'Enriched Flavor' cigarette scores high marks in five key areas.

Can MERIT deliver the flavor of leading high tar brands?

Does MERIT satisfy smokers over a long period — or are MERIT smokers slipping back to old high tar favorites?

Read the bottom-line results of new research conducted with smokers like yourself.

MERIT Breakthrough Confirmed

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to — or better than — leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in detailed interviews conducted among current MERIT smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands — but continues to satisfy.

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Bridgeport Professors Strike

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — University of Bridgeport professors went on strike today in the second walkout to rock the community as a public school strike by 1,250 teachers entered its third week.

Norman Douglas, president of the school's chapter of the American Association of University Professors, said today 250 professors agreed to walk off their jobs after a contract deadline passed at midnight.

Douglas said the university has refused union demands for more money, tenure, and increased academic influence.

"We had proposed that the university renew our current contract for a year and negotiate just the money issues over the weekend, and if we could not agree, then to turn it over to binding arbitration," Douglas said.

"But the university would not accept that," he said. AAUP teachers have been without a contract since Aug. 31.

Vance Says Trip Successful

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said today he has accomplished what he set out to do on his selling tour of the Camp David accord to moderate Arab countries and the United States now is awaiting answers from both Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Concluding three days of talks with Jordanian and Saudi officials, Vance said, "I accomplished an important fact. I had the chance to really discuss questions in depth with the two countries, on whether Camp David left any questions in their minds, or whether there is any ambiguity."

"It was absolutely essential that it be done, both countries told me that it was useful to them."

Vance, who met earlier with Saudi Arabia's King Khalid, conferred at lunch today with Saudi Arabian Defense Minister Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz.

A U.S. spokesman said earlier that Vance had gained Saudi Arabia's understanding and possible future support for the Camp David agreements in a boost for his mission to sell persuading Hussein to join the hardline "framework for peace."

South Windsor Official Gets Post in Stratford

SOUTH WINDSOR — Allan Young, town director of public works, is leaving his position to head the Public Works Department in the Town of Stratford.

His Stratford appointment was confirmed this morning by the office of Stratford's town manager, a spokesman in the manager's office said Young is expected to start work in that town on Oct. 6.

The South Windsor town manager's secretary said this morning that, as far as she knows, no written resignation has been received from Young.

Young, who could not be reached for comment, will be the second department head to resign in the past two months. G. Ted Ellis resigned his position as town controller in August.

With Young leaving, it is expected it will further complicate the present controversy surrounding the move, by some members of the Town Council, to oust Town Manager Paul Talbot.

Parents Support Teachers

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Mrs. Lois Coffey wants her two daughters to know their striking teachers are alive and well, even though they're in jail.

So Mrs. Coffey and a group of other Bridgeport parents hired school buses to take their children 65 miles to the National Guard barracks in Windsor Locks, where the teachers are being held, for a two-hour rally today to bolster the teachers' and students' spirits.

"The kids really look up to the teachers," Mrs. Coffey said before the group of 200 parents and children left Bridgeport. "I know my own two daughters are attached to their teachers and the thought of their going off to jail is hard."

"We want to show the kids their teachers are fine. We want to voice our opinions, and show the teachers we support them," she said.

Thirty-six teachers were sentenced by Superior Court Judge James Henery and ordered to join 233 colleagues at Camp Hartell for refusing to obey his order to end their three-week strike. Of those, 32 were taken Thursday to the make-shift jail.

In Rabat, Morocco, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat conferred with Saudi Arabian vice-premier Prince Abdallah Ibn Abdulaziz in an apparent bid to overcome Saudi coolness toward the Camp David peace talks. Arab diplomats said but there was no indication whether he had made any progress.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin returned to Israel in triumph today and was met by tens of thousands of Israelis in an unprecedented outpouring of good will toward their prime minister.

He expressed the hope that a peace agreement would be signed quickly but cautioned that "hard days are still ahead."

Contract negotiations were recessed at 2:15 p.m. Thursday after 25 hours of talks at the state Labor Department in Wethersfield.

A union spokesman, Jeff Rosenberry, said the negotiators spent most of the time talking about whether teachers should have a 180-day school year or 176 days.

only when members work to fill in on a regular shift and complete more than 42 hours in a week.

The union does not expect to get paid when members are called to fires while off-duty, he said.

Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said, "I'm hopeful the Board of Directors will approve the contract." He said that the economics involved in the two-year package are within the guidelines provided to the town administration by a subcommittee of the board.

Firefighters OK Contract Offer

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The union representing town firefighters Thursday night became the first to accept a contract agreement between the union and the town.

The union, Local 1579 of the International Association of Firefighters, voted to accept the two-year contract, which includes a six percent raise in the first year and two three percent raises in the second.

A total of 45 of the union's 63 members attended Thursday's vote, Robert Martin, president of the union, said. There was no exact count available, but the contract proposal was approved by about a 2-to-1 margin, he said.

