SALT talks under way

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held a brief first round of arms limitation talks today under the darkening cloud of the dissident trials in the Soviet Union.

An American spokesman said Vance proposed a protective safeguards system for land-based missiles.

The meeting — excluding procedural matters and a photo session — lasted just over one hour at the American mission overlooking Lake Geneva.

The spokesman said Vance made the only presentation and Gromyko asked for an adjournment to study the U.S. proposal.

The spokesman said the two sides would meet again later today and the Soviets were expected to give a preliminary response to the American proposal.

The second session also was to deal with the question of human rights, an issue which has hung over the nuclear weapons negotiations.

Toth's statement submitted in trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — The prosecution in the trial of Anatoly Shcharansky today introduced a statement signed last summer by American correspondent Robert Toth as part of its treason case against the Soviet dissident.

In the town of Kaluga, 110 miles away, the wife of Jewish activist Alexander Ginzburg was kept away from her husband's trial for a second day because she shouted "it's a lie" at a prosecution witness.

A Moscow court spokesman said prosecutors at today's closed-door session of the Shcharansky trial read into the record the text of a statement signed by Toth last June after a week of interrogation by the KGB.

The Soviets have made it clear they intend to prove Shcharansky had extensive contacts with Toth, a former Moscow correspondent for the Los Angeles Times who the Soviets have accused of spying.

The court spokesman said

Shcharansky had nothing to say about the Toth deposition.

The court also summoned a team of Soviet security experts — presumably KGB officials — who examined the information Shcharansky had provided Toth and other correspondents.

"The experts then read out the text of their written conclusion saying that the information on the defense industry of the U.S.S.R. and its installations which Shcharansky is said to have forwarded to the West is absolutely secret and constitutes a state secret of the U.S.S.R.," the court spokesman told reporters.

According to a lengthy dispatch Toth published after his departure, he signed two protocols or transcripts of his answers to interrogation. In the first, signed June 14, 1977, he answered questions about biographical details and how he gathered information for his stories in the Soviet Union.

The other, signed June 15, covered questions about how he met Shcharansky and what type of help and information Shcharansky gave him.

At the Moscow courthouse, Shcharansky's relatives waited outside until a court official summoned his brother Leonid and escorted him inside.

The defendant's mother, Ida Migrom, rushed to the barricade and asked that she also be allowed inside but was told "not today — maybe tomorrow."

Mrs. Migrom told reporters: "I regard this as a mockery of a mother not to be allowed into this courtroom."

"I cheered for joy when I heard my son was going on trial because I thought I would finally get the chance to see him."

Town's plan outdated, but revamp cost high

By GREG PEARSON

Manchester's Comprehensive Plan of Development is growing old and needs care, but such treatment is expensive, Alan Lamson, town planner, said.

The plan, done 15 years ago, is a guideline for how the town should be developed and zoned.

Some parts of the plan are outdated, Lamson said. For instance, the plan shows Spencer Street as an area for industrial development.

Because of its location and road construction in recent years, Spencer Street has become a good spot for commercial development, Lamson said.

Another area of town is listed as a possible location for a Rural Residential Zone development. It is now the site of a highway interchange, he said.

The plan is intended as a guide and not as a rulebook that has to be followed step-by-step. But, it is a good idea to keep it updated, Lamson said.

The plan should change as conditions do. I don't think that's happened," he said.

Parts of the Comprehensive Plan of Development are still accurate and in little need of change. The section about open-space acquisition is still timely, Lamson said.

Also, other regulations connected with zoning — such as business and industrial zone guidelines and zoning and subdivision regulations — have been updated in the past and do not need sweeping changes.

"The thing that needs a look is the future land use of Manchester," Lamson said. Some factors that might affect land development today, such as recently constructed highways, were not around in 1963 when the plan was done.

The Comprehensive Plan of Development shows much of Manchester's vacant land as sites for Rural Residential Zone development. Most of this property is in the outskirts of the town and would be more difficult to develop than the more centrally located land.

Well-served and hilly sections make development more difficult in the outlying areas. Other factors, such as the feasibility of sewer and water service, also should be weighed when considering residential development in these areas, Lamson said.

Lamson, in the past, has mentioned updating the Comprehensive Plan of Development. The main roadblock is the price.

He estimated that the cost, just to update portions of the plan, is about $20,000-$25,000. Joe Stack, a Comprehensive Employment Training Act employee in the Planning Office, was doing mapping work that would be one of the groundwork steps for updating the plan.

Danbury approves O'Sullivan for post

Timothy O'Sullivan, Manchester's highway superintendent, will be leaving next week to take a job as director of public works in Danbury.

Danbury's Common Council met Tuesday night and unanimously approved O'Sullivan to fill the position of director of public works.

O'Sullivan had been recommended by the mayor to fill the post. He will start work in Danbury Monday, July 24. He has announced that he will resign from his Manchester job effective Friday, July 21.

O'Sullivan came to Manchester two years ago. He has been praised for his work in the Highway Department, which has included reducing the department's budget and the number of grievances received from highway employees.

His stay in Manchester did have its rocky moments, though. He sometimes disagreed with Town Manager Robert Weiss and Director of Public Works Jay Giles. He twice submitted resignations, including one this April. Both times, however, he and town officials reached agreements and he decided to stay.

O'Sullivan said that the experience and help he received from others in Manchester was one of the reasons he was able to get the Danbury position.

The job in Danbury represents a step up for O'Sullivan. He will be in charge of the Public Works Department, which has an annual budget of about $5-6 million, larger than Manchester.

The position is similar to the one Giles holds in Manchester. O'Sullivan will oversee a number of departments that have separate department heads.

Ulster Protestants mark Boyne Battle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — An estimated 100,000 Protestants gathered throughout Northern Ireland today to stage traditional July 12 parades celebrating a Protestant victory over the Catholics almost 300 years ago.

On the border with the Irish Republic, a British soldier and a civilian were killed when the a booby trap bomb went off at Crossmaglen. Police said the bombing appeared to be the work of the Irish Republican Army.

Security forces ringed the large Roman Catholic areas in Belfast to guard against violence during the parades. Five policemen were injured in early scuffles with Protestants in Belfast.

Police and British troops also erected screens so residents in the Catholic neighborhoods could not see the Protestants as they paraded through the city playing favorite marching tunes.

An estimated 100,000 Orangemen — or Protestant marchers — were expected to participate in the parades marking the 1690 Battle of the Boyne when King William's forces defeated those of King James.

Blast's death toll could reach 245

SAN CARLOS DE LA RAPITA, Spain (UPI) — Spanish officials said today most of the victims of Tuesday's camping disaster were burned to death when a tank truck carrying volatile liquid gas exploded and sent a river of flaming liquid "just like napalm" onto the vacationers.

Late today many of the victims were laid out in plain brown wooden coffins under the shade of cypress trees at the hilltop Tortosa cemetery. Relatives and friends crowded in seeking loved ones but identification was impossible in most cases because the charred condition of the bodies.

The explosion and flames that shot hundreds of feet into the air killed at least 108 people, many of them European tourists take advantage of cheap Spanish vacation prices along the beautiful stretch of Mediterranean beaches known as the Costa Blanca, or white coast.

Officials said the death toll could rise — perhaps to 245 or more — because so many of the dozens of persons now in hospitals suffered fearful burns suffered when the river of death engulfed the campsite at noon while most of the vacationers were preparing lunch on small gas stoves.

The gas stoves also exploded, adding to the horror that a survivor likened to Hiroshima.

Among the changes proposed by the commission are new conflict-of-interest standards for town officials, change the town clerk and treasurer from elective to appointive positions, and increase the mayor and town directors' salaries.

The directors will eventually decide which of the proposed changes to place on a November referendum.

The proposed changes more clearly define many of the charter's provisions.

Some of the proposals are:

- Prohibit town employees (paid staff, town directors and members of the Planning and Zoning Commission) from appearing before planning and zoning boards except in matters concerning the employee's own home.
- Extend definition of conflicts to include accepting gifts intended to influence town employees' performance.
- Remove the town clerk and treasurer positions from the ballot. These positions would become appointed positions, with the treasurer's office to become the director of finance.
- The commission is recommending also that salaries of town officials be doubled as follows: the mayor to a level of $1,500, $1,350 for the deputy mayor, $1,200 for the board secretary, and $1,000 for other directors.

chain reaction of blasts from campers' bottled gas tanks hurling bodies about the beach. Officials said 180 were killed and 600 injured in the disaster. (UPI photo)

Public to speak today on changes in charter

The public will have a chance to air its feelings tonight at 8 about changes to the town's charter proposed by the Charter Revision Commission.

The hearing will be in the hearing room at Lincoln Center.

This will be the public's final chance to comment before the proposals go to the town's Board of Directors.

Taxpayers appeal their assessments

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A number of Manchester taxpayers, including a large manufacturer and the town's largest individual taxpayer, have filed tax appeals in Hartford's Court of Common Pleas.

The Rogers Corp. has appealed the assessment of its plant property at 24 Mill St. The property has been assessed at $755,598.

Raymond Damato, who owns a number of apartment buildings in town and is the largest individual taxpayer, has appealed the assessments on some of his properties.

The properties he listed in his appeal are as follows: (The assessments of the properties, including land, building and personal property are listed: 1 Main St., $110,870; 106-122 New State Road, $649,530; 162 Homestead St., $232,920; 166-182 Homestead St., $962,170; 19-27 Henry St., $407,460; 24 Homestead St., $45,820; 189 W. Middle Turnpike, $57,220; 25 Congress St., $49,190; and 568-576 Hilliard St., $150,940.)

Damato also appealed a property he owns with his brother, Louis C. Damato.

Together, they filed an appeal against the $14,650 assessment of property at 19 Congress St.

A tax appeal also was filed by John C. Reg and Bernice A. Reg in connection with the following assessments: 838 E. Middle Turnpike, $127,900; 784 E. Middle Turnpike, $130,700; 802 E. Middle Turnpike, $19,500; 93 Overlook Drive, $9,400; 101 Overlook Drive, $5,300; and 23 Dale Road, $1,800.

The Sycamore Corp. of America, West Hartford, has appealed the assessment of property at 104-104 Main St., the site of Manchester State Bank. The property and building are assessed at $414,250.

An appeal also was filed in connection with apartments on Charles Drive. Charles Ponticelli is appealing the assessments for property and buildings at 23 Charles Drive, $338,300, 50 Charles Drive, $398,900, as well as 175 E. Middle Turnpike, $145,350 and 169 E. Middle Turnpike, $11,050.

