

Temple nursery school accepting registration

Temple Beth Shalom Nursery School is now accepting registration for its fall term. The school is open to three- and four-year-olds. Classes are held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday 9:15-11:30 a.m., and children who will be entering kindergarten in the following year are invited to join the extended day lunch program on Mondays. Extended care is available after hours for the convenience of working parents. Children may also be registered for a two-day program. The nursery school is led by two certified teachers. The program includes arts and crafts, nature studies, music, field trips, and pre-school readings, and is enhanced by the incorporation of Jewish cultural and religious experiences.

McDonough hits critics of Carter on insurance

Donna McDonough, U.S. Labor Party candidate for Congress in Connecticut's First District, has blasted the recent attacks on President Carter's opposition to a National Health Insurance bill. "The gutter attacks on Carter," said McDonough, "emanating from the Kennedy machine sewer particularly, are a cover for something much more serious — an attack on the president aimed at creating a new fascist army in the United States." "Doug Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers, is leading the attack on Carter," continued McDonough, "along with George Meany of the AFL-CIO and Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts. Fraser last week let out what was really being planned, when he attacked business in the United States, and predicted class war in the near future." "Fraser," said McDonough, "said that he plans to create an anarchistic pro-fascist party, made up of anti-progress unionists like himself, women's groups, disaffected minorities, and so forth. This grouping parades the Sturmabteilung of Adolf Hitler, which helped propel him to power in the early 1930s in Germany." "The aim," McDonough asserted, "is to destroy any chance for pro-growth labor-industrial alliance, of the type that the Labor Party is building."

Carter will back new tax cut plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration announced its support Friday for a newly proposed $16.1 billion tax cut that would give greater relief to lower and middle income individuals than the $16.2 billion cut approved by a House committee.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal told a news conference the plan put forward by Reps. Joseph Fisher, D-Ma., and James C. Coleman, D-Calif., was a "significant improvement" from the House Ways and Means Committee bill.

"We wholeheartedly support this constructive effort," Blumenthal said.

All income classes earning up to $50,000 annually "would benefit" from the Fisher-Corman plan, Blumenthal said. At the same time, he said, the legislation would "avoid huge capital gains windfalls" for those persons who already enjoy such tax advantages.

Special meeting set on road alterations

South Windsor's Town Council will hold a special meeting Monday to reconsider road changes proposed by the Town of Manchester.

Manchester is making some road alterations in connection with the J.C. Penney Co. project.

The proposed alterations included changes in South Windsor, but Monday night the Town Council said it would agree to make those changes to Pleasant Valley Road only if Manchester left Burnham Street open or considered building an alternate east-west route.

Manchester Town Manager Robert Weiss sent a letter to South Windsor Town Manager Paul Talbot confirming that Manchester will cooperate in trying to find an east-west alternative.

Manchester has asked South Windsor to reconsider its role on the road alterations to Pleasant Valley Road if Manchester cooperates in the east-west route search.

At Thursday's meeting of the Manchester Economic Development Commission, at which the agreement was reached, one Manchester official was skeptical about the procedure.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said that he did not see where such an east-west route would be located. Most of the land is already developed or slated for development, he said.

The South Windsor Town Council will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. It also will consider the hiring of consultant to do a traffic study in the area.

An informal study done by the town showed that traffic in some areas already had surpassed estimates made in the report about the effects of the J.C. Penney Co. project.

Manchester Mayor Stephen Penny, however, criticized the informality of the survey and suggested that South Windsor hire a traffic consultant to do a professional study.

Egypt radio blasts Begin

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Cairo radio Friday denounced Prime Minister Menachem Begin as a "racist dictator" and political schizophrenic in one of Egypt's harshest personal attacks on the Israeli leader.

The radio blast came on the eve of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's departure to the Middle East. But radio sources said the commentary was not purposely timed to coincide with Vance's tour and did not signal any shift in Egypt's position.

It was one of the strongest attacks on Begin since peace negotiations between Egypt and Israel collapsed in Jerusalem in January, barely two months after President Anwar Sadat's historic visit to Jerusalem.

Recalling Begin's record as a terrorist leader before the creation of Israel in 1948, the radio said he must revise all his terrorist policies and practices at once.

But Begin's conduct as prime minister shows this has not been the case, it said.

"He is suffering from schizophrenia," it said. "The catastrophe lies in the fact that he never stops talking about peace but at the same time he never stops talking about so-called Israeli security which, to him, means that peace and (retention of occupied Arab) lands are inseparably linked."

This was a reference to Begin's refusal to relinquish the Jordan West Bank and the Gaza Strip, captured in 1967 along with Egypt's Sinai Peninsula and Syria's Golan Heights.

The Egyptian radio blast was triggered by a speech Wednesday in which Begin described Sadat as an obstacle to peace because of the Egyptian leader's refusal to resume

Vance faces tough talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bound again for the Middle East on a formidable diplomatic salvage operation, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said Friday the failing Israeli-Egyptian peace talks have reached "a critical point" and no quick-fix is in prospect.

He was to leave Andrews Air Force Base at midnight on a five-day trip to Israel and Egypt.

"Compromise continues to be possible, but more so if we are to succeed," he said before meeting with the House International Relations Committee Friday.

"At the moment, the discussions are at a critical point. New efforts will have to be made."

Although Vance said the United States will continue to put forward discussions to overcome the Egyptian leader's refusal to resume

Beirut engulfed in heavy shelling

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The heaviest Syrian-Christian shelling in a month engulfed east Beirut Friday, Israel, under heavy U.S. pressure, softened its opposition to deployment of Lebanese troops in southern Lebanon.

Christian officials said three people were killed and about 15 wounded in the shelling around Christian east Beirut, and the Syrians said several of their soldiers were wounded by sniper fire Thursday night.

Residents of the area said it was the most intense rocket and shell barrage since a month ago, when Syrian peacekeeping troops and Christian rightists battled all-out for five days.

The flare-up appeared to signal the failure of "last chance" peace negotiations Thursday between President Elias Sare and visiting Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, diplomatic sources said.

The Syrians want a crackdown on what they term "pro-Zionist" rightist militia pockets, and the multiarmies denounce the Syrian-dominated Arab League peacekeeping force as an occupation army.

"Though the fighting around Beirut seemed to be worsening, Lebanese officials got some good news Friday from the nation's other trouble spot along its southern border with Israel. Lebanese army sources said Israel has dropped its opposition to the deployment in the south of the first regular Lebanese army troops since the 1975-1976 civil war.

The 500 troops tried to move into the area Monday to end periodic clashes between rightists and Palestinians, but were met by artillery salvos from Israeli-backed Christians that stopped their advance at the town of Kaakaba.

Officials of the 6,000-man U.N. peacekeeping force in southern Lebanon would not confirm the Lebanese army report, though it was confirmed by U.N. diplomatic sources in New York.

Your neighbor's views: Should all dwellings be required to have screen doors and windows?

 Howard Taskin, 33 Highland St., East Hartford — "Yes. They are good for the children's sake. They provide protection at the doors and windows and keep the insects out."	 Marlene Szarek, 18 Hillcrest Drive, Vernon — "Yes, I do. They help prevent breakins and also make it easier to keep the house cooler in summer. You can open the windows and not let the bugs in."	 Jeanne Rhoades, Opal Drive, Glastonbury — "Absolutely. When windows are open the attract bugs. Screens provide more protection and are safer for children. Air-conditioning is good, but it doesn't replace fresh air."	 Nancy Kies, 18 Belmont Ave., East Hartford — "Yes. They keep the bugs, cats and other animals out."	 Jack Susca, Hartford — "No. It will be all right if the requirement was just for rental units, but shouldn't be mandated for the rest of the town. Such a regulation is a prime example of bureaucracy. It's like that old law forbidding people to drink soda through a straw on Sunday."	 Debbie Brett, 18 Belmont Ave., East Hartford — "Yes. They keep the bugs, cats and other animals out."

That's entertainment

By Allen M. Widem

The so-called super-sophisticated are quick to deny that we Americans, in essence, are sheer sentimentalists. Yet, we can hear a familiar tune on a car radio and the words remind us so very strikingly of a particular time and setting.

We see a long-favorite movie-star cavorting on the silver screen and we overlook the obviousness of aging, our memories, instead, harking back to when the movie-star was younger, showed so much promise, and there was really no cause for concern about tomorrow.

American entertainment, per se, may never again contain the awesome talents of a George Gershwin, a Cole Porter, a Rodgers & Hart, a Rodgers & Hammerstein, the constant quality of an Astaire & Rogers, a Garbo, the immediate individuality of a Danny Kaye, a W.C. Fields, a James Cagney.

We're suddenly confronted with such a realization watching what is a pre-natal tour tryout of a musical review, "Pop the Cork!" at the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, a five-member cast (an engaging Pat Gorman, Liz Marks, Scott Matthew, Maida Meyers and Douglas Walker) in a song, dance and monologue look-back at the constant musical moods, manners, meanderings of the storied 1920s and 1930s.

A potpourri of memories of 30 and 40 years ago at crux of a musical review? There's no story-line as such, rather, a progression of songs, of dances, of monologues, remembering, yes, remembering vividly, how music entertained, enthralled, in the turbulent '20s and in the trying '30s.

Act One is "based" in Chicago, Two in New York, Three in Hollywood. There's "Rudy Vallee," there's "Nelson Eddy and "Aristotle MacDonald," there's this one and that one and what, yes, what indeed, ever happened to all those intervening years?

The cast is youngish — it has to be, what with constant movement, constant shifting on and off stage. The choreography, by Dennis Karr; musical direction, by Randall Courts; costume/scenic design, by David Guthrie, and overall direction by Jay Binder must be cited for perfection. The production is a gem.

Act two: professional. A gem in saying the answer is not so simple as putting on good television for children.

"Pop the Cork!" continues series now in its 24th year.

Filmeter

COUL PLAY (PG) — Goldie Hawn, Chevy Chase.