The fire union last week had rejected a contract proposal. The reason for defeat was that firefighters would not have received time-and-one-half payment for routine overtime until the final three months of the two-year contract.

Under the agreement approved Thursday by the union, the members will receive time-and-one-half payment for routine overtime starting in July 1979.

The members presently receive no additional compensation for overtime hours.

Martin said that the union is seeking the increased overtime pay to that date.

Democrats List Past Successes

MANCHESTER — Local Democrats, with an assist from lieutenant governor candidate William O'Neill, pointed to the services they have provided and the budgeting limits they have enforced as they opened party headquarters in Manchester.

About 75 people attended the opening in a vacant store building near Marshalls in the Manchester Shopping Park.

The confident Democrats, predicting November victory, said that they have nothing to fear when Proposition 13 and related tax-reduction efforts are mentioned.

"I have to laugh at those who say we're big spenders," Marcella Fahay, running in the Third Senatorial District, said. "Before Proposition 13, California's spending-limiting ordinance, was ever mentioned, 'the Democrats in Hartford and Connecticut knew that people wanted things tightened up,'" she said.

State Rep. Abraham Glassman, running again in the 14th Assembly District, said that Connecticut has provided needed social reforms while maintaining fiscal responsibility.

"That's what government is all about — services," he said. And Connecticut's Legislature has done its part. It has kept spending down while programs found unnecessary, Glassman said.

State Rep. Theodore Cummings, seeking re-election in the 12th Assembly District, drew applause when he took up a questionnaire from the Connecticut State Taxpayers Association. That group is sponsoring a statewide petitioning effort to seek referendums on fiscal matters and state and local spending limitations.

"The questionnaire sought yes or no answers to several questions about taxing and government. Cummings said no one could answer all of questions with a simple yes or no.

"I'm not saying yes or no to any bag job," Cummings said as he tore up the questionnaire.

State Sen. David Barry, running again in the Fourth Senatorial District, criticized the Republican campaign effort to seek signatures from candidates saying they won't support a state income tax.

The state Democratic ticket has said that it will not support a state income tax. The income tax has not developed in the last four years of Democratic rule, Barry said.

"If ever an issue was dead, that issue is dead," he said. Asking the Democratic candidates to sign a no-income tax pledge "is like asking people who have served in a couple of wars to sign a loyalty oath."

Barry returned to Robert Houley, Gov. Ella Grasso's deputy campaign manager who attended the opening, as the original Howard Jarvis, who is the originator of Proposition 13. Houley, a state senator who is not seeking re-election, served on the Appropriations Committee and often said no to requests for money, Barry said.

Mayor Stephen Penny, joined in the praise of the Democratic record.

"Not only have we made the record in human services, we've made it in protecting the public's tax dollars," Penny said.

The theme of a united party also was mentioned by several of the speakers.

"We're here tonight as a party united, as a party that had been divided," O'Neill said, referring to the recent primary between Gov. Grasso and Robert Killian.

"The convention is over, the primary is over. We're all Democrats and we're going to prove that to you on Election Day," O'Neill said.

"These are not the easiest of times for us Democrats," Cummings said. "But, things are shaping up. I think they will be the best of times by Nov. 7."

Hearing on Use of Fund Was More of the Same

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A public hearing Thursday night on the use of community development funds brought out continued criticism against control by the federal government and only about three new proposals.

Thursday's hearing was the first in a series planned to get input from the community on how to spend the federal Community Development Act funds expected over a three-year period starting in 1979. The exact amount of money the town will receive is not yet known, according to Alan Mason, human services director.

The hearing was held at the position HUD is putting this town in HUD that the town has moderate income housing such as Squire Village and the Beechwood Apartments. "I would like you to find the percentage of public housing in Manchester and compare it to other towns. I think you will find we're ahead," he said.

Boggi expressed concern over the backlog of Manchester residents who need housing. "We shouldn't neglect our own," he said. "I think we should move slowly before we change the character of this town."

In answer to Boggi, Mason said, "We do get in a bind with the federal requirements. We can't put residency requirements on that housing."

Mason also noted that the only area of housing in which community development funds have been used is for elderly housing. He said the two apartment complexes referred to by Boggi are privately owned, although they do receive federal subsidies.

Mason disagreed with a question by Frank Lupien of Sunset Lane who asked, "Doesn't fair housing legislation imply we're unfair?"

Mason said it is not implying that the town has a closed community. "It's a subtle distinction," he said. Mason said the town proposed the plan for a fair housing coordinator originally, "so we can't say it's any kind of a pay off."

Lupien also criticized the use of community development funds for the elderly housing in the past three years of funding. "What we're doing is bailing out the Housing Authority," he said.

