Briefly ...

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — State Police today arrested 19 protesters on disorderly conduct charges at the $2.3 billion Seabrook nuclear power plant. The demonstrators, from the Maine and New Hampshire branches of the Clamshell Alliance, marched to the plant gate at 8 a.m. and began setting up a booth to display anti-nuclear pamphlets. By 8:15 a.m., they had been arrested.
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leonard Bernstein is observing his 80th birthday today, doing what he has done for 35 years — conducting an orchestra. He said he likes his life: "If I had it to do over again I'd do it over again."
CINCINNATI (UPI) — The three-year-old son of the operator of a well-known French restaurant who was kidnapped Thursday was found unharmed today at the Greater Cincinnati Airport. The FBI also said they had a suspect in custody.

Hijacked Travelers Safe

GENEVA (UPI) — All 79 passengers and a crew of 10 were evacuated safely from a hijacked Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 today, an airport spokesman said.
"Everyone is safe and sound," he said.
The travelers were taken to the airport terminal by two blue airport buses.
There was no immediate word on the hijackers.
"We are not even sure there were any hijackers on board," said the spokesman.
The belief there were hijackers apparently stemmed from documents containing threats to blow up the plane which were delivered to the pilot, Capt. Robert Hamilton.
The spokesman said officials would brief newsmen shortly.

Release of the passengers came at 4:05 p.m. (11:02 EDT).
The passengers looked fresh and unharmed though they had been on the ground in Geneva after a flight from New York for eight hours, most of it under threats that bombs allegedly in the plane's luggage holds could be exploded at any moment.
The men at one point called themselves "pragmatic Palestinians" and presented a 19-page typed document in good German and poor English, which included a wild variety of allegations and rambling demands.
The statement said two suitcases in the plane's hold were "filled with explosives" and added:
"One suitcase bomb is remote controlled and one is a combination bomb, both remote controlled and with a timing device. The combination bomb will under any circumstances explode automatically at exactly 5:30 p.m."
The hijackers said they would "shoot anyone who tries to leave" the plane.

Among the passengers was the daughter of William van den Haevel, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations in Geneva, who once campaigned for Robert Kennedy. He rushed to Geneva airport, where the plane landed, while Swiss negotiators tried to make sense of the hijackers' demands and negotiated with them through the pilot.
No troops and only a few policemen, standing well away, were visible around the plane parked in a remote corner of the airfield.
Swiss officials said the passengers were calm — so calm that one sent word through the captain to a car rental firm that he would not be picking up his rented auto on schedule.
Authorities said the hijacking began just before 7:20 a.m. (2:20 a.m.) when a bearded man woke a stewardess and ordered her to take a package to the pilot. It contained demands for the release of Robert F. Kennedy's Palestinian killer Sirhan Sirhan, Nazi war criminal Rudolph Hess, four Germans — some of whom were not even in jail — and five Croats, Zvonko Bastie, his wife Julienne, Franje Pest, Mark Vasic and Petar Metavik.
The Croats are serving terms of up to life for air piracy in the Sept. 10, 1976, hijack of a TWA plane from Chicago to Paris.
The policeman was killed when he tried to defuse a bomb they left in a locker at New York's Grand Central Station.

City Delays CETA Layoff

HARTFORD (UPI) — The city administration today postponed the sending of layoff notices to 1,174 workers in Hartford and surrounding towns because their jobs will be extended three weeks.
Nicholas Barbone, majority leader of the Hartford City Council, said at a news conference he has enough council votes to pass a resolution assuring the continuation of the jobs until Sept. 30.

The workers were victims of a $1.8 million deficit in the Hartford region's federal employment program. The deficit forced the premature ending of their jobs as of Sept. 3, and the pink slips were to go out today.

Hartford Deputy City Manager John Sulik said Thursday all CETA employees will have their jobs ended Sept. 8 instead of Sept. 30, when the national program ends. A bill to extend the CETA program is pending in Congress, but it would greatly reduce the number of jobs across the nation.