Comedy-thriller. The two have a Swiss cheese, but who cares? It's fun and scary to watch Goldie, the innocent, get involved with assassins, and sharks and abductees and snakes and all kinds of strange goings-on. It's all very slick, with some laughs and some shrieks. GRADE: B-plus.

BUDDY HOLLY STORY, THE (PG) — Gary Busey, Don Stroud, Charlie Martin Smith. Biographical drama. When Buddy Holly died at the age of 22 in a plane crash he was already a rock 'n' roll legend. Now, nearly 20 years later, Gary Busey brings Holly alive again in a touching, funny film that shows the life behind the legend. GRADE: A-minus. (Drake)

CAPRICORN ONE (PG) — James Brolin, Hal Holbrook, Brenda Vaccaro. Action-adventure. Plenty of action here, and something to think about, too. This suggests that the space program makes a Mars landing — and that's really in a Martian mock-up on Earth — and builds a great chase and survival thriller out of it. GRADE: B-plus (and counting).

CHEAP DETECTIVE, THE (PG) — Peter Falk, Ann-Margret and Peter Onorati. Comedy-mystery. This is Neil Simon's follow-up to "Murder by Death." It's a spoof on all those old Bogart movies. Most of it works, but it's really in a Martin Muller-on-Earth — and builds a great chase and survival thriller out of it. GRADE: B-plus (and counting).

DAMNED OMENTS (R) — William Holden, Ed Grant, Thelma Houston. Sequels seldom live up to the original, but this one is even better than usual. The first "Omen" was scary, this one is ludicrous. The boy — the devil's son — is now in military school and everybody who ferrets out his secret dies in a gruesome way. Caution: There are grisly scenes, but the rest of it is more funny than frightening. GRADE: D.

DIFFERENT STORY, A (R) — Perry King, Meg Foster. Romance. Boy meets girl with a twist — they're both homosexual. They need each other and they get together. A love story that's a little different. That's what the film fails rather than the cast. Overall effect is amusing and superficial, but the film has its comic and touching moments. Caution: Some nudity, strong language. GRADE: B-minus. (O'Brien)

F.I.S.T. (PG) — Sylvester Stallone, Red Steiger. Drama. Basically, this is the story of the rise and fall of a Hoffa-like labor leader. The early part — dealing with his start and the problems in organizing the men — is most fascinating, but the second half, far too long, but contains some very strong scenes. GRADE: A.

GREASE (PG) — John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John. Musical. Not much plot, but plenty of fun, energy and music. Travolta can't sing, but who cares? — he's a star. Music direction shall suffice of the musical numbers, but overall this has a very enjoyable quality, and it builds up to a great musical climax. It's all fine summer fluff. GRADE: B-plus.

HEAVEN CAN WAIT (PG) — Warren Beatty, Julie Christie, Ryan O'Neal, Charles Grodin. Comedy. A cheerful, gentle fantasy about a Heavenly mistake concerning the death of a pro football player. So he gets another chance — and another body. This time, he's a tycoon, but he still wants to be a quarterback. Even the heavens are lovable in this subplot film. GRADE: B-plus.

INTERNATIONAL VELVET (PG) — Tatum O'Neal, Christopher Pennam, Nenette Lemond, Anthony Hopkins. Drama. Frankly sentimental, this belated sequel to "National Velvet" has Velvet, now 40-ish, adopting her orphaned niece and overseeing her desire to be an Olympic equestrienne. Fine for family viewing, but tending to be a bit over-sweet. GRADE: B.

The Sure Cure for TV Violence

Quality in the wasteland

Public television, for most of its quarter century of existence, has not been a big winner with the public. Viewers overwhelmingly have preferred tuning in one of the commercial stations, to whose common denominator of mediocre public TV has sought to make of itself a quality alternative.

In working toward that goal, it has had to work around a number of serious handicaps.

Its stations, about a third of the number of commercial outlets, are concentrated in the ultra high frequency range and thus less accessible to the mass viewing audience. It is a loosely organized chain of largely weak links, a few well-equipped metropolitan units but many more smaller stations operating often at a bare-subsistence level. Its financial resources have been limited and uncertain.

By DON GRAFF

Corporation for Public Broadcasting, set up in 1967. Government funds now account for 28 percent of financing. Private contributions are also up — 1977 over 1976. Some two million individuals and families currently are contributing some $50 million annually.

And it has been making available to TV public programming that is both quality and popular. British imports have contributed heavily to this development, but increasingly ambitious efforts are also coming from public television's own studios. Its successes have begun to influence commercial programming, at least in standards of quality, to no small degree.

But he sees strength in the absence of dependence on mass audiences, paradoxically at the very time a large audience is developing. Because public TV is free from the "ratings chases," he believes, it has the freedom and time to sit back and think and to carry a worthwhile project through to completion.

Cracked down on the questionable corporate practice of providing top officers with valuable disguised benefits by paying the bills for their chauffeured limousines, family vacations, penthouse apartments, home repairs and personal use of company planes, cars and yachts.

Launched investigations of corporations linked to two powerful federal officials — former Office of Management and Budget Director Thomas B. (Bert) Lance and Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller.

Those boards often do little more than rubber-stamp the decisions of company officers. To transform the boards into more independent overseers of corporate activity, Williams proposes that they be composed exclusively of "outside" directors with the exception only of the company's chief executive officer.

Without such reforms, he warns, Congress may assume the power to issue federal charters to corporations — and to put companies out of business by suspending or revoking their charters for non-compliance with government orders.

Private enterprise gets push

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The warning of the nation's business community is forceful and explicit: Voluntarily accept greater social responsibility or face the threat of mandatory changes imposed on behalf of an indignant public.

That call for broad institutional reform within the business world isn't new, but these days it comes from an unlikely source — the former board chairman of a major corporation who now heads the Securities and Exchange Commission.

His name is Harold M. Williams, and his record as SEC chairman during the past 16 months offers striking evidence that capable and committed federal officials can make government responsive to the needs of the people.

The SEC in recent years has been accused, with considerable justification, of abandoning its mission to serve the public and becoming a captive of the industry it was originally supposed to regulate.

But under Williams' leadership the commission has:

- Proposed a wide-ranging series of changes in proxy rules — the first comprehensive reform in four decades — designed to enable shareholders to obtain substantially increased information about the corporations in which they own stock.
- Warned the accounting industry that the SEC no longer will tolerate the traditional practice of hiding or disguising from stockholders financial information that is embarrassing to corporate officials or directors.
- Cracked down on the questionable corporate practice of providing top officers with valuable disguised benefits by paying the bills for their chauffeured limousines, family vacations, penthouse apartments, home repairs and personal use of company planes, cars and yachts.

To transform the boards into more independent overseers of corporate activity, Williams proposes that they be composed exclusively of "outside" directors with the exception only of the company's chief executive officer.
- Without such reforms, he warns, Congress may assume the power to issue federal charters to corporations — and to put companies out of business by suspending or revoking their charters for non-compliance with government orders.

What we see in this true of public television today. But so is something else. In the past several years, it has made rapid strides in attracting attention and a public.

As noted by the newly installed chairman of the Public Broadcasting Service, Newton N. Minow, public television has never been more visible and expectations of it have never been higher.

Newton, it may be recalled, shook up the industry back in the early Sixties when, as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, he surveyed commercial programming and declared it a "vast wasteland."

Nothing much has happened in the years since to challenge that evaluation. But a great public deal has been happening in public TV.

It has gotten its organizational and financial acts together, in the PBS itself and the federally authorized Congress has acted with remarkable accord to provide a legislative remedy to the Supreme Court decision which ruled that employers are not required to include pregnancy or related medical conditions in disability plans. The court found that policies excluded pregnancy do not discriminate on the basis of sex and left the door open for employers to discharge pregnant employees, force them to take maternity leave or withhold employment benefits.

Fortunately, Washington legislators are willing to see what the justices could not: that pregnancy is gender-related and as such may be a prime area for discrimination. Last September the Senate voted 75-11 to amend Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and prohibit discrimination against pregnant women. The House passed a similar measure last week by a vote of 376 to 43.

Thoughts

I hear mom's sweet voice!

Those precious hours in church I spent with mom — When the choir sang — I hear dear mother hum.

The sacred hymns — sweet songs I keep ever in heart.

In my life they play an important part.

Each Sabbath Day I lift my voice in song.

Mother taught me that singing voices make strong.

The cause of faith — inspire hearts to prayer.

When I sing in church — I know mother's there!

How sad, disturbing when a young sweet voice Has made rock 'n roll their choice

— When for Christ first place we should reserve — Ready with prayer and song his cause to serve!

I know in song I have so much to give — So many sweet memories to relive.

So each Sunday — to God — I raise my voice — To his glory on high I shall rejoice!

East-West road called unlikely

BY CINDY MCCORMICK

Analysis

Manchester Economic Development Commission members and the South Windsor Town Council are trying to resolve a squabble between the two towns concerning road improvements connected with the construction of the J.C. Penney project and an industrial park.

Such a team, Ryan replied, "I'll know the answer better in a few days."

Jay Giles, Manchester's director of public works, said that he is confused about South Windsor's proposal for the development of an east-west road.

"Other than the primary industrial road, there is no place to go," he said. According to Giles, the only other possible road sites would be through a housing development or through the J.C. Penney location. "Both areas are out of the question," Giles said.

Stephen Peeny said that if South Windsor wants the east-west roadway it can build it itself, without assistance from Manchester. He agrees with Giles on the difficulty of finding a location for the east-west road tenable with Manchester's earlier commitment to isolate an area around Burnham Street. Peeny said that South Windsor has been difficult to deal with. He said the Town Council has not requested consistent changes from Manchester.

The Republican mayor of South Windsor, Nancy Caffyn, is exacerbating the impasse between South Windsor and Manchester to the detriment of the town's administration, and is overriding its rulings.

Maribeth Morrell has a vital link, the harness gear, to her dog, Julie, which allows the dog to guide the blind woman in her work and travel.

Dog guides student around MCC campus

Julie has Maribeth Morrell in her hands — or rather, in her paws.