Robert Gorman of 62 Linden St. and chairman of the town's Parking Authority questioned what percentage of the CD funds had been used in the "target area" designated by the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Mason said it was a small percentage, amounting to less than $50,000. "It's a subtle distinction," he said. Mason said the town proposed the plan for a fair housing coordinator originally, "so we can't say it's any kind of a pay off."

EDC OKs Spending For Park

MANCHESTER — The Economic Development Commission today approved expenditures for sewer projects and land acquisitions for road work connected with the Buckland Industrial Park.

The largest expenditure approved by the EDC is a $387,690 contract to Frank Kapsis & Sons for a trunk sewer line in the New State Road and Adams Street area. The line will include the J.C. Penney Co.'s catalog distribution center.

The EDC also agreed to expand the size of about 1,500 feet of a sanitary sewer being installed, along Tolland Turnpike. The expanded section will be from the Adams Street intersection to the railroad crossing near the Burnham Street parking lot.

The line has to be expanded from 10 to 15 inches, and the change will cost $15,000, about $5,000 of which will have to be paid by the town.

The commission purchased two parcels of property required for road alterations. A parcel of one-third of an acre will be bought from Virginia Batoon for $2,000. The land is needed for widening of the north end of the primary road through the industrial park.

A parcel of 3.5 acres in South Windsor will be purchased from the Hartman Tobacco Co. The section of land, which will cost $45,000, is needed for the relocation of part of Pleasant Valley Road.

Mass Transit Not Supported

HARTFORD (UPI) — Many area residents are unwilling to pay for certain improvements in mass transportation, a new survey shows.

A report released Thursday by the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Capitol Region Council of Governments shows residents don't want to pay more taxes for special mass transit projects like railroads, improvements or pay additional tolls for road construction, said council spokeswoman Sandra Haskins.

Residents favored fare hikes for mass transit acceptable. The least popular forms of payment were financial penalties for extra automobile use.

The survey results also show improved railway service would attract only a 10 per cent increase in riders in the Hartford area.

Of the 980 households surveyed, only 43, or 4.4 per cent, contained a person who regularly uses rail transportation to get to work. Only another 5 per cent said they would use rail, the report said.

Esther B. Clarke, Republican Council member and a member of the Ordinance Committee, said the survey shows that a kind of a ban or limit on truck travel on Burnham Street may not work.

"We tried to do that on Prospect Street and Masbick Freight sued us and won a temporary injunction," Mrs. Clarke said. "We've also tried to do it elsewhere and we've been challenged in court."

Mrs. Clarke said she has written to South Windsor Mayor Nancy Caffey requesting any information that town has compiled on the traffic-effects of J.C. Penney.

STORRS (UPI) — Most Connecticut towns this year held increases in property taxes to below 5 and 10 percent, and some had a property tax reduction, according to a University of Connecticut survey.

The survey by the university's Institute of Public Service, which included Grand Lists and Tax Rates of Connecticut Towns and Cities, covered 166 towns.

The survey found 14 towns reduced property taxes, 50 held the increase to below 5 percent over the previous year, and 66 towns kept the increase between 5 and 10 percent over 1977.

Police recovered 15 of 17 antique guns at the South Alton Street address Wednesday after a search warrant. A newer rifle, recovered when the arrests were made, was also stolen from the Seymour Street home.

Jailing Sets Record

HARTFORD (UPI) — The jailing of striking Bridgeport teachers is the largest in the country's history, according to an official of the National Education Association.

Barry Abel of the NEA said Thursday his research shows that although more teachers were arrested in a Wisconsin strike in 1977, Bridgeport has the record for the most teachers jailed.

A spokesman at Camp Hartel in Windsor Locks said this morning 287 teachers have been jailed there.

A teachers strike conducted by the Newark Federation of Teachers in New Jersey in the early 1970s resulted in 105 jailings.

An engagement would look like "a political move" to the skeptical, he says, and damage his intriguing image "for others."

Old Days End
Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy are retiring. Bergen to Palm Springs and McCarthy — top hat, monocle and sash — to the Smithsonian Institution.

Bergen says in Hollywood that at 75 he's ending his career of more than 50 years because "I'm tired of earning money, saving it and then sharing it with people who didn't save it" — explaining later he meant welfare cheaters.

McCarthy says he isn't sure he wants to retire and would like "a new assistant... a beautiful girl with a softer lap."

Bergen admonished the dumpty: "I can do things without you, too." Snapped McCarthy — just as in the old days — "Yeah, you can starve to death."

Earthquake Death Toll At 25,000

TABAS, Iran (UPI) — The known death toll from last week's massive earthquake in eastern Iran stood today at 25,000, but officials assured the outside world no foreign visitors were among the victims.

Rescue workers in Tabas, which was virtually destroyed by the quake, stepped up efforts today to extricate bodies from fallen buildings as survivors besieged them with pleas to find their deceased loved ones.

"We want bodies of our dear ones, not just relief," shouted survivors gathered around the wreckage of their homes.

