Iran questions arson suspects

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Ten people are being questioned as suspects in the fire that killed nearly 400 people in a movie theater in Abadan during the weekend, police disclosed today.

Gen. Reza Razmi, chief police in the southern Iranian city, said several of those arrested were schoolteachers but he did not elaborate further.

Normal life in Abadan, Iran's oil industry capital, has ground to a virtual standstill since arsonists flooded the Rex movie theater with gasoline and set it on fire.

A total of 377 people were killed in the blaze.

The streets echoed with scores of mourning Moslem muezzins reciting the Koran, and many in the city wore black Monday. Large sections of the city's commercial centers were closed.

Iranian officials Sunday accused Moslem extremists seeking the overthrow of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of setting the fire in the packed moviehouse, the doors of which were locked.

The fire came on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the Shah's return to power in a coup backed by the CIA after a brief exile.

Prime Minister Jamshid Amouzegar announced a period of "national mourning" for the dead and vowed the attackers would get maximum punishment.

Officials said the "heinous" attack was part of the continuing feud between the shah and elements sympathetic to the powerful Shiite Moslem clergy, who are leading a drive against the monarch's program of political and social liberalization.

Theaters and movie houses, which the opposition groups view as examples of Western influence and decadence, have been favored targets of the extremists. Radio Iran said the attack Saturday was 29th against cinemas in recent weeks.

Relatives of the victims buried their charred remains in Abada's main cemetery Sunday. Their vigils for the dead lasted until early today.

Only 14 moviegoers survived the attack on the rundown Rex Theater, which was showing a Persian-language film, officials said.

Witnesses said the arsonists poured gasoline on the floors and then set fire to the building Saturday night. The movie house was turned into "four walls of fire" that burned for four hours.

Most of the victims appeared to have suffocated or were trampled in the stampede to escape.

"The cries of help were so pathetic that I could die hearing them," one witness said. "There were hundreds watching a disaster taking place, but they could do little to prevent it."

The theater's only exit was locked.

The Ettelaat newspaper said police arrested the cinema's doorkeeper as a suspected collaborator with the arsonists. He told police he had locked the door to keep out terrorists, the newspaper reported.

Rescuers demolished walls to get inside, but found the floor already littered with limbs "burned to charcoal." Some collapsed in hysteria at the sight.

"For many, the greatest fear was that those unrecognizable heaps of flesh lying on the floor may be their friends, their relatives, people they knew," one witness said. "In some cases, that turned out to be so."

Town furloughs CETA employees

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester has furloughed four Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) employees and has received no word about the present status of the CETA program, which apparently now will have a deficit exceeding $1 million.

The deficit originally had been set at $400,000 for the Hartford office that oversees the CETA program for the city and its surrounding towns, including Manchester.

A plan, which was recommended by Manchester officials, had been developed where each town would make a certain number of cutbacks in CETA programs to help offset the deficit.

Manchester had approved a plan to drop eight Title VI, short-term CETA positions, a move that would have saved more than half of the $22,000 Manchester was expected to contribute to offset the deficit.

The plan for reducing the $400,000 deficit was later dropped, however, by program officials. Now, the CETA supervisors have said that the deficit is over the $1 million mark.

Manchester officials said that they knew nothing of the increase in the deficit, and the lack of information has added to their displeasure with the program.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said today that he will furlough four employees, who originally were among the eight who were to be laid off.

A furlough means that the employees will not be paid, but the positions will be held open and they will get the first chance if the jobs are to be refilled.

The four employees are two painters who have worked at town buildings and schools and two workers in the records division of the Police Department.

Weiss said that he talked to the Hartford office last week and was told that other funding might be available. He was not told about the increased deficit and did not learn of it until he read a story in Saturday's newspaper.

Weiss has been critical in the past of the CETA program and has joined a request that the local operation of the program be investigated.

Steven Werbner, a personnel assistant with the town, said that there has been little information recently

Arab terrorists flee after attacking bus

LONDON (UPI) — Police are seeking two Arab terrorists who escaped from a machine gun and grenade attack on an El Al Israeli Airlines bus in which a stewardess and one gunman were killed and nine people wounded.

A radical Palestinian guerrilla faction claimed responsibility for the attack in the heart of London Sunday, but Scotland Yard said it was treating the claim with caution.

Israel, which blamed lax British security for the "barbaric crime," retaliated in force at dawn today in Lebanon, sending its warplanes on two air raids against Palestinian camps in and around Beirut.

The attack on the El Al bus Sunday began as 21 airline employees and security guards were getting off the vehicle in front of the Europa Hotel on Grosvenor Square. Police said the attackers opened fire with machine guns and detonated four hand grenades.

El Al stewardess Irit Girdon, 29, was killed and nine people, including two other stewardesses, were wounded. An airline spokesman said the second fatality was an attacker who blew himself up.

The bus was riddled with bullet holes, the tires and windows shot out. A taxi nearby was shot up and there were bullet holes in surrounding buildings. Bystanders said shots whistled over strollers on the street near the U.S. Embassy.

Police detained one man for questioning and a Scotland Yard spokesman said they were seeking two other men between the ages of 22 and 30, "both of Arabic appearance," seen in the area of the attack.

A chief from the nearby Europa Hotel said he may have seen the suspects. "These two blokes ran into the kitchen and put on chef's gear and ran out," he said.

A Middlesex Hospital spokesman said one of the wounded Israeli women was in critical condition. Six other wounded were reported resting comfortably following emergency operations, and two victims of the attack were released after treatment.

A witness, Johan du Plessis of Vanderbijlpark, South Africa, said he was in the lobby of the Europa when "suddenly we heard noises."

"It sounded like the roll of drums," du Plessis said. "I came out of the hotel. I was astonished. I found one of the air hostesses lying on the pavement. She was bleeding badly ... I went over to the other air hostess, but she was dead."

Du Plessis said a man he believed to be an Arab "was lying near the girl. He had an automatic weapon."

The special-operations branch of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which also claimed responsibility for last year's hijack of a Lufthansa airliner to Somalia, said in a statement, "This operation is in line with our aim of pursuing the armed struggle, which means hitting at the institutions, forces and elements of the Zionist enemy."

In Tel Aviv, El Al's general manager, Mordechai Hod, said, "We can't be responsible for the security of the staff once they leave the airfield, certainly not in a city like London. This is certainly the responsibility of the local authorities."

Israel retaliates with raid on PLO

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla targets at dawn today in swift retaliation for a terrorist attack against an Israeli El Al Airlines bus in London 13 hours earlier.

At least four persons were killed. A doctor at the Palestinian-run Gaza Hospital near the raided area said, "They brought 37 wounded in here, and four of them died." Ambulances with sirens wailing sped other casualties to other hospitals.

Earlier a Palestine Liberation Organization military spokesman had listed three guerrillas killed but it was not immediately clear whether these were among the Gaza casualties.

A PLO political spokesman, Mahmoud Labadi, said, "We had nothing to do with the London attack. This (Israeli) strike is a barbaric act against innocent civilians."

The PLO spokesman claimed Palestinian gunners hit one of the Israeli jets, but the military command in Tel Aviv said all aircraft involved in the raids returned safely to their bases.

Fighter-bombers firing 80mm cannon swooped down on the sprawling refugee camp of Bourj al Barajneh, less than a mile from Beirut airport, and Damour, 12 miles south of the capital.

The roar of the planes and the thud of explosions jolted Beirutis awake at 5:45 a.m. Orange tracer bullets from anti-aircraft batteries on the ground arched across the sky.

The 15-minute attack underscored the conflicts among Israel, the Palestinians, Syria and the Israeli-supported Christian militias that have torn Lebanon apart over the past three years.

The Israeli jets drew fierce fire both from the Palestinian camps and from positions manned by the Syrian peace-keeping force in central Beirut.

After the jets turned back over the Mediterranean Sea on their path home to Israel, witnesses said, angered Syrian soldiers turned their guns on militia positions in Christian east Beirut.

The fusillade was brief, however, and there were no immediate reports of extended fighting. The Syrians and Christians have battled off and on for the past six months.

Congressmen in Hanoi to warm U.S. relations

HANOI, Vietnam (UPI) — A U.S. congressional delegation scouting a warmer American policy toward communist Vietnam arrived today at the foot of what U.S. fighter pilots called "Thud Bridge."

The delegation came at Hanoi's invitation, expecting to get a message for Congress and President Carter that Vietnam wants diplomatic ties and trade with the United States.

Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., the delegation chairman, said aboard the plane flying the eight congressmen to Hanoi that the lawmakers came not to negotiate or shift U.S. policy. "But we come with open minds," he said.

Hanoi has dropped demands that America pay $5 billion in reconstruction grants. It has signaled it is seeking economic and diplomatic help while Hanoi fights a border war with Cambodia and struggles to offset the aid cut off recently by China.

The delegation's Air Force 707 jet landed at 10:47 a.m. local time at Noi Bai, the airfield that once sent Soviet-made MIG jets against U.S. planes.

The field lies at the southern end of "Thud Bridge," which supported a gauntlet of rockets and artillery fire U.S. pilots had to run.

U.S. wartime fliers — including some of the crew flying the congressmen — were never allowed to hit the airfield's runways. A political decision limited them to striking only planes attacking them.

Giving the U.S. plane permission to land at Noi Bai — named Phuc Yen during the war — was one evidence of Hanoi's current be-kind-to-Americans conduct.

The Air Force 707 carrying the largest congressional delegation to visit Hanoi in 20 years might have had trouble landing at the civil airport used by smaller postwar delegations from Washington.

Better evidence that Hanoi was seeking to do more than simply help Montgomery with data on the 340 American servicemen still listed as missing from the war was the unprecedented offer to allow the delegation to be the first official U.S. group to visit Ho Chi Minh city, formerly the South Vietnamese capital of Saigon.

The lawmakers went with high hopes. But caution was in their

Saudi Arabia will favor gradual oil price hikes

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — Oil giant Saudi Arabia, signaling its intention to seek a price hike this year, says a series of gradual price increases for crude oil will avoid a devastating effect on the world's economy.

Whether or not Saudi Arabia and other oil-producing nations decide on an official price increase, the Middle East Economic Survey reported today, market conditions will drive prices up before the end of this year.

Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani said "doses" of gradual price increases will avoid a "jolt" that could affect world economic conditions more seriously than the price spiral that followed the oil price explosion of 1973-1974.

Petroleum industry sources said Yamani's remarks indicated Saudi Arabia was abandoning its intention to freeze crude oil prices throughout 1978, in favor of a moderate increase in December.

Yamani would not discuss any proposals he plans to make to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at its December pricing conference.

"We should not be short sighted," he told the Saudi newspaper Al Medina in an interview Sunday.

If we do not allow for gradual price increases in the future we will face a sharp increase that could jolt world economies in the 1980s.

"This jolt might bring more serious effects than those at the end of 1973 and the beginning of 1974," Yamani said. "There should be doses of oil hikes."

Yamani did not specify when gradual oil price increases should begin. His opinion on such matters usually decides OPEC's course of action, since Saudi Arabia is by far the No. 1 crude oil producer in the 11-nation group.

The Middle East Economic Survey, a authoritative oil industry analyst, said the price increases already have begun.

