DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co., in an attempt to bolster sagging sales of its subcompact Pinto, has begun an advertising campaign touting the "puncture resistance" of fuel tanks on 1977 and 1978 models.

A company spokesman Wednesday said new Pinto sales have suffered because of adverse publicity surrounding a number of fiery accidents involving older model Pintos.

He said newspaper ads promoting the "redesigned fuel system" in new Pintos are intended to clear up the "widespread confusion" resulting from criticisms of the older cars.

"There has never been a safety question involving 1977 and 1978 models, but a lot of people have a misconception that all Pintos are involved," he said.

Earlier this year, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration declared the fuel tanks on 1971-1976 model Pintos and 1975-1976 model Mercury Bobcats — excluding station wagons — dangerously susceptible to gas leaks and explosions in rear-end collisions.

The agency said it found no fuel tank problems in 1977 and 1978 models.

Federal safety officials began investigating when they learned of a number of deaths resulting from Pinto fires. At least 59 people have died in such accidents since 1975.

Ford, while insisting the cars were no less safe than any other small cars, agreed in June to recall 1.5 million Pintos and Bobcats built before 1977 "to eliminate public concern."

The impact on sales of new Pintos was almost immediate. Sales tumbled 42 percent from June 1 through July 20, compared to the previous year's figures, in what company officials said was an obvious but "illogical" reaction to the adverse publicity.

Pinto sales gained ground in late July and early August but remained 13 percent below year-ago levels.

Some Ford dealers reported they are confronted daily with customers who shy away from the once hot-selling subcompact because of the gas tank problem.

"We haven't sold a Pinto since this whole thing started," said Ken Berkoben, manager of a Ford dealership in Pittsburgh. "Pinto has become a bad word. People have lumped them all together and they don't want to have a thing to do with them."

Balloon reaches English Channel

PARIS (UPI) — Three daredevil Americans, the first people to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a balloon, reached the English Channel today in an effort to follow the course of Charles Lindbergh's historic trans-Atlantic flight to Paris.

The three balloonists cleared the British coast near the Isle of Wight and were over the channel shortly before 1 p.m. French time (7 a.m. EDT).

They were expected to reach the French coast near Le Havre, a cross-channel distance of about 50 miles around 3:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EDT).

A wave of excitement swept over France as the three Americans, low on batteries but with hopes high for a triumphant landing on French soil, sailed over the channel after floating over southwest England in their helium balloon.

Paris airport officials said they expected the balloonists to land between 7 and 8 p.m. (3:4 p.m. EDT) at Le Bourget airport just outside Paris — the same spot where another American, Lindbergh, landed in his monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis May 21, 1927.

Two French Cabinet ministers, Transport Minister Joel Le Theux and Youth Minister Jean-Pierre Soisson, prepared to be on hand to welcome the Americans with champagne.

The American fliers, setting a new record with every additional mile and minute aloft, radioed the ground crew as they "jumped out of our skins" with excitement. They vowed to "follow in the footsteps of Lindbergh and fly direct to Paris."

Their wives, following the flight around the clock from London, cheered every development.

"Do you think they'd let them land on top of the Eiffel Tower?" Paty Anderson laughed. "Wouldn't that just be perfect?"

Dave McClure, the balloonists' chief U.S. spokesman, said the trio expect "to continue on a trajectory that will carry them 50 miles south of London and into northern France" (this) afternoon.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., who met with Blumenthal Wednesday, said he expected Carter to have something to say this week.

He hoped he would get the recommendations before leaving Friday on his two-week vacation, starting with a trip to Plains, Ga., for the weekend, and then heading westward for a visit to national parks and a rubber raft trip on the Salmon River in Idaho.

Gambler says players may fix jai alai games

MILFORD (UPI) — Professional gambler Richard Gayeski says there's a good chance players are throwing games at Connecticut's three jai alai arenas.

But the frank, young gambler says the state gaming commission is too much of a "joke" to figure out what's going on.

State police recently charged Gayeski with commercial bribery for allegedly acting as a middleman in an odds-making scheme at the Milford Jai Alai fronton.

The authorities accused Gayeski of passing an envelope full of money from a professional gambling colleague to a handicapper who plotted to rig the game on the fronton's betting programs.

The handicapper, Fred Vines, was convicted of accepting the money in exchange for leaving out a particular post position when he drew up his odds. He now runs a golf shop in Florida.

Connecticut authorities are trying to extradite the professional gambler, Rodney Woods, who is also in Florida.

Gayeski sought his commercial bribery charge, but later pleaded no contest to conspiracy. He was fined $400 and barred from wagering in Connecticut.

In a recent interview, Gayeski said he and his wife, who still works at the Milford arena, plan to head down to Florida in the fall. But the slender, young gambler said he wanted to impart some of his inside knowledge about Connecticut's jai alai industry before he left the state.

"If people knew what was going on, they would go crazy," Gayeski said over a cup of coffee in a local restaurant.

Gayeski said the gaming commission has concentrated its investigative effort on harrassing professional gamblers and employees at the frontons in Bridgeport, Hartford and Milford.

"But if there is anything going on it's with the players," he said. "I think when they go out on the court they know who's going to win."

Gayeski pointed to the fact that there are no real stand-out athletes in jai alai like there are in other sports. He said by the end of a season the fronton has seen players who are aware of where the list is posted and what it means.

"There are maybe 6,000 people in the fronton and only two or three will know how to read it (the printout)," he said. "Why should the pros get an advantage. There shouldn't be any printers."

As an example, he noted that each fronton posts a computer list of the betting pattern shortly before each match. Gayeski said only a few professional gamblers are aware of where the list is posted and what it means.

"Our intention goes beyond the repair of the roof and expansion of the facility which cost about $22.2 million, the government said. The facility will host the World Figure Skating Championships in 1981, a competition drawing skaters from 25 countries and an estimated 100,000 spectators.

