Travel Is Broadening?

Yesterday, along with seven other volunteers, I served as a chaperone on a Sunday school field trip to Colonial Williamsburg. We must have each earned a gold star in the heavenly ledger for our efforts.

The trip was a masterpiece of over-organization. Before we left with our busload of 25 third graders, the teacher divided us into seven color-coded groups.

It's an exciting way to learn American history. At the Printer's Shop the kids actually ran the old printing press. One of them inked it, one put the paper in, everybody had a chance to get printer's ink on his fingers.

Israelis Agree To Withdrawal

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — Israel has apparently agreed to the principle of eventual withdrawal from the West Bank and the Gaza Strip territories they have occupied since 1967. But sources at the Camp David summit said today substantial difficulties are still in the way of a formal peace accord.

Sources confirmed that agreement on the principle of withdrawal from the lands Israel has controlled since the 1967 Middle East war is coming into clearer focus, but stipulations and reservations on both sides still must be worked out.

Killian Needs 'To Cool Off'

HARTFORD (UPI) — Still smarting from the sting of defeat, Lt. Gov. Robert Killian today gave Gov. Ella Grasso only a qualified endorsement, saying he needs a "cooling off period" and some commitments from her on the issues.

Today's meeting in the governor's Capitol office was the first time since his historic confrontation that the victor and the vanquished in Tuesday's Democratic gubernatorial primary sat down together to try to patch up their political differences.

"There's no rancor, there's no hostility, there's no bitterness," Killian said as he emerged alone from Mrs. Grasso's office after their 20-minute discussion.

But Killian, the first lieutenant governor in Connecticut history who dared to challenge a sitting governor of the same party, produced only a lukewarm endorsement for Mrs. Grasso, who faces Rep. Ronald Sarasin, R-Conn., in November.

The judge, obviously angered by the union's refusal to obey his injunction, told the teachers subpoenaed Wednesday the illegal strike was a "flagrant and outright disobedience of an injunctive order."

The judge imposed a $50 per day fine against each teacher and a $10,000 per-day penalty against the union. He also said the union would have to pick up the tab for keeping teachers in jail.

In Boston, 5,000 public school teachers rebuffed their union leadership Wednesday and voted to accept the School Committee's latest contract offer. The 1,708 to 1,353 vote headed off a strike that threatened to cancel classes today.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling her late husband a "sick" man, Marina Oswald Porter testified under oath today she believes Lee Harvey Oswald shot and killed President John F. Kennedy and that he acted alone.

In her second day of dramatic testimony before the House Assassinations Committee, the Russian-born witness, who has remarried and currently lives in Texas, said Oswald was probably mentally ill at the time of Kennedy's murder.

But, she said, she did not recognize his illness for what it was. "I was only 21 when he died," she recalled under questioning. "And I wasn't mature enough to recognize the symptoms. I did not recognize the state of his mind. It did not occur to me then that he was sick."

Apartment Dwellers Denied Screens for Front Doors

Residents of several Manchester apartment buildings will not have screens on their doors or cellar windows although some had argued to get them. The town's Housing Code Enforcement Committee Wednesday approved a variance so that the apartment owners would not be required to install the screens. The apartment owners granted the variance are Romar Associates, 124-130 Highland St.; Damato Enterprises, Henry Street and 162-182 Homestead St.; 1418 Housing Corp., Homestead Street; Andrew Ansaldi, Sycamore Lane and Northwood Apartments on Hilliard Street. The committee cited that the apartments involved exceed minimum ventilation requirements included in the town housing code. Ben Rubin of 124 Highland St. did not agree with the committee's decision. He had made the original com-

Town Says It Agreed To Firemen Overtime

Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said today that the Town of Manchester has agreed to pay its firefighters time-and-one-half for routine overtime pay. The present difference between the town and the union centers on when such policy would go into effect. Members of the union, Local 1579 of the International Association of Firefighters, Tuesday night rejected a contract proposal that had been agreed to by town and union officials. Robert Martin, president of the union, said that the rejection was based on the union's desire for time-and-one-half pay when members fill in on regular shifts and complete more than 42 hours in a week. The union members do not expect to be paid when they are called to fires while off-duty. But, they do expect time-and-one-half pay when members fill in on regular shifts and complete more than 42 hours in a week. McCarthy said this morning that the town has agreed to make such time-and-one-half payments for routine overtime work. "The town has examined the issue and the practice of fire departments across the state. We reached an agreement with the union to pay time-and-one-half during the term of the contract," McCarthy said. Martin said that the proposal brought to the union Tuesday would have provided time-and-one-half

Guerrillas Resisting Nicaraguan Attacks

Managua, the Sandinistas looted and burned down the city hall overnight and extended their control to practically the entire city. Guardsmen on the outside fired in bursts occasionally but made no other immediate moves to challenge the rebels. In the northern neighborhoods around Leon, residents said the Sandinistas had given orders to leave all doors open in apparent preparation for house-to-house fighting. The guardsmen fortified themselves in cathedral towers and deployed snipers. The worst of the aerial strafing was in two neighborhoods north of Leon. A thick column of smoke rose from Subtiana, one of the danger zones. Loud explosions were heard in the heart of the town after dark, but the origin could not be determined immediately. The Sandinistas, equipped with heavy arms including bazookas and rockets marked "made in USA," also set fire to the home of Somoza's economics minister, Roger Blandon, who was on an official mission to Taiwan. The guerrillas claimed they killed "two or three" guards on duty at the palatial residence. In Esteli, 80 miles north of

Agostinelli Roast To Launch Campaign

A "Roast of Nate Agostinelli" will be the highlight of a dinner-dance Oct. 14 at Willie's Steak House, Center St., to kick-off Manchester's 1978-79 March of Dimes Campaign. Nathan G. Agostinelli, who was mayor of Manchester from 1966 to 1971, was commissioner of the State of Connecticut from 1971 to 1975 — the first and only resident of Manchester ever elected to a statewide office. In November 1974 he ran unsuccessfully for the post of Connecticut lieutenant governor. Agostinelli was one of the founders of the Manchester State Bank and now is its president. He was the recipient of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce 1977 "M" award — an honor bestowed annually on a town resident with outstanding contributions to the town and effort to civic endeavors. Born in Rockville, Agostinelli has resided in Manchester since his infancy, attended local schools and was graduated from Manchester High School. He attended the University of Hartford and the Connecticut Army National Guard. He and his wife, the former Helena Hare of Manchester, live at 144 Delmont St. with their sons, Michael, 21 and Steven, 18. Agostinelli was co-chairman of Manchester's Bicentennial Committee and is co-president of the Manchester Band Shell Committee. He is a veteran of the Korean Conflict (from 1952 to 1954) and now is a colonel in the Connecticut Army National Guard.