The newsletter said Saudi Arabian light—the so-called "marker crude" used as the price benchmark by OPEC—is going for 10 cents a barrel above its posted price of $12.70 a barrel.

"There is simply no crude of 34 API or above (the light grades) to be had," M.E.E.S. said. "Many knowledgeable observers are confidently predicting a truly dramatic lightening of the crude oil market—and hence an accompanying take-off of spot market prices—in the fourth quarter."

Woman sought protection five days before death

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Richard Wood, 19, says his mother pleaded for protection at the assistant state prosecutor's office five days before she was slain at Middlesex Community College.

Wood said his mother, Caroline Swanson, 40, asked the office of Assistant State Prosecutor Kevin Kane Aug. 9 for protection against Glenmore Towles, 37, a former boyfriend.

Towles has been charged with the Aug. 14 stabbing death of Mrs. Swanson.

son. He was being held on $100,000 bond.

Kane said Friday he wasn't in his office on the day of Mrs. Swanson's visit, but said his staff asked her to return the next day.

"She never returned and I'm very sorry she didn't," he said.

The mother of six made the request a day before Towles was scheduled to appear in Middletown Superior Court on charges of threatening and disorderly conduct in an incident involving her son, Robert Wood, 20, and several other persons.

Wood said his mother asked for a conviction and jail term for Towles but said she was told by the prosecutor's office that "there was nothing they could do."

Threatening and disorderly conduct charges against Towles were later reduced to breach of peace. He was sentenced to a 120-day suspended sentence with two years probation and fined $100, by Judge Milton Fishman.

Five days later, Towles allegedly stabbed Mrs. Swanson eight times in a vacant cafeteria at the community college where she worked and attended classes part-time.

Authorities arrested Towles several hours later after he tried to admit himself to Connecticut Valley Hospital, a state mental facility.

Wood said Towles, who lived with his mother until shortly before the slaying, had subjected the family to "physical and emotional abuse" on several occasions.

He said his mother's complaints about Towles to local police also were ignored.

"This is a completely different type of treatment than that given someone whose life is threatened by a stranger," he said.

Middletown Police Chief Eugene B. Rame declined to comment on Wood's remarks until the case is resolved.

Town pilot rescued off Nantucket Island

Michael Ringbloom of 53 Foley St. sustained only a minor injury when his single-engine plane crashed Sunday evening in waters three miles south of Cisco Beach on Nantucket Island.

Mrs. Ringbloom, who left this morning to pick up her husband, said he received four stitches under his chin at Nantucket Hospital and was in good spirits when she talked with him Sunday night.

She said she is not sure about the cause of the accident as she had only talked with her husband briefly.

"He said his control panel indicated he was over the Nantucket Airport runway when he came down," she said.

Ringbloom, who is a flight instructor at Ellington Airport, had left Ellington alone about 5:30 p.m. Sunday headed for Nantucket to pick up two Connecticut residents vacationing there.

Ringbloom was approaching Nantucket Airport when the craft disappeared from the control tower radar screen about 6:30, according to the U.S. Coast Guard.

The plane sank rapidly, but Ringbloom was able to get out and swim until a Coast Guard helicopter rescued him about an hour and a half later.

Mrs. Ringbloom said her husband started swimming for shore. He took his clothes off when they got too heavy, when he spotted the helicopter, he took off his underwear and waved it at the rescuers, she said.

"He climbed up into the helicopter in his birthday suit," Mrs. Ringbloom said, and added he was lucky to be alive.

Ringbloom has been flying about five years.

MCC Weekend College to take registration

Manchester Community College has announced registration for the MCC Weekend College will be Sept. 2 and 9 from 9 a.m. to noon and Sept. 5 from 2 to 7 p.m. on the main campus, 60 Bidwell St.

Courses for the fall semester will begin Sept. 8.

The Weekend College provides a practical and convenient way for persons with other weekday commitments to obtain a college education. Students may take as many as five courses each semester and complete an entire degree program through weekend classes.

Weekend courses are scheduled in five time periods: Friday evenings, Saturday mornings, Saturday afternoons, Sunday mornings and Sunday afternoons.

A master schedule for four semesters, which will repeat every two years, has been developed to enable students to plan their programs of study, including courses necessary to complete requirements for most degree programs at MCC. Semesters generally consist of 15 weeks.

For further information about the Weekend College or other community service courses, call 646-2137.

New students to register

New students who will be attending Manchester High School next year should report to the high school administration office for registration, and to the guidance office for programming of courses any weekday between 8:30 and 11 a.m., and 1 and 2:30 p.m.

Students must present a year-end report card or have a transcript forwarded to Manchester High School before programming. For students entering the 12th grade, a transcript is required.

Students entering Grades 11 and 12 will be tested Tuesday, Sept. 5, at a time to be announced.

Students entering Grade 10 will be assigned, by mail, to one of the orientation and testing sessions on Aug. 30 and 31.

About town

The Bible study and prayer group of Second Congregational Church will meet Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. in the church parlor.

Manchester WATERS will meet Tuesday at the Italian-American Club, 135 Eldridge St. Weighing in will be 7 to 8 p.m.

The Board of Directors of the Eighth Utilities District will hold their monthly meeting tonight at 7 at the District Firehouse, 22 Main St. All town residents are invited to inspect the new aerospace fire truck of the district.

Tests compare gunfire sound

DALLAS (UPI) — The sharpshooter squinted over Dealy Plaza from a window in the Texas School Book Depository, took aim and fired. But this time it was an experiment in acoustics and not the death of John F. Kennedy.

The re-enactment Sunday was for the House Assassinations Committee, which wants to compare different gunfire sounds with a tape of a police radio that picked up noises from the plaza during the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting.

With a four-block section of downtown Dallas blocked off by 50 officers, three marksmen pumped 54 rounds into sandbags placed along Elm Street, where the presidential motorcade was traveling when the fatal shots were fired.

Two officers fired rifles and a third used a .38-caliber pistol in the 4 1/2 hour test. Microphones carefully positioned around the assassination site recorded the sounds.

Testing time will be about three hours.

Opinion

Find space elsewhere

Manchester is outgrowing its Municipal Building, and the solution is to locate departments in other town buildings.

For instance, Lincoln Center. There you find the Social Services Department, Youth Services, the Building Department, Water and Sewer Departments, Planning and Zoning, the Park Department, the Engineering Department. The Highway Department is in the garage on Olcott Street.

Over in the Hall of Records you will find Health and Human Services.

There was a time in the not too distant past when there were thoughts of replacing the Municipal Building. That was during Downtown Renewal.

One idea was to put the building on the west side of Main Street.

That idea was shelved when Downtown Renewal was defeated.

When the Senior Citizens Center on Linden Street is vacated—and that probability is more than likely—Town Manager Robert Weiss has suggested that the Health and Human Services, and the dental clinic, be located there. That would free the Hall of Records for the probate court.

The town has been told by the state that it should update its facilities for storing records. These proposed changes may free space for the records.

Public Works Director Jay Giles has suggested the town consider a one-story addition to the Municipal Building.

It would be nice to have all town departments under one roof, but that is unlikely. The cost is prohibitive now.

Let's wait while, and make use of the buildings now available.

WASHINGTON — "More light-hearted critics of what is called 'home rule' in the District of Columbia choose over the story of a D.C. city councilman who dropped in on his neighborhood church to be baptized.

The minister excused himself to go fetch some water for the font. When he returned, the councilman was gone—and so was the font.

The story is relevant to a proposal by Sen. James McClellan, R-Idaho, of an alternative to awarding itself City Council to a city councilman who dropped in on his neighborhood church to be baptized.

So what happened? So a Labor Department investigation revealed that 60 of the 144 council employees are paid with federal jobs money and probably were improperly hired.

And, because the council uses city as well as federal money to pay its CETA employees, 44 of those workers earn between $10,000 and $20,000, and at least one earns more than $20,000.

This has been enabled the council members to assemble a collection of friends, relatives, and other political supporters that may be a new national record. By the use of federal money intended to reduce the ranks of the jobless, the council now has a staff to serve D.C.'s 700,000 people as big as the combined council staffs of nearby Fairfax, Montgomery, Prince George's and Arlington counties.

"If a few individuals take unfair advantages of the law, the solution is to punish those few individuals and not to deny every other citizen the right to privacy in the name of administrative efficiency."

Gene Johnson, third base. Same Gene you read about with Moriarty Bros. One of the most powerful high school hitters these eyes ever saw. Great competitor, and he insists that same desire as a coach.

Ed Wojcik, shortstop. Shortstop, you say? Yeh, but Eddie went to become a fine catcher. He went to Notre Dame and then signed on with the Chicago White Sox, but his playing days were numbered when he injured a knee.

Harry Griswold, catcher. With two catchers, Wojcik went to the short field. Jim Moriarty, first base. Same Jim who teaches at Manchester High and is a former basketball coach there.

Carl Silver, second base. Carl today is the assistant recreation director for Manchester. For reserves, there was Red Ritchie, Marty Starin and Bob Sweet. There were four pitchers on the team. Myles McDonough was a mainstay. Big Steve Cooper was the powerful man. Jackie Hedlund served up a variety of soft stuff that baffled many hitters. The reliever—and a fine one—was Ken Irish.

But the season came to a quick end the following Saturday afternoon at Bristol when Elizabetht thumped the Connecticut champions 11-1 and then won the regional with a 6-0 victory over Pawtucket.

So, happy anniversary, Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post won its first two games by one run each. It lost to Bridgeport 7-0, came back to win 6-5 in 11 innings.

It is insidiously grandiose, perhaps because of all those fringe benefits enjoyed by Congress and federal departments. Moreover, the D.C. City Council has already played politics in a style that would have shamed Chicago's late Dick Daley.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Can a federal law enforcement officer, acting without any court order, pry through your personal financial records to identify your creditors, your doctors, your psychiatrist or your favorite liquor store?

The answer unfortunately is yes, notwithstanding the Fourth Amendment prohibition against "unreasonable searches" of citizens' "papers and effects" by investigators lacking a judiciary approved search warrant.

The unconscionable opportunity for wholesale invasion of personal privacy, without any awareness on the part of those being victimized, can be traced directly to a 1970 law passed by Congress and signed by President Richard Nixon.

The law is the Bank Secrecy Act. Among its lesser faults is a grossly misleading name, since it actually eliminated any vestige of secrecy by requiring commercial banks to make copies of the front and back of all customers' checks and deposit slips, and to retain those microfilm records for five years.

The well-intentioned law was designed to give federal investigators a valuable new tool in pursuing political corruption, drug trafficking, organized crime activities and other forms of white collar crime.

But it is applicable to all of the country's estimated 200 million checking accounts, most of them maintained by law-abiding citizens. The number of checks written—and photocopied—now exceeds 35 billion annually.

The law contains no standards for establishing access to checking account information. With no statutory requirement for the issuance of judicial warrants or subpoenas, "a person today has no protection from prying government agencies," says Rep. John J. Cavanaugh, D-Neb.

According to Robert Ellis Smith, publisher of a Washington newsletter called Privacy Journal, there have been numerous instances of past abuses of the law because federal agents have gained access to where there was not even the suspicion of criminal activity.

It was 25 years ago this month that the Manchester American Legion baseball team won its first state title. The date, Tuesday, Aug. 11, the place: Muzzy Field in Bristol.