The market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 5.54 points to a 13-month high Thursday, was off 0.17 point to 899.94 shortly after the opening. Thursday's close was the highest level since it finished at 908.18 on July 26, 1977.

The Dow has gained 94.33 points since July 5.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Roman Catholic Church sources predicted today that a new pope will be elected in time to be crowned in the first half of September. Who will be elected is harder to predict, the sources said. Most believe he will be Italian, but there is no clear favorite.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Texaco Inc. announced today it has found a second and larger gas seam in a well drilled in the ocean off Atlantic City, N.J. The company said now there is no doubt that significant gas reserves are present in the area, but more wells still have to be drilled.

COVENTRY — Patrolman Lawrence Fawcett and Keith Lane, who were dismissed from the police force two weeks ago by the appeal procedure of the union contract.

The meetings continued for a total of 10 hours. Advising the town manager was Abbot Schwebel, town attorney. The chief of police, Robert Kjellquist, presented his arguments and was assisted by the town labor negotiator, Donald Powers.

Officer Fawcett was represented by Atty. David Rappe, and union officials were present during his meeting. Officer Keith Lane was represented by Hal Alpert, president of the Service Employees Inter-

Balloonists planning flight around world

PARIS (UPI) — Three Americans who made the first trans-Atlantic crossing in a balloon today their next adventure will be to try to fly around the world in six days.

Ben Abruzzo, 46, informally mentioned the project at a news conference following the balloonists' historic flight, which ended Thursday night in a wheat field 50 miles west of Paris.

His two partners, Max Anderson, 44, and Larry Newman, 31, nodded their assent.

Asked jokingly if their next project would be to follow the Jules Verne novel, "Around the World in 80 Days," Abruzzo said, "No, not 80 days." He said it could be done in 30 days.

"We will build a craft — to have a new one would require a great deal more money than this flight — and that is to build a balloon, and it can be done, and we'll have the experience and know-how today, and we'll go to a higher altitude and we'll fly around the world in 30 days, entirely circumnavigating the globe."

As Abruzzo spoke, Anderson laughingly interjected, "I'm missing." "We came an eighth of the way around the world in six days," Abruzzo said. "We traveled 3,000 miles and therefore my logic is that with a higher altitude at a little more speed 30 days would be entirely acceptable."

Paris newspapers and radio and television were full of the news of the crossing by the helium-filled Double Eagle II — named after Charles A. Lindbergh, the Lone Eagle. The flight also set a new endurance record of nearly six days and distance record of 3,200 miles.

The daily France Soir devoted its full front page to a giant picture of the balloonists under a one-word headline: "The Exploit."

Abruzzo said that "when we landed I said I quit. I'm not going to fly long distance again. I've too hard on me."

Some in the crowd were a bit too rambunctious and began ripping off pieces of the silver and gray balloon for souvenirs before the police rolled it up like a bath towel to preserve it for the Smithsonian Institution. "The 200-mile flight — a record for both distance and endurance, lasting nearly six days — electrified a nation and brought out the same spirit that 53 years ago welcomed Charles A. Lindbergh when he blazed the airways trail to Paris."

Policemen end strike in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Memphis' striking police today voted to end a bitter week old walkout that had resulted in a call out of the National Guard and left the city without union police protection at a time the city was swarming with Elvis Presley fans.

David Baker, president of the Memphis Police Association, said policemen would return to work at 4 p.m. today.

Firesmen who joined the strike last Monday, were to vote on a proposed new contract later in the day.

"We're very optimistic that it will be ratified," said Richard Haddleton, president of the International Firefighters local, adding firefighters would return to work at 7 p.m. if the contract is accepted.

Chris Cotman, a negotiator for the police union, said the contract accepted provides for a 6 percent increase retroactive to July 1 and a $30 a month across the board hike next April.

The union compromised in going along with a two-year contract, while the city gave in to union demands for no loss of pay and no reprisals against the strikers.

Cotman said the contract has a reopening clause which would allow police to negotiate wages again next July.

The vote was taken as a fresh crop of 1,200 gundown rolled into town to relieve guard units called out last Friday after policemen rejected the city's pay offer and walked off the job. The settlement was worked out during negotiations that continued through the night.

Non-union officers, sheriff's deputies, aided by the National Guardsmen, have been patrolling Memphis during the absence of the regular officers.

During the course of the strike tens of thousands of Elvis Presley fans proupled into the city to mark the first anniversary of the death of the rock singer, who died Aug. 16, 1977.

The city found itself in a crisis situation early Wednesday however, when all electrical power in Memphis failed. The blackout, which lasted 2 1/2 hours, was later blamed on a drunk security worker at a power plant, and was not related to the strikes.

The labor strike dated back to June 30, when firemen overwhelmingly rejected a city offer and walked out proupling the mayor to impose a nighttime curfew after a rash of fires, many believed set deliberately, flared up. Firemen returned to work without a contract under court order July 4.

Ray's lawyer says evidence distorted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Earl Ray's lawyer today accused the chairman of the House Assassinations Committee to deliberately distorting evidence to paint a false, headline-grabbing picture of Ray stalking Martin Luther King.

Attorney Mark Lane and Ray also accused the committee of refusing to provide Ray with notes he had made in the past, including material given to author William Bradford Huie, and Ray threatened briefly to refuse further testimony if he could not see the documents.

"This was a deliberate effort, I believe, to deceive the American people," Lane said as the committee began its third day of questioning Ray. "You had your headline, but we want justice."

In a bitter opening exchange, Lane said Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, the committee chairman, ignored the dates on a newspaper story and on a postal address change form to make it appear Ray left Los Angeles for Atlanta after seeing news reports that King was going east.

"Sunset was coming and we had no choice," Abruzzo said matter-of-factly. "We were out of ballast and it was time to land."

They were unshaven and weary in their blue flight suits but the three seemed likely to get little rest during the two or three days they planned to spend in Paris.

The French government plans ceremonies to award them the gold medal of youth and sports.

