

The 6-month Treasury Passbook (Only at CBT)

The key to getting high interest without locking up your money for years.

Most banks are delighted to pay higher interest. As long as you leave your money on deposit for a year or more.

New CBT will pay you that same kind of high interest without tying up your savings for years.

CBT's new Treasury Passbook gives you the same annual earning power as 6-month U.S. Treasury Bills. But in amounts that fit your savings needs.

Like U.S. Treasury Bills, the minimum deposit is $10,000.

But unlike U.S. Treasury Bills, CBT Treasury Passbooks are available in any amount over $10,000.

And there is no transaction charge.

The interest your CBT Treasury Passbook earns is determined by the U.S. Treasury 6-month bill rate in effect at the date your Passbook is issued.

(For example, the official auction rates for Treasury Bills in recent weeks has been in excess of 7%.)

CBT's Information Line: 1-800-842-0049 (Toll Free in CT.)

Opening a CBT Treasury Passbook Account is simple. Just see your Personal Banker™ at any CBT branch. For more information, call Janet Ellsworth at this toll-free number, or send the coupon.

Some special CBT advantages

Your CBT Treasury Passbook is available with another convenient plus — free checking. You will also receive CBT's Combined Monthly Statement, an invaluable document that itemizes not only your checking transactions but all savings activities too.

So if you're looking for a better way to earn more interest faster, you'll find it in CBT's Treasury Passbook.

Tornadoes leave death and debris

By United Press International
A deadly band of tornadoes ripped across the Plains Tuesday night and early today, killing at least seven persons and leaving trails of debris where houses and businesses once stood.

One tornado bowled through Elgin, N.D., killing at least four persons and injuring as many as 40. Another ripped Gary, Minn., claiming three lives and injuring more than 20 persons.

All power was cut off in Elgin, a southwestern North Dakota town of 885 where a twister leveled scores of homes and businesses Tuesday night.

Jim Hanson, administrator of the Jacobs Memorial Hospital in Elgin, said he was on weather watch when he saw "a lot of wind in the clouds" in the western sky. A short time later, sirens sounded.

Hanson said he went home and spotted the funnel cloud a block away as soon as he parked his car.

"I could see it swirling," he said. "My wife, myself and the three sons, we went into the southwest corner" of the basement.

"About 30 seconds later the whole house was gone," he said. "It was just unbelievable, the rumbling and twisting."

The Gary twister swooped down on the tiny, northwestern Minnesota hamlet early today, leveling a rest home, overturning house trailers and ripping roofs from houses.

Authorities said a number of residents were trapped in the debris of the storm-crashed rest home.

A spokesman at the Ada, Minn., hospital, 18 miles west of Gary, said 10 persons had been hospitalized, most of them in satisfactory condition, and at least 10 others had been treated for minor injuries and released.

The Norman County sheriff's office said the twister struck shortly before 3 a.m., causing heavy damage.

"I heard a roar outside the door," said Sanford Jacobson, a Gary resident. "It was just like a freight train coming and we headed for the basement. We sat down in the basement until it quit."

The Jacobson home was not heavily damaged but adjacent homes were destroyed.

Other tornadoes tore through south-central North Dakota and southeastern South Dakota.

Three twisters touched down in the Bismarck, N.D., area.

Eight hearings tonight

The Manchester Board of Directors will conduct eight public hearings tonight, including one about an ordinance to regulate restaurants.

The directors also will receive a report of proposed housing goals prepared by the Community Development Advisory Committee.

The board, however, is not expected to act on the proposals tonight.

The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room.

Two years ago, the board considered an ordinance to regulate restaurants and other food-serving establishments. That ordinance, however, drew strong opposition because of a clause that required public toilet facilities to be installed in all such places.

The ordinance to be presented tonight does not include such a requirement, but other parts are similar to the previous ordinance proposal.

The board also will consider the appropriation of $110,000 in Community Development funds for the dental clinic, housing code work and administration of the program.

The town has received $60,000 in Community Development money for the 1978-79 fiscal year. The rest of the $483,000 grant will be withheld until the town meets certain requirements.

Alan Mason, Community Development coordinator, has recommended that the directors act now on appropriating some of the unreleased funds so work can begin on the dental clinic if the rest of the money is released this month.

Public hearings also are scheduled tonight for the following proposals:

• A $3,000 appropriation from the General Fund budget, Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens, to the Urban Mass Transit Act Transportation Program. The payment would cover town bus service for the MARC.

• Approval of construction of a sanitary sewer along Tolland Turnpike.

Egypt peace plan relayed to Israel

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Egypt formally relayed its latest peace plan to Israel today through U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis. Although its conditions already have been rejected, Israeli officials said there was nothing in them to bar a peace pact in London later this month.

Lewis relayed the Egyptian plan to Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan during an early morning meeting at Dayan's suburban Tel Aviv home.

Israeli officials termed the proposals hard-line but said they would not prevent a meeting in London later this month between Davan, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Kamel and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

In a related development, opposition leader Shimon Peres said he will "exchange views" but not negotiate when he meets Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Vienna next week.

"There is a government that has to conduct official negotiations," Peres said in an interview with UPI. "We can talk over matters, but not negotiate."

The Egyptian plan — whose main points were rejected by the Israeli cabinet last week even before they were formally presented — called for Israel's withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

After five years of temporary administration by Jordan and Egypt, the 1.1 million Palestinians Arabs living in both areas would be allowed to exercise the right of self-determination.

The Egyptian plan was presented by President Anwar Sadat to Vice President Walter Mondale Monday for relay to Israel. The full text will be released later today, but highlights were published in early editions of Cairo newspapers.

As reported by the newspapers Al Ahram and Al Gomhouria, the outline does not specifically call for a sovereign Palestinian state, nor does it provide a role for the Palestine Liberation Organization by name.

Diplomats characterized the Egyptian plan as "tough" and noted similar ideas had been rejected by Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel last week.

"Israel is bound to oppose this scheme at the London conference — if it is ever held," one diplomat said.

Israel has agreed in principle to send Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to London to confer with his Egyptian counterpart, Ibrahim Kamel, and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. But Begin deferred a final decision until he could "examine" Egypt's proposals.

Dollar crashing in Tokyo market

TOKYO (UPI) — The dollar today threatened to crash below the 200-yen mark on the Tokyo foreign exchange market, but vigorous intervention by the Bank of Japan kept the sagging American currency at 201.

The dollar opened the day at a new postwar low of 200.50 yen, down sharply from Tuesday's close of 201.35.

The Bank of Japan moved to buy up the flood of unwanted dollars and keep the yen from increasing in value when compared to the dollar.

A year ago, the dollar was trading at about 270 yen. This compares to the 308-yen-per-dollar level set by world economic leaders meeting at the Smithsonian Institution in 1971.

A fall in the parity of the dollar to less than 200 yen means a 35 percent increase in the price of Japanese goods shipped to the United States since the Smithsonian price was fixed in 1971.

Prices on Japanese cars have risen six times within the past year and another price increase will be had for the Japanese auto industry to absorb.

For the tourist in Japan it means having to change $15 into yen to buy a tape recorder instead of $123. A hotel room will cost $50 instead of $38 just a year ago, and a small cup of coffee will be a choking $1.50.

European brokers, however, Tuesday pointed to the decline on the dollar in Japan as well as fears about a higher inflation rate in the United States.

Nation marks Fourth with the usual recipe

By United Press International
It was the nation's 202nd birthday, and Americans marked it with their usual recipe of picnics, parades, pyrotechnics and protest. But the Fourth of July carried its usual mark of tragedy too.

A dynamite-caliber "stockbuster" firecracker ripped three fingers from the hand of Kenneth McCorie, 17, of New York when he tossed it from the window of a car, only to find it bouncing back, and in Bayonne, N.J., Marcello Errazura, 18, lost both hands to the explosion of an "M-80." Police said both firecracker types pack power ranging from a quarter to a third of that of a stick of dynamite.

On the highways, jammed Tuesday as motorists headed home from the holidays, the traffic death toll topped 600, inching toward the National Safety Council prediction of 650 to 750 fatalities.

In Boston, soaking rain thinned the crowd to 20,000 — from last year's 350,000 — as the 84-year-old Arthur Fiedler conducted his annual musical spectacular, with cannon-fire from the Massachusetts National Guard punctuating Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

For New Yorkers it felt more like Fourth of March, with temperatures in the 60s and a drizzling rain washing out planned disco dancing in the streets.

Despite the gloomy weather, they turned out in force to watch the annual Macy's fireworks display — electronically synchronized this year so that 6,640 aerial shells burst on cue to the strains of theme music from "Star Wars," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "2001 Space Odyssey."

Cold rain dampened festivities in Philadelphia too, but failed to halt the traditional fireworks and the parade from Independence Hall. Mayor Frank Rizzo presented the city's highest award — the Freedom Medal — to Roman Catholic Archbishop Cardinal John Krol.

In Washington, several thousand members of the Youth International Party puffed pot across the street from the White House in a protest bid to be arrested, but police declined.

Evert defeats Wade

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UPI) — Chris Evert, avenging last year's defeat, wore down Britain's defending champion Virginia Wade 6-6, 6-2 today to reach the $45,000 singles final of the Wimbledon tennis championships for the fourth time in six years.

