

YWCA Accepting Registration For Fall Classes

The Nutmeg Branch of the Hartford Region YWCA is accepting registration for the fall program of activities. There will be classes in physical fitness, arts and crafts, and personal development, as well as special interest groups. Most of the programs begin the week of Sept. 18.

Physical fitness classes for adults include tennis lessons in levels for Beginners, Advanced Beginner, Intermediate, and Advanced Intermediate. These classes will meet twice a week for four weeks each, and will be taught by Millie Luce on outdoor courts.

Body Conditioning classes for adults will be offered at three different times, and will be led by Claudia Markstein. Classes in Hatha Yoga will be offered morning, evening, and "after work," taught by Betty Van Dine. Slinastics will be available two mornings a week, with JoAnn Tait.

A new program, called "Run for Your Life," will focus on training women in jogging as a sport. Participants will build up stamina, gain basic knowledge, and practice running. This will meet one evening a week, taught by Diane Satton.

Movement Exploration classes will be offered for sensitizing participants to ways of moving and exploring space. This will be led by June Peake, and will be held separately for women, seniors, and couples. Another class directed to the needs of senior citizens will be Physically Fit Over 50, an exercise program focusing on stretching and limbering the body.

A class in disco-dancing, open to women, men, or couples, will be held one evening a week for eight weeks. Participants will learn the steps and rhythm of the latest dances, taught by Nancy Smolin. Other fitness activities include a Drop-In Bowling group and a Drop-In Volleyball group.

Arts and crafts activities for adults include macramé crafts, two patchwork pillow workshops, and classes in needlepoint design and crewel design taught by Cynthia Tribelhorn. There will also be a class in oriental cooking, and a breadmaking workshop.

Childcare is available during most programs. For more information about classes for adults and children, call the YWCA at 647-1457 for a brochure. Registration will be taken in person or by mail for the next two weeks. The YWCA is located at 78 N. Main St.

Social Security

Q. I have Medicare medical insurance and I've been under the care of a doctor for the past few months because of a high blood pressure problem. Is it a good idea to save the doctor's bills and send them in at one time?

A. No. You'll get your payments faster after you have met the 90 deductible, if you send those medical bills in and then begin sending all later medical bills in as you get them, rather than letting them accumulate and sending them all in at one time.

Q. I'm 66 and get monthly Social Security checks. I know the law's been changed so I can make as much as $4,000 this year and still get my full check every month. But what happens if I earn more than $4,000? Has that been changed?

A. No, that's the same as under the old law. If you earn more than $4,000 in 1978, your check will be reduced $1 for every $2 over the $4,000.

Q. Now that we're all paying more in Social Security taxes, can I count on getting monthly checks when I'm eligible for retirement in five years, or is there still some danger that Social Security is going broke?

A. You certainly can count on getting monthly Social Security checks when you're eligible for them. The legislation that was passed last year will provide enough income for Social Security into the 21st century.

Q. I'm 71 and I get monthly supplemental security income (SSI) checks because I have a very small income. Until now, I've been living alone, but I've been thinking about asking a friend to move in with me so she can help share expenses. Will this make a difference in the amount of my SSI payments?

A. It might, but whether or not sharing your apartment affects your monthly SSI payments, you must let Social Security know about the change in your living arrangements. They'll let you know if this affects your checks.

Q. Although I am in this country several years, I am not yet a citizen. Now, I am going to get a job, and I have been told I need a Social Security number. Can I get such a number, even if I am not a citizen of this country?

A. Yes. You can get a Social Security card even though you're not an American citizen. You can apply at any Social Security office. When you apply, you must provide proof of your age, identity, and legal entry into this country. This should include both your birth certificate and any documents that have your picture, signature, age, or other identifying information, as well as your immigration papers. If you need more information, you can check with the Social Security office before you go there.

Retirement Income

People concerned about having sufficient income to maintain their life styles through their retirement years should remember that only earnings after retirement, but not other forms of income, may affect receipt of their Social Security checks.

This means that the wise planner looking ahead should be considered whatever resources he or she has that can be used to generate nonwork income in the future. Such sources depend on one's current financial situation, but may include savings, investments, insurance or rental income. Income from renting rooms to college students, for example, would usually not affect a retirement check, while the same amount earned by working at a part time job could.

The fact that there is a limit on the amount of earnings a person may have and still draw Social Security benefits is confusing to many people. And when they discover the limitation does not include nonearned income it becomes even less understandable. There are several reasons for the earnings limitation and the manner in which it applies.

First of all, Social Security benefits are designed to partially replace earnings lost through retirement, death, or disability. If there has been no such reduction in earnings, then the individual is not considered retired, disabled, or dependent on the earnings of a retired, disabled, or deceased person.

Secondly, Social Security was never designed to replace all of a person's earnings, only part of them. The benefits are supposed to provide a base upon which people can build their own level of financial security through their own initiative and enterprise. There would be less incentive to save and invest for the future if by doing so an individual risks losing the floor of protection provided by Social Security contributions.

If you do plan to work after retirement, you'll find that you can increase your income without losing all of your Social Security benefits. In 1978 the annual exempt amount of earnings is $4,000 for individuals 65 and over, and $3,340 for those under 65.

After reaching the earnings limit, Social Security benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 in excess earnings. At age 72 the earnings limit does not apply.

Fire Station Sharing Suggested by Mayor

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Mayor Stephen T. Penny said today it would make sense for the Eighth District and Town Fire Departments to operate out of the same new Buckland firehouse to provide fire service to the northwest area of town.

However, he said that such a decision on what to do with the Buckland station will have to wait until town officials decide whether to seek a reorganization of the Buckland fire jurisdiction case.

The Supreme Court decision this week ruled in favor of the Eighth District's jurisdiction in the Buckland section of Manchester.

Action by the Board of Directors on the Supreme Court decision will have to be made by Tuesday night, Penny said, in order to meet the 10-day

GSA Head Trying To Break Scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The head of the General Services Administration, seeking to break open what may be the biggest money scandal in government history, is asking 35,000 employees to tell what they know about payoffs their colleagues took from contractors.

Administrator Jay Solomon predicted at a news conference Wednesday a long-running federal grand jury investigation will result in bribery and fraud indictments against 50 people - including GSA employees, employees of other agencies it serves, and private vendors and contractors.

The GSA's top investigator, special counsel Vincent Alto, said he now believes payoffs to GSA officials totaled "in the millions of dollars."

"It might be the biggest money scandal in the history of the federal government," he said.

And Solomon indicated the investigation, probing wrongdoing over the last several years, is still growing. He said its success will depend in large part on cooperation from agency employees.

"The employees are saying to us, 'We've known it,'" Solomon said.

"I say, 'Why don't you come forth and tell us? If you know it's there, come forward and help us. They've been scared.'"

He said the decision to reinstate two GSA whistleblowers - Robert J. Tucker and Robert Sullivan, who

Sending Troops Not Best Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter says he would be reluctant to offer U.S. troops for the Middle East, but he apparently has not ruled out an American presence to implement a permanent peace agreement.

The president returned to the White House Wednesday to rally support for passage of the natural gas competitive bidding procedure. In recent months indicated a strong possibility of renewed hostilities.

On the domestic side, the president's immediate concern was his last-ditch struggle to keep his energy program alive. Failure of the Senate to pass the natural gas compromise when it reaches the floor next week, would all but write the death notice for the package which Carter has called his "No. 1 priority."

A measure of the administration's displeasure over the coalition of liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans fighting the compromise was seen in a remark by Powell.

"He said that by voting against the White House a senator could please Ralph Nader (who supports the consumer) and AMOCO with one vote," Powell reported.

But he said Schlesinger had met with members of the financial community and had had some success in promoting the energy program that the administration considers vital to reviving the value of the dollar abroad.

As for Carter's vacation, Powell said "he really had a good time."

Lawsuit Controversy Centers on Cummings

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Political charges come out of the recent Supreme Court decision on the Buckland fire jurisdiction case continued today with additional charges against State Rep. Ted Cummings of the 12th Assembly District and countercharges by Cummings himself.

Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson Wednesday called on voters to throw Cummings out of office because of his stands on the Buckland case.

Republican Fred Peck, who will contend in a Sept. 12 primary for the 12th Assembly District seat, charged that Cummings has not supported the Eighth Utilities District, which is almost totally within the boundaries of the 12th Assembly District.

Peck said, "The overwhelming issue in the 12th Assembly District is the treatment of the Eighth Utilities District by Cummings. He said Cum-

Search for Girl Resumes

LEBANON (UPI) - State and local police resumed a massive land and air search shortly after 7 a.m. today for a 5-year-old girl who vanished from her rural home after a nightfall Wednesday.

State Police said almost 300 volunteer firemen and police officers and bloodhounds searched for Jennifer Cecchini, 5, Wednesday night after she was reported missing at 8:15 p.m. The search was temporarily suspended at 4 a.m. today to await daylight.

A State Police spokesman described the child as 4 feet tall, with brown hair. He said she was wearing brown cut-off shorts and a light colored blouse and was barefoot when she vanished.

Authorities said Jennifer was reported missing Wednesday about two hours after she apparently wandered away from a barn at her Bush Hill Road home where her parents were working.

The child's father, John Cecchini, told United Press International he and his wife searched their farm for the child about two hours before notifying the police.

"She was with us in the barn, except for a very short time, and that's when it happened," he said.

"There are many places she could have gone (seeking shelter)," he added, "but of course, they are being searched."

Cecchini said his daughter, who answers to the name "Jennie," is in excellent health and has never wandered away from home before.

State Police said helicopters, search teams, bloodhounds and divers would be used today to comb the heavily wooded area bordering the girl's home.