The following taxpayers also have filed appeals:

- Allen M. Ward, property on Adams Street, $298,720.
- Clarence J. Jeffers, property at the corner of West Middle Turnpike and Center Street (Gas station), $111,160, property on Center Street, $6,800.
- Efreem Jaffe, Barney Wichman and David Wichman, property at the corner of Main and Haynes streets, $123,290.
- W. David Keith, property at 95 W. Middle Turnpike, $123,960.
- Judith W. Mrosek, property at 109 Waranoke Road, $86,750.
- Janet G. DeCianis, administrator of the estate of Anthony Damato, property at 212 McKee St., $34,480.
- Attorney Thomas Prior, assistant town counsel, estimated that about 30 tax appeals have been filed by Manchester taxpayers. The number is more than usual in one year, but about what would be expected with the recently completed revaluation, he said.

Court grants disability to ex-employee

A former Town of Manchester employee will receive full disability payments as a result of an on-the-job accident four years ago, the state Supreme Court ruled.

Denis A. English, who now lives in Dennisport, Mass., has been unable to work steadily since the accident Jan. 9, 1974, when the town truck he was riding in collided with a state snowplow.

After the accident, he complained of a headache and was treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital and referred to his family physician. Later, English suffered neck, shoulder and back problems as well as fainting spells.

His physician and specialists in this area and in Boston were unable to determine about a wall in his building that has cracked. That problem, as well as the road problems, are believed to be connected with the undersurface shifting.

A nearby business, Dillon Ford, has complained about a wall in its building that has cracked. That problem, as well as the road problems, are believed to be connected with the undersurface shifting.

O'Sullivan said the contractor the town will use is now doing work for the state and will not be available until July 24.

About 14-15 miles of roads in town will be repaved, he said.

The Supreme Court upheld previous rulings by the workers' compensation board and by Common Pleas Court Judge Walter Pickett granting the disability payments.

Travelers Insurance Co. will pay the disability costs.

English, who worked in the Public Works Department and was once president of the union representing department employees, was represented by attorney Jerome Walsh.

The Supreme Court decision covers a period of about two years from the time disability payments were stopped in mid-1974 to the time of the compensation board's decision, Walsh said. He said that the continuation of further disability payments to the present is not covered by the Supreme Court's decision.

Walsh also said that there is a case pending against the state in connection with the 1974 accident.

Transmission firm appeals

The owner of Manchester Transmission Inc. said today that the firm will appeal a Zoning Board of Appeals decision that it cannot expand its business at 161 W. Middle Turnpike.

The firm had sought a special exception to expand its garage. This was denied by the ZBA, along with a request to extend a Business II Zone use into an abutting zone and to create a front yard variance.

Malcolm Kerr, owner of the business, said that the firm plans to appeal the ZBA's denial.

The public hearing for the requests was held May 15 and attracted a large group of neighbors who opposed the requests. They said that expansion of the business would lead to increased noise and traffic in the area.

The ZBA held a rare morning meeting June 27 and voted to deny the requests from Manchester Transmission Inc. Edward Colman was the only member to vote in favor of granting the applications.

The other ZBA members cited the possibility of increased noise as a major reason for turning the application down.

Colman said that the present noise level would not be increased greatly by expansion.

Attorney Joel Janenda, who represented the firm, indicated after the ZBA decision that an appeal would be filed.

Kerr this morning confirmed that some sources are afraid to share sentiment on the property which he feels is a hazard.

Damato could not be reached for comment.

Five back Lieberman

State Sen. Joseph Lieberman has received support from several Fourth Senatorial District delegates and Manchester officials in his bid for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

State Sen. David Barry, State Rep. Francis Mahoney, Mayor Stephen Penny, Town Treasurer Roger Negro, and Dorothy Brindamour, vice-chairwoman of the Democratic Town Committee, all announced their support for Lieberman for lieutenant governor.

Lieberman, who is from New Haven and is a senate majority leader, is one of several announced candidates for the second slot on the state ticket.

State Rep. Abraham Glassman of South Windsor also announced his support for Lieberman. Glassman, Mahoney and Negro all are delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held in Hartford, July 21 and 22.

Three other Manchester delegates to the state convention have announced their support for Lieberman. They are Dominic Squatrito, James Murphy and Joel Janenda.

Three other delegates from the Fourth Senatorial District also will support him. They are Janet Maher and Edward Richardson, both of Glastonbury, and Joann Neath of Bolton.

Kevin O'Brien of Manchester, an alternate to the convention, also announced his support for Lieberman.

No more bodies found at hotel

VICTORIA, Texas (UPI) — Workers digging through cement, bricks and wooden beams of an old, closed hotel that collapsed have temporarily suspended their operations without finding additional victims.

Officials said at least three persons were killed in the cave-in Tuesday of the 65-year-old Denver Hotel. More people might still be buried under the rubble.

The one-and-a-half story hotel, closed since 1971, was scheduled for demolition during the weekend and crews were gutting the structure Tuesday when it collapsed.

Rec has openings in sculpture class

The Manchester Recreation Department has openings in the clay head sculpture class which meets next Monday and Wednesday, July 17 and 19 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The class will be held in the Arts Building at the old Nike Site.

A registration fee may be paid at the Arts Building, Thursday and Friday, July 13 and 14, between 9 a.m. and noon.

For further information contact the Arts Building, 643-6795.

Road work is delayed to July 24

The start of the Town of Manchester's townwide paving program will be delayed until July 24, but work will start next week on the reconstruction of American Legion Drive, Timothy O'Sullivan, highway superintendent, said.

A number of cracks and dips, apparently caused by a shifting undersurface, have developed in Legion Drive, which is off Main Street.

The road will be reconstructed and a new water line will be installed, O'Sullivan said. The road will be closed during the work, which is expected to take three weeks, he said. Work will begin Monday.

A nearby business, Dillon Ford, has complained about a wall in its building that has cracked. That problem, as well as the road problems, are believed to be connected with the undersurface shifting.

O'Sullivan said the contractor the town will use is now doing work for the state and will not be available until July 24.

Shape up, fella!

WEST POINT — The class of '82 was welcomed to the U.S. Military Academy and the usual first day for plebes is picking up gear, getting a haircut and taking some verbal abuse from upperclassmen. But some of those upperclassmen are not men. They are women cadets, who will produce their first photo in 1980. One of them lets two plebes have it. (UPI photo)

Housing rehab program gets 114 applications

Manchester's housing rehabilitation loan program has received a total of 114 applications through June.

Of the applications, 78 have been approved for funding, 28 have been rejected or withdrawn and eight are being processed, according to the figures provided by Marilyn Walsh, director of the program.

The program provides low-interest loans for home improvements to homeowners who meet certain financial and geographical qualifications.

Funding for the program is provided through the Community Development block grant money.

The number of applicants so far this summer has been steady, but it is a bit slower than last summer, Ms. Walsh said, however, that August was a very busy month a year ago.

Also, some of the applications being received now require more work than those received in the earlier stages of the program.

The homes are in worse shape and in greater need of repair, Ms. Walsh said. She said that this is a good sign — the program is beginning to reach people who need it most.

Farm tours set for weekend

A chance to see just how the Connecticut farmers actively produce the food products they supply to the state's more than three million residents will be provided this weekend.

Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m., about 15 farms throughout the state will host visitors and provide guided tours of their facilities with explanations of various processes.

The free tours, sponsored by the Connecticut Farm Bureau Association Inc., will show that the farmers have learned to use every bit of available technology that research has to offer.

The bureau says that the farmers have, because of costs of production which have risen faster than the selling price of their commodities, found ways to produce more food per person employed, more food per acre, more milk per cow and more eggs per chicken — all to the benefit of their Connecticut city cousins.

The bureau's purpose in sponsoring this tour is to further educate Connecticut residents so that they may gain a better understanding of agriculture as it is today.

For instance, the bureau says that one acre of field corn removes carbon dioxide produced by 50 cars traveling at an average of 32 miles per day. There are more than 50,000 acres of field corn alone grown in Connecticut, cleansing the air from 2.5 million pollutants per day, according to the bureau.

Nearby farms open to visitors are as follows: Edwin Gerber Farm, 618 Dart Hill Road, Vernon (dairy); Peracchio Farm, 2047 Boston Turnpike, Route 44A, Connecticut; Kristoff Bros., 151 Bailey St., Glastonbury (dairy); Tulmeadow Farms, Route 309, Farms Village Road, West Simsbury (dairy, poultry, sawmill).

Applications sought for clerk-carrier tests

The U.S. Postal Service will accept applications for the Glastonbury area clerk-carrier examination from July 17 to July 21.

This examination will be given to establish a register of eligibles, or the current list of those who are eligible from which future clerk and carrier vacancies will be filled for the following post offices: Glastonbury, East Glastonbury, South Glastonbury, Manchester and Rocky Hill.

All applicants will be required to take a written examination. The test will consist of two parts — address checking and memory for addresses, and will last for approximately 1 1/2 hours. Competitors will be rated on a scale of 100, and must score at least 70 on the examination.

AL unit opens parley tomorrow

The 58th annual Department Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary of Connecticut will be held Thursday through Saturday at the Ramada Inn, East Hartford, with Mrs. Jeanne B. Mead, president, presiding. The convention banquet will be Thursday at 7 p.m.

The convention will be called to order at 8:30 a.m. Invited guests for the opening session include Gov. Ella Grasso; the Rev. Robert Keating of St. Jude's Church in Derby, past national chaplain of the American Legion; officers of the American Legion; Department of Connecticut; and Mrs. Natalie Yasensky, national chaplain of the auxiliary.

A reception for the Volunteer Hospital workers will be held Thursday afternoon. Also planned for Thursday at 8:45 a.m. will be a memorial service remembering those members who died during the war. Mrs. Jane Wineschell will conduct.

During Friday's meeting, guests will include the education and scholarship winners, as well as Jerry Weber, director of New Hope Manor in Manchester.

Also on Friday, a representative of the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be present to accept a check from the Junior Girls.

Mrs. Sadye Dugas, general chairman of the convention, announced that the recipient of the American Legion's Scholarship of $1,000, Mary Leslie McGines of Litchfield, will be present. The Past Presidents' Parley Dinner will be held Friday at 7 p.m. with Mrs. Elizabeth Ryehling, past president's parley chairman, presiding.

Will stand trial

WILLIMANTIC (UPI) — A 17-year-old Willimantic woman accused in the beating death of her infant son has been found fit to appear in court on a manslaughter charge.

The lawyer representing Norma Caraballo Tuesday waived a hearing on her ability to stand trial. Public defender Basil Tsakonas said a psychiatric evaluation showed Miss Caraballo can assist in her own defense.

Town may integrate duties of analysts

The duties of two analyst positions in the Town of Manchester could be altered, Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said today.

McCarthy said that the town might consider integrating the duties of the budget analyst and the management analyst. The positions now have distinctly different duties.

The management analyst position was held by William Tierney, who resigned to take a job in Norway. The budget analyst job is held by Paula Yellman, who has announced her resignation effective Friday.

The management analyst's duties included a variety of jobs ranging from research projects to filling in for vacationing or sick department heads.

The budget analyst worked closely with the budget preparation and adoption.