The 23-year-old top seed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beaten by Wade in the 1977 semis, conquered early center court nerves and an icy north wind to outlast the local favorite in an absorbing 87-minute duel which began to swing Evert's way late in the opening set.

Evert will face the winner of the other semi between second seed Martina Navratilova and third seed Evonne Cawley of Australia.

Both women had difficulty in holding their early services at the wind whipped through the court making the 12,000 spectators shiver.

Evert gave way first when she netted a weak forehand in the fourth game to trail 1-3.

Violence erupted briefly when mounted officers responded to a barrage of bottles and cherry bombs with a charge into the "Vippie" ranks, but chants of "peace — we want peace" soon quelled the disturbance.

In Baxter Springs, Kan., a firecracker tossed from a car by two teen-agers blew back into the vehicle, igniting more fireworks and setting the car on fire. The two youths jumped, and were not injured, but the blazing car hit another vehicle, then rammed a garage which also burned.

Another firecracker-related blaze leveled most of a city block in Girard, Kan.

In Dallas, a group of wealthy Texans marked the Fourth by presenting an original second-printed copy of the Declaration of Independence to the city.

For horse-race buffs in Lafayette, La., Mr. Firecracker did his Fourth of July best.

The four-year-old gelding entered the fifth race a decided underdog but hunch bettors, eyeing his name, ran the odds 2-1 in his favor. Mr. Firecracker won, paying $8.60.

Many events washed out

There were few major problems — other than many cases of dampened spirits — as Manchester area residents tried to make the best of a wet July 4th holiday.

A steady rain that started Monday evening and ended Tuesday night, washed out traditional Fourth of July events that had been scheduled by most picnics, softball games, beach trips and fireworks had to be postponed.

Manchester Police reported that a number of motor vehicle accidents occurred Monday and Tuesday, but none were serious. The department made 27 motor vehicle arrests during the two days.

As annually occurs, there were many complaints to the department about fireworks and firecrackers being set off. Police made one breach of peace arrest of a man who allegedly was setting off firecrackers early this morning in the hallway of an apartment building.

Two legal fireworks displays, in Vernon and East Hartford, were postponed because of the rain. Both will be held tonight — weather permitting — at 9 p.m. Vernon's display will be at Legion Field. West Street East Hartford's will be at McAuiffie Park.

The rain washed out scheduled sporting events, including a Little League tournament game and several special golf tournaments at local clubs that are traditionally held on the holiday.

The Town of Manchester's Water Department reported that two inches of rain fell in the area. The Highway Department said that the rain created no flooding or drainage problems.

Theater casting completed

The Capitol Theatre Corp., the recently formed non-profit performing arts corporation, which will produce two musicals and one full-length comedy at Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School this summer, recently announced that it has completed casting for all three productions.

The premiere season for the Capitol Theatre Corp. will begin on July 20 with their first production of "Godspell," a rock musical interpretation of the Gospel according to Matthew. "Godspell," originally produced on the Broadway stage, has received international acclaim as one of the finest American musicals. The CTC production of "Godspell" will feature a cast of ten, full orchestration and an extremely technical and aesthetic setting.

Members of the cast of all three productions from the greater Manchester area include the following: Ms. Leri Carlelo of South Windsor, who recently performed with the University of Connecticut; David Baskerch of Enfield, formerly of Manchester High School; and Sharon Foy of Manchester, who has frequently performed with the Manchester Community College and the Manchester High School Drama Club.

In addition to its formal stage performances in Bailey Auditorium, the CTC will produce road shows in various sections of Connecticut as well as performing street theatre, concerts in various Manchester area churches and will work very closely with Youth Performing Arts Groups in the Greater Manchester area.

37 CETA jobs may end early

All 37 employees hired by the Town of Manchester through a branch of the federal Job Training and Employment Training Act (CETA) have been notified that their jobs could be ending as early as Aug. 31 because of a possible deficit by the sponsor of the program.

Town officials will meet today with a representative of the U.S. Department of Labor to discuss this problem and others that have developed through the CETA program. The employees were notified Monday that they could be out of a job as early as the end of August. Those affected were hired through Title VI of the CETA program, which established one-year special projects to generate employment.

Raising the ante

Interest in gambling may be up across the country, but action in nickel and dime slot machines is very far down. According to a major manufacturer, the small change slots a few years ago accounted for by far the largest part of production but now represent a rapidly declining market. The action is at the quarter and dollar machines these days. Not even one-armed bandits is immune from inflation.

Painful discovery

And finally, a scientific note which the Tentative Society might file away for future consideration. Researchers at the University of Health Sciences and the Chicago Medical School have concluded that most individuals can tolerate more pain in the morning than later in the day. Applying mild electric currents to healthy volunteers once in the morning and again in early evening, they found pain thresholds noticeably higher in the first instance. They attribute it to natural biological cycles. It's also excellent justification for the usual practice of scheduling hangovers for the mornings — not that it really seems to help much.

Frank violations

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Common Cause, which has a way of afflicting the comfortable on Capitol Hill, has really set the cat among the pigeons with its law suit attacking use of the franking privilege.

Actualy, the senators have little to fear as far as their private papers are concerned. Common Cause lawyers have an index to documents in storage at the Archives and are subpoenaing only those with which appear to involve use of the frank. Senatorial staff aides, not Common Cause attorneys, fetch the papers from storage.

In pursuing documents that would help substantiate its allegation that members of Congress use their free mailing privileges for political purposes, Common Cause stumbled across the fact that many senators keep personal and official papers at the National Archives under a free "courtesy" storage deal.

The lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the law giving members free mailing privileges has been dragging on for four years now, with both House and Senate resisting every step of the way. So far, the U.S. District Court has been siding with Common Cause on all its procedural motions.

It seems many senators have been using the Archives as a handy and supposedly safe storage place for everything from income tax returns to divorce papers — and the prospect of Common Cause lawyers rummaging through such materials has sent Democrats and Republicans alike into a tizzy.

An informal, bipartisan committee of senators has been seeking ways to

No deficit of red ink

By DON GRAFF
The figures are in and the first-ty impression is impressive. Exports during May set a new record for a single month — $11.75 billion worth of Made-in-U.S.A. products sold to trade partners throughout the world.

When stacked up against May's imports of $13.99 billion (not a record — that was set the previous month with $14.77 billion), however, we're left with a net deficit of $2.24 billion for the month. That's the lowest since last September and therefore supposed to be good news, as far as it goes. Which isn't very far.

There are some mildly encouraging signs in the May figures. Imports declined in several key items — primarily iron and steel products, motor vehicles and machinery.

On the other hand, the trend remains ever upward in another key category. May imports climbed to $3.32 billion — more than the entire monthly deficit — for oil.

WIC program is not new

To the editor:
I read with great concern and disappointment the decision by the Manchester Board of Health and the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association not to administer the WIC (Special Supplemental Food Program) for Women, Infants and Children) for Manchester and neighboring towns.

Research now attests to the fact that brain damage occurs when sufficient protein is received in the first two years of life. That damage is irreversible. The WIC program offers one way for economically disadvantaged mothers to insure that their children do have adequate protein intake both during pregnancy and during early development.

Don't kill the snakes

Each year many Northern water snakes are killed because people think they are water Moccasins. Just a few weeks ago we saw a man kill a Northern Water Snake that he thought was a Water Moccasin. Water Moccasins are poisonous but Northern Water Snakes are not.

There are no Water Moccasins in New England and that includes Connecticut. Water Moccasins can only live in warm climates and live only as far North as Virginia. Water Moccasins are poisonous but Northern Water Snakes are not.

Every holiday was fun for a boy living in a small Massachusetts town in a simpler day, but the Fourth of July was special. It was at once a day for celebrating Independence and for giving royalty the back of one's hand.

with a stolen credit card. "The federal government and the states had better take notice that they are the target of revolt." — Mayor Arnold I. Rur, of Stockton, Calif., speaking at the U.S. Conference of Mayors about his state's Proposition 13 vote to slash property taxes.

"To begin with, I believe he is irresponsible, adventurous. And he is a liar... He is a man who does not master international problems. He ignores the realities of today's world, and it seems to me he plays with war." — Cuban President Fidel Castro, condemning President Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

College graduate, 44, did it all backwards

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Pat Eller said she "did it all backwards" but graduating magna cum laude from Wesleyan University at age 44 is an interesting way to go. The attractive recent graduate, who did not start her college education until her three sons were nearly grown, is now contemplating law school.

Mrs. Eller lives at 22 Forest Street with her husband, Richard, an associate professor of English at Manchester Community College, and two of her sons, Todd and Patrick, who are both students at MCC. Her son, Mark, is a student at St. John's College in Maryland.

While at MCC, Mrs. Eller did a lot of theater work, writing, staging and acting in several productions. She also wrote lyrics for a musical revue at Wesleyan.

Letter from a Nephew

Dear Uncle United:
A letter with that salutation came to us recently from a young man who completed four years of study at Wesleyan University in Middletown on a United Technologies scholarship. Graduated last year, he's now a research assistant at Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory, spending two to three months a year at sea on oceanographic research missions.