Joyner on Campaign Trail

CETA Records Theft Under Police Probe

HARTFORD (UPI) — Police today investigated the theft of Comprehensive Employment and Training Act documents from a desk top at the Hartford regional manpower office. Police have applied for arrest warrants in the theft. A top police official described the papers as "of no great consequence." They disappeared Wednesday, a monitoring supervisor for the city-run office said. The state has offered $400,000 in state-controlled CETA funds to help cover the program's $1.4 million deficit, but will not turn the money over to the city directly. "Unfortunately, that's one of the problems you face when there isn't enough staff," said Dan Snyder. The program involved housing rehabilitation in the Upper Albany and West End neighborhoods handled by the Upper Albany Community

Parker and Mrs. Kennelly were nominated to run on the Democratic ticket with Gov. Grasso at the Democratic

Town and Massage Parlors Both Withholding Action

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter
Massage parlor owners are taking a "wait and see" attitude and the town will hold back on enforcement of the massage parlor ordinance at least until Sept. 12.
On Wednesday Town Health Administrator Ronald Kraatz made a visit to the town's two massage parlors, Cleopatra's and the Body Shop, to confirm whether the businesses were still operating as massage establishments. Kraatz said the owner of Cleopatra's, Paul O'Bright, confirmed that he is still operating the business for the purpose of massage. Kraatz said they don't believe their office would take any action before Sept. 12, the date given to the massage parlor owners in a letter from Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, earlier this month. In the letter, Dr. Turek said it would take the town until about Sept. 12 after receiving any applications to make a decision on the matter with Assistant Town Counsel Thomas Prior early next week.
Kraatz said the town will probably not take any action before Sept. 12, the date given to the massage parlor owners in a letter from Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, earlier this month. In the letter, Dr. Turek said it would take the town until about Sept. 12 after receiving any applications to make a decision on the matter with Assistant Town Counsel Thomas Prior early next week.
Kraatz said, because the owners understood this Sept. 12 to be the date for enforcing the ordinance, the town would not take any action which would jeopardize any future litigation. "We are going to proceed in a way so that whatever we do is binding, so there is no question over minor procedural things," Kraatz said.

A federal court case challenging the town ordinance was dropped earlier this month.
After Sept. 12, Kraatz said the massage parlors will not be allowed to operate as such.
If no agreements can be reached with the town by that time, the massage parlor owners say they will change their format to "encounter groups," whereby the employees would talk with customers.
O'Bright said today he does not intend to make application under the ordinance which he called, "too restrictive." He said I don't think any business in town could operate under such a restrictive ordinance.
Both O'Bright and David Rosenbaum, owner of the Body Shop, said today they are hopeful they can sit down with town officials and discuss a "workable solution" by the Sept. 12 deadline. Both said they would use the encounter group format as a last resort.
The Sept. 12 deadline is for licensing the owners of the massage parlors. According to Dr. Turek's letter, she said, "It is anticipated that no massage will be allowed to work after Oct. 12 without a permit." That date would allow time for licensing and tests by the Health Department.
O'Bright said he is using the Oct. 12 date for compliance by his employees.

Striking Firemen Watch Block Burn

United Press International
Striking Anderson, Ind. firefighters, who watched a block of businesses burn down Wednesday, defied a back-to-work order today, while unions disrupted the opening of schools in New Orleans and Knox County, Tenn.
Anderson police helped out-of-town and non-striking firefighters battle the five-hour blaze that gutted six businesses and the county prosecutor's office as strikers stood by and some even picketed the fire scene.
Police called a slowdown in their own pay dispute. "The city is kind of tied up with the firemen, but they can't let that stop negotiations with the policemen," said Capt. David Lehr, the force's chief negotiator. "We are going to proceed in a way so that whatever we do is binding, so there is no question over minor procedural things," Kraatz said.

A federal court case challenging the town ordinance was dropped earlier this month.
After Sept. 12, Kraatz said the massage parlors will not be allowed to operate as such.

Little Impact

NEW LONDON (UPI) — The Naval Underwater System Center says the dumping of dredged material from the Thames River into Long Island Sound has had little adverse effect on the marine environment.
The center, which reported Wednesday, took more than 400 shellfish samples and sediment samples for analysis. The last large load of dredging spoils was dumped June 22.
The Navy and a dredging firm dug a 7.5-mile long, 36-foot deep section of the river to allow passage of the Navy's 600-class nuclear attack submarines being built at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics. The channel will be deepened to 90 percent.
In Knox County, Tenn., a bus drivers' strike left 25,000 students looking for other ways of getting to school. Massive traffic jams resulted as parents drove their children in, but attendance was reported at 80 to 90 percent.
County School Superintendent Earl Hoffmeister sought $110,000 from the County Court to meet the drivers' money demands. The court scheduled a special meeting today to consider the transportation budget.
Back in Indiana, eight leaders in the Marion teachers strike, including state and national representatives, were jailed and fined $100 a day Wednesday on contempt charges for refusing to obey a back-to-work order, issued by Grant Circuit Judge A. Morris Hall Monday. The teachers have no contract for the school year.
The Marion Teachers Association was fined $1,000 a day, while the Indiana State Teachers Association was assessed $5,000 a day and the National Education Association $10,000 daily.

Fight Spreads In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Youthful anti-government rebels set off homemade explosives, hurled firebombs and shot potshots at national guardsmen, adding to the civil war atmosphere across Nicaragua today.
As the fighting spread, a general strike called by businessmen seeking Somoza's ouster grew in strength. Airline employees in Managua, including an American, voted to begin a walkout today that could shut down the international airport.
At least 23 bomb blasts shook the capital city of Managua Wednesday night, and national guardsmen under the control of President Anastasio Somoza Debayle were pelted with firebombs.
In Masaya, about 20 miles from the capital, snipers opened fire on patrolling guardsmen, injuring at least one.
A band of 500 armed rebels, most of them students, occupied two-thirds of the city of Matagalpa Wednesday and held government troops at bay with homemade bombs.
At least five people were killed in a battle Tuesday night and Wednesday between poorly armed anti-government forces and guardsmen equipped with machine guns, mortars and helicopter gunships.
But residents of the city of 50,000 said the toll was much higher, judging from the number of bleeding bodies that lay still in the streets with flies swarming over them.
Residents offered food, water and shelter to the rag-tag bands that are trying to bring down Somoza's regime.
The students, emboldened by last week's successful invasion and escape from the National Palace by Sandinista guerrillas, declared a "Free territory of Matagalpa" and controlled the city's Municipal Palace and most of the downtown area.
Nicaraguan observers said attempts by the students, backed by local residents and businesses, to establish their own independent civil authority moved the nation close to open civil war. The fighting posed the most serious threat ever to the Somoza family rule, which has spanned four decades.

Labor Expert to Guide Postal Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiators for the Postal Service and three unions, who failed to settle their contract dispute under the threat of a national mail strike, will try again beginning Friday under guidance of a Harvard University professor.
James Healy, a nationally known labor relations expert, will open a 15-day contract bargaining period between the two sides Friday morning, and will oversee the talks through the Labor Day holiday weekend, a spokeswoman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Wednesday.
The talks will run until Sept. 16, if necessary.
Under an agreement that averted the 11-

legal walkout threatened for midnight Monday, Healy was named mediator for a novel 15-day bargaining-arbitration period to which both sides agreed.
He will try to first to encourage a negotiated settlement. If that fails, Healy has the task of deciding any unresolved issues under a system similar to binding arbitration.
The talks at mediation service headquarters need not run until the 15-day period expires, the spokeswoman stressed.
"If there is an agreement prior to then, the mediator can put it out for ratification," she said. "Also, if he decides after four or five days of dealing with these people that there isn't going to be an agreement, he can render a decision (under his arbitration authority) prior to the 15 days."

Healy, 62, an industrial relations professor at Harvard, has served on an ad hoc office since the World War II years as a mediator and arbitrator in major disputes spanning most areas of industry.
He was appointed as postal mediator by Director Wayne Horvitz of the mediation service, who proposed the compromise procedure.
A labor source has said the two sides agreed to negotiate the money package and a proposed "no layoff" clause the unions hope to maintain.
The 250,000-member American Postal Workers Union, the 180,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers and the 40,000-member National Post Office Mail Handlers union all rejected a proposed three-year contract offering an overall 19.5 percent wage and cost of living increase.
Postmaster General William Bolger said the Postal Service could afford no bigger money package and favored submitting the dispute to binding arbitration, where it was possible the "no layoff" clause could be eliminated. The unions demanded renewed negotiations instead. Both sides agreed to the compromise calling for a combination of negotiations and arbitration.

U.S. Troops Have Nowhere to Go

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first troops of the 2nd Infantry Division will go to the end of the year — but because of politics and high costs, they'll have nowhere to go.
Sources said Wednesday a 750 man battalion of the 2nd Infantry Division will go temporarily to an as-yet undecided U.S. base while officials sort out "a contentious mess" over where to station the entire division.
The Army, according to the sources, after considering the question for a year, has not been able to agree whether the division should be split up among two locations in the Northeast or sent to Fort Benning, Ga.

A decision, originally set for this summer, now has been deferred indefinitely pending a review ordered by Defense Secretary Harold Brown that will include both those possibilities and others.
Sources said Army Secretary Clifford Alexander favored a plan to split the division between Fort Devens, Mass., and Fort Dix, N.J., with periodic training at Fort Drum, N.Y.
Uniformed Army leaders opposed the Dix-Devens plan because they want to keep the division together. They favor Fort Benning, Ga., a traditional infantry base, and the matter was sent to Defense Secretary Harold Brown unresolved.