Among their accolades was an open invitation from President Pompidou for the balloonists to dine in the White House "on behalf of the American people."

Abruzzo, Newman and Anderson succeeded where 18 previous balloon missions have failed. Unsuccessful trans-Atlantic balloon crossings have caused the deaths of at least six men and one woman.

They set out from Presque Isle, Maine, on Friday in their helium-filled balloon and landed in Normandy at 7:50 p.m. Thursday (1:50 p.m. EDT).

Inflation and economy rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economy in the second quarter of 1978 grew faster than expected, but inflation edged steadily upward to 10.7 percent, the government said today.

The economic output between April and June increased 8 percent — up from the 7.4 percent estimate released last month and closer to White House hopes for growth in the economy, the Commerce Department reported.

Inflation, initially estimated at 10.1 percent for the spring quarter, were "widespread" among all domestic industries, it said.

After-tax corporate profits increased $15.2 billion to a seasonally adjusted rate of $17.7 billion.

President Carter had hoped for a surge in the economy to offset the 0.1 percent decline in GNP for the first three months of 1978.

Government economists said it was the strongest quarterly GNP performance since the first quarter of 1976 when the economy grew at a 9.3 percent rate.

Growth in the economy was sparked by increased consumer spending, additional business investment and a spurt in the purchase of homes.

Corporate profits from current production rose $26.9 billion in the second quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $159.5 billion, the government said. Profits increases were "widespread" among all domestic industries, it said.

After-tax corporate profits increased $15.2 billion to a seasonally adjusted rate of $17.7 billion.

Rapid move expected to bolster U.S. dollar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A deeply concerned President Carter plans to move rapidly in an effort to bolster the beleaguered dollar, whose value continues to plunge on the foreign exchange markets.

The chief executive has called on Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, Chairman William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board and other economic advisers to recommend solutions to the dramatic decline.

The White House declined to say whether Carter set a deadline, but in view of the monetary crisis, he was expected to take action soon.

Carter called an emergency meeting Tuesday after the dollar hit new lows in Japan, Germany, Switzerland and Holland, to express "deep concern over developments in foreign exchange markets in recent days."

"The sharp decline in the dollar and disorderly market conditions, at a time when the U.S. trade position is showing signs of real improvement, could threaten progress toward dealing with our inflation and achieving orderly growth at home and abroad," the White House said.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., who met with Blumenthal Wednesday, said he expected Carter to have something to say this week.

He hoped he would get the recommendations before leaving Friday on his two-week vacation, starting with a trip to Plains, Ga., for the weekend, and then heading westward for a visit to national parks and a rubber raft trip on the Salmon River in Idaho.

Meanwhile, a shake-up of White House aides is continuing, with Gerald Rafterson, assistant for communications, calling the shots.

Panel awaits water study

The Town of Manchester's Water Study Committee does not plan to meet again until it has received the full water distribution study from the Weston & Sampson engineering firm.

Harry Reinborn, chairman of the committee, said that a meeting will be called once that study is delivered to the town.

The town already has received a draft copy of the study, which recommends that the town divide its distribution system into a three-part setup. The cost of the distribution work combined with previous estimates for water treatment improvements will be close to $15 million.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said that the town should receive the full report by the end of this month or early next month.

Reinborn, however, was not quite as positive about when the date will be.

"It could be September, it could be tomorrow. Who knows?" he said.

Reinborn has been a frequent critic in recent weeks of Weston & Sampson. He believes that the firm has been slow in completing studies needed by the town.

The town had hoped to have a November referendum question seeking permission to borrow money for the water improvements.

It took longer than expected, however, to complete the required studies. Thus, the town now probably will try to have a referendum in the spring.

The full distribution study now being prepared will include details about the reasons for establishing the three-part distribution system.

Cities topic for debate

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso meets her opponent, Lt. Gov. Robert Killian, in a televised confrontation tonight that is certain to touch on opposing views of how to revitalize Connecticut cities.

Mrs. Grasso Thursday defended her long-range program to aid cities against criticism from Killian who favored a plan to spend more money right now to help economically depressed urban areas.

Killian is challenging the governor Sept. 12 in the state's first Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Their televised meeting will be broadcast by WFSB-TV, Channel 3 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Grasso also led a Capitol news conference the state was re-evaluating its transit programs in the face of a federal ruling that bars service in the Hartford area violated minority civil rights by providing better service to white suburban riders.

The governor, who also differed with her opponent's call for the state to pick up the entire welfare bill, said her $1.5-billion program is designed to expand jobs in economically depressed cities through incentives for industrial and commercial expansion.

Killian said it will only provide $1 million this year. He proposed a plan to spend $2 million this year, in computer program against a federal complaint the transit program ignores inner city residents in favor of suburban dwellers.

Mrs. Grasso said changes were "ongoing" by the DOT, although it was not made clear when they began.

Mrs. Grasso stopped short of supporting a state takeover of the $15 million aid to individuals without families that is paid by local communities.

She said "larger dollars" could be provided for the communities but she could only support full welfare assumption. "If costs can be contained."

The governor said there are communities that do not want the program administered by the state and on the other hand, the Legislature may not see fit to foot the bill if the state can't control the payments.

Mrs. Grasso defended the state Department of Transportation but is claiming the transit program ignores inner city residents in favor of suburban dwellers.

Mrs. Grasso said changes were "ongoing" by the DOT, although it was not made clear when they began.

State loses round in suit

HARTFORD (UPI) — U.S. District Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld has dismissed two of the state's defenses against a suit by Mohegan Indians, who claim 600 state-owned and developed acres in Montville.

The land claim includes half the Mohegan-Pequot toll bridge across the Thames River, part of the river, Fort Shanko State Park, the Montville State Correctional Institute and State Police barracks, and parts of the Connecticut Turnpike and Route 32.

Blumenfeld rejected as an insufficient defense the state's claim that the suit was invalid because the Mohegans waited too long to sue. He also dismissed a state counterclaim that said if the Indians win the suit, they should pay for improvements that have been made on the land.

