has serious problems.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is one of those women who knows everything. And her most thorough area of knowledge is what "most" husbands do and do not do, although I can't for the life of me figure out where she gets all her information. The specific question at the moment is who should shampoo the rugs - the husband or the wife? We have an electric "shampooer" that is no heavier to push around than the average vacuum cleaner, so it's not too hard for her to operate. I am employed full time. My wife is not employed outside the home. Our three children are in school, so I don't have anything to do with the house with all the modern conveniences. My wife insists that I should shampoo the rugs because "most" husbands do it. DENVER DUDE

DEAR DUDE: I can't speak for "most" husbands, and neither can your wife. It is her own home, instead of working yourself into a lather over this seemingly trivial problem, why not take turns?

DEAR ABBY: I am the happiest! For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know About Sex" is a long, lumpy (24 cents), self-addressed envelope. Astro-graph SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your partner opens one club and jumps to three spades after you respond in most bridge games. South catches the jack of spades with dummy's King. East catches the ace and queen and then it's South's turn. South wins, driving home the rest of the diamonds, comes to his hand with a trump, leads the ace of clubs, and claims since East has and either lead a club or give South a ruff and discard. An expert East leads back a low spade. West wins and leads a club. Now the end of the game.

ADAM (Nov. 21-Dec. 21) You're not in one of your more socially active periods. Forgive the crowds. Plan a quiet evening at home with the VHS (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though you feel like doing a lot of work today, you could be a bit sluggish. Don't fight the odds. Wrap it up early. Get out with your friends and someone you're very fond of. Everything will be fine.

Your Birthday
June 24, 1978

Knowledge and experience you've gained in the past will be put to profitable uses this coming year. Big things will happen, and you'll find out how possible and probable. CAROLINE (July 22) Avoid going into debt today, especially over items you really don't need. It might take longer and be harder to pay off than you now realize. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. $1.50 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 468, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Doing nice things for others this evening is commendable, but it won't completely atone for that abhorrent attitude you've had since the birth of the world. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though you feel like doing a lot of work today, you could be a bit sluggish. Don't fight the odds. Wrap it up early. Get out with your friends and someone you're very fond of. Everything will be fine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not in one of your more socially active periods. Forgive the crowds. Plan a quiet evening at home with the VHS (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though you feel like doing a lot of work today, you could be a bit sluggish. Don't fight the odds. Wrap it up early. Get out with your friends and someone you're very fond of. Everything will be fine.

Congress busy but actions distress White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The action was hot and heavy on Capitol Hill Thursday, but for the Carter administration, the results were distressing.

The Senate voted a record sixth time against ending the long filibuster against a bill to revise the nation's labor laws, and the measure was shuttled back to a committee.

The House, meanwhile, voted to cut $56 million worth of aid South Korea because Seoul has refused to let former ambassador Kim Jong Do testify about alleged cash payoffs to congressmen. The administration had vigorously opposed that move, saying it would make U.S. diplomats vulnerable to retaliation.

The aid was removed from an $18 billion fiscal 1979 agriculture appropriations bill, which was then passed by the House 328-59.

The bill itself was a slap at the administration because it included major changes from the proposed budget. It contained more money than the White House wanted for several agencies and cut spending in other areas.

The administration also announced Thursday that it was pulling back its tax reform plan until at least next year because of a lack of support in Congress, and would settle for a simple $15 billion tax cut.

In committee hearings: A Senate appropriations subcommittee voted 8-5 to widen the circumstances under which poor women may obtain federally funded abortions. The House earlier passed a spending bill that allows such abortions only to save the mother's life.

The Senate Banking Committee began debate on the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill with lots of sparring and rhetoric, but no major decisions are expected before next week.

The House Commerce Committee beat back an effort to put a federal ceiling on doctor bills for hospitalized Medicare patients.

A House judiciary subcommittee agreed to restore full citizenship to Jefferson Davis.