In those days I covered most of the Legion games for this newspaper, and we were there for the state championship.

Determined to redress that situation, Cavanaugh has fought during the past year for remedial legislation in Congress, gaining support from groups as disparate as the American Bankers Association and the American Civil Liberties Union.

The broad ideological support for the return is demonstrated by the fact that among the numerous backers of the legislation are two California congressmen from opposite sides of the political spectrum—liberal Democrat Fortney H. Stark Jr. and conservative Republican Barry M. Goldwater Jr.

Cavanaugh recently convinced the House Banking Committee to approve legislation requiring a federal agency seeking access to personal financial records held by a bank to first notify the customer of its intentions.

If the customer wanted to contest the government action, a federal court would decide whether the search was a necessary part of a legitimate law enforcement activity.

There are exemptions to the customer notification procedure, covering national security matters, grand jury proceedings and other sensitive criminal investigations.

The importance of gaining full legislative approval of Cavanaugh's proposal in the remaining months of the current session of Congress is best summed up by a spokesman for California's Crocker National Bank.

MACC News

Periodically during the past few months, we have had articles and pictures in the paper stating and depicting the needs of our convalescent home residents. Our community has responded with people coming forth to help in meeting these needs.

For the past few months the Rev. Andrew Kazar of the Project Service Office has been involved in gathering information and putting it together so that we can have something at our fingertips that gives us an overall view of our convalescent homes and how we can help.

The result of the Rev. Mr. Kazar's research is a booklet entitled "Our Neighbors in Convalescent Homes."

The purpose of this booklet is stated in the introduction: "This booklet is intended to help us become more aware of the needs of patients in convalescent homes so that we may meet these needs not only compassionately, but more effectively."

This week and next week we would like to give you some idea of what it contains in this booklet. The Rev. Mr. Kazar's research has resulted in some interesting facts.

Did you know that 1 out of 50 residents of Manchester is in a hospital or nursing home?

Did you know that we have the largest facility on the East Coast in our community?

Did you know that close to 20 percent of our population is 60 or over and that 90 of those people are in a nursing facility? This gives Manchester one of the highest nursing home beds-to-population ratios in the country.

What do these figures say to us? They should raise a question: are we, the civic, church, social and government organizations of our community meeting the challenge these figures present?

The Rev. Mr. Kazar then goes on to give us the varied reasons that force an individual into a nursing home. Whatever the reason may be, as we read further, we discover that because an individual moves to a convalescent facility, he does not stop loving, caring, laughing, crying—in other words, he is still an alive and vital member of our community.

Feelings of rejection and isolation may become more pronounced at this time in a person's life. Much of the Rev. Mr. Kazar's booklet deals with these needs and how these needs can be met.

Other information that is included concerns the types of facilities that are available in Manchester. This breakdown of facilities will be very helpful for volunteers in picking a home they might want to work in and for people in need of a nursing home.

Next week we will have further highlights from the Rev. Mr. Kazar's booklet that might be of interest to you. If you feel that volunteering in a convalescent home is something you would like to do, give us a call at 646-1114.

On Sept. 8, the newly formed MACC Auxiliary for Convalescent Homes will meet at Concordia Lutheran Church at 1 p.m. Come and join us.

Dr. Hans Lauffer of Manchester, a specialist in genetics and cell biology at the University of Connecticut, has been elected a corporate trustee of the Massachusetts-based Marine Biological Laboratory (MBL).

Dr. Lauffer is one of six Northeastern biologists chosen to serve a stint on the corporate board during elections held at the recent MBL annual meeting in Woods Hole, Mass.

Lauffer earned his bachelor's degree in 1953 from the City College of New York. The master's degree in genetics and embryology from the Brooklyn College in 1953, and the Ph.D. degree in developmental biology from Cornell University in 1957.

In addition to holding membership in the MBL, Lauffer is a member of the American Society for Cell Biology, the American Society of Zoologists, the Society for the Study of Development and Growth, and is a Fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences.

Kelly-Anderson

Darlene Mary Anderson of Manchester and Michael J. Kelly of New London were married Aug. 19 at St. Bridget Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Anderson of 104 Columbus St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Kelly of Waterford.

The Rev. Philip Sheridan of St. Bridget Church celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white rose and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Mary Dubaldo of Manchester was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza gown with venise lace and seed pearls and designed with Queen Anne collar and A-line skirt with lace appliques extending to a chapel train. Her three quarter-length mantilla was trimmed with lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and greens.

Miss Donna O'Brien of East Hartford was her cousin's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Norman Kelly of East Hartford, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Nancy Anderson of Niantic, the bridegroom's sister; Mrs. Darlene Anderson of Vernon, the bride's sister-in-law; and Miss Cathy Linsenbiger of Manchester.

Gary Spidler of New London served as best man. Ushers were Marty King of Ohio, Norman Kelly Jr. of East Hartford, the bridegroom's brother; and Wayne Anderson of Niantic and Mark Anderson of Vernon, the bride's brother.

Webb-Edwards

Laura L. Edwards of Manchester and James C. Webb of Bolton were married Aug. 19 at United Methodist Church in Bolton.

The bride is the daughter of MaryAnn M. Edwards of 463 Esquire Drive and Robert P. Edwards of Bellevue Drive, Coventry.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Webb of 253 Hebron Road, Bolton.

The Rev. David Campbell of Mystic performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with spring flowers. Judy Whitney was organist and Michelle Eaton, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an old-fashioned gown designed with high lace waist, beaded bodice with high neckline, long full sleeves with narrow cuffs and skirt terminating in a train. She wore a picture hat and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Charlene Edwards of Manchester was her sister's maid of honor. Elaine Crowley of Stamford was bridesmaid.

Michael Guerra of Bolton served as best man. Ushers were Kyle Dooman of Bolton, the bridegroom's cousin; and Robert C. Edwards of Coventry, the bride's brother.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Manchester, after which the couple left for Nantuxet Island. They will reside in Andover.

Mrs. Webb is currently a student at the University of Connecticut. Mr. Webb is employed as a carpenter for Baran & Webb. (Collin photo)

Average home cost up

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The average price of a new single-family home rose $2,200 to $41,500 between March and June, says the Commerce Department. The average sale price in June was 3.7 percent higher than in March. Prices of new homes have skyrocketed since 1970, with the most dramatic increases recorded in the West where prices nearly doubled in the past eight years, the department said. Sales of new homes from January to June were estimated at 435,000 - compared with 411,000 for the first six months of 1977. Commerce and Housing and Urban Development figures showed.

Fahey enters fray over rent increase

EAST HARTFORD - Marcella Fahey, Democratic candidate for State Senate from the Third District, has scheduled a meeting with tenants at Daley Court to discuss proposed rent increases of $12 to $18 at the state-owned housing complexes for the elderly.

"I don't know if I can help the elderly, but I've been reading a lot about the rent increase and I want at least find out what the problems are," Mrs. Fahey said.

She said many of the tenants have complained about the condition of their units.

One of the complaints is about refrigerator units in the single-bedroom apartments. The refrigerators are miniature units which are installed on the floor.

"Many of the tenants are old and they have to bend way down to open them," Mrs. Fahey said.

Mrs. Fahey added that tenants who are on fixed income cannot afford the increase in rent.

Nicholas Giamalis, executive director of the Housing Authority, said today he hopes to see the rent go up, but he has no choice.

"These are self-sustaining projects," Giamalis said. "If they start to lose money, we have to raise the rent."

Giamalis said the rising costs of fuel and utilities dictate the situation.

"It's unfortunate, but as long as inflation is with us, we've got to fight rising costs," he said.

This will be the second rent increase in the two and one-half years which Giamalis has been the executive director of the Housing Authority.

East Hartford bulletin board

EHHS schedules EAST HARTFORD - All incoming East Hartford High School students in Grades 9 through 12, or their parents, are to report on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday (Aug. 29-31) between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to receive their schedules. Principal John F. Callahan announced today.

At this time, students will be given their schedules for the school year, 1978-79, as well as bus tickets for those who are eligible.

Students must bring their programs to school on the first day of classes.

Incoming freshmen will report to school at 8:10 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 6, for a half-day of school with dismissal at 12:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Sept. 7 and 8, will be regular school days with school in session from 8:10 a.m. to 2:25 p.m.

Transfer students who are new to the East Hartford school system should register during the coming week and provide a copy of their latest report cards or transcripts of work completed in the last school they attended.

Membership social EAST HARTFORD - The Junior Women's Club of East Hartford will hold a membership social for prospective newcomers Aug. 30 at 8 p.m. at the home of Barbara Leone, 39 Summeret Drive.

Any women between the ages of 18 and 40 interested in attending should contact Ms. Leone at 509-1141 or Susan Delesermet at 502-8013 for further information.

The East Hartford Juniors have debated more than $8,000 since its charter began in 1921 to such charities as the East Hartford Clergy Association, East Hartford Group Home, YMCA/YWCA, Trooper's Fund, Kinsey Foundation, Lupus Foundation, Juvenile Diabetes and the Restoration of the Old State House.

Local service projects have included annual dances for retarded teens, supervision of the Well Child Clinic, Meals on Wheels, blood pressure and diabetes clinics and CPR courses.

The club meets the second Tuesday of each month from September through May at the South Congregational Church, East Hartford.

'Market Square' The fourth annual 'Market Square' of St. John's Episcopal Church at the corner of Burnside Avenue and Main Street in East Hartford will be held on Saturday, September 9 from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Russ McClelland is general chairman and Clare Scott and Roy Ruda are treasurers.

Heading up the various booths will be Shirley Toten - clothing, Eunice Markowski - jewelry, Shirley Hunter - toys, Jim Forbes - white elephants, Alice Chipman - plants, Betty Squires - knickknacks, Sadie Scott - handmade items, Elizabeth Whitford - antiques, Helen Rhoda and Eleanor Munroe - baked goods, Ellen Vuittas - books, Bill Hythorn - electrical appliances, Bob Lockery - games. Refreshments will be prepared and served by Rev. Alva G. Decker, Edgar Beaumont and Bob McKenna.

Harold Wing and Jeanette Vennewald are in charge of the raffie of handmade quilts, afghans and other items.

Greenwich dream home shrouded by coal soot

GREENWICH (UPI) - Two years ago when Louis and Ellen Van Leeuwen fell in love with and bought a charming 13-room, Victorian home in this affluent community they thought it was a dream come true.

Little did they know that one of the few remaining coal-burning plants in Connecticut would continue to shroud their dream, darken their grass and pollute their air with 4,000 tons of soot and ash each year.

They blame the state for not carrying through on a promise to close the facility on the Cos Cob side of the Connecticut River by Sept. 15, 1979.

Legal action to abate pollution at the 71-year-old facility, which is a major source of power for the electric commuter trains that run between Greenwich and New York, began almost 10 years ago.

In 1969, the state Public Utilities Commission ordered the New Haven Railroad to take steps to abate the plant's air pollution. But the commission's order was overturned in 1974 when the Connecticut Supreme Court ruled the state government could not regulate the railroads.

Then in 1976, the federal Environmental Protection Agency ordered the state Department of Transportation and Control to close the plant within 30 months.