Blumenfeld ruled that if it is proved the state never had the proper title to the land, then it cannot charge for improvements.

Stafford hospital ailing

STAFFORD (UPI) — A mysterious ailment plaguing employees and construction deficiencies at the state's smallest hospital could trigger budget problems for Johnson Memorial Hospital.

Hospital administrator William A. Stoppini said Thursday structural problems at the three-year-old $5 million hospital include a sewage disposal system that is inadequate for the facility and the need for improved water wells.

Stoppini said the hospital still has not been able to determine the cause of an ailment afflicting administrative staff members with itching, rashes, earaches and nosebleeds.

Stoppini disclosed the problems at a hearing with the Connecticut Commission on Hospitals and Health Care in a bid to recover some of the $1 million the commission said could be trimmed from the hospital's proposed $6.6 million budget.

He said although none of the problems has affected patient care at the hospital, those problems along with other "construction deficiencies" could sap revenues and create budget problems.

Stoppini said occurrence of the ailment prompted the transfer of the hospital's administrative staff to Providence, R.I.

CNG seeks second rate hike

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut Natural Gas Corp. is seeking a $10.4 million rate hike while it appeals the amount of the increase it received in March.

CNG said in a letter of intent filed Thursday with the state Public Utilities Control Authority that the increase, if approved, would increase revenues 12.8 percent.

A CNG spokesman said Thursday the firm is requesting the rate hike now because the utility doesn't know how long the appeal will take.

Joyner favors rail service

Walter Joyner, a Republican candidate in Manchester's 12th Assembly District, suggested Wednesday that the state consider restoring rail commuter service to Hartford.

Existing rail routes to Hartford from eastern Connecticut and other points north and south could be used, he said.

"While I am sympathetic to the problems of those people who must travel partly on Interstate 84 and partly on city roads, I do feel that we ought to explore fully the fuel savings as well as the traffic reduction by the use of rail commuter service," Joyner said.

Large parking lots could be used along the rail routes, he said. He also said that land now used for parking areas by businesses would be freed for other uses.

Ronald Sarazin, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, has called for improving the job climate to attract and hold business in Connecticut. This would be a possible step in line with his program. Joyner said.

Joyner also will be at the Hartford Hillon today and Saturday to participate in a legislative candidate seminar. The training program is sponsored by the Connecticut State Republican Committee.

Restoration planned

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Ancient Burying Ground — where Thomas Hooker, one of Connecticut's earliest white settlers, was laid to rest — will be restored with funds from the federal and state governments.

The U.S. Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service Thursday appropriated $8,000 for the restoration of the cemetery and the adjacent First Church of Christ. The state of Connecticut will spend $19,150 on the project.

Both the little cemetery and the church are on Gold Street in downtown Hartford amid highrise apartment and office buildings, not far from the Watersworth Athenaeum, the first free art museum in America, and Bushnell Park, the nation's first urban general project.

Alongside the two historic sites is the "Stone Field," 36 rocks in a geometric pattern designed by sculptor Carl Andre at a cost of $87,000. It produced a furor when it was laid out a year ago. The rocks, ranging from 1,000 pounds to 11 tons, were placed in eight rows of progressively smaller rocks.

Since then, vandals have dumped paint on the rocks and the city had to hire a cleaning firm to remove it.

Opinion

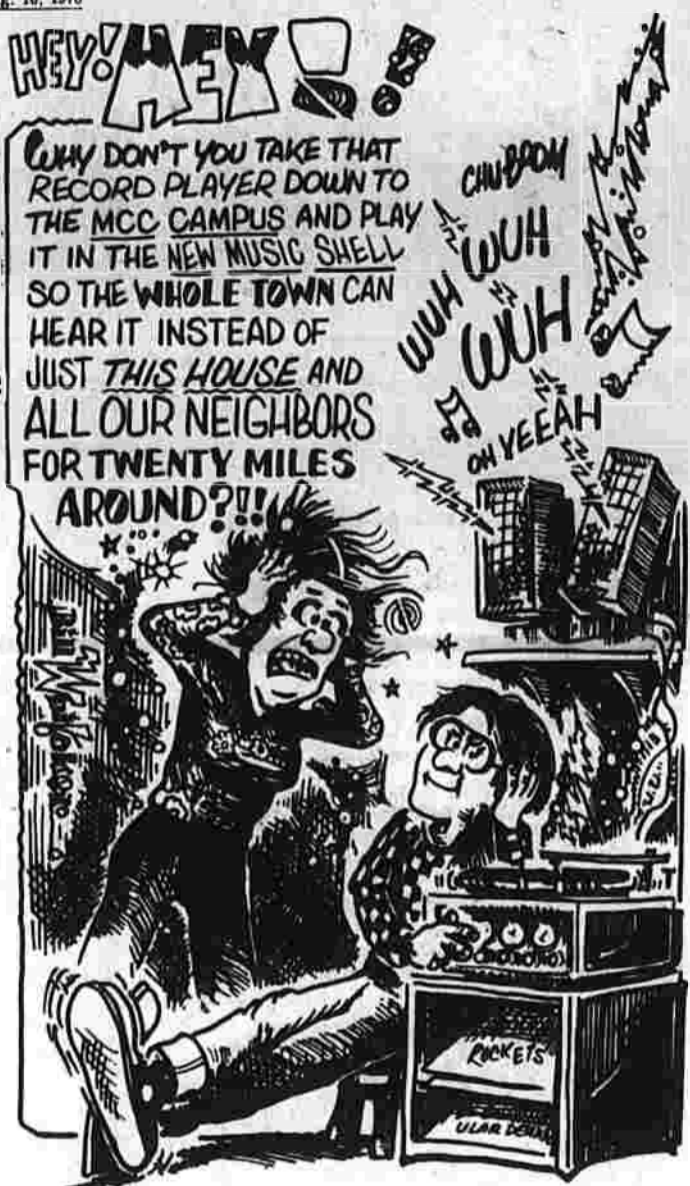

Demonstrable difference

One of the most demonstrable differences between the East and West in this world — and one not emphasized often enough by Western leaders — is provided by the tens of thousands of desperate people who flee their homelands every year. The Berlin wall, after all, was built to stem a one-way flow of traffic. Those who wish to move from West Berlin to East Berlin are free to do so. Few do.