"Without your aid I would not have been able to attend Wesleyan, nor would I be employed in my present position," the young man wrote. "For four good years in college, for my present agreeable job, and for whatever the future holds in store for me, I am forever in your debt."

Cleanup of downtown area

More rubbish is loaded onto the bed of a truck during last week's cleaning of the downtown Manchester area. Local merchants, family and friends participated in the cleanup, which included sweeping the sidewalks and parking lots. Stores that participated included J. Garman Clothier, Formal's Inn, The Bike Shop, Leaf, Stern & Root and the Lion's Den. (Photo by Joseph Garman)

Curbs weren't rejected

Three slabs of granite curbs installed along Thompson Road in Manchester were marked "rejected," but town employees said that the curbing was in good condition. Ralph Lanagan, an aide with the Engineering Department, said he inspected the curbs when they were in the truck that delivered them. Three of the slabs had saw marks in the surface, and he wrote "rejected" on them. When the slabs were unloaded, both Lanagan and Walter Senkow, town engineer, looked again at the slabs. They felt that the marks were not serious and that the curbing could be used. Town regulations call for curbs with clean surfaces. No marks or cuts should be more than one-eighth of an inch deep, Lanagan said. Upon second inspection, he said that he felt that the curbing met the town requirement. He said that he probably made a mistake in marking the curbs in black pen. The marking should have been made in a lighter color that could have been removed. "In Manchester, we're kind of critical," he said, explaining the inspection procedures. Senkow agreed that the curbs are more than adequate. He felt that the curbs along Thompson Road are in better condition than those installed by the state in the West Middle Turnpike - Adams Street area.

Bible school planned

"Sing a New Song" is the theme of the five-day Vacation Bible School to be starting July 10 from 9 a.m. to noon at Trinity Covenant Church on Hackmatack Street. Directed by the pastor, the Rev. Norman Swensen, the school will present a program of music, crafts, drama, and Bible and missionary stories. Assistant directors are Elsie Grover, Jean DeValve, and Mildred Smyth. The one-week school is open to children and youth of the community. Registrations be made and confirmed before the opening date. Registrations may now be made for children in grades 1 through 6 and for a special activities program for youth in grades 7 through twelve by calling Patricia Anderson, 649-3630, or the church office, 649-2855. The staff includes Kim Irwin, Darla Zyika, Linda Zyika, nursery aides for staff children; Karla Magadani, Diane Flewelling, kindergarten; Tim DeValve, Jim DeValve and Heidi Ritsley, Grade 1; Jan Prince and Denise Schery, Grade 2; Ann Garwood and Jean Pastel, Grade 3; Gail Johnson and Diane Mancini, Grade 4; Blossom Woodrow and Brenda Wrick, Grade 5. Also, Lorrin Daniels and Marie Johnson, Grade 6; Matt Hennigan, Grades 7 through 12; Sharon Dayton and Gayle Brodersen, music; Charlotte Neal, Diane Heavens, Mary Ann Modan and Nancy Gocht, crafts; Mildred Nilson and Gloria Swensen, missionary teachers; Mary Desfatta, Judy White and Molina Stewart, refreshments; and Coby Kitchin, publicity.

Personal Touch

New York State, in 1901, was the first state in the nation to require motor owners to equip their vehicles with license plates. That year, 84 autos were registered; each license plate was inscribed with the owner's initials.

Holiday death toll high despite speeding crackdown

A nationwide effort to reduce speeding during the fourth of July holiday weekend appears to have failed to hold the traffic death count under the minimum of 60 projected by the National Safety Council. Operation CARE, a cooperative effort among law enforcement agencies in 44 states to patrol interstate highways for speeders, has not reduced the death count significantly from previous holiday weekends. A count by United Press International at 7 a.m. today showed at least 634 persons had been killed in traffic deaths since the holiday weekend began at 6 p.m. local time Friday. The counting period ended at midnight Tuesday but reports from some states were not complete.

A breakdown of accidental deaths: traffic, 634; drownings, 140; planes, 21; total 795. California led all states with 68 traffic deaths, followed by Texas with 44. Illinois recorded 29, New York had 26, Florida 24, Georgia 22, Arizona 21 and Indiana and Alabama 20. Alaska, Washington, D.C., South Dakota and Vermont had no deaths reported.

Attempting to combat drivers' fatigue, volunteers served free coffee at eight cities along interstate highways in Illinois, which had one of its highest death tolls for the Fourth of July in recent years. The Texas Department of Public Safety urged drivers to use their headlights during the day to remind fellow motorists of traffic safety, but the effort apparently had little effect. Clear skies and excellent swimming conditions caused recreation seekers to flock to pools and beaches, increasing the drowning toll. The crashes of several light planes pushed up the airplane death count. Two Oklahoma Highway Patrol troopers and a military policeman were killed Monday when a Department of Public Safety airplane hit a power line and crashed while on a traffic control assignment near Madge, Okla. Massachusetts led the traffic death count with nine fatalities. Seven others died in New Hampshire, six in Maine, four in Connecticut, and one in Rhode Island. Only Vermont registered no traffic deaths during the 102-hour period.

Crowd loves Fiedler

BOSTON (UPI) — An estimated crowd of 20,000, soaked to the skin but loving every minute of it, joined Arthur Fiedler to celebrate his 50th July 4th Charles River Esplanade concert Tuesday, and was treated to a surprise fireworks display. Despite a day-long rainstorm, and November-like winds, the Metropolitan District Commission decided to go ahead with the concert, one of the few holiday events to proceed as scheduled. Rain and the MDC's publicized ban of fireworks held the crowd down to manageable capacity, after it had swelled to 350,000 last year. The MDC's decision to eliminate the fireworks at this year's concert had been unpopular with the public, which was treated to a 35-minute aerial display last year. But during intermission, the breeze revealed that there would, indeed, be some fireworks, as a tribute to Fiedler, and the relatively small crowd cheered for minutes. "What happened was that the Inner Harbor fireworks were canceled, and we had some left over," MDC spokesman Michael Goldman said. "So, we figured, if these people can sit out there all day in the rain, they deserve it. So, we gave them a nice, little dignified display. Not the 35 minutes of last year."

Sloop sinks

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — A heavy gust of wind sank a 35-foot sloop Tuesday as it was approaching the last leg of a 10-mile race in Greenwich Bay, authorities said. Moonshadow skipper Charles Round of Warwick and passengers Barry Edy of Richmond, Tony Kukla of New London, Conn., and David Coppage of Concord, N.H., were safely rescued from the cold water by a quabog boat. The fully clothed bodies were discovered by a young couple in a wooded area about 100 feet off Heron Road.

Prison decision due

CRANSTON, R.I. (UPI) — U.S. District Chief Judge Raymond J. Pettine has promised to issue a written decision by Thursday on last week's inmate motion to hold the state in contempt for failing to clean up its decrepit prison. Pettine toured the century-old Adult Correctional Institutions on Monday. He is to decide if the state

Not identified

NORWALK (UPI) — Police still have not identified the blood covered bodies of two young women found in a lovers' lane Tuesday afternoon in an exclusive neighborhood of east Norwalk on the Westport town line. The fully clothed bodies were discovered by a young couple in a wooded area about 100 feet off Heron Road.

Each workshop will end with a class presentation.

About town

The Prayer Group of Emanuel Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. in the church library, followed by a meeting of the care and visitation committee at 11:15. News for senior citizens

HI! With the holiday breaking up the week, it makes it hard to have much news for the column. We were open on Monday and started things off with our registration for the Rockingham race track, and by the end of the day we had 14 seats filled on the second bus. Unless we can fill the bus, it will not be able to go. We have only the rest of this week left to sign up. Lake George Speaking of trips, and registration, come Monday morning we will be at it again as we have a nice trip planned for you. Jim has lined up a big day in the Lake George area. Included in the complete package is the bus ride, lunch at the beautiful George Inn situated on the lake, a nice boat cruise of Lake George, plus a mini tour of the area. It's going to be a real nice day away and all for $22.50 on July 27. We'll start registering around 8 a.m. and will take two buses. Setback Action here starts with our setback games of last Friday afternoon. We had 50 players and the winners were: Mabel Loomis, 135; Tom Regan, 124; Mina Reuther, 126; Joe Windsor, 123; Renee Maire, 122; Ann Fisher, 122; Bob Schubert, 122; Michael Haberer, 119; Mike DeSimone, 118; Ada Rojas, Aida Arsenault, 117; John Gally, 115. Recupercating We received word that Marge Hall is now recuperating at her home on 282 Lydall St., and although feeling much better will not be out for a little while yet. A reminder that there is no way for us to know when one of our members is in the hospital or when they get out. So it's up to you relatives or friends to call our office with the information if you'd like it printed. Park picnic Tomorrow we will have another picnic in the park, weather permitting, and the lunch will be a turkey salad plate, potato chips, celery sticks, cake and beverage. After lunch we'll play some bingo, cards and outdoor shuffleboard games. Our bus will take the route starting at 10 a.m. Friday for lunch, we'll have grilled cheese, tomato wedge, pickles and ice cream.

Fire destroys trailer in East Hartford park

EAST HARTFORD — Miss Patricia Pettigrew of 18 Sioux Road in the Colonial Mobilhome Park off High Street left for work in Hartford at 7:15 a.m. today.