The state Freedom of Information Commission Wednesday approved a ruling by one of its members that the Manchester Board of Directors met in violation of FOI laws last June. The meeting was a special one scheduled soon after the town had been notified that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development would withhold $485,000 in Com-

Bahai's Plan Public Talk

The public is invited to attend a "Bahai" public meeting sponsored by the Bahai's of Manchester at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the home of Ralph and Edith Sacuzzo, 256 Green Road. Dr. Howard Garey, Yale University professor, will speak on the Bahai Faith, and he and Mel Thomas of Hartford, former professional musician, will provide entertainment. Donations are not accepted; refreshments will be provided. The Bahai's faith, rapidly growing throughout the world, stresses the unity of God, of humanity, and of religion. As an alternative, why not present the median salary of patrolmen? Lumping patrolmen with detectives and supervisory personnel will not result in an accurate figure for the typical beat officer where the vast majority of police work. Including overtime in the salary figures is absurd. Overtime is not a gift; it is compensation for work above and beyond the regular work week. Certainly not all officers want or receive the same amount of overtime, which tends to cast doubt on the accuracy of McCarthy's salary figures. As a former officer of the Phoenix, Ariz., Police Department, I must add that Mr. McCarthy failed to mention a few of our benefits, including a 20-year retirement plan with no minimum retirement age, time and one half for court time, and pay differentials for second and third shifts. Since Mr. McCarthy brought up the comparison, maybe Phoenix could be used as a guide in contrast negotiations.

WE LUV' YA PATTY

Regardless of salary, some things can't be replaced — have you ever spent holidays and weekends away from your family? Worked rotating shifts? Weekends? All three?

Would you risk your life on patrol, where you are highly visible and available to both the concerned citizen and the hardened criminal — and where everyone knows you are but you can only guess who they are?

With the high turnover rate of police officers in general, perhaps it would be more economical to provide a higher salary than to hire and train replacements for officers who leave. Like anything else, you get what you pay for.

It's my personal opinion the public would be willing to trim expenses elsewhere and pay police a salary commensurate with their duties. Perhaps in the public interest, Mr. McCarthy would be so kind as to inform us what his salary is (including pension, overtime, benefits and the like) so that a comparison might be made between the administration and the best officer.

Yours truly,

The Senior Center

Manchester Green School, as expected, has been turned over to the senior citizens for a new center. The decision by the Board of Directors Tuesday allays the fears of Wally Fortin and the seniors on Myrtle Street about a new home. Renovation work must now await funding.

The seniors had their own building sites committee and it did its work in the spring. It recommended Green School. There were people opposed, including seniors, but not many voiced opinions. Most seniors favored the move, or silence is consent.

We cautioned, in the spring when the suggested use of the school was made, that there need not be haste in the decision. We questioned the location, traffic, and cost of renovation. Look at all the alternatives, we suggested.

It appears that those involved did look at all the alternatives. The Green School had the backing of the Town Building Committee and the Board of Directors was unanimous in its decision.

So let's get on with the renovation as quickly as possible and provide our seniors with an expanded center that will give them flexibility in their programs. For one of our will question what Wally Fortin and Gloria Benson have done to make the golden years enjoyable and pleasant for our seniors. Manchester was among the early towns to start a program for its seniors and it has been a model for others.

Brooke's Toughest Battle

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
 BOSTON (NEA) — When Massachusetts voters go to the polls on Sept. 19, it is just possible that the fate of the nation's only black U.S. senator will depend on the weather. Sen. Edward W. Brooke is — quite openly and fervently — "praying for sunshine" on radio. The hardcore conservatives backing the GOP opponent, primary talk-show host Avi Nelson, would go to the polls in a daze. His own supporters, especially "the old folks," might not.

The fact is that Ed Brooke is going to need more than mere fair weather friends to win a third term in the Senate.

As one of the Senate's most liberal Republicans, he was a natural target for a primary challenge from the right. Republican Party regulars, both here and nationally, shudder at the thought of ousting the GOP's one and only black member of Congress. But the "new right" conservatives have no such compunction and, led by direct mail wizard Richard Viguerie, they are pouring money and manpower into the Nelson campaign.

They have already scored one upset this year, with conservative Jeffrey Bell's surprise victory in New Jersey over veteran liberal Sen. Clifford Case. They think they smell another one in the making here.

Unlike Case, Brooke has no age problem to worry about. But he has something at least as hard — a lingering personal finances scandal that exploded into public view when his divorce settlement temporarily fell apart earlier this summer and his own daughter leaked the details to the press.

It looks now as though Brooke will probably escape any official sanctions, either in Massachusetts or in the Senate, where the ethics committee is not expected to act on his case until after the Sept. 19 primary.

But the whole flap not only gave Republican voters a possible reason to desert the senator, it also prompted a last-minute stampede of Democratic entrants in the Senate race.

The three leading contenders going into the stretch run appear to be liberal Rep. Paul Tsongas, Secretary of State Paul Guzzio and Boston school committee member Kathleen Sullivan Alioto.

Brooke remains optimistic that he can defeat any of the Democrats if he can survive the Nelson challenge in the primary and he may be right.

Thought

"The judgment of the Lord are true and righteous altogether, sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb." — Ps. 19:9, 10

One of my favorite passages is from a Swiss Philosopher-Theologian. He said, "If there are no absolutes by which to judge a society, then the society itself becomes the absolute." What this means to me is that there must be an Ultimate Source from which we can get some things that are Universal Absolutes not bound by history or culture.

If we have no Universal Absolutes, then whatever society says will be absolute, whether it be right or wrong. It doesn't make a difference whether this is decided by a minority or majority, for in either case they can deny something that

Another Carter Nominee In Trouble

By IRA R. ALLEN
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the first nominations President Carter sent the Senate when the 95th Congress began caused him grief and, now, one of the last the Senate will consider may cause him as much pain.

The first was Theodore Sorenson to head the CIA. He withdrew under fire, admitting he removed classified materials from the Kennedy White House for his personal use.

The latest problem is John McGarry, a Boston lawyer and businessman and protégé of Speaker Thomas O'Neill, whom Carter wants on the Federal Election Commission.

It was 12 months ago when Carter moved to fill two vacancies on the Federal Election Commission. The 3-year-old agency charged with enforcing campaign finance laws enacted after Watergate.

We, the students and staff of Nathan Hale School, are very appreciative of the support and assistance we have received from so many people, and would publicly like to say thank you.

It would be virtually impossible to name everyone who had a part in the completion of this beautiful project, and for fear that we would overlook

Capital Fare

By ANDREW TULLY
 WASHINGTON — At a dinner party recently, a woman guest checked some other members of the assembly by saying calmly "You're damn right I wouldn't resist a rapist."

But I agreed with her. The woman who tries to fight back against such an attacker risks serious injury or death. Submitting to rape is not the ideal solution; after all, the victim suffers severe trauma. But it is prudent. When it is all over, the victim is alive and in most cases has escaped a beating.

Getting justice is another story. A lawyer who has represented many rape victims over the course of a quarter of a century once called rape an almost riskless crime. Trials are tougher on the victim than on the accused.

And that, of course, is why women's rights groups, congenitally and admirably, continue their vigorous campaign for tougher rape laws and more protection for the civil rights of the victim. It is one of their crusades that should have 100 percent male support, if only because no male can be sure that the woman closest to him will not some day be thrust into the victim's role.

These thoughts are prompted by a report of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) which says that only one out of every five men brought to trial for sexual assault in the District of Columbia is convicted. That rate of conviction is far below that for murder, robbery and burglary. Moreover, the situation is much the same nationwide.

One reason advanced by the LEAA for the scandalous District record seems incredible. It is the tendency of prosecutors to challenge the victim's credibility.