Legally blind, Maribeth, a student at Manchester Community College, recently spent 26 days from June 3rd to June 29th, at Guiding Eyes for the Blind's Training School at Yorktown Heights, N.Y., where she and Julie learned to work together as a smoothly functioning unit.

Guiding Eyes for the Blind, a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization supported by donations from the public, is dedicated to providing guide dogs to blind persons who request them. The dogs, bred for their intelligence and good temperament, are products of the organization's breeding program.

Meribeth lives with her family and is a freshman at MCC where she is a pre-social science major.

Before attending the training school, Meribeth used a cane to get around the campus. Now, with Julie's help, Meribeth said that she has more mobility and independence — she doesn't have to ask other people for assistance. "The dog sees danger. When cars come in front of you, the dog will stop. Besides, walking with a dog is a lot faster," Meribeth said.

Two courses well received

New reading and math enrichment courses introduced for the first time in Manchester's summer enrichment program have been the most popular courses, according to Lee Hay, program director.

The two courses, which were well received in the first two-week session of the summer school, are being repeated in the second session which began this week. The other three courses being conducted in the second session are bridge, macramé and art with 48 persons of all ages participating, Hay said.

The first session of the summer program included 12 courses with an enrollment of 102 persons. Participation this year is a little larger than last year's first attempt to revive the summer enrichment program, Hay said. A total of 114 persons were enrolled last year.

Hay said of the summer program, "We still haven't hit the right formula," but he expects the Board of Education to continue the program for at least another year. In the second session, the program ran into vacation schedules, and was particularly affected by the Pratt and Whitney summer close-down, Hay said.

Hay said there were many more persons who signed up, but several courses had to be cancelled for lack of sufficient numbers. All classes were held at Illing Junior High School.

Churches bringing Laotian families here

A cooperative committee of members of South United Methodist and Concordia Lutheran churches are planning to bring two Laotian refugee families to Manchester.

The Rev. Laurence Hill of South Church and the Rev. David Stacey of Concordia are working with Lao Tou Lo, also a member of the committee, and Ma Lo, who with their families were resettled in Manchester two years ago. The two new Laotian families are relatives of the Lo families and have been living in the United States without requiring public support. The committee is working with the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service of New York, which processes applications from Church of World Service, the agency through which refugee resettlement takes place, Pastor Stacy said.

The refugee families are expected to arrive in Manchester sometime in August or early September. The time is uncertain because there are several government agencies involved in the resettlement process, he said. Both churches are supporting the project by providing financial capital for the resettlement effort.

Primary out for Rinhart

TORRINGTON (UPI) — George Rinhart of Goshen said Friday he no longer plans to mount a primary challenge against Daniel MacKinnon of Suffield for the Republican 6th District congressional seat nomination.

Rinhart, 33, said he was dropping his primary challenge against the former state administrative services commissioner because a it could hinder Ronald Saravain, R-Conn., chances of defeating Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

Saravain won his party's gubernatorial endorsement by acclamation last month.

Rinhart's withdrawal leaves a clear field to MacKinnon who will face 6th District incumbent Toby Moffett, D-Conn., in November.

Quit Smoking Clinic meets Monday night

Smokers who are serious about quitting may still register for a five-week Quit Smoking Clinic which is scheduled to start Monday from 6:45 to 8:15 p.m. at the Wilton Memorial Library auditorium, 100 N. Main St.

The group size is limited to 20, and about half of that number had registered by Friday noon. One may register Monday either at the class session or by calling Agnes Agnew or Naomi Zima of the Manchester Health Department, 649-3281, ext. 211, during the day.

Three quarters of the fee for the clinic will be refunded upon successful completion of the course. The remainder will be used for refreshments at each of the five sessions.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Manchester Health Department and will be conducted by Steven Keans, a health educator.

Operation crop share

Members of South United Methodist Church are participating in an Operation Crop Share program each Sunday.

Gardeners who have more vegetables than they can use bring the excess to church and put them on a table in the narthex before the morning worship service. Members without gardens are welcome to help themselves to the vegetables on their way home.

Compromise set

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Gov. Meldrim Thomson Friday said he has approved a compromise settlement of an inmate suit over conditions at New Hampshire's state prison. The federal judge must be approved by the federal judge who ordered prison improvements.

"I've agreed to it," Thomson said of the agreement between the attorney general's office and New Hampshire Legal Assistance, the inmates' lawyers.

Legal Assistance lawyer John McIntosh said the agreement will be sent by Monday to former U.S. District Court Judge Hugh Bowens, who last year ordered sweeping changes at the prison.

Storage room fire at Zayre's causes minor damage to stock

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD—A fire which started in a rear stockroom where knitting materials are stored was put out before it could cause any damage at the Zayre Department Store at 15 Main St. Friday morning.

The fire started when a two-by-four beam which supported some wires became charred by one of the wires, said Alan Chorlton, assistant manager of the store.

Chorlton said there were only a few persons in the store. They were quickly evacuated along with all store personnel.

There was no structural damage to the building. The rear stockroom was charred and about a dozen boxes of knitting material burned.

A stockroom worker discovered the fire and called the Fire Department at 12 a.m. Firemen arrived minutes later and had the fire under control in a matter of minutes.

Chorlton said the damage is undetermined.

He added, "We were very fortunate. Our sprinkler alarm system worked right away."

He said the store will be open today, pending approval by the Health Department.

The store hired a firm Friday to clear the air of smoke and deodorize the store.

John Armstrong, the fire marshal, said the cause of the fire is undetermined.

He inspected the scene Friday and said the fire was confined to the stockroom area and did not reach the part of the store where customers shop.

Draft for transit program released by Coventry Planner

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY—Town Planner Gregory Padick has released a report on his study of a draft by the Windham Regional Planning Agency (WRPA) for a transit development program for the area.

"The proposed plan analyzes the region's public transportation needs, sets goals and objectives, and establishes a five-year implementation program," Padick said. He describes the plan as "oriented toward elderly and handicapped individuals, commuters, and individuals traveling to and from the University of Connecticut."

The Dial-A-Ride program would be expanded to serve all residents of the region, including door-to-door community service. A fixed route transit service and from the university and the Coventry Lake area is supported, as well as commuter express buses.

"Management would be handled through the formation of a transit district, with participation of all ten Windham area towns," the planner explained. "Capital costs are eligible for full federal and state funding, and the state is expected to fund 40 percent of the operating deficit."

He said the towns are expected to contribute to cover any remaining deficit. He is currently working with the WRPA for a transit development program for the area.

The pamphlet was prepared by the Department of Defense's Office of Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, a federal organization, and is entitled "In Time of Emergency."

"The booklet covers recommended actions that every member of a family should know and do in the event of an emergency," Wheeler explained. It includes major natural disasters such as floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, state earthquakes and nuclear attack and accidents.

"The mailing of the books is an attempt to accomplish two purposes: to persuade residents of Coventry to recheck their street numbers and to provide advice to the families on how to cope with emergencies," the coordinator said. He expects to complete the program within two months.

Jews for Jesus couple to speak

Steve and Jan Cohen, staff evangelists with Jews for Jesus, will present a special presentation of Jewish gospel music and drama Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Manchester Christian Church, 225 Main St.

Jews for Jesus is a national organization which seeks to present Jesus as an option of both Jews and Gentiles. They have more than 100 full-time staff members and permanent branches in San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York, Boston, Chicago and Miami as well as three mobile evangelistic teams which travel throughout the country.

Steve and Jan Cohen are two of the full-time staff members in the New York branch of Jews for Jesus. Before moving to New York, they traveled extensively and also served as coordinators in the Seattle-Tacoma, Wash. area.

Steve is a Jewish believer from Pasco, Wash., and a graduate of the University of Washington. He also did graduate work at the University of Puget Sound. He came to believe in Jesus in 1973 and he says, "Even though the town I grew up in was not very Jewish, I've always wanted to feel close to my heritage. Jesus has truly made me more Jewish than ever."

Steve's wife, Jan, also graduated from the University of Washington. Her specialty is music and she was a soloist for the University of Washington Chorale and toured Europe with them. She is also an accomplished organist and pianist. She now serves as office manager for the New York branch of Jews for Jesus.

Church has shut-in ministry

Special induction rites recently were held at St. Bernard's Parish of Rocky Hill when Rev. John J. White, pastor, commissioned 14 men and women as special ministers to the shut-in of the parish.

With the encouragement of Bishop Daniel P. Reilly, bishop of Norwich Diocese, a four-part formation course was inaugurated for parish volunteers. These candidates identified the special needs of the sick. They were also prepared to bring Holy Communion to the home bound after weekend masses.

As an extension of the parish's concern for the sick and aged, these men and women become the first parish visitors to the sick. Other ministries for shut-ins, special ministers of Eucharist, and catechists already draws the active participation of 118 parishioners at Saint Bernard's.

Not typical student

Janet Allen is not your typical medical student. That's because she is a fortyish widow with two children to support. Although she comes in for her share of teasing about being an "old woman," the aspiring pediatrician gets along well with her classmates and even sees advantages in her age. "I have a much easier time interviewing patients than younger students. Also, I don't look quite as green," she said. She said one drawback is that she doesn't find learning as easy as she once did. Nevertheless, Allen is in the top half of her University of New Mexico class and was one of 338 U. S. Medical students who took part in birth defects research last summer under a March of Dimes grant.

Coffee machines recalled

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The distributor of Braun Aramaster Coffeemakers began a recall of about 8,000 potentially hazardous coffee-making machines Friday.

Some of the units may contain defective thermostats which could cause overheating, melting of the plastic housing and possibly catch fire, officials said.

Braun North America began a voluntary recall of some of its Braun Aramaster Coffeemakers Friday to modify the products that have been distributed and serviced since July 1976.

The problem with the Coffeemakers was discovered while testing, according to Donald Gourley, the firm's managing administrator.

"We got a very small number returned but in testing them we realized the potential problem: did coffee burn?" he said. "There were only 10 brought back and in those there were only one or two instances of flame no in those cases there were no injuries or property damage."

The company said that out of the total number of coffeemakers subject to the recall, a relatively small number may have a malfunctioning thermostat. All the recalled products will be screened and adjusted if necessary.