"We have no evidence of any kind of fraud, any kind of misfeasance," Sulik said. "There are only two kinds of costs — personnel costs and non-personnel costs — so it has to come back to one of these two kinds of things in the project."

City spokesman Terry D'Ialia said 1,174 layoff notices were to be sent today to 616 CETA employees in Hartford and 558 workers in area towns. Hartford Mayor George Athanson said Hartford layoffs will include 78 teachers and 35 policemen. A spokesman for Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., said the U.S. Department of Labor agreed late Thursday to Moffett's request for a full audit of all CETA programs in the Hartford area.

Some employees scheduled to be laid off may get a reprieve with other CETA funds, Moffett's spokesman said.
The Moffett spokesman said the Labor Department audit will consist of preliminary work which could begin today and a full audit after that. The Labor Department will also help Hartford officials straighten out their books, he said.
A meeting with U.S. Department of Labor officials was scheduled today at the office of Rep. William Colter, D-Conn., to try to find a way to avert the layoffs.

Some of the towns were invited to send representatives, but among those who said they were going anyway were East Windsor First Selectman Edward Hastillo and Dana Hanson, executive director of the Capitol Region Council of Governments.

D'Ialia said Hartford received approximately $1.25 million to administer an operating budget of about $25 million for the entire region during the past fiscal year which ends Sept. 30.

Representatives of the towns present at Thursday's meeting of the Hartford Public Library were angry. They asked hard questions and warned the towns would not pitch in to help Hartford repay the deficit.

"You are paid to administer this program," said John Lingua, administrative assistant to the selectmen of Windsor Locks. "Why should all the suburbs suffer because of your mismanagement?"
"Because there is no alternative," Sulik replied.

"What do you mean there is no alternative?" said Lingua whose job is paid for by CETA funds and who will be out of work in two weeks.

"It's the city's responsibility to take up the deficit so therefore the city should be made responsible for that deficit. The suburbs should not have to suffer," Lingua said.

Suffield First Selectman Earl Waterman said, "The people running the program in Hartford were larding it over the small towns that they were God over this project. They couldn't stand prosperity. Now it's backfired."
"From day one, they acted like they were the saviors of the small towns. They got all that money and went foolish. They were like a poor man who becomes a millionaire overnight and doesn't know what to do with it all."

"The small towns are much more competent in running their own affairs," he said.

Kennedy Unsure About Projects

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy says he is becoming "more apprehensive" about the status of Washington School renovations as the opening of school approaches, but he hopes the classrooms can be occupied.
Kennedy said he had been given assurances by the project director this week that the timetables for the school project would be met. The work was originally scheduled to be completed by September but various delays in the delivery of materials has made progress slower than anticipated.

The materials which have not arrived on time include all the windows for the old section of the school, said Richard Lawrence, architect for the project. The roof flashing materials for the new addition did not arrive until last Friday.

Kennedy said he is most anxious that the roofing over the media center in the new addition of the building be installed as that room will be used as an extra classroom while windows are being installed on the school starts.

The third floor of the old section of Washington has been cleaned and work has begun on the second floor, but because demolition is still continuing underneath, it makes the clean-up difficult, Kennedy said.

The Washington School and new West Side Recreation Center site is still in bad shape, Kennedy said. A new parking lot, sidewalks, storm drainage and other work is still under way, Kennedy said. The school officials will insist that the debris be cleaned up before school opens.
The entire situation at Washington is "less than ideal and less than we hoped for and I am a bit disappointed at how slowly the work has proceeded," Kennedy said. He said by next week he will know more definitely what the situation at the school will be.

The school board claims on Feb. 26, 1976, it voted to place Ahearn on partial leave of absence during the 43-day session of the Legislature.
The suit alleges the board and Ahearn agreed he would teach 70 minutes each day school was in session at a compensation of $16.10 per day for a total of $692.30 for the 43-day period.
The board claims through an error in, or failure of communication with the payroll department, Ahearn was overpaid $3,411.