Fashion repeats

Clothing has a way of changing style with the season, yet the more it changes the more it seems to come back to some of the essentials. Sandals, for instance, are the oldest known shoes, found in Egyptian reliefs dating back to 2000 B.C.

Even men's footwear today has cast off its conservative image. While the tradition-bound stereotypes are still here, so are the buckles, zippers, mod styles and colors.

'Relayer' and 'Orion' play Nebo on Saturday

The final SAM concert of the 1978 season will be held Saturday, Aug. 19 at Mt. Nebo in Manchester. The show begins at 8 p.m. and will close at 11 p.m. The public is invited.

The six-piece band, "Relayer," will open the evening with solid, slippery guitar, tight drumming, and slicing leads that make the standard repertoire of Brown Sugar, Jumpin' Jack Flash, and Rocky Mountain Way a setup for good keyboard manipulation. The band plays well together with good balance, and an ability to hold back before each rock crescendo without ever dragging down a piece. "Relayer" plays some classic soulful, Steely Dan, Led Zeppelin, and other classic-art-rock.

Carey Flanagan is the keyboardist for the group. He has played with the seven-piece band "God Evening" before joining "Relayer." Flanagan deals in electric piano and organ, although his main interest is with acoustic piano. He will be attending the Berkley School of Music in Boston next year. In lighter moments he can be heard to complain, "There's just nobody runnin' around with violins any more!"

Bassist Bill Maloney, formerly of the very hard rock local band, "C.P.S.," handles strings that talk back to Dave Dickie, whose sharp drumming can run hot behind the guitars. (When asked what type of set he plays on, Dickie replied "Tupperware.")

Dickie has had lessons in three schools, has played in a jazz band, and like the rest of the group, he's into "YES." His conversation includes allusion to fantasy he's been taught by the music of E.P., Moody Blues and others.

Rhythm and lead are split between

Dale Robertson and Amanda Blake, stars of stage, screen and television, will be honored by Veterans of Foreign Wars, National Auxiliary, for humanitarian and patriotic service at the VFW National Convention in Dallas, Texas, this weekend.

In addition, each honoree will receive $1,000 to be presented to the project of their choice. Stately G. Powell, state commander of the Department of Connecticut VFW, and Theresa P. Varney, president of its Ladies Auxiliary, head the delegation representing Connecticut.

The convention opens Saturday morning with registration, followed by a week of workshops, conferences, award presentations, banquets and parades.

The convention will close Aug. 28 with the installation of officers for the ensuing year.

People of the craft world and all others are invited to participate in the second and final SAM Crafts Fair of 1978 to be held at Center Park on Saturday, Aug. 26. Crafters will be showing and selling their art between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Food and refreshments will be available and entertainment will be presented throughout the day.

Some of the crafts available will be silver and turquoise jewelry, children's quilts and stuffed toys, crocheted jute baskets, fused glass ornaments and dishes, God's eyes, and a wide assortment of pottery and glass. However, this list is far from complete.

There will be a best of show award given to the most outstanding booth for each craft category. The winners will be chosen by an area art teacher named Leonard Wilberley. It was directed by Jack Arnold for Columbia Pictures. The 1½-hour film co-stars loving Jean Seberg.

In this comedy, the Grand Duchy of Fenwick, a small, struggling nation, is threatened with economic ruination by a Californian imitation of the country's chief export — wine. The little nation declares war on the U.S. secure in the knowledge that U.S. defeat, the Americans will develop a strong reconstruction program.

The plot thickens when the invading army of Fenwickians mistakenly capture a secret weapons scientist and his daughter.

Crafts Fair scheduled Aug. 26

There is still room in the fair for more crafts, although only the first three applications in any area will be accepted. Applications may be obtained by calling the SAM office, 646-3200, or stopping by the Rec Building at the Nike Site on Garden Grove Road off Keeney Street in Manchester.

Insurance companies consider them (housing projects) poisonous," he said.

Bysko also questioned why Giamalis' salary has risen faster than Social Security rates for the elderly.

Giamalis said his salary was $17,000 when he started his present position two and one-half years ago. It is now $19,000.

"It seems like every time we're getting a little Social Security raise, the Housing Authority is taking it away," Bysko said.

Giamalis said he has applied to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, asking it to purchase the 60 units at Hutt Heights and Daley Court from the state.

"This would give the elderly a break on rents because of federal subsidies to housing."

"I don't know what else I can do," Giamalis said. "Even if I don't get a raise,

Biathlon II drew record crowd

Biathlon II drew a record crowd for the Manchester event Thursday evening, Aug. 10. Forty-two racers sped off the mark to start the two-mile running course which covers a square area of roads to the southeast of Globe Hollow, where the half mile of swimming takes place.

In addition to the 21 Men's Division competitors, there were nine Women's Division racers, one Men's Masters entrant, and eight Men's Division entrants. First through third place finishes in the Men's Division went to Manchester residents although there was a field of 33 visiting racers, the farthest coming from Rye, N.Y.

Despite an initial mistake in the awarding of places, the event went relatively smoothly. The results were as follows:

Men's Division
First, Bob Michaud, 23:34; second, Rob Tanner, 25:24; third, Geoff Michaud, 26:19; fourth, Joe Gittlin, 26:20; fifth, Jim Knapp, 26:20.

Senate angered by House cut in office funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suppose your brother-in-law the banker turned down the loan for your new house after you had it built. Then you'd know what the Senate thinks of the House today.