Brown and his aides balked at spending hundreds of millions of dollars for building new facilities for about 10,000 troops from the division and housing for their families. They also challenged cost estimates for the various plans and Brown ordered a new review of the issue. It will take months.
Orders moon will go to the Army to put the first 2nd Division returning battalion at a "neutral" base that will not prejudice

Tribute in Kenya

Nairobi, Kenya (UPI) — The people of Kenya and an array of world leaders today paid a solemn and sometimes tearful farewell to the nation's founding father, President Jomo Kenyatta, a giant on the African scene for nearly half a century.
As Kenyatta's silver-lined oak coffin was lowered into his grave after the most impressive funeral in black Africa's history, tears trickled down the face of his widow, Mama Njira, breaking the calm she had displayed throughout the five-hour funeral rites.
To the strains of the hymn, "Abide With Me," the first lady and Kenyatta's first wife, Grace, then laid the first of hundreds of wreaths on the tomb of somber gray Italian marble.

Terminated teachers all rehired

The Manchester Board of Education rescinded its final termination notice for a teacher in the school system earlier this week. The action means that all the teachers who had received termination notices last February have been reinstated for the coming school year, Wilson E. Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools said.
About 18 teachers received the notices, but since that time, retirements and resignations have made it possible for the school board to reinstate their jobs.
Deakin said he is still looking for an English teacher at Bennett Junior High School to fill the vacancy left by the appointment of Mrs. Gwen Brooks to the vice principalship at that school. Also needed for the coming school year are a Cooperative Occupational Education Program (COEP) teacher at Manchester High School and two part-time special education teachers.
New appointments for this year include the following:
Miss Barbara Brody, one-fifth time physical education teacher at Regional Occupational Training Center
Mrs. Christina Chagnon, one-fifth business education teacher at Manchester High School for the first semester only.
Miss Alice J. Drewa, French and Spanish teacher at Manchester High School
Miss Kathleen M. Field, elementary teacher for Grades 5 and 6 at Nathan Hale School
Mrs. Roberta A. Hill, half-time elementary music teacher.
Mrs. Joan C. McGee, librarian at Illing Junior High School.
Mrs. Sharon Sheehan, two-fifths time language arts teacher at Illing.
Michael A. Vitale, computer science and math teacher at Manchester High School.
Miss Mary Tucker, elementary special education.

Repair of wooden pipe to cost about $20,000

The cost of replacing a wooden water pipe at Manchester and Mountain roads is estimated at $20,000 plus the cost of town labor, Jay Giles, public works director, said.
The serious leak in the old pipe which leads from the Buckingham Reservoir developed about a week ago. The pipe services about 250 Glastonbury customers on Minnechaug Mountain as well as Manchester residents. If the pipe were to break Giles said about 20 percent of the town could be affected.
He said the pipes, valves and fittings for a new pipe line repair would cost about $15,000. Rental of equipment to install the pipe would cost about $4,000. Giles said he could not estimate the cost of town labor which will be used to install the 300-foot length of pipe.
Giles is seeking a bid waiver from the Board of Directors to allow him to proceed with the work as soon as possible. Town Manager Robert Weiss said he would ask the directors for the necessary signatures for the approval since it is an emergency situation.

SUPREME COURT

May Term, 1978

THE EIGHTH UTILITIES DISTRICT ET AL. V. TOWN OF MANCHESTER ET AL.

CORNER, C. J., LOSELLE, DONNARSS, LORNO AND SIDOR, JJ.
Argued May 3—decision released August 29, 1978

Action for a declaratory judgment determining the right of the named plaintiff to extend its boundary lines and to furnish fire protection in a certain area, and for injunctive relief, brought to the Superior Court in Hartford County and tried to the court, Hamil, J.; judgment for the named plaintiff, including injunctive relief, from which the named defendant appealed to this court. No error.

Victor I. Moses, town counsel, and Thomas J. Prier, assistant town counsel, for the appellant (named defendant).
John D. LaBelle, with whom, on the brief, was Robert H. Blutchman, for the appellees (plaintiffs).

LOSELLE, J. The plaintiff Eighth Utilities District (hereinafter "Eighth District" or "District") brought a declaratory judgment action against the town of Manchester and others to determine whether it has the right to extend its boundary lines and to furnish fire protection to a section of the town of Manchester known as the Buckland Area. Further relief was sought by way of a permanent injunction enjoining the town of Manchester from interfering with the extension of the Eighth District boundary and the furnishing of fire protection to the Buckland Area. The trial court rendered judgment for the plaintiffs and issued the injunctive relief sought. The defendant town of Manchester has appealed.

Although the defendant town sought to add sixty-one paragraphs of its draft finding to the court's finding, it has waived all but seven. These seven paragraphs are added to the finding as they are admitted or undisputed. The claim that two paragraphs of the finding were found without evidence is well taken and they are stricken. The remaining claim that a paragraph of the finding should be stricken because it is of doubtful meaning is denied as the paragraph is supported by evidence presented in the appendices.

An overview of the pertinent legislation relating to the fire protection services in the town of Manchester will facilitate a determination of the issues in this case. In 1915, by a special act of the General Assembly, 17 Special Acts 316, No. 289, the Eighth District was incorporated within the town of Manchester to establish and maintain, inter alia, a fire department within certain authorized limits. Another special act of the legislature, 23 Special Acts 168, No. 230, enacted in 1939, extended the area in which the District was authorized to furnish fire protection "upon application of a majority of the property owners in any particular locality in said authorized territory." The Buckland Area lies within the extended authorized area designated by this act.

In 1947, again by special Act, 25 Special Acts 217, No. 193, the charter of the town of Manchester was adopted. The charter provided that the fire districts existing in the town as of the date of the charter's adoption "shall continue in all respects as now provided by law." Manchester Charter § 10-8. The charter further allowed (§ 10-9) the town's general manager to make rules and regulations pertaining to fire protection in all those portions of the town not included within the limits of any fire districts and to enter into agreements with any fire district for aid in extinguishing fires within the town. Section 10-10 of the charter empowered the town to establish by ordinance a town fire department "provided the provisions of any such ordinance concerning the territory, jurisdiction or property . . . (of the districts) shall not become effective until such District, in a meeting duly called for that purpose, shall have voted to accept its provisions." This provision was acted upon in 1956 when such an ordinance was adopted, and the resulting town fire department has been in operation since 1957. The Eighth District has never voted to accept any town ordinance affecting its authorized territory. Until November 17, 1975, the town took responsibility for fire protection to the Buckland Area, hiring, pursuant to contract, the Eighth District to furnish such protection pursuant to § 10-9 of the charter.

In 1963 the General Assembly amended the act which originally incorporated the Eighth District within the town, by amending Special Act No. 31 Special Acts 184, No. 200. That act extended the area in which the District was authorized to offer fire protection. Section 6 of the act specifically provided that "[t]he present district boundary lines may be extended, within the territory authorized to be serviced by this act, upon the application of a majority of owners of real property in the additional area to be served, and such district boundary lines may be extended by vote of the legislative body of the district when . . . fire protection shall be furnished to such additional territory." Section 4 of the act provided that "[t]he town of Manchester may continue to furnish . . .

fire protection in those areas north of Middle Turnpike West and north of Middle Turnpike East where the town of Manchester is now furnishing such . . . services." The Buckland Area is within that territory. It should be noted that this act was passed subsequent to the time the town established its fire department and assumed responsibility for fire protection in the Buckland Area.

In April of 1974, having been requested to study the town's fire protection needs, the chief of the Manchester fire department recommended that the town take over the fire protection needs of the Buckland Area, thereby concluding the town's contractual relationship with the Eighth District. In April of 1975, the town notified the District that it planned to terminate the contract by which the District actually served the Buckland Area. During this time, the town made plans to construct a fire house in the disputed territory. At public hearings held to discuss a possible site, several townspeople in the Buckland Area spoke in opposition to the proposed firehouse.

On or about September 25, 1975, a majority of the owners of real property in the Buckland Area filed applications with the District to be included in its service area. On November 17, 1975, the District voters acted favorably upon the applications, voting by a majority to extend their boundary lines to furnish fire protection to the Buckland Area.

Realizing that certain jurisdictional difficulties were involved in their plan to take over the actual fire protection for Buckland, the town board of directors delayed construction of the firehouse pending legal advice. At a special meeting held September 29, 1975, counsel retained to study the problem stated that in his opinion the town had a clear legal authority to proceed with construction of the Buckland firehouse. Thereafter, the town board of directors voted to authorize the town's general manager to enter into a contract for the construction of the firehouse. At the time this vote was taken, the directors were aware that an application had been submitted by the Buckland Area real property owners seeking to have the Eighth District extend its fire protection boundaries to include their area. By letter dated January 2, 1976, the Eighth District advised the town that as a result of its vote, taken on November 17, 1975, to approve the application of the Buckland property owners, the District lines were expanded to include the Buckland Area and the Buckland Area would receive fire protection directly from the District.

Construing the relevant legislation, the court concluded that, since 1939, the Buckland Area property owners had the right to apply to the District for fire protection and, since 1963, the District had been empowered to accept, by vote, any such application. Consequently, a declaratory judgment was entered to the effect that "since a majority of the owners of real property in the 'Buckland Area' have so applied and since the legislative body of the Eighth Utilities District has so voted, the said District has the right to extend its District boundary lines and furnish fire protection to the so-called 'Buckland Area' within its authorized territory." Trial court's memorandum of decision (September 29, 1976).

The central issue raised on this appeal is whether the 1957 assumption by the town of the responsibility for fire protection services to the Buckland Area preempted the previously established rights of the Buckland property owners to seek protection by the Eighth District and the District's corollary right to extend its boundary into the Buckland Area. In large part, a determination of this question revolves around the significance to be accorded the relevant provisions of Special Act No. 200; 31 Special Acts 184, No. 200; as those provisions relate to the prior related special acts.

