Mauritania power seized by leftists

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Left-leaning military officers seized power today in Mauritania and arrested President Moktar Ould Daddah in a bloodless coup that could have a major impact on the three-year guerrilla war in the former Spanish Sahara.

The military junta, which called itself the "Committee for National Rehabilitation," suspended the constitution and dissolved the 15-man cabinet, the parliament and the ruling People's Party, a radio communique monitored in neighboring Morocco said.

The junta said Ould Daddah's regime was toppled to "put an end to the anti-national and anti-popular corruption" of his government.

The statement was taken here as meaning the junta would be prepared to patch up relations with Algeria, which has been arming and training

Polisario Front insurgents in Mauritania's and Morocco's mineral-rich portions of the Sahara desert.

Diplomats in Rabat said they received reports indicating the junta was composed of left-leaning military officers resentful of the large influence held over their poor but strategic country by France and Morocco.

In neighboring Algeria, Polisario Information Minister Ould Salek hailed the coup as "very good news."

But Moroccan Information Minister Mohammed Larbi Khattabi was quoted as saying his country considered the coup "grave news" and that Morocco would not let itself be outflanked from the south.

An estimated 9,000 Moroccan troops are fighting alongside the 8,000-man French-equipped and -trained Mauritanian army against the Polisario insurgents.

The fighting has been raging for three years in the desolate wastes of the western Sahara, which Mauritania and Morocco split between themselves when Spain surrendered the colony to them in 1976. The Polisario, with Algeria's backing, seeks the territory's independence.

There was no immediate official reaction from France, which has several dozen military instructors in Mauritania, plus a squadron of Jaguar fighter-bombers that helped destroy several columns of Polisario troops.

Mauritania, a former French colony twice as large as Texas, became independent in 1960 and was ruled by Ould Daddah until today's coup.

Over the past year there have been rumors of two aborted coups and only three months ago the government ordered a "purge" of the Mauritanian army, which was accused of being incompetent in its handling of the Saharan conflict.

A military junta seized power in the west African nation of Mauritania and arrested pro-western President Moktar Ould Daddah, reports from Mauritanian capital of Nouakchott said. The military officers said they dismissed Ould Daddah's 15-man cabinet, dissolved his ruling party, and placed the country under the rule of a military "committee for national rehabilitation," the reports said. Soviet dissidents proclaim innocence

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet human rights activists Anatoly Shcharansky and Alexander Ginzburg went on trial today in courtrooms more than 100 miles apart and both boldly proclaimed their innocence.

U.S. Embassy officials, who were barred from both trials, stood vigil outside each courtroom as a token of the concern the trials have aroused in the United States.

Shcharansky, 30, a computer expert faces a possible death sentence on charges of spying for the United States — a charge denied by President Carter.

His brother, Leonid, said Shcharansky — who "looked good and was self-confident" — told the Moscow court, "I cannot acknowledge any guilt. I consider the charges absurd."

Ginzburg, 41, a founder of modern Soviet dissent who has already spent seven years in prison, heard the charges of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda brought against him and emphatically denied any guilt.

When the court at Kaluga, 110 miles southwest of Moscow, routinely asked Ginzburg his nationality, he replied, "Prisoner."

Mrs. Irina Ginzburg emerged from the Kaluga courtroom during a mid-day break and told reporters that 16 months in Kaluga Prison had made an old man of her husband.

"He has gone completely gray-haired and looks like a 60-year-old," she said.

Shcharansky immediately dismissed his court-appointed and KGW-cleared defense lawyer, Silva Dubrovskaya, and told the court he would handle his own defense.

The formal indictment of Shcharansky alleges that he "betrayed the motherland" by delivering state secrets to foreign intelligence services.

President Carter denies that Shcharansky ever worked for the CIA — one of the charges against him — and U.S. officials have warned repeatedly that harsh sentences against the two could damage detente.

Soviet authorities allowed Shcharansky's brother, Leonid, into his trial and Ginzburg's wife, Irina, and mother, Lyudmila, were allowed to attend that trial. But police barred friends, Western diplomats and reporters from both.

Soviet police ringed the dingy yellow stucco three-story courtroom in Moscow's Proletarsky District along the Moscow River where Shcharansky was being tried.

Shcharansky's 70-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida Milgrom, was refused entrance, but selected members of the public with green invitation cards were admitted.

A Moscow court spokesman told reporters, "Shcharansky is charged with having betrayed the motherland and having damaged Soviet power in the period 1975-1977 by keeping regular contacts with representatives of foreign intelligence and following their wishes in providing state secrets."

"Shcharansky provided several locations of defense interest that were secret to Western diplomats and to some people who worked in Moscow under the guise of journalists," the spokesman said.

He said Shcharansky was also charged with spreading anti-Soviet propaganda.

Ginzburg was formally accused of using funds sent from abroad to support criminals — a reference to his work as administrator of a charity fund established by exiled author Alexander Solzhenitsyn to help political prisoners and their families — and with circulating documents charging the Soviet government and society with human rights violations.

Tass said Ginzburg agreed with the facts but denied his actions were anti-Soviet and refused to plead guilty.

Shcharansky was arrested in February 1977 and Ginzburg was taken into custody the following month. Both arrests came shortly after President Carter outlined his policy of a vigorous American defense of human rights throughout the world.

The Soviets scheduled the trials just two days before the start of a new round of strategic arms limitation talks in Geneva between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Top Carter administration officials have warned severe sentences against the two dissidents could outrage American public opinion and make congressional ratification of any new SALT II treaty difficult.

PZC hearing set tonight

Manchester's Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct three public hearings when it meets tonight at 7:30 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

One is for John and Barbara Tierney, who are requesting a zone change from Residence B to Business I Zone for a parcel of 42 acres — the rear portion of property at 207 W. Center St.

Another hearing is for Robert W. Weinberg, who is seeking a zone change from Residence A to Business II Zone for a parcel of 2.27 acres at 250V Oakland St.

The other is for Edward A. and Agnes C. Williams, who are seeking a zone change from Residence AA and Rural Residence to Business II Zone for a parcel of .98 acres at 156 and 162 Spencer St.

The PZC also may consider an inland-wetlands permit on Slater Street for Richard Gauthier. Gauthier also has asked for a deferment of curbs at the site.

Park to be posted in drowning's wake

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Town of Manchester officials said that they will post signs at the pond in Center Springs Park after the drowning that occurred there Sunday afternoon. But there is little else that can be done to prevent such a tragedy, they said.

Richard P. Lapenta, 30, of 228 S. Marshall St., Hartford, was identified as the drowning victim, Manchester Police reported this morning. Lapenta apparently decided to beat the heat of Sunday afternoon by going for a swim in the park pond, which is polluted.

The report of the drowning was called to the police shortly after two o'clock. By the time police and firefighters arrived, the victim had been pulled out of the pond by others but had stopped breathing.

"This is just one of those things that happens. It's tragic," Acting Captain of Detectives John Krnjak said.

Ernest Tureck, park superintendent, said that the pond in the park is not posted with "no swimming" signs.

Such a step probably now will be taken.

"I think at the very minimum we should have signs," Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said. He hopes to meet soon with Jay Giles, director of public works, to discuss the posting of such signs.

McCarthy also said that he is hopeful the signs can include something that refers to the polluted conditions of the murky water. He said that this might discourage swimming, even on the hottest days.

Besides the posting of signs, though, the enforcement of the prohibition is hard to do on a regular basis.

Along with Sunday's swimming tragedy, the park has been the scene of other problems. Groups frequently gather in the park, and neighbors have complained about rowdy, noisy behavior.

Police have made some arrests on drug and alcohol on town property charges.