"The Senate almost certainly will manage to reverse the House action, but that isn't the point," said a source familiar with the situation.

"That sort of thing just isn't done on Capitol Hill. It is a gross violation of the 'spirit of comity' that says one house of Congress doesn't interfere in the internal workings of the other. But when the House considered a supplemental appropriations bill with $4 million in additional construction money for the Hart Office Building — named for the late Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan — Rep. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, said it was time to stop the growth of big government and we could start with 'the new Taj Mahal' — the Hart building.

To the surprise of almost everyone, 245 House members agreed.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, suggested those 245 names be remembered and if any of them are ever elected to the Senate they be assigned office space in the Carroll Arms, a musty old hotel filled with file cabinets and staff members of the bottom of the pecking order.

Cost estimates for the building range to $200 million or more. It is generally agreed it would be the costliest government edifice ever built.

Most of the controversy covers the architect's proposal for such opulence as a rooftop dining room, another private gym for senators (who already have one, plus a pool), an aviary, marble halls, landscaping and two-story offices.

Some senators, notably Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., praised the House in a brief but spirited exchange on the Senate floor.

That prompted Byrd to bring up the House's own white elephant: "Why did they not raise a finger when the grandiose Rayburn building was built?" he asked.

Proxmire replied he had "made a grave error" at the time, and admitted he was "wrong" but thought the spirit of comity prohibited such an action.

Byrd said "it's up to the Senate to rectify its own mistakes. I don't think the Senate should be subjected to the inconsideration of comity."

"If we make a mistake, let's rectify it here. We made a mistake. We ought to admit it. But if we get into this business of ill-fort, the Senate may start cutting House employees and the House may start cutting Senate employees..."

Congress, on the verge of a summer recess, today was under heavy White House pressure to break its long energy stalemate and also faced a possible confrontation with President Carter over taxes.

The House Assassinations Committee summoned convicted assassin James Earl Ray to testify for a third day, in its investigation of the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., while the Senate prepared to vote on a bill giving residents of the District of Columbia full voting rights.

Carter met Thursday night at the White House with two key senators and then with two House members — all serving on a conference committee desklocked for months over natural gas pricing.

In other congressional action: —A House Republican task force and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., the GOP's first announced presidential candidate, offered separate proposals for protecting journalists from being compelled to turn over material to law officers.

—Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., chairman of the Senate Ethics Committee, said he would ask members to decide before Congress adjourns whether to open up full-scale investigations of the financial dealings of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

—The Senate rejected a proposed constitutional amendment, which would have ordered the federal government to operate with a balanced even if it meant an annual surtax.

Tenants will fight increase in rents

By CHRIS BLAKE

EAST HARTFORD — In an emotionally-charged informal meeting Thursday, tenants of Daley Court and Hutt Heights told the Housing Authority that they are not going to accept a proposed rent increase without a fight.

"We oppose the increase," said Peter Bysko of Daley Court in a prepared statement to Nicholas Giamalis, executive director of the Housing Authority.

"It is much more than we can afford to pay. We think you are obliged to consider our budgets as well as your own," Bysko said.

Bysko represented a group of 30 tenants from Daley Court and Hutt Heights who attended the meeting with Giamalis. He presented a petition to Giamalis, with the signatures of every tenant at the two complexes, opposing the rent increase.

Rent increases of $12 and $16 are planned at Daley Court and Hutt Heights, which are state elderly complexes. Rent at efficiency apartments would increase from $75 to $85 a month and rents for bedroom units would be hiked from $85 to $99 a month.

Two bedroom units at Veterans Terrace and Terrace Extension would increase from $125 to $155, with heat, and at H47 to $167, including heat, for three-bedroom units.

Bysko asked Giamalis a number of questions about issues which he said were related to the increase.

At another point, Edward Machie of Hutt Heights said, "If the city is trying to scrounge a few lousy dollars out of us, we should ask up and leave."

The Housing Authority has scheduled formal meetings with each of the four tenants groups Aug. 31. They will meet at Daley Court at 6:30 p.m. and at Hutt Heights at 7:30 p.m.

The Veterans Terrace, King Court and Veterans Terrace Extension groups will meet with the authority at the Miller Gardens complex, 452 Main St., at 8:30 p.m.

Police report

East Hartford
Police reported two burglaries which took place Thursday.

A suitcase and other personal belongings with a total value of $550 was stolen from a room in the Holiday Inn on Roberts St. There was no forced entry, police said, and the burglary was believed to have taken place between 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

A black and white television was stolen from a home on Orchard Street sometime overnight, police said. With the homeowners apparently asleep, a screen door was pushed in and the television taken from the kitchen.

Republicans confused by Forrest withdrawal

EAST HARTFORD — Confusion reigns in the Republican camp of the 9th Assembly District.

Walter F. Forrest, who was nominated last month as the GOP standard-bearer, has apparently withdrawn his candidacy. Forrest reportedly returned a letter to the state Elections Commission asking him to endorse a campaign code of ethics and recall that he was dropping out of the race.

The 9th Assembly District comprises portions of East Hartford and Manchester.

EHHS pool to be closed

EAST HARTFORD — A series of events has forced closing of the East Hartford High School Swimming Pool beginning this weekend.

The pool will be closed to the public from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday because of the annual Diving Meet which will be held at 2 p.m. It will be open, however, from 6 to 8 p.m.

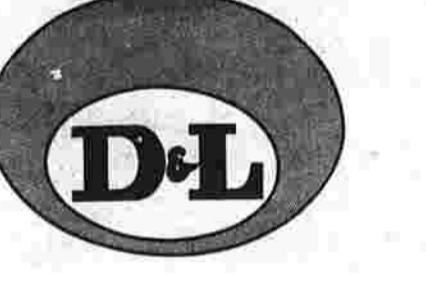

The pool will also be closed Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. because of the Town Swim Meet scheduled at noon. It will reopen at 6 p.m. for two hours of recreational swim.