The defendant agrees that in 1939, by virtue of Special Act No. 230; 23 Special Acts 168, No. 230; the Eighth District was given authorization to extend its boundaries into the Buckland Area "upon application of a majority of the property owners" in that locality. It is the town's argument, however, that the 1947 charter similarly gave the town the right to provide fire protection to the Buckland Area and that since the town was the first to furnish this protection, the Eighth District's equivalent right terminated.

Within this context, the defendant claims that § 4 of Special Act 200 clearly recognizes that the town, having provided the Buckland Area with fire protection continuously since 1957—albeit through contract with the Eighth District—is authorized to continue this service exclusively for so long as it so desires. This argument is grounded upon the principle that the legislature is presumed to act with knowledge of the circumstances prevailing at the time of an enactment. Consequently, the town reasons, the legislature must have intended that § 4 secure the status quo.

In contravention of the established principle that a legislative act must be construed to give effect and to harmonize all of its parts, Silliman v. Silliman, 168 Conn. 144, 148, 358 A.2d 150; the defendant's argument fails to encompass the other relevant provisions of the 1963 act. Section 2 of the act defines the area in which the Eighth District is authorized to provide its services and § 6 provides the mode by which this may occur. At the time Special Act No. 200 was enacted, the town was already furnishing fire protection and taxing all of those localities within the District's authorized area not actually being serviced by the District. To accept the town's argument would in essence mean that the rights of property owners within the District's authorized area to apply for inclusion within its service area would be subject to the whim of the town: if the town chose to continue its service, then the property owners would have to accept the town's taxation and service; if, however, the town chose not to offer fire protection, the property owners would be permitted to apply to the Eighth District for its service, hoping that the District would act favorably upon their application. We cannot say that this is what the legislature intended in 1963 when it reiterated the rights granted in 1939 establishing that the Buckland Area owners had the right to apply for fire protection to the Eighth District. Rather, we agree with the court that this right has remained with the Buckland property owners since 1939 and that by virtue of their application and the District's acceptance of the application, the Eighth District is entitled to extend its boundaries to include the Buckland Area.

The town argues that its right to provide continued fire protection to the Buckland Area is in conflict with the District's claimed right to provide such service and that, consequently, the town's right should prevail in accordance with chapter 21 of the 1947 charter; see 35 Special Acts 217, No. 193, in which provides (§ 21-9) that "[i]n case of any conflict of authority between the town of Manchester and any district incorporated within the limits of said town, the authority of said town shall prevail." The weakness of this claim lies in the fact that no conflict exists. Section 4 of the 1963 act permits the town to continue furnishing fire protection to those areas in which such service is already being rendered. This right, when read in conjunction with § 2 and 6, however, is tempered by the authority of the Eighth District to move into localities within its authorized area, upon the acceptance of an application from a majority of the property owners in the specified area. Because there is no conflict, the tenet enmeshed in the 1947 act is inapplicable.

The town further claims that even if the Eighth District is entitled to extend its boundaries to include the Buckland Area, it is estopped from acting on the petition submitted by the property owners of that area. This claim is premised upon the facts surrounding the petition. Prior to the submission of the petition, some officials of the Eighth District knew of and encouraged the building of a firehouse in the Buckland Area. By the time this case came to trial, the firehouse was 85 percent completed and the town was committed for the full cost of its completion, amounting to $295,000 for the firehouse, $32,400 for the land, and $10,000 for the cost of extending the main lines into the area.

As previously stated, however, the town began construction of the firehouse knowing of the activities of the Buckland Area property owners. In fact, the town was aware of a prior petition submitted by the Buckland owners to the Eighth District, which was held to be invalid. Prior to the town's initial vote authorizing the town to enter into a construction contract, a subsequent petition was submitted by the Buckland property owners to the District, a fact of which the town was aware. "Estoppel involves the two elements of misleading conduct by one party and prejudicial harm resulting to the other party." Mercier v. American Refractories & Crucible Corporation, 151 Conn. 529, 565, 209 A.2d 716. The party asserting estoppel "must show that he has exercised due diligence to know the truth, and that he not only did not know the true state of things but also lacked any reasonably available means of acquiring knowledge." Spear-Neseman, Inc. v. Modern Floors Corporation, 149 Conn. 88, 91, 175 A.2d 565. It cannot be said that the town was without full knowledge of the problems surrounding the erection of the firehouse. Cf. Armstrong v. Leverone, 105 Conn. 464, 136 A. 71.

The claim that the trial court's interpretation of the Special Act of 1963 is unconstitutional does not appear to have been raised in the trial court and therefore need not be considered in this appeal. Practice Book, § 62; State v. Williams, 169 Conn. 322, 333, 363 A.2d 72. At any rate, the claim is without merit.

The final claim made by the town is that the injunction issued by the trial court is too indefinite. The action sought in a declaratory judgment determining whether the Eighth District had a right to extend its boundary lines and to furnish full protection to the Buckland Area. The court declared that the District had that right. This injunctive relief simply enjoined the defendant town from interfering with that right. The other matters which the town claims should have been clarified in the injunction were not matters before the court in the declaratory judgment action and, consequently, they could not have been made a part of the injunctive relief.

There is no error.

In this opinion CORNER, C. J., and LOLONO, J. concurred.
BODANSKI, J. (dissenting). The trial court's failure to consider and apply § 21-9 of the 1947 Manchester charter established by 35 Special Acts 217, No. 193, constituted error as a matter of law. Section 21-9 provides that "[i]n case of any conflict of authority between the town of Manchester and any district incorporated within the limits of said town, the authority of said town shall prevail." That section demonstrates clearly the legislative intent that when a question of jurisdiction over the same subject matter is involved, no incorporated district within the town shall have rights superior to those of the town. The purpose of that provision was to resolve any and all conflicts which might arise between the town and any incorporated district concerning issues of concurrent jurisdiction.

Despite that legislative mandate, the trial court ruled that § 21-9 did not apply because the only conflict in authority that had occurred was created by the town, in that the town refused to acquiesce in the Eighth District's assumption of authority over the Buckland Area. The court said, in effect, that if the town had agreed to the Eighth District's action, there would have been no conflict. That reasoning begs the very issue in the case since it assumes that the town had no right to rely upon its, express charter provisions.

Actually, the trial court failed to consider two pertinent provisions of the 1947 town charter: first, § 10-10 of the charter which expressly authorizes the town to furnish fire protection to all portions of the town not included within the Eighth District; second, § 21-9 which mandates that when a conflict of authority arises between the town and the District, such as the present one over the Buckland Area, the town shall prevail. Moreover, those charter provisions were not repealed by the Special Act of 1963; 31 Special Acts 184, No. 200; and no claim is made by the plaintiffs to that effect. In any event, "[r]epeals by implication are not favored and will never be presumed where the old and new statute[s] may well stand together." Waterbury Teachers Assn. v. Furlong, 162 Conn. 390, 404, 294 A.2d 546; Fair Haven & Westville R. Co. v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 442, 447, 53 A. 960; Bissell v. Dickerson, 64 Conn. 61, 29 A. 226.

In ruling that "[t]here is no conflict of authority here except what the defendant town has created" the trial court employed peculiar language since it stands to reason that a town cannot create a statutory conflict of authority. Although a town may be said to create a dispute, it is only the legislature through its statutory enactments and special acts which can create a conflict of authority or jurisdiction between a town and a district.

Such a legislatively created conflict is most evident in this case. It is precisely the conflict between the town's right to provide fire service pursuant to its charter and the District's right pursuant to the 1963 Special Act that is the controlling issue. If the 1963 Special Act permits the District to move into localities already served by the town, there is indeed a conflict of authority, and § 21-9 of the 1947 charter applies.

Furthermore, the trial court is without power to render a declaratory judgment where there is no room for reasonable question as to the rights of the parties. Brennan v. Russell, 133 Conn. 442, 445, 52 A.2d 308. The trial court's conclusion that the only conflict of authority was such as was created by the town's had the effect of destroying the court's jurisdiction. Because that conclusion recognizes no bona fide and substantial issue in dispute between the parties or a substantial uncertainty of legal relationship requiring settlement, as required by § 309 (b) of the 1963 Practice Book, the court lacked jurisdiction to render a declaratory judgment.

Moreover, the conclusion of no conflict is contrary to the court's own finding that there is actual bona fide and substantial uncertainty as to the legal relationships between the parties. Where the findings cannot support the conclusion reached, the judgment cannot stand. D'Addario v. Commissioner of Transportation, 172 Conn. 182, 186, 374 A.2d 163.

It was error for the court to refuse to consider and apply the provisions of the 1947 town charter; and, having found that there was no bona fide conflict of authority, it was error for the court to render a declaratory judgment.

In this opinion SNOD, J. concurred.

"In July of 1975, the Buckland property owners had submitted a prior application to the Eighth District, which had acted favorably upon the application, but this petition was subsequently found to be invalid."
Section 1. The name of the Eighth School and Utilities District of Manchester, incorporated by number 200 of the special acts of 1913, is changed to "The Eighth Utilities District."

Sec. 2. The territory in which the district is authorized to furnish sanitary sewer facilities and services and fire protection shall be as follows: in the town of Manchester in all of the territory north of Middle Turnpike West and north of Middle Turnpike East, from the East Hartford town line on the west to the Bolton-Vernon town line on the east.

Sec. 3. The Eighth Utilities District may furnish sanitary sewer facilities and services and fire protection south of Middle Turnpike West and south of Middle Turnpike East, and the town of Manchester may furnish sewer facilities and services and fire protection within or without the district boundaries north of Middle Turnpike West and north of Middle Turnpike East, with the approval of the respective legislative bodies of the town of Manchester and of the Eighth Utilities District.

Sec. 4. The town of Manchester may continue to furnish sewer facilities and services and fire protection in those areas north of Middle Turnpike West and north of Middle Turnpike East where the town of Manchester is now furnishing such facilities and services.