Firefighters called her back home later in the morning. Her mobile home had burst into flames destroying most of its contents, said Fire Marshal John Armstrong.

Neighbors first spotted the smoke and flames at 9:52 a.m. after they heard an explosion, he said. Firefighters arrived to find the mobile home fully ablaze with the fire in the living room area, he said.

Armstrong said the fire appears to have started in one side of the living room. He is not sure what caused it. The quick stop of a blaze helped the firefighters get to the mobile home in the complex of over 400 mobile homes, he said.

Meeting on the Fourth

Carter, Mondale hope peace talks will work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he's "hopeful." So does Vice President Walter Mondale. They will probably announce it after a Cabinet meeting this week, he said.

He said he too considered his trip successful, but said "the difficulties there in trying to find peace have been overestimated."

"We've got to have peace in the Middle East," he told reporters. "It's so important to Israel and her neighbors. There have been four wars... our nation is going to do its part to try to overcome the differences and the gaps and do it in a way that it leads to greater security for Israel."

He also said, "Personally, I'm hopeful, but I realize it's very difficult." After getting back to Camp David and being unable to land because of the low visibility, the president's helicopter landed on a baseball field in nearby Thurmont, Md., and he was lifted up the mountain.

Rosalynn Carter and her mother, Mrs. Allie Smith, returned with him, but they remained at the White House. The winning number drawn in the Connecticut lottery Tuesday was 265.

'No-name' A's in thick in AL West race

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's "no-name" Oakland A's are right back in the thick of things in the American League West. "Fazza" Joe Wallis slammed a pair of two-run homers and Tony Armas another as the A's, given up for dead just last week, thumped the Seattle Mariners, 9-4, Tuesday night to climb to within a half game of first-place California.

Seattle's Rick Honeycutt fell to 2-5. In other American League games Tuesday, Kansas City beat California, 4-3, Chicago edged Texas, 2-1, Baltimore beat Cleveland, 6-4, Minnesota dominated Milwaukee, 7-2, and Toronto blanked Detroit, 9-2. New York's game at Boston was picked out.

run in the seventh inning lifted Chicago over Texas, Mike Pyle, 1-0, picked up his first American League victory in relief. Orioles 6, Indians 4. Baltimore parlayed five straight singles and a pair of throwing errors into a five-run, sixth-inning uprising and reliever Don Stanhouse picked up his 12th save as the Orioles snapped an eight-game losing streak.

Carew most popular in all-star voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rod Carew, Minnesota's bat magician, led the balloting for the American League All-Star team and will start at first base in Tuesday's game at San Diego. In final figures released by the votes to 1,787,079 for Texas' Bert Campaneris and 1,757,577 for Boston's Rick Burleson.

Ninth inning nightmare foiled sweep for Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ninth inning of the nightcap in Tuesday's doubleheader crystallized the first half of the 1978 season for Craig Swan, the New York Mets and the Philadelphia Phillies. After the Mets took the first game 4-0 on the two-hit pitching of Pat Zachry and Lee Mazzilli's first major-league grand slam, Swan carried a 2-1 lead into the ninth inning of the second game.

Zachry shutout win earned all-star bid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pat Zachry shed the pressure and the guilt of replacing the New York Mets' hero Tom Seaver by winning his 10th game of the year Tuesday night, hurling his second two-hit shutout of the season and earning a spot on the National League's All Star pitching roster for the first time.

Campbell no-hit bid

Boland Oil victory eliminated Legion

Behind the two-hit pitching of Pete Frankovitch, Boland Oil eliminated American Legion 5-0, Monday night at Leber Field in a Town Little League Tournament clash. Tuesday's scheduled game between the Oilers and Modern Janitorial was washed out and rescheduled tonight at Leber Field at 6 o'clock. All other scheduled tilts are pushed back one day.

Rain postpones play

Boston's injury-plagued third baseman Dutch Hobson is expected to be out of action well past the All-Star break. Team physician Dr. Arthur Pappas said the hamstring pull Hobson suffered last Thursday in Baltimore is worse than originally thought. "It's pretty bad," said Pappas. "There's a bit of a tear involved, and the way it uses it now, Dutch may be out quite a bit of time after the All-Star break."

Archeologists study methods of Indian attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A treasure house of almost perfectly preserved artifacts in the ruins of a Virginia settlement are giving archeologists a vivid picture of a successful Trojan Horse-type of Indian attack 350 years ago.

Ivor Noel Hume, resident archeologist at Colonial Williamsburg, said in a report released Tuesday, archeologists digging on a plantation a few miles away have found the skeleton of a burning and looting the houses, the statement said.

Hume said in a telephone interview that the discovery is "a big breakthrough for us." He said it began when a corner of the fort was found three years ago, and "is very important to Virginia history."

"Unlike Jamestown, we're seeing a settlement that has been undisturbed since earliest colonial times," Hume said. "The Indians wiped it out and nobody really resettled the site, so in effect it's preserved as if in a time capsule.

"The artifacts we're finding, the layout of the fort, all these things are giving us an extraordinary view of those people who settled Virginia almost at the very beginning."

Flecks of wind-blown ash and possibly chips of burned clay from dash walls found at the site support the theory that settlers held out as long as possible on that March 22, and then fled to the fort with Indians front of the Bureau of Indian Affairs building on Constitution Avenue.

This time, a National Park Service permit has been obtained for the erection of 50 teepees near the Washington Monument grounds, and Bill Wahpepah of Oakland, Calif., one of the leaders, says "We are not here to raise hell but to raise heaven."

The geographic society said the plan was masterminded by Chief Opechancanough.

Digging in the fort area has produced a number of surprising artifacts, including a full helmet from a suit of armor complete with cheek pieces and visor. Beneath it was an entire backplate, probably from cavalry armor.

Other military hardware unearthed in the fort included five firing mechanisms from matchlock muskets, several pewter lids from the powder containers for a musketeer's bandolier, and 140 bullets.

Hume said fragments of glass bottles, cooking pots and dishes and an elaborate iron fireback used to protect a fireplace hearth left the impression that a "man of consequence" lived within the fort.

Hume believes that man was William Harwood, who governed a 31-square mile tract of land known as Martin's Hundred.

Barreiro said along the way local officials and community leaders have helped find food and health facilities for the walkers. He said there are "many old people and young people on the walk and we have the support of the Methodist and Catholic churches."

Modern Indians reverse 'Longest Walk'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reversing the "Longest Walk" when Indians were forced westward by spreading colonial settlements, a group of modern native Americans are walking from California to a peaceful demonstration in the nation's capital July 15.

Washington predicted Tuesday federal and community cooperation and their own spiritual intentions will prevent a repeat of the destructive occupation of federal offices by the Trail of Broken Treaties Caravan in 1972.

The nature of the walk is a spiritual one and we hope to be able to continue on that same line of thought," said Jose Barreiro, a spokesman for the group. "We don't anticipate any difficulties."

The earlier caravan began as a journey to Washington for Indian rights. Before it was over, a federal building had been ransacked, and an illegal teepee was built on the lawn in

Firemen return to Memphis duty

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Firemen and city officials resume contract negotiations today and authorities reported to unusual outbreaks of fires since the firemen returned to duty Tuesday.

More than 400 fires — many of them arson — broke out over the weekend during the firemen's three-day walkout.

Firefighters obeyed a court injunction ordering them back to work Tuesday morning. About 450 of the 1,400 members of the International Association of Firefighters returned to work on Independence day and the rest were due for shift changes today and Thursday.

The men are going back to work reluctantly," said Kathryn Huddleston, president of the firefighters' union. "We had a very routine day. Nothing out of the ordinary." Fire Lt. Richard E. Daugherty said Tuesday night.

Officials reported nine major weekend fires. One of the worst was a two-block blaze in south Memphis that destroyed several businesses and prompted the evacuation of several hundred residents from a nearby housing project.

Another blaze gutted an entire block near a midtown entertainment center, wiping out nine buildings. Officials said more than 100 businesses were destroyed or damaged in weekend fires, but no major injuries were reported.

Several issues on the bargaining table when the negotiations were abruptly halted Friday were still to be settled, including a demand for extra compensation for 16 hours of the firefighters' 24-hour shifts.

NAACP says Bakke doesn't bar quotas

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The executive director of the NAACP Tuesday said the Supreme Court's Bakke decision did not bar affirmative action programs and the NAACP will fight any efforts to weaken or abolish them.

In a speech to the NAACP convention, Executive Director Benjamin Hooks also called for a concerted effort to prevent any other states from adopting tax-limiting legislation like California's Proposition 13.

"We cannot allow another 'message' like Proposition 13 to pass in another state in this union," he said. "Those who have been hurt most by this reckless and unthinking act must now join in a common coalition to ensure that your best interest is hereafter protected."

Hooks made a lengthy attack on some interpretations of the Supreme Court decision ordering Allan Bakke, who claimed he was a victim of "reverse discrimination" admitted to the University of California Medical School at Davis.

Hooks said, "We are serving notice on universities, industry and every institution in America that if they misread the clear teachings of America's racial history they are inviting confrontation."