"We have been maintaining as good a surveillance as is possible," Krnjak said. He said that the patrolling of the area will continue.

McCarthy said that the town will ask the Police Department to also make regular checks of the pond area to insure that swimming is not being done there.

Tureck said that there are more vandalism problems in other parks, such as Robertson and Charter Oak, that have buildings and recreational facilities. But, Center Springs continues to be the main problem area where large groups will gather and drug and alcohol use is believed to be common.

When his department receives a complaint, they notify police immediately, he said.

"The police are cooperating fully, but it's a very difficult thing to pin down. You've got to catch these guys red-handed. How do you do that?" Tureck said.

Israel rejects Sadat's latest peace plan

By United Press International
Israel has rejected Egypt's latest peace plan and warned it "will rout its enemies" if war breaks out in the Middle East. Egypt, seeking U.S. intervention, says the failure of peace talks in London could create a "dangerous situation."

"The Egyptian proposals are completely unacceptable to Israel and they cannot by their nature lead to the establishment of peace," Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said at the end of a 5½ hour cabinet meeting Sunday.

The Egyptian suggestions, presented to Vice President Walter Mondale in Alexandria a week ago, called for Israel's withdrawal from the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Begin, speaking later in the coastal town of Yavne, said Israel would quickly win any war with the Arabs.

"If they attack us, the nation will rout its enemies," he said.

"Let them not threaten, let them not try to pressure and let them not present ultimatums and written demands, because our nation is a proud one, which clings to its land and will not be moved from it."

"The 'no' that we are saying today to such a peace plan is in fact a 'yes' to peace and security in the future." Despite Begin's tough stand, his cabinet accepted a U.S. invitation to send Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to London July 18 and 19 for talks with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Kamel and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, meeting Israeli opposition leader Simon Peres in Vienna, Austria, appealed to Washington to use its full influence at the London talks.

Americans love FBI

SIMSBUURY (UPI) — Despite the press revelations of the past few years, Americans still "love" the FBI, according to the first FBI agent ever indicted on felony charges.

In April 1977, former FBI agent John F. Kearney was indicted for illegally opening mail and bugging telephones of members and friends of the radical Weathermen. The indictment came five years after the 56-year-old Simsbury resident had retired from his FBI post in New York.

For one year, Kearney and his family sweated out the indictment. During this time, Kearney said he received thousands of letters from all over the country.

"I guess for a lot of people, it was like going away with the World Series... indicating the FBI," Kearney said. "The people who wrote felt the FBI had done such a good job throughout the years and now, well, they were generally unhappy with the situation."

"There were many letters from people who said that they were praying for me. I guess it's what Nixon used to call the Silent Majority," he added.

This April, the indictment was dropped against Kearney, largely because his superiors. At the same time the charges were dropped against Kearney, indictments were returned against three former high-ranking FBI officials, including ex-director L. Patrick Gray of Stoughton.

"I was very sorry to see that they were indicted," Kearney said. "I've contributed financially and now it's my time to support them."

Kearney knows the meaning of financial support. Although he never went to trial, he was left strapped with $150,000 in legal expenses when his indictment was dismissed.

All of his legal bills were paid off by current and former agents and ad hoc committee of citizens that included actor John Wayne and Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Kearney said despite the national publicity that surrounded his case, people were very kind to him.

"I didn't have a friend. My family was very supportive and if the kids said anything to my children at school, I never heard about it," Kearney said.

"I got letters from friends and I hadn't heard from for 40 years. And there were a couple of people who wanted to go to jail for me," he added.

Kearney feels the letters and money he received show Americans still stand behind the FBI.

Three lieutenants vie for detective captain

Three lieutenants in the Manchester Police Department have been certified as the top candidates for the vacant detective captain position.

Lis, John Krijack, Joseph Brooks and Robert Juliano have been listed as the top three candidates after testing for the position, Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said.

These three men now will be recommended to Police Chief Robert Lannan, who will interview all three before making the final selection.

The detective captain position had been held by Joseph Sartor, who retired earlier this year. Krijack has been filling in at the position since Sartor's retirement.

Lannan is expected to begin interviews this week and a selection could be made within a week.

McCarthy also said that the promotion list of the top three candidates will remain in effect for one year. This could be important if the department decides to fill the now-vacant deputy chief position.

If the deputy chief slot is filled, it could vacate another captain's position.

Manchester police report

Manchester Police have charged a man in connection with a recent incident involving two juveniles who tried to break into a car in the Manchester area and eventually ended up in Iowa with a car stolen from New Jersey.

William J. Stearns, 31, was charged with second-degree and third-degree burglary, third-degree burglary, risk of injury to a minor and third-degree criminal mischief, police said. No address was given for Stearns, who was arrested on a warrant issued by Manchester Police.

Two juveniles and a man had left Manchester recently in a car owned by the father of one of the juveniles. The juveniles were returned home and the warrant was issued for Stearns' arrest, police said.

Another car was stolen in New Jersey, and the vehicle was found in Hartford on Friday on Fergerson Road. Nadeau suffered a broken leg and dislocated hip and is in satisfactory condition, police said. Court date is July 19.

65 arrested in Nazi rally

CHICAGO (UPI) — A small band of brown-shirted Nazis predicted a Jewish Holocaust in America, but their diatribes left a crowd of several thousand people feeling flat.

Frank Collin, Chicago's Nazi leader who denies the Jewishness of his own father, strutted on the top of a white van and shouted to the crowd.

"I can't believe there was a Holocaust. But if there was, they Jews deserved it. Just as they're going to deserve it this time."

Michael Allen, the leader of the National Socialist Party of America in St. Louis, applied it out. Of the Nazi massacre of Jews in Europe, he said, "This time we're going to finish the job."

Twenty-three Nazis with swastika armbands showed up for the rally at a swastika-embellished banner of "white victory." They shuffled nervously before television cameras until Collin began his highpitched tirade.

When it was over, bare-chested youths in the park seemed to want more and milled about for almost an hour in the muggy, 90-degree heat. A group of people wearing Jewish skull caps was chased until police came to their rescue. One of the few black youths venturing into the park was beaten. His clothes were torn from him before police could reach him.

Trading insults largely made up of breaking heads. Youths shook their fists in the faces of Jewish death camp survivors who gathered in the park. The youths cried, "White Power!" Counter-demonstrators were just as vocal chanting "Deaths to the Nazis" and "Go to Hell, Frank."

But if some in the crowd wanted violence, they had to settle for throwing a few rocks at about 150 Jews and sympathizers who watched the Nazi rally from outside the park.

One of them, Faye Waldman, was the only survivor of a family of nine. If the deputy chief slot is filled, it could vacate another captain's position.

Robbery suspects caught

Manchester Police this morning arrested two men after stopping a vehicle that matched the description of one that had left the scene of a robbery in East Hartford five minutes earlier.

The robbery was reported at 4:50 a.m. by East Hartford Police. Police said that a white male, about six feet tall, entered the 7-11 Store at 288 Main St. with a board in his hand.

The man slammed the door on the counter and asked for the money in the store, police said. The employee gave the man about $120 and then was told to lie on the floor.

The suspect then drove off in a dark color van, police said.

Manchester Police spotted a similar vehicle headed east on West Center Street at 4:57.

The vehicle was stopped and police found a hunting knife, a club, some bills and cash in it, according to police reports.

Police arrested Alan P. Pilote, 22, of 76 Grand Ave., Rockville, and James K. McDade, 25, of Danielson. Pilote was charged with carrying weapons in a vehicle, McDade was charged with carrying weapons in a vehicle and failing to keep narcotics in the original container.