Official estimates had put the death toll at 16,000. But the Red Lion and Sun Society — Iran's equivalent of Red Cross — Thursday reported the latest census in 1975 showed Tabas had 17,000 residents.

Only 1,800 of them survived the Saturday tremor that leveled the desert town, the officials said, so more than 15,000 died in Tabas alone. At least another 10,000 people died in the approximately 100 villages up to 60 miles from Tabas.

Trade Aid Due

HARTFORD (UPI) — Nearly 125 workers at an East Haven handbag company are eligible for federal trade adjustment assistance because of an increase in handbag imports, state Labor Commissioner Peter Reilly says.

Workers at Tag-A-Long Handbags and Accessories Inc. who lost their jobs on or after Oct. 29, 1977, can apply for aid such as job training, placement and relocation, he said Thursday.

Jacob Ludes III

The following is the second part of the HSW interview conducted with Jacob Ludes. Part One was printed in last week's HSW.

HSW: Did you ever have any second thoughts about leaving your former position and coming here?

LUIDES: The answer to that, I think, is yes and no. I enjoyed very much working with the people I worked with at Fredonia (New York). My boss was truly terrific. I think he's the best high school principal that I've ever met. I worked with him two years, and in two years I'm not aware that I could have done anything to improve upon anything that he did. It was difficult to leave that.

It was not difficult to make the decision to come here to Manchester. I had a couple of other opportunities this past year. One here in Connecticut, and a couple in New York State. I chose not to take up those opportunities basically because I didn't think they would be good situations for my family.

I think Manchester High School offers a good challenge for me and for everybody here. That was an easy decision for me. Once I got here, and once I talked to Dr. (James) Kennedy and Mr. (Wilson) Deakin, I think the school board members and all of the people that were involved with the school here, it was an easy decision for me.

HSW: Do you find that things are going well between you and the other members of the staff?

LUIDES: My first priority is to establish a team effort. The team effort has to begin right here in the high school office. We will be trying very hard to establish a team effort right here in the high school office and I think that someday we can in

A Summer in Iran

Discovery... probably the best summer that I can give regarding the past summer, which I spent in Iran as an American Field Service student. Discovery in every aspect of one's life - socially, politically, economically and morally.

It was an experience that I feel very privileged to have been a part of, and I am thankful to AFS for making such an opportunity possible for students internationally.

I had no idea that Iran would serve as my home for two and one half months this summer when I was selected as the student in February. I didn't know anything about the country and had never even heard of its native language: Farsi. Farsi? I was hoping for a French speaking country where I could at least ask directions to the nearest ladies room. No dice.

In retrospect, I was very fortunate to go to a country that I was ignorant about, because I went with a blank, therefore open, mind. I had no preconceived notions. I was receptive to everything, and no illusions could have been shattered.

On the first day of school, the student body of MHS became acquainted or in most cases re-acquainted with the high school's principal, Mr. Ludes.

Principal Ludes spoke of the basic rules and regulations by which pupils were expected to abide. Among the rules covered, were those concerning smoking, cafeteria decorum, and disciplinary procedure. The new administrative procedures as outlined by the principal, referred to as a "fresh start." Although this "new beginning" was quite often mentioned, this student feels that no new changes have been brought to the high school.

The smoking rules have not been changed, although Mr. Ludes interjects that they were, only not in addition in this area is used as a quadrangle. Cafeteria procedure is unchanged also. Some might tend to believe that the removal of the demerit system is a fresh idea. Unfortunately this is not as new as it seems. The demerit system replacing the demerit system is widely used in Manchester's junior high schools and in this area I think we have regressed.

Undoubtedly, Principal Ludes is attempting to shed some "new light" onto MHS. However, the ideas he is utilizing are either old or have already been established. This pupil moves that if "new changes" are to be made, they should be just that, new and fresh. — Haley Berson.

Two Students React

Upon their return to school, most students are anxious about, or are at least interested in, changes made in their school, and Manchester High School is no different.

Record Review

Elvis Costello — This Year's Model

This artist's first album, "My Aim Is True," was released in the midst of the "punk rock" craze. Elvis (real name, Declan Patrick McKenna) is British, and he had the misfortune of being labeled a punk. Now, his second album, this year's model, is out, and Elvis Costello can now be judged on his merits, not as part of a movement.

Admittedly, Elvis's name and appearance (resembling a badly dressed Buddy Holly) prevents many people from taking him seriously, but do yourself a favor: listen to the album. Elvis has been quoted as saying, "Banks of synthesizers and choirs of angels can't cover up a bad song," and the album stays true to this philosophy.

Elvis and his band, The Attractions, are extremely tight, although the musical line-up is guitar, bass, organ and drums, there are no "Holes" in the sound. Producer Nick Lowe has given the songs a "60s" sound recalling the Byrds, Animals, etc. Most bands have guitar, keyboard, or drum solos, but there are none to be found here.