Sec. 5. The Eighth Utilities District may continue to furnish sewer facilities and services and fire protection in those areas south of Middle Turnpike West and south of Middle Turnpike East when the district is now furnishing such facilities and services.

Sec. 6. The present district boundary lines may be extended, within the territory authorized to be serviced by this act upon the application of a majority of owners of real property in the additional area to be served, and such district boundary lines may be extended by vote of the legislative body of the district when either sewer facilities and services or fire protection shall be furnished to such additional territory. If only sewer facilities and services are furnished and no fire protection is furnished any area in the district, one-half only of the mill rate for tax assessment shall be levied on the property owners in such area. If only fire protection is furnished and no sewer facilities and services are furnished in any area in the district, one-half only of the mill rate for tax assessment shall be levied on the property owners in such area.

Sec. 7. Persons eligible to vote at any meeting of the Eighth Utilities District shall be electors of the town of Manchester, and shall reside within the boundaries of the district, and shall be made for a period of three months prior to the date of the meeting at which they vote."

Thoughts

I looked at the hands of a lady and see that she has arthritis and she tells me, "I can't get to church because I can't get up the stairs any more. My knees, you know." A young man, a passenger in a car, is in an auto accident and lies unconscious in the hospital. A ten-year-old boy falls out of the back of a truck and has a concussion. We pray for them, for God to touch them and heal them and sometimes he does and sometimes he doesn't. "Why do the innocent suffer so?" I ask him. "Your ways are inscrutable, God! I don't understand." Oh, Lord, help me in my belief!"
I think God allows these crises into our lives so that we will search out his ways and we, or other loved ones in our family, will be drawn to him and find comfort and strength through his Holy Spirit.
I don't blame God. God is not the author of evil, but of good.
The devil is the author of evil. People get into tight spots sometimes because of the sin and carelessness of others around them. God wants us to be well and happy. God through the prophet Isaiah says, "And with his stripes we are healed."
Do we have faith enough to claim that promise?

Blackstone Asks Raises In Top Jobs

EAST HARTFORD — Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has recommended changing his past practice of proposing raises on an individual basis for top management town officials in a letter to the Town Council.

Blackstone urged the council to give all top and middle management officials a 5 percent raise this year and 4.5 percent hike next year. This is the same percentage he is recommending for the East Hartford Municipal Employees Union, which ratified its proposed contract this week.

In addition, Blackstone is asking the council to give top town officials the same benefit package which the 73-member municipal employees union approved.

This package includes the following increases in benefits:

• Increased mileage rate from 15 cents to 16 cents per mile for town employees who use privately-owned cars for town business.

• A full-service prescription drug rider, effective July 1, 1979.

• A $5 deductible on home-office visits by a physician under the Connecticut Medical Service Century 96 Contract, effective July 1, 1979.

• Medical coverage for $50,000 under the Major Medical Insurance policy, starting July 1, 1979, and a $1,000 life insurance policy for each retiree starting Jan. 1, 1979.

"So we may maintain a reasonable salary structure and proper relationship between general staff, middle management and other management, I believe it is important that we award the same benefits to this group of personnel as we have to all others," Blackstone said in the letter.

In the past, Blackstone has granted raises based on the merit system instead of granting them on an across-the-board basis.

The Town Council is scheduled to meet next Tuesday to vote on the municipal union's contract package.

East Hartford Cadette Has Adventure in West

By SHEILA TULLER

Herald Correspondent

EAST HARTFORD — Summer camp for local Girl Scouts usually means a trip to Timber Trails, the Connecticut Valley Camp, in Tolland, Mass.

Denise was selected by the Connecticut Valley Council to participate in Ho, West We Go. She traveled over 2,000 miles to the Girl Scout National Center West in Ten Sleep, Wyoming.

The 13-year-old cadette, flying for the first time, jetted from Bradley Field, Chicago recently and then changed flights to Denver.

"From Denver I flew in a rickety old plane to Portland, Wyoming," Denise said. "That was the scary part. Getting to camp was an adventure in itself."

Denise's swap was so well-received that she was asked to read her poems at an evening sing-along. Carefully displaying her won collection of swaps recently she explained some of her favorites.

"There was a rose rock from the Girl Scout from Oklahoma. The rose rock is natural only to that state, Denise said.

Nurse duty

Although the scouts lived in small patrols of nine girls they mixed with girls from other patrols during actively time, getting to know all the scouts that attended the camp.

In the patrol, the scouts shared cooking and cleanup duties. Each one also had one specific duty for the two-week period.

Denise, who is hoping to become a nurse, volunteered to be the "first aider."

"I took care of all the scratches, cuts and burns. I even took a tick out of a camper," she said.

Denise knew just what to do as she has earned almost every camping badge (including first aid) in the handbook.

Besides camp activities, the scouts got to go to town. "The town (Ten Sleep) had one street — Main Street," Denise said.

"The western weather was another new experience for the eastern scout. The very hot weather brought on many severe thunderstorms with heavy rain and hail."

Denise was especially impressed with the beautiful and brightly colored western skies at sunset.

Sad Goodbyes

Her most memorable experience was the last day of camp when it was time for goodbyes. "No one wanted to leave," she said.

"I'm going to Ho, West We Go is a wonderful experience. The best part was making new friends from so many different places," she said.

"We're really like to have a reunion."

So now the letters are flying between California, Florida, Connecticut, New York and many other states.

There will be one reunion next year when Denise heads back to Timber Trails as an aide-in-training. The Massachusetts representative to Ho, West We Go is an old friend of Denise's — Timber Trails days. Together they will share their western experiences with their Timber Trails campfires.

Citizens Seeking Driver Education

EAST HARTFORD — Citizens in East Hartford plan to attend the next meeting of the Board of Education and ask that body to reinstate the driver's education program at the high schools.

Because of budget pressures, the board eliminated driver education in June and also laid off the two teachers — one each at Penney and East Hartford High — who taught the classroom instruction. The budget cut amounted to $22,320.

"It's a proven fact that there are accidents because of driver's training. That should be reason enough."

As well as signatures on petitions, the citizens have letters of support from insurance companies and local police and fire departments.

"We feel we have a valid reason for wanting this," Mrs. Cassidy said. "It's a proven fact that there are accidents because of driver's training. That should be reason enough."

As well as signatures on petitions, the citizens have letters of support from insurance companies and local police and fire departments.

Students have a tremendous need and desire to have this," Mrs. Cassidy said. "We're going to try and get it reinstated."

She said the group is asking that the entire curriculum be reinstated, including classroom instruction and behind-the-wheel training. She added that the driving should not be after school because it would affect students who might have jobs.

Vannais Tapped by Connolly As Coventry Fire Marshal

COVENTRY - Jeffrey Vannais of Berry Road has been recommended for appointment to the position of fire marshal by Town Manager Frank Connolly.
 Connolly told the Town Council that he consulted with several members of the Volunteer Fire Association before making his choice. With the exception of Harry Crane, president of the fire association and a council member, "each of the individuals concur with the appointment," the manager stated.
 Vannais has served the association for more than five years and currently is vice president as well as a captain in the fire department. He chairs the fire prevention committee and has helped develop programs of fire safety education for the town.

PZC May Enlarge Maximum Density

COVENTRY - The Planning and Zoning Commission has agreed informally to consider enlarging its maximum density for apartment units from the current 150 per acre to 200 per acre.
 Action came in response to an inquiry from John Leahy, an engineer. Leahy has a development plan for a 200-unit complex which could occur if all buildings were served by a single community heating plant. The plan is for a 200-unit complex which could occur if all buildings were served by a single community heating plant. The plan is for a 200-unit complex which could occur if all buildings were served by a single community heating plant.
 However, the PZC lacked on a long list of conditions to the approval, and Leahy said his client was unable to obtain financing because of this. Leahy has now expressed interest in building a complex of about 220 units, more than present zoning regulations permit.
 At the time the restrictions were passed, Town Planner Gregory Padrick was not certain that such a limitation would hold up to a legal challenge. Commissioners said that if they did increase the maximum number of units permitted, they would still require separate septic systems for each building, which may not contain more than six units.
 The separate systems would guard against the general failure that could occur if all buildings were served by a single community heating plant. The plan is for a 200-unit complex which could occur if all buildings were served by a single community heating plant.

 HARTFORD (UPI) - Thomas H. Connell, Republican congressional candidate in the 2nd District, says a first step toward controlling inflation would be to freeze the federal government's deficit spending.

Hijack Results in Flap

BERLIN (UPI) - The hijacking of a Polish airliner to West Berlin and subsequent pleas for political asylum by 19 East German passengers has created an East-West diplomatic flap. The Soviet Union, one of the four Allied powers that have occupied the divided city since the end of World War II, demanded Wednesday the hijacker be extradited to East Berlin. The incident could mushroom into an embarrassing situation since Washington has urged repeatedly that all hijackers be returned to their home countries to face justice. The State Department said the hijacker would almost certainly be prosecuted in West Berlin under existing agreements, but it was not known whether military or local authorities would claim jurisdiction.

Loan Applicant Arrested At Disturbance in Bank

Manchester police arrested a man Wednesday afternoon who became abusive during a loan application interview in a local bank. Edward Hall, 29, of 142 Spruce St. was charged with breach of the peace and resisting arrest when he would not leave the Hartford, Conn. Bank & Trust Co., 869 Main St., after a bank official told him a loan could not be made, police said. According to police, most of the figures on the application were unreasonable, and Hall had no identification. When Hall refused to leave, the police were called, and they talked with Hall, he still refused to leave, and became loud and abusive in the presence of other bank employees and customers, police said. Hall was placed under arrest, and then became violent and had to be knocked down to the floor and handcuffed after a brief but violent struggle.