The court date for both is July 31. Both men also have been turned over to East Hartford Police, but no additional charges had been filed this morning.

Senator says USSR trial endangers treaty on arms

MONTEPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said today he believes most U.S. senators are "repulsed" by the trial of two Soviet dissidents and may refuse to ratify any arms limitations treaty because of that feeling.

"The Soviet Union's action would make it impossible to get ratification right now (by the Senate) of any SALT treaty, including one that surrendered Moscow and Leningrad to NATO," Leahy said.

"This is a dangerous action by the Soviet Union that could possibly have a significant effect on the SALT talks," Leahy said at a news conference.

Echoing statements this weekend by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Leahy said, "There is no question (the trial) will have a chilling effect on détente."

Leahy was referring to the separate trials that began today of Jewish activist Anatoly Shcharansky, 30, for treason, and Alexander Ginzburg, 41, for anti-Soviet propaganda.

Leahy said he approves fully of the U.S. decision to cancel missions to the Soviet Union in protest, and of Vance's condemnation of the trials.

He said he believes U.S. negotiators at the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks will keep the human rights issue separate, and will agree to any treaty that protects U.S. security and lessens the chance of nuclear war.

But, he said, the U.S. Senate, which must ratify any treaty, is unlikely to make the separation.

"Most senators are really repulsed by the trials," he said, "there has been a great deal of conversation about it."

Leahy said he is convinced the trials were meant as a slap at the U.S., particularly given the time on the eve of talks between Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva.

He said the trials are also meant as a "slap at Jewish dissidents" and that the two are on trial because they are Jewish.

Opinion
Resourceful economics

The billions of oil dollars flowing out of the United States are pouring into the OPEC countries, including most prominently the Arab producers. As imbalanced as it may appear at this point, however, the trade relationship is far from one-way. The Arabs are also increasingly active importers — of a multitude of manufactured products out of choice, and of agricultural commodities out of necessity. In 1970, Arab countries imported $1.7 billion worth of farm products. By 1976, their purchases had grown to $8 billion. By 1985, food imports are expected to reach a value of some $16 billion.

It says that a "15% GRATUITY WILL BE AUTOMATICALLY ADDED TO THE BILL." DOES THAT MEAN I WILL BE ASSURED OF PROMPT, COURTEOUS, EXTRA-SPECIAL SERVICE?

Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even to the dull and the ignorant; they too have their story."

Ignorance, carelessness swell unemployment insurance costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — American business firms at about 40 percent more than they should on state unemployment insurance benefits, an expert in the field claims. The wasted funds amount roughly to $80 a year per worker. And that's not the worst part of it, says Roy Johnson, president of PCS Reports, Ltd., of New York. "The worst thing is that this kind of laxity erodes the work ethic," he said. "Even when no fraud is intended, and deliberate fraud is involved in fewer than 1 percent of the overpayments, in my opinion the psychological impact of this abuse on both workers and employers is bad."

Police report

Two males were arrested in Manchester early this morning after they stole $120 from the 7-11 Store at 298 Main St. in East Hartford. Police said a white male, about 6 feet tall, entered the store with a board in his hand. He slammed the board on the counter and demanded all the money. The cashier handed him $120.

The man ordered the cashier to lie on the floor while he left. The two exited in a dark-colored van. They were picked up in Manchester. James McDade, 25, of 29 Mechanics St. in Danielson, and Alan Plonik, 22, of 35 Main St., South Windsor were charged with third-degree larceny. They were released on a promise to appear in court July 31.

Three were arrested Sunday for stealing two fenders from a Volkswagen parked near the Shell gas station, 125 Darlin St. They were arrested at 6:32 p.m. Sunday. Tyrone L. Sevinig, 19, of 106 Sisson St. and John Casello Jr., 16, of 78 Connecticut Blvd., were charged with third-degree larceny. They were released on a promise to appear in court July 31.

MVD will crack down on registration dodge

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The Department of Motor Vehicles says it will begin a crack down on Connecticut residents who are trying to avoid taxes by registering their cars in Vermont.

Over the years, many Connecticut motorists have gone to Vermont to register their cars because registration fees, sales taxes and property taxes are cheaper there.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Ben Muzio said for the past two years the agency has been working with Vermont's motor vehicles department to determine the names of possible registration violators.

Muzio said his department found that about 2,000 persons may have illegally registered in Vermont. Those motorists should be receiving letters from the Connecticut DMV sometime this week, Muzio said.

Under Connecticut law, a legal resident of the state must obtain a Connecticut registration for his car. But the law allows a legal resident of Connecticut who owns property in another state to register his automobile in that state. Muzio said his department is advising the motorists in question that they will have until Aug. 15 to straighten the problem out.

Hose Co. 3 beerfest draws large crowds

By MAL BARLOW Herald Reporter EAST HARTFORD — "It seems as though everyone can enjoy Roberts Street except the people who live on it," said Mrs. Helen Stangeland of 40 Roberts St.

She was talking Sunday about the beerfest which took place Friday and Saturday nights at the Elks Pavilion which is located about in the middle of the street.

About 2,500 people came Friday night to the third annual Hose Co. 3 Beerfest. Another 2,500 came on Saturday night. The hot weather and clear skies plus the beerfest's growing reputation helped bring out the bigger than ever crowds.

Hose Co. 3 runs the beerfest to raise funds for its many sports teams in town all year. It is the only fund raiser for the social club.

In 1975 and 1977 the beerfest drew increasingly large crowds and the club of 200 members were pleased. The crowd on the two nights last summer numbered nearly 4,000.

But they were not so large the parking lot at the Elks Club on Roberts Street couldn't handle them. This year the people arriving late had to park on the street and about a quarter mile away at the Mt. Carmel Hall parking lot at 30 Roberts St.

"Our great problem was parking," said Jack Martin, a member of the club who worked on the beerfest. He said the club members Friday night were working hard serving the thousands inside the pavilion area. They were unaware of the crowds and their problems on the street.

The club had hired two police officers and had its own security force of "gentle giants" working to keep peace inside. Outside, beer drinkers were blocking the street, threatening residents and causing vandalism, police said.

Police attacked At about 12:20 a.m. a light broke out outside the pavilion. The two police officers inside, Carl Meadows and James Price, went over to it to break it up, police said.

One of the people involved, James Terriane Groskritz, was arrested at the Mayberry School. Boris is running the softball games. There will be arts and crafts, dodge ball, disco dancing, making of pinatas, story hours, and sing-alongs. Not shown above are Mrs. Groskritz's assistant, Mrs. Linda Tremonte. Police charged Westover with assault on a police officer (two counts), breach of peace and assault on a firefighter. They charged Coloski with assault on a police officer and interfering with a police officer. Westover posted $2,000 surety bond and Coloski $1,000 for their release pending appearances in court in East Hartford July 24.

Martin said, "It was the only incident inside. I've seen lights take place at wedding receptions. It's nothing unusual. It ended as fast as it began."

Saturday night Police Chief Clarence Drumm was besieged with complaints from Roberts Street neighbors and property owners Saturday. He was told his officers, Meadows and Price, had to be treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital for their injuries and might not be back on duty for several days. Drumm and the members of the club met to discuss the possible hospital for their injuries and might not be back on duty for several days. Drumm and the members of the club met to discuss the possible hospital for their injuries and might not be back on duty for several days.

The club was to hire the services of the two officers it had scheduled for Saturday night plus another 10. The members would take extra pains to keep trouble down not only inside the pavilion but also in the neighborhood. "Saturday night was a church social," said Martin. "It was a good time for all."