Party supports Sen. Brooke

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts Republican Party Chairman Gordon Nelson says the news media is part of "a lynching party" that is trying to "destroy" Sen. Edward W. Brooke's career with an election-year expose about his divorce and private finances.

"It is absolutely beyond belief that the supposedly sophisticated Boston media would participate in a lynching party to destroy the career of a decent man who has given two decades of service to the commonwealth," Nelson said Thursday.

At the same time, Nelson discounted speculation that Brooke's troubles could spur other prominent Republicans, notably former U.S. Attorney General Elliott Richardson, into the race.

"I want to categorically state that I am supremely confident that Sen. Brooke is in this race to stay and that all reports of Republican leaders urging prominent Republicans to seek Ed Brooke's U.S. Senate seat are totally erroneous," he said.

ERA vote fails again in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House has rejected the Equal Rights Amendment for the second time this month and apparently will not take up the controversial issue again, at least until the fall.

Despite last-minute pressure tactics and stalling by pro-ERA forces Thursday, the measure fell two votes short of the 107 needed in a 105-71 tally. It is technically alive because it was put on postponed consideration and can be called any time before a new General Assembly is seated in January.

Illinois is the last northern industrial state that has not ratified the proposed women's rights amendment to the Constitution. Three more states must ratify the amendment by March 22, 1979, unless Congress extends the deadline.

The previous ERA vote came June 7. It fell six votes shy of the necessary three-fifths majority. Supporters scheduled a vote several times this week but delayed a roll call because head counts indicated a vote would be too risky.

ERA supporters, surprised and confused by the loss, said they wanted to regroup before making any decisions.

Tests needed for diplomas

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In hopes of raising the reading proficiency of graduating high school seniors, the state Board of Regents has decided that for the next five years, students will have to demonstrate they can comprehend 10th and 11th grade reading materials before they receive a high school diploma.

At their monthly meeting Thursday, the Regents said they would offer the tentative standards for public review before adopting final standards in February 1979 to apply to students graduating in June 1981.

To meet the tentative standard to be used over the next five years, students will have to receive a comprehension score of at least 85 percent.

La Strada West Restaurant

A family style restaurant that has breakfast, lunch and full-course dinners, pizza and grinders. Serving 7 days a week. Owners George Johns and Peter Samiotis opened the restaurant in 1975 with breakfast and luncheons and a few dinners. Two years later they remodeled and expanded to a full-service restaurant. The restaurant opens every day at 5:30 a.m. for breakfast, and serves lunch until 3 p.m. At 11 a.m. our new side opens to serve you a full-course dinner of fresh veal cutlet prepared in our Italian kitchen by Chef Joe Supino, and many other Italian specials. We also have steak and mouth-watering seafood such as broiled bay scallops, seafood au gratin, stuffed filet of sole and baked shrimp. All are served with a choice of salad with our own special salad dressings, choice of spaghetti and shells, ziti or potato of the day. Look for our weekly specials and join us soon for a great meal.

The Country Squire

The Country Squire Restaurant of Ellington, located on Rt. 83, combines fine eating, an elegant Mediterranean and Early American atmosphere, and reasonable prices in a relaxing country setting.

Its varied menu includes an extensive salad bar with such delicious specialties of the house as Baked Stuffed Shrimp, Boneless Chicken Breast Kiev and Surf & Turf.

Something new at the Country Squire is its "mini menu" for the patron who prefers smaller portions. Special menus for children are also offered.

Top entertainment is featured on Thursday, Friday and Saturday for your dining and dancing pleasure.

Special show bands are featured once a month.

Exceptionally attractive banquet facilities seat 20 to 400. Banquets are custom designed to suit your individuality.

The Davis Family Restaurant

The Davis Family Restaurant at Burr Corners in Manchester is a family restaurant. It is owned and operated by Agnes Davis and her two sons, Butch and James; and her daughter, Lisa.

Agnes Davis was the former owner and manager of Mr. Steak for seven years until she sold it in May 1975.