"We had research and budget preparation separated. In the long run, I don't think that's wise," McCarthy said. He said that the town will discuss the matter with Richard Carter, former West Hartford town manager who is reviewing midmanagement positions in Manchester.

McCarthy said that it is important for budget work to be linked with review and day-to-day contact with town departments. He said that one possibility might be to hire two people, each of whom would handle part of the present responsibilities of the budget and management analyst positions.

Photography class offered to young

Young people ages 10 through 12 are invited to sign up for a six-week photography class co-sponsored by Arts Encounter and the Manchester Recreation Department.

The class will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings beginning July 18, at the rec department at the Nike Site off Garden Grove Drive. There is a registration fee.

Cameras (Instamatic or 35 mm, film and photographic paper are to be supplied by the student.

This course is designed to introduce the students to the principles of basic camera work.

To register, apply in person at the rec department, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Further information is available by calling Mike Powers at Arts Encounter, 648-3230.

News for senior citizens
By WALLY FORTIN

Hello there. The first bit of news is that tomorrow some ninety members will be off to explore a way to pick up a few quick bucks. However, I'm afraid some of us will end up helping to pay somebody's feed bills.

As you know, it's sort of hard to pick one horse and have it win, well, what about picking four horses in the exact order of finish?

Remember a few years ago when the day before we headed for Rockingham some lucky people collected better than $7,000 for doing just that?

Well, tomorrow the two buses will be leaving at 9 a.m. Once at the track we go to the grandstand section where everyone will be on their own to find seats. After the final race we'll hop on the bus and head for the 88 Restaurant where they'll have a delicious meal waiting for us. We should be getting back before dark, providing we don't take forever to eat.

Setback games

Here at the center the action started with the results of last Friday's setback games: Grace Windsor, 136; Oscar Cappuccino, 132; Bill Stone, 129; May Timpan, 123; Mabel Loomis, 120; Mina Reuther, 121; Bert Turner, 119; Helena Gavelo, 118; Catherine Cappuccino, 117; Archie Houghtaling, 117.

Monday was a hot and sticky day; however, we had sixty members for our kitchen social games in the morning and then after a nice corned beef sandwich for lunch the action moved upstairs for our pinocchio games. We had 56 players and the winners are Mary Nickowski, 812; Gertrude Hermann, 808; Olive Houghtaling, 805; Ann Fisher, 804; Catherine Gleeson, 793; John Kluck, 777; Martha LaBate, 756; Mabel Loomis, 751; Marjorie McLean, 751; Fritz Wilkinson, 750; Mary Hill, 748; Betty Janasius, 748; Archie Houghtaling, 746; Roy Durey, 745.

Golf results

Meanwhile, despite the hot weather, we had 40 golfers on the course and here are some of the better scores: Low gross: Joseph Grinavich, 42; Irwin Gartside, 43; Charles Romanowski, 44; Dick DeMartin, 44.

Low net scores: Elmore Anderson, 32; Albert Petke, 33; Jim Fee, 34; John Jasowski, 35; Parky Parmakian, 34.

Back to Thursday for a minute, and although most of us will be going to the races, we will be serving lunch here at the center from noon to 12:30 p.m. so stop by for a nice lunch. You are welcome to play cards, or outdoor shuffleboard but there will not be any official meeting or any bus today.

Lake George trip

This past Monday we signed up for the Lake George trip coming up on July 27. By nighttime we filled one bus and are now taking names for the second bus; however, we must fill the bus in order to take it.

By the way, you must realize that especially on Saturday when you read this column, it was written on Wednesday, typed on Thursday morning and quite often we state we have a certain number of seats left, but then during Thursday afternoon and Friday, people will come in and take them.

Annual picnic

A date to jot down is the annual picnic at the Center Springs Park given by members of SAM. The youths invite the seniors and plan lots of action and goodies; everyone joins together for what is always a great day. The date is set for Sunday, Aug. 13. Plan on joining the youngsters; they'll be happy to have you as their guests.

About town

The Day by Day Group of Alcoholics Anonymous will meet tonight at 8 at Center Congregational Church. AA contact is available 24 hours daily by calling 946-2555.

The Golden Age Group of Concordia Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the church.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, will have its regular meeting, including testimonies of healing, tonight at 8 at the church, 447 N. Main St. The meeting is open to all.

A "Gingham Galleries" workshop is scheduled for tonight from 7 to 9 in Luther Hall of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

Manchester Senior Citizens Pinocchio Group will sponsor a game Thursday at 9:45 a.m. at the Army and Navy Club. Play is open to all senior citizens.

The United Pentecostal Church will have its regular service and Bible study tonight at 7:30 at the church, 187 Woodbridge St. Everyone is welcome.

Ancient Spanish coins counted while court decides owner

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Silver coins, some over 400 years old and valued at up to $20,000 a piece by treasure hunters who brought them from the ocean bottom, were taken from the State Museum vault Tuesday, scrutinized, counted and quickly put back.

"I'm glad," replied David Horan, attorney for Treasure Salvors, who said earlier that unnamed former state employees had hinted that some of the booty might have disappeared.

The treasure is being inventoried under the watchful eye of U.S. marshals, dispatched by a federal judge who is charged with determining whether the state can keep the loot or must return it to the private salvors.

Two of three artifacts that could not be found Monday were located Tuesday. With 1,722 silver pieces of eight to be counted, the inventory proceeded slowly. State and private interests agree that the coins are the most valuable part of the collection from a monetary standpoint.

Ms. McHaley said she sold $100,000 worth of the coins kept by the private salvors recently. Most of the coins are bought to hang on the end of a silver chain as jewelry or as an investment. The value, according to one source, has risen 500 percent in the past five years.

Individual coins are worth from $50 and up, but the salvors claim to have found all 12 ever minted of one series of coins and say they are worth about $20,000 each. The state has two of this collection, the private salvors the rest.

Lobsters' digestion subject of research

ORONO, Maine (UPI) — Scientists at the University of Maine are testing lobsters to find out how their digestive system works. Researchers in the Department of Animal and Veterinary Sciences are pulling lobsters on the X-ray table to examine its favorite foods, digestive system and feeding requirements, Professor Robert Bayer said Monday.

The tests are not unlike those which humans are put through whenever physicians look for something wrong with their digestive tracks, he explained. The lobster was given a barium mixture either in the form of food pellets or a solution injected directly into the stomach through a needle, he said.

As the barium winds its way through the complicated intestinal structure of the lobster, X-rays are snapped to give researchers a clearer picture of the way a lobster works. Early tests showed lobster food must either be soluble — smaller than a micron — or soft enough to be ground by digestive "teeth" in the stomach, he said.

"The pattern of food absorption and digestion in the lobster is unique. Food substances flow from the stomach to the mid-gut gland to the intestine. "However, most of the absorption and digestion takes place in the mid-gut region, rather than in the intestine, as in most other species," he said.

Steel and Japan

The growth of trade between Western nations in recent years has been nothing short of phenomenal. Unfortunately for the United States, the trade imbalances which have evolved also are staggering. The United States is on the losing side of the trade exchange. Nations like Japan and West Germany are gaining.

Japan in particular has been an aggressive trading partner. After earning a trade surplus of $20 billion in its last fiscal year, Japan seems on the way to a surplus of $25 billion this year. A large part of that surplus comes from its trade with the United States, a serious point of contention between the two countries.

Aside from the currency problems it has created, growing Japanese imports into the United States have had a detrimental effect on jobs and performance of several important domestic industries. If May import figures are indicative, in one of those industries - steel - the Japanese are heading American pleas to cool exports.

Some 359,000 tons of Japanese steel were imported into the United States this May, down from 448,000 tons in May, 1977. That is a positive step toward recognizing American trade problems, and a welcome one.

Other editors say:

If he can maintain the magnificent sense of proportion and values which characterized his initial public appearance at the Yale campus, then Dr. Giannini must not only cope with that part of his job which imposes the demands of administration, of budgets, of fundraising, of cost cutting - but must, as well, co-exist with a society hell-bent for economic consolidation, cutbacks, short-cuts and compartmentalization.

The "if" in that sentence is, however, an obstacle of enormous significance. Dr. Giannini must not only cope with that part of his job which imposes the demands of administration, of budgets, of fundraising, of cost cutting - but must, as well, co-exist with a society hell-bent for economic consolidation, cutbacks, short-cuts and compartmentalization.

Those are the things which the new Yale proxy resists, but they are powerful forces which seem to have no place for Giannini's humanistic values. He wonders aloud how the world's heritage of languages, of art, of philosophy, literature, history can survive the plain and simple financial squeeze of our times....

Rep. Bill Cotter:

No apologies for spending record

WASHINGTON - Connecticut Rep. Bill Cotter is something of an anomaly in this year of Proposition 13. Conservatives rate his record on big spending as one of the worst in Washington, yet the Hartford Democrat - unlike many other "liberal" incumbents - has no opponent within his party and is a solid favorite to retain the First District seat this fall.

What's more, the 52-year-old, fourth-term congressman from Hartford has no apology for his record. And in contrast to many other politicians who have climbed aboard the tax-revolt express, Cotter is downright disdainful of the "meat-ax" approach.

"I've sensed this type of taxpayer revolt coming for the past year," said the congressman in a recent interview with The Herald's Washington bureau. "Proposition 13 was a clear signal that it doesn't stop at state or town levels. In Congress, we're now reducing spending bills from 2 to 5 percent, and I've supported these cuts. This rate of cutting will eliminate $5 billion to $7 billion from the budget."

The budget proposed by President Carter is $500 billion.

A spokesman for the National Taxpayers Union, a leading organization spurring tax-cutting efforts across the country, has said appropriations for most federal agencies could be cut 10 to 15 percent without impairing their functions.

"I question that figure," said Cotter. "That again is taking the meat-ax approach. You already have an inflation rate of about 6 percent a year. Add a 10 percent cut to that, and you end up asking for 16 percent cut in an agency's budget. That's too severe."

Cotter's views on such things count

ETTA FOR WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM N.E.A. '78

"Don't worry - it's not pornography - I hid some children's classics on the bottom shelf."

Dirty movies have nowhere to go

WASHINGTON - A bachelor acquaintance at the club who always prided himself on being a swinger has stopped reading "Playboy" and "Hustler" and confesses he now finds X-rated movies a trifle tedious.

"All this porn is just too much," he says. "It's like looking at too many Rembrandts or eating too many banana splits."

It figures. The sex rags, the flicks and the stage have gone about as far as they can go. Any time now, the prudish crowd will lose interest in a form of entertainment even the unwashed are permitted to enjoy. I can see the day approaching when nudity and boy-girl naughtiness will be proclaimed old hat and thus not to be tolerated by the chic set.

In the X-rated dodge, boxoffice profits are falling off, and show biz is looking for something different to pay its caviar bills. After all, pornography is not served up only because its producer has a sewer for a mind but because it pays for Porsche sports cars and villas on the Riviera.