But Sunday at 1:30 a.m., a minor accident took place in the Mt. Carmel parking lot. The car, driven by Malcolm Mr. Miller III, 25, of Bolton was parked in the lot while he and his date, Patricia Ouellette, 27, of 174 Woodlawn Circle, East Hartford, went to the beerfest.

The couple came out and Miller left her to go to the car. He got in and fell asleep for a moment, police said. Ms. Ouellette, unknown to him, later followed him to the car and, "due to her extreme state of intoxication," sat down on the ground on the passenger side of the car, police said.

Miller woke up and started the car. As he pulled away, he heard screams and shouts and he stopped, police said. Ouellette on her right arm, right thigh and left inner ankle, police said.

Neighbors upset "We feel like trucks rolled over us all weekend," said Mrs. Stangeland Sunday.

Many residents at her end of the street and at the other, western end complained to police of the large and unruly crowds. Many people parked their cars and motorcycles on their lawns, she said.

Farmers complained of damage to their crops growing in fields along the road.

Mrs. Susan Kniep of 50 Roberts St. told of youths shouting profanities at her 75-year-old mother as they huddled with them inside her home as motorcycleists held their own stunts and they stopped, police said.

Martin and police both said Saturday night was much quieter than Friday night. Martin said the club appears to have made enough money from the two nights to fund all its sports teams. They hope to be able to stage the beerfest again next year.

Paramedics always on call for East Hartford residents

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — You're walking down the street. Suddenly, you see someone stricken. Quick, who do you call? In East Hartford, you can call 528-4171 and get medical assistance within five minutes. The town's Emergency Medical Services is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

A staff of 10 trained paramedics operate out of the Barnside Fire Station. When called they can rush to the scene in a vehicle equipped with cardiac rescue equipment.

The van allows the medics to do "almost anything that an emergency room can do," according to medic Robert Kampman.

The EMS program will be three years old this fall. In the past year it handled over 3,500 calls, or an average of eight to 10 per day.

Although many calls are routine, each call is a potential life-and-death situation. In three years, the town's medics have done everything from resuscitating a person whose heart had stopped to delivering a baby.

TV program sparked it
East Hartford is the first town in the state to start such a program. A television documentary called

"Scandalized the Ambulance" aroused interest in starting the emergency medical care program.

"The program made us aware of what was serving our own people," said Esther B. Clarke, Republican councilwoman and one of the founders of the program.

"The Jaycees asked us to review our program and possibly improve it," Mrs. Clarke said.

Mrs. Clarke joined a committee whose members included George Dagon, Odessa Terry and Stephen Barron.

The committee attended sessions in Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Florida to see how other EMS programs worked.

"That was no little job," Mrs. Clarke said. "We had to come back with the actual tests they used to train their paramedics. Then we had to find a hospital and some equipment."

"We found avenues in California and put together a paramedics test," Mrs. Clarke said.

In 1974, then governor, Thomas Meskill formed a citizens' action group to define regulations for medics. The governor made Mrs. Clarke a member of that group.

Based on the regulations the group drew up, the state's first paramedics training program was started at the University of Connecticut Medical Center in Farmington.

Recently, the UConn program graduated its second class of East Hartford paramedics. The six new medics are now training for their certificates which qualify them as full-fledged medics.

Dr. Butterfield plays role
In addition to Mrs. Clarke, a prime force behind the program is Dr. Robert K. Butterfield, Dr. Butterfield, head of the emergency room at Manchester Memorial Hospital, has offered his professional advice to the group and helped it through its early years.

"At an EMS commission meeting in June, Dr. Michael Coppinger publicly thanked Dr. Butterfield for his help. Coppinger was joined by the rest of the EMS commission in a unanimous resolution thanking Dr. Butterfield."

When the new medics are certified, they will bring the total to 12. The program now has 10 medics, but two are leaving.

The medics work in pairs. At least two answer every call. They work 10 and 14 hour shifts. They work from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. or from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. for four straight days. Then they get three days off.

Each medic is also a fire fighter. To become a medic, a fire fighter must have emergency medical training as a prerequisite.

"Volunteers for the paramedics course must go through 'an oral board,'" said medic Paul Campbell. They are questioned by several doctors.

"Those who are deemed ready may enter the UConn program. Campbell, who has been a fire fighter for 10 years, was a member of the first graduating class of medics.

"It's something that's been my interest throughout my life," says Campbell of his role.

Campbell is a Red Cross instructor in emergency medical training. He was glad when the town announced plans for an EMS program.

"We've saved quite a few lives," he said.

Kampman agrees. He said every medic is trained to save lives.

Training includes instruction in cardiac medicine, starting intravenous tubes and issuing cardiac drugs and electrocardiograms.

The EMS van has all the equipment necessary to do these things.

"The van has everything," Kampman said. "We can do almost anything in that unit, that an emergency room can do."

And the number to call for emergency medical service is 528-4171. It could have a life.

Council to review ordinance tonight

COVENTRY — The Town Council will hold a public hearing tonight at 8 p.m. on a proposed ordinance to establish a pension and retirement system for officers and employees of the town.

Although such a system has existed for many years, Town Attorney Abbott Schwelb recently discovered that no formal ordinance had been passed on the issue and advised the council to create one.

The ordinance stipulates that a pension and retirement committee be appointed by the council composed of three members who will serve without pay. The committee may contract for actuarial, legal, investment, advisory, medical, accounting, clerical, and other services to carry out its plan.

"The retirement system for officers and employees and their beneficiaries," the ordinance states, "shall be governed by the terms and conditions of the pension plan that the Pension and Retirement Committee of the Town of Coventry recommends to the Coventry Town Council."

The council is also expected to formalize its budget proposal for the present fiscal year totaling $4.5 million. The budget was aired at a public hearing last week and would utilize the $5.5 mill rate established by the council earlier this month. The mill rate for the past year was 71.

The council will also review several subdivision applications pending before the Planning and Zoning Commission to determine whether drainage and road work in the town right-of-way are acceptable.

Garden Club
The Garden Club will meet Tuesday at noon at the home of Leon Juros on Grant Hill Road. She was recently elected president of the club.

Hostesses for the event will be Anne Hicks and Bete Keller. The club will be asked to bring their own containers and flowers to make arrangements for table displays.

Poison report
During the week of June 23-29, the Vernon Police Department investigated seven reported breaks into homes and businesses. The estimated value of the goods taken is $1,000.

The breaks were into townhouses on Route 83 and at Vernon Circle, into private homes on W. Main Street, and into the Vernon Middle School. Ms. Gilberto reported her leisure time in outdoor activities. She enjoys hiking and camping and has done some backpacking.

Board challenged to test students

HEBRON — The Hebron Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools, David Cattanch, have received a challenge from Mrs. Dorothy Snider of 60 Brennan Road. Mrs. Snider requested that all students be evaluated and identified through proper diagnostic testing, to determine whether a child was gifted or talented.

The purpose of the identification was to facilitate administrative decisions for potential candidates for the Saturday morning sessions offered at Talcott Mountain Science Center in Avon. The course will start in October and continue throughout the coming academic year.

Mrs. Snider issued the challenge after the Board denied a written request for reimbursement of tuition payments and/or transportation for four students who will participate in a program titled "The Quest," offered July 21, 1978 through Aug. 4, at Talcott Mountain Science Center. This is a five day session, which offers intense investigation into all areas of science. The tuition fee is $55 for the session.

Cattanch said that these youngsters had not been identified through the formal testing process. Cattanch also said that he did not have the authority administratively to authorize payment of the tuition fees. Further, that the Board would possibly not receive reimbursement for the fees, as these students were not formally identified.