Cuba Offers to Release Hundreds of Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Cuba has offered to release hundreds of political prisoners to the United States, beginning with 48 who will be screened by U.S. officials in coming weeks, Attorney General Griffin Bell said today. Bell will consider admitting the past and present Cuban political prisoners to the United States under a special procedure of U.S. immigration law. But the decision on admission will be made on a case-by-case basis, Justice Department spokesman Terrence Anderson said. Anderson told a news briefing that individuals involved, plus 30 members of their families who also will be considered for immigration, already have applied for entry into the United States. The announcement comes amid continuing efforts to improve diplomatic relations between Cuban and the United States.

Index Down On Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A government index designed to forecast the future path of the economy fell 0.7 percent last month for the first decline since January, the Commerce Department announced today. The newest report, coupled with several other pessimistic economic measurements made public recently, gives a clear indication that the second economic growth during the half of the year will slow down considerably from the robust springtime surge. The July drop in the department's Index of Leading Economic Indicators was the first after five consecutive months of increases. The index climbed 0.5 percent in June.

Ferguson Protests Democrats' Making Decision at Caucus

Mrs. Vivian Ferguson, a Republican minority member of Manchester's Board of Directors, thinks the majority "was playing games" with the Freedom of Information Act when they conducted a board caucus to discuss the Backland fire jurisdiction case with Town Counsel David M. Barry. Mrs. Ferguson, who earlier had charged the Democrats with wrongly conducting a caucus, said this morning that she had investigated the FOI rules and discovered that the Democrats were entitled to have a private caucus. That is if they were just seeking information and did not arrive at any decision on the Backland problem, she said. "However, I can complain from a minority point of view," Mrs. Ferguson said, as she told of the six Democrats and Barry disappearing into the town council's office in the Municipal Building Tuesday night after a meeting of the full board. "On such an important issue which affects the entire community, the caucus should have been represented," she said. If, during Tuesday night's caucus, the Democratic majority told Barry to go ahead with another court case, then they would be in violation of the Freedom of Information Act, she said. The answer to this may come at the next board meeting, she said. Mrs. Ferguson doesn't favor the town bringing the Backland case before the state Supreme Court for reargument. "It would be a fruitless cause and more expense to go into another court case. There is no point in prolonging the agony," she said. "Things apparently haven't changed since the time in 1975, when the Democratic majority of the board went ahead over the protests of the Republican minority, and authorized town Manager Robert Weiss to enter into a contract for the construction of a firehouse in the disputed Backland area, she said. Today, as she said, according to Mrs. Ferguson, the minority Republicans on the board aren't being consulted about important issues in town.

Resident Protests Trucks on Sidewalk

A Bissell Street resident who lives across the street from the Manchester Ice & Fuel Inc. at 51 Bissell St. is waiting for action on his complaint about trucks parking on the sidewalk and road in front of the plant daily when they park for pickup or delivery. Stanley Gazdzicki of 58 Bissell St. said he submitted a complaint to the Highway Department, Town of Manchester, about the trucks parking on the sidewalk and road in front of the plant daily when they park for pickup or delivery. Gazdzicki said he asked Laman a couple of months ago to enforce the parking ordinance that prohibits blocking of a public thoroughfare. Laman had the parking situation under surveillance for a while, Gazdzicki said, but told Gazdzicki that he wouldn't enforce the ordinance until Gazdzicki consulted town counsel. Gazdzicki said he heard from Barry recently who said the ordinance was legal and binding and that he would ask Laman to enforce it.

Envoy's Kidnapped Son Shot and Left to Die

MEXICO CITY (UPI) - The eldest son of Mexico's ambassador to Washington, who was shot during a bungled kidnapping by Communist terrorists and left to bleed to death in an empty field, officials said today. An autopsy report said Hugo Margan Charles, 25, whose body was found by a passerby in the town of Chalco 22 miles east of Mexico City, died of death from a run gunshot to the thigh that severed an artery. The body showed signs the terrorists who kidnapped him Tuesday tried unsuccessfully to stop the bleeding, stripping Margan of all his clothes but a blue jacket and socks to give him medical treatment, the report said. The report did not indicate whether Margan was shot by the abductors or by his own bodyguards in the gambat-

Thoughts aplenty By Len Auster

Confusion Coming Up
The schoolboy football season is just a little over two weeks for some and three weeks off for most clubs. The play might not be dramatically different from past campaigns but one aspect which will change is the officiating—and that's out of necessity. The schoolboys will be governed by a combination of National Federation and CAA regulations. In past years only the latter was used. Administrators, not coaches, opted for Federation rules but because of coaches' pleas, the dual system was in effect. Full Federation rules according to an informed source, will go into force in '79. One new rule which should be watched is on a kickoff or punt which soars or rolls into the end zone, it is an automatic touchback. There will not be any 100-yard returns. On kickoffs which go out of bounds untouched by the receiving team, the pigskin automatically comes out to the 40. No more five-yard penalties, let's say it again loudly, no five-yard penalties for a net 10-yard differential and onto the next play. The down, if I'm understanding it properly, is not replayed. Only matching calls, i.e., two 15-yard penalties or two five-yard penalties, wash each other out with the down replayed. A man in motion, according to what we've been told, must run backwards, not parallel to the line of scrimmage. There will be a fine line here.

Bits and pieces
Loretta Clune, who missed most of last year with an eye infection, has returned to the coaching ranks at East Catholic. She had over 50 working out in the back parking lot Tuesday in preparation for the volleyball season. Clune, who has no assistant, said she will probably return to the roster... Manchester softball Coach Jack Holik has handed out 78 uniforms. He has a group of 31 sophomores, a number he is most pleased with... The Indians last tasted victory on the gridiron Sept. 20, 1975, a 13-6 win over South Windsor. Those clubs met yesterday in a scrimmage at Memorial Stadium. South Windsor copped the CVC title a year ago but the Bobcats were hit hard by graduation.

East Hartford high football Coach Jim Dakin was disappointed with his turnout this year. He has approximately 25-30 presently working out. Dakin offered that a couple of prospects transferred and/or elected not to play. The Hornets, class L, champs in 1976, kick off the campaign Sept. 16 against Newington. The Red Sox, limiting them to two singles and a hit batsman over the last three innings. To rub salt in the Boston wounds, Cruz invoked something dear to Boston fans, the Luis Tiant motion enroute to his sixth win of the year while striking out five. Built the same way as Tiant and with the same motion, he looked like an El Tiant double. "I used to watch Luis on television when I was a little boy and that's where I learned to pitch like that," Cruz said. The closest Boston came to scoring on Cruz was in the ninth inning, when Jim Rice who'd belted his 33rd and 36th home runs, sent a fly to deep right field. "That scared me a little," Cruz said. "I'd seen what he already had done and thought he might have done it again." Toronto had surged ahead in the top of the eighth inning on Bob Bailor's two-run double, a grounder barely under third baseman Bruce Hobson's glove. "I got to be a little frustrating," Swan said. "Here I was pitching the best of my career and on paper there was no way anyone could guess. The average guy would say, 'Oh, he's 1-5, and what's so hot about that.'" In the second half of this season Swan has three more no decisions in addition to his seven victories, but he has been the winning pitcher in five of the Mets' last seven victories. Swan, who is 27, never has had a winning season in the big leagues, not even though he is 8-5 he feels the third time is the charm. "I know I could have won a lot more games with a hit here or a hit there," he said. "All things considered, eight wins is not all that bad. I hope to win a few more over the season is over."

RSox Win Skein Checked by Jays

BOSTON (UPI) - The Boston Red Sox may not win every game for the rest of the year, but they won't go down without a fight either.

Wednesday night they split a tough doubleheader with the last-place Toronto Blue Jays, winning the first 2-1 and losing the nightcap, 7-6. The first game was extended the team's winning skein to six, as Dennis Eckersley won his ninth game at Fenway Park this year keeping his home state unblemished. The second game loss also saw Bob Stanley lose a game for the first time in his last 12 decisions.

Although they may be in last place in the AL East, Toronto played tough. "Tonight's win gives us one more that we had all last year," Blue Jay Manager Roy Harrisfield said. "I think the additions of guys like John Mabrey and Willie Horton have helped us quite a bit. They've done an awful lot for our younger players." "I also believe that our kids can feel themselves improving and that has a lot to do with their confidence. I know I'm more confident now than I was last year and we have an entire month to go. I'd say that's an improvement," he said. Harrisfield's pleasure with his team isn't unjustified. Statistics like being the team with the lowest amount of unearned runs yielded are indicative of success. "Stanley is the only pitcher I have 'I take out because they're hitting the ball too softly off him. The sad ones were hits and the hard-hit balls were outs," he said.

League Title on Line

Hartford Road Dairy Queen (18-1) and Silkey's (19-1) will tangle tonight in a double-header at Nike Field starting at 7 o'clock for the Connecticut State League championship. The Queens were third in the recently held New England Regional Tournament while Silkey's was one step behind in fourth place. Manchester players with the Queens are Jean McAdam, Gail Shimaitis, Judy Lauder, Marianne Pemerton and Barbara Startup.

North End Fire Softball Champs

Rallying for six runs in the bottom of the sixth inning and then having to withstand a last stanza comeback, North End Fire nipped Manchester Jaycees, 11-10, to annex the 1978 Town "B" Division Slow Pitch Softball Tournament championship last night at Fitzgerald Field. The Jaycees, champs of the Division I regular season, finished unbeaten in five starts in the double elimination tourney while the Jaycees, Charter Oak League runner-up, won four of six outings. The Jaycees led 5-2 after two frames and after the Hosemen knotted the count with a pair of markers in the fourth and one in the fifth inning, retook the top hand scoring twice in the upper of the sixth. But the Hosemen were not to be denied as they chased six runners across the plate. North End Fire had some anxious moments in the final frame when its defense, which was charged with five errors, let down but it recovered in time to claim the title. Dave Kosi, John Jenkins and Gordon Geer each ripped three hits in an 18-hit attack by the North Enders with Mike Vignone, Lenny Farrand, John Burger and Wayne Parker each chipping in with two blows. Mike Menin had two singles and two doubles to pace the Jaycees. Joe Stack struck three hits and Jeff Keith, Rich Bolbrock and Tom Harrington two apiece. The losers collected 17 hits.