Says the report: "We cannot tell from our analysis whether committing witnesses in rape cases lie or exaggerate more frequently than complaining witnesses in other cases, but it is clear that they are perceived as doing so. "It is not the victim's discouragement with the case that leads to the high attrition in rape cases, but the decisions made by the prosecutor and judge." According to the study, the prosecutor's or judge's decision to drop a case or dismiss it "may be made in anticipation of a jury's response to the victim's case if the case goes to trial."

Some anticipation. If a case goes to trial, it is the prosecutor's duty to try it as hard as he can, and the judge's to see that the case is presented according to the laws of evidence. If the judge dismisses the case, he should do so because he believes there is no case, not because he's afraid the jury might not believe the victim's story.

Besides, what's a prosecutor doing taking a case into a courtroom if he thinks the victim is a liar? Among other things, he's wasting the taxpayer's money, not to say attempting to convict a defendant he has decided is innocent.

Plans for Dental Clinic Back to Discussions

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

Plans for Manchester's dental clinic have been stalled since the original plan for the clinic to be in the renovated Bentley School were scrapped last month. That plan was dropped when it was learned that the cost of dental clinic renovations was about $50,000 in excess of the $20,000 the town had estimated. The clinic was expected to have opened later this year.

"We're back to the discussion stage where we were about a year ago," Ronald Kraatz, health administrator, said. The Manchester dental clinic committee, scheduled to meet Tuesday, postponed its meeting until a joint meeting with the Advisory Board of Health on Sept. 26.

"The interim will give us time to formulate some temporary plans until we can set up a permanent clinic," Kraatz said.

Town Manager Robert Weiss has suggested to the Board of Directors that the clinic might be relocated at the present Senior Citizens Center on Linden Street when the new center at the Green School is ready for occupancy.

Kraatz said that the senior citizens would be able to move into the Green School for some time because of the extensive wall patching to be done at the old school. All the state blackboards have been removed leaving the walls in an unsightly state and in need of extensive patching. He added that it will probably cost more to repair the walls in the Green School than the old blackboards are worth.

Kraatz said that there might be some private dental office space for temporary use. He spoke of an unused equipped office on Main Street as a possibility. He also referred to a similar idea discussed by the dental clinic committee within the past year, but which was never resolved.

Kraatz said the dental clinic committee and the advisory board of health will be working with Wally Fortin, Senior Citizens Center director, the town building committee and the town to expedite renovations for a dental clinic in the old senior citizens center building when it is vacated.

Pinochle Zocco To Help Run Charity Radiothon

Manchester Top secret in the Manchester Senior Citizens Pinochle Group game Sept. 7 at the Army & Navy Club are Mabel Wilson, 619, Lee Steinmeyer, 600, Cam Vendrillo, 596, Kate Frey, 593, Martin Bakstan, 592, Madeline Morley, 590, Meyer Levelt, 583, Bess Moonan, 581, Betty Jesanis, 578, Kitty Byrnes, 575, Sam Schors and Ann Fisher, 565, Alberta Cobert, 562, and Rene Maire, 557.

John V. Zocco, owner of Giovanni's Restaurant at 250 Hartford Road, is co-chairman of the fourth annual radiothon in the Hartford area to raise funds to help the children in St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. Children admitted to its research programs receive total medical care at no cost.

Zocco has set this year's goal at $60,000, an increase of $15,000 over last year's goal. The radiothon will be conducted from Saturday at 10 a.m. to midnight on Sunday over radio station WRCH/WRCQ from a tent in the rear of the station at Birdseye Road, Radio Park in Farmington.

Zocco said that Mary Muro of Bolton, area director for the fund drive, is in Las Vegas this week contacting Danny Thomas, founder of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, to see if he will come east to appear on the Hartford area radiothon.

Persons may phone in their pledges during the radiothon by calling 677-8881 (collect), or by mailing them to St. Jude's, Box 276, Manchester, Conn. 06040, after the radiothon.

Zocco said that disc jockeys from other radio stations will volunteer their time to participate on the radiothon by appealing for pledges in between musical numbers. He said that patients who have been treated at St. Jude's and doctors will also talk on the radiothon.

Hilda Esteves, the petitioner for the subdivision, wants to extend Timber Trail by removing a temporary cul-de-sac and continuing the street.

This proposed extension would then intersect a proposed extension of Brandon Road at a right angle. Brandon Road would end there after the intersection with a short street stub near the town line.

Several commission members expressed fears of a possible future development coming in from the Candlewood Drive area in Glastonbury to the East Hartford town line.

Members said they might be placed in a difficult position if a development were built right to the doorway of an East Hartford street.

It would then be difficult, members said, for the PZC to turn down future requests for connecting possible Glastonbury roads to East Hartford streets.

Charles Sheehan, town engineer, said any street which crosses a town boundary must be approved by the commissions of both towns. He said if the Glastonbury PZC wanted to extend one of its streets to the East Hartford border, the Capital Region Council of Governments would notify East Hartford of its action.

"You've got the final say about any developments on East Hartford property," he told the PZC Wednesday night.

Three Timber Trail residents spoke in opposition to the proposed subdivision.

David Donovan of 175 Timber Trail said he likes the wooded area at the end of his street and would not like to see the temporary back-to-back cul-de-sacs which would allow the subdivision to be built.

Two other Timber Trail residents echoed Donovan's sentiments. They said Timber Trail is now a "child-safe" street, but a new development would create heavier traffic.

Sheehan said Timber Trail is not designed to handle heavy volumes of traffic. It is not a major arterial road, he said.

PZC member Frederick Bartlett suggested a possible curving of the road at the intersection of the proposed Timber Trail and Brandon Road extensions.

Sheehan said he envisioned problems with roadway geometry requirements if the road were curved.

However, Sheehan suggested that care should be taken regarding the manner in which the road is extended, referring to the question of possible developments in Glastonbury.

PZC member Anthony Kayser recommended tabling it and referring the matter to Town Planner John J. Shemo for his comments. The commission voted unanimously to do so.

Kayser said the town planner should determine what future developments could be tied into the proposed subdivision, analyzing the legal ramifications of a landlocked area and consult with the developers regarding possible changes in the development plan.

In other PZC action, Alex Sawka Jr. and Julie Sawka received preliminary and final map approval for three lots on two acres of land between 202 and 266 Forbes St. and the southwest corner of Sawka Drive.

The PZC stipulated that the petitioners must get a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals for lot frontage on Forbes Street before the approval takes effect.

Robert C. Dennison received preliminary and final map approval for three lots on 9.9 acres of land in the vicinity of 1172, 1178 and 1184 Burnside Ave.

Louis A. Caron obtained the PZC's OK for preliminary and final map approval to sell six parcels of land at the rear of 16, 22, 28, 32, 38 and 44 Clemond Road.

Three of the six property owners said they wanted to buy the land and the others have reached informal agreements with Caron.

The PZC said all of the parcels must be sold to the respective property owners and they must be restricted from building on them.

Subdivision Plan Tabled For Road Tie-In Review

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The Planning and Zoning Commission has tabled preliminary and final map approval for a 9.8-acre, 20-lot subdivision on land west of Timber Trail and south of Jeffrey Drive.

The PZC also directed the town planner to further study the possible ramifications of tie-ins to the proposed development from existing developments in Glastonbury. Timber Trail is close to the town line.

Hilda Esteves, the petitioner for the subdivision, wants to extend Timber Trail by removing a temporary cul-de-sac and continuing the street.

This proposed extension would then intersect a proposed extension of Brandon Road at a right angle. Brandon Road would end there after the intersection with a short street stub near the town line.