And the pool will be closed Aug. 24 at noon although lessons will be held in the morning. The annual swim show will be held at 6 p.m.

Two subdivisions approved; action delayed on others

COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) has approved a two-lot subdivision on Snake Hill Road on High Street for land owned by Peter and Elizabeth Van Die. The owners agreed to construct drainage ditches through the driveway to direct flow into Snake Hill Road drains.

The commission also sanctioned a three-lot subdivision on Old Eagleville Road for applicant, Philip DeSisto. Stipulations include giving drainage easements to the town and making deed restrictions that would require property owners to maintain drainage ditches on the lots.

A public hearing for a seven-lot subdivision on Lewis Hill Road was held at a subsequent meeting. The application was brought by Ralph Zahner on behalf of owner Arthur England and others. About a dozen residents attended the hearing to ask questions and to express concern about drainage for the development, part of which will occur on the town.

The commission closed a hearing but reached no decision on the application of Khalil Sari for a five-lot subdivision on Carpenter Road. The owner wants to develop the four lots facing the roadway for houses but has no immediate plans for the large rear lot which includes wetlands and a swamp. Several residents and the town's Conservation Commission have noted that the swamp area contains rare plants and abundant wildlife. Padick advised that the application meets the town's zoning regulations, which make no mention of the protection of rare flora. He said the PZC could alert potential buyers of the presence of the plants and recommend that a stipulation be placed requiring Sari to file a new application for any proposed development on the fifth lot.

In other business, the PZC directed Owen Sanderson to apply for a grave-removal permit before he levels a sand and gravel hill on his property on Brigham Tavern Road in preparation for the construction of a pond. The pond is already under construction for use in watering Sanderson's cattle. Zoning Agent Ernest Wheeler served a violation notice on Sanderson last month for obstructing the flow of a brook in an inland wetlands area with fill from the hill.

Whether informed the commission in other business that the 95-foot assumed elevation of Coventry Lake was correlated by a United States Geological Survey team this month. The above sea level elevations is more than 517 feet in the right-hand corner outside edge of the sludge-way dam. Wheeler reported.

Students must be immunized for start of school in fall

VERNON — Before schools closed in June several students had to be excluded for a period because they did not comply with the immunization policy of the state and the local school board.

The school administration has now issued a notice concerning immunization noting they feel it is important that parents understand the policy.

The present law requires pupils to be immunized or tested for measles, Rubella (under 12), polio, and Tine test.

If the requirements are not met the student will be excluded from school. Only after complying with regulations will students be permitted to enroll.

After Jan. 1, 1979, a new law takes effect and an additional immunization will be required. That will be for diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus (DTT).

The Vernon School nurses will be organizing clinics at necessary. The principals will see that notices go to all parents of children who require immunizations.

Or if a statement is presented by the parent noting that such immunization would be contrary to the child's religious beliefs or if a statement is presented from a physician or directly of health that the child has had a confirmed case of the disease.

If any parents have any questions concerning the immunization program they should call the office of the school nurse.

Police are also investigating a break into Fire Arms Inc. at Route 63 reported Thursday by the owner.

Police said entry was gained by making a hole in the cinder block and rifle are missing. The exact number hasn't been determined. Police said it also hasn't been determined how much, if any, ammunition is missing.

Police said members of the Rockville Fire Department who responded to the call, termed the fire "highly suspicious."

Police are also investigating a break into Wade Gallow, 24, of 43 Manor Lane, South Windsor, was charged Thursday with driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs or both. He was involved in a one-car accident on Valley View Lane.

Police said Gallow allegedly ran over a couple of laws and then struck a fire hydrant. He was released on a $500 nonreturnable bond for appearance in court in East Hartford on Aug. 29.

Edward Durette, 17, of Sunset Terrace and Max Minefield, 18, of 21 Sunset Terrace, both of South Windsor, were charged Thursday with breach of the peace and Durette with additionally charged with reckless driving.

Police said they were rate of speed in the area of the Wapping School. Police said they were squealing tires as they made a turn. They were chased by police and when stopped police observed that the two were fighting.

Durette was the driver, police said. He and Minefield are scheduled to appear in court in East Hartford on Aug. 28 to answer to the breach of the peace charges and Durette is to appear again on Aug. 29 to answer to the reckless driving charge.

Vernon Police to accelerate crime prevention programs

VERNON — This fall the Vernon Police Department will step up its crime prevention program with the cooperation of civic and youth groups, and expanded Neighborhood Crime Watch programs.

William Yetz Jr., crime prevention officer for the department, said the only way to fight crime is with community involvement.

Yetz said several local restaurants are participating in the crime prevention program by using crime watch placemats. The white, black and orange mats explain the people the different areas of crime opportunity and what to do to prevent crime, thus reducing the risk of burglary.

Yetz said the department also plans to put up billboards throughout the town to indicate to passing motorists to join Neighborhood Crime Watch and Operation Identification.

Other areas of prevention will include in-school programs, spots and radio and television, brochures and lectures, and through the newspapers. Yetz said the department wants more citizen participation.

He said the new and expanding crime prevention program is to teach people to protect themselves, their neighbors and their neighborhoods.

Yetz said the crime rate in several areas has gone down due to the Neighborhood Crime Watch

Program and the fact that residents are becoming more aware of what to do in the event of a crime.

Police said that persons reporting suspicious activity do not have to give their name if they don't wish to.

Yetz said in the event of a crime any witness is asked to police details such as the license number of a car, appearance and dress of a suspicious person, the direction in which they were headed and any other pertinent information that the police would need in apprehending a criminal suspect.

The police department helped to organize a local CB group known as VERISA which operates on Channel 18. Yetz said this group has been the eyes and ears of the police and gradually the members are being trained in first aid and other areas of law enforcement, on a volunteer basis.

The department also is doing a survey of homes and businesses to show merchants and homeowners how they can help prevent crimes and reduce the possibility of becoming the victim of a burglary. This service is free and may be obtained by calling Yatz at the police department, 972-0228.