After overloading on ELO, Queen, or Yes, or other overproduced bands, this album will surprise you. Best cuts: "You Belong To Me," "Lipstick Vogue," and "Lip Service." — Gary Selinger

Math Team Counts

A math team, who ever heard of a math team? Do they have uniforms, cheerleaders and warm-up exercises?

Well, not exactly. As a member of Manchester High's math team, I would like to clear up a lot of the uncertainty that I'm sure has been keeping you up nights.

First of all, we don't have cheerleaders nor do we have uniforms. We do have warm-up exercises, though. Math exercises, pages of them.

If that doesn't sound like fun to you, then you're right. Math team consists of a lot of work and preparation, but it is challenging and exciting as well.

What do we all do the work for? Each month, beginning in November and ending in April, we gather to compete in a math meet.

And what exactly is a math meet you say? At each math meet every team sends five members, each of whom participates in three categories of math. There are five categories in all which are predetermined and are the same for all schools. Each student is given 10 minutes per category of math during

Prediction: The newly psyched-up varsity football team will beat Fernald tomorrow. It will be the Indians' first victory in thirty (30) games. — Mike Wilson

AFS Recruits New Members

Fun, laughter, new-found friends, internationality.

If these are lacking in your life, then do something about it! Join Manchester High School's AFS Club! AFS stands for American Field Service.

This international club raises its sights on foreign students to the United States and sends U.S. students abroad. But that's not all they do. Last year's AFS Club planned a special weekend when AFS students came from surrounding towns to participate in activities here in Manchester.

They planned parties and trips all over the state and a special weekend in May. They held a large orange and grapefruit sale to raise money. And seven AFS members went on a short-term exchange for five days with students in Madison, New Jersey, who later reciprocated the exchange by coming to Manchester.

All this and more adds up to what AFS is all about. So if you're looking for a good way to start off the new school year, join AFS. The first meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 26 at school in Room 239, or get in touch with Karen Bensen or Jacqui Hedlund. — Joanne Weiss

Job Ads Increase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Classified job ads increased 8.8 percent over a year ago and led all other categories of daily newspaper classified advertising in the United States, according to the Newspaper Advertising Bureau. Daily newspaper classified ads, overall, totaled $1.8 billion, up 21.8 percent compared with the first half of 1977. Employment ads accounted for $428 million of that.

Automotive advertising rose 20.8 percent during the six-month period while real estate ads were up 8.8 percent to $535 million, the bureau said.

Guidance Notes

There will be an Armed Services Mini-Fair on Thursday, Sept. 28, between 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Representatives from the Army, Coast Guard, National Guard, Navy, and Marines will be available in the corridor between the gym and the cafeteria. If you want information or have questions about any of the Armed Services, stop in at the Mini-Fair.

The deadline for the SAT to be given on Nov. 4 is Sept. 29. Registrations must be postmarked by Sept. 29 to avoid a late fee of $5. Applications are available in the Guidance Office for the Century Leaders Scholarship. To apply, students must submit an application, an essay on Innovative Leadership, and take a Current Events exam. State winners receive $1,500 scholarships. Details are available in the Guidance Office. The deadline for applications is Oct. 15.

New week, guidance counselors will be meeting in small groups with seniors to discuss procedures for applying to college. Seniors are urged to attend the group meeting to which they are assigned.

Health Agency Forms Panel to Study Merger

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Feeling it's time that the people of Manchester should have their needs channeled to one agency, the Board of Directors of the River East Homekeeper-Home Health Aide Service Inc. appointed a subcommittee to work toward that goal.

The board agreed to ask the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association to name a similar subcommittee and to have the two groups get together to explore the possibility.

As of Thursday afternoon, the MPHNI had not received this request.

The suggestion was made by Hyalle Hurwitz, executive director of the agency. Mrs. Hurwitz became enthusiastic about such a merger after she visited the Middlesex Community Health Services Inc. in Middletown.

Board members feel that from the standpoint of the United Way the existing system doesn't make any sense. They feel that some day the United Way will provide funds for both groups, will say "get together or we're not going to support you."

Mrs. Hurwitz said her suggestion is due to a concern about the well-being of the clients. She said they become frustrated with the time they have to spend to get the service they need and by the overcharging.

The town budget also provides funding for both agencies and the homemaker board feels the townspeople are being victimized.

Last May the homemaker agency and the nursing agency ratified an agreement which led to the dropping of the home health aide service by the homemaker agency.

This complete service for health care was taken over by the nursing association and the homemaker agency has continued to provide the homemaker service and to run the Meals-On-Wheels Program.

However, the homemaker service still continues to provide home health aides for the other towns it services outside of Manchester. Mrs. Hurwitz said this has become very confusing for the clients.

Mrs. Hurwitz said if all services, in Manchester, were combined through one joint agency it would eliminate a lot of hassles at budget time.

In other action the board agreed to reinstitute its Professional Advisory Committee. The suggestion to do so was made by Ariens Rosenberg, who recently resigned from the board.