The coffeemakers subject to the recall can be identified by a label on the underside of the base plate. Those being recalled are labeled "AG Frank M. Type 460" and has a production code number higher than 60011.

Wings of morning

What do you expect?

Once in the village of Springfield, Vt. I watched a woman grab a child by the hand, give the lad a good shaking, and screamed "Why don't you act like an adult?" This to her own flesh and blood who had probably lived no more than five years.

What do you expect? What do we have a right to expect? We often ask "Immediately this happen to me?" as if our charmed lives should go from birth to death without any trouble, accidents, or illness. What do we expect of our children, or our parents? What do we expect of neighbors and friends and those we meet by chance along the way? Very often our reaction to their action stems from his what's expected.

I attended many years ago a very happy 65th wedding anniversary. I remained after the other guests had left, had a final cup of coffee, and then we bowed our heads in a quiet prayer of thanksgiving. They stood just inside the screen door and waved goodbye.

Two weeks later to the day I came back to that house to face a red faced, boiling mad husband. His wife had just passed away and she shouted at me, "Why had God done this to me?" along with many similar accusations against the deity.

I was at first bewildered by his screaming, but as his words kept streaming through the screen, I felt there was just one thing to do. I spoke loudly and sharply to him. He was startled and I asked, "What could he expect of me?"

I intended that those who married couples don't even make their twenties, fortieth, or fiftieth anniversaries. He and his wife had had each other's love up to the 65th.

Immediately he calmed down, opened the screen door, and invited me in. Then, and only then, could my ministry of comfort begin.

It is well for us to examine our expectations. Anyone who has learned to resolve the difference between expectations and results is well on the way to a reasonably happy life.

A very dear friend helps

One of the great joys of this column is to share the experiences of close friends and even strangers who feel quite free to introduce themselves and to be enjoyed in conversation.

Not too long ago practically a complete stranger mentioned how much his weekly discussion group meant to her and then added that "Wings" was the basis for their conversation. Two days ago one that I have known and admired for years gave me a quotation from "A Shepherd Looks at Psalm 23" by Phillip Keller. I have read the book, yet missed the fuller meaning of these two paragraphs:

"For the child of God, the Old Testament account of Israel moving from Egypt into the Promised Land, is a picture of us moving from sin into the life of overcoming victory. We are promised such a life. It has been provided for us and is made possible by the unending effort of Christ on our behalf."

"How he wishes to clear of rocks of stony unbelief. How he attempts to break up the hard, proud human heart that is set like a dried clay. He then sows the seed of his own precious word which, if given half a chance to grow, will produce rich crops of contentment and peace. He waters this with the dew and rain of his presence by the Holy Spirit. He tends and cares and cultivates the life, longing to see it become rich and green and productively." (p.47)

"If you happen to have a quotation that might be helpful for the readers of 'Wings,' please pass it on to me, letting me know if you desire a mention of your name. Further, if you have a question or thought you would like to have discussed herein, please tell me what is on your mind. In either case I will have to be the one who decides if the quote or the question is of sufficient wide interest for inclusion.

Church has shut-in ministry

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
By Eugene Brewer

Truth is narrow. In mathematics two plus two equals four. In music there are eight steps in an octave. In science water is composed of two parts hydrogen to one part oxygen. Jesus exhorted men to enter into life by the narrow gate, the wide and broad way leads to death, Matt. 7:13-14. Jesus conditioned salvation upon baptism, Mark 16:15, 16. The apostles made it a prerequisite to remission of sins, Acts 2:38. They even described baptism as our way of dying to sin, surviving the old life, and arising to a new life, Rom. 6:3-4. And they made it the means of entering "into Christ," Gal. 3:27.

Being born again, salvation, fellowship with Christ, clearly are contingent upon your sincere obedience in baptism. Narrow? I suppose so—but is it truth!

The chuckle

A missionary hurrying back to his village through the jungle suddenly came upon this savage lion smack in the middle of the path. There was no way to turn left or right. To turn and flee would invite disaster because the animal could easily outrun him. So the man of God dropped to his knees and started to pray.

Shortly thereafter he opened his eyes and was amazed to see the lion kneeling beside him in prayer also.

"What a miracle this is. By now I was sure that you would have mangled me to death, but here you are in prayer with me. A miracle indeed."

The lion snorted, "Please be quiet. I'm saying grace."

Terrible rumblings from the past

When the Passion Play at Oberammergau in West Germany was on stage in 1970, it drew a total attendance of 530,000. The town council is planning to use the 1890 script that was regarded as anti-Semitic. Let us hope they do not. How much better to use the 1750 version! In this one Satan is made the heavy and, like the New Testament, portrays the Jews as divided over Jesus.

David Hyatt, president of the National Council of Jews and Christians, who is himself a Roman Catholic, said that "The Second Vatican Council denounced anti-Semitism and absolved the Jews of blame for the crucifixion of Jesus... You might be interested to know that Hitler praised the 1850 script."

Let us feel that this is only a problem for Germany, let me remind you that not too long ago Frank Collin in Chicago publicly ranted: "I believe there was no Holocaust... But if there was, they deserved it just as they are going to deserve it this time..."

Can this be an American speaking in 1978. Can you believe it?

Outwitted

"He drew a circle that shut me out—
Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout,
But love and I had the wit to win:
We drew a circle that took him in!"

A final and staggering word from Jesus:

"This is my commandment; love one another, as I have loved you. There is no greater love than this, that a man should lay down his life for his friends, if anyone loves his life, he will hate me who have sent him." (John 15:12, 13—The New English Bible)

Secretary awarded damages

HARTFORD (UPI)—A woman who was forced out of her position as secretary of the Connecticut State Employees Association because she criticized the union leaders in public has been awarded $15,000 damages by a Superior Court jury.

Hartford Superior Court Judge David Shea ruled Friday Patricia Kelsey had the right to criticize the leaders of the CSEA—Connecticut's largest state employee union—even though she had taken an oath not to complain in public.

The jury then awarded her compensatory and punitive damages.

Mrs. Kelsey was drummed out of the union in 1975. She criticized the union leadership in public and was ruled to have violated her oath of loyalty. All the union officers were ordered to sign an oath which forbade them from going public with complaints.

Mrs. Kelsey lost a series of appeals which would have restored her to her job. She later attempted to get a preliminary injunction stopping her ouster.

Eugene Sosnof of New Haven, Mrs. Kelsey's attorney, said Friday the ruling is a precedent because the court held deprivation of free speech for a state union official is illegal.

Mrs. Kelsey said that the only way she could get back to work was to sue. She filed a $1 million suit against the state in the 35,000-member organization was through the press. She said, "This guarantee of free speech is of tremendous importance."

Mrs. Kelsey is now chief fiscal officer for the Connecticut Justice Commission in Hartford.

Inmate moves completed

NORFOLK, Mass. (UPI)—Twenty-seven inmates Friday were swiftly and peacefully transferred from the Norfolk Correctional Institution in an effort to halt a prisoner work boycott.

But despite the move, the work boycott continued. Corrections officers and about 80 state police equipped with riot gear entered the prison at about 6 a.m. to remove "ringleaders" of the strike which began last Sunday.

"The move went off without a hitch," said Massachusetts Corrections Department spokesman Larry Parrnell.

Many illegal aliens coming to region

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — U.S. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall Friday said the urban Northeast can no longer ignore the illegal influx of millions of unauthorized foreign workers who come into the United States through the Southwest.

There are more illegals in New York City than in all of Texas," Marshall told a news conference. "You can go in most restaurants in Washington and yell 'border patrol' and depopulate the place, as far as the help goes."

One of the problems we face in our department is preparing a "nationwide" program to go along with a bill pending before Congress to try to solve the illegal alien problem. He said the bill is "less than perfect," but he thinks it will be refined by the time it is passed.

Marshall said the greatest opposition to creating a national plan to solve the problem will come from "civil libertarians" who dislike a national system of worker identification cards and from the Mexican-American community which may feel the program is "tinged with racism."

He said the influx of illegal workers taking jobs away from U.S. citizens was once considered just a problem of the agricultural industry in the Southwest.

But Marshall said now officials estimate between 8 million and 12 million "illegals" are working in the United States, less than one-third of them in agriculture. He said many have found service industry employment such as restaurant work.

He said he would not be surprised, if an accurate count could be taken, to learn that between 500,000 and 1 million illegal aliens are entering the country's work force each year.

Next stop was Alexandria, Egypt, for two sessions with President Anwar Sadat.

Sadat has dealt the direct Israeli-Egyptian peace talks a seemingly fatal blow by declaring he will not resume them until Israel agrees to territorial concessions.

Diplomatic officials said there is no sweeping American "peace plan" for Vance to lay out, and the proposals to be formulated later would amount to suggestions for bridging the gap on the occupied territories issue.

The officials said they saw little chance for dramatic breakthroughs this trip, because it is most unlikely the Israelis will make the concessions Egypt demands.

Counsel, panel chairman clash on influence probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Resigned special counsel Leon Jaworski Friday questioned Chairman John Flyn's leadership of the House influence peddling probe. Flyn accused Jaworski of making "intemperate statements."

The clash came when Jaworski, who quit Wednesday as chief investigative counsel to Flyn's House Ethics Committee, scoffed at the arrangement the panel has made to question a key South Korean witness and suggested Flyn is both disinterested and ill-informed on the investigation.

"I don't think that Chairman Flyn is familiar with all of the negotiations and all of the facts," Jaworski said in rejecting the Georgia Democrat's claim that former Ambassador Kim Dong Jo would provide valuable information under the long-distance, written questioning procedure announced Thursday.

"As to whether Mr. Flyn had his heart in the investigation, he will have to answer himself," Jaworski said in a televised interview (ABC-TV, "Good Morning America"). "He had not kept up with the Kim Dong Jo investigation."

Asked whether he thought the panel would now move vigorously to deal with the four incumbent congressmen accused of possible ethics violations, Jaworski replied, "I'm convinced the committee would want to, but I don't know what would be in Flyn's mind."