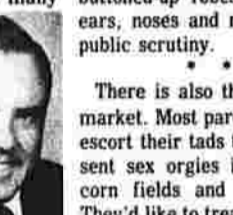

Thus, this critic of the undressed and writhing arts would not be surprised shortly to discover newspaper advertisements for advertising saloons that favor floor shows starring "Pully Clothed Lovelies." Or fun-seekers who desire to be counted among the elite will be invited to a prolonged filibuster.

The bill would, overall, make it easier for unions to organize and more difficult for business - especially small businesses - to resist. "I don't think the bill is nearly as severe as its opponents insist," said Cotter. "It would merely tighten loopholes in the labor law. It's no monster at all."

Rates high with labor Such views have won Cotter the devotion of big labor, and he regularly is one of labor's highest-rated members of Congress. In 1974, for example, the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) said Cotter voted "correctly" 100 percent of the time on issues of prime interest to labor. His COPE ratings were 83 percent in 1975 and 90 percent in 1976 - both very high.

The liberal Americans For Democratic Action, which cuts across a broad range of ideological issues, gave Cotter's voting a rating of 62 percent in 1974, 80 percent - one of the highest in Congress - in 1975, and 67 percent in 1976.

At the other end of the political spectrum, the Americans for Constitutional Action gave him a 21 percent rating in 1974, 19 percent in 1975, and 13 percent in 1976. The National Association of Businessmen rated him 33 percent in 1974 and 17 percent in 1976. Finally, the National Taxpayers Union rated his voting to

Thought

In the morning, then ye shall see the glory of the Lord. (Ex. 16:7) Every day is a fresh beginning. Every morn is the world made new. You who are weary of sorrow and misery: Here is a beautiful hope for you; A hope for me and a hope for you.

Susan Coolidge Be patient with every one, but above all with yourself. I mean, do not be disturbed because of your imperfections, and always rise up bravely from a fall.

I am glad that you make a daily new beginning; there is no better means of progress in the spiritual life than to be continually beginning afresh, and never to think that we have done enough.

The apostle Paul said, "Forgetting the things which are behind, and reaching forth into those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Bandshell donation

To the editor: On behalf of the Manchester Bicentennial Bandshell Corporation, I wish to publicly acknowledge and thank the members of the Manchester Youth Ballet and their director Priscilla Gibson for their donation of $273.

The money was raised from their Evening of Ballet program which took place at Tilling Junior High School in the spring. The donation will be used to help sponsor some of the many summer events scheduled at the town Bicentennial Bandshell located on the campus of Manchester Community College on Bidwell Street.

The youth ballet recently performed in the display window of Watkins Furniture store in conjunction with the July sidewalk sales promotion days and also appeared in the townwide talent show sponsored by the bandshell committee.

Again, thank you Priscilla Gibson and the Manchester Youth Ballet for this generous gesture of donating time, talent and money to ensure continued free entertainment at the bandshell for Manchester citizens. Hopefully others will follow suit to make the town Bicentennial bandshell a continued attraction for many years to come.

Thank you, Ralph Maccarone Bandshell coordinator 32 Hawthorne St.

P.S. - (Donations to help defray the expense of programming at the bandshell can be sent to George T. LaBonne Jr., fund raising chairman, 155 Main St., Manchester.)

Is marriage coming back?

By DON GRAFF Divorce, American style, may be becoming less popular. One year's statistics do not, of course, a long-term trend make. But population experts are finding the 1977 increase in American marriages of only 2 percent over the previous year very interesting.

Since 1962 12 percent was the annual rate during the preceding decade, the experts are reading such a slight change as virtual stabilization of the divorce rate.

And some go so far as to predict an imminent downturn, as already appears to be occurring in one state in national mornals - California.

The statistics may be definite enough but, as The Wall Street Journal notes in a lengthy analysis of the development, what is to be read into them is not. A number of explanations are being advanced, all admittedly highly tentative.

A slow but steady increase over recent years in the median age of both men and women entering first marriages could have something to do with it since, statistically, very young marrieds are the most likely to break up.

Attitudes toward divorce may be changing. As it has become more commonplace and socially acceptable, it may also have lost some of its aura as the great solver of marital problems.

Economics may be involved. Generally improved conditions, particularly for households with two wage earners, could be a factor in reducing marriage strains. On the other hand, the cost of separation has gone up along with everything else, which could give some couples second thoughts about going their own ways.

And there is also the possibility that the continuing popularity of non-marriage as a lifestyle is having its effect. The Census Bureau puts the number of cohabitations without legal formalities at about one million. If the establishment of these households does not show up in the Police report Rink foes meet tonight

EAST HARTFORD - Residents of Roberts Street will meet tonight to continue mapping strategy to oppose the construction of a roller skating rink on Roberts Street just east of the East Hartford Racquet Club.

Also meeting tonight are members of the East Hartford Citizens Action Group (EHCAG) board of directors. They will continue the discussion they began Tuesday night on the rink.

Mrs. Susan Kniep of 50 Roberts St., an EHCAG member, asked the board Tuesday to support the rink foes. She told them the rink developers, United States of America Inc., built a similar rink in Plainville which opened in February 1977. She said Plainville Police reported 95 incidents at the rink in the last 16 months. They included breaches of peace, 27 emergency medical calls, larceny and vandalism to cars in the area, and more.

She said the meeting is closed to the press and general public. "I properly run a roller skating rink could be a good thing," said Levia.

Fire calls

EAST HARTFORD Tuesday, 10:36 a.m. - Investigation at 26 May Road. Tuesday, 10:45 a.m. - False alarm at 200 Nutmeg Lane. Tuesday, 1:13 p.m. - Hydrant check at 21 Sherman Ave. Tuesday, 10:45 p.m. - Medical call to 15 Evans Ave. Tuesday, 11:25 p.m. - Medical call to 422 Main St. Today, 1:32 a.m. - House fire at 53 Hamon Road; stove with a pot on it was left burning. There was minor smoke damage to the kitchen.

Viewing the Planets The planets of the solar system, in order of their distance from the sun, are Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. Uranus, Neptune and Pluto are not included in the ephemeris list because they are too faint to be seen without optical aid. Both Uranus and Neptune are visible through good field glasses, but Pluto is so distant and so small that only large telescopes or long exposure photographs can make it visible.

Third budget meeting coming up on July 18

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent

Warmth of the sun

It may have been a little chilly for swimming Tuesday, but it was a perfect day to enjoy the sun. Maureen Martin, 7, of 199 Burnside Ave., and Dhat Tran, 7, of 98 Tolland St., bask in the sunlight as a northern cold front made it a most pleasant day. The two youngsters are shown at the side of the Martin Park pool. (Herald photo by Blake)

Area police

South Windsor
South Windsor Police are seeking information concerning an incident at the Pine Street Park Tuesday night in which a youth was riding a dirt bike in a reckless manner. Riding such bikes in the town parks is also a violation of town ordinances.
Police said observers said the bike had yellow fenders and that the driver was wearing a red helmet with the number 87 on it.
Anyone having any information concerning the incident should call the police station, 644-2551. Callers do not have to give their names if they don't wish to do so.
South Windsor Police are also investigating vandalism at the Pleasant Valley School and the Eli Terry School discovered early this morning by an officer on patrol.
Police said some windows were smashed at the Pleasant Valley School but apparently no one entered the building.
At the Eli Terry School entry was gained apparently through an unlocked door. A window was smashed and debris was scattered around.
Also reported Tuesday was damage to construction equipment in a development going up in the Rainbow Trail area. Police said the only item reported missing was a fire extinguisher valued at $36.
Also under investigation is a complaint received from a resident of Governor's Highway that a garage was entered and a bicycle taken. The bicycle was later found in a nearby wooded area.

Vernon
Lilyan B. Johnston, 34, of 7 Hancock Road, Ellington, was arrested Tuesday on a Common Pleas Court warrant charging her with second-degree larceny in connection with an April 15 incident.
Ms. Johnston allegedly cashed 20 worthless checks valued at more than $600 at Calder's Department Store at Vernon Circle.
She was released on a $500 nonreturnable bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 15, Rockville, July 18.
Timothy R. Noridge, 25, of 101 Vernon Apartments, Vernon, was charged with using a motor vehicle without the owner's permission. He of the council's budget calls for $1,271,929 for general government, $2,973,438 for the Board of Education, and $283,575 in fixed debt service. The town meeting may accept or reject this proposal or may cut appropriations, but items may not be increased.

Connolly also reported that Anderson selected had expressed interest in participating in the study of a health clinic that would serve several area towns, including Coventry. Representatives of Manchester Memorial Hospital recently appeared before the committee to discuss the feasibility of setting up a "satellite clinic" that would be completely funded by the hospital.
The manager also said he received the resignation of Richard Galinat as Open Burning Official for the town. Galinat said his time was occupied a great deal by his position as maintenance supervisor for Coventry's schools. The appointment of a replacement must be certified by the State Department of Environmental Protection, Connolly explained.
Wilfred Hill is Coventry's other Open Burning Official.

Area bulletin board

SOUTH WINDSOR — South Windsor Police report a total of 91 motor vehicle arrests made during the month of June.
The breakdown is as follows: Speeding 15; reckless driving 4; stop sign violations 8; red light violations 14; evading responsibility 1; driving under the influence of liquor or drugs 2; driving without a license 2; suspending or defective equipment 2; driving an unregistered vehicle 6; and allowing a minor to drive 3.
Also charged with a license excessive noise 4; failure to drive in proper lane 4; making a restricted turn 2; making improper left turn 3.
The highest percentage of arrests following too closely 2 and other miscellaneous violations 9.
During the month 20 violators who received speeding tickets paid $25 in Common Pleas Court and four cases were nolle. These were drivers who were charged with driving an unreasonable speed. The subcommittee is charged with the task of determining if a charge doesn't require a court appearance.
Of those charged with speeding, four were fined $25 each, two $30, one $40 and one $50 and one was nolle. This charge requires a court appearance and if the violator is convicted four points are assessed against the operator's license.
One operator charged with reckless driving, which would mean six points assessed against the license, had the charge changed to unreasonable speed and was fined $20.
One was fined $50 and in the case of the others the charge was changed to speeding and they were fined $5.
YMCA classes
VERNON — There are still openings in some of the classes sponsored by the Indian Valley YMCA that have not yet begun.
There are openings in Beginner Tennis for teen-agers and adults. The classes will be held on a private court in South Windsor and will be taught by Jane Goodwin.
There will be six one-hour lessons starting Monday, July 31, at 7 p.m. Classes will meet every Monday and Thursday for three weeks. Classes are limited to six members.
The existing zoning regulations prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages within 1,000 feet of any public institution. Athens's has previously been granted a variance to the existing regulations by the Zoning Board of Appeals.
However, the state has granted the restaurant a liquor permit because the variance has been appealed by some residents and nearby restaurant owners.
The legislators want to find out what process of referral and follow-up is currently being used and what may be lacking in the process. Persons may testify anonymously at the hearing and give testimony in writing. Mrs. Miller represents the 55th District.