Ms. Rosenberg said she would be willing to act as chairman of the committee and she suggested that it be made up of a nurse, a doctor, social worker, attorney, teacher, and a member of the homemaker board.

The function of the board would be to handle any professional issues that might come up. Mrs. Hurwitz said, because the homemaker service no longer has health services in Manchester, the committee will probably have a larger social input than medical input.

Mrs. Hurwitz also said the homemaker service will soon include a Handyman-Chores service as soon as the agency is notified of official release of the funds.

A letter received during the summer, from the Area Agency on Aging, said the grant application for the program had been approved in the amount of $6,574.

In her director's report, which covered the summer months when the board did not meet, Mrs. Hurwitz said the budget requests for 1979 have been submitted to the United Way of Manchester and the Tri-Town United Way. She said the agency is requesting $19,785 from Manchester and $8,904 from Tri-Town.

She said there has been some changes in the funding from the area towns. Bolton has opted not to fund the agency directly and is instead funding it through the Rockville Health Nursing Agency for home health aide service only.

With some modifications, the new formula is being applied to the client's assets in setting fees rather than relying on income only. Mrs. Hurwitz said this has meant a considerable increase in revenue from fees.

Refreshments will be served. Church Smorgasbord. Plans are being finalized for the United Methodist Church fourth annual smorgasbord Sept. 30. Seatings will be at 6 and 7 p.m.

The menu includes turkey, fish, ham, Swedish meatballs, baked beans, vegetable dishes, cole slaw, gravy and tossed salads, pickles, bread and rolls, beverages and desserts.

MPOA To Hear Tax Talk

MANCHESTER — Because of its concern about increased government spending, the Manchester Property Owners Association has invited Marilyn Pearson, director of the Connecticut Taxpayers Association, to its Oct. 20 meeting.

The session with Mrs. Pearson will be held at the Whittier Memorial Library at 8 p.m. She will be talking about the rights of taxpayers and how to initiate referendum action in the state.

The public is invited to attend. At its last meeting, MPOA questioned the hiring of Comprehensive Employment and Training Act employees and a proposal to expand the Health Department.

The group said that the Board of Directors approved CEFA positions after they were told that there would be no town expense and that the people would not be placed on town payroll.

Now, the town has hired an employee to work as a forest manager, a position that had been filled by a CEFA employee.

"This suggests to us poor management," MPOA said in a newsletter about the meeting.

The group said that the Health Department is planning to expand. It said that the health director, Dr. Alice Turek, was hired to replace a part-time doctor.

"We would like to know whether Dr. Turek is a doctor or an administrator. If she is just an administrator with dreams of creating a moonshot, we feel that it would behoove the board to let her go and hire the part-time doctor we had before at less expense," the group said.

The annual Autumn Crafts Fair of the United Methodist Women of North Church will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the church, 300 Parker St.

The Verplanck PTA will sponsor its annual ice cream social tonight from 6 to 8 in the school cafeteria, rain or shine. School embryos will be available.

Keeney School PTA will host a reception Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school honoring Charles Sentele, the school's new principal. All parents are invited.

Concordia Lutheran Church will have its annual picnic Saturday, starting at 2 p.m. Supper will be served at 5.

Garden Meeting Due

MANCHESTER — With this summer's gardens almost depleted, the Manchester Community Gardeners have to start thinking about next summer and the problems they may face.

A meeting of the gardeners has been called for Sept. 30 at 9 a.m. in the Mott's Community Hall, East Center Street.

Mrs. Ditta Tani of the town's Conservation Commission, said she is urging all garden participants to attend the meeting so arrangements can be made for the continuation of the community garden project for next year.

The garden plot is located on Findley Street. The town has, in the past, supplied water if the rainfall wasn't sufficient during the growing period.

However, this past spring the town informed the garden group that, due to budget restrictions, it couldn't continue supplying the water unless the gardeners wanted to pay for the service.

After some deliberation, the town did agree to continue the service this year but won't continue it next year unless it charges the gardeners.

Mrs. Tani said the garden area she is making it difficult for the gardeners to haul their own water. There is a water tank in the area and if the rainfall is heavy enough, there is water available there but it still has to be hauled to the plots. Many of the gardeners are senior citizens.

Opinion Signs of the Times

Manchester has been pretty good about this, but it does bear repeating—the posting of political signs.

Other Editors Say:

Most American businessmen don't realize it—and they would hit the roof if they did—but there are many prosperous commercial corporations competing against them in this free country that pay no federal income taxes because they are owned and operated by foreign governments.

"How does one face the country, go home and face the county and, and say, 'We have no alternative program'... How does one go home after 15 months of work and say, 'We just killed the program'?"

Capital Fare

By ANDREW TULLY. WASHINGTON—We owe Jimmy Carter. Whether or not the two "frameworks" for peace in the Middle East produce an end to the tragic 30-year impasse in that angry neighborhood, Jimmy Carter gave substance to his slogan, "Why Not The Best?"