Asked for comment, Flyn responded, "An investigation of this nature is difficult under the very best conditions and that difficulty is increased by intemperate statements made by members of the same team."

He said that, from the time his panel was formed, he has been "convinced the committee would want to, but I don't know what would be in Flyn's mind."

Reporter pays fines to Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — New York Times reporter Craig Whitney Friday paid nearly $3,500 in court costs and fines assessed against him and a fellow correspondent for libel, but said he was doing so under protest.

Judge Lev Almazov, president of the Moscow City Court, imposed fines of $72.50 on Whitney and Harold Piper of the Baltimore Sun Thursday and gave them five more days to retract articles judged libelous at a hearing July 18.

Whitney deposited $3,453 in a Soviet bank, the bulk of which covered court costs since the July 18 hearing. Piper, whose part of the fine was included in Whitney's payment, is in the United States on vacation.

"I make these payments under protest and my doing so is in no way to be considered an acceptance of the finding of slander against me," Whitney said in a typewritten statement.

Despite Almazov's warning that the court will have to try "different measures" if the offending articles are not retracted by the new deadline, both papers have said they would not recant.

The May 25 articles quoted the views of dissidents as saying that the televised confession of a convicted Georgian human rights activist may have been faked.

The suit was brought by the Soviet state television and radio network, and the dissident, Zviad Gamsakhurdia, testified at the original hearing that his confession was not faked.

New York Times reporter David Shipley said the paper was hoping payment of the fines and costs will close the matter, but he declined to speculate on what "different measures" the judge might have in mind if the articles were not retracted.

Police attended housing hearing

At least one plainclothes police officer was present in Manchester at a June hearing about fair housing and the town's Community Development grant.

Police presence apparently was requested by Mayor Stephen Penny.

The June 5 hearing was an emotional one with much criticism of the town's involvement in the Community Development program, but no trouble developed.

A principal residence for two years, just as the committee bill provides.

The $1.1 billion proposal would cut individual income taxes $12.7 billion, reduce corporate taxes $3.8 billion and slash capital gains taxes $1.6 billion, according to Treasury Department figures released by the congressmen.

The $16.2 billion committee bill would cut $10.4 billion from individual income taxes, and shrink corporate taxes $1.8 billion, while cutting capital gains taxes $1.9 billion.

A typical family of four with an annual income of $20,000 would save $228 under the Corman-Fisher proposal, compared to $146 under the committee bill. On a $30,000 income the saving would be $423 compared to $304, and at a $50,000 income the saving would be $700 compared to $654.

Michael Nimirovski, acting tax assessor for the Town of Manchester, said that a schedule should be established for depreciating the value of automobiles for assessment purposes.

Automobiles now are assessed based on fair market value, but Nimirovski feels that it would be fairer for taxpayers to have the cars assessed on a depreciating basis.

Inflation can create increases in new car prices from year to year and result in a very small, if any, decrease, in the market value of older vehicles.

"The way the market is today is crazy," he said of car prices.

The fairest system for taxpayers would be to establish a year-to-year depreciation schedule for vehicles.

He said that the proposal might result in fewer tax dollars from motor vehicles taxes, and thus might be opposed by town administrators.

It might be favored by politicians seeking to provide tax relief for taxpayers, Nimirovski said.

Collectors' Corner

By RUSS MacKENDRICK
Some thousands of 16-cent envelopes left marooned when the letter rate was fixed at 15 cents have been rescued by this surcharge. The first batch was sent on its way, unceremoniously, from Williamsburg, Pa., on July 28.

Requests for first-day cancellations will be honored up through the Aug. 12. The price per envelope is 18 cents. A small one will be sent unless the No. 10 is specified. Surcharges are not too plentiful in United States postal history; there are just enough to make an interesting specialized collection.

In 1958 and 1962 there were some pictorial surcharges to add a touch of class. In 1971 there was a "Postage Revalued" design looking very much like this one with the same big "11" and the "USA" striped "S," but it did not carry a figure, just the stripes.

Anger, power, sadism said rapists' motivations

SOMERS, (UPI) - A Connecticut psychologist who counsels sex offenders in prison says there are three kinds of rapists: those who do it out of anger, those who see it as a power trip - and sadists.

"Most of the men were sexually active before the rape, so it wasn't a kind of sex starvation," says Dr. Nicholas Groh, recently hired to treat sex offenders at Somers state prison. "And most of the men say the rape was disappointing."

"The power rapist accounts for at least 80 percent of all sexual assaults, he said. "They use just enough force to gain control - like threatening the victim verbally or with a weapon."

Conspiracy charges

BOSTON (UPI) - Three men, including a former immigration investigator, Friday were indicted on charges of conspiracy to smuggle Iraqi aliens into the United States for payments up to $2,100.

Things are moving right along and we remind you that on Monday morning we will be signing up for a day trip with a nice choice lunch at the Dutch Inn.

By the way, interest had picked up on the Saratoga trip and we are getting along pretty well with the second bus. However, at this writing we have 18 seats open, and so if you'd like a nice comfortable bus ride, a day away, see the oldest race track in the country featuring some of the top jockeys, then call us or drop by and sign up.

With all our trips coming up on Thursday, which is Fun Day, and because we are not serving any meals, there will not be any official meetings. We will be open for business and you are welcome to drop by our center for cards or outdoor shuffleboard.

About town

A Protestant Worship Service is scheduled for tonight at 7 in the chapel of Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Manchester Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet Sunday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Manchester State Armory.

All Masons and their friends are invited to an open house Monday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Masonic Temple, 25 E. Center St., Manchester.

Power plant components begin sea-land journey

By LeRoy POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most ambitious transportation feats in history and certainly the biggest ever attempted in the nuclear power industry started Friday in Chattanooga, Tenn.
Combustion Engineering Inc. is sending an ocean-going super barge down the inland waterways via the Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, through Paducah, Ky., and components for a nuclear power plant.
The voyage is the first leg of a five-to six-week sea-land journey for the equipment, which is to be installed at Palo Verde, 45 miles north of Phoenix, Ariz., by Arizona Public

Business
Service of Phoenix.
The giant components include a nuclear reactor vessel, two steam generators and a closure head. These huge members cannot be fabricated on-site, the construction problems are too critical. Transporting them over long distances has been such a problem for nuclear equipment manufacturers that it can take years to make plans for a single delivery.
The journey that starts today at Chattanooga took four years of planning, said Ken Owens, a Combustion Engineering official at Stamford, Conn.

After leaving the mouth of the Mississippi in Louisiana's Cajun country 100 miles below New Orleans, the huge barge, operated by S.C. Loveland Co., of Philadelphia, will cross the Gulf of Mexico amid the hurricane season and transit the Panama Canal.
It will move north along Mexico's west coast and up the Gulf of California to Puerto Penasco on the Mexican mainland opposite Baja California.
Combustion Engineering not only had to engineer the barge loading, it had to build a special shallow slip, designed to withstand tides up to 22 feet and reinforced with fill, will allow bottoming of the barge so that trailers can be driven aboard and the load continue on its way.

For having traveled 5,600 miles by water, the 2,200-ton nuclear load will just be starting the toughest part of its journey at Puerto Penasco — the 200 miles over mountain and desert to Palo Verde.
For this part of the trip, the equipment will be carried on an articulated highway trailer with 384 huge truck wheels, hauled by equipment with up to 600 horsepower.
The 200-mile trip will take a full week — not quite one mile an hour in elapsed time. The load will have to go up and down steep grades, around some tight corners and across bridges. Here, too, Combustion Engineering had to engineer reworking of roadbeds and turns to accommodate the shipment.

It had to excavate separate roads to bypass a copper mine operation and an interstate highway bridge with inadequate clearance. It had to raise and relocate telephone and electrical wires and shore or bypass more than 50 bridges.
But Combustion Engineering has had experience with big shipments. It moved a 2,050-ton nuclear plant from Chattanooga in 1976.
Back in 1956 it raised eyebrows by shipping the country's first large reactor, a mere 156 tons, in one load by rail from Chattanooga to Ship-pingport, Pa.

Noise control
BARRINGTON, Ill. (UPI) — The market for noise control products is expected to expand rapidly in the immediate future, according to Plant Engineering Magazine. The magazine estimates that by 1985 this will be a $710 million market, about four times the volume just two years ago.

A&P offer Gold Bond stamps

Some 447 A&P supermarkets in the Midwest and East today begin offering trading stamps as another step in the company's continuing campaign to attract customers by "giving a little something extra," according to Jonathan L. Scott, A&P chairman.
He said recent survey demonstrate that consumers are once again receptive to trading stamps.
"Today's shopper is extremely price conscious and wants to get as much for her money as possible. Our popular 'Economy Corner' and 'Action Prices' programs and the new trading stamp offering help meet his customer challenge," Scott said.
The "Economy Corner" program features unbranded food and general merchandise products priced as much as 30 percent below national brands. The "Action Prices" program passes along to consumers savings the company has made on special purchases of various products.
Scott said sales increases generated by the consumer campaign "will more than offset the cost of giving customers that little something extra."
In the Midwest, S&H Green Stamps are being offered in the company's 119 Chicago Division stores and 46 stores of the Milwaukee Division.
In the East, Gold Bond Stamps are available in the 282 stores of the company's Boston, Springfield, Albany-Scranton, Altoona and Pittsburgh divisions.

Indicted in fraud

BOSTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted Alan H. Abrahams and 11 other employees of the now-defunct Lloyd, Carr, and Co. commodity options firm on charges of conspiracy and fraud.
Abrahams, also known as James A. Carr, was accused, along with the others, of mail and wire fraud, and conspiracy in a 50-count indictment handed up by the jury, said U.S. Attorney Edward F. Harrington Thursday.
Harrington said the charges stem from alleged attempts by the suspects to defraud the public by promises of quick profits and concealment of the risk. They also are charged with using the company, which operated in Boston from July 1976 through January 1978, to sell options on goods in the London market, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael A. Collier.
They're also charged with selling "naked" options in 1976, or failing to buy in London the options they were selling to the public, Collier said.

George Washington had a sweet tooth for ice cream. Records show that during two months of 1780 he spent $200 on it.