A "Helping Hand" program was started with the cooperation of local schools and PTOs. Homes that have been approved by police have a sticker showing a white hand on a red background signifying that this is a refuge in a time of danger.

Yetz said several parents have complained of children being harassed on their way to or from school. Those currently involved in this program are Vernon Elementary, Skinner Road, Maple Street, and Lake Street schools.

Another program that was started about five years ago by the Vernon Junior Women's Club, in cooperation with the police, is the Safety Town program for pre-kindergarten. It instructs children in pedestrian safety in several areas.

Area police
The Special Services Unit of the Vernon Police Department is investigating a car fire that occurred early this morning on Oak Street.

Police said the car was parked in front of 8 Oak St. and belonged to Peter Frazier of that address.

Police said area residents said they heard what sounded like an explosion and then saw the car burst into flames.

Police said members of the Rockville Fire Department who responded to the call, termed the fire "highly suspicious."

Police are also investigating a break into Wade Gallow, 24, of 43 Manor Lane, South Windsor, was charged Thursday with driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs or both. He was involved in a one-car accident on Valley View Lane.

Police said Gallow allegedly ran over a couple of laws and then struck a fire hydrant. He was released on a $500 nonreturnable bond for appearance in court in East Hartford on Aug. 29.

BOLTON — About twenty residents attended an informational meeting of the Board of Education Thursday to hear the report prepared by the Advisory Planning Committee for the Future of Bolton Schools.

Various parts of the report were presented by committee members followed by their personal comments. School board members asked several questions about the report and then residents were given a chance to comment or ask questions.

The school board did not discuss any action it would be taking or even if it would be taking any. At one point board chairman Joseph Halaburda said the board could make a decision not to do anything.

Committee members felt the school board would have to stay on top of the situation, continue to update the study and get the entire community involved in its final decision.

The run will start at the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Club building and follow a course to the top of Veteran Memorial Park and return a slightly different route.

Gates to coach

Steve Gates, former outstanding track and cross country standout at Manchester High and Eastern Connecticut State College, has been named cross country coach at Manchester Community College.

Cross country was recently reinstated as a fall sport at MCC after a year's absence due to budgetary restraints. Gates is currently employed at Travelers and is still active in New England competition as a member of the Hartford Track Club.

The coach resides at 21 Overbrook Drive in Manchester.

The opening meet will be Sept. 20 against Connecticut College.

Former pro player to coach at MCC

John Fitzgerald, former All-New England and professional soccer player has been appointed head soccer coach at Manchester Community College.

Fitzgerald still holds all scoring and assist records at Eastern Connecticut State College. He played professional soccer with the Connecticut Wildcats, the Connecticut Yankees and the Pittsburgh Miners.

Fitzgerald hopes to carry on the fine soccer tradition at MCC and looks to a winning 1978 Campaign.

This year the Cougars play their toughest schedule ever. Highlights include games against N.C.I.A.A. powers Mitchell College of New London, Massasoit Community College of Brockton, Brown University and the UConn J.V. team. Manchester Community College opens the season Sept. 16 with the Southern Connecticut Jayvees.

The tournament is in memory of the late Captain Charles Melody, a native of East Hartford and outstanding coach. He lost his life in combat during World War II at the age of 25.

Starting times can be obtained by calling the golf course at 528-5082.

Softball playoffs starting Monday

Four games, two each at Robertson Park and Fitzgerald Field, will be on top Monday night as the annual Town Slow Pitch "B" Softball Tournament gets under way.

Bob & Marie's Pizza, this year's Indy League winner, is defending champion in the double elimination play.

Dusty League champ North End Fire faces Beer League runnerup Reed Construction in the 6 o'clock opener at Fitzgerald followed by a clash between the two Nike League entries, Wilson Electric and Pio's Cake Decorating, at 7:30.

The schedule at Robertson pits Indy League runnerup Thrifty Package against Eastern League runnerup Alliance Printing in the 6 o'clock lampfighter followed by Dus-

785 percentage, although he is second to Bryant in total victories with a 32-season record of 221-68-9. Completing the top 10 for 1978 are Dan Devine of Notre Dame, 744, 147-48-8; Carmen Cozza, Yale, 722, 688, 88-40-4.

The selection system begins by picking the 20 coaches who have won the most games and then ranking them by percentage. They must have coached five seasons at the major college level and the overall record must be winning.

Woody Hayes is fifth with a per cent of his games as a major college coach and Bryant has 373 victories, according to the annual list prepared by Elmore "Scop" Hudgins, public relations director for the Southeastern Conference.

Stan Smith heads up the early entry list of international competitors who will take part in the United Technologies Classic Tennis Tournament at the Hartford Armory, Sept. 18-24.

Tournament Director Warren Bosworth said the lineup includes veterans Izzy el Shafel of Egypt, U.S. Davis Cupper, Eric Van Dillen, Ross Case of Australia, and young Elliot Teltcher of the U.S.

People registered for men's singles should report Saturday morning to McAuliffe Park at 8. Names will be posted.

The women's singles tournament will begin Saturday afternoon at 3 at McAuliffe Park.

Solomon's advice hits home

STOWE, Vt. (UPI)—Harold Solomon may have wished he had never given Eliot Teltcher that bit of advice three weeks ago in Cincinnati.

Teltcher said it was that encouraging word which helped him defeat Solomon, the No. 2 seed, 6-2, 7-6, 2-6, Thursday in a major quarterfinal upset at the $75,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament.

"He told me you've got to hang in there. I was ready to give in, but I just remembered what he said," said the 19-year-old Teltcher of Palos Verdes, Calif., who formerly played on the UCLA tennis team.

Instead it was Solomon who collapsed in the final set, dropping the last four games.

Teltcher, who ousted seventh-seeded Kim Warwick of Australia before his match with Solomon, now advances to the semi-finals. He will play the winner of the match between Los Angeles and New York 2.