Roberta Wilnot, the commission's beach monitor, reported that attendance at Sandy Shores was down this year. Duffy estimated that it cost the town about $2 to provide lifeguards for each swimmer at Sandy Shores this year, while Lisieck cost only 20 cents per person because of the greater number of people.

Connell Asks Three Questions And Gets Unusual Answers

VERNON — Now that the primaries are out of the way the candidates from both parties, for the November elections, will not get into full swing with their campaigns. Thomas Connell of Vernon, Republican candidate for congressman from the 2nd Congressional District, said that during the first six weeks of his campaign, and for a year before that, he has asked people he has spoken with, three questions: "How would you like to see the country better off than it is now?" "How would you like to see the country better off than it is now?" "How would you like to see the country better off than it is now?"

Commission May Face Crisis As Many Members Leave

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
Herald Correspondent
COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) may face a membership crisis in the coming months — the result of a waiver of resignations. The commission has five regular members and three alternates under the existing town charter. Beniz Banak resigned earlier this month because of a work conflict, after repeated absences from the commission meetings. Charles Andreuk's term expires in November and he said he will not seek reappointment. Claire Connelly is a candidate for the state legislature and probably will resign, if elected. This would leave only Marilyn Richardson, chairman, and the commission's most recently appointed member, Todd Cook. Among alternates, Ursula Frye has announced that she will be getting married and plans to move out of Connecticut in January. The two other alternates are James Lacock and John Pagni. Both the Democratic and Republican Town Committees are scrambling to come up with names of candidates to recommend to the Town Council to fill the vacancies. The commission is in the midst of two important projects that will have long-term effects upon the town: The creation of a Master Plan of Development and the revision of the town's zoning regulations. In other business the commission has approved the application of John Labelle for a nine-hole subdivision on Carpenter Road and Broadway, owned by R.G. Snyder. Snyder appeared before the commission and promised to preserve old trees along the roadway when clearing the area to improve sightlines from the driveway. Also approved was an application of Khalig Satari for a four-lot subdivision on the western side of Carpenter Road. Stipulations require the developer to protect the wildlife and rare plants in the wetlands towards the back of the property. The commission has authorized Town Planner Gregory Paddock to seek the advice of the town manager and town attorney on policy for allowing conversion of seasonal dwellings to year-round homes. A recent letter from David Rappe, a local attorney, brought the issue to the commission's attention. Rappe maintains that the zoning regulations, before Oct. 1957, did not distinguish between year-round and seasonal dwellings. Wheeler said he has been using May 1952, as the date which must be preceded with year-round occupancy certifications.

Disabled persons collecting benefits under the Social Security total disability program have until Jan. 25 to claim a $1,000 property assessment exemption. Bee Hive Registration Residents having bee hives should register them at the town clerk's office by Oct. 1. There is a $2 cent registration charge. Taxes Collected BOLTON — About 97 percent of the taxes due have been collected for the 1977-78 fiscal year according to Elaine Potterton, tax collector. Mrs. Potterton said the figure represents more than 100 percent of the revenue estimated by the Board of Finance. For the current year, $1,434,851 was collected; for prior years $54,955 was collected and the amount collected for interest and fees was $22,089. Mrs. Potterton said a list of delinquent taxpayers was sent to the Motor Vehicle Department and those people will not be able to renew their registrations until the taxes are paid. The tax collector's office is open Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. The office is closed on Tuesday. PZC Action SOUTH WINDSOR — The Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to approve the following applications: The application of George Haller for a site plan of development of property located at 40 Kent Road in an Industrial Zone. The application of the Town of South Windsor for development of the Podium property on Barber Hill Road for a winter sports area. and make that change or improvement, even if taxes would be increased by doing it? Connell said that the most usual reply has been, "Gee, I never thought about that." He said that that may indicate that most people give very little thought to the law-making function of the U.S. Congress or maybe, as some people have said, they've given up on it. He said when he gets that type of response he asks "Now that you are thinking about it what one thing would you do?" He said the answers he is getting are domestic. "People uniformly feel they are losing buying power even though their dollar income is usually up over a couple of years ago." He said some people talk about inflation and the prices they have to pay and others look at it from the inflation side and say taxes take too much and they also worry about the Social Security tax increase that is about to hit them. Connell said people have also talked to him about quotas on the job and the usual feeling expressed is "how come everyone doesn't have to make it on their own like I did?" He said only a few people, so far, have talked to him about tuition tax credits, the ERA, the Bottle Bill but several have spoken about the abortion issue. He added that these questions never come up as the primary concern of the person but rather as afterthoughts. Connell said no one at all has wanted to discuss Africa or the Near East as a primary concern. The way he sees it is that the thing people want most is some economic relief in the form of a tax cut and reduced inflation.

Zig-Zag Lot Fighters May Get Town Assist

By GREG PEARSON - Herald Reporter - Bigelow Street residents who oppose a proposal to build a second home on a nearby lot may receive support from the Town of Manchester on Monday night's meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The lot that is the subject of the dispute is located at 98-38 Bigelow St. and already has one house on it. The owner of the property, Thomas Crockett of The Crockett Agency, has proposed construction of a second home on the property, which has 100 feet of frontage.

It would appear that it is taking advantage of a technical loophole that has been plugged," Weiss said of the Bigelow Street proposal. "It does not appear to be the best use of the property," he said.

He will be at Monday's meeting. He agrees that the proposal is not necessarily a good one, but he still feels that it is permitted under the town regulations that were in effect earlier in the year when the application by Crockett was made.

The residents of the area have sent letters to Crockett explaining their opposition. Crockett said this morning that he does not want to comment at this time.

Lamson said that he will take four weeks for the five-member ZBA to review the proposal. The ZBA's meeting, which includes 11 other public hearing members, will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in Woodruff Hall of Center Congregational Church, 11 Center St.

Burglaries Blamed On Three Juveniles

Three juveniles have been identified as being involved with a series of burglaries and vandalism which occurred in Manchester in August and September, and referred to juvenile court, Capt. Joseph Brooks of the Manchester Police Department, said.

The burglaries and vandals which were solved are as follows:

DETROIT (UPI) - The New York Yankees took over first place in the American League East as calmly as walking into the bank and making a deposit. The Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 7-3 Wednesday night to grab sole possession of the division lead for the first time this season.

There was no wild exuberance, no shouting, no hearty back-slapping. Nothing at all to indicate New York had just completed one of the more remarkable rises in league history - 19 from 14 games behind Boston on July 19 to first place.

The Red Sox had been in first place every day except one since May 24. The Yankees beat them Sunday to tie what had trailed by a half-game until Wednesday night's win and a 2-1 Boston loss to Cleveland.

"It's a very nice feeling," said Bob Lemon, for whom the Yankees have played 35-14 baseball since he became manager July 5. "I'm not the hysterical type. "We still have worry about being here on October 1st," Lemon said. "We're world champions," said Lou Piniella, who along with Mickey Rivers keyed a four-run fourth inning with triples to break the game open.

"We can't get excited about moving into first place with what, 17 or 18 games to play."

"If (club owner George) Steinbrenner had come up with more money, Rivers grumped, "we'd be in first place by five more."

The one who should have been feeling giddy, rookie right-hander Jim Beattie, was calm.