Crowds, collections off

Baseball attendance, like the caliber of play, has dropped off considerably in the Hartford Twilight League this season.

That's the word from Jeff Koelsch who serves as team manager for the Manchester entry. Moriarty Brothers, and has been around the league for 40 years.

Last Tuesday night at Moriarty Field, we had the smallest collection in all my years to play for the baseballs used, the white-tatched man said.

Attendance started to drop off last year at Mt. Nebo's Moriarty Field. Koelsch added, when the collections averaged between $50 and $60 a game.

"Two years ago, we averaged between $80 and $110 at Mt. Nebo," he added.

Koelsch, who has been taking up the collections on a pass-the-hat and hope-for-the-best basis for years, also at Thomas, the official home field of the Twi loop, said both crowds and collections are down at this site.

"We averaged about $22 at St. Thomas this year when I helped out, which is under what was collected each game a year ago," he added.

For the first time in years, Moriarty's, perennial regular season and playoff champions under Gene Johnson's guidance will be on the sidelines when post-season activity starts later this month.

Tuesday night the MB's wind up their worst season ever against last place Glastonbury at Moriarty Field.

Test due rookies and free agents

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Football League clubs open their abbreviated exhibition schedule in earnest this weekend and the period will be an especially hectic one for rookies and free agents.

Since the pre-season has been shortened from six to four games this year, many of the rookies and free agents must prove themselves quickly.

Most NFL coaches indicate that they will look at newcomers for the first two games and then use the next two exhibitions to prepare their regulars for the first 16-game regular season starting Labor Day weekend.

Clubs must trim their rosters to 80 players by Aug. 15, to 50 by Aug. 22 and to the regular season limit of 45 on Aug. 28. Some clubs have as many as 75 players in camp entering the first full week of exhibitions.

In the only afternoon game Saturday, New Orleans and Philadelphia played in Mexico City. On Saturday night, Cincinnati is at Tampa Bay, Oakland at Chicago, Kansas City at Green Bay, Washington at Minnesota, San Francisco at Dallas, New England at Los Angeles, St. Louis at Miami, Pittsburgh at Baltimore, Denver at Houston and Buffalo at Detroit.

Atlanta is at the New York Jets and the New York Giants are at Cleveland on Monday.

The Saints-Eagles game marks the first NFL game ever to be played in Mexico. A sellout crowd of more than 42,000 is expected.

"I think it will be a good game for the Mexican fans," said Eagles coach Dick Vermeil. "We'll play some backup players, of course, but

Brownlee in tie with Sally Little

SUNNINGDALE, England (UPI) — American Vivian Brownlee shot a two-under-par 72 Friday for a five-under-par 143 total and a share of the lead with Sally Little of South Africa after two rounds of the $100,000 European LPGA Championship.

Tournament favorite Nancy Lopez, bidding for her eighth win this season "so people won't forget me," was one shot back on 144 after carding 71, while Marie Eiser, one-under over-night, picked up seven birdies and five bogeys to post 72 and stand two strokes off the pace at 145.

LPGA

73 to join Jerilyn Britz, Peggy Conley, Shirley Englehorn and Betsy King bracketed on 146.

Brownlee, starting the day three under, looked set to take the 6,174-yard tree-line Old Sunningdale course apart when she raced to seven under after birdies on the second, fifth, ninth and 10th. But the 28-year-old from Dunedin, Fla., fluffed her

Notes off the cuff

Despite being the No. 1 baseball diamond in Manchester, the surface at Manchester Community College has received little play this summer.

Moriarty's have stuck to Moriarty Field for Twi League offerings, for obvious reasons, but it wouldn't be a bad idea to christen the MCC facility Matt Moriarty Field as well. Moriarty has played a key role in establishing the college and has contributed much since its birth.

Registrations are now being accepted for all adult play in the Rec Department's Town Tennis Tournaments slated to start Aug. 19. Deadline to sign up is Aug. 16. Rec Department office can supply any information.

Once again this is the period — mid-summer and vacation — for folks to crop up in Recreation Department summer adult league play. Bonds were posted by teams in 1977. The official home field of the Twi loop, said both crowds and collections are down at this site.

Hartford Road Dairy Queen will host a softball tripleheader Sunday afternoon at Fitzgerald Field starting at 1 o'clock. The Queens will meet Hamden, Insulation (19-4) and Silky's (13-1) with the two invaders also meeting one another. The locals sport an 11-1 record and play will feature the top three teams in the Women's State League.

Have a nice weekend.

Nicklaus out of PGA, Watson leads by four

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — On an historic day when Jack Nicklaus bombed out of the PGA Championship with three double bogeys on the back nine, Tom Watson, his heir successor as golf's top player, rode his lucky star and a golden putter to a 2-under-par 69 Friday and a comfortable four-shot lead after two rounds.

"I feel very bad," Nicklaus said moments after the 18th hole, where he had put his second shot into the bleachers. "I knew everybody out there was pulling for me and I'm sorry I disappointed them."

Four policemen came to the back door of the clubhouse to escort Nicklaus to his car, but his longtime caddy, Angelo Argo, sent them away, telling them poignantly, "He doesn't need any help. There's nobody here."

It marked only the first time since the 1968 PGA that Nicklaus failed to survive the cut in a major championship, and came on the heels of two consecutive victories, including the British Open when he achieved a record 17th major crown.

The 36-year-old Nicklaus virtually eliminated himself from contention for a record-tying fifth PGA crown when he skied to a 79 Thursday, but he had seemed confident he could come back for a respectable showing. He seemed to be doing just that with three birdies on the first seven holes of the second round, chatting cheerfully with his gallery on the way.

But in almost unbelievable fashion he had double bogeys on the 12th, 15th and 18th holes for a round of 74 that left him at 153. Incredibly, the double bogey on 15 resulted when Nicklaus three-putted from eight feet.

"The double bogey at 12 took the wind out of my sails," said Nicklaus. "I felt I had to make two more birdies to get back into contention."

Joining Nicklaus as a spectator for the rest of the weekend was Arnold Palmer, the sentimental favorite who failed in his 21st consecutive attempt to win a PGA title. Palmer, who lives in nearby Latrobe, went out with a 76-74-152. "There's nothing worked for the frustrated and bedeviled Nicklaus. Watson had all the luck he needed in taking a four-shot lead over Tom Weiskopf, Ben Crenshaw and Joe Imman. Following a 67 on Thursday, Watson stood at 6-under 138.

"It was one of those days," Watson said, "I didn't care what anyone else thought. The way I've been playing I can't expect to win. I'm my own worst enemy the way I've been playing with my own tour-namenter."

Miller, who ousted Oakmont once with a closing 63 in the 1975 U.S. Open. "I don't care what anyone else does. The way I've been playing I can't expect to win. I'm my own worst enemy the way I've been playing with my own tour-namenter."

Watson, Weiskopf, Imman and Miller all were helped by playing in the early group when the greens still were soft from Thursday's heavy rains.

"There's no doubt in my mind the guys in our half of the field had the advantage," conceded Weiskopf.

Joining Nicklaus as a spectator for the rest of the weekend was Arnold Palmer, the sentimental favorite who failed in his 21st consecutive attempt to win a PGA title. Palmer, who lives in nearby Latrobe, went out with a 76-74-152. "There's nothing worked for the frustrated and bedeviled Nicklaus. Watson had all the luck he needed in taking a four-shot lead over Tom Weiskopf, Ben Crenshaw and Joe Imman. Following a 67 on Thursday, Watson stood at 6-under 138.

"It was one of those days," Watson said, "I didn't care what anyone else thought. The way I've been playing I can't expect to win. I'm my own worst enemy the way I've been playing with my own tour-namenter."

Miller, who ousted Oakmont once with a closing 63 in the 1975 U.S. Open. "I don't care what anyone else does. The way I've been playing I can't expect to win. I'm my own worst enemy the way I've been playing with my own tour-namenter."

Watson, Weiskopf, Imman and Miller all were helped by playing in the early group when the greens still were soft from Thursday's heavy rains.

"There's no doubt in my mind the guys in our half of the field had the advantage," conceded Weiskopf.

Up and down life for Carlton Fisk

NEW YORK (UPI) — By doing a little simple arithmetic, you can estimate Carlton Fisk bends up and down something like 12,000 times a season. That's a conservative estimate.

Squatting on his haunches, with those metal bars across his face and all that harness on, beating off nasty foul tips on every part of his body all the while, he has to be "in" the hall game with each pitch. And if you don't think all this intense concentration and physical activity doesn't take a heavy toll out of a man, you ought to get a look at the big Boston catcher now.

He has lost 15 pounds and he aches all over. His nickname "Fudge" but there is nothing at all pudgy about him now. He looks pale and drawn, almost as if he has just donated a couple of pints of blood, but it's a long, long season and the Red Sox need both his bat and his glove desperately. The farthest thing from his mind is going up to Manager Don Zimmer and asking him for a rest.

To give you some idea of what Fisk means to the Red Sox, he was 21-for-54 during those 11 of 14 games they snatched before coming to Yankee Stadium for their latest series with the defending world champs. That works out to a .389 batting average and nobody else on the club could touch it.

With his .299 season average, his 15 home runs and his 59 RBI, he is the Red Sox's best player. He is the Red Sox's best player. He is the Red Sox's best player.

On Wednesday night in that long, barroom bouncer.

"Now, the reason for this letter. Kevin's birthday is Sept. 2 and already he has made it known and very clear that all he wants is two tickets for the Patriots' Monday night game (Sept. 18). One for him and one for his father. Being just a wife and a mother, who thinks watching "Little House on the Prairie" at home on television is a big event, I don't have the slightest idea of how to go about getting tickets for such a gigantic event.

"If you help me to Foxboro, I would ever be so grateful to you. I would be grateful in more ways than one. If they go to Foxboro, I won't have to watch the game on television. Signed, "A woman who enjoys her family, but who enjoys only the concessions stand at football games."