In other business, the Board voted to award the milk bid for the 1978-79 school year to Knudsen Brothers Dairy Inc. of North Haven for a price of 10.6 cents per half pint. The Leigh Oil Company of Chaplin was awarded the fuel oil bid by the board at a bid price of 10.75 cents per gallon above the New Haven Tank contract, based upon 48,000 gallons to be used and including a service differential which totaled $1,520.

Emily Abraham was appointed a school psychologist, effective Sept. 1, 1978, four days a week, with salary to be paid from Title VI funding, $3,748, and from local funding, $3,748. She has served as an intern with the Board of Education since June 1, 1977.

Committee members needed
The Rham Junior High School Building Committee is seeking one district trustee, one member from each of the three district towns, Hebron, Andover, and Marlborough.

Hebron is a graduate of Southern Connecticut State College, a sixth year candidate. She was awarded a bachelor of science degree from American University and a master of science degree from Eastern Connecticut State College.

Marjorie Jones was appointed as school art teacher, at a salary of $9,552, effective Sept. 1, 1978. She is a graduate of the University of Hartford and has taught at the Andover Elementary School from September 1976-June 1978.

In other business, the Board appointed Robin Baccetto as board clerk at a rate of $3.50 per hour. The Board approved the application for funds under Public Law 94-142 for the 1978-79 school year. Items listed on the publication include $3,000 for a full time special education secretary; $3,000 for a full time learning disabilities assistant; and a school psychologist, two days, $3,748.

The Board accepted the resignation of Richard A. Moriarty, as school physician, as he is returning to the practice of pediatric medicine in the Armed Services.

Paul White, principal of Hebron Elementary School, said that the district will receive the services of two students, for five hours a day, under the Windham Area Community Action Program. These students will perform general custodial jobs under the supervision of the principal. The funding for this program is received from CETA.

The Board then reviewed the superintendent's six year plan for the District. No action was taken at this meeting. The superintendent was commended for the document.

The Board was asked to be prepared to make suggestions for program presentations for the 1978-79 year.

The evaluation of the superintendent will be concluded at the special board meeting, to be conducted Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Central Office.

The next regular meeting of the Board will be Aug. 24, 8 p.m. in the Library, Glenside Hill School.

Scholarship awarded
ANDOVER — Sylvia Gilberto, a special education teacher in Andover, has been awarded a scholarship from the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District to attend the Ecology and Environmental Problems Workshop now in progress.

Administration and instruction is being provided by Eastern Connecticut State University. The workshop includes instruction on the environmental study course will afford her a broader background from which to plan interesting and innovative programs for her students.

Ms. Gilberto reports her leisure time in outdoor activities. She enjoys hiking and camping and has done some backpacking.

Farmers to certify
Tolland County farmers are asked to certify their 1978 planted acreage, set-aside, diversion and other program acreages with the Tolland County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Max Koelsch, county executive director of the service, said this is to insure their eligibility for receiving price support benefits, disaster, deficiency, diversion and wheat grazing payments.

The final certification date for the set-aside program is July 15. Producers who did not sign up for the set-aside program should also report their acreages to insure the opportunity to fully participate in future programs.

As soon as corn or other grains are planted, farmers may file their reports to their county office.

Circuit Theatre
The Eastern Connecticut Performing Arts Center will bring its Roadshow Revue, a circus theme event, to the Crystal Lake Fair in Ellington, July 21 at 2 p.m.

The center is funded by a Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) grant sponsored by the State of Connecticut. The center is located 403 to bring the performing arts to the public on an ongoing basis.

A troupe of eight performers will present a 45-minute production including clowns, gymnasts, trampolinists, acrobats, juggling, a woman being shot out of a cannon, a comic boxing match, a mechanical ballet, and a one-man band.

The Vernon-Ellington Newcomers Club will be hosting coffee hours this month and next for prospective members.

The club, a social one designed to introduce new residents to others in the community, meets the second Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Vernon Center Middle School, Route 30.

Activities scheduled by the group include bridge, sewing, and couples bowling. The club also sponsors charity fund raising events. Those interested in joining should contact Sally Tepper at 34 Hayes Ave., Ellington.

PZC will conduct hearings tonight

COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will conduct four public hearings as agenda items tonight at the Town Hall.

At 8 p.m. proposed amendments to the zoning regulations will be discussed which would allow special permit provisions for septic waste disposal systems in the town's rural, light industrial, and river/aquifer zones.

Coventry presently has no zones that allow commercial septic disposal although state law requires all towns to have them. The question was raised in a recent application by Tom and Anita McLaughlin to allow disposal in river/aquifer zones.

The McLaughlins' petition was turned down by the PZC as being too vague, and Town Planner Gregory Padick Regional Planning Agency draft on zoning, and a final look at the commission's budget proposal for this fiscal year.

Later in the evening the PZC will reconvene as the Inland Wetlands Commission and review wetlands fee provisions and a permit for a barn on Bread and Milk Street.

At 8:45 p.m. the PZC will continue a public meeting on the application of a building, sewing, and couples bowling. The club also sponsors charity fund raising events. Those interested in joining should contact Sally Tepper at 34 Hayes Ave., Ellington.

Morehouse-Welpy

Susan J. Welpy and Keith W. Morehouse, both of Vernon, were married June 3 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Vernon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Welpy Jr. of 146 Marlboro Road, Vernon. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edision Morehouse of Harrisburg, Pa., formerly of Vernon.

The Rev. Robert Wether of St. John's Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory chiffon gown with reembraceable Alencon lace and seed pearls and designed with fitted lace bodice, mandarin neckline, Empire waistline, Bishop sleeves with lace cuffs and a wateau chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a cap of lace and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of lilies, stephanotis, silk roses and baby's breath.

Carol Oleksiw of Concord, Mass., was the groom's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Morehouse of Pennsylvania, the bridegroom's sister, and Theresa Daley and Jean Wessell of Tolland. Elizabeth Mullen of Rockville was flower girl.

Terry Amund of Vernon served as best man. Ushers were Jim Morehouse of Vernon, the bridegroom's brother, and John Welpy and Dan Welpy, both of Vernon and brother of the bride.

Physical education program to be realigned for fall

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — The physical education program at the Vernon school system has been realigned and the new program will go into effect when schools open in the fall.

The program is all encompassing — there is something for all students from the gifted to those with learning disabilities.

The Board of Education, in May, approved changes in the program after having many conferences with the supervisors and the administrators of Rockville High School and the Middle School.

As a result of these conferences it was recommended, and approved by the board, that the responsibilities of the supervisors, Mrs. Claire Albom and Richard Tingley, be realigned.

Mrs. Albom will be in complete charge of curricular and supervisory responsibilities of all K-6 physical education programming; all 1-6 intramural programming; all 1-6 physical education for the handicapped; and all K-12 Health and Drug Education programming.

Tingley will be in complete charge of curricular and supervisory responsibilities of all 7-12 physical education programming; all 7-12 intramural programming; all 7-12 competitive athletics programming; and all of the responsibilities of the director of athletics.

Tingley will be in complete charge of the intramurals program provides an opportunity for all students to participate and provides competition for appropriate skill and ability levels. She also said it can help non-athletic students who are participating in sports but who are not gifted enough for varsity competition.

Cited as other advantages of the intramurals program, were the fact that students are more comfortable participating with peers of the same skill level, without pressure; and the fact that the program exposes students to a greater variety of activities for life-time participation. She listed among the disadvantages, the fact that the word intramurals in itself is degrading. She said students feel it can be compared in essence to the student that is considered college prep to the general course.

She also cited as disadvantages: Students do not receive recognition by peers, teachers, coaches, or administrators; they don't have uniforms and such, all the things that help give students a better self-image; and that the time and effort put in by these students doesn't receive the same reward or award.