Closing the plant has been delayed again, however, because extensive work is required to improve the railroad's electrical system. The Sept. 15, 1978 closing deadline will not be met. Residents have been told the new target date is 1980. William A. Lynch, director of rail operation for the state, said bankruptcy of the New Haven and Penn Central Railroads and failure to obtain federal funds have contributed to closing delays, but said the project is now "moving in a vigorous manner."

Residents who are immediately affected by the plant's pollution are not satisfied with the state's assurances, however. Last week, lawyers representing the town filed new motions in federal court seeking "interim relief" from without problems among both food processors and consumers.

The Community Nutrition Institute, one of several consumer groups with similar views on the subject, disagrees. "We feel that nitrite is simply unnecessary for any and all uses," the group told the FDA in a letter last week.

"The compound could easily be banned outright and after processors make adjustments in their production parameters, consumers would begin to be supplied safe and wholesome processed meat products, free from the hazards of botulism and free from the threat of cancer," it said.

The group argued that freezing and pre-cooking are adequate safeguards. In Norway, it said, nitrite has been banned since 1972 in hot dogs, knackwurst and cooked sausages, and those products are selling better now than ever before.

Stain removal (UPI) - Fruit stains on your summer clothing? Here's how to remove them, says the Soap and Detergent Association: use an enzyme presoak on washables before laundering them. Or soak in warm or cold water as soon as possible, then wash as usual. Treat any stain remaining this way: cover the stained area with an oxygen bleach, moisten with hot water to make a paste, add a few drops of ammonia, wait 15-30 minutes, then wash again.

This one-car accident on Burke Street, East Hartford, sent two East Hartford youths to Manchester Memorial Hospital Saturday night. They remained in serious condition.

Teen-agers hurt in crash

EAST HARTFORD - Two local youths remained in serious condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital today after sustaining injuries in a one-car crash off Burke Street and Legion Drive Saturday night.

Mark Kellie, 17, of 53 Jeffrey Drive, East Hartford, and James Charette, 17, of 143 Timber Trail, East Hartford, were both listed in serious condition, spokesman said.

He said that Kellie, the driver, suffered a broken jaw, ankle, and toes and a lacerated scalp. Charette was treated for head injuries.

Kimberly McCabe, 17, of 362 O'Connell Drive, East Hartford, the third youth taken to the Manchester Hospital, suffered multiple lacerations and was listed in satisfactory condition.

The fourth person injured in the crash, Lisa Labbe, 17, of 23 Legion Drive, East Hartford, was taken to Hartford Hospital where a spokesman said she is in good condition today.

The accident happened at 10:22 p.m. Police said the vehicle was traveling east on Burke Street when it went off the left side of the road, and traveled across several lawns and through two wooden fences before hitting a tree.

Shedd said he was going to withdraw last week when he returned a questionnaire from the state Elections Commission with a letter stating his intentions.

"I just don't have the time," he said of his decision to withdraw. "I'm involved in so many other things. People say when you're retired you have plenty of time, but I find that isn't so."

Forrest was picked to run against State Rep. Muriel T. Yacavone, D-East Hartford, who is seeking a fourth term. The 31st Assembly District comprises portions of East Hartford and Manchester.

East Hartford police report

Hiram Cardona, 17, of Hartford was held today on $5,000 bond after police charged him with the theft of a car and a motorcycle.

Cardona allegedly stole a car parked on Vine Street in Hartford and drove it to the Tudor Village apartment complex in East Hartford around midnight Friday, police said.

Police charge that Cardona abandoned the car at Tudor Village and tried to start up two motorcycles. Police said he was unsuccessful, but first-degree reckless endangerment and third-degree assault Friday night in connection with a fight over a card game.

Police said Jackson allegedly struck Albert E. Avarard, 50, of 1251 Main St., East Hartford, during a card game. Avarard left and Jackson allegedly followed him home, police said.

Police said he allegedly threatened Avarard with a shot gun and later turned himself in when he found out he was sought by the police.

Jackson was released on a promise to appear in court Sept. 11.

Police said Cardona allegedly stole the third motorcycle from the Tudor Village parking lot at about 3:59 a.m. Saturday and drove it to Smith Drive.

Police said they found that motorcycle and another stolen cycle on Smith Drive.

The youth was captured by state police and a police training dog with a chase at about 4:30 a.m. Saturday.

Ralph G. Jackson, 51, of 1251 Main St., East Hartford, was charged with first-degree reckless endangerment and third-degree assault Friday night

Forrest confirms he's out

EAST HARTFORD - Walter F. Forrest, nominated last month as the Republican candidate for the 31st Assembly District, today confirmed reports that he is going to drop out of the race.

Reached at his home today, Forrest said he was an interim candidate and took the nomination only because the person he said the party wanted was out of state and unable to be contacted. He said he does not know who that person is.

Forrest indicated he was going to withdraw last week when he returned a questionnaire from the state Elections Commission with a letter stating his intentions.

"I just don't have the time," he said of his decision to withdraw. "I'm involved in so many other things. People say when you're retired you have plenty of time, but I find that isn't so."

Forrest was picked to run against State Rep. Muriel T. Yacavone, D-East Hartford, who is seeking a fourth term. The 31st Assembly District comprises portions of East Hartford and Manchester.

Shedd drops tax support

HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut Education Commissioner Mark Shedd says he no longer favors a income tax to generate more money for public schools.

Shedd, who had consistently endorsed a personal income tax in the past, backed away from his previous position and said Saturday he will remain neutral on the issue.

"I'm anxious to read the report of consultants who are doing a revenue study before I'll take any position of my own," he said. "There may be elements that analysts can see in Connecticut's economic future that I don't."

The analysts he referred to are doing a study for a panel appointed by Gov. Ella T. Grasso to look into school finance reform.

The panel was appointed following the Connecticut Supreme Court's ruling two years ago that the state's reliance on property taxes for school funding was unconstitutional.

Shedd predicted it could take $250 million in new money to reform school finance.

Case reopened

HARTFORD (UPI) - Authorities say they plan to reinvestigate a hit-and-run accident that claimed the life of a 6-year-old after it left him in a coma for three years.

Hector L. Martinez Jr., who had been in New Britain General Hospital since June 26, 1975, sustained a fractured skull in the accident and never regained consciousness. He died Sunday.

Police said the boy was struck by a car after he ran into the street after a dog. Although police were notified of the accident immediately, they were unable to find anyone who could identify the driver.

Peila-Reynolds

Mrs. Peter M. Peila Jr.

Linda Marie Reynolds of Coventry and Peter Martin Peila Jr. of Manchester were married Aug. 19 at St. Mary's Church in Coventry.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Reynolds of 275 Flanders Road, Coventry. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Peila Sr. of 575 Bidwell St.

The Rev. F. Bernard Miller of Coventry celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white daisies. Katherine Grady of Coventry was organist and Shirley Mason of Willimantic was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Deborah Walker of South Windsor was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carol Maida of Norwalk, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Mary Coffey of East Hartford; and Mrs. Roberta Jeffries of Newport, R.I., the bride's sister. Miss Donna Thibault of Manchester, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl.

Wayne Mora of Manchester was his cousin's best man. Ushers were Anthony Maida of Norwalk and Gerald Thibodeau of Manchester, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, and John Mora Jr. of South Windsor, the bridegroom's cousin.

A reception was held at the Elks Home in Willimantic, after which the couple left for the White Mountains in New Hampshire. They will reside in Bolton.

Mrs. Peila is employed at Kimberly Hill Nursing Home in Windsor. Mr. Peila is employed as a mechanic at the Manchester Bus Co. (Laramie photo)

Doodlebug contest to be fair feature

SOUTH WINDSOR - The popular Doodlebug Contest will be repeated this year at the annual Wapping Fair. This year's competition will include 4-H, middleweight, lightweight and heavy classes. Main topics for discussion will be manpower at the fair, finances, and entertainment. The public is invited to attend. For further information contact Don Wojtyn, 644-1223.

Killian appoints SOUTH WINDSOR - Lt. Governor Robert Killian has appointed Deputy Mayor Robert Myette as Killian for Governor coordinator in South Windsor, and Brian McAnney as students for Killian coordinator.

Myette served as a delegate to the Democratic State Convention and McAnney has been a member of Killian's personal staff since February. McAnney is a 1974 graduate of South Windsor High School and is a dean's list student at the University of Connecticut majoring in Political Science.

Local district coordinators who will be working on behalf of Killian are: District 1, Juan Walsh and Stanley Kavarsky; District 2, William Grace and Walter Kupchunas Jr.; District 3, Maureen Foley, and Edward Reardon.

Anyone wishing to help in the primary campaign may contact one of the district coordinators.

The contest will be held Saturday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

School board will consider tuition fee schedule tonight

VERNON - The Board of Education will consider a proposed schedule of tuition rates for non-resident students at its meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Middle School.

The schedule includes: Kindergarten students, $1,000; students in Grades 1-5, $1,450; Grades 6-8, $1,550; Grades 9-12, $1,775; pre-school, $1,000; educable mentally retarded, $1,840; and trainable mentally retarded, $2,280.

The board will also act on some resignations and recommendations for appointments to staff positions.

Tonight's meeting will be the first formal meeting of the board with the new superintendent of schools, Dr. Bernard Sidman.

Dr. Sidman said that any staff members who were to be let go because of the declining enrollment, have been rehired due to other persons leaving the system.

Area bulletin board

Fair winners VERNON - The final event at St. Joseph's Church 20th annual outdoor bazaar Saturday night was the awarding of prizes.

Dorothy Favreau of Cedar Street, Rockville, was the winner of the top prize, a 1978 car; D. K. Welch of Mountain Spring Road, Tolland, won a microwave oven; and John C. Dziak, of Hillside Drive, Ellington, won a black and white television set.

Sponsors of the bazaar were the church societies. Proceeds will benefit the church and St. Joseph's School.

Flea market GLASTONBURY - The Glastonbury Sportsman's Association will sponsor a flea market and tag sale Sept. 17 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at McDonalds, 46 W. Center St., Manchester.

Gymnastics program SOUTH WINDSOR - The South Windsor Recreation Department is now taking applications for those interested in instructing gymnastics.

Applicants must be experienced in gymnastics and to preferably have some teaching experience in that field.

Applications are being received in the recreation office, Town Hall.

Vacation COVENTRY - Building official John Willanauer will be on vacation from Aug. 28 to Sept. 4. The office will be open for scheduling and appointments for later date inspections.

Connell comments VERNON - Thomas Connell of Vernon, Republican candidate for congressman from the 2nd District, has issued another comment concerning action taken by his Democratic opponent, Christopher Dodd, concerning a tax relief bill.

Connell said Dodd was among 49 congressmen who voted against the tax cut "because the tax relief bill didn't do enough."

He said the best way to explain his (Connell's) point of view was to cite an example.

"Suppose you said to me, Tom you obviously need $8 but I only have $1 that I can get for you. Therefore I won't give you anything."

He questioned if it wouldn't be better to have that $1 and "hopefully" be able to try to get more. "That's why I think Dodd should have voted for a tax cut, not against it," he said.

Absentee ballots HEBRON - Absentee ballots for the Sept. 12 Democratic primary will be available starting today at the office of the town clerk.

Any enrolled party member who expects to be unable to appear at the polls on that date may apply for an absentee ballot. Requests for applications will be received in person, by mail or by phone.