"The NAACP serves notice on the media that they must cease making the Supreme Court Bakke decision that which is not. The court's majority did not outlaw quotas."

"We will accept any challenge posed to the meaningful implementation of affirmative action, whether it comes in the form of hostile litigation or legislation, wanton and reckless opinion and speculation, footdragging by the private sector or apology and doubletalk by government bureaucrats."

Minority hiring plans set

HARTFORD (UPI) — New Haven's Corporation Counsel Joseph D. Garrison has told a federal judge his city plans to hire more minority workers in the coming year.

New Haven has been sued by the Silver Shields, a group of black police officers who claim the city is violating federal anti-discrimination laws by not hiring enough minority employees.

During opening arguments in the suit, Garrison told U.S. District Court Judge Jon Newman New Haven plans to raise its minority hiring from around 15 percent of the work force to about 35 percent during the next two years.

Superior Court judge mulls Killian-Grasso lawsuit

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wall has given no clue as to when he will rule on Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian's claim that Gov. Ella T. Grasso tried to deceive voters in last month's Democratic primary in New Britain.

Killian, who is challenging Mrs. Grasso for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, filed a lawsuit claiming she took part in a campaign advertising scheme to pull the wool over the voters' eyes. Attorneys on both sides of the lawsuit rested their cases Monday.

Killian has asked Wall for a variety of "reliefs," including a new primary. After both sides presented their final arguments, Wall recessed the hearings indefinitely. He did not indicate when he will render a decision.

In his suit, Killian claims Mrs. Grasso, her campaign staff and others sought to deceive voters in New Britain's May 2 Democratic primary. Killian claims Mrs. Grasso allowed her name to be illegally linked in campaign advertisements with a popular New Britain lawyer, Edward Januszewski.

Januszewski, a candidate for probate court, was not on the ballot in the May 2 primary. But Killian claims campaign advertisements led voters to believe if they cast their ballots for Mrs. Grasso's slate of 44 delegates to the state convention they would also be voting for Januszewski.

The governor's slate of delegates beat Killian's slate by an almost two-to-one margin in the New Britain primary.

The prosecution spent five days questioning witnesses. The defense did not call anyone to the stand.

In his final argument, Killian's lawyer, George Brodigan, said the voters of New Britain were "the victims of a carefully laid-out plan" of deceptive advertising by Mrs. Grasso and her supporters.

"This case has implications as much or more than Watergate," Brodigan said.

But Mrs. Grasso's lawyer, James Wade, said "the people of New Britain were not fooled. They were not deceived."

"They went into the voting booth and did what they wanted to do," he said.

At the beginning of Monday's session, Januszewski resumed testimony he began last Friday. He said the "Ella and Eddy" advertisements would only have been misleading to someone who knew nothing about the New Britain primary.

"If you didn't read anything about it (the primary) at all, you might be misled," he said.

During cross examination, Wade showed Januszewski a piece of Killian campaign literature in which Killian referred to Januszewski as an "old friend."

"I resented him using my name since I was backing Ella Grasso," Januszewski said.

Januszewski testified he had only met Killian a few times and the lieutenant governor "was not a personal friend." To illustrate his point, Januszewski noted that his name was misspelled in a letter he received from Killian.

For his final witness, Killian's lawyers called Julius Palumbo to the stand. Palumbo is the brother-in-law of Rep. Julius Morris, D-New Britain, who headed the Killian slate of delegates in the New Britain primary.

Even though his brother-in-law's name was on the ballot, Palumbo testified he voted for Mrs. Grasso's slate because he was "brainwashed" by the Grasso-Januszewski advertisements.

"I'm prejudiced against women in politics," Palumbo said during cross examination.

Sailors stranded on Block Island

BLOCK ISLAND, R.I. (UPI) — Several hundred people who journeyed to Block Island in everything from row boats to yachts were stranded overnight, waiting for up to 35 mile per hour winds and six-to-10 foot seas to subside.

Although some sought shelter in island hotels, others either chose to stay on their boats or were forced to when the high winds carried their dinghies out to sea or sent them drifting.

"They have a mess down there," a Coast Guard spokesman in Boston said. "The weather there is just a mess."

An estimated 400 to 500 boats were forced to spend the night when the storm broke about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

A Coast Guard spokesman on Block Island, about eight to 10 miles from the Rhode Island coast, said despite weather forecasts promising milder weather today, they weren't promising anything.

"This wind hasn't dropped down any," the spokesman said. "Most people are staying on their boats. They just have to wait it out. There's nothing else they can do."

James Kelly, spokesman for the Shenecosset Yacht Club in Groton, Conn., said about three quarters of the club's boats never made it back from Block Island as planned.

"If you didn't read anything about it (the primary) at all, you might be misled," he said.

During cross examination, Wade showed Januszewski a piece of Killian campaign literature in which Killian referred to Januszewski as an "old friend."

Ex-policeman dies of shot in heart

DANIELSON (UPI) — A former Willimantic police officer who allegedly shot a rookie patrolman escorting him to trial shot himself through the heart afterwards, autopsy results show.

John Knight, 31, Monday allegedly grabbed the pistol from the holster of Willimantic patrolman John Culpin, 21, and shot him in the abdomen. Knight was fatally shot moments later by Culpin's partner, Thomas Clark.

Culpin, sworn in just one week ago, remained in serious condition at Day Kimball Hospital in Putnam. Knight, fired from the department two years ago, was dead on arrival at the same hospital Monday morning.

Medical examiner Elliot Gross said after the autopsy Tuesday that Knight died from three gunshot wounds — two fired into the neck and abdomen by Clark and a third self-inflicted wound to the heart.

The shooting took place outside Danielson Town Hall as Culpin was escorting Knight to Superior Court to be arraigned on charges of beating and stabbing a former police dispatcher, who is an amputee.

Police said Knight also is suspected of having fired a shotgun blast at Police Capt. Raymond Eli's home March 30.

Knight was handcuffed with his hands in front of him and was walking into the town hall when Culpin apparently got in front or alongside of him momentarily, police said.

Knight grabbed the pistol and fired it into Culpin's abdomen, police said. Clark then jumped out of a cruiser and shot Knight twice at close range.

Witnesses said Clark was incredulous at the shooting of his partner and shouted at Knight. "Why the hell did you have to do that?"

Willimantic Detective Lt. Paul Slyman said police had searched Knight, his apartment and car this weekend. Weapons confiscated during the search were sent to the FBI to determine if Knight fired the single shotgun blast through Eli's front window last spring.

"At this time I would consider him a suspect because of the evidence found in his car and house," said Slyman, who would not specify what weapons were seized.

Knight was to have been arraigned on assault charges involving former Willimantic police dispatcher David King, 25. Police said Knight allegedly beat and stabbed King during the weekend.

Police said King, who was found in his apartment Saturday by a friend, had been stabbed in the neck and had several cuts on his hands and head. He was reported in stable condition Tuesday at Hartford Hospital.

Knight had been held on $100,000 bond at the Hartford Correctional Center before being taken to Danielson for arraignment.

Willimantic Police Chief John Hussey had no comment on the matter.

CCAG to fight SNET

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Citizens Action Group has promised to fight the phone company's plan to charge frequent users of directory assistance unless the phone company gives the extra money it earns back to customers.

The Southern New England Telephone Co. has filed a plan with the Public Utilities Control Authority which would give each customer five free directory assistance calls a month. Subsequent directory assistance calls would cost the customer 20 cents apiece.

CCAG director Marc Caplan said Tuesday SNET should not be allowed to keep any extra revenue it makes under the proposed plan.

Hearings continue

HARTFORD (UPI) — Even though a judge has struck down the state's binding arbitration law, the head of the state's board of arbiters says for the time being his panel will continue to hear municipal binding arbitration cases.

Last Thursday, Hartford Superior Court Judge Joseph Goldberg declared Connecticut's binding arbitration law unconstitutional because it gives too much power to state arbiters.

But the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees appealed Goldberg's decision to the state Supreme Court.

A.D. Joseph Emerman, chairman of the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration, said Monday his panel will continue to do its work until the high court rules on the appeal.

Neighbors still fighting catering business at hall

By MAL BARLOW

Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD — Mrs. Susan Kniep of 50 Roberts St. said a phone call last week nearly made her give up her struggle against what she and her neighbors call the abuses taking place at the Mt. Carmel Hall at 30 Roberts St.

"I just sat down and cried," she said.
The call was from Robert H. Schultz, head of the town's health office in the department of health and social services. He had called her to tell her he had sent an application form to Clem Waver of C&W Catering to get the firm licensed for catering in town. The firm has been working in and out of Mt. Carmel Hall for over two years, she said.

"This means we have a restaurant on our street," she said.
"This means we have a business in a residential (R-3) zone."
The neighbors of the hall have been complaining of parties and noise at the hall for nearly 10 years, she said. They have charged that the society is allowing the hall to be used as a business site. They felt they had won a unanimous Town Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) decision March 30 which would stop catering firms from using the hall as a business site.

"The ZBA hearing meant nothing," said Mrs. Kniep. "Who do you turn to now? We have gone everywhere."
"A nice chapel!"
Mrs. Kniep and her neighbors have spent many hundreds of dollars building their case against the hall. They have hired lawyers and private investigators. They have spent hours over town files.