Mastandrea re-elected board chairman for Rham District

By Patricia Mulligan
Herald Correspondent

HEBRON — Salvatore Mastandrea has been re-elected chairman of the Regional District Board of Education at the annual meeting of the board, Monday night.
Other officers elected were: Chris Dreyer of Andover, vice chairman; Howard Roberts, Andover, treasurer (re-elected); George Giacompe, Marlborough, secretary. Giacompe had been temporarily serving as secretary due to the resignation of Eleanor Papineau of Marlborough.
The board accepted the resignation of David M. Morlavyk, with regret. Morlavyk had been on a leave of absence from Rham while acting as Industrial Arts consultant for the State Department of Education. He had taught at Rham in the industrial arts department for 17 years and now will continue with the state.
The board, in other business, awarded Knudsen Brothers Dairy Inc. the milk bid for the coming school year. The board was assured by the dairy that some service problems experienced this past year, would be corrected.
The board voted to appoint Joseph Madaras to fill the vacancy in the Industrial Arts Department at a salary of $9,860. Madaras holds a bachelor of science degree from Central Connecticut State College.
David Caldwell was designated as coordinator for the department. He has taught for 18 years and replaces Morlavyk.
Judith Burg was appointed as a learning disabilities teacher for Rham at a salary of $9,777. She is a graduate of Southern Connecticut State College with a master of science degree. She received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of Connecticut. Her salary will be funded under the Title VI program.
The board voted to award the oil bid to Metropolitan Petroleum at a total cost of $343 per gallon.
The board also discussed the duties of the Junior High School Building Committee but did not take any action because of the committee chairman wasn't present.
The board agreed to put discussion of the matter of the definition on the agenda of its Aug. 28 meeting.
The board also voted to establish a separate building construction account, to authorize borrowing $100,000 for the account and to authorize the building committee to expend funds up to that amount.
Authorization spending the funds was granted pending approval of the chairman, vice chairman or secretary, depending on which officers were signing the checks.

The steel frame for the new Vernon Police Station went up Tuesday. The new facility is being built on land adjacent to the existing station. Ground was broken for the project last fall. The new building will contain 17,000 square feet as compared to the 5,000 square feet in the old station. The town has received a federal grant of $1.1 million for its construction. The building is located at the corner of Route 30 and West Street. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Work session
SOUTH WINDSOR — In a work session Monday night the Town Council informally approved having the Sewer Commission conduct a referendum on a request for $2.3 million for completion of sewer installation projects in town.
Richard C. Reeves, chairman of the Sewer Commission, told the council that he expects the project could cost as much as just under $3 million.
The town will probably receive $2.2 million in federal and state funds for completing installation of sewer lines in the Farmham Estates section, Nevers and Abbey roads, and Main Street.
Funding will also come from other sources such as assessments and connection fees. The voters originally approved $2.7 million for sewer installations in a 1975 referendum.
The addition of several streets to the original project, inflationary costs, were reasons given for the commission's request for the additional $3 million.
Rec classes
VERNON — Starting Friday the Vernon Recreation Department will offer yoga classes from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Little Fish Building in Henry Park. The course will run for 10 weeks and an $8 fee will be charged. Baby-sitting will be provided.
Starting July 17 and 20 a three-week exercise class for adults will be offered from 9 to 10 a.m., also at the Little Fish Building. The fee is $8.
An open tennis program for children age 8-14 is being offered Mondays and Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m. on the courts at Rockville High School.
For more information about any of the programs contact the Recreation Department, Park Place, Rockville.
Street closed
SOUTH WINDSOR — The Public Works Department has announced that Nevers Road, from Graham Road to Miller Road, southbound, is closed to all thru traffic until Aug. 10.
The town is constructing sanitary sewers in that area.
Antique show
COVENTRY — The Antiquarian & Landmarks Society Inc. of Connecticut will sponsor its 11th annual Nathan Hale Antiques Festival July 22 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the grounds of the Nathan Hale Homestead, South Street, Coventry.
The event is being held to raise money to continue restoration of this historic landmark.
Some 150 antique dealers from throughout the east coast will gather to display a wide variety of antiques for show and sale.
The society will sponsor its own booth filled with antiques and collectibles donated by members and members will volunteer their services for staffing the booth.
Plenty of parking space will be available and refreshments will be sold throughout the day by the Coventry Historical Society. Adults will be charged an admission fee.
The Nathan Hale Homestead was built in 1776 by the father of Nathan Hale. It contains many pieces of furniture that were there when the Hale family lived in the house.
The homestead is easy to reach via Routes 84, 44, and 15 and Routes 44A and 6 (between Manchester and Storrs).
Tax bills
VERNON — Due to a delay in approval of the budget, the tax bills being mailed out to Vernon residents this week, are late.
Usually tax bills are mailed out before July 1. The fiscal year ends June 30. The bills are due to be paid by Aug. 1. Bills paid after that date will be subject to interest and late charges, tax collector, Mrs. Sylvia Wilson said.
Persons who should receive tax bills but do not receive them by Friday should contact the tax collector's office in the Memorial Building, Park Place.
Bills totaling more than $100 may be paid in two installments with the second payment due Jan. 1, however, second bills will not be sent out.
Tax bills of less than $100 must be paid in full by Aug. 1.
Art on display
VERNON — The paintings hanging this month at the Vernon National Bank are by Mrs. Cecile D. Dahl of Ellington, a member of the Tolland County Art Association.
Mrs. Dahl has also had paintings exhibited at the Wadsworth Atheneum, the New Britain Museum, and the Museum of Fine Arts in Springfield, Mass.
Hike on trails
TOLLAND — The Tolland Land Trust will sponsor a hike on newly built trails in the area of the historic Benton homestead on Metcalf Road. The guided hikes will be conducted from 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday.
For those who wish to have picnics that evening, fires will be available and coffee will be provided. This will be from 5 to 7 p.m.

Commission opinions divided on liquor laws amendment

VERNON — The town's Zoning Commission, on recommendation of the Planning Commission, will conduct a public hearing July 20 on a proposed amendment to zoning regulations to change spot zoning and allow each applicant to apply for variances as questions arise, would be the best way to go.
The public hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building, Park Place.
Singles meeting
The Community Singles Club will meet Saturday at 3:15 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, Route 30, to car pool to a house and swim party at the home of Helen Sweet on Bolton Lake. Those interested in attending should call Terry Grejdas, 646-4962.
Members and prospective members are asked to bring their own meat, a beverage, lawn chair and a dish to share with others.
On July 28 at 6 p.m. the club will play miniature golf on Par 3 golf at Golfland on Route 813 to Tollandville.
Public hearing
Dorothy Miller (R) of Bolton is a member of the Crisis Intervention Center's Study Subcommittee which will conduct a public hearing Thursday in the New Haven Hall of Records, 200 Orange St.
The hearing will be from 4 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The purpose of the hearing is to gain grassroots information. The subcommittee is especially interested in hearing from victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and similar crimes, who have used or are using supportive services.
The legislators want to find out what process of referral and follow-up is currently being used and what may be lacking in the process. Persons may testify anonymously at the hearing and give testimony in writing. Mrs. Miller represents the 55th District.

Board of Education to elect officers at Thursday meeting

BOLTON — Officers for the Board of Education for the 1978-79 year will be elected Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Bolton Elementary School office.
Kindergarten and first grade will act on resignations and appointments, approve bids for milk, oil and trash collection, and discuss special education summer program. The July 24 next meeting will be July 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall.
At that time Indian Notch Park and meeting dates will be discussed. At its last meeting, Douglas Cheney was elected chairman for 1978-79.
Music program
Fifty-five Bolton students are enrolled in the summer music program for instrumental lessons. Classes are held at the Bolton Central School band room. The program will end August 3 with a mini concert.
The class instruction includes individual and small group lessons on basic band instruments, music theory and beginner's band.
Edward DiFronzo, program instructor, said, "The program is geared to give the new fifth grade students a head start for band in September and the intermediate students the opportunity to improve their musical skills."

Wapping Fair is scheduled for Sept. 8-10 at Rye Park

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Wapping Fair is scheduled for Sept. 8, 9 and 10 at the Rye Street Park under the sponsorship of the Jaycees and the Knights of Columbus.
The event will start with a parade at noon the first day. Any groups interested in participating in the parade should contact Tom Marza, 22 Poplar Drive, 644-8884 or Dan Tarullo, 288-6107.
Those interested in operating a booth on the fair grounds should contact Steve Galovich, 641-4002; Vinnie Pellegrino, 872-2699.
Dudley Morrell is fair president.
The Public Health Nursing Association Inc. and the State Department of Health is sponsoring a dental health clinic for pre-school children, age 3 through kindergarten, in the nurse's office at the Town Hall. Clinics will be held July 25, 26, 27, 28, and 31 and Aug. 1 through 4.
This is a free service which will include cleaning, prophylactic examination and fluoride application.
Appointments may be made by calling the South Windsor Community Service Council's office, Oakland Road.
Habit school
The vacation Bible school of the Avery Street Christian Reformed Church will run the week of July 17 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Orchard Hill School.
The school is for children who were four by July 1 through those in Grade 7.
The teachers will be Evelyn Ball, Jan Boe, Marg Christians, June Col-

All-Star sidelined

Rick Burleson hobbles on crutches in American League All-Star's dugout. Boston shortstop pulled ligaments in his ankle and will be out for 10 games. (UPI photo)

Brohamer, Duffy in starting roles

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox looked for depth in the off-season and dished out $100,000 a year for free agent Jack Brohamer and traded for veteran Frank Duffy.

And the two former Cleveland teammates will be holding down the left side of the Red Sox infield when the team resumes play Thursday night against Texas at Fenway Park. And they're likely to be there for awhile.

Brohamer is substiting for third baseman Butch Hobson, who tore a hamstring and is out indefinitely. Duffy will fill in for shortstop Rick Burleson, who will be lost to the club for at least two weeks due to ligament damage in his ankle.

Hobson, whose reckless-ambition style of play has endeared him to Boston fans, tore the hamstring while diving for a ground ball against Baltimore. Burleson, a defensive stalwart all season, injured the ankle while sliding into second base Sunday at Cleveland.

Burleson thought the ankle was not seriously injured, but upon arriving in San Diego for the All-Star Game, found it to be "smoking." He watched the game Wednesday night in uniform. The pesky infielder also had a cyst removed from his eye.

JUNIOR LEAGION

Coming out on the short end of an 8-2 score last night was Manchester Junior Legion to unbeaten Society for Savings in JC-Courant League Senior Division play at Eagle Field.

Society, now 6-0, scored a run in the second inning, but Manchester came back in the third frame as Steve Britnell ripped his second homer of the campaign over the right field fence with Dave Bottaro aboard.

The latter had singled. Society strung together five singles in the fifth inning to score four times and added three more markers in the seventh on three hits and two errors.