"Since this is my first year, just to be part of it, there can't be the biggest thrill," said the 6-foot-8 Beattie, who had pitched four innings and three hits over 6-13 innings to raise his record to 5-7. He walked four and reliever Rich Gossage walked five over his final 2 2/3 innings.

Beattie hit a triple to Jason Thompson at the start of the second and he scored when Steve Kemp grounded out to the pitcher unassisted, making him only the fourth batter in major-league history to get all three putouts in an inning.

He had put out one batter in the sixth on a short fly to left. A fifth-inning sacrifice fly by Beattie brought in a run without the benefit of a hit. The Yankees added two in the sixth on singles by Randolph and rookie catcher Mike Heath, who replaced Thurman Munson. The regular catcher suffered severe head pain while batting in the first inning.

"First place is at stake this weekend (against Boston) in New York," Piniella said. "We can't get excited and then fall flat on our faces."

But it was all over long before then, Graig Nettles singled to start the fourth against Jack Billingham, who had struggled through three innings but stranded five Yankees base runners. Piniella tripped off the wall in right-center and scored when Roy White blasted a single off the glove of Whitaker, who was drawn in.

White scored the final run of the inning when Rivers hit a one-out triple to right-center and Willie Randolph let a sacrifice fly to short left.

Ruthven Continues to Win Schmidt Homers To Spark Phillies

NEW YORK (UPI) - For Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt this season has been a nightmare that won't end.

One of the game's most feared hitters, he has been "struggling" with only 19 homers and 73 RBI, and he has let his batting average drop to .293, the lowest since he hit .287 in 1975.

"I think tomorrow night is another game and another situation," said Schmidt Wednesday night after backing Dick Ruthven's near-perfect six-hitter with a three-run homer and a bases-loaded walk to help the Phils maintain a four-game lead over Pittsburgh in the National League East with a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"Tonight is over with and ... I already know whether the team is in or not."

Ruthven, 14-10 overall and 12-4 for the Phillies since being traded from Atlanta on June 15, lost a perfect game in the seventh when Greg Gross led off with a controversial infield hit to deep shortstop.

Ruthven, a reborn pitcher since leaving the Braves, said he "definitely had it in mind after the sixth. But to pitch a perfect game you need a little luck."

The Phillies scored three runs in the fourth off starter and loser Ray Burris, 5-12, when Larry Bowa and Gary Maddox opened with singles and Greg Luzinski reached on an error by third baseman Rodney Scott. One out later, Schmidt walked on a disputed checked swing to force Bowa, and Maddox scored on Bob Boone's fielder's choice grounder. Ted Sizemore drove in the third run with a single.

"No, I didn't swing," said Schmidt Wednesday. "You can check the boxscore."

Schmidt's homer, his 19th, came off reliever Donnie Moore after leaving the Braves, said he "definitely had it in mind after the sixth. But to pitch a perfect game you need a little luck."

Off-Duty Cop Makes Drug Arrest

An off-duty Manchester policeman arrested David James Ryan, 19, of 42 Wells St., West Hartford, and charged him with possession of a controlled substance, marijuana, less than four ounces.

Sgt. Samuel Koch said he was driving through the Bidwell Street parking lot of the Manchester Community College Wednesday afternoon when he noticed a group of six persons in a circle who were smoking a water pipe. He said he parked his car and observed them. He said he then approached the group and saw Ryan had the pipe.

A small amount of plant material was found in the center of the group in Frisbie, Sgt. Koch said. Ryan was processed and released on a $200 non-surety bond Court date, Oct. 2, East Hartford.

Robert "Bob" Rankin, 34, of 102C Brookwood Road, Rocky Hill, was arrested by Rocky Hill Police on a Manchester non-support warrant and charged with non-supporting.

He was held on a $1,000 bond Court date, Sept. 25, East Hartford.

Edwin Gilman, 24, of 45 Springdale Road, Coventry, was charged with speed exceeding state traffic control signs, operating while his license is under suspension, and reckless driving.

Police said they clocked the accused and as they pulled to the rear of Gilman's car, Gilman was observed changing seats with his wife as they were heading west on West Middle Turnpike in traffic.

While Gilman was changing seats, he lost control of his vehicle which went across a double solid line and almost hit an east-bound vehicle head-on, police said.

Police said Gilman's car forced several eastbound cars off the road until his wife gained control of the car and was able to pull it back into its proper lane. Gilman was held on a $200 cash bond, Court date, Sept. 26, East Hartford.

The Zipser Club, 35 Brainerd Ave., was closed on Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, according to police. Missing was a jar from the storage room with about $100 in bills and change designated for the Children's Easter Fund, police said.

Police made the following arrests: • Russell Stecko, 23, of 37 Grove St., charged with operating while his license is under suspension. He was released on a $100 cash bond, Court date, Sept. 28, East Hartford.

Gregg T. Gonyaw, 27, of 10 Eleanor Road, East Hartford, charged with throwing objects at a

10 Starters Return To Catholic Squad

By LEO AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

Ten starters, five each on offense and defense, return as the East Catholic football team hopes to break out of its cycle of 2-8 seasons. First attempt in the 1978 campaign comes Saturday night against defending CVC tiffist South Windsor at Mt. Nebo at 7:30.

Wide receiver Mike Freiheit, who hauled in 67 passes for 676 yards, and quarterback Tony Pacheco, who tossed for 1,007 yards, head the list of lettermen on offense. Both are juniors.

Senior Alan Shawcross returns for his second year as starting center. He'll be flanked by junior John Karzar and sophomore John Alosky at the guards and junior Jamie Mitchell and senior Gino Zaccardelli at the tackles. The latter was a standout freshman but the 6-foot-11, 190-pound performer did not play the last two years.

Senior Fred Cecchini, after being beat out at fullback by junior Mike Gilbert, has made the transition and won the light end post. Junior Joe Telenik will be at flanker while senior Howie Furlong joins Gilbert and Pacheco in the backfield.

Defensively, Karzar and Zaccardelli are at the ends, seniors Steve Nizza (5-foot-11, 220) and Joe Semerth at tackle and 5-foot-11, 240-pound senior Brian Shea at middle guard. Nizza is another who sat out two seasons after showing promise in '75 as a freshman. The defensive line averages 207 pounds, offensive line 189 pounds.

Freiheit will handle the placements and either he or Shea will take care of field goal attempts. Brass will take care of the punting.

"We've worked hard on our running game," stated Eagles Coach John LaFontana. "It's not devastating but we've improved quite a bit. Now we have the feeling we can move the ball." East had three scrimmages and tied them all, using its passing game sparingly while trying to get the ground game in shape.

"Our defensive backs have a lot of learning to do," LaFontana cautioned. "Against a superior pass we'll be in trouble. The defensive line is big, tough and loves to hit but it's not quick. LaFontana envisions a better year. "The level of talent is above last year. People are growing up, getting bigger and stronger.

depends on what they're like. We just has to be a better year. We're looking for a winning season and I feel it is a realistic goal."

Lane Master Trader

NEW YORK (UPI) — Striding purposefully across the hotel lobby, juggling a ton of newspapers under each arm as always, the man who has initiated, negotiated and perpetuated more baseball trades in his time than anybody else, suddenly realized the one being addressed was him.