Play was stopped after 6 1/2 innings at 11:22 p.m. with the Red Sox leading 8-1. Sullivan claimed the field was unplayable and should have been called sooner, particularly since the Sox had to fly to Milwaukee after the game.

Sullivan also was irate because if the umpires had waited and the Yankees had their turn at bat, the game would have been suspended. The remaining two innings would have had to be played when the two teams next meet in September.

"I'm still filing the protest," said Sullivan, despite the Sox victory. "I couldn't believe it. I know the Yankees wanted a suspended game but there was no way my club was going back on that field. Guys could have been hurt. I can't see the field was unplayable."

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Don Feeley, who has 13 years been head basketball coach and director of athletics at Sacred Heart University, was named Friday as assistant basketball coach at Yale University.

Yale Head Coach Ray Caruso said of the appointment: "I feel extremely fortunate to have someone of Don's calibre join us."

Feeley's Sacred Heart team played well enough to compete in the NCAA Division Two regional playoffs five times in seven years. Last season his squad won the New England Championships for the second straight year and posted a 21-7 record.

Feeley was named New England coach of the year in 1972 and 1977 by the National Basketball Coaches Association. The New Jersey native compiled a 243-105 record as Sacred Heart head coach.

Feeley, 37, graduated from Bridgeport University in 1961.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boston Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan plans to file a protest with the American league office over the failure of the umpiring crew to call Thursday night's game until 12:50 a.m.

Plans for the 12-court facility call for an opening in late December or early January.

Ron Mirek of Hartford, Connecticut Open champion, will manage the building and serve as head pro. He is the current assistant pro at Court House One in Avon, which opened last year and now boasts a full membership.

Cost of land and the building in Talcoville will be three quarters of a million dollars. Ground was broken last Thursday. Diard said it will take five months to complete the building. Diard said each court can accommodate 120 members.

Each court will feature a full glass wall which will be used for exhibitions and tournaments. Court House officials claim a player can burn 400 to 500 calories per hour, and it's more vigorous than tennis.

All four courts will be air conditioned, have round play with playable ceilings and hardwood floors. Two separate memberships will be offered, which are available now. Total fitness membership will include unlimited use of club facilities, including the Health Club saunas, whirlpools, pro shop discounts and use of the racquetball courts at preferred member rates. The gym, whirlpool, sauna, lockers and showers will be available. This membership is designed for individuals primarily interested in racquetball.

Fun and exercise, too

Court House One plans winter start

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

So much fun, you forget it's exercise. That's the way Ray Diard, managing general partner of Court House One explains racquetball which will be featured at the combination racquetball-tot fitness club now under construction in Talcoville near The Steak Out on Route 83.

Plans for the 12-court facility call for an opening in late December or early January.

Football widow speaks out

SMITHFIELD, R.I. (UPI) — There's a football widow in Westerly who doesn't think much of the game that provides a living for New England Patriots' Coach Chuck Fairbanks. But Fairbanks is tops in her book anyway.

After receiving her appeal, which he apparently couldn't resist, Fairbanks said he promised Wednesday to send two tickets to the unidentified woman who wrote him complaining her "two little boys, my husband and son" go crazy and drive her mad during the football season.

He read the letter to the Patriots at their training camp in Smithfield.

"Dear Coach Fairbanks: "I am a child of God, a wife and a mother. For 12 months a year, being a child of God is easy, but from the first minute of training camp until the last gun is fired during football season, being a wife and mother is a different story."

"To be truthful, I hate football with a deep, purple passion. "I still contend that, with 22 people playing in one game, and all of them watching "Little House on the Prairie" at home on television is a big event, I don't have the slightest idea of how to go about getting tickets for such a gigantic event.

"If you help me to Foxboro, I would ever be so grateful to you. I would be grateful in more ways than one. If they go to Foxboro, I won't have to watch the game on television. Signed, "A woman who enjoys her family, but who enjoys only the concessions stand at football games."

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Six track and field stars, four athletes and two coaches — including a former Yale track and field coach — were inducted into the National Track and Field Hall of Fame during ceremonies Friday.

The six raise the total inductees to 65 since the shrine was opened in Charleston, W. Va., in 1974.

The six are middle distance runners Thomas Courtney and John Woodruff, sprinter Tommie Smith, the late hurdler Glenn Hardin and coaches Larry Snyder and Robert Giegengack.

Induction ceremonies included a Friday night banquet, visits to the New Track and Field Hall of Fame complex under construction, and appearances at the finals of the 800-meter race.

Smith, 43, known for his "black power" salute after winning the gold medal in the 200-meter sprint at Mexico City in 1968, was ranked first in the world for 200 meters in 1966, 1967 and 1968. He is a former track coach at Oberlin College in Ohio.

Courtney, 45, won two gold medals in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, including a dramatic come-from-behind victory in the 800-meter race.

Woodruff, 53, was one of the outstanding track stars to attend the University of Pittsburgh. He won the 1936 Olympic 800-meter gold medal in Berlin as a freshman and won the NCAA 800 in each of his final three years. He currently lives in New Jersey.

Hardin, represented by members of his family, won a silver medal in the Los Angeles Olympic games as a freshman at Louisiana State University in 1932, and a gold medal in the Berlin Olympic games four years later. During the four-year period he was never defeated in the intermediate hurdles. A native of Mississippi, Hardin died in 1975 at the age of 64.

Walton wants out, Blazers to oblige

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers Friday said center Bill Walton, the NBA's most valuable player, had asked to be traded prior to next season and the club has told him it will try to do so.

The Blazers announcement was contained in a one-paragraph statement read by a spokesman who added: "That's all anything else we could say from Walton's representatives."

Walton's representatives are his friends Jack Scott and John Bassett, a Portland attorney who was retained by the cage star.

Bassett said, "Bill simply feels it is in his best interest to play elsewhere. He has great affection for Portland, and his fans, but he wants to play elsewhere. I cannot go into any further reasons about Bill's desires."

Bassett said Walton had met with the club to express his desires. The lawyer also said Walton was most interested in talking with his client.

"However, he has been given permission by the Trail Blazers," Bassett said, "to deal with all the teams in the NBA for a deal."

Walton, who signed a five-year contract when he was drafted first out of UCLA four years ago, would be headed into his fifth year next season with the option year following before he could become a free agent.

There had been rumors Walton was sold to the new San Diego franchise, but the club denied them.

However, a spokesman for Irv Levin, owner of the San Diego club, said, "Obviously Walton is a player of great ability. Certainly, we would like to have him and plan to talk to him in due course."

The spokesman for San Diego said the Portland announcement was "a surprise" and that he would be talking to Walton's representatives.

OSTRINSKY PAPER & IRON

Before You Throw It Away, Check With Ostrinsky First

For over seventy-five years, the Ostrinsky family has been involved in the business of recycling in the Town of Manchester. As a past president of the Eastern Paper Mill Suppliers Association, Mr. Abraham I. Ostrinsky has kept abreast of standards and procedures for packaging and presenting to various mills a product for recycling that has continually met the demand for other than natural resources. Ostrinsky has a constant market for his product, (salvageable material) and has paid his customers higher prices because he has insisted on handling only that type of material which is free of contamination. Environmental Control, pollution, resource recovery, and ecology are familiar topics discussed and acted upon by the various mill and secondary handlers associations. It is for the best interest of the public to be concerned with our future for as we come into those years that our natural resources dry up it will become mandatory to save as much as possible those resources which can be recycled. You can start now by selling your paper-metal-and iron to Ostrinsky at 731 Parker Street, Manchester, Connecticut, Telephone 643-5879.

TV Dial-ogue

LITTLE WOMEN - Please tell me if Tote Fields and Peggy Cass are sisters, or are related in any way. I think they favor one another. - Carrie Manning, Chase City, Va.

Well, both are of the rather short and rotund persuasion, but even if their bodies have something in common their blood does not. No relation.

KINGS COURT - Where MULLING IT OVER - I would like to know what Martin Mull is doing besides his show "America Tonight." Where can I write to him? - S.G., Gainesville, Fla.

Lately, when Mull has not been making like Barth Gimble he's been working on his act in concert, which, if you've never seen it, is more music oriented (he's a terrific musician), but just as madcap as the TV show. Write to him at KTTV, Metromedia Square, Hollywood, Ca. 90028.

FAN-FARE - I'm one of the biggest fans of Carol Burnett has. I love her hilarious acting ability. Would you please let me know her address? - J.D., Greensboro, N.C.

Although her show has run its course, you can still send your letters to your favorite funnylady at CBS Studio Center, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, Ca. 91604. It should reach her.

MY HEAVENS - Can you tell me in the picture "Heaven Can Wait," (the original) who played Max Corke? I know Claude Rains was Mr. Jordan and Robert Montgomery was Joe Pendleton. Also, who had the female role? - Manny Koch, Landerhill, Fla.

You've been caught in the web of confusing titles set off by Warren Beatty's new version of "Heaven Can Wait." Actually, the original film was called "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," which was based on a play entitled "Heaven Can Wait." Beatty obviously went back to the original name. (There's also a film called "Heaven Can Wait," which starred Don Ameche and has nothing to do with any of the above.) Anyway, Jimmy Gleason played Max in the original, and Evelyn Keyes was the romantic interest now played by Julie Christie.

The fights of De Niro

Robert De Niro has been battling both on screen and off lately. While he's been busy training to play boxer Jake La Motta in "The Ragging Bull," his ailing show biz marriage to Diannah Abbott finally gasped its last breath.

Abbott, who's up for the title role in "The Josephine Baker Story," has dug in at their California digs, while De Niro works and makes the New York party circuit.

Columnist Earl Wilson reported De Niro even threw a bash of his own, for La Motta's 56th birthday. Martin Scorsese, who'll direct the film bio, and his steady, Liza Minnelli, were among the well-wishers.

Says La Motta of the ever-authentic actor's boxing: "He shakes me up. I hit him pretty good. Bobby tells me, 'Hit me. I got to learn how to take it.' He wants to get that feelin' of kill."

Sophia Loren on the lam

Sophia Loren is used to being chased by paparazzi, but when it comes to the police, even Sophia has trouble making good a getaway.