Yanks Not Celebrating Following Latest Victory

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Ace pitcher Ron Guidry's ankle injury in the seventh inning of the New York Yankees' 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles left the defending world champions in no mood for celebration. Guidry, a southpaw who is considered the leading candidate for American League Cy Young honors, crumpled to the ground in the seventh inning, Wednesday night after being struck on the left ankle when a ball slipped out of the hands of Baltimore batter Ken Singleton. Guidry, 19-2, made Singleton his eighth victim with a 1-0 strikeout second before the accident occurred. X-rays taken immediately afterward at nearby Union Memorial Hospital proved negative. It was not known whether Guidry's bruised ankle would cause the major league's winningest pitcher to miss his next starting assignment. "We couldn't afford not having him in this pennant race," said Yankee outfielder Lou Piniella. "It would kill us if he missed two starts. He's the backbone of our staff and a clear-cut favorite for the Cy Young Award." Yankee Manager Bob Lemon agreed with Piniella. "There's not doubt Guidry is the choice for that honor because his record speaks for itself," Lemon said. "He's keeping his pitches down on the batters like he usually does." And because Guidry was not himself, Orioles' Doug Decinces and Rick Dempsey smashed home runs to rally Baltimore from 2-1 and 4-3 deficits. However, it was a seventh-inning run-scoring single by designated hitter Cliff Johnson which scored Piniella with the winning run. Oriole starter Mike Flanagan was tagged for eleven hits and four runs, but it was relief man Tippy Martinez, 3-3, who gave up the single to Johnson that snapped Baltimore's eight-game winning streak. Leading the Yankee's 16-hit attack were Chris Chambliss and Reggie Jackson with three singles apiece. Piniella, who scored two runs, chipped in with two doubles that boosted his batting average to .411. Yankee reliever Rich Gossage earned his 20th save after Guidry departed. Guidry took the league lead with 207 strikeouts, two more than California's Nolan Ryan. The mishap to Guidry marked the third time in Baltimore's last four games that a visiting pitcher has been hurt and was forced to leave the mound. Rick Horvath of Seattle and Mick Norris of Oakland were the other victims. When informed of this, Lemon asked, "Is that a record?" Elsewhere in the AL, Boston split a double-header with Toronto, winning the opener, 2-1, and dropping the nightcap, 7-6, and Kansas City routed Chicago, 12-0. Milwaukee at Cleveland was rained out. Royals 12, White Sox 6. Darrell Porter went 4-for-4 and knocked in four runs, while Pete LaCock had three RBI to back the five-hit pitching of Kansas City's Larry Gura, 15-4.

Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) - Speedy Somell, the 5-2 favorite who will race from the No. 1 post position, heads a small but fast field of eight 3-year-old trotters in Saturday's 53rd renewal of the Hambletonian.

Figures Don't Tell Whole Story

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The figures aren't all that impressive on first reading - an 8-5 won-lost record and an earned run average of 2.50. Yet Craig Swan of the New York Mets has been one of the best pitchers in the National League since the All-Star break. He has won seven games since the traditional mid-season mark, including a 10-4 decision over the San Francisco Giants Wednesday. "He's been so good," said Mets Manager Joe Torre. "I'd take him like him in a minute and never ask where he came from." "That's high praise for a pitcher in his third big league season, and Swan deserves every bit of it. He has been one of the most consistent pitchers in the N.L. from his first start this year. He's got to be a little frustrating," Swan said. "Here I was pitching the best of my career and on paper there was no way anyone could guess. The average guy would say, 'Oh, he's 1-5, and what's so hot about that.'" In the second half of this season Swan has three more no decisions in addition to his seven victories, but he has been the winning pitcher in five of the Mets' last seven victories. National League

The Phillies to their fifth straight victory. Dodgers 4, Expos 3. Steve Garvey singled with two out in the bottom of the ninth to score Bill North as Los Angeles clipped Montreal. Believer Char Hoffman, 5-3, was the winner. Wayne Twigg, pitcher at Philadelphia, pitched a 6-0 shutout. Heber in the top of the ninth to lift

McWilliams in two victories away from tying Buzz Capra's club mark for most consecutive wins. Dave Kingman's two-run homer in the fourth ended McWilliams' shutout bid and taught the 6-foot-5 pitcher a painful lesson. "Joe (Nolan) had me for an inside fastball and I got it over the plate. I threw it as hard as I could. Like they say up here, you can't blow it by anybody," so I guess I fouled out." Bob Horner, another Atlanta rookie, stroked two RBI singles as the Braves dropped the Cubs into third place, five games behind first-place Philadelphia. In other NL games, St. Louis ousted Houston 4-2, Philadelphia edged San Diego, 6-5, and Los Angeles beat Montreal, 4-3. Pittsburgh was rained out in Cincinnati 4, Astros 2. Bob Forsch, 10-15, ended a personal nine-game losing streak with a four-hitter and Jerry Mumphrey

Young Pitchers Spotlighted; Giants Drop Two Games Back

NEW YORK (UPI) - Two young National League pitchers sent their pennant-seeking opponents back to the drawing table to lead a winning formula.

Atlanta's rookie left-hander, Larry McWilliams, tossed an eight-hitter in his seventh straight game without a loss Wednesday night, leading the Braves to a 6-2 triumph and three-game sweep of the Chicago Cubs, contenders for the NL Eastern Division crown. Earlier Wednesday, Craig Swan won his seventh straight game to lift the New York Mets to a 10-4 victory over San Francisco - dropping the second-place Giants two games behind Los Angeles in the NL West.

McWilliams in two victories away from tying Buzz Capra's club mark for most consecutive wins. Dave Kingman's two-run homer in the fourth ended McWilliams' shutout bid and taught the 6-foot-5 pitcher a painful lesson. "Joe (Nolan) had me for an inside fastball and I got it over the plate. I threw it as hard as I could. Like they say up here, you can't blow it by anybody," so I guess I fouled out." Bob Horner, another Atlanta rookie, stroked two RBI singles as the Braves dropped the Cubs into third place, five games behind first-place Philadelphia. In other NL games, St. Louis ousted Houston 4-2, Philadelphia edged San Diego, 6-5, and Los Angeles beat Montreal, 4-3. Pittsburgh was rained out in Cincinnati 4, Astros 2. Bob Forsch, 10-15, ended a personal nine-game losing streak with a four-hitter and Jerry Mumphrey

Seven-foot high jumper
Martens Left Mark As UMass Trackman

Before Joe Martens was presented his degree at the University of Massachusetts last spring, the East Catholic High grad carved out quite a career with the track squad.

Martens played sub-varsity basketball in his freshman season, finding free time to practice his specialty—sprints and the high jump in track.

After several conflicts in meets and games, Martens turned his full attention to the classroom, attending to track. This didn't stop him from his dorm mates who enjoyed watching Martens dunk the basketball with the ease of a seven-footer in pre-game drills.

UMass Track Coach Ken O'Brien said Martens did not miss a single day of practice in four years. "Joe is a pure competitor, he competed well under all circumstances. I've seen him compete with various injuries and still come through with good performances," O'Brien noted.

Hennequin Young Vet In Quarter Midgets

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer
Call him a young veteran. Jeff Hennequin is young—11 years old—but a veteran—this being his fifth year in competition.

He'll remember as he qualified for the Quarter Midget Grand Nationals in Toledo, Ohio, and did well in two classes.

The youngster, who races Sundays at the Little T Track in Thompson, captured senior stock and heavy modified honors at Silver City Track in Meriden and at Little T on May 30 and July 4 to qualify for the Nationals.

Jeff, who will enter the sixth grade at the Church of Assumption School, spent the first week in Ohio (the Nationals were Aug. 8-9) in qualifying heats. He was 12th fastest qualifier in heavy modified from among 100 entrants and 11th fastest qualifier in senior stock, which had approximately 120 entrants.

Racing in the semi-main event (10 car limit per heat), he was seventh in senior stock (17th overall) and second in heavy modified, the winner of the latter best driving a factory-backed car. Jeff was the youngest driver in the heavy modified class, all other competitors 13-14 years old.

Jeff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hennequin of 60 Deerfield Dr., drives two quarter midgets sponsored by Manchester Oil Heat. The father and Ed Battle of Shelton serve as chief mechanics.

Jeff is current point leader in senior stock (heavy class) at Thompson and last year was point champion in senior stock and heavy modified. At last year's banquet, he was voted Sportsman of the Year by his fellow competitors.

Female Wrist-Wrestler Would Like More Identity

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Nowhere in the domain of men-only, says Debbie Lyle, is the skill she excels at resented more.

She's a world champion at wrist-wrestling, also called arm-wrestling — that he-man test of strength you see in bars and in television soap commercials aimed at the very-much male consumer.

Lyle, 25, a graduate student at the University of California at Davis, wrist-wrestles competitively with other women and wins honors despite the scoffing and bias she says goes on among male practitioners.

"There's still a lot of sexism," she says. "I used to beat most of the guys when I was younger." She said, "A friend of mine talked me into trying the state tournament at Rancho Cordova (a Sacramento suburb). I did and won state titles in 1973, '74, '75 and '76."

At 5-9½ and weighing 142 pounds, Lyle also scuba dives and plays softball, racketball and volleyball. She gets into shape for matches by lifting weights and jogging.