"There goes the fellow who turned the whole league around with one deal," called out another hotel guest, loudly and laughing. "Not the whole league," Frank Lane acknowledged, with his characteristic uncommon modesty. Lane does special assignment scouting for the California Angels, reporting to head man Buzz Bavasi, and the trade he was being reminded of was the one he engineered last winter in which the Angels sent slugger Bobby Bonds, Thad Bosley, another outfielder, and Dick Dotson, a right-handed fastballer with a big future, to the White Sox for pitchers Chris Knapp and Dave Frost and catcher Brian Downing.

Everybody in baseball thought Lane had lost his marbles for putting that one together and that Bavasi, his boss, had lost his sense of balance, for letting him do it. But look at the way things have turned out. The White Sox, who finished third in the Western Division last year, presently are sixth. Meanwhile, the Angels, who were 18 1/2 games out of a year ago and ultimately wound up fifth in the same division, are in second place only 2 1/2 games back of the first-place Royals and still have a chance of catching them.

Beyond any question, that deal they made with the White Sox has made all the difference for the Angels. Nonetheless, the White Sox claim they're happy with the deal. Vice President Roland Hemond points out they got Claudell Washington for Bonds and feel they have two comers in the 23-year-old Bosley and the 18-year-old Dotson, who was 11-10 with Knoxville this year. But he concedes the swap has been "instrumental" in the Angels' dramatic move-up this season.

For that, Lane can take a well-deserved bow. During his time as general manager for the White Sox, Indians, A's and Brewers, he made more than 600 deals. He caused a civic storm of protest by trading Cleveland's fair-haired hero, Rocky Colavito, to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn and did much the same thing in St. Louis when he dealt away Red Schoendienst. He also was said to be ready to swap Stan Musial to the Phillies for Robin Roberts but he denies that one.

Lane always enjoyed making a trade. He enjoyed it so much, he occasionally dealt a player back and forth more than once. "I never kept count, but I must've traded Willy Miranda at least 400 times," he cracks. In recent years, he has scouted for the Orioles, Brewers, Rangers and Angels, working for his home in Acapulco, Mexico, as well as Chicago. When Bavasi took over the Angels' job last December after nearly 30 years in the National League with the Dodgers and Padres, he was aware Lane knew the American League better, so he let him serve as architect in the deal with the White Sox. "He's been invaluable to us," Bavasi says. "He's got a lot of friends and a lot of contacts and he learns more about ballplayers from Acapulco than most other people do in this country. The only thing I don't like is he always calls me 6:30 in the morning."

Depending on whether you talk to him or to the office that keeps those records, Lane is either 79 or 82. Whichever it is, he has more energy and enthusiasm than many of those 50 years younger. The only thing that ever upsets him is the suggestion people are through after they hit 65. "What in hell difference does it make how old you are?" he snaps peevishly. "Maybe you can't hit a curve ball after 40 anymore, but I know some 25-year-olds who can't either, and you know where you can find them? Playing in the major leagues."

Freiheit will handle the placements and either he or Shea will take care of field goal attempts. Brass will take care of the punting.

"We've worked hard on our running game," stated Eagles Coach John LaFontana. "It's not devastating but we've improved quite a bit. Now we have the feeling we can move the ball." East had three scrimmages and tied them all, using its passing game sparingly while trying to get the ground game in shape.

"Our defensive backs have a lot of learning to do," LaFontana cautioned. "Against a superior pass we'll be in trouble. The defensive line is big, tough and loves to hit but it's not quick. LaFontana envisions a better year. "The level of talent is above last year. People are growing up, getting bigger and stronger.

Schaffer Position Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has unanimously approved the nomination of Gloria Schaffer, Connecticut secretary of state, as a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"I'm very pleased," Mrs. Schaffer said after hearing Wednesday night about the Senate's vote. "I'm looking forward to this new responsibility."

Mrs. Schaffer, 47, was nominated for the remainder of the term expiring at the end of this year, to succeed Lee R. West, who resigned, and also for a full term which runs through 1984.

Earlier this year, when it appeared that Mrs. Schaffer was in line for the federal post, she announced she would not be a candidate for re-election as secretary of the state.

Democrats at the state convention in July handed Barbara Kennedy of Hartford the nomination. Mrs. Kennedy is the wife of Connecticut House Speaker James Kennedy and the daughter of the late John Bailey, who served as both national and state Democratic party chairman.

Mrs. Schaffer was the Democratic party's biggest vote getter in 1976 when she was elected to the first of her two terms despite a Republican victory by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

But she was defeated soundly in 1978 when she ran as the Democratic senatorial candidate against incumbent Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn. The New London, Conn., native succeeded Ella T. Grasso who had held the secretary of the state job for 12 years. Mrs. Grasso went on to serve two terms in Congress before being elected governor of Connecticut in 1974.

Prior to her election as secretary of the state, Mrs. Schaffer served six terms in the Connecticut Senate.

Mrs. Schaffer and her husband, Eugene, and their two grown children, Susan and Stephen, reside in Woodbridge, Conn.

Teachers Find That Jail Can Be Nearly Anywhere

By JANE ANDERSON

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — It looked like a summer camp at first but striking teachers confined behind their chain link fence may soon learn what many inmates discover: Jail can be anywhere where freedom is denied.

The Connecticut National Guard's rustic Camp Hartell was hastily staffed to accommodate scores of Bridgeport public school teachers who resisted a judge's back-to-work order and were jailed Wednesday afternoon.

Strikes by teachers are illegal in Connecticut.

The 13 members of the Bridgeport Education Association's negotiating team, who were jailed Tuesday, were also brought from the New Haven and Niantic Correctional Centers to Windsor Locks, the hometown of Gov. Ella T. Grasso, to join their colleagues.

They were taken inside the fence that forms the entrance to Camp Hartell, lavishly planted with oak trees, and taken to segregated two-story barracks.

Slate Corrections Commissioner John Manson was at the gate as were dozens of cheering teachers from 16 area towns, whose yells blended with the roar of jets landing at and taking off from nearby Bradley International Airport.

One supporter carried a placard saying, "If you can read this, thank a teacher." A passing trucker honked, made a thumbs-down gesture and shouted, "Send 'em to jail. Send 'em to jail."

The inmate teachers, men and women, some of them married, were issued sheets, towels and pillows.

Outside the fence, Mary LaGana of Wethersfield said, "The issue is that there's no finality to arbitration for teachers contracts. The law is lopsided in favor of boards of education."

Mrs. LaGana, who teaches in Hartford, said, "They should stay out until there are 1,200 people here. Then they should stay until the Hartford teachers join them and everyone should stay until we get a law that's balanced."

There are 1,250 teachers in the Bridgeport Education Association.

Mrs. LaGana said the Hartford Education Association would resume negotiations today with the school board to try to reach agreement on a new contract. Hartford teachers have been without a contract since June 30.

"Some of the problems in Bridgeport are the same as Hartford, including the question of cost of living increases which are falling farther and farther behind," she said. Bridgeport and Hartford are the state's largest cities.

The last time Camp Hartell became a makeshift jail was three years ago when striking New Haven teachers were housed there for four days. It was last used as a barracks for the federal troops who cleared snow from the Blizzard of '78.

Manson said he hadn't figured out how much it would cost to house the teachers at Camp Hartell, but he said only five people are needed to staff the facility at one time because it is run on a do-it-yourself basis.

When Superior Court Judge James Henebery ordered the recalcitrant teachers to jail, he told them he would make the union liable for any expense involved in their upkeep.