One of the first items in their files is the transcript of the ZBA hearing held June 20, 1966. The Societa Maria SS DiMonte Carmelo Inc. asked for a special permit to allow "erection of a religious shrine and society meeting place of social activities and festival celebrations" on two acres off Roberts Street.
James Shaw of 57 Edson Road, an officer of the society, spoke then. He described the society as having about 25 active members, most of them elderly.

"We plan to put up a nice chapel and shrine and a clubhouse for our members."
"There wouldn't be any houses that it would disturb. We are not a loud group, anyway."
On June 28, 1966, the ZBA voted unanimously to grant the permit as it would be the "best use of the land," said ZBA members.

The chapel or shrine was never built. The pavilion became a brick and cinderblock structure. Instead of being built away from the road, the structure now sits on the Mt. Carmel Hall is just several car lengths from the first sharp bend in Roberts Street.
Mrs. Kniep says she is on file at the town hall. She has letters on file at the town hall complaints about its use and abuse from its earliest days after being built in 1965.

Frank N. Barone, director of the department of inspections and permits, wrote April 18, 1972, to John DeGrecio of the society. He used a certified mail letter as previous letters had not been answered, she said.

"Please contact this office immediately so that we can set up a meeting with you and the Town of East Hartford Chief of Police, Corporation Counsel and myself regarding the hall. This is an urgent matter and must be taken care of immediately or legal action will be taken," Barone wrote.

A May 18, 1972, meeting was followed by assurance from the society's attorney, then Seymour L. Kroppnick of Hartford, that cause for complaints would cease.

Cease and desist
Barone issued a cease and desist order against Waver's use of the hall on Feb. 5, 1978. Waver asked for a delay while he sought a ZBA variance to allow C&W Catering to work "out of the hall."

March 30 the ZBA denied the variance. Waver said in April he would move his firm out of the hall but would continue catering parties to take place there.
The neighbors have charged Waver has changed nothing. His equipment is still in the hall. He answers the Mt. Carmel phone as C&W Catering. Parties still take place there and they claim many of them are wild and disturb the neighborhood.

The neighbors met June 28 to talk over their lack of progress.
Mrs. Helen Stangeland said of a June 22 meeting with Assistant Prosecutor John Bailey, "It was a waste of time. They had their minds made up."

Her husband, Sidney Stangeland, said, "I personally like to hear people have a good time. But this place is too much."

"I don't understand now (Waver) can be licensed in the building and not have it be classified as anything other than a business," said Mrs. Kniep.
Next steps include pressing police to continue investigating complaints and to press for action by the town's corporation counsel office on their claimed zoning violations.

"We're doing all we can do," said Kniep.

Vernon residents now call 872-733 to report fires

VERNON — Effective immediately, a new phone number has been approved for the town of Vernon. The number, 872-733 is now used by the Vernon Ambulance Service and several area towns.

Vernon Fire Chief William Johnson approved the change after there was a mixup in dispatching fire trucks to a fire on Route 83 a couple of weeks ago.

Johnson said the change is being made to coordinate the phone numbers going into the Tolland County Mutual Aid dispatch service.

The old number of 875-7070 will be maintained for an adjustment period, Johnson said.

Johnson said he wants to remind all residents of the importance in calling the new fire number in case of a fire in order to avoid confusion and to expedite the fire department's response.

The new number is on a rotating phone system while the old number was only a single line.

The mutual aid center is currently undergoing several changes by remodeling the facilities to a much larger dispatch center. A new dual console will be installed shortly to handle the various radio frequencies required by the emergency services.

Robert L. Ronald, head of the center, said.

The 872-733 number is presently used for the Ellington Ambulance Service, the Crystal Lake Fire and Ambulance Service, Tolland Fire and Ambulance Service, Bolton Fire and Ambulance Service and Andover Fire and Ambulance Service, plus Vernon Ambulance and now Vernon Fire Department.

Workers brick up the outside walls of the South Windsor public library, a project that is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The general contractor is the Aspinet Construction Co. of Avon. (Herald photo by Chastain)

Work progresses on library

SOUTH WINDSOR — The new $831,000 public library should be "open for business" by early January, according to Library Director W. Clayton Massey.

Massey said Aspinet Construction Co. of Avon, general contractor for the long awaited project, should be finished by December.

"Once the exterior walls are completed then the roof can be put on," said Massey, "and the remainder of the library should move along rather quickly."

Massey said part of the moving process from the present structure to the new structure at the Town Hall site will be a contractual arrangement. He said the book processing and administration areas of the library will be moved first.

Although the library will undoubtedly have to be closed temporarily, Massey said he did not feel that the moving process would necessitate a long closing period.

The road from the rented storage area near Armistead's Market to the new library building has been a long and rocky one at best.

Library proponents have fought long and hard since 1965 for a library building — or at least reasonable library space. In 1965, Kenneth R. Shaffer, director of the School of Library Science at Simmons College, recommended that the town abandon the Wood Memorial Library on Main Street and the Sudd Library at Wapping Five Corners, in favor of a 21,000 square foot central library structure.

Both the Sudd Library and Wood Memorial were closed upon Shaffer's recommendations, with the former reopening soon after as a community library supported entirely by local residents and an endowment by the late William R. Wood.

Meanwhile, a "temporary" library opened in cramped quarters with library personnel assuming a new larger library would be built.

In 1973, a $1.2 million proposal for a 25,000 square foot library was defeated in referendum and, in 1974, another library proposal, tied in with the massive Plum Gulley Park recreation complex was also mixed by local voters.

The library project again surfaced last summer when the town was told it was to be awarded $438,000 for a public works project under the federal government's Public Works Employment Act.

The library appeared to be the only suitable project since the funds could not be applied toward the new fire headquarters because construction had already begun.

On July 11, 1977, amid protests from library opponents, the Town Council appropriated $207,000 to add to the grant. The two amounts, plus $134,000 in the library's own trust fund, was all that was needed to make the building a reality.

Jubilant library supporters were soon subdued however, when the federal government notified the town that a computer error had been made and the town, in fact, was only going to get a grant of $39,000.

On July 28, 1977 the Town Council voted 6-3 to appropriate the additional $46,000 needed, and the project was under way.

Although the library building is not the spacious structure hoped for by library proponents over the years, it's 15,000 square feet of space is a big step up from the cramped 5,000 square feet which now houses the library operation.

Library personnel have been hailed over the past years for creative and imaginative programs geared not only for children, but for adults as well. Space limitations, however, have made it necessary for many of the programs to be carried out either at Wapping Community House or St. Margaret Mary's Church Hall. The new library will undoubtedly enable projects and programs to be conducted at the library.

The children's section in the new library will have shelving no higher than 66 inches, which will allow small children to reach books and materials. A grant of $17,500 will pay for new furniture and shelving in the children's library.

if township vote to reduce the budget below the 6.5 mills, surplus tax revenue will be added to next year's cash accumulations and may be applied to a future budget. The town meeting may not increase the council's final recommendations — it may accept them, reject them, or lower them.

The Board of Education will reveal tonight where it has applied the one-and-a-half mill cut mandated by the council. The council may cut the bottom line of the education appropriation but may not decide where cuts may be applied.

Budget will be considered at public hearing tonight

COVENTRY — Tonight's public hearing at 7:30 at the high school will consider the Town Council's new $4.5-million budget proposal for 1978-79 which would utilize the 6.5-mill rate set by the council at a special meeting last week.

The council took the unprecedented action of setting the mill rate before adoption of a budget by the taxpayers at a meeting not specifically called for that purpose.

The call of last Thursday's meeting included a discussion with the board of education and to discuss and take action on the budget. "Schwebel told the council that setting the mill rate was allowable under the call of the meeting," he said.

But Brainard maintains that setting the tax rate is a separate action from establishing the budget and state's information laws. He stated that many more people would have attended the council meeting to give their views if they had known that a mill rate would be set.

Tonight's hearing will guide the council on whether it cuts meat with taxpayer approval. Chairman Jack Myles said. A date for a town meeting to adopt or reject the budget is expected to be established at the hearing.

Because the mill rate has been set, if township vote to reduce the budget below the 6.5 mills, surplus tax revenue will be added to next year's cash accumulations and may be applied to a future budget. The town meeting may not increase the council's final recommendations — it may accept them, reject them, or lower them.

The Board of Education will reveal tonight where it has applied the one-and-a-half mill cut mandated by the council. The council may cut the bottom line of the education appropriation but may not decide where cuts may be applied.

"Fire works tonight" The fireworks display which had been postponed Monday night and Tuesday night because of rain, will be held tonight at 9 at Legion Field, West Road.

Police report The Vernon Police Department reported the investigation of six burglaries during the week of June 19 through June 22. Items taken were valued at $2,200.

Burglars were into a home on Evergreen Road, apartments on Talbotville Road and Union Street, the Maple Street School, Rockville High School, and the building at Legion Field.

YMCA programs Several summer programs sponsored by the Indian Valley YMCA will begin in mid and late July. Anyone interested in registering for the programs should contact the YMCA office at Vernon Circle, 972-7929.