The East Hartford Board of Education is suing former State Rep. Aloysius Ahearn of Bolton, claiming it was illegal for him to serve as a public official and be employed as a school teacher at the same time.

Ahearn was state representative for the 56th District in 1975 and 1976. He has taught English at East Hartford High School for the last 18 years.

The East Hartford school board claims Ahearn owes it money from the time he was employed as a school teacher and served in the Legislature — is null and void because it violates the Connecticut Constitution.

For two years Ahearn served in the Legislature and taught school, the board claims he owes them $4,104. The board claims he now owes a total balance of $2,298.
Ahearn disagrees with the charges in the lawsuit. He said he will take the case all the way to the Supreme Court if he has to.

Ahearn is being represented by attorney Paul Sherbacow of Bolton Board of Selectmen, is a candidate for state representative for the 56th District, which includes the towns of Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough and part of Vernon.

Postal Contract Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's largest postal union has rejected a proposed three-year contract, increasing chances of a legal nationwide strike next week that would press federal troops into mail-carrying service, union officials said.

An official count showed 78,487 members of the American Postal Workers Union voted in favor of the contract, but union officials said approximately 94,000 members voted to reject it. The official "no" vote count by an independent firm was expected later today.

Petitions May Be Popular But a Burden: Cummings

State Rep. Theodore Cummings, who is seeking re-election in the 12th Assembly District, said today that Manchester and other towns have laws that already permit public initiative and referendum procedures.

"Popular initiative is something Manchester is familiar with, and the Democratic Party has been in the forefront," Cummings said.

Walter Joyner, one of the two Republican candidates seeking the party nomination to oppose Cummings in the 12th District, said this week that he will seek signatures to the Connecticut State Taxpayers Association petition while he is campaigning.

The petition establishes steps for referendum votes on fiscal matters and for limiting state and local spending and taxing.

Cummings said that he supports steps to increase public involvement, but the proposals in the petition would duplicate procedures already permitted in Manchester.

Voters in Manchester may place a proposed ordinance on the ballot if a petition is signed by five percent of the town's registered voters, he said. Thus, the power of initiative already exists.

The Democratic Party locally has supported the involvement of the public, such as the direct caucus election of members to its town committee, Cummings said.

"We have a history in Connecticut of local autonomy. That should not be rolled back," he said.

The petition by the Connecticut State Taxpayers Association, patterned after Proposition 13 in California, may be a popular idea, but it also may be an extra burden not required in some places, Cummings said.

"In the fever to get votes, candidates ought to go a little slowly. Before these candidates support the popular idea, they should know what we have," he said.

Workers on the J.C. Penney warehouse construction project in the Backland Industrial Park reported Thursday that three heavy duty cranes on the site were vandalized and 20 cable chokers, valued at $500, were missing. The cable chokers are used to set steel girders in place, police said. The project worker who reported the incident asked the police for more nighttime surveillance at the site.

A 67-year-old resident on Garden Street reported that all the plants and stakes in his garden had been pulled up sometime Wednesday night or early Thursday. He told police the same thing happened a year ago. He could give no dollar value on the loss.

Tax Petitions Are Available

Anyone wishing to obtain a petition seeking increased voter control over tax and spending limits may do so by writing to the Connecticut State Taxpayers Association.

Killian Learns Grasso Has Legislator Friends

By ANDREW NIBLEY
HARTFORD (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian is finding Gov. Ella T. Grasso has quite a few friends in the Legislature who are more than willing to fight her battles.

One of Killian's primary campaign tactics to date has been to try to bait the governor into responding emotionally or violently to his attacks on her administration.

A couple of the times in the early going, Mrs. Grasso slipped and let her temper explode when responding to Killian's harsh criticisms.

But in recent weeks, a new trend has emerged.

Killian, the first lieutenant governor ever to challenge a sitting governor for the party nomination, but later in the day, another of Mrs. Grasso's legislative pals popped up to take Killian on.

Education Committee cochairman, Sen. Richard Schneider, D-Essex, told reporters the governor was 100 percent right when she said the existing tax structure is flexible enough to deal with the sticky educational funding problem.