Members of the armed forces, or their spouses, who are enrolled party members, should contact the town clerk or registrar of voters as soon as possible for a ballot.

Burleigh Lancaster, 22 of Village St., Rockville, was charged Saturday with criminal trespassing, first-degree criminal trespassing, and tampering with a motor vehicle.

Police said he was arrested after he was found in a vehicle in court in Rockville on Aug. 29.

Mark Maynes, 28, of Talbotville Road, Vernon, was charged Saturday with disorderly conduct. Police said he came to the police station concerning an investigation of a complaint and that he became disorderly.

He was released on a $500 surety bond for court Aug. 29.

Edward L. Eaton, 19, of Elm St., Rockville, was charged Friday with third-degree burglary and third-degree attempt to commit larceny.

Police said he was apprehended in the Auto Truck Repair on River Street. He was held at the police station and is scheduled to appear in court today.

Wayne R. Pladade, 28, of Hartford, was charged Friday with three counts of issuing bad checks. He posted a $500 surety bond for court appearance Aug. 29.

Lawrence A. McSwen, 33, of 41 Elm St., Rockville, was charged Friday with breach of the peace and second-degree criminal trespassing.

Police said he allegedly caused a disturbance on Union Street and also entered apartments on Bailey Lane and Prospect Street. He was released on a $500 surety bond for court appearance Aug. 29.

Laurel F. Maillet, 24, of 15 Oakland Lane, Manchester, was charged with two counts of issuing bad checks. She was released on a $150 cash bond for court Aug. 29.

South Windsor South Windsor police are investigating a report of vandalism at the Orchard Hill School. Damage was discovered early this morning. Police said four windows were broken in the portable classrooms.

John Carrington, 19, of 94 Hilton Drive, was charged Sunday with fourth-degree larceny on complaint of the operator of the 7-Eleven store at Ellington and Pleasant Valley roads. He was released on his promise to appear in court in East Hartford on Aug. 28.

Sven Hayes, 22, of 140 Gray Road, South Windsor, was charged early Saturday morning with reckless driving.

Police said Hayes was attempting to leave from Benedict Drive and Marcia A. Shaw, 16, of 196 Benedict Drive allegedly attempted to prevent him from doing so by jumping on the hood of his car and she fell off. She was treated and released at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Police are also investigating the report of the theft of two bicycles taken from an area on Main Street where the owners were working on a farm. One was a 10-speed valued at about $150 and the other a three-speed valued at about $15.

custodians and grievance relative to days out during a winter storm.

Another topic scheduled for discussion tonight is the recent vandalism at Rockville High School. The board will review an estimated list of some $10,000-worth of damages done to the school in late July.

Three youths were charged in connection with the vandalism that involved the breaking of about 90 windows and extensive damage to the science wing and other areas of the building.

In executive session the board will discuss security devices which reportedly were not operating properly when the incident occurred.

Council to discuss spending of funds

HEBRON - The Hebron Center Nursery School Inc. has vacated the classes for three and four-year olds. Anyone interested in enrolling their child should contact Gail Wojton, membership chairman, 537-5748.

The nursery school will conduct its first open meeting on Sept. 6 at 8 p.m. in the school building. At the meeting parents will have an opportunity to meet the teacher and classroom aide and to examine the facility itself.

HEBRON - The Board of Education will conduct a regular meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the library of Gilead Hill School.

The board will be asked to approve bus drivers and bus routes, appoint a school physician, establish school hours, set a pay scale for substitute teachers, establish prices for the milk and lunch program, appoint head teachers for each school, and take action on the state lunch program policies.

The board will also consider appointments and act on requests for leave of absence and discuss other personnel matters in executive session.

Also to be discussed will be the topics suggested by staff members and principals to be part of the board agenda during the coming year.

During the information portion of the meeting the board will receive the financial summary, the summer maintenance reports from both schools, and a report on the volunteer program.

Building Committee HEBRON - The Rham Junior High Building Committee will conduct a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the library at Rham High School.

The agenda includes a review of the proposed plans to be discussed with the fire chief and also a review of the design development plans.

Meeting change HEBRON - The Board of Education has moved up its regular monthly meeting from August 31 to this Thursday at 7 p.m. at the high school. The meeting will be recessed at 7:30 so that board members may attend the town revenue-sharing meeting also slated for that evening.

In other business the council will meet with members of the Planning and Zoning Commission to discuss open space dedications. One parcel involves land in a subdivision on Old Eagleville Road recently approved by the commission.

Byron Jones of the Mansfield Conservation Commission told the Coventry group recently that preservation efforts would counteract increasing residential development along rivers across the county.

He invited the Coventry commissioners to join with their Mansfield counterparts to consider land along the river from Route 44A to below the Eagleville Dam for potential public use. After land plans are drawn up, he stated, landowners might be approached for conservation easements or donations.

Beautification Committee member Judith LeDoy expressed the desire to continue beautification efforts in the dam area. The State Department of Environmental Protection lent assistance to beautification projects in past years, but planting programs were never completed. Suggestions for the Eagleville Dam site include a picnic area and a boat launching station, but presently no funds are available to promote these ideas. The conservationists are to pursue the effort and to organize other community groups interested in improving the dam area.

Commissioner William Costello recommended reviewing local and state restrictions on the quantity of livestock that may be housed near riverbanks. He believes livestock may be adding to nutrient runoff into the Willimantic and Skunkamogus rivers.

Vacation dates Building Inspector John Willanauer will be on vacation from August 28 through September 4, during which period his office will be closed.

His office will be open for scheduling of appointments for inspection at a later date," he said.

Conservationists study land plan

COVENTRY - The Conservation Commission may consider ways of preserving land along the Willimantic River for public recreation.

Designs approved for junior high

HEBRON - In separate meetings the Junior High School Building Committee and the Regional District 8 Board of Education, voted to approve the design drawings and specifications for the proposed new junior high facility.

Both groups also voted to have the firm of Peter Abel Inc. as architect for the project and to hire a clerk of the works project representative.

Board members Andrew Mulligan of Hebron and Dennis George of Marlborough voted against having the architect hire the project manager. They felt the board should hire this person in order to protect the interests of the board during the project construction.

Bruce Gallant, chairman of the Building Committee, during earlier meetings of the committee, opposed the recommendation originally but reversed his vote during the board meeting.

The revised drawings of the project reflect usage of wasted space to provide more storage on both levels, to expand the locker rooms and provide separate office space for physical education instructors.

The additional cost to enclose the storage space is estimated at $24,000, Abel said.

Need for balance cited by Ahearn

BOLTON - Promising to initiate a policy that would attempt to balance economic needs with environmental needs, if elected as State Representative from the 55th District, Aloysius J. Ahearn accused "extremists on both sides for confusing the issue."

Ahearn will be involved in a Democratic primary on Sept. 12 with Louis Matiskas and Edward Williams.

Ahearn, who has previously served in the state legislature, introduced the first "Bottle Bill." He said "Preservation of our environment and natural resources is one of our most vital issues, but we must also work to keep our unemployment at a minimum."

He said he hopes to call leading environmentalists and industrial leaders together to develop a reasonable plan of progress to work together for the good of the entire state.

He said "Our natural resources are being depleted, our waterways are polluted, and our air is almost unbreathable."

He criticized extremists on both sides for confusing the issue. "We can take responsible action now to save this planet and we can do it without sacrificing thousands of job holders who depend on industry for their daily bread. Without jobs, we have hunger. Without a healthy environment, we might have no future at all."

Ahearn has appointed William Houle and James Rogers of Bolton, as treasurer and deputy treasurer.

The 55th District covers the towns of Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough, and part of Vernon.

County artists display works

VERNON - The works of seven area artists have been selected for display in banks and libraries in Tolland, Vernon, and Ellington.

"Kansas Field" by Carolyn Kolwicz is at the Tolland Library on Route 74; "Vermont Mill," by Janet Lepore at the People's Savings Bank at Tri-City Plaza, Vernon Circle; "Lilies," by Georgiana Bourdeau at the Hall Memorial Library, Ellington.

Also: "Charlestown Beach, R. I.," by Ernest Garrott at the Savings Bank of Tolland, Route 74; "Untitled," by June Linton at the Savings Bank of Rockville, Park Street; "The Mighty Oak," by Esther Luginbill at the First Federal Savings Bank, Park Place, Rockville; and "Tankhousen Falls," by Mary Glenn at the Vernon National Bank, Dart Hill branch, Route 83.

The artists are members of the Tolland County Art Association which has monthly displays in most of the area banks and libraries.

Sarkis Meserlian, 55; former hairdresser

GLASTONBURY — Sarkis Meserlian, 55, of Heritage Drive, formerly of Manchester and owner of Adrian's Hairdressing Salon, died Saturday in Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Jean Chetjian Meserlian.

Sarkis Meserlian

He was a graduate of New Britain High School and the Connecticut Institute of Hairdressing. At the time of his death, he was employed as a salesman for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of Bloomfield.

Other survivors are a son, Sarkis Brian Meserlian; a daughter, Mrs. Sandra Carlo of Walpole, Mass.; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Papertian of Berlin, and two grandchildren.

The funeral was today at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in New Britain. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery in New Britain.

The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to a charity of the donor's choice.

The Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester, was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. May L. Poets, 64, of Vestal, N.Y., formerly of Manchester, died Saturday at her home. She was the widow of David Poets.

Mrs. Poets was born May 5, 1914, in Manchester where she lived before moving to New York eight years ago. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jerome (Elsie) Snyder with whom she made her home, and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Jack A. Brown, 64, of 36 Kenwood Dr. died Saturday in Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Lois Smith Brown.

Mrs. Brown was born in West Pittston, Pa., and lived in West Windsor, 18 years before moving to Manchester 15 years ago. He was employed 20 years as a crane operator for Standard Structural Steel, Newington.

Other survivors are a son, Robert J. Brown of South Windsor; a stepson, Michael Charbonnet of the U.S. Navy, stationed in San Diego, Calif.; and Mrs. Jacqueline Rago.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester.

Continued from Page One from Hartford. "They have to come up with a final position this week. But, they've been saying that for two weeks," he said.

None of the Hartford officials could be reached for comment this morning, but an employee in the city manager's office said that an update on the program may be prepared by this afternoon.

Also, the president of Greater Hartford Process, a business-backed planning agency, says straightening out Hartford's manpower problems is the "most critical issue in the whole rebuilding of the city right now."

Morton Coleman said that a report prepared by his organization blames a lack of strong commitment from city leaders and lack of support from the U.S. Department of Labor for the program problems.

Other members of the delegation are Reps. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., George Danielson, D-Calif., Sam Hall, D-Tex., Jim Brophy, R-N.C., John Murtha, D-Pa., Henson Moore, R-La., and Tony Won Pat, Guam's democratic delegate to Congress.

Montgomery said the group carried no message from Carter. "But we do have a letter to the Vietnamese from the president's national security affairs adviser supporting our mission," the congressman said.

The delegation will fly to Ho Chi Minh City Wednesday and stay until Thursday. On Friday, the delegation flies to Laos for further work on the Americans missing in action and is scheduled to return to Washington Aug. 28.

Luck plays part in Red Sox victory

OAKLAND (UPI) — It was Frank Crosetti, responding to a crack about New York Yankee luck a number of years ago, who said no team could expect to win without getting the breaks.