Tennis lessons will be taught by Jane Goodwin of South Windsor Mondays and Thursdays from 7 to 8 p.m. The lessons are designed for teen-agers and adults who are beginning players. Lessons will start July 31 and end Aug. 17 for six lessons. Openings exist in a few of the daily clinics that are being held at the Vernon Center and Middle School on July 17 and will run for two weeks.

They include a weight lifting clinic for those age 9-13, from 11 a.m. to noon; soccer clinic for those age 8, 9

CETA project cut short

EAST HARTFORD — In an effort to stem a projected deficit in the program, the City of Hartford has cut short by a month 27 federally funded CETA positions in East Hartford.

The positions were originally funded until Sept. 30, but will instead end Aug. 31.

Robert Plant of the city manager's office in Hartford told the town Friday that it would have to cut the project phase of their CETA program. Hartford claims the program has a deficit of $400,000. Before it decides which positions will be cut, the town is waiting for official notification in the form of a letter from the city manager.

"We're waiting for a letter from Hartford," said Thomas Malecky, personnel aide. "Once we get it, we will take definite administrative steps to implement layoffs."

Malecky said the cuts will affect "project level" CETA employees. Project level employees are those assigned to specific projects in town. "Sustaining level" employees, who are given general job, will not be affected.

Malecky said he could not determine which programs would be hit the hardest.

"It's sound financial practice to hold off on any layoffs until we have it in writing that the program has been cut," Malecky said.

meeting of the Inland Wetlands Commission scheduled for July 11 has been canceled. There are no matters pending and no new business for consideration, chairman Henry Genga announced.

Daniel L. Mammoliti apparently wanted a street sign with his first name on it. Police said he took one which had rested on the corner of Daniel and Bidwell streets. He was charged with criminal mischief in $100 surety bond. Court date is July 17.

Sandra Wassik, 41, was charged with second-degree arson after she set fire to a newspaper and dropped it on her living room rug at 74 Central Ave., police said. She put out the fire before the Fire Department arrived, police said. She was held on $1,000 bond and was scheduled to appear in court today.

U.S. protests Soviet at U.N.

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The United States has formally protested the appointment of a Soviet KGB intelligence colonel as personnel director at the United Nations European headquarters.

U.S. officials a long time ago warned that Dneprovsky was a KGB officer, Western sources said.

What worries both U.S. and Western officials is that many Soviet agents in Geneva are believed to be spies, hold down influential positions.

Two cosmonauts ready to return

MOSCOW (UPI) — The world's first Polish cosmonaut and his Russian companion readied their return to Earth today, their space capsule loaded with data from a week of experiments aboard the Soyuz 6 space station.

The four cosmonauts Tuesday loaded equipment and test results aboard the Soyuz 20 capsule and readied it for the return to Earth.

The first international docking was completed during the last Soyuz mission earlier this year when a Czech cosmonaut was first into space.

Reporter returns; faces Soviet charge

BOSTON (UPI) — New York Times reporter Craig R. Whitney was returned unexpectedly from the Soviet Union, where he had another American reporter been charged with slandering Soviet television.

Whitney was met Tuesday at Logan Airport by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon Whitney, and they left immediately for their home in suburban Westford, Whitney would not discuss his problems with the Russians or say why he left Moscow.

The Boston Herald-American quoted State Department officials as suggesting that the Soviets let Whitney leave to discuss.

Most states use space photos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The states are showing increasing interest in the down-to-Earth uses of photography from space.

According to a just-completed study for White House science adviser Frank Press, every state except for Connecticut and Rhode Island has used natural resources pictures taken by 570-mile high Landsat satellites.

Georgia, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Dakota, Arizona, South Dakota and Texas have ongoing operational projects with the latter three states extensively using Landsat images in planning and managing natural resources.

There is growing state awareness of the value of Landsat data," said the report by a task force headed by Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado.

The 335-page document said Landsat spacecraft are making "significant, often unique contributions to the information base required for state and local government's management of natural resources."

"For many uses, Landsat provides the only feasible means for conducting natural and resource inventories," the report said. "The cost, time and manpower involved in the use of conventional techniques is often prohibitive."

Twenty-three states surveyed by the committee reported they were using Landsat information because it is more cost effective than conventional techniques.

The Washington State Department of Natural Resources estimated, for example, that a western Washington forest inventory of 10 million acres would cost $2 million and take two years using conventional techniques. The inventory was recently completed with Landsat pictures in one year for $200,000.

A land use inventory in Ohio in the early 1970s using conventional methods cost $310,000 and took two years. A comparable inventory using Landsat cost $115,000 and took less than one year.

Of the states that have used Landsat data, 19 used the pictures to make land cover inventories of their areas. Sixteen used the information for water quality assessment and planning, nine for wildlife habitat inventories, nine for geological mapping, seven each for surface water inventories, flood control and crop inventories and six for forest inventories.

The report said one key advantage provided by Landsat is the ability of cameras and other sensors aboard the two Landsats now in operation to provide detailed coverage of all the states every 18 days. This permits state and local governments to monitor changes that occur in large areas.

But state officials queried by the committee did report problems and concerns with the Landsat program managed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and other government agencies. One often-repeated concern was the lack of a federal commitment to establish a long-term operational Landsat system.

"States are reluctant to spend time, money and labor on a technique which, after many years, remains largely experimental," said Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida.

"There must be assurance of continuity in the Landsat program," said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of California.

Another problem, said Gov. John Dalton of Virginia, is that state, regional and local agencies have trouble in maintaining effective liaison with the federal agencies that plan and operate the satellite systems.

And Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut, whose state is one of the two that have not used Landsat data, said current computer techniques to process and analyze the information "are too complex."

Guardsmen participate in two weeks of training

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

Zooming off in a U.S. Air Force plane, but it also enables one to meet many interesting people.

For instance, before we departed on Gov. Ella Grasso's recent visit to the Connecticut Army National Guard which was training at Fort Drum, N.Y., I had an opportunity to talk to a pretty senior airman, Julie James of 51 Meadowbrook Road, Ellington.

Julie, a graduate of Windsor Locks High School, has been a member of the CNG for 2 1/2 years. At 23, Julie is a weapons loader and is also a technician administrative specialist.

"It gives me a great opportunity to travel, a chance to see new places and meet people. I go on one- to two-week deployments loading weapons to support the flying group and have been to Colorado, Arizona, Michigan and Mississippi," she said.

In her capacity as administrative specialist, she said, "You might say I am secretary to 60 men. I handle their paper work, orders, and other clerical work."

The daughter of Mrs. Pauline James of Meadowbrook Road, Ellington, Julie said she first became interested in the Guard when her sister, Karen Havens of East Windsor, formerly a member of the Guard, encouraged her to join.

Why did she undertake loading weapons?

"I wanted to do something different. And, as it is, I was the first woman in the ammunition shop and, to date, still am.

When she's not working, Julie enjoys riding her horse, "Sugar Dough," dancing, swimming, and fishing.

commander of the South Carolina contingent of guardsmen who were doing their two weeks' summer training with the "Yankee Division," the 26th Division's nickname.

Garrett explained that the paw was for Clemson (S.C.) University's football team, known as the Tiger's. Mrs. Grasso was also presented with a parking permit for Clemson's football stadium.

The southerners laughingly admitted they were trying to adjust to being part of the "Yankee Division."

Still further along on the tour at the LeRay Mansion, Capt. Arthur S. Greenberg of Hamden gave the governor an antique maplin ring engraved with her name, a gift from his Co. C of the 726th Maintenance Battalion which is stationed at the Southington Armory.

Just prior to breaking for dinner in a tented area in the 43rd Brigade Command Post, we had an opportunity to see a demonstration of 50-caliber machine guns presented by two Manchester men, Ken Hatfield of 98 Summit St. and Roy Migneault of 47 Woodbridge St.

As we dined on whipped potatoes, pork chops with stuffing, green beans, salad, and apple pie, a couple of youthful looking guardsmen joined us at our table.

When we commented on how delicious the food was they both burst out laughing.

Puzzled, I asked what was so funny?

"We're sure glad the governor came today, 'cause this isn't the usual chow that's served."

To which they good-naturedly said, "We're sure glad the governor came today, 'cause this isn't the usual chow that's served."

A range officer explains target techniques to Gov. Grasso.

Busy governor takes time out to shake hands with guardsmen during her tour.

Congratulations to pretty Maura McGeary, Miss Manchester 1978, who was named third runner-up in the Miss Connecticut Scholarship Pageant Saturday night in New Britain.

Maura won the talent competition in her group of 10 other contestants with a classical ballet. She received a $400 scholarship. Mary Alice Pintray of Meriden was named Miss Connecticut. There were 21 contestants and the group was split in half for the talent competition.

"It was really fun," Maura said in a telephone interview earlier this week.

"We went to the ball after the pageant at Howard Johnson Ballroom in New Britain, and were really able to unwind. All the pressure was gone and we just had fun. Now we can all get back to normal. Although it was hard work, it was fun," Maura said.

Rick Lawrence of Manchester Jaycees, sponsors of the local pageant and who, along with his wife, Elin, served as chaperones for Miss Manchester, said, "In the seven years we have been involved in the pageant, this year was the first year that the talent was so great. It was just phenomenal. There were dancers, artists, even opera singers. It was just terrific."