When she left Rome last year, Sophia was questioned at the airport for nine hours about possible illegal exporting of money. They finally allowed her to fly to Paris, where she met husband Carlo Ponti. Then Carlo was later charged with illegally removing $12 million in Italian lire from the country.

Sophia has since been charged as an accomplice, but since exiting Italy she has become a French citizen.

Still, when she returned to her native land recently to do a film with Lina Wertmuller, everyone was expecting the authorities to come a calling. Oddly enough, they never showed.

Wheatshocker wonders

Sports trivia buffs should have quite a time with this one: Name the college team that has won three national championships in the last four years (finishing second in 1976), and even outperformed the men's teams in its final performance together.

Answer: In a competition that began with more than 1,000 teams, the Wheatshockers of Wichita State University won the Pabst National Collegiate Bowling Championship in Milwaukee for an unprecedented third title.

In their last event together, Wichita State bowlers rolled the highest team game ever, 236, by stringing six straight strikes over Hillsborough Community College of Tampa, Fla.

And the Wheatshockers have some real winning ways out of the lanes, too. Among them are such wonders as a senior who took up bowling as therapy after being injured in a car accident; another who had her jaw fractured surgically to correct an overbite and lost 10 pounds during the tournament as a result; a sophomore nicknamed Pinky Fuscaero after Fonzie's girlfriend; a freshman who led all contestants with a 201.5 average; and, finally, excitable Karma Wagner, anchor and grad student who charmed the audience and fired eight crucial strikes in eight frames during the finals.

When Karma buried the 10th frame strike that leaped about five feet off the floor, which isn't bad for someone only 5-foot-4.

KARMA WAGNER after hitting her final strike.

TV Star Scene

By Ruth Thompson

What some of them point to as "The luck of Dennis Weaver," is what actors gambled for when they leave hit series "for something better."

Dennis, for those who don't remember "Gunsmoke" in its early years, could have had himself a nifty annuity from his featured role as the limping Chester. But Dennis wanted even niftier earnings. His first starring series, "Kentucky Jones," bombed ... but "Gentle Ben" and "MacLeod" were major league pickins'.

Pernell Roberts, however, though he works often, never latched onto a second brass ring as shiny as what he tossed away when he exited "Bonanza" too soon. It made millionsaires of Lorne Greene, Michael Landon and the late Dan Blocker.

Of the "M*A*S*H" droppits, it may be the most recent, Larry Lliville, who's making the happiest landing. He said recently that playing the hypocritical Major Burns "was getting depressing; everybody hated Burns, including me." So it's good to report that he has been signed to co-star with Jack ("Chico and the Man") Albertson in his new NBC series "Grandpa Goes to Washington."

Wayne Rogers, the one-time Trapper John, had less than a full season's run with his starring crime-fighter series. However, with him acting is a sideline. He is a money-management consultant with such rich fellows as Peter Falk among his clients.

McLean Stevenson, who was lured away from his cologne on "M*A*S*H" by an exclusive NBC contract, went through several formats - variety, as well as situation comedy - that just didn't click. He'll be back on the air in September, however, with a new show over on his old network, CBS, called "In the Beginning." It's a Norman Lear T.A.T. production. And it's true to his pattern of angling for offbeat laughter in a traditionally serious setting. This time it's a city mission. Pricilla Lopez stars as a nun, Sister Aggie.

Actress-singer Anna Maria Alberghetti has broken her engagement and is back to her career with a road tour of "Sound of Music."

SHA NA NA is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month, and in honor of the greaser group, Billboard magazine uncovered the disguise they've been operating under all these years. Among the most startling discoveries were (top to bottom): Bowzer, who when de-greased becomes curly-haired Jon Bauman, Columbia graduate and classically trained musician; Johnny Contardo is still the group's swoon without the slick stuff; Jocko Marcellino, one of the original members, has been studying drums for 21 years; and Danny "Dirty Dan" McBride, a Boston U. grad who says of Sha Na Na's impact on his life, "a gig is a gig."

Better Channel 9 monitoring needed

By Ink Dipper

The uneven monitoring of Channel 9 around the country is serious, particularly with vacationing peak approaching and travelers, probably about one of every eight, depending upon CB for communications when in trouble.

Government agencies recognize the value of in-vehicle communications. All extol the values of Channel 9, but seem to leave monitoring up in the air.

Traveling through Northern Pennsylvania recently, we came across several active CB clubs which endeavor to maintain a fairly constant monitoring process. Heaviest dependency, however, is on the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol. Frequent state markers on the highway advise that Channel 9 is monitored by the state police. But there is a lot of highway through the mountain fastness between DuBois and Wilkes Barre-Scranton, Tunkhammock and Towanda, just to mention a few long stretches of road. Late at night there was little or no activity on 9, but the driver couldn't help wondering if this was because he was out of range, because in the urban areas the channel was crackling.

Michigan has done a great job through its police monitoring system. But, here again, it is the more desolate stretches of road that are intimidating. An example occurred in Florida that highlights this point.

"It was just after six o'clock one evening that I was stranded on a road outside the Orlando city limits," Diana McGowin reported to the Orlando Sentinel Star. "After calling for ten minutes on my CB on Channel 9, I realized I had to get out of my car and walk for assistance. It is a desolate stretch of road with no buildings, just palmettos and sand. In high heels, perspiring and stumbling, really afraid I could be assaulted, I walked two and one-half miles. To add insult to injury, a city patrol car passed me by."

Yet Florida says it monitors Channel 9. Obviously,

Ms. McGowin was out of range of the state police and the local police were too busy with other matters.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has a program where it will provide funds for states that extend their NEAR (National Emergency Aid Radio) application to highway safety. Twenty-seven states are now participating. The reasons are quite obvious: the safety and service benefits from in-car communications, faster notification of traffic incidents and reduced response time, highway information transfer and improved efficiency through citizen participation.

This is all well and good. But if the monitoring is not set up on a systematic basis, it is hit or miss at best.

Some time ago, this column reported on the Fort Worth Plan, which is being adopted by many communities in the Southwest, El Paso being the most recent to come to note. The plan uses volunteers on a 24-hour schedule, seven days a week. The crews are supervised by a Fort Worth officer whose assignment is to make the plan work. And work it does. Not only has it become well-known throughout the state, but it is being copied by other communities interested in making CB the instrument it was intended to be the most personal of all communications media.

A national plan could be effected through the state and local police forces that would permit volunteers to participate and everyone to benefit from a 24-hour monitoring of Channel 9. Let's do it.

SHOWBEAT

'170 years' is an odd concoction

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - "I can't wait to go back home to New York," said Kate Mostel, Zero's widow. "This California is lotus-land and all the girls are tall and thin and beautiful and I can't stand it."

Her friends, Madeline and Jack Gilford, say they feel the same, but they can't go back to New York. Jack is in "Sly Fox," the play starring George C. Scott, which is here for a long run. And, in August, he starts "Apple Pie," a new Norman Lear series. For a month, he'll be in both "Sly Fox" and "Apple Pie," which should make him rich and tired.

The Mostels and the Gilfords have been friends for a long time. In fact, for 170 years. The title of the book they all wrote about their lives is called "170 Years of Show Business."

They started it before Zero died; in fact, he died just a month before the deadline the publisher had given them. So they had to add his death to the book. Most of the rest of it is cheerful. That part isn't. But it is life, and the book is about four lives.

Kate Mostel says her life, since Zero died, isn't the same. She says widows do crazy things. She bought a useless fur jacket. "It's OK for going up and down in the elevator," she says, "but if I wear it outside I get chilblains on my elbows. I doubt I'd have bought it if Zero was still living."

Madeline, known as the group's bully, suggested the book originally. She bullied Kate into doing it. At first it was a recipe book (including Jack's mother's recipe for bootleg whiskey) but the publisher ultimately changed it into what it is now.

And what it is now is an odd concoction — one biography (Zero) and three autobiographies (Kate, Madeline, Jack) plus some stern chapters on the blacklist they all lived through.

"No more books," says Kate. "Madeline will have to find somebody else to bully."

They Premiered "International Velvet," the delightful sequel (34 years later) to "National Velvet," in Washington, at the Kennedy Center. Tatum O'Neal was there, with writer-director-producer Bryan Forbes and his wife, Nanette Newman, who plays the grown-up Velvet in the movie.

Forbes told me he had to remake Tatum's clothing three times during the course of the shooting, because she grew so rapidly.

And she is tall now. There was a party during the premiere weekend at a horse farm, Catesby, in Middleburg, Va., and she walked around admiring the horses. She says she learned to like riding during the shooting (the film deals with equestrienne events) but she isn't around horses very often at home.

BEE GEES — coping with success.

Bee Gees: stayin' on top

In the nine years since subterranean financial pressures helped break up the original band, the Bee Gees have bounced back, collapsed, recovered and finally, on the wings of Saturday Night Fever, have soared to unimaginable heights. In the August issue of Crawdaddy, Greg Mitchell interviews the Bee Gees and observes how celebrityhood is affecting the brothers in different ways.

"Despite staggering good fortune," writes Mitchell, "Barry Gibb claims he hasn't the faintest idea what to do with his riches ('I'm not a gambler'). Wary of public scrutiny, he surrounds himself with family, friends and electric protection in a Gibb enclave on Miami's Biscayne Bay.

"And in spite of overdue critical approval, he remains unconvinced of the Bee Gees' access to success. 'We're scared of the next album,' Barry admits. 'We're scared of whatever we do. We're the same desperate, worried, insecure songwriters we've always been.'"

The article also notes several small curiosities concerning the Gibb boys.

"Robin (Gibb) has what Barry terms an 'idiosyncrasy' — he takes lots of baths. Whenever something good happens to the group, Robin jumps in the tub to soak in the significance. At one point last spring, the Bee Gees were No. 1 in Billboard, Andy Gibb (baby brother) ruled Record World and Samantha Sang topped Cashbox. 'That week,' Barry recalls, 'Robin was as clean as a whistle.'"

These days Robin must be a little grey around the edges — Saturday Night Fever just dropped to No. 2 in Billboard.