His direct quote was a little more to the point but unprintable, but the point was clear.

Sunday it was the front-running Boston Red Sox who got the kind of break no team has a right to expect while beating the Oakland A's 4-2, and widening their advantage over the Yankees to 12 games in the A.L. East.

Leading 1-0 with one out in the fifth and runners on first and second via walks by Matt Keough, little Jerry Remy, a singles slap hitter, apparently struck out.

But plate umpire Ed Merrill called a foul tip. Remy swung at the low in-between and Oakland catcher Bruce Robinson dropped the ball. Remy was so sure he struck out that he began to walk away and almost bumped into Jim Rice, the next batter, stepping into the box.

But after taking a step, Remy saw the ball on the ground and pointed it out to Merrill, who never called a strike three or make any call at all. Merrill immediately ruled Remy had fouled the ball.

"What he heard was the ball on the catcher's glove. If he was so sure then why did he walk away, and if Merrill was so sure then why didn't he call it right away? He plain blew Springstead said yes.

Two pitches later Remy hit a home run — only his second this year and seventh of his big league career — over the right field fence off Keough, and the Red Sox had all the runs they needed to win.

"I'm sure we can straighten this thing out," said Garvey.

"I've been pushed too far. He is the first person to say something about me and I'm just getting tired of it," said Garvey.

Indications are that a story in the Washington Post, in which Sutton praised Reggie Smith at the expense of Garvey, merely caused a long-simmering feud, involving two factions on the club, to surface.

Lasorda feels worst over for Los Angeles

NEW YORK (UPI) — After pitcher Don Sutton and first baseman Steve Garvey brawled before a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets Sunday, Manager Tommy Lasorda said he felt the worst was over.

"It was just one of those spontaneous things," he said. "I haven't talked to the two gladiators, but I plan to. I'm sure we can straighten this thing out."

by two games over San Francisco, can't win.

But not every team will be as generous as New York, which gave away the game in a three-run ninth, won't fielding by left fielder Steve Henderson and had relief pitching by Skip Lockwood.

In other games, Pittsburgh swept a pair from Houston, 7-6 and 3-1. San Diego shaded Montreal, 5-4; Chicago overtook Cincinnati, 2-1; St. Louis defeated Atlanta, 6-4; and Philadelphia topped San Francisco, 5-3.

Ed Ott homered twice and Phil Garner scored on a double steal in the second game, giving Pittsburgh its seventh straight victory and a six-game sweep of Houston. Willie Stargell drove in three runs and Frank Taveras had four hits and

Rodgers winner in Cape race

FALMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Bill Rodgers won the Falmouth Road Race for the third time Sunday, tying the record time of 32:23 he set on the 7.1-mile course last year.

Rodgers, of Melrose, Mass., dualed with Alberto Salazar of the University of Oregon for two-thirds of the race before pulling away in the last two miles to finish 18 seconds ahead of Mike Roche of New Jersey.

"I thought Salazar was the winner after 4.5 miles," said Rodgers of the year's runner. "He was really running strong and I didn't feel right at the time. All of a sudden he just faded."

The pace was torrid from the start, a group that included Rodgers, Salazar, third-place finisher Craig Vining of Eugene, Ore., Gary Borkland of the University of Chicago Track Club and Randy Thomas of Boston broke away from the field of more than 3,500 runners.

Rodgers, winner of this year's Boston Marathon, broke his own 1977 record time at each of the one-mile checkpoints before slowing up toward the finish.

"It was hot and I really didn't think we would set a record," he said. "We would have run even faster if it had been cooler."

Juan Benoit of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, recaptured the women's title, which Kim Merritt of Racine, Wis., took away from her last year with a time of 58:59. Patty Lyons of Quincy, Mass., was second at 39:15.

Merritt surprised the crowd of thousands that lined the race course when she finished in ninth place.

"At the four-mile mark I thought I was ahead," said Benoit, who finished fifth last year. "At about the five-mile mark I saw Patty Lyons ahead of me and I passed her about a mile later. I didn't feel strong until the late stages of the race."

ROYALS 2, RANGERS 1
Johnathan's second home of the year highlighted a two-run fifth-inning enabler, the Royals led two of three against the third-place Rangers. Jon Matlack fell to 11-10 despite pitching a five-hitter.

"I'm only human," said Garvey.

Don Baylor's bloop double to center field with two out in the 14th inning scored Rick Miller from first base to keep California tied with Kansas City. California starter Nolan Ryan led the game in the eighth inning when it was believed to be a rib separation on his left side.

Don Kirkwood's three-hit pitching over the first six innings and four hits apiece by Al Woods and Alan Ashby Sunday paced Toronto past Milwaukee, 5-4.

Indiana 10, White Sox 1
Johnny Grubbs drove in five runs with a bases-loaded double and a pair of singles and Rick Waits won his leading 17th complete game for Milwaukee.

Mariners 3, Yankees 4
Bob Robertson's seventh-inning single broke a 4-4 tie and capped a Marine comeback. Seattle rallied to defeat the Yankees 3-2.

Owner promised Alydar would win

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Earlier this season, trainer John Veitch had promised Alydar would win Triple Crown winner Affirmed — sometime, somewhere.

But he didn't want it to be this way, and the glorious rivalry between the two chestnut colts has become bitter and sour and somewhat weird will be the same.

Saturday, Affirmed was disqualified in the 1 1/4-mile Travers at Saratoga after his substitute jockey, Laffie Pincay Jr., circled Shake Shake Shake and headed toward the rail, as the field of four neared the half-mile pole. Then, in an apparently unthinking and unnecessary action, Pincay cut off Alydar and Jorge Velasquez, attempting to move up along the rail at the same time.

The big colt screamed to a near halt and fell six lengths behind, but then came around the outside to finish only 1/4 lengths back.

Presumably, a newspaper story was the result of these things and, like, but because he fell Sutton was part of that group of Dodger players who dislike him for his Golden Boy image and has written a column last Friday. The Times' writer who picked it up was prophetic when he started out by saying, "Here's one that should stir some emotions in the Dodger clubhouse."

Veitch also was disturbed over two slashes on Alydar's forelegs that occurred when the colt braked, but said they did not appear to be serious enough to prevent the colt from starting in the Marlboro Cup at Belmont next month.

Barrera later into a rage after the incident and said he would never race against Alydar again. He amended that Sunday morning, saying only he did not want to run Affirmed in the Marlboro Cup (a handicap race) because of the weights his colt would carry.

After looking at the photos from the race, Barrera admitted the stewards had no choice but to take Affirmed's number down in favor of Alydar.

Los Angeles Dodgers are house divided

By MITL RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are a house divided.

They have been living that way for years now, with two separate factions.

On one side of the house is their All-Star first baseman, Steve Garvey. On the other side are those on the club who can never put a finger on anything really wrong with him, but who have never considered him part of them because they feel well — maybe he's a little too perfect.

A few years back, a submarine movie was produced entitled "Run Silent, Run Deep," and those four words probably provide the best key to the long-smoldering, under-the-surface resentment that caused Sun-

Elder at top of golf game after assist from Trevino

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Six weeks ago, when Lee Elder was preparing for the Greater Milwaukee Open, Lee Trevino watched him practice and didn't like what he saw.

Trevino was also entered in the tournament, but he took the time to help correct Elder's motion. Then Elder thanked him by defeating him in a playoff on the eighth extra hole.

Although Trevino did not play in the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic, Elder thanked him again Sunday when he walked off with the $60,000 first prize, the richest purse of his career.

"Lee helped me at Milwaukee as much as he possibly could," said a joyous Elder, following his one-stroke victory over Mark Hayes. "It shows you the true character of the man that he was willing to help another golfer even though he knew the possibility existed that I might beat him.

"Number 18 is a par-5 hole, but it's playing like a par-4," said a dejected Hayes, who felt he had good birdie chances on the back nine which probably would have led him to a victory. "What will probably happen is that Elder will continue to make pars the rest of the way and birdie the 18th to win it."

Which is exactly what happened.

Although Elder hit his second shot off the green and into the rough on the 18th, he chipped out to within a foot of the pin and easily sank it for a birdie. He finished the day at 4-under 67 and wound up at 10-under 274.

Sandra Post excels in playoff matches

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — Sandra Post has earned herself a nickname: "Playoff."

Post has been in four playoffs in her 11-year career and won three. Sunday, she added the $150,000 LPGA tournament at Dearborn Country Club to her list.

Ten years ago, at the age of 19, she defeated Kathy Whitworth in a 18-hole playoff for the 1968 LPGA championship. Earlier this year, she went in the final round to take care of Penny Pult in the $240,000 Dinah Shore Winner's Circle.

Sunday, she defeated both Whitworth and third-year pro Pat Meyers in two holes to add the second-richest tournament of the season to her bankroll.

"Playoffs, they age me," said the 30-year-old native of Oakville, Ontario, who now resides in Boynton Beach, Fla. "I've had four in my life and lost only one — and that was because there were four people, so may I couldn't keep track of them."

"It's kind of a match play thing. You post said just playoffs. Her $22,500 and first prize boosted her earnings for the year to $84,584-67 — topping her previous career best of nearly $80,000 that she won last season.

Post and Whitworth went 6-7 through the first two rounds to share the lead, but Post took a two-shot lead into the final round with a 70 on Saturday. She ballooned to a 3-over 78 in the final round, bogeying three holes, but her 6-under 67 on Sunday still put her in the playoff.

"I was thinking about making a birdie on 18," Post said. "It was the first time I had to catch somebody."

Ella urged to keep cool despite Killian remarks

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso's supporters say her gubernatorial opponent, Lt. Gov. Robert Killian, would like to have her respond angrily to charges aimed at her administration.

So Grasso strategists are urging her to keep cool.

"We don't want any arguing matches," said Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers. Mrs. Grasso's deputy campaign manager.

He said open confrontation between the governor and her second in command would only benefit Killian because of Mrs. Grasso's "high recognition factor" would rub off on him.

Houley said political experience shows that the candidate with the higher recognition factor often has the edge in a head-to-head election. Killian aide James J. Casey admits that the lieutenant governor's strategy is designed to provoke the news-hungry Killian into making a mistake.

Casey said Killian's campaign to rile the governor would bring into question her integrity and alleged administration failures.

Although Killian advertisements focus on what his camp terms Mrs. Grasso's administrative blunders, the governor's ads do not even acknowledge the existence of the lieutenant governor.

"Our whole theme is that Ella Grasso has been governor... here's her record... it's a good one... make your own judgment," Houley said.

In the meantime, the governor is apparently heeding the advice of her advisers. Last Wednesday, she strode up to Killian at a meeting of a policemen's association in Wallingford, stuck out her hand and wished him a good morning. Two weeks ago, she barked at even shakier his hand.

Killian plans on spending an estimated $240,000, mostly on advertising, in his primary campaign. He has spent $119,000 according to his latest financial report.

"Our whole theme is that Ella Grasso has been governor... here's her record... it's a good one... make your own judgment," Houley said.

Primary won't affect GOP

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican State Chairman Frederick K. Biemel and other GOP strategists say they don't care whether Gov. Ella T. Grasso or Lt. Gov. Robert Killian wins the Democratic primary Sept. 12.