Eric Gardiner went the distance for Manchester, 3-4 in the league and 6-5 overall, and absorbed the loss. Bill Hayton took the win for Society.

Manchester returns to JC-Courant League play Thursday night at Eagle Field at 6 o'clock against Allen, Hessel and Allen.

MINI JUNIOR

Unbeaten Liggett Parkade behind an 18-hit barrage blasted Heritage Savings & Loan, 24-2, last night at the West Side Oval.

Brian Galligan had five hits including three triples, Jim Groat four hits, Bob Piccin and Ron Pedemonte three apiece and George Hanlon two for Liggett's winning pitcher Galligan twisted a one-hitter.

Each side rapped 10 hits but in the runs department Credit Union came off with 20 runs and 10 hits.

Palmer, Keough (3), Sorenson (4), Kern (7), Guidry (7), Gossage (8) and Fisk, Sundberg (6), Blue, Rogers (4), Fingers (6), Satter (8), Nickro (9) and Simmons, Boone (7), Poceroba (9), W-Sutter, L-Gossage.

Janitorial defeats Moriarty's; Carter and Medics play tonight

Two two-run innings at the outset proved to be the difference as Modern Janitorial ousted Moriarty Bros., 7-3, from the double elimination Town Little League Tournament last night at Leber Field in a sloppily played contest.

The clubs combined for only five hits and were charged with a total of 10 miscues, six by Moriarty's. It will be a battle of unbeatens tonight as Carter Chevrolet and the Medics clash at Leber Field at 6 o'clock.

Mike Ouster and Paggioli drew walks in the second stanza with Joey Johnson following with a fielder's choice, forcing Paggioli at second. Ouster scored on an error and Johnson on a sacrifice fly by Joel Sullivan.

Modern increased its lead in the top of the seventh. Andy Taylor walked and Carter reached on a miscue. Both runners moved on a passed ball and scored on Johnson's single to center. The latter scored twice on a passed ball.

Moriarty's averted the shutout in its 'at bats scoring three times. Paul Hohenbalk walked and moved to second on a wild pitch. Rick Soucier's grounder was thrown on a sacrifice fly by Joel Sullivan.

Lifelong dream fulfilled-Bolduc

WATERVILLE, Maine (UPI) — For Maine hockey star Danny Bolduc, signing a contract with a National Hockey League team was the fulfillment of a lifelong dream.

But the 25-year-old former U.S. Olympic hockey star and Harvard University player says he won't be happy until he is home in Maine.

The Waterville, Maine native signed a 100,000 two-year contract with the Detroit Red Wings and will become the only Maine-born athlete to wear the uniform of a National Hockey League team.

Bolduc, who played with the World Hockey Association New England Whalers for the past two years, Tuesday said he received the contract with Detroit in the mail few days before.

"My lawyers have been working on it all summer," he said. "I'm still young and I had to prove to myself I could take another step."

Bolduc told UPI. "It is the fulfillment of a lifelong dream to be in the NHL."

Bolduc said he believes he is at his prime now, and would like to continue playing until he is at least 30 or 35.

One of nine children, Bolduc said he was young when he started skating and went through the pee-wee, bantam, and midget programs in Waterville. He started

RSox' Jim Rice makes good living sending baseballs out of stadiums

BOSTON (UPI) — The applause starts slowly and reaches an almost deafening crescendo as some 4,000 people cheer a Sequoia-like body in a baseball uniform as he approaches home plate.

Exclamations of wonderment echo from Fenway Park spectators as the powerful swinger sends baseballs into neighboring streets and parking lots.

The applause fades and Jim Rice steps away. It is batting practice, two hours before the game. But no one could have known from the sound coming from that band of early arrivals in the stands.

'No goals' James Edward Rice makes a living out of terrorizing opposing pitchers, managers and teams. The 6-foot-2, 205-pound gentle giant leads the major leagues in home runs, RBI, and four other slugging categories.

But Bolduc says the move to Detroit is just temporary and eventually he wants to return to Maine, and to the AHL Calder Cup champion Maine Mariners.

"I eventually like to play for the Mariners and finish in Portland," he said. "I just love Maine so much, I want to be here."

"But, of course it wouldn't bother me to play for the Boston Bruins," he said. "Right now the Red Wings is the team for me."

Bolduc said he will report to the Detroit organization in mid-September for training camp. "I hope to be a right winger. But I'll play anywhere that I can use me," he said.

Meanwhile, before his trip to the Midwest, Bolduc has been selected by the U.S. Olympic Committee as a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

Bolduc said he believes he is at his prime now, and would like to continue playing until he is at least 30 or 35.

home runs," Rice said. "I try to hit the ball hard, and if you hit it right it'll go."

American League pitchers are wary of Rice's strength especially in Fenway Park, which some have dubbed "Rice Paddy."

Contact of another sort was what Rice may have had in mind when Jim Colborn hit him with a pitch in a game earlier this season. The Boston slugger walked briefly to the mound then headed to first base.

"I thought I was going to be turned into Rice-a-Roni," quipped Colborn. Yankee relief ace Rich Gossage was asked how it felt to pitch to the power-hitting Red Sox. He mentioned one player.

"I've got to pitch to a guy like Jim Rice. That's enough to worry two pitchers," he says.

Red Sox broadcaster Ken Harrelson says Rice will become an even better hitter when he learns to stay away from bad pitches.

"In a couple of years, he'll be getting ahead of the count. Then we'll see what Jim Rice is really like."

But the story Harrelson likes to tell about Rice's power is an incident that happened on the golf course, not the baseball field. Rice was in the middle of a downswing when his driver snapped in half.

"That," says Harrelson, "is power."

Fishing

Algae — friend or foe?

Fishermen frequently complain about the yellow and green scum they often see on their favorite lake or stream. They dislike the way it covers the water they want to fish, and they don't care for the mess which clings to their fishing lines.

Little do they realize the complexity of the relationship between pond scum, as algae is commonly called, and their fishing success.

Algae are very interesting aquatic plants. They differ from terrestrial plants by not having roots, leaves, stems or flowers. More than 25,000 species have been identified. Many are simple single-cell, microscopic plants while others are more complex and range in size to the giant kelps which grow in the oceans.

Algae serve two important functions with regard to fish, according to the fishing department at Mercury outdoors. First, they are beginning links in a complex food chain that ultimately leads to the fish you catch.

Second, they are prolific producers of oxygen and continually enrich the water with this byproduct of photosynthesis.

Although anglers may occasionally gripe about algae interfering with their activities, the real problem with algae comes from having too much of it.

Algae is able to reproduce and spread rapidly, given the right conditions of sunlight, water temperature and water nutrients.

Grasso leaves second spot open to delegates' choice

HARTFORD (UPI) — In a break with tradition, Gov. Ella T. Grasso has decided to let the crowded field of lieutenant governor candidates fight it out among themselves. None will receive the blessing of a gubernatorial endorsement.

At a brief news conference Tuesday at her campaign headquarters, the governor told reporters she is mailing letters to each of the 1,357 delegates to this month's state Democratic convention, telling them they are "free" to choose the number two nominee on the party ticket.

Mrs. Grasso said there are "about 15 candidates" for the lieutenant governor nomination and she thinks all of them are "qualified."

"All of these people are acceptable to me," the governor said.

"Normally, the governor lets it be known who he or she wants on the ticket. But Mrs. Grasso said this year the traditional method is not used."

"It is my belief that ours should be an open convention," said Mrs. Grasso as she sat at the desk of one of the lieutenant governor candidates, her campaign manager, John N. Dempsey Jr.

Dempsey, the son of a popular former governor, announced his candidacy last Friday, the day Mrs. Grasso's administrative assistant, Charles McCollam, let party regulars know his boss was taking a "hands-off" attitude toward the second spot on the party's slate.

About an hour before Mrs. Grasso's news conference, Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman of New Haven held his own meeting with reporters to formally announce he is a candidate for lieutenant governor. He has been rounding up support for several months, but had made no formal announcement.

The list of candidates for the number two spot on the Democratic ticket has grown dramatically in recent weeks. Other legislators known to be interested in the nomination are:

House Majority Leader William O'Neill of East Hampton, House Speaker James Kennedy of Hartford and Sen. Robert Houley of Somers.

Mayors Edward Bergin of Waterbury and Robert Johnson of West Haven have expressed an interest in the nomination.

Two members of Mrs. Grasso's administration, Treasurer Henry Parker of New Haven and Comptroller J. Edward Caldwell of Bridgeport are also hopeful of their party's nod.

Former CIA Agent John T. Downey of New Haven and New Britain lawyer Paul J. McQuillan are also considered candidates for the job.

"If anybody else is interested, they better hurry up," Mrs. Grasso said.

The governor was asked if she thought it was wise to leave the lieutenant governor choice up to convention delegates, considering how much trouble she has had from her former running mate and current gubernatorial challenger, Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian. "I have faith in the process," she said. "I have faith in the delegates."

Mrs. Grasso said she thinks the selection of a lieutenant governor nominee may take several ballots at the convention, but she's convinced the delegates will make the right choice to reflect Connecticut's ethnic population.

"I would expect there will be good representation when the ticket is selected," she said.

Hearings set on damage in Xerox monopoly case

HARTFORD (UPI) — Federal court hearings will begin next week to decide whether SCM Corp. can collect $222 million in antitrust damages from Xerox Corp. for excluding it from the office copier field by monopolizing the market.

A federal jury affirmed Tuesday that Xerox kept SCM out of the plain paper copier market through patents and other business practices.

The finding ends more than a year of testimony in what has been called the longest jury trial in federal courts. Jury deliberation took two months.

The jury ruled Monday that Stamford, Conn.-based Xerox had monopolized the office copier market from 1969-1976, but rejected SCM's claims Xerox monopolized the market in 1964.

The jury ruled last month there was no market Xerox could monopolize in 1964. Those findings substantially reduced the $1.5 billion in damages SCM originally claimed, court observers said.

The seven-woman, two-man jury was called back Tuesday to resolve inconsistencies in answers to three of 60 questions that formed the final verdict.

In answer to one of the three questions, the jury found that a 1956 agreement between Xerox and the Battelle Memorial Institute involving basic patents on the copying process was an unreasonable restraint of trade and kept SCM from entering the market.

The other two questions asked if Xerox had engaged in practices, including patents, that excluded New York-based SCM from the market. The jury at first answered no, but changed the answers to yes after U.S. District Judge Jon O. Newman said the findings were contradictory.

Newman later set July 19 for hearings to begin on the damage settlement.

Richard Sexton, SCM vice president and general counsel, Tuesday said SCM is grateful for the jury's conscientious approach to the case.

He also said the firm is pleased its basic claims that Xerox violated monopoly and antitrust laws were upheld.

"The result is a substantial accomplishment for SCM," even though all the charges were not upheld, he said.

Sexton said SCM claims it lost $11 million in potential profit from the copying business from 1969-1976, when it finally entered the market.