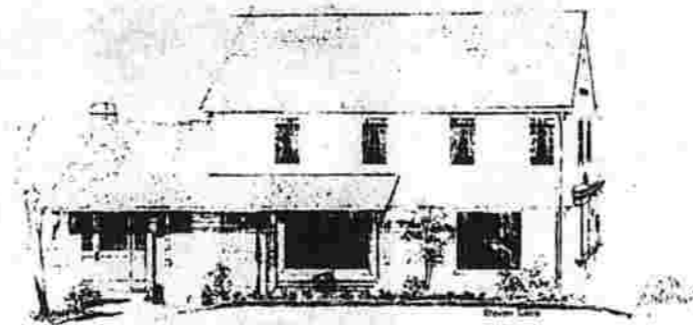

Butch and James personally prepare all the food which is served. Specialties include homemade soup, onion rings, and desserts.

The menu features USDA choice beef, fresh fish, and Italian food.

Monday through Thursday, the Davis Family Restaurant features 11 dinner specials at only $3.35 each. They include soup or juice and baked potato with tossed salad. B.Y.O.B if you desire.

Specialty luncheons and he-man sandwiches are served Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Takeout service is available on any and all meals. Open 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Parson's Daughter

The Parson's Daughter of South Glastonbury is a new restaurant dedicated to provide fine dining to the people of the greater Hartford area. Located at the corner of Hopewell Road and Route 17 South Glastonbury, in a building that has stood since 1737, the original beams, large bay windows, handmade draperies, and dark paneled walls, provide an intimate atmosphere for dining. The entrees range through a variety of simple steak and seafood to Roast Pork Florencia created by the owner, Steak Diane, and Lobster Sautee done tableside by your waiter or waitress. Gourmet specials from Frog Legs to Beef Wellington for two are available nightly. Luncheon served from 11:30 to 2:00 Monday thru Saturday provides a variety of salads and cold platters for those with a light luncheon in mind, or hearty open sandwiches, daily casseroles, specials or entrees for those with a hearty appetite. Sunday brunch is served buffet style from 11:00 to 2:00 with a wide variety of hot and cold dishes from which to choose. A full line of cocktails and a fine list of American, French, German and Italian wines is available to complement any meal. Reservations are accepted for dinner. Visa & Mastercharge.

Tommy's Pizzarias

Lovers of fine Italian food can be doubly pleased for now there are two Tommy's Pizzarias.

One is located at 206 W. Center St., and Tommy's Pizzeria II is at 269 E. Center St., both in Manchester.

Tommy has been in the pizza business for 12 years. Each store has a clean open kitchen so you can see your meals being prepared to your individual taste.

Tommy makes his own sausage, meatballs, dough, lasagna, ravioli, pizza sauce and spaghetti sauce.

Not only are there pizza and grinders, but ravioli, spaghetti, shells or lasagna are cooked to order. Every item on the menu can be put up to take out.

The store hours are Sunday, noon to 10 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 1 a.m.; closed on Mondays.

For a real taste treat, try Tommy's Pizzarias.

House of Chung

There's a little piece of the Orient at 363 Broad Street in Manchester and it's called House of Chung. For a pleasant change of taste from the regular steak and potato fare, experience the exotic dining of fine Polynesian and Cantonese cuisine. At House of Chung diners can spend a fascinating evening in the surroundings of a Chinese garden in the new Peacock Room.

The effect of the abundant lush greenery and filtered skylight lighting is of another world.

The House of Chung offers one of the most extensive menus of its kind with items of seafood, poultry, pork and beef prepared from authentic Far East recipes. The chef will even prepare dinner combinations not listed on the menu. The generous portions encourage guests to mix and match dishes providing them with a varied sampling of this interesting cuisine. A complete take-out service allows House of Chung patrons to enjoy these same delicacies at home.

The more than reasonable prices beckon families to dine here. During the week House of Chung features a special luncheon menu with prompt service and reduced prices which should please businessmen and all luncheoners.

Open seven days a week Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m., on Friday and Saturday until 11 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. House of Chung honors Master Charge, BankAmericard and American Express. Phone 649-4958 for reservations.