She said everyone should be concerned, the Board of Education, administrators, teachers, coaches and physical education people, that having good leisure time skills and good healthy leisure time activities.

The intramurals program at Rockville High School includes the following activities for the girls: Soccer, archery, tennis, golf, gymnastics, folk dancing, basketball, bowling, badminton, ping pong, softball, hiking and bicycling. Programs are arranged according to the seasons.

This year the boys' program included: Flag football, soccer, archery, golf, tennis, basketball, ping pong, bowling, softball, hiking and bicycling. To be added are: Gymnastics, riflery, speedball, badminton, and volleyball. The program at Middle School is similar but modified.

The intramurals program is strictly voluntary on the part of the student. Activities are offered on students on a structured or unstructured basis. The intramural activities are conducted after school from a minimum of 3:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The board provided, in the coming year's budget, for after school bus service to allow more students to participate in after school activities.

Special programs
Based on the philosophy that all good education encompasses the broad philosophy that each child should be developed to his fullest potential, the school system also has an exceptional program for trainable mentally retarded children at the Talcottville School.

A curriculum guide for this program was developed and put into effect this past school year. It was prepared by Mrs. Albom and Constant Kolecko, a teacher at the school.

In preparing the program they had to take into consideration the fact that in addition to being retarded, these children have other handicaps. The teachers said they have a short attention span, there can be difficulty in controlling behavior; they can have difficulty in focusing on material; in motion or static material; and they may have problems of perception.

Therefore, a program to suit the individual needs of all of these students had to be developed.

When developing the program, Mrs. Albom and Ms. Kolecko noted three objectives — physical, mental, and social-emotional.

The guide says that these children respond exceptionally well to music therefore exercise routines are learned to music and this also helps develop rhythm.

Students at the Talcottville School have been exposed to physical and outdoor physical education program for the past seven years. A new gymnasium added a few years ago has enabled the instructors to totally implement the program.

Tingley has charge of the physical education program for the handicapped in motion or static material. The intramural program stressed the need for cooperation in this portion of the program especially as the children move from one level of instruction to the other.

Mrs. Albom said programs are the profoundly retarded students for in the process of being developed.

Council work session will review plans for school

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Town Council will meet in worksession tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers and the caucus room of the South Windsor Junior High School.

Included on the agenda will be a review of the agreement between the Board of Education and the Town of South Windsor for the use of Wapping School.

Council is expected to tell Grassroots East delegates that he will give full support to the Kemp-Roth Bill which would cut federal personal income taxes by 30 percent over a three-year period; a review of the declining enrollment. A portion of that school will be eventually used as an annex for the high school and a portion will be used by the town for community activities.

The town recently received a $31,540 estimate for renovations to the school building.

Also included on the worksession agenda are the following items:

- Presentation by the South Windsor Land Conservation Trust group in the Council Chambers. The discussion is expected to last about 30 minutes.
- A meeting with the Sewer Commission to discuss finding of sanitary sewer inspection.
- Discussion of questions raised by Mrs. Ann Marsh in a letter to the council on May 31, 1978.
- Disclosure of Interest Ordinance.
- Review of School Supt. Robert Goldman's June 20 letter regarding the establishment of a revolving account for custodial services.
- Review of School Supt. Robert Goldman's letter regarding union negotiations.
- Town Manager's report.
- Public is invited to participate on all agenda items.

Other business
The council will hold two public hearings on Monday, July 17 in the Council Chambers of Twpn Hall.

At 7:15, the council will consider the issue of a new Sewer Commission. Funds in the amount of $25,125 for renovations at Wapping School as proposed by the Council Task Force on Community Facilities.

At 7:30 p.m., the council will hold a Public Hearing to consider the relocation of Pleasant Valley Road. On July 24 at 7:30 p.m., the council will hold a Public Hearing to consider amending Ordinance 10-201, Building Permit Fee Schedule, as proposed by the building inspector.

All interested persons may appear and be heard at the public hearings. A copy of the proposed changes or ordinance is available at the town clerk's office, Town Hall.

Eisler records
BERLIN (UPI) — A total of 21 phonograph records were included in the works of the late composer Hanns Eisler have been produced in recent years, according to the East German news agency ADN.

Three new records will leave the press shortly, including the "Deutscher Symphonie" (German Symphony) Eisler composed in 1953 at the request of Bert Brecht. It is played by East Berlin State Opera orchestra under the baton of Walter Goehr.

Roesler resigns director's post

VERNON — Stanley Roesler, the town's director of administration for the past four years has resigned that post to take a position in the Wethersfield school system as business manager.

Roesler will start in Wethersfield with a salary of $24,000. His salary in Vernon, for the current fiscal year was $21,917. He will start his new position on Aug. 7. He is now on vacation from his Vernon job, to resign since early this year.

John Loranger, the town planner, resigned in April; Judith Chanoux, assistant planner, resigned a week later.

Loranger resigned to go into the private consulting business and Ms. Chanoux resigned as a technical advisor for the New Haven Planning Commission.

One employee of the planning department, Ms. Judith Glass, left to take a position in the Framingham, Mass., Planning Department. None of the three has been replaced to date although the town has been interviewing planners.

Roesler has been director of administration since 1974. He replaced Richard Borden who was here to do the honors of pinning on the coveted badge. John, who is 15, is a student at East Catholic High School in Manchester. His father is scoutmaster of Troop 880. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Hottest hitter added to AL All-Stars

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The National League will be facing the American League's hottest hitter after all.

Larry Hise, the Milwaukee Brewers' slugging outfielder who is earning every penny of his big free agent salary with 19 home runs, 58 RBIs and .302 average while leading his team into second place in the Eastern Division, will join the American League for the 49th All-Star game.

Hise was selected neither as a starter by the fans nor as a substitute by New York Yankee manager Martin, but he was named to the Eastern Division leading Red Sox, and Thurston Munson, who had three problems are one reason why the Yankees are 11½ games out of the lead, will both be on the sidelines.

But for the American League, which has lost 14 of the last 15 games and six in a row, a hot hitter is almost a necessity. And after the way Hise manhandled the Yankees in their weekend series with Milwaukee, there was really only one choice for the squad.

square Sunday by league president Lee MacPail after Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles pulled out on an injured toe.

Hise is coming off the most productive week of the season, hitting two home runs in two consecutive games as Milwaukee swept three straight games from the Yankees. Two of Hise's home runs came off Ron Guidry, helping the Brewers send the Yankees' star left-hander to his first loss of the season after 13 victories.

Besides Nettles, two other prominent American Leaguers have pulled out of the game. Carl Yastrzemski, enjoying a marvelous season for the

"It's always pleasing to make an All-Star team," he said. "Last year was my first and deep down I hoped that I could repeat. I found out late last night and no one was more surprised than I was."

Hise joins fellow Brewers Don Money and Larry Sorensen — and he is thrilled about it.

"If you look around the league, there are three or four players who are even more worthy than I am," he said. "But I worked hard in the week and this makes it all worthwhile."

Dwight Evans, Yastrzemski's teammate whom many felt should have been picked for the original 25-man squad, will replace Yaz, and Darrell Porter, the Kansas City Royals' catcher, will fill in for Munson. Bill Poceroba of the Atlanta Braves is the replacement for Bench.

"There are just so many guys from our team who can be picked," said Evans, referring to his late selection.

"I'm a private type of guy. The respect of my teammates and other players around the league means more to me than fan attention."

Yida Blue of San Francisco or Tom Seaver of Cincinnati and either Jim Palmer of Baltimore or Frank Tanana of California are the likely starting pitchers.