It is also asking for $48 million, an estimate of the value its copying business would have had, and about $15 million because of a plan that, in effect, coerced Xerox customers to take reduced-rate Xerox copiers instead of machines made by other companies.

The total damages claimed by the firm is $74 million. Under antitrust law, findings of such violations leave the defendant guilty for payment of three times the damages inflicted.

Xerox public relations director Thomas Abbott said the company had no comment on Tuesday's proceedings. He estimated the jury will not begin to decide damages until the end of the month. He said a final verdict could be delivered in August.

Coll launches beach campaign

HARTFORD (UPI) — Social activist Ned Coll is kicking off his annual campaign for more public access to Connecticut's shoreline with a seaside demonstration and some harsh words for Attorney General Carl Ajello.

Coll Tuesday accused Ajello of failing to enforce state laws that would open up Connecticut's shoreline to the public.

Later in the day, Ajello said he shared Coll's concern over the accessibility of the state's beaches. But the attorney general said it was not his job to open the beaches up unless he was asked to by a state agency or official.

Standing across the street from Ajello's second-floor office in Hartford, Coll told a handful of reporters he and a group of his supporters plan to march along the shoreline from Niantic to Old Saybrook Saturday to make the public aware of their right to use the state's beaches.

Under state law, all of the shoreline below the high tide mark belongs to the citizens of Connecticut.

Coll, head of the Revitalization Corps, said Ajello has not been enforcing that law.

"We're asking the attorney general to lose some leadership in this because we feel the people of Connecticut are being deprived," he said.

Last year Coll and two of his supporters traveled the entire 253-mile Connecticut coastline to show people the beach belongs to them. He met with resistance from some communities and homeowners who have private beaches.

"I quite agree that beaches should be open where required by law," he said. "The proper thing would have been for him to address me."

Confession stands

HARTFORD (UPI) — A New Britain man who claims police beat him so he would confess to trying to sexually assault an elderly woman during a burglary has had his appeal turned down by the state Supreme Court.

Kerry Staples, 28, was convicted by a Hartford Superior Court jury in May 1976 on charges of attempted assault and burglary. He was sentenced to 14-to-28 years in prison.

Staples said in his appeal to the high court that police coerced him into confessing and that the confession never should have been presented to the jury during the trial.

Before the confession was admitted, Staples' lawyers presented several witnesses in an attempt to prove he was beaten by police the night of his arrest, Oct. 2, 1975.

Grasso asks speedup of harbor dredging

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to hurry up dredging of the New Haven harbor which has become choked with mud.

She is deeply troubled after reviewing the information submitted to her that the port of New Haven could be affected in its competitiveness and economic viability, and that any further reduction of underwater keel depths in draft could also cause serious delays in shipping arrival times and increased shipping costs," Mrs. Grasso said.

In a letter to V. N. Andrelianous, chief of operations for the New England Division Corps of Engineers, Mrs. Grasso said she found "it disturbing that this condition has been known to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers since it completed its survey in January of 1976, and that channel has been done since that time to remedy the situation."

She said Connecticut officials told her "the whole bank area bordering the New Haven Reach has slid into the Reach reducing the channel significantly below the channel project depth."

New Haven ranks third in New England, 26th in the country in the handling of petroleum products.

Peck criticizes state spending

Fred Peck, Manchester Republican registrar of voters, who is seeking the Republican Party's nomination in the 12th Assembly District, has criticized increased government spending.

Peck said that the state's expenditure budgets have risen from $67.6 million to $2.25 billion since 1970. He also said that the number of state employees has increased by about 5,000 in the past three years.

"This uncontrolled spending must stop. The taxpayers are fed up with such uncontrolled spending and increased bureaucracy," Peck said.

"The abnormal inflation that is created at the state level by such huge spending is a burden that the taxpayers are unwilling to continue to support."

He also said that the four-year term of office for governor has led to deficits in the following year — $244 million in 1970, $75 million in 1974.

While discussing the increased

About town

A mid-week summer service, including Holy Communion, will take place at 7:30 at Concordia Lutheran Church, Pitkin Street.

The Prayer Group of Emanuel Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. in the church library, followed by a meeting of the care and visitation committee at 11:15.

The Christian Service Brigade and Pioneer Girls of the Presbyterian Church will meet tonight at 7 at the church, 43 Spruce St. A prayer meeting is also scheduled for the same hour at the church.

Three Manchester members of Britannia Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, will attend the annual cocktail party for the benefit of the Victoria Home for Retired Men and Women, Ossining, N.Y., Saturday afternoon in Darien. They are Mrs. Edwin D. Foster, state registrar of the organization; Mrs. George Hobbick and Mrs. Dallas Rose.

Children, five years and over, are invited to see the Walt Disney film "Flash, the Teen-age Otter" Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Junior Room of Mary Cheney Library.

Loren defies court for costume fitting

ROME (UPI) — The horrifying prospect of unflattering costumes was enough to bring Sophia Loren to Italy — at the risk of six years in prison.

The 43-year-old star slipped into Italy by train from Paris Monday, ignoring a court order that she testify on charges of illegally exporting some $3.5 million worth of art objects.

A studio spokesman said the Oscar-winning star made the quick trip to Italy for a fitting of the outfits she will wear in Lina Wertmuller's new film — tortuously titled, "Amore, Morte e Shimmmy, Lagano, Bella, Tarantella e Taralucci E Vito."

The plot of the film, also starring Marcello Mastroianni, is anyone's guess but the astute might find a hint in the film's literal English translation: "Love, Death Shimmmy, Lagano City, Beautiful, Spider Dance and Sicilian Biscuits and Wine."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After waiting for years for the perfect man, three months ago I met a wonderful English girl and married her.

My question: Should I go to England to find out what is going on there? And if I do, should I surprise her? I have a feeling she is hiding something from me.

DEAR PUZZLED: Something smells fishy here. Don't ask her if you should come. TELL her you're coming. Then go. You'll get the picture soon enough.

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts. My daughter, Marcie, had to get married at 17. She and Scott had gone steady for two years. We begged them not to get so thick when she was in a marriage that long.

DEAR MOM: It's not possible to "save" a marriage unless both parties want it saved. And assuming you could force Scott to return to Marcie, a young man who had been trapped would make a miserable husband and a worse father.

DEAR ABBY: I am just about ready to leave my stack. My husband and I gave his parents a key to our house so they could check on us when we are out of town, although we seldom are. They live near us, so it is handy for them to drop in often. Now when they come over, they never knock or ring the doorbell when they visit, and to use the key to "check the house" when you are out is obvious - check the locks.

Manager

Sid Green of Manchester has been named sales manager for Fretchette, Martin & Rothman Inc., Realtors, at their new East Hartford Real Estate office, 254 Burnside Ave., East Hartford.

Green's office will be responsible for all phases of real estate with emphasis on residential sales.

This is the first of several planned branch offices with the area east of the Connecticut River as a primary market.

Green is a past president of Charter Oak Lodge, B'nai B'rith, and a member of Temple Beth Shalom. A 20-year resident of Manchester, he lives with his family at 27 Milford Road.

On staff

Denis E. Wirtalla

Denis E. Wirtalla has joined the sales staff at the William E. Beilflore Agency, with offices at 431-433 Main St. and 317 Green Road.

Wirtalla is a licensed real estate salesman, and will specialize in residential sales and listings.

He is a graduate of Southern Connecticut State College. He is a Manchester native and is married to the former Kathleen Moriarty, also a native of Manchester.

Keith takes post in Dun & Bradstreet

Wayne E. Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle A. Keith of 351 W. Center St., has been named manager, new markets development, for the Product Planning and Research Department of Dun & Bradstreet Inc., New York, N.Y.

Keith will be responsible for assisting senior management in exploiting new product opportunities outside the credit function. He will also work with and supervise other staff members in a variety of non-credit related new market opportunities.

Keith's career with Dun & Bradstreet began in 1962 as an account manager at Hartford. He later served as a sales representative at New Haven, and then returned to Hartford in 1969 as manager of the firm's commercial collection division office.

He continued as manager until October 1974 when he was transferred to the New York headquarters as an operations manager covering numerous branch offices across the United States. Last year he was named manager, major account development, and continued in that capacity until his current appointment.

In 1971, Keith was among 40 management and sales executives to attend a week-long management seminar at Princeton University for intensive study, workshop discussions, and recommendations to top management.

A Manchester native, Keith is a graduate of Manchester High School and the University of Connecticut.

Shell drilling fails to find oil

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Shell Oil Corp. has come up dry in its first exploratory drilling operation of Atlantic City, failing to find any oil or natural gas reserves.

The Shell announcement came a little more than a month after Continental Oil Co. announced its exploratory rig in the Baltimore Canyon also had come up dry.

Texaco, which is going down deeper than any of the Baltimore Canyon drillers, said it expected to reach its 18,000-foot target depth sometime in August.

Texaco geologist Gary King recently said he was optimistic about the prospect of finding oil and natural gas reserves. But he added quickly that it was "terribly premature" to draw any conclusions.

The drilling results were obviously disappointing, but more wells must be drilled before the potential of the Baltimore Canyon area is known, R.L. Ferris, vice president of exploration and production, said in a statement from the firm's Houston headquarters.

Ferris said the dry hole would be sealed and the firm's Western Paecester II drilling rig would be moved to another block 50 miles south of its present location, now 73 miles east of Atlantic City. Ferris said Shell then will begin a new drilling operation with a 16,000-foot target depth.

Shell's original target depth for what turned out to be the dry hole was 12,000 feet, but the firm decided to drill another 2,000 feet.

Exxon Corp. is expected to resume drilling operations in the Canyon sometime this week. Exxon suspended its drilling June 24 at the 13,000-foot mark after a piece of pipe broke off its Glamour Pacific drill.

USSR grain crop good

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1978 Soviet crop, which has an impact on American grain exports and farmers' prices, is expected to be as much as 35 million metric tons larger than last year's.

In the second forecast of the 1978 Soviet grain crop, the Agriculture Department revised upward its prediction to between 195 million and 220 million metric tons for a "relatively good crop." Last year's crop was 195.5 million metric tons.

A June 12 forecast had predicted a 1978 crop between 185 million and 225 million tons. The latest forecast was based on early July conditions in the Soviet Union.

The high point of this year's estimate assumes good weather and the low point assumes poor weather. The department tentatively predicted a middle ground between the two extremes.

Fishermen ask aid

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., has promised an upset group of fishermen to ask the federal government for an immediate order raising their cod and haddock catch quotas.

The fishermen are seeking a quota of 7,000 pounds of cod and 7,000 pounds of haddock per fisherman per month. That's considerably higher than, though hard to compare exactly to, the current quota, which is a few thousand pounds of each per boat per week, depending on boat size.

Brooke said he would take the proposal to Washington and seek a meeting with Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps to have the proposal implemented on an emergency basis for 90 days.

"I will do everything in my power to get you people help," Brooke said.