"I've got my chief of food services to do the cooking. Once in a while he sharpens his skills for an occasion like this," said Manson. The menu for dinner Wednesday was ham, pineapple and candied yams.

"We hear the food is great," a teacher outside the fence called to someone inside. "That's what we hear, too," came the reply.

Ford Denies Criminal Charges in Crash of Pinto

This is the remains of a 1973 Ford Pinto in which three teen-aged girls were killed on Aug. 10 in Elkhart, Ind. On Wednesday, the Elkhart County grand jury handed down a four-count criminal indictment against the Ford Motor Co. (UPI photo)

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. has denied charges leveled by an Indiana grand jury that the firm committed reckless homicide and was criminally reckless in the design of a Ford Pinto in which three teen-aged girls were killed.

A spokesman for the No. 2 automaker said the firm will take "appropriate action" in response to a four-count indictment handed down Wednesday by the Elkhart County grand jury.

"We believe this unprecedented action was unwarranted and that the company has not violated any of the laws of Indiana," said Henry R. Nolle Jr., Ford vice president and general counsel.

"After we have studied the indictment, we will take appropriate action."

The indictment charged Ford with three counts of reckless homicide, a felony, and one count of criminal recklessness, a misdemeanor. Each count carries a maximum $10,000 fine upon conviction.

No Ford officers were named in the indictment. The company was given 10 days to respond to the charges before an arraignment date is set.

It was the first criminal action against the automaker as a result of alleged fuel-system design problems in 1971-1976 Pintos and Mercury Bobcats. Ford has been hit with dozens of civil lawsuits resulting from accidents in which Pinto or Bobcat fuel tanks exploded or ignited.

Federal safety experts have charged the fuel-tank and filler-pipe design on the cars make them more susceptible to explosions in rear-end collisions.

National Highway Traffic Safety Administration figures show at least 59 people have been killed in fiery crashes involving Pintos.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, appearing in Middletown, Conn., called the indictment a landmark.

"Now that one local prosecutor has broken ground in this, others might take a closer look at the need to apply criminal laws to gross recklessness on the part of corporation executives," Nader said.

The indictment resulted from a grand jury investigation into an Aug. 10 crash near Elkhart in which a Pinto, carrying three young women, burst into flames when it was struck in the rear by a van.

Killed in the fire by Judy Ulrich, 18, Osceola, Ind., her sister, Lynn, 16, and their cousin, Donna Ulrich, Roanoke, Ill.

The grand jury refused to bring charges against the driver of the van. Instead, the panel directed blame at Ford, saying the No. 2 automaker's failure to make fuel-system improvements and repairs was a contributing factor in the deaths.

The indictment charged Ford displayed "reckless disregard for the safety of other persons within said automobile."

In June, Ford announced a recall of 1.5 million Pintos and Mercury Bobcats because of government pressure and concern about gas-tank explosions in rear-end collisions.

Ford, however, insisted the tanks were safe but said it ordered the recall to alleviate consumer fears. In August, the company began sending its dealers kits consisting of protective plastic shields and filler-pipe extensions to protect against gas-tank explosions.

The delay was attributed to the time required to manufacture the repair parts and haggle between Ford and federal safety officials over what type of repairs were needed.

Poisoned Umbrella Said Death Cause

LONDON (UPI) — Bulgarian defector Georgi Markov, a news announcer for BBC and Radio Free Europe, told doctors on his deathbed Monday that he was poisoned by a jab from a poisoned umbrella tip. An inquest is scheduled today into his death and the circumstances surrounding it.

Markov's English-born widow, Annabel, said he was murdered to silence his Radio Free Europe broadcasts that named the mistresses of Bulgaria's Communist bosses.

Carter Given Big Boost On Civil Service Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has given President Carter a major boost by passing his civil service legislation. The Senate, however, is not taking any cues, and the fate of the natural gas bill is still unknown.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd, attempting to get some action on the issue, told his colleagues Wednesday they could finish up before the November elections if they could decide on the natural gas compromise.

But his tactic did not work, and once again, Byrd failed to get the needed unanimous consent to set a time for a test vote.

The victory for Carter on his civil service reorganization bill came in the form of an overwhelming 385-10 vote by the House. The Senate passed the bill, 87-1, three weeks ago.

The bill would make it easier for managers in the 2.1-million member bureaucracy to fire incompetent employees and to carry out administration policy.

The House also got through a major test vote on a provision to give airlines $2.5 billion to help them cut aircraft noise, despite charges by opponents that it was a "sweetheart deal." But it was close, 199-193, and another test vote is expected.

The House Ethics Committee, beginning disciplinary hearings for four sitting congressmen implicated in the Korean bribery scandal, heard Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., testify there isn't enough money in the world to make him lie.

But he admitted receiving a $1,000 cash contribution from South Korean businessman Tongsan Park, not reporting the gift, and possibly pocketing the cash instead of giving it to his campaign committee.

In testimony before the House Assassinations Committee, the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald apparently could shed no light on what her husband's motive may have been for killing John F. Kennedy in 1963. In fact, she

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

It has turned out to be a smart move for garden clubs in this "East of the River" area to combine their talents in a flower show. There are six clubs, close enough together to cooperate conveniently. When the show opens Saturday, Sept. 16, at 1 p.m., it should be six times the size that any one club could put together. The church hall at Sacred Heart Church, on Route 30, Vernon, is an excellent central location. By coming a little early, visitors may have lunch served by the Sacred Heart Church ladies while they wait for the judges to complete their job. Luncheon will continue after the show is open and this will be your only chance to spend money. The flower show has no admission charge and the flowers are not for sale. Joan Lahickey says she "felt into the job" as flower show chairman. She knew she was being elected president of the East Central Council, and when that had been accomplished somewhat, she said, "Oh, then you'll be the chairman of the flower show."

Mrs. Lahickey has named a committee of many members. Early planning began before spring flowers had started to bloom. Many hours of volunteer work will culminate on Saturday. First in Vernon This is the first time the council show has been held in Vernon. The first one I attended was held at Sunset Ridge, East Hartford. The next was at St. George's Episcopal Church in Bolton. It has six clubs each take a turn it will be six years before the show comes back to Vernon. My wife and I think of the shows in East Hartford and Bolton as two of the loveliest we ever saw.

The six clubs, some large and some small, are the Manchester Garden Club, the East Hartford Garden Club, the Down to Earth Garden Club of South Windsor, the East Windsor Garden Club, the Coventry Garden Club, and the Time Impatiens and Yew Garden Club of Vernon. A design division has 12 classes, one for each month of the year. For example, there is an Easter theme for April and a Salute to Independence for July.

There are two design classes for juniors, one to make use of a child's lunch box placed on an old-fashioned school desk, and the other leaving room for imagination with the title "Gremlins and Ghosts."

There will be several large educational exhibits. One is a display of plants that have come to us from around the world. Another illustrates ideas for housing and feeding wild birds in the garden. The American Fern Society will have an educational display.

The Connecticut Horticultural Society held its annual flower show at Elizabeth Park this past weekend, open both Saturday and Sunday, without charge. "Colorful" was the word several people used first to describe the flowers, partly because there was a large display of bright yellow chrysanthemums from a commercial grower.

There were many roses, a great variety of shades and sizes, in a large display by an amateur grower. Edward H. Merritt of Manchester in charge, was well filled. Mrs. Merritt is the wife of Hartford County 4-H Club leader.