Congratulations to all the young ladies who entered the pageant. It takes quite a bit of courage, but I'm sure now reflecting on their experiences, they are thankful that they competed.

Happy birthday

Mrs. Agnes Hayes of 182 N. Elm St., known to many of her friends and neighbors as "Gramma Hayes," will be 90 years young tomorrow.

A native of Manchester, Mrs. Hayes taught Sunday School at Second Congregational Church for nearly 60 years.

She was already being feted at several parties and will celebrate Thursday with her son John and his wife at their home in Manchester. She also has three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hayes received congratulatory messages, including one from President and Mrs. Carter.

Cheerleaders needed

If you've watched those pretty cheerleaders on the field and on television and wished you could give a try - now is your chance.

The New England Patriots have issued a call for male and female candidates for the 1978 Patriot Cheerleading squad. Tryouts are scheduled for Sunday from 8:30 a.m. to noon at Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass.

The first round of selections will produce a field of some 60 finalists, from which the ultimate squad will be chosen by a panel of judges later in the evening.

A spokesman for Sports Promotions, Inc., the Boston representative agency for professional athletes which has been named to coordinate tryout competitions and judging, said that increased stress will be placed on dancing and gymnastic ability. The competition is open to both sexes this year.

Following final selections, squad members will undergo a rigorous period of training and rehearsals before their first on-field appearance in the Patriots opener at Foxboro, Aug. 20 against the Kansas City Chiefs. During the season, the squad will appear at all Patriot home games.

Those interested are advised to report promptly at 8:30 a.m. in suitable attire at Schaefer Stadium, Gate A. For additional information call the Patriots (617) 262-1776.

Brighten up your lawn with neat, safe furniture

Last year's summer furniture is never ready to use early in the summer unless you have first checked it carefully. Much of it will need cleaning. Some of it will require repairs.

If you look it over in advance you will be able to tackle it one piece at a time and the job will be easier. All it will need dusting. If it is badly soiled, you should scrub it down with detergent and water. Use a mild solution and a stiff brush on wood and plastic pieces.

Aluminum may be polished or just generally cleaned. Use fine steel wool to brighten it. Paste type aluminum cleaners make the task a simple one.

While you are cleaning each piece of furniture, examine it carefully. Joints may be loose and these should be tightened before putting the item in use.

Tighten all loose bolts and screws. Those with stripped threads or those that are badly rusted should be replaced. Use a metal, such as aluminum, that will resist corrosion. Badly rusted nuts and bolts that will not work loose should be treated with penetrating oil.

All joints should be worked easily. If they do not, lubricate with light oil. Make certain they are free of dirt before you do.

Fabric parts of lawn furniture will wear and tear with use. Plastic replacement parts are available in kits. You may be able to find an entire seat or back. Weaving kits are available in plastic materials. If you can't find a

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

How long can he live?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a very worried wife. Can you give me an estimate of how long a man who is 59, and weighs 210 at 6 feet tall can continue to drink excess alcohol? He was a so-called moderate drinker until about eight years ago. Now he consumes a pint of whiskey and a six-pack of beer every day within two hours in the evening and maybe eats and then falls into bed. How long can he expect to survive at this rate?

DEAR READER — If your description is correct this man is an alcoholic and needs help. He can look in the yellow pages of the telephone directory under alcohol and find the organizations within his community that could be of help to him.

You might also ask him to read The Health Letter number 14 on alcohol which I am sending to you. It outlines most of the medical problems that alcohol causes. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There is no way to predict how long he can survive with this habit. Individuals have different levels of tolerance. Cirrhosis of the liver (scarring of the liver) is the sixth most common cause of death in American men and of these 60 percent are caused by excess use of alcohol.

In the amounts this man drinks, alcohol can also cause high blood pressure, heart disease and many other severe medical problems. It should never be forgotten that alcohol is a cellular poison.

The unfortunate aspect is that an individual may be developing progressive, serious liver disease and not have a single symptom. There may also be changes in the heart muscle fibers which cause no symptoms until the heart muscle actually starts to fail, causing fluid to accumulate in the lungs and sometimes elsewhere in the body. Prolonged abuse of alcohol can lead to serious liver damage which is not always reversible.

He can get help. I know that you come from a large enough community to have a full complement of facilities to help people with alcohol problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could I have a cosmetic operation on my abdomen? I do not like folding that extra skin in a girdle. I've had all of my children. The last was born at age 41. Nothing I have ever done has shrunk this skin in the slightest. I want it cut off. I asked doctors and they never give me an answer. Would you tell me please?

DEAR READER — Of course you can have it cut off. All you have to do is find a plastic surgeon who does cosmetic surgery and have him review the problem with you. It's not too uncommon for women to have this done. Wise the skin has been grossly stretched, even at a young age, it often times does not shrink back to normal even after a person has lost all of the excess fat. As a rule of thumb, if the excess skin is still there after toning up for a year after all the weight loss has occurred, it's probably not going to shrink anymore.

Frankly because I think girdles are not really conducive to good abdominal tone or health, I would rather see a woman have cosmetic surgery for this problem than to spend the rest of her life wearing a girdle. But that is a personal opinion.

POLLY'S POINTERS

floor is marred

DEAR POLLY — Do you know what will remove black heel marks left on my waxed floor without harming the shine? Also what will bring back the shine to dull spots? — Sheila

DEAR SHEILA — When cleaning your floor do the spots first and then clean the entire floor. The marks will often come off with the use of just a mild detergent. We are told never to use an abrasive. When black marks are very bad I have put a steel wool pad in the water, removed it and then used the water that has the few loosened particles in it to remove the marks. Sometimes also a special floor cleaner for no-wax finishes that seems to remove most black blemishes. There is not much you can do to restore the luster in places that show wear but you might ask your floor covering dealer about a finish that will temporarily restore some luster. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I cover the smaller jigsaw puzzles with clear contact paper and use them for placemats. I also put one on top of my freezer to protect it from scratches. — ZIG

DEAR POLLY — When storing leftovers in the refrigerator I find it makes things easier to put a piece of masking tape on the lid and write the contents on it. No more opening a lot of containers to see what is in them. When buying food to store I date everything so I use the oldest things first.

When I have bits of leftover vegetables from a meal I put them in a large container I keep in the freezer. When I get ready to make a pot of vegetable soup, all the vegetables are ready without having to buy them. — DELIA

DEAR POLLY — Anyone who has trouble removing food stains from shirts should try bar soap. Rub the area with a bar of soap and the stains seem to roll off. I find this holds true with polyester fabrics. — M.C.K.

DEAR POLLY — My husband's aching elbows are helped when they are kept warm. I cut the ties off of his socks when the top elastic is stretched out and he slips these on his arms, over his elbows, when he works outside in the cold weather or while he sleeps at night. — EVELYN Polly will send one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Pevee, or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of The Manchester Evening Herald.

MVD info

Q Last week you gave me some driving hints on operating a car and trailer. Are there any other skills I should learn?

A Yes. This week I'll explain the AAA recommendations on overtaking and passing, being overtaken and passed, and slowing and stopping. Next week, I'll concentrate on backing.

Overtaking and passing. In this maneuver you must be constantly aware that the towed vehicle will not only reduce your acceleration capability but, because of the added length of car plus trailer, much more distance must be allowed to pass and to return to the proper lane. Thus, be sure ample clear distance ahead before you start. After passing another vehicle, provide adequate clearance for your trailer before you signal and move back into the proper lane. Use your rear-view mirrors. Avoid sudden swerves which might sway or tilt the trailer and make control harder.

Being overtaken and passed. At times, your speed will be slower than that of others on the highway. Give special attention, therefore, to drivers desiring to pass you. When a large bus or truck overtakes your trailer, the air it is pushing aside will tend to push the rear of your trailer quickly to the right with an effect which you, as the driver will feel. But quickly thereafter similar air pressure will affect the front of your trailer. Knowing what will happen helps and by a slight bit of steering the situation can be safely met. Do not apply brakes or you may make things worse. Accelerating slightly may help.

If the slower speed of your rig causes a number of cars to line up behind you, it is both courteous and sensible to signal, pull off on the shoulder and let them pass — thus reducing passing hazards. Use the stop as an opportunity to check your whole rig.

Slowing and stopping. With a trailer in tow, slowing and stopping are different than the so-familiar actions when driving your car by itself. The differences result from the extra weight and length of the rig, the over-all load distribution, effects of action of springs and shock absorbers, and because the two units are linked. The extent, or degree of difference from slowing and braking your car will also depend on a number of factors, including existence or lack of trailer brakes, car-trailer braking relationships, bumpiness and slickness of road surface, speed and tires.

Practical guides:

1. Practice well before you get into traffic.
2. Be sure trailer brakes are adjusted to the load.
3. Maintain a considerably greater following distance than with your car alone, especially if trailer braking is absent or weaker than car braking. This extra load frequently increases braking distance.
4. Drive your rig at a speed so as to minimize the need for emergency slowdowns and stops.
5. Generally avoid high-speed lanes.
6. Make extra safety allowances for unfavorable conditions (weather, road, lack of visibility, etc.).