The president rejected still another resort to those meaningless two- and three-day summit meetings. This time he said, "I will effect it."

In so doing, he risked his White House incumbency—his chances of re-election in 1980. But he told Carter: "So was your determination. You made a commitment to be a full partner in the peace talks... you have honored your commitment."

Yes, we owe Jimmy Carter, the country-boy-emergent, obsessed with the mathematical fact that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line, and who is tired of roundabout summit meetings that accomplish nothing.

Mason Says Panel Had Housing Data

MANCHESTER — Alan Mason, the town's human services director and coordinator of Community Development funds, denies charges by the Manchester Housing Authority that he hadn't informed its members about a housing report, which was crucial to its receiving federal funds. "I know I appeared before them the first part of 1976 to explain housing assistance plans. We have communicated and I have explained the plan to members of the Housing Authority," Mason said.

Most on Housing List Living in Manchester

MANCHESTER — Most of the names on waiting lists for public housing are those of people already living in Manchester, according to a report by the Manchester Housing Authority. Statistics on the number of local and non-resident people waiting for housing are being compiled by the authority. The report shows that 152, or 68 percent, are Manchester residents, and 73, or 32 percent, are elsewhere.

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Imagine shooting even par and not making the cut.

That's the prospect today in the $200,000 Napa Open for 15 players, among them Johnny Miller, Ray Floyd, Peter Oosterhuis and Miller Barber. Four shot par-72 in the opening round Thursday but 78 players had better scores, topped by Jay Haas, Dave Eichelberger, Ed Sneed and Ret Caldwell, who led the way with 6-under 68s.

This being the next-to-last week of the season you'd think no one cared, but apparently that's not the case. After watching the opening round over Silverado's two courses, And the field this week includes many of the tour's best.

White Haas, who can win a spot in the World Series of Golf next week by taking the Napa title, and Eichelberger, Caldwell and Sneed — all among the top 50 money winners this year — were blitzing the easier South course, leading money winner Tom Watson had to settle for a 68. U.S. Open champ Andy North had a 70 on the South and PGA champ John Mahaffey had a 70 on the North. Lee Trevino and Masters champion Gary Player, both playing the North, settled for 71s.

Indians Open Here, Eagles Play Away

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports-writer

Stringing victories together has not been a common occurrence for East Catholic football in recent years. The Eagles have not accomplished the feat since the tail end of the 1974 campaign.

Scholastic Football

But East will be going after No. 2 in a row on the young '78 season Saturday afternoon visiting Rockville High in a 1:30 start. Manchester High, meanwhile, will be making its debut Saturday at home at Memorial Field against CCIL foe Fermi High at 1:30 looking to break into the win column for the first time since 1975.

Paterno Earned Coach of Week

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — All during pre-season practice and Penn State's first two games, Joe Paterno continually warned his players, his staff and even himself against looking ahead to a vital Sept. 16 meeting with Ohio State.

But after the Nittany Lions took advantage of eight turnovers last Saturday to leave Columbus with a 19-0 victory, the Penn State coach said, well, maybe they had been looking ahead.

Yaz to Continue

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox Captain Carl Yastrzemski will continue to play with the team for the next three years, scrapping his original plans to play just one more season, the Boston Herald American reported. If Yastrzemski stays with the team until 1981, he will become the Red Sox' first 20-year man and will be 42 old when he retires.

Brock to Return

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Lou Brock, baseball's all-time base-stealing champion, will play the 1979 season with the St. Louis Cardinals, it was announced Thursday.

Bowling

MOUNTAIN DEW - Bee Moquin 189-454, Kathy Patlak 175, Pat Jackson 201-480, Lee Bean 176-469, Jeanne Bustin 176-187-483, Edith Tracy 180-490, Bertha Toulain 180-495, Barbara Brody 178-492, Terry Cardile 188-176-531, Shell Price 480, Dee Sweeney 456, Jeni Garano 246. Jane Toomey 477.

Rodgers to Return

WAYNSBORO, Va. (UPI) — Bill Rodgers, who won the Virginia 10-Miler in Lynchburg during the weekend, will return to defend his Waynesboro title to run in a 10,000-meter marathon Oct. 7.

Carroll Signs

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Capitals have signed Greg Carroll, who played in the World Hockey Association at Cincinnati and New England. The Capitals selected the 6-foot, 185-pound native of Edmonton, Alberta, as their second pick in the first round of the 1976 amateur draft, but he was expected to play in the WHA instead.

Ali Talks too Much Without Thinking

By MILT RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — A couple of years ago, Muhammad Ali was sitting around his hotel room in this city, merely killing time until his next appointment, when he happened to switch on the TV set.