As is often the case in these political battles, both sides are convinced the other side is making a big mistake.

Killian's forces believe Mrs. Grasso looks foolish and cowardly because she is letting her legislative buddies do her dirty work.

However, the Grasso camp is equally convinced the governor is doing well not to engage in an undignified verbal street brawl with Killian. They think she is also scoring points every time a new lawmaker comes to her defense.

At his news conference Wednesday, Killian said Mrs. Grasso was intentionally deceiving the electorate so that she could win votes in their upcoming primary. But later in the day, another of Mrs. Grasso's legislative pals popped up to take Killian on.

They are — District One, Kevin O'Brien, 62 Horton Road; District Two, Dominic Squatrito, 37 Judd St.; District Three, Diane Comollo, 83 Indian Drive; District Four, Jack Goldberg, 119 Winding Hill Road; District Five, Ted Cummings, 87 Lawton Road; District Six, Gail Fuller, 45 Kane Road, District Seven, Mary LeDuc, 182 Homestead St.; District Eight, John Lynch, 42 Colledge St.; District Nine, Roger McDermott, 107 Kenney St.; District 10, Joseph McCarthy, 99 Ferguson Road.

Gov. Grasso and Lt. Gov. Robert Killian are the candidates in a Sept. 12 primary to select the Democratic candidate for governor.

Mrs. LeDuc said of Gov. Grasso's local support, "We have an excellent, hard-working team. We are confident that the response from the Manchester Democratic voter will be positive."

Sullivan urged any Democrat who would like to volunteer to call him at his office, 649-6223.

Barry Lauds Phase-In Job

State Sen. David Barry has praised the work of Town of Manchester employees who have had to implement the phase-in law for revalued assessments.

Barry, praised Michael Nimirowski, deputy assessor; James Turek, collector of revenue; and Paul Jettner, data processing director, and their staffs for doing "excellent work under very difficult time constraints."

Barry and State Reps. Theodore Cummings and Francis Mahoney sponsored the phase-in legislation, which permits a town to phase-in over a five-year period increases in assessments made by revaluation.

Manchester was the first town in the state to adopt the phase-in, which supporters say will lessen the tax burden on residential properties by shifting part of the impact of revaluation to commercial properties which do not increase in value as rapidly as the average home.

"The adoption of the law by Manchester's Board of Directors in May gave these men and their personnel a substantial increase in the work load with a very short time table for accomplishment," Barry said.

Peaceful Nature Trail Is Tranquil Retreat

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD—Do you want to get away from it all? Is the noise of the city too much? In a town which contains numerous businesses and industries, shopping centers and restaurants, there is a place where one can go to enjoy undisturbed nature. And the beauty of it is that anyone can go there. That place is a 2.5-mile nature trail located on a 41.7-acre tract of town property north of the East Hartford Golf Course. Nine workers in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act

(CETA) program and the Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program (CYWEP) forged the trail in six weeks. The trail is marked by orange paint on either side. The trees were painted at about the six-foot level so hikers and cross country skiers could see the markings during the winter when snow covers part of the trees. Fred Balet, director of Parks and Recreation, said the trails can double as a cross country ski course and a hiking trail. The trail includes a half-mile section which was made by Boy Scouts. This section is marked with orange and yellow paint. "People think of recreation as an

CPS Recommends Extension Of High School Accreditation

VERNON—The Commission on Public Schools has voted to recommend to the New England Association of Schools and Colleges Inc. that Rockville High School's accreditation be extended for five more years, to 1983. The commission's recommendation will be acted upon by the Executive Committee of the association at its Sept. 21 meeting. In a letter to Vernon school officials, the commission said it was very pleased to learn of "enhanced curricular programs in a number of areas resulting from the acquisition of additional space." The last accreditation was given before the large addition was put on the school. The commission made particular reference to the new career education opportunities that the additional space allows. However, the commission did express some concern over the need to provide special facilities for the handicapped and the necessity to eliminate safety hazards in the industrial arts areas. The system is now being evaluated concerning making provisions for the handicapped as this is being required according to state law. The commission said the next decennial evaluation of the school should be conducted in the calendar year 1983 and asked that it be notified of any substantive change which may occur in the school before that evaluation.