They were wrist-wrestlers, Clearwater said. The event almost turned into a free-for-all, she said, when the announcer challenged the men to present two pairs of women's stockings for two six packs of beer.

"It was really deflating for me as a woman," said Lyle, who took third place in the women's lightweight division. "You don't feel like competing for a circus. A lot of men don't take us seriously and this lowers the quality of the sport for women."

The Champion Sparkplug Co. is Lyle's major sponsor, and she also has received financial backing from Davis merchants.

Clearwater cited instances at the National Wristwrestling Championships in Atlanta, Ga., which she said illustrated the second-class status of women athletes.

The program manual contained no photographs of a female contestant, she said.

"The only women shown in the program manual were models advertising the bars," Clearwater said. "They wore hot pants, plunging necklines and were sitting in seductive positions."

She said the tournament's announcer failed to acknowledge the athletic skills of the female contestants, introducing them as "a couple of the most beautiful girls and wrist-wrestlers, too."

"It was like an afterthought that they were wrist-wrestlers," Clearwater said.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

A trip to Stockbridge, Mass., is an easy one-day expedition from Manchester and it has some beautiful gardens as well as houses of historic interest that are open to the public. My wife and I were on board a bus chartered recently by the Mansfield Historical Society, to see the homes of Daniel Chester French, the sculptor, and Joseph Hodges Choate, New York lawyer and ambassador to England. Both men acquired their homes in the Berkshire hills and, for Mr. French, a sculptor's studio, late in the late century.

Neither home is now in private hands. The French estate was given to the National Trust by his daughter, also a sculptor. The Choate estate is owned by the Trustees for Preservation. There are small admission charges. There is no place to buy food at either home, so packed lunches are in order. Mr. French is best known for his statue of the seated Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial at Washington, D.C. There is a smaller model of another work that first brought him to public notice, the Minute Man at Concord. The gardens enhanced the charm of the two-story white frame house where the family lived. A perennial border, backed by a low stone wall, looks today as it must have looked in 1897, when the family moved to Stockbridge.

'Thistle' Flowers
The flowers were a mixture of many kinds and colors. Delphinium and roses, shasta daisies and Canterbury bells were in bloom. Conspicuous were the round, blue balls of Echinops blossoms. The common name of Echinops is Russian Globe thistle, and the plants have the sharp thorns of a pasture thistle. The fragrant flowers are a favorite of honey bees. They grow head-high.

The botanical name of this flower, Yucca, is more often used than its romantic "common name," Spanish bayonet. (Photo by Atwood at Naumkeag, private estate of the Joseph Choate family at Stockbridge, Mass., now open to the public.)

The home is called Chesterwood. Mr. French's middle name, and the flower gardens are said to have been inspired by the gardens of Florence, Italy, where the artist studied as a young man. Wide, graded paths through the surrounding hemlock woods are adorned with pieces of sculpture, and this year the modern sculptors of the Berkshire area had been invited to bring their works to be shown, here and there, along the paths. These angular constructions of wood and metal were in sharp contrast to the bronze and marble sculptures of Daniel Chester French.

It was a short ride from Chesterwood to Naumkeag, the Choate family's estate on another Stockbridge hill, with a 26-room mansion designed by McKim, Mead and White and built in 1886. A guide told us that when the family came here for the summer from New York they had a staff of 20 for the house and stables, and 40 gardeners for the grounds.

There is a Chinese garden, surrounded by a high brick wall, and intended for quiet contemplation. There are appropriate figures of dragons and Chinese deities, and more level than flowers. Outside the wall there is a jewel of a small rock garden, with curved flower beds planted with roses. It must take many hours of a gardener's time to keep these flowers completely free of weeds and the turf between them closely clipped.

U-and-Down Landscape
The grounds of Naumkeag were laid out by a leading landscape architect of the day, Fletcher Steele. Mr. Choate had chosen a site at the crest of Prospect Hill, looking across the deep valley of the Housatonic River to more Berkshire hills. The architect may have wondered what he could do with this steep slope. His solution was a wide, wooden stairway, with many zigzags and a bench at each turn where climbers can catch their breath. The stairs climb through a grove of white birches, and a small brook, in a man-made channel, flows down the center of the stairway.

Gardens near the house are terraced and one of them has been made a part of the living space, called the Outdoor Room. Oak pilings, dredged from a 75-year rest at the bottom of Boston Harbor, and carved and painted to resemble the poles that line the canals of Venice, outline the "room." A flagstone floor surrounds a black-mirror pool. Flowing across the black mirror, the water looks bottomless, but it is about half an inch deep.

Gypsy Moths
Henry Mallett of Thomas Drive reported that gypsy moth females have laid their eggs. If you scrape off the flat, tan patches of eggs on tree trunks, you can reduce the population next year.

Elm City Considers Big Transit Center

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — City officials are considering turning the city's dilapidated railroad station into a major transportation center with $13.6 million in federal funds. City and state officials were to outline the project today. Plans call for renovation of the 58-year-old station. The deteriorated facility is listed in the National Register of Historic Places but was abandoned about 10 years ago.

The project has been stalled because the city and state could not agree on how to provide local and state funding, according to the Federal Railroad Administration. But the state has now agreed to provide $4.5 million and the city $2.8 million, officials said. Construction could be completed in three and a half years. Plans also call for track and platform improvements, construction of a bus terminal, facilities for airport limousine services and a parking garage.

Nationwide Movement Seeks to Free Hearst

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — Their ranks include Russian Orthodox monks from New York, law enforcement officers from Illinois, farmers from California's Central Valley and writers of songs against injustice. They form the nucleus of a nationwide movement to free Patricia Hearst, the newspaper heiress kidnap victim who joined her captors in crime. Their contention is — she would have had no part in lawbreaking had she not been raped, beaten and terrorized. They are asking President Carter to secure her release from the federal prison at Pleasanton, Calif., where she is expected to remain for 14 months completing a seven-year bank robbery sentence.

"We have had an overwhelming response from all over the state and all over the country," said the Rev. Ted Dumke, an Episcopal priest and longtime Hearst friend, who chairs the Committee for the Release of Patty Hearst. "People are beginning to see really what happened to Patty. When they look into the case, and really start to understand what happened, I think they see really there has been a gross injustice here."

The committee's formation initially was loosely scattered around the country. Now, with responses coming in from overseas as well, the group is coordinated through a post office box in Westchester, Ill. In northern California, the movement took root a few hours after Miss Hearst was taken to the Pleasanton facility May 15.

By the end of the month, 9,000 informational packets — each including a petition — were being mailed to the White House and from a number of other sources, inquiring about clemency, and taking positions for and against the majority are for."

Dumke believes the committee eventually will generate enough grass-roots support across the country to persuade President Carter to extend executive clemency for Miss Hearst. "President Carter has said he is concerned about human rights around the world," Dumke said. "And if he is, he certainly should review this case. We think Patty has suffered one of the great injustices in modern history."

"Eventually, people will see the truth of the whole case. The truth shall make her free."

As for Miss Hearst, she is grateful and appreciative of what the people are doing, says Dumke, who sees her at least twice a week. Dumke added the Hearst family is kept informed of the committee's work, but stressed, "We receive no money from them and no direction from them." Most of the materials needed by the organization have been donated by supporters.

"I hope this will prove that there's no point in prosecuting a case like this," she said. During the trial, the defense had called a series of medical experts who testified Miss Pitchford, rejected by her fiancé Dwight Allen Mundy of Hendersonville, Tenn., when she became pregnant, was psychologically unbalanced and unaccountable for her self-inflicted abortion.

Tuesday, Mundy, a former Western Kentucky student, testified he encouraged the abortion because he could not financially support the child.

Talks Accomplish Little

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal mediator Wednesday night with little prospect of success, said he is concerned about human rights around the world. ### Reporter Freed In New Jersey

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber has been freed from jail pending an appeal of his contempt conviction for refusing to turn over notes that led to the murder indictment of a surgeon. After nearly four weeks behind bars, the reporter left the Bergen County Jail Wednesday night saying he was "delighted to be out."

The New Jersey Supreme Court in a 7-0 decision ordered Farber released and stayed all fines against him and the newspaper pending a hearing Tuesday. "The reason I was in jail was because I did not comply with a massive subpoena that wanted everything I had as part of my investigation, confidential material or not. I did what I had to do in the public interest. Any newsman served with a subpoena like that would have to do what I did," Farber said.

"This is a much happier day," said A.M. Rosenthal, who accompanied Farber as he left the jail. Rosenthal, the executive editor of the Times, was with Farber when he surrendered to authorities on Aug. 4 to begin serving an indefinite jail term aimed at coercing him to turn over his notes. The Supreme Court's order came one day after New Jersey Attorney General John Deagan told the court he supported the release of Farber as well as a freeze on the $5,000-a-day fine levied against the Times on July 24.

Both were found guilty of withholding notes subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Mario Jascavlevich for possible use in the trial, now in its 27th week. "We are gratified that the New Jersey Supreme Court has decided to release Myron Farber and grant us the hearing we have so long sought," said Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the Times. The court also acted to consolidate the appeals now pending in the Appellate Division and said it will "hear all arguments on an accelerated basis on all issues in the case," a court spokesman said. "The court is granting a stay of all orders imposing civil as well as criminal sanctions as of this date."

Thus far, a total of $220,000 in fines has been levied against the Times, including a $100,000 penalty for its conviction for criminal contempt. Farber was fined $2,000 and given an indefinite jail term plus six months for his contempt convictions. In 1976, Farber wrote investigative stories on a series of mysterious deaths at Riverdale Hospital in Oradell in the mid-1960s. His stories led to the reopening of the case and the indictment of Jascavlevich, a 50-year-old surgeon, on charges of slaying five hospital patients with overdoses of the powerful muscle-relaxant curare.