'Y'all Come
It was "Hee Haw" time at the White House Wednesday as Rosalynn Carter feted stock-car drivers who figure high in the first family's favorite fan club. She kicked off the shindig with a green flag that sent four stock racers thundering down the executive mansion's oval drive, and wrapped it up in a duet of "Goodnight Irene" with Billy Carter.

Trans-Atlantic ballroomers Larry Newman, Ben Abruzzo and Maxie Anderson were guests of honor, as was country singer Willie Nelson who belted out "Whiskey River" and "Up Against the Wall You Redneck Mother."

President Carter — busy at Camp David — missed it, but the neighbors didn't. The ruckus could be heard for blocks.

Facing Up to 60
Betty Ford doesn't care who knows it — she's having a face lift. She entered a Palm Springs, Calif., hospital Wednesday for surgery destined to remove puffiness under her eyes, and to tighten up the skin around her neck.

Says the former first lady — disrobing and discharged from another hospital convalescence involving drug and alcohol problems — "I'm 60 years old and I wanted a nice new face to go with my beautiful new life."

Fan Club
California's ex-governor says he and his wife would like nothing better than to have Linda Ronstadt for a daughter-in-law, but it's up to her and the current chief exec to call the shot.

Edmund G. "Pat" Brown says in San Francisco he hopes son Jerry will lead Linda to the altar after he wins his second term as governor, but he adds he hasn't "the slightest idea on God's green earth" if such nuptials ever will come to pass.

Says he, "I have seen that Ronstadt girl at the house with him on several occasions. Bernice and I would approve of her as a daughter-in-law. This is just a wish. I am not sure if Jerry's love life."

Quote of the Day
Lillian Carter, on the campaign trail in Sioux Falls, S.D., on behalf of congressional hopeful Tom Daschle, disrobing and affected either for cooking or for the brew son Billy Ed-dorson: "I had a Billy Beer once with a hamburger and I got indigestion. Billy told me it was the hamburger. I don't like to cook, and I only cook to my own recipe. I love you to survive."

Glimpses
Suzy Parker and Gloria Vanderbilt were among celebrities who turned out Wednesday for a reception at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art where photographer Richard Avedon is staging an exhibit that includes shots of Art Buchwald, Audrey Hepburn, Gloria Swanson, Jose Ferrer and Marilyn Monroe... The international disco trio, the Ritchie Family, staged a concert for 1,500 fans to celebrate the fourth anniversary of New York's Ipanema disco Wednesday night, before leaving for Paris to shoot their first film... Lily Tomlin has been tapped as a presenter at the 30th annual Emmy Awards Sunday in Pasadena, Calif.

Faculty at Wesleyan Won't Stop Teaching

The action carries no legal status but David Konstant, president of the AAUP in New Britain, said the faculty has expressed extreme displeasure with administration policy.

Tuesday's vote by the faculty followed a speech by Wesleyan president Colin Campbell who told the faculty he was suspending non-academic activities in support of the strike and didn't even consider a motion to suspend classes.

Negotiations between the Office and Professional Workers union and the school administration had resumed Wednesday morning after recessing Monday following a 10-hour bargaining session.

The faculty voted Tuesday 94-34 to censure the administration for its handling of the strike and to call for a general strike, now entering its second week.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: My wife of 28 years hates love-making. She often says she finds the whole idea "revolting." In fact, she doesn't even want to be kissed. The odd thing is that when she is with any of her three brothers, it's okay, okay, okay, all the time. Good morning kisses, good night kisses, and hello and goodbye kisses. (And she kisses them in between times, too.) Although I have never strayed from the straight and narrow, I know that women find me attractive. I mention this because you usually take the wife's side in any marital squabble. What do you make of this situation? I am not jealous. I am merely... MYSTIFIED IN OAKLAND

DEAR ABBY: Apparently you never dated someone who bestowed "abby kisses," like the girl who wrote you about a poor kisser she dated. You said, "Kiss him the way you'd like to be kissed. Then hang on your ha!" Not always so I am happily married, but when I was dating I enjoyed kissing so much I always looked forward to the end of the evening. Some guys can kiss, and some can't. Some can eventually learn and some absolutely never learn. I know, because I'm married to a great guy who just can't seem to get the hang of it. And I've been kissing him the way I'd like to be kissed for ten years. I'm not complaining, and I wouldn't trade my husband for the world, but when I think of some of those super kissers I dated, I emit a secret sigh. Sign me... HOT LIPS

DEAR HOT: Don't give up. Tell your husband what he's doing right, and what he's doing wrong, and what he's not doing that he should be doing. Your great guy has the same equipment these super kissers had. All he needs is some instruction on how to use it.

DEAR ABBY: Without commenting on the legal, moral, or social aspects of the situation, here are the facts: My son and his girlfriend, who are living together, have announced that they are going to have a baby. They are very happy about it. The girl's friends have "showered" her with gifts. As far as I know, the prospective parents have no plans to marry in the immediate future. My question: How do I announce the birth of my first grandchild? In a way I can show my love and acceptance of this child - just as I love and accept my son - without seeming too inconsiderate of others who may who may have a strong opposition to such a situation? Sign me... FIRST TIME GRANDMA

DEAR FIRST TIME: Don't make an official announcement. Your obvious love and acceptance of the child will speak for itself. The "others" who oppose such a situation must surely realize that you are not responsible for your son's actions.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-it-yourself ceremony, get Abby's best advice. "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cent self-addressed envelope) to Abby: 132 Lumpy Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about my son's girlfriend. She is very beautiful and intelligent, but she seems to have a strong opposition to such a situation. I am not sure how to handle this. Can you give me any advice? Sign me... CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: It sounds like you're in a bit of a dilemma. The girl's friends have "showered" her with gifts, which is a nice gesture, but it also suggests that she is being pressured into something. It's important to talk to your son and his girlfriend about this. They should be able to handle their own lives. If they are truly committed to each other, they should be able to overcome any opposition. Sign me... ABBY hopes in spite of the singleton club. North has substantially more than a minimum opening, but merely holds one spade.

Now it is up to North to show some real sensible conservation and pass at two hearts. He just sits nowhere to go. Two notrump looks bad. Where are notrump tricks to come?

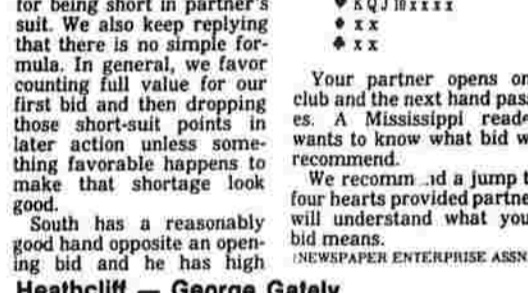

South can actually make three hearts if he plays the hand as he had seen all the East and West cards. He must cash dummy's black winners, lead a heart and eventually force West to lead hearts or diamonds to him.

Normal good play will just bring in the diamond contract. All high contracts are asking to end up in the under-the-table partner.

Ask the Experts
By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Jacoby
We keep getting questions on how many points to count for being short in partner's suit. We also keep repeating that there is no simple formula. In general, we favor counting full value for first bid and then dropping those short-suit points in later action unless something favorable happens to make that shortage look good.

South has a reasonably good hand opposite an opening bid and he has high health!