South Windsor Schools Open On Full Schedule on Sept. 6

SOUTH WINDSOR—The public schools in South Windsor will open Sept. 6 with regular full-day sessions but there has been a change made in the opening and closing times for the elementary schools. Avery Street School and Pleasant Valley School hours will be from 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Eli Terry School and Orchard Hill School hours will be from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. The junior and senior high school hours will remain the same. South Windsor High hours are 7:40 a.m. to 1:50 p.m. and Timothy Edwards and Ellsworth schools, 8:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The bus schedules, to be published in the Manchester Herald, are printed for each school with the streets listed alphabetically. Each street will show the beginning and ending house numbers in brackets, the bus number and bus stop. Consistent with previous beginning of the school year instructions, students should be at their bus stop 15 minutes before their scheduled school opening time. School officials said that it is expected that after the first few days of school, a routine will be established for student use in arriving at the bus stops by a particular time.

Bolton Man Denied Variance

BOLTON—A request for a side line variance was denied to Leonard Giglio of South Road by the Zoning Board of Appeals after a public hearing on the request Monday. Robert Morra, acting chairman of the board, said the request was denied because the board felt there was no hardship involved. Giglio requested the variance in order to construct an outbuilding, an enclosed chicken coop, less than 25 feet from his side line. David Erickson, a next door neighbor, questioned why Giglio wanted to build on that particular spot when he has about 100 acres of land. Erickson said the town has zoning laws to protect people. He said there were plenty of other places on his property Giglio could build his coop. Giglio admitted he could put it on any spot but said it was more convenient on that particular spot. The appeals board went into executive session to discuss the request. When asked the reason for the executive session the board said, "That is what the rules of the Zoning Board of Appeals call for." The Freedom of Information Act does allow executive sessions, but not for the reason stated.

Hebron Retains Use Of Gay City Park

HEBRON—The town's Recreation Commission continues to use Gay City Park for its swimming lessons. Mrs. Caroline Murphy, chairman of the summer swimming program has been informed. Originally Miller mentioned the roped off area which the town had set up while giving the swimming lessons. At this time the state has also agreed to allow the roping procedure to continue also.

branch and is charged by the Legislature to educate the children in the state. Diggs said, "Teachers carry out (the intent of the Legislature)." Ahearn said if he were to let the board's position go unchallenged, Connecticut teachers would become second class citizens and the precedent would have repercussions throughout the country. Diggs said, "I don't agree with that. I think that all of us have burdens with what we choose to do in life." "If I do one job, I can't do other things. When one becomes a public employee, that's a voluntary action on anybody's part," Diggs said. Ahearn said, "An unfortunate but possible extension of the board's questionable logic would be to exclude all practicing attorneys from legislative service since by law in Connecticut all such attorneys are commissioners of the Superior Court, the judicial branch of state government." Ahearn said when he was a legislator he served on the Education Committee and he feels his experience and expertise allowed him to keep his colleagues in the Legislature better informed on educational issues. Ahearn said he is currently working to get elected so he can again serve in the Legislature. "I'll get elected, I intend to serve in the Legislature even if it means giving up my teaching profession though I would not like to see that happen," he said. Ahearn said the teaching profession has been criticized for being out of the mainstream of the real world. "Apparently there are those who would like to keep it that way." Ahearn said, "It is a good example for other teachers and students, too, to have teachers that are part of the government process." "I will fight what I regard as an unfair, undemocratic, discriminatory action in the courts as far as I have to go to protect my right and the rights of all public school teachers to be first class citizens." Ahearn must file his response to the court by Sept. 7.