"I don't really care — it doesn't make any difference to me who our opponent is," Biemel said over the weekend.

He and other GOP campaign officials concede they expect Republican Sarsin, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, to run against Mrs. Grasso. They say she is the stronger of the two Democrats because of her incumbency.

Richard Nicolari, Sarsin's campaign manager, said about half the money will be spent on advertising, most of it on television.

In the meantime, Sarsin is on the campaign trail visiting factories, fairs, fund-raisers and keeping himself in the public eye, he said.

Czech invasion ignored

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Resignation and political apathy mark the situation in Czechoslovakia today, the 10th anniversary of the Soviet invasion, dissident sources report.

Czechoslovaks who arrived in Austria last week to avoid persecution in their home country said Prague is full of police ready to crush any possible disturbances.

Members of the Charter 77 human rights movement in Prague have decided to refrain from any demonstrations to avoid increasing pressure on dissidents in Czechoslovakia, the sources said.

"If there should be any incidents on the anniversary it could only be caused by persons outside the Charter 77 movement to provoke new actions against dissidents," said Ivan Medek, a 58-year-old former music critic from Prague who arrived last week.

Interim papers added

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of interim newspapers trying to fill the vacuum created by the pressmen's strike that has shut down New York City's three major dailies for 13 days keeps increasing as the weekend drags on.

The Daily Press, with an initial press run of 250,000, went on sale Sunday night with a 24-page edition. The Daily Metro, which planned to publish between 400,000 and 500,000 copies, appeared this morning.

The Daily Press, published by brothers Mark and Gary Stern, who ran interim papers during Detroit and Baltimore newspaper strikes, said it expected to increase its press run to 500,000.

A third interim newspaper, the City News, went on sale last Thursday. It published 450,000 copies of a 104-page Sunday edition that was heavy with advertisements.

Controversy has surrounded the birth of the Daily Metro since it is revealed that Rupert Murdoch, publisher of the shut-down New York Post, was helping to finance it.

The Daily Metro publisher Frederick Iserman has admitted that Murdoch and four newspaper distributors agreed to advance the paper a week's operating costs.

But he denied Murdoch had editorial control over the Daily Metro or was financing it so he could set up a non-union newspaper when the strike ends.

Since the strike by the 1,600-member Printing Pressmen's Local No. 2 began Aug. 9, The New York Times, Daily News and Post have been shut down.

Talks between the union and the newspapers broke off Friday after the two sides failed to make any progress.

Drought effect eyed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Although the area has not had a severe drought since 1965, soil and water conservation officials from New Haven, Fairfield, and Litchfield counties are concerned about the impact a drought could have due to growing populations.

Regional planning agencies for those areas have asked the state to form a task force and provide funding to study water supply needs of southwestern Connecticut.

John Green, executive director of the Housatonic and Valley Council of Elected Officials, said Saturday the study is needed because there is no way to know when a drought will re-occur.

He said the problem will be magnified when it does, because the number of water customers in southwestern Connecticut has increased a lot in the past 10-15 years.

Green said the proposed $250,000 study would focus on ways of increasing the region's water supply, identifying customers who need to be served and recommending how to operate any new water supply system.

State sues rest home

SOMERS, (UPI) — Eleven elderly retarded and the woman who owns the Somers Home for the Elderly have become the focus of a lawsuit which may alter the way the state treats the mentally handicapped.

The state Department of Mental Retardation is suing Rosa Geri, a Hungarian immigrant who runs the home, because she refuses to allow the state to move the women out of her facility.

However, Mrs. Geri said, "I don't think they're qualified to deal with the retarded."

She said she objected to the program's use of behavior modification, a training technique that relies on reward and punishment.

She also said she objected to some of the women having to wash windows at Bradley International Airport, or one of the women having to stand in a corner for half a day for not behaving properly.

"I told them if they treat this woman like an old lady, she'd be better off than if they treat her like a stotty kid," Mrs. Geri said. The women are between 48 and 75 and under the authority of the Department of Mental Retardation.

Ma. Baran said the center has never been excessively demeaning or cruel to people who participated in the program, but said some behavior modification was necessary.

She said "nothing is being forced on them. We are advocates of the retarded. We are trying to help the retarded remain in the community."

It's not difficult to draw 150 people to a discussion of water problems — not if your name is Robert Redford. That's Robert Redford the actor, who also is Robert Redford, sewer commissioner of Prosser, Utah.

The shaggy-haired heartthrob has been all over promoting environmental causes and Saturday he turned up at the annual Vail, Colo., symposium on national problems.

The Jean-clad and booted Redford says there's nothing contradictory about a screen star taking an interest in the world — that, "Too often there is a stereotyped image about what an actor is, and too often it means giving up citizenship papers."

Paying the debt

For years, before it was gutted by fire July 29, St. Mark's Church in New York was a patron of the performing arts and experimental theater.

Sunday night the artists returned the favor. Marty Latter, manager of the Grand Finale nightclub, staged a benefit aimed at raising $50,000 toward restoration of the church building.

Among those on hand to hear Susan and Josh Logan and daughter Susan do a medley of Rogers and Hart songs from his movies were songwriter Stephen Sondheim, Sammy Davis Jr., Mabel Mercer, Jessica James and Juliette Cooca.

Super flipper

Gregg Zieleski pounded a pinball machine for 171 hours straight, then, after a few hours of sleep, jumped out of bed Sunday and headed for Foxboro, Mass., to watch the New England Patriots play football.

Apart from the usual cliché motive of getting into the Guinness Book of Records, why 171 hours of pinball? Says Gregg: "I wanted to do something different."

Weekend news summary

Nixon to travel abroad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sources have told UPI's Helen Thomas that Richard Nixon plans visits to Europe, China and other nations in a major step toward a full-scale return to public life. The sources said the former president's foreign travels probably will begin next month but not for the time being, include the Middle East where sensitive diplomatic moves are under way to revive Israeli-Egyptian peace talks.

Nixon, who resigned in the face of almost certain impeachment next year, has received a number of invitations from foreign nations and has decided to start accepting them as part of his gradual emergence from life in seclusion, the sources said. His aides have alerted the State Department, the White House, on a courtesy basis, of the plans.

Smoke bomb protest

NAMUR, Belgium (U1) — Three smoke bombs were thrown into a Paris-Moscow train Sunday night at the Namur station, 35 miles southeast of Brussels, to protest the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia 10 years ago, authorities said.

In Brussels members of a group calling itself the "Youth Front" handed a statement to the national news agency Belga claiming responsibility for the attack.

Police said one of the smoke bombs landed in a coach whose doors could not be opened for 10 minutes. Firemen used gas masks finally brought out four passengers who had been overcome by the smoke. Two firemen suffered burns and were treated in the hospital, fire officials said.

Marine recruiting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marine Corps recruiting methods are being questioned once again, and corps officials are investigating nationwide at the prompting of a Senate committee. The latest charges center around Cleveland, where recruiters are accused of falsifying high school documents and criminal records checks, helping enlistees cheat on tests, and employing other dodges to sign up physically, mentally or morally unacceptable recruits.

It is the third time in two years the Marines have come under fire for the ship's cast in a softball game Sunday against the wives of the New York Mets, and won it, 10-4... The Average White Band is being sued in Los Angeles for $50,000 plus refund of a $5,000 advance by Baja Productions, which claims the group returned a contract for a Jan. 27 concert too late to book the auditorium where it was scheduled.

Police said one of the bus drivers was killed and 37 other passengers injured in a triple collision between an American tour bus and a tank.

Space shuttle tests delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the federal space agency expects an additional delay in the first orbital test flight of the space shuttle next year because of continuing testing troubles with the ship's three main engines.

But Dr. Robert Frosch says the problems do not appear major and chances are good that astronauts John W. Young and Robert Crippen will be able to fly the rocket plane on its maiden orbital flight before the end of 1979.

The launch from Cape Canaveral originally was scheduled for next March, but the space agency says the question is whether the engines will be able to fly the rocket plane on its maiden orbital flight before the end of 1979.

Frosch said in an interview continuing difficulties with the engines during ground tests at Bay St. Louis, Miss., are disrupting testing plans and "that, I think, implies some slippage."

"We're in the throes of decision-making right now" he said. "We've got to decide what our problems are and what we are going to do about them. I don't think there's anything in it that's catastrophic or gigantic. We're certainly not talking about going back and redesigning the engine or anything like that."

Asked if he thought the shuttle would be ready for launch from Cape Canaveral by the end of 1979, Frosch said, "Yes, I'm not that pessimistic."

The date of the initial flight test is important because the space agency hopes to use the shuttle on its second mission three months later to rendezvous with the abandoned Skylab space station. Astronauts will use a radio-controlled rocket unit either to propel Skylab into a higher, longer-lasting orbit or send it on controlled-atmospheric re-entry so debris will fall away from populated areas.

Skylab's orbital path has been gradually dropping closer to the atmosphere and space agency engineers for the past several months have been trying to add extra months to the station's life in orbit to keep it there until shuttle astronauts can reach it. The latest estimate is that the 84-ton hull will remain in orbit at least until next spring.

If the maiden shuttle launch is delayed significantly, the shuttle may have dropped too low by then for the space agency to do anything about it.

ACLU claims FBI provoked violence

Detroit (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union says the FBI "provoked" the Ku Klux Klan to commit acts of violence on Freedom Riders and other civil rights activists in the South during the 1960s.

The allegation is based on 3,000 pages of FBI letters, memos and teletype messages released to ACLU attorneys involved in a lawsuit against the FBI for allegedly failing to prevent Klan terrorism.

Howard Simon, executive director of the Michigan ACLU, said Sunday the documents show the FBI in 1961 provided detailed information on the movements of two busloads of Freedom Riders to a Birmingham, Ala., police sergeant who was a known Klan agent.

"What we found in the documents was rather startling," Simon said. "The ACLU is charging that the FBI provided the Klan to carry out the terrorist acts against civil rights workers."

Simon said the documents showed the FBI knew a person in Birmingham Police Department was infiltrated by the Klan, that many members of the Birmingham Police Department were Klan members, that they knew a person in intelligence was passing information directly to leaders of the Klan, and they also knew that their undercover agent had worked out an agreement with the Police Department to stay away from the terminals (where the buses were arriving).

They knew all that and yet they continued their relationship with the Police Department," he said.

According to the documents, Thomas Jenkins, chief of the Birmingham FBI office, provided detailed information on the progress of Freedom Riders to Sgt. Thomas Cook of the Birmingham Police Department's intelligence branch.

Simon said the documents showed the FBI knew Cook was a Klan agent and that Cook and Birmingham Public Safety Director Eugene "Bull" Connor conspired with Klan leaders to permit Klansmen to attack Freedom Riders when their buses arrived at terminals in Birmingham.

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department's old policy of giving homosexuals less than honorable discharges has been replaced by a temporary and little-known program allowing homosexual veterans to apply for an upgraded status.

The military still demands that known homosexuals leave the service, but attitudes — and some explicit regulations — are making it easier for them to get discharges commensurate with their service records.

The Pentagon in March temporarily lifted the 15-year statute of limitations on applying for a discharge review.

This means any veteran with "bad paper" who thinks the new standards may be less stringent than when he received his discharge, may apply for a discharge review. The deadline for applications is Jan. 1, 1980.