In keeping with All-Star tradition, neither manager is expected to name his starter until today, but NL skipper Tom Lasorda of Los Angeles as indicated he would probably choose between Blue and Seaver because each last pitched Friday and would have had three days rest.

Blue would seem to be the logical choice since he is an ex-American League All-Star and has had plenty of experience pitching against the current crop of AL stars. If Blue is selected, he would become the first pitcher in baseball history ever to start an All-Star game for each league. Blue, formerly of the Oakland A's, was the starter and the winner for the AL in 1971 — the last time the AL beat the NL — and started again in 1975.

Sweden's Bjorn Borg took one step forward in his bid to be the No. 1 male tennis player in the world with an easy straight set win over Jimmy Connors in Wimbledon finals. (UPI photo)

Grand slam Borg's goal
WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Bjorn Borg, having noticed his third straight Wimbledon title, is setting his sights on the tennis grand slam.

bookmakers were offering odds of 7-1 against Borg becoming the first man since Fred Perry in 1936 to win the three years running.

The pressure on Borg was enormous and it was his rival Connors, who looked the shade more impressive in advancing to the final.

The 23-year-old left-handed American from Belleville, Ill., was edged out by Borg in last year's dramatic five-set final and was anxious to win back the crown he held in 1974.

"Now Borg, having seen up the French Open and Wimbledon, is halfway to adding another victory to his phenomenal success story."

The Swede tackles the third leg of the Slam in the U.S. Open at Flushing Meadows next month and if all goes well he will make only his second attempt to the Australian event in December.

Australia is not normally on Borg's busy tennis itinerary.

"I think I'll have to do it this time," said Borg when asked if he would go to Australia if the Grand Slam was at stake. "It means a lot to me. Before, there was no way I could dream to win the Grand Slam. I never could imagine to win the French and Wimbledon because they are so close to each other."

Nothing seems beyond the capabilities of the supercharged Swede. Before Wimbledon.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's an incredible statistic that hits you squarely in the face like a wet drag.

"Only one member of the club has hit in double figures for home runs this season and he, Dave Kingman, with 16, is on the disabled list."

"I've been pulling away from the ball," admitted Murcer, who despite his lack of home run production has been safely in his last 13 games and boosted his average to .270. "I've been having a concentration problem at the plate."

Nevertheless, Murcer was pleased with his homer, which came off All-Star Pat Zachry in the third inning after a two-out double by Bill Buckner, because it was hit at Shea Stadium where he has never hit but 26 home runs very frequently.

PEE WEE East: Meteors 2 (Tim McConnell, Tony McCarthy), Indians (Egils Ramana, Devin Marquez and Karl Marble played well). Bulls 3 (Wayne Hollingsworth 3, Lions 2 (Mike Vassallo, Sean O'Donnell). Goal in first overtime on.

Friday night at Fitzgerald Field. Final score was 21-9. Welding big bats for the Marketens were Mike Tierney and George Brook each had two hits each. Rich Rabe with four and Pete Devaney, Bill Allen and Dick Lewis with three bingles each in the sixth and seventh. Best for the losers were Ward Goehne, Mark Boutre and John Gavian. Butch Savino and Ted Angel were in the two-hit class.

Two runs in the top of the seventh inning on a sacrifice by Ron Nivison and RBI single by Bob Balko lifted Acadia past Gus's, 8-6, Friday at Nike Field.

Mark Kravonka had two doubles and Kevin Kravonka, Balok and John Mizoras also hit well for Acadia. Greg Miodinski and Lloyd Souther each had two bingles for Gus's.

CR/CL interrupted the final contest of the Capital Region Girls Fast Pitch League tournament Sunday with Form's 10m holding a 2-1 lead over Gladstone. The game will be resumed Wednesday night at 9.

Accept entry

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - The Eastern Basketball Association voted unanimously Saturday to accept the Rochester Zeniths into the league for the 1978-79 season.

The team last year was a member of the All-America Basketball Alliance, which folded after one month of play.

Junior Legion posts triumph

Ken Hill hurdled a three-hitter, striking out 11, to lead Manchester Junior Legion to a 2-1 win over Bloomfield Saturday morning at Bloomfield High.

A contest against Enfield yielded at Fern Hill which was rained out in the fourth inning by heavy thunderstorms.

The Junior Legion club now 6-4 overall, hosts Bloomfield tonight at Eagle Field before resuming J.C. Courant League play Tuesday night against unbeaton Society for Savings. Both games have 6 o'clock starts.

Seven runs in the second inning powered Janitorial to its win despite mustering only three hits. John McCarthy singled and doubled to support the one-hit, 13-strikeout performance of winning hurler Ryan Woodcock.

Trevino's legs gave out and Lee Elder triumphed

FRANKLIN, Wis. (UPI) - As soon as the teed off on the 197-yard eighth hole, Lee Trevino seemed to sense the sudden death playoff was over. He grimaced as he landed in a sand trap, then walked slowly to the green with his head down. Along the way, he paused to say a few words to his opponent, Lee Elder.

"He told me, 'Oh, I'm so tired, my legs are gone,'" Elder said, moments after winning the $150,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Sunday. And in a bitter irony, Trevino knew — perhaps more than anyone else on the Tackaway Country Club course — what to expect from tired legs. "Once the legs go, it's all over," he had told reporters early last week. "Because then a golfer has to play with his shoulders. And it can't be done."

It couldn't be done Sunday. Trevino, who had shadowed Elder through four rounds, forced the playoff by sinking a dramatic 16-foot birdie putt on the final green. It gave him a round of 68, 4-under-par, and tied him with Elder at 276, 18-under-par, for 72 holes.

Trevino missed 5-foot birdie putts on the second and fourth holes, and a 3-footer on the seventh. And, after blasting out of the sand to within 6 feet on the eighth, his bid for a par stopped inches shy of the cup. Elder, who drove to within 12 feet of the hole, gently two-putted for the victory.

It was a super tournament, an exhausted Elder told reporters. "Not only because I won, but because I played so well all four rounds. I can't tell you how happy I am about that."

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) - Sprawled across the green in a straight-backed chair, Jane Blalock sipped a beer and managed a smile when a reporter asked her how tired she was.

"Very tired," she said, sighing. Winning golf tournaments, she said, is hard work — especially winning in the grand style she did Sunday in the Wheeling LPGA Classic with a tournament record, 9-under-par 68-67-72-67.

Blalock's seven-stroke victory over Kathy Martin was her second straight trophy on the pro tour and her third of the year, boosting her season's earnings to $72,961, she preceded last week's victory in the Mayflower Classic with back-to-back, second-place finishes.

"I've had a chance to win four weeks in a row and that's very difficult," Blalock said. "I could feel it coming down the stretch — I'm really tired. I was just about running out of adrenalin. I don't think I could play another week right now without my body getting hurt."

Therefore, she said, she is skipping the next stop on the tour, the Borden Classic in Dublin, Ohio. She will spend a few days back in her native New Hampshire, take in a few Boston Red Sox games and then get ready for the U.S. Women's Open July 20-23 in Indianapolis.

Blalock and the tour's leading money winner, rookie Nancy Lopez, who skipped the Wheeling Classic to vacation, will be the only multiple tourney winners in the prestigious event. Lopez has won seven tourneys this year.

"Why? How many strokes did you want to win by?" she was asked. "By as many as possible. I wanted to play aggressive. Aggressive play means a lot of mistakes. I want to develop. Besides, you can't trust anyone nowadays; anything can happen out there."