Coventry Meeting Approves Spending

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent
COVENTRY—About 150 townspeople authorized the appropriation of funds for three items at a special town meeting last night. A total of $37,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds were approved for the Board of Education. Maintenance and contracted services will take $16,000 of these funds; maintenance supplies and expenses, $9,000; and repairs of the Coventry Grammar School roof, $12,000. Another $5,100 in revenue-sharing funds will go to the Booth and Dimock Memorial Library. This will be used for repairs and improvements for the library's parking lot. The Town Council's recommendation to purchase a fire truck for the North Coventry Volunteer Fire Association at a cost of $78,475 was accepted. Short-term borrowing will raise $48,475, $10,000 will come from the town's unappropriated cash surplus, another $10,000 will come from the reserve fund for capital and non-recurring expenditures, and $10,000 will be charged to the revenue-sharing account.

Board Increases Fees For Outside Students

VERNON—The Board of Education has voted to slightly increase tuition fees for out-of-town students attending public schools in Vernon. The fees include the pro-rated costs of central office staff, repairs and maintenance, instructional costs, building costs and fringe benefits. For kindergarten students the charge will be $300 which is $100 higher than the current year's charge; For those in Grades 1-5 the cost will be $1,450 which is $150 higher; for Grades 6-8 the new charge will be $1,550, also $150 higher

Summer's end
Herrick Memorial Park will soon be quiet during the day. Summer is drawing to an end and all of the children who enjoyed the playground during the summer will soon be going back to school. Three Injured In Accident

VERNON—Charles Kehoe, 19, of 28 Ridgewood Drive, Vernon, is reported in serious condition in the Intensive Care Unit at Rockville General Hospital with injuries suffered in a one-car accident about 2 a.m. today. Police said Kehoe was the driver of the car in which there were two passengers. One of the passengers, William Zukauskas, 18, of 13 Olsen Drive, Vernon, was admitted to Rockville General. He is reported in satisfactory condition having suffered a leg injury. The other passenger, Leonard Audette, 19, of 26 Ridgewood Drive, suffered cuts and bruises and was treated and released. Police said the rescue unit of the Vernon Fire Department responded to the accident and had to remove the operator, who was pinned in the car. He was taken to the hospital by the Vernon Ambulance. Police said the car was traveling east on Regan Road and went across the road into some trees at 107 Regan Road. The accident is still under investigation.

Park Funds On the Way

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent
BOLTON—The $30,000 state grant towards the purchase of Indian Notch Park was expected to be approved by the State Bonding Commission today. If it is, Bolton should receive the money by October 1. The town has been waiting for the money since 1974 and has short term borrowed the amount since January 1975. Earlier this week the Board of Finance learned the town has reached the statute of limitation on how long it can short term borrow the money and would have to make a decision on how to pay it off by January. The information was given by Catherine Peterson, town treasurer. Selectman Aloysius Ahearn attended that meeting and Wednesday said he talked with state officials about the grant. Ahearn said the grant had been held up because of lack of funds. He said as of July 1 funds became available to the Department of Environmental Protection for land acquisition. Ahearn said Al LeTendre, land agent for the DEP, said he is confident Bolton's application will be approved. After that a new contract will have to be signed. LeTendre said he will personally bring the contract to Bolton. He said Bolton should receive the money by October 1.

Check For Repairs

Now is the time of year to do your home not only in preparation for the upcoming winter but to save money and quality repairs at a later date. The best way to do this is to have a professional home inspector do a complete inspection of your home. Check the outside of your home for repairs, new in the time. First of all check your roof, gutters and downspouts. You should have them checked every 2 months if possible. Make sure there are no leaks in the roof that the gutters and downspouts are clear of debris.

Check your driveway. Make sure cracks aren't starting or the asphalt isn't settling. If so contact the proper people for advice.

Your garage is also part of your home. Make sure this roof is also in good shape. Try the doors to see if they work properly.

The landscaping is another job that needs continuous upkeep. Keeping up with the lawn and shrubs is easier than trying to catch up with it after a spell of growth.

Maintenance of your home is just as important even if you plan to move. The longer you own a home the more value it will have when you sell. Make sure you have your home well maintained so you can get the most out of it.