Young doesn't care

STOWE, Vt. (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says he "doesn't care" who killed Dr. Martin Luther King because the real benefit of the current congressional investigation is a lesson on racism for Americans.

"I think there were more people involved than convicted assassin James Earl Ray," Young said Friday.

"But I don't know — and I don't care — if we will ever know who killed Dr. King. My hope is that the American people will get a better understanding of the kind of sickness that existed at that time."

Young was referring to the current U.S. House investigation of Dr. King's murder in 1968.

The ambassador made his comments while vacationing in Stowe at the home of former Vermont development commissioner Arthur Kriemel.

Carter's sons join raft trip

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Two of President Carter's three sons have signed on for the family's great adventure that starts tomorrow: a three-day, white-water raft trip down Idaho's Salmon River.

Carter today was winding up the first leg of his career two-week vacation. The family was flying this afternoon to Idaho.

Sons Jack and Chip decided late Sunday to go along on the rafting and camping trek through wilderness areas of the West.

This two-week is being billed strictly as a vacation — not the "working" vacation most presidents have proclaimed. And almost from the moment he hit his hometown Friday, Carter has behaved much like a schoolboy when school is out.

He has been on the go constantly, eating meals out with relatives and friends, strolling down Main Street, pitching two softball games, attending two church services and taking his mother on a sunrise fishing expedition.

President loses rematch with Billy's softball team

PLAINS, Ga. — President Carter wound up his weekend down home by losing a return-match softball game to his brother Billy Carter's team by a score of 12-6.

The game, which lasted about an hour and a half in sweltering heat, drew about 200 spectators, including most of Billy's family.

Accepting congratulations on the win, an ebullient Billy said to the president, "This is the first time I've ever seen you lose graciously."

With a broad smile, the president shook his head and said, "I might lose but it's not gracious."

Billy's team lost 6-5 to the president's Saturday, and he had challenged the president to a rematch.

After a round of handshaking and backslapping, the two Carters posed for photographs with all of the players.

"Billy, what's the secret of your success?" a reporter asked.

"Sober living," the president chimed in before Billy could answer.

Billy started the game with a can of beer in his hand and ran to the sidelines occasionally to take gulps of the brew.

It was a pitchers' duel, with the president and his brother each on the mound for his turn.

Carter's team was made up of his aides and Secret Service bodyguards.

Park River burial to open new land

HARTFORD (UPI) — The burial of the flood-prone Park River in a concrete conduit is expected to open up about 8.3 acres of new land, most of which has been discussed for use as parks and parking lots.

City officials said Sunday the linear shape of the new land resulting from the $77 million project is completed in the early 1980's, its location and city requirements will restrict possible uses.

George Heppner, director of the Greater Hartford Flood Control Commission, said one near the Capitol will be landscaped as a front lawn for the armory.

When someone asked how many his he had gotten, a reporter chimed in "five" and the president smiled approvingly and said, "That's the kind of report I like."

Actually, he got two hits, batting in one run.

Most of the T-shirts worn by the players were inscribed with slogans, and one Secret Service agent's read, "Billy Who in 1984."

Study says defendants not aided by bargaining

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A survey of arrest records indicates that contrary to popular belief — plea bargaining does not necessarily benefit defendants. But it does save taxpayers' money by cutting prosecution and court costs.

A study of 5,000 criminal arrests in Washington, D.C., during 1974, conducted for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and published Sunday, found that most defendants get few sentencing concessions when they plead guilty to reduced charges.

"A plea bargain is not necessarily a bargain to the defendant," said William Rhodes of the Institute for Law and Social Research, who conducted the study. He suggested "maybe the defendant and the attorneys don't really understand what is going on. Maybe they think they are getting a break where statistics prove they are not."

Plea bargaining is a system under which prosecutors drop certain charges in exchange for a guilty plea.

The research was concentrated on street crime, with no measurements of sentencing breaks for plea bargaining in white-collar or public corruption cases.

It found the plea-bargaining process provides most of its benefits to society — by saving prosecution and court costs and helping reduce repeat offenses by those who are "factually guilty" but would have avoided conviction in a trial.

Using a hypothetical trial model, the study concluded when suspects accused of larceny, assault and burglary plea-bargained, no significant sentencing breaks were granted.

Only 40 percent in assault cases, 50 percent in larceny cases and 63 percent in burglary cases pleaded guilty to the most serious charge — an average that has bordered each other in the past.

Only in robbery cases was there a pattern of reduced sentences for guilty ly pleas, the study said. It said the breaks for robbers are due to the certainty of conviction in plea-bargaining, as opposed to the chance of acquittal in a trial.

The study said its findings make it appear "curious why more defendants do not go to trial."

"It would appear to be in their interest to do so... since they are likely to receive an equivalent sentence if convicted, and yet they stand a good chance of being acquitted in a trial," it said.

Rhodes said some critics of plea-bargaining have argued it "impedes justice by increasing the chances of erroneous convictions."

But Patrick Hickey, director of the District's Public Defender Services, said it is the defense lawyer's job "to explore the possibility of disposing of a case other than to trial... We would like the client to agree... if we were exploring, or we wouldn't go along with it."

Colby didn't leak story about CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former CIA Director William E. Colby says he confirmed but did not leak the 1974 New York Times story by Seymour Hersh about the intelligence agency's illegal involvement in domestic surveillance.

"I did not leak the so-called 'family jewels'..." Colby said in a letter to Hersh's publisher, saying he said Hersh came to him before publication of the story "with a much exaggerated account of those past events."

"I was clear to me that he was going to publish that story, so I tried to bring him down to a more accurate perspective, and I gave him no material he did not already have," Colby said.

The story led to four government investigations of the CIA, opening some of the agency's hush-hush activities to public scrutiny and prompting revisions of the counterintelligence operations.

Colby, who headed the CIA from 1973 to 1976, insisted his overall view of the counterintelligence "strengthened rather than weakened that effort over the way it was conducted previously."

Official mourning ends; cardinals ready to meet

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican emerged from nine days of official mourning for the late Pope Paul VI today and made ready to choose his successor in the most secret election conclave in the history of the Roman Catholic church.

The ninth and final requiem mass for the late pontiff in St. Peter's Basilica was celebrated Sunday by the Armenian Patriarch of Cilicia, Hamaiah Patriarch XVII Chedighian.

The Vatican marked the first day following the mourning period by raising its yellow-and-white flag to full staff for the first time since Paul's death Aug. 6 at his Castel Gandolfo summer palace south of Rome.

L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, removed the black bands that have bordered each page of its issues since the pope's death but retained the coat of arms containing an umbrella and two keys symbolic of a vacant papal throne.

A record number of 111 cardinals are expected to take part in the conclave and the Vatican has taken steps to make it the most secret ever held by the church.

Cardinal Joseph Marie Trinchese, the archbishop of Hanoi, arrived Sunday, bringing to 100 the number of princes of the church already on hand for the conclave.

The cardinals, meanwhile, resumed their schedule of daily meetings to narrow the field of papal candidates previously being locked up in the Vatican palace for the secret election conclave beginning Friday.

In addition to locking up the cardinals and a few key officials in a brick-of-fort section of the Vatican palace containing the Sistine Chapel, the Vatican this time is using electronic devices to make sure there is no breach of security.

Two electronics technicians will be locked up along with the cardinals. They will have the task of searching the palace and the chapel periodically to stop news from getting out or in.

As they arrived, each cardinal was required to take an especially stringent oath of secrecy about the conclave and the preliminary meetings leading to it.

Population growth eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Population Action Council says world population has grown by 1 billion people in the 10 years since Pope Paul's encyclical reaffirming Catholic opposition to artificial birth control.

In a letter published Sunday, the council urged Cardinal Leon-Etienne Duval "to select a man who will bring his church out of the current turmoil and lead it to a new age of vitality."

The council, which describes itself as a privately funded division of the Population Institute composed of members from 34 nations representing all major religions, urged that the new pope be one who would convene a commission to study the population crisis "with the hope that a more liberal definition may be reached concerning birth control."

PAC said there are 800 million individuals "in this world who subsist on incomes of less than $75 a year in an environment of squalor, hunger and hopelessness."

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Most people my age (22) know what VD is, but they don't think it can happen to them. Well, you don't have to be a virgin until I was 21. Then I fell in love and went all the way with my boyfriend. Soon after, he told me he had VD, so I went to a clinic and found out that I had it too!

I had treatments and was cured. We fought about this for some time because I knew I hadn't been with anyone else, and he swore he hadn't either.

After we broke up, I fell in love with another guy and we had sex. Soon after, he told me that he had VD, so I went to the clinic again, and sure enough, I had it too! (Sighhhhh).

Now that this has happened a second time, I have decided that sex before marriage is not for me.

Abby, please let your readers know how easy it is to get VD. Both these guys looked so clean. I never thought it could happen to me.

LEARNED MY LESSON

DEAR LEARNED: Anyone who is sexually active should know how to prevent VD and how to spot the symptoms. Your county department of public health can provide you with free information, examinations and treatment. If necessary, (they are listed in your telephone book.) Planned Parenthood offices also provide free information on how to prevent lead cervix VD. Or ask any physician.

You can get VD from intimate body contact - heavy petting and intercourse. You can't get it from a toilet seat or a doorknob.

Both gonorrhea and syphilis CAN be completely cured if treated promptly by a doctor. If untreated, they can cause blindness, sterility, arthritis, heart disease and even death. Treatment is available in most states without parental knowledge or consent.

For information concerning VD, phone this toll-free number from anywhere in the United States: 800-523-1885. If you are under 18 and can't leave with your parents, treatment is available in most states without parental knowledge or consent.

DEAR ABBY: I love ya, but you've been harping on the evils of smoking often enough. Knock it off, will you? DRAG QUEEN

DEAR QUEEN: I know that I have been harping on the evils of smoking often enough. Knock it off, will you? DRAG QUEEN

DEAR ABBY: I will be married soon and everything is all set. There's only one problem. Since my parents are hosting the rehearsal dinner, they thought it would be appropriate to serve champagne. But my fiancée's family belongs to a church that doesn't believe in drinking alcoholic beverages. What is proper in a case like this? We'll go along with whatever you say.

ANXIOUSLY WAITING

DEAR WAITING: When entertaining, if some guests drink alcoholic beverages and others do not for any reason, serve a selection of beverages and let your guests take their choice.

Win at bridge

West had made one of those weak jump overcalls!

Alan: "That two-spade call by West was one of the weakest possible of all weak jump overcalls. It did have one effect on the bidding. Someone or other it sort of pushed Bracco into the club slam."

Oswald: "Bracco went the spine lead and cashed his king lead and cashed his ace of hearts, led the ten of clubs and stopped for real study. Finally he decided, 'Clara is club. He finished, made his slam and scored 72 and one-half out of a possible 77 match points as a result.'"

Champion skills will out

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "The world pair championship recently held in New Orleans was won by Marcelo Bracco and Gabinio Clara of Brazil."

Alan: "Successful slam bidding combined with good play was responsible for a large part of their success. Here we find them in a six-club contract that depended on avoiding a trump loser."

Oswald: "The normal play with nine cards in a suit is to try to drop a missing queen, but Bracco had a little extra going for him."