The 200 fishermen at the two-hour meeting at the Gloucester City Hall seemed pleased with Brooke's pledge.

"Without an emergency recommendation, we're in trouble," said Mike Orlando, head of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union at Gloucester. "We can't afford to fish."

Senior Citizens They took energetic tour

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

Shortly after the Arrow Travel Service coach pulled out from in front of the Manchester Senior Citizens Center in Manchester, the merriment began and didn't end until the seniors arrived home three days later.

Bound for Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va., the passengers were singing lyrics to old and new songs, swapping stories and anticipating the sights they would soon see.

First stop was Mt. Vernon, the gracious plantation home of George Washington with its wide pillared piazza facing the Potomac River. Joining an escorted tour, we viewed the Banquet Hall which is most frequently designated in General Washington's writings as "the New Room." Outstanding among the furnishings of this room is the pair of Hepplewhite sideboards. One is a surviving mate of a pair made in 1797 for this room by John Aitken of Philadelphia. The matching sideboard was acquired to restore the Banquet Hall to its original state.

The West parlor features Martha Washington's China tea service. Paneled walls and mantel combine to make it one of the finest examples of colonial Virginia interiors.

Strolling through the beautiful grounds, we saw the flower garden, the ice house, the spinning-house, and smokehouse, the kitchen garden, the stables, and the tomb where George and Martha were buried.

There is also a museum on the property where Martha's carved ivory fan and satin slippers are exhibited.

As we visited the quarters where the servants prepared meals, one could but wonder how they made do with such crude implements.

Looking at the huge wooden wash tubs, one senior citizen said, "And we complain when the washing machine or dryer doesn't work."

Later that evening we checked into the Ramada Inn in Old Alexandria, Va., prior to dining in historic Gadsby's Tavern in the Old Town area — and taking an illuminated tour of Washington.

The nation's capitol is an awesome sight at night with its illuminated dome visible for miles.

We walked through the rounds, some of us reflecting on the day the late President Kennedy's body lay in state in that very room. In other capital rooms, there are huge statues of prominent Americans representing every state.

The Lincoln Memorial with its many stairs looks over a huge reflecting pool and the towering Washington Monument is an imposing sight at the opposite end, its reflection visible in the pool.

As our coach headed back to our hotel, the driver pointed out a little flickering light in the distance and said it was the eternal light on President Kennedy's grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

Throughout our trip we were kept informed of many historical points by Don Savard of East Hartford, the coach driver, and our tour guide, Dave Cimino, a history teacher from Fairfield.

Don, who said he chafes up more than 80,000 miles a year, has been in the travel business 10 years. His trips have taken him to Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, California and through Canada.

"In every new place I visit, I pick up books and brochures to read about the area. That way, when I make a second trip, I am better informed and can answer some of my passengers' questions."

"Once in a while, I get to take my wife, Odette, and our three daughters, Kathy, Michele and Lisa, on a trip, but not too often."

Don was obviously well-informed on spots of interest during our trip having made it nine times already this year.

"I brought a group of students from East Catholic High School on this tour recently, and they were great. It's really a pleasure to see how truly interested they were, especially when we visited Washington."

We had breakfast the following morning in Melanie's Rivertown Restaurant in the hotel, and with the weather in our favor boarded our coach for Williamsburg and the Bonhomme Richard Hotel.

There in 83-degree temperature we walked down the Duke of Gloucester Street which leads directly to the College of William & Mary on one end and to the capitol, one of colonial America's most important buildings at the other end. Principles of self-government, individual liberty, and responsible leadership were developed here by Virginia's patriots.

The Governor's Palace was another highlight of our visit. It is the elegant residence of seven royal governors and the first two governors of the Commonwealth of Virginia — Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson. Dependencies and formal gardens with mount, holly maze, and canal are part of its extensive grounds. Even today, a wheelwright works in the carriage house.

In sharp contrast to most of colonial Williamsburg, at the western end of Duke of Gloucester Street, near the College is Merchants Square. Here more than 50 modern shops, stores and services cater to the needs of visitors and townspeople.

After lunching on Smithfield ham and cheddar cheese sandwiches at the King's Arms Tavern, we continued on to visit some of the various craft shops.

That evening, we enjoyed a Plantation dinner complete with costumed waiters and candlelight dining room at the Williamsburg Lodge.

After a full day of activities, the seniors were still in fine fettle and I'm sure could have continued on if nightfall hadn't overtaken us.

Bright and early the next day, we were off again, this time heading for Busch Gardens "The Old Country" for a day of adventure in recreated Old France, England and Germany, with food, rides and entertainment non-stop.

Chatting with a pretty southern belle are Mr. and Mrs. John Mora of 330 Hackmatack St.

Don Savard of East Hartford, congenial driver for the Arrow Travel Service, waits for his passengers to board the coach.

Mrs. Theresa Hublard of 397 Woodbridge St., at center, shares a laugh with a pretty hostess during the tour.

College: a helping hand
By William Steif

Federal agencies offer many services to individuals and groups, but sometimes it's difficult to learn about these services or how to benefit from them. This weekly column provides such information.

You have just graduated from high school and have been accepted by a nearby college. But your parents just can't afford the cost of sending you.

Depending on your parents' income, you may be eligible for one or more of five federal financial-aid programs. They are:

BASIC EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY GRANTS — If you're enrolled at least half-time in a college, junior college, post-high school vocational institute or a hospital school of nursing you may be able to get a grant of the amount will be determined by your parents' income anywhere from $300 to $1,600 for the next academic year. The amount will be determined by your parents' income from your college financial aid office. You'll be notified within six weeks whether you qualify.

NATIONAL DIRECT STUDENT LOANS — Under this program you can borrow up to $2,500 from the government if you're enrolled in a vocational program or have finished less than two years of college. If you've completed two years you're eligible to borrow up to $5,000, including your previous borrowing. If you're working on a graduate degree you can borrow up to $10,000, including previous borrowing. Interest rate is 8 percent and you have up to 10 years to repay. No payments are made while you're in the armed forces, Peace Corps or VISTA. Details can be obtained from your college financial aid office who also can tell you about provisions to cancel loan repayments for borrowers who go into certain teaching fields or do specified military jobs.

SUPPLEMENTAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY GRANTS — These range from $200 to $1,500 a year for students of exceptional financial need who couldn't continue their studies without a grant. If you're selected, your college must provide additional financial aid that equal to the amount of the grant. Apply through your college's financial aid officer; he's responsible for deciding who gets the grants and how much.

COLLEGE WORK-STUDY — This program provides jobs for students who have great financial need and must earn part of their college expenses. The participating colleges arrange jobs on or off-campus with public or private nonprofit agencies. The financial aid officer, in arranging your job and number of hours to be worked, must take into account your need, your class schedule and academic progress and your qualifications, but you're sure to get at least the national minimum wage, $2.85 an hour.

GUARANTEED STUDENT LOANS — This program is operated, for the most part, through banks and through state agencies, although some colleges also participate directly. You have to find out what the situation is at your college. The maximum you can borrow as an undergraduate is $2,500 for each academic year; graduate and professional students, such as those in medical or law schools, can borrow up to $5,000 a year. Interest rate is 7 percent and in most cases the government will pay the interest for you until you begin repaying your loan. Repayment starts nine to 12 months after leaving school, normally, and you have 10 years to repay. In most cases you may repay at least $300 a year. You can defer repayment up to three years through service in the armed forces, Peace Corps or VISTA. Application blanks are available from your school's financial-aid office.

(This column invites queries pertaining to available government services. We can't reply to each letter but will answer as many as possible in these columns. Write to THE U.S. AND YOU care of this newspaper.)

Sheets won't stay put
By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I hope someone can tell me how to attach bed sheets inside sleeping bags so they stay in place and can be easily removed. — IRENE

DEAR IRENE — I am sure we will be hearing from many of our camping readers who have solved this problem. I really have no idea how it could be done most satisfactorily but think I would make large "pillows" that would fit inside the bags and then just attach to the open edges with large safety pins. Sheets could be used for this purpose. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Marilyn's pegged leg jeans should not be a problem. She could just open the outside seams from the knees down and sew in triangles of almost anything she likes and have flared jeans. — HODA

DEAR POLLY — My Fat Pees has always been with the candles that bend in the candle holders after I set an elegant table. But now the problem is solved. Using colored paper napkins or crepe paper I cut several pieces into long leaf and petal shapes and arrange them over the holders, then insert the candles making sure there are enough pieces to hold the candles erect. Bend the petals down by wrapping around a pencil to give the appearance of flowers. The paper also catches any drippings that may fall. — PATTI

DEAR POLLY — I save all the plastic wrappers my newspapers come on in rainy days and place them with the rubber bands in the box of disposable diapers I keep on hand for my baby grandson. When I change baby's soiled or wet diapers I put the discarded ones inside one of these plastic bags, put a rubber band around it or tie a knot in the end and there is no danger of odor. — MRS. B. K.

DEAR POLLY — Try dipping a small foam paint brush in warm soapy water and use for cleaning plastic lamp shades. Rinse the brush often and squeeze out as much water as you can so it is nearly dry. The wedge shape fits into the pleats and does a terrific job. — LORIE

DEAR POLLY — To make shoelaces last much longer sew them with a zigzag or stretch stitch on your sewing machine. You might try using a different color on children's shoelaces so they will know one color is for the right shoe and one for the left. There will be fewer shoes trying to go on the wrong feet.

Toast bread before grinding into crumbs and they will have a better flavor. Toasted sesame seeds also add to the taste. I keep some in a salt shaker and often add a piece of toast. Put peeled hard boiled eggs in leftover beef juice and find they not only taste good but add color to a salad. — EENA

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Pevee or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

End chlorine taste

LOMBARD, Ill. (UPI) — Chlorinated water can be freed of its "swimming pool" taste in several ways, according to the Water Quality Association.

The organization says water treated with chlorine can be rid of the chemical's taste by boiling, by letting it stand after it has been drawn from the tap or with the installation of a carbon filter on drinking water taps. Chilling of water also is recommended.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

by Will Bernard

Nursing Home Victim

Erza, an elderly resident of a nursing home, was leaving the bathroom when he slipped on a slick of water. Bruised and shaken, he filed suit for damages against the management.

Nursing homes are normally called upon to live up to local statutory requirements. But in addition, they must also live up to a general standard of safety.

Another case involved a resident who frequently got drunk and disorderly. One day, while he was high on gin, he punched another resident in the nose.

The manager protested in court that attendants had no advance knowledge on that particular day that the man had been drinking.

Still, the law recognizes that not all accidents are avoidable.

HEALTH

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - About six weeks ago I began to have intermittent pain in my chest in the center above my breasts.

My doctor took X rays and an electrocardiogram and examined my breasts and found everything was normal.

It's possible that treating some tight muscles that you may not be aware of could resolve your problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Because I have had tumors of the breast and had a hysterectomy for cancer of the uterus.