ALUMNI JUNIOR Standings: Liggett Parkade 10-0, Mari-Mads 8-2, Moriarty Bros. 6-4, Nasiff Arms 4-4, Moriarty Fuel 3-7, Credit Union 3-7, Krause Florist 3-7, Heritage Savings & Loan 2-8. COLT INTER-TOWN The Manchester Merchants' hats were hot as the weather yesterday as they slugged their way to a 13-7 win over Willimantic 'A' in the first game of a twinnin in Willimantic.

The second game against Willimantic 'B' was called after six innings because of darkness with the clubs deadlocked at 2-2. The win moved the Merchants into a first place tie with Manchester Crispin's.

Jon Brandt had four hits, Cary Cuff in three and Dave Lauran and Steve Pyka each scored three times for the Merchants. Scott Coleman picked up his fourth win without a loss with strong relief work from Bob Berdet.

Blalock's sacrifice fly knocked it for Manchester in the sixth against Bloomfield while in the seventh, Alex Britnell singled and pinch-hitter Jack Lyon walked. Mike Oleksinski grounded into a force at third with Hill playing jamming the bases. Joe Panaro's sharp grounder to short was booted, Lyon scored was the winner.

Baseball Buycy to stay BOSTON (UPI) — Johnny Buycy, for 21 years a fixture at left wing of the Boston Bruins, has agreed to remain with the club next season in a non-playing capacity. General Manager Harry Sinden said today. Buycy, 41, saw limited action with the Bruins last season and did not play in the Stanley Cup finals against Montreal. He is second leading scorer in National Hockey League history.

"We put a deal together for Buycy and we want him to stay with the Bruins for a long time," Sinden said. "He's going to be our Jean Beliveau working in many different capacities with the organization."

Since Beliveau retired from the Canadian ice, he has moved into the front office as a goodwill ambassador for the organization.

"We'll try to utilize Buycy the best way we can," Sinden said. "He'll do some work for me, some for Paul Moroney (Bruins president) and maybe work for some of our minor league clubs."

Buycy was thinking of playing out his option this year with the Bruins. He captained the team for the last several seasons. He won the Lady Byng trophy (for sportsmanship and ability) in 1971 and was first team all-star the same season.

WORDS AREN'T NEEDED TO EXPRESS

...BUT THEY WILL SELL YOUR EXCESS ITEMS IN THE WANT ADS!

We are in the business of selling words -- at an extremely low cost per word. These are words that can go to work for you in the Articles for Sale columns of our Classified Advertising section.

You will be amazed how a few well-chosen words can result in extra cash for you. It's simply a matter of going through your storage spaces and selecting the articles you have discarded but which are still in serviceable condition. Then you call our Ad-Visor, a past master in the use of words that sell. She will help you compose a sales message that will have your telephone jingling a merry tune -- like the jingle of cash in your pockets.

Words are what the Want Ad business is all about, and one of the nicest combinations of letters is found in the word "bargain." Want Ads are loaded with bargains in all kinds of merchandise -- household furnishings, appliances, toys, cars, bikes, houses and apartments, machinery, and scores of other items at great savings.

Classified is another word for home owners who need help on a renovation or repair job around the house. They'll find scores of service specialists ready to perform expert work at reasonable cost.

People also run across some intriguing words in the Help Wanted columns -- words that can mean a brand new job and a brighter future. Employers depend on these words to find needed help.

Words fail us when we try to explain all the benefits and advantages of the Want Ads. But they won't fail you when you use Classified.

Blues bonus
Late-night pub-crawlers who went to hear Muddy Waters and his band play the blues on Chicago's north side got the bonus of the season Saturday night. Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones -- leaving 80,000 fans screaming for more at Soldier Field -- dropped in at the Quiet Knight tavern where Waters was playing a tribute to bluesman Willie Dixon. Jagger, with Stone guitarist Keith Richards, and Ron Wood, joined in the gig, trading vocals with Waters while about 700 in the crowd sang along. It wasn't an unusual event. The Stones make a habit of surprise appearances after their major concerts.

Even split
Never let it be said that Valerie Harper doesn't practice what she preaches. The star of the TV series "Rhoda" -- in Seattle to visit her sister, Lea Winward -- led about 1,500 marchers Saturday on behalf of the Equal Rights Amendment. She's in the process of divorcing Richard Scall, her husband of 13 years, but even though she's been the main breadwinner in the marriage, she told the crowd she won't go for more than half the community property -- says that's "the reverse of what I am fighting for with the ERA." And where does ERA stand? Says Ms. Harper, it's now a battle of "Cold cash and hard politics."

The groom squad
The Army calls them "Courtesy Patrols," but to Wisconsin Congressman Les Aspin, they're "groomtrotters" -- and they're not worth $200 a year. Aspin says the patrols prowl around Fort Polk, La., with authorization to ticket soldiers caught in such off-base merrymaking as hitchhiking, failure to salute, littering, walking with hands in pockets and being untidy in uniform. To Aspin, it's a waste of the taxpayers' money and he wants it stopped. Says he, "Whoever dreamed this up ought to be ticketed for his own poor personal appearance -- working without his head screwed on."

Climpsey
Butterfly McQueen -- best remembered for her role as the squeaky-voiced little girl who didn't know anything about "birthing babies" in "Come with the Wind" -- debuts the first nightclub act of her career next month at New York's Reno Sweeney's. Balloonists to try again

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) -- The leader of a trio of New Mexico adventurers who hope to be the first balloonists to cross the Atlantic says an unsuccessful trip last year will help insure they achieve fame and fortune this September.

"The odds of someone making it who hasn't attempted it before are not very good. In fact, the odds are very slim indeed," Ben Abruzzo of Albuquerque, N.M., said Sunday in an interview. "This year, we are going to make it."

Last Sept. 10, Abruzzo, 48, and Maxie Anderson, 44, also of Albuquerque, took off from Marsfield, Mass., with Europe as their destination. They ended up ditched and frostbitten in the North Atlantic just inside the Arctic Circle. This year to help defray the cost and to give each man more chance to rest they've added a third crew member, Larry Newman, 30, who is president of an Albuquerque hand glider firm. Newman will take a glider with him and hopefully swoop the last few thousand feet to Europe on his own.

Abruzzo said the trio as decided to launch from northern Maine sometimes this September because that is where the weather is most likely to be favorable for a trans-Atlantic balloon voyage.

"September comes after the summer thunderstorms and before the bad winter weather," he said. "Crossing the Atlantic is a problem anytime, though, because weather information is very sketchy at low altitudes."

Casino predicted for Maine resort

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine (UPI) -- Local officials and businessmen predict it is only a matter of time before one of the East Coast's oldest resort towns will be trying to lure gamblers away from New Jersey's new casinos.

"It's about time the state faced up to the losses we'll suffer with Atlantic City having gambling," Chamber of Commerce Director Mary Touseignant said Sunday.

"If we could get one very classy casino under strict control, and I think we will, it would be just what we need.

"I think it will be a reality sooner than people think. The tourist areas are in direct competition for the same market. We're going to have to compete," she said.

Democratic Sen. Peter Danton, who represents Old Orchard Beach, said although the Legal Affairs Committee endorsed a casino gambling bill 12-1 it was defeated in the last legislative session.

Danton said the casino gambling bill was rejected simply "because we had just finished approving the state lottery and people wanted to see how that went before getting into casinos.

Things were moving too fast for us to approve it last time."

CIC Development Inc. of Providence, R.I. is studying ways to replace a historic pier at Old Orchard Beach destroyed during a storm last winter. The firm contends a "soft impact" casino aimed at tourists could be successful in Maine.

"That kind of gambling, without a huge airport bringing people in, would fit well at Old Orchard," CIC architect Morris Nathanson said. "I don't think they need the really giant casinos like they have in Las Vegas. You have to design the casinos for vacationers who want to gamble, not for professional gamblers."