Some of those in the home were shown on camera and they were truly pathetic figures. They were in tears and said they had nowhere to go if in financial distress. If more funds weren't forthcoming, the facility would be closed immediately.

Donald Mintz, a New Orleans lawyer and member of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, said Ali's remarks have alienated many of his fans and admirers. Jews and non-Jews, who had rejoiced in his victory, Mintz suggested Ali make a public apology.

That's the least he should do. He also should think before he speaks next time. That never hurts anyone, even a world heavyweight champion.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have just lost 90 pounds which is something I've been trying to do for years. However, a problem has developed. When I'm a dinner guest at someone's home and a goody desert is offered and I turn it down, the hostess will loudly announce, "Oh, you and your diet! You're so skinny, it wouldn't hurt you to put on a few pounds!" Of course, all eyes are on me and I never know what to do or say. I don't like to make a big deal out of explaining that I really don't want it because I would believe me anyway, so I take it and eat it, and afterwards I could kick myself. Is there a better way to handle this situation? I have seen.

EMBARASSED

DEAR ABBY: Instead of being embarrassed, be proud! Simply say, "I'm watching my calories." And if you get any feedback about how skinny you are, let it be known that you worked hard to get that way and want to stay that way.

But if you lack the courage to stand your ground in a public confrontation, quietly accept the dessert, push it around on your plate, and leave it.

DEAR ABBY: My son is a sophomore in high school is getting to be a very clever thief. He gives him a generous allowance and if he asked for anything extra, we would be glad to give it to him, but he doesn't ask, he just helps himself. He doesn't need anything. He just steals for the thrill of stealing.

I know he has been in my purse and stolen money. And I have seen him take money from his father's wallet. He has stolen little things from his friends, and now I find that he's taken things from the grocery store, drugstore and other places of business.

I keep finding things in his room that I know he didn't buy. I have even thought to take him to the police to frighten him, but nothing helps. Am I raising a criminal? Please help me.

ILLINOIS MOM

DEAR ABBY: A child who steals for the thrill of stealing needs parental help. He can be straitlaced until it takes in hand early. Threatening him with the police is unwise. A policeman should be identified as a friend who protects us and our property, not an enemy who would bring pleasure in punishing our wrongdoing. Ask your family doctor whom to see about this boy.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend whose company I enjoy immensely and we see each other at least once a week—but it is always at MY house.

She has a lovely home and a housekeeper, so there is no reason in the world why she can't invite me to her house once in a while.

When I see her or talk to her on the phone, she always says, "To come over to see me sometime." I don't consider this a proper invitation. When I invite her to my home, I telephone and ask her to come on a specific afternoon. I don't want to offend her, but I would like her to know that her "come over sometime" invitation doesn't sound very sincere to me.

How should this be handled? Or am I too touchy?

MRS. ANONYMOUS

DEAR MRS. ANONYMOUS: Are you too touchy? No. And how should it be handled? The next time your vague friend asks you to come over "sometime"—ask, "When?"

Is there a better way to handle this situation? I have seen.

EMBARASSED

DEAR ABBY: Instead of being embarrassed, be proud! Simply say, "I'm watching my calories." And if you get any feedback about how skinny you are, let it be known that you worked hard to get that way and want to stay that way.

But if you lack the courage to stand your ground in a public confrontation, quietly accept the dessert, push it around on your plate, and leave it.

DEAR ABBY: My son is a sophomore in high school is getting to be a very clever thief. He gives him a generous allowance and if he asked for anything extra, we would be glad to give it to him, but he doesn't ask, he just helps himself. He doesn't need anything. He just steals for the thrill of stealing.

I know he has been in my purse and stolen money. And I have seen him take money from his father's wallet. He has stolen little things from his friends, and now I find that he's taken things from the grocery store, drugstore and other places of business.

I keep finding things in his room that I know he didn't buy. I have even thought to take him to the police to frighten him, but nothing helps. Am I raising a criminal? Please help me.

ILLINOIS MOM

DEAR ABBY: A child who steals for the thrill of stealing needs parental help. He can be straitlaced until it takes in hand early. Threatening him with the police is unwise. A policeman should be identified as a friend who protects us and our property, not an enemy who would bring pleasure in punishing our wrongdoing. Ask your family doctor whom to see about this boy.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend whose company I enjoy immensely and we see each other at least once a week—but it is always at MY house.

She has a lovely home and a housekeeper, so there is no reason in the world why she can't invite me to her house once in a while.

When I see her or talk to her on the phone, she always says, "To come over to see me sometime." I don't consider this a proper invitation. When I invite her to my home, I telephone and ask her to come on a specific afternoon. I don't want to offend her, but I would like her to know that her "come over sometime" invitation doesn't sound very sincere to me.

How should this be handled? Or am I too touchy?

MRS. ANONYMOUS

DEAR MRS. ANONYMOUS: Are you too touchy? No. And how should it be handled? The next time your vague friend asks you to come over "sometime"—ask, "When?"
